SCORES DAIRY BILL

Addington Member Maintains Act Not Fair To Producers.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, April 4.—The Legislature resumed the session after Easter recess Tuesday, with a quiet continuation of the budget debate and discussion in committee of the amendment to the agricultural development act. Regarding the latter, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Conservative leader, made a vigorous protest against reducing the margin of security to the province in loans made. "This bill," he said, "is extending beyond that of any loan company the proportion of advance upon the amount of security. In view of the difficulties encountered in the western provinces, he thought the government might well keep an eye to the question of credit. He pointed out that the Conservative party was not in favor of reducing the restrictions, stating, however, that there would be no very great objection to it. He did not think that there would be placed in comparison with those in the western provinces. Claims $2,000,000 Loss.

G. Ramsden, Liberal, Southwest Toronto, in resuming the budget debate, said that comparing the price of which the provincial treasurer had sold a fifteen-million-dollar bond issue and the price at which these bonds sold in the open market a few weeks ago the provincial treasurer had lost the province two million dollars in selling bonds in smaller denominations over bank counters so that the small investor could get a share.

W. D. Black, Conservative, Addington, attacked the dairy standards act, saying that although Ontario produced cheese second to none in the world it was placed third in Britain. Mr. Doerthy interjected the remark that this was because it was not uniform. Mr. Black advocated further extension of colonization roads, and contended that if the total expenditure on roads to date had been $2,000,000 more on roads than Ontario would be better served today.

DETROIT YOUTH IS HELD ON ROBBERY CHARGES

Harry Bursleigh Arrested Following Hold-Up in Windsor Laundry.

Canadian Press Despatch. Windsor, April 4.—Henry Burleigh, 17 years old, of Detroit, is in Hotel Dieu, under police guard, following a fight in Walkerville, shortly after 11 p.m. Monday. Bursleigh faces two charges of robbery, as Windsor police believe he is one of the men who staged a hold-up in this city shortly before the Walkerville occurrence. Bursleigh and a companion, according to the story told police, walked into a laundry conducted by Fred Lee, a Chinese, on Victoria road, Walkerville, at 11:10, and held up the proprietor. Another Chinese in the place slipped out the back way and informed A. C. Berryman, proprietor of the Exchange Hotel, next door, and Berryman, taking with him a revolver, and accompanied by Archie Cloutier, a boarder in the hotel, proceeded to the scene. Cloutier went to the front of the store, while Berryman guarded the rear. As Cloutier walked in, Bursleigh's companion rushed past him to the street, but Cloutier, believing him to be a member of the rescue party, did not attempt to stop him. As soon as Berryman saw Cloutier he opened fire, but Cloutier started shooting, wounded him in the arm. Wounded as he was, Bursleigh put up a gallant fight, and had to be struck over the head several times before he was subdued to the scene.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 4, 1923.

Guelph To Russia.

It is a pleasure to hear that a graduate of the O. A. C. at Guelph is going to Russia, at the request and under the auspices of the Russian government, to start a model dairy farm and teach people in the district where he is to operate the modern way of carrying on this business.

This one incident in itself is not enough to convince the world that Russia is going to come at once from chaos to order or from fanaticism to sober thought, but it does show that there is a desire to pick out of our western thought and civilization some of the best things we have.

If Mr. George Lindala, the Guelph dairy graduate, is able to go into that war and revolution-torn country and work out a good dairying system, all the way from the selection of the best type of cattle to the most efficient practical type of feed, to the sanitary handling and distribution of milk products, he will have done a great work.

We have heard our full share of blood-curdling things from Russia, that great country of millions of people and millions of acres. The story of the O. A. C. graduate going there to demonstrate modern dairying methods is one of the bright spots in the week's news.

Will Be Stopped.

United States officials abolished slavery some years ago, but if one-half the things told of the system of peonage followed in some of the southern states are true then the days of slavery are being eclipsed.

The peonage system allows private contractors to hire prison labor for work in the state.

Interest centers now in the case of a young farm lad named Talbert from North Dakota, who wandered down to Florida looking for work. For stealing a ride on a train he was arrested and sent to a prison camp. The New York World has investigated his case, and the charge is made that he died from the effects of a beating received at the hands of a certain Lieut. Higginbotham.

The charges make it appear that the contractors were in the habit of flogging those who did not work hard enough. It is safe to say that United States officials will make short work of this system. They would no more tolerate it than we would in this country. The wonder is that such a thing could take place without the knowledge of the authorities.

The Bunnell Report.

London City Council has been presented with a bill for the preparation of the Bunnell report on the London Street Railway. The council has ordered it filed. This is taken to mean that they refuse to recognize their obligation in the payment of the bill.

Mr. Bunnell, the engineer who prepared the report, was engaged by the transportation commission, composed of Sir Adam Beck, Mayor Wilson, Ald. Childs, Philip Pocock and Ald. Drake. The engaging of an engineer to make a survey and prepare a report would seem to be quite within the scope of such a commission's work. The report itself was put together in such a way as to make a lasting document. It contained maps and blue prints and was well bound.

Nothing much is to be gained by passing the bill for this work from council to commission or in ordering it filed. The bill will have to be paid and the citizens of London will have to pay it. The talk of making members of the commission responsible, or something to that effect, is sheer nonsense.

A Man and His Clothes.

It beats the band what a lot of tailors will do when they gather in conventions. They were at it in New York the other day, and came forward with the idea that men should wear garments "that offer opportunity for self-expression."

Just imagine what would happen. The tailor, of course, would have some sort of a blank to fill out. It would include answers to such questions as these: Age, occupation, own a car, got any real estate, any bonds, any ready cash, go to church, club member, like horse races, wife jealous, sift ashes, extra big hip pocket, politics.

After this information had been gleaned the tailor and his staff would go off into a trance or something and finally come down with plans and specifications for an outfit that would give expression to all these varying habits and moods.

Going into a trance costs money, so we better leave things as they are and take an extra pair of pants instead.

More Hate Than Coal.

Unfortunately coal is not the greatest or the most bountiful shipment that France is getting out of Germany.

Neither are the products of the forests nor paper marks bulking as the most tangible product of recovery.

The biggest product so far is hate. It might have been surprised that Germany could not contain more hatred of France than she did prior to the Ruhr invasion.

Today Germany hates France with a passion that cannot find expression in words. And France hates Germany with an intensity ten times stronger and more bitter than when the war disease was sprawling its path over the face of Europe.

Hatred, cruel, undying, positive hatred, is the product of the Ruhr invasion, and all the coal in the country can be dumped in a vain effort to pull down the balances against it.

Generosity.

The London (Eng.) directors of the Grand Trunk Railway, none of whom helped direct the concern to success, looked well after themselves when the road was being taken over by the people of Canada.

Splendid sums were voted to the directors as retiring allowances, in spite of the fact that some of them did not retire, but were kept on by the National Railways.

There is probably no legal way in which the raid could be stopped, so it might as well be a case of giving thanks that they didn't take the whole road, engines, tracks and all, when they were at it.

We Shall See.

"Purely a western scheme," is the phrase applied by a contemporary to the Hudson Bay route.

Not for a minute is it purely a western scheme. If it helps the west the east is going to benefit. In the cost of building the credit of the Dominion is at stake, and if it fails the Dominion at large will foot the bill.

Politicians have said so many things about the absurdity and nonsense of the Hudson Bay Railway that one is almost inclined to believe it may turn out to be a fairly successful enterprise.

Note and Comment.

The man who dusts around trying to rent a house finds it hard to believe this talk about all the Canadians rushing off to the United States.

It would be much safer for the Prince of Wales to ride one of David Harum's horses that "would stand without hitchin'."

The disarmament that interests most of us just now is the laying off of the winter coat that has fringe around the sleeves and a touch of green on the shoulders.

The Warton Echo, from its corner in Bruce, announces there is no such word as "alright," and that it must be spelled "all right." Alright, brother, just as you wish it.

Toronto is going to be decorated with a Canadian National Railway building, the biggest in the empire. Meantime Toronto's Union Station should be decorated with an occasional train.

Former Premier Radoslavoff of Bulgaria, blessed with whiskers and good looks, has been sentenced to death. He also shows good taste and discretion, for just prior to the passing of the sentence he skipped the country.

We believe there will be general approval of the verdict that found Andy Gump not guilty in his letter-writing trial. Andy performs in The Advertiser columns daily, and it would have been a sore blow to have witnessed him parting with $50,000.

The British House of Commons listened to its one Soviet member defened the Russian government for its order of execution passed on a Roman Catholic archbishop at Moscow. It seems like straining a point to uphold the traditional tolerance of the British Parliament.

Miss Alma Cummings, of San Antonio, Texas, has broken all continuous dancing records, having kept it up for 27 hours. She wore out six partners and had something to eat as she danced. Seeing that Alma lives away off in Texas, we can quite safely state that we believe an examination would show that her ears are growing alarmingly long.

Also Miraculous.

"Grocery butter," says Mrs. Young-one, "is so unsatisfactory. I decided today that we would make our own." "Oh, did you?" asked her husband. "Yes, I bought a churn and ordered buttermilk to be left here regularly. Won't it be nice to have really fresh butter?"

A Wicked Waster.

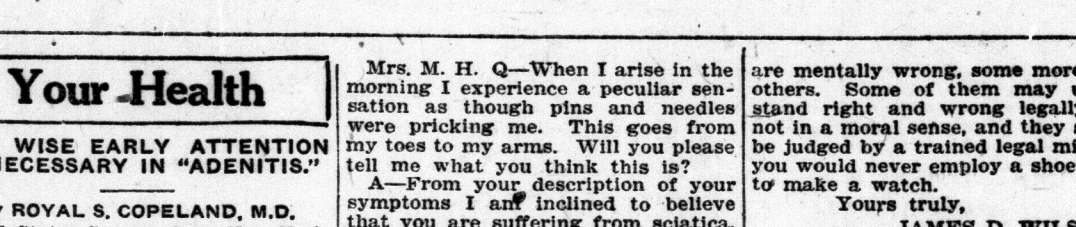

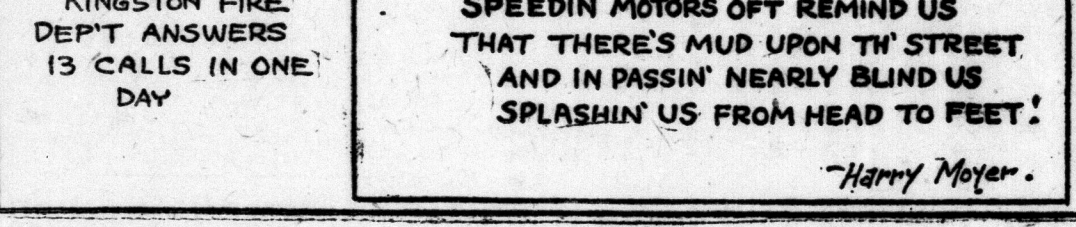

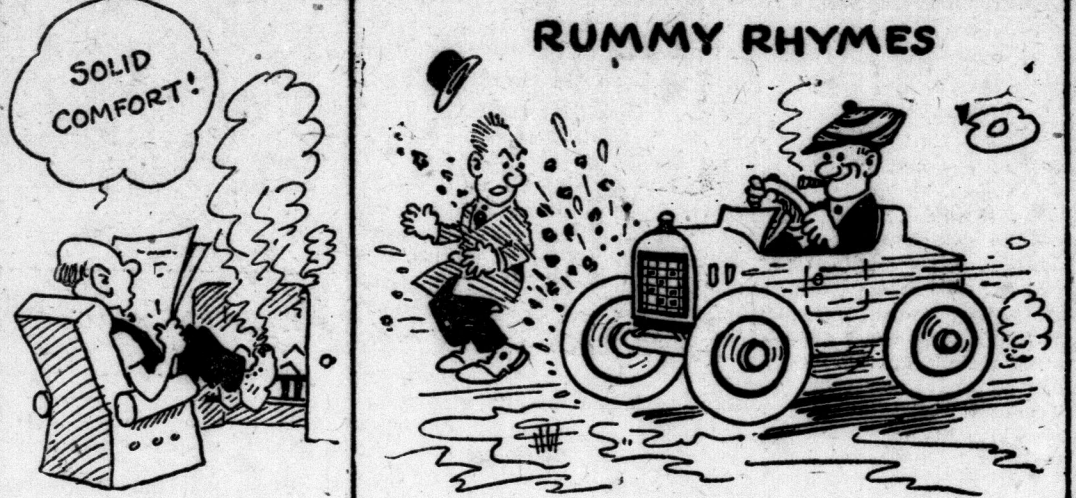

"This is rather a curiosity," remarked an artist who was entertaining a lady in his studio. As he spoke he produced a tiny but exquisite painting.

"It is nice!" exclaimed the visitor. "I was out in the country one day," he went on, "and had all my materials with me except a canvas. But I was so keen on painting this scene that I took out my handkerchief, stretched it upon my case, and painted the picture."

"Dear me!" exclaimed the lady. Then a look of horror came over her face as she went on: "But you'll never be able to wash all that paint out of it."

Special to The Advertiser. St. Thomas, April 4.—P. C. H. McCart last night gathered in "one of the boys" who was looking for a place to spend the night.

This frequenter of the police court had stepped into an empty house on McIntyre street via the back window, in search of repose. The house happened to be a double one, and hearing strange sounds, as of people talking, he proceeded, by means of a small poker, to push two holes through the partition into the other half of the house which was occupied.

The culprit appeared a trifle hazy as to the particular brand he had imbibed, but claimed that it was only hair tonic he had consumed, and merely a desire to learn what was going on on the other side of the partition caused him to poke his way through.

Ontario Leads Dominion In Daily Work Accidents

Transportation Services Most Dangerous Form of Employment, While Customs and Municipal Jobs Are Particularly Safe.

For every one man accidentally killed in the customs and municipal services in Canada in the past year, according to the March issue of the Labor Gazette, 317 were killed in the various forms of mining, 168 in some form of manufacturing, and 145 in the construction industry.

Besides the customs and municipal service there were three other forms of employment in this country in which in 1922 there was but one accidental death. They were: Clothing, shipbuilding and air transportation.

Agriculture claimed 65, fishing and trapping 29, logging 147, and trade 17. The construction industries again showed their fatalities, very largely in two provinces—Ontario 23, Quebec 18, and the remainder are proportionately negligible.

The comparative safety of the different months is also interesting. The largest number of accidents in the logging business occurred in April, July, October and November.

The man who worked on the farm found that August and September were those in which fatal accidents were liable to occur.

Of the various manufacturing processes, saw and planing mills come first, with 43 deaths in the year.

When we come to look at the question from the standpoint of provinces there is presented another illuminating feature of our industrial system.

Ontario had the greatest number of accidents among the agricultural laborers, with 26 deaths, the next province being Saskatchewan with 13.

All of the deaths due to industrial accidents in 1922, these reasons are given in the gazette: Falls, 126; moving trains and vehicles, 232; working with animals, 36; handling tools, 4; handling heavy objects, 47; falling objects, 164.

ANOTHER LONDON MAN MAY BECOME AS GREAT AS PEEL

Thomas Hunt Has Already Attained Much Fame as an Artist.

HIGHLY PRAISED

After Acquiring Fortune as a Builder He Turned to Art With Marked Success.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, April 4.—Thomas Hunt, son of J. P. Hunt of 423 Dundas street, the well-known London artist.

Still on the sunny side of forty, "Tommy" Hunt has made a fortune that allows him to give his time to what has always been his first love, and now, living on the colorful Pacific slope, he is able to paint as fancy suggests, more or less unconcerned as to the intrinsic value of the pictures, though some of them bring him $1,000, and for some of those with which he does not wish to part he has been offered much more.

As a boy at home he was ever in his father's studio, trying his hand at transferring the wonderful color of his imagination to canvas, and Mr. Hunt counts among his most precious possessions some of the pictures that his son painted when he was still a boy at school.

Started in Cleveland. The beginning of Thomas Hunt's success came in the city of Cleveland, where he had some years ago. He had a business in life to sell while there, and the fact that he sold it later for $1,000 more than it cost him gave him the idea of building houses as a business.

He went at this new proposition with all the impetuous energy that has always characterized him, and at one time during the building boom there he had buildings in the course of erection valued at nearly $400,000.

In 1918, with many other builders, he lost heavily in the real estate game of putting up houses, and in 1920 was able to leave Cleveland with enough ahead to leave him free to follow his own inclinations and the rest of his life.

All this time the old hankering for the brush and palette, though forced into the background and lying dormant, was not dead, and Mr. Hunt, now that he was in a position to do so, gave full rein to his desire and ability.

Went to Gloucester. Gloucester, Mass., that old haunt of the artist, so full of color and human history, became his Mecca, and it was in this quaint New England fishing village that he painted those pictures which are now shown in the Stendahl Art Galleries in Los Angeles, that have tempted the buyers and gained the friendship of the art critics.

Once while in Gloucester, Breckenridge, the American master, was going around a circle of pictures and critiquing them, however, and in the students who were present. After completing his rounds he chose two that were in his opinion perfect pictures, calling them "The Artist" and "The Artist's Wife" by a woman of world-wide renown; the other was by Tom Hunt.

He stayed only a short time on the Atlantic coast, but he had a glimpse of the summer of last year went out to the "coast," and in Laguna Beach, that happy haven of every artist, man and woman, settled down to his work, regarding as his real life work, the battle of the dollars in Cleveland being merely the necessary forerunner that provided time and ease in which to paint.

Views of a Critic. Tom Hunt was never a boy to do much self-advertising, but a friend of his few days ago sent a clipping from the Los Angeles Times to his father, expressing the views of the art critic of that paper on a showing of paintings that Mr. Hunt had given in the summer of last year.

How highly he thinks of them may be gathered from the fact that he compares very favorably the work of this new-comer with that of Claude Monet, recognized wherever artists gather as the chief of modern impressionist landscape painters.

In this article, which extends to more than a column, the critic says in part: "He (Hunt) is modern in the best sense. He has absorbed all the best traditions of his artistic forebears, and to them he has added his own discoveries... with the result that his gamut of color far transcends Claude Monet's—it is keener, quicker, more brilliant, a rainbow broken into its component parts."

Speaking of Hunt's pictures of Gloucester harbor, he goes on: "It is true that Hunt does not give us much of Gloucester's pathos. He is enamored of the color that he sees—such color—and he is so busy putting this down that he has not time to view the color of yesterday. So we may confidently call him a post-impressionist, after all. We may presume to label him, though he may object to the label."

Will Not Investigate Ottawa Social Service. Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, April 4.—The municipal council last night decided against an investigation of the social service department of the city.

London Children Hear Lore Indians Tell Little Folk

Find Out From Miss Powers Why Woodpecker Red Headed And Where Thrush Song.

To hear the most wonderful fairy tales of how hares got their split lips and short tails, of the way the thrush stole its song from heaven, and why the woodpecker was punished by being given a red head, and many more delightful Indian legends, was the privilege of a hundred and more children at the First Methodist Church yesterday afternoon.

The story-teller, to whom the children listened with wide-eyed attention, with an occasional gurgle of delight and claps of applause, was Frances, whose real name is Miss Mabel Powers, a white girl, who was adopted by the Seneca tribe of the Iroquois of New York state in return for a great service she rendered them. Miss Powers, who is a well-known interpreter of drama and literature and a great deal of time living among the Indians, learning their legends and stories. The Indians, she says, are the master story-tellers of the world.

Miss Powers wore a picturesque Indian costume and moccasins of skins, with an eagle feather for a headdress, which she told the children were worn by the Indians to show that they had accomplished some great achievement.

"The Indians are a most unselfish people," she stated. "Each Indian tries to accomplish great things, not for himself but for the whole tribe, and when an Indian boy is learning to proud of the way he swims or runs, or anything he does particularly well, he is told a legend or story, which teaches him to be proud of himself, as it was not himself that does these great things, but the Great Spirit which lives within him. The Indians never punish their children, but if they misbehave they are told a story, that is all, and this story does them more good than any form of punishment, as it teaches them a beautiful lesson.

Outdoors is School. "The Indian's school is the great outdoors, the forests, the streams and the hills," said the lecturer. Here they learned to kill the animals they need for food. Remember, the Indians never destroy animal or plant life for commercial gain. They also learn how to cook, wash and sew, and how to eat, and learn many lessons from the brother trees and animals. They learn why the white crow is poor and why the robin has a red breast.

Her Indians, the Iroquois, she stated, worship one God like we do, but they call Him the Great Spirit. She related an interesting story of how the Great Spirit came to this earth as a poor, hungry man, and by way of punishing a squaw who would not give Him food he turned her into a red-headed woodpecker, who always lives on the far side of the tree and feeds on tiny worms.

Other delightful stories, after which the children begged for more, were told, one of Greedy Fawn, who lived up to his name, and whose fate was a warning to all greedy little boys and girls. "But, of course, I know there are no greedy people here today," stated Miss Powers.

Where the first little boy who was saved from the great American eagle, the king of the birds, by the cunning insight of the mother bear who had raised him. She also related an interesting legend of the thrush, the smallest bird of the feathered kingdom, who stole a ride back to heaven. And because this tiny thrush knew that the other birds had seen her stealing the ride she always sings in the darkest and thickest part of the forest to raise the juvenile audience.

In speaking of the great love and faith the Indians have in the Great Spirit, of the Christ Spirit, she said, "If you don't remember one thing I have told you today I want you to remember this, that you, too, have within you the Christ Spirit, and I want you to remember that you, too, have within you the Christ Spirit, and I want you to remember that you, too, have within you the Christ Spirit."

Six-Year-Old Had Bronchitis Every Winter. Bronchitis generally begins with chills, followed by fever and a harsh, dry, hacking cough. There is a raising of phlegm, which at first is of a light color, but, as the trouble progresses it becomes of a yellowish or greenish color, and is sometimes streaked with blood.

All those who are troubled with bronchitis will find in Dr. Wood's Pine Syrup a remedy that will stimulate the bronchial organs, subdue the inflammation, soothe the irritated parts, and loosen the phlegm.

Mrs. Oliver C. LaPage, South Rustico, P.E.I., writes: "My little six-year-old girl had very bad attacks of bronchitis every winter. In the evening during the night she would have a severe cough up, and had a wheezing in her chest. We tried several cough medicines, but they never seemed to do her any good. A neighbor advised us to try Dr. Wood's Pine Syrup, which we did, and after she had taken two bottles she got perfectly well."

Willard, name To Get In Shape, May Withdraw From Bout

ADVICES FROM WEST SHOW BIG FELLOW IS DISCOURAGED

William Rocap, Philadelphia Ledger Expert, Hints Fight Is Off—Jess' Fat and Hard To Make Into Muscle.

By WILLIAM H. ROCAP.
Philadelphia, April 3.—Private advices from Excelsior Springs in the southwest say that Jess Willard has not taken kindly to training. He is heavy and fat and as soon as he takes off five pounds three more come back by a bit of indiscretion in drinking too much water. The waters at the Springs are great thirst-quenchers. We know that, for in 1919, on a trip to the coast, our train stopped there to replenish the water tanks, and we had an ocular demonstration. Willard started training he had more than 40 pounds of weight to take off in order to get himself in shape. He has been in physical condition he was in when he met Dempsey. His task was to melt off the fat and sustain it with muscle. That cannot be done in a steam-room in the bath or by any process excepting real work.

Willard is past 40 years of age. More than three years ago he weighed 240 pounds. Those close to him say he scaled down to 230 pounds when he signed up to meet Floyd Johnson on May 13 for New York's debut. He was not to be fit on that date he faced the Herculean task of peeling off 45 pounds.

In 1915, when he trained for Jack Johnson, the task was a pleasure. He had visions of a world's title and a fortune. He realized both. The greed for additional coin lured him into the ring with Dempsey and defeat. His showing was pitiable. Those at the Toledo ring-side who had admired the western cow-puncher lamented the fact that the big, soft-hearted giant had not retired undefeated. He had reached a goal which no other white man had ever reached. He dethroned the invincible Jack Johnson in a grueling battle of 26 rounds. The sportsmen of America believed that was honor enough for one man.

His former world's champion opponent says that Willard is ready to throw up the sponge, rather than continue to train and come east in no condition to meet youngsters like Floyd Johnson. He has likely communicated this fact to the promoters, for they have signed

Lorne W. Galloway and Pete Laing, Ontario amateur bantamweight wrestling champion, presided over the matches, and their decisions won the approval of all.

SPORT SNAPSHOTS

Two Springs Ago
Pat Moran startled Red fans by announcing that young Sam Bohne, former International League star, was ready to succeed Morris Rath, at second base. "Bohne's the berries," said Moran. Only it is doubtful if that bit of slang had reached Cincinnati at that time.

Sherrard Smith reached Cleveland from Brooklyn via the "Air" route, although Smith's proclivities for aviation are comparatively unknown. It came about through the plump, bombastic Wilbur Robbins, who, having watched Smith grow old in the service of the Dodgers, generously insisted that Sherrard help himself to the ozone unsparingly and seek pitching honors elsewhere. Tris Speaker, however, remembered a game that Smith had twirled against his Indians in the World Series of 1920, during which he allowed but three hits and made those full-grown Indians look like a nursery full of papooses. He called Smith and invited him to drop anchor.

Owen Sound, April 3.—A record was broken for late hockey here, when Kitchener Juniors, Eastern Canadian champions, defeated Owen Sound, Greys, Northern League champions, by a score of 4 to 1 here tonight. Muldoon's Action In Cutting Grab Rouses Ire of Senator Walker.

By FAIR PLAY.
Copyright.
New York, April 3.—The case of a manager against the fighter is being argued today wherever fighters and fans assemble. Along the great highway in numbers sufficient to make argument interesting. It all came through the statement of James Walker, New York senator, whose name is now being conducted in this state by William Muldoon's executive powers. The senator cited several instances wherein the grand duke of St. Louis had in the legislature, excused authority. The point was that all the talk relates to Senator Walker's objection to the Muldoon rule that a manager shall not take more than one-third of the earnings of a boxer. The old days more fighters than on received but little more than a collar and his carfare home after grueling battles.

Down the Line In Sport

International sport is growing each year, and it should be a tremendous factor in the promotion of world peace, if world peace is ever promoted. At the same time, Anglo-Saxon pride must be prepared for more and more bumps, as formerly more or less despised peoples show wonderful aptitude for sports which had their source and development in the British Isles or America. It was the British belief that any man who took the King's shilling a little over a century ago was as good as any three or four "Froggies" that kept Napoleon from spreading himself all over the world.

STEELS SHOW STRENGTH IN NEW YORK MARKET

Conflicting Opinions on Street Shown Forth in Price Movements.

New York, April 4.—Wall Street opinion regarding the future of the steel market has become very much mixed, and these conflicting views were shown forth in the movement of prices today. The outstanding features were the activity and strength of the independent steel shares, particularly those involved in the Bethlehem merger. By this time preliminary figures regarding steel earnings for the first quarter are undoubtedly available for insiders, and the taking up of this group might well have signified the hope of a resumption of this data were acting upon it in the market. At the same time this development fitted in with the view which has been favored of late in good quarters, that in any renewal of the upward swing, steel shares would be the leader, as they were in the advance of February and early March.

Westinghouse Electric fell sharply at a time preceding the announcement of a new order for the 100,000 stock at $52, that is almost on points under recently prevailing market prices. The stock steadied after the announcement appeared to have discounted the news that an additional contract had been made with Standard Oil of New Jersey for over $2 million barrels of crude oil to be supplied by the Marland Oil Company this year. The oil shares as a group felt the effects of heavy profit taking.

Steel Tonnage.—The March unfiled tonnage report showed a decrease of approximately 200,000 tons above 7,000,000 tons; in February the tonnage reported forward book-keepers, taking up the slack as the demand for railway materials fell off. The steel corporation operations are being held in check somewhat higher at times.

ST. THOMAS PLANS MAKING PURCHASE OF GAS PURIFIER

City Council To Request Authority From Ontario Railway Board.

WILL COST $20,000

Alderman Lemon Reports the Present Appliance in Dangerous Condition.

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, April 3.—At the meeting of the city council in the city hall tonight it was decided to accept the recommendation of No. 6 committee and make application to the railway board in connection with the purchase of a new purifier for the gas department at a cost of $20,000.

Alderman Mehan was opposed to railroading through the council a matter entailing such a large expenditure, as he felt it should be put to the people and that the railway board should be used only as a last resort.

Chairman Explains.

Alderman Lemon, chairman of No. 6 committee, explained that the purifier was in a dangerous condition. Several aldermen expressed themselves as agreeing with Mr. Lemon and the report of No. 6 committee was accepted in full.

The report of No. 4 committee was accepted as read, with the exception of clause six which was referred back to the committee. This clause dealt with the removing of the German guns from the park and placing them in front of the city hall.

Alderman Slaggett stated that he thought the members of the G.W.V.A.

A communication was received from the Horticultural Society, asking for co-operation during their garden week, April 22-23, and for a clean-up day. Mayor Raven stated that he would make a proclamation making April 25 "clean up day" and asking for the support of all the citizens.

WEDDING BELLS

IRWIN-McAVOY.

A pretty spring wedding took place this morning at 8:30 at St. Mary's Church, when Kathleen J. McAvoy, daughter of Mrs. Catharine McAvoy, of Bruce Mines, and the late P. J. McAvoy, was married to Edward B. Irwin, son of Mrs. Ida Irwin. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Monsignor Brady.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Edward McAvoy, of Toronto, wore a smart sand shade suit, with hat to match, with ribbon trimmings in contrasting shades. Her corsage was of Ophelia roses and lily of the valley. Shoes to match her suit, and a fitch choker completed her costume. Miss Josephine McDonnell acted as bridesmaid, wearing a gown of navy blue tulle, with touch of paisey, gray shoes and stockings, a smart gray hat and a black fox fur. Her flowers were Columbia roses. Mr. Chester Pyrah was best man. The wedding march was played by Miss Keating, and an Ave Maria was sung by Miss Josephine McCarthy.

The groom's gift to the bride was a platinum wrist watch; to the soloist, pearl earrings; to the bridesmaid, a string of pearls, and to the best man, a cigar case.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. B. McCormick, 838 Dufferin avenue, followed by a wedding breakfast. The tables were decked with spring flowers, carrying a color scheme in pink and white.

Mr. and Mrs. Irwin left at noon on a honeymoon, which will be spent in Buffalo, going on from there to Boston, where they will reside at 21 Maple street, Brookline.

The bride has been a prominent member of the Shamrock basketball team.

Reports Buffalo Ill.

Alderman Jago had a very sad tale to relate of the sole surviving buffalo at Pinarof Park. Mr. Jago said that Mr. Miller, an authority on wild animals, had told him that the animal was in a very bad condition and was suffering from an incurable disease.

The donor of the bears had consented to the being killed on condition that the money received from the sale of their hides be spent on amusements for children in the park.

Alderman Mehan suggested that if the buffalo, bears and guns all came up to the city hall a warm time would be in store for the city fathers.

DR. COOKE'S PLAN WITH OIL PLANS DESPITE ARREST

Shareholders in Petroleum Association Rejoice That the Explorer Is 'No Quitter.'

Under Heavy Bonds Five Officials, Charged With Using Mails To Defraud, Out on Bail.

Special to The Advertiser.

Fort Worth, Texas, April 4.—Fredrick A. Cook, former explorer and president of the Petroleum Producers' Association, went ahead today with plans to make fortunes for his stockholders, although federal investigators accuse him of using the mails to defraud.

Dr. Cook's associates in the oil stock business, however, are not "quitters," and the thousands of shareholders in the Petroleum Association in all sections of the country have but to keep faith in the word of the former explorer. The officials of the Petroleum Producers' Association, including Cook, are under heavy bonds, charged with using the mails to defraud in the sale of oil stocks. Other promoters of alleged fake oil companies here were arrested at the same time.

Cook's present company is the fourth he has promoted here, and his arrest by federal operatives yesterday was the culmination of a checkered career in adventure and high finance.

The Petroleum Producers' Association, Cook announced the capitalization would always be the amount of stock outstanding. Including the subsidiary oil companies it is said to be about $35,000,000.

Cook's arrest climaxed a month of hectic experience with law enforcement officers.

Recently the former explorer was arrested in a local hotel and accused in federal court of illegally playing cards. He was charged with his wife sued for divorce, charging a young woman was accompanying Cook at the time of his arrest. The divorce was granted.

About this time associates of Cook in his oil enterprises rose to his defense and issued various statements by a wedding breakfast. The tables were decked with spring flowers, carrying a color scheme in pink and white.

Mr. and Mrs. Irwin left at noon on a honeymoon, which will be spent in Buffalo, going on from there to Boston, where they will reside at 21 Maple street, Brookline.

The bride has been a prominent member of the Shamrock basketball team.

City Hall Briefs

Construction of London's new $1,000 registry office on King street, west of Ridout street, is temporarily delayed, pending the transfer of the property deed from Middlesex County to the city of London.

Municipal income tax payers are again cautioned to file their returns; incidentally to desist from sending in cash to the assessment office.

Prospects for a new city hall during 1923 cannot be considered with any degree of surety until that clause of the city of London bill pertaining to the sale of the federal square passes the Ontario Legislature.

What may be taken as a fair indication of the city's spring building activity, is the fact that building permits to the value of nearly $18,000 have been issued since April 1.

Dr. Horace Brittain and aides are still "surveying" the city hospital. The expectation is that they will be engaged for another ten days or two weeks.

The city council has directed that the street railway cars shall not stop at Carling street, either north or south bound.

It is reported that the street railway company contemplates the maintenance of a 10-minute bus service from Dundas street to the Hamilton road via Quebec street.

With the recent signature of the minister of agriculture affixed, the board of health milk bylaw is ironclad. All milk dealers who know previously, that they could not be actually compelled to do so, are now required to subject their cattle to the tubercular milk test or else pasteurize their product.

LABOR PRESS ATTACKS IMMIGRATION POLICY

Daily Herald, London, Prints Criticisms of Stewart's Scheme in Canada.

By HENRY SOMERVILLE.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

London, April 4.—The Daily Herald (Labor), in announcing that Sir George Perley has arrived in London to push with all his energy schemes for sending emigrants to Canada, prints a column of questions from speeches made in the Dominion House of Commons criticizing Mr. Stewart's immigration policy and declaring that Canada is not now in a favorable position for receiving immigrants.

At the same time the Herald is careful not to commit itself indiscriminately against all immigration. Mr. Perley has declared that proper immigration schemes will be a part of Labor's policy. The Herald says: "We are well aware that an enormous number of people might live happily and prosperously on the still undeveloped lands of Canada if they are prepared to develop them and have the necessary endurance as well as capital and skill."

MOOSE JAW ELECTION CAMPAIGN IS LIVELY

Fight Between Liberal and Progressive Will Turn on Conservative Vote.

Special to The Advertiser.

Moose Jaw, April 4.—A quiet opening, the election campaign in this constituency is becoming much more lively, and both parties are showing great activity. The Liberal candidate, the Hon. W. E. Knowles and the Progressive nominee, E. N. Hopkins, are vigorously engaged in cultivating the rural vote, all the districts being well covered by the candidates and a strong following of speakers.

Every member of the Saskatchewan government, with the exception of Premier Dunning, is in the field this week. Assisting the Liberals are Hon. W. E. Knowles and Hon. Jas. Murdoch, while for the Progressives the speakers include the following members of parliament: Robert Forke, R. E. Fry, Rev. A. J. Lewis, Mr. Beaubien, Hon. J. A. Maharg and R. A. Nilken, secretary of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers Association.

While the Progressives are relying largely upon the grain growers' locals to fight their battles in the rural districts, the Liberals have a very strong organization at work, which is expected to have a considerable influence upon the vote. But the fight will largely turn on the Conservative vote, which is a strong body at the present, however, there have been no indications as to how this will be directed, and this constitutes one of the most interesting features of the contest.

The issues of the fight also appear to have undergone a change. At first the Progressives were laying considerable stress on the unseating of R. M. Johnson, but during the past few days this seems to have been abandoned. The main subjects they are now emphasizing are the Crow's Nest Pass agreement, which they claim to have restored; the tariff, the Liberal pledges which they declare have not been implemented, and the methods of the old political parties.

So far little has been said of the wheat board, which seems to be playing but a minor part in the fight.

On the other hand, the Liberals are claiming credit for the restoration of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement and for the lifting of the cattle embargo, for the completion of the Hudson Bay Railway and for projected branch lines in the West.

DENIES STORE CATTLE ONLY MAY ENTER GREAT BRITAIN

Associated Press Despatch.

London, April 4.—The belief that only store cattle from Canada will be allowed to enter Great Britain under the importation of animals bill, which was passed last year in connection with the decision to remove the Canadian cattle embargo, is based on a misapprehension. So Sir Robert Sanders, minister of agriculture, told the Somerset County Council yesterday. The story had been circulated, he said, that the predecessor in office, Mr. A. Griffith-Boscawen, had given a pledge that breeding cattle should not be brought to this country from the Dominion.

PRINCESS FUSAKA VERY ILL.

Associated Press Despatch.

Bernay, France, April 4.—The condition of Princess Fusaka, who was seriously injured in an automobile accident here on Sunday, continues critical today.

RAILWAYMEN EAGER TO HEAR SIR HENRY

Postponement of Sir Henry Thornton's Visit to London Causes Disappointment.

The continued postponement of Sir Henry Thornton's visit to London division of the C. N. R. is causing much comment among the employees here. They planned to hold a grand "get-together" meeting on the occasion of Sir Henry's visit and contributed liberally to a fund to make this visit a memorable one. They feel, therefore, that something definite should be decided on.

While some have said they should hold their meeting without waiting for Sir Henry Thornton, the majority feel that, having waited so long, they might as well wait longer, and if necessary change their plans to allow the holding of a monster picnic instead of an indoor meeting and supper.

The greater part of the employees, realizing that Sir Henry is a practical railway man of great calibre, do not propose to let the opportunity of hearing him pass, if his visit can be arranged in the near future.

FRANCE "CHAPLIN" INJURED.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

Nice, France, April 4.—Max Lindner, famous French film actor, known as "The Charlie Chaplin of France," was thrown from an automobile here today and injured.

WON'T PAY MORE THAN $1,100 FOR BUNNELL BILL

"Ridiculous," says Ald. Albert Judd, chairman of the finance committee, "to ask us to pay more than $1,100 for this Bunnell report."

"How much did Engineer Bunnell receive for his services? I understood last year that we were to pay something toward his remuneration, but I did not hear anything about these fancy reports they prepared."

Ald. Gordon Drake, who was a member of the transportation commission, responsible for the Bunnell report, reports that "he is looking it up."

GERMANY ALONE PROTESTS ESSEN 'MURDER' SAYS PRESS

Associated Press Despatch.

Berlin, April 4.—"While notes and petitions have been fairly raining on Moscow in behalf of Archbishop Butkavitch," says the Vossische Zeitung today, "against the murder of eleven German workmen in Essen, only one country has protested—Germany."

The newspaper adds that it can be understood how protests went to Russia from all parts of the world, but says the Germans at the same time question what happens to the world's objections "to such excesses as the French procedure against the Krupp leaders."

"These dead," the newspaper continues, "claim our sympathy all the more, in that the rest of the world shows not the slightest interest in them."

CALL FOR SUPPLIES FOR LONDON SCHOOL

Board of Education Advertises for Tenders Today. Much Material Required.

Some idea of the size of London schools and their needs may be gathered from the amounts of supplies called for in the tenders invited by the board of education for 1923, for which are required:

- Chalk (white and colored)—boxes, containing 47,808 sticks.
 - Exercise books, 30,000; work books, 45,000.
 - Exercise paper, 2,000 packages containing one million sheets.
 - Foils, 650 packages, containing 650,000 sheets, and 200 packages, containing 200,000 sheets.
 - Yellow-green paper, 650 packages, containing 650,000 sheets.
 - Penholders, 4,300. Pen nibs, boxes, holding 35,000 nibs.
 - Blotting paper, 10,000 pieces.
 - Cils, 43,200. Black ink, 150 gallons, red ink, 26 quarts.
- These are some of the more common school supplies called for in tenders. They are mostly articles which need time for the manufacturer to figure his price on. For instance, such a thing as paper requires communication with the great pulp in Quebec and Ontario. They are a few of the many things required to keep the schools of London running efficiently.

CLAIMS RED MEN PRESERVED LIGHT OF DEMOCRACY

Miss Mabel Powers in Address At Wesley Hall Praises Culture of Aborigines.

LAUDS INDIAN IDEALS Advocates Fostering of Love As Solution of Racial Problems.

With an eloquence prompted by a vital interest in her subject, Miss Mabel Powers, known as the greatest exponent of Indian life on the continent, and an Indian by adoption...

"The greatest weapon and the only weapon which will save the world is love. Have we not something to take out of our own eyes before we go across the sea to take the meat out of our brother's eyes?"

"Think of our colossal and monumental egotism in going into India, the India of the East, to ruthlessly sweep aside a truth and a philosophy which had kept together one-fifth of the world's population for more than 30 centuries."

"Having a knowledge and a loving understanding of the good in other races is the only solution to the racial difficulties which confront us."

"Tells of Egyp... "Egotistical and self-appreciative as we are, we impose our civilization upon the peoples of other lands and other races, trying to interpret them on a European background, and it cannot be done."

"I honestly believe the American Indian has been holding in trust the soul of America. We could not climb into him, neither was he maimed, mangled, nor swallowed up in the great melting pot of our race."

"The Indian has been preserved for us to light the guide fires on the trail of democracy."

"The greatest lesson on the American flag is the treatment of the red man, but he is coming into his own, and I do not mean that he will dominate the American continent, but the spirit of the Indian must dominate our race, because we must come back to the fundamental principles which the Indian has."

"At present we are dominated by things. The chase is for the dollar and to spend it. The Indian placed his faith and his hope in things spiritual. We are broken into a thousand units, each striving separately, but the Indian, both the Indian and the American Indian, have a unity and consciousness which give them power, and only peoples and races which have this unity and this power are going to survive."

"In the new spirit of civilization the contribution of the East will be as vital as that of the West. The West will bring its material contribution of wealth and science, and the East will bring its great power of silence and communion and thought. And there is no hope for the world unless we see the good in the Indian and acknowledge it. It will be amazing how quickly the world will come together when men look for the good in each other."

"Miss Powers reviewed the contribution of the American Indian to the civilization of America, reminding also of the claim of great American educationalists that by Luther alone interpreted the spirit of America in the terms of their craft and culture."

"Lauds Indians. "The Indians gave us the corn which saved the lives of the Pilgrim Fathers. They gave us our system of bow scouts, of girl guides, of woodcraft and of all the things which take us back to outdoor life, and play so vital a part in the education of our boys and girls."

"The black and white pottery of the southwest has been considered superior in design and form to the Greek art, and all forms of art with the Indian represented a spiritual development."

"In spite of the rain the audience was large and the interest at all times tense and appreciative. Miss Powers concluded her address with a reading of Indian stories, and the program was augmented by songs by Luther Jackson with O. Leo Herbert at the piano."

Tom Mix Christens Yacht With Water From Arizona

Mary Pickford Does Her Famous Curls High and Wears Long Black Earrings In "Rosita."

By HALLET ABEND. Los Angeles, California, April 4.—Tom Mix, Fox star, who gave a party when he launched his new ocean-going yacht, is typical of what is best and most colorful in the local film colony. He typifies the romance of the frontier. By no means an unusual example, he has had a life so varied and a success so great that if his own career were put into a film play the fans would scoff at the plot and call it wild, and not true to life.

"The Mix yacht, Miss Mixit, is a hundred-foot, 400-horsepower pleasure craft. She was christened by Tom Mix, the star's year-old daughter, and so great is the part which sentiment plays in Tom Mix's life, that he sent to Arizona for christening water from the Haa-tayampa River, which flows through his ranch."

Your Backyard Garden

The plan of your garden completed and a list of the required vegetables made out, the next step will be to decide on what varieties you will use and the amount of seed you will require. The difference in price between the best and inferior kinds is negligible, but the difference in the quality of the vegetables that come to table will be very marked.

"Having planned your garden, purchased your seed, and finally moved your rubbish, such as tin cans, bricks, etc., you are ready to proceed with the actual garden operation. Before starting, dig up your land, satisfy yourself that the ground is in a fair state of fertility, and if it is not, amend it."

"The greatest lesson on the American flag is the treatment of the red man, but he is coming into his own, and I do not mean that he will dominate the American continent, but the spirit of the Indian must dominate our race, because we must come back to the fundamental principles which the Indian has."

British Independent Labor Party Discuss Many Topics. REFERS TO LEAGUE Occupation of Ruhr District Strongly Condemned by Organization.

Special Cable to The London Advertiser and The Philadelphia Public Ledger. London, April 4.—Four hundred delegates of the Independent Labor Party—the all-powerful 400 of the British Labor movement—having spent the Easter holidays discussing all kinds of things affecting the fortunes of workers, from the laboring with King George to the French policy in the Ruhr, both of which they condemned, adjourned last night.

"It was the 31st annual conference of the party, but its deliberations demonstrated only two things of fundamental importance. The first was that the 'hue of the Socialist spectrum destined to organize workers of all nations and serve as a basis for realization of the American battle cry: 'Workers of the world unite,' has yet to be determined. The opinion is that the dream of the purifying class solidarity, though confused, has not been lost."

"The fourth, or Amsterdam International, of which the British Labor party is the mainstay, will never do anything, 'except to lead us up into the garden,' the conference was told. Other delegates extolled the 'wonderful achievement of the Bolsheviks—We have blown trumpets, and the walls of Jericho have not fallen, but they are now being blown away by the wind of the revolution.'"

"The existence of the League of Nations was mentioned by only one speaker, who urged it into the background as a 'public shadow of coming internationalization.' Hints that the Ramsay MacDonald, chairman of the party, was not desired that he go completely red, recurred throughout the convention, but the leader of the opposition in parliament again came through without revealing the exact tinge of his colors."

"The conference was edited by the spectacle of French, German and British delegates shaking hands across the speakers' table. It decided to lodge itself in favor of total prohibition, but denounced the drink traffic as 'an insidious factor in social degradation.' It voiced the need of legislation in all countries opposing any war or vote by any government, whatever its ostensible object, by calling on the workers for a 'down-tools policy.'"

EX-KAISER'S NEPHEW WILL ENTER COFFEE BUSINESS. Special Cable to The London Advertiser and The Philadelphia Public Ledger. He will sail soon for South America to enter the branch office of a Hamburg coffee firm.

BOARD OF WORKS PLANS TO BUILD NEW PAVEMENTS

Will Lay Macadam On Quebec Oxford and Wellington Streets. FIRM COMPLAINS Mitchell Company Claims Making Low Tender For Work.

Members of the board of works have been complimented by their chairman, Ald. Leonard Douglass, for their excellent behavior at Monday's city council assemblage.

In his preliminary remarks at last night's regular gathering of the committee the chairman briefly reviewed the council's activities of the preceding night, taking occasion to commend the chairman's committee for their dignity when it had been possible for them to stampede the meeting at a critical juncture.

Stop Interruptions. Ald. Peter Watt, deplored the action of a certain member of the finance committee which tended to make a "stop" of their entire procedure. "I intend to move that a stop be put to it if it occurs again," he promised.

At a suggestion from Ald. Douglass the committee ratified the action of City Clerk Sam Baker, who had incorporated the report from the special traffic committee with the report from the board of works. (It was his procedure that prompted unmistakable opposition Monday night from Ald. W. A. Wilson, chairman of the traffic committee.)

"We must examine the city council," cautioned Ald. Douglass, although Ald. Frank McKay volunteered the opinion that Mr. Baker had never been condemned. The members discussed informally the events of Monday night, and Ald. Watt related incidents from his recent visit to Ottawa, where, in company with certain members of the finance committee, he had visited the parliament building.

"I never heard any of the members jumping up and shouting to the Speaker that he did not know how to pound brass," elucidated Ald. Watt.

Peaceful Session. Last night's session was tranquility personified, and following the opening remarks from the chairman, Ald. Edmund Hayden moved, and Ald. P. J. Watt seconded that the committee stand solidly behind the city clerk.

The committee then turned to the business of the evening, recommending, after certain discussion, the purchase, at a cost of $750, of a new car for the board of works. Ald. Watt supported the bid extended by City Engineer Near that he (Near) would soon need a machine if the efficiency of his department was not to be impaired. Chairman Douglass argued that the inspector's car would also serve the engineer.

"After a discussion of a quiet, informal nature, during which the civic garage scheme was criticized, several details in this connection were referred to the special garage committee.

If the members of the committee could have their way there would be several blocks of new pavement laid during the coming summer.

To Pave Roads. Ald. Hayden moved the building of a new pavement on Quebec street from the P. J. tract north to the Knollwood Park. This was passed without opposition, as was his suggestion that they initiate laying a pavement on Oxford street from Richmond street to Adelaide street.

"Something must be done here," he urged, "and the streets in this deplorable condition."

Ald. Douglass recommended also that the street railway company be notified to stop the portion of this thoroughfare whenever the task would be undertaken.

Ald. May moved and it was carried that they construct pavement on Wellington street from the G. T. R. tracks to the river.

A communication was read from the Mitchell Contracting Company in which the latter parties state that while the P. J. tract had been stated the figures they had reason to believe that their competitor's price exceeded $50,000 while theirs was $4,455.

"We pay 30 per cent of the cost," commented Ald. Douglass. "Yes, this lower tender should not be overlooked," asserted Ald. May. "We should have something to say in this matter."

URGES TRAINING FOR CITIZENSHIP IN THE SCHOOLS

J. G. Elliott of Kingston Points To Great Opportunities.

TELLS OF SCOUTS

Sir Baden Powell Addresses Ontario Educational Convention.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, April 4.—The real makers of Canada are in the schools of the country and not in the halls of parliament, said J. G. Elliott of Kingston, retiring president of the Ontario Educational Association last night at the second general session of its annual convention.

Mr. Elliott held that too much was usually taken for granted. It had been too generally believed that every boy and girl turned out of the school would respond to the claims of citizenship. On the contrary, he claimed that to produce good citizens there must be persistent and constant training.

The country today, said Mr. Elliott, was calling for a higher type of Canadianism and the call must in large part be answered through the schools.

President Elliott claimed that the secondary school today should be modified to meet the needs for manual workers. Thirty-three to forty per cent of students today failed to complete the high school course, he said.

Mr. Elliott commented on the successful propaganda for education throughout Ontario, resulting in a largely increased school population.

THAT MAY BE DRAWING A LONG BOW, BUT— Robin Hood and his Merry Men should call on you this week and "hold you up" for the Welfare Fund!

Such raids are made on the private purses of citizens today are peaceful affairs. One does not find a significant arrow standing out from the door jam, with the unwritten injunction to "Come Across" conveyed in its rather pointed message.

The poor do not wait upon the coming of their beloved adventurer in order that they may have food and drink. The days of strong-arm philanthropy have passed.

And in its place have come such agencies as the United Welfare Fund, to which all, or almost all, give freely, and for which the good folk of the town are deeply concerned.

All the takings of the teams and the travelers go to the Welfare Fund direct. So when you open your door to them Saturday or Sunday let your heart likewise open, and give generously.

You can let your imagination think that the man who called wore the Lincoln Green, and that over his shoulder was the long bow, which proved to be the magic wand of welfare in "the rare old, fair, old, golden days."

It's so different now. The rich and poor have joined hands in the spirit of brotherhood, for which Robin Hood risked his life, a la Douglas Fairbanks.

United Welfare Fund Campaign: April 2--8 P. S.—Good meeting tonight at the Masonic Temple. Everybody welcome. Kwanis Jollies will make it step lively.

DR. ROBERT LUCY, GUELPH SURGEON DIES SUDDENLY

Well-Known Practitioner Succumbs Following Operation.

BRILLIANT CAREER

Was Preparing For Trip When Seized With Fatal Illness.

Special to The Advertiser. Guelph, April 4.—Dr. Robert Lucy, prominent local surgeon, and probably one of the best-known physicians in this section of the province, died at the General Hospital at an early hour yesterday, following an illness of but a few days' duration.

Had Extensive Practice. The late Dr. Lucy, who had been a resident of Guelph for the last 19 years, had earned the reputation of being one of the cleverest surgeons in the service, and his practice was confined to this city, but for miles around Guelph, where he was very popularly known, and his professional services were always greatly in demand.

Born at Mono Mills, Ont., the late Dr. Lucy was in his 61st year. He received his early education in the public schools and college institute of Collingwood, Ont., and after the study of medicine graduated from Trinity Medical College, Toronto, in 1885.

Specialized in Surgery. In that year he disposed of his Drayton practice to Dr. Flath, and proceeded to a Chicago post-graduate course in surgery.

Academy Pays Recognition To Discoverer of Insulin

Medical Fraternity Expresses Deep Appreciation of Work of Dr. Banting and His Assistant Dr. C. Best.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, April 4.—Official recognition of Dr. F. G. Banting as the discoverer of "insulin," the new treatment for diabetes, was extended by the Academy of Medicine of Toronto in general session last night.

Approved Recognition. The academy would "take thoroughly into account the recognition of Dr. Banting's discovery by the Ontario and Dominion governments."

Together with authorities in the United States and elsewhere, the Toronto Academy of Medicine believes that the discovery of "insulin" is an epoch-making event, as far as the treatment of diabetes is concerned.

The resolutions passed were as follows: "The academy of medicine at Toronto records its deep appreciation of the signal contribution of Dr. F. G. Banting and C. H. Best to science by the discovery of 'insulin' as an epoch-making event, as far as the treatment of diabetes is concerned."

Think Evidence Conclusive. "The Academy of Medicine of Toronto, after careful investigation, believes that conclusive evidence has been furnished of (1) the isolation of such a substance from the pancreas of various animals, and termed 'insulin' by Dr. F. G. Banting and C. H. Best, in the summer of 1921, at the University of Toronto; (2) that hypodermic administration of the substance exercises a profound influence over carbohydrate metabolism as recorded by these two observers and others; (3) that they have succeeded in controlling experimentally the discovery of 'insulin' in a human case of diabetes mellitus, and further that these observations have been confirmed by other investigators both here and elsewhere."

BRANTFORD FIRE BRIGADE HAS 46 CALLS THIS YEAR Special to The Advertiser.

SUPPOSE— Robin Hood and his Merry Men should call on you this week and "hold you up" for the Welfare Fund!

That may be drawing a long bow, but— Robin Hood, so they say, went to the rich and took what was needed for the poor.

He did not ask how much you would subscribe, but went there where the picking was good, and helped himself to the golden guineas, likewise the groats.

Things are not like they were in the olden days, when the demands of the needy were attended to by such welfare collectors as Robin Hood, Dick Turpin, Jack Shepherd and other famous philanthropic agents.

But perhaps the same spirit that lived in Robin Hood and his band of outlaw benefactors finds expression today in the men of the United Welfare teams and the travelers, who will swoop down on the town Saturday and Sunday.

Such raids are made on the private purses of citizens today are peaceful affairs. One does not find a significant arrow standing out from the door jam, with the unwritten injunction to "Come Across" conveyed in its rather pointed message.

The poor do not wait upon the coming of their beloved adventurer in order that they may have food and drink. The days of strong-arm philanthropy have passed.

And in its place have come such agencies as the United Welfare Fund, to which all, or almost all, give freely, and for which the good folk of the town are deeply concerned.

All the takings of the teams and the travelers go to the Welfare Fund direct. So when you open your door to them Saturday or Sunday let your heart likewise open, and give generously.

You can let your imagination think that the man who called wore the Lincoln Green, and that over his shoulder was the long bow, which proved to be the magic wand of welfare in "the rare old, fair, old, golden days."

It's so different now. The rich and poor have joined hands in the spirit of brotherhood, for which Robin Hood risked his life, a la Douglas Fairbanks.

TOWNSHIP COUNCIL TO SPEND $25,000 ON PUBLIC ROADS

Outline Extensive Program of Work To Start When Weather Permits.

BUILD NEW DRAIN

Residents of Byron Claim About Condition of Kain's Sideroad.

A bill calling for the expenditure of $25,000 on the roads in Westminister township during the ensuing year was approved by the council in regular monthly session at the county buildings yesterday afternoon. The road program for 1923 is an extensive one, and work will be started as soon as the weather permits.

Representing the residents of Byron, Messrs. Merrian and Wickerson appeared before the council and complained about the condition of Kain's side road. As soon as it can be arranged the councillors will meet and visit the road in a body and then decide if any action will be taken.

Want New Drain. Residents in the vicinity of Springbank have petitioned the council to construct a new Buchner drain. The petition was referred to the clerk to be properly signed and forwarded to Township Engineer Fred A. Bell.

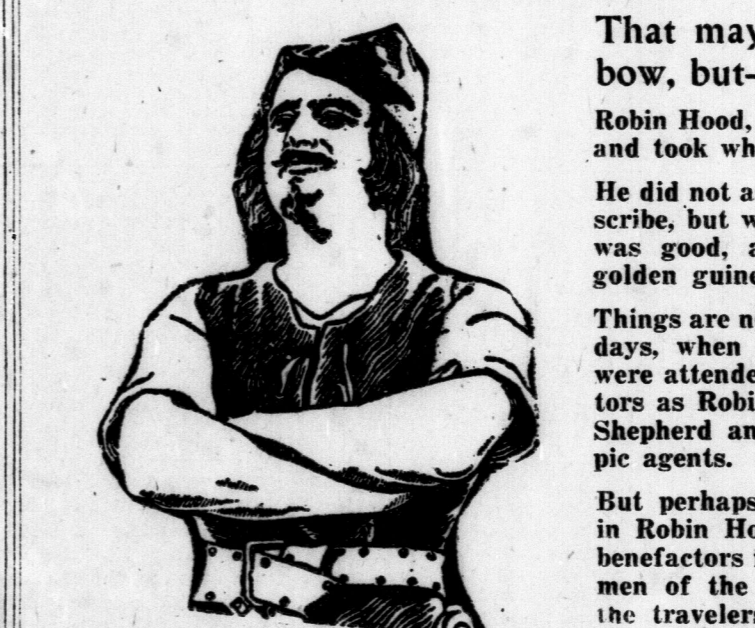

This matter has been before the council for some time and the engineer has submitted a proposed assessment to cover the construction cost of a new drain. This undertaking will cost about $2,850.00. Of this amount the city will be asked to pay $1,328, Westminster township $868 and the county $1,866. The report on the drain reached its third reading and was adopted in full. Work on the new drain will be commenced shortly.

Conduct Relief Work. Bills for relief work amounting to $107.24, of which $38.04 was expended at Lambeth and $72.20 at Byron, were ordered to be paid, as well as $50 to J. M. McEvoy for past services.

Bylaw No. 824, appointing John S. Couens as road foreman for the coming year, was approved by the council.

Those present at yesterday's meeting were Reeve John S. Couens, Treasurer J. W. Laidlaw, Walter Laidlaw, James Johnston, William Bolter, Harvey Davis, who was absent through illness.

OPEN WALLACEBURG SCHOOL. Wallaceburg, April 4.—The new D. A. Gordon School on the south side is now completed and ready for occupation after the Easter holidays. The pupils of the Primrose Hall School will be transferred to the new building, and the formal opening ceremony will be held next Monday.

Such raids are made on the private purses of citizens today are peaceful affairs. One does not find a significant arrow standing out from the door jam, with the unwritten injunction to "Come Across" conveyed in its rather pointed message.

An Alligator Hunt in Florida Swamp, Where Divine Sara's
"Kill" Was Arranged in Advance; a Banquet That Failed, and Why.

By ALFRED MAYER.
For Eight Years Stage Manager to Sara Bernhardt.
Special to The London Advertiser.
Bernhardt had no use for bill collectors. Clarkson, the famous wig maker, could never see Bernhardt at her hotel because she would not see him, so he used to come to the theatre, where everyone knew him, and by clever manoeuvring would eventually get to Bernhardt. He would present her with a bill for wigs, and it was a common sight to see Clarkson rushing out of the dressing room followed by brushes and everything that could easily be picked up and thrown. Clarkson would throw up his hands in despair and depart. The next day might see Clarkson back again.

"What, you here again?" we would say to him, and he would reply: "Yes, madame sent for me. I have brought her some new wigs which she wants."

"But what about your money?" "Oh!" Clarkson would say, "what is the use of trying to get it? Madame wants wigs, and after all it is a great honor to supply her with them."

Clarkson's Revenge.

It is quite true that Clarkson did not collect much money from madame, but she had his revenge. When he built his new store in London, he wanted Bernhardt to lay the foundation stone. She could not very well refuse, but she made Clarkson promise that if she laid the cornerstone it would be a private affair and that the newspapers were not to be informed of it. Clarkson promised, but he took good care to inform every newspaper in London, with the result that Wardour street, where the new store is located, was jammed with photographers, newspapermen, sight-seers, etc. Madame was very angry, but she laid the foundation stone. Madame did not pay for her wigs, but if you ask Clarkson he will tell you he had the best bargain of the two.

Clarkson is perhaps the most famous perquiter in the world. He has been associated with theatrical people for so long that whenever a new performance is given Clarkson is nearly always there. I remember when Bernhardt produced "L'Aiglon" in Paris in 1900. Clarkson was there, of course.

After the performance he went to see Bernhardt, and he was raving about the show so much that Bernhardt said to him: "Well, Willie, what did you think of it?"

"Remarkable," replied Clarkson. "It was impossible to see a joint." Meaning no one could see where the wigs of the actors joined. But to return.

Dogs and Cats.

Besides the two dressers, Bernhardt carried her own private physicians, secretary, etc. It has been said that Bernhardt also carried her own coffin while touring. This is not so. She, however, carried far worse things than her coffin. For instance, she had a whole collection of dogs and cats. She carried a special man whose duty it was to look after the animals. They would all be brought to the theatre, and during the performance this man would take them for a walk on a leash. Once in New Orleans, while taking the dogs for a walk, one of them was run over. The dog nurse was so afraid of Sara's rage that he refused to return to the theatre, and it was only after much coaxing that he eventually did return.

Bernhardt's anger was very mild, however, as she declared later she did not like that particular dog anyway. It happened to be a black collie and a beautiful dog. These animals were a constant source of trouble to Bernhardt. Large hotels would refuse to accommodate her and her dogs. Naturally she would refuse to abandon her dogs, so that usually she had to put up at a second class hotel where they were not so particular, but as we lived in our private train most of the time in America, the dogs usually had a good home. In Europe it is different; hotel managers welcomed both Bernhardt and her dogs.

Hunting Alligators.

Bernhardt had simple ideas. When we arrived in New Orleans she had heard that it was possible to hunt alligators in the swamps. So accordingly an alligator hunt was arranged. Several members of the company were picked on to arrange the hunt. They got together and went to a man who kept birds, snakes and alligators. With this man they arranged that he should go out to the swamps the day before the hunt and tie an alligator to a post. This bird fancier was also to act as our guide.

Only certain members of the company were invited to the hunt; it was considered a great honor. Besides Bernhardt and her servants, there were about twenty of us who received invitations. There was to be a banquet at the Charles Hotel after the show, then we were to leave on a

IN TWO FAMOUS ROLES.
On the left is Sara Bernhardt in "Daniel." In this play she acted for half an hour in the first act, and for a few minutes in the last, and in both acts she was not required to get up from her chair. It was, however, one of her most successful roles.
On the right Madame Bernhardt is shown as the Princess Louaine, one of her successful earlier roles.

A Special Train.

special train to the swamps at about 4 a.m.

The banquet was a failure, like every banquet given by Bernhardt was. There were plenty of good things to eat, but we did not get much of them. The reason for this is that if madame did not wish to eat it was considered bad form for anyone else to do so. Bernhardt being a small eater, our feelings can be imagined. When we left for the railway station most of us were disagreeable. We had not had enough to eat, and besides we did not want to go to the hunt.

At 6 a.m. we left the train and took our places in small boats that were supposed to be just the thing to navigate dangerous rivers. The whole thing was a farce. Our gallant guide was in the first canoe with Bernhardt and a few others. I was in the second canoe with De Max. De Max, who knew about the arrangement with regard to the captured alligator, refused to take the hunt seriously and was flying at anything that he saw shoot.

$50 a Shot.

While passing a farm, so anxious was De Max to shoot at something that he shot a harmless fowl. The farmer rushed out, furious, threatened to shoot both De Max and myself, and when De Max asked me to translate what he was saying I told him he wanted $20 for the shooting. De Max laughed and told me to tell the farmer that he would give him

$50 if he would allow De Max to take the dead bird with him.

The farmer was only too delighted and added that at that price De Max was welcome to shoot up the whole farm. De Max returned to New Orleans with his bird and had it mounted as a souvenir of what he declared the most idiotic hunt he had ever been his privilege to attend.

Bernhardt was furious and declared De Max was doing his best to spoil the sport, and if he did not like the hunt why didn't he go back to New Orleans. Presently our guide said:

"Sh—I think I hear an alligator."

Great Excitement.

Bernhardt is tremendously excitable, but De Max roars with laughter. I think that our guide must have been an actor at some stage of his life, because he told Bernhardt how dangerous alligators were and that it would be best for her and her party to remain in the canoe while he went and explored the ground. This was agreed upon, and off went the guide. Top boots to his knees, rifle on his shoulder and knife in his belt, he certainly looked the part of the mighty hunter that he was. He was gone about twenty minutes when presently there were shots in rapid succession. Shortly after that our intrepid guide emerged from the swamp luging something after him. Of course, it was the small alligator that he had planted there the day before, but Bernhardt knew nothing about this and was greatly excited and pleased. It was a small alligator about two feet in length which could do almost anything but talk.

De Max was disgusted, declaring that all women were stupid, particularly great stars. We got back to the train after the alligator had been firmly tied with ropes. All the remaining members of the company were given a great reception. Bernhardt gave our guide $100 extra for gallantry. The alligator was eventually shipped to Paris alive between two boards to madame's son, Maurice Bernhardt, who put it in the pond of his country home.

Sara Was Fooled.

Bernhardt believed the most childish things. I remember once we were due to cross the Grand Trunk bridge over the rapids at Niagara Falls at 3 a.m. Several of us got together and told Bernhardt that the Canadian and American governments would light up the falls with millions of candles in her honor. She was to be advised of this by the booming of a cannon as her train approached the rapids. We told her we had been informed of this in confidence, but that we wished to tell her about it so that she wouldn't miss this wonderful sight. She stayed up all night so as to be sure and not miss anything, but, of course, when we crossed them in pitch darkness. Abbey in his quiet way explained to her that something must have gone wrong. Bernhardt was disappointed, of course, but she told us she appreciated the honor that the Canadian and American governments had desired to do her. She made us promise if we again saw the officials who had told us of the intended honor to thank them on her behalf.

Her Jokes.

Bernhardt's idea of a good joke was usually someone else's idea of a poor one. When we were in Moscow a man presented himself at the stage door and declared he was a secret service man, and if any one of us wanted to see the Nihilist quarters of the city he would be very glad to take us around. Two other members of the company and myself were only too anxious to see the Nihilist quarters, so we told him we would be glad to accompany him. The man's offer was not a strange one because in nearly every city we went to someone always introduced himself and proposed to make us members of the most select club during our stay or show us around the town.

We were told to put on old clothes, and as I was the youngest of the party I decided to put on a false beard. We accompanied our guide to the gloomiest place I have ever seen, and after he gave the necessary sign we were admitted to a filthy cellar illuminated only by one smelly oil lamp suspended from the ceiling. The meeting was well patronized by all kinds of Russians, and the speaker must have been very popular as he was loudly acclaimed. It was quite interesting, and it would merely have been a curious adventure to add to our many if it had not suddenly taken on a very nasty aspect. Without a word of warning the door was broken in and Cossacks rushed in, and after a little shooting proceeded to arrest everybody.

S. O. S. For Sara.

We were taken to the police station with the other culprits. After some difficulty we managed to get an interpreter, who explained, at our request, that we had been taken to this Nihilist meeting at the invitation of a secret service man who had disappeared. We explained through our interpreter that we were members of the Bernhardt company and if the magistrate would kindly get in touch with Madame Bernhardt everything would be explained to his satisfaction. The magistrate agreed to telephone Madame Bernhardt at her hotel.

Into the Cells.

Meanwhile we were marched back to our cell. The cell was abominably dirty and, to make matters worse, we had the company of at least twenty others who had been caught in the raid. They endeavored to talk to us, and no doubt, wanted to know what the magistrate had said, but as we could not understand a word of what they were talking about, we could not satisfy their curiosity. As the night progressed and we heard nothing from Bernhardt we really began to worry. I had visions of Siberia and the salt mines, and all the terrible stories I had heard about Siberia were nothing compared to what I imagined. We passed the whole night with our Nihilist friends, and about ten o'clock in the morning we were all marched back to the court. Our troubles were soon over, however, as Bernhardt arrived, identified us, and through the interpreter told the magistrate she wished to teach us a lesson. Two days later we saw all those who had been caught in the raid marched off to Siberia. Poor devils.

My recollections of Moscow are not pleasant. A few days after the Nihilist adventure Rebel, one of the members of the company, was suddenly taken ill at the hotel during the night. He was in frightful pain and said he did not expect to live. We called a doctor, who luckily spoke French fluently. He examined Rebel and declared that he would have to be taken to the hospital at once and operated on. It appeared that Rebel had intestinal trouble. Rebel was wrapped up and taken to the hospital and operated on; we went back to the hotel. Next morning we went to the hospital to inquire after Rebel and we were informed that he had died while being operated on.

Moscow's Morgue.

His wife was terribly upset about it, and as she was too ill to attend to the details of the funeral she asked us to do so for her. She insisted that Rebel be buried in Paris, as she said he had always hated Russia and that she considered it almost as the last wishes of the dead that Rebel be buried decently in Paris. Accordingly we went back to the hospital to claim the body and have it embalmed, only to be informed that the body had been taken to the morgue. It was mid-winter, bitterly cold and sad as only Moscow can be, and to make matters worse it was, some sort of a Russian holiday and no one would work.

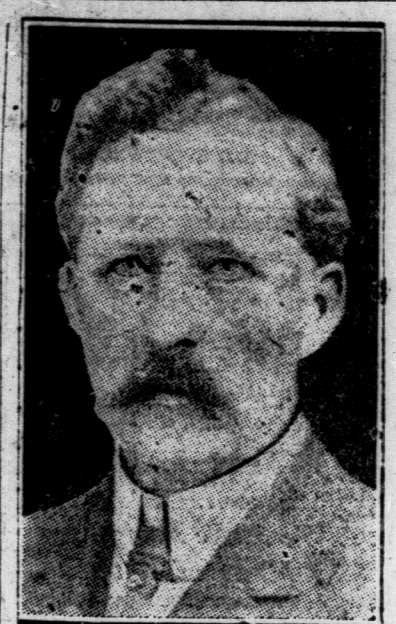

When we reached the morgue the watchman, who spoke a little German, told us that we could go inside and look for Rebel ourselves. He cheerfully explained that so many dead ones came and went that he did not know whether Rebel was here or not. This morgue was a large room with tremendous windows all around. It was heartless and it was like entering a refrigerator. There must have been at least three hundred tables made of marble, and on nearly every one of them there reposed a body covered with a sheet.

Among the Dead.

There were three aisles. Each one of us walked down one aisle, lifting each sheet as we came to a table in the hope of finding Rebel. I never imagined there could be so many dead people in one place. It was a ghastly sight. There lay both men and women just as they had been recovered from the rivers, or had been shot or died in hospitals, or had been run over. The place was so bitterly cold that the sheets covering the dead bodies were frozen stiff, necessitating our removing the sheet completely before the dead one could be identified. After what seemed an age one of my companions found Rebel. He lay there just as he had been removed from the hospital; it was horrible. Nothing could be done on that day, but by bribing the watchman he promised to see that no one interfered with the body until we returned. The next day we were able to make the proper arrangements for embalming. Poor Rebel, his body traveled with us for the rest of the tour, which lasted ten months, before he was finally laid at rest in Paris.

CHARGES WIDOWS' PENSIONS HELD UP ON GOSSIP BASIS

Colonel A. T. Hunter Renews Attack On Board's Methods.

ACTIONS DEFENDED

Secretary of Board Says Investigators Are Extremely Careful.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, April 4.—Methods followed by medical examiners in determining the claims of veterans for pensions for disability contracted during war service and subsequent findings of the board of pension commissioners occupied the attention of the royal commission investigating soldiers' pensions and grievances at Osgoode Hall Tuesday. Colonel A. T. Hunter of the Provincial Veterans' Association again renewed his attack on the pensions board concerning the alleged practice of the board in accepting hearsay evidence against defendant widow pensioners based on "the gossip of neighbors."

Colonel Hunter, chairman, stressed the fact that while it was important that investigators should get the facts there was no reason why they should be clothed with the power of handing down judicial decisions which properly came within the jurisdiction of the board of pensions commissioners. Speaking for the pension commissioners, Captain Parry, secretary of the board, asserted that so far as he was aware he knew of no instances in which investigators had exceeded their authority, and further that under the act widows receiving pensions forfeited their rights to collect same after it had definitely been established they were living immoral lives. At the time of adjournment tonight Dr. Sutton, medical examiner, Peterboro, was on the stand suggesting improvements in medical procedure and cases of appeal.

Another point considered vital to veterans was a revelation of the limited powers of the present appeal board at Ottawa. It was shown that this board had no jurisdiction in the matter of dependents' pensions. Officials for the various veterans organizations submitted cases in which the dependents had in their estimation been handled to the detriment of the dependents.

MUSICAL-TEA AIDS LABRADOR MISSION
Mrs. R. G. Fisher Opens Spacious Home For Grenfell Auxiliary Event.

A charming event socially, a most artistic one from the program standpoint, and a very successful one financially for the Grenfell Mission was the musical and tea for which Mrs. R. G. Fisher opened her spacious home at 90 Albert street yesterday afternoon. Notwithstanding the driving rain, friends of the mission turned out in large numbers, and the collection amounted to more than forty dollars.

Stately Easter lilies formed the beautiful and seasonal decoration for the drawing-room, at the entrance of which Mrs. Fisher welcomed the many who called, assisted by Mrs. A. T. Little, president of the London auxiliary. The hostess was wearing a smart gown of platinum gray crepe with relieving touches of turquoise ornaments. Mrs. Little was in a modish creation of golden brown Canton crepe and black cloche hat.

A most illuminating paper on the life and work of Dr. Wilfrid T. Grenfell was presented by the small daughter of the house and little Patricia Little. The nicely-balanced musical program included a double number, "Birds Go North Again" (Willby), and "Birds of June" (Dorothy Forster), by Mrs. H. A. Kingsmill; "My Dear Soul" (W. Sanderson) and "Love a Little Cottage" (Geoffrey O'Hara), Miss Frances Cullis, contralto; two violin numbers, "Faroles du Coeur" (Massart) and "From the Canabrake" (Gardener), by Mrs. Charles H. Ivey. As an encore, Mrs. Ivey added "Song My Mother Taught Me" (Dvorak).

By special request, Miss Grace Blackburn read her own poem, "The Swans of Geneva," to "celebrate" the anniversary of the Grenfell Mission, receiving cordial thanks from the many for whom it afforded great pleasure.

Mrs. T. Baker and Miss Rhoda Hobbs presided over the tea table in the dining-room, centered with a great cluster of deep pink and white roses. Mrs. A. McPherson, Mrs. H. Clement, Mrs. A. V. Becker, Mrs. Herbert Sceraton and the Misses Clark assisted in serving the dainty tea trifles.

CUBAN PRESIDENT ASKS HIS CABINET TO RESIGN
Zayas and Ministers Fail To Agree On Property Deal.

Special Cable to The London Advertiser and The Philadelphia Public Ledger. Havana, April 4.—Business and citizens were thrown into consternation Tuesday by the news that President Zayas had called for the resignation of his cabinet. It is the cabinet, appointed last June under the reform movement, and under its regime the budget was reduced to $58,000,000, a $50,000,000 dollar loan made and back debts have been paid as fast as approved. Secretary of the Treasury Despain, since June, has accumulated a substantial surplus.

The trouble between President Zayas and the cabinet arose over a real estate deal, whereby the president purchased for the government by decree the old Santa Clara convent property at an advance price of $1,300,000 over the price asked before the moratorium and during the times known locally as "the dance of millions." When the Zayas decree making the purchase was published it produced a storm of protest from the public and press, and congress queried the president for his authority to take money from the treasury not covered by the budget. He replied that the cabinet had approved the purchase, and the cabinet denies any such approval, hence the call for its resignation.

It is said Zayas threatens to barry the matter to the Pan American Congress now sitting in Chile should the United States interfere.

CUNO SAYS GERMANS WILL RESIST TO END
Expresses Intention To Party of United States Quakers.

Special Cable to The London Advertiser and The Philadelphia Public Ledger. Berlin, April 4.—A delegation of American Quakers, including J. Henry Scattergood and Wilbur K. Thomas of Philadelphia, Professor Hommer and L. Morris of Richmond, Ind., and Clement Biddle of Mount Vernon, N. Y., met today for an hour's discussion of child feeding and the general political situation. The Quakers put a number of questions to the chancellor to learn whether a settlement insuring payment to France was possible. Cuno, following the line of his earlier declaration, said Germany was willing to pay up to the limit of its ability as fixed by some impartial investigation body.

He mentioned his Hamburg proposal of a plebiscite peace pact as offering France the necessary guarantee of security if France were willing to embark on such a plan. The chancellor declared the policy of pacific obstruction and resistance in the Ruhr would be continued to the bitter end.

Mothers and Their Children
Suggestions for Story Telling. In telling children stories, I have found that if a story is repeated it must be unchanged, and that repetition within a story is pleasing. Children also like a story to be concrete. For instance, if a party is brought into the telling they like to know what games were played, what the guests had to eat, and what prizes were given out. These are simple points of child psychology, but they will make it easier for any one who wishes to be successful in amusing children. (Copyright, 1922, Associated Editors.)

This Is SCHOOL Week

The Easter Holiday was surely designed for the purpose of outfitting the children for the Spring season. We call it School Week at the store, for we never see so many children as at the Easter Holiday season. Later, they are attracted by the outdoor sports, and it is with difficulty they can be held long enough even to try on a new suit or dress.

We are making special displays of boys' and girls' apparel this week that will be most helpful to mothers in selecting new Spring clothing for the children.

We specialize and take great pride in the selection of our boys' and girls' clothing.
