

WEEK CAMPAIGN ENDS SUCCESSFUL

Y. M. C. A. Membership Drive Well Under Way, With Blue Side Leading List.

In the first round of the Y. M. C. A. membership campaign boxing match a terrific knockout in the bantamweight bout was the big feature. "Scraper" (Les) Gray, overtopped "Duke" (Earl) Cadwallader by a score of 1,235 points to 395.

The scene of the final decisions at the end of the first round was the dining-room of the central "Y" on Wellington street and the referee was James Gray, who was outboxed by the champion, Dr. A. J. Grant, as a man who had been behind anything good in and for London, and who described himself as the one, who, while otherwise a respectable Christian, found himself in the anomalous position of refereeing a boxing match.

The occasion was the second dinner held as part and parcel of the membership drive conducted by the "Y" workers, who have set themselves an objective of 625 new members.

As a result of the scores handed in last night, marking the end of the first round, five championship belts were awarded to the winners in the five classes, these prizes to be defended during the coming week, otherwise known as the "Blue" round. The Blues amassed a total of 3,375 points to date, while the Reds are trailing with a score of 2,120.

In the following detailed score, the member of the Blue team is mentioned first in each case:

Heavyweight class—Battling Tom Yull, 400; Sluggo Cliff Hunt, 625.
Middleweight class—Gunboat Byron Swayze, 700; One-round Archie Limon, 725.
Bantamweight class—Scraper Les Gray, 1,235; Duke Earl Cadwallader, 395.
Featherweight class—Spider Brady, 200; Tiger Baldwin, 275.
Flyweight class—Kid McNaughton, 550; Uppercut Upton, 100.

TECHNICAL DIRECTOR IN LONDON TODAY

D. A. Campbell and Assistants Conducting Inspection of London School.

D. A. Campbell, F. S. Rutherford and Miss A. J. Hamill, all of Toronto, arrived in the city today to inspect the London Technical school. Mr. Campbell is director of technical education for the provincial government, having been appointed in June of this year. Although himself a Liberal in politics, Mr. Campbell received his appointment from a Conservative government as a result of the wide range of his experience in this particular field of education and as a result of a marked ability for educational administration.

Previous to the appointment to his present position, Mr. Campbell was for some years principal of the Sarnia collegiate institute and technical school, organizing the present composite school. Previous to his residence in Sarnia he was director of technical education for the province of Alberta.

Mr. Rutherford is inspecting the shop work and the mechanical departments of the school, while Miss Hamill will pass on the work of the domestic science and girls' work department.

The inspectors will be in the city until the end of the week.

FIRE DESTROYS COUPE, WOMEN HAVE CLOSE CALL

Just as last night's theatregoers were pouring out onto the streets after the final performance, a large coupe owned by Dr. E. S. Detwiler of 449 Waterloo street, and occupied at the time by Mrs. Detwiler and Mrs. Charles E. Wheeler, suddenly burst into flames. The car is a total loss but is covered by insurance. A young man warned the ladies, who jumped to safety just as the upholstery caught fire.

A report was sent in to the fire department that the public utilities building was on fire and the entire force was at once sent there as this building is in a business block. For ten minutes late in reaching the burning car.

The cause of the fire is unknown. Dr. Detwiler, who was in a store in the vicinity of the accident at the time, himself believes it to have been a short circuit.

Smallware Trade Feels Stability of Industry; Business Has Been Good

Manager of Woolworth's Convinced Pre-War Conditions Have Been Reached.

SIGNS OF PROGRESS

Although smallwares, such as those dispensed by the F. W. Woolworth Company, the Metropolitan Stores and other national organizations, are affected less by varying conditions than the great majority of other retail trades, so distinctive have been business gains of the past few years that William D. Christianson, manager of the London Woolworth store, is convinced that pre-war stability in industry is just about reached.

"The smallware trade is not subject to the usual fluctuations of other lines," Mr. Christianson pointed out. "In boom times, people buy small luxuries, in times of depression they buy commodities. This business fact always assures of a stable trade, but in the past two years improvement has been above the average. There is no doubt that times are good, and I fully believe that the present bright outlook will result in further prosperity for the dominion."

A healthy sign. All classes of people patronize the smallwares store today, in direct contrast to ten years ago, when friends were wont to apologize to each other for meeting in the "five-and-ten-cent store." Mr. Christianson believes that this growing breadth of view is a healthy sign of progress.

"One factor in the success of our business is that we appeal to everybody. Of the thousands of articles we carry, every home, large or small, is a market for some of them. People are far more particular than they used to be; quality is the keynote of the demand now. And with the progress of the times, aided by an enormous purchasing power, we have steadily strengthened our position in Canadian trade by giving the height of value for five, ten or fifteen cents, as the case may be."

True Progress. "Perfect confidence between employer and employee is essential to true progress in any industry. There is every indication of a better outlook in the ranks of labor during the past two years. In Woolworth stores, a co-operative system of management has proven eminently successful. Every girl is truly head of her own department, whether large or small. Initiative is always encouraged and staff luncheons are held twice a week for the exchange of ideas. There is no boss in the ordinary sense of the word. In reality, I am only the trainer."

COMPULSORY PARLEY AT SYDNEY IS FAILURE

Seamen Refuse To Participate Until Strikers Freed From Jail.

Associated Press Despatch. Sydney, Australia, Oct. 20.—The compulsory conference of all parties to the shipping dispute in connection with the seamen's strike failed of the effect aimed at by Justice Powers, president of the arbitration court, who called the conference yesterday.

The conference was designed to furnish a basis for the possible settlement of the strike, but it proved a failure, inasmuch as the shipowners deprecated the calling of the conference as being inopportune, and expressed doubt as to Justice Powers' authority in characterizing the striking seamen as insubordinate, while the striking seamen insisted upon the liberation of all the strikers in jail before participating in the negotiations. The conference was adjourned for a day until called by Justice Powers in the hope that the seamen meanwhile would recede from their position as to the immediate release of the strikers. The seamen were still resolute on their stand. The conference therefore was not proceeded with.

HARLTON'S CLOTHING IS NOT RECOVERED

Police Unable To Find Garments Hinted at in Newspaper Story.

The police have not recovered the clothes of Edward Harlton, alleged murderer of Constable Waddell, as stated in a newspaper last evening. The rumor that some boys on a farm about one mile east of London, had found the clothes hidden under a pile of leaves, was investigated by High Constable Wharton, but neither the farm, the boys nor the clothes could be located. The high constable points out that the clothes supposed to have been found were blood-stained, and is difficult to see why bloodstains should have marked Harlton's clothing.

YOUNG HEBREW CLUB IS ORGANIZED IN CITY

The organization meeting of the Young Hebrew association was held at Moose hall last evening. There was a good attendance and the youths were very enthusiastic over the results of the meeting. The club will take an active part in the sports of the city. The following officers were elected: President, H. L. Goldford; vice-president, D. J. Cohen; secretary, V. M. Hart; treasurer, M. Zankin.

DRIVER AVERTS ACCIDENT.
An iron lamp post was broken this morning and a serious accident was narrowly averted by the presence of mind of the driver of a light roadster. Coming suddenly from the market square, a woman driving a sedan, cut directly in front of a car going west on King street. To avoid an inevitable smash-up the driver of the roadster turned toward the sidewalk to his left and crashed into the post, breaking a portion of the steel and damaging his bumpers.

SENATOR IRVINE L. LENROOT, of Wisconsin, member of the senate committee of foreign relations, said this week regarding U. S. A. aviators now fighting for France against the Riffians, "The behavior of these aviators is deplorable, to say the least. They are potential killers."

PAVING DEPENDS ON RAILWAY VOTE

Mayor Thinks It Is Not Too Late To Arrange Ballot For December.

That the provincial syndicate went too far when it imposed a belief in the episcopal form of government, as a necessary condition to the inviting of clergy of the evangelical churches to Anglican pulpits, is the opinion of the Very Rev. Dean Tucker of St. Paul's cathedral, who was prolocutor of the lower house of the provincial synod.

The other condition, that laid down by the Lambeth conference, namely that those invited must be working seriously in the direction of Christian unity, would have been totally adequate, was the opinion of the dean. The other condition was imposed upon the synod as a concession to the Anglo-Catholic element in the church. The dean sees this element as earnest workers in the direction of unity, but they do not believe unity is to be achieved by a promiscuous interchange of pulpits with clergy of non-episcopal communions.

"Personally, I would never dream of asking a United church clergyman if he accepted the episcopacy as the ultimate form of church government, if I wished to invite him to my pulpit," said the dean.

The talk of abolishing the provincial synod came from the same group as those opposed to the other move, the dean believed. They were in the position of football players, who, when they couldn't kick the ball, tried to kick their opponents. The provincial synod is a very useful thing, he believes.

OCTOBER BUILDING IS FAIRLY SUBSTANTIAL

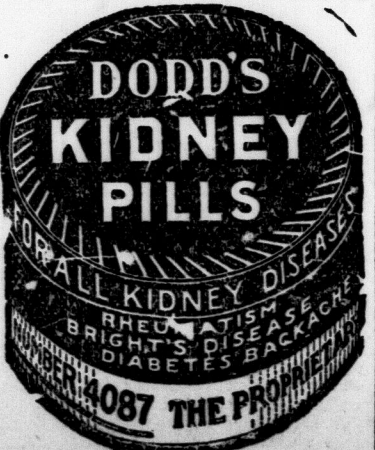

Building trades in London continue to show an optimistic tone. Winter building and repair work is now being authorized and the October building total is expected to be fairly substantial. Since September permits to the value of $125,000 have been issued from the office of the city inspector of buildings. Some 112 permits are represented by this value, or an average of more than $1,000 per permit.

MORE WOOD NECESSARY, STATES JAIL GOVERNOR

With the wind whistling chilly tunes around the corners of the county jail, the authorities are paying special attention to the wood pile that has been growing slowly but surely all summer.

Governor Byron Dawson feels that the pile isn't quite as big as it should be and more wood will be purchased for the prisoners to saw and split. Twelve cords have been ordered and the axes of the prisoners and more wood will be purchased by the county in the near future, it is expected.

APPLE DEMAND BRISK IN ESSEX

Government Crop Report Indicates Favorable Conditions Throughout Province.

The report of crop and agricultural conditions, prepared by the Ontario department of agriculture, is as follows:

Dundas.—During the past week I visited one of our farmers growing alfalfa. He has eight acres of second cut alfalfa, which he saved for seed, besides cutting sixteen loads of hay on the first crop. He has now an excellent crop of seed of very fine quality from the second cut. Though growing alfalfa for only three years he has now thirty acres and is an enthusiastic believer in alfalfa.

Essex.—A number of our best poultry men have their pullets in winter quarters and are getting a good number of eggs from them. Owing to the better trade there are very few cockerels in the county.

The orchardists in this county are having no difficulty in selling their apples. In fact, there will not be enough apples here to meet local demands. Roots are in splendid condition. The crop is extra good, and, as the weather is just beginning to clear, the season is just beginning.

Haldimand.—During the past week farmers have been busy with the third crop of alfalfa hay, which is better than the second, and three-quarters of the yield of the first crop. It is rather unusual to see farmers haying in October. The corn harvest is completed and most of the silos have been filled. Threshing is in full swing. A large quantity of alfalfa seed has been threshed and a number of farmers have anywhere from fifty to one hundred and seventy bushels of seed.

Hastings.—A number of young sows sold at the bacon hog fair this week averaged $200 each.

More fall wheat has been sown this year than last. It has made fair growth and its condition is promising.

Silo filling is about completed and most farmers have a surplus of corn. Some threshing still remains to be done. Potatoes are well along and roots are being harvested. The past week has been a favorable one in so far as weather conditions are concerned.

Kenora.—Dairying has picked up considerably since the starting up of a creamery here a little over a year ago. The cream produced in the district, for which they are paying forty-seven cents per pound butter fat, depending on grade and test, they have a few to co-operate and ship in carload lots. Several carloads of hay have been sold to lumbering at $15.50 per ton, f.o.b. shipping point.

Kent.—Beet harvest is in full swing now. The factory has been running for a week. The yield of beets will be fairly high, but the sugar content is much lower than last year. This is on account of the large amount of rain. We have had a large loss in the bean crop with the wet weather. It is estimated that from 20 to 25 per cent of the crop will not be fit for anything other than stock feed.

Lambton.—One thousand two hundred and seventy-six head of store stock is shipping into Lambton during the month of September. The number of hogs being marketed weekly is hardly up to the record of a year ago.

Peel.—There is a strong demand for brood-to-lay Barred Rock pullets this fall, these being sold at from $1.25 to $1.50 each.

Peterborough.—In advance of the past two or three years, the ground being in splendid condition. Many reports in the last day or so of cattle dying due to bloating caused by froze, grass. Prescott and Russell.—Beckkeepers have practically finished the feeding of their hives. The hives have not been taken down rapidly, due to good weather lately and the hives will be in excellent condition to be put in in a short time.

Simcoe.—South—There is a very keen demand for sheep. At a sale this week good grade ewes sold for $18 each.

Waterloo.—Live stock this fall are in exceptionally good condition, there having been abundance of grass up to the present. Any lambs that are being shipped from the county are going out well finished.

Windsor.—Live stock this fall are in exceptionally good condition, there having been abundance of grass up to the present. Any lambs that are being shipped from the county are going out well finished.

RELIEF ASSOCIATION SCHOOL'S ONLY BACKER

Officials Declare Government Not Assisting in Work at Georgetown.

The training school for Armenian boys started at Georgetown under the direction of the Rev. Andrew Lane, formerly pastor of the Drumbo and Princeton United churches, is being sponsored by the Armenian Relief Association of Canada, and not by the government, officials of the association state.

The boys' home at Georgetown is the special care of the association, and every effort is being made to give the boys a chance to make good in a new and strange land. There has been no government assistance, the officials declare, and the report published some time ago that the school was being looked after by the government, and that Rev. Andrew Lane is a government appointee, is erroneous.

CHARGES LEWIS STARTED STRIKE

Byron Newton Declares President of Miners Took Drastic Action to Retain Prestige.

Associated Press Despatch. Hartford, Conn., Oct. 20.—Byron Newton, former councillor of the port of New York and at present connected with the anthracite coal industry in Philadelphia, characterized John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, as a "despot with more power than any man in the world" in an address here last night. He charged that President Lewis instituted the coal strike as a measure to strengthen his own prestige.

"John L. Lewis, commander of a vast army numbering more than 700,000, is the most powerful ruler in the world," Mr. Newton declared. "The miners he controls are the highest paid workmen in the world. They struck because Lewis felt that he would lose prestige in the bituminous coal mines through the refusal of the operators to accede to his demands for the 'check-off' by the anthracite operators if his threat of a strike was not fulfilled."

WORLD'S SERIES TAX AMOUNTS TO $118,285

Ballou and Ogden Receive $1,000 Each Out of Losers' Share.

Washington, D.C., Oct. 20.—Uncle Sam's share of the 1925 world's series amounts to $118,285, according to the figures made public by the internal revenue bureau. This tax was levied on provincial games, but the aged gentleman will likewise receive a further cut in the shape of taxes from ticket brokers and on the incomes of the players, managers and magnates.

Joe Emswiler, veteran Washington scout, was given a gold watch as his share of the world's series spoils. The 25 players receiving a full share of the "losers' share," while the others to share partially include Ballou and Ogden, $1,000 each; Jeanes and Myer, $500 each; and the club house boy and the ground-keeper, $500 each.

Children's Colds

Are quickly, pleasantly relieved by Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine

If children's colds are got rid of promptly there will be less tendency to pneumonia and consumption in later life. It is the neglected, hanging-on cold that weakens the lungs and develops into serious trouble.

No treatment for coughs and colds was ever so popular with the children as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It is so pleasant to the taste, so delightfully soothing and healing, and affords relief so quickly that children soon turn to instinctively when choked up with a cold or annoyed by coughing.

It is mother's favorite treatment for croup and bronchitis, for the reason it will bring relief when the midnight coughing spasms set in. It is wise to always have a bottle at hand for prompt use in emergency.

Corn Borer Inspectors To Be Appointed in Each County Next Year.

Agreeing that high pressure methods must be used to bring home the fact to Ontario farmers that the corn borer is just about the worst menace to farming in Western Ontario, nine district agricultural representatives of the Western Ontario counties gathered today at the office of R. A. Finn, Midwestern representative, to discuss ways and means with Professor Caesar of the O. A. C. staff.

Compulsory legislation to force the farmers to adopt proper clean-up methods will be introduced in the Ontario legislature next fall by the Hon. John S. Martin. This will provide for a corn borer inspector for each county who will check up on the farmers.

Despite the fact that corn acreages in practically all the counties have considerably decreased this year, the borer continued on its triumphant march of destruction, and a huge concerted effort by all the farmers is an absolute necessity, the opinion of all the district representatives and their chief, R. S. Duncan, who occupied a "chair next to Professor Caesar."

Justus Miller, Essex, stated that 50,000 acres of corn stubble was not plowed in his county last year. Farmers in his territory had cut the acreage in two this year, only 50,000 acres being grown in the county which had adopted the slogan: "Essex county—where corn is king," some years ago.

The borer had been greatly retarded in Elgin, Professor Caesar stated, this year owing to favorable weather conditions.

Give Fair Chance.

All the representatives agreed that the farmers should be given a fair chance, in fact, every opportunity to clean up their farms and take all preventive measures before any compulsory legislation is introduced.

Professor Caesar declared that it was absolutely essential to enlist the aid of the press. He advocated play and film matches, such as the one being held at Komoka on Friday. All corn stubble should be buried completely by the plow, and the best type of plow adapted for this work may be used.

Prof. Caesar is also getting out a new and complete circular on the corn borer, and these will be broadcast through Ontario through the medium of rural schools.

Show Special Film.

Colored cards, showing all stages of the borer, will be placed in every country school, and larger posters will be placed in postoffices and country stores.

The representatives at the meeting asked for a total of 53 public addresses during the coming month, while motion picture proprietors will be asked to show a special corn borer film that will be provided to them free of charge.

Radio talks will also be part of the great publicity effort mounted on the farmers that they must adopt proper control methods or cease growing corn.

The conference is continuing this afternoon.

JEWELERS ENTER PROSPERITY PERIOD

usually parallel and when one prospers so does the other.

Burt Holmes, owner of George Borgfeldt & Co., well-known New York jewelry importers happened to call on Mr. Nash while the Advertiser representative was in the store.

"How do you find business conditions in Canada?" Mr. Nash asked abruptly.

"I haven't found business as rosy in the past four years as it is right now," was the traveller's convincing reply. Mr. Holmes came to London after visiting the principal cities of the Maritimes. From here he will start on his annual trip to the Pacific coast.

"Tourists' trade during the past summer was extremely gratifying," Mr. Nash began again. "It far exceeded the previous year. Tourist trade is precious for many reasons. Away from home, the tourist usually spends money freely, and he is served in half the time of an ordinary customer. A tourist invariably takes souvenirs back with him, and, unconsciously or otherwise, he disseminates the cities in which he makes purchases."

"That is one reason I boost the new hotel. Not only will it draw people here, but it will act as an incentive to purely local trade. Many claim it is too elaborate a project. Of course, it is to those without vision. The building of the Tecumseh house was scored from many angles when it rose from the ground in the last century. It was one of the finest hotels in the east at that time. But, did it pay? What would we have done without it?"

CONSERVATIVE TACTICS FAIL TO DAMAGE TREATY

Canada's Trade Pact With Australia Proven To Be Sound in Every Respect.

EGG SHIPMENTS CITED

Lennox's Statement Regarding Imports Quickly Disproved by Vancouver Customs Officials.

Special to The Advertiser.

Ottawa, Oct. 20.—Judging by Conservative speeches in the rural parts of Ontario the Australian treaty, negotiated by the King government, and made effective on Oct. 1st, serves the "yellow peril" as a new terror from the Pacific. It is admitted by those who fear Japanese invasion of the North American continent that the distance from the base of supply of the potential invaders militates to some degree against their success. But to the new preachers of a Pacific terror distance is no factor.

The Australian treaty became effective exactly nineteen days ago. While a fast cruiser or an aeroplane might make the distance from Australia to Canada in shorter schedule, the average time taken by an ordinary steamship from Sydney or Melbourne, Australia, to Vancouver is 30 days.

And yet, Herbert Lennox, Conservative candidate against Premier King in the North York constituency, thrown upon the electoral screen the picture of 50 carloads of Australian eggs leaving the port of Vancouver en route to the east, designed to drive the Canadian hen to the United States for lack of protection.

No Eggs From Australia.

The only trouble about Mr. Lennox's statement is that it is entirely without foundation, like his further statement that the Australian hen lays every day in the year. A message directed to the customs president of Vancouver yesterday elicited the following laconic reply: "No eggs whatever imported from Australia during the present month." And as a matter of fact not a single egg has come from the Antipodes during the past year.

As to the negotiation of the Australian treaty the duty on eggs was two and a half cents a dozen. Under the treaty they are free. In 1923 the North York constituency, Australian to all countries was 1,236,023. In 1924 it had decreased to 655,215. In 1925 it was 1,236,023. In 1924 it had decreased to 655,215. In 1925 it was 1,236,023.

Not a single egg went to Canada. The obvious reason is that the rates for Great Britain are lower than for the United States. In addition the consumers of eggs in that country are not so particular about the "strictly fresh" qualification as the consumers in this country.

The "strictly fresh" qualification as the consumers in this country are not so particular about the "strictly fresh" qualification as the consumers in this country.

Some Conservative Tricks.

The propaganda against the Australian treaty and the "appeal" made to the farmers by Conservative members with respect to the possible incidence thereof, have their counterpart in the propaganda and appeals made by the Conservatives during the reciprocity campaign of 1911. In Kings county, N. S., where the late Sir Frederick Borden was opposed in 1911 by the Conservatives, a cargo of United States potatoes was brought in and sold at less than cost, in order to demonstrate to the local farmers that disaster awaited their efforts in the event of reciprocity being carried. In Belleville, Ont., it is related that the Conservatives, in order to prove the price of cheese to the local manufacturers from 12 to 15 cents a pound in order to demonstrate that there was no danger of a loss of business.

The same game is apparently afoot fourteen years later. It is stated on reliable authority, for instance, that certain Conservative members, in the event of reciprocity being carried, in Belleville, Ont., it is related that the Conservatives, in order to prove the price of cheese to the local manufacturers from 12 to 15 cents a pound in order to demonstrate that there was no danger of a loss of business.

Effect Not Noticeable.

The effect of the Australian treaty upon the Canadian farmer, particularly in Central Canada, will be infinitesimal, while under the treaty Canada secures from the commonwealth valuable preferences on canned fish, newspaper, vehicle parts, assembled or unassembled, iron and steel pipes, etc.

The main advantage which Australia gains from the treaty, and it is an advantage which does not injure the Canadian farmer, is from the provision granting a substantial preference on raisins and currants, as against the United States, whence most of these commodities at present are imported.

Raisins and currants are not grown in Canada, and while there is a very strenuous protest against the change from California, there is no reason to believe that the cost to Canadian consumers will be raised by reason of the preference given to a sister dominion, as soon as the Australian raisins reach the market.

No self-respecting farmer in Canada need be afraid of the incidence or effect of the Australian treaty.

REV. R. B. COCHRANE.

Charges of lowering the tone of the public discussion were laid against political leaders in a sermon by Rev. R. B. Cochrane, United church pastor, in Toronto on Sunday. "I confess I am somewhat disappointed at the Christian citizen at the abuse of each other indulged in by both of the leaders of the two great parties in Canada," he declared. "They both ought to be above imputing wrong motives to one another, calling each other names and descending to personal criticism."

THORNDALE MAN GIVEN FREEDOM

Agrees to Care For Young Wife Better in the Future.

Leslie Williams, Thorndale, charged with wife desertion before County Magistrate Zappe and John Stuart, this morning was allowed to go on suspended sentence on the promise that he would provide a home for his 17-year-old wife within 10 days.

His child, one year old, will be cared for by the C. A. S.

Inspector Kelly of the Children's Aid pleaded for Williams, stating that from his knowledge of the affair the man would be turned over to another chance to make good.

Williams promised to contribute to the support of the infant and the $30 he has saved while working at Thorndale will be turned over to the child. He is legally bound to provide for her. This woman is destitute. She hasn't a copper.

Williams then promised to provide a home for his wife and child, and left the court arm and arm with his diminutive wife and the small baby.

Churchill, Amery and Grey Highly Commend Treaty Signed at Locarno.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Oct. 20.—Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, in a speech at Chingford last night, declared his belief that "the security pact is the only possible security for the maintenance of peace in the future."

"Here you have four great nations of Europe joining hands together in a sort of four-sided pyramid of strength and security," he added. "I do not know of any other way in which you can take effective precautions against a struggle in which we should very likely be involved, and, if it came, could only end in the rebarbarization of the whole world."

L. C. M. Amery, secretary for the dominions, commenting before his own speech, signed by the archbishop, said: "The Locarno pact marks the establishment of real peace by mutual agreement and on equal terms."

Viscount Grey, former secretary for foreign affairs, describes the pact as "probably the greatest step towards real and assured peace which has been made since the war."

If the conference had failed, he remarked, it would have been a great catastrophe.

Falls 3 Stories While In Dream

Sailor Escapes With But Minor Injuries After Accident.

By HARRY C. ELLER.

Los Angeles, Oct. 19.—American sailors are evidently made hard and tough.

A member of one of the crews which have returned here from the Pacific cruise fell from a third-story hotel window in his sleep. He landed on the fire escape of the second floor, only to bounce off, and fell into the street.

He was dreaming. He got up, "fighting mad," punched the empty air, and yawned, and finally knocked out a couple of plate glass windows. He woke up in the receiving hospital, but remained there only long enough to have his hand sewed up where it had been cut by glass.

Physicians then pronounced him both sound and sober.

MAL R. BUSHEL ON TAX METHODS

Commissioner Has Thirst For Knowledge Quickly Satisfied by Los Angeles.

Efficiency? Yes, they have it in Los Angeles. H. J. Bennett, London's assessment commissioner, recently sought information on the assessment and tax collecting methods in the California city. Today he received a basket full of mail, setting forth the methods of the municipal offices of Los Angeles county.

Municipal employees may lay their hands to as many as 155 authorized branches of labor whilst they are at the Los Angeles tax office. They work by the clock, and fill out a time sheet on each day. On the clock, and the nature of the various tasks of the individual employee. He may spend five minutes signing an income tax paper, three minutes stamping an assessment form, 3 minutes to receipt a stub and a few other odd moments in tearing it off.

And there they are, all tabulated, 195 authorized operations. These divisions of labor include even the time spent in filling out the time sheet.

"What are you going to do about it?" Mr. Bennett was asked this morning, as he looked disconsolately upon the time sheet, literature from the land of eternal sun.

The officer in charge issued a silent ordinance. There was a sweeping motion on the left flank, and the desk was cleared.

The British reports says London's assessment methods could very nicely be used as a model for any city.

LEPROSY DISCOVERED ON VANCOUVER ISLAND

Chinese Vegetable Dealer Has Dread Disease in Advanced Stages.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 19.—A Chinese vegetable dealer afflicted with leprosy in advanced stages has been found at South Wellington on Vancouver Island near Nanaimo, according to a despatch to the Evening Sun.

The case was discovered, says the despatch, when a boy about to purchase some vegetables from a Chinese dealer was warned by another Chinese not to touch them as the dealer was infected with the dread disease.

The mother reported the incident to the provincial police and the Chinese was taken to Dr. T. J. McPhee, provincial medical officer, for examination.

McPhee, in consultation with Dr. Paget in Ottawa and other physicians, pronounced the case to be one of leprosy in advanced stages. The victim has been placed in isolation. A survey of all Chinese in Vancouver Island lumber camps for traces of the malady is being undertaken.

WILD TALE ORIGINATES WHEN TITLES REVERSED

Chinese Newspapers Had Picture of Dead Germans on Way to the Fertiler.

New York, Oct. 20.—The sensational report that the bodies of dead soldiers of the great war to utilize the fats for fertilizer was started in China, Brigadier-General J. C. Terrell, wartime chief of the British intelligence unit and author of the story, said in an address here last night, revealing the origin of the tale for the first time.

General Charteris said that while he was in China during the war he had seen a picture of a dead German soldier, captioned "cannibal" showing a train of dead German soldiers taken to the rear for burial.

The pictures were sent to Chinese newspapers with titles reversed. Six weeks later an English magazine published a letter from a Chinese reader revealing the story of the "horrible boiling down of German soldiers." The story swept over the continent and eventually became a subject for debate in the house of commons.

LOCARNO PACTS WILL BE RAFFIAED

Arbitration Will Be Absolute in Case of Disputes Between European Nations.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Oct. 20.—London-awakened today to find emblazoned on the front pages of the newspapers the texts of the momentous decisions reached at Locarno, which virtually make further wars in Europe impossible.

The security pact, which guarantees inviolability of the French, English and German frontiers, and the six treaties between Germany and France, Belgium, Poland and Czechoslovakia and between France and her eastern allies, Poland and Czechoslovakia, were read with avidity.

Under the terms of the treaties arranged between Germany and her neighbors, Germany is to set up machinery for the arbitration of disputes which cannot be ironed out through ordinary diplomatic handling.

The engagements between France and Poland and Czechoslovakia provide that in the event of a dispute between the three countries they shall immediately go to arbitration, and that the treaty of mutual guarantees between Germany, France and Belgium stipulates that the three must not engage in a war of aggression or attempt to create war in the demilitarized Rhineland zone.

While on their part France and Belgium engage never to violate Germany's western frontier. If either one of the countries should violate the compact, it will be the duty of Great Britain to lend aid to the aggrieved party.

Arbitration is Necessary.

Arbitration of all disputes is necessary. None of the agreements entered into at Locarno is a security pact nor the treaties-outlaws war. It is clearly stated that in some circumstances war is legitimate, but the states war is legitimate, as far as possible, to prevent warlike conditions from arising.

Such editorial notice as the agreements receive in this morning's newspapers is quite favorable, although nowhere are they hailed as absolutely securing the future peace of Europe. They are described as "a promising attempt to return to the old family party of Europe of re-arranging ourselves on the basis of peace."

"They are not ideal in several respects, but constitute a real step toward peace," said one of the friendly spirits. "If it is the outstanding phrases of the editorial commentators."

Confidence is expressed by the ratification of the various parliamentary resolutions, especially in the fact that the Locarno pact is not to be accepted or rejected as they stand.

Chamberlain's Part Laid.

It is characterized as unthinkable that any legislature should take the responsibility of failing to approve what is termed such a hopeful structure. By some of these writers it is foreseen that the Locarno pact will be able to overthrow the ministry of Chancellor Luther, it is assumed that this will not happen, but the belief is expressed even another ministry would put the pact through the reichstag.

Much praise is given Austen Chamberlain, the British foreign secretary, for his share in the success of the negotiations at Locarno, as illustration of the fact that American are not barred from the elite of Europe.

"We admit he is clever and has written many catchy airs, but you might as well ask me if Mark Twain could have written 'Saint Joan.' Mr. Chamberlain remains to be seen and heard."

Mr. Johnson left London at noon today for Ottawa, under the assurance that the residence of the capital will forget politics for a night to listen to grand opera.

"Yes, I've been to Guelph," he said. "I never forget my home town, of course, and I feel like I ought to come to me. It was a wonderful reception that I got at the Arena last night, and one that I will not soon forget."

WANT 1914 WAR SPIRIT

By EDGAR ANSEL MOWBRER. Special Cable to The Advertiser and the Chicago Daily News.

German Republican Spirit Hard Hit By Speakers At Ex-Soldier Demonstration.

Berlin, Oct. 20.—Republican spirit fared badly at Leipzig yesterday, when at the invitation of the thirty thousand war veterans' associations, fifty-eight thousand ex-soldiers in uniform paraded under Swastika flags and sang war songs. The parade was three and a half hours in passing a given spot.

Greeting the arrivals, the retired major-general, Kaden, invited the ex-soldiers to "scratch away with your fingers the dirt which the German republic has scattered over German soil."

Speaking in the evening at the zoological garden, General Heering expressed the wish that the spirit of 1914 should again return.

Great Tenor Breakfasts Heartily; Talks of Jazz Without Sign of Shudder

Edward Johnson Tolerates Latest Fads With Fine Understanding of Musical Public.

GRAND OPERA GAINS

Iring Berlin Is Even Trying His Hand on the Higher Form of Music.

GENERAL MICHAEL W. FRUNSE.

Edward Johnson sat over a breakfast of bacon and eggs this morning and discussed grand opera, his concert at the Arena last night, radio, phonographs, the musical public, Chinese cymbals and Hindu tom-toms.

As the breakfast progressed, and it was a hearty one, typically Canadian, and shattering beliefs in grand opera singers temperamentally feasted on the delicacies of broiled squab or pate de foie gras, he culminated his remarks with the assertion that Canada and the United States, through radio and musical contrivances, are becoming more accustomed and better educated to "high brow."

Mr. Johnson did not condemn jazz, nor popular "symphonies" music, as it has recently been called. He did not shudder at the thought of the present-day "musical" comedy. And he did not express the opinion that the blare of muted coronet or shrill clarinet and saxophone was hideous.

He favored all with a tolerance that revealed a keen analysis of the musical public. He showed how this type of music was a process of education which generally terminated by inspiring a thirst for the better, and had brought the people of the continent to a point of transition where the gold and dross of music were earnestly appreciated.

Rattle Comes First.

The first music to a baby's ears is the rattle. Mr. Johnson pointed out. In the same way, jazz inspires the primitive, and through the medium of radio and phonograph that type of music is a process of education of a music lover, has been spread throughout the continent. Once the taste for music has been acquired, the man shows greater desire for the Chinese go in raptures over the whining tones of their quaint Oriental instruments, there is desire for music and change, and music will provide deeper emotion and will appeal through higher quality.

It has been noticeable that the grand opera in recent years, Mr. Johnson said. He pointed out through the experience of phonograph dealers and record changers, that music bought, the buyer purchases along with it modern jazz melodies. He returns to secure "blue" records, depicting a program of the future, ultimately appeases his taste with the "red" records of the artists.

But as yet the public has not reached the height of the modern appreciation, said Mr. Johnson. When he knows the type of audience he is to appear before, he generally arranges a program of music that is to the present time engaged, and so he too, must cater with an understanding knowledge, rather than sit back and confidently expect the public to come to him in true appreciation of the classics.

Berlin Writes Opera.

"Could Irving Berlin write an opera?" Mr. Johnson was asked. Mr. Berlin, upon the suggestion of Otto Kahn, is at the present time engaged in writing an opera that, if accepted, will be presented by the Metropolitan Opera Company in New York, as illustration of the fact that Americans are not barred from the elite of Europe.

"We admit he is clever and has written many catchy airs, but you might as well ask me if Mark Twain could have written 'Saint Joan.' Mr. Chamberlain remains to be seen and heard."

TWO MONEY BYLAWS WILL GO BEFORE LONDON VOTERS

New Ridout St. Bridge and Grants For Aged People's Home Are Propositions.

TOTAL $150,000

London ratepayers will be asked to give their approval to at least two money bylaws, and possibly four. At last night's session of the city council the aldermen voted unanimously to send a bylaw to the people asking their opinion on the building of a new Ridout street bridge at a cost of $75,000 and building grants for the Home for Incapables and the Aged People's Home for another $75,000, bringing the total up to $150,000. The aldermen were just about prepared to vote in favor of submitting to the electorate a bylaw on the question of an annual grant to the Western Fair when Ald. McKay made some inquiries about the proposal to ask the ratepayers for $235,000 for a new nurses' home for Victoria Hospital.

The mayor stated that while the matter had passed the hospital trustees, it had not been brought officially to the notice of the city.

Ald. McKay then moved for a reconsideration of the Western Fair bylaw by No. 1 committee, stating that it should be considered again in view of the fact that the nurses' home bylaw would come up before the committee.

Ald. McKay stated to the press after the council meeting that in his opinion a nurses' home was a more pressing need to the city than a Western Fair grant.

While Ald. Ashton was in favor of supporting the aged and sick, he declared that there wasn't a working-man's home in the city where it cost $125 to support an individual, such as the mayor said it cost to maintain one of the aged in the home.

The mayor pointed out that this cost of $125 per day included medicine, clothes, board and all contingencies.

Ald. McKay requested that the clause in number one committee's report to the effect that the city ask for power in the city of London bill to increase or decrease the price of houses owned by the housing commission be sent back to the committee. He thought that there was a great deal of latitude in the clause, and that it should be reconsidered.

The council had no objection to number one committee wrestling with the problem once more.

Object to Gas Station.

The trustees of the Wortley road Baptist church, in a written communication to the city clerk, objected to the Imperial Oil Company erecting a gas station at Wortley road and a gas station at Wortley road and a gas station at Wortley road.

Representatives of the oil company were on hand asking that the by-law be amended so that they could run a gas station at that corner, which at present is in the restricted area.

Ald. Bottrell asked that the whole matter go back to number two committee, and again the council voiced no objection.

The recommendation of the city engineer that W. M. Veitch, an employee of his department, be paid $125 for the use of his car on city work for three months was objected to by Ald. Douglass, who wanted to know something about it.

Mr. Veitch explained that there weren't enough cars to go round on the work this year, and as the expense would not be justified as far as the purchase of a new car was concerned, he had told Mr. Veitch to use his own car and give him a memo of the expense.

Not much money for three months' wear and tear, submitted Ald. Bottrell.

"The point I am making is that the car was used in June, July and August, and we don't get the bill till October," said Ald. Douglass. On the years and says, Ald. Douglass voted alone in opposition to the payment of the account.

Nominating Date Set.

A bylaw was passed setting the municipal nominating date for Monday, November 23. The city clerk pointed out that November 13 was the last day on which the council could consider the sending of bylaws to the people for approval.

Ald. Ashton wanted to know if the Metropolitan bus drivers were London men. Ald. Douglass replied that some of them were renting houses and were prepared to stay here for some time, business was so good.

Ald. Ashton declared it wasn't necessary to bring in men when there were citizens capable of doing the work who were out of jobs.

Ald. Douglass asked the mayor if the Ridout street bridge could not be fixed so that motorists using the structure wouldn't be harassed by the police.

"A new bridge is the only answer," said the city engineer, when asked to answer the alderman's question.

Ald. Kilbourne and Dolg moved that the new bridge be of the plate girder type without overhead trusses. Ald. Kilbourne said that the engineer had told him it would cost $10,000 more, but he thought it was the best bet. It passed the council, and the bylaw will read $75,000, instead of the $65,000 cost of bridge.

Ald. McKay suggested that it would be a good idea to get an agreement with the street railway regarding the use of the L.S.R. abutment in connection with the bridge. Engineer Near stated that the company was already using half of the city bridge abutment. He didn't think there would be any trouble, but an agreement could likely be arranged.

CHATHAM CHIEF ASKED TO RESIGN

City Council Passes Resolution Urging Resignation of Chief of Police McLachlin.

CHARGES WERE MADE

Special to The Advertiser. Chatham, Oct. 19.—The city council wants the resignation of Police Chief Daniel McLachlin, and tonight a resolution was authorized to be sent to the police commission stating that in the opinion of the council the commission should ask for his resignation at once.

The decision followed a lengthy discussion, which was based on a report that the commission was serving decision on charges made against the chief by three members of the police force. At a recent sitting of the commission the charges were heard, and the chief gave his explanation of each item.

It was alleged that he had held money which should have been turned over to the city, or handed back to those from whom it had been received. In several of the allegations the chief admitted that the money was held by him, but gave his reasons for holding it.

After hearing a volume of evidence, the commission reserved judgment on the chief, as well as on two members of the force against whom he had laid charges, and whose cases had been previously heard.

CANADIAN MEAT EXPORTS NEARLY TWICE 1924 TRADE

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, Oct. 19.—Marked increases are shown in the Canadian export meat trade in a bulletin just issued by the Dominion bureau of statistics. The value of the business transacted during the last twelve months was over thirty-five million dollars, as compared with twenty-two million dollars in the preceding twelve months. In September, 1925, the value of the export meat trade was $3,600,000, and in September, 1924, it was $1,900,000. Salt pork, pickled pork and pickled beef more than doubled in value of exports during the last twelve months. The bulk of the trade was with Great Britain.

for the commission, made an announcement a couple of days ago that no decision would be rendered until about the end of the year. Mayor Sullivan, as a member of the commission, opposed the delay. In this opposition he has the support of the city council, and the following resolution will go to the commission from the council:

"That this council, in accordance with the interests of the citizens of Chatham, respectfully suggest to the police commission that it demand the immediate resignation of the chief of police."

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1925.

There Are Nine Provinces.

Hon. Arthur Meighen has one policy and one policy only. It is to raise the protective tariff higher and higher.

How little this single policy seizes the real needs of all Canada today is illustrated in a recent edition of the Halifax Herald, the outstanding Conservative paper in the maritimes. The Herald presents a platform of six points which it calls "Maritime Rights." The Herald says that "this platform contains the essentials of Maritime Rights which if given effect would bring progress and prosperity."

Of the six points in the platform the first four deal with transportation and freight rates on the principle of "Canadian trade through Canadian ports." On these four points—the most pressing of maritime needs—Mr. Meighen has no policy.

The fifth point deals with the tariff. But it does not urge a higher tariff. It advocates "a thorough survey and investigation" and recommends that "where increased tariff protection may be found necessary increased protection be afforded and where the measure of protection may be lowered without injury, the reduction be made." This is simply a clear outline of the tariff board which the prime minister intends to appoint. The attitude of the maritimes on the tariff is far removed from the "higher and higher" policy of Mr. Meighen.

The sixth point in Maritime Rights is the unity of all Canada and in presenting it the Herald makes an appeal of patriotic quality. The Herald says: "The problem of composing the differences that exist in this country of great distances is vast and complex; a problem that calls for the highest statesmanship. It should be the aim of the maritimes to assist in the solution of this great problem . . . to insure the contentment and prosperity of their own people in conformity with the true all-Canadian policy that must be inaugurated if the confederation is to endure."

Mr. Meighen most obviously offers nothing which can cope with the needs of the maritimes as set forth in the leading Conservative paper. His possibilities of promoting good will in other provinces of the confederation are even more remote.

As for the province of Quebec, Mr. Meighen is obliged to keep away altogether and to hand over his campaign to men whose chief appeal is the open statement that they are "free from Meighen." In the prairie provinces of Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan, Mr. Meighen's only policy of higher tariffs is feared above all else as a death blow to western progress.

The great primary essential is the preservation of the Canadian confederation, the unity of all nine provinces. Without the unity and good will of east and west nothing can be accomplished, no policy will avail, no problems can be solved. There can be little hope of such unity in the leadership of Mr. Meighen.

The chief concern of the voters in this election should be the necessity of unity. The prime minister spoke true words when he said in London last Friday night: "This election will determine whether the country is to be bound in closer unity or the work of confederation largely undone."

The broad and moderate policies of Liberalism under the leadership of Mackenzie King represent the only hope of reconciling the needs of all nine provinces. Ontario will best serve her own interests if she thinks of the maritimes and the prairies. The people of London must have regard for the necessities of Regina and Halifax. From both patriotic and selfish motives the interest of London lies in Liberalism and more definitely in the election of E. S. Little as a supporter of the prime minister who thinks of Canada as a confederation and not as a division of east against west.

Washington Should Speak.

Canadians will find pleasure in the statement by Commander Donald B. MacMillan that relations between his party of American explorers and the Canadian Arctic expedition under G. P. Mackenzie were entirely cordial. A situation undoubtedly existed which had there not been good sense on both sides, might have led to unfortunate ill-feeling.

The facts are that Canada has made reasonable claims to these territories, claims founded both on discovery and on occupation. Canada has supplemented such claims by supplying police posts and administration of justice and there can be no fair dispute of her position.

The risk of foreign expeditions such as MacMillan's through these territories lies in misunderstandings. There is no doubt that Washington fully appreciates Canada's claim, but the American government should now forestall possibilities of friction by openly stating the justice of Canada's position and by deciding to permit no more expeditions without the clear agreement and approval of the Canadian government.

Looking For a Split.

The Ontario and Quebec association of Baptist churches, in session at Hamilton, is already giving voice to warnings of a split in the denomination. It is apparently a continuation of the controversy that bulked too largely in the deliberations of the same association when it met in London last fall.

There are men in whom the denomination has every confidence who have stated that there is no division on the fundamental facts on which the church is built. The storm center appears to be McMaster university, a school which deservedly has the confidence of the denomination. The men who are in charge there also share this confidence.

This persistent effort to emphasize a split which does not exist is a poor way in which to occupy the time of an interprovincial gathering.

Mr. Meighen Shows His Hand.

Mr. Meighen in a campaign advertisement has issued to the railway workers of Canada a statement of his attitude regarding the amalgamation of the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific which is evidently meant to be reassuring but which, in Ontario, is definitely disturbing.

Mr. Meighen leaves the door wide open for a plan of amalgamation. His statement, "I will oppose parliament dealing with the question of amalgamation unless as an issue to be placed squarely before the people at a future election," is nothing more nor less than plain intimation that Mr. Meighen has an amalgamation proposal in his mind. It says in other words "I will oppose amalgamation unless there is a good chance of putting it across."

Mr. Meighen would have been well advised to make no statement rather than a disturbing ambiguity of this kind. It betrays too clearly the influences which are behind his campaign. It is the hand of Meighen but the voice of Patenaude and the violent anti-public ownership group of Quebec who at present control Mr. Meighen's political fortunes. It is the voice of the Montreal interests whose chief concern is to seek an opportunity to sandbag the C. N. R. to the profit of private ownership.

Mr. Meighen's own words must be taken as showing clearly that if he is elected some scheme of amalgamation will be put forward with the support of Mr. Meighen's backers and probably, by orders, the support of Mr. Meighen himself. Not only Canadian National Railway employees but all citizens of Ontario who have found faith in hydro and other public ownership enterprises will distrust Mr. Meighen's statement as revealing private ownership influence to a very disturbing degree.

The Centennial Celebration.

A letter from an Advertiser reader has set forth a very sensible and proper view of London's approaching centennial celebration. The letter suggests that the historical significance of the occasion be marked by a series of pageants on successive days depicting the growth of London from the pioneer days of 1825, its incorporation as a city, the Riel rebellion, the progress of 1885 to 1900 and the present generation of 1900 to 1925. All these pageants would be filmed and a valuable record thus preserved.

There is no doubt that the city's centennial celebration will take some such informative and impressive form rather than become a mere carnival of noise. The offer of assistance on the part of the chamber of commerce is helpful and there should be no delay in selecting a citizens' committee representative of all the city's interests. The city council must be expected to initiate such organization; it has in fact already done preparatory publicity work, but the actual direction of a proper plan should be commenced now.

Here's a New Angle.

Apparently the tariff up or the tariff down can be blamed by anything and everything. Dr. Sutherland, Conservative candidate in North Oxford, is reported as saying at a meeting in Richmond:

"The Liberals, said the speaker, were pledged to cut down the tariffs, and their delay and failures to do so had resulted in an unsettled condition which had been responsible for the 'hard times' in Canada. Either the government was afraid of its conviction, he contended, or was not sincere in its pledges."

Did Dr. Sutherland mean what he said? If so, it's new doctrine from the Conservative camp. Their whole cry has been that we need higher tariffs, but Dr. Sutherland says the trouble is that the Liberals did not cut down the existing ones. Or was his idea to blame the King government for something, no matter how he did it or what the complaint was?

Note and Comment.

A united Canada.

To say "vote for higher tariff and lower taxation" is about as sensible as saying "vote for higher prices and lower cost of living."

That car sweeper who found $1,370 in loose bills lying on the floor of his car among the rubbish certainly can't believe that there's any lack of prosperity.

Mr. T. A. Russell, president of the Russell Motor Car Company, says he has heard of no request from the automobile industry for an increase in duties. The Canadian tariff on motor cars is 35 per cent as compared with a general tariff of 25 per cent in the United States.

It would be the irony of fate in its most subtle form if Mr. Meighen were permitted to enforce his proposed tariff on coal. The London Rolling Mills, according to coal-dealers' estimates, would have to pay $30,000 a year more for their supply. It would almost knock out the huge new extension which Mr. White is now building to accommodate new business.

The Once-Over

Experience teaches that when one part of this country is satisfied on an issue that is national in scope some other part or parts will be anything but satisfied. TRAFALGAR CHAPTER MARKS SILVER JUBILEE TOMORROW

I. O. D. E. Members Pass Century Mark On Trafalgar Day.
HOLD SILVER TEA

Twenty-five years ago tomorrow, on Trafalgar Day, the first I. O. D. E. chapter was organized in London. Some months previously the order had been instituted in Canada and was gaining headway rapidly. When the movement reached London it found its first members in the Trafalgar chapter, named by Mrs. John Callard, the first regent.

Tomorrow this same chapter will mark its twenty-fifth anniversary with a silver tea in the Smallman & Ingram tearoom, Mrs. W. G. Bendle, the present regent, acting as chief hostess. This year, too, the National chapter, I. O. D. E., celebrated its quarter-century birthday. Honored guests at the tea will be charter members of the chapter and officers of the Municipal chapter.

The Trafalgar chapter was originally known as the Maple Leaf League, a conservative women's organization, which had for its president Mrs. Joseph Marshall, with Mrs. T. H. Smallman as regent. It had been in existence for some time before the Boer war, and in the early days of the war did excellent Red Cross service in London.

Made I. O. D. E. Chapter.
With the establishment of the I. O. D. E. as a national, non-partisan organization in Canada during the Boer war the opportunity came to make the London Maple Leaf League a non-political society. And the Trafalgar chapter was formed, with Mrs. John Callard at its head. From that time until today the chapter has had an interesting history.

Facts gleaned from various sources have been compiled into an interesting little history by Mrs. Louise Harding, for over 20 years treasurer of the chapter. Among the charter members were Mrs. L. Harding, Mrs. K. Draney, Mrs. A. Walker and Mrs. M. Logan, all still energetic workers in the chapter; the late Mrs. Higgins, and Mrs. Thorpe and Mrs. Bowman, no longer members. Mrs. Callard held the regency for 17 years, and then was followed by Mrs. M. J. Atkins, Mrs. E. J. Ram and Mrs. W. G. Bendle, the present regent.

During the South African war the chapter members did excellent patriotic work, continuing their endeavors throughout the years which followed.

Many worthy causes were helped along by the Trafalgar members, and when funds for the soldiers' monument in Victoria park were being raised the chapter helped. During the four years of the great war the name of the Trafalgar chapter was the one that the public heard of because of the excellent work which was being done. The last big work of the chapter was the endowment of a room in the recently-erected War Memorial Hospital for Sick Children.

MRS. W. G. BENDLE, regent of the Trafalgar chapter, who will act as chief hostess at the silver anniversary tea which is being held at Smallman & Ingram's tomorrow.

Only one other I. O. D. E. chapter was organized during 1900 in London, and that was the Abigail Becker chapter, which is also carrying on splendidly.

Present officers of the Trafalgar chapter are: Regent, Mrs. W. G. Bendle; vice-regents, Mrs. W. H. McLeod, Mrs. M. Logan; secretary, Mrs. John Laughton; assistant secretary, Mrs. George Nightingale; treasurer, Mrs. L. Harding; educational secretary, Mrs. F. W. Leckie; standard-bearer, Mrs. A. Walker; Mrs. F. M. Atkins, Mrs. Lella Emery of Jacksonville, Fla., and Mrs. E. J. Ram.

EMBRO KING'S DAUGHTERS.
Embryo, Oct. 19.—The annual thank-offering meeting of the King's Daughters was held recently in the Knox United church. Rev. Mr. Lane presided over the following program: Solos, Mrs. O. After the meeting refreshments were served.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, North London, where some fifty guests assembled to congratulate the happy couple. After a dainty luncheon the bride and groom left on their honeymoon trip to Chicago. They will reside in the city until the bride travelled in a black satin dress touched with ermine, green coat with squirrel and silver leather, and a small black hat with a white plume.

GRAND OLD LADY IS NINEY-FOUR

Mrs. Payne, Mother-in-Law of St. Thomas Smith, Honored at Payne's Mills.

Payne's Mills, Oct. 19.—The friends, neighbors and relatives of Mrs. Payne's Mills' oldest lady, Mrs. S. E. Payne, met to celebrate her 94th birthday in the community hall of that place on Friday evening. A large number gathered, and a delicious supper was served. Speeches were made and a beautiful bouquet was presented to Mrs. Payne, who, still queenly in spite of her years, made a most gracious reply. A feature of the banquet was a huge birthday cake set with 94 candles.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Sturgeon Payne and Marion, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Baker and Miss Blanche Baker, South Delaware; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sharon, Mr. and Mrs. Kelley of Lambeth; Mr. Alex. Lyle, who is near the 90 mark; Rev. Geo. Gilmore and Mrs. Gilmore of London. Following is the address presented to Mrs. Payne:

"We, your friends and neighbors, have gathered here to honor you on your 94th birthday. Having lived long and well, we congratulate you. We love you as one who has come a long way—one of our dear old people who has seen much that is sunny and much that is sad in life, and yet has succeeded in keeping faith sweet and strong."

Led Christian Life.

"We honor you for your exemplary Christian life. Surely there is no greater thing than to have lived well. We are reminded of your zealous service in the cause of temperance, the benefits of which the young of our community are reaping today. Your allegiance also to the church and Sunday school and the ever-willing efforts put forth there have borne fruit that must be a joy to you in your declining years. We have learned from you that patience and persistence in common things through the days and years is a mark of true living."

"We know there are many people who can work under pressure for a little time, but who tire of the monotony and slack in their duty by-and-by, falling at last because they cannot endure it. You, however, too, people who begin many noble things but soon weary of them and drop them out of their hands. They may pass for brilliant men, even men of genius, but in the end they have for biography only a volume of fragments of chapters, not one of them finished. Such men may attract a great deal of attention, while the tireless plodder working beside them receives no praise, no commendation. But in the records of life, written in God's book, it is the latter who will shine in brightest splendor."

"Noble deeds are held in honor, But the world sadly needs Hearts of patience to unravel, The worth of common deeds."

Make Presentation.

"We are most happy to be gathered on this occasion, and we trust you may be spared to see many more birthdays. As a small expression of our respect and love for you we ask you to accept these flowers and may their beauty and fragrance remind you of the lovely life and of the promise of glorious things in the life to come, for God has said 'with long life will I honor him,' and 'henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness.'"

Mrs. Payne's maiden name was Sarah Ellen Sharon. She was the daughter of Thomas Sharon and Jane Sutton. She was born a mile west of the village in 1831 on the farm, until a few years ago, occupied by her brother, F. H. A. Sharon. Mrs. Payne was a descendant of L. E. Loyallist, stock her forefathers having emigrated from Scotland and settled in Pennsylvania, from whence they moved to Canada, Thomas and Henry Sharon having walked from Niagara Falls to St. Thomas.

Was School Teacher.

Having fitted herself for a school teacher, she received her certificate from Judge Elliot of London, and taught school in this village in a building on the opposite side of the road from the one now in use. She made the trip each day on horseback. Mrs. Payne also taught in a school, not standing now, for many years. It was situated one mile north of the village and a log building, where Mrs. Thompson, Abolom Gilbert's sister, was one of her pupils. Widened's Corners on the gravel road was another school where she taught youth "reading" and "rithmick," not omitting morals and manners.

In 1851 she was married to Frederick Payne, who was born in Wiltshire, England, and a son of Henry Payne. He came to this land with his parents when 3 years of age. The family moved into the house purchased from one Squire Matthews, which is still standing on the old homestead at Payne's Mills. It is occupied by Sturgeon Payne and family and Mrs. Payne, son of Mrs. Payne, having gone there as a bride, has lived in the same house for 75 years. Mr. Payne, her husband, died in 1915.

Her Family.

Four sons and three daughters were born to them: John, in British Columbia; Sturgeon, at home; George, in Niagara Falls; Alfred, deceased; Mrs. W. St. Thomas Smith, St. Thomas; Mrs. Thos. Baker, South Delaware, and Clara, who died in youth.

There are 21 grandchildren, two of whom made the supreme sacrifice in the great war. Mrs. (Rev.) J. MacGillivray of Toronto, is a granddaughter. There are also fourteen great-grandchildren. Nephews and nieces are: Stanley Sharon of Payne's Mills; Floyd and Ahley Sharon of California; Mrs. Kelley of Lambeth, and the Misses Humphrey of Middlemarch. Mrs. Payne's brother, F. H. A. Sharon, died in 1924 in Canmore, Alta., in his 92nd year.

All her life Mrs. Payne has been recognized in the community as a strong Christian character. She early identified herself with the Methodist church and for 60 years taught and worked in the Sunday school.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads: that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxide powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads have a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxide powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.—Advt.

WOMEN and THE HOME

WOMEN TENDER E. S. LITTLE ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION

Gather in Hyman Hall To Complete Plans For Campaign.
HEAR CANDIDATE

E. S. Little, London's Liberal standard-bearer, received a rousing reception from a large gathering of representative women in Hyman Hall yesterday afternoon. The women expressed themselves as firm in their belief that Mr. Little was the right man to represent London at Ottawa. Their campaign in his interests is well under way, and they hope to elect him on October 29. Mrs. Little, the Liberal candidate's wife, was present and remained after the meeting to chat with the women present. Little groups formed here and there about the hall, talking earnestly about the election and the work which remained yet to be done.

Mr. Little, in his address to the meeting, referred to the big Liberal gathering of last Friday night.

Has Helped Home.
"The women should be ready to work after the inspiration of Friday night's meeting," he declared. "I believe in the present government because it has done more for the home, which is the foundation of society, than any government up to date."

"I consider that W. L. Mackenzie King is the ideal man for prime minister, because the main desire of his life has been to see the people of Canada happy and contented and united. Mr. Meighen's policy appears to be just the opposite. He seems to be stirring up enmity and strife between the east and the west. The very fact that he is apparently not going into the provinces of Canada at this time does not augur well for Canada."

Mr. Little's address throughout was filled with inspiration. Liberal men and women had to be satisfied that they were working in a right cause, he said, before they could inspire others with an enthusiasm for that cause. He thought that now all were convinced of the sincerity of Mr. King's platform and would be ready to work energetically in his cause until the day of the election.

Mrs. McLean Presides.
Major W. H. Kippen and Col. Claude Brown also spoke to the gathering, referring enthusiastically to the progress of the campaign in the city so far and to the general feeling of the citizens in regard to the election.

Mrs. Donald McLean, president of the London Women's Liberal association, presided over the meeting, which was one of the most enthusiastic ever held in the city. Plans for final campaign work were made before the gathering broke up.

Peter Rabbit Has a Friendly Chat With Whitefoot the Woodmouse

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.
Peter Rabbit hung around most of the afternoon watching Buster Bear and the others feasting on beech-nuts. They seemed to enjoy them so much that he almost wished he liked them himself. Toward night he wandered away to see who else he could find. A while his cousin, Jumper the Hare, was the only one whom he met. He stopped to gossip with him for a while, and then once more wandered on.

Gentle Mistress Moon came peeping up above the treetops, and presently little lanes of moonlight shone through the dense forest between the Black Shadows. Peter was over near the edge of the Green Forest. Suddenly, not far from him, Hooty the Owl hooted. Peter froze right where he was. That is, he sat perfectly motionless. But inside his heart was going thump-thump-bump, thump-thump-bump, thump-thump-bump. Again Hooty hooted, and Peter continued to sit there thump-thump-bump.

After a long time Hooty hooted again, but this time he was far away and Peter's heart no longer thump-thump-bumped.

"My, I'm glad that fellow's gone away," said a thin, squeaky voice. "I have to swallow my heart every time I hear him."

Peter turned. There sat little Whitefoot the Woodmouse, washing his face with his little white hands.

"What do you mean by swallowing your heart?" demanded Peter. "I mean," said Whitefoot, "that when Hooty is as close as he was to-night and hoots, my heart just seems to jump right up in my throat. So, of course, I have to swallow it to get it down where it belongs."

Peter knew just what Whitefoot meant. He had felt just that way himself. Of course, the little heart of Whitefoot's didn't really jump up into his throat, and, of course, he really didn't swallow it. It just seemed that way.

"What are you doing here, Whitefoot?" Peter asked. "I should say that that was the question for me to ask. What are you doing here, Peter Rabbit?" inquired Whitefoot.

"Oh, said Peter, 'I'm just looking around. I'm finding out how folks get ready for winter. Do you get ready for winter, Whitefoot?'"

"Any one who doesn't is foolish," replied Whitefoot.

The next story: "Another Harvest of Seeds."

THE WORLD OF SPORT

Make-Up of O.H.A. Senior Race For 1925-26 Season Still Open To Speculation

Seat Sale Opening, Preparation For Ice-making Starts Local Interest.

NEW TEAMS RUMORED

Work on removing the floor at the London arena will be begun today, and it is expected that there will be ice in a little less than two weeks. The seat sale, which opened yesterday, has been a success, according to Manager Fidler, and while there was no long queue of riot calls sent in to the police, there was a good demand. It is hoped to have the new junior city league ready to start in the first week of November, and the seniors will also get ice action as early as possible. Several exhibition games are already in prospect. Victoria Cougars, world's champions, are coming east during November, and are slated to play games in Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa. It is possible the Cougars may make an appearance here, unless their stay in the east is too short. Niagara Falls is also expected to be a contender for games with the Allan cup holders from Fort Arthur. The northern team has not given any answer some weeks ago, but may yet decide to make a tour of Toronto and the cities.

Talk of New Clubs.
Little has been heard of the prospects in senior hockey circles this year. There are said to be some new clubs. Oshkosh, Wis., Irish-Canadians, the latter club having been revived, and one or two other organizations in Toronto are said to be angling for franchises, and an effort is being made, it is said, to effect an organization of the old Simcoe club. Several teams could play at the new West Toronto arena, now under construction.

Some of the clubs that comprise the Big Six group of senior O. H. A. hockey are not taking kindly to Gene Fraser's proposal that all the teams in the league be put in one group this winter. The Niagara Falls manager broke into print some time ago with this idea, but it is hardly likely that the O. H. A. will consider it seriously, especially in view of the opposition and protest which has been aroused. As it is, the O. H. A. will have trouble enough arranging a satisfactory group in the old system.

Windsor is clamoring for a place in senior hockey, which is 120 miles removed from the next nearest senior team. It presents a problem that will probably cause considerable discussion before it is finally settled. The Big Six group will be intact with the possible exception of Kitchener, although the new athletic organization in Kitchener taking hold of sport in that city, there is little doubt that the Green Shirts will be on hand with a strong team.

Traveling Costly.
The main objection to the one-group plan is the cost of traveling. Galt, Preston and Kitchener have all spoken against the plan, owing to the long jump to Windsor. Niagara Falls, London and Stratford have yet to be heard from, but it is unlikely that any of these clubs will favor the proposal. Peterboro, 60 miles northeast of Toronto, is bound to be back again and a jump from Windsor to Peterboro would be an expensive item. Peterboro would be the champion of the group last season, but lost to Niagara Falls in the play-offs for the senior title. The Peterboro club will be a strong contender again this winter.

Another objection to the one-group plan is the number of teams and the length of the schedule. With Hamilton and Windsor included, there would be at least twenty teams. This would mean that each team would play 22 games, 11 at home and 11 away. It would be necessary for each club to play three games a week in order to get the games all played by the end of the season. The six teams in senior group No. 2 played a double schedule which called for each club to play 20 games. This schedule was too strenuous for most of the clubs. Three games a week of hockey a week is too much, and it is not likely that such an arrangement this coming winter will find many supporters. It did not prove a paying proposition for a majority of the clubs, either. The fans got too much hockey and the patronage fell off towards the latter half of the season.

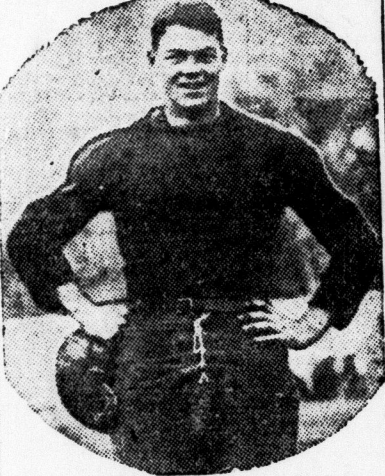

Western To Get Senior Standing After This Year

Purple and White Track Athletes Put in Last Season Minus Recognition.

The Interscholastic track and field meet at McGill University, Montreal, last Friday, marked Western's second year in senior competition and the final season that the purple and white athletes will compete on the under path without recognition, for by college rules they now become full-fledged members of the senior interscholastic group. Altogether, Western did well in the meet Friday. The high jumper, who placed in the four-man high jump, beating out Queens for that position, Gormley won third honors in the javelin throw and Kaniwan captured the third rating in the pole vault. MacLennan showed up well in the sprints, getting into the finals in both the 220 and 100, but was beaten out there. Wilson failed to reach the finals in the 220, being beaten out by Hughes in his heat of the 220. However, he more than made up for this by running a great lap in the relay.

On the Side Lines

PRO. BOXERS.
Professional boxers are considered to display the worst traits of all athletes who get paid for their work, but it might be surprising to their detractors to know that as a rule, they measure up extraordinarily well when it comes to real sportsmanship. An example of that was given Saturday night, when the most interesting bill of boxing ever given here brought forth the smallest crowd. The boxers knew exactly where they stood when they saw the size of the crowd, and yet knew there was no more than expense money and fought just as hard as any one of them gave a splendid exhibition and fought just as hard as if they were getting paid. It's questionable whether professional hockey or baseball players could have shown a better spirit, and that would probably go for many amateur athletes as well.

Niagara Falls started out this season very indifferent to professional boxing, but the game has caught on now to such an extent that Gene Fraser is running shows every two weeks. London's indifference to the fight game was considered the result of cynicism regarding outside fighters, but Saturday night's fiasco proved that even home talent of undoubted merit was not to expect much encouragement.

It looked last night as if Brownies and McCormicks would have to wear snowshoes to settle their softball differences.

Mike Baker in a letter to this office intimates that his dreams are still disturbed by short rightfield fences. He thinks that Buzz Wetzel ought to have had a picture taken of Hamilton's short right field as a den decoration.

THE CYNICS.
The late world's series brought forth quite as much dark fears and doubts as any that have preceded it. Every second fan openly expressed his opinion that it was all fixed—that the series would go to seven games. How impossible it would be for owners and players to get together and arrange a seven-game series doesn't strike the reasoning powers of these suspicious fans. There would have to be roughly 100 powers of these suspicious fans. There would have to be roughly 100 powers of these suspicious fans. There would have to be roughly 100 powers of these suspicious fans.

It might be possible to fix ball games, but it's not an easy task. The Black Sox scandal proved how hard it was to throw games. For with over half the team supposed to have been trying to toss games away, little Dickie Kerr managed to win just the same.

HA! SO THAT WAS IT!
Toronto Star: Varsity's senior intercollegiate squad trotted out some of the new line stuff that "Hank" Bjorkman, the ex-Baltimore college star, taught them last week, in an exhibition game at London Saturday with London Intermediates. Varsity won 21-1. The new ideas were worked out in real action, and while they did not produce as big a score as was possibly anticipated the result was very satisfactory. Several factors contributed to the comparative lowness of the score produced. The game was played on a baseball diamond which had been skinned. It rained hard Friday night and the skinned infield was covered with sawdust which made the footing very slippery. The result was that progress was mighty little light in the game. The field, then again there was mighty little light in the game. The field, then again there was mighty little light in the game. The field, then again there was mighty little light in the game.

"GOOSE" IS GOAT, TOO.
Two of the umpires who officiated in the world's series games claim that "Goose" Goslin should be censured more than Peckinpaugh for the loss of the seventh and deciding game. The fact of the matter was that the people in the stands could not follow the ball to the outfield, owing to the heavy mist, but they could see Peckinpaugh make the two hits which let in four runs. Moore was the first batter up for Pittsburgh in the seventh and he hit a fly to short. Peckinpaugh was waiting for the ball, but dropped it after it fell into his cupped hands. Moore went to second on the error. Carey then hit a fly to left. Goslin circled under the ball and finally pulled up. The ball dropped near him and bounded away for a double. Moore scored on the Carey hit. Two outs followed, and then Traynor tripled. Had Goslin caught Carey's fly, Pittsburgh would have gone scoreless. In the eighth, Smith doubled to right with two out. Bigbee batted for Kremer. He hit a fly to left that should have been the third out, but Goslin, after being set and waiting for the ball, suddenly turned and ran. Then he lost the ball and it bounded against the fence for a double. For nothing at all, Goslin caught Bigbee's fly, the side would have runs possible. Had Goslin caught Bigbee's fly, the side would have runs possible. Had Goslin caught Bigbee's fly, the side would have runs possible.

VOSS, QUEEN'S HALF, HAS HIS NOSE FRACTURED
Canadian Press Despatch, Kingston, Ont., Oct. 19.—Whether Carl Voss, the plucky Queens halfback, whose nose was broken by a high tackle on Saturday, will be able to play next Saturday is still doubtful. Dr. Bill Campbell said this morning that it was a bad fracture and that it might make it impossible for him to play, but that he was no telling for a few days yet. Voss was around to his studies as usual, feeling all right and with his nose patched up. The fracture was a most unusual one, the cartilage being badly splintered and penetrating the flesh, making it a compound fracture.

The team will leave England in May and return in the middle of July, providing satisfactory arrangements can be made to send a strong and representative side.

Frisch Victim Of Unkind Fate
Associated Press Despatch, New York, Oct. 19.—An unkind fate befell Frankie Frisch of the New York Giants with injuries that he sustained in the semi-pro diamond game he played last night at Hacksack, N. J., yesterday, when he came to bat in the ninth inning with two on bases. He struck out. Honus Wagner, famed shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates in bygone days, fared much better. Playing first base for his All-Stars in New York he garnered two singles and scored a run. His team won, 3 to 2.

CARSTEEL STILL LEADS INTERPROVINCIAL LOOP

All Scots, Scottish and Hamilton City Soccerites Saturday Winners.

Canadian Press Despatch, Toronto, Oct. 19.—Three interprovincial league games were played on Saturday, but in neither case did the result affect the standings of the teams. Hamilton Thistles, who gave such a brilliant exhibition the week before against Carsteel in the Giebe cup, lost to All Scots by the odd goal in three in a game that scintillated with clever combination.

Toronto Scottish always held the leading reign against Caledonians, who were whitewashed 2 to 0. Gunns, who have not won a league game this season, fell once more to Hamilton City. In this game, when Goldworthy of Gunns was injured, Vickers, a Hamilton full back, reined from the game, thus leveling up the teams.

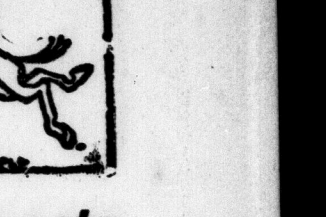

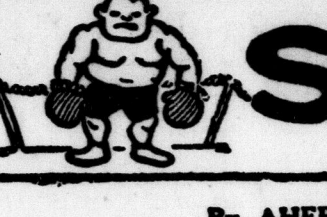

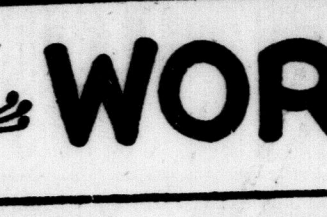

After being shut out of the game for two weeks, following suspension by the O. F. A., Ulster United, the Dominion champions, on Saturday played Congasco in the Robertson charity cup. The red-handers led at the interval by three goals, but only won the game with a goal scored almost on time.

South Collegiate Eleven Enters Next Wossa Round

Defeat East C. I. in Deciding Encounter With 2 to 0 Count.

MEET ST. MARYS

In a closely fought battle that was decided near the end of the first half when two goals were scored in succession, South Collegiate yesterday defeated East C. I., 2 to 0, and entered the next round of Wossa soccer.

The well-earned victory gives the south enders the right to meet St. Marys, as they took the first round with a 2 to 0 count, having defeated East in the first tilt, 1 to 0. Coach Dinmore's bunch show class in every department and should repeat in their final rush of the last two years.

Goals were directly responsible for winning the game yesterday, shooting the two goals at the end of combination plays that backed East to its own end of the field.

Outside of the small period that the two scores were made it was a great struggle. East presented a stronger front than it did in the previous game, and were not for the lapse shown in their defence. South might not have won. Although South has a great team that works smoothly, and although its lacks individual plays, the players work in perfect harmony both on the attack and on the defence.

The other group winner in the city has not yet been decided. Central meets Technical next Wednesday in the second game, and the Dundas street school bids fair to grab the honors, for they beat the purple and gold eleven in the first tilt, 1 to 0. The winner will meet Simcoe C. I. in the next round.

The line-up for the South-East game: South C. I.—Hayson, George, Jeffery, Menzies, Pollock, Grey, Stevenson, Norris, Riddell, Bale, Franklin; subs, McWaine, Burgess, Dickinson and Shote.

East C. I.—Dowdell, McLean, Shores, Keane, McIntosh, Wilson, Dockstader, Quirk, Pook, Purdy, Shambert; subs, Henry Kidd, Dergate.

Referee—R. F. Bessent, Technical school.

Grid Gossip

London turned out only a fair crowd to see Varsity Saturday.

It was not a crowd that did justice to the class of the competition the teams provided.

The fear seemed to be general that Varsity would not bring up the regulars, but they were all there, and the fans had a chance to see Snyder in action for more than two-thirds of the game.

As a matter of fact, with the regulars off even in two and three, Varsity's superiority noticeably lessened.

In all but the Intercollegiate, the rugby races this year took close. Queens is almost a certainty as Varsity would have to beat Queens in Toronto and win both their games against McGill to even tie.

Warren Snyder is said by many to be the peer of Leadley and Batstone of Queens as a half in an all-round performance here Saturday, though rarely did he seem to be putting every ounce he had in his work.

Both games in the Senior Big Four union Saturday were dirty. There were half a dozen real fights and scores of dirty punches exchanged between Tigers and Montreal at Hamilton. The Montrealers stood up to their grunting, and looked as good as Snyder at either end of the field.

Down at Ottawa the Argos were handed plenty. Most of the boys are sporting the usual decorations—black eyes, split lips and swollen noses. Gordie Thom, the outside wing, sustained the most serious injuries. Emerson pelted Thom one on the nose and wrecked that organ. He put Thom out for most of the game, but he got was ten minutes. Jimmie Douglas, the star middle wing, was also out of the game in the first half, but his injury was accidental. Someone trod on his hand, and the cleat broke a small

COBB TO BOLSTER TYGERS FOR 1926

Detroit Leader After Good Start—Says Senators Are Done.

By JOHN B. FOSTER.
New York, Oct. 19.—Ty Cobb is distinctly out to build up a team of championship merit for next year, and is ready for a trade that will help him out in his infield or outfield at Detroit. He will make any kind of a deal that will improve his pitching.

"I'm after a good start in 1926," Ty said. "We have lost for three years as we should. It may be that the cold out at Detroit has something to do with it, but this coming spring we are going to try to be ready to play baseball from the first day of the season."

Ty said he expected to play next year, but probably would not play all the season. "I said I would play 100 games in 1925, and I did it," he said. "I can play 100 games in 1926 if I have to do so, but perhaps I shall not find it necessary. We have some pretty good batsmen on our team, and they are more likely to get better than they are to get the other way."

See Pirates Repeat.
Ty figures that the Pittsburghs will be almost certain to repeat their victory next year in the National league, and he can see a good opportunity ahead to resume the old fight between Detroit and Pittsburgh.

"If we can play together seventeen years after we had our first and only series meeting, I'll guarantee the crowd will be greater than any that ever saw a western world series," said Ty, "and they will be greater than at this recent world series."

It is time the west won a pennant in the American league. We have been having good clubs out there which just miss capturing championships, and by the light they have made, helped to keep the league on its feet. The National league was a long time in wrestling its championship away from the east. I now think the east will have a long wait before it gets it back.

Senators Done.
There is no reason why the west should not have the American league championship, too. The Washington Senators have been doing well for some time. The Athletics will be mighty strong in 1926, but so will Chicago. I expect to have a better team. Probably St. Louis may get into the fight hard, and surely Cleveland will do better. It looks pretty good for the west."

There has been no winner in the western half of the circuits since 1920, when Cleveland earned the lead, and then Cleveland and Boston New York and Washington, the pennants were kept in the east.

RAILWAYMEN OMITTED BY NEW ELECTION ACT

200 C. N. R. Employees at Stratford Unable to Vote For Advance Poll.

Special to The Advertiser.
Stratford, Oct. 19.—As a result of what appears to be an oversight in the compilation of the new election act, two hundred C. N. R. employees in the city will not be able to vote for an advance poll for the city.

It appears that Stratford was omitted from the original list of places entitled to an advance poll, and then added in as an amendment. Unfortunately, however, the amendment does not apply so far as this election is concerned, since the writ was issued before the date specified in the order-in-council, on which the amendment took effect. Experts are now working to overcome this handicap as far as it can be arranged.

Returning Officer Fred Armstrong stated he had written the chief returning officer about the advance poll here, and was told that there would not be a poll here since Stratford was not included in the original schedule. He says the act reads now in any future elections there will be a poll here, but not at this time. The peculiar part about it is that a small place like Listowel, which has about a dozen men apiece included in the schedule, and an advanced poll will be held there.

SOIL OF BELGIUM TO BE MADE SAFE

Seven Treaties, Result of Locarno Conference, Displayed in Various Capitals.

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Oct. 19.—The fruit of the Locarno security conference was put on display tonight for all the world to see, when seven treaties, which comprise Europe's newest and most promising preventive of war, were made public in the various capitals.

The first and foremost of the agreements is the security pact, or treaty of mutual guarantee, guaranteeing the inviolability of the frontiers between Germany and Belgium, and between Germany and France, as fixed by the treaty of Versailles. It will be signed at London, December 1, and, assuming that all the signatory governments ratify the pact, it will become effective when Germany joins the League of Nations.

By the treaty, Germany, on her side, undertakes never to trespass upon the soil of France, of Belgium, or make warlike gestures in the demilitarized Rhineland area.

Protects Germany.
On their side, France and Belgium promise not to violate Germany's western frontier. Should either party violate the agreements set forth, the pact provides that Great Britain and Italy shall go to the aid of the aggrieved party.

It is Germany, France or Belgium.
The powers, parties to the pact, agree to submit all their future disputes to judicial treatment, with the council of the league acting as a court. The whole plan is to work under the aegis of the league. It is for that reason that the treaties are being made public.

Two treaties are between France and her eastern allies, Poland and Czechoslovakia. They provide that if Germany fails to keep her word with France, Poland and Czechoslovakia, and her failure is accompanied by any unprovoked recourse to arms, France and her two eastern allies shall go immediately to one another's assistance.

France and her two eastern allies also agree to the one another aid, no matter what country should make an unprovoked attack upon one of them which the league council is not to prevent.

Neither the security pact nor any of the other six treaties will have the effect of outlawing war. In point of fact, it is made clear that there are being made in which war is made legitimate. The treaties seek to define these circumstances, limit and as much as conceivably possible to prevent warlike conditions from arising.

One of those circumstances is self-defence. If Germany attacks France, France is entitled to fight back, and she would have the assistance of Belgium, Italy and Great Britain in defending herself, even if war must be made on Germany for the purpose.

Must Keep Treaty.
Germany has also agreed that the Allies can consider it a hostile act if she violates her Versailles undertakings to abstain from military preparations in the demilitarized Rhineland zone.

So, while war is not outlawed, the law seems fewer and more easily defined than ever before, and that is more important, the statements of Europe seemingly think that such circumstances are less likely to arise than as the case in bygone days.

They undertake to give sincere co-operation to the work relating to disarmament already undertaken by the league, and that in a general agreement.

The treaty imposes no obligations upon the British dominions or India unless freely undertaken by such dominion or India.

Liberals At Dutton Confident Elgin Will Be Easy Victory

Special to The Advertiser.
Dutton, Oct. 19.—Leslie Hamilton, chairman of the Dutton Liberal association, in speaking to The Advertiser, expressed every confidence in Elgin's candidate, Mayor Geo. H. Slozgett, of St. Thomas.

In the campaign four years ago, the Liberal candidate was defeated, but local Liberals believe that defeat was due to the fact that the party at that time was split. The split healed, however, and there is now no reason why a Liberal candidate should not win in a strong Liberal constituency such as West Elgin.

In Dutton alone, a census of the vote shows that there are one-third more Liberals than Conservatives.

Pentland, charged with manslaughter, was found guilty of causing grievous bodily harm before Mr. Justice Wright in supreme court at Sandwich tonight. A jury returned the verdict at 10 o'clock, after being out three hours.

Lorette Dube of Windsor was killed early on the morning of March 26 this year, when Pentland's car, in which she was riding with her sister, Germaine Pentland, and Peter Girard, crashed into a building on Quebec street while attempting to turn a corner, causing the front of the building to collapse. Pentland was killed and two counts that he did cause serious bodily harm to Germaine Dube.

The verdict took no cognizance of the dead girl, but found the accused guilty of causing bodily harm to her sister. Mr. Justice Grant thanked the jury and concurred in the verdict. Sentence was deferred. A. E. Fripp, K.C., of Ottawa prosecuted for the crown and R. L. Brackin, K.C., acted for the defence.

SOMEWHERE IN FLORIDA.
To be somewhere in Florida, where the sun is always shining, where the golden oranges hang in clusters on the trees, the palms stir gently to the warm breezes, and "where the sweet magnolia blooms" is the thought in the minds of hundreds of Canadians every winter.

When Canadians at home are skating and skiing those in the south will be sun-bathing, sun-bathing on the warm sands, deep-sea fishing, golfing, etc.

When making arrangements for the trip south consult any agent of the Canadian National Railways for particulars of service. Winter tourist fares are now in effect, valid to return up to June 15, and good for stop-over at all important points, as well as for diverse routings. Direct connections are made at Detroit and Leon, and Suwanee River Special, etc.—Advt.

IMPORTANCE OF AIRCRAFT IN ARMY OPERATIONS SEEN

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, Oct. 19.—The outstanding importance of aircraft in any army operations of the future was demonstrated by the recent army manoeuvres in England, states Major-General J. H. MacBrien, chief of staff of the department of national defence, who returned last night after having been a guest of the imperial general staff during the recent manoeuvres.

To him the advances made in aircraft construction and control since the great war and the ability which the airmen showed in keeping the air in all kinds of weather was the greatest feature of the manoeuvres.

Special to The Advertiser.
St. Thomas, Oct. 19.—Speaking at the luncheon of the Kiwanis club today, George K. Berkaw, of the special education department of the Detroit club, declared: "One of the most serious features of the young life of today is the lack of parental authority, that restraint that is a natural result of a perfect comradeship between parent and child."

Mr. Berkaw made a splendid appeal for the "citizen of tomorrow," and urged a greater feeling of fellowship in the home as a solution of the strained circumstances of the day.

Halloween Party.
The Kiwanis club will hold a Halloween party in the Masonic Temple on October 30. The arrangements have been left in the hands of an executive committee.

Western's Cage Prospects Look To Be Best In History

JOE MCCARTHY, present manager of the Louisville A. A. club, who is the choice of President William L. Veech of the Chicago Cubs as pilot of the latter club next season. He has won two pennants in three years at Louisville and is known throughout the minor leagues as a "miracle man."

New L. O. B. A. Team May Revive Interest in Girls' Game.

DECREASE SUBS

Interest in girls' basketball, which was on the wane last year, may be revived by the entrance into the L. O. B. A. of Western's Alumni.

This team will include former Shamrock and Thistle players, and should give London one of the strongest teams since the days when both London's original teams were at their best.

It is doubtful if many Intercollegiate games will be staged here this winter. Interest fell off to such an extent last year that several of the games produced deficits instead of profits.

The prospects of Western in the senior intercollegiate look exceptionally good, and this team may get the spotlight as far as men's basketball is concerned. The no-personal-contact rules in vogue for the past several seasons is given by many enthusiasts as a reason for a falling-off in interest in the men's game.

The inclusion of more subs has not speeded up the game to such an extent that it has blinded the fans to the game by too strict an interpretation of the rules.

The Toronto and District Basketball Association will recommend a decrease of ten to eight men on the rosters of clubs, when the O. B. A. meets.

Leader of Cantonese Army Now in Moscow To Confer With Reds.

Associated Press Despatch.
Moscow, Oct. 19.—General Ku Kan Men, Chinese revolutionary leader and head of the Cantonese army, was greeted by 500 Russians when he arrived today to confer with Soviet officials on political, economic and military matters.

Delegations from the Communist International, the Communist party, Young Communist league, the revolutionary war council and the foreign office extended a warm welcome to the diminutive general.

General Ku told newspapermen he intended to remain in Russia three or four months to acquaint himself with the "construction of the Soviet state. Canton was in no danger," he said, "the revolutionary armies have been either entirely disarmed or annihilated."

General Ku was one of the collaborators of the late Sun Yat Sen, and is said to be an ardent advocate of a close approach between China and Soviet Russia.

MEDICAL EXPERTS STRESS NEED OF MENTAL HYGIENE
Associated Press Despatch.
St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 19.—That mental hygiene is a practical means of subordinating objectionable shortcomings in children was the opinion of a number of medical experts at the 64th annual meeting of the American Public Health association, which began here today.

Dr. James Roberts of Hamilton, Ont., stressed the practicability of preventing misunderstanding between children and parents and curbing refractory instincts.

"After all," said, "the progress of the world depends on the proper development of the mental side."

BY OIL STOCKSBuying of Railway Issues Is Lighter as Speculators Turn to Specialties.

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, Oct. 20.—The long-awaited buying movement in the oil stocks was the result of an increase in kerosene prices and assertions that the forthcoming statement of earnings of Marland would make an excellent showing. Marland Oil rose to 13 1/2, and Atlantic Refining, Standard Oil of California and Pan-American B. improved 2 1/2, 3 1/2 and 3 1/2, respectively.

Buying of railroads subsided to a large extent, speculative interest again veering to the industrial and specialties. Louisville and Nashville advanced from 127 to 124 and New Haven sold a point under yesterday's final figures. Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis advanced 6 points, General Electric 5 and United Cigar Stores, International Harvester, and Towne and Company, 1 point each. The new rate on call loans was reduced to 4 1/2 per cent.

HODGINS FORCES HOLD CITY RALLIES

Frank White Addresses East End Conservatives—Mrs.
Edwards at Manor Park.

The alleged instability of the Progressive party was scored by Frank White, M.P., in addressing a gathering in the east-end town hall last night in the interests of A. King Hodgins, Conservative candidate in East Middlesex. Mr. White especially cautioned his hearers again voting for Archie Hodgins, present Progressive member for the riding.

A meeting of A. K. Hodgins' supporters was also held in the Manor Park schoolhouse. Both drew fair attendances. At the East London town hall the speakers were Mr. White, Mr. Hodgins and H. G. Fester of Hamilton, Labor member of the minimum wage board of Ontario. Mrs. A. T. Edwards spoke at the Manor Park meeting in addition to Mr. Fester, Mr. Hodgins and Mr. White. Alex. Thompson was chairman of the east-end meeting, while Thomas Taylor presided at Manor Park.

In blaming the Liberal government for the present problems of the Canadian National Railways, Mr. White declared that the road showed a nine per cent drop to the C. P. R.'s seven per cent in tons of freight carried during 1924. The number of employees was also cut from 177,000 in October, 1923, to 143,000 in December, 1924, on account of the lack of business, he claimed.

Talks Emigration. "There was never a government so unfriendly to Labor, so cold-hearted, so indifferent, so materialistic, so apathetic as the King government," Mr. Fester asserted. "It has consistently refused appeals from municipalities for unemployment aid. One-third of Canada's trade was lost during the first year it was in power. In the past four years, 750,000 of Canada's citizens have gone to the United States. Hamilton alone has lost 4,500. The loss in educational values amounts to $1,500,000,000, while the amount the country suffers in production values rises to the enormous total of $7,000,000,000. That is enough to liquidate the country's debt twice over and leave a comfortable surplus."

Mr. Hodgins blamed the King government for what he called "stagflation in business."

"The government made promises impossible of fulfillment," he declared. "Industries have been frightened, labor discouraged through the fiscal policy of the King regime and the tariff tinkering indulged in the past four years."

Mrs. Edwards Speaks. At the Manor park schoolhouse Mrs. A. T. Edwards was the first speaker. Mrs. Edwards told the audience she came not as a politician, but as a woman vitally interested in the future of the nation. The attitude she then adopted towards her audience was that of school teacher, and she proceeded to teach it lessons on the tariff, on the folly of golf courses, and all the other alleged sins of the Liberal administration.

The comparison of Germany with Canada brought smiles to the audience. She declared Germany was prosperous because she adopted a protective tariff immediately after the war. She forgot to mention the repudiation of debts by the German government. Laughter came later when she then spoke of German shoes flooding the Canadian market.

This time it was because conditions in Germany were so bad that the workmen would work for almost nothing, and the costs of production were consequently so very low.

A few Labor hecklers were present, but the audience refused them a hearing, the chairman explaining that it was a Conservative meeting.

WILL MEET TONIGHT. Special to The Advertiser. St. Thomas, Oct. 19.—Liberal-Conservative meeting in the interests of Hugh C. McKillop, Conservative candidate for Elgin county, will be held in the Masonic temple here tomorrow night.

The speakers will be R. V. Lesueur, Liberal-Conservative candidate for Lambton, W. J. Hevey of Toronto, Hon. Finlay McDiarmid and Mrs. A. T. Edwards of London.

SNOW CUTS ATTENDANCE. Special to The Advertiser.

Stratford, Oct. 19.—The snowstorm to some extent cut into the attendance at the Conservative meetings at Gadshill and Amulree tonight, held in the interests of D. M. Wright, the candidate in North Perth. A fair number went out from Stratford, together with the electors from the district, and held two interesting meetings. D. A. Dempster acted as chairman of the Gadshill meeting and gave a short address. Other speakers were the candidate and John Murray. At the Amulree meeting Mr. Wright and H. W. Strudley and J. D. Monteith, M.L.A., were the speakers, and A. Wilhelm occupied the chair.

SUB RAMMED 2 HOURS
BEFORE S.O.S. SENT OUT

Radio Operator of Steamer
Declares S-51 First Sighted
175 Feet Away.

Associated Press Dispatch. Boston, Oct. 19.—Captain John H. Diehl waited almost two hours before he filed a radio that the City of Rome had rammed and sunk the submarine S-51, Harold H. Kelley, radio operator on the steamer, testified today before the naval inquiry board investigating the disaster, which resulted in the loss of 33 lives off Block Island on September 25.

Kelley also said that a few seconds before the collision, just after the steamer had sounded a short series of warning blasts, he saw the lights of the submarine about 175 feet off the starboard bow.

The submarine was so illuminated by the steamer's lights that he could distinguish a man standing on the forward deck of the submarine, he said. Kelley stated that he could only send out S.O.S. calls when ordered to do so by Captain Diehl.

ALL BENEFITED

Special to The Advertiser.
Stratford, Oct. 19.—A readjustment in the system of paying bonus salary to C. N. R. shop employees is being tried out. CHURCH ANNIVERSARIES ARE LARGELY ATTENDED

St. Marys, Dutton, Clinton and Exeter Hold Special Services.

Special to The Advertiser.
St. Marys, Oct. 19.—With an attendance of well over 1,000, both in the morning and evening, the United church Sunday school anniversary services were held here Sunday.

Especially enjoyable was the choral work of some 350 pupils of the school, assembled on a huge platform in the church, and led by Prof. W. H. Bishop and H. Illingsworth of Woodstock.

The speaker of the day was Rev. Geo. Little of Toronto, associate editor of the United church Sunday school publications, who delivered two fine sermons. In the morning his sermon touched on the possibilities of young Canadians, and in the evening on the education of boys and girls. Rev. Green, pastor of the church, and H. White, superintendent of the Sunday school, also assisted in the services. The congregations were the largest in many years.

HARVEST HOME SERVICE.
Special to The Advertiser.
Dutton, Oct. 19.—Large congregations were present at the harvest home services of Wallace town United church on Sunday.

Rev. A. E. Menzies, first church, St. Thomas, conducted the services and gave two very helpful and inspiring addresses.

In the morning the subject was, "To What Purpose Is the Waste?" Special music was given by the choir, a duet being beautifully rendered by Mr. Forsyth and Mr. Welch of Wallace town.

In the evening Rev. Menzies spoke on Christian joy and rejoicing. The Lord, Miss Margaret Campbell sang an excellent solo. Wallace town male quartet also assisted. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion.

CHURCH IS REOPENED.
Special to The Advertiser.
Goderich, Oct. 19.—North street United church yesterday held special services morning and evening to reopen their church building, which has been closed for the past month for renovation.

Having been roofed and entirely redecorated and modern electric fixtures installed, the church building has now a beautiful interior.

The services of Rev. M. M. Bennett, B.A., of Wingham were secured for the morning and evening. He preached to a full auditorium. His morning sermon was, "The Pillars of Solomon's Temple," the evening, "The Products and By-Products of Life." Special music was rendered by the United church under the direction of Prof. James of Preston. Miss Tudhope and Miss Hume were the soloists.

Following the evening service a special service of prayer was given by Prof. James. The special offering amounted to $1,750, a record in the history of the church.

With these services the North street United church introduced the calendar system, which will be used weekly throughout the church in future.

DORCHESTER CHURCH.
Special to The Advertiser.
Dorchester, Oct. 19.—Anniversary services were held yesterday in connection with the United Methodist church. Rev. Dr. Dobson, principal of Alma College, St. Thomas, was the preacher and delivered practical and helpful sermons to very large congregations. The choir rendered

SPINDRIFT

An Adventure of the Great Lakes

By HAROLD TITUS

INSTALMENT 15.

In the cap'n's house that night none slept.

Ezra called Janet from her room and quietly told her that John Goodheart was going elsewhere to live and that he had asked him—her father—to tell her that they must not see each other for a time.

That was all. Despite her entreaties he would not explain. He only held his girl close while she sobbed out the dismay and bewilderment that were in her heart.

John walked slowly to Sam Foxson's cottage, roused the farmer, and explaining nothing, told him that he was looking for a place to stay.

"Well, you sure stopped at the right gate, Goodheart!" Sam said. "Come right in."

"Will it make trouble for you, Sam?"

"Gosh, no. We're glad to have somebody in the room an'—"

"But this fellow who sent the warning to me? Won't he make trouble for you?"

"If he does, let him try! Since I talked to you I guess mebbe enough might be found out about him to shut up his mouth if he did want to turn me up."

"All right. If he does, let me know. I'm in a good mood for fighting."

Well that he was in a state of mind for combat. He needed all the determination and vigor that he could command, and through the night he tossed on the bed and paced the small room under the roof, fighting, fighting to remember. The vague outlines of that face were before him, unrecognizable, half hidden, the key to the mystery which had brought on him all this weight of trouble.

Through the village the next day ran the rumor:

Cap'n Needham has turned his wheelman out of his house! The cap'n has had a row with Goodheart. And Janet is in it somewhere: she looks like a ghoul.

No word had been said to start these speculations, but words were not needed. The cap'n seemed suddenly to have become an old, uncertain man. As he worked he was absorbed, gruff, almost surly, his mind occupied with this complex problem.

John Goodheart's face was pale, his brows knitted, and in his eyes that morning a wild light.

And Janet went about as one will who is stunned by disaster, her smile gone, her voice dull and flat.

To the ears of Val Haines came this story. He saw Janet; he saw the two men involved by gossip. He listened, he speculated. That night, under cover of darkness, he watched Cap'n Needham go down to his net house and take up the work of fishing out floats where John had left it, seeking occupation for himself that would take him away from his suffering daughter.

Haines went stealthily toward the cap'n's house and peered through a window to see Janet sitting stiffly in a chair, hands loose in her lap, staring before her with vacant eyes. His desire for her and his rage special music, which was also greatly appreciated.

Rev. D. Stewart preached anniversary services at Harrietsville United Methodist church yesterday. Rev. Mr. Ball of Harrietsville conducted the services at Dorchester and Crumlin.

CAVEN ANNIVERSARY.

Special to The Advertiser.
Exeter, Oct. 19.—Caven church held its anniversary on Sunday last, when Rev. Alfred McFarlane of Clinton preached morning and evening. Main street United church with drew its morning service and Trivitt Memorial its evening service in order to attend the anniversary.

CLINTON ANGLICAN CHURCH.

Special to The Advertiser.
Clinton, Oct. 19.—Harvest thanksgiving services were held in St. Paul's Anglican church Sunday. The Rev. S. S. Hardy, M.A., was the preacher, who gave two inspiring and appropriate sermons. Special music was provided by the choir, which was assisted in the evening by the Presbyterian choir. A quartet was rendered by A. Mitchell, F. Mutch, W. Mutch and G. Robertson.

RODNEY EVANGELICAL.

Special to The Advertiser.
Rodney, Oct. 19.—The anniversary services of the Evangelical church, Rodney, were held on Sunday, with Rev. H. G. Werner of Detroit as speaker. This was the home of his grandfather, and Rev. Mr. Werner spent many holidays as a boy in Rodney. The church was filled at both services.

Monday evening a fowl supper was served in the basement of the church, after which Mr. Werner gave a splendid lecture, entitled, "A Boat on Dry Land." The following musical program was given: Two selections by the choir, a duet by Misses Mildred and Kathryn Mistle.

CLARKE MOSES EXPIRES

AT HOME IN MITCHELL

Special to The Advertiser.
Mitchell, Oct. 19.—Clarke Moses, who has been ill for several years, passed away at his home here on Sunday. He was born at Osgoode, Ontario, in 1847, and he received his primary education in the public school at that place, and finished at Toronto University. He taught school for a number of years at Colborne and Caledonia, and was mathematical teacher in the high school in the latter town. In 1876, he was appointed public school inspector for Haldimand county, and continued in this work till 1919. In religion, he was a Presbyterian and an elder in that church there for over 30 years, and also teacher of the adult Bible class for many years. After retiring from the inspectorship, he moved to Mitchell.

Survivors are the widow and eight children: Dr. Harry Moses, of New York city; Mabel Chandler, of Vancouver, B.C.; Fred A. Moses, Mitchell; Mrs. J. Campbell, of Haldimand; B.C.; of Prince Rupert, B.C.; Mrs. W. Winlaw, of Beachville; Hume, of Mitchell; and Mrs. C. A. Halls, of Woodstock; two brothers, Joseph and James Moses, and two sisters, Mrs. Annie Allen, of Osgoode, and Mrs. Matilda McKendry, of South Gore, Ontario.

against her unyielding attitude mingled to stir him to desperation. But he did not rap on the door, did not stay long peeping through the window.

He turned away to go back home, but stopped, checked in his plan by sight of a vague figure moving beneath the cedars. He waited to watch it go on. He saw it pause in silhouette against the doorway of the lighted net house where Cap'n Needham worked, and the identity of the man was unmistakable.

Haines started slinking toward Goodheart, who now went on, following along the beach to fight that fight with himself. Impulses rose in his stalker's heart and died; cold sweat beaded his forehead. He gripped his hands and went forward at a silent run—and then he stopped short.

"No!" he muttered to himself. "Not that way. There are other ways—better ways."

His voice said that, but what his heart said was that there were safer ways to wreak his vengeance on John Goodheart than by personal encounter with that splendid body!

For an hour they held those tense postures about the table.

At one end sat William, at the other Will, and across from Val Haines, who, with cap pulled back and gray eyes flashing, talked so steadily. Little Will listened with mouth agape.

"And so," concluded Haines, in his low tone, "he's made trouble for the folks we all like best. Cap'n Needham is in a lot of trouble and Miss Janet doesn't look like the same person."

At mention of the girl the first flicker of actual response showed in William's pale eyes and Will wriggle in his chair.

"The cap'n's an old man. Miss Janet's too fine a girl to have anybody do anything that'd upset her this way. We owe it to her, don't we, to drive this fellow off? Think what it means if he stays here and bothers her for months while he spies on us all!"

William spoke:

"What could he do to 'em?"

"... do to 'em?"

"There's no telling. He can make everybody up and down the lakes feel that Ezra is their enemy for sheltering a spotter. And Miss Janet shares that bad name, too. What hits him hits her, remember."

"Maybe he's even got something on the old cap'n. Think of that. Bro there! If he's holdin' something over the cap'n like a club, think how Miss Janet must feel!"

Each repetition of the girl's name, he saw, brought response from this stolid trio. Their loyalty and devotion to her were the things on which Haines had to play, and give the rascal credit for doing it well.

"If ever Miss Janet needed friends she needs 'em now. They don't dare call on her for help, maybe, but their friends ought to help 'em without being asked, hadn't they? What're friends for, anyhow? Friends like we've been to Miss Janet?"

"How'd we help her?" asked William.

"... we help her?"

Haines looked about the room quickly and, dropping his voice to a whisper, began unfolding his plan, stirring their excitement still higher by his manner.

"... and he always comes that way," he said finally. "I saw him on the beach tonight. He'll come back by the path, and I'll go myself, but I'll do the rest. I'd go myself, but time's short, and I've got to finish the job you boys start. I'll do my best to be back in time to help you boys with your part of it."

"Will you do it—for Miss Janet?"

"We'd do anything for her."

"... an'ing for her?"

"... for her."

John Goodheart, his brain numb from the conflict within him, turned in his walk on the beach and, with a sigh of failure, started back the way he had come.

He was alone and the village, when approached, was in darkness. The light that had been in the cap'n's net house was extinguished and had he not known the path perfectly he would have been forced to walk with caution.

But he knew the way. His hands were jammed into his coat pockets, his head lowered as he swung along, and so when he strode through the United red yard a body struck him from the side and another from behind with sharp impacts, he plunged on his face into the sand.

To be attacked in this manner was the last thing he had considered, but even before his cheek had finished scrubbing slide in the sand he was down.

Arms were entwined about his lower legs, fingers were clutching for his throat. He was conscious of a third presence as he drew his knees up and rolled to his side, grasping a wrist in one hand and tearing the clutch free from his throat.

He threshed with his legs, but the arms that bound them would not let loose. He drew the body of the man holding them closer to him and then drove it back again with a quick, powerful shove, but he could not shake off that shattering grasp.

Someone grappled him from behind as he raised himself to one hip, seizing his face in hard hands, and he was brought violently to earth, on his back again. A pair of knees hurried to his chest, driving the breath from his lungs, but with a twist of his head he liberated it from the grip that attempted to hold it.

One arm was pinned beneath his body. The other was held across his breast by a man's weight. He wriggled, he struggled to liberate the one on which he lay and felt a clutch of breath from an assailant's nostrils on his cheek. His arm came loose blindly, clenching the fist, he drove off, flesh, a man's throat, and he suddenly found both his arms free and but with tremendous blows.

No word had been spoken; not so much as a grunt of effort had mingled with the muffled sounds of combat. There was something uncanny about that silence, and even had Goodheart had time to use his hands were clutching for better odds. With a crunching blow of his elbow against the fellow's skull he was first knocked down, was useless anyhow.

He brought the pressure of a toe to bear against the ribs of the man who locked his feet together. Twisting over, he felt the weight of the body on his legs roll against his heavy shoes and he worked his feet desperately. He could almost feel the flesh grind as a shoe toe slid over the rib and pried between it and its neighbor.

A low mutter of pain rewarded him. He felt the arms about his calves slacken for a bare instant and in the next his feet were free, threshing wildly against renewed grappling, striking a body and driving it away.

A blow fell on his face and glanced off the cheek bone. He ducked and he stumbled and fell and rolled over, again and again, bringing up beneath a net reel. Feet scuffled in the sand and a vague figure rushed toward him, lunging for him, and the reel cracked sharply as the man stumbled and fell against one of the bars.

Goodheart was outnumbered, he had been surprised; now he could no longer escape. He thought of seeking safety in flight never occurred to him. On his hands and knees, trying to see through the darkness, he groped for the instant. He backed swiftly, wanting to put himself against the wall of the nearby net house where the fight against him would be forced to come from the front, as a man battling against odds should be privileged to meet combat.

He moved backward between net reels to force that advantage.

"Come on!" he taunted. "Come on, all of you—one at a time swept away the one who hugged him.

He kicked free from other arms that grappled for his knees. He lowered his head and charged blindly, pitching forward and downward, saved from a fall for the instant by the impact of his shoulder against one of the unidentified, unspeaking assailants.

But he was off balance, and when he rushed carried that other to earth. John sprawled with him, wriggling on top of the man's body, clutching the throat, grinding a knee into the pit of his stomach, only to be stunned himself by a stiff blow on the back of his neck and to come up to his knees with breath rasping in his throat.

A knee bashed into his open mouth and he tasted his own blood as he went over backward. Someone had his legs again and many bodies. It seemed were plunging down upon him, smothering him by their impact, driving the alertness from his mind.

He was helpless beneath a tremendous weight and for a moment went limp as he choked out stiff oaths. Then he raised his head and caught a wrist between his teeth and felt a part of his burden writhing from him. A hand groped across his face, the fingers searching swiftly for his eyes, and he roared inarticulate and muffled oaths as he felt many hands knotting the net, binding him helpless from head to ankles.

For a moment he lay perfectly still, breath whistling through his flattened nostrils. Then he was lifted, one pair of hands beneath his shoulders, another under his knees, and though he kicked as stoutly as he could, his struggles did not hamper his captors.

John tried to move his arms and could not. He threshed with his legs but the only movement possible was from his knees down as his feet were bound tightly together.

The gentle lap of water was close to his ears and the wind moaned through cracks in the building.

A great fear descended upon him. He was as physically helpless now as he had been mentally helpless an hour ago. Who were the men who had brought him here? What was their plan for him? Had he been or in a bunch."

He did not hear a reel creak faintly as it turned. He felt almost safe. He was within a few feet of the building and once there he would not be forced to watch the rear.

But from behind now a light pressure, an odd resistance, felt across his back, a something that began at the ground, the reel complaining as it yielded more net to add to the strength of his bonds. Stout jerks drew it tighter about his body until it all but squeezed the breath from him, and then a hank of net, twisted into a coarse bandage, was wrapped about his face. He opened his mouth to shout out in furious protest and the gag slipped between his teeth. It went around his head, unmercifully tight, it bound across his eyes, and he roared inarticulate and muffled oaths as he felt many hands knotting the net, binding him helpless from head to ankles.

For a moment he lay perfectly still, breath whistling through his flattened nostrils. Then he was lifted, one pair of hands beneath his shoulders, another under his knees, and though he kicked as stoutly as he could, his struggles did not hamper his captors.

John tried to move his arms and could not. He threshed with his legs but the only movement possible was from his knees down as his feet were bound tightly together.

The gentle lap of water was close to his ears and the wind moaned through cracks in the building.

A great fear descended upon him. He was as physically helpless now as he had been mentally helpless an hour ago. Who were the men who had brought him here? What was their plan for him? Had he been recognized and were they holding him for the arrival of the law?

With that possibility a hot, singling wave of alarm swept him and he bit frantically at the gag in his mouth. Bound hand and foot and carried back to that house of cages?

But why would they do that? His reason argued. If they wanted to send him back, they would not be necessary. He lay still with that quieting thought.

Ah, no! It was not his legal liberty which was in danger, then; these men, whoever they were, perhaps sought only his life.

And down the beach Val Haines was drawing a skiff from his shelter among low juniper bushes. He dragged it to the water's edge and shoved the stern in. The boat did not leak, but it would soon—very soon.

The man lifted his face to the wind. It was blowing steadily from the west. From that point, in that wind, a boat set adrift would float out into the channel and beyond, on to the restless bosom of Lake Michigan. A man adrift without oars and who could not swim would have a small chance. A man bound hand and foot... Haines started back toward the village.

More than two men were there he knew, for a third pair of hands helped carry him a short distance. Then they left him and he heard footsteps running on ahead through the sand of the beach.

The steps left the creaking sand and thudded dully on the planking of a dock. For a considerable interval he was carried along, and beyond the structure and John tried to determine by the distance and the sounds just which of the several docks it might be.

Still no word from his assailants! It was a preconceived plan which they had followed, he was certain. Perhaps Sam Foxson had been more right than he knew; perhaps his warning had been grounded in real danger. No matter how, John had disregarded it and he was beyond the point where he could help himself.

He whirled about sharply, and that light pressure became strongly resistant. He caught at it with his hands to brush it off and his fingers grasped the mesh of tough linen gill net!

A tremendous shock from behind, as though someone had taken a run and dived head foremost against his shoulder blades, sent him down. He fell quickly and his feet were caught in the invisible net and he went down into it. He felt it folded over him, felt it drawn tight. His arms were pinned across his breast, his thighs were drawn together.

Hands grasped him then and he could not move to drive them off. He was rolled over and over along the ground, the reel complaining as it yielded more net to add to the strength of his bonds. Stout jerks drew it tighter about his body until it all but squeezed the breath from him, and then a hank of net, twisted into a coarse bandage, was wrapped about his face. THREE GIRLS GET FIVE-YEAR TERMS

Bessie Carroll, Jennie McMin and Isobel Prouse Plead Guilty To Manslaughter.

LIVES REVIEWED

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, Oct. 19.—Three young women, who caused the death of Mrs. Margaret Mick of the women's municipal jail farm some months ago, when they escaped from that institution, this morning before Chief Justice Meredith pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter, and were given five years each in Portmouth penitentiary. The girls' names are Bessie Carroll, Jennie McMin and Isobel Prouse.

They admitted that in fighting with the matron to gain their liberty they set upon her while she lay on the floor. The verdict of the coroner's jury was that the death of Mrs. Mick had been due to strangulation. When the trial opened, J. T. Mahon, defence counsel, after conference with the three girls and their parents, announced that, with his lordship's permission, they would plead guilty to manslaughter. This was agreed to by the crown.

Mr. Mahon, in urging clemency, declared that there were no marks on Mrs. Mick's neck to show that she had been strangled, but he was not prepared to argue before a jury that the death of the matron was due to a stroke of apoplexy.

He reviewed the domestic lives of the girls and the unfortunate circumstances which led to their being confined in the jail farm in the first place.

He declared that Bessie Carroll was sent to the farm practically at her father's request.

Canadian Press Despatch. Winnipeg, Oct. 19.—The new million-dollar abattoir to be operated by the Harris Abattoir Company, Limited, in St. Boniface, Man., was officially opened by Lieutenant-Governor Aikens Saturday. The plant is the largest and most modern in Western Canada.

HEALTHY MOTHERS, HEALTHY CHILDREN

—Wolfe's Photo Studio. "Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a tonic and nerve that has benefited me so much I would never hesitate to recommend it to any woman who is ailing," said Mrs. Eva Brown, 25 Princess street, Chatham, Ont. (Picture above.) In expectation it relieved me of nausea and kept me well and strong right up to the last.

"Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets act so mildly on the liver that I do not have any trouble getting my children to take them when in need of a laxative. Both mother and child consider these 'Pellets' safe, reliable and efficient, and we keep them in our home ready for any stomach or liver disorder, preferring them to any other laxative."

Send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont., for trial package of any of Dr. Pierce's remedies.—Adv.

MCCOY'S COD LIVER EXTRACT TABLETS FINE FOR THIN UNDER-DEVELOPED KIDS

Children Love Them Because They Are Sugar Coated Candy.

It's your duty, Mother, to see that the frail, peaked, sickly youngster grows up to be strong in body, keen in mind and robust in health.

Extracted from the livers of the lowly codfish are the health, weight and strength producing vitamins that are found in McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets, which are sold by pharmacists all over north and South America.

Doctor's know about them and so does Standard Drug, Liggett's and, if your children need building up, ask for these tablets today if you want to give your loved ones a good appetite and put pounds of good healthy flesh on their bones. But be sure and get McCoy's.

They are not expensive—60 tablets—60 cents, and if you are not pleased with the improvement after 30 days—your money back.

A very sickly child, age 9, gained 12 pounds in seven months and is strong and healthy.

One skinny woman gained 9 pounds in 24 days.—Adv.

SNOW, WIND AND HAIL WARN ONTARIO WINTER DRAWS NEAR

Lake Vessels Make For Shelter As Blizzard Rages Over Province.

BIG APPLE LOSS

High wind, lowering temperature, hail and snowfall yesterday brought to Ontario a realization that fall days are rapidly passing and that winter is just around the corner.

Most of the day the wind was very high, and at frequent intervals snow was driven scudding along country roads and city pavements, urging hurriedly-sought shelter by those who were out. The snow in most sections melted almost as rapidly as it fell, but at times the fall was so heavy that vision was interfered with. One accident was reported in Stratford as the result of such a condition.

At Wingham some hail fell early yesterday afternoon, and this was followed by a fairly steady, though light, fall of snow until late last night. Seaford and Goderich districts reported very high winds all day, but moderating during the evening, and a slight improvement in temperature conditions. Snow melted as it fell. Woodstock, Tillsonburg, Aylmer and districts also reported very high winds with low temperatures and snow flurries nearly all day and evening. St. Thomas had a high wind all day and snow started to fall heavily just before midnight.

Great Lake vessels were nearly all in shelter as storm signals had been displayed on Sunday night. One steamer was reported to have gone aground in Lake Ontario. Planes were reported to be seeking three persons missing on Lake St. Clair in a small boat.

Fruit through Western Ontario has suffered to some extent because of the wind. Most of the apples have been picked, but in orchards where work was in progress there is considerable loss as many grade 'A' apples are now just being picked and known for a few days.

Probabilities for Tuesday call for cloudy weather with not much change in temperature.

WIND A GALE.

Special to The Advertiser. Woodstock, Oct. 19.—Woodstock and district are this evening in the grip of a snowstorm, unusually severe for this time of the year. Following a day of high wind and low temperature, snow began to fall late in the afternoon, and was driven through the streets before a strong gale. The snow gives a mid-winter appearance which is far from being seasonable for October.

TWO INCHES OF SNOW.

Stratford, Oct. 19.—Stratford tonight was treated to its first real fall of the beautiful. Snow fell intermittently during the day, but about 6 o'clock tonight it started to fall heavily, and by 9 o'clock the ground was covered to a depth of about two inches. The high wind interfered to some extent with the hydro lines, and there were times when the city was in darkness. During the storm, J. S. Ballantyne, 165 Elizabeth street, driving north on Ontario street in his automobile, smashed into the soldiers' monument at the intersection of Erie and Ontario streets. Snow on the windshield of the car prevented the driver from seeing the monument. The car was considerably damaged.

SNOWSTORM AT GUELPH.

Associated Press Despatch. Guelph, Oct. 19.—Traffic on Guelph streets was greatly hampered by a blinding snowstorm which occurred tonight. It was the first real storm this fall, and while the storm was in progress automobiles, street cars and horse vehicles were compelled to move at a snail's pace. Owing to the temperature the snow did not last long to cover the ground to any depth, but workers returning from their jobs had an unpleasant experience fighting their way through the storm when it was at its worst.

3 BANDITS SLUG MAN, ESCAPING WITH $500

E. A. McDonald Knocked Unconscious by Robber When He Refused To Open Safe.

Special to The Advertiser. Brampton, Ont., Oct. 19.—Regaining consciousness in Peel Memorial hospital this morning after having been found earlier in the day lying on the floor of the Brampton Motors, Limited, showroom, E. A. McDonald, accountant of the company, stated that when he entered the office shortly after midnight to put away about $500 receipts, he was confronted by three bandits, who demanded that he open the safe. Upon his refusal he declares, he was slugged on the head, but was able to turn and fight with the bandits. After twisting his arms nearly out of their sockets the robbers finally left McDonald lying on the floor with his arms pinned and a heavy bag in his mouth. The men escaped with the $500, which represented the takings for Saturday and Sunday.

AGED MAN SHOTS SISTER, THEN COMMITS SUICIDE

Canadian Press Despatch. Port Moulton, N.S., Oct. 19.—Henry Innes of Southwest Port Moulton, aged about 60, today shot and killed his sister, Mrs. Lawrence Thierault, with whom he boarded, and then turned the rifle on himself and shot off his head.

Mrs. Thierault was about 45 years of age, and is survived by her husband and seven children.

Farnborough, Eng., Oct. 19.—The helicopter, or "autogyro," invented by Don Juan de la Ciera, made a third successful flight today, achieving a speed of 70 miles an hour, then hovering in the air and landing gently after an almost vertical descent.

WATFORD RALLIES AROUND STIRRETT

Young Candidate Has Good Meeting in Spite of Weather and Difficulties.

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Correspondent. Watford, Oct. 19.—A well-attended meeting in the interests of the Liberal candidate for East Lambton, J. R. Stirrett, was held in the Lyceum Theatre, Watford, this evening, when despite the rumors of disaffection in the Liberal ranks throughout the northern section of the constituency a representative audience gathered, including many of the prominent Liberals of the village and surrounding country. A. D. Hone of Watford was chairman, and the speakers were Dr. MacCallum of Petrolia, G. H. Stirrett of Sarnia and the candidate, J. R. Stirrett, who was given a cordial reception.

G. H. Stirrett, brother of the candidate, and a prominent merchant of the city of Sarnia, in a refreshing speech, combated the argument for protection advanced by some manufacturers, by attributing their losses to their own inefficiency. In support of the candidate he urged the claim of those who had participated in the war to be elected as representatives of the people.

The candidate, J. R. Stirrett, in a bold presentation of Liberal tariff policy, asserted that Canada to gain prosperity must encourage her export trade by concentrating on large scale production, buying elsewhere the goods that cannot be made cheaply here.

The candidate featured senate reform as a plank in the Liberal platform. In a spirited defence of the two-party system he stated that party system insured that responsibility for administration was fixed; only by parties can the voters choose principle over expediency. As for the Progressive group, they were a western sectional group and deserved no support in Ontario. Their export trade by concentrating on large scale production, buying elsewhere the goods that cannot be made cheaply here.

The Liberal party was the only party that viewed the national welfare steadily, and as a whole Liberalism must be militant in every constituency in order that the Liberal party be restored to power with a strong majority.

BANK TELLER IS SHOT AS REVOLVER EXPLODES

Grant Hibbard, Kitchener, in Critical Condition Following Accident.

Canadian Press Despatch. Kitchener, Oct. 19.—Grant Hibbard, 23, teller in the Bank of Montreal here, is in a critical condition at the K-W. hospital, as a result of a bullet wound in the abdomen received last night, when a revolver which was being examined by Alfred Mercer, bank messenger, exploded. The revolver is an automatic, the magazine had been removed, but a shell must have remained in the weapon. Hibbard, whose home is in Walkerton, has a fair chance of recovery.
