Additional Locals.

—J. N. Scheffer is this week moving his stock of groceries across the road to his new store.

—Mr. and Mrs. Adam Fink entertained a large number of their friends last Thursday evening at a "thimble party." All report a very pleasant time.

It has been remarked, that while there have been east winds frequently during the past few weeks, they have not brought the rains that generally follow these winds in the autumn.

—John Rogerson, teacher at Lints' school, has resigned his position, and has been engaged as principal of the Paiceville public school at a salary of $650.

Clifford.

We regret to learn that there is an epidemic of smallpox in the townships of Carrick and Normanby, within three or four miles from Clifford and many families are under quarantine. The neighborhood as a rule come to Clifford for their dealing, and it is difficult for this village to keep from contact from this disease. In fact, one case is reported here, the source of which is unknown.

Mr. James Ferguson, who has been living retired, at the Commercial hotel here for some years, died at the home of his nephew, Mr. Robert Wightman, on Wednesday last. He had been ill for about a month.

Mr. Peter W. Schaus, our strawberry grower, left with us on Tuesday, a very rare treat, being a few ripe strawberries, which grew outside at this season of the year. If a severe frost keeps away for a while, there are prospects for more strawberries.

Last Monday was most ideal for weather, being sunny in its ways, even as Laurier is represented to be. A full vote was polled, the largest number of ballots possibly ever polled at a parliamentary election. The vote stood:—Martin 78, Clarke 59, majority for Martin, 19. When returns came in at night, reports indicated that Mr. Clarke had 260 majority at Palmerston, 17 at Harrison, and Mr. Martin's majority at Mt. Forest was reduced nearly 100. Later advices gave full returns, 108 majority for Martin.

FORMOSA.

Mrs. Jos. Brick and two children of Port Arthur, who have been visiting friends here for some time, left for their home last week.

The Schiessel farm which was sold by auction at Opperman's hotel last Saturday by auctioneer Purvis, was bought by Andy Detzler for the sum of $4,750.

Simon Fritz who has been working for Wm. Scheffer for the summer, finished last week and will leave for his home in North Dakota shortly.

Simon Weiler returned from the West last week. He has been away about two years.

Most of our farmers finished taking up their turnips last week. They report a very light crop.

Mr. Anthony Rettinger, the new blacksmith, has bills out advertising his cold tire setter. He can set a set of tires in from 20 to 30 minutes and guarantees satisfaction.

Miss Mary Ann Kramer who has been in the West for a couple of years, is visiting at her mother's, Mrs. Henry Kraemer.

HICKS' NOVEMBER FORECASTS.

By the 1st the barometer will begin to fall in western sections, the temperature will rise; and by the 2nd to 3rd storms will gather and start on their eastward march from west to east. On and touching Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, the 3rd, 4th and 5th, wind and thunder storms will pass most parts of the country, with rising barometer, followed by westerly winds and change to much cooler. Frosts with some freezing northward, will result during the passage of this high barometer and cool wave. The full moon falls on the 8th, increasing the probabilities of storm conditions on that date. Low barometer, rising temperature, and rainstorms in transit from west to east, will be the natural order on and touching the 8th to 10th. In spite of the fact that the moon is moving to extreme north declination, a high barometer, west winds, and change to much colder will come down from the northwest and spread over the country generally from about the 9th to the 12th. The moon is at last quarter on the 15th and in perigee on the 16th. Falling barometer, change to warmer, southerly winds and autumnal rains will pass over the country from west to east on and touching the 15th, 16th and 17th. Possibly change to cooler may break in about the 17th and 18th. The moon crosses the celestial equator, veering southward on the 19th. Change to much warmer and falling barometer will appear about the 19th and run their course eastward on the 20th and 21st. The probabilities of severe and dangerous gales all over the northern lake regions are very strong at this and all the November periods, especially from the 15th to the end of the month. New moon falls on the 23rd, within two days of extreme south declination on the 20th. Abnormal warmth, rapid fall of the barometer and clouds of threatening portent will mark the entrance to this period. From about Wednesday the 25th to Saturday the 28th, autumnal storms of wide extent and unusual energy will make their transit across the country from west to east. Rain, wind and thunder will dominate the southern parts of the country, while sleet, snow and an early cold wave may be expected northward. The month will merge into December in the midst of cold mercurial cloudiness, with wintry aspects prevailing over all northern to central parts of the country.

Chesley will vote on local option at the coming municipal elections. So will Goderich, Ingersoll, Lucknow, Trenton, Whitby and Woodstock.

The judge listened intently to the man's news. The man was the plaintiff, and had charged his wife with cruel and abusive treatment. He was a small man, and his wife—well, it was at least evident that the charge rested on a basis of possibility. After the plaintiff had finished his testimony the judge decided to ask a question. "Mr. Frouble," said he, "where did you meet your wife, who has treated you this way?" "Well, judge," returned the man, somewhat meekly, "you see, it's this way. I never did meet her. She just kind of overtook me."

LAKELET.

The elections resulted in the re-election of Dr. Chisholm of Wingham. Four years ago he had a majority of 184; now he has 83. Mr. Hislop, the Liberal candidate, put up a good square fight. He is a pleasing platform speaker and discusses the issues fairly. On the other hand the Dr. is a unique personal canvasser and this no doubt had a telling effect on the 26th ult. The vote here was Chisholm 85, Hislop 63. The officials were D. R. O., J. Darroch; Poll clerk, Wm. F. Rainy; Agents for Hislop—Wm. Hood jr., and Jno. Porterfield; for Chisholm—J. W. Wolf and F. Mahood; Constable—C. Gadke. Howick, as usual, gave a good Conservative majority of 190. These figures are 10 less than the liberals counted on.

Fred Gadke is getting in a new outfit entirely at the mill. A new chopper, a new engine and he also contemplates getting a saw mill on the string. We trust he may get a good share of patronage. Hy. Huth, the blacksmith, has his gasoline engine going and he chops pretty well. There are very few places the size of Lakelet in this part of the country that can boast of two chopping mills.

Mr. Jno Wynn of the Howick-Carrick boundary bought a good young mare off John Bradwell on Tuesday.

The Rev. Mr. Hassard's address and lantern slides in connection with B. Society work here, were appreciated and enjoyed by the largest crowd we have seen here for years. He went from here to Fordwich.

Miss Etta Burns has been engaged by the Trustees of this village to teach next year. Miss Dobson, present teacher, gave excellent satisfaction, but some misunderstanding between her and the trustees re salary resulted in the change. This changing of teachers every year is fraud.

A nice new wire fence and new gates adds much to the appearance of the burrying plot here. As a general thing cemeteries are much neglected and it is a tribute to those interested here to thus improve.

Mrs. Ritchie of Wroxeter accompanied by her daughter, Miss Jeannette, visited friends in this district this week.

Thos. Atkins of Orange Hill packed apples in this vicinity last week. The price paid is not so very high this year.

CANADA VOTES SOLID

There may be a difference of opinion amongst the voters of Canada regarding political matters; but when it comes to a question of a newspaper to suit the Canadian people the vote is solid for the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal. It is marvellous what popularity that paper enjoys. It is well deserved too, for it is beyond question the best dollar's worth to be had. Every home in Canada should receive that great weekly, when it can be had for one dollar a year. In this section it reaches almost every home, and not one of them would think of letting their subscriptions expire. The Family Herald and Weekly Star is too good to miss even a single copy.

—We are pleased to report that Mrs. Balzar Weigel is recovering from a severe attack of pneumonia.

John McCurdy, of townline of Elderslie and Brant, who was 100 years old last January, picked 35 bags of potatoes in one day this fall.

A Sarnia man found a gold watch the other day, and failing to take steps to ascertain the loser, was arrested for stealing. It is not generally known that the law recognizes as theft the keeping of found articles. It is imperative for the person who finds to seek the loser, as it is for the loser to seek the article lost.

A lady living near Port Arthur died in the hospital there from smoke poisoning as the result of her system becoming saturated with smoke at her home, where she was surrounded by forest fires for several weeks.

Hesper youths amuse themselves in the evenings by going to an overhead bridge and dropping boulders on passenger trains passing below. The railway people naturally object.

UNCLE DICK;

Or, The Result of Diplomacy and Tact.

CHAPTER IV.—(Cont'd.)

The amusement and mischief tones left her voice. She asked demurely—

"Are you thirsty?"

"Parched! I confess I am. I have just escaped from the dead level of dry conventionalism. That arid desert, the Sahara of Society. Its womenkind are my abomination."

She looked a little annoyed. As if not appreciating his description. "I have heard it rumored, Mr. Masters, that you fly from London to escape Society's attentions."

"And for once the many-tongued is not a lying jade. I suppose all of us, every man and woman, are more or less eccentric."

"Put it that way, most of us, have bees in our bonnets."

"Precisely. The buzzing of my particular insect is the artificial life of modern Society. I just loathe it; never go out for that reason. Fly from London? Yes; I own up; I do. As fast as an express can wing me. Fly to escape the inanities with which the cup of social life is overflowing."

"Balls, parties—"

"And things of that sort are my pet horrors."

She smiled at the expression of his disgust; his manner of expressing it; said—

"I seem to be shaking a red rag at a bull!"

"If," he continued, "Society is the product of civilization I am an untutored savage. Not an ungrateful one, mark you, but one thankful for his savagery. Afternoon teas, flower shows, and the hundred and one idiotic things which go to make up the ordinary everyday life in London ought to be abolished by a drastic Act of Parliament."

Her smile merged into laughter. She had gauged his capacity for exaggeration by this time. The beginning of her understanding of him was setting in. Her laugh over she said—

"I think you are very drastic."

"I hope not!"

"Why?"

"Because if you think so, I have been mistaken. I have formed a wrong estimate of your character if you care for these things."

"And supposing I did. Would it be, think you, unwomanly?"

"As the world wags? No. On the contrary, the absolute quintessence of womanliness in nine hundred and ninety-nine women out of a possible thousand."

"But—"

"Ah! that is it."

"But if I did care for all and the singular the things you object to so much?"

"I should be sorry, really sorry, that I have spoken as I have done."

"Why?"

"Because it would, must, savor of impertinence. We, each of us, have a right to our own opinions. I should just hate to think that I have been forcing mine on any one; it would be a painful thing. Opinions, like boots, should fit the wearer—neither too narrow nor too wide, and possibly an allowance for stretching a point. To force an opinion would be a modernized version of the iron boot the torturers used to handle in the Inquisition days."

"But you expressed yourself"—she smiled at the recollection of it—"very strongly just now."

"Because I thought we were more on the same plane; were thinking in common. I hoped so."

"Tell me, will you, why you thought me different from other women; thought as you did of me?"

"Oh, come! Isn't that now—don't you think that rather hard on me?"

"Why?"

"To put such a question as that. Calling on me to tell you why I think."

"Why not?"

"Think! If I could bring myself to lie you would not like it. Yet, supposing I said something to offend you?"

"Why should you?"

"Because of my ignorance. I would not for worlds, knowingly. You would know that I should not mean to."

"Very well, then. Why should I take offence where none is intended?"

He hesitated a moment. Plainly

he saw the danger-signal flying; then he spoke—

"You are a woman."

She tossed her head at that. There was no mistaking the tone in which she said—

"Thank you!"

"There! . . . Proof positive! I won't speak; I won't risk it. I am most anxious not to offend you, and you shan't force my hand."

She tapped impatiently with the toe of her shoe.

CHAPTER V.

Miss Mivvins was annoyed; the impatient tapping was evidence of it. Not that a little exhibition of temper in any way detracted from her personal appearance. On the contrary, the air of petulance heightened her charms.

"You are just like a man."

Her speech was accompanied by another toss of her shapely head.

"Isn't that twisting things round? You mean that he never gives a reason for what he says or does?"

"Yes."

Resumption of tattoo with her foot on the ground. It made him exclaim—

"I knew I was right! What if I tell you that I am a mind reader?"

"I would not be a bit surprised." He was greatly. Could not understand what she meant, said—

"You wouldn't?"

"No."

"I am—to hear you say it. Why?"

"Because in this book of yours I am reading"—she held it up—"I see you believe in palmistry."

"Come, come!" He was genuine in his expostulation. "I make one of my characters believe in it."

"Then you do not?"

She had him in a corner; was merciless. He tried to wriggle out; said—

"I did not say so."

It was an ineffectual effort on his part. She pinned him in still further; was that kind of woman.

"What does that mean? That you do and you do not?"

There was nothing for him but to fence; he answered—

"Yes and No."

It did not in any way extricate him from his difficulty. She continued—

"You are a complete enigma."

"There is no prize offered for the solution." He endeavored to speak lightly, to bring the conversation back to the humorous line it had left; continued—

"I have known people take quite an interest in enigmas. Do you?"

She changed the subject. Kept away from where there was a treading on dangerous ground; felt the ice getting thin; said—

"I gather that this palmist character of yours professes to read the past, but does not venture on prophecy?"

"I venture on prophecy now."

He spoke suddenly, rising as he did so. Picking up his books, and for the first time, quietly possessing himself of her bag, continued—

"That rapidly travelling cloud, at present looking very little larger than a man's hand, coming from the south is full of rain. It will burst before we are back in the town, unless we hurry. Gracie! Gracie!"

The little girl came running in response to his call. All three, for the first time, walked homewards together. A student of human nature might have seen in it a beginning of things.

"I am living in Marine Terrace."

He was describing the situation of his lodgings. Waited for her to respond, and then asked—

"Have you got far to go?"

"Oh, not so far as you have, little more than half-way. Ivy Cottage; on the front. Do you know?"

"That pretty little bungalow with the creeper over the porch? Before we reach the big houses?"

"Yes."

He cast an eye over his shoulder at the still distant cloud, gauging the time of its breaking; said—

"When the rain comes it will last, I fear. That will mean confinement to the house."

"I fancy so, too. The local weatherwise are predicting it also. You are not the only prophet. Corns are shooting and roomatiz is bad."

He laughed at her excellent imitation of the dialect ruling the language of the people, then said—

"May I be personal? How are you off for reading matter?"

"Oh, Mudie's have sent me down an absolutely abominable selection. With"—a twinkle escaped from the corner of her eye—"with the exception of that one of yours."

"I won't gratify you with even a smile of approval at so callous a joke," he said coolly. "To trample on my feelings so is positively inhuman. Still, that 'exception' emboldens me."

"In what way?"

"That finding you interested in one of my books, I want you to let me—I want you to favor me by accepting from me a set?"

"A set?"

"I have been guilty of five others." Mock despair was in his tone. "Accept my contrite apologies."

"Five others!"

"I have to plead guilty to that number. Heinous, isn't it?"

"Oh, I did not mean that."

"And so young too!"

"Really, Mr. Masters!" The flush was being worn again. "You are, really, too bad; raking up old grievances!"

"I would like to try and think there is a substream of good."

She ignored his speech, rather the significance in the tone of its delivery! said—

"I did not know—I confess openly, you see. This makes but the third of yours I have read."

"Then there is a possibility of interest being left in the three you have not read. Let the weather be my excuse for forcing them on you."

"As if an excuse were needed! Pray do not speak of your kindness so!"

"Then—I have some work I must finish this afternoon for the post—may I bring them to you, this evening?"

She hesitated a moment. Induced to do so by a thought of the wisdom of playing with fire. His hyper-sensitive nature made him shrink from that hesitation, to nervously say—

"I beg your pardon. I mean I will make a parcel of them and send them up to you."

The note of pain in his voice was so plain that any question of his wisdom—or want of it—vanished. She was moved to put her hand on his arm; to say—

"Don't deprive me of half the pleasure of the gift. Please bring them yourself."

It was a pretty little speech. Prettily spoken. No answering word came to his lips, but the look of gladness in his eyes was eloquent. Eloquent enough to make her mentally pause again and ask herself: was she acting altogether wisely?

Miss Mivvins was sailing under false colors. Was not in a position to haul them down, or fly her own. But she found him entertaining and—and very pleasant to talk to. She left it at that.

She could not afterwards remember much of what they talked about on their walk along the wall homewards. But she was conscious of spending a very pleasant afternoon; that it passed away all too quickly. The most entertaining conversations are usually those which flow so smoothly that we forget to note the landmarks and stepping-stones on the way.

She was in a quandary; dared not reveal to him her true self. She had learnt enough of him to know that if she ran up her own flag, one glance at the masthead would mean his sheering right away.

She was not at all anxious that that should happen; did not want to lose him. She had grown to—more than like him. Why, she asked herself petulantly, why could he not be as other men?

The rain held off till they reached her gates. There they said good-bye, shaking hands for the first time. The touch thrilled them both. As an outcome he saw possibilities; felt what their meeting might possibly lead to. It was a pleasant feeling. Things were colored by it—color of the rose.

Her good-bye was spoken lightly. Instinctively she tried to counteract that thrill. Yet there was a lingering tone in her voice as she said, finally—

"Till eight o'clock."

Then came Gracie's turn. He stooped down, lifted and kissed her. She said—

"Good-bye, Prince Charlie. I shan't see you in the evening because I go to bed at half-past seven."

"My word! Half-past seven! How late for a little girl to sit up!"

She exclaimed indignantly at so gross an insult—

"I'm not a little girl! I'm nearly five!"

Her indignation was a fleeting one. He held her away; threw her up in the air till she screamed with the delight of the pleasant fear. Then caught and kissed her and set the mite on her feet again.

So he dealt with the child. Then, raising his hat, gave a final kindly smile in the direction of the governess; said a final good-bye.

Such was their parting. Each full of thoughts of the other. He walked home wondering, thinking why—for what reason, had she said eight o'clock. It sounded so—then he laughed at his stupid thought.

So life touches life a moment, thrills and bids it stay, as two drops of water in a peaceful stream may touch for an instant and in the next be parted by the waving reeds.

What of after meetings? Would they be guided to one another by that strange fate that we call Destiny?

The Farm

FATTEN YOUR OWN STOCK.

Lest there may be readers who infer that, in opposing any move looking toward the development of an export trade in store cattle, we are playing into the hands of Canadian feeders, as against the interests of breeders, we wish to state as emphatically as words can make it that the true policy for the Canadian farmer is to fatten on his own farm the cattle he raises, not to sell them to be finished by anyone else, either at home or abroad.

The raising of lean cattle, to be sold at a low price for somebody else to fatten, is almost always a poor business. Generally speaking, and leaving out just now the element of speculation, the profitable part of cattle-feeding is the finishing end, for two reasons.

In the first place, fattening cattle return to the soil, in the form of manure, a large part of the elements of soil fertility in the feed consumed. Lean, growing cattle, on the other hand, appropriate a large share of these elements for the growth of bone and muscle, to be subsequently walked off the farm. The manure from fattening stock is much more valuable than that from growing animals, even when the same feed is given to both, although, as a general thing, the concentrated nature of the feed used for fattening goes to make the manure all the richer. Scarcely any farmer makes due allowance for this important fact.

The second reason for finishing cattle on the farm on which they are raised is that, considering the difference in value between fat and lean cattle, more money is received per dollar's worth of feed devoted to finishing than for a dollar's worth devoted to growing the frame. This fact is not fully appreciated, either, for few farmers realize how much feed it requires to grow a two-year-old steer. Because much of it is pasture and other coarse products, they underestimate its value, forgetting that much of this roughage could be utilized for other purposes. Hence, they keep their farms growing coarse products, to be marketed at a low price in the form of lean cattle, instead of enhancing their value by turning off a more highly-finished product.

The finishing end is the one really profitable phase of beef-production, as it is commonly carried on. Eliminate this, and the business is a mighty poor one, indeed. There is just one sound reason why a beef-cattle man should raise his own cattle. It is about the only way to insure a supply of good feeders, without a lot of time and expense in scouring the country. Indeed, down in the corn-belt States they say it has come to a point where the feeder who depends on buying somebody else's cattle has rather a poor show, and the Chicago market reviewer of an American exchange recently published a remark that the best and most profitable loads of cattle coming into that centre now were almost invariably bred, raised and fattened on the same farm. This is sound policy which we commend to Canadian farmers. If a man goes to the trouble and expense of breeding and raising good cattle, by all means let him finish them himself.

We are sometimes told that there are a good many farmers who have not suitable stables or feed for finishing their own cattle. This is almost pure nonsense. A stable that is fit to house growing cattle is fit to accommodate feeders. Fattening cattle do not require very warm stables, especially if kept loose in box stalls or pens. In fact, they are better in stables that are not too close.

As for feed, the common farm fodders and grains are all that any steer needs. Corn silage, or corn fodder and roots, with clover or alfalfa hay, and a little straw for a change, a little bran and oil, or cottonseed meal, with some corn, barley, frosted wheat, oats or peas, will make any steer fat, and a heavy grain allowance is not needed, either. If a farmer has not sufficient heavy feed to fatten his own cattle, he can buy and feed some concentrated meals, with more profit than can the speculative feeder, providing he has the necessary skill; and this, it must be admitted, is the one snag. Some men are such poor herdsmen that they cannot fatten beasts well. However, there is about it, if one feeds moderately, it requires no more skill—rather less—to finish a steer to a reasonable point of fatness than to raise a thrifty calf up to the feeding stage; and be this point well considered, that, if a calf is raised as it should be, kept thrifty and growing, as it ought, it will be nearly ready for the butcher at any time, and will not require a prolonged feeding period to fit it for the shambles.

If one cannot finish successfully for the export market, let him turn his attention to raising and feeding handy-weight butcher's cattle. In any case, let him fatten his own stock. To sell lean cattle is like skimming milk, selling the cream at milk prices, and keeping what is left. It is poor business. Let each man aim to fatten his own stock.—Farmer's Advocate.

WHAT NEGLECT DID FOR HIM

JAS. E. BRANT SUFFERED TORTURES FROM KIDNEY DISEASES.

Then He Used Dodd's Kidney Pills and Became a Well Man — His Experience a Lesson for You. Athabasca Landing, Alta., Oct.

26 (Special).—That Kidney Disease, neglected in its earlier stages, leads to the most terrible suffering, if not death itself, and that the one sure cure for it in all stages is Dodd's Kidney Pills, is the experience of Mr. James E. Brant, a farmer residing near here.

Mr. Brant contracted Kidney Disease, when a young man, from a strain, and like hosts of others, neglected it, expecting it to go away itself.

But it kept gradually growing worse, till after thirty years of increasing suffering the climax came, and he found himself so crippled that at times he could not turn in bed, and for two weeks at a time it was impossible for him to rise from a chair without putting his hands on his knees.

He could not button his clothes. He was troubled with Lumbago, Gravel and Backache, and tried medicines for each and all of them without getting relief, till good luck turned him to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Dodd's Kidney Pills started at the cause of his troubles and cured his Kidneys. With cured Kidneys his other troubles speedily disappeared, and to-day he is a well man.

If you cure your Kidneys with Dodd's Kidney Pills you will never have Lumbago, Rheumatism, Heart Disease, Dropsy or Bright's Disease.

MURDERED 20 WIVES.

Cruel Annam Emperor Condemned to Perpetual Exile.

Than Thai, King, or, as he is sometimes called, Emperor of Annam, the most fantastically cruel monarch of modern times, has been condemned to perpetual exile in Algeria by the French Government.

Than Thai murdered twenty of his pretty little wives with tortures of inconceivable cruelty and horror.

Annam is a large country of south-eastern Asia, which is under a French protectorate. France permits the native Emperor to rule his own country absolutely in internal affairs except where French interests are specially concerned. Thus it happened that the Emperor was at liberty to carry on murder and torture in his harem for many weeks before anybody ventured to interfere.

Finally the French authorities broke into the Emperor's palace, which he had turned into a morass of blood, and seized the crazy monarch. That was nearly two years ago. Since then the Emperor has been kept under restraint and close observation.

WOMEN TELEGRAPHERS.

India's Government has recently authorized the employment of women telegraph operators. The candidates must be between 18 and 30 years of age, and they must be unmarried or widows. They must undergo a training of twelve months in the telegraph training classes, during which time they will receive $0.65 a month, the same allowance that is drawn by male learners.

HUNTING WILD HORSES.

Favorite Sport in New South Wales — Breaking the Animals.

Whether "brumby" is a survival of the aboriginal name for a wild horse or a corruption of "unbranded" appears to be a question which philologists have left undecided, but brumby hunting is still a favorite sport in New South Wales, says the London Standard.

Districts like the Clarence and Stephens and Manning River watershed are still the home of numerous droves of brumbies, and hunting them is declared to be a very exhilarating pastime. The first step taken is to stake out a corral and make all secure except a narrow entrance, which can subsequently be gated. On either side of the entrance and projecting from it funnelwise a "bosby fence" is prepared.

To the simple minded brumby it presumably looks like a stockade, and pieces of fluttering cotton make it look impregnable. When this is ready the young bloods, well mounted, gallop out and round up the wild horses, driving them with shouts and much loud snapping of stock whips toward the mouth of the funnel.

In a group of brumbies there is always a leader, and when once the hunters have got the leader for the corral they are pretty certain of the rest of the drove. The fluttering cotton rags of the sham fence are sufficient to deter the brumbies from breaking through the flimsy barriers, and in less time than it takes to tell the wild horses are safely corralled and the big gate shut on them.

Then they are left for four and twenty hours without food and water to reflect on the situation, and after that they can be broken in without much difficulty.

THE DETERMINING TEETH.

Johnny—Yes'm. By the teeth.

Teacher—Why, Johnny, chickens have no teeth.

Johnny—No'm. But we have.

INDISPENSIBLE TO MOTHERS.

"I am satisfied that Baby's Own Tablets are indispensable to mothers," says Mrs. Abraham Boucher, Pierreville Mills, Que., and she adds:—"Before using the Tablets my baby was cross, peevish and not thriving well; but the Tablets have worked a great change and my little one is well and happy." This is the verdict of all mothers who have used these Tablets. And better still, mothers have the guarantee of a government analyst that Baby's Own Tablets are absolutely safe—that they contain not one particle of opiate or poisonous soothing stuff. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A MAGISTRATE INVESTIGATES ZAM-BUK.

Says It is a Wonderful Healer and Does More Than is Claimed For It.

No household remedy in existence has won such glowing tributes from people in high places as has Zam-Buk. Mr. Roger F. Perry, Justice of the Peace for British Columbia, tested this famous balm, and this is what he says of it:

"The Pavilion, Goldfields, B. C.

"To the Zam-Buk Co.,

"Gentlemen,—After a very fair trial I have proved Zam-Buk eminently satisfactory. In my case it cured a skin rash of five years standing which no doctor had been able to do any good for.

"I would certainly encourage any person to keep Zam-Buk in their home. It truly does even more than you claim for it. For my own part I would not now be without it in the house. Yours very truly, (Signed) "Roger F. Perry,

"Justice of the Peace for B. C."

Zam-Buk differs from ordinary salves and embrocations, for while these mostly contain animal oils and fats, Zam-Buk is purely herbal.

It soothes and heals cuts, sores, ulcers, eruptions, boils, eczema, chafing sores, etc. All druggists and stores sell at 50 cents a box, or from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price, 6 boxes for $2.50.

MOST APPROPRIATE.

"How did that fellow fare when he started to fish for compliments?"

"He got the hook."

It is an Officer of the Law of Health.—When called in to attend a disturbance it searches out the hiding-place of pain, and like a guardian of the peace, lays hands upon it and says, "I arrest you."

Resistance is useless, as the law of health imposes a sentence of perpetual banishment on pain, and Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil was originated to enforce that sentence.

"Yes, sir," said the waiter. "Even the milk, you will notice, has got the blues badly."

Do Not Delay.—When, through debilitated digestive organs, poison finds its way into the blood, the prime consideration is to get the poison out as rapidly and as thoroughly as possible. Delay may mean disaster. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a most valuable and effective medicine to assail the intruder with. They never fail. They go at once to the seat of the trouble and work a permanent cure.

If there's one thing a boy enjoys seeing more than a circus, it is a dog fight.

Prevent Disorder.—At the first symptoms of internal disorder, Parmelee's Vegetable Pills should be resorted to immediately. Two or three of these salutary pellets, taken before going to bed, followed by doses of one or two pills for two or three nights in succession, will serve as a preventive of attacks of dyspepsia and all the discomforts which follow in the train of that fell disorder. The means are simple when the way is known.

ENOUGH TO WAKE THEM.

DISAGREEABLE DIFFERENCE.

"Why is a gun like a cat?" asked the conundrum fiend.

"I dunno," replied the victim.

"Because they both go off."

"But there's a difference."

"What is it?"

"The cat comes back."

DEMANDS OF TURKISH WOMEN

Want Home Life as It Obtains in Other Countries.

One of the most difficult questions which will have to be solved by new Turkey is that of the future of Turkish women. It has already given rise to considerable discussion, and will sooner or later become a national question.

For many years among the better classes there has been a steady movement toward emancipation, and the old Turkish life has practically disappeared in all the houses of the educated people. The change came with education, as the daughters of the house were trained by foreign governesses. They began to read foreign literature and papers, and brought up their children better than themselves, with the result that no family of any consequence keeps up the old Turkish customs in their entirety. Thus very few modern Turks have more than one wife, the life in their houses is quite European, including their dress, mode of living, food, etc. Only out-of-doors do they wear the veil as before.

But the women want more; they want to institute home life, and many have done so already. They also desire to receive visitors without restriction, and adopt more becoming dress in public. The educated Turks have no objection to this, provided the change is not too quick, as they also have mixed in foreign society and feel the want of ladies in Turkish society. If it remained with this class alone the change would come rapidly, but there are the common classes and the country people, who cannot understand it, and can never imagine any change by which their women folk should be anything else than what they have been for centuries.

And it is noteworthy that in the provinces that whenever reactionaries have tried to start a movement against the constitution they have always declared that one of the first objects of the constitution would be the complete emancipation of the women and their going about unveiled, and this has never failed to excite the people, as was the case at Medina, where the situation was saved by the arrival of a number of troops and the arrest of the agitators. This is the reason Prince Sabah ed Din in his speech last week, specially spoke to women, counseling prudence and moderation.

From 8,000 to 10,000 people die annually in Canada from tuberculosis. In Ontario in 1907 there were 2,667 deaths from the disease, while from small-pox, scarlet fever, diphtheria, measles, whooping cough and typhoid fever the total deaths were 1,059, or less than half. It is the duty of every citizen to contribute to the amelioration of this scourge.

A business corporation has been successfully established in Vienna by men who are totally blind. The company manufactures brushes and baskets and all its employees are blind. In the eight months of its existence it has filled orders aggregating $4,600, making a fair profit, and has enough orders on hand to justify the enlargement of its workshops. Sixteen of the employees are skilled workmen and the company wishes it known that its wares are sold on their actual merit, that they are put upon the market in fair competition with the product of other concerns, and that the blind people want "business, not charity." In our own Ontario, the Institution for the Blind is doing good work in fitting those deprived of their sight for the activities of business life.

Among the blunders reported from the schools are the following, some of which may be new: "Bigamy is when a man tries to serve two masters." "The law allowing only one wife is called monogamy." "A lie is an abomination in the Lord, and a very present help in the time of trouble." "The liver is an internal organ of the body." "The Priest and the Levite passed on the other side because the man had been robbed already." "Soldiers live in a fort; where their wives live is called a fortress." "A school-master is called a pedagogue." "Figree means a list of your descendants." "The wife of a Prime Minister is called a Primate."

Curator Dittmars, of the New York Zoological Society, makes a specialty of snakes. Mr. Dittmars recently made a bet that he could put his head in a big snake's mouth, as the fabled college song man did in the lion's maw. Now, a snake's lower jaw is not hinged to his upper, as in the case with most animals. That's why a snake's jaw can be distended to swallow a goat, if necessary. Also, a snake's sense of smell is peculiarly keen. When Dittmars and his friend entered the rock bound home of the big snakes the Ceylon python was awakened and his jaws pried open. Dittmars, according to the story, then put his head in the serpent's mouth. The huge jaws never closed. Dittmars' friend paid the bet, "How did you do it?" he asked. "I put oil of bergamot on my hair. The python despises the perfume. That's why he didn't close his jaws."

It is told of a Michigan editor that he grew tired of lying about people in obituary notices, and then have people call him a hypocrite, so he wrote up one well-known citizen. We have not been able to learn what became of the editor: "DIED—Aged fifty-six years, six months and fifteen days. Deceased was a mild-mannered pirate with a mouth for whisky and an eye for boodle. He came here at night with another man's wife and joined the church at the first chance. He owed us seven dollars on the paper. You could hear him pray six blocks. He died singing 'Jesus Paid It All,' and we think he is right, as he never paid anything himself. He was buried in an asbestos casket and his friends threw palm fans into his grave, as he may need them. His tombstone will be a favorite restingplace for hoot owls."

Kincardine, Ont., Nov. 2.—On Saturday evening an accident occurred on the Sauguen road, whereby John Martin, a well-known blacksmith of Ripley, lost his life. Deceased was driving home with a load of coal from Kincardine. It was quite dark, and the horses missed the road, upsetting the wagon in the ditch. The load fell upon Mr. Martin, and when he was taken out of it was found that life was extinct. He was about 60 years of age, and leaves a wife and grown-up family.

A CHANGE FOR THE BETTER.

An advertising expert said at a clothiers' banquet in Grand Rapids:

"I am glad your clothiers now advertise, now print pictures of men's and boys' fashions. Thus you smarten up the people, and you help to abolish the cutting down of the father's clothes for the son. You have educated our little boys to dress, and few of them could bear to wear now their fathers' garments made over by their mothers' awkward hands. It was not always so. I remember how, in the distant past, my little brother rushed whimpering into my room one night.

"Oh dear," he whined, 'pa's had his beard shaved off, and now I guess I've got to wear the old red thing!'"

Bush fires in the Bruce Peninsula are threatening the villages of Sauble Falls, Oliphant, Red Bay and Golden Valley, and even the towns of Wiarton and Lion's Head are in danger, it is said. Large quantities of timber have been destroyed.

An automobile party was touring through the mountainous district of western Pennsylvania, and had made a stop in one of the small towns to make some repairs to the machine. While they waited the attention of one of the party was called to an intelligent looking lad of about 14, who was asked the following question:—"Say, son, what do you live on out here?" "Nuthin'," replied the somewhat surprised youth. "Dad's a preacher."

The man who carries the biggest bible and wears the most reverential physiognomy about church time on a Sunday morning isn't necessarily the most religious man in the whole community and it's a good thing too when one comes to think of it that religion isn't measured that way; for some people although good at heart are not hypocritical enough to believe that the bigger the bible or the more serious they look the greater will be their chances of heaven. A man can be truly religious at heart without looking like a book agent or parading like a sick elephant in a circus parade.

ANALYTICAL CHEMIST TELLS OF PATENT MEDICINES

A graduate in organic chemistry, who has made a study of many of the best-known patent medicines on the market, states that many have virtue, but as a rule people have to pay for a lot of unnecessary expense. The following is the recipe of a well-known secret preparation, and is known by authority to be one of the best stomach and liver tonics. It is prescribed by many of the best physicians.

This mixture cures constipation and biliousness. The recipe:—
Fluid Extract Cascara..... 1/2 oz.
Syrup Rhubarb 1 oz.
Carrina Compound 1 oz.
Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla 5 oz.

Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

An eminent authority, who has made a careful and scientific study of the relative values of drugs having a specific action on the kidneys, bladder, and liver, pronounces this an excellent combination.

You can buy the ingredients separately and mix at home.
Cut this formula out and save it.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon a doctor as little better than rogues. One day my loss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, who had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and chivalrous. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment."

It is 22 years since the last execution took place in Owen Sound. At that time Cook Teats, a blind man, who resided near Flesherton, charged with poisoning his wife, was tried and convicted on purely circumstantial evidence, and hanged for the crime. The execution of Teats was a terrible mistake, as it was learned afterwards that he was the innocent victim of another person's crime. It was only a few years after Teats was hanged that a woman, when on her death bed, confessed that Cook Teats was innocent of the crime with which he was charged, and that she herself was the murderess of her daughter.

A young man named Wentworth, from Grimsby, was painting a barn near Jordan, when colts at play became entangled in a rope and pulled his ladder over. He was killed by the fall.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.
TORONTO.

Receipts of live stock at the city market were 88 carloads, composed of 1196 cattle, 1264 hogs, 2138 sheep and lambs, and 102 calves.

Receipts of cattle were moderate, of which few could be classed as good, the bulk being common to medium.

Trade was fairly good, prices being firmer for anything approaching good, but inferior to common sold at about the same quotations as last week.

Exporters—Export steers sold at $4.50 to $5 per cwt.; bulls, $3.75 to $4.50. Few were on sale, as will be seen by sales given below.

Butchers—A few of the best butchers on sale sold as high as $4.75, but there were not many bought at this figure. George Rowntree bought 5 loads butchers for Harris Abattoir Co. at $3.65 to $4.35; cows $2 to $3.60; canners $1 to $2.

Feeders and Stockers—Messrs Harry and W. Murby report the market for feeders and stockers as steady to strong, especially for the better classes. They report the following prices: Best feeders 950 to 1050 lbs each, at $3.65 to $4 per cwt; best feeders, 800 to 900 lbs each, at $3.25 to $3.50; best stockers, 600 to 800 lbs each, at $3 to $3.25; common and medium, stockers $1.85 to $2.50.

Milkers and Springers—There was a strong market for the best milkers and forward springers; backward springers are not wanted. Prices for good to choice cows ranged from $45 to $60 each common to medium cows $30 to $35, and slow of sale.

Veal Calves—About 100 calves sold at usual prices, $3 to $6, with an odd choice calf bringing $6.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts of sheep and lambs were large, 2138. Export ewes easy at $3.25 to $3.40; rams $2 to $2.50 per cwt; lambs fairly firm at $4.40 to $4.70 per cwt.

Hogs—Twelve hundred and sixty-four hogs were reported by railways from all sources. Mr. Harris, who got the bulk, reports prices easy at $6 for select and $5.75 for lights.

DOING A GOOD BUSINESS

Two men, miserably clad, called on the dean of a medical college in New York.

"We are both on the verge of starvation, sir," the spokesman said. "We are well on in years, and it is clear that we haven't much longer to live. Would you care to purchase our bodies for your dissecting room?"

The dean hesitated.

"It is an odd proposition," he muttered.

"But it is occasionally done," said the spokesman in an eager voice.

"Well," said the dean, "we might arrange it. What price do you ask?"

"Over in Philadelphia," said the spokesman, "they gave us $40."

A Gainsboro, Sask., farmer, named E. Burke, harvested 60,000 bushels of wheat the past season. He is one of the largest individual farmers in the world.

THE G. T. R.

The Grand Trunk Railway has not been able to pay any dividends to the shareholders, for the past year, except upon a little stock. For the most part the men who have put up the money to build and equip this road get nothing. And it has been about that way ever since the road began. Most of the capital invested is English capital. For a period of forty years they never got a cent in the way of dividends. Then for a few years a small dividend was paid, now it is back to the old thing. The general manager, Chas. M. Hays, explains the difficulty. Trade unionism is making the operating expenses heavier every year, and the railway commission have cut the freight rates. The railway companies are thus placed between the Devil and the deep sea. And yet a great many people have the opinion that the railways are organized robbers.

A minister's wife, a doctor's wife, and a travelling man's wife met one day recently and were talking about the forgetfulness of their husbands.

The minister's wife thought her husband was the most forgetful man living, because he would go to church and forget his notes and no one could make out what he was trying to preach about.

The doctor's wife thought her husband was the most forgetful, for he would often start out to see a patient and forget his medicine case and, therefore, travels miles for nothing.

"Well!" said the travelling man's wife "my husband beats that. He came home the other day and patted me on the cheek and said: 'I believe I have seen you before, little girl. What is your name?'"

LAURIER ONCE AGAIN

Latest Returns Give Liberals a Majority of 39 Seats.

With 211 Constituencies Reported Grits Have 125 and Conservatives 86—Ontario Showed Total Gain of Two Ridings—New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Western Provinces Are Surprised.

Toronto, Oct. 27.—It is four more years of Laurier. Probably in the general result the public were not surprised, but the good guessers in arriving at their total figures were a long way out in many instances.

At midnight there were 125 Liberals and 86 Conservatives elected. Seven constituencies will vote later.

The surprises were Ontario, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and the west. Ontario was expected to give a much larger majority to the Conservative party. The majority in the old House was eight, and the Conservatives confidently expected it would exceed 20, some even predicting as many as 40 to the good. But Mr. Borden's followers on Ontario has been increased by two only.

Among the Conservative gains in Ontario were Centre York, North Grey, Parry Sound, North Ontario, West Hamilton, South Bruce, East Peterboro, but they made losses in North Waterloo, Brantford, Stormont, Prince Edward, South Ontario, East Simcoe and North Perth. No one had any idea that Alex. MacLaren would lose his seat for North Perth. The Perth were to be "solid for Borden," but both went Liberal, and the Simcoes were likewise in the Borden column until the returns began to come in, when Mr. Bennett, the "stormy petrel," was found to have lost his place in the House.

The Conservative leader has two seats to sit in, for he was also elected in Carleton. As Carleton is a Conservative hive, he will likely decide to sit for Halifax.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has also too many seats, having been elected for Ottawa as well as Quebec East.

The following are the latest returns:

STEAMER IROQUOIS BURNED.

Ran on a Rock Near Spanish Mills in a Fog.

A despatch from Little Current says: The mail steamer Iroquois, from Little Current to Outler, went on a rock on Saturday morning near Spanish Mills while running nearly full speed in the fog and smoke. She listed over until the promenade deck was under water. The cook stove and lanterns were upset and set fire to the boat. J. & S. Charlton's tug Fraser, working on a boom near by, heard the signals of distress and came and picked up the passengers and crew, who had taken to the lifeboats. Three bags of mail was all that was saved. The passengers lost their baggage and the crew everything they had on board. The steamer was a strong, seaworthy boat and belonged to T. C. Simms, Little Current.

WHEELS CRUSHED HIS HEAD.

Merrickville's Man Killed in Yards at Smith's Falls.

A despatch from Smith's Falls says: Richmond Ambrose Gerald, aged 20, was instantly killed in the C. P. R. yards here on Friday night. It is supposed he stepped off the 8:25 train before it stopped, and striking a switch post, was hurled back on the track, the wheels passing over his head. He had been on a visit to his grandmother in Almonte and was returning to Merrickville, where he was employed in Watchorn's woolen mill.

MOTHER AND SON PERISH.

A Shocking Fire Accident at Winnipeg on Saturday.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: A terrible accident, which resulted in two deaths, occurred on Saturday morning, when Mrs. I. Holmes attempted to light a fire with coal oil. The can exploded, igniting her clothing. Her only son, a lad about twelve years of age, rushed to her assistance, and in an heroic attempt to save his mother was fatally burned himself. Both died later in the hospital.

SMOKE-POISONING.

Death of Mrs. T. M. Scott in Port Arthur Hospital.

A despatch from Port Arthur says: The terrible forest fires in this vicinity have been responsible for at least one death, though it occurred under somewhat remarkable circumstances. The victim is Mrs. T. M. Scott, who died in the hospital on Friday from smoke-poisoning as the result of her system becoming saturated with smoke at her home, where she was surrounded by fire for several weeks.

LIKE THORNS IN THE FLESH

Are the Sharp Twinges and Tortures of Rheumatism--Dr.
Williams' Pink Pills a Certain Cure.

The twinges and the tortures of rheumatism are not due to cold, damp weather as so many people imagine. Rheumatism comes from poisonous acid in the blood. The pains may be started by cold weather, damp weather or by keen winds. There is only one way to cure rheumatism. It must be treated through the blood. All the liniments and rubbing, and so-called electrical treatment in the world will not cure rheumatism. The acid that causes the disease must be driven out of the blood and the blood enriched and purified. It is because Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make new, red blood that they have cured thousands of cases of rheumatism after all other treatment had failed. As a proof of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do even in the most severe cases of rheumatism, the case of Mr. David Carroll, a well known furniture dealer of Picton, N. S., may be cited. Mr. Carroll says: "I have been a most severe sufferer from rheumatism, and in the hope that some other poor sufferer may find relief from my experience I gladly write you of the benefit I have received from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The trouble settled in my shoulders and down my sides and at times I was quite unable to raise my arm. I was attended by a doctor, but as I did not appear to be getting any better I sent for a so-called electric belt for which I paid $40.00. It did not do me any good and then I tried another remedy, but without any better results. A friend asked me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I got three boxes, by the time I had used them all I found the stiffness and pain less severe, and I got another half dozen boxes. When I had taken these every symptom of the trouble had disappeared and in the two years that have since passed I have had no return of the trouble. I believe there is no other medicine equal to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for curing this most painful trouble, and I have recommended the Pills to others who have been benefitted by their use."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills not only cure rheumatism, but all the other diseases due to poor watery blood, such as anaemia, indigestion, nervous disorders, neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance, paralysis, and the ailments of girlhood and womanhood, with their headaches, backaches, side-aches and attendant miseries. Only the genuine Pills can do this and you should see that the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," is on the wrapper around each box. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PRIDE.

The Man at the Door--"My little girl, ma'am, picked up a shoppin' bag which she says she seen an old lady drop--an' I thought maybe it was yours, ma'am."

The Lady in the Hall (haughtily)--"There are no old ladies here. It isn't mine."

And yet it was hers just the same.

THEIR PRIVILEGE.

When we hear some people sing,
We wonder how they dare;
Yet we suppose they have the right
Because they rent the air.

A camel can carry three times as heavy a load as a horse is capable of doing.

Fortunate is the man with a pull--providing he doesn't pull the wrong way.

"My good man, did you ever take a bath?" Tramp--"No, mum. I never took anything bigger than a silver teapot."

Do you know that it is poor economy to save the cost of building at the expense of heavy loss of feed-stuffs? Do you know that the hay stack wintered out doors loses in value many times what the interest would be on the money invested in a building suitable to house it? Figure it out for yourself.

Some successful dairymen believe it is a mistake to yard the cows at night and let them run in the pastures during the daytime. They say that the cow will get more good out of the grass she will eat in the evening and morning and during the night than she would during the heat of the day when the flies are annoying her.

THE HOME-COMING OF CECIL CLIVE

"And, meantime," thundered Barth, "remember that it is my house, and that your place is on the other side of the door. Be gone, and never want to see you again."

Cecil laughed. His uncle's brutality did not seem to affect him nearly so much as little Miss Holmes's kindness had done, and he went towards the door with good feet.

"I'm going, uncle," he said, "don't lose your temper. Good-bye, all of you."

Miss Holmes sat in a corner, crying softly. He approached the girl and patted her gently on the shoulder and then went from the room.

"A good riddance," said George, "He's positively hateful," commented Mabel.

"Another moment and I'd have thrown him out," muttered Arthur, who was always very pugnacious when there was nobody to fight.

Mr. Barth, however, was silent. Obviously he was considering a weighty matter, and the outcome of his deliberations proved rather unpleasant for Miss Holmes. Clearing his throat, he said in a loud, judicial tone:--

"Miss Holmes, be good enough to attend to me."

The girl rose, and stood with her small hands clasped tightly together.

"For some years," said the dignified voice, "you have occupied position in my household, and have no reason to disapprove of you; but your conduct this morning makes it impossible for me to let you continue as governess to my two youngest children. Your sympathy with a penniless and reckless ne'er-do-well proves that you are not fit to have the training of your minds, and so, Miss Holmes, I wish to ask you to take a month's notice."

The girl did not seem to mind very much.

"I will go this very day," she said bravely.

"That is as you please," replied Mr. Barth, magnanimously, and feeling vaguely that he was doing a very noble action, "but perhaps it will be better."

"It will be a splendid thing for the neighborhood," observed Mabel Barth a few weeks later; "though I wonder why he selected our part of the country for his home."

He had been discussing with the family the news that had just reached Meadowhurst, to the effect that Constantine McIlwraith had purchased the Hall and intended settling down there for some months.

"The man is enormously rich," went on Mr. Barth. "And no doubt he will be correspondingly generous. If I can interest him in that scheme of mine for adding new plant to the works, it will mean a difference of thousands per annum to me."

Now, Mr. Barth did not believe in letting the grass grow under his feet, and that very day he sat down and wrote to Mr. McIlwraith, begging for an interview.

"The fact that we are such near neighbors makes me bold to address you," he concluded. "And I believe that the scheme which I desire to propose to you would prove mutually advantageous."

By return of post he received communication from the great man's secretary, asking him to call at the Hall on the following morning at eleven o'clock.

Delighted by this speedy reply Mr. Barth went his way in the cheeriest of spirits, and on the next morning he buttoned himself up in his most dignified frock-coat and sallied forth to the Hall.

A resplendent man-servant ushered him into the great oaken library and asked him to sit down. A moment later the door opened and another visitor entered. Mr. Barth jumped up in amazement.

"Halloa, George!" he exclaimed. "What on earth are you doing here?"

"I was just going to ask you the same question, dad," replied George, sulkily. "As a matter of fact, I have an appointment with old McIlwraith here at eleven."

"H'm! That's queer!" commented Barth. "He told me to be at the house at the same hour."

Once again the door opened, and father and son started up, ready to make their obeisances to the golden calf as represented by Mr. Constantine McIlwraith, but to the supreme amazement of both of them they beheld Arthur and Mabel.
