"In conclusion, the Allied powers think it necessary to put forward the following considerations, which show the special situation of Belgium under a half year of war. In virtue of the international treaties signed by five great European powers, of whom Germany was one, Belgium enjoyed before the war a special status, rendering her territory inviolable..."

PROGRESS OF THE WAR

[December 28 to January 3]

ON the last day of the week under review the war completed the thirtieth month of its course. Hostilities were vigorously maintained throughout the week on most fronts, but nothing in any way decisive resulted.

In the Western campaign no change in positions of any magnitude was effected, and no very great offensive was attempted by either side.

Some activity was announced in the Eastern campaign at a number of points on the front from Rigas to Dobruja, in the northern and central parts of the front the Russians being on the offensive.

The Teutons and their allies made further advances in Wallachia and Dobruja, but appearances indicated that their further advance was at least about to be stopped by the Russians and Rumanians.

Of the Mesopotamian campaign the week furnished little news, one report stating that since December 29 rains had been incessant and the ground near Kut-el-Amara was almost impassable.

The Austro-Italian campaign provided little news during the week. Hostilities were continuous, but nothing in any way decisive resulted.

The week saw no statement of the enemies' submarine attacks on merchant shipping, and in "News of the Sea" will be found the week's record of the result and disasters.

The conspicuous event of the week was the publication of the joint reply of all the Entente Allies to the German suggestion for a conference to discuss peace.

The reply is so important, and states so tersely the cause of the war, the inhuman way in which it has been conducted by Germany, and the object of the Entente Allies in continuing it till their objects are accomplished.

NEEDED REFORMS FOR TOWN COUNCIL

THERE is an anomaly in connection with the Town Council that is in need of reform, and we hope the present Council will take the steps necessary to have the matter rectified.

The Town election should be held early in the year, and the appropriations should be made out as soon as possible thereafter.

It is some special public work were in contemplation, and the ratemakers expressed their opinion thereon at the Town election by voting for Aldermen in favor of, or opposed to, the contemplated public work, under the present system no immediate effect could be given to the decision of the electors if the expenditure they desired to be made were in excess of the appropriations made by the preceding Council.

"Would there be any objection to me playing a bit?" "Objection to the nurse says 'Oh, Captain, please do play. It would do the boys so much good.' So my boy played for a while, softly, of course, for there were some terribly wounded fellows in the hospital, and he feared to disturb them."

By and by the nurse comes in and says: "Captain Brown, of the Gordon Highlanders, who is so seriously injured in that cot over there, asked me who was playing, and I told him it was Captain Lauder. He asked me if I could get you to play 'Lead, Kindly Light.'"

"Of course, my boy was only too glad to do it. He began to play, and he saw Captain Brown smile and wave his hand at him. He played on for five or ten minutes, when he felt a hand on his shoulder. There stood the nurse, with the tear rolling down her cheeks. 'Captain Brown is dead,' she sobbed. 'And so he was.'"

"And my boy told his mother, 'Mother, I was so thankful that I was brought up to know those things that I was sent to Sunday school in my boyhood because it helped me to cheer the last moments of a brave man who died for his country.'"

Had our author recently purchased an estate of 22,000 acres with a castle, in Argyleshire, Scotland, would he have married to Miss Mildred Thompson, of Glasgow, to whom he was engaged, that day at his home, 427 Beach Street, after an illness of more than three years, caused by an injury while in the employ of the city of Boston as an inspector.

LUMBERING INDUSTRY ON CAMPOBELLO

For two months the sound of axe and saw has been heard on Campobello Island and lumbering on a large scale has been inaugurated within its limits.

The island was formerly the property of a lady in New York, he said, but it had been sold to an American syndicate, and there are rumors afloat that this syndicate is, in turn, connected in some way with the Great Northern pulp interests.

Mr. Mason said that a mill was to be erected on the centre of the island, and one on either side, and that the logs would be cut up on the ground.

Mr. Mason said that the lumbermen at work on the island estimate that there is five years' continuous cutting on Campobello and some of very fine quality.

"I hope you find your daughter much improved since she went to college," "She's educated," replied the old-fashioned mother, "but I can't say she's improved—Life."

U-BOAT SCARS DOWN THE BAY

How easy it is to make a submarine scare is shown in the following dispatch from Eastport, Me.:

"Mistaking an innocent power boat, which was helping a vessel in distress, for a German submarine making off with a prize, somewhere on Grand Manan Island, started a scare, which spread all around the Bay of Fundy and up and down the coast."

The schooner Leona F., of Eastport, New York for Halifax, with coal, went ashore near Seal Cove on the southwest shore of Grand Manan. Word was sent to the Canadian cruisers, Calcutta and Petrel, and they were on the way to assist, when a large power boat, with two masts and a short funnel, came along and pulled off the schooner.

She was sighted making off down the Bay with the tow, and through the mist appeared something like a submarine. The news was promptly flashed all up and down the coast, to look out for U-boats and warnings were repeated to all shipping anywhere near. Meanwhile the Calcutta and Petrel had given chase to the two, overhauled the power boat and examined her papers and found her all right.

The schooner had been having hard luck, having lost out a month, going ashore on Grand Manan her two weeks ago and putting into Machias for a new rudder. She appeared to be undamaged by her last bump.—St. John Globe, Dec. 29.
