Provisional Ulster Government Say in Report What They Think of Asquith

THINK IT WISDOM TO BE PREPARED

To Actively Resist Any Attempt That May be Made At Coercion

Belfast, July 11.—An official report of the meeting of the "Provisional Government" announces that the Executive have been instructed to act in accordance with the spirit of the declaration asserting that the "Provisional Government" having a well grounded want of confidence in the good faith of the Imperial Government is compelled to press on with the completion of arrangements to resist by every means in its power every attempt to impose the authority of a Home Rule Parliament on Ulster.

Authentic information as to what decisions were reached at yesterday's meeting of the Ulster Provisional Government is very meagre but the most significant part of the lengthy resolution handed to the press is the clause which instructs the Executive to take action, if necessary, to resist the imposition of the Dublin Parliament.

The resolution further announces the willingness of Ulster to negotiate for a pacific settlement if her rights are safeguarded. Deference was expressed wishes King opening Parliament but they have lost confidence in the Government.

The meeting of the Council was attended by 500 delegates who listened to the grave statement by Carson, which held out little hope for a peaceful solution, and suggested that the delegates empower the Executive to decide on immediate action for circumstances might require action which might irrevocably commit Ulster to armed resistance and might have to be taken at an hour's notice.

EUROPE GONE ARMAMENT MAD

Sir Edward Grey Tells House of Commons that the Great Powers are Bent on Keeping up the Killing Pace

London, July 10.—Criticism of the blooded armaments of European Powers were directed at Sir Edward Grey in the House of Commons today.

In reply Sir Edward declared that Britain had done her best, but her direct suggestions to foreign countries as to limitation of armaments, had been without any good result. On the contrary, they had been regarded, he said, as an attempt to limit their control of their own freedom of action, and had been resented accordingly.

Sir Edward added that the most notable thing in Europe during the past year had not been the naval, but the military increase; and Britain had not been responsible for that.

Liner 'Calgarian' Makes New Record

Clips Twenty Hours Off the Time of Best Trans-Atlantic Trip

Montreal, July 10.—The Allan office reported that the steamship Calgarian had set a new trans-Atlantic record for the passage to Canada by way of Cape Race from Liverpool, 6 days, 8 hours, 20 minutes.

This is six hours less than the previous records, held by the C.P.R. Empresses.

It is expected that when the Calgarian takes the shorter route through the Straits of Belle Isle, the time will be shortened.

REFUSED AID TO THE HINDUS

Owners of Steamer Won't Help and Vancouver Takes Same Line

Vancouver, July 10.—The Japanese owners of the Komagatta Maru have cabled refusal of aid to the Hindus passengers provisioning for the return trip across the Pacific.

The owners claim that the charterers are, under their agreement, responsible for all supplies and similar expenses. The charter of the boat does not run out till September 27th.

The Hindus passengers have appealed both to the city and the Dominion Government for aid; but the city has refused to extend any assistance, claiming that the Hindus colony here should come to the relief of the East Indians on the boat, and provide for the return voyage.

COVENANTER DEMONSTRATION FOR JULY 12TH

Has Been Arranged At a Meeting of the Ulsterite Leaders

GOVERNMENT FEAR THERE'LL BE A ROW

And Are Instructing the Police to be Very Careful

Belfast, July 10.—Full military honors were accorded by the Ulster Volunteers to Carson when he arrived here, accompanied by the Marquis of Londonderry, Viscount Sarsfield, Walter H. Long, Ronald MacNeill and other Unionist members of Parliament, to attend a meeting of the Ulster Provisional Government.

The guard of honor was composed of 400 armed volunteers. Fifty armed motor-cycle dispatch-riders escort of the leaders to the residence of Captain James Craig, military leader, where they will remain for a week.

The intentions of the Provisional Government have not been disclosed, but one object of the meeting is the arrangement of an impressive celebration on the Twelfth of July in order to show the Government and the people of Great Britain that nothing but the absolute exclusion of Ulster from the operation of the Home Rule Bill will satisfy the province.

As one prominent Ulsterman put it, the Government is uneasy as to the outcome of the celebration. Major-General Sir Cecil MacCreedy, in command of the militia in Belfast district, has been in conference with Asquith on the situation.

The police have been instructed to act with great care so as to give no excuse for an outbreak.

U. S. ANXIOUS AS TO RESULT OF CONFERENCE

Worried Over the Reported Break Between Villa and Carranza

Washington, D.C., July 9.—The outcome of the parleys at Torreon, where the envoys of Carranza and Villa discussed the causes that led to the estrangement between the Constitutional chief is anxiously awaited here.

While news from Torreon declared the results of the meeting would be "entirely satisfactory to the Constitutional cause," yet reports from other sources asserting that the conference was in a deadlock caused some uneasiness.

Plans for a meeting between the representatives of Huerta, who took part in the Niagara mediation proceedings, and delegates of the Constitutionalists would await the results of the Torreon parleys, it generally was believed here.

The crux in the Torreon situation, it appeared, was based on the disputes over the personnel of the advisory boards surrounding both Carranza and Villa. Each side, it was said, was demanding the elimination of certain counsellors of the other.

CLOSE CALL OF CONSERVATIVE GOVERNMENT

Roblin Was Almost Defeated in the Manitoba Elections

NARROW MAJORITY OF SIX MEMBERS

Conservative Premier Himself Barely Managed to Hold His Seat

Winnipeg, July 11.—By a narrow majority of six seats and one more still to give an answer, the Roblin Conservative Government was returned in Manitoba Province yesterday. In all the elections ever held in the West, the one that has just closed with the near defeat of Roblin and his party is the closest beyond any doubt.

Of the Cabinet Ministers, Hon. Hugh Armstrong, Provincial Treasurer, was defeated, while the Hon. George Lawrence had a very narrow majority. The Premier himself had a very narrow escape from the avalanche of votes that played havoc with the Government and elected four Liberals to two Conservatives in Winnipeg City.

Portage La Prairie turned over too. It was there that Hon. Hugh Armstrong met his Waterloo. It is anticipated, however, that a recount may save Armstrong. Many recounts will be necessary, so close was the result. It will be several days before many of the majorities are confirmed, but the present figures show there is no doubt that the Government has been sustained.

CARSON GIVEN A FREE HAND

Ulster Unionists Authorise Him to Cope With Events as He Thinks Fit—Ulster Will Never Surrender Principles

Belfast, July 10.—The Provisional Government, formed by Ulster Unionists, at its first meeting today, gave Sir Edward Carson a free hand to take whatever action he may think necessary in calling Ulster Volunteers to arms.

The men were declared to be ready for mobilization at a moment's notice.

Carson, in a speech, declared that the time had come for the 'loyalists' of Ulster to translate their whole words into action. He said something must be done to compel the British Government to make up its mind.

Ulster, he concluded, was anxious for peace, but was not going to accept peace with surrender.

Title For Widow Of Chamberlain?

Birmingham, July 10.—The London correspondent of The Daily Post, in speaking of the death of Joseph Chamberlain, suggests that the King may confer a title on his widow.

Socialists Vote Against Picnic

Don't Want the President to Visit Russia at a Cost Of $80,000

Paris, July 9.—The extreme Socialists in the Chamber of Deputies have voted in a solid body against an appropriation of $80,000 to cover the expenses of President Poincare's approaching visit to the Emperor of Russia. In spite of this, however, the appropriation was adopted by 428 to 106, as all the other parties in the Chamber united to support it.

Jean Jaures, the Socialist leader, said the French Socialists were not opposed to the alliance between Russia and France, but considered the long and expensive visits of President Poincare overdone. Besides, he added, the Russian Duma no longer had any influence on Russian policy, which was now a policy of reaction.

HAS INVENTED AERIAL TORPEDO

New Weapon of War Will Create Havoc when Used Against Cities

Boston, July 10.—The aerial torpedo is the latest invention for war purposes. Andrew M. Shuhany, a Lowell machinist, 27 years old, is the inventor of this new and deadly weapon of warfare, which is soon to be tested by the United States Government.

That nothing short of complete annihilation awaits the town or city against which the torpedoes are directed is the claim of the inventor. The invention, which was patented last February, is designed to be dropped from aeroplanes or dirigible balloons.

CHINA WARNED SHE INVITES GRAVE TROUBLE

By Opposing Herself to the Just Demands of Britain In the East

REPUBLIC REFUSES SIGN CONVENTION

Delimiting the Boundaries of Tibet and Britain will Force Her Hand

London, July 11.—A warning that trouble is likely to result from China's refusal to sign the agreement as to what territory shall compose outer and inner Tibet, reached by the recent convention at Darjeeling, India was issued to China today by the British Foreign Secretary.

Sir Edward Crewe was speaking on the subject of appropriations for the foreign office in the House of Commons and said: "If China does not sign but resorts to aggressive policy the consequences must be disastrous for China. There certainly will be grave trouble on the Indian frontier, which will require Great Britain to take up the matter seriously with the Government of China."

The Darjeeling Conference at which representatives of Britain, Tibet and China have been discussing the subject of Tibet autonomy has been in session since last fall, and the convention was recently drafted and presented for signature to the three Governments.

GETS $2,550,000 FROM OLD JOHN D.

Rockefeller Makes Munificent Gift to Institution Bearing His Name

New York, July 9.—The trustees of the Rockefeller Institute have just announced the receipt of a new gift of $2,550,000 from John D. Rockefeller the founder of the great laboratories for the study of the causes of human disease. Only recently Mr. Rockefeller set aside in a special fund $1,000,000 to enable the institute to found a department of animal pathology, so that it may be said that Mr. Rockefeller's 1914 gift to the institute is $3,550,000.

HAPPY GAME DEVELOPED A TRAGEDY

Pathetic Story of an Aged Man and the Manner Of His Death

WAS ENDEAVORING TO AMUSE CHILD

When He Fell From Hospital Balcony and Was Fatally Injured

Montreal, July 10.—"Goddap, goddap," cried a little boy, a patient at the Royal Victoria Hospital.

And Joseph Moreau, another patient, but seventy years of age, bent forward over the verandah rail, which he straddled, and put all his energy into the exhibition of horse-back riding, which he was giving for the child.

The little boy had missed the circus because he had to be treated at the hospital, and the old man, who had become a great friend of the child, decided to reproduce as well as possible some of the fun of circuses of years gone by. And so he mounted the balcony rail to give an exhibition of fancy riding.

"Hurrup," he cried, and slashed away with an imaginary whip.

"Hurrup," cried the child, dancing beside him.

The old man, who had been cured of a cataract in his eye, and was to have left the hospital to-day, was feeling very happy and fit for his age. Faster and faster went the horse, and then—

The little child stood stricken. There was a cry, and, from below, there came a sound. "It was that of a body striking some twenty feet down."

TRAIL OF BLOOD WAS TRACED TO WOMAN'S DOOR

And Now She is Under Arrest Charged With Murder of Man

FOUND WOUNDED NEAR HER HOUSE

Her Story Was That, While Drunk He Fell Down The Stairs

Stamford, Conn., July 9.—Because expert testimony showed that a trail of human blood ran from the lower hall of the building up two flights of stairs and into her departments, and because she would make no statement, Mrs. Helen M. Angle was locked up without bail in the course of the enquiry yet incomplete by Coroner Phelan into the mysterious death of Walter R. Ballou on the night of June 23. Mrs. Angle had been at liberty under a $5,000 bond.

'WHITE WOLVES' ALARM PEOPLE

Ten Thousand Brigands Are Threatening the Chinese City of Sianfu

Shanghai, July 10.—"White Wolves" the notorious Chinese brigands, a horde of 10,000 well armed outlaws, have encamped upon the outskirts of the City of Sianfu, and the inhabitants are feeling in panic. Dispatches from Sianfu say that fears prevail that the brigands will seize and pillage the city.

Sianfu lies upon a railway on Shensi Province. It has a population of one million, and since the twelfth century, B.C., has been an important trade centre. For two thousand years it was the capital of Eastern China.

WAS IT BODY OF LOST HAMEL?

French Fishermen Find Remains Which May Be Those of Aviator

Boulogne, July 7.—Some fishermen yesterday found a body which is believed to be that of Gustave Hamel, the English aviator, who was lost during a flight from Villa Coublay, France, to the Hendon Aerodrome, on May 3rd.

The body was found off Hardelet, on the French coast, the last place at which Hamel stopped before he started to fly across the English channel.

It was in such condition that it could not be recognized, but the fishermen obtained a map from one of the pockets of the coat which it is hoped will lead to the identification of the body.

REBEL ARMY HAS CAPTURED A STRONGHOLD

Take Cuadajara, Second City of Mexico, From The Federals

VICTORIOUS ARMY LED BY OBREGON

Who Will Now Hurl His Army at Mexico City, The Capital

Washington, July 10.—With mediation proceedings at a standstill, interest in the Mexican situation today, was focussed on developments in the Constitutionalists' military campaign that has reached a climax in the capture of Cuadajara, the second largest city in the Republic.

While despatches from General Obregon who led the latest revolutionary triumph, asserted that few of his men had been killed or wounded, yet official Constitutionalists reports from El Paso, state that information received there asserted that losses were "numerous" on both sides.

From Cuadajara Obregon intends to hurl his troops against Mexico City, distant about 300 miles.

Constitutionalist agents in Washington say that the troops of General Obregon are adequate, although resistance by the Federals at some points on the route is anticipated.

'DEADLY FOURTH' IN UNITED STATES

A 'Patriotic' Demonstration Causes Eighteen Deaths And Many Injuries

Chicago, July 10.—A revised table of the casualties arising from the celebration of the 4th of July throughout the United States, as computed by the Chicago Record-Herald, places the dead at 18 and the injured at 458, as compared with 32 dead and 1,031 injured in 1913.

Of the 18 dead, 9 were victims of fire works, 1 of torpedo, 6 of gunpowder, 1 of a runaway and 1 of a pistol.

BRYAN'S DREAM AT LAST NEARS REALISATION

Excellent Effect of Treaty Now Concluded Between Britain and U.S.A.

COMMISSION TO DEAL WITH ALL DISPUTES

And Will Prevent Crazy Public Opinion From Precipitating Wars

London, July 10.—The News, commenting editorially on the announcement by the United States Ambassador at Peace Centenary meeting in the Metropolitan Tabernacle, last night, that a new treaty between the United States, Great Britain, looking to a closer binding of the two countries, was being concluded says:

"This feat which has crowned Secretary Bryan's lifelong labor in the cause of Peace, is the realization of the dream, with which Sir Edward Grey roused the House of Commons to an astonishing display of enthusiasm three years ago, but which the amiable weakness of President Taft, was not strong enough to translate into action."

"Mr. Bryan's proposals," The News concludes, "are strictly practical, the object of referring disputes to a Commission, being to secure time for reflection, and cooling off when public opinion is dangerously excited."

HEBREW AGAIN IS LANGUAGE OF PALESTINE

And the Turks Are Taking Strong Measures to Suppress it Again

REVIVAL OCCURS IN LAST 10 YEARS

And Tens of Thousands Now Speak Old Biblical Language

Jerusalem, July 8.—The Turkish government has issued orders against posting notices in Hebrew upon the dead walls of cities of Palestine. The action is believed to indicate concern on the part of the authorities over the remarkable revival of the Hebrew language.

Although up to thirty years ago classic Hebrew was not ordinarily used by the Jews of Palestine, it is now the common language of tens of thousands of people in Palestine. It is the medium of instructions in many schools, and newspapers, street car tickets and shopkeepers' signs are in Hebrew. It is therefore apparent that the authorities will have a hard time if they propose to check the spread of the language.

Bible Tongue Revived

The revival of the pure Biblical tongue has been, in a measure, forced on the Palestine Jews for reasons apart from the sentimental. Immigration from other parts of the world, particularly of the 13,000 Yiddish speaking Jews from Russia some years ago, made a common means of communication necessary. Yiddish is not understood by the natives here, while all Jews know some thing of Hebrew.

The Zionist movement, aimed at restoring Palestine to the Jewish race, has done much to finance the Hebrew schools, and is now raising a fund to endow a Hebrew University at Jerusalem.

FIVE BODIES BROUGHT UP FROM 'EMPRESS'

Rimouski, Que., June 6.—The weekend resulted in the recovery of five more bodies from the sunken Empress of Ireland. Three of these were identified by papers found in the clothing.

No matter on what part of the decks the divers land, they seem to discover bodies, and thus the work of systematically exploring the entire ship progresses very slowly. By the time the man under water has secured the remains, lifted them clear of all the debris, the deck chairs and the gear, it is almost time to ascend once more.

On Saturday two bodies were found in the morning by Henry Chinchon, and more would probably have been brought to the surface had the wind not come up. The Mary Josephine waited for some four hours for the sea to calm, but finally the attempt had to be given up, and the schooner returned to Rimouski. These bodies were identified as John Engstrom and Jovan Marin, both of whom bought their tickets in Detroit. Their bodies were shipped to Quebec, and their friends have been notified.

Difficult To Get Men

Yesterday the divers had a splendid opportunity to work, and one of the new men who have arrived were tried out. No man is engaged until he has shown that he has had long experience, that he can stand the terrible pressure at the depth at which the work must be done, and that he has the nerve and quick wit necessary for the work.

Such men are very difficult to find. New York and the lakes have been scoured, and now it is believed that the men will have to be brought from England.

The bodies found yesterday were discovered where the majority of the fifteen so far brought to the surface have been found—on the promenade deck. Evidently large numbers of people rushed out here, thinking they were on the boat deck, and only discovered their mistake too late. Both Engstrom and Marin were fully dressed. They had few valuables.

The three bodies recovered yesterday were third-class passengers, it is thought. One was identified as Cinari Kangas, believed to be a miner. He was booked through to his native village in Italy, and was on his way back for a holiday. A in America is now available to the Fishermen.

"THE COAKER ENGINE."

"THE COAKER" is a 6 H.P., 4 Cycle Engine, and can be operated on half the oil consumed by a 6 H.P., 2 Cycle Engine. This Engine's power is equal to the power of some 9 H.P., 2 Cycle Engines. It is made for Fishermen's use and expressly for Trap Skiffs and the large size fishing bullies. It is sold to Union Members at wholesale prices, all commission and middlemen's profits being cut out. We have contracted for the manufacture of 1000 of these engines. These engines are the favorites carried in stock by us. We have a large stock on hand now at our wharf premises. We carry parts and fittings in stock. We will arrange reasonable terms of payment to meet the requirements of men unable to purchase for cash. WE GUARANTEE THE ENGINE. An expert has been engaged to attend to the installation of our engines. Write for particulars and terms, applying to Chairmen of F.P.U. Councils concerning this Engine. We confidently recommend the Engine as being of the very best make and material, of being exactly what is needed for the Fishermen's use and GUARANTEE TO GIVE SATISFACTION. It is above all durable, simple and capable of doing heavy work; it is not a toy engine. The spark plug is attached to the side and not the top. The Engine starts on gasoline, and when started operates on kerosene oil.

We have sold 200 of these engines the past spring and all are giving splendid satisfaction. Our cash price is $200.00. No other firm can sell you a similar engine. We possess the sole rights to sell this engine. The man who buys a Coaker Engine from us saves $50. We can ship this engine one hour after the order is received.

No agents will be employed to sell these engines. We will do our work through the Councils of the F.P.U.

We are now booking orders for a 4 H.P., 4 Cycle Coaker Engine. This 4 h.p. Engine is suitable for small trap skiffs and large size fishing punts, and will fill a long felt want.

NEWS BRIEFS FROM GREAT BRITAIN

ENGLAND

Job Green, an old Dorset shepherd, and now an inmate of the Dorchester workhouse, celebrated his hundredth birthday recently.

Major-General Sir Luke O'Connor, V.C., K.C.B., who has been appointed colonel of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers, enlisted as a private in that regiment in 1849.

It was stated at a meeting of the general committee of the Royal National Lifeboat Institution that since January 1 this year rewards have been granted for saving 200 lives, and lifeboats have been launched on 139 occasions.

A load of hay, which was being carted along Fox street, Liverpool, suddenly fired up, without any apparent cause. The flames spread rapidly, and there was a great blaze. The fire brigade put the flames out. The outbreak is supposed to be due to the intense heat of the sun.

A piece of poisoned cake, supposed to have been placed in the street by some miscreant, was found by four Portsmouth children on their way home from play. They ate the cake, and all four at once developed symptoms of poisoning. They were taken to the hospital, where Harriet Louisa Roberts, aged ten, died. The others are expected to recover.

Robert King, aged eighty-four, a Crimean veteran, now lying at the Royal Infirmary, Hull, has just been decorated by the mayor with his war medal due to him 57 years ago. The war office, in consideration of the delay, have increased King's pension from 6d. to 1s. 1½d. per day. The local officials of the National Reserve took the matter up with the war office in King's behalf.

Dunmow, the famous old Essex town which bestows fitches of bacon on married couples who have never quarrelled, has had a railway station for forty-six years, but never has a train been known to run into or out of the place on a Sunday. All this was changed on July 5, when a regular Sunday service of six trains were begun. The inauguration of the new service is due to the enterprise of H. W. Thornton, the new American manager of the Great Eastern railway.

Hale and hearty, Mrs. Mary Gunningham, a widow of Kingston, Taunton, who has attained the age of eighty, still acts as a telegraph mes-dead body of her master. Those who attempted to touch the body were viciously attacked by the dog, which was at last enticed away by one of the dead man's relatives. Since then, though repeatedly taken home, it has returned each time to the spot where its master had laid dead.

IRELAND

During the five completed months of this year there has been a decrease in emigration from Ireland, as compared with the corresponding period in 1913, of 4,512 persons, the decrease being made up of 3,219 males and 1,293 females. By province, the decreases shown are:—Ulster, 2,733; Leinster, 342; Munster, 715; and Connaught, 722.

At Ballymena petty sessions reference was made to the recent scenes in the town when a number of lady canvassers were mistaken for suffragists and were mobbed in the streets, and when the two lady visitors from Australia received similar unwelcome attention. Mr. Barclay, J.P., expressed keen disapproval of the conduct of the crowd, which, he said, was regretted by the respectable inhabitants of the town. Henry O'Hara, town clerk, said the scenes were mostly created by irresponsible girls, who followed these persons believing them to be suffragettes.

The Tullamore tragedy took a sensational turn when after the inquest on a farmer named Patrick Raleigh, aged sixty, who resided on a farm in the townland of Cappanacur, and who died of a gunshot wound, his son, John Raleigh, who lived with him, was taken into custody on the capital charge. When the police arrived they found Raleigh lying dead on a bed upstairs with a deep wound over the breast. He was undressed except for a linen shirt, and his clothes, which were on a chair in the bedroom, were saturated with blood. There was a hole in the kitchen door like that which would have been made by a gunshot.

SCOTLAND

When Annie McKenzie, a middle aged woman of respectable appearance, was charged at Glasgow with attempting to steal a chain from the neck of a young farm girl in High street, she protested that she was only tickling the girl's neck. Sheriff Lyell did not accept the explanation, however, and sent McKenzie to prison for three months.

In Dumblane sheriff court Kate McKinnon, domestic servant, of Broadfoot, Skye, was awarded $1,250 damages for breach of promise of marriage against David McDougall, farm servant, Tyndrum. The parties met in Skye and courted for five years. Marriage was promised, but the defendant repeatedly failed to "name the day." The suit was nipped.

Some 3,000 people were attracted to Irvine Harbor to witness the departure of a shipyard worker in a 16-foot open boat in an attempt to cross the Atlantic. At the time announced for the departure there were no signs either of him or his craft, and all inquiries failed to discover his whereabouts. Amongst the crowd were many camera men, some of whom represented newspapers, while many of the spectators had travelled as far as from Glasgow to witness the departure.

The death is announced at Edinburgh in her eighty-fifth year of Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson, who was one of the few remaining lady survivors of the siege of Lucknow. At the time of the siege Mrs. Anderson's husband, Dr. Thomas Anderson, was a medical officer in India, and was stationed at Delhi. Mrs. Anderson was on a visit to Lucknow when the mutiny broke out, and she remained in the beleaguered city for nine months, and she refused to recall that she was present in the talkhanna, or cellar, to which Europeans went to escape the heat, immediately underneath the room to which Sir Henry Lawrence was taken when the distinguished general died.

WALES

The death in London of Miss Clara Thomas, a Breconshire lady, of Llywmdoc, at the age of seventy-three, has been followed by announcements by South Wales charity authorities that it was she who had made enormous gifts to charity for many years past anonymously. The total of her benefactions is estimated at from $750,000 to $1,250,000.

Mrs. Gamlin, of Cardiff, who has kept poultry for forty years, found a remarkable egg in her fowl-coop a few days ago. One of her sons

OUR POINT OF VIEW.

BRIGHTER OUTLOOK

ACCORDING to several of the reports received from the outports yesterday by the Board of Trade the fishery outlook along several sections of the coast is much more encouraging than it was a week or so ago.

This is good news, indeed, to the whole country, but perhaps more particularly to the city of St. John's, much of the trade of which is so entirely dependent on the success of the fishing voyage.

A few days ago, the outlook was very black and there was a general feeling of depression in evidence, but we may now look for a brightening and quickening of things all round.

It is in circumstances that have obtained for the last few weeks and with gloomy reports coming from all sides, that we realise to the full our dependence on the harvest gleaned from the sea by our fishers.

Also it is indisputable evidence that it is about time that this country abandoned the old course of keeping all its eggs in one basket. Nobody can tell when the spill is coming that will leave us absolutely without the means of livelihood.

We have all the natural resources necessary to the establishment of great labor-providing industries in this country. The question is: How much longer has Newfoundland to wait for the coming of a government with the larger outlook which will inspire it to take such measures as will foster such a desirable movement?

A CHANGE OF FRONT

THAT versatile dancing master, the editor of The Daily News, has brought off another unique side-stepping movement. Yesterday morning, he treated his readers to an unqualified diatribe against the churches of this city and the public generally because an unfortunate widow and her family, evicted from their house, had been taken to the common jail for a night's shelter.

"Where," he indignantly demanded, "are our philanthropic institutions? What are our churches doing? . . . The citizens of St. John's, the philanthropic institutions of the city, the churches, and the government are all responsible in some degree."

But, this morning, he strikes a different attitude.

"On arrival at our office," he says, "a gentleman handed us a five dollar bill for the evicted widow and her little ones. We met Hon. J. R. Bennett, . . . who had . . . on the previous night heard the story for the first time . . . His mission was to put things right as far as possible. . . . We met the good pastor . . . who learned yesterday for the first time that she (the widow) had lost her home and had immediately hastened to bring the help of which she stood in such dire need."

Well, now that the churches, the government and the citizens have all proven to the editor's satisfaction that they did not know that the widow was reduced to such poverty isn't it only right for him to apologise to them for jumping to the conclusion that they were all indifferent to her terrible case?

And wouldn't it have been better in the first place to have ascertained these facts—instead of jumping to unfair conclusions and saddling a whole lot of people with an offence against charity of which they were innocent? It is extremely comforting indeed to have The Daily News adopt the attitude of The Mail and Advocate towards the general public of this city by saying: "When the cry of distress is heard, there are always to be found in this city men and women who are ready to hold out the helping hand to the sorrowing and the unfortunate."

Friend, thou art forgiven this time, but see that thou sinnest not against the good people of St. John's again.

Robert Davies Lost Appeal Against Railway for Two Hundred Thousand

Toronto, July 10.—Word has been received that the appeal of the Canadian Northern Railway against the decision of a board of arbitration which allowed Robert Davies, owner of the Don Valley Brick Works, $232,000, an award afterwards reduced by the Court of Appeal to $110,000, has been decided by the Privy Council in favor of Mr. Davies.

The sum awarded, $230,820, with interest at five per cent. since 1905, amount, according to the lawyers for the respondent, to $322,763. The costs on both sides will probably amount to $40,000. This is the second time the case has been before the Privy Council, and three lords who heard it on the first occasion disagreeing and deciding it should be re-argued.

The action started as an arbitration between Robert Davies and the James Bay Railway to determine the amount that the railway should pay for land taken for a right of way through the property of the brick works, and the amount of damages that should be paid for shale and property, the development of which was prevented by reason of the railway's occupation. Before proceedings were undertaken the railway first offered $3,000, and later $15,000 as payment in full.

BRUCE ISMAY

NOW A HERMIT

Costello, Galway Bay, Ireland, July 9.—Where is Bruce Ismay? During two years the director grieved for the tragedy of the Titanic has been missing from the world he knew.

The loneliest road to Ireland runs from Milna to Costello, along the shore of Galway Bay. Sheer moor, quite treeless, bleak beyond words, hardly a stone cabin in sight and no path but the straight mail road. More sterile than Donegal, more pitiful than Clare, that strange network of grey land and greyer water constitutes the country of Iar Connacht.

Haunted Hermit

In the heart of this Irish wilderness a solitary lodge shows white against its surrounding patch of green. A locked gate forbids entrance. Here lives Bruce Ismay. Money he has and all that money will buy. But he cannot shake off the memories on his mind. Day after day he must hear them—the shrieks of drowning men crying down the wind. This is his curse. What he did will be remembered until the Titanic is forgotten.

Blank the B.I.S. Team With A Score of Two Goals—Exciting Match

Line Up.

C.E.I.—Voisey, goal; Heartley, L. Stick, backs; Drover, Fox, R. Stick, halves; M. Churchill, Auchinleck, Hunt Evans, Churchill, forwards.

B.I.S.—Clare, goal; T. Duggan, Kavanagh, backs; W. Duggan, Burke, and Brown, halves; E. J. Brophy, Jackman, Dunn, Shortall, E. Brophy, forwards.

Referee—E. S. Pinsent.

Linesmen—Hennebury, C.E.I. Murphy, B.I.S.

The Game.

At thirteen minutes past seven Ref. Pinsent gave the starting signal for play. The B.I.S. taking charge of the western end of the field began to work the ball east and a heavy attack was made on Voisey, but the C.E.I. back division was equal to the task and kept the ball out of harm's way.

Max Churchill showed some skill and took the leather along the line in splendid form, sending a beauty to Clare, but was unsuccessful.

The game became much faster and it was anybody's game until Auchinleck, from a pass from E. Churchill, tried his luck and sent it along at great speed, beating Clare for the first time.

Stirred Them Up.

This change made the supporters very excited, and the teams worked harder. Voisey was a busy man and was kept busy driving the ball from entering his goal. His saving was one of the finest exhibitions witnessed at the field this year.

Play was interrupted as Jack Kavanagh received a blow in the nose and was unable to play for a while. Mr. Reeves rendered first aid and assisted him to the grand stand where he lay off until the flow of blood stopped.

The leather was again put in motion the B.I.S. playing with ten men. The C.E.I. pressed harder on Clare and for a while it looked as if they would score a second goal. Kavanagh was now seen on the field again full of vigor and with his usual good dash and began by making the C.E.I. goal quiver, but the half time sounded before the equalizer could be found.

Second Half.

The second half opened with the C.E.I. pressing on Clare and keeping the ball well in the B.I.S. territory. The game became very fast, the B.I.S. doing all in their power to equalize, luck was against them. Play was once again stopped as E. Churchill received a trip from Burke which landed him heavily to the ground, he receiving a bad shaking up, but within a few minutes was all right again. The C.E.I. now urged on and were determined to add to their score which they did Churchill from a splendid pass from Drover scoring No. 2.

Daughter of "Father" Chiniquy to Ask for Another Hearing

Montreal, July 9.—The celebrated case of Dame Rebecca Chiniquy, wife of Professor Morin of McGill University, against Joseph Begin, publisher of LaCroix, which has been dismissed on a technicality by the Court of Review, will likely come before the court again for a rehearing.

As will be remembered the plaintiff, who is a daughter of the late ex-priest "Father" Chiniquy, was awarded $3,000 damages against the newspaper in question on account of an alleged libellous article published in LaCroix, but on an appeal being taken to the Court of Review, the decision of the lower court was upset, because the plaintiff had not been properly authorized by her husband to sue.

SUFFRAGETTES HARRY THE KING

Get After His Majesty on his Scotch Tour—Woman Attempts to Board Royal Automobile in the Streets of Perth

Perth, Scotland, July 11.—A militant suffragette uttering an exultant yell sprang on the footboard of the automobile in which the King and Queen were driving through the streets yesterday.

The woman, who was identified as Rhoda Fleming, from Glasgow, in making the attempt to reach the King seized the handle of the door of the Royal automobile before the momentarily-dazed police were able to act. She was seized by two policemen and it required a score of mounted soldiers to hold at bay the angry mob which were bent on lynching Miss Fleming who turned out to be armed only with a petition against the forcible feeding of imprisoned suffragettes.

Earlier in the day, while in Dundee, the King and Queen had received attentions from another suffragette who pitched a bundle of papers into the motor car.

"Judge, I just had to lick that boy of mine when he began to sass me. I won't stand for any youngster of mine talking back to me." William Pratt, seventy-one years old, of No. 155 Oliver street, Paterson, appeared before Acting Judge Young, New York, Friday, and explained why he whipped his forty-five-year-old son, Thomas. Thomas's eye was blackened and his nose was swollen. The court added to the penalty by imposing six months' sentence on the boy.

THIS SKELETON IS 40,000 YEARS OLD

London, July 9.—A skeleton which was discovered in 1903 in a cave—"the Cheddar man," as it is known to science—and which has been declared by savants in various parts of the world to be from 40,000 to 80,000 years old, was the subject of addresses by Professor Seligmann and Professor Parsons before members of the Royal Anthropological Institute.

The skull has dimensions at the back of the temple bones not met with in the case of other specimens. The jaw is very powerfully formed and its width is in excess of that of any modern man. The skeleton is claimed to be the most ancient yet discovered.

THE "STANDARD" Marine Motor Engine

Manufactured by the Standard Gas Engine Company, San Francisco, California.

The Engine That Never Disappoints.

This is a slow speed heavy duty four cycle Marine Engine, built to stand the hardest class of work, and is used extensively by the Halibut fishing vessels of the North Pacific Coast and the Trading Schooners that go into the Behring Sea.

Some of its main points are:

- 1st. Perfectly reliable ignition system.
- 2nd. Crosshead can be adjusted, without removing Piston from Cylinder.
- 3rd. A thrust bearing that will not heat.
- 4th. Reversing gear that will back up for any length of time.
- 5th. An Automatic Governor which prevents the engine from racing in a heavy sea.

Owners of Banking and Coastal vessels and all who may require a heavy duty engine are invited to investigate the "Standard."

Full information will be given on application to:

A Mother Unfit

"No wonder the little uns air happy!" Molly Sarvis shaded her eyes to look down the road where her small girls, Emmy Mary and Katy Ruth, made play-houses in the sand with their cousins, Mattie, Susy, Lizzie and Annie—Jonah Panlock's children. "Hit's jest the peacefulest and the rejoice-iest time o' the whole year!"

Across the road on the steep hill-side a woman worked with feverish energy in a corn patch dotted over with blackened stumps. Molly's eyes clouded with pity as the lone figure crossed her vision.

"The poor thing! Lord pity pore Sis Jane. I lay she's nigh killin' herself a-workin' so's to keep frum goin' distracted!"

At 43 Mississippi Jane Keyes had suddenly found herself alone. Her parents had died within a week of each other and Adeline, her eldest sister, a paralytic for 15 years, had in a few days followed them.

About this time Nicodemus Burden, a man of 50, twice a widower, began to case speculative eyes on the unmarried woman of his acquaintance.

Three months after Adeline was buried Sis Jane came to the Foamins' Creek neighborhood Demus' wife.

After a fortnight with him—ill-tempered, brutal, as hard of heart as she was soft—Sis Jane realized that there was nothing in Demus' nature that it was possible to love.

Demus had been the father of five sons, but had driven all but the youngest away from home before they had reached 14. But when Sis Jane began to lavish tender care upon Oreb, a neglected boy of 16, a kind of jealous anger fell on Demus' unnatural heart, and despite Sis Jane's pleadings he drove the boy she would have mothered out in the night. Thereafter her married life was a desert of endurance, with one oasis, Ivy Rose, the child that came at the end of the second miserable year.

The child was as dainty and exquisite as carved ivory, with the loving spirit of Sis Jane shining from her long lashed black eyes.

"Sis Jane hain't ugly no more; had you noticed hit, Abel?" Molly Sarvis remarked to her husband soon after the advent of the little Ivy Rose. "Seems like the Lord has put some-thing on her that's purtified her!"

Molly was right. Heaven had opened to Sis Jane and glorified her homely face with the light of gladness. And now Molly stood in her door and pitied her.

In the fifth year of his marriage Nicodemus met his death from a big chestnut tree that fell the wrong way.

"Gimme the baby. Me and Jethro air better able to pervide fer her ner you!" Tildy Corey, Demus' sister, who had no children and who coveted the beautiful little Ivy Rose proposed to Sis Jane the day after Demus' burial. But Sis Jane refused with such fierceness that Tildy was bitterly incensed.

A month afterward Sis Jane, grubbling on the rocky little farm whose possession was sorely grudged her by Tildy, met with a terrible accident. A heavy rock, dislodged by her hoe, fell on her left hand, crushing it so that amputation was necessary.

While she lay unconscious on the operating table Tildy Corey, refusing Molly Sarvis' offer to care for little Ivy Rose, carried the child home with her.

It was not until six weeks after, when she was able to drag her weak body the five miles to Tildy's house, that Sis Jane got to see her baby again. Then, the next morning, when she was ready to make her return trip, Tildy refused to give up the little one. "You hain't fitten, crippled up like you air, to raise a young un," she declared. "Demus'd 'a' give her to me, anyway of he'd 'a' seed what wuz comin'. I heerd him say lots o' times he'd ruther resk my raisin' o' her 'en yourn. Anyway, I tell ye, Sis

Jane, I'm a'goin to keep her an' the law'll uphold me in hit!"

Like one stupefied Sis Jane stumbled along home. She believed that Tildy was telling her the truth when she claimed that the law would permit her to keep the child.

"The law hit air allus onjest to women!" Sis Jane reflected, bitterly. "En I hain't got no man person to help me out!"

Suddenly there came across her tortured mind a vision of the slim young fellow, who, for a few months after her marriage to Demus, had called her "Mother"—Oreb, for whom she had begged Tildy to send when his father lay dying. Her heart bounded with hope.

"Ory—he's 21—he's got a right to take keer o' his little sister," she thought. "He'd make 'em let me have her, and 'could airn a livin' for her!"

That night Sis Jane made her plans. Biram Seal, a cattle trader of the county, had told her just before Demus' death that he had seen Oreb over in Kentucky, working at the carpenter's trade. She would hunt up Biram and get him to tell her in what town Ory lived.

In late November she was ready, her crops gathered and her cow secretly sold to Biram Seal. Dusk of the same day saw Sis Jane secreting herself a little bundle of clothes, a warm dress and a shawl for Ivy Rose and a larger bundle of cooked food, in the laurel thicket above Jethro Corey's house.

Until the moon had risen far over the mountain she lay huddled in the thicket. Then she stole across her sister-in-law's sodden yard. The outer door of Tildy's sleeping room was ajar. Sis Jane removed her shoes and tipped inside. Fearfully she looked about her, but Tildy and Jethro breathed heavily, and in another moment she was outside again, running toward the river with a warm bundle in her arms.

The river was covered with thick ice, but there had been warm weather for days and a "breakup" was dangerously near.

Sis Jane craftily hung the child's red "night cap" on a low weed at the river's edge and stepped on the rotting ice. It cracked ominously but the woman trod as lightly and swiftly as a fox. Scarcely had she stepped on the far bank when there was a thunderous boom; the ice parted in the middle and the dark waters leaped over it.

Sis Jane pressed the child to her pounding heart: "Jest in time!" she breathed. "An' tomorrer Tildy'll wake and thenk the little un wandered out in her sleep and drowned in the river!"

A week later a sturdy young fellow, eating his midday lunch beside an unfinished house in Slatterville, felt a woman's hand on his arm.

"Hit's me, Ory; you mammy!" she said. "Your pap is dead, and I've bring you your little sister."

Sobbing, Sis Jane poured out to her puzzled stepson, the other sordid details of the story. The little child smiled up in his sober face. "She's a-lovin' ye, Ory; she's a-lovin' ye a-ready!"

The young man stopped and lifted the little one. "Lord, ain't she the purtiest little sister! I were a comin' to see you in the spring," he went on. "I jest heerd lately about pop. I been cravin' ever since I heerd he was gone to have you and her come and live with me."

"Sis Jane held up her crippled hand. "They said I wasn't fitten to raise her, crippled this way; they loved I wa'n't fitten to be her mammy no more!"

Oreb's face darkened. "The devil's in Tildy same as he wuz in pop!" he cried. "You're fitten to be any-body's mammy."

America's Cup-- A Costly Trophy

Value is $500, but $5,000,000 Have Been Spent on Races in Connection With It

THE America's Cup is the blue ribbon trophy of the yacht clubs of the world, and is probably the most-coveted piece of plate in existence. Particular interest attaches to it this year, because the New York Yacht Club, the present holders, have been challenged to defend it, the deft coming from Sir Thomas Lipton, who has now built four challengers—all "Shamrocks"—in his persistent, sporty effort to bring it back to Great Britain, where it originally belonged.

About $500 was paid for the America's cup originally. About $5,000,000 has been spent in defending it and attempting to lift it since then. In the past twenty years most of the America cup racers were built for the specific purpose of defending or capturing the cup, and after the race were worth only what they would fetch as junk.

Special Boats

It was a Canadian boat that first drew attention to the question of cost. This was in 1881, when the sloop Atlanta was built especially for the purpose of winning the cup. The attempt was unsuccessful, but the Atlanta had been built with the sole object of racing for the cup, and the New York Yacht Club had built a boat expressly to defend the trophy. She was superseded by another defender after some trial races, and was useless for ordinary cruising purposes. The defending club, or rather a few members, found that they had been set back about $20,000 and had nothing to show for it. The result was an alteration in the racing rules designed to kill off challenges from small boats, especially from those built on this side of the Great Lakes. In 1876 Canada had challenged on behalf of the Countess of Dufferin, a boat that was built expressly for the race, but since the defenders were not specially constructed not so much attention was paid to the rapidly mounting expenses of the enterprise.

Expenses Mount Rapidly

Since 1881 the cost of racing for the cup has increased with every contest. In 1885, when the Puritan was built, she cost about $35,000, and her unsuccessful rival cost about the same figure, raising the direct expenses of defending the cup to $70,000, not including the incidental expenses. The next year came the Mayflower, and her cost was $42,000. The boat that she defeated as defender cost about as much more, and the New York Yacht Club was out about $2,000 for the ordinary expenses of the races. The business and sport had leaped from $20,000 to nearly $100,000 in ten years. In 1887 the

A SUCCESSFUL BUSINESS MAN

Every successful business man can give reasons for his prosperity. Most essential to any success is a careful and ceaseless attention to details. Every well conducted office or store in the world finds that simple and effectual filing systems are an absolute necessity. No employer will waste his own time or allow waste with his staff by using old fashioned methods. The benefits derived from the time and money-saving system which "Globe-Wernicke" devices encourage are self evident. Not a paper can go astray when the "Safeguard" method of this Company is used. And no matter how complicated your filing problem, no matter how peculiar, no matter how small or how large, the "Globe-Wernicke" can provide you with the equipment that will place every record at your finger tips. Why not investigate? Mr. Percie Johnson represents the "Globe" in Newfoundland.

Thistle challenged. She cost $50,000, and the Volunteer, which defended the cup, cost a similar amount. The yacht club's expenses were $3,000. On this occasion there were prophecies that the limit had been reached, for in those days it was felt that to spend $100,000 for a single race was a wicked waste of money.

The really heavy expenses did not begin until 1893, when Lord Dunraven took up the white man's burden. His first boat, the Valkyrie, was not built especially for the race, and therefore her cost cannot be charged against it. However, the danger that the cup might be lost so impressed American yachtsmen that four defenders were built. Vigilant, the boat that survived the preliminary tests, is said to have cost $150,000. As she was sold after the race to George and Howard Gould for a percentage of her cost, it would be fair to charge the expense at about $100,000. The other three defenders, the Colonia, Jubilee and Pilgrim, cost about $250,000. So if the total expenses due to the existence of this battered old cup for the year 1893 are set down at $400,000 we shall be well within the mark.

A Million For a Race

In 1895, another jump was made, for the Defender cost to build and operate through the season about $200,000. However, since she was the only defender, the total expense declined. The Valkyrie II, unlike her predecessor, was built for the express purpose of lifting the cup, but she was not entirely unsuited for cruising and this can be said of practically all the challengers up to the present time, and of most of the defenders except the Defender. The expenses of Sir Thomas Lipton the year he sent out his first Shamrock were estimated at $900,000, but of this $400,000 was the cost of a magnificent steam yacht, the Erin, which he has used ever since. Shamrock herself cost about $400,000, including operating expenses. The Columbia, built to replace the Shamrock, cost $250,000, and another $60,000 was spent in refitting and overhauling the old Defender to serve as a trial boat. Incidentally the expenses of the New York Yacht Club amounted to $15,000. The second Shamrock is said to have cost $450,000, and the Constitution cost about $300,000. In 1903 the third Shamrock and incidental expenses brought the sporting baronet's expenses for his year's yachting up to $600,000. The defence of the cup cost something in the neighborhood of $400,000. And the end is not yet.

WHAT VERMIN COST THE U.S.A.

Rats, mice, flies, mosquitos and the various forms of parasites have always been held in contempt and disgust, and always and everywhere have been regarded as vermin. Growing knowledge of the important role played by these lower forms of animal life in the transmission of disease is ample justification for this feeling. They are exceedingly expensive.

The Journal of the American Medical association comments on a recent article in the Farm & Fireside, which discusses the amount of damage done in this country by rats, and estimates that there are in the United States at least 300,000,000 of these animals, all like destructive to property and dangerous to health. Rats are said to destroy $100,000,000 worth of grain every year in this country, or enough to feed one hen for every man, woman and child in the nation. The annual cost of rats to the nation is estimated at $360,000,000.

In addition, the rat population of the country forms a fertile field for the dissemination of bubonic plague, which only needs a starting point in any of our seaports to spread throughout the country and cause the loss of thousands of lives.

In the same issue of the Farm and Fireside, but in a different department, appears an article on the cattle tick, in which it is estimated that the difference between the market value of an animal free from this parasite and one infested with it is about $8 a cow, and that the cattle tick is today costing the stockmen of the country $1,000,000,000 each decade, or $100,000,000 each year.

The discovery and development of bacteriology showed that man had been carrying on for centuries an unconscious struggle with the lower forms of vegetable life. Recent additions to knowledge of the habits and characteristics of vermin show that an equally relentless struggle has been going on between man and the lower form of animal life.

A PAGE OF THE BEST HUMOR OF THE WEEK

The Humane Hermit.
Once upon a time a traveler discovered a hermit basking in the sunshine at the entrance of his cave. "I presume," inquired the wayfarer, "that you were driven to abandon the haunts of men and embark in the hermit profession by reason of the weariness caused by the efforts of other people to pry into your business?"

"Not so!" replied the hermit. "I took to the wilds because I could not restrain my curiosity about other people's business."

Thereupon the traveler bowed low and said, "For once in my life I see a man who possesses a willingness to take the same medicine that he prescribes for others!"

A Good Thing.
Ford—Has Suburbs a well-appointed house?
Shaw—He must have. Since he moved out to Loneyhurst, his neighbors never think of going anywhere else when they want to borrow anything.

Foiled.
Madge—How was it you didn't have a good time at the reception?
Marjorie—I heard a story about a girl who was there, but she kept within hearing all the time, and I couldn't tell it to anybody.

Winter Training.
"You have more stamina," commented the delighted manager, "seen to be able to go a longer route. Your winter training must have helped you."
"I think I did," said the star pitcher. "You see, last winter I only did twenty minutes in vaudeville. This winter I was out with a five-act play."

Inspiration.
"You can't write verse on some subjects. Now, for instance, what poetry is there in a pork chop?"
"I can see you've never been real hungry."

GOOD DEEDS AND ILL WEEDS.
The Sympathizer (to fellow-scout in distress): Hallo, Smith, what's the matter?
Smith (faintly): Just done my good deed for today. Took a cigar from a beastly little kid.

Very apt was a description of the wilds of Mayo, given by an Irish farver. He had two passengers with him, one of whom lived in a very rich grazing district. He was astonished at the bleak, miserable aspect of the country they were passing thru, and he began questioning the driver as to its quality, powers of production, and what it would feed to the acre.

"Well, sir," replied the driver, "it might feed a hare to the acre in summer, but in the winter she would have to run for her life."

Mr. W. M. R. Pringle, M.P., tells a story about a northern member of parliament concerning whom tales were in circulation to the effect that he was a member of the "Black and White" club. He took too large doses of alcohol. The member went north to look into this. To his surprise he was met at the railway station by a brass band and a cheering crowd of his supporters. His chairman of committee shook him warmly by the hand.

"Now about this story," began the member.
"Not a word about that," whispered the chairman of committee. "It's made you the most popular man in the place."

An old worthy who was in the habit of calling each evening at the village inn for a "drap o' the best," found the landlord one night putting a shine on the taps. After a few remarks about the weather, he received his nightly dram. When he had gone the landlord discovered, to his horror, that he had supplied Donald with a half-gill out of the bottle of sulphuric acid which he had been using for cleaning the taps. Every moment he expected to hear of Donald's death, and his relief was great when the old worthy arrived next evening.

"Donald, what did you think o' the whisky ye got last night?"
"It was a fine dram, a good warming dram, but it had wam-fault—every time I coughed it set fire to ma whiskers."

The Easiest Way.
Joe: "What is the easiest way to drive a nail without smashing my fingers?"
Josephine: "Hold the hammer in both hands."

Visited Pa.
He: "I called to see your father this afternoon."
She (fluttering visibly): "Oh, did you?"
He: "Yes. He has been owing our firm a little bill for some time."

Wouldn't Do.
"Why did you break your engagement to Cholly?"
"He has one of these whisker-mustaches that kept brushing my complexion off."

Benevolence.
"Why does an automobile smell?"
"To safeguard the deaf and blind."

Bad Luck!
Postman: "Bad luck, Mr. Doolan! Here's a black-edged letter for you!"
Mr. Doolan: "It's me poor brother Pat, dead! O'd know his handwritin' anywhere!"

One Way.
Miss Varney was trying to illustrate to her youthful Sunday school class the lesson, "Return good for evil." To make it practical she said:

"Now, suppose, children, one of your schoolmates should strike you, and the next day you should bring him an apple. That would be one way of returning good for evil."

A little girl, sitting in one of the front seats, raised her hand.
"Well, Elizabeth," said the teacher, "what is it?"
"Then," said Elizabeth firmly, "he would strike you again to get another apple."

Time Serving.
"What are you making such a fuss about? I thought being executor of an estate was a soft thing."
"Perhaps it is sometimes. But I have to wind up the affairs of a clockmaker."

Avoiding Offense.
The man staid at the telephone. He would fain relieve his mind, but there were ladies present.
"Why," he at length exclaimed indignantly, "should I say 'hello' when the reverse is true?"

Weakest Cog.
"What's the most likin' to get broke about your automobile?"
"The owner," replied Mr. Chug-gins.
"She's as pretty as a picture," said the young man. "Yes," replied the young woman, with a glance at her rival's complexion, "and hand-painted, too."

The Source.
Mr. Hoyle was the most indulgent father, but of late he had commenced taking advantage of his generosity.
"Why, when I was your age, young man," he said one morning, after a particularly urgent demand for more funds, "I didn't have as much money to spend in a month as you spend in a day."

Heroic, but Effectual.
"Doctor," said the young man about town, "I want you to tell me what to do to cure myself of smoking. I've sworn of a dozen times, but it does no good. I'm a nervous wreck."
"Why do you come to me for advice, young man?" The only way to quit smoking is to quit, and you can't do that. You lack the will power."

Think so?
"I know it. I'll bet you ten dollars on it—and leave it to you."
"It's a bet, doc. Good-morning."
"Good morning."
Several months later:
"Doc, I've come to break it to you gently that you don't know it all. I have cured myself of the habit of smoking."
"Sure of that?"
"Absolutely. I haven't smoked a cigar, pipe or coffin nail in three months. I've lost all desire for the weed."

That's good!
"Yes; and you owe me just ten dollars. Remember our little wager?"
"I do. You win. But my bill is twenty dollars. You owe me a penny, young chap. . . . Thanks! Good-morning!"

Overdue Now.
"How is your financial?"
"All at sea."
"Oh?"
"He says he's going to pay up everything when his ship comes in."

Her Line of Interest.
"John, did you read about this Denver millionaire giving his wife a diamond tiara?"
"No."
"It's in all the papers. Why don't you keep posted on current events?"

Adam.
He—A poet is born, not made!
She—That's right! Blame it on the woman!

In Luck.
He—I call Dale a lucky fellow.
She—In what way?
He—He fell in love with the first girl he married.

What became of that fellow Tuesday?
"Oh, he opened a shop."
"Doing well?"
"No—doing time. He was caught in the act."

ENCOURAGING HOME INDUSTRIES.
The Sculptor's Maid-of-All-Work (to importunate image-vendor): Nah, git. You'eard. Bung orf. We makes them things!

How It Was.
"Your wife used to like to sing, and she played the piano a lot. Now we don't hear her at all. How's that?"
"She hasn't the time. We have two children."
"Well, well! After all, children are a blessing!"

Something Harder.
"There's nothing so hard to find as a young broom," said the west-erner.
"Oh, I don't know," replied the man from back east. "Did you ever try this water wagon?"

First British Workmen: "I see it says ere a workingman in France 'as just waked up aft o' a trance lastin' seventy-seven days, an' the 'is wife repeatedly called 'im by name; 'e was oblivious to the fact that she was there."
Second British Workman: "Mar-velous! Wat 'e gift."

Disgusted Spectator (to bandy-legged half-back, who has let the ball slip thru his legs): "Na then, stupid! Don't let them play croquet wiv yer."

Some Fish.
Cook: "The panik has the laugh on Beanbrough."
Frye: "What's the idea?"
Cook: "Then Beanbrough was in Florida, he sent what he said was a postcard picture of a big fish he caught."
Frye: "Is that so?"
Cook: "Yes; but you know, he is a spite neighbor, and the postcard he peeked out bore the picture of a submarine boat."

The Only Way.
Women are the real conservatives, after all. If they can't do things the way they've always done 'em, they are likely not to do 'em at all. Which wise reflection is prompted by a story from the athletic club.

A large crowd of the wives and unmarried sisters of the members were taking advantage of the bathing-pool facilities the other afternoon. There were so many of them that they had to dress in relays. It was while the third section was dressing that a cry went up from one of the dressing-rooms.

"What's the matter, dear?" called one voice.
"Why, I don't believe I'll be able to get dressed in time to go shopping with you," wailed a voice in reply.
"What seems to be the trouble?"
"The fact is, so wet here that I can't sit down to put my stockings on."

Exceptions.
Footie, the comedian, dined one day at a country inn, and the landlord asked how he liked his fare.
"I have dined as well as any man in England," said Footie.
"Except the mayor," cried the landlord.
"I except nobody," said he.
"But you must!" screamed the host.
"I won't!"
"You must!"
At length a petty magistrate took Footie before the mayor, who observed that he had been customary in this town for a great number of years always to "except the mayor," and accordingly fined him a shilling for not conforming to ancient custom. Upon this decision, Footie paid the shilling, at the same time observing that he thought the landlord the greatest fool in Christendom, except the mayor.

Had Better Keep Mum.
One "retentive" bookkeeper employed by a certain concern bulged into the private office and timidly approached the desk of the boss.
"Mr. Jinks," said he, after some hesitation, "during the past week I have been doing the clerk's work as well as my own, and this being pay-day, I thought I would remind you of that fact."
"Yes, sir," responded the boss thoughtfully. "You make ten dollars a week and the clerk makes five dollars. Is that right?"
"Yes, sir," answered the bookkeeper with a hopeful expression.
"Good," smiled the boss. "Then, as I figure if you you made half a week for the clerk, I will let the cashier to fix the amount at seven dollars and fifty cents."

The Real Question.
"My son," said the father, impressively, "suppose I should be taken away suddenly, what would become of you?"
"Why," said the son irreverently, "I'd stay here. The question is, what would become of you?"

Marcella: "Mr. Beanbrough seems to be greatly bothered with indigestion."
Waverly: "I should say so! He refused to attend a moving-picture show the other evening because one of the scenes had a banquet in it."

Landlord: "That fellow who just swaggered past? Oh, that's Bill Brown, an' he's a terror to auto-mobilists, I tell you!"
Guest: "Ah! the village constable, eh?"
Landlord: "Worse; he's the city motor-repair man within ten miles."

"To what do you attribute your longevity?" asked the reporter.
"My which?" queried the oldest inhabitant.
"Your longevity," repeated the reporter.
"Never had it. As far as I can remember, I ain't never had no such complaint."

First British Workmen: "I see it says ere a workingman in France 'as just waked up aft o' a trance lastin' seventy-seven days, an' the 'is wife repeatedly called 'im by name; 'e was oblivious to the fact that she was there."
Second British Workman: "Mar-velous! Wat 'e gift."

Not For Him.
Cyrus (entering a sixteenth-floor office of the Syndicate Building, perspiring and panting)—Them stairs must be awful miles long!
Occupant of Office: "Why didn't you come up in one of the elevators there?"
Cyrus: "Not much! I jes see one of 'em full o' people fall down that hole there!"

Lame Duck: "Did you see the look that chaperon gave us?"
Lame Drake: "She must think we are doing one of those new, vulgar dances."

Or Just Right.
Tommy: "Pa, what is an anomaly?"
Pa: "An anomaly, my son, is a poet with a collar that is too small for his neck."

Hocked.
Freshman: "Why don't they wear watches with full dress?"
Dormite: "No one could get them both out at once."

Another View.
"Muh po, breaved brudder," consolingly said good old Parson Bagger, addressin' a solemnly dry widower, "it is a solemn thing when a man loses de wife o' his buzzom."
"Yessah," replied skippy Brother Meeks. "But sometimes it's a heap sicker solemner when he don't."

All Off!
The insane patient was seemingly fishing. A bent pin on a bit of twine, tied to what had once been an umbrella handle, was dangled above a dishpan, absolutely dry within. And every once in a while the poor fellow would glance down at the floor beside his chair and move his hand as if caressing something.
"What's he think he's doin'?" asked the visitor.
"Catching fish for his pet pelican there at his side," replied the attendant.
"But there isn't any pelican."
"Well, there aren't any fish."

The bride was overwhelmingly pleased with the progress she was making in cooking, and hubby was always so encouraging and so kind in making excuses if by any chance she did make a mistake when guests were present. This same opinion of her forbearing husband might have continued indefinitely had she not inadvertently made use of a bit of slang. Noticing that Harry was a trifle downcast when the dinner was about half over she exclaimed, "Cheer up, Harry, the worst is yet to come!"
Her husband glanced up quickly and, with a despairing look, in-quired: "What have you made a pie?"

Sages assembled in the blacksmith's shop were discussing the veracity of old John Perkins, when Uncle Bill Abbott ambled in.
"What do you think about it, Uncle Bill?" they asked him. "Would you call John Perkins a liar?"
"Well," answered Uncle Bill, slowly, as he thoughtfully studied the ceiling, "I don't know as I'd go so far as to call him a liar exactly, but I do know this much—when feedin' time comes, in order to obtain any response from his hogs, he has to get somebody else to call 'em for him."

This is from Australia: "Gentlemen, a member of this house has taken advantage of my absence to tweak my nose behind my back. I hope that the next time he abuses me behind my back like a coward he will do it to my face like a man, and not go skulking into the thicket to assail a gentleman who isn't present to defend himself."

Just a Skirt.
"Did you make the make-up?"
"No; she must have turned down a side street."

Proverbial.
"Why is little Willie painting a big T-I-M-E on his kids?"
"He wants to make sure it will fly."

What She Gave.
"Ah!" he sighed, "if you only gave me the least hope I—"
"Gracious!" interrupted the hard-hearted belle. "I've been giving you the least I ever gave to any man."

"I have eggs as cheap as thirty cents, but I wouldn't guarantee 'em."
"Well, send me a dozen, please. They'll do to lend the neighbors."

"I represent the dignity of labor," said the man in his shirt sleeves.
"Yes," replied Mr. Dustin Staxx, "and you can work in your shirt-sleeves and speak your mind, and quit work when your regular hours are thru. I've got to wear a high hat and grand every word I speak, and keep busy sixteen hours a day. I represent the labor of dignity."

"You ain't getting thin, sir. Let me sell you—"
"That's all right. I put something on it every morning."
"May I ask what you put on it, sir?"
"My hat!" (Operation finished in silence.)

"Where will Mrs. Dobs go now that both her daughters are married?"
"To her son-in-law's house in Birmingham, or to that of her son-in-law in Leeds."

"One wants her in Birmingham and the other wishes she would go to Leeds."
"What dutiful sons-in-law!"
"I beg your pardon. The one in Birmingham wants her in Leeds; the one in Leeds wants her in Birmingham."

Stenoman (in witness-box describing assault): "He walks into my yard and rams me up agen one o' me own tombstones."
"Counsel: 'Did he hurt you?'"
Stenoman: "Hurt me? Why, I've got 'sacred to the memory of stamped all down me back!"

The Dentist's Daughter (anxious to explain the presence of a young man in the passage): Oh, Ronald darling, here's father coming. Quick. You'll have to say you've come to have a tooth out.

Another One Dissatisfied.
Wife: "I wonder if Mr. Van Dusen hasn't seen better days?"
Husband: "Oh, yes! Van Dusen wasn't always married, I don't think!"

To Music.
"Here, waiter!" said the rude man in the cafe. "Tell the orchestra to play 'Carmen' while I eat this beefsteak."
"Yes, sir. Might I inquire why?"
"I want to hear the Toreador song. I feel like a bull fighter."

ENCOURAGING HOME INDUSTRIES.
The Sculptor's Maid-of-All-Work (to importunate image-vendor): Nah, git. You'eard. Bung orf. We makes them things!

How It Was.
"Your wife used to like to sing, and she played the piano a lot. Now we don't hear her at all. How's that?"
"She hasn't the time. We have two children."
"Well, well! After all, children are a blessing!"

Something Harder.
"There's nothing so hard to find as a young broom," said the west-erner.
"Oh, I don't know," replied the man from back east. "Did you ever try this water wagon?"

First British Workmen: "I see it says ere a workingman in France 'as just waked up aft o' a trance lastin' seventy-seven days, an' the 'is wife repeatedly called 'im by name; 'e was oblivious to the fact that she was there."
Second British Workman: "Mar-velous! Wat 'e gift."

Not For Him.
Cyrus (entering a sixteenth-floor office of the Syndicate Building, perspiring and panting)—Them stairs must be awful miles long!
Occupant of Office: "Why didn't you come up in one of the elevators there?"
Cyrus: "Not much! I jes see one of 'em full o' people fall down that hole there!"

Lame Duck: "Did you see the look that chaperon gave us?"
Lame Drake: "She must think we are doing one of those new, vulgar dances."

Or Just Right.
Tommy: "Pa, what is an anomaly?"
Pa: "An anomaly, my son, is a poet with a collar that is too small for his neck."

Hocked.
Freshman: "Why don't they wear watches with full dress?"
Dormite: "No one could get them both out at once."

Another View.
"Muh po, breaved brudder," consolingly said good old Parson Bagger, addressin' a solemnly dry widower, "it is a solemn thing when a man loses de wife o' his buzzom."
"Yessah," replied skippy Brother Meeks. "But sometimes it's a heap sicker solemner when he don't."

All Off!
The insane patient was seemingly fishing. A bent pin on a bit of twine, tied to what had once been an umbrella handle, was dangled above a dishpan, absolutely dry within. And every once in a while the poor fellow would glance down at the floor beside his chair and move his hand as if caressing something.
"What's he think he's doin'?" asked the visitor.
"Catching fish for his pet pelican there at his side," replied the attendant.
"But there isn't any pelican."
"Well, there aren't any fish."

Disgusted Spectator (to bandy-legged half-back, who has let the ball slip thru his legs): "Na then, stupid! Don't let them play croquet wiv yer."

Some Fish.
Cook: "The panik has the laugh on Beanbrough."
Frye: "What's the idea?"
Cook: "Then Beanbrough was in Florida, he sent what he said was a postcard picture of a big fish he caught."
Frye: "Is that so?"
Cook: "Yes; but you know, he is a spite neighbor, and the postcard he peeked out bore the picture of a submarine boat."

The Only Way.
Women are the real conservatives, after all. If they can't do things the way they've always done 'em, they are likely not to do 'em at all. Which wise reflection is prompted by a story from the athletic club.

A large crowd of the wives and unmarried sisters of the members were taking advantage of the bathing-pool facilities the other afternoon. There were so many of them that they had to dress in relays. It was while the third section was dressing that a cry went up from one of the dressing-rooms.

"What's the matter, dear?" called one voice.
"Why, I don't believe I'll be able to get dressed in time to go shopping with you," wailed a voice in reply.
"What seems to be the trouble?"
"The fact is, so wet here that I can't sit down to put my stockings on."

Exceptions.
Footie, the comedian, dined one day at a country inn, and the landlord asked how he liked his fare.
"I have dined as well as any man in England," said Footie.
"Except the mayor," cried the landlord.
"I except nobody," said he.
"But you must!" screamed the host.
"I won't!"
"You must!"
At length a petty magistrate took Footie before the mayor, who observed that he had been customary in this town for a great number of years always to "except the mayor," and accordingly fined him a shilling for not conforming to ancient custom. Upon this decision, Footie paid the shilling, at the same time observing that he thought the landlord the greatest fool in Christendom, except the mayor.

Had Better Keep Mum.
One "retentive" bookkeeper employed by a certain concern bulged into the private office and timidly approached the desk of the boss.
"Mr. Jinks," said he, after some hesitation, "during the past week I have been doing the clerk's work as well as my own, and this being pay-day, I thought I would remind you of that fact."
"Yes, sir," responded the boss thoughtfully. "You make ten dollars a week and the clerk makes five dollars. Is that right?"
"Yes, sir," answered the bookkeeper with a hopeful expression.
"Good," smiled the boss. "Then, as I figure if you you made half a week for the clerk, I will let the cashier to fix the amount at seven dollars and fifty cents."

The Real Question.
"My son," said the father, impressively, "suppose I should be taken away suddenly, what would become of you?"
"Why," said the son irreverently, "I'd stay here. The question is, what would become of you?"

Marcella: "Mr. Beanbrough seems to be greatly bothered with indigestion."
Waverly: "I should say so! He refused to attend a moving-picture show the other evening because one of the scenes had a banquet in it."

Landlord: "That fellow who just swaggered past? Oh, that's Bill Brown, an' he's a terror to auto-mobilists, I tell you!"
Guest: "Ah! the village constable, eh?"
Landlord: "Worse; he's the city motor-repair man within ten miles."

"To what do you attribute your longevity?" asked the reporter.
"My which?" queried the oldest inhabitant.
"Your longevity," repeated the reporter.
"Never had it. As far as I can remember, I ain't never had no such complaint."

Not For Him.
Cyrus (entering a sixteenth-floor office of the Syndicate Building, perspiring and panting)—Them stairs must be awful miles long!
Occupant of Office: "Why didn't you come up in one of the elevators there?"
Cyrus: "Not much! I jes see one of 'em full o' people fall down that hole there!"

News of the City and the Outports

'INVERMORE' ON THE ROCKS OFF BRIG HR.

Trying to Escape One Danger She Got Caught Up By Another

ALL CREW AND PASSENGERS SAFE

Ship Lies On Bottom With Her Decks Showing Above the Surface

The R. N. Co. had a wireless from Captain Jacob Kean, via Battle Harbor, yesterday afternoon, that the str. Invermore, while endeavoring to avoid ice ran on rocks at Brig Harbor Pt.

Later word came that the steamer was filling with water and that the passengers, numbering seventy, were all landed.

The Marine Department had the following from the Marconi station at Smokey:

"The Invermore ran ashore this morning at Brig Harbor Point. All the passengers were landed. The ship is still on the rocks."

This morning the R. N. Co. received a message that the steamer was resting on the rocks with water almost up to the decks. The sea is calm and while it remains so the steamer will not suffer much more. But if a swell heaves in she will likely go to pieces.

Up to 11 a.m. it was impossible to say whether the ship could be floated, but the opinion prevails that the task will be impossible.

This morning the R. N. Co. requested the government for permission to send the Kyle to the Invermore direct, but the request was not acceded to, as it was felt the steamer is in no immediate danger, that the passengers or crew are not in want.

There are a couple of hundred passengers to go north by the Kyle this trip and if she skipped the intermediate ports it would be a great hardship and loss to the people.

The Kyle will sail at 4 p.m. Monday via usual ports and it is hoped she will be able to get the Invermore off.

The Invermore is an iron screw steamer, formerly the Dromedary, and built in 1818. She was well fitted for passenger accommodation, was 975 tons gross; 440 net; 250.2 feet long, 30 beam, with a draft of 14.7 feet.

GRACE HAS 250 QUINTALS

The schr. Grace, Capt. Otis, has arrived at Woods Island from the fishing grounds with 250 qtls.

FOR INSANE ASYLUM

Mrs. Bromley, St. Julien's and Thos. Beresford, Greenspond, came by the Prospero for treatment at the Lunatic Asylum.

TAILOR'S CASE THURSDAY

The city tailor who was arrested a few days ago on a serious charge, and is now out on bail, will appear before Judge Knight on Thursday next.

FOR HOSPITAL

Chief Steward King of the S. S. Ethie, arrived by the Prospero to-day to be operated on at the hospital for appendicitis.

Federick Rideout, of Moreton's Hr. arrived for treatment to his knee.

Both were taken to the hospital in the ambulance.

HUMAN INTEREST STORY AT THE NICKEL THEATRE

There was the usual large attendance at the Nickel Theatre last evening, the attraction being the Vitagraph two-reel picture, entitled "Father and Son, or the Curse of the Golden Land," a wonderful story of the greatest human interest.

It was one of the finest stories ever presented at the Nickel, showing in a remarkable degree, the baseness of human nature and also the power of love. The picture made a very deep impression on all who saw it.

This evening the subject will be repeated and all who have not yet seen it should make an effort to do so to-day.

The other pictures last evening gave general satisfaction. Monday the beautiful story "F. Beaudone," by H. Reid, author of the "Confessions," will be given. This is a great subject which should be seen by every patron of the Nickel.

REPORTS SHOW SILVER LINING

Good Prospects For Voyage At Many Points Around The Coast

July 4th.—From R. Lawton, Southern Head of Keels to Knight's Cove Point—The total catch is 125 quintals with about 2 for last week. Only four traps are in the water and no dories or skiffs fishing. Prospects are very poor, but there is an abundance of caplin for bait. The lobster fishery is very poor. Nearly all the traps were taken in during the week and very little was done by those left out. The catches with hook and line are the poorest for years and as the main body of caplin is in with the shore the fishermen say prospects are the worst on record.

Prospects Fair

July 4.—From W. Ward—Mosquito Point to Bryant's Cove—The catch to date is 286 quintals. Nineteen traps are out and 48 dories, skiffs and boats fishing. Prospects are fair, the cod being taken in of good size. Caplin is plentiful for bait.

July 4.—From T. Hogan—Carbonear to Western Bay—There is plenty of caplin and a good sign of codfish the past two days. The total catch is 190 quintals with 150 for last week. Thirty punts are fishing and 125 traps are in the water. There is a good sign of codfish the past two days and plenty of caplin bait.

Encouraging

July 4.—Eddy's Cove to Anchor Pt., St. Barbe—Fourteen boats and 25 traps are fishing. The total catch is only 50 quintals. Prospects are fair. The supply of bait is good but the lobster catch is poor. The first traps were set on June 24th, and the first cod taken on July 2nd. From the signs of caplin and codfish on the grounds it is believed prospects for a good voyage are bright.

July 4.—From W. Joy, Holyrood—Bait is plentiful, but boats, dories or skiffs are fishing. The lobster catch is fair.

GOOD REGATTA COLLECTIONS

Regatta Committee Meet With Much Encouragement in Their Work of Preparing for the Next Month's Event

The weekly meeting of the Regatta Committee was held at Wood's West End Restaurant last evening, the following gentlemen being present: President Hiscock, Vice-President Higgins, Treasurer Ellis, Secretary Noonan, W. J. Martin, L. Chafe, R. W. Jeans, T. Foran, J. Perez, T. H. O'Neil, J. L. Slattery, W. J. Crotty, T. D. Carew, J. Day, Dr. Scully, E. W. Taylor, C. E. Hunt, J. P. Crotty, C. W. Ryan, J. W. Morris, P. Hanly, R. Dowden.

Collections Good

Mr. Hiscock reported favorably as to collections and Mr. Chafe did the same. The former had one refusal, but the latter neither one.

Mr. H. W. LeMessurier wrote thanking the Committee for selecting him as judge, and he will be pleased to act if in town.

As a large number of crews are offering the Vice-President asked Mr. J. W. Morris if the Red Lion would be available.

Mr. Morris stated that the intention was not to use her regatta day, because of the difficulty of handling two boats at the boathouse, but as there is a demand for the Lion they may reconsider the matter.

Race for Ex-pupils

Mr. P. F. Collins, President of the C.C.C. Boat Club, who was unable to attend, wrote, asking that a race for ex-pupils of the colleges be placed on the programme, (2) that the buoy at the foot of the lake be not put in position until regatta day. The reason is that the time could not be taken and consequently interest would be keener regatta.

In connection with the first request of Mr. Collins, it was felt that another race was not feasible. There are several races in which the ex-pupils of the colleges may compete. Regarding the second, it was decided by a majority vote not to put the buoy at the foot of the lake until the last moment.

Mr. Hanly announced that ex-Mayor Ellis would again present the $2.00 per oar for the winning crew in the Trades Race.

The meeting then adjourned.

Ungava Missionary Presented To Duke

The Rev. S. M. Stewart, of Ungava, and his protegee Matthew Aupalok, were presented by His Excellency the Governor to His Royal Highness the Duke of Cornwall, at Bay of Islands on Wednesday.

The Duke conversed freely with Mr. Stewart, and asked a number of questions of the life and conditions of the people of Ungava.

He was also much interested in the history of the boy.

ST. BON'S ALUMNI.

St. Bon's Alumni met last evening, Rt. Hon. Sir E. P. Morris in the chair. Reports were received from the various committees and arrangements have been finalized for tomorrow's meeting, and the reunion on Tuesday.

His Lordship Bishop March will impart Benediction, and the Rt. Rev. Mgr. Veitch will celebrate the annual reunion Mass. Mr. J. J. Kinsella, of the G.P.O., and Mr. Devereaux, M.H.A., will act as servers.

The orator of the occasion will be Dr. Burke. Mr. Robinson will serve breakfast, and the old boys will have a chance to exchange reminiscences of their boyhood days.

A large number of outport members intend being present. At night a Band Concert will be given on the Campus by the C.C.C. Band, free to all friends of the College. There will be a pleasant programme, beginning with the 'Old Bonaventure' March. The meeting adjourned until tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. Martin Kent, brother of Sergt. Kent, Placentia, arrived by the Stepha on a visit to friends. He had been away thirty years.

S.S. Stephano leaves at 3 p.m., taking the following passengers: Miss Trelegan, Miss J. Trelegan, T. Mott, J. A. Tilton, Miss A. Collins, Miss M. Manuel, J. M. Arnold, E. W. Lachafe, R. E. Wellard, J. McDonald, H. Godfrey, Miss S. Hayes, G. Anderson and 15 steerage.

COMMISSION DISPOSED OF MUCH BUSINESS

Appoint Committees to Look After Detail Work of the City's Business

CHAIRMAN GOSLING VERY BUSINESS LIKE

Commissioners Are Getting Through a Great Deal of Work Each Day

The regular meeting of the City Commissioners took place yesterday afternoon. The following were present: Chairman Gosling, Commissioners Withers, Anderson, Morris, McGrath, Mullaly, Bradshaw, McNamara, Ayre, Harris and Jackman.

Considerable business was transacted and the proceedings were carried out in a highly satisfactory manner.

That the Commissioners have started on the right course we feel certain, and if improvements are not noticeable before the expiring of their term, then it will not be the fault of the Board.

Good Chairman

Mr. Gosling makes an ideal Chairman, and the Board displayed its wisdom in selecting him. His ruling yesterday, while not arbitrary in the least, was such that no one could find fault with it. It was pleasing to note the conciliatory attitude even when opinions differed.

Commissioner Mullaly, the "live wire" of the late Council, was in attendance, and had he been attending a session of the world's peace commission, could not have been more gentle.

There was an absence of personal cross-firing throughout, and the visitor could not be but impressed with the fact that the object of the Commissioners is to improve the condition of St. John's.

Committees

The Chairman announced the following committees:

Water and Sewerage—Commissioners Harris, Bradshaw, Jackman, Morris, McNamara.

Sanitary—Commissioners Bradshaw, Morris, Mullaly.

Lighting—Commissioners Jackman, Anderson.

Victoria Park—Commissioners Ayre and Anderson.

Bannerman Park—Commissioners Withers and Harris.

West End Roads and Sidewalks—Commissioners Ayre, Mullaly, McGrath.

East End Roads and Sidewalks—Commissioners Jackman, Withers, Harris.

Street Conditions

Debating the condition of the street, Commissioner Mullaly suggested that one of the inspectors might be detailed to find who throws the paper on Duckworth Street Saturday nights, so that the offender might be made an example of.

In reply to a letter the Premier wrote that the dump near Waterford Bridge would be attended to.

The dump east of Browning's bridge was discussed at length. It was believed to be a nuisance to the residents of that section. There is no objection to ashes being thrown there but there is no nuisance.

Commissioner Ayre thought the city in making the dumps, was making lands for private individuals, who when the land was made, encroached.

Commissioner Harris complained that the city dump east from Browning's Bridge, was an annoyance to residents, who when the wind blew from the south, were forced to close their windows.

Commissioner Withers thought an incinerator would solve the whole trouble.

Chairman Gosling expressed a similar opinion, giving as an example Westmont, Montreal, with a population of 35,000, where an incinerator was operated successfully.

As to Encroachments

Engineer Ryan, referring to the encroachments mentioned by Mr. Ayre, said the owners of the waterside had right of reargage to high water mark.

Commissioner Withers, in view of the information submitted by the Engineer, held that such being the case, there could be no encroachments, as there were no violations of the leases.

At the Chairman's suggestion, the matter was referred to the Solicitor for report.

M. W. Furlong, for R. G. Reid, forwarded plans for proposed street, adjoining Forest Road, and asked that the Council open the street, and lay water and sewerage, and asked that it be called Lintrose Avenue. The communication further pointed out, that the proposed streets contained 14 lots, which would be built upon.

of the application, the Engineer was instructed, on motion of Commissioner Bradshaw, to outline proposed street on the general plan of the city, so that a definite knowledge of the surroundings could be obtained.

Garbage Receptacles
Mr. C. H. Bulley submitted circulars of new garbage receptacles. None required. Circulars will be kept for reference.

H. S. Butler wrote re water and sewerage for his new house, LeMarchant Road. He is 80 feet from the end of the sewerage pipe and asked Council to connect him. Mr. Butler may have the sewerage at his own expense.

The Horwood Lumber Co. asked for permission to erect clog on wharf. Theresa Barter and Kate Joy asked for permission to repair property.

Commissioner Jackman protested against the Commission wasting its time discussing such matters, which should be dealt with by department heads. The others agreed with him, but Commissioner Mullaly pointed out that according to the Rules such matters had to come before the Board.

To alter the procedure a part of the Rules will have to be expanded. Mrs. S. Marshall may add another story to her house, Long's Hill.

Don't Want It
J. J. Evans, Newfoundland Quarterly, asked for advertisement, and promised to publish pictures of the Board. No advertising necessary at present.

The Solicitor reported re Mrs. Hart's claim for compensation for the sanitary staff dumping refuse on her land.

On motion of Commissioner Withers and Morris, the amount was ordered to be paid.

This caused considerable discussion. It was stated that the Inspector was not aware that the refuse had been put there. Commissioner McGrath argued that he should have known. He realized that the Board was responsible, but better service on the part of employees will be necessary in future.

Commissioner Harris called attention to the extra sprinkling which was not being carried out according to the Board's resolution. Four men and a horse were employed instead of two men, and the area outlined was not being covered.

A lighter horse has been ordered, and when it comes two men will do the work.

Commissioner Harris referred to the practice of throwing waste paper into the streets, a nuisance that could easily be avoided. He urged that the law in the matter be enforced, and that the assistance of the police be requested to help enforce it. The Secretary stated that the I. G. has signified, his intention to assist.

Commissioner Anderson agreed, and made special reference to the condition of Cochrane Street in this respect.

In the Chairman's opinion the people were not kept fully informed as to city ordinances, and he thought the law should be more advertised. At an early date he hoped to have the matter fully discussed, and definite action taken.

Commissioner Harris also referred to the sidewalks of Circular Road and Rennie's Mill Road, which are in a very bad state.

They will be attended to. Commissioner Morris asked that attention be given Freshwater Road, the head of Adelaide Street and that a railing fence at the north side of the Long Bridge be erected, to prevent accident.

Will be attended to. The Chairman announced that a meeting would be held next week when the matter of sewerage would be fully discussed.

The meeting adjourned at 5.40.
