English Unionist M.P. Asks Whether America is Concerned For Other Neutrals, or Herself Alone

Washington Believes Satisfactory Arrangements Have Been Made

By Courier Leased Wire. London, Oct. 12.—Ronald McNeil, Unionist member of parliament for the east division of Kent, questioned Foreign Secretary Grey in the House of Commons regarding the correspondence between the United States and Germany on the question of violations of international law.

He asked "whether the government of the United States in its correspondence with the German Government and its protests against violations of international law has confined itself to consideration of American interests or whether as the most powerful neutral nation it has made any attempt to protect neutral rights in general or has protested against outrages committed against other neutral nations."

Lord Robert Cecil, parliamentary under secretary for foreign affairs and minister for war trade, replying in behalf of Viscount Grey, said:

"Our knowledge of the correspondence between the United States and German Governments is derived from the documents published. It is for the United States to define its position in the matter."

ONE DEAD AND OTHER WOUNDED

Two Brothers, Formerly of Brantford, on Firing Line.

William E. Smith Succumbs to Hurts on Battle Field.

The following is taken from the Saskatoon News, of recent date:—"News of more casualties among Saskatoon men fighting at the front reached the city to-day."

William E. Smith, 53rd Battalion, whose mother lives at 1325 Second Avenue North, and who is a brother of Mrs. Kirkpatrick and Miss Greer Smith, 307 Thompson Chambers, has died of wounds received in the trenches on the western front. He had a homestead in this district before enlisting. His brother Lloyd also joined the 53rd and on Monday was reported wounded. The two were together on the firing line."

The soldiers above mentioned were born in Brantford, and resided here until they reached manhood, both having worked at Verity's, as well as his father. The family used to reside on Emily Street, and left here for the west a couple of years ago. They have many friends in this city who will be exceedingly sorry to hear of the death of William. He was a very fine young man in every way."

Pte. Joe. Frost. Miss Mary Frost, 21 Crown St., received a telegram from Ottawa announcing that her brother, Private Joseph Frost, had been admitted to hospital suffering from shell shock.

Pte. Frost, single, and a laborer, received his military commission in the Dufferin Rifles at the time when he enlisted in the 19th Battalion, November of 1914.

He has two brothers in the 125th, one in the British regular army, and his father, an old soldier with 21 years service, is serving with the guard on the Welland Canal.

BISHOP OF HURON WAS A SPEAKER

Addressed Gathering at Convention of Episcopal Church in U.S.

St. Louis, Oct. 12.—Greetings from the mother church to the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States were presented by representatives of the Church of England with impressive ceremonies at a joint meeting of the two houses of the convention of the American church in triennial session here today.

The Right Rev. Hayshe Wolcott Yeatman-Biggs, Bishop of Worcester, England, said that even with the shadow of war hanging over England, members of his church are intensely interested in the work of the American church. Similar expressions were made by Bishop H. H. Montgomery, secretary of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel of the Church of England, and by Archbishop George Thornloe of Algoma, Ontario, and Bishop David Williams of Huron, fraternal delegates from the Episcopal Church of Canada.

Meetings of the several committees appointed at the last general convention held in New York in 1913, to investigate religious, social and economic problems, and report to this year's convention, were held today preparatory to presenting their reports.

The condition of Right Rev. David H. Greer of New York, stricken yesterday with neuritis while in attendance upon the general convention, was considerably improved today, attending physicians announced.

MUST NOT ALLOW INTERVENTION

Interference Now Would Ruin All Britain's Well-Laid Plans.

London, Oct. 12.—In the House of Commons last night Lloyd George, Minister of War, replied to criticisms of utterances to the effect that the European war was to be a fight to the finish, and that Great Britain would tolerate no outside interference in the direction of peace.

Charles P. Trevelyan complained that the Government had ignored the important speech by President Wilson on international mediation.

Mr. Lloyd George, replying, declared that the answer to all this was a military, rather than a diplomatic, affair. As a matter of fact, Viscount Grey had anticipated President Wilson's statement.

There was a great difference between intervention to secure an international commission after the war to enforce world peace and intervention at a moment like the present. Intervention now would be a military triumph for Germany and military disaster for Great Britain, and he claimed the right as Secretary for War to express his opinion on such matter. He did not intend to withdraw a single syllable of what he had said. It was not merely the expression of his own opinion, he declared, but the expression of the opinion of the Cabinet, of the war committee and of the military advisers of every ally.

Dr. Frederick E. Farrington of the United States Bureau of Education, addressing the Association of Commerce at Chicago, said out of 13,000,000 foreigners in this country, 3,000,000 cannot speak English.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" is the only medicine in the world that is made from the juices of fresh ripe fruits. Thus, it is manifestly unfair to say, "I won't take Fruit-a-tives because I have tried other remedies and they did me no good". On the other hand, the fact that "Fruit-a-tives" is entirely different from any other preparation in the world, is just why you should give it a fair trial, in any trouble of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys or Skin. STORY OF ITALIAN CARSO ADVANCE

Heavy Artillery Bombardment Preceded Infantry Attacks.

AUSTRIANS SHELLED.

Their Trenches, Shattered, Fell Before Italian Onslaughts.

By Courier Leased Wire.

Paris, Oct. 12.—The following description of the recent Italian success on the Carso, has been telegraphed to the Petit Parisien by its war correspondent on the Italian front:

"Our artillery began to concentrate its fire on the morning of the 8th on the zone between Vertoiga and the sea, favored intermittently by the sun. All calibres engaged in a grand concert, and their fire swept the Austrian position yard by yard, gradually growing more intense.

"On the next day, the 9th, the bombardment continued unabated. Patrols, who were sent out to reconnoitre, reported splendid results, particularly where the Austrians were most strongly established in the space between Oppacchiasella and Hill 77, west of Montalonne. Here the Austrian line was the strangest sight. They used the walls of gardens, copings of wells and natural caverns of Carso rock. The line descends from Hill 208 to the north as far as a mile east of the road from Oppacchiasella to Jamino. The enemy had made several series of trenches facing in every direction which made the defense of the position easy. Two of the most important positions were the triangular redoubt and another position called Fortino, which were furnished with machine guns and protected by formidable artillery. It was against this part of the front that the Italian artillery was directed yesterday with magnificent results.

"I followed the battle yesterday morning from a central point between Novavas and Villanova. It was a fantastic sight. The Austrian trenches were converted into heaps of rubbish by the explosions of the big shells which shot columns of smoke and dust 300 feet into the air. At 10.30 reports came that though the trenches and barbed wire entanglements had been wiped out, the enemy were hidden in caves awaiting the infantry attack. The artillery opened at once on the second and third Austrian, the bombardment reaching its climax at 1.30. A colleague who was present in several wars, declared he had never seen such a spectacle of destruction. "The infantry attacked at 2.50 with splendid dash, and the triangular redoubt and Fortino fell after a desperate struggle. The enemy went down everywhere before the Italians, notwithstanding a stubborn resistance. After a few hours fighting at Novavas, a thousand prisoners were taken, among whom all nationalities of Austria were represented. We obtained proof that far from withdrawing troops, the Austrians had sent fresh battalions to reinforce the defenders of the Carso."

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She Mixed Sulphur with It to Restore Color, Gloss, Youthfulness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though is troublesome. An easier way is to get a 50 cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

HOUSES FOR RETURNED SOLDIERS.

The houses which the C. P. R. is building in the west for the returned soldiers will cost them about $1,000 each, with out-fittings. They will consist of four rooms each—two bedrooms, dining room and kitchen. Each farm will consist of 160 acres which may be availed of in the course of time, and as the settler concludes that he can work it. The C. P. R. has several designs for homes which will be submitted to the intending settlers. These offer a variety of design to suit different tastes and different pockets, it may be said. The settler can choose a horse which will cost him $2,000, but the payments will be made exceedingly easy. In all there are probably 8,000,000 acres of land held by speculators in the West; but, apart from that, there are literally hundreds of millions of acres of cultivable land lying idle over the West—not close to the tracks, of course, but good land which many have longed for so ardently that they have sat on the steps of the land office all night to be the first in the morning to get their application in. The C.P.R. is going on its own account with the colony homes; but it expects that the Government will shortly outline a plan of a comprehensive nature which can be generally applied to the situation.

THE SITUATION

After a lull the Italians have resumed their big drive towards Trieste. They yesterday succeeded in capturing several trenches, and, incidentally, more than five thousand prisoners.

In Macedonia the Allies continue their success. The British troops continue to smash forward in the Struma region, while the French are pressing the centre of the Bulgarian line. On the left wing the Bulgars, heavily reinforced, are stubbornly resisting the march of the Serbians towards Monastir, but the troops of King Peter are pressing steadily on.

Premier Asquith, speaking in the British House yesterday, said: "This is no time for faltering counsel or wavering purposes. This war cannot be allowed to end in some patched-up, precarious and dishonouring compromise, masquerading under the name of peace."

EX-PREMIER AT LONDON. At the annual banquet last evening in London, of the Liberal Club, Federation of Ontario, Sir Wilfrid Laurier was the principal guest.

"Liberalism at the outbreak of the war had deemed it a duty to abandon party considerations and to endeavor to assist the Government."

How? It is true that an extension of the life of Parliament was agreed to, but after events have shown that this was mainly because the Liberal Chiefs did not feel themselves ready for a contest.

NOTES AND COMMENT

The Allies have told King Constantine to dismantle or else his defensive works will show breaches.

Sir Hamar Greenwood, a Liberal member of the British House of Commons during an address in Toronto said:

"The preparedness and the efficiency of the British fleet saved the empire and Europe. That fleet's supremacy kept every dominion and colony secure. Had the fleet failed, this Dominion would have been isolated and might have become a German colony or an American dependency."

Quite true; but that was the distinct offence of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who told his Grit majority in the Senate to kill the Naval Aid bill.

The Imperial Munitions board has decided to place another munitions order in Canada to the value of $60,000,000, making a total of $550,000,000 in such orders since the war started.

The Ontario Motor League will post men on the Toronto-Hamilton highway to check the watches of constables. In other words the watching cops will have to be further watched with watches.

SAFE SEA TRAFFIC ASKED FOR SPAIN

THE DOLL CONVENTION

Through the day Jane watched and watched her doll, Clarissa. It was hard to believe that nights when the moon was bright a silver fairy balloon came for her.

It was a beautiful forest—fairy cottages, fairy flowers, fairy trees, and in a grove—the doll convention! Peter Prank pulled a silver cord. The balloon descended. Dear me, that fairy grove was full of silver balloons, moored to the tree branches, elves and dolls.

SIDE TALKS By Ruth Cameron

"By the streets of By-and By one arrives at the House of Never." Cervantes.

When it was time to pack our trunks and come home, which were only justifiable at the call of the country.

"I've felt all the time as if I were just waiting for it to begin," said one.

"And think of the nice things that we planned to do and now it's too late!" said another.

Then we chattered them. All On A Wonderful "Some Day" We were going to take a twenty-mile walking trip to D— and come back on the train, some day.

We were going to paddle up to the river to that place where honey was sold, some day.

We were going to have at least half a dozen suppers at the point. We did have one and enthusiastically promised ourselves to do it often, but even with the impetus of experienced enjoyment, that some day didn't come again.

LADY'S SHIRT WAIST. By Anabel Worthington.

The hood collar is only one of the attractive features of this blouse. For some of the general smartness credit is due the broad revers stitched to the fronts and formed of contrasting goods and outlined with a one-inch hemstitched hem.

The fronts of the blouse are gathered at the shoulder seams and the diagonal closing is another successful style treatment. The full length sleeves are set in, rather full and have straight cuffs to match the revers and collar.

Japanese silk is only one of the materials easy to launder and suitable for such blouse, which is of a most serviceable design. All one material will give a smart blouse and the revers may be left off, if you do not fancy the frill effect, as the closing outline, hood collar, wrist length sleeve and open neck speak the season's style. The pattern makes every detail clear and convincing for you to reproduce the design.

The waist pattern, No. 7,986, is cut in sizes 36 to 42 bust measure. To make in size 36 will require 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch plain fabric, 7 1/2 yard of 36 inch figured or other contrasting goods, or 2 1/2 yards of all one material.

To obtain the pattern, send 10 cents to the office of this publication.

U. S. PREPARE TO DEFEND SHORES

Motor Boat Patrol Is Provided—Following Appearance of U-53.

By Courier Leased Wire.

London, Oct. 12.—The naval correspondent of the Daily Express, in a long article dealing with U-boat activities of the American coast says: "One effect the Germans did not expect to produce in America, I am convinced will be an immediate strengthening of the scope of the new volunteer motor boat patrol of the Atlantic seaboard. The scheme aims at providing 10,000 small craft as an anti-submarine guard from Cape Sable to the Florida reefs."

SPLENDID CHARGE

men of this regiment, with a characteristically impetuous charge broke into the greater part of their objective and killed or captured the entire German garrison, and then calmed down with determination to hold what they had taken. In the early morning the survivors of the regiment on their left, were pressed back by hostile counter-attacks and a few of them moved eastwards. Here a successful stand was made, a bloodless and a few enemy advance definitely arrested.

By three o'clock in the afternoon their eastern flank was also exposed by the enforced withdrawal of the right battalions, as already described. None the less they continued obstinately to maintain their position, although they were now in an isolated situation on other lines. They remained until darkness when they received orders to withdraw. At 9 o'clock the retirement began and in the middle of it the Germans launched the fresh attack with large numbers of men. An officer with the crew of Lewis machine gun, remaining to cover the retirement, opened fire and successfully held off the attack until the gallant defenders were able to disengage and reach their former positions in safety. He, himself, and his men then withdrew, taking little rest with them.

The left was less fortunate. Although pushed with equal gallantry, heavy wire was encountered, and the obscenity the men could not perceive the gaps.

They had to move parallel to the enemy's trench seeking an entrance and were exposed to a bitter machine gun fire. But certain elements penetrated the German position continued to hold it against counter-attacks as long as resistance was possible.

When the full story is told, the regiment will be found to have added fresh lustre to a name already famous.

On their left one company of an Ontario battalion reached their objective and cleared their portion of the trenches, but they were not strong enough to maintain themselves.

A similar fate befell the Winnipeg battalion on their left which reached the first line of German trenches, but was too weakened to withstand the counter-attack. Next to them a Canadian regiment penetrated the German lines on a three-company frontage and for four hours resisted all counter-attacks. Finally they were driven back, but not until the trench was full of German dead and wounded.

An Alberta battalion on their left was less fortunate. They were held by the fire entanglements while the machine guns of the enemy poured a withering hail of bullets into them. Still the survivors with undaunted courage pressed on until they had broken through the entanglements, entered the enemy's trenches and took their toll of German killed and wounded.

From that ground of conflict and death few returned. Gallant soldiers had fought and died, but dying they had exchanged their lives for those of the German foe.

Considered as a demonstration of the dash and courage of our infantry, this history of Canada, it will have an inspiring significance. We are back in the positions from which we started. From that fact the enemy may derive what satisfaction he can, but our men have reaffirmed their personal ascendancy in battle. They feel no sense of defeat. On the contrary, the living are more confident of victory and the dead have not died in vain. They have but dedicated their lives to the assurance of that victory.

A most instructive and helpful address was given by Mr. Coombs, of the staff of the Ontario Faculty of Education, upon the subject of literature to the cultivation of powers of expression, pointing out the manner in which correct powers of expression might be developed by this means. Those who were accustomed to incorrect English in their home surroundings. The convention will be continued this afternoon and evening, and to-morrow the teachers will visit London.

They had to move parallel to the enemy's trench seeking an entrance and were exposed to a bitter machine gun fire. But certain elements penetrated the German position continued to hold it against counter-attacks as long as resistance was possible.

When the full story is told, the regiment will be found to have added fresh lustre to a name already famous.

On their left one company of an Ontario battalion reached their objective and cleared their portion of the trenches, but they were not strong enough to maintain themselves.

A similar fate befell the Winnipeg battalion on their left which reached the first line of German trenches, but was too weakened to withstand the counter-attack. Next to them a Canadian regiment penetrated the German lines on a three-company frontage and for four hours resisted all counter-attacks. Finally they were driven back, but not until the trench was full of German dead and wounded.

An Alberta battalion on their left was less fortunate. They were held by the fire entanglements while the machine guns of the enemy poured a withering hail of bullets into them. Still the survivors with undaunted courage pressed on until they had broken through the entanglements, entered the enemy's trenches and took their toll of German killed and wounded.

From that ground of conflict and death few returned. Gallant soldiers had fought and died, but dying they had exchanged their lives for those of the German foe.

Considered as a demonstration of the dash and courage of our infantry, this history of Canada, it will have an inspiring significance. We are back in the positions from which we started. From that fact the enemy may derive what satisfaction he can, but our men have reaffirmed their personal ascendancy in battle. They feel no sense of defeat. On the contrary, the living are more confident of victory and the dead have not died in vain. They have but dedicated their lives to the assurance of that victory.

Collegiate Rugby Team Lost First Game of Season

Went Down to Defeat at Hands of St. Jerome's College by Score of 35-5—Locals Outplayed.

The B. C. I. rugby aggregation in its initial contest of the season was yesterday afternoon defeated by the St. Jerome's team of Kitchener.

The final score, 35 to 5, is a fair representation of the relative games put up by the two teams, but a victory could hardly be expected from the local team as they had not as yet engaged in a game together, while their opponents, a much heavier and older team have played several teams recently. The fumbling of the local halfbacks and the splendid speed exhibited by St. Jerome's half were responsible for the resulting outcome of the struggle.

The B. C. I. team were prevented from playing an effective game as they otherwise might by their nervousness displayed during the first half of the game, but as they became more accustomed to the style of play of their opponents they gradually found themselves and during the later stages presented a good resistance. The team plainly demonstrated that, under the capable leadership of Capt. Kelly, they have developed an excellent line, making gains of from nine to ten yards on nearly every buck.

While it is difficult to single out any particular player, the fine game put up by Dudley Hurley was worthy of merit, he saving the game from a clean shutout by his touchdown. Moffat and Phelps for the locals also played stellar parts, while the work of Kitchener, a first year student, was a revelation, his tackling being especially effective. With a little more practice and team play, however, there is no reason why a team of championship calibre should not be developed from the fine squad which Capt. Kelly now has in training and a victory is predicted for the locals when they journey to Galt on Saturday afternoon for their opening game of the interscholastic league.

The team which took the field yesterday was as follows:

PREMIER HEARST HAS HUN HELMET

Was Presented to Him by Former County Constable Fred Kerr of This City.

Premier Hearst yesterday afternoon in his office handed over to Mayor Church a German helmet, which was presented to him by Lieut.-Colonel Beckett and Sergt.-Major Kerr of the 75th Battalion, C. E. F., in the Somme district, to be handed to the Mayor as a souvenir from this unit.

The Premier stood with General Watson reviewing the battalion as they marched to the Somme district and saw them into the firing line. The large silver-plated inscription, six inches long, has a bullet hole through the centre, which killed the officer, and is inscribed: "Mit Gott Für König und Vaterland" (With God for King and Fatherland). The helmet belonged to one of the Prussian Guards, one of the finest German regiments, which was opposing the 75th Battalion and "got the worst of it," said the Mayor.

Premier Hearst informed the Mayor that the 75th Battalion "had gone over to the front as a unit," although the 74th had been broken up. Col. Beckett, who is commanding the 75th Battalion, they were four weeks in the trenches before going to the Somme district, where they are now in action. As the Premier left them Lieut. "Bill" Commins and Lieut. "Tom" Creswick yelled out "after going strong—we have got seven Military Crosses already." The Premier said Toronto should be congratulated on having such a splendid corps and for the good account they were giving of themselves. He said he was proud of what Toronto had done in men and money, and that everywhere he went in the old land he met Toronto people.

DETAILED REPORTS

Washington, Oct. 12.—The navy department today received a report from Rear Admiral Knight at Newport, giving detailed accounts from commanders of four of the steamers sunk by a German submarine off the New England coast. Naval officials refused to comment upon its contents and it will be transmitted to Secretary of State Lansing in connection with the determination of the policy of the United States.

Secretary of Commerce Redfield is said to have disregarded legal advice and suppressed portions of the report, just as desired by German interests.

GIRLS! BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR AND STOP DANDRUFF

For 25 cents you can save your hair. In less than ten minutes you can double its beauty. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and charming as a young girl's after applying some Danderine. Also try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.

BATTALION OF GERMANS FLED

From a Mere Handful of Canadians Who Entered Courcelotte.

A GREAT BLUFF.

London Oct. 12.—Lieut. Hiltz, of Kingsport, N.S., who is in hospital here, was one of the first British soldiers to enter the main street of Courcelotte. Since then it has been learned from another officer that Lieut. Hiltz headed a small party sent in advance when they suddenly found themselves surrounded by a battalion of the enemy. They at once made a charge, and succeeded in dispersing or capturing the Germans. The latter, thinking that the main Canadian forces must be close at hand, were completely bluff, and expressed bitter chagrin when they realized that their whole battalion had been put to flight by a mere handful of Canadians.

PRESENTATION TO PARIS GIRL

Reception to New Baptist Pastor There—Meeting of Women's Guild.

Paris, Oct. 12.—(From our own correspondent.)—On Tuesday evening the members of the Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian Church, paid Miss Kate Sleith of Upper Town, a surprise visit. A most enjoyable time was spent, and during the evening the following address was read by Mrs. M. Wilson, while Mrs. Craigie presented Miss Sleith with a handsome cut glass water set from the members of the Ladies' Aid.

Paris, Oct. 10th.

Dear Friend!—It was with feelings of regret that we, your friends, the members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Paris Presbyterian Church, learned of your intention of leaving here. When we remember your willingness at all times to help in this church work, we feel that we cannot let you go without expressing to you our appreciation of your faithful service, and your generous assistance in all our work.

We ask you to accept this small remembrance from the members of the Society, with the wish that you may always be spared to enjoy it and though you are far away from us, our prayers and good wishes will follow you to your new home.

Signed on behalf of the Ladies' Aid Society,

Agnes Emmerson, President.
Millicent Felker, Secretary.

Miss Sleith thanked them all for their kindness and assured them that she would often think of the many pleasant hours spent together. A very dainty repast was served by the ladies before leaving.

Word has been received in town of the death of Mrs. Maria Telford, widow of the late L. J. Telford, formerly of Paris, which sad event occurred in Toronto, on Monday.

A reception was held in the Baptist church last evening to welcome their new minister, Rev. W. H. Brown, and Mrs. Langton to town. Supper was served by the Ladies' Aid Society in the school room, and the tables were prettily decorated with autumn flowers. After ample justice had been done to the good things prepared by the ladies, a social hour was then spent, when all had an opportunity of meeting their new pastor and his wife, and family. An address was given by the Rev. W. H. Brown of Brantford, and the officers of the church on behalf of the congregation extended them a hearty welcome here. Miss Jean Randall and Mr. Ed. Ader favored with solos and Mrs. E. O. Apps rendered a piano solo.

Best wishes of the Parisians are extended to Rev. Mr. Langton for every success in his new pastorate in town.

The Women's Guild of St. James' church held their annual meeting yesterday afternoon. There was a good attendance and Rev. R. J. Seton-Adams opened the meeting with prayer, then the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, Mrs. Charles Tate.
Vice-President, Mrs. Geo. Tate.
2nd Vice-Pres., Mrs. Wm. Fern.
Secretary, Mrs. Oliver.
Treasurer, Mrs. Harold Mellor.
Mrs. Howard Inkster and little sons, James and Don, are spending the week with relatives at St. Catharines.

Mrs. James Shawcross and daughter, Eva, who have been visiting with friends in Paris and vicinity for the past five weeks, have left to spend the winter in London.

Mrs. M. Ader and Master Teddie are spending a few weeks at Detroit. Mr. and Mrs. C. Taylor of Cleveland, Ohio, have been the guests of Mrs. Gilbert, Jane street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Nash have returned to their home at Dundas.

Miss Guest is visiting with relatives in Detroit.

Misses Telfer have returned to Toronto for an enjoyable visit spent with relatives in town.

Leonard Was Invincible Sox Hammered Marquard in the B

(By F. G. Menke)

Brooklyn, Oct. 12.—With bases in the second inning, Gardner, of Boston, picked off and Marquard, of Brooklyn, expelled it to the centre-field for a home run.

And right there you have the cause for the cracking of the bats this afternoon; right the reason for a 6 to 2 victory for the Red Sox.

It was Gardner's terrific that put the Sox in the lead and robbed Marquard of his position of his confidence. And Marquard faltered the whole game seemed to wobble behind Gardner's lead. The Sox were the best of the actors in beating the series count 3 to 1 in favor of the Red-rosed folks.

Boston Takes Third Game Driving 2 Pitchers from Box

Leonard Was Invincible Save in First Innings, While Red Sox Hammered Marquard and Cheney—Nap Rucker in the Box—Story of the Game.

(By F. G. Menke)
Brooklyn, Oct. 12.—With two on bases in the second inning, Larry Gardner, of Boston, picked out one of the left-handed offerings of Richard Marquard, of Brooklyn, and propelled it to the centre-field fence for a home run.

And right there you have the main cause for the cracking of the Dodgers this afternoon; right there is the reason for a 6 to 2 victory for the Red Sox.

It was Gardner's terrific clout that put the Sox in the lead and that robbed Marquard of his poise and much of his confidence. And when Marquard faltered the whole Dodger team seemed to wobble behind him. Gardner it was who was the mightiest of the actors in beating the Brooklynites yesterday and making the series count 3 to 1 in favor of the Red-hosed folks.

The Dodgers started with a rush that sent the big Brooklyn crowd into a frenzy of delight. They belted Dutch Leonard with vim and gusto and success in the first session, showed across two runs and acted as if they were going to give the Sox one of the worst beatings ever doled out to a Boston representative in a world-series duel. And then came Gardner—and the "pop" and courage were gone.

A world series record for time consumed in playing a nine-inning game undoubtedly was established by the afternoon's frolic, which lasted two hours and twenty-five minutes. The Red Sox won because they were able to hit when a sweat meant a run, because they fielded superbly and because Dutch Leonard, after his inaugural faltering, steadied and pitched remarkable ball in the pinches.

Broke the Dodger Spirit
Onward from that second inning when Gardner put the Sox into the lead and broke the spirit of the Dodgers, it was not a case of who would win; the game merely resolved itself into a guessing contest on by how many runs will the Sox win.

Every man on the Red Sox squad arose to the limit of his skill in emergency; every man played baseball as it really should be played. The team worked along with machine-like precision against a workably crowd of National Leaguers. And the result was inevitable.

Dutch Leonard started off in a way that nearly gave the Sox supporters a stroke of apoplexy. He yielded a three base hit to Johnston the first man up in the first inning—and on the first ball pitched. Then came Myers with a single, scoring Johnston. The Sox southpaw lost control and walked Merkle, the third man up. He followed this with a wild pitch, all of which sent the Brooklyn crowd into a frenzy. Janvrin added to the Dodger joy by fumbling Cutshaw's easy bouncer, which permitted Myers to romp home.

"We'll get a million to-day," shrieked the Brooklyn stands. But the folks were wrong, quite wrong. Leonard decided after the inning was over that "spotting" the Dodgers two runs in the first was a sufficient handicap. And from then on the port-side heaver was invincible in pinches. Twice he was in tight places, and twice he crawled out, due in part to the perfect defence behind him, but in the main credit is due to his great work, it forcing

FIRST PICTURES OF WORLD'S SERIES FROM BOSTON

Tried Blind the Batters

Brooklyn, Oct. 11.—From far out on the right field foul line Empire Tommy Connolly yesterday discovered a man on the top of the left field stand about the sixth inning with a mirror in his hand. The man seemed to be trying to flash the light in the eyes of the Boston batters, and he was speedily dispersed when Tommy rushed into the diamond and held up the game and exposed the plot.

Your uncle Wilbert Robinson says he wants to tell the world that his people had nothing to do with the man or his mirror. In any event, however, the fellow seemed to disturb the batters very little.

WORLD'S SERIES NOTES.
It looks as if Boston will keep their proud record of never having lost a world's series championship.

The fifth game of the series will be played to-day in Boston. This is Columbus Day in Massachusetts and an enormous crowd will be on hand. The players will not share in any games from now on, the receipts going to the club-owners and the National Commission.

Yesterday was the first time since the initial game of the series with the Phillies last year that the Red Sox secured more than a one-run margin.

Frank Baker was the home run hero of the series in 1911 and 1915, while this year it is Larry Gardner who is the star.

Empire Quigley held up the game a moment while he cautioned Helio Wagner, who was coaching at third, about his remarks to Marquard.

BELGIAN RELIEF A SACRED CAUSE

Never Any Chance for Argument in the Handling of This Great Problem.

Relief of the Belgians, never in need of argument, remains to-day as it has been from the beginning of the war, a great and sacred cause, writes Arthur Masen in the Sydney Morning Herald.

The words "Sacred Cause" should leave an impression in the mind of every Canadian who reads them. The relief of the Belgians, trodden under the iron heel of the German conqueror, should be as sacred to Canada as the giving of men for the army that is to work out the salvation of civilization. In fact, the relief of Belgium is on the same plane with the raising of military units. One is to save the mother country and the other is to lend a hand to a sister country, which made possible the saving of the mother country.

The sending of food to Belgium is a sacred duty that must not be slighted. Seven million of the mothers, wives and children of our fellow soldiers are starving. We have food in plenty, money in abundance and we must send a part of this to help feed Belgium, which has neither money or food.

The small amount of Two Dollars and fifty cents keeps a Belgian family one month. Subscriptions should be sent to local committees or to the Treasurer Central Belgian Relief Committee, 59 St. Peter Street, Montreal.

Count von Bernstorff's approaching trip to see President Wilson and fifty cents keeps a Belgian family one month. Subscriptions should be sent to local committees or to the Treasurer Central Belgian Relief Committee, 59 St. Peter Street, Montreal.

MORAL SIDE OF ARMY IMPROVED

So Says Sir John French, Attributing It to the Influence of Y.M.C.A.

London, Oct. 12.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—There isn't anything like as much drunkenness in the British army as there used to be. Lord French attributes much of this improvement to the great work done by the Young Men's Christian Association and kindred bodies. They have established innumerable substitutes for the canteen which Thomas Atkins has found much more attractive and much less expensive. They provide wholesome refreshment and harmless recreation for him. And religion, too—he wants it. Often he helps himself to all three.

It was the opening of a new Y.M.C.A. hut by Lord French that afforded him the opportunity to tell how much the army had benefited by such work.

"I remember," he said, "when I first joined the army—how long ago I don't like to remember—the only refuge of the soldier was the canteen. In those days we had old soldiers who used practically to live on beer. It used to be quite a common thing in those days for an old soldier to sell his food to the young recruit and buy beer and live upon it."

"I think it is something like thirty or thirty-five years ago since the founders of the Y.M.C.A. commenced their beneficent work and the change that has come over the personnel of the Army during that time has been something very little short of miraculous. Those who have served all those years in the Army can realize it better than anybody else."

"A few years before the war commenced this improvement began to manifest itself in a most extraordinary manner, and especially with regard to the diminution of crime. Drunkenness was formerly a most prevalent crime in the army. I remember that we used to have strings of defaulters outside the orderly rooms waiting to be punished for drunkenness. You hardly ever see a drunken soldier now, and in many other directions the work is very marked and has been clearly proved."

"When I was commander-in-chief in France for some eighteen months I realized what these institutions have done for soldiers. It was on the fields of battle that the men showed what different men they were. This war has demanded more in the way of nerve and courage from our men than any war that has ever happened in the history of the world. The most constant courage has had to be exercised every moment of the day and night. No bit of ground is secure from the long range high explosive shells. But through it all our men have shown a magnificent courage. One cannot but remember that the old soldiers of the past were splendid, but they certainly never surpassed the splendid courage that has been shown in this war. One cannot help thinking that perhaps it is to be traced to the work of these institutions."

SISTERS THREE

(From Yesterday's Last Edition)
Chapter XX.

Five days had passed since Allardyce had arrived at Clumbermere—five days of peaceful companionship between her and her hostess—yet not one word of response had Miss Willoughby vouchsafed to that saying of Allardyce on the first evening of her stay—"General Kildare thinks that if Captain Willoughby had been living he might have been able to throw some light upon the mystery of that cheque?"

But the girl knew when she spoke those words that they had made a deep impression—what kind of impression she could not determine. This woman, so reserved, so much older than herself, with a disposition autocratic yet kindly, straightforward yet deeply reserved, had always been something of an enigma to her, and at this moment was more of a riddle than ever.

For Miss Willoughby could not keep off the subject of Rockhaven and its inhabitants. During the days which followed Allardyce's arrival at Clumbermere the girl found herself talking more than she had talked during so many previous months. Miss Willoughby would know everything, Allardyce had to give her over and over again the account of her first visit to the old man keeping watch on his Sunrise Reef. She had to repeat again and yet again that couplet which the dying mother of Morwenna Gull had spoken to the bowed down father—

"Watch for the help that comes out of the east
In the flush of the dawning day."
Again and again Allardyce was called upon to describe the magic of the lights of dawn over the sea and as they shone upon that black cruel reef, which at other hours was dark, forbidding, and robed in black shadow.

Allardyce spoke with all the simple eloquence of which she was capable of the desolate old man—the fine soldier, one who had served his country well—bowed down beneath his weary load of woe. She sought to make Miss Willoughby understand all the pathos, the sorrow, the tragedy of the situation, and if she did not manage this by her words, at night-time, when she lifted her violin and set its strings sobbing, there was no doubt about the pictures which her improvisations called up.

Then Miss Willoughby would hear also all about the Lebretons—the dark-faced Gaston and his lonely life, the gentle, sad-eyed mother who led a life isolated more or less from her neighbors because of that tragic happening which seemed to stretch its shadow over so many lives. The harshness and the precipitate action of the elder Lebreton had won for him the distrust and aversion of the whole neighborhood, and though he had himself been taken away shortly after the conviction of his old friend's son, yet the place had not forgotten, nor did it seem able to forgive.

"Even our uncle, we think, did not care that we should be friendly with the Lebretons," Allardyce explained, "and Gipsy cannot endure the sound of their name. But Audrey has made a friend of Madame Lebreton. Gipsy thinks it rather horrid but we do not interfere with one another. I do not know; I have nothing to do with it at all. I do not like quarrels and ill-will, but one cannot forget what General Kildare has to suffer."

These words were spoken on the evening of her stay. On the morning, guests were to arrive for a few nights, and after that Allardyce herself might be going home. She had only come for "ten days or a fortnight," and was feeling uncertain what Miss Willoughby really wished as to her stay. The mistress of Clumbermere had been strangely silent; she looked ill and sometimes almost did. To-night her face was drawn and thin, while her eyes seemed to burn with inward fire. Suddenly Allardyce became aware of some electric tension in the atmosphere. "Child, if I tell you a strange story to-night, will you listen to it as under a seal of secrecy?"

Allardyce laid down her violin and entered the window beside the shaded lamp; gave only a dim illumination to this part of the room and the moon had not risen yet. The girl felt her heart begin to beat fast and tumultuously. What did Miss Willoughby mean by this seal of secrecy?

"Child, I do not know what she means to me to-night; but if I speak to you, if I tell you a thing which no human being except myself knows, will you give me your pledge that it shall never pass your lips unless by my leave?"

For a full minute Allardyce sat silent. She felt herself on the threshold of the mystery which was enveloping so many lives; but if the clue was put into her hands and she was prohibited from making use of it, what end would it serve? Would she not be taking upon her shoulders a burden greater than she could bear?

But, oh, to know the truth! The burning curiosity of youth was fanning her with its hot breath, and some subtle inner apprehension of things not fully comprehended urged her on, for if Miss Willoughby to-night parted with her secret, surely that would be but the first step! The impulse which urged her to-night to make a confidant of Allardyce would not stop there. There would be no standing still when once the thin edge of the wedge had done its work. Some instinct told this much to Allardyce—intuition rather than experience of life. But conviction of its truth and reality was so strong in her heart that after a very brief interval she made reply—

"I shall repeat nothing of what you tell me unless you give me leave."

"I shall repeat nothing of what you tell me unless you give me leave."

"I shall repeat nothing of what you tell me unless you give me leave."

"I shall repeat nothing of what you tell me unless you give me leave."

"I shall repeat nothing of what you tell me unless you give me leave."

"I shall repeat nothing of what you tell me unless you give me leave."

Music and Drama

"Everywoman," at the Grand
Additional interest attaches to the forthcoming production of the dramatic spectacle, "Everywoman," at the Grand Opera House, by Henry W. Savage, because of the great success the piece achieved at the Drury Lane Theatre, London, where it had a long run. Though that vast playhouse seats over four thousand people, it was packed to the rafters at every performance until the play had to give way to the annual Christmas pantomime, which, under the King's patent, is a fixture at this theatre.

The pit and gallery lines during the run of "Everywoman" are said to have been the longest ever known there. A pit line is a peculiar British institution. It is composed of members of the British public who desire to economize in the matter of theatre tickets, and who buy what is known in America as "rush" seats. They take the places in line at the big successes and wait patiently, sometimes for hours, for the doors to open. The "Everywoman" lines began forming shortly before noon.

The "Line-ups" took with them their dinners or suppers, as the case might be, and stood there until half past seven, when the doors were opened and the procession advanced. The police kept the lines in order and there was no rushing or stampeding. One sure way of detecting the successful plays in London is to take a look around the theatres in the afternoon and observe where the lines are beginning to form. The peculiar nature of "Everywoman" as a dramatic offering—that it sincerely attempts to teach a lesson while providing amusement—serves to endow it with interest for many who do not usually seek diversion within the walls of a play-house.

The story of the play is of the adventures which befall a young and beautiful woman who sets out from her home in quest of love. The search leads her into strange experiences. A symphony orchestra and two carloads of scenery and electrical effects added to one of the largest companies ever toured, are impressive features of this big Savage production.

THE HOT WEATHER TEST makes people better acquainted with their resources of strength and endurance. Many of us need Hood's Sarsaparilla, which invigorates the blood, purifies, refreshing sleep and increases that first feeling.

Your One Chance to WIN

Attention, Readers!

This is the time to help your favorite candidate. It will take votes to win. Your subscription will give your candidate more votes than it will later on in the contest. It will not cost you a cent more to-day than it will later on. Why not call your candidate this evening and tell them you want to help them win? These are big prizes The Daily Courier is giving. The value between a subscription and the grand prize is so great that every candidate should receive the support of their friends. You can help your candidate a great deal if you ask your neighbors for their subscription. Perhaps some day you may want a favor. It doesn't cost anything to boost. Get busy.
