

THE ACADIAN

WOLFVILLE, N. S., SEPT. 6, 1895. Volume XV.

The last leaf of Volume Fourteen has been turned over. With this issue the ACADIAN begins a new volume. Pleasant and joyful as it has been, it has been the events of the twelve months past. What may be its duty in the coming months—in the Fifteenth Volume—to chronicle, we cannot tell. We trust to our many readers the record may contain much to make glad, little to sadden. As in the past we shall endeavor to give our readers a faithful record of the County news, in particular, and of the doings of the Province, the Dominion, the world, in such a form as shall insure knowledge and save time to the busy man. We thank our numerous correspondents for the help they have given us in the past in keeping us informed of the happenings in their own vicinities. In doing this they have done a good service to the pieces which they thus represent and have helped in our endeavor to make the ACADIAN as interesting and helpful as possible to our readers. We would take this opportunity to thank also our literary contributors who have favored the ACADIAN with such excellent articles in prose and verse during the twelve months past. We have the promise from many of these of a continuation of help in this direction, of which our readers will be glad. It is gratifying to us to know that our efforts to further the best interests of our Town and County are appreciated as is evidenced by the continually increasing amount of patronage awarded us. Such methods of appreciation are encouraging and will induce us to even more earnest effort in this direction. We have been ever ready to record progress; and while never disposed to cover over unpleasant facts, have referred to them only with a view to effect improvement, and we are glad that our suggestions have in the past met with so much favor and been acted on so readily. We believe in our Town, in our County, in our Dominion. We are convinced that the sun shines on no grander country on earth than that which we call our home. We glory in her prosperity. We are zealous for her well-being. Not warped by party prejudices, we have endeavored to speak the truth giving credit to whom credit is due, exposing wrong-doing and party-juggling on either side. A noble country is ours. An honest, patriotic, noble people should possess it, we trust to possess it. The only apology the ACADIAN has to offer for its existence is the advancement of the interests and well-being of our land. Its columns are ever open for the truth. Her disgraces is our shame. Her welfare is our welfare. We thank our contributors and patrons one and all for their co-operation during the year of the ACADIAN's existence thus closed, and trust that the ensuing year will be the best and most helpful therefore, in all its history.

Dr Higgins Farewells.

On Sunday morning last Dr. T. A. Higgins preached his farewell sermon as pastor of the Baptist church of this town. The church was crowded with attentive listeners. The text was taken from the 13th chapter of Hebrews and the 8th verse. His subject was the unchanging character of Christ. The pastor observed that this theme was a suitable one in this time of earthly change. Jesus Christ is the same, (1) in his own person, (2) in Divine wisdom, (3) in relation to God, (4) in relation to humanity. The church which is founded on Christ survives its members, deacons and pastors. Dr. Higgins made reference to the blessings which the Wolfville Baptist church had received notwithstanding its shortcomings, and he ventured to predict that with greater faithfulness in future would come richer showers. His sermon closed with a characteristic appeal to the unwearyed to become partakers in this unchanging love. The evening service was taken up with address by different members of the church. Dr. Higgins gave an interesting account of the missionary work done at the Convention. The remainder of the service was a tribute to the many good qualities of the retiring pastor. Speeches were given by Deacon Bars, Prof. Caldwell, Deacon Roscoe, Mr. E. W. Sawyer, Revs. Sandford and Martell. Prof. Jones presided in an able and pleasing manner.

King's County Board of Trade.

Last week we referred to the formation of a Board of Trade in this county and to certain steps that had been taken with this in view. Circular letters have been mailed this week to merchants, farmers and others representing the different sections of the county by the committee appointed for this purpose at the meeting held in the matter on August 23d. The Board of Trade of the Maritime Provinces is composed of delegates from the various boards of trade established in the Maritime Provinces, and in order to avail ourselves of the benefits of this important and influential body in promoting the interests of this county, it will be necessary to form a King's County Board of Trade. For this purpose a meeting is to be held in the Horticultural Room at the School Buildings in this town on Wednesday afternoon, at 2.30, on the 11th September. At this meeting a large attendance of delegates from all parts of the county is earnestly requested. We feel assured that the meeting will be largely attended. The importance of the formation of such a Board is but it is mentioned to be recognized. We would urge upon all who have the welfare of our county at heart to lend their hearty co-operation to this matter and to do all in their power to further the formation and advancement of this Board of Trade.

King's County S. S. Association.

The tenth annual convention of the Kings County Sabbath-School association met at the Baptist church, Billtown, on Tuesday. The day was a most favorable one, and the attendance of Sabbath-school workers was large. The first session began shortly after 10 o'clock. After devotional exercises led by Rev. John Williams, the meeting was organized and J. W. Caldwell, Esq., the retiring president, delivered an appropriate address.

The nominating committee was appointed and the following officers were reported and duly elected: President—J. M. Marchant. 1st Vice—J. E. Dunham. 2nd Vice—C. F. Elderkin. Sec. Treas.—J. H. Cox.

Executive—W. C. Bill, Chairman, A. A. Pines, Rev. J. D. Crowell, G. H. Wallace, J. E. Dodge, Rev. E. O. Reid, James Craig, Rev. E. C. Ford, W. C. Trenholm, G. W. F. Webster, Rev. W. P. Begg, E. C. Foster, R. E. Rockwell, W. H. Chase, W. F. Newcomb. Visitors—Horton, G. H. Wallace, W. H. Chase, J. W. Caldwell, Cornwallis, Mrs. Jacob Potter, W. F. Newcomb, E. O. Foster, Aylesford, John Foster, Joseph Walton.

The address of welcome was given by Miss Freeman. In a pleasing and cordial way, she at once made the delegates feel at home and as one in the great work of teaching the children of the land the mysteries of the Gospel. This was responded to in a happy way by Mr. A. A. Pines on behalf of the convention. The first paper was given by Rev. E. D. Crowell and his subject was "How to teach the Lesson." Many useful hints were brought out in this paper and in the discussion which followed. Mr. Grierson, whose form has become so familiar at our Sunday-school conventions, and whose remarks are always so helpful, was missed by many at this convention. Mr. W. K. Baker, of London, occupied the place in the afternoon session assigned in the programme to him. The subject of Mr. Baker's address was, "Sunday-School Work among the Adults." This address was very helpful. Work among the adults in our Sunday-schools has been much neglected. The importance of it was emphasized very strongly.

Prof. R. V. Jones, Ph. D., discussed the question "How should Sabbath-schools be sustained financially?" in an extremely interesting and valuable paper, and he was followed by Rev. J. Hale, who in an excellent paper threw out many valuable suggestions in relation to the teaching of Temperance in the Sabbath-school. In the afternoon session the reports of the different committees were read and disposed of.

The two papers presented in the evening session were extremely practical. Rev. J. M. Allan discussed "The Place and Power of Music in the Sabbath-School." The importance of attractive music as a means of interesting the children and impressing the lesson taught cannot be too strongly emphasized. The last paper was given by Rev. J. M. Fisher and the subject furnished an appropriate closing discussion for the convention. "What keeps you out of the Sabbath-School?" This is a question which each Christian should put to himself. Here is an opportunity for Christian work of a most important kind. The paper showed much earnestness and was one well fitted to awaken interest in the great work of the Sunday-school. The convention closed in an excellent spirit and cannot be too productive of much good in the Sunday-school work of our county.

Last Saturday the Baptist Convention of the Maritime Provinces met at St. John. Jonathan Parsons of this city was elected President. 200 delegates attended. Favorable reports were given of Acadia, and the other educational institutions. 122 students attended Acadia, and 21 graduated. The New England branch of the alumni intend to send a new chair, $1,000 has been given and more promised. There is still a deficit in the funds, and the convention was asked to appeal to the churches to contribute $20,000 to prevent future deficits. The executors of the Mark Curry estate, of Windsor, had reported themselves no longer able to pay the $1,200 per annum for the chair in history and political economy, but hoped soon to pay over the $20,000 endowment mentioned in his will. There were 37 students in Acadia Seminary; and 70 students in the Academy Manual Training. Five graduates of Acadia are judges, 23 are principals of schools or presidents of universities, 4 superintendents of education, 5 authors and 11 members of parliament. There is still some hope of reviving a Theological department. The convention sermon was preached by Prof. Keirstead, and the growth of the denomination in fifty years was shown to be very great.—P. Winsor.

Dedication of a New Baptist Church.

Amherst, Sept. 1.—The magnificent new stone Baptist church was formally dedicated today. The edifice was crowded all the services; the congregation numbering 1,500 people. The music was of a high order. After a dedicatory address by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Steele, at the morning service, a sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Sawyer, principal of Acadia University. Rev. G. O. Gates, of St. John, preached at the afternoon service, and in the evening the preacher was Rev. W. W. Wesley, of Moncton. The dedication services were highly successful in every respect and the pastor and congregation are to be congratulated on their beautiful church and its successful opening.

The American Language. The Anti-British element in the United States have long been in quest of a language that has not had its birth in England. A few odd spellings have appeared in the newspapers and have become general, but the following taken from a report in the New York Sun may be taken as a fair sample of colloquial American and is the verbatim report of a man telling his experience: "This was a cinch," he said, speaking quite slowly, and with an obvious intent of elegance, if not eloquence. "I was paddin' out in Mich. It's easy graft and soft sleep most times, though I once drowed a square of dust through a daisy dumper [i. e., lay in the open during a thunder shower]. It was out by the canal, Duke Cheever knows the place, because of teachin' a pup from a ten day mule crawler there while meakin' on the passes last spring."

Have Me Excused.

What a large variety of reasons there are which Christian people give for not entering actively into temperance work. Here are a few, only a sample of many more that are frequently heard:

1. "I believe in the license system, because I take a practical and business-like view of it."

We bow our heads with shame that Christian men, church members, can be found giving this answer. I fancy that this is just the wisdom that actuated Mr. J. Leharist once upon a sad time. He thought, no doubt, that the apprehension of the Master by the Jews was bound to occur pretty soon anyway. It was in the nature of things, and it would be the practical business view to make what he could out of the inevitable. The over-ruling, all-powerful Master could and would be sure to look out for himself and His followers, and he could make a little money for the treasury, which was often sadly empty. Judas had a regulated and restricted way of managing. And licensing the saloons for more or less silver is the same thing over again.

2. I cannot afford to openly fight the saloons for it would injure my business. That is, some Christians think that the Lord will not take care of them if they do not.

Not only forgetting His promise, "All these things shall be added unto you," but also His warning, "He that saveth his life shall lose it, and he that loseth his life for my sake shall find it."

3. "If the W. O. T. U. were more popular I would work with it."

That is the unspoken excuse of a large class and once in a while one of these unspoken souls is honest enough to say so. The W. O. T. U. would not be much like the Master if it were very popular, and had never deserved the "wee" that "all men speak well of it."

4. "I don't admire many of the leaders of the movement."

And they are not leaders because they want to be admired. Ministers do not stand up in their pulpits and ask you to come and join their churches because you admire them. Leaders want help to do the work that needs to be done, and they want you to look at the work and come and help do it.

5. "I take care of my boys. If others did the same there would be no need of temperance work."

Good for all the boys taken care of! But not every boy taken care of is safe; and don't you care anyway about the boys—yes, and girls too—of parents weak, wicked, ignorant, careless or indifferent enough to not take care of their boys? How selfish is it best to be? Would it not be good to help make the world as nice as "our boys" are?

6. I am temperance, but I do not belong to this or that society because I cannot see that they are doing anything."

That may be due to your defective eyesight. But every W. O. T. U. feels keenly how little they are doing compared with what there is to do. The outsider's best way is to increase the sum total done by the addition of all that one member more is able to accomplish, even if that seems to be very little.

7. "Convert men and they won't want to drink. That is my way of doing temperance work."

And that is all right, too. But the Master not only proclaims repentance, but cast out devils, drove out the money changers, cleansed the bodies of men. There is so much which in some men that there is need to get some of it out before you can get much religion in. And since it is unquestioned fact that the saloons are doing more to ruin souls than the churches are doing to-day to save them, would it not be a good thing to stop the liquor traffic, and make the saloons for the churches to do? Or is it best to have as wicked a world as possible all the time for the religion of the Master to be preached to?

8. "I believe in temperance, of course, but the church is all I have time for."

That is the saddest excuse of all. The saddest thing we mortals can do is to crucify the Master in the name of the Master. It is as if we said, "I am too busy praying to obey. I'm too much engaged in worship to help the needs of my suffering fellow man who perishes because of me."

9. "I would be glad to have something done to stop this saloon iniquity, but I am too busy occupied with my business to give it any time."

And that is all that the devil can do to us—just to stand to our own private affairs, and be willing to let the millions of the world—there is his best

THE PASTOR'S WIFE.

An Interesting Interview with Mrs. (Rev.) F. B. Stratton.

Threatened With Paralysis—Weak, Emaciated and Unable to Stand Fatigue—Pink Pills Restore Her Health.

From the Napanee Beaver.

The Rev. F. B. Stratton, of Selby, is one of the best known ministers in Bay of Quinte conference, of which body he is the President. During the two years Mr. Stratton has been stationed at Selby both he and Mrs. Stratton have won hosts of friends among all classes for their unassuming and sincere Christian work. Some time ago Mrs. Stratton was attacked with partial paralysis, and her restoration having been attributed to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a reporter of the Beaver was sent to interview her in reply to the reporter's question Mrs. Stratton said that she had been greatly benefited by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and was perfectly willing to give her experience that those similarly afflicted might be benefited. Mrs. Stratton said that before moving to Selby she had been greatly troubled by a numbness coming over her sides and arms (partial paralysis) which, when she moved, felt as though hundreds of needles were sticking in the flesh. For over a year she had been troubled in this way, with occasionally a dizzy spell. She was becoming emaciated and easily fatigued and was unable to get sleep from this cause. The trouble seemed to be worse at night. Mrs. Stratton had become greatly alarmed at her bad state of health, and it was feared that complete paralysis would ensue as Mrs. Stratton's mother, the late Mrs. Weaver, of Ingersoll, had been similarly stricken, at about the same age. Knowing a young lady in Trenton, where Mr. Stratton had been previously stationed, who had been cured by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, it was determined to give them a fair trial. When Mrs. Stratton began using the Pink Pills she was very thin and her system badly run down, but after taking the pills for a time all symptoms of paralysis disappeared, and she found her health and strength renewed and her weight increased. Mrs. Stratton is about fifty years of age, and a more healthy, robust, and younger looking lady is seldom seen at that age.

In reply to the reporter's inquiry as to what Pink Pills had done for his wife, Mr. Stratton said, "Look at her, look at her, doesn't she show you what a porter could not admit the truth of the statement. These pills are a positive cure for the blood or a shattered nervous system. I often wonder if elder sisters ever reflect on the illimitable power in their hands to guide their younger brothers and sisters. Perhaps you think the little ones are so young they will not notice what you do; but that is a great mistake. Children are very sharp observers, and seem to have an instinctive appreciation of people's motives. They may not remember your special great kindnesses you have done them, but the influence of your daily example will go with them through life. It rests with you—self whether that example is for good or evil."

An old lady relates a simple incident. One day, when a child, she was dressing some dolls, when her eldest sister came into her room and asked her what she was doing for. She replied, somewhat rudely, that it was a secret, and she could not tell her. Her sister, instead of being angry, said: "If you like, I will help you."

"I had only the grace to say a gruff 'thank you,'" said the old lady; "but I was so much impressed by the thought of my own rudeness, and my sister's gentle answer that I have never forgotten it. It has kept me from bad temper and prompted me to do little kindnesses many times in my life."

The elder sister, no doubt, gave but little thought to the influence she was exerting over the rude child, and never knew the consequences of her kindly act. But so it is always; it is not deeds of heroism or self-denial, which influence children, but little, almost unnoticed trifles of every-day life.

A writer in the Happy Home, contrasting old maid and bachelors, says: "Old maids are useful in a hundred ways—old bachelors are useless; old maids are exceptionally amiable—old bachelors are selfish and ill-natured; old maids are often nice and old bachelors very rarely; old maids can make a home of one room—old bachelors want a luxurious club, and then grumble; old maids care for heartache and headache with a little tea—bachelors take a little stronger and get headaches; old maids are modest—old bachelors the vainest creatures in the world."

Edwin—What do you think I have in this pocket, dearest? The postage stamp on your last letter. It has been touched by your lips, it often touches mine. Angelina—Oh, Edwin, I'm so very sorry. I mentioned that horrid postage stamp on Fido's dear, damp nose.

Candidate—I can't imagine what caused my defeat. Friend—The election of your opponent, I should say.

Tommy—"Paw, what sort of prices are fabulous prices?" Mr. Figg—"Well, actor's salaries as published in the papers are usually that kind."

Tommy—"What are you crying about, crybaby?" "Aw! You'd cry too if your pants were made out of yer sister's old bicycle bloomers!"

MINARD'S FAMILY PILLS are purely vegetable.

"He is a rising young author." "Yes," was the reply. "Every time I go to see him I find he has been combed by moving one story higher."

MINARD'S HONEY BALSM once tried, always used.

He—"And, darling, am I the only one you have ever loved?" She—"Do you mean for all time, or only for so far this summer?"

The mother—"How do you know that he has ceased to love you?" "He buttons my gloves twice as quick as he used to."

Physician—"And you have felt this way for several days?" "I'm let me see your tongue." Patient—"It's no use, doctor; no tongue can tell how I suffer."

"Jamie" sharply called out his mother, "you've been loafing all day. Statan always finds some work for idle hands to do. Take this basket and bring in some kindlings."

People are having the same trouble they used to have. If their horses got out of wind they had to get out and walk; now it's the same with the bicycle.

"Did your wife say anything when you got home so late?" "Not when I got home," said the other man sadly. "She waited till I got asleep and then got up about five o'clock to practice on the piano."

The use of Hall's Hair Renewer promotes the growth of the hair, and restores its natural color and beauty, frees the scalp of dandruff, tetter, and all impurities.

I think, said the unsophisticated man, that Groggins must be quite a power in city politics; I was passing his place yesterday, and I noticed in big letters the word "gull" on his door.

Miss Midday—"I am sure that there is good in Mr. Spooner. He certainly is very tender-hearted."

Miss Frost—"Yes, he has a heart that has been tendered to about every unmarried woman in town, if that is what you mean."

He was a lively fellow and fond of her but it didn't occur to him that a girl expected something else besides going to places and having fun all the time. Anything on hand this evening? he asked, looking at his watch for the sixth time that week.

Well, no, she replied hesitatingly, as she looked down at her empty fingers.

If you do not know how good a remedy Garfield Tea really is for constipation and sick headache, send a postal card to D. Desmores & Co., 271 Queen Street, West, Toronto.

Who is this Dean Swift they are talking about? whispered a society lady to Lady Balfour at a party. I should so like to invite him to one of my receptions.

Alas, madam, the Dean has done something that has shut him out of society. Does me, you don't say so! What a dreadful thing! said the lady in a small breath. And what was it? she added.

Well, about a hundred years ago he died.

I WAS CURED of Bronchitis and Asthma by MINARD'S LIMENT.

I WAS CURED of a severe attack of Rheumatism by MINARD'S LIMENT.

Mahone-Bay. JOHN MAHER.

I WAS CURED of a severely sprained leg by MINARD'S LIMENT.

Delaware. JORDA WENACHT.

He had been worshipping her for months, but he had never told her and she didn't want him to. He had come often and stayed late—very late—and she could only sigh and hope. He was going away the next day on a holiday and she thought the last night was the time to spring the momentous question. He kept it to himself, however, until the last thing. It was 11.30 by the clock and it was not a very rapid clock.

Miss Mollie, he said tremulously, I am going away to-morrow.

Are you, she said with the thoughtlessness of girlhood.

Yes, he replied. Are you sorry?

Yes, very sorry, she murmured. I thought you might go way this evening.

Then she gazed at the clock wistfully and said good night.
