A Combined Treatment That Really Cures Catarrh.
Canadian weather, with its extreme cold and sudden changes, gives almost every eye Catarrh, and makes it hard to cure. Some recommend internal remedies—some external applications.
Father Morrissy used both—tablets to be taken three or four times a day to invigorate the system, purify the blood, and help it throw off the disease, and a soothing, healing, antiseptic mixture to be applied inside the nostrils. This combined treatment cures as
Rev. Father Morrissy attacking the disease from within and without, soon cures.
Mr. F. L. Mills, Box 251, Springhill, N. S., wrote on August 23rd, last:
"I have had two operations for Catarrh from Father Morrissy's No. 1 Catarrh and No. 2 Catarrh. I have done the most severe and that is the one I am getting rid of from time to time.
I would recommend the presentation of both for Catarrh, as his tablets are the only remedy I can get to cure me. The No. 2 Tablets are a great tablet."
Don't trifle with Catarrh—once it with Father Morrissy's No. 26 is for the combined treatment at your dealer's.

Conspiring With Cupid.
As all Branscome had decided that Charles Schermerhorn was the fit and proper mate for Mabel Howard, that independent young woman promptly decided to transfer her somewhat unsettled affections to Frank Caswell. Branscome folly pointed out that Schermerhorn had been her girlhood's sweetheart, and was now well to do, and their union would grow a very pretty little romance.
On the other hand, Caswell was practically a newcomer in the village, having made his advent two years before, when Branscome arrived at the dignity of supporting a national bank. The directors had brought him up from the city to act as receiving teller and to teach the Branscome boys how to conduct a bank. He had proceeded to make himself generally liked, and the only thing that could be urged against him was that his very evident fondness for Mabel Howard threatened to destroy a Branscome romance.
Oddly enough, Caswell and Schermerhorn were the closest of friends.
Despite dire predictions of personal encounters nothing marred the course of their friendship, and Schermerhorn seemed to find very satisfying consolation in the company of Grace Payne, Caswell's half-sister, who kept house for him.

Warning to Youth With Small Income.
Histor Laskoe the seventeen year old boy accused of having stolen several sums of money amounting to $200 in all from the Place Village Station, where he was employed as station agent's clerk, was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary by Judge Choquet this morning. It is said that the youth had become infatuated with a girl with rather extravagant tastes, and his salary not being enough to cover his expenses, he took the money from the office in order to gratify her love for finery.
The judge gave the boy a severe lecture and hoped that the sentence would give him would be a warning to other youths who might be tempted to follow a similar course to supply their sweethearts with possibilities.

The Loafer.
Punch has his sketch on 'The Loafer'. He is rather small for his age, slim and with an appearance that one would call 'nervy'. He does very little for me, but I keep him partly because I have a genuine affection for him, partly because most business men enjoy the services (such as they are) of one of his class, but mostly because he possesses in a marked degree those characteristics which go to make the ideal servant—ubiquity and unobtrusiveness. He is always there in case he is wanted, but never in the way. He is perhaps too modest, but it must also be said that he leads the blindest of lives. His handwriting is so admirable that I cannot trust my correspondence to him, and if I ask him to do any odd jobs they are usually badly done.
He has the annoying habit of drumming his fingers on the table and desk, a sure sign of the idler. However, although he could hardly be called my right hand in business, I should be genuinely sorry to lose him.
Perhaps I ought to have mentioned at the outset that I am referring to my left hand.

After Six Years of Indigestion.
DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS MADE A PERMANENT CURE.
There are many medicines that will relieve indigestion for a time—there are few that will make a permanent cure. But there is one medicine that is sure to cure indigestion, and that is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They have cured thousands of cases—many of them standing. Cases like that of Mr. John R. Seale, of Montreal, Que., after many other medicines have been tried and found worthless. Mr. Seale says:—"For nearly six years I suffered with indigestion. During all that time I was constantly taking medicine for the trouble, but never got more than temporary relief. Finally I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after using them for some time the trouble disappeared and I am now able to eat heartily without the least trace of the suffering I formerly endured. I can, from my own experience, strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a permanent cure for indigestion. Schermerhorn's Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are good for every disease that good blood is good for, simply because they make good blood—that is why they cure rheumatism, heart palpitation, indigestion, neuritis, St.
Vitus dance and the ailments of girls, hood and womanhood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are sold by all medicine dealers or direct by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medi-

Dishonest Apple Packing.
According to the Montreal Gazette, "Complaints are being cable from England about the dishonesty of Canadian apple packers who fill the ends of the barrel with good fruit and put the inferior product in the middle."
This sort of thing is of yearly occurrence, and still the people on the other side of the water buy Canadian apples in great quantity. It looks as if, on the whole, fair packing was the rule, and that the buyers generally get what they pay for. The trade would suffer more if the cheating was anything but the exception.
"Back to Ireland" is to be the great slogan next year. The movement originated with Mr. Francis J.
Kilkenny, of Washington, as backed by the National Board of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, representing 400, 000 members in all parts of the world.
There is nothing of a political character in this movement. The trip is being organized solely upon the lines of the home coming weeks in many cities.

Misery of Protruding Piles
Read the evidence that this distressing ailment is cured by DR.
CHAS. B. CHAMBERLAIN.
Some people find it hard to believe that anything short of a surgical operation will cure protruding piles. The doctors have brought about this belief.
There is no amount of proof that Dr.
Chamberlain's is a positive cure for this as well as all other forms of piles.
Capt. William Smith, Revelstoke, B.
C., writes:
"It is with much pleasure I state that I have used Dr. Chamberlain's remedy for protruding piles of many years' standing, and it has completely cured me. I had previously tried many other remedies, but they did me no good. I would strongly recommend this remedy to those suffering from this complaint, for it is a good and genuine cure."
In several of ways Dr. Chamberlain's remedy is useful in every home in the treatment of itching skin diseases.
It is probably the only treatment that can be positively relied upon to relieve and cure itching, bleeding and protruding piles. 50 cts. a box, at Higher Education.

"Well George," said his employer not long ago to an old dorky in his employ. "I understand that you intend to give your son an education."
"Dat's my intention," responded George. "I know myself what 'is to struggle along without learnin', and I have determined my son ain't goin' to have no sich trouble as I's had."
"Is your son learning rapidly?"
"He shore is, sah. Last week he done wrote a letter to his aunt what lives more'n twenty mile from here and after while he's goin' to write to his aunt dat lives 'bout fifty mile from here."
"Why doesn't he write to that aunt now?" asked his employer.
"He haint write so far yet, sah, but I tote him not try fifty mile. He kin write twenty mile fast-rats, till he gets stronger wif his pen."

Steel Oven
Heats Quicker—Saves Fuel
Pandora has a sheet steel oven, because steel is more sensitive to heat—absorbs it faster—than cast iron does.
Pandora oven thus heats quicker—less time required to get oven ready for the baking —which also means less fuel-expense.

From a School Teacher's Point of View.
There are many ways in which another may help the teacher.
Here are some of them:
By regarding the teacher not as a mere hired public servant, but as a friend of the public.
By becoming personally acquainted with the teacher.
By visiting the school room at least once during the school year.
By attending school celebrations and exhibitions.
By heart to heart talks with the teacher regarding the mental, moral and physical characteristics of the child.
By sending the teacher an occasional friendly or appreciative message.
By displaying charity towards the teacher's shortcomings. Teachers are only human. Young, inexperienced teachers often commit blunders quite innocently. Some school rooms are so overcrowded that the teacher has little time to study her pupils individually—and may unintentionally make mistakes.
By teaching the child habits of punctuality, neatness, boldness and obedience.
By withdrawing the child as setback as possible from the influence of the child's school work. The pupil who feels that his school career is closely and sympathetically watched by his parents is very apt to have a good school record.—A School Teacher.

For Good Dirt Roads.
A remarkable article and a series of renewable illustrations appear in the Technical World Magazine for October on the making of good dirt roads, by the use of the King Drag. The story is written by Mr. D. Ward King himself, who has become famous as the inventor of the split-log drag, and the system of dragging by his method. Mr. King has nothing to sell and is purely and simply a good roads missionary, who has made a great discovery, and wants everybody to benefit by it. He works with the public road commissions, and with farmers' associations all over the United States explaining his methods, which have been adopted as widely advertised.
The success secured by the adoption of this method has been extraordinary, and roads impervious to water can be made on practically any soil. The pictures with which Mr. King illustrates his articles, proves that he has accomplished things which have been considered by other road makers almost if not quite impossible. This article is one of the most complete and best expositions of Mr. King's work, which has appeared, and will be read with deep interest by every one who is at all concerned with the improvement of American roads.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., OCT. 1, 1909.

Mr. N. A. Rhodes Dead.

In the death of Mr. N. A. Rhodes, Amherst, which occurred yesterday morning, that town and the province generally has suffered a great loss. Mr. Rhodes became ill a week or more ago, and an operation was performed for appendicitis. This was successfully accomplished, but a few days afterwards he began to sink, and in spite of the best skill that could be obtained passed away at an early hour on Thursday.

Mr. Rhodes was 64 years of age. His life has been a busy one and he did much to build up one of the greatest manufacturing concerns in Nova Scotia, contributing greatly to the development of Amherst, his native town. He was a brother-in-law of N. Curry, the president of the Rhodes, Curry company, with whom he formed a partnership more than thirty years ago, the business being incorporated as Rhodes, Curry and company, limited, in 1893. He was essentially a self-made man, public spirited and a real benefactor of the town where he lived as one of the "whole province." His only surviving child is Edgar N. Rhodes, M. P., now on the way to Amherst from the Pacific coast.

Mr. Rhodes was a warm friend of Acadia University, and for many years was a member of the Board of Governors. His wise counsel and generosity will be much missed by that institution as it will be in many lines of benevolent and charitable work.

Death of Capt. Barberie.

We regret to report the death of Capt. Barberie, who passed away at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. Chas. Stewart, last Friday. He had been ailing for some time, and his death, though sudden, was not unexpected. The funeral took place from the house to Kentville on Sunday afternoon. Rev. R. V. Dixon officiated at the house and the grave. The Masonic Lodge also attended and conducted the usual services at the grave, where they were met by the Kentville brethren. Mr. Ralph Creighton conducted the masonic services. There was a good attendance at the house.

Oliver Douglas Barberie was born in Sussex, N. B., 1829. His father, Col. Barberie, came of an old Loyalist family who, at one time, owned large estates in New York state. His mother was Mary Anne Arnold, a daughter of Rev. Oliver Arnold, rector of Sussex. He went to sea at the age of eighteen, but shortly after joined with a party of adventurers, joining them in St. John, who chartered a ship to go to the Australian gold mines where he remained seven years. He then returned to sea, serving for a number of years under Scammell Bros., of St. John, as captain of several vessels. About twenty years ago he left the sea and started business in Kentville, whence he removed twelve years ago to this town. Mrs. Barberie, (Kath Wetmore) is a grand daughter of the late Judge Wetmore, M. L. A., of Norton, N. B. The surviving children are Helen Vail, wife of Chas. Stewart, of this town, and Percy Douglas, manager of the mining works at Belardena, Durango, Mexico. Three children died in infancy. The late Capt. Barberie was a member of the Church of England, and until his recent illness a regular attendant at St. John's church. Though a comparatively recent arrival in this town he was held in very great esteem for his many sterling qualities. A man of great integrity of character, he had won the respect of all who had business relations with him.

Childhood Ailments.

Most of the troubles that afflict little ones may be traced to the stomach and bowels, and if these are put right the child will get well and thrive well. Baby's Own Tablets cure all stomach and bowel troubles and all the other minor ailments of babyhood and childhood. The tablets are easy to take and are guaranteed free from opiates. Mrs. H. Matthews, Canfield, Ont., says:—I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my little child who had a weak stomach and badly constipated. The tablets cured her of both troubles, and I really feel as if they had saved her life! Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Reviewer.

The Maritime Baptist has not had the reputation of talking very much sense when once it got on to political questions. It says, referring to Lord Rosebery, that so far as the liberal party is concerned, it is well that he has withdrawn from its membership, and goes on to impress its readers that Lord Rosebery's opposition resulted because he belonged to the 'privileged class,' whose property was being attacked by the Lloyd-George budget. More refined and yet seldom seen in a cross country political organ. Lloyd-George, as a political vote-catcher, is likely to be a success—as a statesman he is small goods beside Lord Rosebery.

Lloyd George, Asquith, Rosebery, and Balfour have all made notable speeches upon the former's budget, and the great issues in British politics are now fairly before the British people. Premier Asquith defends the measure as being the only solution of Britain's financial problem short of tariff reform; and as between the two he is prepared to accept the budget. Lord Rosebery strongly denounces the budget scheme as being a departure from true principles of government as understood by liberals of the old school, and a dangerous concession to socialistic views that are founded upon fancy rather than upon fact. Balfour, the Conservative leader, is as strongly opposed to the budget scheme as is Lord Rosebery, and largely for similar reasons.

Balfour comes out straight with an alternative solution of the financial problem in the shape of a tariff reform program, and thus sets before the people of Great Britain the issue upon which the next battle at the polls, no matter when it may come, will be fought. To Canadians who have been taking more or less interest in the situation as it has developed in the motherland within the past few years, the speeches of these great leaders of the various political schools of thought are enlightening. Perhaps no country on earth could produce, or have, four greater political leaders in one generation.

It will take more than the endorsement of the Maritime Baptist, or even the liberal Premier, Mr. Asquith, we imagine, to induce the people of this country to believe that Lloyd-George, in the preparation of his budget proposals, was actuated solely by the high and noble resolves which have been and are being attributed to him—the amelioration of human suffering, the improvement of the condition of the masses and the evening up of the burden of taxation.

The understanding that the budget is a big political game to catch votes is strengthened by the attitude of the British government in the discussions on the budget bill, its disposition being to make any and all sorts of changes in clauses already discussed, as it developed that such changes would affect votes. Not is one surprised at this in Canada. A good appearing vote catching scheme is the only kind of legislation we know anything about over here. And again the English government is sadly in need of votes. Ever since the last election the electors of Great Britain have sensed the importance of the fiscal reform program of the opposition party and the tide of public opinion has been moving away from the government.

With the appearance of the Lloyd-George socialistic budget, there has been a check in the ebb tide. But the electors of Great Britain are a people who take their politics seriously and they are disposed to go somewhat more deeply into things than are some other people. While the Lloyd-George scheme of financing looks good to many of them on the surface, if they ever come to the conclusion that it has been prepared more with a view of vote-catching than for the purpose of real reform, or that it is theoretically unsound, they would drop it as they would a hot potato. The cause of tariff reform is by no means lost. It is not even overshadowed, and the longer the battle is waged the more it is bound to come to the front.

Mr. Balfour's speech at Birmingham was a definite renunciation of the doctrine of free trade, and a frank avowal of the policy of moderate protection, and the unionist party will be organized on that new basis, and if they win at the forthcoming election Great Britain will have emerged from its free trade impotency. This movement of course originated with Mr. Chamberlain, but the present situation has been brought about strangely enough by the liberal free traders. The argument for free trade would have lost none of its force, and the old free traders would have been free traders still.

The land tax of the budget is but an incident of the new scheme. The more important feature is the fact that from the cradle to the grave the government haunts the man who assists in enterprise and takes from him or his heirs the means by which he finances his establishment and pushes his undertakings. Under the Lloyd-George proposition the carrying on of a successful industry in Great Britain will be an offence punishable by an annual fine in the form of an income tax and by the surrender of the state of a large proportion of the profits at the death of the guilty party. Its whole tendency is to drive capital out and to render the prosecution of industries in competition with untaxed foreigners more difficult than ever. To the doctrine of free trade the scheme is a telling blow. Mr. Balfour will lose a few inconvertible tree traders but will gain those who prefer work to charity. His policy is sound, notwithstanding the Maritime Baptist's champion, Mr. Lloyd-George, to relieve the present distress and open up a new and even greater Great Britain.

Friend Shaw in the West.

WRITES AN INTERESTING LETTER TO READERS OF THE ACADIAN.

Dear ACADIAN—I am not a scribe, or the son of a scribe, but thought you might like a word from the wild and woolly west. It certainly is not misnamed. I left on Wednesday, Sept. 8th, and arrived on Tuesday morning at 3.30. Sept. 14th, after a tiresome journey. A stop two hours at Winnipeg where we met Borden Young, John Eastwood and Harold Selfridge, who reported as being well satisfied with the west, and each holding good positions. After a tram ride looking at the sights of the city, our train jolted for another 1,000 miles across the boundless prairie. My first impression of Calgary was very complimentary, as the frost was glittering under the electric lights. I had no trouble finding address I was heading for as the city is admirably laid out, streets all paved and wide sidewalks, and the concrete is white as marble and kept scrupulously clean. The streets are laid out north and south, avenues east and west. Center street runs from the depot north and the avenue each side is called, for instance 5th avenue east, meaning east of center street; and at each corner it is cut in the element, so that a stranger need have no trouble in getting around. A word about their public buildings. They are certainly immense. It has eight public school buildings, all built of a gray stone, obtained within the city limits; a new Normal School building—I have not been able to ascertain the cost, but it must have been in the hundreds of thousands. The new City Hall is still in an embryonic state, but I was told that up to date $170,000 had been spent on it. It has many industries. One packing house, the owner of which came into Calgary twenty five years ago to sell one cow on which he made $5.00, to day he is a multi-millionaire and occupies a residence costing $100,000, and his name is Pat Burns, ignorant but shrewd. Everybody here works including fathers; they either talk real estate or cattle and horses. There are many wealthy men here from the east, including some from the Land of Hoagline. One has to wash himself from eight to ten times a day, as the sand has a habit of penetrating. So you see it is nothing but rub. A word of real estate. Harry Ford has a real estate office here and is doing well, and any one coming from Wolfville will get treated royally. That certainly has been the experience of the writer and his family. I should like to tell you much more, but I am afraid it is badly written, and may prove uninteresting, but if you can make it out and care to put it in your paper, the writer will be glad to have you do so. You are apt to get sore throat, and the water will disagree with you for a couple of weeks. Every day has been very hot since I arrived. My people think their health has improved since coming here, but you go out in the morning before the sun rises and you will find no dew. You will find many shacks, they call them, setting on a piece of ground which the owner has refused many thousands for, many living in tents. Across the street from where I am boarding, is a canny

Scott, who came here twenty five years ago. He lives all alone in a shack about the size of the galley on a little vessel. Yes, they tell me he has received $40,000 for it. The city is perfectly level, no hills, but I must stop. Yours truly, J. M. SHAW.

H. Pingo, optician, will be at his home on Gasper avenue Saturday, Oct. 2nd, and Monday, 4th.

Mr. Bishop had complained of a cold on his chest the day before and had retired early. On his next morning Mr. North went to his room and found him dead in his bed. Two of his brothers died in the same manner, probably from heart failure in each case. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon from the residence of his sons on Main street, and was conducted by Rev. Arthur Hockin in the absence of Rev. Dr. Crowell, pastor of the deceased. Two sons, Walter and Aubrey of this town, and three daughters, living in Sackleton, are left to mourn their loss. Municipal righteousness is a subject that should be taught in our public schools and collegiate institutions. The absence of a sense of public duty on the part of the people in some of our towns and cities, call for education soon and quick.

What attention, if any, do we pay in the education of the boys and girls of the country to that most important theme, the duty of the individual in respect of the public body? Is anything done in this direction? Rather is not the whole trend of the educational system, so far as the individual is concerned, in the direction of self-interest. It is too late to begin the study of ethics in the colleges, so small a percentage ever reach the colleges.

There is a great deal the teachers might do to develop a better manhood and womanhood in our country if they would only sense the opportunities that offer from day to day. If they would it is possible that in time it would not be so difficult to discover that active and servicable sense of public duty among our people, the absence of which is being deplored in many quarters.

During their stay in Wolfville Mr. and Mrs. Taylor have made many warm friends who will gladly welcome them back next summer.

Hospital Robbed of its Victim

Doctors said a surgical operation was necessary but the woman escaped.

Many a time the hospital have been cheated of their victims by the timely use of some medicine of merit. In this case the trouble was with the liver and kidneys and the doctors could see no hope except by a surgical operation. Cure was brought about, however, by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Read the lady's letter: Mrs. F. O. Bacon, Baldwin's Mills, Que., writes: 'I was very sick last spring. The doctors said I must go to the hospital for an operation because my liver and kidneys would not get. I did not want to go, so I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills ever since and nothing else. I am feeling well now and doing my own work for a family of seven. I believe there is no equal for stomach trouble. I had acute indigestion and these pills and nothing else made me well.'

This is the kind of cure that has made Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills the standard in thousands of homes for complicated troubles of the digestive system. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Each Sunday the parson rode three miles to church. On this particular Sunday it was raining very hard. He rode the distance on horseback and, when he reached the church, was soaking wet.

Several of the good old sisters who were there early placed a chair before the fire for him and hung his wet coat up to dry.

"I am so afraid that I won't be dry enough to preach," he said.
"Oh," said one of the sisters, "when you get in the pulpit and start preaching, you will be dry enough."—The Circle.

The Gambler's Start.
We would like to whisper into the ear of every young man in this and every other community to shun the gambling habit. Shall we sketch the history of the cards and had the fascination of the cards and had the young man finds his way to some place where honest men ought never to go and where he himself would be ashamed to have any of his respectable friends see him. He sits down to his first game, but only for pastime and the desire of being sociable. The players deal out the cards. They unconsciously play into the hands of the gambler. Lured by the being sharper at the game. Soon a small stake is put up just to add interest to the play. Game after game is played, larger stakes, still larger stakes, until they begin to move nervously on their seats. Their brows lower and eyes flash until now they who win and they who lose, fire alike with passion, sit with set jaws and eyes like fire balls that seem starting from their sockets, watching every card and move as if their very life depended upon it; if losing, pale with envy and tremulous with unuttered oaths cast back red hot upon the heart, or, winning, with hysterical laugh. While gambling is itself innocent, it is the stepping stone to all other vices and evils which inflict mankind. Young man, shun the gambling table as you would a poisonous serpent.

Turning the Tables.
A correspondent sends to a Paris contemporary an amusing contest of wit which he recently heard in a railway carriage on a journey between Compiegne and Roze. There were several passengers. One believed himself to possess a fund of humor which he intended to expend on a priest who got in at one of the intermediate stations.
Bestowing a patronizing look on the clergyman, he said:
"Have you heard the news, monsieur le curé?"
"No, my friend, I have not," was the reply. "I have been out all day and have not had time to glance at the papers."
"Then," said the traveller, "it is something dreadful; the devil is dead!"
"Indeed," replied the ecclesiastic, without the smallest surprise or displeasure. Then, seemingly deeply touched, he added: "Monseigneur, I have always taken the greatest interest in organs. Will you accept these two pennies?"
The wit, we are told, retired as gracefully and as quickly as he was able.—London Globe.

Kidney Disease For Years
This Well Known Gentleman Strongly Recommends "Fruit-a-tives" to all Sufferers.

White Ribbon News.
"I have much pleasure in testifying to the almost marvelous benefit I have derived from taking 'Fruit-a-tives.' I was a lifelong sufferer from Chronic Constipation, and the only medicine I ever secured to do me any real good was 'Fruit-a-tives.' This medicine cured me when everything else failed. Also, last spring I had a severe ATTACK OF BLADDER TROUBLE WITH KIDNEY TROUBLE, and 'Fruit-a-tives' cured these complaints for me when the physician attending me had practically given me up. I am now over eighty years of age and I can strongly recommend 'Fruit-a-tives' for chronic constipation and bladder and kidney trouble. This medicine is very mild, the fruit is easy to take, but most effective in its action."

Stomach troubles would most quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause, rather than the effect, came into practice.
