The London Times' correspondent writes, dâting Jan. 8th, "For clerke and deskmen there is really no room whatever; and, if such will, in spite of warning, still come out, they must either endure the hardships, and take the chances of the diggings, or spread themselves over the country as farm-servnis and other labourers. CONFINEMENT OF AN HEIRERS IN GREMANY.— About twenty years ago there died at Minden, in the principality of Lippe Schamburg, a very rich land owner, who left two sons and a daugh-ter, between whom he equally divided his proper-ty. Shortly after the girl disappeared, and it could not be ascertained what had become of her. After the customary legal delay, her share of the property was awarded to her two bro-r thers, and nothing further was thought of the matter. But recently the girl was discovered in a cellar, and it turned out that she had been somined there ever since her disappearance. She was set at liberty and her brothers were ar-rested. They it appears, kept her well supplied rested. They it appears, kept her well supplied with food and clothing during the whole of her confinement.

WRECK OF THE QUEEN VICTORIA.—The plate in the Queen Victoria's cabin has been saved by a diver ; but the man protests that nothing in the world should induce him to go down a second time, as the scone in the cabin was the most horrible he had ever witnessed. NEW YORK. It is stated that the World's Fair at New York, will not be opened until the first of June next. The delay has arisen in consequence of the contractors for the building being anable to fulfil their engagements with the association, owing to the scarcity of iron. The prospects of a successful issue to the undertaking are ex-tremely encouraging. Contributions are pro-mised from all quarters—France, Austria, Ger-many, Englaud, Russia, and other countries— and all the space in the building has been taken up. INSTINCT OF THE HONST-BIRD. This extraordinary like bird, which is about the size of a challinch, and of a light grey, color, will invariably lead a person following it to a wild bee's nest. Chaltering and iwittering in a state of great excite-ment is perchas on a branch beside the traveller, endeavouring by various wiles to in doing so, it files lightly forward in a wavy course, in the direction of the bee's nest, alighting every now and then, and looking back to ascertain, if the traveller is following it, all the time keeping up an incessant twit-tre. When at length it arrives at the hollow tree or desorted white anti- hill, which con-tains the honey, it for a moment hovers over the nest, pointing to it with its bill, and then paranch, anxiously awaiting its share of the spoil. When the honey is taken, which is accomplished by first stupelying the bees by burning grass at the entrance of their domi-cile, the honey bird will often lead to a sec-tion and even to a third nest. The person cile, the honey bird will often lead to a se-cond and even to a third next. The person thus following ought to whistle. The sava-ges in the interior, whilst in pursuit, have soveral charmed sentences which they use on the occasion. The wild bee of Southern Africa exactly corresponds with the domes-tic garden hee of England. They are very generally diffused throughout every part of Africa, been-wax forming a considerable part of the cargoes of ships trading to the Gold and Ivory coasts, and the deadly dis-trict of Sierra Leone, on the western shores of Africa. Interesting as the honey bird is, of Africa. Interesting as the honey bird is, and though sweet be the stores to which it leads, I have cause to wish it far enough, as when following the warm spoor or track of the elephant, I have often seen the savages, at moments of the utmost impor-tance resign the spoor of the beasts, to attend to the summons of the bird. Sometimes, however, they are "sold," it being a well-known fact; both among the Hottentots and tribes of the interior, that they often lead truces of the interior, that they often lead the unwary pursuer to danger, sometimes guiding him to the mid-day retreat of a grizzly lion, or bringing him suddenly upon the den of the crouching panther. I remem-ber one occasion, about three years later, when weary with warring against the mighty elegantics and bioacontami, which prace the elephants; and hippopotami, which roam the vast forests, and sport the floods of fair Limpopo, having mounted a pair of unwonted shot-barrels, I sought recreation in the hun-bler pursuit of quail-shooting. While thus employed, my attention was suddenly invited by a garralous honey-bird, which pertinaciously adhered to me for a considerpertinaciously adhered to me for a consider-able time, heedless of the reports made by my gun. Having bagged as many quails and partridges as I cared about shooting, I whistled lustly to the honey-bird, and gave him chase; after following him to a dis-tance of upwards of a mile through the open glades adjoining the Limpopo, he led me to a place where a crocodile was lying with his entire body concealed, nothing but his hor-rid head being visible above the surface of the water, his eyes anxiously watching the movements of eight or ten large bull buf-faloes, which in seeking to quench their thirst movements of eight or ten large buil bui-falces, which in seeking to quench their thirst in the waters of the river, were crackling through the dry reeds, as they cautiously waded in the deep mud, that a recent flood had deposited along the edge. Fortunately for the buffalces, the depth of mud prevented their reaching the stream, and thus the scaly monster of the river, was disconcinted of his monster of the river, was disappointed of his prey .- Waverly Magazine. AGRICULTURAL MACHINERY --- As an in-AGRICULTURAL MACHINERY.—As an in-stance of the improvement in agriculture now in progress, it may be mentioned that the makers of steam engines for agricul-tural purposes in England, have in some cases increased eightfold within the last three years. One house made in 1848 only 15 engines, but 1851, finished no loss than 294. The same results hold good with re-spect to other improved agricultural imple-ments. OxFORD PUNS .- Dr. Barton, warden of Merton College, was the oddity of his time. Of the puns belonging to Dr. Barton, we believe that the following is little known. As he was a man of remarkable insensibility, people told him everything that happened. A gentleman, coming one day into his room told him that Dr. Vowel was dead. "What!" told him that Dr. Vowel was dead. "What!" said he, "Vowel dead! thank God it is neither w nor i." Dr. Eveleigh, who with his family some years ago at Weymouth, gave occasion to old Lee, the last punster of the old school, and the master of Balio College, Orfard, for more than half a century, to make his dying pins. Dr. Eveleigh had recovered from some communities dis-orders by egg-diet and had soon after mar-ried; Wetheral the master of University Col-lege, went to Dr. Lee, then sick in bed, resolved to discharge a pun which he had made. "Well,sit, "said he, "Dr. Eveleigh has been egged on to marimony." "Has he," said Lee; "why then, Thope the yoke will sit easy." In a few hours afterwards Dr. Lee sied. The yoke did sit easy on Dr. Eveleigh, for he had a most amiable wife.—Ogford Chronicle. An impertinent fellow asked Logd Guildford who that plain flady was before him." That hady, ' said his lordship, '' is my wife. It is true, she is a plain soman...I am a plain man...you are a plain dealer...and that is a plain story!" tury, to make his dying pun. Dr. Eveleigh

"Hatto; 1 say! what did you say your medicine would cure?" "Oh! it'll cure every-thing—heal anyther?" "Oh! it'll cure every-thing—heal anyther it'll heal my boots—they a bottle; maybe it'll heal my boots—they need it bad enough!" Mrs Parsungrow says, she can't think how it is, the arm of the head don't get broke, as so many ships, pass over it.
