

The Charlottetown Mercury.

NEW SERIES.

CHARLOTTETOWN, PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1893.

Vol. XXII. No. 52

Sugar.

almost every household preserving sugar for use or for pre sale as cheap as the at the cheapest and best

Magazine

HERALD A YEAR!

MONTHLIES have in it was a wonder to its yearly 1500 pages

RIGHT CO. GAINS PURE.

and Railway. CEMENT. 1893

LOADING AND TO ARRIVE 3,000 Tons Coal.

Old Sydney Round and Slack, Victoria Round and Slack, Acadia Round and Nut, Intercolonial Nut, Vale Nut,

C. Lyons. Charlotte, Oct. 11, 1893

WEEKS' For all Kinds of Goods. WE BUY FOR CASH, WE SELL FOR CASH, BUY ALL YOUR DRY GOODS FROM US.

W. A. WEEKS & CO.

The Charlottetown Herald

Every Wednesday

Advertisements Rates—50 cents per inch for first insertion, and 25 cents for each continuation. Special rates for long term contracts.

Calendar for October, 1893

LET THE HERALD PROCLAIM

HEAVY, SOLID PLAIN GOLD WEDDING RINGS.

Farm for Sale. 50 Acres of Land on Monaghan Road, Lot 26.

COAL! COAL!

WEEKS' For all Kinds of Goods.

W. A. WEEKS & CO.

North British and Mercantile FIRE AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

Dr. T. C. Robins, SURGEON DENTIST.

LET THE HERALD PROCLAIM

Farm for Sale. 50 Acres of Land on Monaghan Road, Lot 26.

COAL! COAL!

LOADING AND TO ARRIVE 3,000 Tons Coal.

Old Sydney Round and Slack, Victoria Round and Slack, Acadia Round and Nut, Intercolonial Nut, Vale Nut,

C. Lyons. Charlotte, Oct. 11, 1893

WEEKS' For all Kinds of Goods.

W. A. WEEKS & CO.

Weak Children

will derive strength and acquire robust health

Food Medicine SCOTT'S EMULSION

LET THE HERALD PROCLAIM

Farm for Sale. 50 Acres of Land on Monaghan Road, Lot 26.

COAL! COAL!

LOADING AND TO ARRIVE 3,000 Tons Coal.

Old Sydney Round and Slack, Victoria Round and Slack, Acadia Round and Nut, Intercolonial Nut, Vale Nut,

C. Lyons. Charlotte, Oct. 11, 1893

WEEKS' For all Kinds of Goods.

W. A. WEEKS & CO.

Religion and Politics.

Local and Social News

LET THE HERALD PROCLAIM

Farm for Sale. 50 Acres of Land on Monaghan Road, Lot 26.

COAL! COAL!

LOADING AND TO ARRIVE 3,000 Tons Coal.

Old Sydney Round and Slack, Victoria Round and Slack, Acadia Round and Nut, Intercolonial Nut, Vale Nut,

C. Lyons. Charlotte, Oct. 11, 1893

WEEKS' For all Kinds of Goods.

W. A. WEEKS & CO.

and fair play for all, and injustice done to no one. Such is some extent the view of the Pope on religion and politics as far as the mind is concerned.

LET THE HERALD PROCLAIM

Farm for Sale. 50 Acres of Land on Monaghan Road, Lot 26.

COAL! COAL!

LOADING AND TO ARRIVE 3,000 Tons Coal.

Old Sydney Round and Slack, Victoria Round and Slack, Acadia Round and Nut, Intercolonial Nut, Vale Nut,

C. Lyons. Charlotte, Oct. 11, 1893

WEEKS' For all Kinds of Goods.

W. A. WEEKS & CO.

led left to the people, a great deal expected from them, in fact, far too much. Here is pointed out to us a new machine contrived to be used by the people, they shall think proper. The people are assumed to be for the State what Almighty God is for the universe, the first power and the first cause. Thus the State is administered for them and by them; and moreover the people are to keep watch over it and to provide for its right administration.

LET THE HERALD PROCLAIM

Farm for Sale. 50 Acres of Land on Monaghan Road, Lot 26.

COAL! COAL!

LOADING AND TO ARRIVE 3,000 Tons Coal.

Old Sydney Round and Slack, Victoria Round and Slack, Acadia Round and Nut, Intercolonial Nut, Vale Nut,

C. Lyons. Charlotte, Oct. 11, 1893

WEEKS' For all Kinds of Goods.

W. A. WEEKS & CO.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

LADIES COLUMN.

LET THE HERALD PROCLAIM

Farm for Sale. 50 Acres of Land on Monaghan Road, Lot 26.

COAL! COAL!

LOADING AND TO ARRIVE 3,000 Tons Coal.

Old Sydney Round and Slack, Victoria Round and Slack, Acadia Round and Nut, Intercolonial Nut, Vale Nut,

C. Lyons. Charlotte, Oct. 11, 1893

WEEKS' For all Kinds of Goods.

W. A. WEEKS & CO.

brim of her hat, who, because pink was not fashionable, has the greatest number of pink roses that the dearest in tone, this girl is slung in dress. She is the girl whose dress tires you to look at. She is the girl, who at the very minute she enters a room, makes you conscious of her presence by the noise of her skirts, and who gives you an overpowering sense of her having too much to wear. That is one type.

LET THE HERALD PROCLAIM

Farm for Sale. 50 Acres of Land on Monaghan Road, Lot 26.

COAL! COAL!

LOADING AND TO ARRIVE 3,000 Tons Coal.

Old Sydney Round and Slack, Victoria Round and Slack, Acadia Round and Nut, Intercolonial Nut, Vale Nut,

C. Lyons. Charlotte, Oct. 11, 1893

WEEKS' For all Kinds of Goods.

W. A. WEEKS & CO.

LET THE HERALD PROCLAIM

Farm for Sale. 50 Acres of Land on Monaghan Road, Lot 26.

COAL! COAL!

LOADING AND TO ARRIVE 3,000 Tons Coal.

Old Sydney Round and Slack, Victoria Round and Slack, Acadia Round and Nut, Intercolonial Nut, Vale Nut,

C. Lyons. Charlotte, Oct. 11, 1893

WEEKS' For all Kinds of Goods.

W. A. WEEKS & CO.

W. A. WEEKS & CO.

W. A. WEEKS & CO.

THE HERALD

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1898.

Death of Sir John Abbott.

In the death of Sir John Caldwell Abbott, Canada loses one of her ablest sons. From the time of his entry into public life down to the date of his retirement he showed himself to be eminently possessed of those requirements and capabilities which characterize the statesman. As a member of Sir John Macdonald's ministry, an leader of the Senate, and later, when on the death of his former chief, he was called upon to preside at the helm of state, his highest ability, high character and wide knowledge of public affairs, were fully attested. The trust which he unwillingly accepted when Sir John passed from the scene of action, was owing to his feeling, of short duration, but more the less carefully handled. Though brief of existence, the Abbott ministry was not without its brilliant parts. Of a kindly disposition Sir John Abbott was honored and respected alike by his political friends, and foes.

IF NOT STUBBORNNESS, WHAT?

SOME people are stubborn by nature, and some others adopt the habit just in order to hold opposite views from everybody else. Either one is a most nonsensical creature, and to attempt to win such a person to your way of thinking is merely a valuable time lost. We have at different times met with both specimens of the genus homo, but it remained for us to run up against one who adopted obstinacy as a profession with the editor of L'Impartiale.

In his last issue he again reiterates that the item which appeared in our columns on October 14th, was manufactured by us, and us alone. We again, as before, deny the truth of this statement. No one knows better than the editor of our contemporary the mendacity of his charge. Besides explaining matters ourselves, the party who handed us the alleged snoring communication advised L'Impartiale that he was its author, and that we were in some way responsible for its appearance. Our explanation would have been sufficient for any honorable, manly or fair minded opponent; but even it and the Inspector's personal letter has utterly failed to calm the ruffled feelings of our persistent critic. We fully expected that after dealing with the matter as we did, L'Impartiale's editor would come down off the perch, admit his mistake. But instead of so doing he attempts to put us deeper into the mire and characterize our exposure of his obtuseness and mendacity as silly. Mayhap to his own mind it is silly to bandy words with him. It is said to be characteristic of anyone of light mental balance to imagine that the act of saying something is the quintessence of foolishness. We have no intention of further attempting to enlighten our contemporary upon the question at issue. Already the true and only reason why the item appeared in our columns has been given. It was possible to give a more satisfactory one we do not believe. L'Impartiale would savor one iota from the unannounced course it has taken. We confess to have expected more honorable treatment. One thing which strikes us as remarkably strange, as we glance over the columns of L'Impartiale week after week, is the presence there of several columns of boiler plate matter in pure Anglo-Saxon. Such methods on the part of the organ of the Acadian province are decidedly out of the way. One would naturally expect to see such a great stickler for the language at that issue. Already the true and only reason why the item appeared in our columns has been given. It was possible to give a more satisfactory one we do not believe. L'Impartiale would savor one iota from the unannounced course it has taken. We confess to have expected more honorable treatment.

give us a morning train from Summerside, returning in the afternoon, and we shall look forward to it with interest. One who thoroughly understands what he is about. Come now, Mr. Haggart, we are ready to throw up our caps.

Will some one kindly suggest a more cheerful theme for the Patriot than the order in which Mr. George Johnson, Dominion Statistician, issues his census bulletins. If constrained to cogitate over such lugubrious subjects for any great period of time, we fear the editor will become a confirmed hypochondriac.

According to the Patriot "the diffusion of information and the exposure of Tory ways that are dark" means the almost certain downfall of the present corrupt and lawless Dominion Government. Just so, "almost certain downfall." At the last election the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific was flooded with this "diffusion of information" and the "exposure" was reckoned the most complete ever attempted, and yet the result was—"almost certain" downfall of the Liberal-Conservative government.

O. M. B. A.

The visit of Mr. P. J. O'Keefe, of St. John's, to this Province, has not been barren of results. Although here on a vacation trip he managed to demonstrate to the residents of Summerside and Charlottetown the good results which accrue from the good work that is being done by the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association, which organization he is one of the Grand Deputies. Of all the Provinces of the Dominion, Prince Edward Island was the only one which, up to Mr. O'Keefe's coming, had failed to enter into C. M. B. A. work.

C. M. B. A.

A United States treasury officer received a small and unexpected dose of his own medicine at St. John's, P. E. I., on Monday. A number of employees in the storage building, six were injured and burned, two probably fatally. A number of people were knocked down and trampled over. The fire, which started at the time the fire bell rang, spread so rapidly that it was impossible to control. It was not until the fire was completely extinguished that the cause of the fire was ascertained. It was found that a small quantity of oil, which had been used in a lamp, had fallen on a pile of lumber, and had kindled. The fire spread so rapidly that it was impossible to control. It was not until the fire was completely extinguished that the cause of the fire was ascertained. It was found that a small quantity of oil, which had been used in a lamp, had fallen on a pile of lumber, and had kindled.

His Turn Came at Last.

A United States treasury officer received a small and unexpected dose of his own medicine at St. John's, P. E. I., on Monday. A number of employees in the storage building, six were injured and burned, two probably fatally. A number of people were knocked down and trampled over. The fire, which started at the time the fire bell rang, spread so rapidly that it was impossible to control. It was not until the fire was completely extinguished that the cause of the fire was ascertained. It was found that a small quantity of oil, which had been used in a lamp, had fallen on a pile of lumber, and had kindled. The fire spread so rapidly that it was impossible to control. It was not until the fire was completely extinguished that the cause of the fire was ascertained. It was found that a small quantity of oil, which had been used in a lamp, had fallen on a pile of lumber, and had kindled.

Superintendent of the Fair.

The fair will be held at the Grand Hotel, and the tickets are now on sale.

A Million Dollar Fire.

The fire at the mill on the river was a disaster of a million dollar value. The mill was destroyed, and the loss was estimated at $1,000,000.

Mr. Harrison's Speech.

Mr. Harrison's speech at the fair was a masterpiece of oratory. He discussed the state of the province and the needs of the people.

The Match Race between Heston and Harry C.

The match race between Heston and Harry C. was a thrilling event. Heston won the race, and the crowd was in a state of excitement.

Mr. Harrison's Speech.

Mr. Harrison's speech at the fair was a masterpiece of oratory. He discussed the state of the province and the needs of the people.

FARMER'S COLUMN.

The farmer's column contains news and information of interest to the agricultural community. It includes reports on crop yields, market prices, and local events.

OVER THE WIRES.

News from other parts of the world, including reports on international events and local news from various cities.

SPORTING NOTES.

Sports news, including reports on horse racing, boxing, and other athletic events. It covers the results of recent races and upcoming contests.

THE OVEN ELECTRIC BELT.

Advertisement for the Owen Electric Belt, highlighting its benefits for health and relief from various ailments. The advertisement claims that the belt is a revolutionary invention that can cure a wide range of conditions.

COAL COAL.

Advertisement for coal, providing information about the quality and availability of the product. The advertisement emphasizes the benefits of using high-quality coal for heating and industrial purposes.

WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY.

Advertisement for Webster's International Dictionary, describing its comprehensive content and ease of use. The advertisement highlights the dictionary's coverage of a wide range of words and its clear, concise definitions.

Epps's Cocoa.

Advertisement for Epps's Cocoa, promoting its health benefits and nutritional value. The advertisement describes the cocoa as a delicious and nutritious beverage that is perfect for breakfast or as a snack.

THE CHARLOTTETOWN HERALD.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1898.

THE HERALD

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1898.

Death of Sir John Abbott.

In the death of Sir John Caldwell Abbott, Canada loses one of her ablest sons. From the time of his entry into public life down to the date of his retirement he showed himself to be eminently possessed of those requirements and capabilities which characterize the statesman. As a member of Sir John Macdonald's ministry, an leader of the Senate, and later, when on the death of his former chief, he was called upon to preside at the helm of state, his highest ability, high character and wide knowledge of public affairs, were fully attested. The trust which he unwillingly accepted when Sir John passed from the scene of action, was owing to his feeling, of short duration, but more the less carefully handled. Though brief of existence, the Abbott ministry was not without its brilliant parts. Of a kindly disposition Sir John Abbott was honored and respected alike by his political friends, and foes.

IF NOT STUBBORNNESS, WHAT?

SOME people are stubborn by nature, and some others adopt the habit just in order to hold opposite views from everybody else. Either one is a most nonsensical creature, and to attempt to win such a person to your way of thinking is merely a valuable time lost. We have at different times met with both specimens of the genus homo, but it remained for us to run up against one who adopted obstinacy as a profession with the editor of L'Impartiale.

C. M. B. A.

The visit of Mr. P. J. O'Keefe, of St. John's, to this Province, has not been barren of results. Although here on a vacation trip he managed to demonstrate to the residents of Summerside and Charlottetown the good results which accrue from the good work that is being done by the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association, which organization he is one of the Grand Deputies. Of all the Provinces of the Dominion, Prince Edward Island was the only one which, up to Mr. O'Keefe's coming, had failed to enter into C. M. B. A. work.

C. M. B. A.

A United States treasury officer received a small and unexpected dose of his own medicine at St. John's, P. E. I., on Monday. A number of employees in the storage building, six were injured and burned, two probably fatally. A number of people were knocked down and trampled over. The fire, which started at the time the fire bell rang, spread so rapidly that it was impossible to control. It was not until the fire was completely extinguished that the cause of the fire was ascertained. It was found that a small quantity of oil, which had been used in a lamp, had fallen on a pile of lumber, and had kindled.

OVER THE WIRES.

News from other parts of the world, including reports on international events and local news from various cities.

SPORTING NOTES.

Sports news, including reports on horse racing, boxing, and other athletic events. It covers the results of recent races and upcoming contests.

THE OVEN ELECTRIC BELT.

Advertisement for the Owen Electric Belt, highlighting its benefits for health and relief from various ailments. The advertisement claims that the belt is a revolutionary invention that can cure a wide range of conditions.

COAL COAL.

Advertisement for coal, providing information about the quality and availability of the product. The advertisement emphasizes the benefits of using high-quality coal for heating and industrial purposes.

WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY.

Advertisement for Webster's International Dictionary, describing its comprehensive content and ease of use. The advertisement highlights the dictionary's coverage of a wide range of words and its clear, concise definitions.

Epps's Cocoa.

Advertisement for Epps's Cocoa, promoting its health benefits and nutritional value. The advertisement describes the cocoa as a delicious and nutritious beverage that is perfect for breakfast or as a snack.

THE CHARLOTTETOWN HERALD.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1898.

THE HERALD

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1898.

Death of Sir John Abbott.

In the death of Sir John Caldwell Abbott, Canada loses one of her ablest sons. From the time of his entry into public life down to the date of his retirement he showed himself to be eminently possessed of those requirements and capabilities which characterize the statesman. As a member of Sir John Macdonald's ministry, an leader of the Senate, and later, when on the death of his former chief, he was called upon to preside at the helm of state, his highest ability, high character and wide knowledge of public affairs, were fully attested. The trust which he unwillingly accepted when Sir John passed from the scene of action, was owing to his feeling, of short duration, but more the less carefully handled. Though brief of existence, the Abbott ministry was not without its brilliant parts. Of a kindly disposition Sir John Abbott was honored and respected alike by his political friends, and foes.

IF NOT STUBBORNNESS, WHAT?

SOME people are stubborn by nature, and some others adopt the habit just in order to hold opposite views from everybody else. Either one is a most nonsensical creature, and to attempt to win such a person to your way of thinking is merely a valuable time lost. We have at different times met with both specimens of the genus homo, but it remained for us to run up against one who adopted obstinacy as a profession with the editor of L'Impartiale.

C. M. B. A.

The visit of Mr. P. J. O'Keefe, of St. John's, to this Province, has not been barren of results. Although here on a vacation trip he managed to demonstrate to the residents of Summerside and Charlottetown the good results which accrue from the good work that is being done by the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association, which organization he is one of the Grand Deputies. Of all the Provinces of the Dominion, Prince Edward Island was the only one which, up to Mr. O'Keefe's coming, had failed to enter into C. M. B. A. work.

C. M. B. A.

A United States treasury officer received a small and unexpected dose of his own medicine at St. John's, P. E. I., on Monday. A number of employees in the storage building, six were injured and burned, two probably fatally. A number of people were knocked down and trampled over. The fire, which started at the time the fire bell rang, spread so rapidly that it was impossible to control. It was not until the fire was completely extinguished that the cause of the fire was ascertained. It was found that a small quantity of oil, which had been used in a lamp, had fallen on a pile of lumber, and had kindled.

OVER THE WIRES.

News from other parts of the world, including reports on international events and local news from various cities.

SPORTING NOTES.

Sports news, including reports on horse racing, boxing, and other athletic events. It covers the results of recent races and upcoming contests.

THE OVEN ELECTRIC BELT.

Advertisement for the Owen Electric Belt, highlighting its benefits for health and relief from various ailments. The advertisement claims that the belt is a revolutionary invention that can cure a wide range of conditions.

COAL COAL.

Advertisement for coal, providing information about the quality and availability of the product. The advertisement emphasizes the benefits of using high-quality coal for heating and industrial purposes.

WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY.

Advertisement for Webster's International Dictionary, describing its comprehensive content and ease of use. The advertisement highlights the dictionary's coverage of a wide range of words and its clear, concise definitions.

Epps's Cocoa.

Advertisement for Epps's Cocoa, promoting its health benefits and nutritional value. The advertisement describes the cocoa as a delicious and nutritious beverage that is perfect for breakfast or as a snack.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

FOR THE CHARLOTTETOWN HERALD.

LOCAL AND OTHER.

Advertisements for local businesses and services, including notices of lost and found items, real estate listings, and announcements.

THE OVEN ELECTRIC BELT.

Advertisement for the Owen Electric Belt, highlighting its benefits for health and relief from various ailments. The advertisement claims that the belt is a revolutionary invention that can cure a wide range of conditions.

COAL COAL.

Advertisement for coal, providing information about the quality and availability of the product. The advertisement emphasizes the benefits of using high-quality coal for heating and industrial purposes.

WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY.

Advertisement for Webster's International Dictionary, describing its comprehensive content and ease of use. The advertisement highlights the dictionary's coverage of a wide range of words and its clear, concise definitions.

Epps's Cocoa.

Advertisement for Epps's Cocoa, promoting its health benefits and nutritional value. The advertisement describes the cocoa as a delicious and nutritious beverage that is perfect for breakfast or as a snack.

NEW ADVERTISERS... Mortgage Sale... Great Rush... The Owen Electric Belt...

LOCAL AND OTHER ITEMS... The Michaelmas term of the Supreme Court opens on Tuesday next...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THEY DON'T GRIPPE... The Halifax Globe says: The people's market is steady. Pork is in good demand and is sold at 25 cents per lb.

CORRESPONDENCE... To the Editor of the Herald: Dear Sir,—For justification of myself...

MARKET NOTES... The Halifax Globe says: The people's market is steady. Pork is in good demand...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE INTEREST INCOME... The Ontario Mutual Life Company... Is more than sufficient to pay its death claims...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

THE OVEN Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt... The Owen Electric Belt...

J. B. MACDONALD & CO., ANNOUNCEMENT! We take this opportunity of thanking our numerous friends and customers in town and country for the generous support extended to us during the last twenty-five years...

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. Burns 1892. Rebuilt 1893. HEADQUARTERS FOR ALL KINDS OF HARDWARE AND CARRIAGE GOODS.

R. B. NORTON & CO. WARM WINTER CLOTHING. MEN'S OVERCOATS, BOYS OVERCOATS, MEN'S REEFERS, BOYS REEFERS, MEN'S SUITS, BOYS SUITS.

HARRIS & STEWART LONDON HOUSE. SEASONABLE! Preserve Kettles, Refrigerators, Gem Freezers, Screen Wire, Wash's Scythes, American Rakes, Machine Oil, Binder Twine, Paints & Oils, Fence Wire.

DR. WOOD'S Norway Pine Syrup. A Cup of Bouillon. Liebig Company's Extract of Beef. LAND FOR SALE. EXHIBITION WEEK. PROWSE BROS. MIDSUMMER SALE.

J. J. JOHNSTON, BARRISTER SOLICITOR. NOTARY PUBLIC, & INSURANCE AGENT. CARTER'S BOOKSTORE. WANTED! GEO. CARTER & CO. RUBIN TUPLIN & CO.

Vertical text on the far left edge of the page, likely from another page or a narrow advertisement.

Vertical text on the far right edge of the page, likely from another page or a narrow advertisement.

In Woman's Twilight.

By James Whitehill Riley.

Beyond the purple, busy trees, Of Summer's sunset borderlines; Beyond the range of eyes like these, Along their dripping brows, and sung To Jason in that mystic tongue That dazed man with its melody; Oh, such a hand, with such a eye, Kissing its shadow eternally, Is the fair Usad-to-be.

MOONDYNE!

Book Third. ALICE WALMSLEY.

BY JOHN BOYLE O'REILLY.

O, Spirits of Unrest and pain, that grieve for the sorrow dealt to weak humanity, sweep from my heart the dull veil of individuality, and let my being vibrate with the profound pulsation of those who mourn in the depths. Spirits of sorrow and sympathy, twin sisters of the twilight, touch the trembling chords that sound the symphony of wrong, and consolation, and despair! Almighty God, in Thy wisdom, and surely also in Thy love, Thou loyest Thine awful finger on a poor human soul, and it is withered in Thy sight even to agony and death. Thy ways, far seeing, our eyes may not discover. In these supreme moments of trial, when that which we see is black as night, teach us to trust in Thy guidance, give us light to deny the fearful temptation of chance, and faith to believe that all was labor and are heavy laden may bring their heavy burden trustingly to Thee!

My life is in ruin—nothing can now increase the burden. If I speak, nothing will stand before me other than the sword of I have been. She was wretched before she became guilty. Let me undergo—let me never see the face of one who knew me, to remind me of the past. Between freedom and memory, and in the prison and the forgiveness—I choose the latter. These thoughts never became words in Alice's mind; but this was the mental process which resulted in her silence in the dock. The trial was shown as she found guilty. Then came the solitude and silence of the great prison. Four white walls, a stone floor, a black iron door, a heavily barred window, through which she looked up at the moon and stars at night, and enclosed within these walls, a young and beautiful girl, a tender heart that never throbbed with a lustful desire, a conscience so sensitive and a mind so pure that angels might have been in her. Shall not this prisoner find peace in solitude, and golden sermons in the waves of pain? She had been one day and night in Millbank. The severe matron of warden of the pentagon, her cell door in the morning, and handed her two books, a Bible and prayer-book. The window of the cell, outside the bars, was open. Without a word to the warden, the prisoner threw the books out of the open window. 'They are not true; I shall pray no more,' she said, not fiercely, but firmly, as they fell into the yard with a clatter. She was reported to the authorities. They sent the Bible reader to pray with her in the cell, according to the rule laid down for the convict prisons; but she remained silent. They put her back to the wall, and she said, 'murder' was printed on her door card; they shut her up in a dark cell for days and weeks, till her eyes dilated and body shrank under the measure of food. Remember, a few years before, she was a simple, God fearing country girl. Neither prayer nor punishment could bring her into repentance, but only deepened the earnestness of her daily answer: 'I shall pray no more.' Her case was brought before the Chief Director, Sir Joshua Hobbs. This disciplinarian visited her dark cell, and with a harsh 'Ho, there!' flashed a brilliant lamp on the entrance, and she sat on a stool in the centre of the dark cell, her face bowed into her hands, perhaps to shut out the painfully sudden glare. 'She won't pray, eh?' said the great reformer, looking at the slight figure that did not move. 'We'll see. He evidently took a special interest in this case. An hour later, the prisoner was taken from her cell, and dragged to the prison, looking at the light which till she stood in an arched passage beneath the prison. Her clothing was rudely torn from her shoulders to the waist; her wrists were strapped to staples in the wall, and before her sat in the centre of the cell, the real had swept her delicate flesh into livid stripes. Then, for one weak moment, her wretchedness conceived, she shrieked, as if in supplication, the name of Him she had so bitterly refused to worship. But the scream of her affliction was not a prayer—it was the awful utterance of a passing spirit, the cry of a wrecked and tortured soul, an impression born of such agony as was only utterable in a curse. May God pity and blot out the sin!

My life is in ruin—nothing can now increase the burden. If I speak, nothing will stand before me other than the sword of I have been. She was wretched before she became guilty. Let me undergo—let me never see the face of one who knew me, to remind me of the past. Between freedom and memory, and in the prison and the forgiveness—I choose the latter. These thoughts never became words in Alice's mind; but this was the mental process which resulted in her silence in the dock. The trial was shown as she found guilty. Then came the solitude and silence of the great prison. Four white walls, a stone floor, a black iron door, a heavily barred window, through which she looked up at the moon and stars at night, and enclosed within these walls, a young and beautiful girl, a tender heart that never throbbed with a lustful desire, a conscience so sensitive and a mind so pure that angels might have been in her. Shall not this prisoner find peace in solitude, and golden sermons in the waves of pain? She had been one day and night in Millbank. The severe matron of warden of the pentagon, her cell door in the morning, and handed her two books, a Bible and prayer-book. The window of the cell, outside the bars, was open. Without a word to the warden, the prisoner threw the books out of the open window. 'They are not true; I shall pray no more,' she said, not fiercely, but firmly, as they fell into the yard with a clatter. She was reported to the authorities. They sent the Bible reader to pray with her in the cell, according to the rule laid down for the convict prisons; but she remained silent. They put her back to the wall, and she said, 'murder' was printed on her door card; they shut her up in a dark cell for days and weeks, till her eyes dilated and body shrank under the measure of food. Remember, a few years before, she was a simple, God fearing country girl. Neither prayer nor punishment could bring her into repentance, but only deepened the earnestness of her daily answer: 'I shall pray no more.'

My life is in ruin—nothing can now increase the burden. If I speak, nothing will stand before me other than the sword of I have been. She was wretched before she became guilty. Let me undergo—let me never see the face of one who knew me, to remind me of the past. Between freedom and memory, and in the prison and the forgiveness—I choose the latter. These thoughts never became words in Alice's mind; but this was the mental process which resulted in her silence in the dock. The trial was shown as she found guilty. Then came the solitude and silence of the great prison. Four white walls, a stone floor, a black iron door, a heavily barred window, through which she looked up at the moon and stars at night, and enclosed within these walls, a young and beautiful girl, a tender heart that never throbbed with a lustful desire, a conscience so sensitive and a mind so pure that angels might have been in her. Shall not this prisoner find peace in solitude, and golden sermons in the waves of pain? She had been one day and night in Millbank. The severe matron of warden of the pentagon, her cell door in the morning, and handed her two books, a Bible and prayer-book. The window of the cell, outside the bars, was open. Without a word to the warden, the prisoner threw the books out of the open window. 'They are not true; I shall pray no more,' she said, not fiercely, but firmly, as they fell into the yard with a clatter. She was reported to the authorities. They sent the Bible reader to pray with her in the cell, according to the rule laid down for the convict prisons; but she remained silent. They put her back to the wall, and she said, 'murder' was printed on her door card; they shut her up in a dark cell for days and weeks, till her eyes dilated and body shrank under the measure of food. Remember, a few years before, she was a simple, God fearing country girl. Neither prayer nor punishment could bring her into repentance, but only deepened the earnestness of her daily answer: 'I shall pray no more.'

My life is in ruin—nothing can now increase the burden. If I speak, nothing will stand before me other than the sword of I have been. She was wretched before she became guilty. Let me undergo—let me never see the face of one who knew me, to remind me of the past. Between freedom and memory, and in the prison and the forgiveness—I choose the latter. These thoughts never became words in Alice's mind; but this was the mental process which resulted in her silence in the dock. The trial was shown as she found guilty. Then came the solitude and silence of the great prison. Four white walls, a stone floor, a black iron door, a heavily barred window, through which she looked up at the moon and stars at night, and enclosed within these walls, a young and beautiful girl, a tender heart that never throbbed with a lustful desire, a conscience so sensitive and a mind so pure that angels might have been in her. Shall not this prisoner find peace in solitude, and golden sermons in the waves of pain? She had been one day and night in Millbank. The severe matron of warden of the pentagon, her cell door in the morning, and handed her two books, a Bible and prayer-book. The window of the cell, outside the bars, was open. Without a word to the warden, the prisoner threw the books out of the open window. 'They are not true; I shall pray no more,' she said, not fiercely, but firmly, as they fell into the yard with a clatter. She was reported to the authorities. They sent the Bible reader to pray with her in the cell, according to the rule laid down for the convict prisons; but she remained silent. They put her back to the wall, and she said, 'murder' was printed on her door card; they shut her up in a dark cell for days and weeks, till her eyes dilated and body shrank under the measure of food. Remember, a few years before, she was a simple, God fearing country girl. Neither prayer nor punishment could bring her into repentance, but only deepened the earnestness of her daily answer: 'I shall pray no more.'

My life is in ruin—nothing can now increase the burden. If I speak, nothing will stand before me other than the sword of I have been. She was wretched before she became guilty. Let me undergo—let me never see the face of one who knew me, to remind me of the past. Between freedom and memory, and in the prison and the forgiveness—I choose the latter. These thoughts never became words in Alice's mind; but this was the mental process which resulted in her silence in the dock. The trial was shown as she found guilty. Then came the solitude and silence of the great prison. Four white walls, a stone floor, a black iron door, a heavily barred window, through which she looked up at the moon and stars at night, and enclosed within these walls, a young and beautiful girl, a tender heart that never throbbed with a lustful desire, a conscience so sensitive and a mind so pure that angels might have been in her. Shall not this prisoner find peace in solitude, and golden sermons in the waves of pain? She had been one day and night in Millbank. The severe matron of warden of the pentagon, her cell door in the morning, and handed her two books, a Bible and prayer-book. The window of the cell, outside the bars, was open. Without a word to the warden, the prisoner threw the books out of the open window. 'They are not true; I shall pray no more,' she said, not fiercely, but firmly, as they fell into the yard with a clatter. She was reported to the authorities. They sent the Bible reader to pray with her in the cell, according to the rule laid down for the convict prisons; but she remained silent. They put her back to the wall, and she said, 'murder' was printed on her door card; they shut her up in a dark cell for days and weeks, till her eyes dilated and body shrank under the measure of food. Remember, a few years before, she was a simple, God fearing country girl. Neither prayer nor punishment could bring her into repentance, but only deepened the earnestness of her daily answer: 'I shall pray no more.'

My life is in ruin—nothing can now increase the burden. If I speak, nothing will stand before me other than the sword of I have been. She was wretched before she became guilty. Let me undergo—let me never see the face of one who knew me, to remind me of the past. Between freedom and memory, and in the prison and the forgiveness—I choose the latter. These thoughts never became words in Alice's mind; but this was the mental process which resulted in her silence in the dock. The trial was shown as she found guilty. Then came the solitude and silence of the great prison. Four white walls, a stone floor, a black iron door, a heavily barred window, through which she looked up at the moon and stars at night, and enclosed within these walls, a young and beautiful girl, a tender heart that never throbbed with a lustful desire, a conscience so sensitive and a mind so pure that angels might have been in her. Shall not this prisoner find peace in solitude, and golden sermons in the waves of pain? She had been one day and night in Millbank. The severe matron of warden of the pentagon, her cell door in the morning, and handed her two books, a Bible and prayer-book. The window of the cell, outside the bars, was open. Without a word to the warden, the prisoner threw the books out of the open window. 'They are not true; I shall pray no more,' she said, not fiercely, but firmly, as they fell into the yard with a clatter. She was reported to the authorities. They sent the Bible reader to pray with her in the cell, according to the rule laid down for the convict prisons; but she remained silent. They put her back to the wall, and she said, 'murder' was printed on her door card; they shut her up in a dark cell for days and weeks, till her eyes dilated and body shrank under the measure of food. Remember, a few years before, she was a simple, God fearing country girl. Neither prayer nor punishment could bring her into repentance, but only deepened the earnestness of her daily answer: 'I shall pray no more.'

My life is in ruin—nothing can now increase the burden. If I speak, nothing will stand before me other than the sword of I have been. She was wretched before she became guilty. Let me undergo—let me never see the face of one who knew me, to remind me of the past. Between freedom and memory, and in the prison and the forgiveness—I choose the latter. These thoughts never became words in Alice's mind; but this was the mental process which resulted in her silence in the dock. The trial was shown as she found guilty. Then came the solitude and silence of the great prison. Four white walls, a stone floor, a black iron door, a heavily barred window, through which she looked up at the moon and stars at night, and enclosed within these walls, a young and beautiful girl, a tender heart that never throbbed with a lustful desire, a conscience so sensitive and a mind so pure that angels might have been in her. Shall not this prisoner find peace in solitude, and golden sermons in the waves of pain? She had been one day and night in Millbank. The severe matron of warden of the pentagon, her cell door in the morning, and handed her two books, a Bible and prayer-book. The window of the cell, outside the bars, was open. Without a word to the warden, the prisoner threw the books out of the open window. 'They are not true; I shall pray no more,' she said, not fiercely, but firmly, as they fell into the yard with a clatter. She was reported to the authorities. They sent the Bible reader to pray with her in the cell, according to the rule laid down for the convict prisons; but she remained silent. They put her back to the wall, and she said, 'murder' was printed on her door card; they shut her up in a dark cell for days and weeks, till her eyes dilated and body shrank under the measure of food. Remember, a few years before, she was a simple, God fearing country girl. Neither prayer nor punishment could bring her into repentance, but only deepened the earnestness of her daily answer: 'I shall pray no more.'

My life is in ruin—nothing can now increase the burden. If I speak, nothing will stand before me other than the sword of I have been. She was wretched before she became guilty. Let me undergo—let me never see the face of one who knew me, to remind me of the past. Between freedom and memory, and in the prison and the forgiveness—I choose the latter. These thoughts never became words in Alice's mind; but this was the mental process which resulted in her silence in the dock. The trial was shown as she found guilty. Then came the solitude and silence of the great prison. Four white walls, a stone floor, a black iron door, a heavily barred window, through which she looked up at the moon and stars at night, and enclosed within these walls, a young and beautiful girl, a tender heart that never throbbed with a lustful desire, a conscience so sensitive and a mind so pure that angels might have been in her. Shall not this prisoner find peace in solitude, and golden sermons in the waves of pain? She had been one day and night in Millbank. The severe matron of warden of the pentagon, her cell door in the morning, and handed her two books, a Bible and prayer-book. The window of the cell, outside the bars, was open. Without a word to the warden, the prisoner threw the books out of the open window. 'They are not true; I shall pray no more,' she said, not fiercely, but firmly, as they fell into the yard with a clatter. She was reported to the authorities. They sent the Bible reader to pray with her in the cell, according to the rule laid down for the convict prisons; but she remained silent. They put her back to the wall, and she said, 'murder' was printed on her door card; they shut her up in a dark cell for days and weeks, till her eyes dilated and body shrank under the measure of food. Remember, a few years before, she was a simple, God fearing country girl. Neither prayer nor punishment could bring her into repentance, but only deepened the earnestness of her daily answer: 'I shall pray no more.'

PRODUCE. We are again prepared to handle consignments either by cargo or in lots of... Potatoes, Turnips, Onions, Butter, Eggs, Pork, Oysters.

AWFUL HEADACHES. 2 YEARS OF SUFFERING. LIVER TROUBLE. SPECTACLES are being worn by numbers of people with eyes entirely too strong; others ought to have a stronger glass than they do use.

HAWKER'S NERVE AND STOMACH TONIC. HAWKER'S LIVER PILLS. I had not taken them long before I commenced to improve and in a short time I was completely cured.

REMOVAL! LUMBER AND COAL. WE HAVE REMOVED to Conolly's Wharf, where we are prepared to furnish everything in our line cheaper than ever.

TELEPHONE COMPANY OF P. E. ISLAND. TOLL LINE STATIONS. WESTERN STATIONS. EASTERN STATIONS.

Great Discount Sale. 25, 33 1/2 and 50 per cent. off for Cash. EXPLANATION TO MY CUSTOMERS.—This Sale is to enable me to pay off the balance due my late partners.

JAMES PATON & CO., 188 VICTORIA ROW. HERE WE ARE AS LARGE AS TWICE AS NATURAL! With Compliments of Star Tailoring Establishments

JOHN T. McKENZIE. THE TAILORING ESTABLISHMENT, ROYAL BANK BUILDINGS, CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. ISLAND.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1893. BARRISTER AND ATTORNEY-AT-LAW. Agent for Credit Promoter Franco-Canadian.

SPECTACLES are being worn by numbers of people with eyes entirely too strong; others ought to have a stronger glass than they do use.

Ripans Tablets. Ripans Tablets are compounded from a prescription widely used by the best medical authorities and are presented in a form that is becoming the fashion everywhere.

THE HERALD. BOTH FOR ONLY $2.00 A YEAR.

THE HERALD. BOTH FOR ONLY $2.00 A YEAR.

THE HERALD. BOTH FOR ONLY $2.00 A YEAR.

THE HERALD. BOTH FOR ONLY $2.00 A YEAR.

THE HERALD. BOTH FOR ONLY $2.00 A YEAR.

FOUND GUILTY. D. A. BRUCE has been found guilty of selling CLOTHING and HATS CHEAPER than any other place on P. E. Island.

D. A. BRUCE, MERCHANT TAILOR. CHEAP Preserving Sugar. The berry season is now here, and almost every housekeeper wants to buy some good, cheap preserving sugar for preserving purposes.

BEER & GOFF. QUBEN & KING SQUARE STORE. April 8-17r.

The Cosmopolitan Magazine. CHARLOTTETOWN HERALD. BOTH FOR $2.00 A YEAR!

THE GREAT ILLUSTRATED MONTHLIES have in the past sold for $4.00 a year. It was a wonder to printers how The Cosmopolitan, with its yearly 1636 pages of reading matter by the greatest writers of the world, and its 1200 illustrations by clever artists, could be furnished for $3.00 a year.

Mark Wright & Co. (LIMITED). GREAT BARGAINS FURNITURE. LOADS 3,000.

Prince Edward Island Railway. 1893 SUMMER ARRANGEMENT. 1893. On and after Wednesday, May 24th, 1893, Trains will run as follows:—

TRAINS FOR THE WEST. STATIONS. Exp's Accom. Act's. Charlottetown, P. E. I., P. M. 9:00, 2:40. P. M. 1:40, 6:00. P. M. 1:40, 6:00. P. M. 1:40, 6:00. P. M. 1:40, 6:00.