CHAPTER XXI.
THE HOUR OF TRIUMPH.

"I will write a list of what I shall require," he said. Then, as he turned to hurry away, he stopped and looked around. "This Scarfross is a mere hut, quite solitary in the hills, is it not?—I mean there is not likely to be any women-folk, who could nurse Lord Norman?"

"It is simply a rough, hut-like place, in a perfect wilderness," some one quickly answered.

"Very well, then," he said, decisively; "some one you can rely upon had better come on after me in the carriage," he said, and ran off.

Lady Blanche stood for a moment, as if collecting all her mental and physical strength; then she went down the terrace and around to the stables.

There she found a couple of grooms wiping down Donald's poor horse, and trying to make him comfortable; and, seated on an upturned barrow, with a noggin of the best whiskey in his hand, was Donald himself.

The appearance of the "grand lady" in their midst flustered the men somewhat. She went up to Donald quickly. "Will you tell me how the accident happened?" she asked.

Donald took off his Gungarry, and told her in his rough, guttural, broken English:

"It was all for the lad's sake, me laddie; he gave his life—if so be the laird dies—for the young boy! Poor boy, he's almost daft over it, and well-nigh broken-hearted! It was a noble thing to do, me laddie, and a sore sight to see so grand a man laying broken and bleeding. It's a strange thing, too, me laddie, that Lord Bruce had a warning the night before. He could not sleep, and came to me to know if he could ride back here. Strange that were, now!" and Donald shook his head gravely, feeling convinced that Lord Bruce had received a direct "warning."

Lady Blanche listened with lowered lids and tightly-set lips.

"And—and do you think he will—die?" she asked hoarsely, each word leaving her white lips as if it hurt her.

Donald shook his head and took up his whisky.

"He's sore hurt," he said, grimly. Lady Blanche put her hand to her heart as if she had received a dagger thrust; then she looked at the old man's rugged face with a fixed determination.

"Donald," she said, "a doctor—Dr. Greene—is going to ride out to Scarfross at once, and a carriage is to follow. Will you see about the horses? And, Donald, will you see that a lady's saddle is put upon one?"

"And what for?" he demanded, staring at her.

"For me," she said, gently.

"For the laddie!" he exclaimed. "But it's no possible you'll be thinking of riding through the dark night to Scarfross—"

"I am not only thinking of it, but I mean to do it," she said, calmly. "I am a good rider, and strong," she said. "If Dr. Greene can go, I can go! The night is not dark. Lord Norman is lying there without a woman near him—"

"Say no more, laddie," said the old man, doggedly. "I'll saddle a horse for you, and what's more I will ride back to Scarfross, too."

Lady Blanche went back to the house without a word, and reaching her room, threw herself on her knees beside the bed and hid her face in her hands.

And this was her triumph, was it? It was for this that she had plotted and schemed, that the man she loved should be dying, dying out in a hut in the wilderness. Dying!

Oh, Heaven, if he should die before she could reach him, before she could see his face, touch his hand once more!

With a cry of despair she rose and began putting on her habit with feverish haste.

She had scarcely got it on that there came a knock at the door, and Lady Betty entered the room without ceremony.

She was dressed for the journey and was still trembling with agitation.

"Have you ordered the carriage, Blanche?" she said, then she stopped short and stared at her. "Why have you got your habit on? Where are you going?"

"I am going to Scarfross," said Lady Blanche, coldly.

"To Scarfross? Why?" demanded Lady Betty. "Why should you go?"

"Because it pleases me," returned Lady Blanche, haughtily, but with a dangerous gleam in her eyes.

"There is no occasion for you to go," she said. "I am going—"

"What is that to me!" said Lady Blanche, turning on her suddenly, with white face and flashing eyes.

"What is it to me whether you are going or not! I am going!"

"But you cannot ride—in the night," said Lady Betty. "Why not come in the carriage?"

"In the carriage!" scornfully. "Do you know how long it will take? Do you think I should keep sane while it dragged its way along! No, I am going to ride. I would walk if there was no other way. What is it to me who else is going. I am nearest him—"

Lady Betty's eyes filled.

"You forget Floris, Blanche," she said, kindly.

Lady Blanche winced as if she had been struck, then her face crimsoned and her lips parted as if for sudden breath.

"Floris—Floris Carlisle!" she said, with suppressed scorn and vehemence.

"Yes! she may be nearer to him than I am. You taunt me with that, do you! Where is she, then? Why is she not here? Perhaps you do not know—but, yes, you do, as well as I! She has deserted him. And it is I—who have loved him all through—who go to him now!"

And speechless—for what could she say? Lady Betty crept crying from the room.

CHAPTER XXII.
LINKED WITH THE PAST.

IN the little drawing-room of the cottage at Westbury Floris sat, with her head bowed upon her hands, looking into the fire.

A silence that could be felt brooded over the house; the old clock on the stairs, whose tick she could remember as far back as she could remember anything, even that had been hushed by sympathetic hands.

Motionless as a carved figure she sat, the frelight falling fitfully on her pale face, showing like marble over the deep black dress.

A week had passed since she left

Ballyfoe and that long night journey, and she was now alone in the world.

To the poor, weak, tired mother the long day of peace and rest had come, and the girl who at this moment needed her more sorely than she had ever needed her, was motherless and solitary.

Alone! alone! All day long the word seemed to echo dully in her numbed heart, until she longed, like the Psalmist of old, for the white wings of death to bear her to her mother's side.

And yet friends had been very good to her—the friends of her old past girlish life had done their very best but how poor is the very best that can be done in such an hour!

No sympathy, however tender and thoughtful, can lighten the darkness of the hour of bereavement, or take off the keen edge of the great trouble.

One gleam of consolation alone pierced the gloom, and that was the knowledge that she had been in time to see the poor mother before she died—in time to hear her very last words and receive her last blessing.

There had scarcely been time for more than that, and Mrs. Carlisle had died in the full comforting assurance that she should leave Floris with a happy future before her.

Almost her last words had been of Lord Bruce, and her belief that he would make Floris happy; almost her last thoughts had been of the glorious future that awaited her as Countess of Norman.

And Floris could not summon heart to tell her the truth—could not find strength to destroy the comfort—the poor dying woman drew from the conviction that her child would be provided for.

And now, as she sat looking into the fire with dry, burning eyes, Floris was thinking of him and the brief happy past.

Through all the week she had been expecting some word from him.

It could not be anything that would not add to her misery, for what could he say that would explain away what she had seen that fateful morning?

But still she had expected and longed for it.

She had thought that he would write one line, perhaps, admitting his guilt and imploring her forgiveness; and she would have sent him her pardon and wished him all happiness.

But no line had come—no, not a single word.

If he had died—if they had both died—the silence between them could not have been more complete!

There was no friendly spirit to tell her that in that moment he was lying between life and death in the vast solitude of the hills, unconscious of anything—ignorant of all that happened to her and to himself!

To her his conduct seemed black as night, black as the sorrow that had befallen her; and in her heart echoed the dreary word, "alone!"

So she sat in the red firelight, letting the hours slip by with weary feet, so lost to the world that when the servant stole in with hushed footsteps and spoke to her, she did not hear her.

The girl came up and touched her with pitying respect.

"A gentleman—Mr. Morrell, miss," she said.

And Mr. Morrell came in.

Floris rose to receive him and held out her white hand.

The little lawyer took it and looked at her with a sympathetic pity, which was so strange an emotion to him that it made him quite embarrassed.

It is to be presumed that even middle-aged attorneys retain a sense of the beautiful, and the lovely young face, never lovelier than now in its clear pallor, and with the sad, wistful light in the eloquent eyes, touched him deeply.

"I am sorry to intrude at so late an hour, Miss Carlisle," he began; but Floris stopped him with a faint smile.

"I am very glad to see you, Mr. Morrell. I was getting very—lonely."

"Yes, yes," he said, in his old sharp way. "How well Floris remembered it on the occasion when he came with Lord Norman's offer. "No doubt—dreadful loss."

"For me, yes," said Floris, bravely, and with a steadfast look in her eyes; "but not for—for—my mother. You were a kind friend to her, Mr. Morrell," she added, with that gentle sweetness which atoned for much of her pride, and was the secret charm which bewitched all who came in contact with her.

"No, no, all in the way of business, Miss Carlisle; nothing more, I assure you," he responded, hurriedly. "Always found your poor mother anxious to avoid giving trouble—and—might I ring for a light for you?"

"Thanks," said Floris. She had grown so used to the grim darkness that had surrounded her that she had become enamored of it. The girl brought the lamp, and Mr. Morrell sat down and fidgeted with his gloves.

Out of respect for Floris he was dressed in mourning and had thought fit to don a hatband which would have been considered deep enough for the loss of his own father.

Floris had asked for some tea, and she gave him a cup now as simply and quietly, almost as cheerfully, as she had done months ago.

There are some proud natures who, like the Spartan boy, will hide the fox that gnaws at their heart, and Floris was one of them.

"Will you take some more sugar? I am sorry there is no cream."

"Don't mention it, Miss Carlisle," he said. Her fortitude amazed him, and pleased him, too, for he was going to try it to its utmost. "When I was here last, Miss Carlisle," he said, coughing and shewing, "I promised to look into the late Mrs. Carlisle's affairs, and—ahem—I have done so."

"Yes?" said Floris. She had sunk into the easy-chair and sat looking at him, her lovely eyes dreamily fixed on his dry, wrinkled and not unkindly face. "Yes, you have been very kind, Mr. Morrell; I do not know what I should have done without you."

"Not at all, not at all!" he said, waving his hand, deprecatingly. "All in the way of business, miss. Only did my duty. I was your father's legal adviser before you were born; in fact, I have had the Carlisle business in my hands ever since I entered the glorious profession of the law."

Floris inclined her head; though her eyes were fixed on his, her thoughts were wandering miles away—to Ballyfoe, to Lady Betty, to Bruce—ah, yes, to Bruce!

"I don't suppose any one knew more of the great lawsuit, Norman vs. Carlisle, than I did," he went on, sipping his tea. "A wonderful lawsuit—and wonderfully—most romantically concluded," and he bowed to Floris.

The almost forgotten calico dress is back in remarkable favor for house and porch frocks. Its new printings are too lovely for any woman to resist.

Rod and Gun.
Rod and Gun for July is a special fishing number, most of the stories relating to the pursuit of the finny tribe, with just enough variety to make the number of interest to those whose allegiance to the piscatorial art is divided among other outdoor sports. The usual departments are well maintained, the Trap department containing an illustrated write-up of the recent tournament of the Dominion Trap Shooting Association at Hamilton, and the Kennel department the list of awards at the London and Montreal Shows. "Sniping in France" a professional Sniper is only one of the fine articles appearing in the Guns and Ammunition section. Rod and Gun is published by W. J. Taylor, Limited at Woodstock, Ont.

NEW GOVERNMENT FOR SERBIA.
LONDON, July 10.
new Provisional Government for Serbia, which has the unanimous support of the people and which will fight the Central Powers, been established at Vladivostok, according to a Times despatch from Tokio, quoting the Asaha. The Government intends to summon a constituent assembly and restore law order throughout the country, programme of the new Government includes the liberation of Siberia from the Bolsheviki, the advance of possible foreign intervention, universal suffrage, establishment of provincial councils and labor bureau, distribution of land among the landless, control of economic activities. It will thus, adds the correspondent of the Times, become the first democratic state in the history of Europe and it is hoped to be the forerunner of a great Russia. The flag adopted by the new Government consists of stripes, white and green.

NEW GOVERNMENT FOR SIBERIA.

LONDON, July 10.—A new Provisional Government for Siberia, which has the unanimous support of the people and which will continue to fight the Central Powers, has been established at Vladivostok, according to a Times despatch from Tokyo, quoting the Vladivostok correspondent of the Asahi. The new Government intends to summon a constituent assembly and restore law and order throughout the country. The programme of the new Government includes the liberation of Siberia from the Bolsheviks, the advance of possible foreign intervention, universal suffrage, establishment of provincial councils and labor bureau, distribution of land among the landless and control of economic activities. Siberia will thus, adds the correspondent of the Times, become the first democratic state in the history of Russia, and it is hoped to be the forerunner of a great Russia. The flag adopted by the new Government consists of two stripes, white and green.

DECLINED OFFER OF GERMAN GENERAL.

ROME, July 10.—Austria has declined to accept German General Otto Buele, as Commander-in-Chief of the forces on the Italian front, because Germany refused to send 12 German divisions with him, according to the newspaper Epoca, which bases the statement on advices from Swiss sources. Austria, it adds, has temporarily given up the idea of revenging herself for her recent defeat by Italy.

ENEMY BEATEN BACK.

ROME, July 10.—Italian divisions on the offensive in Albania are continuing their advance, the war office announced to-day. The enemy, in yesterday's fighting, was beaten back on both sides of Osum River.

BREAKDOWN IN DISCIPLINE.

LONDON, July 10.—Indications of a breakdown in discipline in the second German army are found in two orders issued by General Von Der Marwitz, which have fallen into British hands, says the correspondent of the Times at British headquarters in France. In the orders General Von Der Marwitz makes the complaint, "Discipline, which is the keystone of our army, is seriously shaken. Cases of soldiers refusing to obey orders are increasing to an alarming extent."

BERNHARDT'S PEACE PROPOSALS.

COPENHAGEN, July 9.—While claiming no official sanction and admitting that the realization would encounter strong opposition from the German Government and people, George Bernhardt, the political editor of the Vossische Zeitung, of Berlin, submits the following peace conditions for France and Italy to discuss with Germany and Austria: Their future frontiers without intervention of third parties; all German colonies to be returned; Belgium to be restored completely as an independent state; all merchants of the Central Powers who have been deprived of their property overseas to be restored to their former rights of possession; Great Britain to evacuate unconditionally all parts of the Turkish Empire and Persia; the situation before the war to be restored in Egypt. The Dardanelles, on the basis of a treaty applying to the states bordering the Black Sea, to be free for the passage of Russian ships.

BROUGHT DOWN HIS FIRST.

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES ON THE MARNE, July 10.—Lieut. Quentin Roosevelt, the youngest son of ex-President Roosevelt, brought down his first German airplane this afternoon, in a fight north of Chateau Thierry.

FLOODS DAMAGING CROPS.

ZURICH, Switzerland, July 10.—The Vienna papers report a heavy and continuous rainfall as having caused floods in many parts of Austria and Southern Germany, resulting in immense damage to the crops. The Danube at Vienna on Saturday reached the highest level recorded in thirty years, and was still rising when the Vienna reports of the flood were printed. Despatches from Berlin on July 8, reported severe floods in many parts of Germany, with serious damage to crops in several districts in Germany and across the Austrian border.

AN AIRPLANE FEAT.

LONDON, July 10.—King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium reached England in an airplane when they came last Saturday to attend the silver anniversary of King George and Queen Mary. It was learned to-day. The King and Queen of the Belgians attended to-day a concert given by the famous Belgian orchestra which is functioning London. Speaking at this function Earl Curzon, member of the war cabinet, said in his reference to the royal couple on Saturday morning, "they flew over here; they were the first King and Queen to descend upon our coast from the sky." To welcome our own King and Queen on the memorable occasion of Saturday last and to show their sympathy with the wounded sailors and soldiers, the King and Queen of Belgium took a short respite from their life of watching and waiting in the angle of Belgium, which is still left to them, watching for the next assault of the brutal enemy. The Belgian King and Queen were greeted with great enthusiasm at the concert where thousands of Belgians had assembled.

STRAIGHTENING THE LINE.

ROME, July 10.—Italian troops in the Brenta Valley on the mountain front carried out operations yesterday by means of which the Italian line in this section was rectified. South of St. Elvio the garrison of one of our advanced posts at an altitude of 3,941 metres drove back an enemy detachment. In the Brenta Valley we carried out rectifying operations, taking twenty-four prisoners.

VICTORY FOR PAN-GERMANS.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—According to an official despatch from Switzerland the retirement of Von Kuehlmann as German Foreign Minister and the appointment of Von Hintze to succeed him is looked upon as a victory for the pan-Germans. It is also recalled that a few days ago Social democrats announced in the Socialist paper Vorwaerts that if Von Kuehlmann was forced to retire Chancellor Von Hertling would also be obliged to retire. The Swiss view, however, is that the situation will not be altered in any way, for the military party is in reality governing, and part of its policy is to make a few concessions in form in regard to the staff of the Liberal Party.

KAISER HAS INFLUENZA.

ROME, July 10.—Emperor William himself has fallen a victim to the influenza that has been so prevalent in the German army, according to a despatch from a Swiss source that reached Epoca. This declares that the Emperor has gone home from the French front. The Emperor's family are suffering from the same malady.

SULTAN MAY FAVOR ALLIES.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The opinion that the Sultan of Turkey, Mohammed VI, is in sympathy and disposed to an understanding with representatives of the Allies, was expressed here to-day by Saib Bey Gourdji, former president of the Ottoman telegraphic agency. He said that in 1914 he knew the present Sultan when he was Prince Valid Eddine, brother of the dead ruler. "I can't be sure that his ideas have not changed since 1914," said Mr. Gourdji, "but knowing him as I do I am perfectly sure that he will not be the man to follow blindly the orders of the Committee of Union and Progress like his predecessor did. He is not a figure head, but a man of real sense. He is to-day the most anti-German Turk in the Turkish Empire."

About That Alleged Shortage.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—The outport people have heard the rumour re the alleged shortage of cash in the Customs Department at St. John's. They have also noted your questions concerning the rumour in the Telegram almost daily. They have also noted that so far as the general public are aware no action has yet been taken. They are wondering and noting and jolting things down and turning things over in their minds, and if something is not done soon, they are going to assist you in asking some questions very pertinent to the matter under consideration and to other matters connected with the administration of Justice in this British Dominion. They are very suspicious that something is wrong. They are beginning to think there is something real about their suspicions. They see one person who breaks the Law or commits a crime punished (and rightly so), while other persons go scot free. They see certain individuals names published broadcast to the world, while others names are kept in the background. And they are asking the question: Why? Why? Why? They see a boy sent to the Penitentiary for two months or six months, as the case may be for stealing a few packages of cigarettes or some other trifling thing, and they wonder why the man or men who misappropriate public monies do not receive proportionate punishment. And shortly the wondering will become loud, and they will cease wondering and do something else. They will burst the bands of silence, and as free citizens in a country of free institutions they will demand that the Law be administered fairly and fearlessly to all alike, rich and poor, wise and simple, to the man with no pull or standing (from a social standpoint) as well as to the man with all kinds of pull. Now, sir, I am a citizen and a taxpayer (and it is, as you know, no joke to be a taxpayer in this country at present), and I join with you, sir, in enquiring into the alleged cash shortage in the Customs House at St. John's, and the public want to know about it. If there is a shortage that let us know about and quickly, else the public when they read about Jim Jones, of Jonesville, being sent to jail for 12 months for stealing a coil of rope, or John Smith, of Ram's Horn, being sent to jail for 5 years for stealing a bedstead, will be inclined to wonder if British Justice is being meted out to all alike, pull or no pull, position or no position, friends or no friends, without fear or favour. And they are going to hold the authorities and the Government responsible for the administration of the Law. Yours for the present.

EQUAL RIGHTS.

Harbour Grace District, July 8th, 1918.

French Red Cross.

The arrangements for the events in aid of the French Red Cross have been practically finalized. It is proposed to have a band concert in Banerman Park on a day to be announced later. The C. L. B. and C. C. Bands will perform and refreshments will be served by groups of ladies who have undertaken this task on behalf of this very laudable movement. An admission fee of twenty cents will be charged, Mayor Gooding and the City Council having kindly given the use of the Park and Capt. Bert Tait of the N.S. Regiment will have a squad of soldiers at the gates to collect the entrance fee and to prevent the ubiquitous small boy from over running the place. On Thursday

German Soldier Says Kaiser Lied.

(By Frank H. Taylor.)
With the American Army in Lorraine.—Information obtained from prisoners captured at Xivray and other American points indicates the vaning morale of the Germans. Even the crack regiments of storm troops are affected.
"We are living in hopes that something will happen to the Allies," declared one Bavarian. "The Kaiser promised to be in Paris before this. He lied. The military leaders are now talking of the German public by promising a victorious peace within three months. After that it will be another three months, then another."
Prisoners say that even the crack German troops want to quit. They are discouraged because of the showing made by the Americans and now believe they can never break the Allied lines, with the Americans pouring in. One German lieutenant, an exceptionally intelligent man, says that he made a brilliant record both as a soldier growing along the entire line.

"You Americans excel in shooting and in individual fighting," he said. "You are young, fresh, spirited, well fed and well clothed. Your morale is natural. Ours is still good, but is bolstered up artificially. Our strength lies in our numbers and organization."
Germany, the prisoners admit, no longer hope to break the Allied lines. But they believe Germany could hold out for years, if she had enough food and clothing. They are too short of both now to keep up their morale and maintain effective fighting.

Rev. Levi Curtis, D. D.
PRESIDENT OF THE NEWFOUNDLAND CONFERENCE.
The Newfoundland Conference has honored itself in electing the Rev. Levi Curtis, D.D., to its presidency. This is the second time his brethren have thus expressed the high esteem in which he is held amongst them. Born in Newfoundland he took front rank in school and in due time proceeded to Mount Allison where he made a brilliant record both as a student and a speaker. Returning to his conference he occupied prominent pastorates, including Gower Street Church, St. John's, with much success, until 1899 when he succeeded the late Rev. Dr. Milligan as Superintendent of Methodist Day Schools in the Island, which office he has since filled with much ability and satisfaction both to the Government and the Church he represents. Dr. Curtis has for years ably represented his Conference at General Conferences, the General Missionary Board, the Church Union Committee and other connectional boards and a few weeks ago he represented the General Conference with distinguished ability before the Episcopal Church, South, of the United States, his fraternal greetings being received with high appreciation. Dr. Curtis graduated as a B.A. from Mt. Allison in 1889, as M.A. in 1900, and was after some years honored by the degree of D.D. by his Alma Mater because of the honor his career had brought to her. The learned Doctor is a man of abounding energy. We hazard the guess that he is, at least, midway between fifty and sixty, with promise of many years of usefulness before him.—The Wesleyan.

The Victory Loan.
Ye patriots of Newfoundland
Who sit at home at ease,
While Britain's sailors guard your shores
And plough the northern seas;
And while her soldiers fight for you
And sip the salt sea breeze,
Now make your dollars strike a blow
To save the things you prize.
And while your own sons overseas
Plod on through Fiander's mud,
And push their way to victory
Through sacrificial blood;
Bring forth your consecrated coin
To keep their lines equipped,
Till victory crowns our banners
And Germany is whiped.
By memorials of duty the first
Langenscheidt, Gallipoli,
And those who manned the Monchy lines
And held the Hun at bay,
Come stand behind your noble sons,
Who hold the lines beyond;
To keep their faith and courage up,
Now buy a Victory Bond.
(Adapted from poem by Rev. Chas. D. Baldwin, in Toronto Globe.)

THE QUEST OF LIFE.
There's nothing new beneath the sun!
So does the ancient saying run;
All joys and griefs that man shall know
Are here upon the earth below,
And all that is to be, awaits
The opening of discovery's gates.
Life's but a searching and a quest,
For pleasures that will please us best.
Through troubled ways men plod
As long as Freedom's flag shall fly.
Searching for laughter or for song,
Or hidden gold or fame's renown.
In country vale or busy town,
They toil from day to day to find
The hidden source of peace of mind
And though it may be far or near,
The joy they seek is always here.
Life seems to be a tangled skein,
Shot through with golden yarn and plain,
And crimson threads and blue and gray,
Through which men's fingers run each day
Seeking to find some bit of thread
To match the dream by which they're led.
And who shall seek and never tire,
Shall some day find his heart's desire.

And many splendid souls there are
Who set their dreams and goals afar,
Deep in the skein they seem to see
The greater joys that are to be,
And they will bear long years of pain,
So great a glory to attain,
And suffer hurt and even die,
The finer thread of life to buy.
Now through the tangled yarn of life
Men march to-day in deadly strife,
Courageous men who dare to seek
The thread of justice for the weak.
Contented they shall never be
Until all men on earth are free;
And they are even glad to die
So long as Freedom's flag shall fly.
Open wide your eyes for here is

Aren't They Beggars?

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

As I have said more than once in this column, the man or woman when he can't afford to buy anything, will come out frankly and say so, instead of making some elaborate (and obvious) excuse, as well as a low priced cut of meat nowadays.

And yet I have just been reminded that there is a certain type of person who, under certain circumstances, sings the saga of poverty too much instead of too little.

Impressing People With One's Poverty. I refer to the person who makes just as great an effort to impress people who are working for him or whom he is bargaining with, with his poverty, as he does to impress everyone else with his affluence.

For instance, I was luncheon with a group of women at a rather expensive hotel. Suddenly one of them gave an exclamation evidently of distress. "There's my dentist over there," she cried. "I hope he does not see me."

"Why not?" someone asked in surprise. "Because he'll think I have all sorts of money, my dear," she explained, "and I don't want him to. I've been telling him how bad George's business is this year, because I don't want him to make his bill too big."

But George's Business Wasn't Bad. Now, as I happen to know, George's business is not at all bad. But my lady wanted money for other things.

Again, a friend of mine took a young relative to board, one winter, while the latter was studying. The girl told how very poor she was and my friend, being one of those people too generous for their own good, made her a price that scarcely covered the cost of food (to say nothing of the cost of preparing it and the room rent).

Yet She Could Buy Silk Stockings. The girl accepted the price, indeed she gave her cousin to understand

A signal from the vindictive warned the storming parties to return, which they did amidst a hot fire. The vessels then backed away, but could not escape the storm of shell-fire, and the Dafoell took fire. As there was a danger of the ammunition exploding, a volunteer was called for to go below and hand it up. Devil responded, and accomplished his dangerous task. Eventually the Dafoell was taken in tow by a destroyer, and proud, though battered, she safely reached harbor.

While she was being towed to port, Lieut. Campbell, commander of the Dafoell, although streaming with blood, calmly smoked a cigarette, and sang "The End of a Perfect Day."

is a super-heated day in which I write these verses; and people, as they go their way, are breathing heart-wrung curses. Excessive heat like this destroys the temper of the battle-front. On the same day the German long-range guns bombarded Paris, as they did on Good Friday and Easter Sunday, struck a church, and killed or wounded eight persons. The simple narration of these facts reveals the abyss that divides the British and the German conceptions of what a Vatican organ recently called "respect toward religious convictions and the rights attached to them."

at other times of disposition sunny; his laughter rings like Easter chimes; he's prodigal with money. But he is sore and surly now, since heat began to sweat him; the sweat is dripping from his brow and prickly heat has got him. When mother says, "I need a broom," in accents mild and quiet, he turns upon her eyes of gloom, and starts a full-blown riot. The children tip-toe everywhere, no hint of racket making. For father's like a grizzly bear whose head is sore and aching. He sits beneath the sunset tree and fans himself like blazes, and it is pitiful to see his line of smoking phrases. He rubs his back against the shed, its itching chafes and bothers, and says he wishes he were dead and planted with his fathers. He wishes winter would arise and come, with all its rigors; he reaches wildly for the flies, and burrows for the chiggers.

The Allies and the Holy See.

On Monday last the Prince of Wales visited the Pope at the Vatican. This act of deference towards the Head of the Roman Church, whose adherents number many millions among the peoples of the British Empire, was right and proper. The visit was obviously made with the consent and approval of the Italian Government. Our Rome correspondent reported that it gave "keen satisfaction to the Vatican and Catholic circles generally." On Thursday it was announced that, in pursuance of an appeal received through the Vatican from the Cardinal Archbishop of Cologne, the British Government had consented for "religious and humane" reasons that no British aircraft should be made during daylight that day, the Feast of Corpus Christi, on cities not in the vicinity of the battle-front. On the same day the German long-range guns bombarded Paris, as they did on Good Friday and Easter Sunday, struck a church, and killed or wounded eight persons. The simple narration of these facts reveals the abyss that divides the British and the German conceptions of what a Vatican organ recently called "respect toward religious convictions and the rights attached to them."

Coakerism is to Newfoundland what Kaiserism is to the world. It can be summed up in one oft-repeated phrase "Might is Right." It indirectly instills into the minds and characters of its adherents the vices of selfishness and ingratitude—two vices directly in opposition to all Christian teaching. The very motto—"To everyone his own"—implies an entire absence of that good old spirit of "give and take," which has always existed in the home of the people of Newfoundland, and made them renowned in the past for their hospitality.

In short Coakerism, like Kaiserism, is a menace to our civilization. Coakerism, as we know it to-day, stands for selfishness, ingratitude, inconsistency, disrespect for all established laws of society, and lack of faith in mankind. It is directly opposed to the true spirit of Unionism. There is absolutely no reason why the Fishermen of Newfoundland should not have a Union to protect its interests, but in order that it should survive the test of time it should be divorced from Coakerism.

Like Canada, we will have many problems to face after the war is over, and the solving of them will tax us to the uttermost. We shall require united action on the part of all classes and elements in the country, in order to build up a solid Dominion, united in loyalty to the throne, and worthy of the honored place in the Empire which our brave soldier lads who have sacrificed their young lives, have won for us.

In this building up process there will be no room for Coakerism with its discordant doctrines as we have known it the past ten years. Recently an appointment was made to a certain gentleman who is not eligible to become a member of that Board from the standpoint of having done his duty to the Empire. The sacrifice which so many loyal men in this country have made in giving one, two, and in some cases three of their sons in defence of their King and Country, compels one to ask straightforward, searching questions, in matters of this sort. Has this gentleman, who is to sit in judgment on the merits of the application of other men's sons, a son of his own old enough to volunteer? If no why is he not wearing the uniform of his King like thousands of others of his age? If this appointment was made from a political standpoint it showed very bad taste on the part of those in authority, and some explanation should be forthcoming to satisfy the vast majority, who are always ready to give of their means and their flesh and blood in the defence of the flag without the hope or expectation of place or pay.

Henry Ford, the American millionaire is working overtime to help defeat the Prussian bully. What a transformation! About three years ago his name Henry Ford was working hard, and spending his millions as an extreme pacifist, to try and bring about a dishonorable peace. It serves to illustrate what a reversion of feeling has taken place in the United States of America against Germany.

The Minister of Finance and Customs still continues to remain silent in regard to very serious charge that has been made in the press against his Department. Does he think that his Department can take from the people thousands of dollars in hard cash to be taken by his officials and only worthless I. O. U.'s substituted therefor? Whose are the I. O. U.'s and what efforts are being made to redeem them? This is the business of the public and not Mr. Cashin's private concerns. How were these I. O. U.'s allowed to accumulate to the enormous sum of six thousand dollars without the Auditor General's knowledge of the fact? These are questions which the public ought to know, and they will not be satisfied until they do know. It is now up to the Minister to explain matters to the public who are his masters and the losers in the case.

ASK FOR EDWARDS' AND TAKE NO OTHER.

"I'm With YOU for all I'm Worth."

The man who puts on a uniform and goes to take his place where the fighting is done is with his country FOR ALL HE IS WORTH.

When a man has staked his life he can go no farther in proving his loyalty.

There are many of us who cannot offer our lives in the service of our country. Nevertheless, we too, can prove that we are with our Country and our Nation for all we are worth.

By purchasing VICTORY BONDS to the full extent of our ability we prove our faith in the justice of our cause, we give our support to the men who are going to fight our fight, and we earn for ourselves the satisfaction that can come only through a conscientious performance of duty.

You Take No Chance

The man who goes to fight necessarily takes a chance. In buying VICTORY BONDS you take no chance. Your investment is secure.

VICTORY BONDS are just as sound as is the money which the Government issues. A VICTORY BOND is better, in fact, than money, because the VICTORY BOND you buy to-day may be worth more than its face value when you get ready to cash it in. Money never can be worth more than 100 cents on the dollar. Besides you can get 6 1-2 per cent interest on it, an unusually high rate.

Put into service every dollar that you can spare. Show that you are with our fighting men in spirit. Let them know that you are with them for all you are worth! They need your support. Are you willing that they should have it?

Diocesan Synod.

AFTERNOON SESSION.
July 10th.
Synod opened at 3.30. The Lord Bishop presiding. After the devotion exercises the roll was called when 25 clergy and lay delegates answered to their names. Minutes of last session read and confirmed.

Mr. Hodder gave notice that on tomorrow he would bring forward a Resolution dealing with Lay Readers and their work.

Mr. MacDonald moved the adoption of the report of the committee on Temperance, which, after an interesting and lively discussion was adopted.

House resumed at 5. The Lord Bishop presiding. After prayers and roll call Canon Smart presented the report of the committee to consider the opening address.

Mr. Bayly's resolution relating to Spencer Lodge was adopted.

Leave was granted Mr. Dunfield to introduce a Bill to amend Chap. XIV. of the Constitution and Rules. Bill was read a first time to be read a second time to-morrow.

Leave was also granted Mr. Watson to introduce a Bill to amend Chap. XVIII. of the Constitution and Rules. Bill was read a first time, second reading to-morrow.

Dr. Blackall's questions relating to the Bishop's Maintenance Fund were answered by Canon Bolt; and the Doctor gave notice of introducing a Resolution concerning the Fund.

Canon Bolt moved the Adoption of the Report of the Council of Queen's Theological College which was passed.

The Report of the Ordination Candidates Committee was read by Mr. Barton and disposed of.

The House rose at 10 o'clock, the Bishop pronouncing the Benediction.

DeGRISH—HEFFERTON.

St. Peter's Church, Catalina, was the scene of a quiet wedding on Wednesday afternoon, July 8th, when Miss Minnie, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George DeGrish, of Trinity, and Mr. S. J. Hefferton, of Newtown, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. G. S. Chamberlain. The bride was dressed in a suit of navy serge, with leghorn hat, and was given away by her brother-in-law, R. J. Randall, Esq. A niece of the bride, Miss Anita Randall, as flower-girl, looked charming, being dressed in pink silk, and carrying a basket of flowers. The groom was ably assisted by Mr. S. Sansom, teacher at Catalina. After the ceremony, the party drove to the home of Mrs. R. J. Randall, and spent a very enjoyable evening. The bride and groom remained at Catalina for a few days, later proceeding to St. John's, where Mr. Hefferton will take up military work having volunteered in March last, but who remained until the end of the term in June, as teacher of the High School, Trinity. The Telegram extends congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Hefferton and wishes them many years of happy wedded life.

Requires Instant Attention

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Some time ago under the caption of a "Suggestion Worth Trying" you wrote an editorial in your paper relative to the advisability of our Government entering into an agreement with the Canadian Government by which Newfoundlanders called to the colors in Canada might be transferred to the Royal Newfoundland Regiment if they so desired. Many Newfoundlanders now at Sydney, C.B., are being conscripted, and they are most anxious to serve in their own regiment, and notwithstanding that they have made earnest appeals to be transferred, yet their request has not yet been acceded to.

I think, Mr. Editor, it is a very reasonable request, and our Government should take the matter up without delay, and set the necessary machinery in motion for the purpose, and thus earn the good will of the conscripts and the appreciation and thanks of many mothers who are longing to see their boys once again before they go to the battle front.

I enclose you a clipping from one of the Sydney papers which has been sent me by a friend at Sydney. By it you will see that our boys are being badly treated by the military officials there. If this be correct, and evidently there is no doubt about it from all that I hear, it makes it imperatively necessary that steps should be taken immediately to remedy this grievance.

I have not the name of the paper from which this clipping has been taken, but I would feel obliged if you would give it a place in your valuable paper.

Trusting that you will again take this matter up, and bring it to a successful issue.

I remain, yours truly,
W. J. POWER.

FOOTER GAME POSTPONED.—The footer game, between the Star-Collegian teams which was to have been played last evening, is postponed until Wednesday next.

Our Baseball Column.

PLAGIARISED AND OTHERWISE.

VISITORS VICTORIOUS.

The largest gathering of spectators for the season attended yesterday afternoon's baseball game and though the weather conditions were unfavorable, the slight mist making the ground slippery and the ball greasy, there was some very snappy play throughout the contest.

The pitcher for the "gobs," Van Wiegman, who at one time occupied the box for his university team in Virginia, put up a fine exhibition, securing twelve strikeouts, besides fielding his position remarkably well. Sywert, his battery mate, caught very well and worked in perfect union with his slab artist. Slidequerst on first, Smith on second and Triessel on third all got in some very pretty work.

For the city "clay" was right there with the goods, and had fifteen strikeouts, which, considering the batting strength of the opposing team, was rather good. Hiltz, Duggan and Power played their respective positions well.

The game lasted about one and a half hours and there was not a dull moment. One of our rather good city players fell for the old "hidden ball" trick, which is just about as new as Adam, but caused the fans to howl in delight.

The ragging of the players by the supporters of the visitors added much to the interest and liveliness of the game.

Our local Ump, Freddie V., could use the tactics employed by the Visitors' Ump on yesterday to great advantage.

The score at the end of the eighth stood ten to thirteen, and after the Visitors' half in which they failed to score, the City nine went to bat. Hall took first on being hit by the pitcher, and stole second. Canning made a single bringing Hall to third, Canning stole second, Doyle singled scoring Hall, Canning going to third, Quick singled scoring Canning. Duggan was out at first. Doyle in taking too much of a lead off third got caught quite suddenly, Triessel making quite a pretty tag. With two men down Hiltz made a single; Quick on trying to steal third was caught by a quick throw of Smith's and the game ended with the score thirteen to twelve in favor of the "gobs."

The line-ups were as follows, the Visitors having been slightly changed since yesterday, owing to the alrshp service being out of order between here and the "Land of the Free."

Hall	Pitcher	Van Wiegman	Pitcher
Braxie	Catcher	Sywert	1st Base

Are You Master

or does your business master you? Does it insist on following you home and to bed and worrying you day and night until you are on the verge of nervous collapse?

A few weeks' use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will do wonders for any business man or business woman whose nervous system has failed to stand the strain. It nourishes the nerves back to health and vigor.

Successful Sale at St. Clare's Home

There was a very good attendance at the sale of work at St. Clare's Home yesterday, which was held in aid of that institution. The grounds and Home were nicely decorated, and some very beautiful articles were sold. During the evening the C. C. C. Band rendered excellent music, while a feature that was much appreciated was the serving of excellent teas and fees during the evening.

More Arrests Made.

Yesterday afternoon two young men, of Middle Bight, Hr. Main District, who are in Class 1, charged with violation of the M. S. A., were brought to the city under escort and will be arraigned before the Magistrate this morning.

Explanatory.

We are asked to say that the Treasury department does not possess or hold any I. O. U's as equivalents for cash advanced. Whatever shortage may exist, as alleged, is in the Customs Department, and the I. O. U's (if any) belong to the Cash account of that branch.

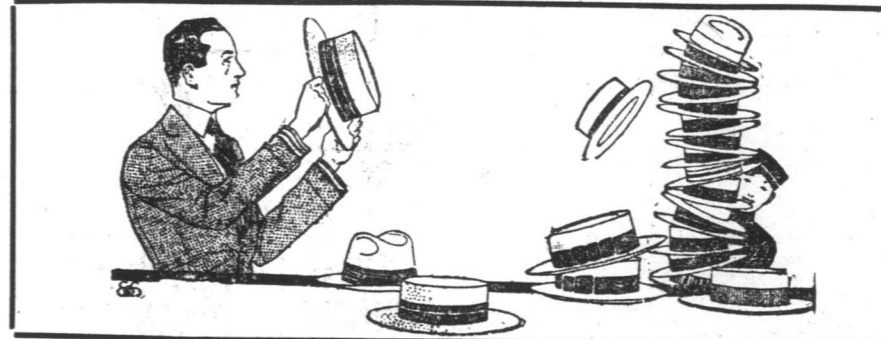

A Serious Matter

There is a delicacy about mentioning piles. And yet so many suffer needlessly who could be readily relieved and cured if they only knew about Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Men tell one another about this remarkably successful treatment. But many women pine away their health and vitality, dreading a surgical operation and not knowing how easily they can be cured at home by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Goodyear Quality Lowers the Cost-per-Mile

Goodyear Value does not stop at fair prices—or rather, it does not begin at any price.

Long mileage is the first aim of the Goodyear factories and excess mileage is the aim of Goodyear Service Stations and Dealers everywhere. We believe that there is not another tyre manufactured today that will give so low a cost-per-mile as the new type Goodyear.

We believe it from our own experience, and because we have seen it proven by figures gathered from many sources. You can make your decreased tyre-cost-per-mile, through fitting Goodyears to your car, offset your increased petrol-cost-per-mile.

CABLE NEWS.

WAR SUMMARY.

While waiting for the German command to show its hand in beginning a new assault, the Allied forces on the Western front are giving the enemy little opportunity to perfect his arrangements for launching his expected, but still deferred attack. From the Lys sector on the north to the Champagne front in eastern France, there have been sudden thrusts and the German lines, at least one of which has made considerable ground. The particular blow was struck by the French west of the Oise and north of the Lys River on the battlefield where the Germans were stopped short in their attempt to hew their way through to Compiègne early in June. The French advanced along the Compiègne road northwest of Arras and occupied the Ige and Port farms on each side of the highway. The ground they have taken is important from a defensive standpoint, and cuts down the area in which the Germans must manoeuvre in this part of the battle area. There seems to have been some spirited fighting on the British front along the LaBasse canal, northwest of Lens and north of the Somme in the Picardy sector. Berlin announces that the British were repulsed in frequently repeated attacks in the former region, and adds that the attacks north of the Somme broke down. The French attack at Anthonel is merely mentioned in the official German statement, which says, however, that attacks in the Villers-Cotterets and Chateau Thierry sectors were repulsed by the Germans. While the fighting on the Macedonian and Albanian frontier must remain a side issue to the great battles that are expected momentarily in France and possibly Northern Italy, the progress of the French and Italians along the Albanian coast brings that theatre of the war into consideration. Rapid strides have been made. The French and Italian assault was launched north of Avlona on July 6th. Strong Austrian positions have been stormed, and it appeared that the Allies have been successful in turning the Austrian right wing. An official statement from Rome says that Italian cavalry have gained the Austrian rear and destroyed bridges across the Remite River which paralleled the Volza where the attack was made. This marks an advance of about 15 miles. Dr. Richard von Kuehlmann, the German Foreign Minister, has retired from office, it is announced, and the German Emperor has accepted his resignation. This has been expected since Von Kuehlmann's address in the Reichstag on June 25th, in the course of which he said victory by purely military decisions could hardly be expected. Czech-Slovak forces in Eastern Siberia have extended their sphere of influence up the Amur River to Nikolayevsk, an important naval station. The defeated Bolshevik troops, with their Austro-German allies are said to have retired toward Khabarovsk, the capital of the maritime province. General Pershing's official statement of operations along sectors held by the American troops mentions heavy German movements near Mulhouse in Alsace. It is reported that German airmen are very active in that sector of the front.

OVER 500 PRISONERS TAKEN.

PARIS, July 10. The war office announcement tonight says: South of the Aisne the enemy's counter-attack against the positions taken by us in the region of Chavigny farm, failed. The number of prisoners captured in the attack this morning west of Anthonel is 530. We also took about 30 machine guns, Eastern Theatre.—In the region included between the Devell River and the Temera, our troops completed their success, capturing, after bitter fighting all the Boasia crest between Cafa Benoit and Mailg Jarper. We took 130 prisoners. On the left the Italian troops operating in conjunction with ours captured the heights of Cafa Devrois and continued to advance on the left bank of the Temera. The enemy infantry and artillery displayed great activity on the Macedonian front, especially at the Cerna Bend, where five groups of assaulting troops attempted to penetrate our lines, but were completely checked and suffered seriously.

SUCCESSFUL MINOR OPERATIONS.

PARIS, July 10. (Via Havas Agency.)—Since the last German offensive, despite the absence of actions on a large scale, says a semi-official statement, the French troops have harassed the enemy by minor operations, improved their positions and captured numerous prisoners. The number of prisoners taken with the co-operation of the Americans, is 5,400, including 60 officers.

SECULATING AS TO PURPOSE.

LONDON, July 9. An Amsterdam despatch to the Central News Agency, referring to the landing of British forces on the Murman coast, says there is uneasiness in Germany on this account, and quotes the Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung as speculating on Britain's purpose.

QUEEN STREET.

Published by Authority.

Upon the recommendation of the Food Control Board, and under the Provisions of the Food Control Act, 1917, and the War Measures Act, His Excellency the Governor in Council has been pleased to approve the following Regulations regarding the Importation, Sale and Consumption of Breadstuffs.

W. W. HALFYARD,
Colonial Secretary,
Dept. of the Colonial Secretary,
July 9th, 1918.

(1) In these Regulations
(a) "breadstuffs" shall mean wheat flour, rolled oats, oat-meal, corn-meal of the quality known as granulated or bolted table meal, and corn-flour; and "substitutes" shall mean any or all of the foregoing, except wheat flour.
(b) "person" shall mean any individual, firm, partnership, or corporation.
(c) "importer" shall mean any person duly licensed by the Food Control Board under these Regulations.

(2) From and after this date no person shall import any "breadstuffs" into the Dominion unless he shall have first obtained a license so to do from the Food Control Board. Such license shall be issued without charge.

(3) No importer shall import any such breadstuffs without previously obtaining a permit from the Food Control Board for each and every quantity of breadstuffs he may desire to import.

(4) Every permit so issued shall authorize him to import wheat flour and substitutes in the proportion of four-fifths of wheat flour, and one-fifth of substitutes.

(5) Any importer, who, prior to the issue of these Regulations, shall have purchased abroad for import into this Dominion any wheat flour, may be granted by the Board a permit for the importation of the same on an undertaking by him that he will import within two months thereafter substitutes to the extent of twenty per cent. of such imports of wheat flour, and if such person has made contracts with any dealers within this Dominion for the supplying of such wheat flour, or any portion thereof to such dealers, he shall be regarded as satisfying the terms of such contracts if he furnishes four-fifths of the flour on its arrival, and the remainder in the form of substitutes within two months thereafter. The kind and proportion of such substitutes shall be settled by agreement between the parties, and if they find themselves unable so to agree, by the Food Control Board.

(6) When any importer shall satisfy the Food Control Board that he has not any agency or connection through which he can purchase the required proportion of substitutes to justify the issue of a permit to allow him to import wheat flour, the Food Control Board may, on being satisfied that he has purchased the requisite stock of substitutes through any other person or firm in St. John's, grant him a permit to import such wheat flour.

(7) The Food Control Board may, at any time, if satisfied that applications for excessive quantities of flour and substitutes are being filled, with the result that the purposes of these Regulations may be defeated, or complications caused by the Canadian or United States Food Control Departments, issue permits for only part of the quantities set out in such applications, or decline to issue permits for any such quantities.

(8) On and after Wednesday, July 10th, 1918:—

(a) Every merchant, planter, trader, broker, commission agent, provision dealer, grocer, shop-keeper, or any other person in Newfoundland who shall sell or deliver to any other person any wheat flour, shall only do so in the proportion of not less than one pound of substitutes to every nine pounds of wheat flour; and
(b) Every person in Newfoundland who makes for public or private consumption, bread, cake, rolls, pastry or other product in which wheat flour is used shall, in making the same, use not less than one pound of substitutes to every nine pounds of wheat flour.

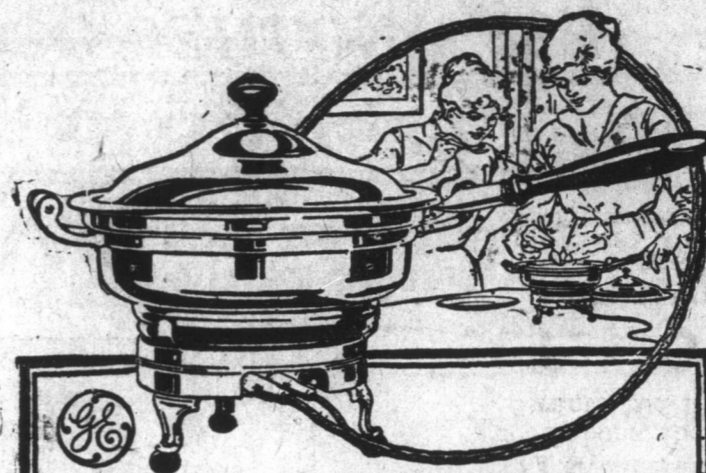

(9) On and after Monday, August 5th, 1918:—

(a) Every merchant, planter, trader, broker, commission agent, provision dealer, grocer, shop-keeper, or any other person in Newfoundland who shall sell or deliver to any other person any wheat flour, shall only do so in the proportion of not less than one pound of substitutes to every four pounds of wheat flour.
(b) Every person in Newfoundland who makes for public or private consumption bread, rolls, cake, pastry or other product in which wheat flour is used shall, in making the same, use not less than one pound of substitutes to every four pounds of wheat flour.

(10) No person selling breadstuffs shall after this date offer for sale any wheat flour, unless he also has at all times a sufficient stock of one or other of the substitutes above named to meet the demands of his customers at reasonable prices.

(11) Any person authorized by the Newfoundland Food Control Board, or any constable or peace officer, may seize any bread, cake, rolls, pastry or other product in which wheat flour is used, the composition of which is contrary to these regulations, and the same shall be confiscated and disposed of in such manner as the said Board may from time to time direct.

(12) Any person violating any of the provisions of these Regulations is guilty of an offense and shall be liable on summary conviction before a magistrate or justice of the peace to a penalty not exceeding one thousand dollars, or to imprisonment for a period not exceeding three months, or to both fine and imprisonment, (one-half the fine shall be paid to the informer, and the balance to the Food Control Board for the benefit of the Dominion.
