For Her Sake;
—OR—
The Murder in Furness Wood.

CHAPTER XXIX

It was in the conservatory, where the lamps glimmered starlike among the green leaves and rare blooms, that Sir Leslie found Diana. She had retired thither to think over the gratification of her father's greatest desire—the object for which he had sacrificed his happiness and hers. She wanted also to think of Sir Leslie; and the conservatory offered a quiet retreat.

She went in, and, drawing off her gloves, dipped her hands in the water of a bubbling fountain. It cooled and refreshed her. She was standing there still when Sir Leslie found her, looking more than usually statuesque and queenly in her dress of deadwhite silk and rich lace, with diamonds round her shapely throat and well-formed neck.

"I have found you, Diana!" he cried, drawing one of her hands from the fountain and watching the water drop from her fingers. "You promised me five minutes to-night."

"I did," said Diana, bending her lovely face over the water. "I wonder," she added, irrelevantly, "what the charm of falling water is? No matter whether it be a glorious cascade that dashes from rock to rock, or a little ripple like this, all the music in the world seems to lie in it. I wonder what is the charm?"

"There are charms more potent and wonderful than that," he said, with a meaning look.

He drew nearer to her as he spoke. Diana's proud eyes drooped, the lovely face was bent over the fountain. She looked a prize that any man might lay down his life to win, and in truth Sir Leslie would have given his. He loved her with all the force of a heart awakened to the knowledge of love for the first time. At that moment several of the dancers, entering to seek the cool and quiet of the conservatory, prevented him from saying all that was uppermost in his thoughts; but Diana read it in the handsome knightly face bent over her—read the love and the wish to tell it, and the self-restraint that was so full of respect for her. He half raised the pretty hand that he clasped.

"Diana," he said, "you have a beautiful ring on that finger; I wonder, if I asked for it, whether you would give it to me?"

She looked at it. It was a diamond ring, one that her father had given to her as a birthday present.

"It would be of no use to you," she answered. "Do you not see that it is a lady's ring?"

"That would not matter. Would you give it to me, Diana, if I asked for it?" Diana was silent for a moment, looking irresolutely at the jewel that flashed on her finger. Then she answered:

"Yes, I would give it to you, if you really wished it."

Sir Leslie forced a smile; but his face was pale with emotion.

"I shall hope to ask you for more than the ring, Diana; and you—oh, my darling, you will not be angry?"

"I shall never be angry with you," she said. "I could not be if I tried."

KEEP IT SWEET

MADE BY BICEST & BOWNE, MANAGER OF SCOTT'S BOTTLES.

How it happened she never knew, and Sir Leslie was never clear about it—whether her lovely eyes looked at him and lured him on, whether her beautiful head, with its crown of fair hair, drooped near him, or whether the sweet face was so close to his that it was quite irresistible—but the Baronet, with a murmur of passionate words, bent down and kissed her. In that one sacred kiss his heart went out to her forever.

The silence of a great emotion came over her. It seemed to her that that kiss was as solemn as any betrothal; it was the first kiss that any man had laid upon her lips. She had as a child embraced Sir Royal and Richard in her loving girlish fashion, but there had never been any other feeling than one of affectionate brotherly regard. This was the first kiss given her by the man she loved, and it seemed to Diana that it consecrated her to him.

"My darling!" he cried, his face flushed and his lips trembling with emotion. "Oh, Diana, you would give me your ring! My beautiful queen, would you give me yourself?"

There was a sound of a laughing voice near, the rustle of a silken dress, and Diana fled, blushing, her heart beating fast, her whole soul full of new and ecstatic delight; he loved her, and her dream had come true!

CHAPTER XXX

Blushing, happy Diana fled. There was music in her heart to which she must listen, and she wished to dwell upon this happiness which had taken her captive. She longed for a brief interval of solitude so that she might comprehend this new emotion that had entered her soul. Her heart had never throbbed with such a joyous sensation before. If this were love, then welcome love, for it had crowned her life with a bliss she had never before known! In that hour she did not even remember the name of Scarsdale; she thought only of her knightly lover.

"I will retire into the fernery," said Diana to herself, "and thank Heaven. The most blessed gift in this life is that of perfect love."

True, he had not asked her to be his wife; he would have done so but for the sound of a laughing voice, and a rustle of a silken dress. But he would do so, and she knew what her answer would be. Oh, happy life—oh, happy love!

She would not go back yet to the music-room or to the drawing-room, or go out upon the terrace, where in the gray shadows she saw so many figures fitting to and fro; she wished to commune with her own thoughts. Truly the poet said:

"There's nothing half so sweet in life as Love's young dream."

Oh, happy life that held such sweet love—for it had touched her that evening and quickened all that was noblest and truest in her! She went quickly through the suite of rooms that led to the grounds beyond. The sound of music and laughter followed her. But she wanted to be away from every one, so she hastened to the fernery. This was one of her favorite spots—cool, green, and beautiful, with the sound of falling water always there.

Peter Cameron had spared nothing on his hobbies, and the fernery was one of them. It contained perhaps the choicest collection of ferns in England, and the arrangement of the rockery was perfect. Seats had been placed in the most picturesque spots, lamps glimmered in the midst of the foliage. Diana loved the place; it was so dear to her as the stone terrace or the rose garden.

She went straight to the seat in the midst of the ferns, where she had sat at times talking to her father or Sir Royal, where she had read some of her favorite books, where she had wept her most bitter tears when the news of her father's marriage reached her. There she now thanked Heaven for this blessed gift of a good man's love.

As Diana rose from her seat among the ferns and prepared to return to the drawing-room, two figures suddenly appeared in the entrance, and she heard Lady Cameron's voice. Had it been any other person, Diana would have stepped forward and laughingly accounted for being there; but when she saw the Duchess with her stepmother, she retired into a remote corner, where she hoped to be unobserved, intending, when they had passed, to hasten away. She could not meet them with her new sweet love springing in her heart, these women who, she felt, disliked her; she could not meet them while her eyes were bright that makes it quite unique with happy grateful tears. She stood silent and motionless, waiting for them to depart.

But, to her horror, they drew nearer, and halted against the very opening in which she was concealed. She could not step forward then; she would rather have died than let them know she was there. Lady Cameron was speaking.

"I think this is the finest part of the conservatory. I knew your Grace would like to see it, as you are so fond of ferns."

"It is very beautiful," said the Duchess, "and I really think, my dear Lady Cameron, that you are to be congratulated. You have a magnificent place."

Diana longed to cry out, "I am here!" she longed to get away. She did not wish to hear what they had to say; but flight was impossible now.

"Yes, it is magnificent enough," said Lady Cameron; "and Mr. Cameron is very kind to me."

"One can put up with a few drawbacks to be mistress of such a place and such a fortune."

"I hope soon to have things in order," said Lady Cameron, with a sigh of fatigue. "I could not tell you in what state I found the place after the reign of that foolish, capricious girl."

"She is both capricious and ill bred," remarked the Duchess.

"Dreadfully so," assented Lady Cameron. "The one great aim of her life is to be original, and she quite fails in it."

The hot color flushed into Diana's face and her heart beat with indignation as these words fell upon her ears. She knew they were not true—that she was not capricious, and that she had governed well and wisely.

"I think she is an arrant flirt, too," observed the Duchess, sneeringly. "She wants to make a conquest of Sir Leslie, I am sure."

"And half a dozen more," said Lady

Cameron. "Certainly, the girl is a great drawback to my marriage; but, then, I hope to get her settled shortly, and thus rid myself of her. None of us like her; my girls thoroughly detest her; and her father, I believe, is growing tired of her proud, willful ways. I am sure he does not feel one half the affection for her that he did."

"Though the words were utterly false, they pierced the very heart of the girl who heard them. She covered her ears with her hands, and tried to shut out all sound; but the thin, clear voice of the Duchess reached her.

"I suppose," her Grace was saying, "that at his death she will have Fereness?"

"Oh, yes!" replied Lady Cameron. "Unfortunately there is no moving him. I have tried my best, in the most delicate way, to induce him to leave the estate to me; but he is quite stubborn on the point, and I have not been able to move him. He will give to each of my daughters a good dowry. I have gained much by my marriage; but my girls were at first quite unwilling to associate with Miss Cameron."

"I am not surprised at it," said the Duchess, calmly. "Of course, for your sake, Hermione, because we are such old friends and you wished it so much, we have made the acquaintance of these people; for your sake only we shall keep it up. But father and daughter are alike intolerable to me. I dislike equally his servility and her independence. But for you we should never have recognized them; the Duke was quite decided on the point."

"I hate the girl!" exclaimed Lady Cameron. "I try to keep peace; but, if I had my own way, she should leave here at once."

And then, to Diana's infinite relief, she heard the rustle of the rich dresses as the two women passed on.

THE FRENCH PROTEST.

PARIS, Oct. 25. The French Government has sent a protest to Berlin, complaining of the activity of aliens in Alsace and in Lorraine incident to conspiracy for revolt in those two provinces, according to the Strasbourg correspondent of the Petit Parisien, who claims to have received information from authoritative sources.

NEW WORDS IN DICTIONARY.

LONDON, Oct. 28. (Reuter's Ottawa Agency)—Casell's New English Dictionary contains many new words which, it was stated in the introduction, are likely to make good their claim to be included in the English language. Following are some examples: Koshy, meaning a soft job; Concy, meaning a conscientious objector; Bud, meaning a close friend or companion; Eyewash, meaning humbug; Fed Up, meaning to have a sufficiency; Fuhkhole, meaning an unscrupulous or formidable person; Cut No Ice, meaning to fall flat; Movies, meaning moving pictures; The Fish, meaning out jacked; Strafe, meaning vent of hatred; Top Hole, meaning feeling fine; Umpteen, meaning an unknown number; The Wind Up, meaning to show fear; Old Bean, meaning the head; Bus, meaning an airplane; Brass Hat, meaning a staff officer.

EARTHQUAKE IN ROME.

ROME, Oct. 25. Earthquake shocks were felt today in various parts of Tuscany. At Arezzo, capital of the province, the shock caused the churches to ring and many of the inhabitants fled from their houses in alarm. The shock at Florence was weak.

DO NOT FAVOR EXTRADITION.

THE HUGUE, Oct. 28. (By The Associated Press)—The entire Dutch Press joins in scathing criticism of an article, advocating the surrender of the former German Emperor for trial, which appeared recently in the Weekly Journal, New Amsterdam. In the article the Editor, Prof. J. A. Hamill, the Dutch publicist who was selected by Sir James Eric Drummond, Secretary General of the League of Nations, as head of the League Department of the secretariat of the League, argues that the question of the extradition of the former Emperor should not be treated as a purely legal matter. It should, instead, be regarded from the point of view of Bill for the removal of sex disqualifications permitting women to sit and vote in the House of Lords. The amendment was adopted by a vote of 171 to 84.

Items of Interest.

One of the most useful bodies in the war has been disbanded in the shape of the Railway Executive Committee, which organized and carried on the railways during a period of unexampled stress and difficulty. No better piece of work was done in the war. The chairman was Sir Herbert Walker, General Manager of the L. and S.W.R. In addition to the civil traffic millions of men and millions of tons of munitions were carried by the railways with unflinching promptitude and efficiency.

The thanks of the country are due to this able committee, whose labours are little known and inadequately appreciated by the public which they served so well. A great number of locomotives, wagons, etc., to say nothing of the skilled staff, had to be sent to France and other theatres of the war, and it is tribute to British organization that with such depleted resources the Committee and the railwaymen throughout the country were able to produce such wonderful results.

The racy stories in Lord Fisher's extended reminiscences about to be published are likely to cause a great sensation. Nothing so outspoken and piquant has been published for years.

No fewer than eleven names, many of them bearing distinguished names, are claiming compensation for having invented the tank. The claims are to be dealt with on Oct. 6, when Sir Edward Carson and other eminent counsel will appear for the claimants. One claim is said to amount to £100,000.

Earl Haig has had to alter his title. Owing to objections he is unable to call himself "Earl Haig of Bermerseyde," but is to be known as "Earl Haig of Kingston," apparently taking his territorial designation from Kingston-on-Thames, where the gallant Field Marshal has his home.

President Wilson's physician, Admiral Grayson, has insisted upon him cancelling the remainder of his speaking tour. From a medical point of view, Mr. Wilson is the best supervised man in the world. His doctor always lives with him, and carefully watches the state of his health.

If he sees the President is falling below par, he orders him to take rest. If his food does not agree with him, he directs a change of diet, and if Mr. Wilson does not take enough exercise, the Admiral insists upon him doing so.

This is a labour of love on the part of Admiral Grayson, who has a most delightful personality, and is devoted to the President. He has planned out Eugene Quessell, of Montreal, was suffering from kidney trouble—and had suffered for five long years. This is his letter:

"I could not sleep nights and on some occasions could hardly walk. I had been treated by some of our best physicians but without relief. I lost over 15 pounds and was very weak, and friends who knew me before were astonished. One day I met one of our leading hotelkeepers, who had been cured by your famous Gin Pills. He advised me to try them. I bought two boxes and before I had used one box I felt a big change. Before I finished the second one I was completely cured, and I can assure you if I had only known what I know now, I would not have spent one hundred dollars for nothing—when two boxes of Gin Pills cured me."

Gin Pills are the finest preparation for kidney and bladder trouble ever produced. At the first warning pain in back or side, get Gin Pills. They work like magic, reducing congestion, soothing, healing, inflamed, normal and active condition and relieving pain. At all druggists and dealers, 50c. Money refunded if not satisfied. a court of life for him, so as to enable him to carry on his public work to the greatest advantage.

President Wilson is not a strong man physically, but owing to the care of Admiral Grayson, formerly a naval doctor, he has been able to undertake a tremendous amount of work, and withstand the consequent great strain. Two or three years before he became President, Mr. Wilson had a serious breakdown, and spent a considerable time in the Lake district in this country recuperating. Mr. Lloyd George was very much taken with Admiral Grayson, whom he described as one of the nicest persons he had ever met in his life.

Admiral Sims makes some startling revelations about the submarine campaign in this month's "Pearson's Magazine," and tells many things hitherto unknown, except to those in the inner circle. In April, 1817, he had an interview with Admiral Jellicoe, who showed him a paper containing the British losses. Admiral Sims says, "I was fairly astounded. In my wildest moments I had never imagined anything so terrible. I expressed in consternation to Admiral Jellicoe. 'Yes,' he said, quietly, as though he were discussing the weather and not the future of the British Empire, 'it is not possible for us to go on with the war if losses like this continue.'"

The Admiral then said, "It looks as though the Germans were winning the war." "They will unless we stop these losses—and stop them soon," Jellicoe replied. "Is there no solution to the problem?" asked Admiral Sims. "Absolutely none that we can see now," Jellicoe announced.

Admiral Sims has yet to tell the story of how the submarine was defeated. His conquest was due to improved methods of detection and destruction, but chiefly to the use of the convoy system. For months the Admiralty declined to adopt it. They did not believe that the ships could be kept together, navigated and adequately guarded.

Strangely, they did not appreciate the wonderful skill and seamanship of the captain of the tramp steamer. After some pressure, they agreed to consult the civilian sea captains, but unfortunately they consulted the captains of ocean-going liners, who also, strangely enough, did not appreciate the great qualities of the Mercantile Marine. Ultimately, largely owing to the persistence of Sir Maurice Hankey, the convoy system was adopted with the most beneficial results.

$20,000,000 at Stake.

Computed to be worth nearly four millions, a fortune left by an Indian Mutiny hero is the prize for which a romantic struggle is going on amongst heirs in Ireland and America. The fortune is the intestate estate of Thos. Quinn, a native of the little village of Kilmehill (Co. Clare), who joined the Army 35 years ago, and it is believed, was appointed to the 28th Foot ("The Fore and Aft's"), now the Gloucestershire Regt. He spent a number of years in India, where he apparently acquired modest wealth, with which he purchased land shortly before the outbreak of the Mutiny. This investment is stated to have formed the nucleus of the great fortune now at stake, valuable minerals having since been found upon it. After the Mutiny Quinn is believed to have gotten promotion to a staff corps in India. One of the difficulties is to trace the dead, through his heirs, being some doubt as to the regiments in which he served. There is little difficulty about his identity and connection with the claimants and with his native place. None of the claimants know when his Army career closed, or what then became of him. It is surmised that he resided some time in England on discharge, but finally settled at Mil-town-Malbay, County Clare, where he built a substantial house, in which he lived with his wife, reported to be the widow of an Indian officer, who survived him only six months.

They Were Childless. Quinn died 30 years ago. From a firm of solicitors in Chicago and a nun (a grand-niece of Quinn), in one of the religious communities in the "Windy City," there came the first intimation that heirs were wanted. The families of two brothers are settled in Chicago, and other claimants are a sister's children, named King, at Kilmehill, County Clare, and a nephew, Mr. Patrick Quinn, who is nearly 80, a retired Athlone business man and a former member of the Town Council. The latter, in an interview, stated that he remembered his uncle as a boy, and kept up a rather infrequent correspondence with him when he was in India. "After he had settled down in Miltown Malbay," added Mr. Quinn, "I visited him. He died there, and left, after providing for his wife, all he possessed—not by any means a big fortune—to his brother Michael, who was never found. He never mentioned anything about land in India. It may have escaped his memory owing to the outbreak of the Mutiny immediately afterwards, or he may have considered that the purchase was not likely to have turned out profitable." Mr. Quinn produced correspondence from America, which set down the value of the fortune at over £28,000,000. The substance of these letters was that the money could be distributed immediately upon the establishment of the identity of deceased and the relationship of those who were to benefit from the estate.—Ex.

PIORRHEA. Of all the poison taken into the blood, the germs and pus contributed by diseased gums (Piorrhea) are the most destructive to the human system. If every red blood cell is forced to fight against numbers of germs to the cell, the blood cannot attend to the building up of the body, and if allowed to continue the system is bound to break down and eventually you are an invalid. Kidney, stomach, heart trouble, rheumatism and many other diseases are brought on by diseased gums and teeth.

It is an open secret that this was Sir Maurice's greatest contribution to the war. He is an obstinate little man, and luckily for the nation stuck to his point, with the result that Mr. Lloyd George insisted on the adoption of the convoy system.

PETIT FORTE, Oct. 27.
Petit Forte was the scene of one of the most enthusiastic receptions ever given any public men when the S.S. Ingraham here in sight. Flags were hoisted from every house, and volleys of musketry thundered forth their welcome. In the night a public meeting was held in the school, and was presided over by the venerable fisherman, John Flynn, 97 years old. The standard banner of Sir M. P. Cashin and the Liberal-Progressive Government—Walsh, Sullivan and Sinnott—addressed the large audience present, and for upwards of two hours explained their policy of progress. Petit Forte will give Walsh and his colleagues a solid vote; no others need apply.

NO COAKERISM. LISTENED FOR THREE HOURS.

(Special to Evening Telegram.)
PETIT FORTE, Oct. 27.
St. Kyran's and outlying settlements are determined that Coaker and Squires will not be given control of the affairs of Nfld. at this critical period. Clatiff H. R. Isle Valen, St. Leonard's, St. Ann's, Presque, Tossello, Bona, Little Paradise, and Great Paradise were visited last week by Walsh, Sullivan and Sinnott, the local trio who are carrying the Liberal Progressive standard to victory in this district, and never in the history of responsible government were candidates given such whole hearted welcomes; the old historic well at St. Kyran's was the scene of the biggest political meeting ever held in the district, when fully six hundred people stood in the open air and listened for over three hours to Walsh, Sullivan and Sinnott, as they ably outlined the policy of Sir Michael Cashin and his Progressive government. Placentia Bay, says Cashin, must come back, and Walsh, Sullivan and Sinnott will poll the biggest vote ever given candidates in that district.

BONNE BAY, Oct. 27.
Held meeting at Shoal Brook, Union centre, on Saturday night, and a large crowd attended. Spoke for two hours without interruption, and at close of meeting William Stickland, Chairman, who was also Chairman for Scammell, informed the audience that his name was forged to a message which went from that place to the Advocate in favor of Scammell. Consternation reigned supreme for a time. Such low and base tactics will help to swell my majority. My friends say my fearless remarks at that place have won for me a score of votes.

A CONTRADICTION FROM STONE, MATTHEWS AND CARNELL THE VILE LITERATURE IN TRINITY DISTRICT.

(Special to Evening Telegram.)
BRITANNIA, Oct. 27.
Just read an abominable lie in the Advocate, written by the one unscrupulous W. F. Coaker, with reference to our meeting at Catalina, which he states we took eighty minutes to answer questions. The same individual who was at Catalina refusing to attend our meeting, but left hurriedly in the P.P.U. Motor boat for St. John's to probably get his hind legs in the Squires barrel. Our meeting at Catalina was a record one, which can be verified by the people themselves. The chairman of the meeting was Peter Coleridge, Esq., and not "brother Ned" as sarcastically stated. With reference to Elliott, our meeting was disturbed by some deluded people, who refused to hear us. The plot was engineered by two heblers, who left Catalina in the morning for that purpose, circulating the usual lies among Union members. We go further and contradict the statement in the Advocate that no violence was done at Elliott. Stones were used freely, and a target was made of Coleridge and our returned R.N.R. Matthews, who was hit several times. If later in the campaign we would easily clean up the mob and win out in the end. It has done us an immense amount of good, and Elliott will regret the hoodlum action on polling day, as well as many other settlements where Coaker has been touring to make himself dictator of loyal old Trinity. God help Newfoundland if the Coaker-Guppy-Squires combination gets control. District flooded with literature of the vilest kind.

Here is a conversation I overheard at the post office between two strange visitors to Our Town.

One of them was writing post cards to her friends at home. The other (evidently either a relative or a friend) looked on to be enough to be frank to the verge of rudeness) was looking over her shoulder at the addresses and making comments.

"What are you sending her a post card for?" was one of these remarks.

"She used to live near here and I thought she'd be interested."

"Well, I wouldn't send her one; she didn't send you one when she was away this summer, did she?"

"I don't care if she didn't. I know she'd be interested."

WINTER COMING.

WINT MARCH

The winter's approaching, the frost is encroaching, and turning green verdure to gold; the evenings are chilly and Palm Beach looks silly, and are you prepared for the cold? In pomp you go riding, your swift motor sliding, I often behold you go past; you surely seem stately; I envy you greatly—but are you prepared for the blast? Is coal in the cellar, oh, joy-riding feller, and have you some spuds in the bin, or are you just burning the coin you are earning, just blowing your salary in? Oh, Winter is mixing its war paint and fixing to give us a jolt in the neck; the winds will be blowing, the rain will be snowing, and sleet will descend by the peck. From Coy Alaska and far Athabasca the winds will come yammering down; they'll raise the old Harry, the snow they will carry, and plaster it over the town. And are you preparing for winter rip-tearing, oh, fellows who jump in your cars, or are you still burning the coin you are earning for rubber and gas and cigars? Say, have you provided a ham that's lopsided, some bacon and wienies and flour? And have you invested in coats double-breasted? For winter is drastic and dour.

Pirates in Petticoats.

There have been only two women pirates—Anne Bonney and Mary Read, who were captured in the Caribbean Sea a little over a century ago and charged with "having piratical tendencies."

At her trial, Anne Bonney confessed her reason for becoming a pirate. The daughter of a Carolina planter, she was disowned by her father for marrying a common sailor. After the elopement and marriage—she ran away dressed in male attire—she discovered that her husband was a pirate, and decided to join him in his adventures.

From her childhood days the garb of man had always had a fascination for her, and when she joined her husband in his piratical voyages she donned the full dress of the bold buccaneer.

None but her husband was aware of her sex or identity. She took rank above her men comrades, and obtained a high reputation for courage.

The manner in which she met Mary Read, the only other woman pirate known to history, is curious in the extreme and makes fascinating reading. Mary Read was on another pirate ship, and, as often happens, the two came to blows on the open sea. After a terrible combat, the ship on which Anne Bonney was sailing admitted defeat, and among the boarders was Mary Read.

Although at first each was ignorant of the sex of the other, the two female pirates became fast friends. They only found one another out when Mary Read began to fall in love with Anne Bonney's husband.

Even this, however, did not impair the mutual feelings of friendship, for Mary Read soon married another man who was also a pirate.

Curiously enough, the two women became widows at the same time; this was during an engagement when the ship flying the skull and crossbones had performed to sea before one of His Britannic Majesty's schooners. The piratical careers of these women plunderers ended in an engagement with a British ship, which went disastrously against them. Mary Read died in prison, and Anne Bonney, who had several people to plead for her, was restored to her family.

New lamp wicks soaked in vinegar will not smoke. Good polishing cloths are made from old velveteen. Smoked halibut, creamed, is a good luncheon dish.

Warm your four before mixing your bread in winter. A pumpkin pie is improved by a dash of quince preserve. When boiling potatoes allow just enough water to boil dry. Never serve a white pastry gravy with a roast of any kind. Wrap heads of lettuce in waxed paper to keep them crisp.

Panic-stricken.

Despite the apparent certainty of the Opposition writers, there is fear and trembling in the Opposition camp to-day. In yesterday's Post we read that it has been giving some destructive criticism so far, but plans to give some constructive from now on. We advise our readers not to miss the treat, but we would ask them to bear in mind how the Opposition have failed to destroy the cause of Liberal Progressiveness in this city and country, but rather have hurt their own cause by its self-styled destructive criticism, but by what intelligent voters call despicable vapourings of wounded varieties, on their opponents' superiority. The proposed constructive criticism of the Post is as incapable of doing good by the liberal reform (?) cause as was its former disgusting personalities. As an instance of the constructive (?) criticism it proposes to offer it gives a shorter form of R. A.'s manifesto, but in doing so is very careful to retain all the ambiguity of its writer, and to refrain from committing itself to any definite policy. One thing is noticeable, however, and that is in the matter of our coal areas. In Squires' manifesto it is proposed to find out first by surveying, if we have coal, while yesterday's Post says Squires will develop our coal areas. Did the writer of the Post, remember the article in the Telegram on this question, and so hypocritically refrain from again casting an aspersion upon those who maintain that we have deposits of coal here, and are now working to prove their assertions? That reminds us too, that the Telegram has come into greater prominence lately through the attention given it by the sections of the Opposition press. Such prominence by the Opposition papers is proof of their fear of the effect of the Telegram in trying to save the country from the dangers of Squiresism and Coakerism.

The Post gives a big article on the revenue for the past number of years, and the expenditures, and asks what became of the monies spent. Did not Mr. Squires receive nearly $10,000 at one time out of the revenue, Brudner Post, and weren't there several other pickings that your master received during the period he kept his seat in the Government, although not elected, and if you want frankness, Brudner Post, is not the chief reason why Squires wants to get control to-day the desire to get a few more $9,000 snaps out of the fishermen and laborers whom he at present so glibly tries to talk over? The Advocate, too, is very shaky. Perhaps it means to tell the teachers that Mr. Halfyard was the chief means of getting the recent thirty per cent increase for the teachers. Really the Advocate is pitiable, as it preaches so loudly and yet so bluffingly of the election results, and in no particular is this more observable than in its articles on Port de Grave. "David" Grimes, as heralded by the Advocate, is by no means so sure of his election, or else the Advocate scribes would not be doing so much shouting in order to win votes for the redoubtable giant killer (?) What will these writers say when the poll announces that the Socialist of Newfoundland met his Waterloo in Port de Grave District? The Opposition is panic-stricken over the news from South and West that the Cashin candidates are getting such good receptions, and such assurances of their welcome, and such appreciations of the work of the Cashin Government during the last six months.

That the Opposition writers are panic-stricken is further borne out by the writings of the Post on the Profits Tax. Its reasoning is wholly absurd and the writers know it, but anything will do, think they, to gain votes. The Profits Tax has been the means of turning in a large addition to the country's revenue, and if the Government and merchants work together to fleece the people, as one is led to believe from Post's writings, how comes it that some of the members of the Upper House kicked so much about the passing of the Bill? Besides was not Mr. Coaker most active in passing the Income Profits Tax, and therefore how is it he wishes the same repealed now? The Income Profits Tax is only a lever used by the Opposition, and its promised repeal is used as a magnet to draw the merchants. Possibly too, Squires hopes in this way to save a little money for his absentee landlords. It is pertinent to ask re this matter, if Coaker is satisfied to do as Squires opines, or is it possible that Coaker will acquiesce in this, and Squires will return the favor by guaranteeing the price of fish over which question he has been so suspiciously silent? But we have no doubt but that November 3rd will settle the matter by voting Cashin back, and the scheming of Squires and Coaker will be frustrated to the advantage of Newfoundland and Newfoundlanders. The Post is badly rattled over our assertion that some of the Oppositionists are betting on the return of Cashin and his party, but don't worry Brudner, their money is safe, and it did not come out of Squires' barrel.

The cablegram of the Rev. Fr. Nangle, in yesterday's paper, was another of those little jolts that are doing such mischief in the Opposition ranks. The message in itself is strong enough to refute the base purposes of the Opposition writers on this question, and we will not here comment further than to say that even in this, as in the other cries, the Opposition overshot the mark, and gave another reason why Squires and his company should not be elected. Another evidence of the panic that holds the Opposition is that the Squiresite writers have even dared to at last tacitly admit that the accusations made against R. A. Squires are not without foundation, for in yesterday's Post there is a whine set up that Squires is attacked only on personal grounds. Was the accusation of Coaker re Squires taking $5,000 from Reid while working for the Government, only a personal matter? The intelligent voters of Newfoundland look upon such differently. Were it necessary to accuse Squires personally, then rumor furnishes plenty of ground for the same. The Telegram has asked repeatedly if Squires did or did not ask H. D. Reid to perjure himself re the alleged giving to Squires the sum of $5,000, and no answer has been vouchsafed. The belief that Squires is being financed by W. D. Reid, and that Squires has promised many things for said financing is current in the city and outports, and were there no grounds for suspicion would the Hon. R. A. Squires or his satellites allow the suspicion to rest on their heads? We have asked, and others have asked what of this matter, and no answer has been given, but a sickly attempt, illustrative of the panic of the writers has been made to bluff the electorate by their asking for proofs. Voters you can see that there has been no denial, and there is a reason for such a procedure. Is there not grave cause for suspicion, and is such merely a personal matter? Rather does it not affect you, in your everyday calling, as to whether the revenues of this country are given away to outsiders or not, at your expense? Cashin and his party are not appealing to you on sentimental reasons for your support. They are appealing to your reason to decide which course you prefer - to continue on in your present prosperity and prevent confederation, or to adopt the policy of Squires to bring taxation down immediately, and make such a slump in the country's revenue that we will be forced into confederation. That is the real issue before you to-day, and it is up to you to decide. We want the very best men to-day to guide the ship aright, and we want the manliest men to guard our revenues and our interests. Be on your mettle then, and knowing Squires' past record as well as Coaker's dominance and vacillation, vote for Cashin and his party and save your country and your homes, and you will forever bless the day that CASHIN CAME BACK!

Cashin will come back

Sectarianism.

The "Advocate" makes a feeble attempt to explain away the distribution of vile sectarian literature by the Opposition or its agents by suggesting that the Government papers did not deny that some circulars were sent out by Government agents. If the "Advocate" knows the name of any Government press agent who is circulating such vile literature it is the duty of that paper to expose him, but the best proof that there are no Government agents engaged in such work is the fact that the "Advocate" cannot point to a single instance where such devilish devices were resorted to by anyone connected with the Government party. But the "Advocate" will not deny that scurrilous material consisting of the letter concerning the late Archbishop Howley, the Greenpond letter, and latterly the horrible explosion of the Morning Post have been distributed throughout Districts where they are calculated to do damage to the Government candidates, while being carefully withheld from other sections of the Island, where the opposite effect might be achieved.

The country has had more than one example in recent years of how far men are prepared to go to drag sectarianism into political and other contests. We would remind the "Advocate" that it is not so very long since the Knights of Columbus had to take action because people were circulating slanders and libels on their organization, and the matter was brought into court by them, and the guilty party had to make an abject apology.

It is interesting to recall, in this connection, that the man who cleaned up that affair is the gentleman whom the "Advocate" and the Squires organs have been vilifying for the past six weeks - Hon. A. B. Morine. It is indeed deplorable that an election campaign cannot be fought decently and honourably in this country without trailing the smear of sectarianism all over the contest, and creating strife between the different religious denominations. Protestant and Catholic alike work side by side amicably in workshop, store, factory, mill and fishing boat; and there is no reason in the world why the same harmony should not prevail in the public life of the country. There are some harpies however who, delight in this sort of thing and make a regular business of it. Whatever influence they possess has been obtained by playing upon the sectarian passions of others and they trade in the ignorance and narrowmindfulness of their less educated associates. The city clergy have given those sort of people the right kind of lesson, but it would seem that they have not taken it to heart. The quicker they do so, the better for themselves.

Where is All the Money Coming From?

The principal topic of conversation, to-day, is the sensation regarding the source of the "barrel" from which Mr. Squires is getting the gold to run the campaign. During the last few weeks there have been "high jigs" in Opposition circles, automobiles full of "heelers" were running to the outlying towns with "sports" bent on having a good time. The lavish expenditure by the Squires-Coaker men in St. John's has staggered everyone. On one occasion twenty-two motor cars went to Petty Harbor, at a cost of about $650. Everywhere Squires moves there is lashings of money. Where is it coming from? Is one of the wealthiest concerns doing business with the Colony, responsible for it, and why does a rich company desire the election of Squires?

Liberals All.

BE ON HAND TO-NIGHT.
All Liberal voters, young and old, are requested to be on hand to-night at the united meeting of St. John's East and West, in the C.L.B. Armoury. Hear the reports of the great success that your victory teams have met with and listen to the trumpet call to rally all the forces for the final stroke of victory on Monday next. Six Liberal-Progressives with big majorities is now our aim and object for Coakerism must be blotted out for ever in the historic districts of St. John's East and West. To-night then in the big armoury assemble in your thousands and gird yourselves for the combat and the big drive against your enemy on the third, the sole purpose of every patriot. Then let every man do his duty to-night to set that purpose fully before him.

A VOTE FOR SQUIRES IS A VOTE FOR COAKER!

A Warning That Should Be Heeded By All Liberal Voters.

In the early stages of the campaign now on, many of the Liberal voters who fought under the leadership of Sir Robert Bond in past elections, hesitated in regard to the attitude they should assume when polling day arrived. As time went on and they realized that the Opposition element was composed of factions teetotally opposed to Liberalism, and headed by Squires the arch-Tory, that large body of voters, refused to own allegiance to such undesirable, consequently Liberals all, are now united against Coakerism and Squiresism everywhere around the country. Fearing, however, that some may yet be seduced before polling day to fall over into the ranks of those who are holding out hopes of snatching a victory, we would caution all such Liberals not to disregard the warning of Sir Robert Bond who was forced, because of the menace of Coakerism to withdraw from public life. The warning thus given should be heeded, otherwise any such deserters from the true Liberal cause would only have themselves to blame and to reproach in the future should they wake up to find they had been hoodwinked by Coaker and Squires. There never was such a serious day in the Colony's history as that which will arrive on the third day of November, but it has been a most fortunate thing for Newfoundland that in the exposure of those letters which W. D. Reid handed over for publication in the Star and Advocate that they have largely exposed their purposes. That engraving is an illustration of the sublime contempt that W. D. Reid has for the intelligence of Newfoundland voters, and unmistakably points to the fact that he built upon it to stam-

Patriotic Newfoundlanders.

Be on Your Guard to Defend Your Country and Your Homes Against the Intrigues of the Hidden Hand.

"There is a land, of every land the pride,
Beloved by Heaven o'er all the world beside;
Where shall that land, that spot of earth be found?
Art thou a man?—a patriot?—look around;
O, thou shalt find, how'er thy footsteps roam,
That land thy country, and that spot thy Home."

To every patriotic Newfoundland, the duty now is right before him to so register his vote on the third day of November that his home and country shall be saved from the designing schemes that the hidden hand behind Squires and Coaker have plotted against us all. The intrigues which led up to the selection of Squires as leader of a political party and the joining therewith of W. F. Coaker was accomplished with all the deep cunning and design of a Prussian strategist, so that it is a match of wits now between patriotic Newfoundlanders and those who are bent upon the surrender of our independence with its consequent injury to every home in the land. Shall this native Isle of yours, this treasure of the earth, and this gem of the sea, handed down to you from your hardy ancestors as a legacy to protect, and upon which you have built your homes and reared your family, be unmercifully strangled in the future by the plotter and intriguer who seeks to place his grasp upon your rights? Can we believe that you are going to risk all that danger by supporting the cause of, and voting for, the tools and catspaws of that to such strength that not the slightest fear is entertained in regard to the outcome of the election. That outcome will be the return of the six Liberal Progressives by immense majorities proclaiming aloud the solid sense and independence of the city against the plotters and schemers who are planning otherwise. Now then, patriotic Newfoundlanders of the outports, roll up likewise tremendous majorities in favor of the same cause, for that cause is all your own as it means the freedom of your land and the welfare of your homes. It will serve as a lesson for the future also to any man who desires to encompass by secret designs was spent in trying to cure an ulcer by using ordinary ointments," writes Mrs. Jeffrey, of 21 French Street, Methuen. "Then I heard of Zam-Buk, used it, and am now completely cured."

"Thirty-three years ago the ulcer appeared on my ankle, and gradually spread to my knee. The pain was terrific. For years I could hardly walk and had to remain in the house. For twenty-five years I received doctors' treatment but got only temporary relief."
"Then I heard of some wonderful cures worked by Zam-Buk and commenced using it. The relief experienced was wonderful. The inflammation was gradually drawn out. The pain was soon ended, and, at last after thirty-three years of misery, I was on the road to recovery. To cut a long story short—perseverance with this wonderful balm resulted in a complete and permanent cure."

Great Political Meeting at Lethbridge.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Kindly grant me space in your valuable paper to tell you about the great political meeting we had here on Wednesday last. Long before the meeting was advertised to open (8 p.m.) the hall was crowded to its utmost capacity, and the candidates for the Liberal Progressive Party, Messrs. Morine, Winsor and Forbes, were escorted to the hall by quite a large crowd firing guns, also stage powder and bonfires being the order. I can truthfully say that the demonstration was the best ever seen in Lethbridge. When the candidates arrived at the place of meeting, they had literally to climb over the people's heads, the place being so packed. Our genial friend, Mr. Alfred Lethbridge, acted as chairman in a capable manner and first called on Capt. W. Winsor to address the meeting, who on rising received quite an ovation, and after speaking for about 45 minutes quite captured the people present. The next speaker to take the platform was Dr. Forbes, who was received rather quietly, but after he had been speaking a few minutes he held the audience spellbound, and on taking his seat the cheering and clapping was wonderful. A few remarks by the chairman brought the Hon. A. B. Morine to his feet. On Mr. Morine taking the stand so great was the applause given him that it took over five minutes before he could start to speak, and all through his speech he was clapped to the utmost and the best possible hearing was given him. Mr. Editor, if his reception was good it was nothing to the applause he received on the conclusion of his speech. The crowds then escorted the candidates back to their hotel with firing of guns all the way, and thus ended the most successful meeting ever held here.

POLITICAL TWINS. The Same Squires and the Same Coaker.

The Daily Star, January 28, 1919:

Let Mr. Coaker look closer home for the "Kill Coaker Bunch." If Mr. Coaker has not discovered the fact that his enemies are within his gates, in his own camp, all that can be said is that he does not know as much as the fishermen down north know, who have fled the ranks of Coakerism.

The seed of destruction of Coaker influence was deeply planted in Coaker conceit, Coaker duplicity nourished it and Coaker contempt for the rights of others and disdain for public opinion has seen its full fruition.

Coaker is a by-word where once he was an influence, and he has come to the realization that "the way of the transgressor is hard." Coaker has transgressed all those laws, the observance of which keeps men high in public estimation.

Coaker finds himself today opposed to men who once strongly supported him. Ask if those men hold their heads high in honor and respect among their fellow citizens. Ask if they have ever repudiated the principles they maintained when they stood on the same platform with Coaker. They have not. They stand by those principles as firmly today. Hence the natural inference that Coaker has wobbled, Coaker has fallen from the high estate of rectitude, if he ever held it. Perhaps it were more correct to say that time has stripped the mask from him, and he stands today revealed in his true proportions.

The man had not the moral force to back up his professions, hence is he deserted by all honorable men, save the few who have not yet come to a full sense of the compromising position they hold.

And of course when Coaker beckoned the Star and Mr. Squires "flew over the fence," as the Advocate said they would.

Union Men! Can you trust either Coaker or R. A. Squires, after what has happened?

Squires Has No Chance.

The popular trio of St. John's West, Bennett, Mullaly and Martin, are gaining favor each day. A fortnight ago some of the Squires supporters were hoping that their leader might be elected, but since he made a mess of things as he has of late, even those in the inner circle openly admit that he has no chance whatever. Squires is not a man that can be trusted. Even his most intimate friends have gone back on him. They have found him to be a man whose word is not his bond, one who will stoop so low as to publish private correspondence, and to accuse others of crimes which originate first in his own brain. In would be a sorry day indeed for this Colony if Squires and Coaker ever got control of the Government. There are open rows in each day now, for Squires hates Coaker while the latter as soon as is possible will throw the "Black Rascal" over. Squires hopes by bringing out Independents to split the party votes of Messrs. Bennett, and Higgins, but he is doomed to failure again. St. John's knows that men of ability and brains such as are supporting Sir M. P. Cashin, are needed to guide the ship of state, and not incompetents such as Arthur English, M. L. Farrell, J. T. Meaney and others of like calibre who are supporting Squires for what they can get out of him before the election. Every intelligent citizen will go to the polls on Monday next and vote in the West for Bennett, Mullaly and Martin and in the East for Higgins, Vinnicombe and Fox.

Squires Can't Win.

Squires and his Guppyite companions are resorting to all sorts of tricks with the hope of breaking their way into the House of Assembly, but they have their work for nothing. It is the boast of Squires that he has a certain section of St. John's West under his thumb, and they will vote for him under any circumstances. In this he is making the mistake of his life for the Telegram is positive that there is no section under Mr. Squires' thumb, and on Monday next he will find this out. The "Black Rascal" as Mr. Coaker was so pleased to call him, is not trusted by the people of this city. Does he think that the voters who elected Mr. Bennett year after year, are now going to vote against him and elect Squires whose reputation is so unsavory that he is detested by all. Squires can't win; he is not the people's choice. His very act in publishing private letters of Squires' "thumb" and on Monday next every lover of fair play against him, and then there are the other dark deeds with which his name has been associated. That $5,000 which Mr. Coaker says he received from the Reids, that secret letter which H. D. Reid refused to sign, his hypocrisy in connection with the observance of the Sabbath and countless other things which St. John's knows only too well, all go to show that R. A. Squires has about the same chance of election as Arthur English has in Ferryland. No voters, a man who would put such a thing in the paper as was in the Post recently, and then throw the blame on some one else, is not a fit person to represent St. John's West. Bennett, Mullaly and Martin are the favorites.

Just a Few Thoughts.

Squires has the wrong crowd around him to win in the West. He has a lot to learn yet, even if the people trusted him, but they don't. He has made many enemies by his abuse of the Hon. J. R. Bennett.

"The Star has a great opinion of Leo Murphy now," said one returning here to another in the billiard room of the Seaman's Institute yesterday. "Yes," replied the other, "quite a change from when he fell down under his lecture at the Casino." But Leo does not take himself seriously.

"The trouble with Leo is," chimed in a third, "he could not get on the ticket with Higgins and Vinnicombe." "Well, if that's so," replied the first, "I'll vote for Higgins every time he stands."

Did you hear where the money comes from? John T. Meaney says he has it under his eye in Harbor Main District.

What did Squires get at Bell Island besides the cold shoulder, from the voters. Ahem! did some one say hush!

There are more things than iron ore on Bell Island, eh, Richard Anderson?

The Hon. John Anderson is noted for figures, and if he counted up the cost of the Squires campaign he would find that it is costing over $100,000.00. Now, where did Mr. Squires get that amount?

Of course there is no doubt Mr. Squires gets large sums from mysterious places, but sooner or later the source leaks out. Bet a cent Mr. Coaker knows, he says he knew all about that $5,000 from Reid's and the electric light bill.

The Guppyites won't get a single vote at Kilbride or on the Southside. Not one!

Why didn't R. A. Squires save the Union? The steamer with the $100,000 had not arrived then, as perhaps the reason.

Squires was banking on 1100 straight ticket votes in St. John's West three weeks ago. Michael James says if he gets 500 now he will be doing well; and he knows.

Have you been speaking to any of the Bonavista Bay electors now in the city. They make no secret of it that Coaker is now as flat as a pancake. The "Black Rascal" is the cause.

"Abbie Salter is keen on Prohibition these days," remarked a member of the Curling Club on Water Street yesterday. "More than ever now, since he got in tow with Squires," was the reply of one of the gentlemen present. Every one knows Abbie's "limit."

Harbor Main to Bay de Verde, and not one for the Squires-Coaker party.

Conception Bay is the deciding factor, and the Guppyites will not get a single seat.

Mr. Piccott and his colleagues will poll a larger vote in Hr. Grace District than ever before. The Slacker, Archibald, won't save his nomination fee.

THE DAILY DOPE

BY THE CUB-EDITOR

THE PENALTY.

There's a penalty for coquetting (Oh, the madcap's reproachful eyes. Filled with injury and surprise. At the hint that her sport's upset-ting!)

Yet some day she will be regretting All her mischievous smiles and sighs:

There's a penalty for coquetting. (Oh, the madcap's reproachful eyes!)

Here's a lad who will leave her fret-ting! Though the truth of it she denies. Still, a wound in her sore heart lies. As he goes on his way, forgetting, There's a penalty for coquetting!

TO P. O. C. SYDNEY.

Aha! And so we've caught you, Post Office Corner? Appropriating our gems of thought, eh? Well, never mind. We'll let it pass. And—er—we suppose you don't mind us hitting some of your spasms? No?—Thank you. We'll arbitrate. You take items like the "Bul-sh-week," one and we'll lift your verse. That all right? Then that's settled.—The C. E.

GOT THEM ALL.

The police authorities in a certain country had been looking for a thief, of whom they possessed six photographs, taken in different positions, on the occasion of previous convictions. These photographs were sent to all the towns in the country.

After some time the detective department received from the police commissary of a small town the following letter:

"Sir—I have duly received the photos of the accused persons you are seeking. I have already arrested five of them, and the sixth has been traced by my officers. We hope in a short time to capture him."

IN THE ATTITUDE.

Tommy (to the "charger" he has borrowed during a week-end leave after it had been down three times in ten minutes)—Wot! On yer knees agen? Go on—get on with it—"Bless Pa and Ma an' make me a good 'orse. Amen."

Adam had his troubles, but he missed the dressmaking and millinery bills.

USEFUL.

A woman lost her little curly poodle, and called on the police to find it. The next day one of the force came with the dog very wet and dirty. The lady was overjoyed, and asked a number of foolish questions, among others:

"Where did you find my dear darling?"

"Why, ma'am," said the officer, "a fellow had him on a pole and was washing windows with him."

THE COLUMN WRITER.

The column writer's life is fine. For all he has to do is start to write his stuff at nine And leave at half-past two.—Baltimore News.

TRUST A NEWSPAPER MAN!

Everybody in public life, and not a few out of it, long since learned that to nobody it is safer to reveal secrets than to a real newspaper man. The higher their standing in their profession the more they do know of the things which for one or another good reason are not to be printed, and this is not because of the professional eminence of the veteran journalists, but because their careers have been long, and their opportunities many for the acquisition of recondit knowledge.

There are, of course, times and occasions when confidences are not invited by journalists—when they are refused. At other times they are willingly or gladly accepted, and highly valued, as their possession renders a more nearly complete understanding of a personality or a situation, and adds accuracy to the writing of what can be written.

DARK FINANCE.

A negro bank was opened in a small town in Georgia, and Sam deposited ten dollars. Several weeks later he returned to draw out his money. When he presented his check the colored cashier looked at it dubitantly and said: "Sam, you ain't got any money in dis here bank, but I'll look on de books and make sure." In a minute he came back and said: "Yes, you did have ten dollars; but, nigger, de interer done sat up dat money."

The first watches ever made were as big as soup-platters and as heavy as they were cumbersome. The Emperor Charles V. for instance, had one which weighed 27 lbs. The watches of that day were very much like ordinary clocks. They were cylindrical in shape, finely chased, and had a hinged lid on one side to expose the dial.

THE BLUE PENCIL.

Flossie Gay: "You'll never catch me again going out to dinner with an editor!" Her friend: "Was he broke?"

Flossie: "I don't know whether he was broke or not, but he ran a blue pencil through about half my order!"

OH HEAVEN! OH BLISS!

In Japan the fashions in woman's clothes have remained practically unchanged for two thousand five hundred years.

IT SHOULD BE GENUINE.

Lis (after Bill had given her a ring): "Is it a real diamond?" Bill: "If it ain't I've bin done out of 'art a crown!"

NO MONEY HOG, HE!

"Young man you saved my life. Here's a dollar for you," exclaimed the rescued swimmer, pictured in Life. "Keep yer money," replied the disgusted rescuer. "What'd'e think I am? A proffiter?" —The Cub Editor.

GIRLS! DRAW A

MOIST CLOTH

THROUGH HAIR

Let "Danderine" save your hair and double its beauty.

Oh, girls, such an abundance of thick, heavy, invigorated hair; a perfect mass of wavy, silky hair, gloriously fluffy, bright and so easy to manage.

Just moisten a cloth with a little "Danderine" and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one, small strand at a time; this magically removes all dirt, excess oil and grease, but your hair is not left brittle, dry, stringy or faded, but charmingly soft, with glossy, golden gleams and tender lights. The youthful glints, tints and color are again in your hair.

"Danderine" is a tonic-beautifier. Besides doubling the beauty of the hair at once, it checks dandruff and stops falling hair. Get delightful Danderine for a few cents at any drug or toilet counter and use it as a dressing and invigorator as told on bottle.

"Down With the Churches."

IS THE COAKERITE POLICY.

(From Coaker's Advocate)

"What a responsibility the churches will have to shoulder at the Day of Judgment! In our humble opinion the churches and their responsible ambassadors will have to answer to the Creator for the conditions we have named, for had they performed their duty faithfully, and lived only and solely for the Glory of God, instead of for temporal advancement and financial gain, those conditions which to-day cause many wise men to shudder would not have existed. The churches won't denounce wrong nowadays, because they fear financial loss, and loss of lifelong friends, if they dare to do so."

(From Coaker's Advocate)

"At one place the Church of England parson refused the F.P.U. the use of the Parish Hall. Crosbie and Morris had subscribed $10 each for an organ. Perhaps such generous donations had or had not something to do with the refusal of the Hall to the F.P.U. for the President's meeting. At another settlement recently visited by the President, a Methodist parson refused to loan a school building for a public meeting to be addressed by the President. Some of the parsons are a bit prejudiced against the F.P.U., because they fear it will cut down the profits of one or two grab-balls in their congregation who are important because of the extra four or five dollars for they hand over to the parsons annually. Watch those deges, boys, and put up with no fooling. You must depend upon yourselves for your own advancement, and it is only when you command enough of this world's goods to be in a position to pay an extra five dollars towards the Minister's salary that you discover yourself to be under the special care of the parsons. See that the parsons are treated fair and pay them your fees like men, but give them to understand that their place is to look after the affairs of the soul and their churches, and that their intrusion into your commercial and political affairs is not theirs, but your business solely, and should be of no interest to them."

(From Coaker's Advocate)

"Would to God a little faith were with our clergymen to-day. They would not be upholding the Government and merchants like they are. Why, if you even speak about the F.P.U. they will fly in your face. Just fancy, those big bugs, they have the best to eat and the best to wear, they can enjoy the best education and their children the best education, and send them to England to finish up, travel where they like, spend what money they like, and where does it come from. Why, all from the men that earn on an average $300 a year. It is not outrageous to have our blood drawn from us in this way to give thousands of lazy idlers a fat salary."

Why He Didn't Go!

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir:—A few days ago a prominent gentleman of St. John's was over here on business, and amongst other questions he asked us—"why Richard Anderson Squires the would-be premier did not stand for Harbor Grace, the town in which he was born and reared?" Well, sir, the answer he received was brief and to the point, namely, that "we didn't want him. We knew enough of him already." And, Mr. Editor, Richard Anderson is well aware of this fact also, because when he came here about six weeks ago to feel his way about six weeks ago to feel his way, he was told in plain language that he might poll half a dozen votes. So Richard Anderson Squires hies away and foisted himself upon the people of St. John's, where he is practically unknown, but, my word for it, if St. John's has anything to do with him, they will soon find him out in his true colours, and that to their cost. If St. John's wishes to have the cast-off candidate, as Mr. P. from St. John's was telling us the other night at our meeting, "he would never believe that the great district of St. John's West would lower itself from the high position it has always held as the great Liberal Centre of the Country to elect Richard Anderson Squires as its representative. A District, said he, that hails such intellectual giants as Major Renouf, Hon. Thos. Talbot, Peter Tessier, James Tessier, P. J. Scott, James J. Callahan, Lord Morris, Hon. John R. Bennett and other to do justice to them in the House of Assembly, as well as have the country respected abroad, so that international and financial relations could be entered into for the benefit of the whole country, not degrade its high standard by electing Richard Anderson of the Hebing palm and his satellites to undo the great work that their forefathers fought so hard and valiantly for. "Confederation" said he, "was buried at Job's Bridge in 1869 by the heroes who fought and wiped out that bugaboo, which has been repeatedly disinterred at intervals ever since by deep and designing men as a catch cry against a Government, but it will require more professional skill than that possessed even by Dr. Campbell to infuse new life into the corpse, and enable it to stand on its feet." So let St. John's East, West, North and South have nothing to do with Richard Anderson Squires. Treat him as his native town has treated him, bury him and his associates under a shower of votes, even as your forefathers buried Confederation half a century ago. Harbor Grace extends the hand of friendship to St. John's East and West in this battle for the preservation of our Native Land.

The people of this District can size a man up as well as you people in the Capital, although perhaps you have greater advantages. A case in point will suffice. A few days ago the Coaker-Squires candidates were at Upper Island Cove, a thriving town with an independent and patriotic population, and Frank Archibald, one of the candidates, asked one of the Callahans, Lord Morris, Hon. John R. Bennett and other for his support, and, as usual, Frank put his foot in it.

"Why should I go back on skipper Ned Parsons, Mr. Archibald? He was always a man, as was all belonging to him, and always did his duty towards us and the Empire. Why, man, he has a daughter who has proved herself a better man than you. She was on the battlefield where the cannon roared and in the Hospitals attending to the wounded and dying, and where were you?" Frank disappeared and his friends looked mesmerized. Wasn't that a bull's eye, Mr. Editor? My advice is—keep clear of Coakerism, Squireism, Guppyism and every other ism, and vote the straight ticket for your six Government members, whoever they are, as we will do for our stalwart Three, tried and true—Hon. A. W. Piccott, Edward Parsons and Josiah Gosse. I shall wire you result as soon as possible. I am,

Yours truly,
HARBOR GRACIAN.
Hr. Grace, Oct. 25, 1918.

Victory.

Call the men from every quarter, All and everyone you know, Shout the shout of Glorious Victory Here and everywhere you go. In the lane and in the valley, North and South from high and low. Come and listen to their speeches, Ah, H. V. F. are the men for me, Never heard to such advantage. Touch the Spring and let them be. Listen as they call the Voters, In their might we will depend, Sure their promise we can trust them, Ever they are the poor man's friends.

PINKIE.

What "One Interested" Says.

MONTREAL, Oct. 22.

Dear Mr. Editor:—Although I have made my home in the land of the Maple Leaf, I still take a keen interest in dear old Newfoundland, and would as soon think of doing without our breakfast as without my St. John's "Evening Telegram." I notice in that paper's latest issues, the very name makes me tremble for my country, so I hasten to sound a note of warning before it is too late. Beware of any candidates who are trying to encourage something that would help to ruin most of the inhabitants of "Ye Ancient Colony." Believe me I know all about it, for I was in Halifax when Confederation took place, when the papers were signed whilst the people were asleep in their beds, and many woke to find themselves misled. Business men who have favoured it found it impossible to keep open and property owners had to sell or rather give their homes away, being unable to meet the high taxes. You are paying high rents now, are you not?—well that is only a taste of what faces you if you ever have Confederation.

Hoping you will vote for the men who really have your interests at heart, and leave the ones who would like to sell your country, entirely alone.

I am dear Mr. Editor,
Sincerely yours,
ONE INTERESTED.

(H. F. SHORTIS.)

Just about a year from now there is to be a big celebration at Plymouth Rock, near Boston, in honor of the 300th anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers from the well-remembered ship "Mayflower," with 102 passengers and crew.

Tradition states that John Alden (immortalized by Longfellow) was the first to land with beautiful Mary Chilton.

The actual day for the celebration is not yet fixed, but our Historical Society should have a representative there to meet their descendants and the blue-blood aristocracy of the United States.

Who will this lucky man be, as the Newfoundland Delegate will take precedence over anyone as the Charter of our City of St. John's dates back to August 6th, 1668, when Sir Humphre Gilbert took possession of the Harbor of St. John's under most imposing circumstances in the presence of many nationalities? This is nearly fifty years previous to the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers in the New England states.

Sir Humphrey passed laws and granted licenses. One law is as follows:—

"If any person should utter words sounding to the dishonor of Her Majesty (Queen Elizabeth) he should lose his ears and have his ship and goods confiscated."

Young Voters' Meeting at Kilbride.

Not in the history of Kilbride was such a political meeting held as was last night, and never was there such an outburst of real enthusiasm accorded a conquering trio in St. John's West. The meeting was held in the Young Men's Kilbride Athletic Hall and long before the arrival of the Liberal Progressive candidates, BEN-NETT, MULLALLY and MARTIN, the immediate surroundings were ablaze with stage powder, and for miles around the firing of musketry could be heard. When the candidates arrived they were met by many of the prominent residents and escorted to the hall amidst the wildest cheering.
After the cheering had subsided, Mr.
Edward Walsh was moved to the chair, amidst the hearty approval of the biggest audience ever assembled there at a political meeting and among them were many ladies and gentlemen from near-by settlements.

Hon. Mr. Bennett then briefly outlined the object of the meeting, and thanked the young voters of the section and those of the adjacent places for the splendid reception given, and was pleased to see so many of the ladies present. The meeting Mr. Bennett said, was called at the request of the young voters of Kilbride, and that their attendance was so large,
and their enthusiasm so pronounced, was the best evidence that Kilbride would stand by its traditions and vote the straight Liberal ticket on Nov.
3rd as it has done in the past. Hon.
Mr. Bennett then introduced his colleagues, Mr. J. J. Mullally and Mr. J.
T. Martin, and announced that these gentlemen would first address the gathering, after which he would endeavour to review the different phases before the country, and also that he would deal with the disgraceful, ven-erous and vituperative campaign being carried on by his political opponents of the Coaker Party, Messrs.
Campbell, Brownrigg and Squires.
Mr. Mullally excelled himself in his speech last night and in conclusion, said Mr. Mullally, make no mistake that St. John's West will not see John R. Bennett robbed of his seat in the West End. Vote the straight ticket, said he, for BENNETT, MULLALLY and MARTIN, whom you will stand out preeminently as the men who have saved the country from pawns and usurpers. When Mr. Mullally closed, there was fresh cheering and also when Mr. Martin was called upon to speak to the people.

Mr. Martin's attitude in dealing with the affairs of the district left no doubt in the minds of those present that he was right into the fight to do what was in the interests of the people. He referred to the late leader of the West End team, Sir Edward Morris, and with the mention of his name, the hall shook with cheering. John R. Bennett, he said, was the worthy successor, and Kilbride would be determined to believe that if he did not poll their votes for Bennett and his colleagues. Mr. Martin's manly, honest, straightforward talk was splendidly received, and when "Jimmy" Martin is elected to represent St. John's West, this important settlement will have one of the most popular and painstaking and hardworking representatives that this important district ever had. Mr. Martin concluded by asking for the straight ticket vote, BENNETT, MUL-LALLY and MARTIN, and as he took his seat he was cheered loud and long.

Hon. Mr. Bennett in a speech of one and one half hours, then dealt with the whole political situation and the cunning, mean, low and vulgar propaganda of his opponents. He pointed out that the campaign that had been resorted to by his political opponents was the worst on record. The circulation of the literature by them was only a system of "camouflage" and "smoke screen" in an endeavour to hide from the eyes of the public the main issues before them. Vilification, personal abuse and filthy literature was their only stock in trade. The Coaker-Squires opposition had a well-organized system in this respect, and by letting loose its flood gates they tried to swamp honest Government and break their way into the House of Assembly. The whole system was an insult to the intelligence of the electorate, and espoused only by a few political puppets whom the country would be well rid of. He bared to the meeting the studied propaganda that had gone on for the last 12 months for the sole object of knitting him and robbing him of his position in the West End. Sir Edward Morris has left the country and the late M. J.
Kennedy had gone to his reward, he continued, and all they have to do now is to knife Bennett, and then St.
John's West goes by the board, and the grass can grow on Water Street.
But said John R., I am still in the ring line and when the ballots are counted after polling Campbell, Mos-dell, Squires and Brownrigg will be sorry that they started a campaign of vilification and will sink into oblivion as a gang of political cut-throats.

Hon. Mr. Bennett then read the telegram from Rev. (Major) T. Naugle, which was published yesterday, in which the Rev. gentleman condemns the dirty attempt of the Opposition press to drag the dear departed dead into the filthy turmoil of politics. He pointed out that this was one of the

Was Just Like Throwing Money Away, He Asserted

Postmaster of Cardiff Could Get Nothing to Help His Wife Until He Gave Her Tanlac.

"You can tell them that Tanlac has helped my wife, too, and of all the people who have made statements about being benefited by her, we have the most cause to be thankful," was the statement made by J.
Kuyper, Postmaster at Cardiff, Alberta, who has been taking this medicine recently.

"For the past six years," explained Mr. Kuyper, "my wife has been so crippled up with sciatic rheumatism that she could hardly get about and while I have spent lots of money for treatment and medicines I was just like throwing it away, for nothing was the least bit of help to her until she began using Tanlac.
Since she has been taking this medicine, however, she has been steadily improving all the time. Aside from the fact that she has almost gotten rid of the rheumatism, her general health has improved wonderfully and her weight has increased from less than one hundred pounds to one hundred and ten."

"Her condition, before taking Tanlac, seemed almost hopeless and was very discouraging. She had continual pains across her back, and her right hip and limb were so stiff and painful she was barely able to get around. She was so weak she was easily exhausted and would have to lie down three or four times a day.
Her nerves were badly shattered and this, together with her awful pain, made sleep almost impossible for her.
Her stomach was also out of order in some way, for her food seemed to do her no good and in place of gaining strength she was losing all the time. Her appetite was poor and altogether her condition was serious and regardless of the best care and attention she kept getting worse."

"After reading so much about Tanlac and, knowing of the good results others in our community had gotten from it, my wife began taking it and gradually improved from the first. She was such a sick and feeble creature that we could not expect recovery without time and patient use of the medicine. So she has stuck right to the treatment and I certainly has paid well for the results have been nothing less than wonderful. She has taken twelve bottles now, eats three hearty meals a day, sleeps eight hours or more every night, and says she hardly feels the rheumatism any more. In fact, her entire system has been toned up and she is now about as strong as an ox and ever was. Tanlac is the only medicine we have ever found that we could depend upon for results and it is so good that we feel it our duty to tell others about it."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M.
Cowan and under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative—

DON'T BE A "MISERY-FACTORY"

Stop Headaches, Bilious Spells, Colds and Constipation with "Cascarets"—Ideal Physic!

You men and women who can't get feeling right—who have headache, coated tongue, bad taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach and colds.

Are you keeping your liver and bowels clean with Cascarets, or merely shocking your insides every few days with Calomel, Salts, Oil or violent Pills?

Cascarets work while you sleep; they cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested, fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels which is now keeping you in constant misery. Cascarets never gripe, sicken or cause inconvenience and Cascarets cost so little too.

Morine Can't Lose At Greenspond.

Dear Editor.—I was just reading a letter in the Advocate in reference to Morine's political meeting at Greenspond. The writer seems to want to make people believe it was a total failure, well, I assure your readers that a better political meeting was never held in Greenspond, the hall was packed to overflowing, the pity was the hall was not large enough as quite a few could not gain admittance, in spite of the fact that a Union meeting was held the same night. This of course was planned to keep Union members from attending Morine's meeting. I will remember last election the same thing happened, and all Union members were instructed not to attend the meeting of the so called Grab-alls. The Union here at that time was burning brightly and Mr. Coaker seemed to be monarch of all he surveyed, and quite a few listened to their lord and master, and the result was Mr. Blandford and Colleagues did not get so good a hearing as they should as the hall was not more than half filled. Now let us compare that meeting to Mr. Morine's meeting a few nights ago, when the hall was filled to overflowing, and the speakers were continually applauded, not one dissenting voice, with the exception of one fellow, who went there intentionally to break up the meeting, and who made a fool of himself, by shouting while Morine was speaking. But when asked by Morine if he wished to ask a question, was like a "Dummy," and winded out something, about his being four years on the other side, but he was quickly told by a man in the audience "that he did not learn much while over there," and if he did not feel ashamed, it was because he did not have sense enough. Does the fellow know that he did his party an injury. I was talking to two men in particular, who stated that before the meeting they had no intention of voting for either party, but through the action of this fellow, would vote solid for Morine and Colleagues. Now readers you can believe me, or you can believe the writer in the Advocate. But my estimation is that Morine and colleagues will poll a two third vote in Greenspond. I know nothing of the other part of the district, but the general opinion is that Morine and party will be elected by a large majority. The small remnant of Coaker's followers here at Greenspond know, this and they are using such low talk as sectarianism in reference to Premier Cashin, one would think that the Great War just ended had settled this feeling for all time. But just like the Coaker policy, nothing is too dirty to say, if it will advance the interest of that party. Fortunately the great mass of people are too broad minded to listen to such low talk. I note the Advocate is continually telling the people of the West Coast, the benefits the Union men is receiving through the F.P.U. Well let me describe some of these benefits. If you ship a quintal of fish to the Union, you have to take payment in truck, no cash; if you want a barrel of flour, it is cash, no credit; to tell the truth, if you are a good looking man and usually does well with the fish you might get a few dollars credit in the summer months. But you dare not mention credit during the winter. There is a little story well known to all here at Greenspond in connection with the Union credit system. It runs as follows: "A poor man during the summer 1917, happened to get a few dollars credit from the Union Store, but being unfortunate during the summer, he was unable to pay the bill, although it was a small amount. He stated his case to the clerk in charge, and assured him, he was anxious to pay the bill, but at the time did not have the money. But knowing the bill had to be paid immediately, and anxious to get out of debt, he offered the clerk a gold ring, that he had treasured for years. The ring was worth much more than the bill, but as he understood the bill had to be paid he made the sacrifice. During a following meeting of the F.P.U. the matter was brought before the Council, which decided to pay the bill, and quite a few suggested that the ring should be returned to its owner. This of course, is just what should have been done, and had it been, the writer would not have mentioned the matter. But instead, a certain member made a proposition that the ring should be presented to the chairman. It is believed by all that this was planned before the meeting opened, as the chairman was very anxious to get the ring. However, after quite a lot of talk concerning same, a vote was taken and it is ridiculous to know that the vote went in favour of the chairman, and the writer and others are ashamed to know that dear old Greenspond ever produced a man, that would take a ring under such mean circumstances, and a man guilty of the same should be made wear it in his nose. This is just one of the one hundred and one reasons why we have gone back on Coaker and the Union here at Greenspond. We have learned that Coaker is not anxious to help the poor man. His great ambition is the Government, but if other parts of the district will vote as Greenspond, after the elections Mr. Coaker will be as far from the Government as the first shirt he ever wore. Before closing I shall quote a few reasons why we are entirely sick of Coaker.

- (1) Because he promised to pay the very highest price for fish, and he has paid the very lowest.
- (2) Because in the past he advised us to sell our fish early in August, when he knew the price was going to advance.
- (3) Because he did not pay cash for fish, but all truck which we believe would not be tolerated to-day, not even by the Esquimaux.
- (4) Because he called all St. John's merchants Grab-alls and accused them of having motor cars, and now we hear he has a splendid motor car at Port Union.
- (5) Because he told us we would not have conscription without a vote, when he knew he was telling a deliberate lie.
- (6) Because he said on his circular, there would be no interference by law, with men going to Labrador and quite a few believed what he said and joined their masters and worked for a whole month, fitting out for the fishery which they were never to prosecute, as later they were called up for service in the army, and once more we were deceived by this master bluffer.
- (7) Because he said on that same circular that herring was almost valueless, and quite a few believed what he said, and salt being so expensive, they did not bother about catching any. But the non-Union men not advised caught all they could get and the result was they received the highest price on record, and once more we lost our dollars by listening to Mr. Know-all.

A DISSENTING UNIONIST.

Good Meetings at Freshwater and Neagle's Hill.

Last night at Freshwater and Neagle's Hill the famous "Fighting Trio" of the Liberal Progressive Party held most enthusiastic meetings, which were attended by all the residents of these localities.

The first meeting was held at Freshwater Road, in the house of Mr. John Jenkins. The meeting was called to order at 7.30, and Mr. Martin Doyle appointed to the chair, a position which he filled very acceptably. Having introduced the candidates, he called upon Mr. Higgins to address the gathering, and the esteem and appreciation in which Mr. Higgins is held by the farmers of Freshwater was clearly exemplified in the ovation he received when he arose. Mr. Higgins spoke for upwards of an hour, and expounded the policy of Sir Michael Cashin, paying particular attention to the paragraphs dealing with the high cost of living, main line grants and agricultural development. His speech was masterful and convincing, and was punctuated with hearty and sincere applause. After finishing his address, Mr. Higgins asked that he might be excused in order that he might drive on to Neagle's Hill and open the meeting there.

Mr. Vinnicombe was next called upon to speak, and upon rising met with a round of applause which attested his popularity with the people of this vicinity. Mr. Vinnicombe knows, and is known, by every man in Freshwater, and all recognize in him a man worthy of their confidence and support. He appealed to the intelligence of his hearers not to be led away by puerile endeavors, and impressed upon them the necessity of standing firm for Cashin and Progressiveness if the country is to be saved from stagnation.

The chairman then asked Mr. Fox to step forward and address the audience, which he did in such a manner as to receive the heartiest commendation from all present. He dealt successively with old age pensions and prohibition, and refuted the arguments of the Opposition. Mr. Fox before closing tendered Mr. Jenkins a vote of thanks for the hospitality extended toward them.

With the singing of the National Anthem the meeting closed amidst rousing cheers for the "record majority team" and amidst the roar of musketry and the blaze of numerous bonfires. Messrs. Vinnicombe and Fox left to join the leader of the ticket at Neagle's Hill.

The meeting at Neagle's Hill was a novelty in that it was the first political meeting ever held in that locality. The people showed their appreciation of the candidates' thoughtfulness in coming to visit them by tendering them a rousing reception. Practically every voter in the place was present to meet the candidates, and the hills resounded with the firing of guns. The oldest resident of the Hill, Mr. Martin Walsh, occupied the chair and introduced the candidates. Mr. Higgins, who first arrived, spoke for upwards of an hour in his usual able and forceful manner.

The meeting concluded with the thanks of the team tendered by Mr. Higgins to the venerable chairman, who so fittingly presided at the first political meeting held on the Hill. The National Anthem having been sung, the entire audience cheered the popular candidates to the echo, and a right royal send-off was given to the team on their departure for the city.

Captain Lewis Vindicated.

The Magistrate's Court yesterday was crowded to hear the much talked of case of Captain Walter Kennedy vs. Capt. John Lewis, Philip Lewis and Edward Butler. The complainant, who is one of the Squires candidates for Harbor Main District, summoned the three defendants for an alleged assault committed upon him at a public meeting held at Holyrood by himself and his colleagues, Mr. Meaney, on the 14th instant. Newspaper reports of the affair had painted it in such colours that it was supposed to have been a most brutal and unwarranted attack. The evidence showed another story. A large number of witnesses were summoned by both sides, and the hearing occupied up till 6 p.m. Mr. McNelly appeared for the complainant, and Higgins, K.C., for all defendants. It developed that Kennedy had been publicly stating that Captain Lewis was a Government official, that he was canvassing against the Squires team, and that he had kept the people of Holyrood from attending the meeting in question, there being only a handful present. All three statements were shown yesterday to be without foundation. The evidence further showed that Capt. Kennedy himself began the trouble, that Capt. Lewis never assaulted him, that his son Philip had only come to the rescue of his father, and that Butler had got into the mixup with the idea of restoring order. His Honor Judge Morris in dismissing the charge against Capt. Lewis, stated that he had more cause for complaint than any other person because of the manner in which his name had been used throughout the district without any justification, and that his son had only acted as might be expected when his father's good name was at stake and when he was threatened with assault. He made a nominal fine of one dollar in the case of the son, and five dollars against Butler. He regarded the whole case as a "tempest in a teapot."

At the conclusion of the case the many friends of Capt. Lewis present offered him their congratulations upon the splendid vindication which he secured.—News.

Fads and Fashions.

Some of the new gimpes are exceedingly elaborate.

A novelty each ties in a large bow directly in front.

The short skirt may have a vague, unpressed hem.

Tinsel ribbons are lovely and adapted to many uses.

Mousquetaire gloves in delicate shades are fashionable.

Tunics of net are magnificently designed with spangles.

Velvet frocks are trimmed with rows and rows of braid.

Patchwork effects of real lace appear in modish neckwear.

Wreaths are used to catch up the drapery of evening gowns.

Exquisite evening wraps are made of beautiful brocades.

Uncurled goat used in thin bands of fringe is a novel trimming.

One Georgette crepe blouse has its belt coming down over the skirt.

Filled gimpes are a smart accessory of the winter tailor made.

Huge detachable cuffs and collars of fur trim some of the coats.
