CHAPTER X. ALONE IN THE WORLD.

Iris was an orphan. Godfrey Knighton's death created a painfully profound sensation. His neighbors and those few who had been intimate with him had always regarded him as a particularly strong and robust man; he had never had a day's illness, had never complained even of those slight ailments which affect the generality of us.

That he should be found dead in his bed, without a note of warning, amazed and horrified the country. There was a whisper as to the necessity of an inquest, but the doctor who had attended the Revels put in a word that dispensed with any formal inquiry. He said he had known Mr. Knighton's heart was not strong, and the squire had been aware of it himself, and carefully kept in from the knowledge of Iris.

"The poor squire had taken more wine than usual the preceding night, as I gather from his friend, the Signor Ricardo, and that dangerously accelerated the heart's action; the constriction following, in my opinion, resulted in death."

The great London physician who was brought down—as if he could restore the dead to life!—confirmed the opinion of the local doctor, and the authorities were satisfied. There had always been a tinge of mystery about him, people said, and his sudden and strange death was felt to be in accordance, somehow, with his life.

For Iris the deepest sympathy was felt. With the exception of the Coverdale, the branch of the family with which the Knightons were at deadly feud, she had no relations in the world, and was utterly and completely alone! Women whose hearts ached for the bereaved girl came to the Revels to endeavor to console her, but they could not see her.

Felice, the pale woman with dark eyes hidden by her long lashes, met all inquiries with one response:

"My mistress is ill. She has not been out of her room since my master's death. She can see no one."

For days, indeed, Iris was, perhaps happily, unconscious of the blow which Fate had dealt her. She lay, like the Israelitish king, her face turned to the wall, refusing comfort. She shed no tear, but at intervals broke from her lips the one word "Father!"

The Foundation of Good Cookery

Add a Spoonful of BOVRIL

It makes the whole dish more nourishing.

Mr. Barrington seemed to wake from a brown study. "Well, there is one thing that we ought to do, my lord," he said. "What is that?" inquired Clarence. "Read the will," replied the lawyer, gravely.

Clarence sighed. "Very well, sir. I suppose there ought to be a sort of gathering of the servants, and—my friends."

"There ought to be when a will is read," asserted Mr. Barrington, grimly; "but there is none to read in this case."

Clarence looked faintly surprised. "No will!" he said.

Mr. Barrington took a pinch of snuff and pursed up his brows. "No will," he said. "At least, I cannot find one."

"That's very strange," said Clarence. "I always thought poor Knighton such a businesslike man."

"So he was," said Mr. Barrington; "but the most businesslike man—no, he stopped. It is strange, as you say, for I think there was a will."

Clarence looked at him in a puzzled fashion. "I know there was a will, for I drew it up myself. But that was a year ago."

"And—and if it's—your can't find it?"

"I cannot find it; I have searched everywhere. Of course, I have looked there"—as Clarence's eyes went to the safe—"that is the first place to search, naturally. I found everything else there—deeds, scrip, and other documents—just as I expected; but no will."

"It's very strange," said Clarence, helplessly; "but, of course, it does not matter."

"What is strange?" demanded Mr. Barrington, dryly. "That you should speak of it, and I to remember it."

"Certainly! Indeed, why not? It was the night before he died—ah, my poor friend!—the last night. We sat over our wine. My poor, dear friend, he drank—ah!—too heavily that night. And the wine was strong. Ah! tut, tut! but we will say no more of that. No, no. And it was getting late when we talked of all this great place, and he said, in his affectionate way, 'Ricardo, I shall make a new will!'"

"It is most singular, this absence of a will, and most unlike poor Mr. Knighton."

"His room—" suggested Clarence. Mr. Barrington nodded.

"Yes. I found the family jewels, and Miss Iris's jewelry there; everything as I expected, as I said before, but no will! My lord, you may rest assured that I have left no place unsearched! Besides, why should Mr. Knighton conceal his will?" he added, grimly.

Clarence shook his head. "Do you think he can have destroyed it?"

"Destroyed! Humph! There could be only one reason for his doing so."

"What is that?" asked Clarence.

"The fact that he intended making a new one. He may have destroyed it the night before he died, my lord. He died suddenly. He may have intended sending for me on the morrow—on the day, indeed, of his death."

"But why should he make a new will? He wouldn't leave anything away from Miss Iris?"

Mr. Barrington shook his head. "I should think not."

"At this moment there came a knock at the door. Clarence opened it. Felice stood outside, looking pale, and more statuesque than ever in her black dress.

"My mistress would like to see Mr. Barrington before he goes, my lord," she said in hushed tones.

Clarence's face brightened. "Yes, yes! Thank Heaven she is better, that she is well enough!"

"Tell Miss Knighton I am at her service," said the old lawyer. "Yes, sir. My mistress will come down presently," said Felice, and turned and went.

Clarence was closing the door, when Signor Ricardo suddenly and noiselessly appeared. He was in deep mourning, and looked very grave and solemn.

"Fardon, my lord!" he murmured in a low voice. "I have come to ask if I can be of any service to you or Mr. Barrington before I leave!"

"You are going away, Signor Ricardo?" said Clarence, as civilly as he could.

May Pass the Critical Period Safely and Comfortably by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Regina, Sask.—"I was going through Change of Life and suffered for two years with headache, nervousness, sleepless nights and general weakness. Some days I felt tired and unfit to do my work."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a tried and found good result, and I also find it a very helpful from which I suffer much. I have recommended it to several friends, and am willing to publish this."

—Mrs. MARTHA W. LEVINSKY, 610 Robinson St., Regina, Sask. "You have mentioned symptoms such as a sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backache, dread of impending evil, dimidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, spots before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness, inquietude and dizziness, get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begin taking the medicine at once. We know it will help you as it did Mrs. Lindsay."

"N—O! Stay! Yes, of course. Yes, I remember! Tut, but that is strange now."

"What is strange?" demanded Mr. Barrington, dryly. "That you should speak of it, and I to remember it."

"Certainly! Indeed, why not? It was the night before he died—ah, my poor friend!—the last night. We sat over our wine. My poor, dear friend, he drank—ah!—too heavily that night. ## THE MODERN GIRL.

The other day while I was chasing along the thoroughfare, my old dog began a baying, and I was stranded there. I heaved a sigh as I started to persevere, and life seemed bleak and dismal—I hate to change a tire.

For I am old and cheery, my hinges groan and crack, my ancient lungs are wheezy, and cricks are in my back. With rusty jack I wallowed upon the baking soil, and, toiling there, I swallowed about a quart of oil. Then on her motor cycle up came Jimmie Blair; "Well, in the name of Michael," she said, "you've grief to spare! Your clothes you're disarranging, your whiskers are on fire; you are not built for changing a non-skid rubber tire. Go, rest—for rest is bracing—beneath your sycamore, and I will change the casing, so don't sweat any more." And I had said this maiden was frivolous and vain, a modern female laden with lams most insane. Because she was athletic and wore a mannish kit, I'd said it was pathetic to see a girl like that. Because she rode her pony, one leg on either side, I'd said she was too phony to be a good youth's bride. "I will not let you wrestle," I said, "with my old scow; man is the stronger, or vessel, anyhow. But since you've made the offer, I do my hat to you; and I'm the champion doffer when great souls are in view."

Religious Jealousy.

Signs are seen that members of the left wing of the Moslems are going too fast for the majority of Hindus and the old jealousy between the two religions may possibly break out again. At a meeting of the working committee of the Indian National Congress this summer sessions broke out. The left wing, Mohammedans and some Hindus were anxious to declare "civil disobedience," which means non-payment of taxes and passive resistance to certain laws. This step might lead to serious disorder and Gandhi opposed it on the grounds that the country was not yet ready. He insisted that his latest plan, boycott of foreign cloth and the introduction of the old-fashioned spinning wheel into every Indian home, must first be carried out. He estimated that this would be accomplished by September 30 when he would be willing to declare civil disobedience if the government were unwilling to grant his three demands—redress of the Punjab grievances, restoration of Turkey to her pre-war position and complete home rule. It is asserted here that the non-cooperation movement is based on emotion and that of the three grievances, the Punjab affair is not a living issue except on the platform, as it was settled in the first session of India's new Parliament. The fate of Turkey is a matter for the Allies and it runs entirely counter to the principles of self-determination. It is claimed that the third, home rule, is being rapidly realized through powers now invested in local and central legislation with their overwhelming majorities.

Gandhi's movement is therefore said to depend purely on an sustaining mass excitement at white heat to put pressure on the government. Sensational programs are put forward only to be scuffed when enthusiasm is worked up. The moderates, who are busy with solid work in the new legislature, repeating repressive laws and becoming real rulers of the country, cannot exercise the same influence over the masses as the excitement with their appeal to mob passion. It is, however, confidently asserted that the success of reforms is rallying the educated classes to support of the British connection and that the wise statesmanship of Lord Reading is already producing an apparent effect. Possibilities of disorder do exist, but beyond the shoals there is said to be clear water ahead.

Mahatma Gandhi.

THE MAN WHO IS FOMENTING TROUBLE IN INDIA.

LONDON, (Associated Press.)—Potentialities for disorders in India latent in the Gandhi non-cooperative movement directed against the British Government in efforts to obtain home rule, have evidenced themselves in the serious rebellion in Malabar, according to Anglo-Indian experts.

Gandhi, of course, has preached the doctrine of non-violence, but many of his extreme followers have gone much further, notably, the reports here say, in the case of Malabar. There, it is claimed the religious torch was used to start the conflagration, it being maintained that the Allies had done grave injury to the Khalifat in the Treaty of Sevres (between the Allies and Turkey), but observers here maintain that the seed was already sown by Gandhi's non-cooperative campaign.

The strength of the non-cooperative movement consists in the appeal it makes to the religious instincts of the masses who collect in vast numbers to pay Gandhi almost divine honors and whom they regard as the Mahatma, or worker of miracles, who will introduce the millennium, when none need toil, when there will be no taxes and when prices will fall to their pre-war level.

Growing Excitement.

The masses are little concerned in political or constitutional reforms, and the professedly non-violent character of the movement cannot always be maintained. There have been occasional outbreaks of rioting. Considering the size of India these outbreaks have been infrequent, but are regarded as sympathetic of growing excitement. The Hindu masses are not ugly tempered and their reverence for Gandhi is a steady factor. The Moslem question runs throughout the movement like a sinister thread, and it is believed that if Gandhi's movement leads to violence, it will be because he has been unable to restrain Mohammedan fanaticism, roused to fever heat by the threatened eclipse of Turkey. It will be remembered that Indian Mussulmans have always insisted on a privileged position in politics on the ground of their religious kinship with the Turks, Afghans and other fighting Moslem people of Asia.—The collapse of the temporal power of Islam is therefore viewed seriously by Indian Mussulmans, who feel their claims to a privileged position are in danger of vanishing. Since the Treaty of Sevres they have pinned their faith to the Turkish Nationalist government of Angora, which they hoped would become the center of a revival of the political prestige of Islam, but the latest Greek successes have destroyed this hope, and a feeling of desperation seems growing, which may prove too strong for the influence of Gandhi. The Khalifat party, maintaining a separate entity within the ranks of non-cooperatives now displays in its conferences an increasing violence of language, asserting its allegiance to Turkey and threatening a declaration of independence if the British government embarks upon hostilities against Angora.

BLUENOSE THE WINNER.

HALIFAX, Oct. 22. Canada won the first race of the series of two out of three to decide the trophy for the coming year of the Halifax Herald's International Fishermen's Trophy on Saturday afternoon, when the Bluenose, Captain Angus Walters, her scuppers awash and the spray from her famous bow waving half her foresail, swept across the finish before a twenty-five knot breeze, with the American defender, Elsie, Captain Marty Welch, her foretopmast gone but still doggedly lunging her staysail, three miles astern. The challenger had maintained an average speed of eleven knot in order to turn the trick having completed fifty miles of actual water raced in four hours, thirty-three minutes, five seconds. The Elsie required just twelve minutes and thirty seconds more time to finish. Tomorrow, the Gloucesterman, fitted with a new topmast and her original foretopmast, which strangely enough, happened to be in Halifax, replacing that which went by the Board on Saturday, will attempt to win the series with a larger and more powerful sail. Saturday was Bluenose day with a snorting wester that at one time registered fifty knots and that drove the Lunenburg vessel to victory. The first three legs were a reach, run and another reach. The down homer had slightly the better of it in the off wind though Marty so manoeuvred his ship as to threaten for a while to make up for the disadvantage. On the wind, for the fourth leg of the course, it was a different story. Here the Canadian, though kicking up the customary high hay cock of foam forward and heading sharply to the puff, was in her element. She ate into the wind in surprising fashion. Welch had a surfer boat. While the Bluenose under four lowers had her lee scuppers decidedly awash, the Yankee with more proportionate ballast was as stiff as a house. All of which explains the Elsie's mishap—the loss of her foretopmast on the threat to the windward, but it made slight difference. The Elsie lost a few minutes by the accident, but certainly did not lose the race thereby. The Bluenose had already shown herself a faster boat on the wind in that breeze and Captain Angus, who had set the foretopmast when the Elsie's stick broke, took the outer sail down again just as a matter of sportsmanship. For the remainder of the windward work the Canadian sailed under four lowers, while Marty sported a main topsail. On the reach home the Bluenose staysail was not set.

KARL GIVES MORE TROUBLE.

VIENNA, Oct. 21. Former Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary arrived at Odenburg, Burgenland on Friday afternoon in an airplane from Switzerland, according to a despatch, and is reported proceeding towards Budapest, escorted by Odenburg troops. A Provisional Government, advises state, has been formed in Burgenland in the ex-Emperor's interest, under Count Julius Andrássy, former Austria-Hungary Foreign Minister.

THE GOVERNMENT RESISTING.

BUDAPEST, Oct. 23. The Hungarian Government while Charles and his army were yet some miles from the capital, was standing firmly against his restoration to the Throne. Government troops soon after the word was received of the former King's intentions to invest or invade Budapest established a line of defence around the town of Bickenwich, fifty miles from Budapest, which is held by regiments recruited from Hapsburg-hating peasants of certain districts. These troops were under stringent orders to prevent the transport of Charles's train and as a precaution rails were torn up. Charles apparently gained some ground as the troops at Komorn who, according to previous report had turned back his train, are now said to have sworn allegiance to him.

CIVIL WAR IN HUNGARY.

VIENNA, Oct. 23. Military forces aggregating several battalions supporting former Emperor Charles of Austria Hungary in his second attempt to regain the Throne in Hungary, have reached Budapest, four miles from the Hungarian capital, where sharp fighting is in progress this afternoon. Admiral Horthy, Regent of Hungary, is reported to be personally leading the troops against Charles.

REFUSE TO STRIKE.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23. Officials of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, freight handlers, express and station employees, with a membership of 350,000, to-night joined the unions which voted not to go on strike by adopting a resolution in which their men are refused authorization to walk out for the time being. The matter will be reconsidered after the Labor Board renders its workings conditions. This action brought the number of rail-workers who will not strike to more than three-fourths of the country's total.

BULGARIAN MINISTER ASSASSINATED.

SOFIA, Oct. 23. Demitron, Bulgarian Minister of War, was assassinated this morning while motoring near Kostend, a resort 43 miles southwest of the city. The chauffeur and two companions were also killed.

COLLINS LEAVES LONDON.

LONDON, Oct. 12. Michael Collins, Finance Minister of Dail Eireann and Delegate to the Conference here left London for Dublin this morning. In the light of the crisis it is regarded as probable that the chief reason for his visit is to inform Eamonn De Valera of the effect of his telegram to Pope Benedict.

STILL HOPEFUL.

LONDON, Oct. 23. With Prime Minister Lloyd George week-ending at his country home at Chequers Court and Michael Collins, head of the Irish delegation in London gone to Dublin, no important developments in the Irish situation are expected until the Conference is resumed on Monday afternoon. That a crisis had been reached was admitted by both sides to-day, but general opinion to-night was that the resentment expressed by British representatives over Eamonn De Valera's message to the Pope would be smoothed over and that negotiations would proceed.

SILESIA CAUSE OF WIRTH'S RESIGNATION.

BERLIN, Oct. 23. The Cabinet, headed by Chancellor Wirth, resigned office on Saturday. In his letter informing President Ebert of his resignation, Chancellor Wirth said the Ministry had assumed responsibility for carrying out the ultimatum of the Allies at a grave moment and that for five months it continued political affairs, animated by desire to regulate the situation between the German Empire and the Allies, and to restore Europe by fulfillment of Treaty obligations. The Cabinet, the latter said, had met heavy demands upon the German people, particularly as regards payment of 1,000,000,000 gold marks on October 31, and had received the Allied acknowledgment of the matter of disarmament, which was effected in the face of great difficulties. After protesting against the decision in regard to the partition of Upper Silesia, Chancellor Wirth's letter adds that "the limits of German capacity, the Cabinet is convinced and the possibility of fulfillment have been materially reduced and that a new situation has therefore arisen for Germany."

Salvage Notes.

All the schooners from Salvage and Bishop's Harbor are now in St. John's discharging their summer's voyages. The last of the fleet, Mr. Theo. Hunter, left this morning.

Mr. John Moss, Bishop's Harbor, went to St. John's by Sunday's Malakoff on his usual autumnal trip.

Mr. Edward Oldford, merchant of Salvage Harbor, is now in St. John's making his fall and winter purchases.

Mr. H. J. Oldford, Salvage, left for St. John's to-day on a brief visit.

Most of the people around here have spent the past few days potato digging; the majority have very good crops, while at Salvage Bay they have from 100 to 150 barrels per family.

Mrs. Ab. Burden left by Friday's Malakoff en route for St. John's, where she will reside during the winter months.

There is a case of typhoid fever in Salvage Harbor at present, the sufferer being Mr. Edward Burden, son of Owen Burden, Esq.

We are glad to record that Mr. Jas. Moss, of Round Head, who was so seriously ill a few days ago is now improving. We hope soon to see him around again.

Our sincere thanks are due to "J.R.B." who in the Advocate of recent date referred so appreciably to some notes of ours published about four (4) months ago. Better late than never."

There is a good sign of fish on the local grounds at present, and on last Wednesday one of the parties out secured as high as two quintals.

Mr. P. J. Humphries, Salvage Bay teacher, is on leave of absence at St. John's, for a few days.

We are glad to note the interest Salvage Bay men take in educational matters. A few days ago they laid the foundation of a new school, material for which they voluntarily secured last winter, one of their number, foreman of the building committee, Mr. Wm. Moss, saving same free of charge. Good luck!

Mr. E. Samson left by Friday's Malakoff for St. John's to undergo hospital treatment for some facial disease.

Congratulations to the S.U.F. on the extension of its Order to Sydney. We trust it is but the augury of increased power and usefulness to the Order.

"Cascarets" for Your Bowels If Headachy, Sick

Get a 10-cent box now. Furred Tongue, Bad Colds, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a barrel. That's the first step to uncleanliness, indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, everything that is sickening. A Cascaret to-night will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

Freemasonry.

CURIOUS LEGENDS AND TRADITIONS.

Freemasonry, which has its branches in every civilized country, has been built up on legend and tradition, and in "Masonic Legends and Traditions" Mr. Dudley Wright has set out some of the traditions, which go back to the start of the world.

One Masonic tradition states that on the occasion of the transgression of our first parents a certain sign or token was used, which has been perpetuated in Royal Arch Masonry.

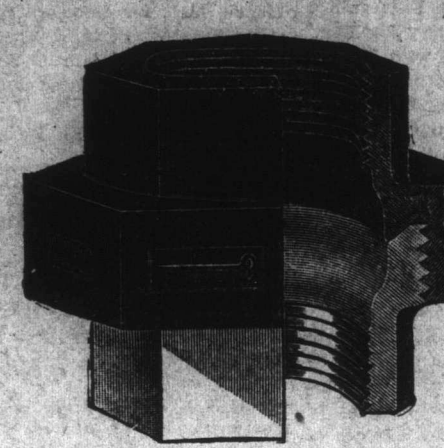

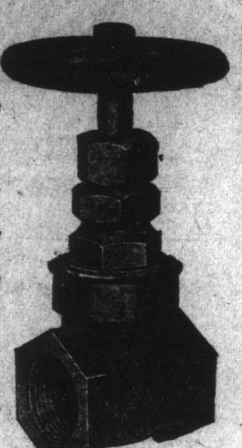

Another Masonic tradition asserts that it was the Sacred Word which expelled our erring first parents from Paradise, which was uttered again at the universal Deluge, and on several occasions manifested itself to the patriarchs Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and also to Moses at the burning bush.

The triangle plays a part in Masonry, and there are many traditions about this—

An old Masonic tradition says that the chains of the Jewish captives in Babylon were of a triangular form, because the Chaldeans, knowing that the Jewish Masons esteemed the triangle as emblematic of the Sacred Name of God, constructed their fetters in that form for the purpose of increasing the mental sufferings of their

Euclid a Mason.
Euclid figures among the other great Masons:—

According to Masonic legend Euclid was Senior Grand Warden to Grand Master Ptolemy Soter, who founded at Alexandria a museum or college of learned men for the improving of philosophy and all other knowledge.

Masonry was introduced into England through France, and Mr. Wright quotes, on this subject, from Anderson's "Book of Constitutions":—

The Royal Art had been preserved much from Gothic ruins, particularly by Charles Martel, King of France, who, according to the old records of Masonry, sent over several expert craftsmen and learned architects into England, at the desire of the Saxon Kings.

Mr. Wright gives a list of the Grand Masters in England since the year 922. Amongst them are: St. Augustine, King Alfred, Edward the Conqueror, Richard Coeur de Lion, Henry VII, Cardinal Wolsey, Thomas Cromwell, James I, Isigo Jones, Charles I, Charles II, Christopher Wren, George IV, Edward VI, and the Duke of Connaught.

Much of the legend of Masonry lies around the Temple of Solomon, which has been practically proved to have been on the site of the present Mosque of Omar.

Another tradition states that the Temple had three foundations, the first of which contained seventy stones—five courses from north to south, and fourteen from east to west. The centre course corresponded to the upright of a cross, whose transverse was formed by two stones, on each side of the eleventh stone, counting from the east end of the upright beam, and the fourth stone from the west.

The work was done so well that the joints could not be discovered when fitted together.

Newfoundland Dinner.

MEMBER NOVIANS AT MCGILL CELEBRATE.

From a late edition of the McGill Star, an excellent newspaper issued by the students of the University, we learn that the McGill Newfoundland Club had a dinner at the Queen's Hotel, Montreal, Oct. 13th. The honored guests of the hour were Arthur Mews, C.M.G., Deputy Colonial Secretary for the Colony, J. W. Morris, B.A., Major W. H. Parsons, M.C., M. A. J. C. Payne, B. Arch. '10 and Capt. C. R. Ayre, Science '08, with C. Parsons, Med. '23, who has been a Rhodes Scholar for Newfoundland, sat with the guests at the head of the festive board.

The meal was partaken of with great delight and the hour profitably spent. The dinner was a success and the success of the Club and the success of the dinner. Other speakers included Mr. A. Mews, C.M.G., Deputy Colonial Secretary, Mr. W. J. Morris, Major Parsons, Capt. C. R. Ayre, Mr. Payne and Mr. C. J. Parsons. The affair was brought to an end with the playing of the National Anthem and the McGill yell.

Grand Dance Carnival.

This big event takes place in the Rink on Wednesday next, October 26th, and promises to be a big success. All arrangements are practically completed, and all who attend are assured of an enjoyable evening. Therefore, be one of the thousands who have made up their minds to take in this big event Wednesday night; the whole town will be there. The Rink will be beautifully decorated for the occasion; the floor will be thoroughly cleaned and waxed, the dressing rooms will be reserved for the masqueraders and chairs will also be put around the dance floor for their convenience during the dance and concert items. Beautiful prizes will be given for the best costumes. See them to-day at A. McNamara's jewelry store; pick your choice. Prices: General admission, 20c.; Masqueraders, 20c.; Numbered Reserved Gallery seats (including admission), 50c. on sale at the Royal Stationery Store to-day. C.C.C. Fall Band will be present and play their very best music and concert numbers. Only 3 days left to get your costume.

Naval Prize Money.

Dear Sir,—Once again we request a small portion of your valuable space for a few words in connection with the matter of the long overdue Prize Money. On the 18th inst., we were favored by an interview with the Prime Minister, and were indeed, received very courteously, and were fortunate in being acquainted with information direct from the Imperial authorities appertaining to the matter of Prize Money. Now, Mr. Editor, for the information of all ex-Naval men we would like to say that information has been received direct from the Admiralty to the effect that the original arrangements made with that institution in the matter are cancelled, and steps will now be taken to pay the men through Admiralty sources. Now, Sir, that in itself is sufficient corroboration to all ex-Naval men to know the Admiralty are taking steps to deal with our Prize Money. And having the knowledge of a private telegram and its contents, we wish to say that the urgent need has been pointed out, and this money will be more highly appreciated by men during the winter months than any other season of the year, and owing to this fact it is very probable that the payment of the first installment may be considered a fait accompli. In conclusion, Mr. Editor, we wish to express our understanding that we are unable to say as to when any or all of the payments will be made. In the meantime we are keeping in touch with direct information from the Imperial authorities. And as soon as further definite information is received we will request you to give it publication for the information of all concerned.

We remain, yours truly,
JOHN RODGERS, Chairman,
FRANK DOHERTY, Secy.
Naval Committee.

Police Court.

Mary Barron, the unfortunate girl who has been brought in for safe-keeping many times during the past few months, again appeared in court this morning, and was ordered to be held over for a doctor's examination. Four men charged with loose and disorderly conduct, were represented by Mr. G. W. B. Ayre, who asked for a postponement, as 24 hours notice had not been given his clients of the summons. The postponement was granted. Three young boys appeared on a similar charge. A window had been broken by one who pleaded guilty and was fined $2. The others pleaded not guilty, and were discharged.

C. C. C. Hold Church Parade.

The C.C.C. Battalion, with the Band and Drum and Bugle squad, numbering over 300, held a Church Parade yesterday, attending Last Mass at the Cathedral. The Corps proceeded to church by way of Long's Hill, Queen's and Military Roads, the band playing appropriate music on the march. The Drum and Bugle Band was particularly admired in their new uniforms. The bass drummer of this squad attracted much attention by his artistic handling of the sticks. Mass was celebrated by Rev. E. J. Rawlins, who afterwards preached a splendid sermon to the lads taking as his text "I am not ashamed of the Gospel," from the Epistle of St. Paul to the Romans. After service a route march was held, and on return to the Armoury Rev. Fr. Pippy addressed the Corps impressing upon the lads the necessity of doing everything possible for the betterment of the Corps, and to keep up their good work and strive hard for the medals that have been presented for the members bringing in the most recruits. The following promotions were announced pending confirmation on the return of Lt.-Col. Conroy: To be Acting Captains, Lieut. A. Lacey, Lieut. N. A. Galway, and Lieut. and Quartermaster T. Christopher; to be Acting Lieut., 2nd Lieut. J. M. Spears. Practically all the Senior Company were on parade, but only those of the Junior Companies who had uniforms participated. It is hoped that within the next month or so to have the Battalion in full kit. The Warrant and Non-Coms. Mess, together with Major O'Grady, Capt. Galway and Lieut. Spears were photographed yesterday at the Holloway Studio.

Will Rigidly Enforce Herring Inspection.

Better Packages Must be used by Herring Packers—Inspectors Will See That Quality is Kept Up. Messrs. E. Coyle and P. Howlett will go to Green Bay this Fall to look after the new pack of herring. The fishermen already have their nets out in several places, and there are indications that the fishery will be a good one. Many packers who lost money in the business the past three or four years, have decided not to venture in this Fall on the usual scale. They will buy conservatively and only at prices that will be sure to allow them a margin of profit. There is a strong insistence on the part of the inspectors this season that the packages must be of a better quality than have generally been used in recent years. Inferior herring barrels have done more to ruin the fishery than any other factor and in order to recover the market, the inspectors have been instructed to condemn all barrels, that in their opinion, are not capable of holding the pickles and keeping the herring good and sound. The fishermen who desire to have this industry kept going have it in their power to do so by offering the herring at reasonable prices, that will enable the exporters to make a fair profit. They also can do much to keep the industry going by packing the herring honestly in good strong barrels that will stand ordinary knocking about without losing their hoops and becoming leaky. We hear that there will be a limited quantity of Scotch Pack put up in Green Bay this Fall but most of the packing will be ordinary, split-Trade Review.

Gower St. Silver Jubilee.

CLOSING SERVICE.

By yesterday's express the Rev. Carl Garland returned to his church in Bangor, Maine, after a strenuous week of service in connection with the Silver Jubilee of Gower St. Church. It was peculiarly fitting that one who had been a scholar in Old Gower St. Sunday School, and a worker in the days of the Tabernacle on the Parade Ground, should have occupied the place of prominence in the Jubilee celebrations, and no better choice could have been made. Mr. Garland was born in Lower Island Cove but spent his youth and young manhood in the city. In the United States he has won for himself a position of usefulness and influence, has proved himself an untiring and successful worker and has won the regard and confidence of his people and his church. He came to St. John's not forgotten, as the invitation gave evidence, but almost unknown to the younger generation. His first audiences were composed mainly of strangers, his closing ones of personal friends. Mr. Garland has left influences and memories behind him that will not be forgotten by the Methodists of the city, when a new generation unites with the younger ones of the present in celebrating Gower Street Golden Jubilee in 1946.

The Rev. Carl Garland is so thorough a Prohibitionist, that to say of him that he kept the best wine for the last might be inadvisable, but his closing words, delivered with such rare delicacy and feeling, evoked in the graceful verbiage, and uttered with an eloquence seldom equaled, exceeded all previous utterances. It was long past the half hour when he left the rostrum to proceed to the station, carrying with him the gratitude, affection and prayers of one of the largest congregations that have assembled in recent years within the walls of Gower St. Church.

A brief address on the workings of Prohibition in the United States he said emphatically, that whilst there were evasions, they were not in enforcement, and despite all that has been said or written by travellers and critics, the law "is as well enforced as any law on the Statute Book" of the Great Republic, Prohibition in this and other lands was faced with four dangers: (1) an ineffective law; (2) an ignorant people; (3) bribe-taking, and illegal gain by rascally officials, and (4) hog-tied Government. Too often laws were made with loop-holes through which astute lawyers could drive the figurative coach and four. The people were refused instruction. Prohibition might be advocated on religious and moral grounds, but to lose it, after once gained, would prove the greatest economic disaster that could befall any people. To derive revenue from the sale of intoxicants, was to draw the life blood from the opened veins of the body politic. It might stimulate for the time, but must enfeeble and eventually destroy. In all lands were found those who were ready to prostitute their offices for gain, and many a swollen fortune had been made during a brief tenure of office. Men such as these needed watching. The worst man in political life is a "good man hog-tied," the man who sacrifices principles to expediency, and rather than breast the current, is content to swim with the tide—the way of least resistance. To make Prohibition a success, he added: (1) Refuse to regard the business as a party political affair, divorce it from all methods of Government; (2) Inform the people; (3) Express your resentment when the law is not enforced, and express it clearly. A good many

Demonstration in Honor of Bell.

TO-NIGHT'S PROGRAMME.

At the meeting of the National Sports Committee on Saturday night all arrangements were finalized for the big parade in honour of Jack Bell—who did so well in the Halifax Marathon last week. To-night, Bell with his manager and trainer, Harvey Thomas, will land at the King's Wharf at 8 o'clock where he will be received by the Premier, Sir R. A. Squires. The parade will then be formed by Mr. W. J. Higgins, Grand Marshal, in the following order:

C.L.B. Band.
G.L.B. Cadets.
Citizens.
Bell and Thomas.
Phelan, Butler and Skirving.
(The Newfoundland Track Team.)
Executive N.S.C.
C.C.C. Band.
C.C.C. Corps.
Motor Cars and Vehicles.
Boy Scouts.
M.G.B. Band.

Other features will be the McGinty-Duggan Band, the famous "Portia" Orchestra, with fireworks display in charge of Councillor Vinicombe, M. H.A., and Mr. Peter O'Mara. The line of March will be:

Water Street, East.
Temperance Street.
Devon Row.
Military Road.
Queen's Road.
Henry Street
to City Hall where Bell will have the welcome of the city extended to him by Major Morris and the Councillors. The parade will then proceed:

Up New Gower Street.
Hamilton Street.
Patrick Street.
Water Street.
Queen's Road.
New Gower Street
to the Majestic Theatre where the hero of the evening will be welcomed home by the public. The main feature of this programme will be the story of the Race which promises to be graphically described by Bell's manager, Mr. Thomas. The cheques for the Sweep-stake prizes will be presented to Messrs. Duke Winter, Edward Skirvington and R. A. Hall, the fortunate holders of the winning tickets.

Both Bell and Thomas arrived at Port side Basques by the Kyle yesterday morning, and were on the incoming express which arrived in the city at 1 p.m. The Athlete and his manager will detain at Donovan's, where they will be entertained at luncheon by the National Sports' Executive and several friends.

Kaiser Ignorant of Army Plans.

VON MOLTKE THOUGHT HIM A BABBLE—VON KLUCK WARNED AGAINST SPEED.

Before the great German rush was made on Paris in 1914 every detail of it had been rehearsed three times at German army manoeuvres. Further, at each rehearsal, the same mistake was made. Von Kluck, who was in command of the right wing, went forward too fast and received from General von Moltke, who was in command, the reprimand: "If you do that when the war begins we will lose." The prophecy was fulfilled.

These revelations are made in the memoirs of von Moltke, which are in the care of Rudolf Steiner, mystic philosopher and the conductor of a college of higher culture at Dornach, near Basle, in Switzerland. After General Moltke's death, Madame von Moltke gave the memoirs to Steiner to be published, but when they were ready for the press an order came from Berlin forbidding their publication. To Jules Sauerwein, of the Mainz Steiner has, however, communicated some of the introductory passages. These show that in the few years preceding the outbreak of the war the German military manoeuvres took the form of complete rehearsals of the march on Paris, only on a slightly smaller scale. Only the military staff and Chancellor Moltke confessed they knew anything about the intention to attack through Belgium. Not even the Kaiser or the German Minister of War knew the exact fall intention, and when Steiner, during Moltke's life, expressed his astonishment to him that the Kaiser did not know, the former commander-in-chief of the German armies replied: "We could never have told him. He was far too much of a babbler and too indiscreet. He would have told all the world."

In a passage of his memoirs the General relates how right up to the last moment the Kaiser believed that England would not fight and would prevent France from doing so. The whole war, he believed, would be on the Eastern frontier and when he had been persuaded to sign the mobilization orders, he wanted them recalled and the troops halted an hour's march from the French and Belgian frontiers. Moltke refused to sign the counter-order and he was not till some hours later that the Kaiser, having received a new telegram from King George he could make no engagement of neutrality, consented to let the military party do as they liked.

When in the real war, von Kluck committed the same error he had made in the manoeuvres and got surrounded, Moltke knew that the war was lost and his health gave way. It was during the period of illness that he wrote his memoirs, of which the German Government still forbids publication.

Wonders of Radium.

EXPERIMENTING WITH GUINEA PIGS.

An interesting discovery in connection with radium emanations, has lately been made by a young Geneva scientist, Dr. Anastas Kotsareff, which may to some extent in course of time replace the use of X-rays in obtaining photographs of the internal organs of the body. Dr. Wassmer, who has recently left the Swiss Radium Institute at Geneva, was the discoverer of a process by which the emanations of radium could be held in solution in liquid substances such as olive oil. Dr. Kotsareff, who was experimenting with guinea pigs in another connection, gave one of the animals a drink of a solution containing radium emanations, and after anaesthetizing it, left a photographic dark slide containing a sensitized plate on its back. This was done in full daylight, the dark slide being left closed. On the plate being developed it was found to give a more or less outline of the animal's backbone. Since then the doctor had taken a number of other photographs by the same method. I have seen the plates and find that they resemble the

No News of Race.

Up to press hour no news had been received of the second Fishing Schr. Trophy Race, between the Lunenburg challenger Bluenose, Capt. Angus Walters, and the Gloucester defender Elsie, Capt. carily X-ray photographs, the outlines being clearly recognisable, but somewhat indistinct (says the "Daily News" Geneva correspondent). A photograph of the throat, stomach, or intestines can be taken after the person has drunk the solution, the plate being merely placed above the part to be photographed during the progress of the solution through the body. For photographs of other parts of the body a local injection is necessary.

British P. O. Savings Bank.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13, 1921.—The British Post Office Bank, which has just completed its 60th year of business, now has 15,000 branches and in 1920 had on balance due its depositors $2,965,000,000. Statistics of the Bank's progress received by the Banker's Trust Company, of New York, from its English Information Service, disclose that the number of depositors has increased from 435 on the opening day in 1861 to 15,500,000 at present, with the addition of over 5,000,000 investors in Government securities obtained through the medium of the Bank. An interesting feature of the Bank's operations was an increase in balance on deposit during the war, a growth which has been continued. In 1915 the amount standing to the credit of depositors was £186,327,584. In 1917 the amount was £203,262,058. The volume of the Bank's transactions is illustrated by 138,412 deposits made in one day, February 27, 1915. The average deposit in that year was £2.68. The total cost of operation in 1917 was £781,409, equivalent to 1.2 percent of the amount of deposits during the year.

Elephants and whales are said to surpass human beings in the weight of their brains. But compared with the weight of their whole body, there are not many animals which can beat man in fact. It may surprise the reader to know that there are animals existing which rank ahead of humanity in the weight of their brains as against that of the whole body.

Many kinds of monkeys, certain members of the squirrel family, and a few of the mouse species, all being small animals, surpass man in brains—so we are told. Any animal, however, which is larger than a man, has no brain which is relatively as large as his.

It would appear that man's mental superiority is due rather to the quality and organization of his brain than to the size.

The usual weight of a man's brain is said to be 49 1/2 ounces, as against a woman's ounces.

A small head is no criterion as to the brains of a person; it depends upon the cerebral convolutions as to one's brain power. Indeed, it is said that large brains do not always denote great mental capacity.

Many celebrated men in the past have possessed brains weighing less than the average of 49 1/2 ounces of mankind generally.

A brain weighing over 60 ounces—said to have been the heaviest known—was the possession of a man who never earned more than forty shillings a week during the whole of his lifetime! Another man who never earned a large sum was said to have a record brain for weight, so that size and weight are nothing to go by!

Fishes' Brain weigh a 3,888th part of the whole of their bodies.

Wool-The total exports this week are 63,722 quintals as follows:—
From Labrador and Outports—By schooner Esther, Hantsburg, Lewis, Flat Island, Labrador, 6,000 quintals to Gibraltar for orders; by schooner Myrtle, Piercey from Messrs. J. Moore, Flat Islands, Labrador, 4,135 quintals to Gibraltar for orders; by schooner Jas. O'Neill from Flat Island, Labrador, Munn & Co., 5,500 quintals to Gibraltar; by schooner Norma B. Strong from Messrs. Strong & Murooli, Little Bay, 4,700 quintals to Malaga; by schooner Marie, Earle & Sons, Fogo, 2,940 quintals to Lisbon; by schooner Iris from Newfoundland Labrador Export Co., 2,250 quintals to Oporto; schooner Armistice from Agents Messrs. Co. St. Anthony, 6,000 quintals to Seattle; by schooner Asquith from Messrs. Lazo & Co., 8,000 quintals to Seattle and by schooner N. Homsen, Newfoundland Labrador Export Co., 2,800 quintals to Oporto.
From St. John's—By schooner J. W. Green from Messrs. Job Bros. & Co., 2,679 quintals to Barbados; by schooner "Dugby" 568 quintals to New York from Messrs. B. M. Shipman and A. Stone.
Cod Oil—There has been a steady improvement in Common Cod Oil and there is a better tone to the market this week. No doubt we have seen the best prices for this oil on the foreign market appear to be in short supply. Inquiries are now coming in for shipment to England and Scotland. We find two large buyers in the market this week, ready to take round lots. We do not look for any sensational advance, but predict a healthy demand during the next month.
Cod Liver Oil—There is no improvement whatever to note in this product. Prices have now got to such a low ebb that the demand is so poor from all quarters that the Refined cod oil business may be said to be completely neglected.
Pork—The market shows no change and continues dull. American advices this week indicate no improvement in the export trade, quotations consequently show little change. The quotations to St. John's are increasing, this week's record being 880 barrels. Ham is quoted here at $35.00, M. Family $24.50, Fat Back and Short Cut $3.00 per barrel wholesale.
Beef—The market is steady at last week's prices. The local demand this week showed considerable activity. Beef prices are to-day attractively low compared with pork, and it looks as if the bulk of the barrelled meat trade will run on beef. The imports this week were 1,941 barrels. Prices are as follows:—Box Flank $28.00. Special Family $27.00 and Boneless $20.00 to $25.00 per barrel wholesale.
Flour—The local market is showing healthy demand. Outport dealers are now arriving, and are looking for the favorite brands. The question of all lower prices is a matter for future consideration, as the requirements of the moment must be attended to. Prices everywhere are coming down and there is no reason why flour should be the only exception. Canada flour has been blessed with a beautiful harvest and farmers are at last finding that they cannot keep up prices in the face of declining markets elsewhere. The S.S. "Manoa" and "Sable I." this week brought in 14,513 barrels.
Molasses—The market for Barbados molasses is firm. Most of the old has been cleared out there, and dealers are now looking forward to the new crop. The imports to St. John's since the season opened last spring up to date, are 6,281 puncheons as compared with 7,170 for same date in 1920. As far as we can learn there is no more to come forward. Prices are still 85 and 90 cents per gallon wholesale.
Sugar—The sugar market continues weak and there is no confidence that the present prices have stabilized with such a demoralized feeling and absence of demand. Prices are forced still further down than in natural. Imports to St. John's are moving better and this week's record was 2,438 barrels, 300 cases and 400 sacks. The prices are lowest for the season, $10.80 for 100 lbs and $11.00 single barrels.
Potatoes—The home-grown crop now being harvested is the best for many years, particularly in Conception Bay, Trinity and Bonavista Bays, and St. George's. The local price is now down to $2.50 and $3.00 according to quality and to $2.00 in the outports. The importation of F.B.I. potatoes has now commenced and will go on briskly till navigation closes. It is said that the prices will be well under $4.00 per sack of 130 pounds.

Hay—The market is steady at last week's prices viz: $51.00 for large this and $52.00 to $53.00 per ton for small. The local stock being large, the importation all the past month was very small, but from this time forward to the close of navigation on the Gulf there will be large imports for winter supply.
Oats—The general opinion amongst importers is that oats have now reached rock bottom and that there is nothing to be gained by holding off from importing. The quotations for mixed oats is down to $3.60 this week and white to 3.95 for large wholesale lots. The Gulf steamers "Sapper" and "Sealer" are bringing large consignments this week indicating that dealers have begun to stock up for the winter requirements.

Producing Your Tea.
 How many people have any idea how the tea they drink is produced? People are so used to buying a packet of tea and using so many spoonfuls in the pot that very few try to find out by what process juicy, green leaves are turned into the dry, black, aromatic stuff we call tea.
 A day in a tea garden in the plucking season would astound most people. First, they would be shown the bushes to be plucked—perfectly fat-topped they should be if they have been well pruned and the plucking so far has been scientifically done—and from the flat top of each bush—numerous shoots, two and three (sometimes four) leaves and a bud, have pushed their way. These it is the job of the coolie women to pick, and they do it at an astonishing rate with both hands going at the same time.
 Twice a day, generally, the leaf is brought in to the weighing shed, and the moment a woman has had her basket weighed the leaf is turned out into the general pile.
 From there it is taken away and spread out in the withering houses—large open structures, each a roof with a number of flat platforms under it, a few feet apart right down to the ground. Over each platform is spread heathen (sack) cloth, and on this the leaf is thinly spread there to remain and wither.
 It is a ticklish job to determine when the leaf is withered to exactly the right degree, and it is not until this has been decided that the manufacture really begins.
 The leaf is rolled in a machine for about 20 minutes—squashed and rolled just as it would be between two boards or the palms of the hand. It is then put through a wire sieve to separate the coarse from the fine leaf.
 Presently these two grades are carried off to the fermenting room—a dark room with cement or tiled floor, kept fairly cool—where it is laid out in squares to ferment. It ferments in a few hours and turns from a bright green to a rusty brown colour.

 After this it is rolled again for a few minutes, and then put into a firing-machine. In this machine it passes on an endless chain, or tray, through a very hot chamber, from which it emerges looking more or less like the tea you see in shops. It is fired two or three times until it is quite dry and, in fact, properly cooked.
 Now begins the sorting. The "sifted" tea is put through a breaker and reduced to workable size; after which it passes through a number of rotary sieves of various meshes, which sort the fine from the coarse.
 In the factory these varieties are packed in special cases and shipped to the agents. Thus they come finally into the hands of the blenders, who are responsible for the tea in the different brands, marks, and names familiarized to you by the packets or cases of tea you buy.—Daily Mail.

The Portuguese Agreement.
 This agreement now being discussed in the daily press is attracting the attention of the whole country.
 The Minister of Marine and Fisheries has been prating all the summer of the wonderful things he could do, and "mixing politics with business" (as our Spanish Government says), to such an extent, that it was a relief when Mr. Morine pulled him up, and showed that his agreement was worthless. The Trade Review has no interest in politics, and looks on these matters wholly from a business point of view. First we must contradict the statement that the merchants and exporters turned Coaker down.
 A person now in town saw the telegram from the Premier to London last winter stating that the Newfoundland Government intended to take the advice of the parties, who had their fish at stake in Oporto and not the advice of any one else in relation to this Portuguese agreement. It was the Government who turned Coaker down, and has been turning him down ever since.

 This time one year ago he was Acting Premier, but it was the Hon. Geo. Shea who was selected this Fall during the Premier's absence, and it is well known that the Government would be glad to be rid of him, as the fishermen all know, who it is "has led them into all their troubles" and the end is not yet.
 Mr. Morine has exposed this agreement from a lawyer's point of view, and has shown up Coaker as not fit for a seat in the "Fourth form."
 From a business point of view when you make these agreements it is to extend your operations, but Coaker signs an agreement whereby the "Internationale" need not carry a stock of over 25,000 quintals of fish at one time, whereas it is well known that our stocks of Newfoundland fish in Portugal have been over 100,000 quintals at one time, and it is quite common to see a stock there of fifty or sixty thousand quintals of fish. This is the agreement that he boasts about that would cut in half our sales in Portugal.—Trade Review.

Brilliant Finale to Closing Scenes at Sydney--"Maple Leaf" Lodge Officers Entertained by Grand Deputation--Final Farewells at North Sydney.

THE NEW LODGE AT WORK.
According to the announcement of the Grand Master made at the institution of "Maple Leaf" Lodge on night, October 4th, a full session of the new Lodge was held on the night of Wednesday, when a large number of candidates made application for admission. These having been accepted, the Red Degree was worked by the Grand Master and his associates, following which a Blue degree meeting was opened and the ceremony of making companions of the Blue carried out, the Lodge finally closing at 3 o'clock on Thursday morning, when the Grand Master handed over all authority to the Worthy Master and Officers of "Maple Leaf" to work their Lodge after the manner of, and in conformity to, the Constitution and Ritual of the Order. Before closing the Deputy Grand Master, on behalf of Grand Lodge, extended an invitation to the W.M. and officers of the "baby" Lodge to be their guests at luncheon at 3 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, as a farewell function. The invitation was accepted. After a few hours rest, brethren turned up to take us around the mines and other points of interest; and while some of the party took a chance on getting wet--for it still rained--others of them went to the Exhibition grounds, and New Waterford, the slummers preferring to take in the sights of Cokovia as eclipsing all other attractions. Missionary work is ever first with the B.U.F.

LUNCHEON AT GROUCHY'S.

At 2.30 the tables turned up, and saying good-bye to our kind hosts of the Atlantic Hotel, Mr. and Mrs. O'Dell, we piled in and "pushed off" for Sydney. The course was O.K. this time, as the Captain took the trouble to prick it off on the chart for the navigators, so we therefore had no difficulty in reaching the port of destination. A call was made at the newspaper offices of the Record and Post to tender thanks for the many courtesies rendered at the hands of the newspaper men, and to express gratitude for the publicity given in the columns of those journals, without which the trip would not have been half advertised. Mutual expressions of goodwill were exchanged and having located the main body at Grouchy's (a Newfoundlandier also) all hands went across the street to a photographic studio, where a group picture was taken of the crowd. Then to lunch, served in the very best style by Mr. Grouchy and his capable aides. A short toast list was gone through at the conclusion, and some very kind exchanges were made. Rev. Edwin Jukes being particularly felicitous in his remarks. At length the time came to say adieu, and very reluctantly we forced ourselves to bid the good brethren of Sydney farewell. But we were not to get rid of them so soon, for a number very kindly saw us to the Ferry wharf and accompanied us back to North Sydney. Notwithstanding the inclement weather, which still kept up, in the order of the "Maple Leaf" boys was not to be cooled, and they "stood by" like the trumps they are until we had embarked on the Kyle for Port aux Basques.

AT NORTH SYDNEY AGAIN.

Our good friends at the Belmont were glad to see us back again, and entertained us so hospitably that we had much ado to say good-bye to them. A duty call was made on Mr. Thomas (the lino man) made in the last article, for which we beg Mr. Thomas' pardon, of the North Sydney Herald to extend thanks to him and his staff for all the kind words they said about us, and for the assistance rendered in publishing reports of our meetings and ceremonies. From the Herald Office we went to the Newfoundland Post Office and received a right royal welcome from Post Master Shano and his efficient staff, Messrs. Dutoit and Evely. Neither was the genial agent of the Reid Company, Mr. Wilcox Spracklin forgotten. He is always on the job, and is without peer in his position. Quite an exciting episode occurred whilst crossing to North Sydney on the "Hygeia." A schooner reaching along under plain sail was just behind and making equal speed with the ferry, when suddenly a black squall came down and obscured the craft for a moment. When next we saw her, her foresail had blown clean from the bolt ropes, and shreds of it were being carried out over the bar. Such was the brand of weather the clerk handed out to us. Luckily not one of the party suffered from mal de mer, all being 'pretty well seasoned.'

GRAND LODGE AT CHANNEL.

The crossing to Port aux Basques from North Sydney was under very favorable conditions, but friends would persist in invading the privacy of our cabin, to talk over the times, consequently we did not get much sleep during the passage; but "falls well that ends well" and the good ship Kyle made dock at the usual time. The other passengers, of course, had to beat it for the train, and pass the customs, but we, not going out on Friday morning, had the privilege of getting the few snozes that count as beauty sleep. Finally, however, we had to rout out and run the gauntlet of the baggage inspectors, which ordeal was successfully passed, and then we were free to do as we pleased, so long as we did not overstep the laws bounds. Having the Magistrate with us made that impossible. Several of the Channel brethren were on the pier to greet us, and very soon we were billeted at that house so well known to the travelling public, Mrs. B. Billard's, where after a solid breakfast, a start was made for Channel. The day was spent in sight seeing and making calls. The Misses Bentham, interested in the Barnado Homes were staying with Magistrate Square, and were ultimately made members of the party, and photographed with the deputation in the garden of the worthy Magistrate. They left by train on Friday night for a mission to Canada, Miss Effe going from the Dominion to New Zealand, whilst Miss Lillian returns to Scarborough. The Rev. Dean Read, Honorary Chaplain of Channel Lodge, showed the deputation through the Church and School buildings. On the wall of the former hangs a handsome brass tablet, inscribed to the memory of Rev. T. A. Goode, who ministered so well and faithfully to the Channel Mission in the early days of the Church there. This tablet was sent by his son, Sir William T. Goode, the titular monarch and director of Austrian finance. An Honor Roll of all the Channel boys who served in both Army and Navy during the great war also adorns the wall. This roll was the gift of Mr. Phillip T. Clement, who served no pains in ornamentally engraving the names of the heroes it contains.

CHANNEL LODGE VISITED.

At 7.30 the same evening, an official visitation was made to Channel Lodge No. 25, the R.W.G.M. and other officers being presented and introduced by the Deputy Grand Master. After the reception of the distinguished visitors, the following address was read by the Secretary, Bro. W. J. Bragg, P.M., Sub-Collector of Customs:--

TO THE RIGHT WORTHY GRAND MASTER AND OFFICERS OF THE SUPREME GRAND LODGE, SOCIETY OF UNITED FISHERMEN.

Right Worthy Sir and Companions: We, the Worthy Master, Officers and Brethren of Channel Lodge, No. 25 most heartily welcome you to Channel. It is a most unexpected honor for us to have the privilege of having you with us this evening in our Lodge Room, but we hasten to assure you that we are more than pleased to think that you stayed off to pay us an official visit; and we hope to prove to you before you leave for St. John's that Channel Lodge appreciates your presence, and extends a hearty welcome to one and all.

We welcome you, first, on account of the work you have undertaken in carrying the flag, bearing the symbols of the Order; the Triangle and Maltese Cross, and planting it in the Dominion of Canada, and we trust that your labors in this respect will not be in vain, but will bear fruit a thousand fold, so that the Order will grow and flourish and extend from harbor to harbor and from shore to shore throughout the whole British Empire, and wherever the Union Jack flies there may we hope to see the banner of the Order waving to the breeze.

We welcome you to our halls and our homes because of the noble principles and high ideals of our beloved Order, of which you are the chief exponents and the final and absolute authority. We hope to benefit much by this visit; by the communications and illustrations we shall receive as a result of the concentration of your superior knowledge on the secret and general working that affect the Society. We shall deem it a privilege to hear the aims and objects of the Order explained by its chief officers, so that the members of this Lodge may become more interested in its work, and that Channel Lodge particularly will derive much lasting benefit from this visit, and be ever ready to support all measures calculated to advance the interests and ensure the future prosperity of the Fraternity.

May you have Divine guidance in all your deliberations; may the Supreme Grand Master of the Universe direct and control your decisions for the higher good, and we trust that we shall all be imbued with those principles of Love, Purity and Fidelity, the three cardinal virtues which are the fundamentals of our Order.

We hope that this present visit is only the beginning of many, and that ere long we shall have the pleasure and gratification of the Supreme Grand Lodge holding an Annual Session at Channel, where "Maple Leaf" Lodge, just instituted by you, will be able to meet representatives from the mother lodges to discuss the future destiny and success of the Society.

Yours fraternally,
ABRAM COFFIN, W.M.
W. J. BRAGG, Sec.
Channel Lodge, No. 25.

The address was received from the Lodge Secretary by the Deputy Grand Master, who presented it to the Grand Master, he in turn passing it to the Grand Secretary for record in the proceedings of Grand Lodge. Making suitable reply to the sentiments of the Channel Brethren, as illustrated in their address, the Grand Master was especially gratified to see such a large muster present on short notice, and was glad that time had allowed to pay a visit to the Westernmost Lodge in the jurisdiction. He hoped that in the near future Channel would become a center of the Order with ramifications extending all along the South Coast and to the North West as well. The day of the S.U.F. was now beginning to dawn. The fact that a new Lodge had that week been established in Cape Breton was proof that there was room for greater expansion, and he hoped to live to see the day when the flag of the Order would wave to the breeze from the Atlantic to the Pacific from Sydney to Vancouver. Short addresses were made by the other Grand Officers, to which, on behalf of the Lodge, Rev. Bro. Read made eloquent reply. Ritual work was next taken up and the Red, White and Blue degrees worked on several candidates, the Lodge closing at an early hour on Saturday morning.

GRAND LODGE SESSION.

Saturday evening the R.W.G.M. called a Grand Lodge session for the purpose of admitting a number of Past Masters and Honorary members of Channel Lodge to Grand membership, when the following were thus honored:--Past Masters Emanuel Bragg, Alex. Chaisson, Emanuel Battiste, W. J. Bragg, William Blackmore, George Battiste, Abram Coffin; for meritorious service, Rev. H. J. Read, Joseph Fugelin, Alex. Battiste, the official visit terminating with the formal closing. The homeward trip was equally as enjoyable as the outward run, no efforts being spared by the train hands to put the party at its ease. From Conductor Lash, the Dining Car stewards, brakemen, sleeping car conductors, and all who had to do with the express, every courtesy was received. The stewards on the Kyle were most assiduous in their attentions, both going and coming, and to all those we have mentioned a great deal of thanks is owing for the success of the outing. The establishment of a Lodge of the Order of United Fishermen in the Dominion of Canada marks a turning point in the history of the Society, and will mean additional work for Grand Lodge. Newfoundlanders who are members of local lodges will no longer have to sever their connection when they go abroad, for the organization of "Maple Leaf" Lodge in Cape Breton is bound to cause a steady increase in applications for other Lodges in the Province of Nova Scotia. Rice Mold with Pineapple

1 envelope Knox Gelatine
1 cup cold water
1/2 cup scalded pineapple juice
1/2 cup sugar

Few grains salt
1 cup cooked rice
1 cup whipped cream
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Soak gelatine in cold water five minutes, and dissolve by standing cup in hot water. Add pineapple juice, sugar and salt to rice. Strain into this the gelatine, and mix thoroughly; cool slightly, and add whipped cream and lemon juice. Turn into mold lined with slices of canned pineapple. Chill, and serve with or without whipped cream. Other fruits may be used in place of pineapple. Note: Knox Acidulated Gelatine, which comes in a blue package, contains an envelope of lemon flavor, which takes the place of lemon juice—saving time, labor and expense.

COMPENSATIONS FOR GROWING OLDER.

When I was a child, like all children, I was in a hurry to grow up. I longed to reach what I considered the prime of life as represented by an elder sister, who was just 20. On the other hand, I did not so much fancy the idea of becoming an elderly person of 40. I imagined people of that age living colorless lives with no look forward to except the aging old age represented by 50.

It is behind you and to have you look forward to, I used to think how much they have to back on." I should have thought that an absurd substitution. As I grew back upon things could be my satisfaction.

Much Water Has Flowed Under the Bridge.

When I went into a restaurant where I had not been for many years, I waited for a woman I had known in college, had met out of touch with, had met for luncheon, and have not seen since. But the thing which made my eyes so absorbing was the fact of all the water that had flowed under the bridge since that meeting. At that meeting that man had spoken to me of a man who had admitted. He was a man, it did not seem probable that the admiration would have been. But since that day his wife has died and my companion married him.

From the consideration of the vast change in her life the years between have brought, my mind flew to another class-mate, who at that time was drifting away at an ill paid job in a bank, with no future ahead of her. Shortly after that she met a young business man who was just at the beginning of what was to be a most successful career, she married him, her life now is full of color, travel and luxury.

There Are Many Figures in These Memory Tapestries.

Then other figures came into the tapestry, this girl's older sister who at that time was so happily and prosperously married that she was the envy of many of us, but who has since passed through unspeakable misery ending in the divorce courts; a friend I met through her and did not even know at the time who has become one of the strongest factors in my friendship; another friend to whom I wrote about the luncheon, who has recently died.

I suppose I could fill pages with the details of the tapestry that unwound itself before me as I sat thinking of the water that had flowed under the bridge since last I sat in that restaurant.

There was some sadness in the memories, some sweetness and an infinite sense of richness.

They Seem to Enjoy Even Sad Memories.

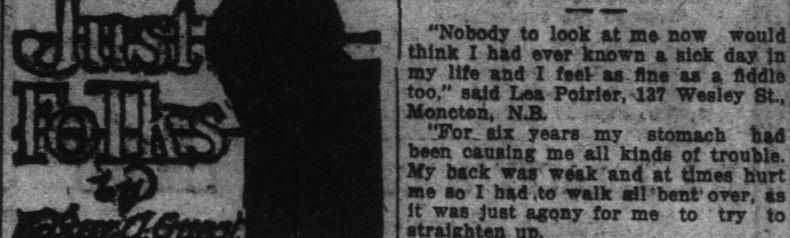

Perhaps as we grow older there is so much sadness that one does not care so much for unrolling the tapestry. And yet I doubt if it for it seems to me that the older people grow the more pleasure they take in their memories.

Surely the sense of richness, of background, is one of the compensations of growing older. And don't you, who are growing older along with me, find it a very real and vital compensation?

To be sure one could never make

New Brunswick Man Says It Was Agony To Straighten Up.

Moncton Resident Walked All Bent Over But Is Now Well And Active.

"Nobody to look at me now would think I had ever known a sick day in my life and I feel as fine as a fiddle too," said Lea-Poirier, 137 Wesley St., Moncton, N.B.

"For six years my stomach had been causing me all kinds of trouble. My back was weak and at times hurt me so I had to walk all bent over, as if I was just agony for me to try to straighten up."

Tanlac has made a clean sweep of all my troubles and I'm like a 'new man now.' I have the appetite of a farm-hand and nothing I eat ever hurts me. The pain has gone out of my back and I can walk as well and as active as I ever could in my life. I firmly believe Tanlac is the best medicine ever made."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

visations to them to attend. The State Department view was that it was incumbent to them to invite the British Empire as a whole, and that the extent to which the Dominions would participate was a matter to be worked out in London and within the Empire. Sentiment is pronounced in this country to the effect that public opinion in Canada, in Australia and the Dominions generally is substantially the sentiment of the United States both as to the settlement of the problems of the Pacific region of the world and as to the limitation of armaments. To have the voice of the colonial part of the conference heard at the conference would, it is believed, be extremely useful. The question of the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance is certain to have an indirect bearing on the result of the conference and the importance of the opposition of the Dominions to renewal of the alliance is by no means overlooked here. The U.S. delegates would be in a position to go much farther if the Anglo-Japanese alliance is to become a dead letter than otherwise.

Whatever may be said of a roseate nature as to the outcome of the conference when officials talk for publication, the difficulties in the way are not overlooked, either by officials or Congress. The fact that President Harding has put his foot down on the idea of taking up the former debt question at the conference is looked on here as indicating that he foresees that the limitations of armaments and the settlement of the Far Eastern problems

The Washington Conference.

DISAPPOINTMENT IN BRITISH DOMINIONS EXCLUDED.

Washington, Oct. 24 (By Canadian Press).—Deep regret and disappointment will be felt not only in Washington but throughout the United States if the voice of Canada and of the British Dominions generally is not heard here at the limitation of armaments conference, and heard strongly. This is true in spite of the fact that the U.S. Government did not extend official in-

Sugar and the Extra Duty.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—It must indeed be gratifying to everybody to find that the price of flour and other food commodities is declining, and to feel that after another short while the "High Cost of Living" will have gone down to some appreciable extent. There is one item of expense, however, that bears unnecessarily heavy on every household at present, and that is the item of sugar.

Granulated Sugar to-day is costing a little over three cents per lb. f.o.b. New York, and the duty on this essential here is roughly six cents per lb. or nearly two hundred per cent. above its actual value. This, of course, is a fearful outrage and should not be allowed to continue indefinitely.

It is a well known fact that the Food Control Board lost over $200,000 of the taxpayers' money by their unwarranted interference with the trade in taking over the Sugar business of the country, and it is equally well known that the Premier Sir R. A. Squires made a promise in the House last session that the one and a half cents per pound extra taxation put on Sugar to offset the blunders of the F.C.B., would be taken off when this amount was recovered through the Custom House.

Considering the very heavy consumption of Sugar of late, and taking into account the very large imports of this commodity, it is only reasonable to think that this loss of $200,000 has been already made up, and I would therefore like to ask the Hon. Mr. Mews, Chairman of the F.C.B. to let the public know if this shortage has been collected, if not when does he expect it to be collected, and when is this one and a half cents per pound likely to be taken off the present duty on this household necessity. I know that it will be only necessary to ask the Hon. Mr. Mews this question, and feel sure that he will be only too glad with his well known courtesy to let the public have an early answer to this important enquiry. Yours truly,
HOUSEHOLDER.

School Team Draw; Goal Disputed.

The Inter-Collegiate Football game played Saturday between the Pelitian and Methodist College teams, ended in a draw, but it is understood that the former intend to protest against the decision of the referee in not counting a goal scored almost instantaneously with the sound of the final whistle. A large number of spectators witnessed the game which, although played under difficult conditions, was nevertheless quite good. Each side obtained one goal but near the end of the game the Pelitians were allowed a corner kick. Just as it was taken, however, the final whistle went and the goal which resulted from a well placed kick was not allowed. The question to be decided, if this decision be protested, is whether the play from a corner kick should be allowed to be finished after the whistle has gone. The point, of course, narrows itself down to a definition of when play ends after such a kick. Mr. Williams of H.M.S. Briton, was referee.

Route Resumed.

S.S. Bornholm has been chartered by Messrs. A. E. Hickman and Co., to replace S.S. Lady of Gaspe which was lost whilst engaged on the Boston, Halifax and St. John's service. The Bornholm will leave on her first trip on November 1st. It will be a great satisfaction to local merchants to know that the service is to be resumed.

Fashions and Fads.

The edging of little silver tabs is a new note in millinery. Many hat brims are short at the back with slashed sides. Fur coats feature chin collar and cuffs of contrasting fur. Velours, duvetine and tweed make equally smart suits. A black crepe frock has a sash and panels of gray crepe. Long, pear-shaped black opals make distinctive earrings. Hats are worn pulled well forward over the wearer's eyes.
