

SIR JOHN THOMPSON DEAD.

Canada's Premier Dies Suddenly While the Guest of the Queen at Windsor Castle.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Sir John S. D. Thompson, Premier of the Dominion of Canada, died suddenly at Windsor this afternoon, shortly after adjournment of the council, which he went to Windsor to attend.

Mr. Thompson went to Windsor in the afternoon, accompanied by the Marquis of Ripon, Mr. Henry Hartley Fowler, Secretary of State for India, and Mr. Arnold Murray, Postmaster-General, and was to have dined with the Queen and remained there over-night.

Sir John Thompson, together with Lord Ripon and Messrs. Fowler and Murray, left Paddington Station for Windsor by a special train at 10.15 p.m.

Sir John had been sworn in as a member of the Queen's Privy Council, and had been in the habit of dining with her at Windsor, when he was suddenly taken ill. Dr. Ellison, surgeon in ordinary to the household, called at the residence, but Sir John was dead before the doctor arrived.

Died in Fifteen Minutes.
It is reported that Sir John died in his first attack, which occurred at 1.30 o'clock, but the improvement in his condition during the night, and the fact that he died in fifteen minutes after the first attack.

Lord Ripon, who helped to support Sir John when he was in his chair, gave him some brandy, which revived him. Believing that the Dominion Premier had recovered, Lord Ripon called at the Windsor station, but before he reached the Windsor station he was overtaken by a messenger, who informed him of Sir John's death.

Had a Fasty Feat.
Sir John Thompson has for some time past suffered from fatty degeneration of the heart, and was also afflicted with an abdominal malady. He was only a few days in London, and consulted a London specialist as to his ailments. The physician gave him to understand that he was in no immediate danger, and being thus reassured he afterwards made short visits to France and Italy.

Sir John had recently complained of ill health, and though on his departure for Windsor, he looked well, he complained of not feeling altogether right, and apparently would have preferred to visit the castle had he not been posted.

The body was removed to the Clarence Tower at Windsor Castle, where it will remain until an inquest is held by the Crown-Coroner.

The Queen Deeply Mourned.
The news of the death of Sir John was broken to the Queen by Sir John McNeill, Her Majesty's Secretary. Her Majesty was deeply moved. She expressed profound regret and sympathy with his widow when the news of the death of Sir John was broken to her. Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian High Commissioner in London, was summoned to Windsor by the Queen's messenger.

Art Disease, Not Apoplexy.
The arrangements for the inquest have not been completed. The whole examination is likely to be private. Reporters will be excluded from the scene.

The consensus of opinion among those best acquainted with Sir John is that he died of heart disease, and not of apoplexy. Dr. Ellison's opinion is virtually to the same effect. He has not, however, perceived the slightest sign of apoplexy and feels almost confident that death was caused by a disease of the heart.

World-Wide Condolences.
The news of Sir John's death spread rapidly in official and private circles in London, and many Canadians and English politicians called at Sir Charles Tupper's office to express their sympathy.

Telegrams from Sir John's relatives in Liverpool, Birmingham and Edinburgh and innumerable messages of condolence and inquiry from London were received in the early evening. Later came a great number of cables from America, and for confirmation of the news, or a more detailed statement of the cause of death.

Art Disease, Not Apoplexy.
The political circle Sir John Thompson's career was the chief topic of conversation. The expressions of opinion were invariably to the effect that he was one of the ablest Canadian statesmen of the last 30 years.

Excitement of the Past Few Days Proves Too Great.
London, Dec. 12.—Sir John Thompson, the Premier of Canada, died here this afternoon, shortly after adjournment of the council, which he went to Windsor to attend.

Excitement Too Much.

When the doctor, hastily summoned, had reached the side of the prostrate man he had found him dead.

Recovered and Arose to Accompany in Russell Reynolds, an eminent specialist, and Dr. Travers, yesterday Sir John called on Lady Tupper, it being her duty to accompany him to the Windsor castle, and to the Governor-General's residence in the afternoon.

Fell into the Doctor's Arms.
In the meantime, Dr. Reid, the Queen's physician, whom I had sent for, arrived. Within two or three minutes of Sir John's return to luncheon, and I believe, before he had taken a couple of whiskeys, he fell into the arms of the doctor, and he was carried to his room, where he died.

Refused to Be Moved.
When Sir John Thompson returned here from Paris there was a desire on the part of his many friends to lionize the Canadian Premier, but Sir John's illness was put forward by him as an excuse in refusing to take part in the many public and private ceremonies which he was invited to attend. However, he accepted an invitation to dine with Lady Tupper at Windsor on Wednesday next.

Queen's Staircase.
Her Majesty was then advised of the sudden death of Sir John and was greatly affected. After this telegram was sent to the residence of the Governor-General in the Sherbrooke-street. "Naturally I am terribly shocked at the news," said His Excellency. Not only because of the position which the late Sir John Thompson held as Prime Minister, but also because we were personal friends. I expect to hear by cable from Sir Charles Tupper regarding funeral arrangements. I have been very busy in connection with the funeral of the late Premier.

Called Lady Thompson.
Sir Charles Tupper communicated the sad intelligence to Lady Thompson at Ottawa, Dec. 12.—Lady Thompson was perhaps one of the last to be informed of Sir John's death.

of Ripon and Lord Rosebery, which were at once transmitted to Hon. Mackenzie Bowell. The ministers refused to be interviewed for publication, but they all speak in the most affectionate terms of their dead colleague.

A State Funeral.
At 3 o'clock all the ministers in town met in council and decided to tender a state funeral, which has been accepted. Hon. Mackenzie Bowell called a committee of the Privy Council and the body and forward it by first steamer to New York, where it will be met by Sir Charles Tupper, the object of the body and forward it to Ottawa, where it will lie in state in the Senate Chamber, and after the funeral ceremony be taken to Halifax for interment.

His Visit to Quebec.
The Premier had a threefold object in his mind when he called on Oct. 31, six weeks ago. He was to see the Governor-General, to see the Queen, and to see the Governor-General. He was to see the Queen, and to see the Governor-General. He was to see the Queen, and to see the Governor-General.

been felt with the objects of that conference, even in the most remote parts of that country.

A good deal has been said about meetings of that kind being characterized by a display of sentiment and emotionality. For my part, I look upon it as one of the great achievements of the conference, one of the great triumphs of the people of Canada.

Nothing could have exceeded the enthusiasm aroused upon the arrival of the fellow-colonists and the Earl of Jersey, as representing Her Majesty's Government. It was felt by our people that Australia, New Zealand, and the Cape Colony, millions of our fellow-colonists were interested as we were in the development of the empire and the mutual trade of the colonies with each other.

One of the great objects of the conference, apart from the trade and commercial arrangements, was to avail ourselves of the opportunities presented by rapid communication between the distant parts of the empire.

Another undertaking was the establishment of a British line of steam communication between the British Isles and the Dominion of the Dominion to the westward.

These are the results which were within a very short time. (Cheers.)

The possibilities with regard to trade with the Dominion of the Dominion to the westward, and in Australia and New Zealand, are very great.

The news of Sir John Thompson's sudden death came as a bolt out of the blue at noon yesterday.

Never, probably, was there any parallel case of a man already rich in honors dying in a Royal palace, immediately after having been elected to the office of Premier of the Dominion.

There was little time yesterday for thought as to the effect the First Minister's death will have upon the fortunes of the party, nor were any entitled to much weight.

The bell of St. James' Cathedral was tolled and flags displayed from public buildings at half-mast in respect for the deceased statesman.

Sir John's Sons En Route to Ottawa. Sir John Thompson's two sons, John and Joseph, were on the train going east last night.

The Ministerial Party Abandon Their Tour. The first news of the death of Sir John Thompson received by the Ministers who were touring through the province, was a despatch from Mr. Macdonald.

Palmerston, thence to Stratford and Toronto, where they arrived at 7 o'clock last night.
