Just as a cry of fire into a crowded church or theatre seems to transform men into animals without a particle of judgment or reason, so in this crisis the great cry set up against President Cleveland and the democratic party has caused the average voter to lose his head and rush pellmell once more into the arms of McKinleylem. It matters not that the cry was unrighteous and without a shadow of foundation; the year. About twenty have received the degrees of the order during the year, about twenty have received. mor, since this time last year. Truly, a mighty turn over! In that state the democratic candidate for governor announced himself in favor of free trade, and that announcement helped to overwhelm him; for the fear of competition from the "pauper labor of Europe" appears to be a perfect nightmare to the people of New England. Ohio, where our old friend McKinley was the republican candidate for governor, the contest assumed almost a national impor-

the republican candidate for governor, the contest assumed almost a national importance. The newspaper spoke of the fight in that state as the last battle over protection. There the contest became largely one between free trade on the one side and pretection on the other, and McKinley's victory has been seemphants and decisive that the is already spoken of as the republican candidate for president in 1896.

All these results will prove disappointing to those people who have hoped that the days of unreasonably high protective tariffs were about over. When President Called and his party made such a clean sweep last year the results was halled as the turned in marriage to be tide, when protection so great an extreme in the adoption of the McKinley tariff, had received its death blow. Now, however, before any change can be made in the McKinley tariff, and received its death blow. Now, however, before any change can be made in the McKinley tariff, and received its death blow. However, President Cleveland is a brave man as well as a wise and far-seeing statesman. He still has three years of office before him, and he is just the man to go on perseveringly with his policy of tariff reform, trusting to the sober second thought of nation to sustain him in so doing. In a few weeks at most we shall know just what changes the democratic party propose to make, as the Committee on Ways and Means the Rev. P. A. MacEwan being the officiating ceremony. The principal parties were Capt. Clement Barkhouse of the schr. Harris, and Miss Addie Saunders, third daughter of the late Major John Saunders, of Paradise. The bride's going away dress was a tasteful costume of green cloth, and she carried a handsome boquet. After partaking of an elegant lunch the happy couple drove to the station, where amid the congratulations of numerous friends they took the evening train en route to line and the heroine is named Evangeline.

NOTICE.—The ladies of the Baptist church at Evergreen intend holding a tea-meeting in Wednesday evening, Nov. 22nd. Tea to Wednesday evening make, as the Committee on Ways and Means which is now preparing a tariff measure will then have completed its work. We shall then be able to discover to what extent the recent republican victories have scared the and prosperous voyage.

During a recent business trip to Kingston and vicinity, in looking in upon some of the patrons of this paper, we were pleased to see many evidences of progress and prosperity in that thriving community. Mrs. Woodbury, at the Village, has a large and varied assortment of goods in her store, ity in that thriving community. Mrs. Woodbury, at the Village, has a large and varied assortment of goods in her store, equal to that to be found in the stores of any of our towns. Mrs. Woodbury was the pioneer in adopting the no-credit system of doing business, and she reports the results most satisfactory. At the station, the stores of T. A. Tufts, J. F. Burns & Co. and George Armstrong are well stocked, each in its nor. iness which is just and fair to both buyer and seller. The man who does a large credit business must from the very nature of things make some losses through bad debts, interest, bank discounts, etc., and in order to recoup himself for these he must place a larger percentage of profit on his goods, larger percentage of profit on his goods, which the prompt paying customer has to pay. Thus the honest customer who pays his bills has also to help pay what the merchant loses through the dishonest customer. Then too the indiscriminate giving of credit on the part of our business men frequently leads to extravagance on the part of the customer, and the purchase of much which he could well do without, and before he is aware of it a heavy store bill has been run up which frequently leads to trouble or inconvenience. It is a very good principle for a man to adopt, to earn his noney before he spends it, instead of spending it first and then trusting to luck to earn it in time to meet the bill. In short the credit system is an evil, which injures both the merchant and his customer as well, and the sooner our business men as a whole realize this fact the betness men as a whole realize this fact the bet- tance of a crutch. ter for all concerned. The advertisements of our Kingston patrons will be found in the proper columns. In NEWFOUNDLAND, where a general elec tion has just taken place, the result is somewhat of a surprise, as the defeat of the government led by Sir William Whiteaway was generally looked for. Instead of this, howhe comes out of the contest sustained by a majority of over two to one. Mr. Morine, formerly of the Spectator, is one of the ten opposition members again returned. He seems to have more than held his own, defeating the ticket headed by Sir Robert Thorburne by over eleven hundred majority. Political parties in Newfoundland do not seem to have any fixed principles, the dividing line between government and opposition being more imaginary than real. In the recent contest both sides made extravagant and unreasonable promises of what would be done in the event of success. If one half the railroads and other public works promised, were to be actually constructed, the ancient colony would as a result be burdened with a debt far beyond what the population of the island could possibly sustain. A Newfoundland despatch to one of the Halifax papers intimates that this may be done, and that the next election may turn on the question of confederation or union with Canada. That is to say, the politicians of the island, in order to keep themselves in power, propose to run the colony into debt, recklessly, and when the burden has become to heavy te carry, they propose to unite ing line between government and opposition recklessly, and when the burden has become to heavy to carry, they propose to unite with us and shift the load on to the Dominion. We trust that should such a time ever come and such a proposition ever be made there will be enough sensible men in the Dominion parliament to prevent its consummation. Canada really has no use for Newfoundland even now. She will surely have much less after the colony has rolled up a great burden of debt, in addition to what she now has.

AN INTERESTING STORY FROM NORFOLK GENERAL DEBILITY AND CHRONIC NEURALGI MADE MISS LIZZIE BENTLEY'S LIFE MISER-ABLE — HER PARENTS FEARED SHE WAS

BACK FROM THE BRINK OF THE GRAVE. From the Simcoe Reformer. Miss Lizzie Bentley is the daughter of Mr. Miss Lizzie Bentley is the daughter of Mr. Ira Bentley, of Waterford, a former well-known resident off-simoce. It is well known that Miss Bentley was long and seriously ill, and it was recently reported that she had fully regained her health and strength. Her case has excited considerable interest in Waterford, and coming to the ears of the Reformer, we felt more than a passing interest in the matter for the reason that for a period of nearly three years, there have been period of nearly three years, there have been from time to time published in our columns, particulars of alleged cures of various serious cases of illness that have been effected cases or illness that have been effected through the use of a remedy known as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. The scenes of these cures have been located in widely scattered portions of the country, it might almost be said of the globe, for some of these stories come from the United States and some from England to such great disand some from England, to such great dis-tances have the proprietors extended the aphere of their usefulness.

It is of course the common idea that the

It is of course the common idea that the age of miracles has long passed, and thousands of people who would not relish a classification among "doubting Thomases," and who are quite ready to believe any long story, so that it does not trespass upon their pre-conceived notions, and what old line physicians tell them of the limits and capabilities of the medical pharmacopoxia, as laid down by the schools, hear with a shrug of the shoulder and a smile of incredulity. of under me pulling away the brush; the other the shoulder and a smile of incredulity, of cases the evidence of which is of so certain a character that no court or jury in the land would question it. Take one of the best known and striking instances of the efficacy but Fill give you one whack just for luck." known and striking instances of the efficacy of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. We refer to the case of Mr. John Marshall. Could any evidence be clearer or more convincing even to a sceptic. Mr. Marshall is a well known citizen of so large a city as Hamilton. He was paid by the Royal Templars of Temporance the sum of one thousand dollars, that being the sum paid by that institution to its members who are proven to the satisfaction of its physicians to have become permanently members who are proven to the satisfaction of its physicians to have become permanently incurable. Every fact in connection with the case was investigated by the Hamilton papers and vouched for by them. Not satisfied to take its evidence at second-hand, the Toronto Globe sent a representative to Hamilton. The result of these investigations was the publication by the Globe of an article in which every claim made by Mr. Marshall and the proprietors of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills was fully conceded, and the "Hamilton"

Pills was fully conceded, and the "Hamilton Micacle" unreservedly endorsed by this great Canadian newspaper.

In a way it reminds us of the story of the great lawyer who attended a prayer meeting. His own views of religion were of the most heterodox character. He went to be amused; he came away with all his preconcived ideas changed. He said: "I heard these men whose word was as good as the at the bastle of Mayand. Bank of England get upon their feet and tell what religion had done for them, not theordeath. In no way is this more painfully illustrated than in surgical operations. A little of it. Were these men in a witness box I would not have the slightest inclination to doubt their word; as a consistent man I was unable to doubt them anywhere else. I had doubted, now I believe."

The man or woman who will give an hour's attention to the evidence that the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company have to submit, must, if able to reason at all, concede that their Pink Pills contain wonderful properties for the amelioration of human ailments.

All these reflections are introductory to neglectoromission extinguishes a life. Grave operations require killed operators to perform them to secure the possibility of recovery. "The beast turned out to be a pantheress She had hidden her cubs somewhere and had taken possession of a nulla or ravine only about a mile from the house. The beaters did not care to go up the ravine after they had located the panther, so I took a dog boy and a man to carry my second gun, and we started ahead. "There was not a sound to be heard save our own movements. We had gone about ten rods up the nulla when there was a half growl, half spit, like that of an angry cat, and the big beast jumped out of the bushes within a yard of my face. "One of the men was on his knees half dropped her in her tracks. "By this time the rest of the beaters had come up, howling over the fate of their comrades. We measured that panther, and found her eight feet long. It was one of the biggest ever killed in that district. The beaters skinned the beast, and I've got the pelt at my home in India now." And he waited for her return. She never came back. -Another story is from the White City; and the fun was for the spectators. "While we were doing the street in Cairo," said a woman just back from Chicago, "severa woman forming a party approached one of the camel drivers and signified a wish to ride. Only one of three, however, persevered in the intention when the moment to mount came. The camel kneeled for his load, the woman seated herself, but no soone did the animal rise to his feet than she, too, repented the action and called out to be let stood no such conduct, and started off.
