POLAND'S POSITION.

With the convoking of the Locarno Conference the black point which appeared on the horizon to everyone was the position which Poland might take. It was recognized that Poland had more serious questions and more possibilities of conflict with Germany than any other nation. It was for that reason that the question of Poland at the Locarno Conference was left until everything else had been settled. It was in December, 1923, that he first approached the United States and Canadian governments in connection with his theories as to the feasibility of harnessing the tide waters of Passamaquoddy Bay. Much preliminary work was necessary before any public announcement of his plans were made, but his efforts finally culminated in the granting of authority by the Maine Legislature to conduct a referendum whileh would permit the marketing beyond the borders of the State of Maine of any surplus power developed. The successful financing of such a large undertaking depended upon an immediately available market for the large amount of power which will be developed on the completion of the pians now laid out. Therefore, it was essential that access be secured to the New England markets as well as to those of Maine and New Brunswick.

ing forward to welcoming Miss Elizabeth writney, former resident of this city, who has spent the last 25 years in mission work in Ceylon, and is expected to arrive on the C. N. R. from Montreal today to remain here until Saturday when she sails for England on her way back to Ceylon.

Miss Whitney is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George W. Whitney, of Saiat John, and her father was for many years connected with J. and A. McMillan. After leaving Saint John Miss Whitney resided in Montreal for a number of years and was well known as an artist. She offered her services to the Church of England in Canada as a missionary in the foreign field when she decided to follow the calling, but at that time the Canadian church could not accept her services and, she went to England and trained for the mission field as a worker under the banner of the English missionary society.

Although she has had furloughs in India this is the first visit she has made in Canada since she behas made in Canada since she began her missionary work in Ceylon 25 years ago. She was in charge of the Church Missionary College at Colombo for some time.
For the last few years she has been in charge of a mission school five miles from any white person, and has had 500 children under her supervision. Her only assistants were natives trained by herself.

Miss Whitney is to give an address in Trinity church hall this evening. While in Saint John she will be the guest of Miss Roberta Robinson, Dorchester street. IN BIRTHDAY HONOR.

Since Nobody Can Tell Beforehand How Any Marriage Will Turn Out, Parents Might Just as Well Stop Se-lecting Sensible Mates for Their Children—Let Them at Least Make Their Own Mistakes.

JUST how far parents are justified in interfering in their children's marriages is a matter of controversy between the two generations that

Doubtless, it began in the patriarchal times when fathers bestowed their sons' wives upon them just as they did their cattle, and the fight has waged merrily down through the ages to these days when father and mother insist on John and Mary giving up the flapper and the cake-eater on whom their fancies had fallen, for the practical and sensible mates they have picked out for them.

Of course, it is perfectly natural for parents to believe that they can make a far better choice of a husband or a wife for their children than the children can for themselves. They feel that their wisdom, their experience, their knowledge of life, even their disillusion with matrimony itself, fits them to make a better selection of a suitable life mate for their son and daughter than the young and ignorant boy and girl could make for themselves.

In particular, do parents feel that they can bring a calm, cool judgment to bear on the matter, for they will not be carried away by any glamour of fleeting physical attraction; they will not be inwith him. Nor will a girl's peaches and cream complexion, and naturally wavy hair convince them that she is the Heaven-destined mate for their John.

No. THE lure of beauty, the ability to do the latest jazz steps, and a cute conversational line, would cut no ice with them. They would get right down to fundamentals, and in picking out Mary's husband, they would select a man because of his high moral character, his ability to make a good living, and his generally quiet and staid demeanor.

The type of husband, you know, that can be guaranteed to give his wife a good closed car and to stand without being hitched.

Likewise, they would select for John a girl who had a bit of money of her own, who belonged to their own social set, who knew how to cook and get the most out of a dollar, and whose mind was set on higher things than having the latest things in clothes and hats and gadding around to parties.

AND you needn't tell mother and father that if John and Mary would go along and marry the nice, sensible, suitable young woman and man they have picked out for them they wouldn't be happier than they will be with the silly girl and boy they have selected for themselves.

But John and Mary reply that, inasmuch as it is they and not father and mother who are going to have to live with the ones they marry, they are the ones to be pleased. Furthermore, that tastes differ and that they do not care any more for mother's and father's tastes in husbands and wives than they do for their taste in clothes, and, as happiness in marriage consists in getting what you want, instead of what you probably should have, they prefer to do their own picking.

All of which is undeniably true. Doubtless parents could select for their children better husbands and wives than they often select for themselves, but the ratio of happiness would not be increased thereby nor would divorces decrease, for so contrarily is human nature constituted that we cannot love to order those whom we should love nor find inspiring companionship in the society of the elect.

Just what it is that fires a woman's fancy in some hopeless detrimental and makes poverty and struggle and even heartaches more worth while with him than riches and a placid existence would be with another man she doesn't know. It just happens that way.

Just what it is in some foolish, frivolous girl, who never learns to keep house and who always keeps her husband's nose on the grindstone that still makes her the most precious thing in the world to him and fills his days with romance, while he would be hored stiff with a domestic woman who was a real helpmate to him, a man can never figure out even to himself. It just is.

And you can't argue with facts, especially with matrimonial facts. A man or a woman has that intangible something you want, that you yourself don't know what it is, or he or she has it not and you are happy if you get it and miserable if you don't get, and that is all there is to it.

A LSO parents forget that the faults that they find so objectionable in a girl or boy their children may not even perceive. The young and the old do not look at things from the same standpoint. They have not the same ideals nor do they judge things by the same standard. Especially is this true now, when the present generation accept as commonplace many of the things which their parents regard as criminal breaches of manners and morals.

The old bugaboos of parents, that of having their children marry out of their class, marry out of their religion, marry a poor man, marry a frivolous girl, mean absolutely nothing to the young who have seen the turn of the wheel that carried aristocrats to the bottom and brought profiteers to the top of the ladder; who have imbibed the broader religious belief of today; who know how to make their own living and do not have to marry for it, and who know that the flapperest flapper often turns into the most domestic of wives.

ALL of this makes it more and more impossible for parents to decide what sorts of wives and husbands will really suit their children. Probably they never did know, for in the few cases where mothers and fathers did succeed in forcing their children to take their choice we see many disasters. We have all seen the rich old man that mother forced on Mamie lose his money and have beheld her bankrupt in heart as well as purse, and we have known many Johns who solated themselves with flirtations on the side as recompense for the homely, dull heiress that father had foisted upon him as a wife.

So since no hody can tell beforehead to so since nobody can tell beforehand how any marriage will turn out, it is just as well for parents to keep their hands off and let their children have at least the pleasure of making their own mistakes.

NEW YORK, March 9-I've seen all sorts of interesting wraps lately. I was quite fascinated, for instance, by Gilda Gray's very smart white raincoat, lined with blue, made by Lelong.

WRONG THINKING.

There was never a greater fallacy. Statistics show that there is a much greater number of widows than widowers in the world. In Montreal alone, there are over 20,000 women who are supporting their children by their own work.

Every year of delayed insurance increases the cost and puts farther away the completion of the premium-paying or endowment period when the benefit of foresight in early life may be reaped.

CHANGE FROM LAST YEAR At dissolution last year the House stood: Liberals, 29; Opposition, 12; Farmers, 7. Many causes contributed to the Conservative victory last August and it would be difficult to say which had the most effect. The electors had it in their minds for a change and the silent vote told heavily. Probably the Grand Falls issue was the most outstanding, the Liberals, with the support of the Farmers, standing out for Government development of the scheme and the Opposition opposing it, contending the people should be given a

She is exposed to all kinds of weather. Her feet are often wet. She suffers from such minor ailments as headache, backache, cramps or pains in her side. When these things are

General Election in Norway Scheduled to Rule on Prohibition Question

Scandinavian countries, which for years have been wrestling with the prohibition problem, are preparing for further developments this year and both the wets and drys are rallying their forces for the fight.

A general election is scheduled in Norway this year to rule definitely on the prohibition of the sale of brandy and other spirits. The prohibition element is strong and claims a certain majority in Parliament, but the wets have been conducting a vigorous campaign, which has found much support in the press.

The present Norwegian law has created more difficulties in enforcement than the Volstead Act in the U.S. It permits the sale of wines and beer containing not more than 21 percent. of alcohol, and under this system distilled spirits can easily be passed under the guise of wine. Smuggling of spirits is widespread, although the government claims to be making headway against the illicit traffic.

For several years Sweden has been under the Bratt system, and the dry element, which once welcomed it, now looks thoon it with disfavor because it does not go far enough.

CANADA-the Birthplace of the Telephone Idea

TN the brief span of a young man's lifetime I the telephone has developed from a crude experiment until it has become an essential part of human equipment.

Today in Canada over 1,000,000 telephones are in use-almost constantly in use. Linking those instruments of communication are miles upon miles of wire running into the hundreds of thousands. Thousands of exchanges, each filled with an intricate maze of wires and equipment, are required to clear the way for the millions of messages transmitted daily by telephone. Thus has

Canada, the birthplace of the telephone idea, utilized this epoch-making invention.

Every advance made by the telephone has been of very practical benefit to Canada. The making of telephones, telephone wires and cables, and telephone exchange equipment is an important Canadian industry. Extensions of telephone service and installing of new exchanges as they are demanded by the needs of business, give employment to thousands of skilled Canadian workers and, in turn, contribute very directly to the prosperity of Canada.

THE EVENING TIMES-STAR, SAINT JOHN, N B., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 10, 1926

N. B. Contenders No Match For N. S. Title Holders

TRURO, N. S., March 9—The Truro Bearcats tonight took a firm hold on the Maritime hockey championship when they defeated Campbellton, champions of New Brunswick and winners over the Abegweits, of Charlottetown, by a score of 6 to 0.

Twenty-five hundred excited fans cheered to the echo as the Nova Scotia champions nosed ahead in the race and steadily increased the lead to a safe margin; safe not only for the first home and home play-off for the 1926 Maritime championship but a lead that will make it almost impossible for Campbellton to overcome in the second game of the series that is to be played at Campbellton on Friday evening.

MURDOCK STARTS SCORE Murdock started the score one min-ute after the whistle in the first frame, and before the end of the game the stalwart defence rolled up five goals with Murdock taking the sixth.

The Campbellton team was outclassed in every point of the game. Unable to get in effective combination, the New Brunswick champions were kept back in their own territory by the checking and stick-handling of Kuhn, Smith and Musdeck

GETS 66 SHOTS

McKenzie, in the New Brunswick net, received 66 shots to handle, while Guinan had things easy with only 11 shots reaching him. The game was not in the same class as others played in the arena this season. However, both teams worked hard. Reliefs were called out frequently, substituting in pairs nearly every time the whistle sounded. Referees Butler and Moore handled the game in fine style, and little time was lost, so quickly did they get the puck moving after a misplay.

The penalties were few, both teams drawing an equal share.

Joe Stecher Wins

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 10— Joe Stecher, claiment of the world wrestling championship, defeated Frank Judson, former Harvard coach, here last night.

Saint John fans will have a chance to see the Trojans, who are preparing for the seni-finals of the Dominion championships, in action on Friday night when they play Acadia University here. Acadia recently defeated the Mount Allison team which gave the Trojans a close game at Sackville earlier in the season.

BY JOE WILLIAMS

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 10.—Speed, rather than savagery, probably will be the tempo to which the glove battle between Gene Tunney and Willie Stribling, to be held here March 12, will be geared.

In other words, Stribling generates entirely too much speed to the square yard to be knocked over for a considerable length of time in a limited-round fight-

Especially by a hitter of the Tunney type, who wears his opponents down scientifically and systematically. Local promoters, who are building an outdoor arena capable of holding 25,000, have advertised the meeting as an elimination contest between

"Dempsey's two foremost challengers." GOOD BATTLE IN PROSPECT IT OUGHT to be a worthwhife fight, but the outcome is not likely to affect the present status, if any, of the dormant heavyweight situation. The most tolerant attitude one can take in regard to Dempsey is that he is in a hesitant mood. If this is so, a spectacular victory by either Tunney or Stribling certainly will not stimulate his desire for immediate

This is an angle which prompts me to believe both Tunney and Stribling will be on their feet at the end of the fight, with their respective reputations as well as their beaks intact and unaltered. I watched Tunney going through his training paces at the fashionable Deauville Casino today. Walter Monaghan, who trained Johnson for the Jeffries fight at Reno in 1910, and Willard for the Dempsey fight at Toledo in 1919, stood with me. What do you think of Tunney?" Monaghan asked me. "A great boxer but not a great hitter," I answered.

"Tunney will surprise the world in another six months," commented the old gray-haired trainer. "He gets better every day, and in that respect he is the most remarkable heavyweight I ever saw. For Tunney, you know, is going on 28 years of age. I think he has improved his punching ability fully 30 per cent. since last spring when he trained here for the Gibbons

"The answer to this is that Tunney is a WORKER. Nothing short of absolute perfection ever will satisfy him. Watch him against Stribling; you will see him hitting with even greater precision and force than he did the night he flattened Gibbons." LOOKS HEAVIER THAN EVER

AS I WATCHED Tunney bringing over a straight right and hooking the bag with a left, I found myself agreeing with Monaghan that Tunney Tunney also looked bigger than at any other time I had seen him, an observation that did not prove misleading. Stepping on the scales after a perspiry ordeal under a beaming sun, Tunney notched the beam at 192

MONTREAL, March 10—Pittsburg's victory over Canadiens, while New York was furnishing an upset in beating the Boston Bruins last night, put a new complexion on the race between the Pirates and Bruins, for the third play-off position in the N. H. L.
As a result of last night's games, Pittsburg, which was practically out of the running, is back on the heels of the Bruins.

If Pittsburg beats Boston Friday night, they will take third place by one point, and the issue would then be left over until next week's games
when Pittsburg is at home to Ottawa
Monday, and Boston concludes its season at home with the Maroons.

went into last night's game with Canadiens tired after their battle the night previous at Ottawa, and apparently with litle hope of catching up to Boston, the general consensus being that the Bruins would have little trouble in beating New York and keeping their three point margin, but when the score board showed New York leading with only a few minutes to go, the Pirates dashed about and before many minutes, the Smokey team had turned an apparent defeat into a 4 to 3 victory.

Candlens had been leading up to the start of the final period, when McCurry batted in a rebound from Darragh and tied the score.

With the score tied, Pittsburg redoubled its efforts. Pete Lepine was forced to trip Darragh, who had got through, and Pete drew a penalty. The Pirates again had the odd man and once more made it count. Darragh led a rush, and whipped a pass to Cotton.

This lanky youth drove a beauty and for the first time in the game Pittsburg was ahead.
