IS MUCH TALKED ABOUT IN LONDON

Lord Esher's Book on Lord Kitchener

Finance of the King's Household—Magna Charta Island—An Old Etonian's Attack on the Modern Young Man—London Topics.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

London, Aug. 18.—Lord Esher's book on Lord Kitchener is almost the sole topic of conversation in Clubland. It has only been published a day or two, but everyone seems to have read it or scanned it already. Lord Esher, during the war, was essentially "the man behind the scenes." He gives us a fairly faithful representation of Lord Kitchener as he really was, as opposed to the Lord Kitchener of public fancy and imagination. Incidentally, he confirms all the stories floating about the clubs in Pall Mall and St. James' for many months past. It is a rather tragic picture that he paints, but it is no secret that Lord Kitchener, to those who knew him, despite his Sphinx-like attitude, his secretiveness and his innate reserve, was anything but the man of iron that was popularly supposed, but was in point of fact a man of the warmest heart imaginable, to whose eyes tears came readily as they came to the eyes of a woman.

That he was surrounded by intrigue was whispered also, but we have the fact set down now for the first time in an authoritative manner. We have his own words quoted on the subject. He was "deadly sick of this system of intrigue." What a commentary on what was happening inside the cabinet during the war! People are asking with real anger and indignation who these intriguers were. Are they still in high places? Are we not entitled to know, and when we learn should we not see that creature who could imperil the successful conduct of the war at such a time should now be hounded out of public life forever? This is the sort of suggestion you are in the smoking room, and it is really meant. But, of course, we shall do nothing of the kind.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT AT FETE

We do not punish the political intriguer. If he intrigues successfully we make him prime minister. Mr. Asquith when he read the book was, I am told, deeply moved by one passage which appears in the volume. Lord Esher gives us a picture of Lord Kitchener in Paris on his way to Gallipoli. "He stood with his back to the fire while the letters were read aloud to him by Fitzgerald. He was standing with bowed head as he listened, and when he raised it, his eyes were full of tears. When he broke the silence he spoke of the dislike felt for him by his colleagues, adding: 'Asquith is my only friend.' It was a glimpse of the real Kitchener—massive, inarticulate, shy and emotional."

King George's Pocket Money. The threatened sale of Runnymede, now happily averted and the sale of other crown property is, I believe, not unconnected with their Majesty's inability to make both ends meet financially under the parliamentary grant they receive now that the prices have soared and reduced the purchasing value of money by more than a half. All that Austen Chamberlain said about the economies effected by the king during the war, which enabled him to hand back substantial sums to the exchequer was fully justified. Despite the enormous sums which were made upon his time he gave many hours of close personal investigation of the accounts which were put before him to see in what directions money could be saved. To suggestions that he should leave this drudgery to others he turned a deaf ear—primarily because he thought that if he were to abdicate by irresponsible hands injustice might be done to old servants and economies would be effected in the wrong way. During the war, he contributed most lavishly to war charities and it is his disinclination to cut down or withdraw his support from these charities which has been held responsible for the deficit to which Mr. Chamberlain made allusion in the House of Commons.

YESTERDAY IN THE CHURCHES

That Canada has an important religious problem on its hands in British Columbia was the statement made by Rt. Rev. Dr. Charles D. Schofield, Anglican bishop of the diocese of Columbia, who occupied the pulpit at evening last night at the Mission church of St. John Baptist. Bishop Schofield told of the deplorable conditions under which many of the Anglican church had priests and catechists at work among both Chinese and Japanese, teaching them English and the rudiments of the Christian religion. Bishop Schofield is a native of St. John, was once an acolyte at the Mission church, and was formerly dean of the cathedral at Fredericton. He is a brother of Mayor Schofield.

SPEAKS HIGHLY OF CANADA

Rev. W. D. Noyes, who is the representative of the Presbyterian denomination in Canada for work among the Chinese, arrived in the city on Friday night, and was met at the station by a delegation of Chinese. Saturday, Mr. Noyes spent visiting the Chinese at their different places of business, familiarizing himself with their problems. He has spent most of his life in China and speaks the language as fluently as English. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Noyes at Central church addressed the members of Trinity churches. He spoke in Chinese for half an hour to those assembled, and told them how Christ welded the nations in one common cause. He then addressed the Sunday school of the church. He expressed himself as delighted to find the development of Chinese missions so far advanced.

O. O. F. YEAR WAS BETTER IN EAST

Not So Good in the Western Provinces.

Reports Submitted Today at Convention of Grand Lodge in Toronto—Maritime Provinces' Membership Gain 19 Per Cent.

Toronto, Sept. 19.—(By Canadian Press)—The general condition of the lodges of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows in Eastern Canada is satisfactory, but several districts in the west the order has not made the progress that its leaders had anticipated.

The grand secretary reported that in 1920 the net increase in the membership was 139,099 subordinate, 54,154 encampment members, and 6,240 Patriarchs Militant.

Mr. Brooks reported "splendid prospects for the year." Initiations for the year in the province numbered 8,842 and the net gain for the year was 2,860.

W. Kennedy, Grand Scribe, reporting for Quebec, said: "I am pleased to report that the forward movement, started during the previous year, continued during 1920, and we were able to report a 15 per cent. gain for the year."

The report from the maritime provinces, submitted by Melville McKean, Grand Scribe, showed a gain of 19 per cent. in membership and said that the finances of the district were flourishing.

A striking photograph of the wreck of the R-38, as it appeared lying in the river Humber at Hull, England.

In parts of the west conditions do not appear to be as satisfactory. "I am greatly disappointed at the showing made," said D. B. Deering, grand secretary for Manitoba.

George M. Baird, grand secretary for Saskatchewan, reported that "due to adverse crop conditions in many sections of the jurisdiction," the progress made had not been so satisfactory as in past years.

In Alberta the membership remained stationary, D. J. McKitterick, grand scribe, reported, but predicted that the prospects were good for a substantial increase this year.

Referring to the present session in Canada, Grand Secretary Kroh said: "When we first met here 41 years ago, our membership was less than 600,000 subordinate members."

Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, of this week being ember days, would be fast days of obligation it was announced in the Catholic churches yesterday.

at times when the pulp mill was drawing heavy debris the high points on Douglas avenue of water."
"The connection would serve no good purpose in practice, for should a break occur on the east side system the pressure obtained in the city from the west side would be less than the head available from Little River reservoir.

Commissioner Frink said that apparently the idea of Mr. Jones and Mr. McNis was to link up the two systems as a permanent idea, while the intention was to have it only as an emergency arrangement. He said that while the bridge people were in the city the pipe should be laid across the bridge so that the connection might be made if necessary. He said the connection would cost only $1400 in addition to the cost of pipe.

Commissioner Thornton agreed with the sentiments of Commissioner Frink. Dr. Frink said if Mr. Jones would not bring in a resolution that the connection be made, he would do so.
It was decided to instruct the city engineer to prepare an estimate of the cost of construction and laying of the pipe, and in the meantime the report lie on the table to the estimate to be submitted, if possible, to tomorrow's meeting of the city council.

Commissioner Thornton was authorized to advertise for tenders for 400 yards of blue cloth for uniforms for the fire police and ferry departments.
Commissioner Thornton said repairs had been completed on all fire stations in the city except No. 6. He said this work was seventy years old and he would like to have plans prepared for a new building. He asked, however, for authority to have repairs made by days work at a cost not to exceed $600. This was passed.

Commissioner Frink presented a list showing the location and ownership of all the poles in the city. Recapitulated, the report gave the numbers owned by various companies as follows: New Brunswick Power Co., 2014; New Brunswick Telephone Co., 1134; Western Union Telegraph Co., 139; 77; owned jointly, 89; unmarked and unclaimed, 304. He said that some of the unmarked ones might belong to the city.

Replying to Dr. Frank, Mr. Bullock said that twenty men were at work making repairs to the approaches to the west side viaduct. They would be ready when the winter season opened.
Commissioner Thornton referred to a contention made by Mr. Fairburn, C. P. R. engineer, published recently, that the city's plans for an overhead bridge were responsible for the present height of the C. P. R. bridge.
It was decided to ask Mr. Fairburn if this statement was correct.
On recommendation of Commissioner Bullock it was decided to award the contract for the laying of the West Side tracks to J. T. Leary for $22,182.

ATHLETIC

A Newfoundland Runner. (St. John's, Nfld., Advocate, Sept. 10.) Jack Bell, Newfoundland's champion ten-mile runner, who has been appointed to represent this country at the Big Herald Marathon on October 3, and Harvey Thomas, his trainer, will leave by tomorrow's express for the blueside city. Bell goes under the auspices of the Newfoundland A. A. A. Last season Bell took part in this race, but owing to illness was unable to finish the course. This year he is in excellent form, has been doing remarkably good time in training and in the various road races here this summer, and there is very little doubt that he is capable of carrying off the trophy. On arrival at Truro he will undergo a special course of training, acclimatize himself to the change of atmosphere, and get in readiness for the contest. Alf Rodgers, who has won this race two years in succession, is again entering and is determined to retain his honors. Bell, however, feels confident of success, and his numerous admirers in the city extend best wishes, while Newfoundlanders in general feel confident that he will be a worthy representative of the Ancient Colony, and all look forward to his reaching the tape a good first.

For Wanderers' Sports. Halifax, Sept. 19.—John Bell, Harvey Shivering, Fred Phelan, and Tom Butler, accompanied by Ernest Goodland and A. H. Thomas, managers, have arrived in Halifax, from St. John's Nfld. to represent Newfoundland in the running events of the Wanderers' Amateur Athletic Club meet next Saturday.

Sports at Grand Bay. A large number of spectators were present at Grand Bay on Saturday afternoon to witness sports held under the auspices of the Grand Bay Outing Association and which marked the close of the season. The sports proved to be interesting and good contests were furnished in the various events. During the afternoon a sale was held and a considerable amount was raised for purposes of the association. In the evening a dance was held in the clubhouse and was much enjoyed by those participating.

Following are the results of the various events: Junior Events. 75 yard dash—Won by Russell Baxter, pair of sneakers. Running broad jump—Won by R. Baxter, 12 ft. 2 in., knife. Running high jump—Won by R. Baxter, 3 ft. 8 in., necktie. 150 yard dash—Won by C. Shaw, 17 secs., pair of sneakers. Distance race—Won by R. McLean, box of chocolates. Ladies' 50 yards dash—Won by Miss A. Stevens, 7 secs., pyrex pie plate.

Senior Events. Standing broad jump—Won by Thos. Robinson, 9 ft. 2 1/2 in., flashlight. 100 yards dash—Won by W. Mackay, 11 1/2 secs., pipe.

Shot put—Won by J. Armstrong, 34 ft. 2 in., pencil. Running high jump—Won by T. Robinson, 4 ft. 9 1/2 in., box of chocolates. Pole vault—Won by A. Doherty, 7 ft. 4 in., safety razor. Standing high jump—Won by R. Armstrong, 4 ft., alarm clock. Running broad jump—Won by T. Robinson, 15 ft. 9 1/2 in., hunting knife. Tug-of-war, married vs. single men for a box of cigars, was won by the single men. The winning team was composed of A. Doherty, P. Hamm, E. Laval, C. Urquhart, R. Armstrong and R. MacEwan.

RING. Kilbane Retains Championship. Ringside, Sept. 18.—Johnny Kilbane, 32 years old and gray haired, successfully defended his title of featherweight champion of the world here yesterday when he knocked out Danny Frush, of Baltimore, in the seventh round of his scheduled 12 round fight, here before 22,000 people.

BOWLING. Alley Record Smashed. The opening week of the Y. M. C. I. bowling season of 1921-22 saw the alley record of 183 sent into the background and a new one of 154 pins for a single string set up by Noel Jenkins. James Smith, of Amherst, had rolled 183 some seasons ago on these alleys and last year Jenkins equalled this but on last Saturday he outdid it by one pin. His high string of Saturday and last year were as follows: 1921. Spa. 18 9 Str. 25 27 Str. 18 63 Str. 20 55 Str. 18 70 Str. 18 100 Str. 18 118 Str. 30 114 Str. 24 138 Str. 16 184

1920. Spa. 20 20 Str. 25 45 Str. 18 63 Str. 9 72 Str. 10 82 Str. 18 100 Str. 18 108 Str. 9 145 Str. 8 183

Jenkins rolls a speedy ball that does good execution for a break and is a good clean-up bowler. He was one of the Y. M. C. I. alley team that last year recovered the championship pin from the Fredericton team on the latter's alleys. Just previous to Jenkins' performance on Saturday afternoon Waldo Reid had put on 135 for the high mark of the season on these alleys. There have been many above the 100 already and there is promise of a season of high scoring.

MEMORIES OF WALLACE ROSS

An Interview With Him in 1879 on His Return from England—Old Time Oarsmen.

(Boston Express, June, 1879.) Wallace Ross, the well-known St. John oarsman, left this city for his home Thursday. A number of gentlemen interested in aquatic in this city, wishing to show Ross their appreciation of him as an oarsman and to give him a hearty welcome on his return from England, tendered him a complimentary testimonial, to take place at the Howard Athenaeum on Monday next, but he declined it. Ross is heavier than he was a year ago and has grown much taller. He has the same young appearance, but is not so backward in his manners. After stating that he was glad to get home, Ross said: "I am going to do no more rowing at present; I am quite young yet—only twenty-three years old next February—and I have already done a good bit of work at the oar. I need a little rest." Speaking of his races with Hanlan at St. John, N. B., and Barrie, Ont., Ross intimated that he had hardly commenced to row when he fell out at St. John, "and in the race at Barrie," said he, "I had him beat, as I led him to the stakes, when I found that I was No. 3 buoy instead of at my own—No. 10—which was nearly two hundred yards away." Returning home to St. John, after rowing in several of the Canadian regattas, Ross made up his mind to visit England and try his luck with the Englishmen. Signing articles, he shipped as carpenter on board the bark Arklow in November last, and after a stormy passage, arrived in London in about forty days. Although he had previously visited England, Ross knew but few people there, and found great difficulty in obtaining a backer. However, he fell into the good graces of Mr. T. B. Whitefoot, editor of the London Sportsman, and that gentleman introduced him to Mr. Charles Bush, a gentleman of leisure and position, and a sportsman withal. Mr. Bush, who, by the way, has one of the finest stables of thoroughbred horses in England, immediately took Ross under his control and placed him in the hands of the world-renowned waterman, Harry Kelley and Geo. Drewitt. Harry Kelley then gave Ross a trial and found that he needed some points in rowing. Ross had not been under the control of Bush long, when a challenge was issued to George Tarryer, who had made the fastest time over the Thames course, but no answer was received. His backers next challenged Lumsden and Nicholson, but without reply. While waiting an answer from Lumsden and Nicholson, Emmett challenged Ross, and this proposition was accepted immediately and the match closed. The race took place, and it is known, was a walk-over for Ross. When questioned why he beat Emmett so badly, Ross replied that "he could not help it," that Emmett quit at a mile. "The water was rough," said he, "and my boat was filling, and I did not dare to take the chance of moving slowly. Emmett led me for a mile, but this was at my will." Ross was asked if he did not think his easy defeat of Emmett was the cause of his not getting on any more matches in England, and he replied that he thought it was. Ross puts great faith in Drewitt as a trainer, and, taking him all in all, thinks he is a shade better than Kelley. Higgins he considers the most finished sculler in the world, but says he commenced rowing too late in life. "In his best days," said Ross, "he was a better man than Elliott is today." Higgins always accompanied Ross in his practice, and they were the best of friends. Ross thinks that the English scullers, ere another year, will all use the patent oarlocks, and that Elliott, Higgins and others have already adopted them, and he could have said hundreds of them. The English oarsmen row shorter strokes than in this country, and the distance from seat to stretcher is longer. The oars are not so wide, and Ross thinks in this they are right—that a narrow oar, about five and a half inches, is better plying with the tide than a wider one. He believes that the idea of wide blades for all scullers is erroneous, and that the width of the oar should be made according to a man's build and strength. In speaking of the English oarsmen, he thinks that they are not up to the standard, and that they have fallen off greatly. He thinks Elliott is a good man, but is not such an one as should be champion. Elliott is of medium height, with immense body, is very strong and is not so finished a sculler as Higgins. In regard to the Hanlan-Elliott race, Wallace says: "Han-lan will win; but, mind you, he won't have as much time to sponge out his boat as he did with Hawdon. That race was a walk-over; he made a fool of Hawdon." Ross, after his race with Emmett, tried to get on a race with all the English scullers, including Boyd and Elliott, and, failing to get on a race, his backer met Hanlan at Newcastle, just previous to the Hanlan-Hawdon race, and offered to make a match for from £100 to £500 a side, the race to be rowed in England. Hanlan's party declined, and said they would row no more matches after the Elliott race, but gave Ross to understand that a race could be had on Toronto Bay. To this proposition Mr. Bush would not accede, as he did not wish to leave home. When asked his opinion as to the merits of Hanlan and Courtney, Ross was emphatic, and said: "Hanlan is the best man in fact, I am sure of it." Ross intimated that Hanlan's backers proposed to match him against Courtney, but he declined the proposition. While in England he was treated fairly, and spent a great deal of time in company with Plaisted. The Bank of New York, in a remarkably thorough survey of changes in wholesale and retail prices, in Forbes Magazine (N. W.). "This substantiates the evidence of the plight in which the American farmer finds himself," he continues. "Many of the commodities he sells are back to pre-war levels, or below, while the goods he buys still stand fifty or one hundred per cent. above the old level. "A comparison of the prices of certain related commodities brings out some interesting facts. Hides have fallen to seventy-six per cent. of 1913 prices, while leather is still at 181 per cent. of the average price of that year. Raw wool, in June, 1921, was selling at a price 104 per cent. of the 1913 average, while worsted serge stood at 214 per cent. of the 1913 price. Raw cotton sold at eighty-seven per cent. of the base price, while cotton print cloths were priced at 123 per cent. of the base. Manufacturers' goods in these particular lines have lagged far behind raw materials in the price decline. This is in part due to the fact that there are elements in manufacturing costs which have not fallen as much as raw material prices, but the discrepancy is of considerable interest.

PRICES STILL OUT OF JOINT

Prices of some things have come back to 1913 levels, some things are now priced below 1913 levels; but, to the consumer's sorrow, many things are still far above the good, old, pre-war levels. Thus, the price relation between different groups is not as it should be; prices are out of joint. "It is noteworthy that of the six commodities now selling at less than their pre-war prices, four—hides, cattle, cotton and corn—are farm products," says Charles Cason, Director of Public Relations of the Chemical National Bank of New York, in a remarkably thorough survey of changes in wholesale and retail prices, in Forbes Magazine (N. W.). "This substantiates the evidence of the plight in which the American farmer finds himself," he continues. "Many of the commodities he sells are back to pre-war levels, or below, while the goods he buys still stand fifty or one hundred per cent. above the old level. "A comparison of the prices of certain related commodities brings out some interesting facts. Hides have fallen to seventy-six per cent. of 1913 prices, while leather is still at 181 per cent. of the average price of that year. Raw wool, in June, 1921, was selling at a price 104 per cent. of the 1913 average, while them all; Elliott, Higgins, Boyd, Nicholson, Blackman, Emmett, Kennedy, Hawdon, Strong—in that order; in fact, I think Spencer can beat Hawdon." Ross acknowledges that he has improved greatly in his style of rowing, and while he has no definite plans for the future regarding match races, it is more than probable that he will row in several regattas during the season.

EASTMOUNT FIRE; APPARATUS FROM CITY GOES OUT

Fire this morning about nine o'clock destroyed the house of Howard Shortliff at Eastmount. Fortunately the furniture and other household effects were saved. The chimney had been burning from the time the early morning fire was lighted in the kitchen stove. Sparks caught on the roof and soon the house was in the grip of a serious blaze. A call was sent to the city for assistance. The chemical engine responded and emptied its tanks on the flames returned to the city. Later the horse drawn engine proceeded to the scene and did much good work in preventing the fire from spreading. It was, the house immediately next door to the Shortliff home caught but the fire was extinguished after some hard work. It is understood that the loss was fairly well covered by insurance.

APPLE TREES AT WESTFIELD IN BLOSSOM ANEW

Nature never ceases to develop its freaks, which is the case of many men to wonder in terms of why and wherefore. This morning when E. R. Machum came to the city he brought with him a sprig from an apple tree at Westfield, bearing perfectly formed blooms. Mr. Machum said that the tree from which he picked the blossoms is not an isolated case, but that the phenomenon is apparent in others. These trees are in the fire district. The fruit on the side of the trees farthest away from the fire was unaffected by the heat while on the near side the apples were baked. It is also on the side next the fire that the blossoms are now appearing.

MULATTO NOT ASKED TO PLEAD

Smiles as He is Arraigned in Police Court.

Held on Suspicion in McAuley Girl Murder Case—Is Handed Over to the Detective Department.

Smiling a good natured smile and apparently unconcerned, John Paris, a mulatto, was arraigned in police court this morning facing a charge of murdering little Sadie McAuley. This is the first tangible result of six weeks of diligent search in many cases of fruitless labor on the part of the detective department. Since the revolting tragedy, which occurred in Riverview Park on Tuesday, August 2, no stone has been left unturned in a search which has spread across the whole continent to bring to justice the perpetrator of the awful deed. Paris was not asked to plead this morning, but given a formal remand and handed over to the detective department.

He had been held for some time on a charge of theft by the Truro police, but it was decided to bring him back to St. John.

It is of interest to note that at the time the little Levine girl was at the police station, whether she had been called to establish the identity or not of a suspect in the McAuley case, Paris was being held there for the Truro police, who saw him, but did not say that he was the man who had lured away and murdered her little companion.

This morning Paris was roughly dressed in a dark suit. He wears a stiff moustache and has a quantity of black hair brushed straight back off his forehead. He gave his age as twenty-eight years.

THEY GO THE CITY BOYS ONE BETTER

Use Kite and Make Parachute Drop from Lofly Height.

While the boys of the city were responsible for the development of the miniature parachute which has been much in evidence during the last few days, it remained for some of the suburban lads to go one better and conduct regular descents, the drop being made from a kite which was flown at one of the C. N. R. summer colonies during the week-end.

The city youngsters delighted themselves by throwing the home-made parachutes into the air and watching them sail gracefully to the ground. The altitude attained apparently did not suit the boys in the open spaces, so they started to set a record for height.

A kite was flown, and after it had reached a good height, a parachute was made in the regulation way, the cloth part being about the size of a man's handkerchief. The string of the kite was passed through two holes near the centre of the cloth and so close together that when the parachute passed along the string its fabric was torn by friction and it was allowed to drop. The parachute was carried from the ground skywards along the string by the wind in the same manner as boys are in the habit of sending paper messages.

ALONG THE RIVER

Those who spent the summer along the river are very reluctant to say good-bye to its pleasures. The Ocopee on Saturday afternoon had a large number of passengers, and these went ashore at Sand Point, Crystal Beach, Carter's Point, Public Landing, and points beyond. There have been more people at Sand Point this season than ever before, and quite a number are still lingering in the cottages. In addition to the Ocopee, the late Saturday evening and early Monday morning trips of the Dream enable people to get up and down.

Yesterday was like a summer day in Long Beach. The thermometer at Public Landing went above seventy in the afternoon, and showers of very heavy rain in the night did not dampen and bracing, and the clearness of the atmosphere made the view of river and hills even more than ordinarily beautiful. People were able to sit in comfort on their verandahs in the glorious moonlight until late last evening.

The apple crop in orchards along the reach is large this year, and of good quality, but there are no proper marketing facilities. The ground under the trees is littered with fruit that goes to the live stock or decays where it is.

A resident near Morrisdale fired at a mouse on Saturday and hit him, but was unable to bring him down.

The Ocopee arrived at Indian town this morning a few minutes after ten o'clock. Lighter traffic enables her to make better time.

A SPORTSMAN'S TALE

Howard R. Garnett of Cannon street is responsible for the following story of real sport. He was spending a few days in the country with his brother, Clifford D. Garnett, who is fish warden in the Black River district. On last Thursday, being caught by the tide, they were forced to mount a cliff some 300 feet high. When they were near the top Clifford turned to direct Howard in his course and stepped on an old log, which caved in. It proved to be a raccoon's den, with five occupants. One of them started to climb up Clifford's leg, inside his trousers, and had to be shot. He stunned another with the butt of his gun. The others attacked a spaniel pup, and in making a blow at them with the gun Clifford hit the pup and knocked it into a bunch of bushes, which proved to contain a hornet's nest, about eighteen inches in diameter. Seizing the two raccoons and the dog, the men moved for the top of the cliff. The stunned coon revived and was put in a bag and brought to Rockwood Park. About a week before this, Clifford Garnett, while eating lunch on the shore of Black River, was attacked by a wild cat, which he shot. A few days ago a bear walked out of the woods in a farm house, frightened away some children who were playing around a swing, and ate the cake they had left. Afterwards the bear killed a cow belonging to another farmer, and is still at large.
