FIRST EDITION. THE EXHIBITION.

HOW THE GREAT SHOW IS PROGRESSING.

A glance at the Exhibition—Features of Interest—Grand Concert and Those Who Took Part in It—The Fireworks—The Great Show in Progress.

The third day of the International fair, the big show has become quite a settled and complete institution and every department now makes a creditable display.

The exhibits are about all in place and are arranged most attractively. Crowds of people who have not yet seen the show are flocking to go again.

All the space in two large exhibition buildings up stairs and down is occupied with attractive displays.

Along the south side of the carriage exhibit is a display of fine iron work, formed of chains, horse shoes and variety scrap iron. There is also a drawing of one of the first class passenger cars manufactured by the firm.

At the southeast corner the buildings a range of tents along the street comes into view and his attention is attracted by many local advertisers to the various wonders which they have collected or arranged as near the great attraction as possible, in order to try for a share of the sight seekers' spare change.

The turnstile record all who enter the exhibition grounds will show yesterday in spite of the threatening state of the weather 2003 persons passed through them.

The first attraction inside the gates is a tent in which is shown the celebrated horse lines which has a maze 14 feet in length. Entering the tent the visitor passes down the press room where the tick of a telegraph instrument keeps time with the beating of the best snappers, who send describing the show.

Walking on to the right a showing of artillery weapons of the present and the past including cannon, cannon balls, a hot shot furnace and muskets, beyond the street attention is attracted to a grand display of electrical apparatus and novelties made by the Toronto Electrical Construction and Supply company.

A. J. Christie in charge, and against the same range of wall are some very handsome wooden mantels executed in cherry ebony and quartered oak by George H. Weston of St. John.

Opposite to these is a grand display of handsome furniture by Mr. John Thorne of the right hand and corner of the building to the left of the new is the beautiful exhibit of fine hats, and those made by D. Magner's Sons of Market Square. This splendid and costly display deserves a special mention which will be found in our notes later.

Glancing to the left at this point the eye turns from the warm and comfortable looking fare to the lofty dome glittering with the finest strands of wicker.

It is a wonder to see the largest display of wicker in that city. This firm occupy a prominent position in the centre of the main floor and their display of wicker and whicker attract the attention of all.

In the exhibit they have Clayton Scotch whiskey, Bushmills Irish and good lock neochampagne, and all that is necessary to amuse them to prove they cannot be equalled.

This firm has two balloons which will make an ascent probably Saturday afternoon. Their monster Clayton balloon will carry 3 passengers. Those who desire to make the ascent will apply to Mr. Tomerond at the stand in the exhibition building. Stanley Spencer, the English sky sailor, will make a drop from the clouds in one of the balloons.

30,000 circuses will be thrown from these balloons each ascension and in every 200 is given a bottle of Clayton more rare old whiskey.

W. H. Thorne & Co's exhibit of scales and hardware first strikes the eye of the entering the new building, and on the wall to the right is the product of Lanter's saw factory show their rows of sharp teeth. These come two great displays of electric plain and fancy and cake of many kinds made by our local manufacturers, Messrs. T. Rankine & Sons, and Messrs. Hamon Bros, the new firm of the North end.

The national washer makes music for the ladies while they draw in long breaths of air filled with the aroma of Messrs. Dearborn & Co's tastefully arranged exhibit of dress and favoring materials. The Island City paint and varnish works of Montreal makes a good display in the next space and opposite it is the St. John ground superintended from W. H. Fowler's City Road mill.

J. A. Whelpley reminds those on pleasure bent of winter being near at hand by a glittering array of skates, which were manufactured at Greenwhich, Kings Co., N.Y.

Two more fine exhibits of saws come next in view, those of Walter Wilson and James Robertson. The exhibit of the latter from the Maritime Saw and Paint Works of this city covers a large space and includes besides some of every description and the best makes, a large variety of paints and varnishes made by the firm. Mr. Robertson's goods have established a great reputation, will bear the closest inspection and are worthy of the special attention and patronage of all who desire any goods in their line.

At the head of the stairs near by is a nicely arranged exhibit of J. A. Wallis & Sons' investigating Moccasin. Then in the Indian house J. F. Coombs makes an attractive display of shells and novelties.

THE CARriage EXHIBIT which takes up the centre of this floor is one of the finest ever seen here. It includes a horse and ladder truck, a horse wagon and a number of horse carts shown by the Bangor Extension Lumber Co. In addition to carriages and sleighs of almost every style manufactured by the St. John firms Kelly & Murphy, H. Edgcombe & Sons, Clark & Son and G. E. Cooper of Fredericton and the following St. John firms: Kelly & Murphy, H. Edgcombe & Sons, Clark & Son and G. E. Cooper of Fredericton and Henderson & Wilson.

SECOND EDITION. HE WASN'T ON A SPEE.

PROOF READER CURRIE EXPLAINS HIS ABSENCE FROM PARK PLACE.

HE SAYS THAT WHEN HE WAS BURNING THE CARTRIDGE HE WAS HITTING IN A BURNING CHAIR OVER 200 YEARS OLD.

New York, Sep. 25.—Sherman Cummins was about today, as usual, on Park Row. He announced that he was not killed in the Park place disaster. He is the proof reader of the Mail and Express who disappeared several days before the accident and was reported to be among the missing.

His wife identified one of the bodies as his, and Typographical Union paid her $140 for funeral expenses. Later the mayor's report paid her $500, and the employees of the Mail and Express collected $64 for her. This she took to Boston, with her little girl, and joined her mother.

Three weeks later Cummins telegraphed from Halifax to a friend in this city, asking that his union travelling card be sent. He was not expected that he had gone on a spree.

"That's all wrong," said Cummins today. "I wasn't on a spree. I had been drinking, though; I'll admit that. You see it was in this way: On Aug. 15, four days before the Park place disaster, I met some friends who were going up to St. John on an excursion. They asked me to go along as a guest. We went on the steamer City of Columbia, and got to Yarmouth on Aug. 20, and then I wrote a letter to my wife, but it seems she never got it. We reached St. John the next day.

"My friends were not going any farther, but I concluded to go further into New Brunswick and see my father and mother, who we up there. I had seen them in 25 years. So I asked one of my friends, who is a lawyer in Jersey City and was coming right home, to stop at the Mail and Express office and tell me when I was. He never turned up.

"When they were buying my corpse in Liverpool cemetery I was sitting in a mahogany chair which I had bought in our family 200 years, and talking over old times. My relatives are big folks up there. One of them is a judge of the supreme court. Finally I got to Halifax, and had $6 in my pocket then. I had $7 I could have had home. As it was, I had to send on for my travelling ticket, so I was not able to make my way back."

Cummins said he had stopped at Boston on his way back long enough to see his wife. He left her there. He did not see any more of his family, but he was notified by an inquest in St. John that his death was from natural causes.

POOR ACCOMMODATION.—The poor accommodation rendered people attending the exhibition last evening by the street cars was a matter of general complaint.

Several hundred people, who had been waiting for one street car for an hour, found only one street car at the terminus and no prospect of any more coming along for over quarter of an hour.

Hundreds of people had to walk home who would have patronized cars if they had been on hand. Street cars connected with the way the street service is conducted by the city.

AGENTS.—A meeting of agents at Toronto yesterday under the auspices of the United States and British American Association, was held at the Hotel Windsor.

The meeting was held at the Hotel Windsor, Toronto, yesterday.

THIRD EDITION. SHOT HER HUSBAND.

THE UNFORTUNATE RESULT OF A FAMILY QUARREL.

But says she did not know the Gun was Loaded.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE. ATON, Mass., Sept. 25.—Eleanor Makepeace was shot by her husband, John, at their home in this town this morning. Makepeace attempted to enter his room, but his wife had locked it. While trying to get into the room, a gun in Mrs. Makepeace's hand was discharged, the shot going through the door and striking her husband near the neck, and killing him.

His wife identified one of the bodies as his, and Typographical Union paid her $140 for funeral expenses. Later the mayor's report paid her $500, and the employees of the Mail and Express collected $64 for her. This she took to Boston, with her little girl, and joined her mother.
