Ottawa, April 9.-Capt. Chas. Ross, | which place they were carried by rail he famous Canadian scout, who suceeded Major "Gat" Howard in command of the Canadian scouts, in a letter to Col. Sherwood, tells how Howard was killed. It is dated Derby, S. while the corps were out reconnoiter-

Berlin, April 9.—It is officially reported that while Dr. Stuebel, of the colonial department of the German foreign office, was in London a mutual agreement was reached between Germany and Great Britain regarding Germany's claims for indemnity for Germans evicted from the Transvaal.

STRATHCONAS PROMOTED. London, April 10 .- The following promotions of officers of Strathcona's Horse are announced by the Gazette: Capt. D. M. Howards and G. W. Cameron to be majors, and Lieutenants R. M. Courteney and J. J. MacDonald to be captains. NEARING THE END.

London, April 10 .- The transferrence of the seat of government of the South African Republic from Pietersburg to Leydsdorp, in the Zoutpansberg by the vice-president, General Schalkburger, indicates the beginning of another and probably the last stage of the South African war. Having made up their minds to resist to the end, the Boer eaders have had a consultation, at which they have formulated their plan of campaign for the coming winter.

Generals Dewet and Botha are reported to have met, after which the latter returned south of the Vaal, and was last heard of at Vrede, in the Vezamelberg, in the northeast corner of the Orange River territory. A British force had been sent from Harrismith with the object of dislodging him, but the result is not yet reported; nor is Gen. Botha's whereabouts stated, though it may be surmised from the fact that the railway between Natal and Johannesburg was attacked at three points on the same

On the railway into the Selati Valley, towards Ledysdorp from Komati-poort, several thousand wagons, forming the rolling stock of the Transvaal railways, were concentrated after the evacuation of Pretoria, ready to be destroyed in the event of a British advance, and by hat road much of the stores landed at Delagoa Bay were sent up to Leydsdorp. brought on a riot that for a time threatened serious results. So angry were the citizens over the traffic that a mob which formed drove the gypsy band from town. The deal which caused all the trouble was the sale of Juanita Costello and Margot Czesh, 16 and 17 years old, by their guardian, Nicholas Karoptkin, a Russian, to a Brazilian, also a member of the band, the price paid being $800. The girls refused to recognize the sale, and threatened their prospective master. The Brazilian then swore out a warrant for Karoptkin, charging him with obtaining money by false pretenses.

A squad of police was found necessary to secure the Russian, who drew a revolver on the officers. The failure to secure an interpreter made it impossible to get evidence against the prisoner, and he was discharged. ### RICE SMILED AND DIED

Valet Jones' Gruesome Details of Rice's Alleged Murder.

Chloroformed the Helpless Old Man, rick? Who Went Into Eternity With a Laugh on His Lips-Story of the $25.000 Check.

New York, April 9.-The commitment proceedings in the case of Albert T. Patrick, who is accused of having caused the death of Wm. Marsh Rice, the aged millionaire, in September last, were resumed before Justice Jerome.

Chas. F. Jones, who was Rice's valet, and who has turned informer, was recalled for cross-examination. Jones said that the stenographic notes taken of the statements made by him at police headquarters after his arrest had not been read over to him. A transcript of the notes was handed to him and he was told to read it carefully. In this statement, Oct. 4, Jones said Rice died a natural death, and that the will dated 1900 was genuine. -

Jones took fully half an hour to read the document and finally said his statements were correctly recorded. A copy of Jones' statement to Assistant District Attorney Osborne in the Tombs, Oct. 28, in which he said Patrick administered chloroform to Rice, was produced, and Jones said it had been read over to him and was substantially correct. Lawyer Moore asked Jones several questions as to his movements during the evening of Sept. 23, the day on which Rice died. Jones said he left Rice's apartments, went to a restaurant and returned again about 6 o'clock after having taken dinner.

"When you got back about 6 o'clock what did you do?" asked Moore. I remained awhile upstairs and then went and telephoned to Patrick." ORDERED TO DO THE MURDER. "Did you see Rice during the time you remained upstairs?" Yes, he was lying in the bed. His eyes were closed as if asleep and he might have been dead at the time.' Then you did not see Rice in life

Jones said he telephoned to Patrick that he was going to send a telegram from Fifty-sixth street and Sixth avenue and telephoned again about 8 o'clock to Patrick, telling him Rice was very ill. When Jones met Patrick Seventh avenue he told him that Rice was sleeping and resting easily. "I told him I expected him to do what he had promised," Jones continued, "and he said he could not, as he had a family of children. He told me that I would have to murder Rice. Patrick gave me a bottle of chloroform and told me to fold a towel, cone shape, with a sponge in the narrow end saturated with chloroform. I returned to the house and Rice was still lying in bed, and I placed the towel and saturated sponge as directed."

RICE'S LAST LAUGH ON EARTH. "You did that?" asked Patrick's

"I did that," replied Jones. Jones was then questioned closely as to Rice's condition when the towel was put over his face, but Jones said he could not say whether Rice's eyes were closed or not, as the room was dark. After he had placed the towel in nosition he went out into the hall and did not return for half an hour. He had a faint recollection of having, while out of the room, heard Rice laugh; otherwise there was no noise in

'After you removed the towel and telephoned Patrick the second time, what occurred?

Jones said the funeral was post-poned until Thursday and told of the arrival of four police officers at the apartments. Jones denied that he had had a conversation with Mr. Osborne in the house of detention, during which Mr. Osborne had threatened to get a magistrate and have him recommitted to the Tombs.

CORROBORATION OF JONES' STORY.

Miss Lillian Scherer, operator for the New York Telephone Company at the Thirty-eighth street exchange office, was called. She handed a slip to Justice Jerome, which showed that a call had een received from some person using the telephone used Ly Lawyer Patrick. She said that the call came in between and 7 o'clock on Sunday, Sept. 23. This is the day Rice dicd. Jones testified that he called up Patrick on the elephone between 6 and 7 o'clock on of Rice's death. Miss Nellie J. Mellett, another operator in the same exchange, identi-fied a slip which showed that Rice's elephone had been connected with the instrument used by Patrick between 8 and 9 o'clock on the same Sinday evening, Sept. 23. There was another call between 10 and 11. Joseph F. Bedell, driver for the American Express Company, testified to having delivered a package addressed to Jones, at the Berkshire apartment house, Aug. 3, 1900. The package came from Galveston, Texas. This testimony was brought in to support the evidence of Jones, who said that he had received poisons in a package from his brother at Galves-THAT $25,000 CHECK.

John H. Wallace, paying teller in the banking house of Swenson & Co., testi-fied that on Sept. 23, 1900, David H. Short presented a check for $25,000, which he asked to have certified. It purported to be drawn by William Marsh Rice. "I took the check," said the witness, "and afterwards compared it with other checks drawn by Mr. Rice. I noticed a discrepancy between the name on the face of the check and the indorsement on the back of it. It was indorsed by Albert T. Patrick, but on the face the letter 'l' was omitted in the word 'Albert.' I handed back the check to Short and said that as it was for a large amount it would be better to have a new one made out. Short went away, but returned half an hour later. Mr. Swenson had arrived in the meantime, and I called Jones on the telephone. I told him about the check, and Jones replied: 'I drew that check; it is all right.' I then told him that Mr. Swenson wanted to speak to Mr. Rice. Later I sent another clerk to again call Mr. Rice to the telephone, and he returned and said Mr. Rice had died the night before. I then handed the check back to Short. Some time later, probably an hour, Mr. Patrick and another man friend Rice died last night.' That is all NOT IN RICE'S HANDWRITING. Mr. Wallace testified that in his opinion the signature on the check was not in Mr. Rice's handwriting. On cross-examination, Teller Wallace came into the office and asked to see Mr. Swenson, and said: 'Our good

He described the difference as being pronounced.

A HEATED SCENE. A feature of the examination of Valet Jones in the day session of the hearing was a line of questioning which led to a heated scent between Frederick House is one of Patrick's lawyers. Previous to Jones' turning states' evidence, Mr. House represented the valet also. By a ruling of the court, Mr. Osborne was allowed to ask the witness what he and Patrick had told their lawyer at their first interview in the Tombs. Jones replied that it was a complete confession of murder, differing not at all from his story at the hearing.

When at last Mr. Moore said, "We are through with the witness," Mr. Osborne, on the rebuttal, leaned back-in his chair, and asked quietly:

Four spikes can be driven in at once; and two men, one at each cylinder, are sufficient. Belleville, April 10.-A severe struggle with burglars, in which Rev. J. C. Hutton, rector of Christ Church, captured one of the men, took place shortly after midnight. A little later Officer McCrudden, accompanied by Rev. Mr. Hutton, who lives near the scene of the robbery, met two of the suspects. Both struggled desperately against arrest, but Mr. Hutton threw one of them down and the officer subdued the other. ### SUGAR BEETS VERSUS WHEAT.

Interesting Statistics Which Show Profits of Beet Culture.

"What Can ! Grow in Place of Wheat?" the Paramount Question With Western Ontario Farmers.

Until a few years back the Ontario farmer depended on wheat as his main crop for making money. If he had a large payment to make on his farm or machinery, or a large score bill, he depended on making it out of wheat, and $1 a bushel was considered a low price. For several years wheat has seldom reached 70c a bushel, which hardly pays expenses. The Ontario farmer sincerely asks the question: What can I grow in place of wheat?" ### PROTEST BY A CLERGYMAN

Open Letter From Rev. Egerton R. Young,

Dealing With the Methodist Book Room and the Publication of Novels-An Old Warning Reiterated.

Rev. A. Carman, D.D., general superintendent of the Methodist Church,

Rev. and Dear Sir,-All Christians or should be, interested in the spiritual as well as in the material development of the church of their love. Every phase of the work that tends to its progress should have their sympathy and cordial co-operation, while everything that tends to its deterioration or decline should be bravely faced and speedily conquered.

There has been for a long time a feeling that is rapidly intensifying in the minds of many of our ministers and laymen, that the character of much of the literature that is being sent out from our book room is neither in harmony with the purposes for which it was originally established, nor does it tend to the religious growth of the individual Christian, or really advance the interests of our Methodism. More than fifty years ago in conference assembled, our forefathers, who established the book room, uttered these impressive words: "Avoid the poisonous literature of the day. Suffer not the useless but oftentimes demoralizing writings to occupy the place of the invaluable works of a Fletcher, Benson, a Clarke, a Watson, or a Wesley. Above all, suffer not the modern romance, or the latest novel, to displace the Bible. In that Book of Books, and in the immense variety of Wesleyan literature, enough will found to interest and improve the immortal mind. With such resources at command, none need ever go to a corrupt fountain. Years after, the following were their words of counsel to the members of "We hope that our wellconducted denominational paper and our book establishment will receive increasing patronage. It is the intention of the managers of that department, by the cheapness and abundant supply of books on experimental and practical religion, to encourage persons to purchase, and thereby subserve, our glorous mission of spreading Scrip-tural holiness over the land."

Coming down some years later in the history of the church, we find the folutterance: "The committee, keeping before them the fact that the establishment has ever been regarded by the conference more as a means for the diffusion of religious literature, and especially that which is truly Wesleyan, than for the securing large pecuniary profits, they are grateful in being able to say that it is steadily successfully answering its end."

Here, in the above statement, we have what was for long years believed in Methodism, that the primary object of the book room was for the exclusive purpose of disseminating religious literature, and not to be a keen competitor with secular publishing houses in the sales of the modern romance, or the latest novel.

the Wesleyan Methodists with the other churches of Methodism, object which they called "secondary," yet an important one, viz., that of securing good financial returns, resulted that year (1857) in a net profit of over master, 5 acres, $400; E. Sontag, 3 $4,700. Yet, this amount, they add, is somewhat less than that of several years back.'

onsidering that the stock or whole investment, then, was not one-tenth of what it is now, the above is a very much more creditable showing than that which the book room has reported for some years past. At that time the book room only represented one of the Methodisms of Canada. Since then it has absorbed in the union the whole of the publishing interests and patronage of all of the uniting bodies, and yet, with all its capital, and the gratuitous services of over two thousand ministers as its agents. vet, with all its enormous capital and its boasts of prosperity, it is only able to hand over to the superannuation fund the paltry sum of $11,000 or $12,000

In these days, when there are great "searchings of heart," and earnest consultations among both ministers and devout laymen to account for the all expenses. In order to induce our sad declension of spirituality in our from $1 to $15 for the best samples of declension? We cannot disguise the sugar beets grown in the county of fact that successful evangelistic serdeclension? If they are people that the week evening services are neglected, and there is but little Sabbath Day services.

Already many reasons have been advanced to account for these sad deelensions, that in many parts of our peloved church are being mourned There is a growing conviction in the minds of many that it is in a large measure owing to the character of the literature which is now supplied to our people, especially that which is furnished for perusal on the Lord's day. Formerly this was carefully looked after. Once, there was a religious publishing house where only such books as were of a helpful religious character were admitted. Canadian Methodism has no such house at pres-

The latest novel or the sensational romance has taken the place of the choice religious books that our fathers and mothers in Methodism gave to their children on the Lord's day, Ministers and Sunday school teachers, as well as godly parents, are feeling their helplessness against this torrent of iniquity. Is not this a sad lament from a father in our city:

"How can I prevent my children from reading these latest novels even on the Sabbath, which they will do instead of going to their Sunday school, when they tell me they are published at the book room, and have on them the name of William Briggs? Surely, it is high time for some one to ask for an explanation. Is it too late to get back to the orpurposes Wilkesbarre, Pa., April 9. - Adam fathers, who in their faith and poverty Rhoads, a well-known man of Pas- started the book room for the spread of sound religious literature among If it could be done, it would cause on. Green. Rose and others do not come and listen to statements so humiliating about the old book room you once loved and guarded so well! Then what will be the thoughts and impressions of the beloved and venerable superannuated ministers of our church, when they hear that a large part of the amounts which they receive are now derived from the sale of sensational novels, although, they were in the active work of the ministry, they were conscientiously denouncing such books as sinful and

Shades of Lang, Ryerson, Sander-

Let the Methodist Church then by all means know if the methods which are now pursued by the book steward are in harmony with the feelings of the masses of the ministers and people of Canadian Methodism. If we are, and it is to be understood that the great purpose for which the Methodist Book Room exists is primarily for making money, then let the services of a trained, successful business layman, at a good salary, be secured. There are some in Toronto, and elsewhere, who are of the opinion that that immense concern, with its interests so extended, could meet every contingency, and yet be easily made to pay over to the superannuation fund not less than twenty thousand dollars a year. But, even with this glittering prospect, would it not be better to get back to first principles? Very sincerely yours, day the heroine of this state. The little frame school building is located in a glade on the bank of the White River, which has been overflowing its banks during the recent thaw. When Miss Cottam arrived at the school house this morning she found the building surrounded by water. For a time she entertained no fears from But the water began to undermine the foundation of the building, and the supports were giving way. The brave teacher closed the school and told the pupils to remain inside the building, plunged into the torrent, which was by this time waist deep, wading to a barn nearby, she secured a horse and a rope. Returning to the building which was now affoat, she fastened one end of the rope to the doorsill and the other end around the horse's neck. Then she headed for dry land, and, after a desperate struggle reached the shore where she fastened the rope to a tree. Then she hailed a farmer who came to her assistance and the thirteen pupils were safely landed.

Senator Dandurand.

Senator Dandurand, of Montreal, was the principal speaker at a banquet given by the young Liberals of Toronto-they are great on banquets, at any rate-on Monday night last. The senator took for his text a recent attack by the Toronto News on the loyalty and language of the French Canadians, in reply to which he spoke as follows:

"It seems to me that a responsible editor, conscious of his responsibility and of his duty to his readers, a patriotic newspaper man, a patriotic journalist, should pause before throwing seeds of discord or suspicion throughout our land. (Applause.) The distance that separates us from here and Montreal is not so considerable but that any man who thinks this country should contain people of goodwill could go there and institute an find if there is anything serious in this charge. If the Evening News sent a representative to Quebec to interview the classes and the masse he would very easily find out that there is no more contented, no more satisfied population or people in Canada than the French-Canadians. (Applause.)

"I venture to affirm that he would come back to Toronto satisfied that there is no section of this country that is more interested in maintaining the present condition than the French-Canadians; that they are as good, as patriotic Canadians as in any other section or any other race in this country. (Loud applause.) The reason is obvious; we are the oldest inhab-ltants of Canada; we have deep roots in this country; we have no single tie with Europe; this is our home. When we leave it to go to a foreign land we do not say that we are going home until we are returning to Canada. Now, the charge goes further. It says that we would desire to fall back under the French flag. This is an insuit to our intelligence. Why should we desire to abandon our freedom, our autonomy, our absolute control of our own affairs, to return to-what? the status of a French colony, which has but the empty honor of a repre-sentative in the Parisian parliament We have here a self-governing colony; we elect our own members of parliament do our own business as we please. And we are expected to throw that to the winds, abandon it, and return to a system in which we would have no control of our own affairs, be governed by a non-responsible government, as the French colonies are! It is absolutely preposter-Let any newspaper man go through the province and he will not find a single French-Canadian so foolish as to think of ever changing our allegiance as we have it today." plause.)

With reference to the question of language, Senator Dandurand made a convincing point when he said, that when traveling in Switzerland last summer, he found a strong patriotic people, speaking three, perhaps four, languages. But he did not hear in the German, Italian or French Switzerland any Swiss accuse his neighbor of being a traitor because he spoke a different language.

The Meaning of Social Work.

Mr. Bernard Bosanquet, an able thinker and distinguished writer, in a of Post Students of University College, Cardiff, discusses the meaning of social work. It is evident that he would like to see the contrast broken down between the theoretical and the practical people; in a sense we should be all theoretical and all practical. standing of principles. There is much in this essay that is suggestive, and we may refer to it again, but in the meantime we are content to note and dwell upon this one thought, that we should all do our part to lessen the gulf between what we call the intellectual and the practical interests of life. and class relations, is not to be set in contrast with the spirit of the true It, too, as an aspect, being an art and science, a clear purpose with reasonable method, there is this against the strength and freshness of human feeling which it embodies. We are not to make our social work victim of the foolish opposition between heart and head. ettained solely by their fusion, and in no other way whatever."

This is a great thought, and worth pondering; feeling alone may produce fanaticism, thought alone mere speculation; but together they do the highest work for the development of the individual and the uplifting of society.

The Free Press and the Armory It is difficult to understand the position taken by the Free Press in deliberately misstating the facts in connection with the acquiring by the Government of a site for the new Armory, and especially difficult when it is so easy to demonstrate the untenable nature of the position taken. Our contemporary yesterday morning declared that reference to the city registry would prove that not one foot of land had been acquired on Dundas street, or elsewhere in the city, for armory purposes. The Free Press evdently did not take the precaution of verifying the accuracy of its statement, or it must have discovered the facts to be as follows. Three deeds are registered in the city registry office which convey to the Government lots, with a total frontage on Dundas street of 211 feet, and with a varying depth of 79 and 155 and 165 feet. The first deed, No. 9,417, executed Dec. 13, 1899, conveys to Her Majesty the Queen a rectangular fot, with frontage of 93 feet on Dundas street and 79 feet on Waterloo street. The second, No. 10,130, is dated Dec. 29, 1900, and the lot conveyed to Her Majesty has 50 feet frontage on Dundas street and a depth of 165 feet. The third deed was executed on Feb. 22, 1901, and conveys to His Majesty the King a lot whose dimensions are 68 feet on Dundas street, thence southerly 115 feet, thence westerly 5 feet, thence southerly 40 feet, thence easterly 73 feet, thence northerly to Dundas street 155 feet, together with a right of way of 10 feet at the south end. When next the Free Press advises a reference to a recognized source of information, it should first be sure that the facts to be found there will support and not, on the contrary, destroy its own contentions.

The Outlook for Japan.

In the survey of the world, given by the Daily News (England), a competent writer deals with the progress made by Japan and the present position of that interesting country. After dealing with the past, he casts a keen, intelligent glance towards the future, and asks the suggestive question, "Are the Japanese for long to go on utilizing the final results of centuries of painful western political and commercial evolution, without themselves suffering more severely than they have done those throes which have hitherto been regarded as the accompaniments of progress?" This writer, who has evidently given close attention to the subject, takes a hopeful view of the situation. He does not profess to be able to answer his own question, and is far from advancing a mere abstract theory. His hopeful view, however, does not spring from mere partiality for those "Britons of the Far East"; four strong reasons he gives in this compact form: "These questions cannot now be answered; but when the gravest view has been taken, four important facts Senator Dandurand gave a graphic remain. The first is, that Japanese sketch of the gradual yet constant statesmen have been able to keep a growth of the Liberal party in Quebec fiery and much tried people in hand in Province during recent years; and he four grave international crises. The playfully hinted that there were few second is, that the personal authority complaints from the Conservatives of the emperor appears little impaired, against either the language or loyalty and may well survive a long period of of the Province of Quebec, so long as commercial depression. The third, that the people voted largely Conservative. there is seemingly no lack of capable, Senator Dandurand is an able public men. The fourth, that despite all round, one likely to be heard of pan, her national debt is very little some day still more prominently. In more than the lowest in Europe, and the Dominion Senate, he is outspoken consequently quite four times less than and fearless, with a certain clearness that of Russia, eight times less than

This student of Japanese life is, then, on the whole, inclined to give a favorable answer to the question: "Is the Japanese character sound, or only a weak one-if the phrase may be pardoned, 'japanned'?" But seeing that things are so unsettled in China, that recent address, before the Association Russia steadily pursues her unhasting, unresting policy of aggression, and that Japan has planned to spend thirty-two million pounds on her navy during the next six years, it is difficult to say what may or may not happen in the Far East. There are no doubt other crises in store, and Japan, that seems to have taken on western civilization so quickly and so easily, will be a keen, clear thinker, pursuing a have to pass through a severe ordeal; consistent course of action, which her career is watched sympathetically springs from his knowledge and under-, by several western nations, but all the ability of her statesmen and the patient self-control of a high-spirited people will be needed in these trying times.

We are tempted to quote one more statement, which tends to strengthen the hope that the Japanese will acquit themselves well: "The precocious and volatile Japanese get on the nerves of many writers in the Far East, but however human and spontaneous, do not the same men often denounce dealing however directly with persons quite as vigorously the Chinese, who are nothing, if they are not slow, grave, conservative? The Japanese merchant has the best reputation, but on the other hand, the leisured and official classes have the credit of possessing souls above money considerations, which is surely something in the east, and in an age in which western aristocracies are succumbing to the temptation of sudden riches; while the work. Nice. April 10 .- The officers of the Russian squadron, which was at Touon last week, landed at Villefranche, and were received by President Loubet yesterday. In the evening President Loubet gave a dinner in their honor.

President Loubet subsequently repaired to the port of Nice, three-quarters of a mile away, where he was welcomed by the Chamber of Commerce and visited the hospitals. He was everywhere warmly greeted. At a banquet later, and replying to a toast to his health, Loubet said the country needed unity and concord, and that the conflicts of interests and the country's increasing wants would end in compromising the future of the nation unless steps were taken to ameliorate social conditions. Private interests must be subordinated to the greater monarchs, inflated by a human pride interests of the nation. The give-andtake principle must become part of the conscience of the nation. The speech

DRAMATIC RELIGION

Demanded by the Twentieth Century-Startling Statement of "The Christian World," an Anglican Organ.

London, April 10.-Staid Church of England men and women are upset in the midst of Eastertide rejoicings over demand of the Christian World "dramatic religion." That long established organ of conservative churchmen devotes its Easter greeting men, and as many rires, is expected to to an earnest plea for a religion "which shall appeal to the eye, the ear and imagination of the people."

It asserts that Christianity enters the twentieth century degenerated into a mere faith for the elite, and that needs a coat of picturesqueness to bring it into touch with the masses. It calls for the rejection of Puritanism and the substitution of some of the spectacular features so common in the Salvation Army. The Christian World goes on to say:

We are face to face with the query whether the current of Protestant conception of religion fully represents hunan need, especially the need of our day. Puritanism with its stern simplicity, its inwardness, its lofty spirituality, is not the religion of the peo-We have refined our idea of worhip, but in so doing we have put it ever farther and more remote from avarage human nature.

RELIGION IS A DRAMA. "Religion is a drama. The apocalypse is essentially dramatic. Had John Bunyan preached the doctrine of 'The Pilgrim's Progress' as a sermon we should hardly have heard of it. He dramatized it, and the story became a world possession. The Salvation Army, the history of which is the most courageous attempt of our time to reach the unchurched masses, has in its methods frankly allied itself with dramatic instinct.

"The simple truth is that under modern methods people have lost religion.

"We have defrauded the masses by offering to their infant souls a pabu-lum only suited to grown-up men. We have made a prodigious blunder in declaring that the mental and moral faculties are the only roads into the kingdom of God, ignoring the highways of men's active and dramatic faculties, along which for ages countless hosts of simpler souls have traveled toward Christ. It must be our task to bridge the gulf which yawns between religion and common life. That task is to find the true nexus between the higher faith and the people's heart, and to lift our civilization with all its wealth of new acquisition once more into the light of God."

Dyspepsia

Is difficult digestion, due to a weakened condition of the stomach and its inability to properly churn the food; or to unhealthy condition of the gastric juice, too much or too little acid, too much or too little pepsin.

Hood's Sarsaparilla relieves all the distressing symptoms of dyspepsia because it promotes the muscular action of the stomach and intestines, aids nature in the manufacture of her own digestive secretions, which are far better than any artificial pepsin, unlocks the bowels, stimulates the kidneys and tones up their mucous membranes.

So prompt is its effect in many cases that it seems to have almost a magic touch.

Begin to take it NOW.

Suffered Everything—"I was trou-bled with dyspepsia, suffered everything but death, could not eat without terrible distress. Since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla eat heartily and I am well." Mrs. Eugens MURPHY, Danbury, Conn.

SPRING ASSIZES HAVE OPENED

Chief Justice Sir Wm. R. Meredith the Presiding Judge.

His Lordship's Address to the Grand Jury-Sifton Murder Case Will Be Opened Today.

The spring assizes and general jail delivery for the county of Middlesex opened at 1 o'clock yesterday before Chief Justice Sir Wm. Ralph Meredith. The first session was a short one, lasting only an hour, which was occupied by the judge's charge to the grand jury, and various applications A pie social was held last evening to the court in reference to the cases on the docket.

In response to an inquiry from the court, as to whether the crown was ready to go on with the Sifton trial, W. R. Riddle, K.C., crown prosecutor, replied that by arrangement both sides would be ready for the trial to go on on Wednesday morning.

I. F. Hellmuth, of Toronto, and T. W. Scandrett, London, counsel for Sifton, were in attendance when the court opened. E. F. B. Johnston, of Toronto, was not in court, but is in the city. The expert medical testimony for the defense will not be brought from Toronto until later in the week. Provincial Detective Wm. Greer is in attendance, in the interests of the crown. He is taking the place of Inspector John Murray, who worked up the case, and who has been seriously Detective Murray took a trip to the Bermudas for his health, but is expected to return within a few days

In opening his charge to the grand jury, Chief Justice Meredith commented unfavorably that one of the jurors summoned had failed to put in an appearance without giving a satisfactory reason for his absence, and he said that the crown officers would be ordered to take steps to punish those who offend in such a manner. The criminal business for the grand jury's consideration, the chief justice pointed out, is light. One is the case of Isaac Kersey, a merchant, of Edy's Mills, charged with obtaining goods under false pretenses from T. B. Escott & Co., of London, by making a service next Monday evening will be in charge of Mr. W. G. Young, of the First Methodist Church. King vs. David Ferguson and Joseph Wrinkle, farmers, their employe, who are charged with the theft of sawlogs, the property of the Cemeron, Dunn Manufacturing Company, The judge briefly outlined Strathroy.

the law in each case. Among the prisoners in the jail would be found several lunatics, some awaiting removal to the asylum. The judge asked that the grand jury inquire in-to the facts of these cases. The law is most unsatisfactory on this point, and it is a shocking thing that these unfortunates should have no place to go but to the common jail, even for the period while their case is under consideration. The law should be changed so that they could be accommodated either in the asylum or the the asylum or not.

The chief justice closed with a reference to the duties of the jury in visiting the jail, the hospital, the asylum and other public institutions. The grand jury then retired. Mark Walker, of Mosa township, was elected foreman of the jury.

Counsel for Thomas Ratcliffe, Mr. Bartram, made a motion before his lordship for a written direction to prefer a bill of indictment for perjury against James Burns before the grand jury at the present assizes. Mr. Bartram reviewed the proceedings before the police magistrate, and the acquittal of the defendant, notwithtsanding objection to his jurisdiction on the ground of the defendant being a client of the crown attorney, and without member of the executive should find calling upon Burns for his defense, although the evidence of Ratcliffe was corroborated by letters of the defendant. He then stated the result of an application to the court of appeal, which had declined to decide the question of jurisdiction under section 791 of the code, and intanated that the defendant might still be tried; also the judgment of the high court of justice refusing to decide the question of absolute jurisdiction. Mr. Bartram then said that either the defendant should be tried for perjury or the police magistrate put on trial for misconduct in acquitting the defendant. As otherwise the police magistrate was irresponsible to the law, there being no appeal in ordinary cases of summary conviction. The chief justice refused the application on the ground that the defendant had been tried and acquitted, and that he would not direct an indictment to settle a point of law. Mr. J. M. McEvoy asked leave to transfer the case of Brennan vs. Harding & Leathorn from the non-jury to the jury list of civil cases. Leave to erve jury notice was granted. The case of McNully vs. Janes, acion for $2,000 damages for injuries sustained in defendant's employ, was settled out of court for $200. The case of Beaton vs. the G. T. R has been settled out of court.

C. Gunn was counsel for the plaintiff. Barrister R. K. Cowan asked that the case of Corp vs. the North American Life Insurance Company be transferred to the non-jury sittings June 9, or to a non-jury sitting of the county court. Chief Justice Meredith being an officer of the defendant company, he has no power to try the action. The case was postponed.

THE ELECTION IN NORTH BRUCE

Silly Roorbachs Started by a Soldier Who Was in the Halifax Garrison— Nipissing Case Dismissed.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa April 9 .- A letter received at the militia department from a North Bruce town states that a soldier who had been in the Halifax garrison has continued to wear his uniform there, and has alleged that the food he got at Halifaxwas hay, bran and sawdust. It is further alleged that this cry was used against the government candidate in the North Bruce election.

It is pointed out here in repudiation of the food charge that the regulations require a daily issue of meat, bread, or biscuit; sugar, salt, potatoes, barley, coffee, tea, pepper, cheese, to the members of the garrison.

The letter also alleges that the soldier in question, attired in uniform, led a political procession, and has been in several attractions, also having once been fined before a magistrate.

THE NIPISSING CASE DISMISSED. Toronto, April 9.-Chancellor Boyd and Mr. Justice MacMahon this morning gave judgment in the Nipissing election case, in which Mr. J. B. Klock, the Conservative candidate, sued for the seat on the ground that Sheriff Varin had conspired with others to delay the election, and so promote the return of Mr. McCool, the Liberal candidate. The judge dismissed the case on the statement made that the election was properly postponed. Chancellor Boyd said it was unne cessary to prosecute the trial further to unearth the vague conspiracy hinted Its presence or absence would not affect the election. Costs in the case so far were given against Mr. Klock, the petitioner.

The fact that the crime if crime there was, was the awful deed of fratricide, the fact that the alleged accomplice of the accused has already pleaded guilty to the murder waiting to be tried, itself an unprecedented circumstance in the criminal history of the country, and the fact that the outcome of a civil suit has virtually branded as a forger and perjurer the man whose statements first led to the arrest of the accused, and on whose evidence the crown largely rested its case, all combine to make this case one which will be recorded in the list of celebrated Canadian trials, with the Birchall trial, the Hyams trial and other cases which were watched with interest not only in the Dominion itself but in the United States and the English-speak-

Clifton went out from his home greatly depressed by the unhappy interview with his father; but he was none the less determined to be true to the girl he loved. "My own darling," he murmured, fondly, as he walked toward his lonely boarding-place, "if he could only know you as I know you, he would be only too proud to welcome you as a memoer of his family."

But he well knew that his haughty.

when Clifton repaired to Mr. Nor-wood's office the next morning there was a grave and preoccupied look on his face. His employer at once noticed it, and, after observing him with quiet curiosity for awhile, he remarked in an off-hand manner:

"A young lady of my acquaintance, who

"Yes, and German," said Clifton, eagerly.
"She is musical, also, and has graduated from a normal art school."

sat quietly considering for a few moments and then inquired:
"I wonder if the young lady would be willing to accept a position as companion to an elderly lady?"
"I do not know," the young man replied. "She has fitted herself to be a know her very long. She is very agreeable, however."

"Of course she is agreeable to the young scamp, if he is in love with her," was Mr. Norwood's inward comment. Then he remarked aloud:

"Well this aunt of mine requires some one who possesses both of these qualifications, for she is rather peculiar in some ways. She is really no relation to me, although we call her aunt. She is connected with our family only by marriage, her mother having been my grandfatner's second wife, whom he married late in life. She is not very much older than I, having been a child of three when her mother came into the family. Both of her parents were French people, and she laherited a large fortune from her father. After my grandfather's death, his wife, with her daughter, returned to her former home in St. Sauvern, where she lived until her death, turned to her former home in St. Sattveur, where she lived until her death, and where Aunt Felice-or rather. Madame Felice Marton, as she is called, still resides. She speaks French mostly, although she knows English, and that was why I asked you if Miss Livingstone knew the language. If you think she would like the position, I am sure there will be no doubt about my obtaining it for her; that is, of course, if the two are pleased with each other," the gentleman concluded, as he flashed a searching glance at his companion.

"What would be her duties?" Clifton inquired, but thinking with some dismay, that it would be a great trial to have Shirley go so far away, yet feeling that he ought not to stand in her way of obtaining a pleasant home and a remunerative position.

"Well, I suppose all that the word companion implies." Mr. Norwood answered.

"Madame Marton must be waited upon and amused. She is quite literary in her tastes, and likes the works of the best authors read to her. She is fond of music, so her companion must, preforce, be musical. She travels a great deal, and of course desires intelligent and agreeable companionship.

"Will I be presuming for me to inquire if Madame Marton herself is patient and good-natured?" Clifton asked with a smile.

Mr. Norwood laughed outright at this question.

"Well, I am bound to confess that Aunt Felice is somewhat peculiar," he responded. "Having lived so long by and wholly for herself, it is only to be expected that she should have become rather opinionated; while, although her name implies to the contrary, she is at times inclined to be a trifle morbid rather than happy. Still, on the whole, she is not a disagreeable woman to live with, and, when she takes to a person, she has been known to be quite devoted and indulgent. She lives elegantly, and pays well for the services of her companion; therefore, you will see that any one occupying the position would enjoy many advantages."

At any rate, it would do no harm for Shirley to try it, if she was so disposed, for two or three months; when, if she did not like it, she could seek a position as governess. "I will speak to Miss Livingstone, and if she thinks favorably of the proposition, I will confer with you again," Clifton observed, as he took up his pen to resume his work.

"Madame Marton will be in New York within a few days, when Miss Livingstone can meet her at my house, if she should desire an interview." Mr. Norwood observed, as he arose and left the office, chuckling to himself over the success with which his and Mr. Vining's scheme seemed likely to meet.

That evening Clifton related the above conversation to Shirley, and she appeared to be pleased with the idea of going to St. Sauveur.

You have been losing both flesh and color of late. So if you think well of the plan, I believe I would like you to try it for awhile. I hope, dearest, it will not be so very long before I can make a home for you, and you will then be beyond the necessity of toiling for yourself; you will not mind if it has to be a simple one to begin with, will you, love?" Clifton concluded, with a note of anxiety in his tone.

"No, indeed, Clifton; I am not ambitious save for our mutual happiness," Shirley replied with an earnest look and a slight flush.

TORONTOS DEVELOPING. Patterson, N. J., April 10.—The To-ronto players put in another period of good hard practice yesterday from 9:30 to 10:30 in the morning and 2 to 4:30 in the afternoon. The weather is still raw and cold, but in spite of it the boys all work with a vim and willingness. The Phenoms lost Louis Bruce, their captain and star player, who was drafted by the regulars to fill Hargrove's place in left field, and consequently the game this afternoon was rather one-sided, the regulars making so many hits and runs that the scorer threw up his job in disgust, and after chasing the ball for six innings the Phenoms did likewise. The balance of the afternoon was spent in practicing team play, on the bases and at the bat. The work of the regulars' infield was again the star feature. CANUCKS LOST AGAIN. Philadelphia, Pa., April 10,-(8 innings.) Montreal ... ..1 1 0 0 0 2 0 0-4 12

GREAT HORSE GONE WRONG. GREAT HORSE GONE WRONG.
Chicago, April 10.—The Tribune today says: "There is excellent, authority for the statement that Ballyhoo Bey, W. C. Whitney's famous colt, which won the Futurity, the richest prize on the American turf, last season, will not be seen this season in the American Derby or in any other big stake. The Tribune now learns on good authority that his early winter sickness has affected Ballyhoo Bey's breathing apparatus, and that the colt has become a roarer. From the same authority it is learned the report of Ethelbert being seriously amiss is true, despite New York denials, and that the great Belmont horse is not likely to race again."

STORY CONFIRMED. New York, April 10.—The World today quotes Mr. W. C. Whitney as saying, concerning the reported illness of Ballyhoo Bey, winner of last year's Futurity: "We fear his wind is affected, but are not certain about it. He will probably race this year, but he may not be the berse he was."

That one can obtain such food has been proven in thousands of cases among users of Grape-Nuts Food.

This contains phosphate of potash in minute particles, just as it is furnature in the grains. This product makes from albumen the gray matter that builds the brain and fills the nerve centers. In no way can this gray matter be made except by the action of phosphate of potash upon albumen, and this mineral should be introduced to the body just as it comes from Nature's laboratory, and not from the drug store. The system is more or less fastidious about taking up the needed elements, and, as might be suspected, it will favor the products of Mother Nature rather than the products of the drug shop, however valuable the last may be for certain uses. A very successful entertainment was given last evening in the schoolroom of Memorial Church, by the Memorial Athletic Club. sented Harry Paulton's comedy, "Niobe," to a large and appreciative audience. The company gave an excellent presentation of the comedy, which abounds in amusing situations and bright lines. The action of the play centers upon the introduction into a modern American household of SPRING beautiful Greek statues, and the laughable consequences which follow the coming to life of the statue. Miss Catherine Standish, gave a delightful portrayal of the tearful Niobe, who devotes herself to her master Peter, despite the fact that he already has a wife, while Mr. Oliver Bailey, as the harassed husband, was very amusing. The support was good throughout. Entertaining specialties were introduced between the acts by Will F. Crockett Miss Rose Winchester, Miss Stella Rinehart and Miss Beatrice Fenberg. The offering for the matinee today is "East Lynne," while the bill for to-night is "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," which gave such satisfaction last presentation here by the Fen-bergs, and which should be greeted by a crowded house.

Some of the changes to be suggested are that better cars be used; that the maximum rate be $7 per car of 30,000 pounds instead of 24,000 pounds; that reasonable rates be given to points on the L. "The Round-ers" is not the same mirthful and musname denotes his origin, he seizes every opportunity to make a display of the droll powers that have made him famous. The second act is his best. Everybody who remembers his terrific drunk in the "Isle of Champagne" will understand the possibilities of a scene in which Maginnis comes on in a most in which Maginnis comes on in a most gloriously intexicated condition. Will C. Mandeville, whose work in "Princess Chic" is pleasantly remembered here, was Seabrooke's leading support. His part of a cynical and blase man-about town becomes him welk. Indeed, to many, his dry humor was more agreeable than Seabrooke's broad comedy. Jeanette Lowrie and Bertha Walzinger, two beautiful women, excellent sing-ers and most attractive actresses, were co-stars. With one or two possible ex-ceptions, the support was indifferent.
