that the Boers got away with the two guns captured from Col. Benson's Brackenlaagte, eastern Transvaal.

THE REAL MESSAGE. London, Nov. 5 .- The Daily Express, on the authority of Dr. Miller Maguire, a famous military coach, gives what it alleges to be the authentic version of the heliogram sent by Gen. Buller to Gen. White during the siege of Ladysmith. It is as follows:

"I have failed. Unable to try again ally making the best terms. If you | expulsion from South Africa.

notable day in the history of Liberalism | Ross was in excellent condition, and as in the west riding of Middlesex, it being the occasion of the nomination of the Hon. George W. Ross, at Mount Brydges, as standard-bearer in the coming Ontario election contest. The representation of delegates from the different divisions of the constituency was complete, and the unanimity and enthusiasm displayed at the convention will doubtless prove the harbinger of coming victory. To such an extent was the meeting a unit in the opinion regarding who was to be their nominee, that the formality of dealing with credentials of the delegates was by common consent waved, and Premier Ross was declared the choice of the convention by a unanimous standing vote. Many tried veterans, who had voted for the premier during the early seventies, when he first entered the arena of practical politics, were present. One name is deserving of more than passing reference, namely, that of Squire T. E. Dufton, of Wardsville, a Liberal old in years, being 82, but young in zeal and enthusiasm for those political principles with which he has been so long identified. To him was accorded the esteemed privilege of, three decades ago, moving the nomination of the Hon. George W. Ross, when first he was elected to serve the people in legislative halls, and yesterday it fell to his lot Yesterday was in many respects a to perform a similar service. Premier on numerous former occasions, did himself credit by the able manner in which he dealt with various reforms due to the progressive efforts of the Liberal party in Ontario, and especial-

The money was returned to the company, and Mr. Robin, for his honesty, was presented with a $50 bills and a confidence men, are now claimed to the company.

THAT CASE AGAINST A CHRISTIAN SCIENTIST.

An Important Question To Be Submitted to the Court of Appeals.

Toronto, Nov. 5 .- At the opening of the assize court yesterday the Christian Science case of Rex vs. Lewis was resumed. Chief Justice Falconbridge stated that he had somewhat modified his attitude as announced on Saturday. He would not withdraw the case from the jury, but would follow the ruling of English courts that in common law medicine is regarded as a necessary of life. The jury will be called upon to find upon certain facts. In case the verdict is adverse to the prisoner, and an appeal is successfully taken, the court of appeal will adjudicate upon the broader legal as-

Paris, Nov. 5.-Admiral Caillard's | Deputies today, M. Sembat, Radical Socialist, interpellated the government of the Franco-Turkish dispute, criticising the action taken as being for a material end, and contending that France ought to have intervened at the times of the Armenian massacres. The foreign minister, M. Delcasse, replied that France's patience was exhausted by the porte's breaking its promises. France, in the present difficulty, pursued no fresh advantage. but everybody would agree that this effort on the part of France ought to at least serve to put an end to the annovances and unjust treatment of scholastic and hospitable ments and commercial and industrial enterprises, had been the object. FOUR YOUNG MEN DROWNED

Their Boat Was Swamped During a Storm.

Collision on the L. E. and D. R. R. Woman Frightfully Burned.

Michigamme, Mich., Nov. 5 .- Dur-Ing the storm on Sunday four prominent young men of this place lost their lives by drowning. The dead are: Geo. W. Levin, Abel Levin, Emil Carlson and Albin Carlson.

The men went across Lake Michigamme in the morning in two boats, the Levin brothers in one and the Carlson brothers in the other. During the afternoon a fierce storm came up and the boys decided that they would be safer in one boat, so they started home in that way. It is supsed that the boat became swamped and the men gave up the struggle in the ice cold waters. A searching party was out all night, but obtained no trace of the bodies. One of the boats was found tied to a tree on shore, where they had left it, intending to return for it after the storm subsided.

COLLISION ON THE L. E. AND D.R. Leamington, Ont., Nov. 5 .- A freight pulling into the switch to let the eastbound express pass last evening about 6 o'clock, when two tenders which, were attached to the rear end, broke on the main loose, and remained track, coming into collision with the express, with the result that both enders were derailed, together with the engine and baggage car of the express. The engineer and fireman of the express jumped. Their escape from instant death is almost miraculous, as the baggage car and tender plunged into the engine. Traffic was delayed several hours.

LOST BOTH FEET.

Winnipeg. Nov. 5.-F. Nadon, oung brakeman on the Crow's Nest Pass line, lost his feet at Dunnmore Junction, in attempting to jump on a watercar. He missed the step and both feet were caught under the wheels of the car, which passed over them.

SUICIDE AND SHOOTING. Moosejaw, N. W. T., Nov. 5.—Peter Law, aged about 25, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself in the mouth. He worked in a livery stable in town, and up to the time of his death was apparently in good health and spirits. His relatives are in Edinburgh, Scotland. TERRIBLY BURNED.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 5 .- Mrs. Wm. Mayer made an attempt to end her life yesterday in a terrible manner. She piled newspapers into the bath tub at her home, saturated them with kerosene and lighted them. Then, bending over the burning papers, she remained in that position until the entire upper portion of her body was burned ing caught in the shafting of his mill n a horrible manner. DANGER IN STREETS OF OLD LONDON.

Heaviest Fog Known in Years Enveloped the Metropolis.

British People Told They Must Pay More Taxes to Carry on the War-Murder in a London Bank.

London, Nov. 5 .- A fog such as Great Britain had not experienced for years enveloped London and half of the United Kingdom yesterday, blockading shipping, deranging railways and throwing business in London, Birmingham and other provincial cities into confusion.

So dense was it that a walk into the streets was an adventure. The fog descended upon the metropolis and the suburbs so thickly that between 4 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon the principal avenues of traffic resembled the steam room of a Turkish bath. Hun- under precisely similar circumstances dreds of thousands of London's su-, She, too, turned Catholic, and was disburban population vainly endeavored to grope their way to the railway stations. The few who succeeded found the trains all stalled.

Around Trafalgar Square and the leled for years were witnessed. Hundreds of omnibuses, cabs, carts and wagons formed an inextricable and immovable mass. The mounted police, in trying to clear away the jam, got lost themselves. Many vehicles were in collision. The drivers, not knowing where they were, stood at the heads of their horses patiently awaiting the lifting of the premature darkness. Lanterns were at a premium, newsboys transformed their papers into temporary torches, highwaymen pursued their vocation. Casualties were frequent, and even hardened Londoners freely expressed a dread of the London, Nov. 5. - What is regarded as an important announcement preparing the people of Great Britain for new taxes and fresh loans was made tonight by the chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, in speech at Bristol. After alluding to the enormous increase in the ordinary expenditures of the government he reviewed the war taxes and said that the ever-increasing demand of the national exchequer gave reasons for careful thought and even anxiety for the

Sir Michael announced that the government was communicating with the authorities in South Africa with a the concentration camps, and to an amelioration of their conditions.

The Jilting Habit.

A correspondent complains of the great prevalence of jilting, says the London Express. He admits that he has been jilted by no fewer than three different young women this century, and he plaintively asks the Express to go to his assistance by reading a moral lesson to the jilters that will cause them to mend their ways. It is not difficult to realize that the jilting habit is really growing. Since woman became what she is pleased to term "emancipated," she takes fewer chances in selecting a life partner. The independence of women carries with it an increased radius of action with regard to the treatment of

In days which, alas! are no more, the woman who had once plighted her troth was captured. She was so much fish in the basket, an actual which could not get away. But in these revolutionary times a man cannot be sure of a girl just because she wears his engagement ring. He has to mind his p's and q's up to the very Port Huron, Mich., Nov. 5.—Fire last moment of walking to the altar. He night destroyed two large adjoining grain must not count upon his flancee as a chicken that is hatched. She may roll out of the basket and escape him.

This makes it very trying for the man, but it does not at all diminish the chances which the girl enjoys of having a good time. Often she regards the engagement as a provisional affair, and one that will last only during good behavior. The chances are, therefore, that if our correspondent has jilted three times this year he has well deserved his fate. Perhaps it would have been justifiable for eight girls to jilt him, or even nine.

All sorts of troubles ensue when a becomes certain. He often swain counts too much upon his beautiful eyes or his winning ways. Suddenly something happens. There is a pro nounced shock, and before he knows where he is he finds himself out upon the pavement, a dazed and disengaged being. Yes, the jilting habit is grow ing. Women are getting more par ing. Women are getting more particular. A long moustache followed by ten stone of conceited substance fashjoned in the general way after the contour of a man is not enough to satisfy them.

TAXES ON McCLARY COMPANY

Amount Must Be Considered by the Aldermen.

The Firm Asks for Fixed Assessment of $150,000

And Presents Proposition to the Council-Monday Will Be Proclaimed a Holiday.

A very important letter frem the McClary Manufacturing Company, which was read before the city council last night, produced something of a mild sensation, because, though some would be read, it was apparent that to and most of them it was entirely new and unexpected. In it Mr. McClary asked in brief that the assessment of his company be placed at $150,000 for all purpoes for a term of not less than ten years after the present limitation expires, and that in case of amended legislation the company be protected from increased taxation. His letter was

"Our limitation of assessment expires early in 1902, and in view of the assessment act of this province on personal property, as applied to an in-corporated manufacturing company of a large capital being beyond all reasonable legitimate limits, we ask you to procure at the next session of the Ontario Government legislation limiting our assessment to $150,000 per year for all purposes for the term of not ss than ten years after the expiration of the present limitation, and should we have amended legislation our assessment not to exceed what it would be under amended legislation, as in this case we might be compelled to pay a tax to the government the same or similar to the tax imposed in the Province of Quebec.

"We find ourselves face to face with be met as far as possible: We desire to largely increase our capital stock. Failing special legislation to make it legitimate, we will require to remove legitimate, we will require to remove and at the next meeting of the com-our head office to Province of mittee they will be on hand to tip Mr. Quebec, where the assessment of an Graydon as to how he should do his incorporated company on personalty to own work. the extent of the capital used is onetenth of one per cent, which goes to the Provincial Government. Assuming our rate to be 20 mills, the taxation of personalty would be one-twen-tieth of what it would be in this province. We find ourselves with congested premises, working to a cons or build one sufficiently extensive to enable us to remove the foundry part of our works from center of our congested premises. This action has to be taken or take a second position in the trade, which we are not disposed to accept. We have in the past thought our rate of insurance high. The insurance companies, now apparently organized and combined, discover that it is necessary to practically double our insurance rates. It would cost us more than $16,000 a year to be fully insured -a sum sufficiently large to pay the interest on a modern practically fireproof new plant with the same capa-ity twice over." Mr. McClary appeared before the council in support of his letter, and addressed the aldermen, outlining the situation. At the beginning, he stated that this was the third time that he had appeared before the city council of London for a similar purpose, and on the two preceding occasions the aldermen, believing his proposition to be advantageous to the city, had entertained it without dissent. His proposition this time was no mean one. Mr. Mc-Clary detailed the disadvantages under which such a company as his works, by reason of the present assessment act, the difficulty they were put to to increase their capital stock, the inconvenience and loss caused by present lack of space, and the bearing upon the question of insurance rates. Without wishing his proposition to appear as a threat — "I would be a great fool," Mr. McClary said, "to make a threat" — he asserted that conditions were such that he had deemed it necessary to procure legisla-tion that would permit him to move his office to the Province of Quebec. If the present proposition were accepted, it meant that an immense outlay upon the company's premises would be made-sprinklers would be installed at a cost of something like $30,000, thus curtailing the expenditure for insurance; a new foundry would have to be built, and a $10,000 warehouse erected on York street. Mr. McClary men-tioned that the company paid out

$250,000 in wages last year. The assessment of the McClary Company is now $110,500. The company's offer, therefore, amounts to this, it agrees to its present assessment of $110,500 on land and buildings, though Mr. McClary said they would sell for $80,000, with an increase of $39,500 for personality, with this proviso-that in the event of amended legislation, by which the Provincial Government would tax them, their assessment be then reduced, so that the amount of their taxes remain the same. The matter will be considered very carefully. No. 1 committee will consult the city solicitor regarding it, and was empowered to bring in a bylaw affecting the McClary pany's proposition. Immediate action taken-will be necessary, in fact, if legislation is to be procured at the next session of the house. MONDAY IS CHOSEN.

A petition signed by some 75 merchants prayed that next Monday be kept as a holiday, not Saturday, and the two sides of the question were presented by Mr. T. Kingsmill, sen., and Mr. James Wilkins, the former speaking against the petition and the

Mr. Kingsmill said, that in his opinion the change would not be advantageous. Saturday was the day that the King desired as a holiday, and was the day that would be observed all over as a holiday. The farmers knew that Saturday was to be a holiday and would not come to town, and if they did, the banks would be closed, and they could not cash checks; and again, he said, it was the mechanics' short-hour day, and they would not lose as much as on Monday. Mr. Kingsmill said that this was the first King's birthday, and it was possible, though he hoped improbable, that the people might have

King's birthday.

Ald. Greenlees supported this view of the case. He believed that the Saturday holiday would not disarrange business as much as was thought. He believed also that some petitions, being carelessly signed, were useless, and said that "you could take around a petition in this city to hang a man, and get the person who was to be and get the person who was to be hanged to sign it."

Miss Nellie Hightower, a prominent young society woman of Augusta, Georgia, writes the following letter to Dr. Hartman regarding his remedy, Augusta, Ga., 937 Broad Street.

The Peruna Medicine Company, Columbus, O.: Gentlemen-I have taken Peruna and find that it has greatly benefited me. In fact, Peruna deserves more credit than any catarrh medicine sold, and I fully appreciate the wonderful benefits I have derived from its use. Not only have I experienced the very best results for my catarrhal affections, but find it to be a splendid tonic and I fully recommend it as such

After lying on the table for nearly two years, definite action has at last been taken in regard to the petition for a South street belt line, and, to the evident chagrin of Ald.Cooper, who was outspoken in his opposition, Ald. Winnett had the honor of forcing it to an issue, and successfully carrying it through. As has been its wont for weeks and months past, No. 1 committee, to whom the matter was referred, reported progress. Ald. Winnett, in the meantime, had taken the trouble to secure a basis upon which to work, which an equally energetic member of the finance committee could have secured as easily, and was prepared to move in amendment, "that whereas a numof the aldermen had known that it was presented to the council of 1900, would be read, it was apparent that to and to No. 1 committee of 1901,

The Antidote for Loafing.

The Montreal police magistrate says that much evil comes from boys congregating together in the evening at street corners. There is no doubt much truth in the statement. Street corner loafing, with bad companions, has been the ruin of many a boy.

There is a point to be considered is no room for boys to play. They must go outside to do it. Be the evenings ever so bright, though, they are not permitted to play on the streets, and the corner lots and "commons" that once were safety valves are about as scarce as hens' teeth. What are healthy lads to do, under such circumstances, when they cannot have a little game of any kind, even on a side street of commodious width, without the police pouncing down upon them? It seems to us that society, by its rules, first decrees that boys shall not loaf, and then hauls them before the magistrate whenever they engage in the only other occupation open to healthy lads in hours of re-

It is proved by the divorce statistics of this state that where a couple lives together for ten years, they are likely to maintain the marriage tie; as few divorces take for a longer period, though one couple thought they would be better to separate after fifty-five years. To Canadians the noteworthy fact is that for every divorce that is granted in this country, there are at least four hundred granted in Michigan State alone. It is a record of instability in the marital state which Canadians never wish to imitate.

CONFIDENCE IN SIR WILFRID A second resolution, moved by Mr. John Watterworth, ex-M.P.P., and seconded by Mr. J. P. Gregg, was also passed unanimously, as follows:

"Resolved that we place on record our continued and unabated confidence in the administration of the Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the first citizen of the Dominion and the trusted leader of the Liberal party.

"As premier he has discharged the functions of his high position with a degree of capacity and success, which has more than met the most sanguine expectations. He and his wisely chosen colleagues have managed the public business of this great Dominion and their several departments with consummate ability.

"With an era of unprecedented prosperity, we have had no oppressive taxation or shameful public scandals. government deserves to, and, we trust may, continue to hold the helm of the ship of state in our beloved land for more than one decade of the new century.' Mr. G. C. Elliott, of Ekfrid township, vice-president of the West Middlesex Reform Association, was chairman. In a few well-chosen remarks, as a prelude to the excellent speeches that were to follow. Mr. Elliott stated that it had always been a source of pleasure to him since confederation to meet the Reformers of West Middlesex, and never had he derived greater pleasure from meeting his old confreres than today. Whatever differences may have in the past arisen to ruffle the tranquility of conventions in the choice of a candidate, he believed that this time the delegates had but one person in view, and that was the premier. Since last assembling in convention, a number of changes had taken place. At the time of the last Liberal convention, the British Empire was enjoying an era of peace; since then she has been plunged into a costly war—a war in which many of Canada's brave sons had crossed 7,000 miles of sea to shed their life inces—a fact which should dispel any cry of racial disloyalty that can be raised. The speaker believed that no Canadian had done more to develop the spirit of loyalty and patriotism than the Hon. George W. Ross. He referred to the death of the Hon. A. Hardy, stating that the late premier's mantle had fallen upon a worthy successor in the person of Premier Ross. The success of Premier Ross' career demonstrates the fact that in this democratic country, a man with sufficient ability and determination can rise from the more sequestered walks of life to fill the highest position in the gift of the peo-

The meeting was then open nominations and, no other name being proposed, the Hon. George Ross was declared, amid rousing cheers, the unanimous choice of the convention. The chairman then tendered the premier the nomination of the convention.

The Hon. G. W. Ross.

The premier, who was greeted with great applause, spoke somewhat as follows: Whatever doubts he might have previously entertained as to accepting the nomination, owing to the unanimity manifested at the convention, he had decided to accept it. (Cheers.) West Middlesex had stood by him for 30 years, and he would stand by it as long as he lived. He had received offers to be the candidate in other constituencies, but this was the only constituency he wanted to represent. He declared that by their unanimity and forbearance the electors of West Middlesex had made his task easy for him, and that he was glad to be nominated for the tenth time by Squire Dufton, who first nominated him 30 years ago. In the early days of his political life things did not move along so smoothly; one man had to do two or three men's work. Now, if each man did his duty, the election in this riding would be matter of certainty. The speaker stated that he did not claim the credit for the change that had taken place, although his aim was always to be a progressive Liberal. He hoped he had also been a true Liberal; with such sentiment as prevails in the riding. one could not easily be anything else, owing to the fact that peace quietness had alway prevailed in West Middlesex conventions, so that the conventions had never been divided by ballot; the premier felt that he owed the electors a warmer service than might be expected under different circumstances. The Conservatives of the constituency had really no substantial grievance against him: they had practically nothing to complain of except that he had stood in the way of their getting into power, and in this respect at the coming election their chances would prove no better than in former years. Realizing the fact, however, that it is better to boast when putting one's armor off than when putting it on, he felt that he was safe in making the prediction. The men chosen by Ontario Liberals as their standard-bearers are worthy men, who wish to carry the constituencies by proper means, and the elections next June ought to roll up larger majorities for the Liberal party than

It has been said that the Ontario Government was afraid to meet the electors, and in consequence, were holding on until the last moment for dissolution of parliament. The speaker stated that he took the view regarding the constitutional duration of parliament, namely, that it should naturally expire unless there were good reasons to the contrary. This parliament

WILL LAST THE FULL TERM. not a moment more nor less. It will expire by effluxion of time on the 26th of March next. The election would be some time subsequent to that date, for summer was a more opportune time anyway for holding an election than was winter. By holding another session the Ontario Government was only proceeding in the leisurely and constitutional way of living its term. "If we are afraid," said Mr. Ross, "we might have held the election this fall. What we want is the calm and intelligent verdict of the electors of the province. After a long period of 30 years, is it not extraordinary that the people of Ontario have found nothing to complain of?" He went on to state that it was one of the proudest mo-ments in his life to be privileged to come forth as the representative of the West Middlesex constituency after

AGRICULTURE. During the Liberal regime, nearly five million dollars have been devoted to the improvement of agriculture. The dairying industry has been encouraged and highways have been established and improved. In fact, there is nothing which interests the farmer that has not received the attention and support of the Liberal Government of Ontario. There was in reality no substantial grievance that was shared by the great mass of the electorate of the province. Reference was made to our educational system so extensive in its influence as to reach every home. "There is not," said the speaker, "a child in this province who has grown to manhood who can look at the minister of education, or premier, or the govern-ment and say that the system of education in vogue in this province has not been useful to him." That system, founded by Dr. Ryerson, em-braces public and high schools, mining schools, agricultural colleges, and so on. The verdict, at the Chicago Exposition was, that in competition with other systems, ours, extending as it does from kindergarten to university. was an ideal system. four or five years. At times I could hardly shut my eyes they were so swollen, and my feet the same. Going upstairs hurt my back so I thought I would die, and my breath grew awful short. I tried almost everything with no relief. Black specks floated all around, and my eyes were very bad. The pain ran from the small of my back to the base of my brain. I could not sleep lying on my back. I went and got a bottle of DR. PITCHER'S BACKACHE KIDNEY TABLETS, and they have been a great boon to me. They are just splendid. I can see to thread a needle, and the pain in the head is about gone. All the old feeling of cracking and creaking in the base of the head is gone and the back comfortable. The old spells that came on any time, night or day, are gone, and I feel like living again. I can work now with comfort, and go upstairs fast with no trouble. I am only too glad to recommend them to everyone. I used to be afraid to turn over at night, and could not sleep; and now I am not afraid at all, and can

The Good Year's Record of the Convalescent Home.

Annual Meeting of the Board Yesterday—Encouraging Reports From Officers.

The annual meeting of the board of the Convalescent Home was held yesterday, and the various reports were encouraging in the extreme.

The report of the president, Mrs. H. A. Boomer, noted the fact that the present year brought the home to the celebration of its thirteenth anniversary. "It has," wrote the president, "been a year of quiet usefulness and service."

Mrs. Boomer referred also to the almost irreparable loss sustained by the home in the death of Mr. W. C. L. Gill, one of its very earliest friends and benefactors.

GEN. BOTHA'S PROCLAMATION

Says All Armed Englishmen Are To Be Shot on Sight.

Lord Kitchener and His Staff Included-Wounded in the Bethel Fight Brought In To Pretoria.

Paris, Nov. 5 .- The text of General Botha's counter-proclamation to Lord Kitchener's recent proclamation has reached here. It declares:

"Whereas, no official of the Orange Free State or the Transvaal Republic and no general, commandant or burgher, intends to obey Lord Kitchener's proclamation or to trouble with it. "And whereas, the proclamation contains falsehoods, habitual to the English: "And, whereas Lord Kitchener's proclamation has strengthened the determination of all burghers to resist to the end; now, "Therefore, I, Louis Botha, commandant-general of the Republican forces, with the consent of the governments, officers, and burghers of both republics, proclaim Lord Kitchener, his staff, and the officers and soldiers serving under his orders fighting us now to be outlaws in South Africa, and all officers and burghers in the two republics and in Cape Colony are ordered to shoot every armed Englishman whom they meet."

THE BETHEL FIGHT. London, Nov. 4.-Lord Kitchener telegraphs the war office that the troops in Col. Benson's command who were wounded in the fight near Bethel have been brought in to the Springs. He says that he has received no further details of the fight.

BURGHERS FIGHT BOERS. Bloemfontein, Nov. 4 .- Three hundred burgher police, under Captain Malcolm, who left here three weeks ago, returned today. They had four encounters with Boers, and killed two in the neighborhood of Dewetsdorp. They brought in a 12-pounder gun belonging to U Battery, which the Boers captured at Vlakfontein. This gun was found hidden under rocks between Dewetsdorp and Wepener. The police also brought in 22 horses and saddles. They captured twelve Boers, including ten wounded men. Their casualties were two men wounded.

THE PLAGUE. Cape Town, Nov. 4 .- Five cases of bubonic plague were discovered in Port Elizabeth today.

RELICS OF WAR OF 1812.

Toronto, Nov. 5 .- Wellington Thompon, police magistrate at Port Maitland, Lake Erie, has discovered two boats which are relics of the war of 1812. They are made of cedar and fastened together with wooden pins. In them were found weapons, such as old knives with deer-horn handles, and ammunition in the nature of grapeshot, which was used for cannon balls. The bars of lead are stamped with a crow's foot, the British insignia in

MUSIC AND DRAMA

"The Fast Mail."

When Lincoln J. Carter's "Fast Mail" slowed up at the New Grand last night it found awaiting it a large audience, which seemed fairly well satisfied at the evening's production. The play has been seen here before, but new features have been introduced, which help to sustain its interest and drawing power, even for those who have before witnessed it. The cast was a capable one, and the principal roles were taken in a satisfactory manner. Miss Katherine Standish, an old favorite with London audiences filled the difficult emotional character of Mary Martin with entire success. Thos. E. Depew was excellent as the lynx-eyed detective, Samuel Sleuth. Mr. Chas. Mack, in addition to filling acceptably the role of the hero, Walter West, acted as stage manager. Mr. T. H. Cum-mings, who enacted the role of principal villain, was seen here in Thelma a couple of weeks ago, and has evidently not been with the present production long enough to have thoroughly familiarize himself with his part. The balance of the characters were well taken, several roles being doubled. As is usual with Carter's productions, the scenic element predominated, and the view of Niagara Falls by moonlight, and the flight of the trains across the stage have never been excelled on a local stage for effectiveness in their respective lines.

Service of Praise.

St. Andrew's Church held a large audience last night on the occasion of the service of praise given by the choir of the church, assisted by Miss Carolyn Powell, soprano soloist, and Mystal Brown, concert tenor, of Toronto. Both vocalists, who are new to this made favorable impressions their hearers, and they will always be sure of a hearty welcome from critscale of a fleatry welcome from the cital music lovers of this city. The Women's Morning Music Club last night opened their season auspiciously by giving one of their excellent and well-known artists' concerts in the Masonic Temple. The evening's programme was furnished by three talented members of the Toronto Women's Musical Club, Miss Katherine Birnie, pianist, Miss Louise Craig, soprano, and Miss Lina Adamson, violinist. Their different numbers were all rendered in a manner entitling them to the highest praise, and they will be warmly welcomed on any future visits they may pay the Forest City. Birnie's selections were Brahm's scherzo in E flat minor, Stojowski's prelude, "Il Jinski's Cradle Song," and Leschetizky's "La Piccolo." Miss Craig's numbers were Tosti's "Could I," Nevin's "At Twilight," Mannery's 'My True Love Hath Foote's "Land of the Leal," and Howell's "By the Waters of Babylon." "CAUGHT IN THE WEB."

"Caught in the Web," the great fouract detective play that is to be pre-sented at the New Grand tonight, is a production in which the lights and shadows of life in and around the great city of New York are depicted by a master hand. Mr. Le Brandt, the author, presents this great play with a superb company and a carload of magnificent scenery.

"THE VOLUNTEER ORGANIST." Harry Martell's new production, "The Volunteer Organist." Its characters being drawn from a locality in Vermont that seems to be quite apart from the rest of the world, are, many of them, rare studies. Like the Irishman, the humor of the Vermonter is spontaneous, and it bubbles out in unexpected places at unlooked-for times so that one is actually at a loss as to whether each succeeding line in the play is to cause one to laugh with glee or to let one's sympathy go out to some of the other characters. London people will have an opportunity of witnessing the piece at the New Grand next Friday evening, Nov. 8.

"MISTRESS NELL" ON SATUR-

DAY. The most notable scene in "Mistress Nell," George C. Hazelton'~ comedy that comes to the New Grand next Saturday, matinee and night, occurs in the third act, when Nell, disguised as a courtier, draws her sword upon the king, and is thereupon attacked by what she afterwards scribes as an army. Surrounded by men, Nell makes her escape by smashing a great glass window in the rear and then jumping to the ground below with an exclamation of disdain upon her lips. Such is the excitement at the end of the third act, that five and six curtain calls are always given.

PROBABLY VICTIM OF SOME VENDETTA

Mangled Body of a Man Discovered in Barrel in the Outskirts of Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—The body of a man about 30 years of age, whose head was almost cut off, was discovered in a flour barrel on a strip of prairie near Rice street and Western avenue early today. The victim's feet were se-curely bound together and the body doubled in a sack. Besides the wounded neck, the face had been gashed and disfigured. From a letter in the man's pocket the body is believed to be that of Antonio Napali who, with 25 other Italian laborers, reached Chicago last night from Iowa Center, Iowa. Chief of Police McNeill believes the man was the victim of some vendetta.

"How very bad it looked," said Mrs. Grundy, "that Owen Hammond should have come to the house with his poor clear cousin—both of them evidently in wrath and anger! Lord Hammond insisted on seeing that disreputable old man, the Honorable Richard, High words were heard, loud voices; then Lord Ham-mond had stalked out of the room. An old man-servant had heard him say, 'I will shoot your rooks, I will cut down your timber. I will pay myself, and my father will foreclose! You and your sons are scamps! Lord Hammond had gone off complete the local distribution of the loca off, carrying his loaded gun; he was never seen alive again. The dead rooks strewed the avenue—he had shot numbers of them; meanwhile his own gun lay in the hedge in the lane where he was found dead, his own gun bearing marks of having been recently discharged. ed. Had he been murdered with his own It seemed likely. The gun itself een flung into the hedge by a strong hand been flung into the hedge by a strong hand, with what purpose it seemed difficult to imagine. Certainly that fact proved that Lord Hammond had not committed suicide; the gun had been tossed violently irto the hedge, as though in the excitement of anger or fear. Rob bery there had been—or, at least, the semblance of robbery appeared on the face of the black deed. The young lord's pockets were turned inside out, and all pockets were turned inside out, and an their contents were missing—money, papers, what not. The assassin had attempted to possess himself of Lord Hammon's watch. The strong gold curb-chain had resisted his efforts, but a valuable seal, formed of a splendid ruby set heavily in gold, had been wrenched away from the chain, and was missing: the watch the chain and was missing; the watch remained in the pocket, the chain hung outside. On the lost seal was graven the arms of the Hammonds. The great ruby itself had been valued at fifty guineas. Thus the thieves had carried off a considerable booty, for it was supposed that Lord Hammond had ten or twelve soversten, in his pursue at the time he loft. eigns in his purse at the time he left Mrs. Grundy whispered, "were taken as blind, and to make it appear as if the roung lord had been robbed by tramps; but there had been no tramps about the neighborhood worth mentioning since the memorable burglary at the ladies' school, Coome Hill House. The man who was caught then had gone to penal servitude for a term of years, and the vigilance of Superintendent Hobbs had kept the neighborhood pretty clear, especially during these long, light spring evenings. ouring these long, light spring evenings.

No, no! depend upon it, that no tramp or common thief had any hand in that most awful murder! Had not the young men been on the worst possible terms, more especially since the night of the charity ball, when they had openly quarreled? Owen Hammond had been heard to utter the upliest threats. to utter the ugliest threats. He had always been a reckless, good-for-nothing fellow from his schooldays upwards; if ever the Chase coronet fell to his lot he would be no honor to the peerage."

Mrs. Grundy said a great deal more, which we have not time to repeat here, but the consequence of it all was that disgrace and ignominy settled like a black cloud over Raby Hall.

Helr-apparent to the Chase coronet in the future Owen certainly was: polyade.

the future Owen certainly was; nobody could keep him out of the title and estates, and the house of Charteris and the other family seat, if he survived his uncle and his father, for the lands and the house went with the title; but there were such black suspicions floating about that the Raby Hall people were absolutely the Raby tian people were absolutely "cut" in the county.

Richard, the second son, the law student, was fearfully annoyed at the insolence of the neighborhood; he hurried up to London to his chambers, anxious, he said, to hide his face from everybody whom he knew he said, to hide his face from everybody whom he knew.

The mourning family at Charteris treated their Raby Hall cousins with an annihilating disdain. They were not asked to attend the funeral of the young nobleman, to which half the county flocked in haste to show honor to the dead and sympathy to the living. The family lawyer of the earl indeed wrote a private letter to the Honorable Richard Hammon, informing him that "under the circumstances, and in consideration of the bad terms on which his sons had been with the late Lord Hammond, he must request, on the part of the carl, that none of the family would appear at the funeral."

of the family would appear at the funeral."

If Owen were crossing the road, and a carriage full of ladies fir ve past, and if, being acquainted with Close ladies, he ventured to raise his hat, he met only blank stares—he was not recognized—he was, in truth, suspected of the worst. His afternoon quarrel with his cousin, his wild action in starting on a five miles walk to Ersceptrified. walk to Bracebridge Hall to ask if Lord Hammond was there, arriving at the house at eleven at night, and leaving in the morning before breakfast, all looked like the conduct of a man excited and be-ike the conduct of a man excited and beide himself.

At the time when Owen was walking o Bracebridge, Lord Hammond lay in he grim and gory stiffness of death in he dark lane under the shadow of the Raby woods, which overhung the fence.

"If he were anybody else—if he were not a cousin—he would have been arrestthe wald Mr. Grundy growing holder. d." said Mrs. Grundy, growing bolder he more she was listened to. "He would ave been arrested and tried for his life; and it's my tirm belief that he would not it's my tirm belief that he would never have got off."

These sayings penetrated everywhere. Elsie heard them in her schoolroom among the girls and the teachers. She had returned to Coome Hill until arrangements could be made with ner aunts and wiss Phillipson respecting her leaving Miss Phillipson respecting her leaving school entirely and accepting the post of companion to Rosa Stanly.

Rosa continued very ill; the two shocks had been too much for her-first to find that Owen did not love her, and after that to hear him openly accused of murder

The young ladies were disappointed of Somehow it got rumored about that Owen Hammond had thrown up his engagement with Miss Stanily because Lord Hammond was dead and he was now the heir, and, therefore, he would not want her money. Everybody called him a scamp, even Helen Stevenson, who had admired him so very much.

Heien Stevenson, who had admired him so very much.

Elsie's passionate love for Owen was intensified, but it took another shape. She remembered his most mysterious words to her in the shrubbery at Bracebridge, when he had told her that she would hear evil reports of him, when he stock of heaving found without the design. would hear evil reports of him, when he spoke of having been driven to do something of which he must always repentdriven by poverty and the oppression of the family whom he called "those detestable titled Hammonds." Also he had said in the primrose wood to Lord Hammond that he would kill him if he went to Rosa Stanly with a mischievous tale. It was impossible to feel sure of his innocence when she thought of his own words; and unless she became sure of it, all lovers' love must be over between them. Still, while she lived she would shield him, pray for him—pray that his black soul might be cleansed, that he might "epent in dust and ashes. She might repent in dust and ashes. She hoped that, if he had won the heirship by such a deadly crime, that he would never wear the coronet. He did not dare to write to her at the school. She had once told him that Miss Phillipson had the supervision of all her pupils' letters. Those which came from pupils' letters. Those which came from their parents or their sisters she did not interfere with, but all other letters were opened by her in her pupils' presence. She simply read the name signed at the end. If it was the name of a lady it was given to the young girl to whom it was addressed; but if the name of a gentleman the letter was sealed up and redirected and sent back to the writer. This was an old-established rule at Coome Hill. Owen knew it, and did not dare to write to Elsie.

Elsie felt as if she had embarked her love and trust in a frail bark which was not seaworthy. She grew pale, and her eyes seemed very large; she could not eat, and her sleep was visited with fearful dreams. Always she was at the funeral or dressing to attend the funeral of Lord Hammond; always there was a growly and everywork was received.

Lord Hammond; always there was crowd, and everybody was seeking to arrest Owen Hammond, who could never be found; only she could always see him in the crowd; he was invisible to other eyes, but always visible to here. eyes, but always visible to hers. He never looked at her, and she was glad and sorry for this in the same moment. At last Elsie heard strange, sad news. The Honorable Richard Hammond had died after a few days' illness. His affairs were in a sad disorder; the mortgages were to be foreclosed, and the Earl of Chase was to take possession of the lands, which would, however, revert to Owen if he ever came into the Chase coronet. Raby Hall itself was to be let; most of the old pictures and plate were to be sold to pay some private debts; then the house was to be let, with the hundred a year.

TURF NOTES. It was in 1892 that the first pacer, Mascot, entered the 2:04 list. Today there are seventeen in the list. Five of the 2:04 pacers have records below 2:02. Two others have records of just 2:02, so that the 2:02 list has already seven within it. In round numbers 100,000 horses were sold at the Union Stock Yards, Chicago, during the first ten months of 1901. The receipts were about 10,000 head in excess of last year's records for the correspond-ing period, a remarkable showing in view of the admitted shortage of horses in the country. The severe drought in the western states is said to have forced thousandsof horses on the Chicago mar-ket in the last few months.

dict was pronounced in Paris. Only a short time ago a man from the United States reported that the system of ed States reported that the system of agricultural education, as seen at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph was, to his way of thinking, the BEST IN THE WORLD. Our methods of conducting farmers' institutes are being adopted throughout the United States. Had there been any serious defects in connection with Liberal management of such affairs, they would have been discovered long before this, for the opposition have been very active. The record of the Liberal party has been unimpeachable; the Conservative party are not able to place a finger upon a single dollar that has been misspent. Our surplus last December was $2,580,000; the Province of Quebec has a floating debt of $33,000,000. Ontario is the only province in the Dominion that is not only free from debt, but has a large surplus. This is the province the Con-

out, in the least, furnishing any proof of superior business ability. However, as good as the record of the Liberal party has been in this respect negative qualities are not alone sufficient. "Our opponents have not been able to say we have been behindhand with our agricultural legising—Trebor (Wonderly) 1, Mercer (Red-fern) 2, Fatalist (Burns) 3. Time, 1:46. The Province of Ontario, with its producers. of the Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland combined, and is as large as eight or nine of the states of the Union at the south of us. Of this vast area only about 30,000,000 acres are under settlement. Among the most important matters that have engaged the attention of the Ontario Government is, how the northern district commonly known as New Ontario can be developdollars annually has been derived from crown lands; hence the policy of the forests on those lands from fire and destruction. One million acres are to in all, to report concerning the wealth of Northern Ontario. They reported sixteen million acres of farming land as good in quality as any land in the older part of the province; they also estry. Now, when the province is reported three billion feet of pine fairly booming, the Conservative worth $9,000,000 to the province, besides an immense quantity of pulpwood. Great Britain produces a market for large quantities of pulpwood, and with the resources at our disposal we shall be able to supply her with raw material for her five hundred "What is our duty in such a hence. case?" continued Premier Ross. "There can be but one answer, and that is, open up the districts and provide suitable roads." The speaker here referred to the valuable work that had been accomplished by Provincial Road Commissioner Campbell. The Ontario

Government is encouraging the work

ROAD MAKING. and 100 miles of railway is being constructed in the Temiscaming country, under government control. Every precaution has been exercised to prevent the surplus population of Old Ontario from drifting away from the province, for the nearer the consumers are the better for the home markets. With this in view, then, will appear the necessity of not only retaining our men and women for ourselves, but of encouraging immigration. "What our fathers have done for the county of Middlesex," said the premier, "we must do for Northern Ontario," The land is as fertile as any in this county, and any government that fails to recognize the fact will fail in its duty to the country. Canada sends about 10 per cent of produce to the British markets; if she could supply five times as much, those markets would be open

CANADA'S MINERALS. Nor is Canada behind in mineral wealth. For many years England led in the iron industry. Then came the United The speaker predicted that some of the younger men in the audience would see Canada the center of the iron industry of the continent. We are working in that direction. Mr. Clergue, of Sault Ste. Marie, has today on his pay roll five thousand men, compared with a hundred a very few years ago. There is a comparatively small bonus on iron, but it is a stimulus. Smelting works are now located at Deseronto, Collingwood, Hamilton and other places, all of which did not come Our aim should be to manufacture as much of our raw material as possible at home, and import fewer manufactured articles from abroad. Speaking on the question of subsidiz-ng railways, the premier stated that the policy of his government was to give nothing to railway contractors gratis. Subsidies are granted only on conditions, and such conditions as are favorable to the prosperity of the country; for instance, a railroad in Northern Ontario had been subsidized by giving 7,400 acres a mile, on condition that the company see to bringbowels and stimulate the sluggish liver. | ing in settlers. mier Ross stated that he knew the township of Ekfrid when one could hardly travel through it. either on foot or on horseback. Today the township of Ekfrid, as well as the counties of Kent and Essex, abounds in good highways. This reform is due largely to improvement in drainage, and here the Ontario Government has greatly assisted matters. Large drains, with expensive outlets, had to be constructed, without which the drains would not be of nearly so much value. To facilas high as $4,000, have been granted by the government. In the vast majority of cases the matter was not purely local. The highways of the province for their further improvement the sum of one million dollars has been set apart for the use of the different municipalities of the province under certain conditions. Railways, in the past, have been subsidized by large sums of harness and horseflesh. BEET SUGAR INDUSTRY. Premier Ross referred to the status of the beet sugar industry, and its prospects in this province. The Ontario soil had been examined by analysts to ascertain whether it is adapted to the growth of sugar beets, with the resuit that it has been found more suitable than that of the State of Michigan, where the industry has met with a measure of success.

If the industry could be well estabished here it would result in changing to a large extent methods of farming, which at present do not bring the highest reward; its establishment would retain in the country the six or seven million dollars that are sent abroad annually for raw sugar, and lastly it would give extra employment to labor. Capital is, of course, necessary for its successful operation. The government have gone so far as to grant a bonus of half a cent a pound for sugar manufactured the first year, and quarter of a cent a pound for the next two years, after which period the bonus will cease. There are at present three refineries in the province, located at Wiarton, and in Kent and Waterloo SALE OF HORSES

Regarding the sale of horses for th British service, Mr. Ross thought that more should be done by way of encouraging it. He regretted to see th British Government buying horses in the United States and on the continent when the demand should be met by a supply from Canada. Negotiations with Lord Strathcona resulted in the purchase of 6,350 Canadian Of this number 4,005 were bought in Ontario. The preparation of horses for the British service will result in a vast improvement in the stock at home

A suggested advantage to the agriculturists of the province was the shipment of beef cattle to old country stock, there is great waste as well as risk. A profitable market for dressed beef has been found in Britain by the United States. If the business could be carried on with equal success be-tween Canada and Great Britain it

In conclusion, the speaker stated that, in brief, the policy of the Ontario Liberal party was to do all in its power to promote the best interests of the province by encouraging her industries; to secure markets in Great Britain; to improve transportation facilities, and to confer with the Dominion Government on all matters not strictly within the domain of provincial politics. Having given ed to the best advantage. One million sume of the past, and also having conceived plans for the future, the premier maintained that the govern-Liberal party has been to protect the ment should have an opportunity of carrying them out. He enjoined his hearers not to forget the fact that be reforested. It can be easily seen, were it not for the aggressiveness of then, that if a government attends to the Liberal party, the territory known the forest wealth of the province, it as New Ontario, so replete in the redischarges a great service. Ten ex- sources of forest and mine, would ploration parties were sent out, 90 men not have been a part of the older province. Were it not for the Liberal party there would not have been a minister of agriculture, a road commissioner, or a commissioner of forparty come as strangers and ask the electors of the province to turn the old and tried leaders of the Liberal party out and place the affairs of the province into inexperienced hands. Eloquent and optimistic speeches were given by Messrs. W. S. M.P., chief Liberal whip in the Dominion Parliament, Malcolm McGugan, M.P., A. Stuart, K.C., and others. During the course of the convention a telegram was received announcing the election by acclamation of John Lee, of Highgate, as member for East Kent, as successor to the late Robert Ferguson, The convention closed with rousing cheers for the King, Premier Ross, W. Sheldon are friends, and through the latter Mr. Goodland sold the horse for $200 to Dr. Routledge. Then the doctor sold the horse to the duke for a good round figure. Speaking this morning, Mr. Goodland said: "It was a bright bay horse with black points, and stood 16 hands high. I considered that he was the finest horse I ever owned, and I was sure he would take the eye of some gentleman who was a judge of a good horse. I bought the horse from George Lane when he was working for Angus Sinclair. The horse was sired by Wildbrino. I am glad the horse has got a good home." LONDONERS ARRESTED.

Wm. Tucker, James Taft and Chas. Sells, all of London, appeared before Police Magistrate Morrison at Ingersoll Monday morning, the first named on a charge of stealing an overcoat and the other two charged with being accessories. They pleaded not guilty, and the case was remanded for one week. The alleged theft, says the Chronicle, took place on Sunday afternoon. The three young men had dinner at the Atlantic House, and after they left the hotel an overcoat was missed. The missing overcoat was found in their buggy, and the trio were placed under arrest.

WATER COMMISSIONERS. The board of water commissioners met yesterday at the city hall. All the members were present. A deputation, comprised of Mr. Walter Bartlett, Mr. B. > Figures $60,000 Under Those of Assessment Commissioner Grant-Other Changes.

The work of the court of revision for this year was completed yesterday, when the appeal involving the largest amount considered-that of the street railway company-was heard, and its assessment fixed for the year, provided the scrap iron assessment does not go through. Should it be operative, the assessment will drop to what it has been in the past. By agreement of the two parties, it was decided to make the assessment $138,000, a total reduction from that made by Commissioner Grant of $60,000. The court reduced the assessment on rails, poles and wires from $113,000 to $85,000. Bridges were assessed at $18,000, and $5,000 was taken from this item. Valuation of cars was $67,000, and it was reduced to $40,000.

Mr. Thomas McCormick, who would sell his residence and a lot across the road from it for $20,000, though it was assessed at $24,500, was granted a reduction of $1,500; and the whole assessment of $5,000 personalty placed upon Mr. J. D. Saunby was removed, as he had paid for his stock with borrowed money. When it was proposed to tax him for income, Mr. Saunby swore that his income from the mill was less than

Old Lady Thought She Had One-Case of a

London, Nov. 3.—It was left to the well-known auctioneer, Mr. J. C. Stevens, to break the ice of the new season with a sale, the other day, in which the chief item of interest was a great auk's egg, which fetched a very respectable sum, £252. That, however, large as it is is not near the very large as it is, is not near the record price paid, not long ago, for one of these curios, which brought 315 guin-

Rather an amusing incident occurred during this last sale. Mr. Stevens was met by an old lady, who gravely informed him she had a newly-laid auk's egg. When an explanation was forthcoming by the production of this extraordinary curio, it was found that the extinct bird had not dropped an egg, but that the lady had merely dropped her aspirate.

Knows No Distinction

Catarrh in This Climate.

All observant physicians have noticed the increase in catarrhal diseases in recent years, and the most liberal and enlightened have cheerfully given remedy, Stuart's Catarrhal Tablets, as the most successful, and by far the safest remedy for catarrh yet pro-duced. One well-known catarrh specialist. as soon as he had made a thorough test of this preparation discarded inhalers, washes and sprays, and now depends entirely upon Stuart's Cat-arrh Tablets, in treating catarrh, whether in the head, throat or stom-Dr. Risdell says: "In patients who had lost the sense of smell entirely, and even where the hearing has begun to be affected from catarrh, I have had fine results after only a few weeks use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets. I can only explain their action on the theory that the cleansing and anti-septic properties of the tablets destroy the catarrhal gems wherever found, because I have found the tablets equally valuable in catarrh of the throat and stomach as in nasal catarrh."

Dr. Estabrook says Stuart's Tablets are especially useful in nasal catarrh and catarrh of the throat, clearing the membranes of mucous and overcoming the hawking, coughing and expectorating. Any sufferer from catarrh will find Stuart's Catarrh Tablets will give immediate relief, and being in tablet form and pleasant to the taste, are convenient and always ready for use, as they can be carried in the pocket and used at any time, as they contain no poisonous drugs, but only the cleansing antiseptic properties Eucalyptus bark, Guaiacol, blood root

All druggists sell the tablets at 50c for complete treatment.
