CROWN PRINCE MYSTERY

Is Reported at Argonne Forest and Also Leaving Lorraine.

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, Sept. 15. — 6:45 a.m. — Amateur strategists find difficulty in arranging Gen. Von. Von Kluck's retreat for him, while the professionals wisely admit they do not know what destination to give to the beaten army. The probability is that Von Kluck himself does not know exactly, the forces in retreat not being always masters of their own movements. Having passed the line of Compeigne and Soissons, where a defence had been prepared it was thought he could not make a stand before the Meuse was reached. Yesterday's communications, however, created some conthat the allies had crossed the Aisne River and the second stating that the Germans were trying to make a stand

[Canadian Press.] LONDON, Sept. 14.-10:10 p.m.-Except for the army which has been attacking Verdun, the German forces in France have fallen back all along the line, according to the French official report issued this afternoon. From Nancy to Vosges they have withdrawn from French territory, while on the extreme right, General Von Kluck and General Von Buelow continue to retreat to the northeast before the French and British, even giving up their defensive position on the River Aisne, between Complegne and Soissons Further west, the German detachments that held Amiens have moved northeastward to try to rejoin the German army of the right at St. Quentin. It is possible that all the Germans in Northwest France have done likewise otherwise they would be in danger of being cut off in the centre. General Von Kluck, however, is lool ing for reinforcements from Belgium, if they have not already reached him, and with these he might make another stand against his relentless pursuers.

Thought To Ignore British. The British war office issued a long dispatch today from Field Marshal Sir John French, covering more completely than the previous summaries, the fight ing from September 4 to September 10 inclusive, a period of seven days. Ac cording to this report, the German swerve to the southeast of Paris is accounted for by General Von Kluck's decision that the British, who had been so heavily engaged in the retreat from the Belgian frontier, could be ignored and that he proceed with his plan of enveloping the main French army, The new army which came out from Paris, however, upset this calculation and, with his flank threatened, the German general had to withdraw - a movement which has been continued up to the present.

Britain's Flying Corps. Gen. French paid a high tribute to the latest addition to the British army the flying corps-and he also quotes letter from the French commander. "something in the direction of the mastery of the air has already been established. This is particularly gratifying to Britons, as England was one of the last powers to go seriously into the development of aviation, and the Government has been severely criticized for not giving it more encouragement.

The Belgian Influence. The Belgians who have received new big guns and reinforcements from somewhere have, by a sortie from Antwerp, prevented the termans from sending more of their troops out of Belgium to the south.

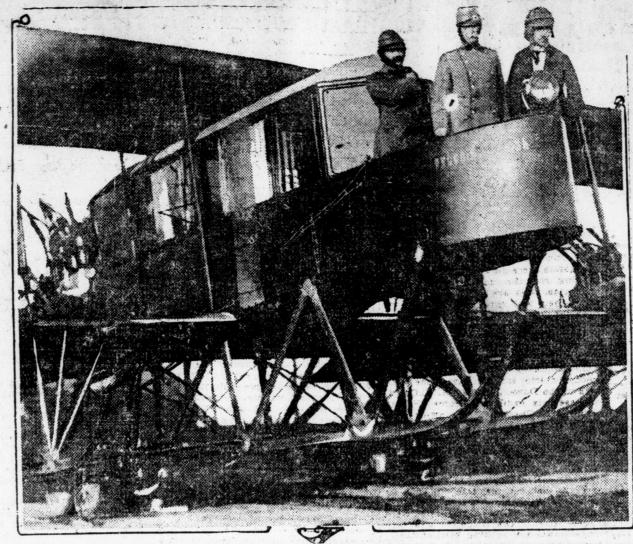

It is reported that the Germans had another army corps ready to dispatch to the assistance of their right wing, north of Paris, but only stopped its departure when the Belgians showed their strength and ability to cut communications between Brussels and Louvain. Although the Belgians had to retire to the protection of the Antwerp forts, range of these guns is about six miles, valuable an asset for Germany." when the Germans discovered them they proved themselves capable of at least annoying the army of occupation German Support Fails.

TORONTO, Sept. 14.-The National Exhibition just closed comes out with a surplus of about $5,000 and a registered attendance of 750,000. This is far behind the $33,000 surplus of last year and the million attendance, but is better than was expected in view of the financial stringency, the cool and rainy weather and other adverse conditions such as the refusal of railways to give cheap rates of former years.

Gerhard Heintzman, Limited have decided to make this year's Exhibition noteworthy by offering

SPECIAL DISCOUNTS on their famous pianos.

The standard price and high character of

has been maintained for nearly half a century. The quality of Gerhard Heintzman pianos will remain the same, but the price will be reduced, so that even those who felt a Gerhard Heintzman Piano was beyond their reach in price will now have an opportunity of securing Canada's Best Piano at a price never before offered to the public.

THE OBJECT is to keep the hundreds of employees in our factories at work, without regard to profits for ourselves.

Our exhibit of Gerhard Heintzman Pianos is on the south side in the Main Building, and our exhibit of Edison Phonographs and Victor Victrolas

is in the annex. A duplicate exhibit is also at our City Warerooms.

They care for all their members who are taken ill with tuberculosis by giving free hospital treatment in their sanatorium. They have cared for more than 800 little orphan children. Last, but not least, they give insurance from $250 to $5,-00, which is 100 per cent sound. The order has paid out $41,000,000 to sick members and beneficiaries of deceased members. Every workingman can well afford to join this great order, as small payments will keep him in good standing.

The social side of this order, together with the fraternal privileges, is well worth the money it costs to keep your dues paid up. This society has $22,000,000 in its treasury, and its total assets amount to $42,000,000. The order has at its head one of the best men in America, in the person of Hon. E. G. JOFFRE'S ACHIEVEMENT. WHATEVER the outcome of the magnitude and velocity of the German invasion and the skilful conduct of the French defensive campaign will rank high as military feats. There has been are like their comrades in Europe. If a tendency to criticize General Joffre a German army were invading Canada, for his tactics, but now that the campaign is seen as a whole, there can be and march to the front as promptly as nothing but admiration for his strategy. On the other hand, the invasion removed from the seat of war, and so of Belgium and Luxembourg commenced on August 4, and until September 10, stay home and talk while their fellowwhen the tide turned in the Allies' favor, there was not a moment's let-up these talkers from the dangers of war, of the German advance. This was what that he is in favor of keeping up British caused the invasion of Belgium. Through Belgium the French frontier could be hit at its weakest point and roll up the French flank and subdue pers. The fact that the Belgians proved a stumbling block does not mean cellent one. Now we know that it was the gallant defence of the Belgians which gave the English time to take their place and stiffen the weak point on the French line, but never-The trouble appears to have been that the Kaiser's strategists underrated or ignored the possibility of a strong Belgian resistance or British participation Fortunate has it been for France that she had a cautious man at the head of her armies. General Joffre, with a greatly inferior force, was necessarily obliged to fall back, but every step he took, we now see, was the result of cool calculation. Also, although ever retreating, he saw to it that the Germans were given sufficient fighting to greatest battalions, and it is catchy keep them busy. This was one of the finest bits of the French general's strategy that has been overlooked. By fighting in retreating he kept high the morale of his men and added to the Germans. He repeatedly attacked with energy yet never permitted his long line to lose any of its stiffness. Never was he out of touch with the enemy and the retirement from point to point showed the greatest skill. It must have required considerable moral courage to abandon one great fortress after another, but Joffre was playing the careful waiting game. The end he had in view justified what seemed like stupendous sacrifices. The fast following Germans were daily becoming more exhausted while with Joffre every step in retreat added fresh reserves to his corps and gave time for fresh English troops to arrive. And when he came to Verdun, the most powerful of the fortresses, the doorway to Paris, he made his stand to the east of the city, his line still intact and full of fight, and a powerful reserve army, massed for that purpose, menacing the Kaiser's left flank. Then came the most terrific fighting of the war up to date. Repeatedly the German centre tried to drive through, and there were times when the French line sagged dangerously, but it held, thanks in no small degree to the battling of Then, when the Kaiser had been repeatedly repulsed, Joffre played his big card, throwing half a million comparatively fresh men at the German flank, with the result that the Germans were thrown back into a retreat that has become almost a rout. Possibly the Germans will new and strong base, but the campaign up to date has shown clearly that at the head of the Alfies is a master strategist, an adroit, cool, courageous leader, who can be depended upon in

DESPITE the unprecedented unanimity of Canadian thought and action at the present time, it would something remarkable if among eight million people, there was not a single discordant voice. The executive of a society called the "Social Democrats" are out with a violent denunciation of "the crowned ruffians and greedy Caesars of Industry," who have brought on this war, and call on the working men and women to keep out and let those who made the war do the fighting. It would seem, then, that the Social Democrats of Canada are about the only peaceable men in the society. Their weapons are pens and tongues, and with these they make a vigorous onslaught on everybody but themselves, something like this from their circular:

"The Hague peace conference is a drooling, stuttering bankrupt. The Christian church is palsied, staggering in its poverty of influence to stop the blood gushing from a million wounds, while Christian cannon are battering down the Christian spires and altars of Europe. Capitalism wallows in the stinking filth of its own chaos. Jealous groups of greedy parasites in Europe are quarreling fiercely, ferociously quarreling, to hold stolen lands, to get more lands, to have more subjects, to have more creators of wealth, to secure more wage slaves, to secure more markets, to get more profits, to get more honors, more wealth, more power, place and plunder."

As we said, we do not know who these men are, but we are inclined to think that, with all their clamor, they they would probably shoulder rifles little liable to invasion, that they can citizens offer their lives to protect Another voice comes from that er-that prevails is the good cause. Take the facts of the present war Number them. Who's had "the luck?" Number the big features of the struggle, and ask what brought such a formidable battery of circumstances to bear upon the madman of Europe. Here they are:

Germany relied upon Italy to take one corner of the struggle and materialize the Triple Alliance into a tremendous three-edged But Italy had been given a precedent as to the worth of "scraps of paper." and, an honorable nation, with an honorable king, she rejected her partnership and threw her moral support with humanity's

4. Belgium's resistance was the wonder of the war. For more than twenty days the Germans were occupied in this country. France had time to prepare for a blow that would have staggered her without that providential stay.

5. The German march on Paris has signally failed. The strategists of the great war board seem to have been checkmated at every turn. Their superior forces and wonderful organization have counted for nothing. French and Joffre have accomplished the seemingly impossible.

The immensity of these facts would go to demonstrate that, ranged along with Britain, France and Russia, there is a fourth ally, without fleet or army, yet the greatest of all.

Fast racing and exciting finishes marked the two events run off in front of the grandstand at the Fair grounds vesterday. Major Kally, the grand rold marked the two events run off in front of the grandstand at the Fair grounds yesterday. Major Kelly, the grey gelding, owned by William Collins, of this city, took the feature event, the 2:22 pace, in straight heats. This race went four heats, Patchen Wilkes II, winning the first heat. In the three final heats, Major Kelly stepped along nicely. He did the second and third heats in 2:13 ½, but the last heat, 2:16 flat was the slowest of the race.

Bad Spill in Trot.

In the three-year-old trotting event, five heats were necessary before Pearl Thorne, Dr. Riddell's mare, proved the winner. In the third heat, Pearl Thorne fell near the three-quarter pole and Dr. Riddell, who was driving her, was thrown out and pretty badly shaken up. The mare was not hurt to any extent, however, and came back and won the last two heats with a new driver up. Petrena a gravity in the size of the same was not heat and driver up.

Toronto Catcher and Outfielder Tops the List for Season Just Ended, According to Official Averages To Be Issued Shortly-Bierbauer, of London, Second.

(BY BERT PERRY.) According to the official Canadian League averages, which will be issued shortly by President Fitzgerald, Irwin Trout, the Toronto catcher and outfielder, will lead the league in hitting, with an average somewhere around .250. Louis Bierbauer, the London first baseman, is said to be second, with a mark that is about ten points behind Trout's average.

Smallest Mark Yet.

Trout has been hitting for over half the season. He displaced Kelly Harris, the Eric right fielder, who was on top early in the season, and his consistent that it was consistent. He suffered little or no slump all season, and figured in very few games in which he failed to get at least one safe blow. Both Bierbauer and Harris slumped badly at the end of the season. Bierbauer was going great in July, but in the middle and latter part of August he fell off. Had he continued the pace he set himself during the hot weather he likely would have beaten Trout out for the honors. Louis complained greatly about the signs in centre field at Teeumseh Park. He said they interfered considerably with the hitting on the local lot, and this was largely true. Like Snyder and Mullin, he was always at his best when on the road. The signs directly in line League averages, which will be issued Harris bears out the statement that the Can- the road.

Harris Slumped Badly.

The signs directly in line with the plate in centre field are hard on the eyes of the batter, owing to the brilliant paint. When the sun is skining on this glossy surface it casts Kelly Harris, who was second to Trout for several weeks, took a slump toward the close of the season, and his average seeing the ball when it comes up to the is barely over the 300 mark. For the last three weeks he did not bat over the signs. For the plate almost hidden in the glitter of The players complained last three weeks he did not but over the signs. The players complained action and this pulled him down from acriy all season about this, but no 349 to about .302. It is expected that when the averages are issued the figures of Trout and Harris will be something be removed before next season starts.

LESS MEAT IF BACK AND KIDNEYS HURT

Take a Glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys If Bladder Bothers You.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation. The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder oothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithiawater drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

THE JUDGES

Mr. Harry Ranahan, Mr. C. G. Jarvis and Dr. G. L. Clarke have consented to act as judges, and will inspect all answers submitted as soon as possible after Thursday, October 1, 1914, the day on which all sets of Answers must be in, and the awards will be announced as soon as the winners are determined.

The Correct List Answers

Has been deposited in The Canada Trust Company's vault in the sealed package in which it was forwarded from New York City, for the past three (3) months, and no one, not even the judges, know the correct Answers until this list is opened.

The Summer Pastime Handbook and the Participant's Logbook (25c and 50c) represent aids in the competition not to be neglected by those who are wise. The Handbook shows the way to find the names corresponding to the pictures. The Handbook and Logbook together contain four complete sets of answer forms (you may win as many as four prizes). And the Logbook gives PLAIN and POSITIVE CLUES to TWENTY of the REBUS PICTURES.

A new paid-in-advance six months' subscription to The London Advertiser entitles the person bringing it in to the Handbook free. A yearly subscription gives you the Handbook and Logbook both. Handbook and Logbook will be supplied at our office or mailed to any address upon receipt of 75c. Call or write London Advertiser, London, Ont.

Summer Pastimers are enjoying heaps of fun solving the Rebus Pictures. Those who, for one reason or another, have remained aloof are cordially invited to go in and win!

AND THE BASEBALL MAGNATES REALIZE IT

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON.

Baseball's clearing house located at Fort Wayne, Ind., is perhaps the oddest, and at the same time the most interesting example of the commercial development of the national game.

Up in a suite of offices a little man whose hair has grown gray doping ball players, sits amidst a maze of figures that would drive the hardiest dope fiend in the country insane and amidst a maelstrom of sixes and eights and sevens and twos, and all combinations of figures possible, calmly sorts out the records of about 8,000 baseball players, follows their doings, day by day, reports what they have done to owners of baseball clubs in many parts of the country and supplies the information that sends scouts scurrying all over America in search of second Ty Cobbs and Walter Johnsons. The keeper of this maze of figures is Louis Heilbronner, president of the Central League, former scout of the Cincinnati team, and a man, who, since a mere boy, has been associated with baseball. In his office, from five to eight skilled youths, clever at figures, work constantly compiling statistics. daily records of from 1,700 to 1,800 men are carried forward, so that, at the end of each day, the player's record and average is complete.

Thirty-seven leagues, in organized baseball, and the Federal League, are entered, posted, and carried forward Practically every ball player in America is in the record filing case. There are between 7,000 and 8,000 "live" ones, meaning men actually engaged in playing. Besides that Heilbronner has the records of thousands more who have been in, and who may come back, more thousands of "dead" ones who may be the Cobbs and Johnsons of the next five or six years. It was hard and expensive work to even on it. THIS IS LOOIE
