Government Says Crown Attorney Must Work Full Time

BECK SAYS BOARD MAY GET REPORT ON MONDAY

Sir Adam Has Not Yet Completed Negotiations For Price For the Street Railway.

TIME IS SHORT

Must Be In Next Week If Citizens Are To Vote On Purchase of Property.

Sir Adam Beck says today that he "might" have a report for the consideration of the city council Monday night, pertaining to his negotiations in progress with the London street railway for a purchase price.

The member for London stated further that he had not completed his negotiations with the company authorities, and it is assumed that they are continuing today.

City Clerk Sam Baker warned today that the time is growing short, and if no definite action is taken by the council in this respect on Monday night next, it will be imperative to stage a special meeting before the end of the week.

Consistent with 1922, the city council has left the street railway question until the last possible moment. The statutes clearly define that all bylaws going to the people in December must be advertised not less than three weeks before the day of the election.

Sufficient time must be allowed for action by the council, the preparation of the bylaws, and Monday's session is the last regular meeting before the last possible date of advertisement, in order to comply with the law.

Every minute is now valuable, in view of the fact that additional time must be allowed in which to give the aldermen adequate notice of a special session.

Mayor Wenige has repeatedly urged that all facts pertaining to the proposed purchase of the street railway be submitted to the people at an early date. He feared a repetition of last year when the Dunlop report was "sprung" on the ratepayers during the actual campaign.

R. G. Ivey, president of the company, arrived back in the city this morning. He explains that he has been absent all week attending to matters other than street railways. He fails to understand how he was quoted in a recent interview by a local paper when he tendered no interview.

The vice-president's fund of information for the public's edification was on a par with Sir Adam's. Mr. Ivey didn't know whether he was to be any report for Monday. He even "didn't know" whether negotiations with the member for London had been completed.

About the only thing he did know was that their purchase price was not going to be "lowered materially," as was reported from Toronto after the meeting with the Ontario cabinet.

BLUENOSE'S OWNER WAS WILLING TO RACE AGAIN

Arthur H. Zwicker Issues a Statement on Captain Walters' Action.

PLACES THE BLAME

Claims Skipper of Canadian Boat Acted Without Authority.

Canadian Press Despatch. Halifax, N. S., Nov. 3.—The Gloucester schooner "Bluenose," aspirant for international fishermen's racing honors, left for home at 9:30 this morning.

Arthur H. Zwicker, managing owner of the Bluenose, issued the following statement last night: "I was prepared to send the Bluenose to the line for tomorrow's race against the Columbia, and was making preparations for providing substitutes for any members of the crew who did not want to sail. Before my arrangements were completed I was informed that Capt. Angus Walters had left the wharf, engaged a tug and was under way for Lunenburg. Capt. Walters' action in this respect was done entirely upon his own responsibility, and without the knowledge or consent of myself or associates, as our intention was to abide by the decision of the sailing commission and have the Bluenose go to the line for the third race with the Columbia." (Signed) "ARTHUR H. ZWICKER, "Managing Owner of Bluenose."

The vice-president's fund of information for the public's edification was on a par with Sir Adam's. Mr. Ivey didn't know whether he was to be any report for Monday. He even "didn't know" whether negotiations with the member for London had been completed.

Kings and Queens Attend Wedding of Lady Louise To Swedish Crown Prince

St. James Palace Is Scene of Brilliant Function Early Today.

GLITTERING SCENE

Bride Is Daughter of Former Prince Louis of Battenburg.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

London, Nov. 3.—At the Chapel Royal, St. James' Palace, today Crown Prince Gustave Adolf of Sweden was married to Lady Louise Mountbatten, daughter of the late Admiral the Marquis of Milford-Haven (better known perhaps by his former title of Prince Louis of Battenburg), and cousin of King George of England.

The King of Sweden and Queen George, with Queen Mary, King Mother Alexandra, the Prince of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of York and practically the whole of the British and Swedish royal families were present, as well as many Swedish and Scandinavian notables. The wedding was a full state affair, despite the only semi-royal birth of the bride (about which there has been some discussion in Sweden in connection with the succession to the throne).

Glittering Uniforms. The bride's mother was a granddaughter of Queen Victoria of England, while her father was a throneless German princeling who relinquished his German titles in favor of an English marquise during the great war in order to remain an English admiral, he having served with the British navy all his life, and at the outbreak of hostilities he was actually first sea lord of the British admiralty.

Swedish naval and military uniforms were largely in evidence, the King of Sweden and the bridegroom

LONDON IS MECCA FOR TEACHERS NEXT WEEK

Almost 600 Members of the Teaching Profession Will Assemble Thursday.

175 FROM BORDER

Windsor Teachers Guests of Local Officials and Will Visit Schools.

When the annual meeting of the London Teachers' Institute opens at the central collegiate on Thursday, the members will be treated to a program, which for entertainment and instruction could not be excelled.

It is replete with splendid addresses to be given by prominent educationists.

Thursday will be devoted to the local institute only and several addresses made, as well as the presentation of reports and electing of officers. Friday is really the big day.

More than 175 primary, secondary and separate school teachers of the Border Cities will arrive in London at 9:30 a.m. to be the guests till the evening of the institute. They will be met at the station by Mayor George Wenige, Chairman A. N. Udy, members of the board, officials and teachers. From the station they will be taken on a tour of inspection of local schools, where the methods of instruction will be observed.

At noon luncheon will be given them at the central collegiate, followed by more visits to schools. At 3:30 p.m. they will be taken for a motor drive around the city and district, during which they will be shown all the points of interest—university buildings, hospitals, parks, factories, etc.

High tea will be served at the Ryerson school by the Women Teachers' Guild, after which a musical program will be given at the same building, under the direction of E. W. G. Quinlan, supervisor of music in the London schools. This will be given in part by scholars of the school and will wind up about 3:30 p.m. The visitors will then leave for Windsor on the 9:09 o'clock train from the C.N.R. station.

One of the features of the convention will be the reading by Bliss Carmen on Thursday night in the Masonic Temple in association with the Women's Canadian Club.

All the schools in the city will be closed on Thursday and Friday, excepting those chosen for inspection.

WILL FINISH CONCRETE WORK BY MONDAY NOON

All concrete on the new Richmond street pavement will have been laid by Monday noon. This means that the entire job will be completed this year despite those who shouted "blue ruin" persistently since the first of the year.

The concrete must set for two weeks before the asphalt is laid, but inclement weather will not necessarily interfere with this operation. Asphalt can be laid at practically any time of the year.

BURDICK BACKS RAISE FOR COMMISSIONER BENNETT

"He is going to have at least $3,000," he stated, "and not $2,600, as outlined by the mayor."

Associated Press Despatch.

Paris, Nov. 3.—A Havas despatch from Berlin says it is learned authoritatively that the Bavarian government has sent an ultimatum to Chancellor Stresemann demanding the establishment of a Nationalist dictatorship. The Bavarian government, the despatch announces, intends moving forward the troops now assembled at the Bavarian frontier unless such a dictatorship is created with the briefest delay.

Every Child Is Lovely and The Advertiser Wants Them All For Christmas—Six Judges Will Choose From the Photographs

Lovely Children From Four Years Old To Seven—Must Live in the Twelve Counties—Search Will Last Five Weeks, Closing Dec. 12—A Christmas Party in London

Lovely children! The most precious of man's treasures. The Advertiser wants to find the loveliest children of all the Western Counties.

Children are never more lovable than they are at Christmas time, because Christmas time belongs especially to them. And The Advertiser wants to find the loveliest children as the best possible way of interpreting the spirit of Christmas.

The loveliest children of the western counties will be The Advertiser's Christmas present to everyone.

When they have been found The Advertiser will give a Christmas party in London. It won't be on Christmas Day, of course, because all children must be at home then, or there would be neither home nor Christmas. But it will be a Christmas party nevertheless—a party for all the loveliest children, east, west, north and south, and The Advertiser will try to pay them proper honor in a way which mustn't be told just now.

It's a Christmas secret, and we won't even tell their Mothers.

There are lovely children everywhere, and it will be pretty difficult to choose the loveliest. The Advertiser wants their photographs and from all the photographs, four will finally be chosen.

The following ladies and gentlemen have consented to accept the difficult task of making the selections:

- Mrs. Allan McLean, Regent of the Municipal Chapter of the I. O. D. E.
- Mrs. W. A. Tanner, President of the Union Mothers' Club.
- Hon. Sir Adam Beck, M.P.P.
- Arthur T. Little, Chairman of the Board of Governors of the University of Western Ontario.
- J. P. Hunt, and
- Edward Glen, both well-known London artists.

The conditions governing The Advertiser's search for the loveliest children are simple. Here they are:

- 1—Children must be between four and seven years of age. That is, they may be four, five, six or seven, but not under four or over seven.
- 2—They must live in one of the twelve western counties—Middlesex, Oxford, Elgin, Perth, Waterloo, Wellington, Gray, Huron, Bruce, Lambton, Essex and Kent.
- 3—Photographs must reach The Advertiser before Wednesday, December 12, addressed to the "Editor for Lovely Children."
- 4—Each photograph must be accompanied by a statement signed by parent or nearest relative giving the child's age and home address. The Advertiser will return all photographs.
- 5—The photograph may be large or small, but it must have been taken within the last six months.
- 6—Photographs of lovely children will be published in The Advertiser each day. These will be picked at random from those received, in order that the public may share in The Advertiser's pleasure, and such selections will have no bearing on the final choice.

The Advertiser wants to see lovely children from every county—every farm and village and town and city in the twelve western counties named, and from every street in London.

Every child is lovely, and The Advertiser wants to meet them all.

Gin and Woman Downfall Of Visitor From St. Marys

Gin and woman were the downfall of a St. Marys citizen in London last night. He and his lady friend were swallowing numerous portions of the intoxicating fluid in a taxi when the law, in the persons of Constables Nottle and Ayers, bore down quietly on the taxi which was parked conveniently.

As the car was hardly being termed the private dwelling of the St. Marys man, he was fined $200 and costs, or three months in jail by Magistrate Graydon today.

NEW CROWN ATTORNEY WILL WORK FULL TIME

Government Decides County's Crown Representative Must Give Up Private Practice.

MARKS CHANGE

Former Appointees Were Permitted To Engage in Their Other Business.

Special to The Advertiser.

Toronto, Nov. 3.—The attorney-general's department desires that the crown attorneyship of London and Middlesex county be placed upon a full-time basis, it was announced today from a competent government source.

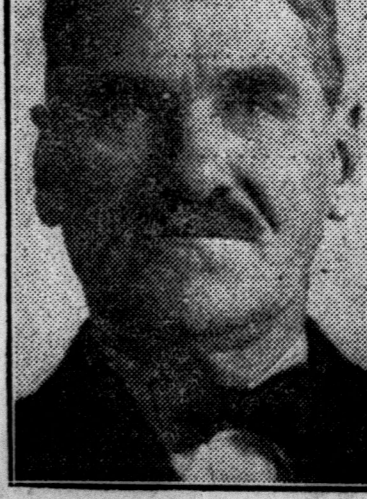

There is every expectation that the provincial department will be able to secure the right man for the position at a salary that the government is prepared to pay.

No appointment is anticipated for another week at least and probably two weeks, the attorney-general stated today definitely.

Before J. C. Elliott, the present incumbent, was appointed, strong representations were made to the administration of that day that the appointee be required to give his entire time to the work of the crown and abandon his private practice.

The ex-attorney-general, W. E. Raney, was unable to view the situation in this light, however, and Mr. Elliott, appointed to succeed the late J. B. McKillop, was allowed to continue his private affairs as well as crown duties.

From the Toronto report all this is to be changed, providing, of course, that it will be possible to secure the right type of attorney for the salary contemplated.

MARMORA ST. MAN MEETS DEATH WHEN WALK FALLS

Josiah Perkins, Local Butcher, Is Buried in a Cave-In.

INSTALLING METER

Neighbor Excavates Body After Search Lasting Many Hours.

After conducting a search until 1 o'clock this morning for Josiah Perkins, 73, a butcher at 64 Marmora street, he was found crushed to death in a hole which he himself had dug under a sidewalk. Two cement flags had fallen on him, and he was senseless, and he was suffocated when the remaining excavated dirt fell in upon him.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Mr. Perkins commenced to install a water meter under his front sidewalk at his home. He was digging all afternoon. At 6 o'clock his wife, who is an invalid, missed him. She told neighbors that he had not been seen for several hours and that she rarely did leave his home for long. A search was conducted for him throughout the night. Upon the suggestion of a neighbor of Mrs. Perkins, the hole which the missing man had dug during the afternoon was opened. Alec Fitzsimmons dug for several minutes and excavated the body, which was horribly crushed, the head being smashed, and the skull broken from the heavy weight of the cement flags as they fell upon him.

Dr. Cameron Wilson was called at one o'clock this morning and said that Mr. Perkins had been dead for several hours and that death was caused from suffocation. Logan's ambulance removed the body to their funeral home at two o'clock.

Mrs. Perkins is terribly upset over the accident. She is an invalid and at present confined to her bed from shock.

Mr. Perkins is survived by his widow, two daughters and one son who were all present at the time of the accident. They will arrive in London today.

DRAKE RECONSIDERS DECISION ON SALARY

Believes $3,000, Amount Set For Bennett, Not Any Too Large.

Ald. Gordon Drake has reconsidered his decision of yesterday, and today he expressed the opinion that the salaries as passed at the last session of the committee should go through as read.

"I have been thinking it over and decided that we should allow Bennett's salary to go at $3,000, as we said," he explained, "and I'll stick by that. I hear that in Toronto, for instance, the costs of the assessment department are terrible, and I do not think that $3,000 is at all out of the way."

Ald. Drake, however, scores any attempt by heads of the department to recommend that they be paid in departments other than their own. Let each official submit his list of increases for Monday, and let the council judge each on its own merits.

The councillor from ward three declares that there has been too much "monkeying" with the salary question, and if he were mayor, he would have the business settled right.

TO PROBE COMPLAINT AGAINST CONSTABLE

Mayor Arranging For Special Session of the Police Commission.

Mayor Wenige is arranging for a special session of the police commission on Monday afternoon to hear complaints of "persecution" against the department.

These questions were laid over from yesterday's session in view of the fact that the commissioners desire that the complainants should appear.

In the first instance, W. Spence, railroad trainman, protests his recent arrest when crossing the market square on the way to work. P. C. Tole, the officer involved, will also appear for the hearing. Mayor Wenige states that other witnesses have been also directed to attend.

The chairman reports that the commissioners will also be asked to consider a more recent complaint registered by a Mr. Murray. The latter will also be asked to be present before the case will be heard.

URGES STANDARDIZATION OF ALL CITY SALARIES

COLBERT WOULD STANDARDIZE ALL CITY SALARIES

Labor Alderman Says This Is Only Fair Way To Deal With Situation.

OTHERS AFRAID? COMMISSION VOTE
Ald. John Colbert recommends a complete standardization of all city wages, even if it becomes imperative to reduce the salaries of certain city officials.
Furthermore, he challenges those members of the city council who are juggling with the city hall pay roster in an obvious effort to vote on a complete readjustment of the pay roll and standardize the wages. Ald. Colbert declared: "The whole trouble is, of course, that there are those members of the council who are afraid to make the move to close the election. But it could be done, and if we did not have sufficient funds we could trim the city officials' salaries a bit in my opinion certain of the latter are receiving too much for the money paid the employees. Another thing that I object to is that when I was at the city hall in an effort to do something about salaries, the general opinion among them appeared to be that the outside workers should not have a vacation. I maintain further that if Assessment Commissioner Bennett is not worth more than $2,000, then the other officials are receiving far too much. Great responsibility rests upon him and his department, the very spreading of the taxes equally is quite as important as any department in the city hall, and perhaps more important than several."

WILLING TO HAVE BRITAIN REPORT DISCUSSED AGAIN

Aldermen Favorable to Re-opening at Monday's Council Meeting.

Members of the city council are lining up favorably for a final struggle Monday night to send the commission form of government project to the people for a mandate in December.
Mayor Wenige will ask for a re-consideration of the Britain report, in view of the fact that the council, at the last session, referred the many recommendations on to 1924.
It is now proposed that the council re-open the question after a two-week interval, and deal with the commission government proposal, referring the remainder of the report to next year, pursuant to their policy recently adopted.
There is every indication now that the council will be willing to send the measure to the ratepayers, at least for an expression, in view of the weight of public opinion favoring it. The council is more favorable to Dr. Brittain's recommendation.
Favors Re-opening.
"There should be no harm in having the question at least re-opened Monday night for another discussion," Ald. Hayden declared. "I favor the commission form of government and believe that the people should have an opportunity to express their opinion. I know we need a city manager, but I cannot quite see eye to eye with the smaller board of commissioners in place of the twelve-man council. I quite agree, however, that city operations could be undertaken with greater despatch than at present."
Ald. Leonard Douglass, chairman of the board of works, also favors a re-consideration of the commission form of government proposal.
Wants More Detail.
"As a matter of fact, I am in favor of it," the chairman stated. "But what I desired to know was what specific form of government we were to place before the people for approval. The mayor did not appear to know at the last session. I am certainly willing that the question be re-opened for consideration Monday in order that we may be better able to present it intelligently to the electors."
Ald. Frank McKay, labor councillor, is more than willing to re-open the question for consideration, but he is not quite sure that the council should tackle the entire Britain report. He submits that this undertaking would not be as formidable as it appears. "I believe, however, that another vote upon the commission form of civic administration is strictly necessary, referring to the fact that several years ago the ratepayers approved of a similar move, but it was rejected by the legislature."

DIBS AND DABS

Retiring President of London Liberal Club Will Be Greatly Missed.

VALIANT WORKER

Andrew Robson, who resigned the presidency of the Liberal Club last evening after being elected to that office for seven consecutive terms, has been one of the leading Liberal lights of this city for years.
Coming from a Liberal family, which located in Lobo Township away back in 1819, his grandfather was one of the most active supporters of Alexander Mackenzie. Andrew Robson and his brother, Lieut.-Col. Earl Robson, who was a Liberal candidate in the 1919 provincial election, were born on the Lobo farm and imbued with Liberal traditions from early youth.
In 1916, Mr. Robson was the unanimous choice of London Liberals for the presidency of the Liberal Club. Every election called for his best efforts in supporting various reform candidates, and his work in this connection since the earliest Hyman campaign has been indefatigable.
Offered Nomination.
In 1919, Mr. Robson was offered the Liberal nomination to contest this constituency in the provincial election, but he declined. Again in the spring of this year he was asked to carry the Liberal banner for London, but he was forced to decline a second time.
Mr. Robson was a close friend of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and was intimate of practically all the Liberal cabinet ministers since 1900. He has been a member of the provincial executive of the Liberal Club Federation for many years. In 1919, he did his part in framing the national platform on which Premier King was brought into power. During the convention at Ottawa, Mr. Robson recommended many features of recent Liberal policy. He voted for H. C. Williams, Fielding, now minister of finance, to be leader of the party. By right of service and experience, he believed Mr. Fielding was the logical successor to Sir Wilfrid, but owing mainly to Fielding's advocacy of union government he did not receive the indorsement of the convention.
Active Church Member.
A contractor by profession, Mr. Robson has been associated with architecture and engineering since he was a young man. He has been a member of the London Church ever since he came to London 22 years ago. He is chairman of the board of managers of the London Presbyterian Church, and has been a member of the board of managers of the London Presbyterian Church since he came to London 22 years ago. He is chairman of the board of managers of the London Presbyterian Church, and has been a member of the board of managers of the London Presbyterian Church since he came to London 22 years ago.

Predicts Boom In English Trade

Associated Press Despatch.
LONDON, Nov. 3.—Trade prospects are improving in the northern area of England, and a boom in the steel trade is foreshadowed at Sheffield. A distinct improvement in the silver trade at Mid-dleborough is noticeable. Pig iron manufacturers report a considerable increase in inquiries from prospective buyers.
The ministry of labor registers show some check to the recent growth of unemployment figures, although there still remain a considerable number of people out of work. In Leeds there are nearly 17,000 unemployed, in Bradford 16,000, in Sheffield 20,000, and in Newcastle 10,000.

Annual Meeting at the Head Office in Toronto Has a Record Attendance.

URGES THRIFT TALKS

The annual meeting of the members of the Penny Bank of Ontario, held at the head office of the bank in Toronto on Oct. 30, was the most largely attended meeting in the history of the bank. Col. H. D. Lockhart, D. S. O., the president, was in the chair. Among the members present were G. D. Boulton of the Imperial Bank of Canada, Major S. C. Norworthy of the Bank of Montreal, Col. James L. Hughes, former chief inspector of Toronto schools, F. E. Edmunds, chairman of the Toronto board of education; Rev. Father Minehan, Angus MacMurchy, K. C., and a number of others, including several members from outside the city.
The financial statement as certified to by the auditors, Messrs. Clarkson, Gordon & Dillworth, showed the bank to be in an exceptionally strong condition, and to have held its own in the depression through which the country has been passing.
Principals Approve.
Mr. Edmunds, chairman of the Toronto School Board, assured the members that his board was completely in sympathy with the work the bank is doing, and that he believed the efforts of the Penny Bank in every way possible.
He stated that the principals were unanimous in their approval of the present mode of operation, and that both inspectors and principals now felt that the work was being carried on at a minimum cost in time.
Among a number of valuable suggestions, he proposed that short hints for their use by the teachers to the pupils might be prepared by the Penny Bank for distribution throughout the schools.
Thank Managers.
During the meeting it developed that the school board of one Ontario city had written to a great number of school boards throughout the province, asking for their opinion of the Penny Bank, and that the replies without exception had been favorable to the bank. Some of these replies were read to the members, who expressed considerable satisfaction that the efforts were so well appreciated throughout the country.
Votes of thanks were accorded to local managers of chartered banks and to the school teachers for their generous spirit which marked their co-operation with the work of the Penny Bank.
Directors for the ensuing year were elected, and the officers appointed as follows: President, Col. H. D. Lockhart; vice-president, Henry Cocksbutt and Hamilton Cassels, K. C., the president being Col. H. D. Lockhart, Gordon, D. S. O.

REPORT MANY SHEEP BEING KILLED BY DOGS

Glencoe District Farmers Complain of Raids Made by Vicious Canines.
Vicious dogs have been plundering many farmers living in the vicinity of Newbury of their sheep, according to advices received today. Neil McLarty, owner of numerous sheep, has lost several through the attacks of neighboring dogs on his sheepfold. Others report similar losses.
The first intimation that the orgy of sheep killing had broken out among the dogs came a week ago when a district farmer found two of his lambs torn to pieces by a dog. The killing of sheep in this fashion has continued for days.
If the deaths can be traced to any particular dog or dogs, the owners will be compelled to shoot the animal and recompense farmers for their losses. A close lookout is being maintained to catch the dogs responsible.

THINKS GYMNASIUM ESSENTIAL AT SCHOOL

Vocational Committee Will Discuss Technical Institution at Monday Meeting.
So far nothing but routine business has been placed on the agenda of the meeting of the vocational advisory committee of the board of education, to be held at the Technical School Monday night. It is probable, however, that a certain amount of discussion will come up on the question of the addition of a gymnasium and auditorium to the building, both of which are considered by Principal H. B. Beal as essential to the welfare of the students.
The six-room addition now in course of construction is progressing rapidly and will be completed before the end of the year.

SCARLET FEVER AND CHICKENPOX SHOW DECREASE

Dr. Downham Declares Health Conditions in London Very Favorable.

WELL PROTECTED

"Neither scarlet fever nor chicken-pox is epidemic, nor are there as many cases as in the same week of the last two years," was the statement of Health Officer Downham today in connection with the figures for communicable diseases as shown in the report for the week ending Oct. 27. The report shows 14 cases of chicken-pox, and 19 of scarlet fever, and although this is slightly ahead of former years, it is a decided drop from 1922 and 1921.
Dr. Downham not only says that the figures in this report are comparatively low, but adds that London is on the whole very well served in the matter of health protection, and is one of the best places in the province in which to live as far as one's health is concerned.
"In a small city or town where the medical officer gives only part time to the work," he says, "it is necessarily not able to give as much attention to the city's work as he should. Again, in the great cities of the continent it is absolutely impossible for the medical officer to keep in actual touch with all the cases registered. So you see here in London, which I think is just the right size, and where the health officer is able to get around and see all the cases, you are, or should be, particularly well protected in this way."
Many city physicians agree that both these communicable diseases are no more prevalent than is normal at this time of the year, and view with mild concern the figures in the report. They do not believe that they herald anything more serious than what is more or less customary among children in the autumn. Of course they realize the imperative need for isolation, so that the disease will not be introduced into the schools. But that is all.

PUMPKIN COLLAPSES AS TEACHER CARVES IT

The frailty of the pumpkin was demonstrated at one of the public schools in Hallowe'en, according to Inspector Whedbee.

On Wednesday last the children in a certain school were informed by the teacher that if they took the pumpkins to school she would hollow it out and make a jack-o-lantern.

One kiddie took a small one and handed it to the teacher. On giving it to her he produced a paper bag and told her that he wanted the pulp back, as he had been instructed by his mother, who gave him the pumpkins for the fruit, to bring the inside home for a pie.

Indian Summer Now Bathes The Land In Purple Glory

Two Weeks of Delightful Weather To Follow First Snowfall of Season—Gala Days For Nut Hunters.

Indian summer, in all its glory, has arrived. There is an old saying, which generally holds good, that after the first snowfall, Indian summer comes. Indian summer is generally of two weeks' duration. Then it is that the boys go out to gather the nuts which nip to the ground, saving the hunters the trouble of "shinning" up the trees and shaking them down.

Although the poet said: "The mel-ancholy days have come, the saddest of the year," in speaking of November, the average individual does not see eye to eye with him. This seasonally brief calm before the storm king's legions sweep down on this north land instills joy rather than melancholy.

Last London did not have an Indian summer. This year the weather is the signal for the use of a heavy of adjectives in the superlative degree.

The weather is ideal. Cold nights, conducive to sleep, and mild, sunlit days, a combination few countries can boast, is certainly drawing much favorable comment from Londoners, even from those who, as a rule, have nothing to say.

WOOD CUT RECALLS MANY CONQUESTS OF THOROUGHBRE

Anglo-Saxon. Owned by William Weld. Outstanding Horse of His Day.

VERSES IN HONOR

London and Canada West have always had a reputation for well-bred horses, and a love and appreciation of the saddle horse and the hunter in particular. That this is no modern development is seen from many an old print of the London horses of forty and fifty years ago.

It is an old wood cut about 14 inches long and 12 in height. In the center of a mass of the usual scroll work ever dear to the heart of the wood carver stand "Anglo-Saxon," a great, deep-chested, clean-boned horse, once the property of William Weld, who lived in Delaware.

The prizes won by Anglo-Saxon and the dates of his victories are arranged around the edge of the print in little panels in the scroll work. They are: London, first prize, 1861; Toronto, first prize and gold medal, 1862, and Prince of Wales prize, 1860, and Kingston, first prize and Prince of Wales prize, 1863.

In the background is the old Weld homestead, with a fat steer standing by the door. At the foot of the print are three verses by William Weld, in memory of his great horse, entitled, "Address to My Horse Anglo-Saxon."

The picture came into the possession of Mrs. Schuyler at an auction sale in the city some years ago, when she was able to pick it up for the proverbial song. Her father, Allan Thomas, worked the Weld farms, and the Schuyler and Weld farms adjoined each other.

Anglo-Saxon was alive and in his prime at the time that Allan Thomas split wood and carried water for William Weld. Mrs. Schuyler prizes the old wood cut as a very unique and historical article. The verses written by William Weld to his horse, and which show how strong his love for a real horse was, are as follows:

"Address to My Horse Anglo-Saxon." Yes, here we stand, proud Anglo-Saxon, On Westgate's fertile hill; neigh loud for me again; Let hill and dale re-echo with thy sound; Toss rattles thy mane. Now on thy hind legs stand and fight the air, Now strike and paw the ground; Look round and see.

Now scan the river scene—the rivers, hills and dale; And see thy rolling race; there let them toil; But thou has done thy work; Three times thou hast been brought to conquer.

The best that wealth could buy from foreign climes, Or care and skill could raise, to vie with laurels crowned.

And leave the gold for others now to win; Neither from fear nor dread dost thou retire, For all admit that none can thee approach. But should thy rival come and stand the test, Of years, as thou hast done, then once more come forth and show again thy powers, For young thou art such honors to have won.

GRAPHIC TALE OF HEROISM IN FACE OF GREAT DANGER

Aid Given by C. P. R. Liner Empress of Australia in Japanese Earthquake.

HOUSED REFUGEES

One of the most thrilling and instructive stories written in recent years is contained in the official report of Capt. S. Robinson, R.N.R., commander of the Canadian Pacific S.S. Empress of Australia, on the Japanese earthquake, the fire and subsequent relief operation, issued in booklet form by the Canadian Pacific Steamships, Ltd.

It is a small 24-page booklet in a fresh story of the "island race" fulfilling every great tradition of the sea and that echoes every tale of adventure and courage in the long history of brave men who have followed the rolling trail and gone down to the sea in ships. It is a tale of a seaman, a Royal Naval Reserve man, and of his nerve-steady crew, who stood by him and carried out his orders in the face of imminent destruction and in the midst of chaos indescribable.

The working of the report is just what a story in a night rest in any report made by a naval officer during the war. The facts of the catastrophe are set in nautical terms of the seaman and recorded with plain and accurate statement of fact which is the sure indication of the trained service man.

Land Moved in Waves. Captain Robinson tells of the first quakes, and of the actual shocks, which "the land moving in waves six and eight feet high, like swells of fast-moving ocean waves, plainly visible from our bridge and leading straight to the ship."

It is trying to speak of the breaking out of fire in the devastated city and of the burning of the freight sheds, which were just beside the wharf and from the burning sheds the Empress fouled the S.S. Steel Navigator. The Lyons Maru, one of the T. & K. boats, broke down at moorings and struck the ship, and what with drifting barges which were on fire, smoke and dust clouds, together with the floating oil, some hours. All this was at noon of Saturday, Sept. 1, in the harbor of Tokio.

On Sunday, having reached the center of the earthquake zone, Robinson was able to get a tow from the Iris, one of the Anglo-Saxon Petroleum Company's tugs, and was in comparative safety. The Iris, a single-screw steamer with 4,000 tons of benzene and kerosene on board, had been wrecked. Robinson is emphatic in his praise of the services rendered by her skipper, Capt. A. J. Koning, and his crew.

Mr. Boulter, the British consular, was given a room, and after getting some of the refugees on board, the total souls on the Empress on Sunday night was Europeans, 50; Chinese, 705; and Japanese, 604. The injured and many of the refugees were transferred to the Empress of Canada, which also supplied the Australia with two boatloads of provisions.

Secretary Arranges For Use of Schoolrooms as Polling Booths. Eighteen city schools will be used for polling purposes in the forthcoming municipal elections, according to Secretary W. A. Tanner, who stated this morning that arrangements had been made to use the schools for voting in 57 subdivisions. For this the board will receive seven dollars per room, or a total of $399.

The schools, with the subdivisions which will be voted, are as follows: Simcoe—4, 5, 7, 8; Tecumseh—11, 12, 13, 14; Wortley road—15, 16, 18; Victoria—19, 21, 22, 23; Riverview—23, 24; Talbot street—31, 32, 33, 34; Empress avenue—37, 38; Alexandra—42, 43, 50; Rectory street—45, 46, 47; Aberdeen—52, 53, 57, 58; Chesley avenue—59, 60; Wellington—61, 62; Lorne avenue—70, 71, 72, 73, 80; Boyle Memorial—73, 74, 90; Lord Roberts—76, 77, 81; St. George's—82, 83, 84, 85, 86; Ryerson—87, 88.

MOthers and Their Children. My four-year-old boy was confined to the house with a bad case of mumps. He wanted so much to play outdoors with his friends, so I helped him amuse himself by putting a big sponge and some clean pebbles in a pretty blue bowl, half-filled with water. I provided him with some leaves and an assortment of leaves and grasses brought in fresh from outdoors. He spent many afternoons planting seeds and making things grow in his own garden. He was so pleased that he wished it.

AGE OF DRUMS

Dr. Fred Stevenson Brings Wonderful Oriental Tapes to Conference.

RARE COLLECTION

In keeping with the nature of the World Missions Conference now in progress at the First Methodist Church is Dr. Fred Stevenson's exhibit in Wesley Hall, which last evening and this afternoon attracted a large number of visitors. It will be in place for the remainder of the conference. In addition to this, Dr. Stevenson has a wealth of interesting information about each object, and the visitors are regaled with fascinating stories of missionary life.

Although the cases were not all opened last evening, and the idols and curios were not on display until noon today, the tapestries, which are the central objects of the collection, were hung last night at a fine point of vantage.

To judge from these, it would seem that the phrase, "The Eternal Triangle," is one particularly well-remembered by any number of years old (no one knows just exactly how old), but Dr. Stevenson points out: "Their story is just like the movies." At first, one sees a little boy and a girl in a fantastic arrangement of figures of all shapes and sizes. But it only takes a little closer inspection to see the theme, "Two Men and a Woman." At some point in each, there are the two men glaring hate at each other, and ready to attack with dagger and spear. Then there is the lady in the case, dark-eyed, alluring, and as dainty as possible, with the tiny, round feet just showing beneath the elaborately-embroidered trouser.

Dragon Protects. In the first picture, she has the protection of a dragon, whose huge tall curls in one corner, and whose fiery eyes glare in the other corner. Apparently, in those days, also, women were quite well able to look after themselves, because at her side she carried a little dagger, which she appears to be quite willing to use, if the necessity arises. But this is not all the tapestry portrays. There are flowers, and fruits, and birds, and men, and women, and gardens, and all patterned with a marvelous grace, the whole a wonderful maze, but each tiny figure standing out clear from a background of its own.

Every line, every drawing, every stitch, is the handiwork of men, and the whole is a masterpiece of weaving, and the whole is a masterpiece of weaving, and the whole is a masterpiece of weaving.

Dr. Fred Stevenson Brings Wonderful Oriental Tapes to Conference.

RARE COLLECTION

In keeping with the nature of the World Missions Conference now in progress at the First Methodist Church is Dr. Fred Stevenson's exhibit in Wesley Hall, which last evening and this afternoon attracted a large number of visitors. It will be in place for the remainder of the conference. In addition to this, Dr. Stevenson has a wealth of interesting information about each object, and the visitors are regaled with fascinating stories of missionary life.

Although the cases were not all opened last evening, and the idols and curios were not on display until noon today, the tapestries, which are the central objects of the collection, were hung last night at a fine point of vantage.

To judge from these, it would seem that the phrase, "The Eternal Triangle," is one particularly well-remembered by any number of years old (no one knows just exactly how old), but Dr. Stevenson points out: "Their story is just like the movies." At first, one sees a little boy and a girl in a fantastic arrangement of figures of all shapes and sizes. But it only takes a little closer inspection to see the theme, "Two Men and a Woman." At some point in each, there are the two men glaring hate at each other, and ready to attack with dagger and spear. Then there is the lady in the case, dark-eyed, alluring, and as dainty as possible, with the tiny, round feet just showing beneath the elaborately-embroidered trouser.

Dragon Protects. In the first picture, she has the protection of a dragon, whose huge tall curls in one corner, and whose fiery eyes glare in the other corner. Apparently, in those days, also, women were quite well able to look after themselves, because at her side she carried a little dagger, which she appears to be quite willing to use, if the necessity arises. But this is not all the tapestry portrays. There are flowers, and fruits, and birds, and men, and women, and gardens, and all patterned with a marvelous grace, the whole a wonderful maze, but each tiny figure standing out clear from a background of its own.

CLOSED CAR EXHIBITION—Coupes and Sedans—

Today and next week. Attend it.

Beemer Company Showing New Line of Oakland Cars

The exhibition of closed cars, including coupes and sedans in Beemer & Company, Limited, show-rooms today and next week will be appreciated by motorists who drive in cold weather.

The showing will comprise models at prices to suit most purchasers. J. C. Beemer of the firm states: "The Cadillac, Reo and Oaklands this season are outstanding examples of beauty of design and quality workmanship at the several prices."

"Of the cars being shown," Mr. Beemer continued in his remarks, "of course nearly all Londoners are well acquainted with the Cadillac and Reo, but owing to the fact that the Oakland is a new line with me I appreciate every opportunity to tell of it."

"Oakland introduces a brand new Sedan and four-passenger coupe for the 1924 season. Both are mounted on the new Oakland six chassis, which is not in any sense 'redesigned,' but is new from radiator to tail light, including engine, clutch, frame, axles, four-wheel brakes and disc wheels. Both have bodies of finest Fisher quality and both make ample provision for the comfort of their full quota of passengers."

"The exteriors are painted in rich dark blue with red striping on bodies and wheels. The wheels are of steel disc construction, and five are furnished with each car. Fenders and all sheet metal work are finished in black enamel and the lamps, radiator and body hardware are nickel trimmed."

"Inside, the cars are upholstered in fine silk velours, the cushions and seat backs having a dark stripe on a taupe background, while the head lining is done in solid color taupe. Each car has a floor-type heater with a special valve which insures ample heat even at low car speeds. The windows have patent window lifts and are fitted with silk roller shades."

"These cars are unusually free from drumming and rattles. The doors have patent dovetails, the roof is sound-proof and, most important, the smooth six-cylinder engine operates quietly and without vibration at all car speeds."

"The closed car exhibit will continue all next week, and the public is invited to visit it by Beemer & Company."

CHICAGO CORN SHOW.

The Farmer's Wife:

This is the second of a series of weekly articles written by a Farmer's Wife in Western Ontario. This week she talks about Autumn Roadside.

Along each Autumn roadside, Lies a garden made by God, And purple asters bloom there, And glowing golden rod. The brilliant blue of vervain, With cardinal flowers near. All the colors of the sunset At the setting of the year.

It is funny the way we all go racing through life, hardly noticing the lovely things which we are passing, till suddenly Providence, in some guise or other, changes the sign to "STOP," and we have time to sit down and look around us. This time Providence took the form of a mail in a rear tire and held us up for a couple of hours. Strange, isn't it, that a man never appreciates his wife's advice when it comes to fixing a tire! It is probably one of the rare times when he wishes he had remained a bachelor. So the children and I walked a little way along the road to see how many different kinds of wild flowers we could find for our mixed bouquet. What quantities of flowers there were, and how beautifully arranged. A gardener might work for years and never achieve the gorgeous result of that natural planting.

At the back was an old root fence covered with gray-green lichen and festooned with bitter-sweet, elder bushes with heavy-hanging clusters of juicy blackberries, and white spirea that had no business blooming so late, but just couldn't help coming out in such lovely weather. A tiny stream trickled along beside the road, hidden by half a dozen different kinds of fern, and the cardinal flowers, turtle head, spirea and Joe Pye weed.

Isn't Joe Pye weed an ugly name for such a lovely flower, and it's other name—honesty—is much better. It used to be held in high esteem by the old "yarb" doctors as an aid in setting broken bones, as an aid in setting broken bones, and it held its feathery white and dull pink blossoms as high as the wild asters, which were just beginning to show their colors in all shades, from pale lavender to royal purple; little vervain, with its spires of dark blue flowers, was hobnobbing with a cluster of Brown-eyed Susans, which were also blooming a little out of season, due probably to the moist ground. A little further on a clump of sumacs held their lighted torches aloft, while the ground at their feet was carpeted with yarrow and Queen Anne's Lace. Now, there's a name for you! Why couldn't they think of something like that for poor Joe Pye? And wherever there was a space in this wild garden Nature had dropped a seed of goldenrod, so that the whole roadside had a golden sheen.

I love goldenrod, but I may as well admit truthfully that I am not afflicted with hay fever, and so can see its beauty with a clearer eye than those who are. It really isn't as black as it is painted; although it is generally blamed when the hay fever season opens. There are many other causes besides the pollen of the goldenrod. I once knew a girl who couldn't stroke a cat without sneezing. And once upon a time there was a woman who used to drive to town with her husband every Saturday, but she sneezed so persistently that the trip was ruined for them both. So one day she stepped into the doctor's office and asked him what caused it. He explained to her that the minute particles of dandruff from horses and some other animals were particularly irritating to some people. So her husband bought a Ford, and they lived happily ever afterwards. (N. B.—This is not an advertisement; but if Mr. Ford would care to use it in his presidential campaign he has my permission to do so.)

The sun was very low by the time the tire was finished, and we had gathered our 57 varieties of flowers and seeded grasses.

Hiawatha Had No Ford.
There is one piece of waste land on the way home which blazes with splendor in the Autumn, when there is a solid hedge of goldenrod from the fences to the side of the road. We came along this golden pathway just as the sun, a big, flaming ball, dropped below the horizon. It made me think of the lines:

"Thus departed Hiawatha, Westward, Westward, ever Westward, In the glory of the sunset, In the purple mists of evening."

I can't quite see the connection myself, as I am sure Hiawatha didn't take his trip in a dusty Ford with a freshly-patched tire!

The mists of evening were very purple, indeed, when we reached home and the chores, which we had been worrying about were still waiting for us at house and barn. That is one thing about farm work. In an emergency, it can wait an hour or so without any great harm resulting. We aren't slaves of the clock to as great an extent as are people in many other occupations.

The butterflies are making the most of these last warm days, and are feasting on the windfalls under the pear trees. The Painted Ladies are so addicted to the fermented pear juice that they become quite inebriated, and fall an easy prey to the goldenrod. Another argument for the prohibition party! The King Billies, beloved of childhood, are gathering in numbers for their annual trip across the lake. They share this peculiarity with birds and millionaires—they all go south for the winter.

WORLD LEAGUE TO ALLOW CHEMICALS IN WARFARE

Associated Press Despatch.
Paris, Nov. 2.—The League of Nations' committee, appointed to inquire into chemical warfare, says Lucien Chassaigne, editor of Le Journal, has concluded to recommend the continuance of this mode of war making, at the same time defining the types of chemical destruction the nations ought to accept and reject.

The authority of this statement, says M. Chassaigne, is Col. Raymond Bacon of the United States, chemical warfare service, and the announcement of the committee's decision appears in an industrial review. This publication observes that the committee's reports finds the use of chemical agents in war more humane and less dangerous than other methods of combat.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

The Woman Who Mistook Love-Making for a Proposal—On the Fascination of Widows—Advice to a Sensible Young Man With False Teeth.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a widow of 65, and trust you will not think me foolish, for I want your best advice. A year ago this month I attended a club dance, and was introduced to a gentleman of 67 years. We danced together often and found pleasure in each other's company. After that, we attended church every Sunday together. He was all devotion, and soon declared his love, and I never had any doubt of his intentions. But one evening about a month ago he met another woman, to whom he has been devoted ever since, and when I reproached him with this, he excused himself with the cowardly reply, "Why, we are not engaged. I am a free man." Now, Miss Dix, I want you to tell me, has time changed the form of a proposal? Is a woman entitled to think she is engaged to a man who tells her that he loves her and plans their future home together, or does he have to say the old-fashioned words: "Will you be my wife?"

A DOUBTING WIDOW.

Answer:

God gracious, sister, I should think that a woman of 65—and a widow—would be wise enough to the ways of men to know that all love talk is just hot air that signifies nothing unless it is backed up with an honest-to-goodness proposal.

It is an amazing thing how women bamboozle themselves on this subject. I get hundreds of heart-broken letters from women who write me that some man, who has been coming to see them for years, and monopolizing their society, and who has told them innumerable times that he loved them, has suddenly gone off and married some other woman, or has quit coming to see them. "He never mentioned matrimony," wall these women, "but I always thought he meant to marry me. I thought we were engaged."

Just take it from me, sister, that every man who intends to marry a woman mentions matrimony every time he sees her. More than that, he grows eloquent and persuasive on the subject, and urges it on her immediate attention, and if he doesn't discourse on the subject you may be very sure that he doesn't mean business. When a man wants a thing he asks for it. Lovemaking is just a game. It means nothing until a man clinches it with a "Will you be mine?"

My dear Dorothy Dix—Will you tell me why widows are more attractive than single women? It seems to me that the widows get all the attention paid to them, while I merely sit and look on. Why is it that a widow can always marry while a single woman of her own age, and who is just as good-looking, has no chance to get a husband?

Answer:

The fascination of the widow is one of the mysteries of feminine psychology that no one has ever been able to solve. No one knows why a widow of forty is spoken of as a "young" widow, and an unmarried woman of forty is called an "old" maid. No one knows why a woman who has reached forty-five without marrying is almost certain never to marry, while a woman who is left a widow at forty-five is very likely to marry again. It is just the fact that a woman has had one husband seems to put her with men in the eligible class for another husband.

The widow knows how to play upon the weaknesses of men as upon a harp of a thousand strings. She knows how to flatter and cajole them if they are self-conceited; how to appeal to their sympathies as a lone, lorn creature, if they are chivalrous; how to feed them, and make them comfortable, and allure them into matrimony with the bait of a home.

Is marrying a widow a man feels that he is playing safe because she is broken to double marriage. She will expect to pull her share of the load without balking, or kicking, or running away.

She has probably killed her first husband learning how to cook, and bankrupting him acquiring the art of spending money wisely, so her number two husband is saved the dangerous and expensive education of a novice.

Also, by the time a woman has been over the dumps of one marriage, she has learned how to control her temper and her tongue, and how little to expect of a mere man, and she has acquired a philosophy of life that makes her easy to live with.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young man, 29 years of age. Seven years ago I was stricken with pneumonia, and the result was that I lost all of my teeth. Now I have to wear false ones. I have not told the girl anything about it. Should I tell her, and risk the possibilities of losing her? Or should I marry her, and keep quiet? I am very sensitive about this. Please tell me what to do.

Answer:

Once upon a time a woman propounded this same problem to me, and I said to her, "Marry your man, and keep your mouth shut." I offer you the same advice, and it is a good matrimonial tip any way you take it.

Don't kid yourself for a minute, son, into thinking that your girl doesn't know you've got false teeth. She has been perfectly aware of it since five minutes after you met her. Why, you couldn't fool a girl about a thing like that to save your life, so all your worry about whether to tell her or not is that much borrowed trouble.

She knows all about it, and she doesn't care a rap. Why should she? If a man has no worse matrimonial drawback than store teeth, he is, indeed, a preferred risk among his sex, and highly desirable as a husband.

Furthermore, it is silly to be sensitive about having false teeth in these days when the doctors yank your teeth out if you have dandruff in your hair, or the teacher. False teeth are no longer the sign of age. They are the fashion, and everybody's got them, or is likely to have them tomorrow.

The Mutual Life of Canada in account with Policy 17631 35 year endowment $1000 - Age 25 1888 - 1923

Table with columns for Dr and Cr, showing 35 Premiums 823.20, Annual Dividends 232.56, Balance to Policyholder 426.94, Final Dividend Face Value of Policy 17.58, 1250.14, 1000.00, 1250.14

This Policyholder received $426.94 MORE than he paid in HERE'S a Mutual policy taken out in 1888—a long-term endowment. It matured this year and the Mutual Life paid $1,000.00, the amount of the face value, plus $17.58, being the last dividend due—in cash. But, that was not all.

This man's premiums, over thirty-five years, would, ordinarily, amount to $823.20, but he elected to apply his yearly profits to the reduction of his premiums. His profits amounted to $232.56, and reduced the amount he actually paid into the Company to $590.64.

That illustrates what is meant by Mutual profit-participation. Profit-participating policyholders in the Mutual Life of Canada receive their insurance at net cost; that is, the bare cost of providing the protection. The Mutual Life is a company of policyholders. All dividends from investments, after expenses are paid, belong to the policyholders. There are no shareholders and no shareholders' dividends. Therefore, participating policyholders receive a good profit on their investment, as well as the protection.

When his policy matured, he received its face value and final dividend, amounting, in all, to $1,017.58. Thus, you see that he received back $426.94 more than he paid in and enjoyed thirty-five years' protection, besides.

Let our nearest agent tell you about Mutual long-term endowment policies. They combine the three features of systematic Saving, economical Insurance and profitable Investment, with absolute surety, confidence and strength.

The first year his premium was $23.52, but the final premium on this policy (in 1922) was only $6.11, showing the way in which the yearly dividends steadily reduced the cost of his insurance.

Happiness Comes in Wake of Victorian Order Nurses

London Mother Learns Her Baby Might Have Been Saved.

Suddenly a thin wall broke the silence of the little street, and the girlish-looking figure on the porch of the house next the one from which the sound issued shrank a little, and with a nervous gesture covered her ears with her hands. It was only six months since the same sort of sound was heard in her own house in another part of the city and in a flash her mind went back to that never to be forgotten time—first, the move to the strange city to live among strangers; then the knowledge that her baby was coming and no one to turn to for advice. Her own loneliness and sickness aggravated by lack of knowledge, then the sudden birth, the kind neighbor who came and helped, but alas! who moved away a few days after, then the pining away of the child and its death—because she had persuaded her husband to move to this part of the city away from the house so full of sad associations. Just then the door of the next house opened and a happy, capable-looking nurse in a blue uniform leaned over the railing between the two porches.

READY TO HELP.

You wouldn't mind, I can't leave the mother, and the doctor is just going.

Immediately Mrs. Good, glad to be doing something, and follow the nurse into the house. Here she was soon busy washing dishes and tidying up generally while the nurse quickly finished attending to her patient and in a short time was ready to follow the doctor to another case after giving directions to the little neighbor about the care of both mother and child. "I'll be back this afternoon," she called as she went out the door, leaving Mrs. Good with the comfortable feeling that all the responsibility was in strong capable hands and that everything was going to turn out beautifully.

After this Mrs. Good went in two or three times a day to see after her neighbor and when she was able to be up a little, said to her one day: "Why is it the nurse comes in and out? I thought they stayed in the house all the time. When my baby was born we couldn't afford to have a trained nurse and that's why I lost her, because I didn't know who to go to, nor what to do."

"Oh, my nurse belongs to the Victorian Order of Nurses," replied Mrs. Pearce. "All you have to do is to ring them up and they'll come and look after you as often as you need them, fix you up and make you comfortable, and what's more tell you what to do after."

Not Charity.

"Why no. My nurse told me that very poor people didn't pay anything and I know they get just as good care and attention as the people who pay. Of course where a person is able to pay, they expect it, because the nurses of the Victorian Order aren't charity nurses. We wouldn't have them if they were, would you, jove?" as she patted her baby who just then showed signs of wakefulness. "They only ask from three to four dollars for a confinement and not more than one dollar for each visit, less if you can't afford a dollar, and they'll give you all the instruction you want before your baby comes for nothing. What's more, you get just as good care as the people who have lots of money, because all the nurses are graduates of hospitals and have all the training and experience that any nurse has."

Her tulle veil was hand embroidered and arranged with orange blossoms, which were worn by her mother on her wedding day. She carried a shower of orchids, Sweetheart roses and lily of the valley. G. R. Taggart and Olga Miller Are New Western Tennis Champs

"U" DETERMINED TO END SEASON WITH VICTORY

Western Will Be At Full Strength For O. A. C. Game Here Today.

WOSSA PRELIMINARY

Western had a last signal drill last night in preparation for their last stand against Guelph Aggies this afternoon at the Commons Park. The squad will be out at full strength, and as determined to finish the season with a win as Aggies will be to take this game, which gives them a chance to make a three-cornered tie of the group race.

All things seem possible in intercollegiate circles this season. St. Mike's looked unbeatable their first three games, when they piled up huge scores and not a point crossed their line, but Aggies started the Irishmen's morale crumbling, and Varsity trampled it into a fine dust Thursday.

So it's possible, despite the fact that Western have not yet appeared in the win column, that they may do so and at the same time save in the farmers' hopes.

One thing that this season has shown Western in a new light regarding rugby. Although the team has lost consistently and against some hard breaks on several occasions, the student body have remained loyal throughout the campaign.

Plan "U" Hockey Friday, Nov. 9th

Purple and White Already Has Nucleus of Fast Team. Western University hockey committee meets next Friday night and a representative will be appointed to attend the intercollegiate hockey meeting at which schedules will be drawn up for all the series.

Hockey prospects this winter has Western contemplating its debut into intercollegiate ranks with more or less complacency. The freshmen squad this year boasts some good ice material, and Mowrey and others of the other years gives the purple and white a nucleus for a good team.

Down the Line In All Sports

It is suspected that there are those among the sport enthusiasts of the city who yearn for the good old days of club sport when clubs ran affairs in sport, especially those which paid.

There are several good arguments for sport run by individual clubs, but there is a preponderance of arguments on the other plan which tilt the scales away down.

There have been several cases of clubs running sport successfully, but usually other clubs wanted to take a hand, and then there was trouble. It was intensely interesting for the members of the rival clubs as they gathered in dark parlors and thought out nasty traps for the other fellows to step into, but they failed to get the city as a whole anywhere in sport or even to hold the fans' interest.

There are always reactions against individuals or private clubs running sport affairs. Fans begin to wonder where all the huge gates go to, and finally after a year or two there aren't any huge gates to speculate about. Again clubs have a notorious faculty of picking just the winners in sport. The games that do not pay gates are left severely alone.

The rough and ready fishermen of the Atlantic, it was supposed, would show the world and the people involved in the toy America Cup races, some real sport. Instead they've shown they can be just as fussy over fancied wrongs and just as petty as their more polished brethren in white ducks.

Away back in 1859, when baseball was merely a pastime and not a highly commercialized industry, Amherst and Williams teams met in an inter-league final. The game was similar in importance then to the series so recently finished, which drew a million dollars and two million columns of printed matter.

Here is how the sport writer of the fifties disposed of the game in one dignified paragraph: "Amherst certainly played the better, we think, in every department of the game. Indeed, so great a victory can not be accounted for otherwise. In knocking they had the advantage of sideknocks and backswipes; in running Williams certainly excelled as far as speed was concerned, but lost at least eight or ten minutes by premature efforts. The catching on the part of players ran only as well as that of their captain. The Amherst catcher which was undoubtedly superior; no balls were allowed to pass the wire and he was within his reach, and very few were permitted to drop which he succeeded in touching. He missed one ticked ball in the entire progress of the encounter."

The baseball expert of today could hardly condense that into four columns. But the game had a certain staidness from the newswriting standpoint that it lacks today.

The Sarnia Canadian Observer: "Any team trounced 27-1 could be excused if they took the rest of the schedule easy. Not so with London. The plucky Forest City buckled down, and in one week they trotted out onto the field of their conquerors and came about as close to trimming them as it is possible. Sarnia's rugby players are handing the palm to London for real opposition and starting several of form."

"Hats off to Sinc McEvenue and his squad."

"ALL AGED" RACE WOULD PROVIDE NOVEL ATTRACTION

Claim Two-Horse Matches Are Mostly Fizzes—Suggest Good Field.

WOULD FILL TRACK

Special to The Advertiser. New York, Nov. 2.—While the match race is on why doesn't an enterprising race track promoter hang up a $50,000 purse for an all-aged championship race at a mile, weight for age? With Sarazen and Wise Counselor representing the 2-year-olds, Zev and My Own and possibly in Memoriam the 3-year-olds, and My Dear and Chacoret the aged division, the public will see a race that will outshout any match race run in this country in recent years.

Two-horse match races have always received a lot of publicity and thereby created a great deal of interest, but the actual race generally turned out a fizzle. Take the Worthington at Latonia, the Hourless-Omar Khayyam at Laurel, the Man-o-War-Sir Barton at Kenilworth, the Zev and My Dear at Belmont Park and the recent Sarazen and Wise Counselor match race at Laurel, all huge jokes so far as producing any semblance of a horse race.

An all-aged race with the starters suggested would fill any race track in the country and then some. My Dear and Chacoret are far from being the best in the aged division, but they are at present in the public eye.

When we speak of the champion in the all-aged division we must not forget the greatest thoroughbred of all who was seen under colors but a short while this year, and he is none other than Grey Lag, winner of this year's Excelsior, King's County, Metropolitan and Suburban handicaps, and second in the Long Beach Handicap to Snob's 116.

Grey Lag took up 133 pounds against Snob's 116 was gradually closing in on the mile and bred him at the end of the mile and a sixteenth journey. Grey Lag squared matters for this defeat, by taking Snob's 116, by taking the mile and a quarter, when he took up 135 pounds against Snob's 116, and beat him a length and a half.

The Suburban, run at the Belmont June meeting, was Grey Lag's last race, but it is hoped to bring him back next year for another season on the turf.

Copyright, 1923, Collyer's News Bureau. J. Phillips and his Shamrocks gave the Shellbacks the biggest surprise of their lives when they took all three games and landed in first place. The Spark Plugs took the odd game from the Hustlers, and have now vacated the cellar.

Special to The Advertiser. Guelph, Nov. 2.—The O. A. C. debating team defeated the representatives of the University of Western Ontario in a scheduled intercollegiate match, here tonight. The subject was: "Resolved That Exportation From Canada of Raw Materials for the Manufacture of Paper Should Be Prohibited," with the Aggies taking the affirmative side.

The teams were: O. A. C., R. Scher, H. Hannan, F. Parrish and E. D. Ainslie, spare. Western: Grant Wiley, M. Dobson, Neil Millar and Lorne Dawson, spare.

Special to The Advertiser. London, England, Nov. 2.—Improved communications between Canada and the West Indies were under discussion today at a conference between Premier King and Hon. George P. Graham, representing Canada, and Captain W. G. Ormsby-Gore, British under-secretary for the colonies, and representatives from the West Indies.

The main questions for consideration were the proposed new cable between London and the West Indies, to which Canada is to contribute, and steamship subsidies. The tender for the new cable is apparently higher than was estimated, and on this account the question was brought up in connection with the steamship service, the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, it was said, has been in negotiations with Canada for a new subsidy. Both questions are, however, to be discussed further at the conference.

Special to The Advertiser. Boston, Nov. 2.—What is believed to be a new world's record was established yesterday when George Aubrey Woodworth, of the Worcester Golf Club, holed in one in the 330-yard fifth hole of the club's course. According to the records, two 230-yard holes in one have been made one by A. C. Ladd at Henley-on-Thames in 1922 and one by R. B. Tenent at Merton Park, England, in 1920.

SCHAEFER SETS HIGH AVERAGE

Defeats Hagenlacher 500-173, Running Out in Twelve Innings.

LOSER SPECTACULAR

Associated Press Despatch. New York, Nov. 2.—Jacob Schaefer tonight defeated Erich Hagenlacher of Germany, 500 points to 173, in the tenth match of the world's 18.2 ball-billiard championship, and set a new high average for the tournament by running out in twelve innings. Schaefer had a high run of 104.

Schaefer, average 41.8-12, high run 104. Hagenlacher, average 14.5-12, high run 103. Schaefer had two runs better than 80, one of 91 and his high of 104. He was in excellent stroke, and reeled off his counts in jig time. Hagenlacher, despite the looks of his low score, shot a god game. Every time Schaefer missed he left the balls widely apart. Hagenlacher made any number of spectacular shots. The German's play throughout the week is considered remarkable in that he is suffering from a condition for which he will undergo an operation when the tournament is finished.

Hon. J. E. Caron Reports Rural Holdings Worth More Than Billion Dollars

Special to The Advertiser. Quebec, Nov. 2.—That agriculture in the province of Quebec had progressed in the decade covered by the federal agricultural statistics, and that the seeming decreases in the number of farms, which was reported in the bulletin as compared with 1911, was explained by the fact that farmers, having progressed had enlarged their holdings by taking over other farms was the summary of a statement made today by Hon. J. E. Caron, analyzing the report.

The latest federal statistics issued yesterday by Ottawa show that from 1911 to 1921 the value of the farms in the province of Ontario had increased from $787,754,484 to $1,096,755,070, an increase of $308,020,586 or nearly 40 per cent, stated Hon. Mr. Caron.

SOUTH COLLEGIATE QUALIFIES FOR FINALS

Soccer Team Defeats St. Marys High in W.O.S.S.A. Second Round.

By defeating the St. Marys High School soccer team by a score of 6 to 0 at Thames Park yesterday afternoon the South London Collegiate squad will now enter the finals of the Western Ontario Secondary Schools Association, with the winner of the Windsor-Woodstock series. In the first game of the second round, played at St. Marys Wednesday, the locals were held to a scoreless tie, but yesterday definitely dispelled the jinx which had pursued them, and are now confident of bringing the district honors to this city.

The London boys had the advantage of weight on the Stone Town crew; their combination work was of a higher order. In the captain of the visiting team, threw away his squad's lone chance to score when he failed to register on a penalty kick from the London ten-yard line.

Riddle, London halfback, made two goals in the first period, and McLean accounted for another tally a few minutes later. In the second frame, Hadfield scored twice, and Ferguson made the final counter.

The teams lined up as follows: South London C. I.—Hayson, goal; Elliott, Sinclair, backs; Chapman, Vollick, Mason, halfbacks; Riddle, McLean, Ferguson, Hadfield, Appleyard, forwards.

St. Marys High School—Ready, goal; Baker, White, backs; Anderson, McNaughton, Payton, halfbacks; Brown, Johnston, Seale, Bell, McIntosh, forwards.

DECLARES OTHER PROVINCES HAVE INTEREST IN RIVER

Department of Interior Comments Upon Ferguson's Attitude on St. Lawrence.

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, Nov. 2.—The claim of the province of Ontario to the "surplus waters" of the St. Lawrence, reported to have been made by Premier G. Howard Ferguson in a recent speech, opens up a long standing difference between the federal and provincial governments. Premier Ferguson is reported to have said that after the Dominion government had retained sufficient water for navigation in the St. Lawrence "the surplus waters belong to the province of Ontario."

At the waterpowers' branch of the interior department this morning some doubt was thrown on this. It was stated that the ownership of the surplus waters had been the subject of negotiation, and even of litigation, between the provinces and the Dominion, and that the whole question turned on the interpretation of the Canadian constitution.

The question was one in which, not only Ontario but also the other provinces of the Dominion, were interested. The speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club today was the Rev. James McKenzie of Guelph, who gave an excellent address on the subject, "The Common People." The address was one of the finest to which local Kiwanians have listened.

IRISH REPUBLICAN RIOTERS BATTLE NEW YORK POLICE

Attempt To Hold Mass Meeting Outside Metropolitan Opera House.

Associated Press Despatch. New York, Nov. 2.—Eight persons were arrested near the Metropolitan Opera House, where Lloyed George, war-time premier of Great Britain, was speaking tonight, when Irish Republican agitators attempted to hold a mass meeting on the street. Patrolmen's caps were knocked from their heads by placards the agitators were carrying.

Police fought a hand-to-hand battle with a large group that gathered on 40th street, near Broadway. Many carried signs bearing the picture of Eamon De Valera, while others were inscribed with phrases uncomplimentary to the British visitor.

The area about the Metropolitan Opera House was guarded by 250 patrolmen and 150 detectives. Before Mr. Lloyd George arrived the crowds that pressed about to catch a glimpse of him were so great that a traffic jam resulted.

Mounted police finally charged the crowd that surged about the blue-coats. Hundreds of persons were driven back to Sixth avenue, while here and there a patrolman grabbed some of the rioters and placed them under arrest. Several of those so caught were women.

NEXT WEEK'S SHOW
PROMISES SPEED

"Runnin' Wild," One of the Best of Columbia Burlesque
Attractions, At the Grand.

In the current series of Columbia burlesque shows that provide a weekly changed entertainment at the Grand, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next the new scenic presentation, "Runnin' Wild," has been praised in every city where it has thus far been presented. Theatre patrons who delight in the allurements of pretty girls, melodious song and snappy dance will discover in the very title of next week's show a promise of speed and swiftness that is sure to intrigue the most exacting devotee of burlesque.

Having supplied fifteen scenes in the two diversified acts, equipped his offering with an ample complement of scenic and lighting effects and gone to such prolific sources as Billy K. Wells, Herman Timberg and Jack Mason for the book and music and to stage the many musical numbers, Ed. E. Daley has chosen a cast of principals to match his other efforts to supply his new show with the best talent available. For it is the principals and chorus in burlesque that counts most in pleasing the public.

Frank Harcourt, Mae Janese and Al Hillier are featured members of a large and active presenting company.
Harcourt will be recalled as co-partner of Billy Foster in previous seasons. Miss Janese was featured with "Let's Go" last term and Al Hillier in a Hebrew comedian's original method and long service in burlesque.
John O. Grant, credited with being the best dressed straight man on the stage, has been retained to engineer the comedy scenes as foil for the fun-sters. Hazzard and Spellman will hot-foot through a series of amazing dance steps.

"Runnin' Wild" will have a particularly attractive and talented retinue of principal girls, all dancers and singers, and thus well equipped to lead the ensembles with alluring effect. Althea Barnes, prima donna;
Babe Healy, soubrette, and the Stevens Sisters, are all favorites with the "fans" because of their previous association with various Columbia shows.

As an extra attraction, unusual burlesque organizations, Vallecita's Leopards will tread their sleek and cat-like way through a maze of extraordinary achievements. Safely housed in a steel cage Vallecita's animals will do some amazing stunts with a thrill in all of their evolutions. Specialties will be offered by all of the principals in "Runnin' Wild" and an extra portion of jazzy dance and snappy song will employ Hightower and Jones in the lively

London theatergoers are looking forward with a great deal of satisfaction to the coming of the famous
New York Theatre Guild productions for an engagement of three days, beginning Thursday, November 15th, at the Grand Opera House "He Who Gets Slapped," and "Peer Gynt," will be presented. The unusual drama,
"He Who Gets Slapped," by Leonid
Andreyev, translated from the Russian by Gregory Zilboorn, is so totally different from the ordinary run of plays that the novelty is decidedly diverting. Andreyev wrote "He" in 1916 and it is his last dramatic work. The scene takes place on the back of a European circus. All of the varied characters are vividly and realistically portrayed by the Theater Guild players, and this will be our first opportunity of having this play in this city. "Peer Gynt," Ibsen's masterpiece, originally played by Richard Mansfield, was written in the year 1887 and brings a message that is particularly timely to the world at the present. This philosophic story is as fresh in satire as if it had been written yesterday, showing that the world has progressed but slightly.

The Guild's director, Theodore Komisarjevsky, has done splendid work in putting on the seventeen scenes, a number of which are unusually striking. "The Royal Hall of the King of the Trolls" is one of movement and color, and is certainly a chamber of horrors.
These productions come here direct

A Sign of the Times.

It is rather significant that all the Protestant denominations in London find it possible to join forces for the world missions conference that is being held in London at present.

It is one to interpret the spirit of this gathering it must be in terms that look upon buildings of brick and stone, of pews and pulpits, as merely a means to an end.

It is indeed a sight for spiritual sore eyes to see men and women of all the Protestant churches in London sitting down together to consider the matter of carrying the gospel to those who have never heard it.

Scolding the Farmers.

Mr. J. J. Morrison, speaking at St. Mary's, seemed to be in a very critical mood of the farmers. The inefficient people, under 20 and over 50, are running the farms, while the efficient ones are in business in the towns and cities.

Should Pay It Back.

Attention has been drawn several times to the case of a million dollars that the automobile trade should get back from the Dominion government.

Running a Paper.

Indignant Subscriber. Yes, we'll call him that, because he was both and is still the latter. He entered the sanctum, sat down, pulled the morning paper from his pocket and said, "See how many murders, war rumors and suicides you have this morning! And auto smashes and police news of chasing run runners. And two fires and a story of the police working on a murder case near Hamilton."

DEFENSES.
Thou shalt not—Exodus xx, 13-17.
Last the love of the foot path no fences; and the horses of the wicked are without bit or bridle.
All that harmeth thy neighbor is a hurt to thee; and the wickedness of evil is that it hindereth loving.
Beware of covetousness; for it is a secret way and an easy path to all other vices.

Druggists Physicians Take Strong Exception To Statement of Dr. Banting Relating To Quackery.
Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir,—I have before me a copy of your valuable paper of Nov. 1 in which you give a report of Dr. Banting's address to the medical students.

The Boy and the Country.

The Woodstock Sentinel-Review points out that nearly all the presidents of United States with the exception of Theodore Roosevelt were born in small centers or on the farm. Taft was the only one beside Roosevelt to be born in a city. Three were born in towns, while the rest came from small places or farms.

Not Desirable.

Some of the Hamilton controllers are in the insurance business, and it reports indicate anything the insurance business in that city must be developed to a science greater than making bricks without straw.

Running a Paper.

Indignant Subscriber. Yes, we'll call him that, because he was both and is still the latter. He entered the sanctum, sat down, pulled the morning paper from his pocket and said, "See how many murders, war rumors and suicides you have this morning! And auto smashes and police news of chasing run runners. And two fires and a story of the police working on a murder case near Hamilton."

CAUSE OF BACKACHE

Every muscle in the body needs a supply of rich, red blood in proportion to the work it does. The muscles of the back are under a heavy strain, and have but little rest. When the blood is not more than one backache in a hundred has anything to do with the kidneys. The whole trouble is due to thin or impure blood, and those who are troubled with pain in the back or loins, either frequent or occasional, should look to the condition of the blood. It will be found in most cases that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, by building up the blood and feeding the starved nerves and muscles, will banish the pains and make you feel better to every other way. How much better it is to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for your blood than to give way to unreasonable alarm about your kidneys. If you really suspect your kidneys, any doctor can make a test in ten minutes that will set your fears at rest, or tell you the worst.

GALT FIRM AFFECTED BY AN AMALGAMATION
Goldie-McCulloch Company Is Part of a World-Wide Organization.
Special to The Advertiser.
Galt, Nov. 2.—Announcement was made today by R. O. McCulloch of a deal whereby the Goldie-McCulloch Company, Limited, joins Babcock & Wilcox, Limited, of London, England, and Babcock & Wilcox Company of New York in a new Canadian concern, to be known as Babcock, Wilcox & McCulloch Company, Limited. This marks the change of name of Galt's oldest and largest manufacturing company.
For some time past rumors of the contemplated deal has been afloat, but not until today would heads of the local concern make any announcement. The new company has secured its charter with capitalization of $3,000,000, and according to the official announcement, is now operating under the direct management of R. O. McCulloch and A. R. Goldie.
Take Galt Plant.
The new concern takes over all of the local business, except the sale works, which will be operated separately by Goldie & McCulloch Company, Limited, and while this concern will, for the time being, continue to manufacture in Galt's quarters, it was intimated that in the not distant future, a new plant will be erected here for it.
The deal, it is said, and works will continue to remain here, this company taking over the Canadian business of Babcock & Wilcox, Limited, and Goldie & McCulloch Company, Limited. The firm will have branch offices in Vancouver, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal and eastern provinces. The line of products of the local company will be greatly increased, since the new firm will have the benefit of all patents of the other two companies. The main works of Babcock & Wilcox, Limited, are at Dumbarton, Scotland, while they have also another plant in that country; one in England, and plants in Italy, Australia and the United States. It was in 1859 that the late John Goldie and the late Hugh McCulloch purchased the Dumfries Foundry and started a business which grew steadily until two plants were opened here, a boiler works in the north-end having been built over 15 years ago. A. R. Goldie has been manager since 1891, succeeding his father, and became vice-president, while R. O. McCulloch has been president since 1917, succeeding his brother, the late Hugh McCulloch.
Honor Employees.
The company gave a dinner to the heads of the departments, making the announcement of the change, and incidentally showed its appreciation of the services of four employees, Robert Hunter, James Linton, McGregor and P. Henderson, who had been with them continuously for from fifty to fifty-six years, giving "Except her candid eyes sought mine," he said.

"I can remember you with prayers," he said.
Her habit falls in soft black folds.
And like a crown her veil she wears.
Her life a sacrifice to God:
They would not fail—I knew, her prayers!
This day has been so fine, so true,
So singularly free from care!
Is it because of one who stopped here?
To think of me, and say a prayer?

You're miles and miles away from me.
And it is very queer
How you can be so far away
And still be very near!
In all the old familiar paths
We walked at eventide;
In everything you shared with me,
I feel you at my side.
I hear your voice; I see your eyes
With loving friendship shine;
Your mellow laugh is real to me,
So is your hand in mine!
I never wept in other years
As I have wept today.
Because, though you are near to me,
You're miles and miles away!

Attention has been drawn several times to the case of a million dollars that the automobile trade should get back from the Dominion government. In 1920 the luxury tax was taken off cars, and dealers had a stock on hand which they had paid this 15 per cent duty, their only recourse being to collect it from the purchasers of cars.
Other cars coming out to compete after 1920 did not have to pay the luxury tax, so the general public bought those with the least tax attached. The result was that the dealer simply had to swallow the 15 per cent tax and make the best of it.
It would be a fair and reasonable thing to remit the amounts so levied.

COWAN'S FIRST ANNIVERSARY SALE

Cowans Celebrate First Anniversary In One of the Best Hardware Stores Ever Built By Ontario Businessmen

Great Sale Planned by Firm in Conjunction With Anniversary.

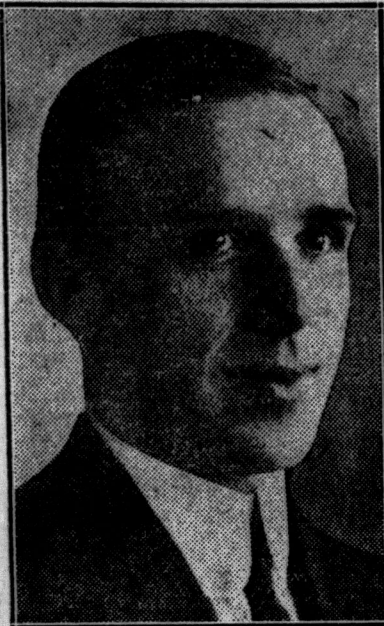

ARE PIONEER FIRM
Developed in London and Business Spread Over Province.

Fifty-eight years ago, when James Cowan of Dalry, that quaint old Ayrshire coast town, together with James Wright, both pioneers in old Ontario, first opened a hardware business in New York on the cornerstone of the present firm of Cowan Hardware, Limited, in this city was laid. Having worked for some time as an apprentice with Adam Hope, one of the earliest of London's merchants, James Cowan once more with his first partner, James Wright, started the business of Cowan & Wright, which for many years was the leading hardware store in the western peninsula of Ontario.

Then there is a second anniversary that is part of the long history of the store. This is the first anniversary of the store in the new building since the fire of January, 1922, destroyed the old premises. During the year of reconstruction they were located on Carling street, where their customers soon found their way, and in the past twelve months have had the pleasure of welcoming both old and many new patrons to what is, on the good authority of many hardware men in the province, one of the most up-to-date stores in the Dominion.

Launch Sale.
As you will discover on this page, these anniversaries are to be celebrated by a great sale. The descriptions of the goods you will see for yourself. The quality of them is the reputation of Cowans, and though that is sufficient to guarantee the articles themselves, there is also the fixed policy of the store in regard to anything bought in it that it is not entirely satisfactory or is not just what was wanted, it will be changed or the money refunded, as may be the wish of the purchaser, but in any case it will be done willingly and without anything that could be embarrassing to the customer. It is simply the policy of the store, and is carried out as any other part of the business.

The new store of Cowans is worth a visit in many ways, apart altogether from the fact that a sale of real values is in progress. To begin with, it is a store in which the price of every article is marked, and marked so plainly that you can see it with- out having to get a "close up" as it were and peer at it. Cowans, as is the case with all stores with a reputation for business progress and the courtesy of its transactions, has an atmosphere all its own, and one that has brought and kept their customers almost as surely as the quality of the goods sold.

Store's Policy.

Quick turnover with the smallest possible margin is a business policy of the store that has brought results, and from the days of its inception to the present anniversary, has been followed up and put into practice with no slackening of interest or thoroughness. Personal service is the keynote of the Cowan store. It is second only to the quality of the articles offered to you from the shining counters. What you want and what is the best way of supplying your needs is the first consideration. A London store for London people might well be the slogan of the store, but for the fact that the store has extended into the surrounding districts so far and permeated the rural communities so completely that a Western Ontario store for westerners will have to be the motto of the future.

In arranging the new home which by this time has been properly housed, warmed and broken into the Cowan ways, the directors traveled through the widely distributed hardware centers in Canada, and the States determined to find what constituted the really modern theories in the hardware business as applied to conducting a store. They included the best of what they found and added one or two new wrinkles of their own, and out of it all came the 1923 store as perfect as imagination, and money, and art, could make it.

Transition Complete.
The transition of the old hardware business of 50 years ago and the store into which you walk today is as complete as the actual changes in the store itself. In 1872 David James Cowan entered his father's shop as an apprentice, in the store which then stood where Kingmill's is today. Incidentally he received $120 for his first year's work with his hardworking father, and every subsequent year of the five-year apprenticeship added a further $20 to his annual pay envelope.

In 1872 the old partnership was dissolved, Mr. Wright forming what is now the firm of James Wright & Company, James Cowan continuing in the hardware business. In 1882 D. J. Cowan went into business with his father at 127 Dundas street, and was rewarded from that time on with a continuous record of successful business that has remained unbroken and unsullied.

Enlarge Premises.

In 1907 when it was found necessary to enlarge the premises, number 125 Dundas street was secured, which after the fire grew Phoenix-like into the building of the present sale. In the time of the first James Cowan, who by the way was one of those merchants of that day who sold and carried on their business in a swallow tail coat and a silk hat, his chief stock in trade consisted of nails, and the simplest form of hardware. There was no cut glass, and there were no pots and pans and all the hundred and one things which today go to make up the full complement of an up-to-date store. There was, however, a large and steady business in carriage woodwork and in metal furnishings for carriages. It was a time when all the material and stock all the Cowan stock is bought in Canada, and the whole field of buying stretches only from Sherbrooke, Quebec, to Saint Ste. Marie, while the selling field, as said before, is all within the counties of this western peninsula of old Ontario.

ELECTS OFFICERS

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Nov. 2.—According to the figures compiled by Assessment Commissioner J. P. Freek of this city the population of St. Thomas is on the decrease. Mr. Freek's figures give the present population of St. Thomas as 17,227, against 17,779 of last year, a decrease of 452. Mr. Freek points out, however, that this does not include the suburbs such as Yarmouth Heights and Lyndhurst. Officials of the city are inclined to believe that the figures are incorrect, inasmuch as they were compiled at a time when most of the residents were away on their summer holidays. They also point to the fact that several new houses have been erected, and that the number of unoccupied ones in the city is comparatively small.

Up until October 31 of this year, 307 births were registered, as against 316 of the corresponding period of last year, and 351 in 1921. Marriages totaled 145 this year, as against 134 for the same period of 10 months in 1922, and 351 in 1921, while deaths numbered 196 as against 158 in 1922 and 202 in 1921.

October had 29 births to its credit compared with 25 in October, 1922, and 27 in September of this year. Marriages last month numbered 24, while in October, 1922, there were only 15. Deaths for last month were 19, against 14 in 1922.

Girls again led last month, because out of 29 newcomers 17 were of the gentler sex.

Nineteen permits. Building operations seem to have thrived in this city during the last month as there were 19 permits issued for October for a total estimated value of $15,850. This includes three new houses and ten garages.

Trousseau Tea.
A very interesting meeting was held at the home of Miss Beatrice Barnard, 152 Ross street, on Thursday, when the girls of the Philathea Class met for their regular meeting.

The occasion took the form of a trousseau tea, for Miss Barnard, one of the class, who is to be married on Monday, Nov. 5.

The Children's Aid Society are in receipt of a donation consisting of 46 jars of delicious canned fruit from the Women's Institute of Aylmer, and also a quantity of canned fruit and three warm quilts from the Ladies' Aid Society of Tatloville. The children of the shelter are very thankful for the box of nuts so thoughtfully given by a little child from Tatloville. Two bags of nice apples have been donated by Mrs. Gilbert.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL ON CHARGE OF MURDER

Crown At Peterboro Charges Statements of Accused Are Conflicting.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Peterboro, Nov. 2.—John Schell, charged with the murder of George W. MacNeal in a lonely hunting shack near Silver Lake, on or about Sunday last, was committed for trial today.

In the absence of direct evidence, the crown claimed statements made and signed by the accused conflicted. He is reported as claiming he turned the dead body over and saw no blood or wound. He stayed in the shack the night of the tragedy and heard no shot. Police testified the prisoner locked the door of the shack with the dead man inside. The clothes of the dead man were saturated with blood and the floor bore stains. According to the police, Schell says MacNeal died of cramps from which he suffered all night. Evidence showed that there was liquor in the camp.

TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS LOSS WHEN TUG BURNS

Special to The Advertiser.
Wallaceburg, Nov. 2.—The tug Edward Blake, owned by Captain McDonald of Goderich, was badly damaged tonight by fire of an unknown origin. The loss will be in the neighborhood of $2,000.

The tug has been employed in towing gravel boats up the river and was tied to the town dock when the fire occurred. The crew was not on board at the time. Most of the damage was caused in the cabin and stowage. As far as is known, the hull did not suffer to any extent. All the personal belongings of the crew were lost.

Others say it's because O-Cedar Polish is so easy to apply. But all agree that the big advantage of O-Cedar is that it polishes the one and only right way; it "Gleams as it Polishes."

SALMON TROUT SPAWNING GREATEST IN SOME YEARS
Canadian Press Despatch.
Perry Sound, Nov. 2.—Salmon trout spawning this year, which closed yesterday, has been greater than in many years. The close season, designed to protect the fish while spawning, is the month of November, but in Georgian Bay the salmon trout generally begin spawning about October 20 and finish before the closed season begins.
This year the run was almost like the famous salmon run up the British Columbia rivers, and the fishermen on thousands of shoals had great catches. Representatives of the big American fishing clubs that have islands here were mingled with Indians, half-breeds and cottagers, and some catches as large as 200 were reported.
Several of the cars thrown from track were loaded with newspaper and printing presses, and rolls of paper were tossed from the smashed cars over into the creek below. A printing press was shot through the end of a car and landed over in a plowed field.
It was the opinion of several of the officials that a flaw in the steel caused the break in the car wheel.
The London and Guelph auxiliaries were rushed to the aid of the members of the crews worked hard for seven hours before a semblance of order had been restored.
The east-bound express was sent over the C. N. R. tracks to Paris and then back to the C. P. R. at Drumbo. The passenger train from the west at 5:16 was held here and the passenger cars were fed by the railway authorities. About 9 o'clock the track had been temporarily repaired and passenger traffic was resumed.
An Awful Attack of Pimples All Over His Face
Pimples breaking out on the face and other parts of the body is a sure sign that the blood is not in proper shape.
While the real skin is the object of the attack the real sign of the disease is in the blood of account as the entire circulation being poisoned.
Burdock Blood Bitters quickly and effectually banishes pimples and all other skin diseases as it goes right to the root of the trouble by cleansing and enriching the blood.
Mr. Conrad Anderson, Kelloid, Sask., writes: "A year ago I had an awful attack of pimples. They broke out all over my face and I could not get rid of them in any way. One day a friend told me about your Burdock Blood Bitters and let me have a bottle he had to spare. After using it I noticed a change, so I bought three more bottles, and now I don't know there is such a thing as pimples."

WOMAN'S HEALTH RESTORED
She Claims Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did It After Everything Else Failed
Milwaukee, Wis.—"I feel that I ought to let you know about my case. I was ailing and could barely do my household work. After washing I was so run-down, just from having one child. I took a lot of medicine and had doctors. Then I gave them all up and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel wonderfully good now. I do everything that comes along, and we all take your medicine as a tonic when we don't feel just so. I am thankful for what there is such a thing as a medicine for my health and for my family."—Mrs. MARY SAICHEK, 944 28th St., Milwaukee, Wisconsin.
Letters like these testify to the value of the Vegetable Compound. These women speak from the fullness of their hearts. They describe exactly as they can their conditions: First, those symptoms that affected them most conspicuously; and later, the disappearance of those symptoms. They singe expressions of gratitude. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been so praised by women.

J. M. WEBER ELECTED LIBERAL CLUB LEADER

Andrew Robson Resigns Presidency After Seven Years in Office.

FINE ORGANIZATION
Campaign Will Be Launched Shortly To Swell Membership.

Andrew Robson, for seven years president of the London Liberal Club, resigned that office at the annual nomination meeting held in Ryman Hall last evening. John M. Weber was unanimously elected the club's new president.

In declining to allow his name on the ballot papers again, Mr. Robson said that as long as he lived and as long as the Liberal organization existed, he would remain one of its most ardent supporters.

More than 30 names were proposed for positions on the executive. Some were compelled to decline, but the majority let their names stand. Charles C. Ferguson, for many years the club secretary, was re-elected by acclamation, as was Mr. Weber, the incoming president.

Mr. Robson assured his audience that he would continue to take an active part in Liberal affairs. He sketched a brief history of the club since he was first elected to the office of club executive.

President of the Liberal Club for the past seven years, who resigned his position last night and thanks the members for the splendid co-operation given him during his term of office.

CO-OPERATIVE SPIRIT MISSING, SAYS MORRISON
Blames Farmers For Their Own Troubles—Hits Party.

PRaises THE WOMEN
Special To The Advertiser.

St. Marys, Nov. 2.—In a strong denunciation of farmers in general for having "too much individuality and not enough co-operative spirit," J. J. Morrison, secretary of the U. F. O., told a gathering of rural residents in the town hall here on Thursday night that "the women of Ontario are saving the U. F. O. as an organization."

Mr. Morrison made it a point to state that the co-operative movement is being discouraged by conditions that are facing the U. F. O. at the present time. "Today," he declared, "the depopulation of the country sections is becoming a serious problem. Foreigners are taking over the land and the farmers are moving to the cities and towns. In doing this, farmers are working against their own interests, but they do not seem to realize it."

The secretary further charged that the agricultural industry today is in the hands of inefficient men under 20 and over 50, as he termed it. "The official motto of the U. F. O. is 'Business in the cities and towns, he asserted. Mr. Morrison entered a somewhat lengthy discussion regarding the U. F. O. which closed their doors on October 31. He blamed the failure of the organization to the plan of management, pointing out that within the nine-year period no less than seven general managers were in charge, at one time or another.

The actual value of the store stock is about 50 cents on the dollar, he stated, although the majority of shares have been disposed of at between 60 and 80 cents.

Touching again on the U. F. O. as a political party, Mr. Morrison declared that no inducements should make him return to either the Liberal or Conservative ranks.

"When a boy I was a Tory," he said, "and in a rank and file. 'What would you do if there were no U. F. O. party?' he was asked. 'Go on by myself as an Independent,' was the quick retort.

TORIES FEAR INCREASE OF LIBERAL POWER
Border Cities Organization Anxious To Block Redistribution Bill.
Special To The Advertiser.

Windsor, Nov. 2.—Believing that plans of the Federal Government to make two constituencies of North Essex, when distribution is considered, will mean the creation of two "safe" Liberal seats, the executive committee of the Windsor Liberal-Conservative Association will ask Arthur Meighan, the Conservative member on the redistribution committee to use every effort to block the bill.

If plans of the government pass the Senate, Windsor will be cut in two at the center of Ouellette avenue by the redistribution bill. The fourth ward, Windsor with Walkerville, the Tory stronghold, will be included in the Windsor constituency, and the west side of the city and Sandwich will form part of North Essex.

To-day I saw

They play a dual role—the garments I saw today! For their usefulness as kimonos is equalled by their beneficial effect as tonics. Their soft pretty fits and delicate loveliness are restful and revivifying even before you are enveloped in their silken luxury.

East and West have met in racks full of kimonos on our Second Floor. There are Oriental ones of Japanese silk with long flowing sleeves and trailing floral designs of embroidered daisies and shaded chrysanthemums.

If you prefer the West to the East, there are some very smart New York ones of broad satin in blue or mauve with silver. They have snug little drapes and softly puffed bandings of self material. Their price is about twenty-five dollars.

And for fifteen dollars or more, you will find the trimmest little tailored kimonos in dark silks, for travelling, or dainty bodice coats of shot taffeta.

Please don't miss the wistaria and silver one, which embodies the fashionable side tie, and boasts a narrow banded frill around the neck, the wide sleeve, and the dainty patch pocket. And every little movement sets the frivolous silk ties at the left side to dancing and fluttering.
