THE LAND O'

Successful Scottish Evening Provided by the Ladies of the First Presbyterian Church.

The Inevitable "Haggis" and It's Popularity - A Splendid Musical Program Provided.

The Scottish supper at the First Presbyterian church last evening was veritable success and a large number enjoyed the Scotch dishes prepared by the emergetic members of the Ladies Aid Society of this church Chief among Whese dishes was the Haggis. It was considered splendid and everybody had to taste it. Geo Witherspoon said it was grand and took a second helping. School Trusdivine remarked that your troubles didn't cease with this eating of the flaggis. This dainty dish was prepared by Mrs. Margaret Young and Mrs. Alex. Jamieson. The Scotch teawas excelent and the Ladies Aid are to be commended on their splendid spread. A more pleased or happy rowd never attended a supper at the First church. Everybody was loud in praises of the supper. The ladies who had change of the different tables were:

TERRIBLE RAILROAD COLLISION AT THE CHATHAM JUNCTION

Fireman Robert Hutchison Instantly Killed and Others Badly Injured-Engines Met with Frightful Crash-Incoming Train Travelling 40 Miles per Hour

A fatal accident occurred on the Eric & Huron Division of the Perc Marquette, a mile south of the city, last evening about seven o clock, in which Fireman Robert Hutchison, of Walkerville, was instantly killed, and Engineer James Flowers scriously injured.

The sugar beet special was backing.

into the long siding at the yard limits near the cemetery. The switch had been opened and the beet train had just started to back up when the Walkerville lacal came flying around the sharp bend at this point. The Walkerville local was running at the rate of 40 miles an hour when it crashed into the beet train. The en-gines met head on and there was a lumult that startled the neighbor-tv and it is said that the semiphore protecting the yard had not been set.

The wreck of the two engines was mplete. The engine on the best gain was moving slowly backwards from the shock by the time he rether the other engine struck it, and ed the C. (P. R. station as to be he force of the compact knocked the tuge mass of iron back 20 feet, iamming it beneath the freight cars that were behind, and there it lies a hope-ess pile of scrap iron.

When Engineer Flowers noticed that something was wrong he was not more than 20 yards away. He at once reversed his engine and applied the brakes. His fireman, Robert Hytchical Hutchison jumped. Unfortunately the latters foot caught, just as he jumped, and he was thrown beneath the wreck. The body, when found, was terribly mangled.

tice Wm. Robeitison remarked that the Haggis was the best of the many delicacities provided. He had eaten it in the land whiere Haggis was originated but it couldn't beat that provided by the fladies of the First church.

P. D. McKellar was another of those who commended the Haggis.

Rev. J. C. Tolmie and Kenneth Urquahart refused the Haggis. The Irish divisors among the distinct and received some anstybart refused the Haggis. The Irish B. The collision occurred just south of the cemetery between the farms of N. A. McGeatchy and Mr. Cameron. The wreck is (the worst ever seen in this section of the country. The engine and the first few cars on the beet train were ismashed and piled up. On the Wallkerville local more fredight cars were broken up than on the beet train were injured and some were completely destroyed. An odd tank car was upset and the oil as paimar essema in on the paim of the hond, facial exzema if on the face, etc., these names being extend ed to each part of the body covered by integument. This is said to be the regional name of eczema.

Eczema also takes a descriptive name from the character of its manifestation. With eczema there is an infiltration of the skin showing the catarrhal nature of the disease, just as in a catarrh of a mucous membrane there is an infiltration of the skin showing the catarrhal nature of the disease, just as in a catarrh of a mucous membrane there is an infiltration of its tissues. This fluid with which the eczematous skin is loaded oozes out and drying on the surface forms scabs, crusts, scales, etc. Thus eczema gets another name known as its "lesional name" from its external appearance, as "squamous eczema" where it seems covered with scales, etc.

Then eczema takes a third descriptive name due to its intensity and duration, as, acute for a short but very severe attack; sub-acute for a milder attack, and chronic for a long drawn out or lingering eczema.

Thus one little patch of eczema may have several descriptive names attached to it, the regional name, the lesional name and the name descriptive of its intensity. A patch of scaly eczema on the face might be described as "chronic squamous facial eczema;" and any other patch at any other location might receive as many but different descriptive names.

So it is with catarrh in a mucous membrane or the inside or lining skin. If in the lining of the nose it is called "masal catarrh;" if in the lining of the tubes through which air is conveyed to the lungs it is called "bronchitis;" if in the lining of some of the pelvic organs of women it is known as "leucorrhea" or more frequentiy as "female weakness."

"THE BURGLAR.

A famous play by a famous author,

"The Burglar," by Augustus Thomas also author of "Alabama," will shortly be seen here. This play particularly appeals to the ladies and children, as one of the principal roles s enacted by a child not yet seven years of age, and the costuming of the ladies is very rich and appropriate. A pretty love story is entwined in the plot of "The Burglar" and the sensational developments, though mild, are absorbingly interesting,

The third act of the play is the dramatization of Mrs. Francis Hodgeson Burnett's story of "Editha's Burglar," which was in vogue about the same time with "Little Lord Fauntelroy," and has for its centre of interest a precoclous and quaint little girl, as the other has a precoclous and quaint little boy. The play is full of dramatic situations, with enough humorous by-play to relieve the tension, and it grows in interest from start to finish, although it is simple in its plot and in its business.

conventionality that is so characteristic of the Old Country. Take for instance the ordinary man in the street, who desiring to smoke finds himself matchless. In England this himself matchless. In England this individual approaches a passer-by with such words as "Will you be good enough to oblige me with a light?" "Oh, thanks, very much." Here it is, "Say, old iellow, who's got all the matches?" It is said in a bluff, cheery sort of way, and is pleasing to hear. It seems the very essence of good will and friendship. This is only one instance, but it is.

This is only one instance, but it is noticeable in a thousand other here there is scarcely any distinction

In large places of business in the Mother Country the head or heads would be secreted in some almost inaccessible sanctum, and approached only with due reverence by any member of their staff.

Here employer, manager and employes seem to mix in one common brotherhood for their mutual advan-tage, and there seems very slight distinction between them, save perhaps that of salary. It is scarcely known in the annals of London for an employer to walk down the street with one of his employes.

Again there are several establishments that strike the average Eng-lishman as rather a novelty, such as shoe shine parlors, barber shops, with the operations in full display. and the numerous laundries with such names as "Sing Lung" over the come out. This is the correct and scientific way of treating catarrh. For cetarrh of the outside skin (eczema); for catarrh of the mucous membrane of the nose (nasal catarrh) necessitating blowing, hawking and spitting; for catarrh in the lining of the custachian tubes causing deafness and "head noises;" for catarrh of the windpipes leading to the lungs (bronchitis) giving rise to chronic coughs; for catarrh of the called here, are found in greater rumbers than in any English town. Their approach also is considerably more silent than in the Old Country. The first indication you seem to have of the approach of one of these "machines" is often a smart these "machines" is often a smart rap on the shoulder. You turn in indignation, and yow to report him to the next constable for having no to the next constable for having no bell or light, when lo and behold! the bulwark of the law wheels around the corner on his wheel, s'milarly without bell or light, and perhaps misses you by a few inches.

There is considerable difference between the electric cars here and in the Old Country. Those in the English towns are more substantially built, and carry passengers inside sue of the body and cure catarrh justas readily in one form as another, therefore, they are as applicable and serviceable for eczema and leucorrhea as for bronchitis or nasal catarrh.

The Rev. L. E. Palmer, Baptistclergyman, of Ceresco, Mich., makes a statement of interest to all catarrh and grip sufferers. He says. "Stuart's Catarrh Tablets have certainly been a blessing to me. I have used. lish towns are more substantially built, and carry passengers inside and out. The number of passengers capable of being carried varies from 50 to 80. The new cars of London, which are run by the underground system, carry 74—38 on top and 36 inside. This number must not be exceeded by a single passenger, or a prosecution will be the result.

It does not seem that the same law is in force in Toronto, nor does there seem to be the same regulation as regards speed. The cars travel about twice the rate here that they do in the Old Country.

It might also be mentioned that it is the rule throughout Great Britain for all traffic to keep to the left side of the road.

art's Catarrh Tablets have certainly been a blessing to me. I have used them freely this fall and winter and have found them a safeguard against la grippe and catarrhal troubles from which I had suffered for years. I feel that I can freely and conscientiously recommend them."

Dr. J. J. Reitiger, of Covington, Ky., says: "I suffered from catarrh in my head and throat every fall, with stoppage of the nose and irritation in the throat affecting my voice and uften extending to the stomach, causing catarrh of the stomach, causing catarrh Tablets at my druggist's, carried them in my pocket and used them faithfully, and the way in chich they cleared my head and throat was certainly remarkable. I had no catarrh last winter and spring and consider side of the road.

To come to perhaps a more interesting comparison. One misses to a great extent on this ride of the Atlantic the healthy pink bloom of the average English girl, although this is amply compensated for in many other ways. Canadian ciris is amply compensated for in many other ways. Canadian girls, as a rule, have fine eyes. Their features rule, have fine eyes. Their features are probably, on the whole, more regular and sharply defined than their English sisters, though not quite so expressive. But as regards figures, the young ladies here entirely put British damsels in the shade. They also display considerably more tact in dressing, seeming to know exactly what suits them. They are by no means forward in making a fresh acquaintance, but when once the ice has been broken, they are extremely sociable and entertaining.

The opposite sex are quick to make friends, bluff, hearty and genial. In stature they fall considerably below the average Englishman, though they indulge in a great variety of headindulge in a great variety of head-gear, and are generally more pictur-esque in their dress. They smoke more cigars and less cigarettes, and have a greater tendency than the Englishnan to go clean shaven.

Texas Gets Canadian Instructor. A bright Canadian, Mr. F. R. farshall, has been engaged by the Marshall, has been engaged by the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College as associate professor of animal husbandry. Mr. Marshall has had training which peculiarly fits him for this work. He is a graduate of the Ontario Agricultural College, and has a degree of Bachelor of Science in Agriculture from the University of Toronto. After completing a very successful course in Toronto he took post-graduate work in agriculture at successful course in Toronto he took post-graduate work in agriculture at the Iowa State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts. For three years he was employed as assistant in the animal husbandry department of that college, and much of the success of the department has been due to his efforts. He had been markedly successful as a judge of live stock and in training the young men in his charge for the competitive tests in stock judging at Chicago and other points. Leaving college work for a more lucrative position, Mr. Marshall was engaged in managing the live stock interests of the immense Brookmont Farm of over 7,000 acres at Odebolt, Iowa. He leaves his work there to go to the college to give special instruction judging horses, cattle and swine.

Pasture and Grain.

In an experiment made by the Cornell experiment station it was found that cows on pasture alone gave more milk than those on the same pasture with a grain ration added, but an equal amount of fat. This lasted only while the pasture was at its best. The Kansas station increased the flow of milk, but not sufficiently to pay for the additional cost of the feed,

To Start a Balky Horse.

Says a horseshoer: "When a horse balks, no matter how badly he sulks or how ugly he is, do not beat him; don't throw sand in his ears; don't use a rope on his forelegs or even burn straw under him.

"Quietly go and pat him on the head moment; take a hammer or even pick up a stone in the street; tell the driver to sit still, take his lines and hold them quietly, while you lift up either front foot, give each nail a light tap and a good smart tap on the frog, drop the foot quickly, and then chirp to him to go. drop the loot to him to go.

"In go cases out of 100 the horse will go right on ab ut his business, but the driver must keep his lines taut and not pull or jerk him back. If I have tried this once I have tried it 500 times.

"This may make you smile, but a horse has more common sense than most people are willing to give him credit for. The secret of this little trick is simply diversion. I am a firm believer that with kindness and proper treatment a horse can be driven with a string."

Miss Gannon, Sec'y Detroit Amateur Art Association, tells young women what to do to avoid pain and suffering caused by female troubles.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I can conscientiously recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to those of my sisters suffering with female weakness and the troubles which so often befall women. I suffered for months with general weakness, and felt so weary that I had hard work to keep up. I had shooting pains, and was utterly miserable. In my distress I was advised to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it was a red letter day to me when I took the first dose, for at that time my restoration began. In six weeks I was a changed woman, perfectly well in every respect. SEYMOUR GOURLAY, M.P. The Fiery Fighter From Neva Scotia Closed the Recent Session With Final Jab at Mis Ancient Enemy.

Seymour Gourlay, M.P., was in at the death. The fiery fighter from Nova Scotia made the last speech of the Parliamentary session, and was able to have a final jab at his ancient enemy, Uncle Sam. Gourlay of Colchester, is a unique figure in the rolitics of Canada. He is first a Canadian, and then a Britisher, but owing to the conduct of Lord Alverstone, his British proclivities have suffered diminution. Gourlay, it will be remembered, was the gentleman who told the House that he was who told the House that he was ready to take his wife and family into the trenches to fight the Yank-ees. Gourlay it was who valiantly protested against our being handed over to the United States in sections. Gourlay has now but one object in life, and that is to further the cause of Canadian independence. He will preach the new evangel at all times and will hold up before his auditors the horrible prospect of an-nexation if we do not insist on doing it ourselves.

Godrlay, however, has other claims to greatness. He is certainly the most remarkably dressed man in the House of Commons. This summer it was his babit. House of Commons. This summer it was his habit to appear in freek coat, white flannel trousers and yachting cap. That was a combination fit to scare any tailor into conniption fits. But Gourlay is not the kind of man to worry about sartorial details. He desires to be clothed, and anything that clothes him will do sufficiently well. Some day, no doubt, that freek coat will come up do sufficiently well. Some day, no doubt, that frock coat will come up the walk of Parliament enclosing the manly torso of the statesman from Colchester, while bicycle knickerbockers will indue his legs. Nobody, it may be remarked, will be astonished any more than anybody would wonder at anything Gourlay might say. As for his sartorial eccentricities, Hon. George E. Foster was almost as hed in his way. If was the ties, Hon. George E. Foster was almost as bad in his way. It was the custom of the then Minister of Finance to turn up at the House of Commons with white trousers and black morning coat, with black derby hat. This was a combination that impelled a jealous Liberal to remark that the Minister of Finance was so industrious that he forgot to dress as his salary permitted him to do as his salary permitted him to do.— Toronto News.

FIDO WAS IN BAD FIX. Caught in the Revolving Door at the Fest-Office.

The turnstile at the entrance to the London, Ont., postoffice was the scene of considerable excitement the other day. A well-known butcher had just entered the postofice. He must have wanted to cash a cheque befo e the savings department closed, for he went up the steps and bumped into the turnstile as if the success of his business depended upon it.

business depended upon it.

He apparently did not notice that his little dog followed him up the steps, but he did a moment later.

The dog had a lie-around-all-day look about him, and did not realize that about him, and did not realize that if he wanted to follow his master through the turnstile he would have to do it in a hurry to go in through the cellar. He did look a little bewildered at the flopping of the rubber strips on the door, but he had no doubt thought the door was only some huge fan to keep the busy post-office officials cool. As it came flopping around as people came in and went out, the brown hair on the back of the dog commenced to stiften. He jumped at a conclusion and at the door at the same time, and at the door at the same time some one who was coming out had the same conviction as the dog did. Just as the latter jumped the man who was coming out gave the door a vigorous shove. It went about two inches and then stopped. The medi-tative friend of the kennel had been caught in the works, and commenced to make his predicament known immediately, too, for a steam calliope wasn't to be compared with the notes the dog got rid of for a minute. Fido did not like the idea of being fanned by a fan of that sort, and the people inside did not like the idea of Fido being fanned, either. Among them was the dog's owner. He is known as an ingenious man, and in an instant hit upon a scheme. It must be remembered that Fido is a stout dog, and could not come out of the space in which he was confined without a struggle.

"Ask him how old Ann is, and he'll wilt," suggested one of the clooking on. But the man who owned him knew better than that. He wanted to save the dog.

"Going up to him he merely said:
"Fido, aren't you ashamed to make a public exhibition of yourself?" This made the dog feel small, and he was soon able to extricate himself.

An Artful Beggar.

An old Parisian mendicant was recently noticed to manifest apparent caprice in selecting the objects for his importunity. He would allow a number of persons to pass unheeded and them attach himself to others and take ne denial. A bribe of half a franc from a curious spectator induced him to give his reason. "I have a code of rules which I invariably follow," said he. "Thus I never ask alms of one who has dined, as rosbif renders a man selfish, nor of stout men, as it bores them to stop, nor of any one putting on their gloves, nor of a lady alone, but always of any one manifestly going to dinner, of people walking together, as their amour propre makes them generous; of officers in grand uniforms and of people apparently seeking favor from the government, as they think that a gift will bring them luck."

Pride of His Performance. In a downtown church, as the story goes, there was introduced a new hymn, and after the dismissal of the services the organ blower found his way to the player's bench and asked in a meek voice, "How did the music for that new hymn go this evening?" "Oh, very well; very well, indeed," replied the opganist. "But why do you

"Well," said the blower, "I'll tell you the truth. I was a bit nervous and a bit worried about it, for, you see." he went on explaining, "I never blowed for that hymn before."

Too Strong.
"My boy tells me you discharged him," said the late office boy's mother. "You advertised for a strong boy, and I certainly thought he was strong

"Madam," replied the merchant, "he was too strong. He broke all the rules of the office and some of the furniture in the two days he was with us."

Hard Luck. "Did yer git anything?" whispered the burglar on guard as his mate "No. The chap wot lives here is a lawyer," replied the other in disgust.

"That's hard luck," replied the first. "Did yer lose anything?" Short and Merry.

The faultless taste of the great Parisian dressmakers only adopts that mode of skirt most becoming to the wearer. To revert to a past epoch is evidently the pronounced idea shown in the principal and best known temples of sartorial art. There are many old world gowns likely to be repeated combined with modern and practical notions. Some well known tailors are using

There is an old saying about the folly of locking the stable after the horse is stolen, and from this may be taken a lesson in reference to the treatment of croup and colds.

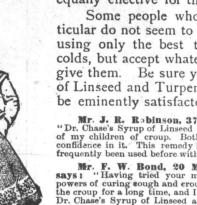

Children Have Croup,

Bronchitis, Coughs and Colds, and if there is at hand such a remedy as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine to be given at the first indication of trouble, you can be positively sure of preventing serious results.

Especially people who are living at a distance from doctors and drug stores are running a terrible risk when they do not keep at hand effective treatment for the ills which are sure to attack some members of the family during cold seasons.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is, we believe, the most satisfactory home treatment for ailments of this nature which can possibly Though wonderfully thorough and far-reaching in its effects on the whole system, it is pleasant to the taste, not injurious in any way, and equally effective for the use of old and young.

Some people who are otherwise very particular do not seem to realize the importance of using only the best treatment for coughs and colds, but accept whatever the dealer sees fit to give them. Be sure you get Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and the results will be eminently satisfactory.

Mr. J. R. Rabinson, 37 Bishop Street, Toronto, says: "Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine absolutely cured two of my children of croup. Both my wife and myself have utmost confidence in it. This remedy is no stranger in our home, having frequently been used before with the greatest success."

Mr. F. W. Bond, 20 Macdonald Street, Barrie, Ont., says: "Having tried your medicine, my faith is very high in its powers of curing sough and eroup. My little girl has been subject to the croup for a long time, and I found nothing to cure it until I gave Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. I cannot speak too highly of it."

Mr. W. Stafford, 88 Brussels Street, St. John, N.B., states: "I have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for coughs and colds, and do not think there is a better remedy known than this. It seems to go directly to the diseased parts and brings relief at once. I have such faith in this remedy and Dr. Chase's Kidn y-Liver Pills, that we always keep both these preparations in the huse."

Bad Tempered Women. It is said that a bad tempered woman can cause more actual unpleasantness for the rest of humanity than all the other disagreeable features one finds in life, and the unlucky possessor of an uncontrolled temper can easily drive to ruin or to other women the men whose misfortune it is to move in her orbit. The average man prizes per manent peace and content above the happiness of possessing a beautiful, attractive creature for a wife, and he knows that a bad tempered woman and peace go not together. He admires a spirited woman, but he knows that correspondingly strong will along with strong character, and he expects her to exercise it. The woman who can control herself under the most trying circumstances is the woman who holds the strongest power over men. No matter how beautiful and clever and fascinating the bad tem-

Splendid Inaugural Rehearsa of the Maple City's "Robin Hood" Opera Company.

The enterprise, inaugurated by the officers of the 24th Regiment and heir friends, of presenting the magnificent opera "Robin Hood, by the talented amateurs or the mapie City a splendid and auspicious star last evening.

Despite the inclement weather, in all eighty-one of the young ladies and gentlemen who have kindly volunteered their assistance in the undertaking gathered in the auditorium over the Standard Bank for the initial rehearsal and the work accom-pished was most encouraging.

The hall was splendidly heated and lighted through the courtesy of Major Scholfield, and a cloak room was provided in the ante-chamber. The plane used was the handsome and ever popular Mason and Risen, which was kindly loaned by the cour which was kindly loaded by the course in enterprising district manager. Frank Babcock. The Mason and Risch piano will be used throughout for rehearsals and also for the production of the opera, and its splended and rich tone occasioned much is-

The next rehearsal will be held on Thursday evening next, commencing eight o clock, when the presence of all the ladies and gentlemen interested will be sincerely appreciated.

PIONEER GONE

The funeral of the late Louis La Francais, whose death, was announced in yesterday's issue, took place this morning from his late residence, Park avenue, to St. Joseph's church. It was very largely attended. Mr. La Français was 77 years and nine months old. He was born in Chatham and he has always lived here. At one time he lived on King street topposite the park. At that time there were not many stores in Chatham. His parents were among the first settlers here. A widow and a grown up family survive. Charles La Français of the Wm. Take Time By the Forelock and the Worry Out of Christmas...

Oh how heads do ache, and brains do worry around Christmas time and do you know its all because people keep putting things off procrastinating till he last minute, waiting until they have a thousand and one things to do, before they do the little shopping errands that might be put out of the way day by day, waiting until the fine choice things have all been picked up before they buy their most important presents. You'll agree that it's an awful mistake and then go right ahead piling up your trouble for Christmas week, and just fretted and worried out by Christmas morning, and spoil your enjoyment of the happiest day of the year. Don't do it this year but commence right now by visiting this store and seeing all the good things we have ready for you to choose from.

This Store has a Christmas Stock to be Proud of. . . .

This store is an every day store, abundance of everything that you need for the wants of to-day and to-morrow, whether it be cold or rainy or what the weather, AUSTIN can fit you out to suit the weather, but in addition this year we have made extra preparations for Christmas buyers. Every department 15 crowded with goods that are suggestive as gifts. Our stock of burnt woods, and ebony woods in jewel cases, dressing cases and smoking cases, travelling companions, etc., is of the broadest variety. We are fortunate in making arrangements to buy these goods direct from the manufacturers and the prices we are selling them at are a revelation to many who have inspected them.

Come in, look over the collection, make your selection, pay a small deposit and we will pack them up and hold until Christmas Eve for you. This is a line we cannot present to you by quoting prices; the only way to appreciate the values is to come in and see them

RUN TO NEW ORLEANS.

C. P. R. Steamers Will Call There

Montreal, Nov. 24. - The Canadian Pacific announces the establishment of a new steamship line to be run by them during the winter between New Orleans and various winter ports. Four of the Elder-Dempster steamers will be used, the Montrose, the Montreal, the Montezuma and the Milwaukee. It has been decided that the winter business for the state of the sta ter business for the two open Canadian ports, St. John and Halifax, well not be enough to keep the whole fleet of thirteen vessels in commission, so an effort will be made to capture some of the cotton-carrying trade of the south ern ports. It is expected also that some grain that was unable to get away early in the season wil be taken south for shipment by the ocean route.

TINDER GAS 26 HOURS

Remarkable Experience of a Galt

Galt, Nov. 23. - Practically asphyiated from Friday night until Sunday morning is the remarkable experience that Mrs. J. B. McKenzie, Brook street, and her ten-year-old daughter have passed through and live to tell the tale. On Friday a new coal stove was put in the McKenzie home, from which the gas escaped. Mrs. McKenzie and her daughter retired on Friday night, and from then until Sunday morning is a blank in their minds. That they were not asphyxiated beyond resuscitation is due to the fact that E. A. Smith, Mrs. McKenzie's brother-in-law, noticed that the little girl was not at Sunday school yester-dependent of the sunday school yester-depen girl was not at Sunday school yester-day morning, and, thinking some one was ill at the McKenzie home, pro-ceeded there after church. He found the little girl wandering around the house in a dazed condition and the mother unconscious. He immediately had them removed to his home and summoned medical assistance. To-day the doctors say they will recover. The local medical men state that such a strange case has never before come a strange case has never before com-under their observation.

SCARCITY OF LABOR.

Exodus From Ontario to the Northwest Continues.

Toronto, Nov. 24. - The Ontario Bureau of Industries, in its October report, says : Correspondents are agreed as to the great scarcity of farm labor, but they are much divided as to how to meet the difficulty. The exodus to the north and Northwest still continues, which means the loss to the Province of many of its most stalwart and experi-enced young men, and their places here are being taken by old-country youths. who suffer in comparison, although some of them give satisfaction. Wages show no tendency to lower, and some correspondents insist that it is impossible to pay current rate and make a profit. Improved machinery, however, is coming to the help of the farmer, and more land is also being farmer. farmer, and more land is also being devoted to pasture. The scarcity of rural labor is so greatly felt in some quarters that several correspondents seriously advocate the bringing into the country of Chinese and Japs to supply the deficiency. Domestic servints on the farm are exceedingly hard to procure. A number of correspondents assert that it is easier to get a wife than it is to find a female servant for a farm house.

'lowed I'd see William 'fore ? went back," said Bishop rather irrelevantly. Then, seeing that Perkins was staring at him rather fixedly, he said it was a verbal plunge:
"I bought some more timber land yesterday!" "Oh, you did? That's good." Per-kins' eyes futtered once or twice before his gaze steadied itself on the face of the man before him. "Well, as I told you, Mr. Bishop, that sort of a thing is a good investment. I reckon it's already climbing up a little, ain't

"Not much yet." It struck Bishop that he had given the lawyer a splendid opportunity to speak of the chief cause for an advance in value, and his heart felt heavier as he finished. "But I took quite a slice the last time— 5,000 acres at the old figure, you know -a dollar a acre.

"You don't say! That was a slice." Bishop drew himself up in his chair and inhaled a deep breath. It was as if he took into himself in that way the courage to make his next remark.

"I got it from the Tompkins estate."
"You don't say! I didn't know they had that much on hand" "Sence I bought the land I've accidentally heerd that you are some kin o' that family." Perkins started slightly and raised his brows.

"Oh, yes! On my wife's side, away off, some way or other. I believe the original Tompkins that settled there from Virginia was my wife's grandfather. I never was much of a hand to go into such matters."

"When I heerd that, Perkins, it was natural fer me to wonder why you, you see—why you didn't tell them about the railroad."

The sallow features of the lawyer seemed to stiffen. He drew himself up coldly and a wicked expression dashed in his eyes.

"Take my advice, old man," he snarled as he threw down his pen and stared doggedly into Bishop's face. "Stick to your farming and don't waste your time asking a professional lawyer questions which have no bearing on your business whatever. Now, really, do I have to explain to you my personal reasons for not favoring the Tompkins people with a-I may say— any piece of information?"

Bishop was now as white as death. His worst suspicions were confirmed— he was a ruined man; there was no further doubt about that. Suddenly he felt unable to bridle the contemptuous fury that raged within him.

"I think I know why you didn't tell 'em," was what he hurled at the law-

"You think you do?" "Yes; it was beca'se you knowed no road was goin' to be built. You told Pete Mosely the same tale you did me, an' Abe Tompkins unloaded on 'im. That's a way you have o' doin' busi-

Perkins stood up. He took his silk hat from the top of his desk and put it on. "Oh, yes, old man," he sneered;
"I'm a terribly dishonest fellow, but I've got company in this world. Now, really, the only thing that has worried me has been your un-Christian act in buying all that land from the Tomp-kins heirs at such a low figure when the railroad will advance its value so greatly. Mr. Bishop, I thought you were a good Methodist."

"Oh, you kin laugh an' jeer all you like," cried Bishop, "but I can handle you fer this."

"You are not as well versed in the law as you are in fertilizers, Mr. Bishop," sneered the lawyer. "In order to make a case against me you'd have to publicly betray a matter I told to you in confidence, and then what would you gain? I doubt if the court would force me to explain a private matter like this where the interests of my clients are concerned, and if the court did I could simply show the letters I have regarding the possible construction of a railroad in your section. If you remember rightly, I did not say the thing was an absolute certainty. On top of all this you'd be obliged to prove collusion between me and the Tompkins heirs over a sale made by their attorney, Mr. Trabue. There is one thing certain, Mr. Bishop, and that is that you have forfeited your right to any further confidence in this matter. If the road is built, you'll find out about it with the rest of your people. You think you acted wisely in attacking me this way, but you have simply cut off your nose to spite your face. Now, I have a long car ride be fore me, and it's growing late."

Bishop stood up. He was quivering as with palsy. His voice shook and rang like that of a madman. "You are a scoundrel, Perkins," he said-"a dirty blacksnake in the grass! I want to tell you that!"

"Well, I hope you won't make any charge for it." "No; it's free." Bishop turned to the door. There was a droop upon his whole body. He dragged his feet as he moved out into the unlighted corridor, where he paused irresolutely. So great was his agony that he almost obeyed an impulse to go back and fall at the feet of Perkins and implere his aid to rescue him and his family from impending ruin. The lawyer was moving about the room, closing his desk and drawing down the window shade. "It's no use," sighed Bishop as he made his way downstairs. "I'm ruined!

Alan an' Adele hain't a cent to their names, an' that devil"— Bishop paused on the first landing like an animal at bay. He heard the steady step of Perkins on the floor above, and for a mo-ment his fingers tingled with the thought of waiting there in the darkness and choking the life out of the subtle scoundrel who had taken advantage of his credulity.

But with a groan that was half a prayer he went on down the steps and out into the lighted streets. At the first corner he saw a car which would take him to his brother's, and he

William Bishop's house was a modern brick structure, standing on a well clipped lawn which held a Gothic summer house and two or three marble statues. It was in the best portion of the avenue. Reaching it, the planter left the car and approached the iron gate which opened on to the granite steps leading up the terrace. It was now quite dark. Obeying a sudden impulse, the old man irresolutely passed by the gate and walked farther up the street.

"Somehow I don't feel one bit like it," he mused. "I couldn't tell William. He'd think I wanted to borrow money an' 'ud git skeerd right off. He always was afeerd I'd mismanage. An' then I'd hate to sp'ile Adele's visit, an' she could tell thar was some'n wrong by me bein' heer in sech a flurry. I reckon I do show it. How could a body he'p it? Oh, my Lord, have mercy! It's all gone, all—all me'n

He turned at the corner of his broth er's property and slowly retraced his halting steps to the gate, but he did not pause, continuing his way back toward the station. A glance at the house showed that all the lower rooms were lighted, as well as the big pris-

"I'll bet that tallest one is Sis," he said pathetically. "F jest wish I could see 'er a little while. Maybe it 'ud stop this awful hurtin' a little jest to stop this awill nurth a little jest to look at 'er an' heer 'er laugh like she always did at home. She'd be brave; she wouldn't cry an' take on, but it would hurt 'er away down in 'er heart, especially when she's mixin' with sech high filers an' money spenders. Lord, what'll I do fer cash to send 'er next month? I'm the land porest man in my county."

Reaching the station, he inquired about a train to Darley and was told that one left at midnight. He decided to take it and sat in one of the iron armed seats without moving till he heard his train announced. Then he went into the smoking car and sat down in a corner.

He reached Darley at half past 3 in the morning and went to the only hotel in the place. The sleepy night clerk rose from his lounge behind the coun-ter in the office and assigned him to a room, to which a colored boy, vigorously rubbing his eyes, conducted him. Left alone in his room, he sat down on the edge of his bed and started to undress, but with a sigh he stopped.

"What's the use o' me lyin' down almost at daybreak?" he asked himself. "I mought as well be on the way home. I cayn't sleep nohow."

Blowing out his lamp, he went downstairs and roused the clerk again, "Will I have to pay fer that bed of I don't use it?" he questioned.

"Why, no, Mr. Bishop," said the clerk.

"Well, I believe I'll start out home." "Is your team in town?" asked the "The team I'm a-goin' to use is. I'm goin' to foot it. I've done the like be-"Well, it's a purty tough stretch," smiled the clerk, "but the roads are

FARMER'S HUMES

What Eren the Smailest of Them May We aften see in the papers almost flurting articles on farm life and farmers wives. I wish to show how luxur-lous even the smallest farmer's home may be if he and his have the willingness to work. One of the greatest dancers to our people and the working people all over our feir land to day lies in ple all over our fair land to day, lies in always wanting to grasp the world and give nothing in return. I am a farmer's wife, and was a farmer's daughter at a time when luxuries were rare things; when a barrel of ap-ples was doled out to us one by one; when we received our education in the old log schoolhouse, with slabs for a seat and another with the smooth side lurned up served as a desk; when the Indian's wigwam was not a curiosity, and I ran many a day all the way to school for fear I might meet the dusky occupant on his tramp; when I sat night after night filling the old candle moulds that we might have the where-withal to light us through another year's evenings; the wild strawberries of the fields and the blackberries of the forests and the wild plums were our fruit, which were often put up in maple sugar for the next winter's supplies; therefore I think I can thoroughly an preclate the things of to-day, and I wish to indicate some of the things that can be raised on an ordinary farm, with the care that can be given by the family.

In the first place, with an ordinary hot bed, which anyone can baild, you can have the most delicious radishes and lettuce for the table used asparagus and spinach are ready. Oftentimes if one is near a small town; the surplus can be easily disposed of; I have often sold $50 worth of cabbage, and usually sell a sufficient quantity of strawberries to buy the fruit I cannot grow. Straw-berries three times a day for weeks, with delicious cream and sugar—the very thought makes one long for spring. Then come raspherries, currants, gooseberries, cherries, grapes; then there is the honey of which a good part is stored for winter and the surplus sold to pay the expenses. These are what may be called the luxuries; then there are the egge and poultry, the then there are the eggs and poultry, the surplus from which will net a nice little amount for some member of the tamily who will care for them—perhaps reaching into the hundreds if good care

Hall's Family Pills are the bast. There are a number of ways of pro-tecting corn from the depredations of trows. One of the simplest is to coat the seeds with tar. Place a half bush-el of seed in a basket and pour on hot water enough to moister and heat all There are some women who seem to the seeds; then immediately apply a pint of pine or coal tar and stir the whole rapidly for some time. Every seed will thus become created, and if a be perennially youthful. The grown daughters are companions as well as children, and the color in the mother's cheeks, the brightness in her eyes, the roundness of her form, all speak of abounding health. What is her sequantity of air-slaked lime is then applied, it will render it dry and easily handled. The crows will pull up the plants to eat the seed, but coming in contact with the tarred seed, they are thoroughly disgusted with its flavor and the remainder wil be untouched. Another way is to stretch white of abounding health. What is her secret? She is at the middle age of life when so many women are worn, wasted and faded, and yet time has only ripened her charms. The secret of this matronly health and beauty may be told in the brief phrase, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. The general health of woman is so intimately related to the local health of the delicate womanly organs, that where these are diseased, the whole body must suffer. "Favorite Prescription" dries the deblitating drains, heals ulceration and inflammation, cures female weakness and imparts to the delicate female organs natural vigor and vitality. Woman who have lost their health and their beauty have been made "robust and twine zigzag across the field. The crows will not touch the plants fenced in on two sides or within an angle. Other ways follow: Employ a man with a dollar's worth of shot to stay in the field all the time for a few days, and the crows (which are left) will decamp to pastures new. As soon as corn is planted, take a bushel of corn, put it into some vessel (not iron), pour on water enough to cover the corn, and pour it off into a Water in Butter. Women may be more constant than men and they are more apt to talk Properly made butter contains not more than 15 per cent. of moisture, and 13½ per cent. is nearer the proper quantity. Anything more than that should be considered as not having been worked sufficiently, and is unfat for shiping or long begins. And you will ward off colds, pneumonia, fevers and other diseases. You need to have pure, rich blood and good digestion. Hood's Sarsaparılia makes the blood rich and pure, as no other medicine can do. It tones the stomach, creates appetite and invigorates the whole system. You will be wise to begin taking it now, for it will keep you strong and well. for shipping or long keeping. If we have a standard for our milk, which dsclares that it shall have a certain amount of total solids or of butter fat, we may also demand that there shall be a certain amount of butter fat in our butter, not less than 85 per cent. If large drops of moisture appear when the butter is cut it indicates insufficient working, and though it may be all right working, and though it may be all right in fiavor while new it will quickly lose that fiavor and almost as quickly ac-quire another, which is not so pleasant to the taste. If the drops have a milky color it is even worse than when the moisture looks like pure, clean water. Butter may have the buttermlik washed out of it, when this is done the water should be afterwards worked out of it. Hood's Pills are non-irritating.

"An exemption from Payne," was the reply. exemption from Payne," was the reply. James Cobb tells a curious story of a lady, a sister of Owen Tudor, who, like Henry VIII., was greatly given to marrying, and did not die until she had been led seven times to the altar. When she was following her fourth husband to the grave, the gentleman behind whom she rode on horseback ventured to urge his suit. "Unhappily," said the dame, "thou art too late, seeing that I am plighted already; yet do not lose heart, for, should it fall out that I have again to perform this melancholy office, I will bear thee in mind."

The paper had been drawn up, and lacked only the signature. The sick man was propped up in bed, and a pen was put into his hand. He managed to write "Robert Gor—" and then fell back, exhausted. A nephew seized the pen and offered it to him again. "D, Uncle Robert, d!" he urged, referring to the next letter of the signature. The old man's eyes snapped. "Deel" he growled. When Lord Lives was the English

When Lord Lyons was the English ambassador to the United States, the grave difficulty over the Mason and Slid ell case arose. Lord Lyons was instruct ed from home to present an ultimatum afford twelve hours for its acceptance and, the latter not being forthcoming he was to break off relations and leave the country. The twelfth hour expired Slidell and Mason were not surrendered and there remained, apparently, only the dire prospect of war. "Give me another twelve hours," said Seward, the Seere and there remained, apparently, only the dire prospect of war. "Give me another welve hours," said Seward, the Secretary of State. It was an entire contradiction of official orders, but, neverthe less, "I will," said Lyons. From six o'clock that night until six the next morning Seward battled with the recalcitrants. Then Lyons received an intimation that the Confederate envoys would be given up. So by the insubordination of an ambassador war was avoided.

and Boys Formed Large Part of the Mob-Car Strike May

Chicago, Nov. 24.-Mayor Harrison and the attorneys for the car company and the men said after a conference that an agreement had been atained which both the men and the com ained which both the men and the company could accept without stultifying themselves. It provides for a day of not more than eleven hours, and not less than nine, a day's work to be completed in not to exceed fifteen hours time. It further provides that the wage schedule shall be arbitrated and that all men on strike who have not committed deeds of violence shall be taken back by the company.

State street cable line rioters were engaged in trying to put out of commission the four lines which the company has been operating on a limited scale. Trolley wires were cut in a half dozen places on Halstead street. A serious riot occurred at 41st and State streets when several trains arrived at that point. Many shots were fired by the police and one man is believed to have been hit by a bullet, while several were knocked down by the officers. While the crews were removing obstructions from the tracks at 41st street a volley of stones were thrown from behind of stones were thrown from behind fences. The police charged the rioters with their revolvers. A running fight ensued in which the police fired upon the mob.

the cars and threw rocks. The police charged, beating many persons sev-erely with their clubs. More trouble was encountered by the State street was encountered by the State street cable trains on the return trip near 43rd street. While the trains were down town the mob systematically choked the cable slot with stones and scrap iron and blockaded the tracks with heavy steel rails. Hundreds of men, women and boys then awaited the return of the trains with stones ready to heave at them. Scores of rioters and bystanders were wounded by the clubs of the police.

ALAS, POOR CANADA.

Senator Hale Has Visions of Her Fate.

Washington, Nov. 23.-In the Senate o-day during a discussion on the Panama question Mr. Hale said: "I have little doubt that men now listening to me will see the time when Canada will become an integral part of the United States. If the plan of the most adventurous of British politicans, of a colonial preference, is carried out a tariff war would be inaugurated between Great Britain and the United States, and this Excellent and the United States, Great Britain and the United States, and this English politician will seek to set Canada up as a great rival to us, an agricultural rival. Out of that will arise conditions, discussions and considerations that will end in the union of the two peoples. But we do not invite Great Britain to send Canada to us and join the Union. She is too large a power."

When Mr. Hale presented the list of the new Senate committees and the motion to adopt the report was made, Mr. Morgan said he did not regret his forced retirement as Chairman of the Committees and the committee and the committee the committ the Committee on Interoceanic Can-als. He criticized the action of the Administration in regard to Panama, and read the correspondence bearing upon the revolution to show, he said, "that the President had known of the unrising in the internet before it the "that the President had known of the uprising in the isthmus before it began, and stood ready with armed ships to protect those engaged in it." He contended that Colombia had had a perfect right to suppress an uprising on the isthmus, and declared that the United States had failed entirely to observe its treaty obligations in pursuing the course it had taken. That course would be disastrous and would cause the loss of both men and treasure.

TO STOP FISH POACHING.

Cruiser Kestrel Sails To-day for North B.C. Waters.

Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 23.—The Dominion Government cruiser Kestrel sails tomorrow at daybreak for northern waters on what will undoubtedly be a very busy cruise. She is going up to the southeastern corner of Alaska and the northwestern corner of British Columbia, near Fort Simpson, to guard Canadian waters against poachers from the United States, who fish for halibut in Dundas Channel and carry them to Ketchikan. There are thirty-three Seattle halibut fishing boats, steamers and schooners working out of Ketchikan this winter, and over half of them are allegedly stealing fish out of Canadian waters. Captain Newcombe of the Kestrel says that poaching must stop. It was the intention to sail this morning, but there is a party of G. T. P. engineers going up the coast who want very much to go on the Kestrel, and have received the sanction of the department, but falled to arrive by yesterday's express. North B.C. Waters.

Kingston, N.Y., Nov. 23.—Charles Rasch, a Swede, one of the crew of the steamer Saugerties, which was burned at Saugerties last night, lost his life in the fire. He had escaped from the boat, but went back to get a suit of clothes containing $4, and was suffocated.

Another Denial.

Winnipeg, Nov. 23.—(Special.)—
There is no foundation for the report circulated by E. W. Thomson through The Boston Transcript of starvation in the Barr colony. A prominent member of the colony, just arrived here, says all are well housed for the winter and have supplies in abundance.

DO THE WORK

Food Eaten Is Worthless Unless Di-gested—Some Stomachs Must Have Help.

Food taken into the stomach which, from the nature of the food or the condition of the stomach, is not digested, is worse than no food at all. This is a true statement as far as it goes and a great many dyspeptics go only this far with their reasoning. They argue with themselves that because their stomachs do not do the work given them they must that because their stomachs do not do the work given them, they must be given less work; in other words they must be starved. It would be just as reasonable for a business man who is unable to do all his own work to cut down his business to his own capacity as it is for a manifus tarve himself to relieve his stomach. The to cut down his business to his own capacity as it is for a man tile starve himself to relieve his stomach. The sensible business man employs help and goes forward with his business. Likewise the sensible dyspeptic will employ help for his stomach and give his body proper nourishment.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets actually do the work assigned to them. They relieve weak and overburdened stomachs of a great portion of digestive action. Their component parts are identical with those of the digestive fluids and secretions of time stomach and they simply take up the grind and carry on the work just the same as a good, strong, healthy stomach would do it.

On this account Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are perfectly natural in their action and effects. They do not cause any unnatural or violent disturbance in the stomach or bowels.

turbance in the stomach or blowels. They themselves digest the food and supply the system with all the nourishment contained in what is eaten and carry out Nature's plans for the sustemance and maintenance of the

How much more sensible is this method than that employed by many sufferers from weak stomachs. By this means body and brain get all the good, nutritious food they need and the man is properly nourished and equipped to carry on his work and perform his duties. He could not possibly be in proper working condition by starving himself or employing some new fangled, insufficient food that does not contain enough nutriment for a-year-old baby. A strong man doing strong work must be properly fed and this applies to the brain as well as the body.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by relieving the stomach of its work, enable it to recuperate and regain its normal health and strength. Nature repairs the worn and wasted tissues just as she heals and knits the bone of a broken limb, which is of course not used during the process of repair.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for much more sensible is thi pair. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box and they are the one article that the druggist does not try to sell something in the place of that "just as good." Their unqualified merit and success and the universal demand for them has placed them within the peach of every one.

LONDON UNION LOSES. Defendant Baker Must Present Evidence. Lendon, Ont., Nov. 24.—At the Police Court Magistrate Love gave his deci-sion in the case of Leonard fac-tory strikers, who are charged with betory strikers, who are charged with besetting several places "for the purpose of restraining workmen from working and for the purpose of making the Leonard Company pay more wages or abstain from employing outside men." The Magistrate's ruling was a surprise to many besides the defendants, its substance being that, unless evidence is produced by the defendant Baker, the court will hold him guilty, and, in any case, will send the other cases to another court for trial.

James Baker is the only one charged with besetting the Fraser House, but he and Henry Clark, Charles Edwards and Edward Burns are charged with besetting the C. P. R. and several other places with the same intention. Mr. McEvoy, for defendant Baker, said they were not ready to go on with the defence this morning, and it was agreed that all the cases should be adjourned for a week.
