HOUSE PAYS RESPECT

Commons Adjourns As Tribute to Memory of Late E. F. Clarke.

Refer in Sympathetic Terms to Mr. Clarke's Demise-Hon. Mr. Foster Gets Up Against Governmental Inertia-Taxing Powers re C. P. R.-Mr. Maclean's Remedy.

Ottawa, March 4.—There was a con-Ottawa. March 4.—There was a comparatively short and somewhat uniteresting session of the House yesterday. An early adjournment was made at the suggestion of the leader of the opposition on account of the death of E. F. Clarke, member for Centre Toronto, the news of which was received during the dinner hour and caused a general feeling of regret and sadness, as the late member was beloved alike by friends and opponents in Parliament.

by friends and opponents in Parliament.

A number of bills were introduced and read a first time.

The Budget Speech.

Mr. Foster endeavored to ascertain from the Minister of Finance the date on which the budget might be expected. He was unsuccessful, however, as Mr. Fleidling would not commit himself further than to say that he would angounce the date in a few days.

Mr. Foster was equally unsuccessful in also endeavor to elicit from the Prime Minister the Government's opinion upon the policy of the pamphlet recently issued in support of Separate Schools.

Sir Wilfrid did admit that the pamphlet had been distributed by the Secretary of State, but he was not prepared, he said to argue with Mr. Foster the question whether they were or were not, what they purported to be, were not, what they purported to be, namely a synopsis of speeches deliv-ered upon the subject in the House of

These G. T. P. Surveys.
Another subject introduced by Mr.
Foster led to a somewhat protracted and at times heated debate. He asked for information in regard to the G. T.
P. surveys, as to which Mr. Hays had recently given some information before a private club, particularly in regard to the terms and grades of the new line Heretofore the answer to this request had been made that this matter fell within the jurisdiction of the Construc-tion Commission, over which, it was contended, Parliament had no control. Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that whatever information the G. T. P. Co. had respecting grades and the charac-ter of the country through which the surveys ran, the Government were not in possession of it. Later, the Govern-ment might have a report for the sub-ject, but at present there was nothing available.

Caused Mock Indignation. Gaused Mock Indignation.

Mr. Boyce of Algoma remarked that although information in respect to the plans for the Port Arthur and Fort William terminals of the G. T. P. had been refused to the House, he had been informed upon reliable authority that Informed upon reliable authority that the information contained in the plan had been hawked about after having been passed through the back door of the Railways and Canals Department. At this there was an outburst of what appeared to be mock indignation on the part of several of the Ministers. Mr. Emmerson declared that when in August last, the plans for the terminals at Port Arthur and Fort William

Want the information.

In this request the Prime Miniater and the Minister of Finance also joined with some appearance of warmth. Mr. Boyce, however, contented himself with repeating his statement, for which, he said, he took the entire responsibility. Further than that he did not feel called upon to ge.

"What is the remedy?" Sir Wilfrid Laurier enquired.
"There is the remedy already adopted by the Prime Minister in other legislation, that when you are negotiating with the C. P. R. for franchises and other privileges they seek, you can at the same time negotiate with them for the removal of existing abuses," replied Mr. Maclean.

The House then went into Committee of Supply and passed a number of items

Adjourns Out of Respect.

By the time the House reassembled at 8 o'clock last night, the sad news of the death of R. F. Clarke, member for Centre Toronto, has been received, and immediately upon the sitting being resumed, Rt L. Borden arose and made a brief but touching reference to the decease of the popular member.

Mr. Borden said: "Mr. Speaker, it becomes my very sad and painful duty to announce what is already known, I think, to a great many members of the House, the very sudden and lamented death of our friend, E. F. Clarke, the member for Centre Toronto.

"I understand that an opportunity will be given on Monday to make fitting reference to this very sad event. I rise at the present time to suggest that as a tribute of respect to the memory of the late Mr. Clarke, we should adjourn now and not proceed further with the business of the day. I am sure that all of us on both sides of the House feel that we should pay this tribute to the memory of our late confrere."

Sir William Mulcok fellowed. He said: "The House has heard with profound regret the sad information conveyed by the leader at the opposition, of the death of his late colleague, E. F. Clarke. I am sure that the Prime Minister will share with the leader of the opposition, as we all do, in the deepest regret at this unexpected visit of the Angel of Death. Prior to the issue of this rescript, the Prior to the issue of this rescript, the Liberals expressed profound disappointment with his manifesto appealing to the Russian people. They declared that the result could not fail to be disastreus. In their opinion, the manifesto could not have come at a more inepportune moment, as the workmen on the eve of the emancipation anniversary are in a state of intense excitement due to the refusal of the Govern-

It is not certain, however, that this is the Emperor's last word. It is pos-sibly the last card of auteoracy; but the ukase, by turning over the whole question of the future to the Committee of Ministers, leaves the way open to grant a National Assembly if the mani-

PITY THE POOR CZAR! Nicholas Pleads with People to Rally Round Throne.

Round Throne.

St. Petersburg, March 4.—The text of the Imperial manifesto published by The Official Messenger yesterday, calling on the country to rally round the throne in defence of the Empire from its internal enemies; is as follows:

"An inscrutible Providence has been pleased to visit eur Fatherland with heavy trials. A blockly war in the Far East, involving the henor of Russla and command of the waters of the Pacific Ocean, so argently necessary to the conclusion of the peaceful prosperity not only of our own but of other Christian nations throughout the ages, has imposed a great strain on the strength of our Russian people, and has swallowed up many dear victims near

o our hearts.

Blinded by Pride. Blinded by Pride.

While the glorious sons of Russia are fighting with self-sacrificing bravery, risking their lives for their faith, for their Emperor and for their country, disturbances have broken out in our own land to the joy of our enemies our own land to the jey of our enemies and our own deep sorrow. Blinded by pride, the evil-minded leaders of a revolutionary movement make insolent attacks on the Holy Orthodox Church and the lawfully established pillars of the Russian State, thinking that by the Russian State, thinking that by severing the natural connection with the past they will destroy the existing order of the State and set up in its place a new administration on a foundation unsuitable to our Fatherland.

"The outrage on the Grand Duke Sergius, who ardently leved the first capital of the Empire, and who met his capital of the Empire, and who met his end midst the sacred monuments of the Kremlin, deeply shocks the national feeling of everyone to whom the honor of the Russian name and renown and Humbly Bears His Trials.

"We humbly bear the trials sent us by Previdence and derive strength and consolation from our firm trust in the grace which God has always shown to the Russian powers, and from the im-

the Russian powers, and from the immediate devotien which we know our loyal people entertain for the throne. "With the help of, the prayers of the Holy Orthodox Church, and under the banner of the autocratic might of the Emperors, Russia has already frequently passed through great wars and disturbances, always issuing from her troubles and difficulties with fresh and unbending strength.

troubles and difficulties with fresh and unbending strength.
"Novertheless, the recent internal disorders and the instability of thought which have favored the spread of revoit and disturbances make it our duty to remind all those in the Government institutions of their service-oath, and to call upon them to display increased solicituds in the safeguarding of law, order, and security, in firm consciousness of their moral responsibility as servants of the throne and of the Fathesland."

Look to God for Victory,

"Thinking unceasingly of the wel-fare of our people and firmly trusting that God, after He has tried our pathat God, after He has tried our pa-tience, will give victory to our arms, we appeal to right-minded people of all classes to join us, each in his calling and in his place, in single-minded co-operation by word and deed in the great and sacred task of overcoming the stubborn foreign foe and cradicat-ing the revolt at home, and in wise efforts to check the internal confu-sion.

"We wish to remind everyone in this connection that only if there is tranquility of mind throughout the whole population is it possible to realize our aims for a renewal of the quiet life of our people, strengthening the prosperity of the State and perfecting its administration.

"Let all those rally around the Throne who, true to Russia's past, consclously bear in accord with ourselves for every affair of State.

"May God send down on the clergy, holiness; on those in authority, justice and truth; on the people, peace; on the laws, power, and on the faith, strength, to the consolidation of the autocracy and the welfare of our dear subjects.

Hunter, giving evidence in his own behalf, stated the origin of his association with British Canadians. In February, 1984, he received a license from the Canadian Pacific Ballway to book passengers. According to that he was entitled to certain commissions. His commission was £631. He may retended to anyone that he could compel canadian employers to employ the men he sent out. He considered himself justified in gaugnteeting employment because of information he had received regarding the Canadian labor market. He referred to letters us had received from accredited men in Canada, stating from accredited men in Canada, stating there was a demand for workmen, including the Canada Foundry Company and the Building Trades Exchange, which stated that first-class bricklayers, masons, etc., were wanted, especially owing to the great fire in Toronto. He also received applications from He also received applications from Montreal for domestic servants, which men to the Canada Foundry from this

Peter Barren, now a vanman at Bellshill, Scotland, stated that he went to Toronte in charge of a party of workmen. He was put in charge of a house called the Clachan, built by the Canada Foundry Company for the accommodation of emigrant workmen. He knew many men sent out under Mr. Hunter's auspices whe were perfectly satisfied with their situations and were doing well.

Cross-examined, he said he was first employed by Mr. Hunter to take charge of a party of tallors whom he afterwards learned were to take the places of those on strike. The Clachan, whose name attracted the Scotamen, was built for the accommodation of those taking the places of men on strike, and would accommodate about 160. It was closed in February when the strike ended. He confessed he found a number of Hunter's men out of work in Toronto, and was considerably alarmed at their attitude.

Cowper stated he was a salaried servant of Hunter, and had inserted an advertisement in various papers, written under Hunter's orders.

The prisoners, Hunter and Cowper, were acquitted.

DELIGHTFUL MUSICAL. No higher tribute could have bee tendered to the genius and succes of Mrs. John Cooper and Miss Lillian Pratt than proved the exquisite complementary musicale given by their vocal and piano pupils in the Auditorium of the I. O. O. F. Temple last evening. Long before the hour of commencement the hall was crowded to overflow with a caltured and delighted audience, realizing that any artistic musical function

prepared by these accomplished

ladies was perforce par excellence, The program was all that en-thusiastic anticipation had proclaimed it, It was presented in its en tirety by the pupils of the two ladies, the assisting artistes being three of their talented graduates, Mrs. Milton Begart, contralto; Miss Gertrude Somerville, soprano, and Miss Flossie Bogart, who possesses few peers as an accompaniste, Twenty-two numbers in all were contributed and not one failed to please. In both your and instrumental the young ladies acquitted themselves admirably and every number was thoroughly enjoyed. The pupils of Mrs. Cooper and Miss Pratt invariably do credit to themselves and their classes, These two ladies have, perhaps, done more than all others to develop musical culture and accomplishment in the Maple City, and they have surround-programs. Of the individual numbers it would here be impossible to speak with justice. Suffice it that each was worthy of the others. The concluding number, an unaccompanied quartette by M'ss McGeorge, Mrs. Cooper, Miss Schwemler and Mrs. Bogart was one of the finest readitions ever heard, in this city and elicited a pronounced and enthusiastic victation of the rule which had prohibited ened themselves with a galaxy of

distinct acquisitions to our concert

Two especially pleasing features of the evening were the presentation of magnificent boquets to Mrs. Cooper and Miss Pratt from their pupils. At the conclusion of the musicale the ladies entertained to an informal and delightful dance, which was much enjoyed. Lorriman's orchestra turnished excellent music. The Lewer Animals. Asimals have keen perceptions --keener in many respects than our own -but they form no conceptions, have no powers of comparing one thing with another. They live entirely in and through their senses. To all that inne world of reflection, imagination, comparison, reason, they are strangers. They never return upon themselves in thought. They have sense memory, sense intelligence, and they profit in many ways by experience, but they have not soul memory or rational intel-ligence. All the fundamental emotions and appetites men and the lower animais share in common, such as fear, anger, love, hunger, jealousy, cunning, pride, curiosity, play, but the world of thought and thought experience and the emotions that go with it belong to man alone. It is as if the psychic v were divided into two planes, one above the other, the plane of sense and the plane of spirit. In the plane of sense live the lower animals, only nov

Used in Connection with the Province of Quebec Probation System with Unvarying Success

The City Council of Montreal has endorsed this marvellons discovery. The Finance Committee of Montreal recently voted $560 to defray the expense of placing the medicine in each of the city police stations, as prompt application of the Treatment to bad bases will prevent the fatalities continually occurring in the cells.

No Sanitavium is required. The Treatment can be taken at home. No special diet required. The desire to reform is simply necessary and spirits avoided for a few days.

This medicine is now within the reach of all, the price having been reduced. The wonderful results obtained with the worst class of drunkards coming before the Judges of the Recorders' Courts in Quobec and Montreal warrants the statement that the disease of Drunkenness can be curedereddly and surely—under ordinary circumstances and with the reasonable desire upon the part of an inebriate.

This treatment is simply the medicine of the medical profession—the only secret is as to fits administration.

Dr. Maskay's discovery is the result of 25 years of practice as a specialist and expert. He is a member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of the Province of Quebec,

The Government of Quebec through the Judges ordered over 500 bxes of the medicine for prisoners appearing in the Courts in 1904—Official Reports establish 80 per cent, of cures with these cases.

With public and official endorsation and the recore of results published it is unnecessary to waste money experimenting further. All communications private.

It is said that wedding bells will ring twice during March. The first and greatest needs of the hair are cleanliness, friction and ventulation. Give your halo a sun bath once in awhile, and the silky strands will fairly laugh with happiness. For some crazy reason there are many individuals who will not wash their heads often enough to keep the hair decently clean. We are not water animals and do not need to soak our topknots every day, but it is a pretty plain fact that exce every week or two the hair should be carefully washed. If there is an inclination to dandruff or if the hair is subjected to an unusual amount of dust, a weekly shampoo is an absolute necessity.

"I would advise mothers to stop dosing their little ones with nauseous easter oil and soothling stuffs and use only Baby's Own Tablets." This is the advice of Mrs. Joseph E. Harley, of Worthington, Ont., who has proved the Tablets the best medicine in the world for the troubles that afflict young children. Mrs. Harley adds: — "My little one has had no other medicine but the Tablets since she was two months old, and they have kept her the picture of good for children of every age, and speedily sure all stomach and bowel troubles, break up colds, prevent croup, expel worms and allay the irritation of teething. And you have a solemn guarantee that there is not a particle of opiate or harmful drug in this medicine. This event in the Court of the Temple occurs about six months from our last lessor about seven months be-fore our Lord's death. The Feast of last lessor about seven months before our Lord's death. The Feast of Tabernacles was to commemorate Israel's dwelling in booths, ere they found a home in Canaan. It was salled the "Ingathering," for it was a harvest featival and one of the three great feasts men of Israel were commanded to attend yearly, the most joyous of them all. When the kingdom was divided Jereboam provided a similar service in his dominious to prevent the ten tribes going up to Jerusalem to worship. The last, the great day of the feast, watter from Siloam, was poured out in great abundance, after the Priests had encompassed the altar of saarifice seven times, and jost then Jesus uses the type and applies it to Himself and to the Spirit which they that believed on Him were to receive when He would be glorified at His assemsion. Penticost, the early rain, and the yet more abundant latter rain, of the present revival, is the spiritual harvest festival which our Great High Priest is pouring out apon His people, and which He always will when God's conditions are met by man. See Malachi 5.10: Acts 2, 33. Water is a type of the Spirit, as rain makes fraitful our earth, so the Holy Spirit produces fruits of righteousness in the hearts and lives of God's people, making them living witnesses walking evis. When the hair persistently suffers from loss of vitality it is usually from one or more of the following causes: Uncleanliness, lack of care, anxiety, worry, late hours, overstudy, want of exercise or disease. Dyspepsia is responsible for wany thinned out halos. The hair, brang the most delicate of the body's formation, is the first to show that the body is not receiving sufficient nourishment. The use of harmful restoratives or dyes will frequently cause the hair to become gray and broken. One cannot be too carefu, what one rubs into one's thought dome.

LARGE FORTUNE

Wm. Moffatt, accountant, in the office of W. H. Harper, has been notified that he and his brother John are beirs to a large fortune in England. Mr. Moffatt noticed an advertisement in a London paper asking for the whereabouts of John and William Moffatt, and stating that they were heirs to a large fortune. Mr. Moffatt at once wrote to the firm of leading London lawyers who had inserted the advertisement and is awaiting their roply. The Moffat brothers are of a rood family and came here from England a good many years ago. They can trace their descent back to the year 1800.

DRAINAGE COURT

Malahide and South Dorchester vs Dereham.-The township of Dereham situated in Oxford county and Malahide and South Dorchester are in Elgin Co. The Cat Fish drainage work begins in Dereham and extends partly through Malahide. This scheme was improved by Dereham taking the initiative. The contractors did not complete the work according to specifications and contract. The contractors brought an action against Dereham to compel payment of the balance of the contract price. The referee appointed W. G. McGeorge to inspect the work and report to him whether the work and report to him whether the work and report to him whether the work was really completed. He reported that it was not completed and the referee decided that the contractors must complete it and a certificate of such completion should be given by him before the contractors were entitled to recover the balance of the contract price. The work was completed and the certificate of Mr. McGeorge given to the referee, and the contractors were paid. The costs of the action had to be met and there was not sufficient money provided by the original estimates to clear off the liability. A supplementary by-law was passed by Deetham to raise the additional amount required. This by-lay was Titasked by the appellants on the ground that the original sum raised had not been properly expended and that Dereham should pay the balance. The referce holds that the township acted properly and reasonably in defending the action and in forcing the anontractors to give a komplete scheme and that the drainage area should bear the oost. The appeal is therefore dismissed, but under the peculiar circumstances of the case without costs.

S. G. McKey and E. A. Miller for appellants; M. Wilson, K. C., and W. E. Gundy, for respondents. Malahide and South Dorchester are in Elgin Co. The Cat Fish drainage

Monday night, at the Ancient Concert in Christ Church Sunday School, you should hear John Waddell sing "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," or J. W. Shackleton's soulful and tenden, rendition of "Come Where my Love Lies Dreaming." O. L. Lewis is said to be starring in that charming solo, "When the Band begins to play oft in the stilly night." W. H. Harper has a homemade recitation about fellows who should take out lots of fire insurance before they die, Walt Scane, he's a gallant, and is going to sing "Weep no more, my ladies." Every time Walter goes to a funeral and sees the ladies weeping he thinks he's the cause of those tears. Cap. Stevens says that's egotism and he's got a recitation that tells all about it. The poem was written by Cap. with a penknife. He chopped the letters out of this G. H. J., put them together to form words, hence the patchwork poem, which is a mixture of Alex. Cedar, politics and Walter Scane. Cap. will recite it at the Old Folks' Concert at Christ Church Sunday School Monday night.

Several distilleries were visited, and the bird drank as many 'healths' in whiskey and gin. 'Jack' collapsed just before the office was reached, with a Christmas feeling on him. One half plut of stout is 'Jack's' allowance, and this quantity seems to agree with him.

Miss Hattie Mount, of the Post Office staff, received a letter this morning asking her to take charge of a young girf relative. The letter alleged that the girl had a fortune $250,000 deposited in a New York bank. The father was in the military toils in Madrid and was anxious to have his daughter taken care of. She was at present at boarding school in Ireland. Miss Mount at once recognized the letter as a fake.

John Thompson, Head street, received a similar letter from Madrid last fall. The country has been flooded with such letters. So many were received in the United States last year that the Government took the matter up and made an effort to prosecute the perpetrator of these frauds. The object of tuese letters is to secure money from unsuspecting persons who desire to become the grardians of rich young refatives.

Red Rose Tea

Because it is composed of both Indian and Ceylon teas.

The tea bush is indigenous to Assam in Northern India, and botanists are of the opinion that it is the parent species of all the cultivated varieties in India, Ceylon, China and elsewhere. In a wild state, it grows to a height of fifteen to twenty feet, but the cultivated shrub is only three to four feet high.

Assam being the natural home of the tea bush, it is not surprising that this and other districts in Northern Andia produce the richest, most pungent teas grown in the world-teas that command higher prices than even the finest Ceylons; but Ceylon teas are very flavory and fragrant, and seem to be specially made to blend with the richer, more syrupy tea of India. When combined, the *Ceylons give point and piquancy to the liquor; the Indians, richness and strength.

The distinctive characteristic of Red Rose Tea, that rich, fruity flavor, is obtained by blending these fine Indians and Ceylons; and another very important feature of Red Rose Tea, viz., its uniformity of flavor all the year round, is secured the same way, something not possible to obtain where Ceylon or Indian teas are used

The Blue Label is recommended, and unless you like very strong tea, use only three-quarters as much for a drawing as you use of other teas.

THE GERMS OF CONSUMPTION SWARM IN THE LAND

vent all chances of attack from this seu EXPLAINS THE SYMPTOMS OF CONSUMPTION

AFTER TRAFALGAR. Craiser of Medern Type Could Destro

For close upon a century, says The London Express, Britain has enjoyed, undisputed, the supremacy of the sea won for her by Nelson's glorious victory at Trafaigar minety-nine years ago. Nothing is more remarkable than the complete revolution which naval construction and naval warfare have undergone in the intervening years. If the great Admiral's fleet could be restored as it was in 1805 a single cruiser would blow it out of the water in an hour without ever coming within range of its guns. Steam, propelled vessels were, of course, unknown in Nelson's time, and the issue of a battle depended to a great extent upon seamanship and the vagaries of the wind.

The range and destructive power of the guns were then so small that offi ers and men were often killed by rifle fire from picked shots placed in the enemy's masts, and, as all know, kelson hinself met by set his death in the lease of the set his death in the lease in the senemy's masts, and, as all know, kelson hinself met his death in the lease of the senemy's masts, and, as all know, kelson hinself met his death in the lease of the lease of the langer his death in the langer his death langer his death langer his death l rifle fire from picked shots placed in the enemy's masts, and, as all know, Nelson himself met his death in this way. In modern naval warfare a decisive battle may be fought, as at Chemulpo, without the combatants coming within four miles of each other.

If we compare the navy at the com-mencement of the nineteenth century with the navy of to-day, the following interesting comparison is ob-

The actual average number of guns to each ship, it is interesting to note, has fallen from fifty-five in 1803 to about fifteen this year. In striking about fifteen this year. In striking this average torpedo craft are taken into account. This reduction, of course, has been rendered possible by the enormous increase in the range and destructive power of the modern gun. Comparing Nelson's flagship Victory with the newest 16,000 ton battle ship of the King Edward VII. class, it will be found that while the Victory's heaviest shot was sixtyeight pounds, the twleve-inch guas of the King Edward VII. will fire a projectile weighing 850 pounds.

With the invention of armor plates, the first of which was made for the

the first of which was made for the Crimean War, the cost of warship construction has increased enormously. A 100-gun man-of-war in Nelson's time, coppered, masted and rigged, but excluding armament, cost $388,000. The King Edward VII. $388,000. The King Edward VII. without its guns and ammunition cost the immense sum of $6,842,000, or twenty times as much as Nelson's Victory. Britain's naval predominance over Britain's naval predominance over other Powers was much more pronounced five years after the battle of Trafalgar than it is ti-day. It will be seen from the appenied table that in 1810, so far as gun power is concerned, she could have made a good fight of it had all the other naval Powers in the world combined against her. The strength of the Powers in the world combined against her. The strength of the fleets of the great Powers in that year was as follows:

But in the unlikely event of Britain being at war with the combined na-tions of the world in 1905 she would stand a poor chance of victory. Coast defence ships are here included with battleships

If the ships and the guns of the since Nelson's day, so also have the men. So difficult was it to obtain sufficient seames to man the ships toward the close of the eighteenth century that bounties amounting to as much as $350 had to be offered to induce men to serve. This naturally led to the introduction of the riff-raff and ne endowedles of above class.

induce men to serve. This naturally led to the introduction of the riff-raff and ne'er-do-wells of every class.
There is a striking difference, indeed, between those ruffians and the smart, kind-hearted men of King Edward VII.'s navy. Though men were difficult to obtain in Nelson's time, the supply of officers was seldom deficient. So great, in fact, was the competition among the upper classes to enter the navy that the names of children were often entered in the ship's books before they were out of the nursery.

A striking instance was Sir Edward Hamilton, who was born on March 12, 1772, and was entered as midshipmen on May 21, 1779, when he was only seven years old. It is stated that he actually took part in an action on board his father's ship, the Hector, one year later.

The famous Thomas Cochrane, tenth Earl of Dundonald, whose name is associated with as many daring and successful exploits as that of almost any naval officer, was born in December, 1775, and entered as captain's servant when five years old. Nelson himself entered the navy at the age of twolve and immediately went west on a yoyage to the West Indies.

Five years ago, in an excess of religious mania, he cut off all his fingers on his left hand. When he heard that the Russians had suffered misfortune in the far east he declared it was the result of their sins, which could be atoned only by a sacrifice offered to Mother Earth. At first he said he did not know the significance of this declaration. But on John the of this declaration. But on John the Baptist's day he represented that he had been commanded to plant himself had been commanded to plant himself in the earth and there remain until the unbelievers, meaning the Japanese, were beaten or until birch leaves sprouted from his fingerless hand. He has accordingly planted himself up to his knees in earth in his hut. There he now remains, with a granddaughter to look after him.

Great interest was aroused recent y by the circumstance that in grave national crisis, when the King was for the moment inaccessible, th the presence of Queen Alexandra for consultation, with, as was generally understood, most satisfactory results. This was quite a new depart ture for the present reign, says London Tit-Bits.

ture for the present reign, says London Tit-Bits.
Of course, Queen Victoria played this sovereign part constantly, but her late Majesty was the head of the state and it was the proper course for her to pursue. Except when considered as part of the King and Sovereign, Queen Alexandra is not the head of the state. She enjoys a position of her own which is absolutely unique. Whilst it differs from that of the King it also differs from that of any other lady, married or single, or of any rank, and in some material ways it is also different from that of previous queen conent from that of previous queen cor ont from that of previous queen consorts.

One of the most curious and interesting provisions in the law and customs of the state is that the Queen is, for private business purposes, not regarded as a married lady at all. She is the only lady in Great Britain who does not come within the scope of the Married Women's Property Act. The principle of the law is that the King is entirely different from all other married men, and that his time is too fully taken up with the affairs of state for him to have any left to devote to domestic matters, and that therefore the whole management of the Queen's private business matters must deprivate business matters must de-volve upon Her Majesty singly, and that no responsibility whatever in respect to them rests upon the King. Therefore, if such a thing could be

Therefore, if such a thing could be imagined as the Queen contracting debts in her husband's name, the King would not be responsible for them, as any other husband would be unless he had given due notice to tradesmen and all others concerned that he would for the future decline to settle all such accounts.

If the King contracted debts, the law which says that His Majesty can do no wrong would prevent anybody from suing him for recovery of the amount due; but no such protection is granted to the Queen, who could be proceeded against in the ordinary recognize the Queen as part of the monarchy, it cannot tose sight of the fact that after all her position is limited to that of Queen Consort, and therefore she is in a very large sense one of His Majesty's subjects, and therefore she is in a very large sense one of His Majesty's subjects, and in certain cases, which there is no human possibility of occurring in these times, she would be treated as a subject. But in other respects she is accorded privileges by the realmy which are given to no other person except the King.

Particularly there is the question of high treason. It is generally understood that the King is the only person whom it is high treason to plot against; but it would be high treason also to plot against Queen Alexandra. All Consorts of British monarchs have not enjoyed this privilege. When Philip of Spain tharried Queen Mary it was denied to him, though some time after the mairtage a special Act of Parliament was passed in which he was granted the concession.

The signature 'Edward Rex' is attached to all State documents of such importance as to demand it. But in no circumstances whatever would the corresponding one 'Alex-would the corresponding one 'Alex-

But in no circumstances whatever would the corresponding one "Alex-andra Regina" be allowed to be at tached, either in conjunction with that of His Majesty or without it. If it should happen that the Queen If it should happen that the Queen should survive the King, many of the privileges which she at present possesses would be withdrawn from her, only nominally in some cases but actually in others, whilst constitutional law provides that some curious restrictions shall be placed upon her. It would no longer be high treason to plot against her, and it is held by at least one high authority that she could not marry again if she wished to do so without the special license and permission of the King's successor.

All this, as has been made clear, is the very strict and essential legal view which the Constitution, having view which the Constitution, having regard to difficulties which have occurred in the past, finds it necessary to take in theory of the position of the Queen, but in the hearts of the people, as we all know, she exercises complete and supreme authority as the first lady, and one upon whom there can be no limitations whilst England is governed as it is.

Fond Memories.

A young Oxford student one day received an unexpected visit from his pretty sister and was very indigmant that she came without a chaperon. "Look here," said the young man, "I will not have any of the fellows see you in my rooms, so if any one knocks at the door you just get behind that screen. In a few minutes a knock was heard, and the girl ran behind the screen as her brother went to the door. An old gentleman stood on the threshold, who, after profusely apologizing for his intrusion, said: "I am just home from Australia, and many years ago I occupied these rooms. Would you allow me, sir, to look at them once again?" "Certainly," exclaimed the student, "Come in." "Ah!" exclaimed the old man. Everything is just the same. Same old screen." Then, catching sight of the girl. "By Jove! Same old dodge." "Sir!" exclaimed the student "That is my sister." "Gad sir." was the ryloinder, "same old lie!"—London T.tler.

Clarke, M. P. for Centre Toronto, at the residence, 383 Markham Street. His death, which was due to heart failure, least a cruel blow to the myembers of his family and a rude shock to an almost numberless circle of friends and acquaintances. Arrangements for the funeral will be made today. It will probably take place on Monday.

Mr. Clarke returned to Toronto from Ottawa on February 8 after having been confined to bed for ten days suffering from congestion of the lungs. He stood the journey very well, and continued to improve until the 20th, when he developed pneumonia. It was a fairly sharp attack and for about five days the patient was very ill, but afterwards his improvement was rapid. His temperature became normal on Tuesday

It was a fairly sharp attack and for about five days the patient was very ill, but afterwards his improvement was rapid. His temperature became normal on Tuesday last, and he made such excellent progress that Dr. F. N. G. Starr, his physician for many years, was of opinion that he would be able with safety to go out next week. Yesterday afternoon he was lying in bed and chatting cheerfully with his wife, who sat near him. At about 5.39 he complained of feeling very warm, and Mrs. Clarke noticed that he seemed to have some difficulty in breathing. Dr. Starr was telephoned for, but was absent from his residence, attending other patients in the extreme west end and did not receive the message until after Mr. Clarke's death. Dr. F. A. Besides his widow, to whom he was married in 1884, six children survive, all of them residing at home, the eldest, Phyllis, being 18 years of age, and the youngest, Evelyn Grace, 4.

Autobiography.

Edward Frederic Clarke was probably Toronto's best-known citizen. His long and official connection with the Orange Order, his career in municipal life of Toronte and his political successes in the Legislature and in Parliament, coupled with business, labor and social connections, brought him for years to the attention of people throughout Canada. He was a native of Bailieboro, County Cavan, Ireland, where he was born on April 24, 1850, and was the third son of Richard Clarke, merchant, of that place. He received his education there and came to Canada in 1864. He was apprenticed to the printing trade and served his time in The Globe office, and in the printers' strike in this city in 1872 he was one of the leaders. In 1871 he became manager and editor of The Orange Sentinel, and his connection with the Orange Order has since then been most prominent. At the time of his death he was 'frand Treasurer of the Grand Lodge of Ontario Legislature, and remained there until 1894, when he retired. He was honored by the citizens of Toronto as no other man serve was in his election to the Chief Magistracy for four successive terms, from 1888 to 1891. In 1896 he entered Federal politics and was returned in West Toronto as an independent Conservative pledge, to oppose all efforts of Government to coerce the Province of Manitoba by remedial legislation on the school question. He was re-elected in 1900, and last November undertook the most difficult riding in Toronto, the Confire where he was returned by a most flattering majority. In 1892 he served as a member of the Royal Commission on the laquor traffic.

GOT HER DRESS

Lady Who Has Great Faith in the Premier's Memory and his Promise.

The Gait Reporter says the Hon. J. P. Whitney has a good memory. As is generally known, he went to school in Cornwall in his early days, and even then was quite a politician, though possibly his leavings were different to what they became afterwards. He often talked politics with a friend with whom he lived in town, and the lady of the house used to encourage him with the remark that he would be premier some day. "If I do," said the budding stateman, "I will send you the best silk dress I can get." It took some time for Mr. Whitney to realize his ambition, but the dress arrived the other day, to the del ght of the recipient.

A Frightful Butchery. A Frightful Butchsry.

Night attacks are again the feature of the Japanese tactics. During Thursday night almost a corps of infantry was hurled against General Bilderling's right flank, and for hours the men fought in the darkness, the Japanese using hand grenades with terrible effect. General Rennenkamph's troops acquitted themselves brilliantly, contesting the passes southeast for three days. They fought continuously, the Japanese pressing them on all sides with heavy odds in favor of the Japanese. On Thursday night the corps lost about 1,800 men, of which number fourteen were officers. Over 1,000 wounded men have already agrived here.

The brunt of the fighting fell on Gen. Daniloff's division, and Gen Lubayin's division, which held the heights of Tomous Mountain. Sakhoton, Manchuria, March 4.—
Stubborn fighting was in progress all day long yesterday. Four Japanese divisions are about eleven miles west of Mukden. The Japanese yesterday made two infantry attacks on Poutlioff Hill, but were repulsed. They have resumed the bombardment of the hill. The Japanese attacked the Russian extreme left wing at two points as well as at Gauto Pass, where during the morning the fortifications previously abandoned were recaptured by the Russians.

A Trip Up Mount Lowe

Will Robertson, an Old Chatham Boy, Writes a Very Interesting Letter from Los Angeles. California.

writes home the following interng letter to his sister here. Will low in Los Angeles, California, now in Los Angeles, California, there he went some time ago.

As it is not very pleasant outside, and not having any place in particular to go—in fact I usually prefer pending Sunday as quietly as possible to make up for the strenuous work of the weak—I may as well give four my promised account of our firing up Mt. Lowe.

We left Los Angeles at one o'clock, taking the electric gar directly to Mt. Lowe, about 35 miles away. Our route led through the pretty little town of Pasadena, where the beautiful flower tournament was held,

Will Robertson, an old Chatham

ful flower tournament was held, which, by the way, I have never described to you because I did not see it, having slept too long that morning to get a car in time for the parade.

Our outward trip being of a gradual slope up to the base of the mountains was somewhat slow, occupying about two hours, but well repaid the time by the magnificent view of the mountains at close range, revealing the wonderful variety of formation and strata, which caused the variegated colors that so impressed me on my first view of the mountains, and which you may recall by those very artistic pictures we used to have in tragography.

Vell, after a circuitous climb of ut 1,000 feet, through shaded aveis and scented scenery, bordered on her side by the cosy little estates surrounding coster little mansions of our wealthy winter residents, we reached the base of scenic Mt. Lowe. Here we entered a peculiarly shaped open car, all cut on the bias, and attached to a sturdy cable running up between two tiny tracks which were almost buried in the sides of the mountain.

With the "all aboard!" of the conwith the "all abbara" of the con-ductor we began a slow but steady rise, up and away from the humbler walks of life, up and into the unim-peded clearness and fragrance of the pathways of the sunbeams.

Higher and higher we rose, with only the ceaseleses rumbling of the car wheels to remind us that we were car wheels to remind us that we were still the fond creatures of mother earth, for in the awful incline of our steep ascent, we were wholly unable to view with any comfort the path had already trod. Upwand and vard we went, till the gigantic m of the forest-clad monster ss the canyon, which below had reed so high above us, now dimind into pigmy insignificance as we above the sumit and gazed down corn upon its tiny form.

above the sumit and gazed down corn upon its tiny form.

I wen minutes of this steep, ight incline, and we halted at the of Echo Mountain, one thousand above the little station of Rubis, had just left, and having ridden istance of only thirteen hundred, you may imagine the steepness the incline. It is, in fact, only exceeded by one inclined railway in the gold world, and that one is only lift as long, but makes a more early perpendicular journey.

At this point we visited the small

....... observatory and immense search-light brought here from St. Louis Exposition, and took a few minutes' rest before starting on our trolley trip up to the Atpine Tavern: and here, I might say, that before starting Mr. Kirkland, our president, gave us a letter to Mr. Harvey, the conductor of the trolley line, with whom he was well acquainted, and afterwards telephoned him that we were coming up, and to be sure and give us a good time.

Harvey is a Canadian himself, although he has been in California for about fifteen years. Last year he spent about six months in Canada, mainly in Ridgetown, Ont. Well, of course it did not take us long to get acquainted, and Harvey being a very pleasant chap we certainly enjoyed our trip, and although it is his business to entertain his visitors and describe the trip up the mountain, yet, coming as we did under his special care, we were given the lion's share of the entertainment.

Again boarding a tiny trolley car we commenced our hazardous journey up to the Alpine Tayern, three thouthis trolley line was built by a Canadian from London, Ont., whose name I cannot recall, and is certainly an engineering feat to be proud ly an engineering feat to be proud

With nothing but the steer sides of the mountain for a foundation, the original architect of the line was

With nothing but the steep sides of the mountain for a foundation, the original architect of the line was undoubtedly the mule-driver, for the present circuitous trail of the trolley seems nothing more than an augmented and mechanically equipped mule-jath.

So you may have some idea of its chief feature, the line itself.

The start is made around a quick shar, curve, giving you your first spasms of discomfort at the thought of diving off into the infinite depths of the cauyon beyond, then you are safe for fully half a minute, while you regain your breath for the next whirl, which in place of clinging close to the mountain seems to scorn its aid and dashing off over a trestled canyon hurls you in against a towering rock on the further side. Round and round and in and out, till having overcome the timidity of the start by the attractiveness of the scenery and by the knowledge of your security, you begin to look forward to startling disclosures and perileus points as you speed from place to place.

Half an hour is necessary for this trolley trip, and as we traverse about about five miles of track and rise for three thousand feet, you can realize that it is not a slow or tedious journey. At times you reach a long stretch of line fully fifty yards, then for fully a mile scarcely ten feet of straight track, our finy oar whirling and careening in its upward lofty flight.

Now we pass through the crumbling, storm bearen rocky slopes, then with a single turn dash into the cool shady recesses of the mountain forest, under the leafy branches of nighty oaks, which below had seemed to up but tiny shrubbery, then cut again into the clear bright sunshine.

Skyward we went, passing and repassing, now whitled over a mighty horse-shoe curve till we erossed our former jath about fifty feet above it. Gazing far below us we can see sharp turns in the trails we have just traversed, one, two, three, four, five, we count, down, down, down, down, into the valley, then in an upward look, we see two circling bridges one up and beyond the other, which we are yet to cross. Truly it is marvellous. But we move quickly upward and the panorama with its ceaseless changing gives flight to time, and before our eyes are half feasted upon the luxury of such scenes, we dive headlong into the shady graves of a mountain pleasure park and our car draws up at the open welcoming door of the Alpine Tavera.

cloud denoted the presence of the busy city in the distance, while far beyond, fully a half score leagues away, glistened the sunlit waters of the calm Pacific. But description dannot but defeat the garpose of one who would describe such sceaes, for when we reach the sublimity of nature, poets alone may grasp and reinterpret such revelations, and even then im, erfectly.

So with but a few short minutes in which to make our perilous return, we tore away, and for a greater part of the journey we literally tore away with a vengeance. Time was limited, so Mr. Harvey proposed to take the lead, and zealously arged his little pony to do his best.

Well, we travelled fast and faster, often taking the steer slopes with

They, therefore, released each other from all their duties as husband and wife respectively and engaged that neither should ever make or attempt to make any objection to subsequent marriage on the part of the other, but both should have full liberty to act in this respect as they please.

We are glad to be informed that it is the intention and desire of a number of our nusical townsmen to organize a brass band in Chatham. This is a think long desired here and we have no doubt, judging from the persons who are at the head of the movement, that it will be a decided success. One great thing which has told against these organizations in the past was that most of the members were not permanent residents of the town. This fault is being guarded against in the present company. All the members are long residents here and may be looked upon as fixtures. We are told that Messrs. Cleeve, Tilt, Craddock, Goodyear, Smith and others have already joined. It is purposed to raise money by subscription to pay for the instruments. We have no doubt our townsmen will subscribe liberally.

Happy with the pleasure already passed, we mounted the tavern balcony for a few minutes rest, and my first greeting was the broad homelike griu of our old friend Dan Gorrie, aforetime baker in Chatham, Out., now baker at Alpine Tavern. Well you bet it felt good to talk, home again, and we were not at a loss for conversation. Dan has only been here about three months and easy cauter, which quickening with loss for conversation. Dan has only been here about three months and although he's not struck on the job he's looking well and feeling fine. Well, with this addition to our party, the four of us, Harvie, Miller, Dan and myself mounted each a donkey for the ride to the summit. This being my very first experience in a saddle of any kind, you may imagine the rather perturbed state of my feelings, as I looked above and along that trul as it a peared in places and contemplated the novelties of that tril.

I was given the distinction of leading—at least I was put on the leading mule—and as there was nothing to do but hold on it might appear as though my task were easy.

I had often heard and read about though my task were easy.

I had often heard and read about mountain climbing on mules, but you never know the real thing till you've done it.

mountain elimbing on mules, but you never know the real thing till you've done it.

In most places our path was from twelve to sixteen inches wide, merely au indention in the side of the mountain, so we rode with one leg grazing the sloye on one side, and the other with only the stirrup between it and an infinitude of space below.

But I made a fine lead and my good of 1 ony "Signo" was a wonder, He could climb some spots almost straight up and dig his way over rocks and stones in a way that was marvellous.

About forty-five minutes brought us up to Sunset Point, with the revelation of wondrous beauties below and about us.

The view of the mountain itself was indescribible, taking one out of the frosaic tangibility of earthly things, into the sublimity of poetical imaginations, as one lady of the party said, "If heaven revealed no grander sight, she would be ha, pily satisfied."

Below us the verdant valley, stretched away in a limitless expanse of green, nothing but a smoky

One exceptionally long and perilous slide widened at the base into a fine smooth roadway, about six feet wide but narrowing in clases to about two feet. A nice, gentle, downward slope, gave the mules a little inclination to "hurry," and soon they were taking us along on an easy cauter, which quickening with the downward slope, soon became a run, and pefore our seats were well secured we were taking in the terra firms in gallor, only occasionally feeling the dull thuds as we struck the hard earth seemingly once every fifty feet.

Picture me, astride, at least I think I was satride whenever I touched, my mule, glaring before me with eyes fairly wild, gri, ping with the clutch of a drowning man, the faltry rein by which I was "surposed" to guide my mule, grasting my hat, the saddle and mane of the donkey all at once with my hands, and digging my toes fairly in between the ribs of the toor beast. Madly we rushed, onward and down, with never a moment to thank of even the rast or future, in the terribly dreadful reality and uncertainty of the gresent, swerving by a jutting rook, whirling at a sudden angle, and then a long mad, downward flash, in the orea, when often at a narrow place, only a few short inches se, arated us from an eternity of space.

Only a five minutes dash, and yet an eternity to me. My heart beat wildly u; against my epiglottis in an effort to free itself before the final capitulation, while a wnole naval engagement was in full o, eration u; and down my spiral column, ringling in my toes and fairly deafening in my ears.

And even as it started with a rush, so it storped, for as we made one final dash along the stretch for the wire, with good safe distance between us, but for the fact that I prepared myself for the sudden halt, I fear my old knot would scarcely be in proper condition now to tell the tale. And so we came down, with hearts filled up with gladdess.

BETTER MAKE PEACE.

If it is true, as reported in a St Petersburg descatch, that the Czar Thes turned a deaf ear to those who nsel war, and has determined that the war must be prosecuted with wigor, another series of Russian rees is likely to begin before long The Czar's decision is probably due pride rather than policy. It is mertainly not promoted by good judgsment By prosecuting the war, the danger from internal revolution is increased, for there can be no doubt That the war is enormously unropuwith the masses of the Russian people, especially of the more inflammatory ropulation of the cities. Bemaides, reace could be made now on momparatively easy terms for Russia much easier terms than she could btain in the event of the campaign From 1905 ending as favorably for Jaran the campaign of 1904 did.

And what hore is there that the the Russians? The fall of Port Ar-Athur has released an army of 60,000 Preteran fighters, the flower of the Jaranese army, who have gone to as magment Oyama's forces about Muk-The Ja:anese commander-inwhief has now under his control some "thing near half a million troops, exconciled in bravery, devotion and power endurance by no soldiers in the world. Their condition is excellent, The Jaranese commissariat, medical mand hospital services and sanitary waystem having been rronounced by European attaches to be superior to manything of the kind ever seen in - modern warfare. European military surgeons are still commenting with wonder upon the fact that in General Oku's army there were only forty deaths from disease last year.

On the other hand, the condition of the Russian troops at the front is reported to be deplorable. They are Dut half clothed, and are insuffimiently fed. They are constantly exrosed to the danger of having their anrolies out off by the breakdown of the Siberian railway, the facilities of which are already overtaxed with the Mranscortation of supplies,

All accounts agree, also, that the Russian soldiers at the front are anxsous for reace. Most of them had no meart for the war in the first place; wow they are so weary of it that Tamany of them are almost ready to But the beginning of the econd year of the war finds the ardor of the Japanese common solmdier still unabated. He is as devoted wand determined as he was a year ago, and more experienced. The most terwible fighting in all the war occurred around the walls of Port Arthur. Month after month the Jaranese Flung themselves by battalions and companies against that ring of forts, thousands of them sacrificing their lives willingly and even gaily; and The long strain only seemed to hardon the nerves of the survivors and make them more grimly determined. Let us refer to an incident of which is made in a grachic account of the siege of Port Arthur, written by Mr. Villiers, the eminent English artist and author, who was present throughout the siege, Mr. Villiers

"The assault on Eanusan cost the Jaranese some 15,000 killed and wounded, Fifty men-the remnant of a regiment-had made their way to the trench before the fort, and lay there in the mud for two days. living on fragments of rice and bloody water from the ditch. Then their leader, with his desperate half bundred, rushed out, unsurported, and very nearly took the fort above them. Indeed, their unexpected assault ended in its capture, for, observing what was going forward, regiments from their trenches rushed to their aid, and in the end drove out the Russians."

Seventeen of this heroic band were afterwards seen by Mr. Villiers at headquarters. General Nogi told him that he would not send them to the front again. They, the only survivors of a famous regiment, had done enough of lighting. But "it would not do to let them know it, or they would commit suicide."

Sixty thousund men like these have gone with their commander, the grim and grizzled Nogi, to reinforce the armies which know atkin has to encounter. What hope is there of conquering an army of half a million and fighters, well organized, well atmed and well led?

The Czar would have done better to decide for reace. expected assault ended in its cap-

MENT AND CURE OF DISEASE.

Dr. Leonhardt, of Lincoln, Neb., the foremost physician of the Western States, has put forward a new theory as to the cause of disease. He says—"There can be no doubt, from the evidence at hand, that the stomach is and has always been the first cause of ninety per cent. of all the illness of mankind. The failure of the stomach to digest the food properly results in fermentation and decomposition, and the poisons arising from the foul and rotting mass get into the blood and tissue and nerves and breed diseases of every kind."

Dr. Leonhardt has found a remedy for Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Biliousness and Constipation. He has tried it in thousands of cases without a single failure.

The text is Revelation xiv., 15, "The time has come for thee to reap."

"Multitudes, multitudes in the valley of decision," rescued by surrendering their hearts to Christ. Oh, what glosious news it is that reaches us from all lands, telling of old-fashioned revivals! As in bygone days, God is visting his people. On every hand the vivals! As in bygone days, God is vis-sting his people. On every hand the Holy Spirit is moving on the dull and lifeless churches, rousing apathetic Christians and bringing thousands of alinners to the foot of the cross. Austra-tia has her Pentecosts, England her Pentecosts, rock-ribbed Scotland her Pentecosts. Christmas Evans' beloved Welsh hills have witnessed such an autpouring of the Holy Spirit as no liv-ing man has ever seen before. Rough ing man has ever seen before. Rough miners and cultured scholars, old men and children have been stirred by a mysterious power and have turned to own land is sharing in the ing. Great tidal waves of revival ower have rolled up from Georgia. Great tidal waves of revival power have oreat tidal waves of revival power have rolled forth from Pennsylvania and New York and Colorado. Great tidal waves of revival power are now rolling forth from California to the far east. Conquering revivalists everywhere. God Conquering revivalists everywhere. God has harnessed to his gospel charlots of revival fire an Evan Roberts, a Chapman, an Ostrom, a Torrey, a Biederwolf and a Shaeffer, the soul winner of little children, and scores of other mighty gospel chargers in this modern work of grace. Truly God has poured out His Spirit upon all flesh. Our sons and our daughters are prophesying. Our young men are seeing visions. Our sold men are dreaming dreams. Oh. our young men are seeing visions. Our old men are dreaming dreams. Oh, Spirit that inspired the Wesleys and Whitefield and Finney and Baker and Cartwright and Moody, lead thou us on in this widening gospel movement for the redemption of a sinful world for Christ!

What is the meaning of all this wonwhat is the meaning of all this wonderful manifestation of the Spirit's power? Is there any law not yet discovered that governs such movements?
Is it possible that in the spiritual world there is a close connection between cause and effect? Is there anything cause and effect? Is there anything that we as individuals Christians can do to bring into operation these life-giving showers of divine grace? Is it possible that if we as Christian people continue to obey Göd's law we can have a perpetual revival of divine grace in our churches and homes every morning, every noon and every night?

These wonderful manifestations are not the work of any human agency, but of God. Those were the results of faith—the faith that moves mountains. When God's people pleaded with him for this blessing they put their trust in one who never falls. The preparation in the heart of man is with the Lord, and when these believing men and women begged him to touch the hearts of the people he heard and answered them. If we want a revival to move a city we must get that revival by the "golden tongue" of earnest prayer. We shall never get it simply by the "silver tongue" of brilliant prayer. Prayer, prayer, agonizing prayer. Tayer withe came from humby the "silver tongue" of brilliant prayer. Prayer, prayer, agonizing prayer, prayer which came from hundreds and thousands of anxious fathers, and ir thers and brothers and sisters, and ir there and wives was the cause. The same lesson was taught us by the hundreds and the thousands. The drunkards, the liberties, the outcasts—they came. Oh, how they longed to come! Can anyone who witnessed that wonderful and inspections the results of shose meetings. One clergyman after another discussed the causes of that awakening, but no solution was found. I confessed my away inability to understand it, for I had heard Campbell Morgan in the east.

"when he did not seem to have any such influence over men. Yet the sermons which were powerless there were practically the same sermons that were fruitful here. With that the Nestor of the congregational ministers arose, good old loving Dr. Warren F. Day. He said: "Brethren, you have omitted to state the chief reason of Campbell Morgan's success in Los Angeles. It was due to the fact that hundreds and thousands of Christians paved the way due to the fact that hundreds and thousands of Christians paved the way for his success by weeks of earnest prayer. The Caristians prayed in their churches; they prayed in their cottage prayer meetings; they prayed everywhere!" "Amen," said I. "Dr. Day is right." Campbell Morgan's revival was due chiefly to the fact that those meetings were lifted up to heaven by thousands of pleading, praying Christians. J. Wilbur Chapman, when he reaches heaven, will see there many saved during these revivals. But the old mother in Israel, the old Christian elder and deacon, the old Christian church member, will rejoice with him in this hardeacon, the old Christian church member, will rejoice with him in this harvest. Christ from his throne will recegnize their services. "You wondered," he will say to the evangelists, "why it was that your words so moved the sinner to seek salvation. It was in answer to the prayers of these humble Christians that the Holy Spirit touched the hearts of your heavers so that the the hearts of your hearers so that the good seed fell into good ground." Let us thank God for such prayers.

These revivals teach another great lesson. The vast number of people do not have to be taught who Christ is. They know enough about the gospel of salvation to be saved if they will They salvation to be saved if they will They salvation to be saved if they will. They must be led by the power of the Holy Spirit simply to make a stand, to come to a decision to do what they know they ought to do. They do not need to hear sermons on the authenticity of the Scriptures, the divinity of Christ or the doctrine of original sin. They are for the greater part believers in Chris-tianity. It is the personal appropriation of these truths that they lack. They love sin so much that they will not come to the desired decision. In other words, they believe, but they do not come to the desired decision. In other words, they believe, but they do not wish to give up sin. It is not information about Christ, nor explanation of the truths of Christianity that men need. They understand these things already. It is the will that must be captured. They do not realize their danger, nor that they must themselves seek salvation through Christ. The sermons preathed by the examples provemens preathed by the examples is provemons preached by the evangelists proved that fact.

But another weighty lesson is pressed upon our hearts by these meetings. That is this: The Lord's work is a business. It is not a hysteria. It is not a few holy ejaculations. It is not lifting your head above the clouds so that the mists blind your eyes and chill your enthusiasm for practical duty on earth. It is not a few spasms and a few temporary gospel gymnastics. It is a business—a business which which we should study carefully and the great state. and plan systematically and press strenuously with all our faith and energy.

When these evangelists began their work, as far as human agency was concerned, they had almost a perfect system of machinery. First, the meeting were systematically and completely ad-vertised; second, all the workers of a tem of machinery. First, the meetings were systematically and completely advertised; second, all the workers of a district were gathered together under one head. Some went into the choruses. Then other workers were detailed to certain sittings. Every three or four pews had their overseers or gospel sentinels. No sooner was a hand raised for prayer than a Christian worker was by that person's side to lead him or her to Christ.

Then, not satisfied with all this, one night General J. Wilbur Chapman—for he is a general of men—marshaled all his forces for a grand charge upon the citadels of sin. That night the Christian evangelists and their followers came from all over the city. Down into the saloons and the places of evil resorts they went. Everywhere the right hand of a Christian brother or sister was extended. Everywhere a pleading voice said to sinners: "Come, we want you for Christ." These valiant soldiers of the cross did not wait for sinners to come to the gospel banquet. They literally followed out the command of Jesus, which said: "Go ye out into the highways and the hedges and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled." And come they did. They came by the hundreds and the thousands. The drunkards, the libertines, the outcasts—they came. Oh, how they longed to come! Can anyone who witnessed that wonderful and inspiring meeting in the Grand Opera House of Los Angeles Feb. 3, 1905, ever forget the revelation?

The elements seemed to conspire against the effort. When the hoursdrew toward the evening of that wonderful night, we said to ourselves.

then was falling in torrents. All the batteries of the elements were unlimbered. "Crash! Crash!" went the booming of the thunder. "Zigzag!" went the lightning. An electric thunderbolt struck the North Methodist Church of Pasadena and set it on fire. The cars were blocked. Freshets were everywhere. After the theatres and places of amusements were emptied, long after most of the great city was asleep, hundreds of men and women marched throught the flooded streets, sometimes wading above their ankles in water. They marched singing and praising God. They marched down to the haunts of sin. Then, after they had collected the Magdalenes and the human prodigals who had been wallowing in the swine troughs of "the far country," they started back to one of the largest theatres in the city. There, in that theatre were crowded at least 4,000 men and women. Many were in rags. Many faces were scarred and seared with the awful marks of sin. All, whether outcasts or rescuers, were anxious about souls—anxious about their own ther outcasts or rescuers, were anxious about souls—anxious about their own ther outcasts or rescuers, were anxious about souls—anxious about their own souls or about the souls of others. Some curiosity seekers may have come to that meeting to scoff, but nearly all, before they left, prayed as the poor publican prayed. There were tears—penitent tears—which welled up from breaking hearts. Yes, those tears were glorious tears, flowing unbidden and unchecked. Four thousand men and women, many of them criminals, gathered together in the midnight hour during the tempest to seek Christ, Did you ever see or hear the like of it? Can anyone who witnessed that wonderful and transporting meeting in the Grand Opera House of Los Angeles ever forget the revelation? Were we not then taught how Christ wants us to go forth into the highways and the hedges, seeking sinful men and women wherever they may be found?

One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, tolled the city bells. The evangelisfs into the highways and the hedges, seeking sinful men and women wherever they may be found?

One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, tolled the city belis. The evangelists and their followers worked on. Nine, ten, half past ten—the Christian discliples worked on. Eleven, twelve, went the clock. What! Is anyone out tonight? Oh, yes; the messengers of sin are out to-night. This is the harvest hour for the demons of death. But tonight—aye, to-night—the angels of mercy are calling and pleading. Mothers and fathers in heaven, wives and children in heaven, over the embattlements did ye not see the prayers being answered in the midnight hour? Oh, God, teach us, as these evangelists have taught us, that the mission of a Christian church is not alone to care for a few people who are our social equals, and who happen to come to our churches! The greatest mission of Christian churches is to go after men and women—to go after them in haunts of sin, in gambling dens, everywhere and anywhere—to go after them in the morning, at noon and at midnight.

But, lastly, I learn from the work of these evangelists a lesson which ought to make us, one and all, ashamed of ourselves. If the churches of the Lord Jesus Christ would join together their, forces to make a conquest for Christ they could win the same triumphs for the Master year in and year out. The mightiest mission of J. Wilbur Chapman and his associates is te unite Christ's forces. They have given us an object lesson of the victory that may be won by the united effort of all the denominations.

be won by the united effort of all the denominations.

Supposing every fall the Congregational ministers, and the Baptist ministers, and the Baptist ministers, and the Methodist ministers, and the Campbellite ministers, and the Presbyterian ministers, and the Lutheran ministers, and the Reformed ministers would all get together. Then supposing they should say: "Let us join in sections, We will exchange pulpits. We will preach for souls, no matter in what church we preach. We will have our cottage prayer meetings and our noonday prayer meetings. We will send our best men down into the slums." What would happen? Not only would they break down sectarian lines, but they we d teach congregations that the mightiest business on earth is not to build up a denomination, but to save immortal souls. They would do just what Dr. Chapman and his associates have done. They would shake the cities and the states from centre to circumference.

One of the most farseeing acts Dr.

One of the most farseeing acts Dr. chapman ever did for the advancement of a gospel movement was to combine evangelists of different ecclesiastical denominations into a unit for the spreading of the gospel. Dr. Chapman is a Presbyterian, and is laboring unis a Presbyterian, and is laboring under the orders of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church. Dr. Henry Ostrum, his associate, is a Methodist. Tilman Hobson is a Quaker, Rev. R. W. Stough is a Congregationalist, R. A. Walton belongs to the Southern Presbyterian Church—here there were no northern and southern churches—John K. Elliott is a Dutch Reformed Inhister. All secturian fences have Presbyterian Church—here there were no northern and southern churches—John K. Ellitot is a Dutch Reformed minister. All sectarian fences have been burned in these evangelistic meetings. Why cannot we do the same every year as gospel ministers? Let us have a forward movement. Yes, but also a united movement for Christ.

Every sectarian minister wants to hoe in his own ecclesiastical row, whereas, in fact and in truth, there is but little difference in these rows. They all end in having their sheaves of wheat deposited at the foot of the cross. Why cannot we work hand in hand with other Christian denominations? Are we not all servants of Christ? The Presbyterian differs in doctrine from the Methodist, the Congregationalist differs in church government from the Epizopalian, but all give the same answer to the question, "What must I do to be saved?" Every evangelical denomination points the sinner to Christ as the one and only source of salvation. Love, gospel love, ought to make us all one. Oh, for gospel forces united and welded together? Oh, that the churches of all the Protestant denominations might enter into a concerted and single purposed movement for Christ, as was done in this great gospel campaign on the Pacific Coast, which has won thousands of souls for the Master?

I cannot close without an expression of gratitude to the evangelists who have aided us. I honor all evangelists. Do we realize how much these evangelists give up for their work? All the joys of home life, all the sweet fellowship with their people that the regular minister enjoys—these must all be aurrendered by the evangelist who goes from city to city to arouse and stimulate the churches. Dr. Walton told me that for ten years the only home he had was a trunk. Let us honor such men, who devote themselves to the boblic service. The church of Christ benefits by their labors, and too often it forgets the hardships they undergo.

I want you to pray for God's evangelists. Pray for them when, tired and fatigued, they go to their lonely rooms in an hotel. Pray for Dr. R. A. Torrey and Mr. Alexander, far far away from home. Pray for these friends, Dr. Chapman and his associates, who are now going up and down the land, who have lately been among us. May their joy be the peace that passeth all understanding. May their happiness be gained from the fact that they are winning many, many souls for Christ. God bless the gospel evangelists, that they may teach us gladly to do the Father's will, whether it be like Paul in far-off Macedonia, or in our home Tarsus, "which is no mean city."

The Cinque Perts. What are known as the cinque ports of England (cinque being the French for five) are Sandwich, Dover, Hythe, Romney and Hastings, It is said that these five ports were enfranchised in the time of the Saxon King Edward the Confessor; but it was subsequent to the battle of Hastings, 1066, that William the Conqueror, in order that he might wield queror, in order that he might wield the resources of the seaports with queror, in order that he might wield the resources of the seaports with greater vigor, constituted this whole line of coast into a jurisdiction entirely separate from the Counties of Kent and Sussex, and erected it into a sort of county palatine, under a warden or guardian, the seat of whose administration was in Dover Castle. The warden, whose office corresponded to that of the ancient count of the Saxon coast, exercised jurisdiction, civil, military and naval, uniting in his single person the functions of sheriff, custos rotulorum, Lord-Lieutenant and Admiral. Privileges equal to those originally bestowed on the cinque ports were subsequently extended to the so-called ancient towns of Winchelsea and Rye; and most of the municipal towns had subordinate ports and towns attached to them, which were called members.

What Sulphur Doss

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the carty days when our mothers and grandmothers gave our mothers and granumothers gave us our daily dose or surpour and molasses every sprine and fall. It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cureall, and mind you this old-fashioned remedy was not without merit.

The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and unpelatable, and a large quantity had to be taken to get any effect.

Nowadays we get all the beneficial effets of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is fur more effective than a tablespoenful of the crude sulphur. In recont years, research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide) and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers, They are small chocolate coated pelater and cortain the active medicinal our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most widely used. They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician alike. Dr. R. M. Wilkins while experiment-and physician alike.

Dr. R. M. Wilkins while experimenting with sulphur remedies soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says "For liver, kidney and blood troubles especially when resulting from constipation or malaris, I have been surprised at the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers. In patients suffering from boils and pimples and even deep-seated carbuncles, I have repeatedly see them dry up and disappear in four or five days, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Although Stuart's Calcium Wafers is a proprietary article, and sold by druggests, and for that reason tabooed by many physicians, yet I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney troubles and especially in all forms of skin disease as this remedy."

At any rate people who are tired of pills, catharties and so-called blood "purifiers" will find in Stuart's Calcium Wafers, a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation.

 THE DUEL IN FRANCE As a national institution of France, the duel still remains supreme. Empires fade and fall, siks and ruffles are coast aside, cloaks and feathered hats are replaced by lounge-suits and hard felts, yet the heart of the Frenchman remains unattered, and the same stirit of settling quarrels with the sword animates him. Now-a-days there is no edict forbidding the duel, though the law does not, ostensibly, jermit them to take place. Nevertheless, it is with the tacit consent of the rolice that meetings take place daily at the "Grand Roue"—the small exhibition grounds appertaining to the Big Wheel of Paris. Here, within a few yards of the entrance, and within earshot of the cab-bells and the hurrying footsteps of passers-by, sharp steel is rointed at the breasts of men. Only a privileged few are admitted—pressmen, tho ographees, maitres d'armes, and 'the friends of the combatants. It is only in the last year that the "duelodrome" of Paris has been fixed under the shadow of the Big Wheel. Since 1871 the favorite meeting place was the Isle de la Grande Jatte, which, however, is now to be turned into a recreation ground whereon children will rom, and play, little heeding the scenes of bloodshed which once took place there. For on that island at least two duels in recent years terminated fatally. One well-remembered duel fought on the Grande Jatte was that in which Harry Alis, a Parisian journalist, met Captain le Chaletier. There is a dramatic side-history to this duel, which is pathetic in its sad tragedy. Alis, who has a wife and children, did not wish them to know that he was going into danger. In order to avoid any questioning, he asked them to accompany him as far as Neuilly, but far from the entrance to the island. He installed them in a cafe, and, telling them he was going to visit a friend, bade them await his return. He never came back. Five minutes later, who, after a brief engagement, pierced him through the chest.

After the Grande Jatte was deserted by duellists, it was the fashior to fight at the establishm

VETERAN OF MANY FIGHTS.

VETERAN OF MANY FIGHTS.

M. Rouzier-Dorcieres has nimself fought in seventeen duels, and out of these has only been wounded three times with sword and once with the jistol. He has arranged 118 combats, and to-day no duel, in Paris is comflete without his presence. He is a typical Frenchman in joliteness and gentleness. Yet there is a fire in his grey-blue eyes, after and watchful like the master-fencer he is. And the jointed moustache and black imperial cannot hide the masculine strength of his life and and black im; erial cannot bide the mascoline strength of his lizs and chin.

M. Dorcieres ex; lained to the writter a sbort time ago that one day he was lamenting because Cheri-Heilbronn had refused to allow any more encounters to take place in his grounds. Hearing of this M. Vienne, the manager of the Big Wheel Exhibition grounds offered to lease the place. The next morning the first duel at the Grande Roue took place between M. Delpech, the son of the senator, and M. de Becourt.

The stretch of ground where honor is satisfied is fifty feet long, and at either end a tall sapling marks the boundary. Although no engagement has ended mortally on this ground since the comparatively short period of its vozue, there have been many exciting battles. One may cit the terrible encounter between M. Dubois, the famous Parisian maitre d'armes, and M. Damotte, in which, with a downward cut, Dubois slashed a long and deer wound in his opponent's leg. Again, there is the recent affair of M. de Malory, who, in one morning, fought three duels, two with the sword and one with the revolyer. The duels generally take place in the open air, under the sun and blue sky, but occasionally the refreshment room of the exhibition is used as a meeting place.

It must be said that out of the many encounters, twenty per cent. of the duellists face each other with the intention of killing, and four per cent. are successful in carrying out this intention. The remainder are content with wounding their adversary more or less severely on the wrist or arm.

ON THE FIELD.

ON THE FIELD.

The causes of the modern duel? In the clden days our romancers make their heroes go forth to battle valorously for the sake of a woman; to-day, most frequently the cause is an offensive article by a journalist, or else the rendezvous is the outcome of a cafe disjute. The oafes are indeed the breeding-laces of duels. Somebody goes up and boxes somebody else's ears, in order that he may have the opportunity of settling a long-standing enmity. Cards are exchanged, seconds meet, and the final soene is Played under the direction of M. Rouzier-Dorcieres. In that final soene there is mone of the comic-opera element which many are led to surpose characterizes these encounters. The grim faces of the adversaries, the doctors, with fint and antisertic lotions, the cruel, pointed swords, licking and darting round each other at the will of the fencer's wrist, are all terrible in their suggestions of tragedy. And then the murmuring of the bystanders as suddenly one forces through the other's defence—a blood-wetted arm—and the wounded man delivers up his sword to his seconds, who fling his owercoat around him, and lead him silently to the dressing-room. And in his wake follows the doctor with his lotions and bandages.

There are always rolicemen present, not officially, yet they must take a report to their chief. If a man is killed the successful duellist is arrested and charged with remeditated homicide; the witnesses are incultated also as accomplices. The case is tried at the Cour d'Assises, before a jury, and provided it is proved that the duel was fought fairly and openly, the man is acquitted, There is no example of a Frenchman having been condemned for killing another in a regulated duel. On the pther hand, twelve years ago, M. Bez de Villaz killed M. Pietri, a Corsican political journalist. At the trial of M. de Villaz, it transfired that Pietri had never held a sword before, while M. de Villaz was a strong and expert fencer. He was sentenced to three years imprisonment.

NO PROFIT IN FREAKS

It is announced by the new hippo drome management that "freaks" large incomes by exhibiting themselves to a curious rubile. There was a time when a good freak would receive $125 or $150 a week for sitting on a platform. The proprietors of the hippodrome and other large shows presumably do not exclude freaks for any other motive but that their exhibition is not profitable. It has been proved by the experiments of the last two years at Coney Island that the more respectable an entertainment and the more it appeals to the average well conducted American household, the more profitable It is. It is a good sign of public development. — New York World.
