All kinds of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, from a PIANO PORTE down to a FIFE.

STRINGS of all kinds and of superior quality; in short, every thing which can or may be found in a well and carefully selected Music Store.

The PIANOS are made by the following celebrated Gentlemen, viz:

CHICKERING STODDART & DUNHAM,

Acknowledged to be the best on this part of the Globe, as are the MELODIANS, manufactured by PRINCE & CO. PIANOS and MELODIANS sold as Cheap and on as favourable Terms as they can be procured in Toronto, or from the Maker's themselves.

Besides these Pianos of Chickering, Stodart & Dunham, Mr. Kordes keeps constantly on hand Pianos of other good makers, such as Baron and Raven, Gilbert, Gale, etc. Also second hand Pianos, from £10 upwards to £50. Old Pianos taken in exchange, and a liberal allowance made. Pianos Tuned and repaired. All orders from a distance promptly attended to.

Mr. Kordes has constantly on hand an assortment of very superior Brass Instruments, for the formation and use of Bands, as Ophiclides, Sax horns, Trombones, Conopeans, Bugles, Post horns, French horns, etc., which will be sold late, and on very favorable terms.

Mr. Kordes would just say a few words regarding the Pianos of Chickering, Stodart & Dunham, in the first place, they are warranted to keep good and sound in all their parts, for any number of years, provided they receive good treatment.

In the second place, any person having such a thing as what is called an ear for music, will, without looking at the makers name, be able to detect the difference between a Stodart, a Dunham or a Chickering, to a Piano from any other maker, without exception; the woody, wiry, harsh kind of sound, so predominant in other instruments, is changed into a mellow, sweet, full and brilliant tone in the Pianos of the above three makers.

As regards keeping in tune: these Pianos require a good tuner 3 times in 12 months and decent treatment, they never require more than this, may, however, sometimes require less. Care and attention is all they need.

The great popularity which Morse's Indian Root and Pharmacopia Bitters have attained in consequence of the extraordinary cures of every description they have effected, commencing first in the remote districts of the New York and Canada forests, and thence spreading to the populous cities of Europe and America, has induced many persons to offer for sale spurious imitations of their medicinal virtues or properties, having been more than twenty years before the public, and having the united testimony of more than Three Millions of persons who have been restored to the enjoyment of perfect health by them, it is believed that their remedies are the best vegetable medicine now before the public, a single one of which in almost every city and village in the United States there are many who are ready to testify to their efficacy in removing disease, and giving to the whole system renewed vigor.

In cases of Scrofula, Ulcers, Scurvy or Eruptions of the skin the operation of the Life Medicines is truly astonishing, often producing in a few days the vestige of the Pustules or Sores, by their powerful purifying effects in the blood. Fever and Ague, Dyspepsia, Dropsy, Piles, and indeed all diseases of the digestive organs, all disorders of the kidneys and their excretory properties, finally shall be removed from them, as by the hand of a magician, and a desperate case may be cured.

THE GOOD FEELING OF THE ALIES.

The following letter bearing testimony to the hearty and efficient assistance rendered by the French commanders and at the embarcation of British troops to Gallipoli, is the official requst of General Brown to Lord Raglan. his Lordship communicated it to General St. Arnaud, by whom it was forwarded to Gen. Canrobert and Admiral Bruat. Together with other equally cordial letters, it has been promulgated in an order of the day.

SCUTARI, May 7, 1854.

MY LORD,—

In communicating to you the safe arrival in this port, of the 93rd regiment, tal of the second brigade of the rifles, I should fail altogether in my duty if I did not inform your lordship of the prompt and efficient assistance which I received in the embarcation of these troops from Admiral Bruat General Canrobert, and all the French authorities residing at Gallipoli,

Not having on the spot any English vessels of war, and finding myself without any other means of establishing any communication with the steamers or transport but with the very defective aid of the boats of the locality furnished by the commissariat, it would have been impossible for me to effect that embarcation without a considerable loss of time, had it not been for the very efficient aid of our allies.

In such circumstances I did not hesitate to apply to the French admiral and general, whose readiness to lend assistance to the troops of her Majesty has been already appreciated by me on former occasions. General Canrobert at once placed at my orders all the flat bottomed boats which he could dispose of, and Admiral Bruat was kind enough to employ all the boats of his squadron both in towing the others and carrying troops, untill all the men were placed on board.

The result of this prompt and friendly cooperation was, that the two regiments, which had now already marched eighty miles from their lines to Gallipoli, of which the embarcation did not commence in consequence until 1 in the afternoon, were all on board, with upwards of one hundred horses, by sunset, so that it was possible to weigh anchor before nightfall came on.

I am deeply impressed with the feeling that owing so much personally to these distinguished officers for their kind co-operation which they afforded me on this occasion, as indeed on many others, I should be most ungrateful were I not to seize on the very first occasion to express the obligations under which they have placed me from the first moment that I have been acting in concert with them.

I have the honor to be, my lord, your very obedient humble servant,

T. BROWN.
Lieutenant General.

Head-quarters, Gallipoli, May 18, 1854

Taking the Bull by the Horns.

The government of Baden are about to proceed criminally against the Archbishop of Freiburg for disturbing the peace of society, by assuming an authority which does not belong to himself or his office. It is well that there is one government in Europe not afraid to let the see gentlemen know and feel that they are not above the laws. Neither liberty nor social progress can be much longer protected, if so large and powerful a body, as the Roman Catholics are in every country, are to hold themselves indep indent of all control, save that which a foreign chieftain exercises over them. The friends of order will rejoice to see them made amenible to civil rule.

It was high time for the Grand Duke of Baden to interpose, when the rebellion against secular governments, which has blotted its mired front in all independant states, had made choice of his territory for its great battle field. Not only is the offender his subjects, and therefore obnoxious to legal inquiry; but the agents and ministers of the Papal supremacy from all quarters of the world have poured in cont inuous and sympathising addresses to sustain him in his contumacy, and exc te the whole people, if possible, to resistance against the legitimate rulers. The Pope himself, amongst the first, issued an inflamitory proclamat on in that sense, and, doubtless, for that purpose. His example has operated like a command upon his willing servants; and the surance of support, accompanied in many instances by substantial tokens of sincerity, have been sent in from every side, inspiring and defying the government of Baden in its own capital, and provoking his subjects to rebel.

Of course, our valuable and pious "hierarchy" were not behind in this general manifestation. They would hold it not only a sin but a shame to see a neighbors roof on fire, without having thrust a brand into the thatch. Their address which rwelve in number, a purse we know not, was sent forward a month ago with such evidence of fellowship as a daring infraction of their own country could evince, for as Dr. McHale testifies, they one and all solemnly and deliberately violated the ecclesiastical rules act by the signatur s which subscribed to the document.

The most recent tribute of c ndolence proceeds from Amsterdam, through the Frotch Ultramontane organ the Universe, with the sanction and concurrence of the Provost elect of the Catholic University in Ireland. A worthy who conducts a Dutch j urnal called the Figid had gathered a fund to defend reverend oratorian from persecution in the Achilli affair, of which a balance remaining upon his hands of £75, he proposes to transfer it to the Archbishop of Friburg. To this arrangement Dr. Newman offers no objection, but rather with the eagerness fas he assures Myerbeer Fig) seizing the occasion of depositing at this bishops feet the testimony, too feeble as it is, of his great admiration and sympathy.

When such a trio, acting under the pope, collect and transmit funds for the purpose of defeating the ends of justice and good government in Baden, we cannot see what alternative is lawful ruler of that state but either to abdicate in favor of the archbishop or make the Archbishop knock under him. We hope that he will proceed with gea firmness and resolution in the vindication of his proper authority.

There is no reason to fear that the support of the enlightened portion of his own subjects will be wanting to him, or that the voice of civilized Europe as far as it can be safely expressed, will not approve and ratify his own conduct.

HUMBOLDT UPOY THE ISTHMUS CANAL.—Baron Alexander Von Humboldt, in a cleter to Mr Lionel Gisburne, of London, says:

It is my ardent desire to see completed before my death the junction of the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. I have always considered, firstly, the opening of an oceanic canal without locks; and secondly the cut at Hucuhnecoca, in the valley of Mexico, as two events calculated highly to imdrove the relation between the different families of the human species. In fact such a work will bring Eastern Asia nearer to the nations of Europe and America. It will render the whole globe more easy to be travelled over. It will facilitate the diffusion of productions especially of precious metals. The finest harbors, the most precious products are found in the West. Even the currents of the air, by their direction contribute towards the preponderance of West American power over the rich countries in Asia. The increasing importance of the West coast of America promises to balance, at some future time, the surprising progress of the Atlantic States. I feel the most ardent wishes for the success of this oceanic canal. The Rio Huaxscualco, with irs portage to the Rio Chimalapa, will always be of great importance owing to its position opposite Louisina in the Gulf of Mexica, which has all the appearance of soon becoming a "mare clausum—a lake of the United States.

Fire on Church Street.

The Globe, of Saturday contains the following particulars of the fire which took place on church street on Thursday evening last:

The fire broke out in the rear of a stable attached to Mrs McClure's house, and soon spread to the neighboring stables, from which it reached by the wooden sheds to the main buildings on Church Street..

No less than four of the houses, all owned by Mr Preston, were totally consumed, and two more, one of which was the property of Mrs. Gibb, were very seriously injured. The fire spread very rapidly, and the furniture saved was was removed so hastily as to injure it much.

Mr Henning, who occupied the upper house of the row, was enabled by the active aid of his friends to rescue his parlor furniture, but nearly all the articles in the basement and upper stories, including clothing were destroyed.

Mr Henning was is sured in the Montreal for £450

Mrs McClure we regret to say, was uninsured, and will be a heavy looser by articles both a prey to the flames, and others broken or stolen.

We are sorry to add that Mrs. W A Campbell, an aged lady was severely scorched in being carried from Mrs. McClure's; she is in a fair way of recovery however. Mr D. Buchan, who resided next to Mrs McClure was fully insured, we are happy to say; and so to was Mr Rice Lewis. Mr Garth and Mr Belfour were the other sufferers; the latter of whom was insured. Mr Preston's loss is covered by an insurance of £900.

LONDON, FRIDAY, JUNE 23, 1854

NEXT PROVINCIAL SHOW.

We perceive from remarks in some of the papers that the Press have been generally charged with neglect, in not bringing constanly before the Public notice, the particulars of the next Provincial Exhibition. We cannot plead guilty to the charge, as since last fall, when London was named, we have repeatedly endeavored to place before our readers the great benefit this Western Section of Canada would derive from the show being held here. Until the opening of the Railway last January we were comparatively unknown to the other parts of Canada, the difficulty of getting to us by reason of the dilatory stage travelling, deterred many persons from attempting the journey. That difficulty is now removed, and we may safely say, there is no portion of the Province where so many Old Country people and residents of the Northern and Eastern sections have come to since the spring. The vastly increased value of the Farms ordered, attest the increased demand, and many new settlers have expressed themselves greately surprised at the superior richness of our soil, and the great advantage of having well watered pasture lands the excellency of our roads, and the ready market for all kinds of produce justify Mr. Sheriff Treadwell, President of the Agricultural Association of Upper Canada, in his hopes for our exhibition viz :—

I would fain hope that County Societies, as well as individuals, will do their utmost to render our next Exhibition to be held at London, the greatest that we have yet seen.

From the Local position of London, it being the centre of an Agricultural Population of Two Hundred Thousand, in point of soil and climate for Agricultural purposes, the best in Canada, whose people will compare favorably with those of any part of Europe or America—these, with the advantages of good roads, for which she is indebted to the Government and to the energy of her own people, and the recent construction of Railroads, places her in a favorable position, together with the noble manner in which the Counties of Middlesex and Elgin have come forward, and the offer of private subscriptions, amounting in all to Fifteen Hundred Pounds; all these favorable circumstances with the co-operation of County Societies generally, must ensure a measure of success that has never yet been equalled amongst us.

The Exhibition will be held on the 26th, 27th, 28th, and 29th days of September, and it is confidently expected that by that time the Railroads in that section will be completed, so as to enable London to be approached with the utmost facility.

From the experience of the past we have great pleasure in anticipating the assistance of the ladies in contributing articles of usefulness and embellishments at the forthcoming Exhibition."

We sincerely trust that nothing will be left undone by any party to realize the expectations above expressed. In our last number we directed some general observations upon the classes for Exhibition, to class G. We hope to continue some observations in our next upon the remaining classes.

At no former period of the history of Canada has there been presented the prospect of so bright a future, as now our Agricultural importance to Great Britain will be more apparent the longer the Russian war lasts, As we stated in a former Paper, the value in money of wheat imported from Russia within the last year, previous to the declaration of war amounted to the enormous sum of Six Millions Sterling. Hemp and other produce hitherto provided by Russia, can be grown here. These Provincial Shows are especially useful in bringing into notice these raw productions and exhibiting the productive capabilities of the country. The World's Fair in London has given an impetus to many Canadian productions and we are gratified to find, by reference to the "Canadian Agriculturist" May, that Canada is to have a place assigned her in the Sydenham Crystal Palace, a permanent institution, where the English farmers will be enabled to see specimens of raw produce grown in Canada and compare them with those raised on their highly cultivated farms at home. The Board of Agriculture have very properly agreed to forward all such specimens free of expense to England. We shall in a subsequent paper, give the articles so enumerated. In the mean time, we urge upon all increased exertion, in order that nothing may be wanting to render our Exhibition deserving of that position we hope it will attain amongst those previously held.

Canadian Politics.

Since our last issue, the Provincial Parliament has been actively engaged discussing certain amendments proposed to the address on the Governor General's speech. The session appears to have been opened in good earnest, and the day of reckoning has at length arrived when ministers will be called to account for their misdeeds. Through the kindness of our member T. C. DIXON, Esq. we have received the printed amendments proposed by Messrs. Langton, Sherwood and Sicotte, the terms of these amendments will be seen by a perusal of them.

AMENDMENT.

To be proposed by Mr. Langton to the resolutions to be moved in answer to the speech from the throne.

That the following be added to the sixth resolution after the word "required:'

"And this House will consider such a measure the more readily on account of the unexpected and unnecessary delay which has already occurred in the settlement of the Clergy Reserves and the Seigniorial Tenure.

AMENDMENT

To be moved by the Hon. Sherwood in amendment to the address in answer to his excellency's Speech at the opening of the present session.

After the end of the first paragraph insert.

"To express to His Excellency the regret "we feel that his excellency had not been advised to convene Parliament at an earlier period, and in accordance with an address of "this House to his Excellency on that subject during its last session, designating the "beginning of the month of February as the "most convenient time for the general interests of the country."

AMENDMENTS.

To be moved by Mr. Sicotte, to the Resolutions in answer to the speech from the Throne.

Mr. Sicotte moves, that after the 5th paragraph the following be inserted.

That the Seigniorial Tenure is in our economic and social condition, opposed to the interests and prosperity of the country; that, notwithstanding the unceasing and energetic expression of opinion by the whole people of this Province condemning it for many years past, it is a matter greatly to be deplored that such tenure has not been abolished: and that this house cannot forbear an expression of deep regret that the administration have announced their intention to put off to a future session and to an indefinite period any legislation on one of the most important questions affecting so vitally, so nearly and peculiarly the large majority of the inhabitants of Lower Canada and to its efficie and tendencies the economic condition of the whole Province.

Mr. Sicotte moves that after the 6th paragraph the following be inserted.

"That it, however, it is necessary to receive under the rule of the new Representation act, the constitutional expression of public opinion in order to be enabled to legislate on the various important matters on which it is expedient to legislate, it was the imperative duty of the administration to use all means to obtain without delay that constitutional expression of public opinion, and that in maintaining for more than twelve months a state of things in which, as an effect of the legal measures so enacted, the people and their representatives were incompetent to settle their interests by legislation, for the very reason of their paramount importance, a state of things has been and is still maintained, which is opposed to the spirit of our constitution and of the representative system.

The result of Mr. Sherwood's amendment, we give with the names of the yeas and nays.

The division on Mr. Sherwoods amendment to censure the Government for not calling Parliament in February, was :—

Yeas—Badgely, Brown, Burnham, Cauchon, Clapham, Crawford, Dixon, Gamble, John Langtan, Latterier, McDonald of Kingston, McNab, Malloch, Marchildon, Murray, Poulette, Ridout, Robinson, Sanborne, Seymour, Shaw, Sherwood, Stevenson, Street, Stewart, Valois, Wilson, and Wright of West York—

Nays—Cameron, Cartier, Chabot, Chapin, Chauveau, DeLong, Drummond, Dumonlin, Egan, Fergusson, Fortier, Fournier, Gouin, Cartier, Hartman, Hincks, Lacoste, Laurin, LeBlanc Demieux, McDonald of Cornwall, McKenzie, Mattice, Mongenais, Morin, Morrison, Page, Papineau, Patrick, Poulin, Prince Rolph, Rose, Sicotte, Smith of Durham, Terrieu, Turcotte, Varin, Wright of East York, and Young,—40

We trust it may not be left in the power of any ministry only to call Parliament together when they like, but that a positive enactment may be passed fixing February or November or any other month most suited to the convenience of members, when it must annually assemble it will also be seen that Sir Allan McNab has moved "for a committee to inquire into and report on the sale of certain properties belonging to the Crown at or near Point Levi. The committee to have power to send for persons papers and records, also for an address to the Governor, praying him to lay before the House all the orders in Council, together with all orders, papers and documents relating to the sale referred to in the preceding notice, together with the names of the parties purchasing, and the names of those known to take any interest in the purchase.

This is as it should be, these charges against the government should no longer be left to mere public report, an investigation should take place and we are happy to find Sir Allan has taken a step in the right direction. On the 19th we learn from Mr. Hinck's statement "that he deemed it proper to inform the House, that it was the intention of the Government to oppose all legislation, unless such as was absolutely necessary. All the measures the Government intended to introduce were the Reciprocity Bill and the Franchise Bill, which they intended to carry through.

They would further introduce a Clergy Reserve Bill, to lay before the country, After this session there would be an immediate dissolution, and an appeal to the people, and thereafter to call another Session in the autumn if possible.

By this the intended course of the Government is made evident, and he may soon expect a dissolution. Mr. Sherwood subsequently enquired whether the Government had received the report of Judge Mondelet, calling the Queen a murderess, to which Mr. Hincks stated "the Government would abstain from giving explanation" How mean and shuffling! If Mr. Hinks knew his duty to his Sovereign he would have acted differently But perhaps he took the oath of allegiance with a mental resolution in favor of the French Canadians: but there again his ignorance is made apparent, for we were gratified to observe in a Montreal paper, that recently in a steam boat everyperson refused to sit at table with Judge Mondlet, and the conduct of the Loyal men who acted so contrasts disagreeingly with that of he Ministers, who, no doubt, when in England, were found fawning on her Sovereign. We learn by subsequent news from Quebec that the Ministers were defeated in a discussion on the amendment of Mr. Cauchon by a majority of 13. The precise words of that amendment we are not in possession of, but infer that as it was grafted on the amendment of Mr. Sicotte, that it was merely adding the Clergy Reserves to the Seigniorial Tenure Bill, i.e. the delay of adjusting that too important question as in other words censuring government for not calling Parliament sooner together. We have so much space occupied on other subjects that we are unable to dwell longer on this at present.

THE COUNTY COUNCIL

The County Council of Middlesex, in the hands m anner, granted £5 towards giving views taken of the Prize Cattle, Machinery and other articles of Merit, to be exhibited at the next Provincial Fair for the purpose of transferring the same to the columns of the "Illustrated London News," and we trust that particulars connected with any of those prizes may be given in by the Exhibitors, especially of cattle imported, and how they have been managed since brought to this country, as every inducement should be held out for the importation of stock.

SALE OF LAND IN LONDON

For some time back there has been rather a disinclination to purchase property in London, whether arising from the supposition that the supply of lots exceeded the demand—or that the apprehension of tightness in the money market deterred parties from entering into engagements they might not able to fulfill—we cannot determine. But in this instance, we may be permitted to express our own conviction, that neither tended to produce the required result, but on the contrary, the want of materials for building, and the very high rates of wages, these obstacles appear now to be removed, for on the sale of Mr. Lawrason's property on Monday last, the 19th, Mr. Emery surprised any of his former efforts in procuring high prices. Lots on Dundas St., varying from 10 to 58 feet frontage, with only a depth of 100 feet realised £7 10*s*; £14 10*s*; £15 0*s*, 0*d*. a foot; while Lots on Maitland street, (a street between Dundas and North Street), 50 feet frontage with 154 feet depth, realised from £4 12*s* 6*d* to £9 a foot; and on North St., frontages varying from 45 to 50 feet, with only 100 feet in depth, realized from £4 2*s* 6*d*. to £5 17*s* 6*d*. a foot, and on Maitland street, between North and Duke St., frontages of 50 feet with 130 feet deep averaged £4 5*s*. a foot. On Duke street where scarcely any houses are, the prices averaged from £4 to £4 2*s* 6*d*. In fact there has not been such a sale for some time in London There was a spirited competition, and every lot changed a bona fide purchaser, no doubt the terms were very liberal, by a bankable note at 6 month, the remainder in 10 years and in the event of the parties building within a year the interest half yearly only would be required on the purchase money for 10 years. Wherever you go in London the masons are sure to be busy, new houses springing up in all quarters, and all rented before they are finished. The block on Dundas street known as David Smith's buildings are all taken, and business is fast advancing to the upper end of that street. Richmond street also is rapidly filling up and its contiguity to the railroad will always make it a place of business. From £38 to £40 a foot has been given for lots there. Wellington Street also close to the goods depot of the G. Western, and also near the Port Stanley Station, is fast advancing into importance, from £25 to £30 a foot has been already realised on that street, and from present appearances, it bids fair to rival Dundas Street. We understand that the Town Council proposes putting the side walks, both to Richmond and Wellington streets, in the best possible repair, previous to the Great Exhibition in September, and both communicate with the Railway. The Farmer, the Merchant, and the Importer all appear making money rapidly, and as long as that domestic prosperity lasts, we shall be independent of all external casualities, and we feel confident from present appearances that the high prices hitherto exacted in London will be retained.

MR. STONE'S LECTURE ON BIOLOGY,

It will be seen by an advertisement in another part of to-day's issue, that we are to be favored with a visit from this amusing lecturer. The Dundas Warder, in speaking of Mr. Stone's Lectures and Experiments, says:—

After the close of the lecture on Thursday, Mr. Stone asserted that he would bring from the body of the meeting to the platform those upon whom he experimentalised the preceeding nights. He told them that it was his wish that they should come to the platform and at the same time requested them to resist him as far as it was in their power to do so. Notwithstanding all the opposition made by the parties susceptible, some of them had at last to take their seat on the platform This experiment was hailed with great applause

We believe that all who had the good fortune to be present on Thursday night, will agree with us in saying, that a more delightful, amusing, and instructive treat was never afforded to the people of Dundas.

department for the construction of the great bridge to cross the St. Lawrence. This bridge as it is known, is a tubular bridge, similar in design to the Brittannia tube, but immensely larger. The bridge is making in a shed 215 feet long by 48 feet wide, and one span of 155 feet has already been shipped. The shed to which allusion has been made has railways running along both sides of it, and a similar accomodation is laid outside the walls. There is a 35 horse-power engine in this shed, and at present there are three furnaces, two for heating rivets and one for heating angle and T iron. The very best machinery is used and in this shed are eight punching and shearing machines, two sets of bending or plate rollers, two machines for making rivets, two riveting machines, &c., but there are machines making which have yet to arrive.

Sheriff Treadwell's Address to the Farmers of Canada West.

We have much pleasure in laying before our readers, the following address by Sheriff Treadwell, President of the Agricultural Association of Upper Canada. It is gratifying that the President entertains so high an opinion of this section of the province on account of the industry and skill of its inhabitants as well as prove, the natural fertility of the soil. This will, we trust, act as an additional incentive to all residing in the district to put out their utmost endeavours to maintain the reputation already won and furthermore to win fresh laurels.

L'Orignal, 2nd January, 1854.

To the President, Vice Presidents, and Directors of the Agricultural Societies of the Counties of Canada West.

Under the provisions of the Act, 16 Victoria chapter 2, and sections 10 and 12, by which the present Board of Agriculture is regulated, four of its members go out this year.

The ballot for that purpose having taken place, Colonel Thompson, R. L. Denison, Esq., Sheriff Ruttan and John Harland, Esq., retire at the end of the year.

Col. Thompson is President of the Board, and I believe, its first projector, and has been twice President of the Association; Mr. Denison has been for some years Secretary of the Board and Association, and the duties of that office have been performed to the most efficient manner to either; Mr. Sheriff Ruttan has also been President of the Association, and has distinguished himself by zeal and enterprise in the cause of Canadian Improvement, both as a public officer of the Board, and as a private citizen; and Mr. Harland has been an active and useful member of the Board.

As these gentlemen are all eligible for re-elections, I would recommend them to the notice of all the County Agricultural Societies, to be replaced on the Board. And if this suggestion should meet your views, I beg that you would send forward their names to the Bureau of Agriculture, Quebec, immediately after your Annual Meeting in February, according to the requirements of the Act.

It must have been a source of satisfaction to every well wisher to the prosperity of the country to have witnessed the inauguration of the Agricultural Association several years past, and the great advancement that has been made in Agricultural science; and I think that the thanks of every county Society must be given to the gentlemen who founded the Agricultural Board and Association, for their judicious exertions in bringing them to the present state, and it is to be hoped that we may continue progressing until we reach the highest point of perfection in that science.

At the same time we must not overlook what the Manufacturer and Mechanic have done for the country. I feel great pride in stating that there were many things at the Exhibition at Hamilton, as well as at that at Montreal, which far exceeded those of the previous year, and if at the Crystal Palace in New York, it is to be hoped that no exertion will be spared to enable our being well represented at the Sydenham Palace at its opening next Spring.

When I first became connected with the Association, I was not aware of the importance of a Library, such as is mentioned in the Appendix to the annual Publications, to the progress of the Society. I think the present a favourable time to press the application for funds for that purpose upon the Government. As our exhibitions are yearly increasing in extent a sum of at least Fifteen Hundred Pounds for each section of the Province should be obtained for this object. This would lessen the expenditure every year, and increase the amount of our premiums. I would also recommend an appropriation to every Agricultural Society of a small sum to be exclusively bestowed in Horticultural Prizes, where no Horticultural Society is already established.

The establishment of Agricultural Libraries having been taken under the protection of the Superintendent of Education for Upper Canada, he is doing greater justice to the the subject than had my suggestion, made in 1851, been carried out; and under that gentleman's direction an account of reading matter of moral, enightening, and interesting character will be distributed throughout the Province of Upper Canada, the rapidity of which distribution has been quite unparalled, and which it is hoped will be read with profit during the long winter evenings fast coming on. I could merely remark that the system followed in the Parochial Schools in Scotland might be adopted with advantage in the Public Schools in this Country, where the teachers are invariably the librarians, and where they meet one evening in the week for the purpose of evening schools, but always to fix their days as librarians. It is frequently the case that Agricultural Societies are found of these meetings, and dissertations are well entered on subjects connected with science, and submitted to the teacher for his criticism; and I could suggest in addition that an Agricultural Class Book be immediately prepared under the direction of the Superintendent of Education, and the Professor of Agriculture, and introduced into every Common School in Canada West.

It is of much importance that every encouragement should be given by Societies and private individuals to the establishment of our monthly journal, The Agriculturist, published in Toronto, at very low terms, that periodical contains reports of the proceedings of the Board of Agriculture, and of Farmers' Clubs, besides a large amount of original and selected matter of great interest to the farmer, and is a valuable medium of communication between all writers and Societies in different parts of the Province.

Having adverted to the rapid growth and advancement of our country, it may be proper to enquire into the success which have produced such successful results. Our previous Annual Exhibitions have been of very great service, and the forwarding of selected articles from the Agricultural and Manufacturing departments, as well as from the products of our forests and our mines to the Crystal Palace in London, in 1851, with the exertions of Mr. Logan, the Provincial Geologist, and other gentlemen of Canada, have been productive of them. I am of opinion that there is no other individual to whom Canada is so much indebted as to Mr. Logan, and I would suggest the propriety of him that by presenting him with a testimonial of the highest order. I would further recommend that the Government should be immediately petitioned to double his stall, that all his reports be compiled in one volume, to be printed and widely circulated, and that a second volume follow, as soon as it can be completed.

The funds of the Society are in a prosperous condition, and the Government patronage will no doubt be continued to assist the Society in its operations.

The establishment of a Bureau of Commerce and Manufactures, to be connected with that of Agriculture, placed under the superintendence of some person qualified for the office, and whose who e energies could be directed to their advancement, with practical assistants in each of the several departments, would do much to improve our present condition.

I would fain hope that County Societies, as well as individuals, will do their utmost to render our next Exhibition, to be held at London; the greatest that we have yet seen.

From the local position of London, it being the centre of an Agricultural Population of Two Hundred Thousand, in point of soil and climate for Agricultural purposes, the best in Canada, whose people will compare favourably with those of any part of Europe or America—these, with the advantages of good roads, for which she is indebted to the Government, and to the energy of her own people, and the recent construction of Railroads, places her in a favourable position, together with the noble manner in which the Counties of Middlesex and Elgin have come forward, and the offer of private subscription, amounting in all to Fifteen Hundred Pounds; all these favorable circumstances with the co-operation of County Societies generally, must ensure a measure of success that has never yet been equalled amongst us.

The Exhibition will be held on the 26th, 27th, 28th, and 29th days of September, and it is confidently expected that by that time the Railroads in that section will be completed, so as to enable London to be approached with the utmost facility.

From the experience of the past we have great pleasure in anticipating the assistance of the ladies in contributing articles of usefulness and embellishment, at the forthcoming Exhibition.

In conclusion, I feel confident that the assistance of the Bureau of Agriculture, the Board and Association of the Province, with their officers, and the Local Committee, and the liberal offer of the Great Western Railroad, tendered through Wm. Niles, Esq., Vice-President of the Association, and one of its Directors; these, with the blessing of Providence, must ensure the success of the Exhibition.

I have the honor to be,
Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
CHAS. P. TREADWELL,
President of the Agricultural Association of Upper Canada.

THE HOMESTEAD BILL will be lectured by Charles Wood, Esq., of New York, on the Evening of June 1854, giving to each of the subscribers, from 160 feet to one to 20 Acres of Land on the Long Island Rail Road, and but forty miles from New York City.

$13,000 WORTH OF

Farms and Building Lots.

100 FARMS

AND

2,000 BUILDING LOTS!!

Will be divided among 600 Subscribers on the Evening of the 20th day of JUNE, 1851.

☞ A large number are already engaged. Many of the Lots near these have been sold from 200 to 500 per cent. advance on the price for which these Lots are now sold; showing that the purchase will be a good investment.

Each subscriber, FOR ONLY $15 payable in instalment of $8 each will receive FOUR BUILDING LOTS, 25 by 100 feet, lying together, or a FARM of from 2 to 50 acres. These lots are beautifully located at LAKELAND, Long Island, where a new Church and School house, and a number of private dwelling stores, work-shops and factories, have already been erected, several more are now being built, and several hundred will be erected the coming season.

This is a fine opportunity of getting clear of paying enormous rents in New York and owning a delightful country residence near the city, where the domestic comforts of a family circle can be fully enjoyed, and where 24,000 building lots and about 500 farms have lately been sold; and sales are daily being made to individuals who, after careful examination of the location and ascertaining the quality of the soil are selecting Farms for agricultural purposes, being confident that no land so cheap and calculated to increase so rapidly in value can be had within 50 miles of the city. This land would have been all taken up years back, but has been an entailed estate for the last century and consequently locked up for upwards of two hundred years—since which large sales have been made, and where the wild deer roamed at large may now be seen several cottages and villas dotting its waving surface abundant productions of our mother earth.

The price at which this land is offered is less than its value for agricultural purposes, and as all are not aware how any man of common sense can hesitate to secure a portion of it. This land is well worth the attention of both settlers and speculators, as it affords an opportunity for the safe investment of money. The day is not far distant when all the land on the line of any railroad or steamboat route, and within forty miles of New York will be worth ten times the prices now asked for property in Lakeland.

This is one of the best opportunities ever offered to those of small means whereby a desirable or a home of their own to purchase one for a mere trifle; also a few Farms, containing each five and ten acres, and upwards, at from $25 to $50 per acre.

☞ All persons wishing to avail themselves of the opportunity now offered to procure a handsome or splendid Farm or Building Lot, at a mere trifle, should call at the office of the agents, or address their names and residence, and apply to CHARLES WOOD, 265 Broadway, corner of Fulton street, New York, when maps and pamphlets can be had, or will be sent if required by letter paid.

STEWART'S

EMPORIUM OF FASHIONS!

CASH SYSTEM

25 per cent. Cheaper than the Credit System.

IT is a well known fact that those giving credit (especially in the Tailoring line) are obliged, in order to make their business pay, to charge the well-meaning and good-paying customer with the garments of those who dress well but never pay.

In order to prevent this injustice being practised on the honest and good-paying customer, the subscriber has adopted the Cash System. He will assure his customers that they will only have to pay for their own garments, and that at the rate of 25 per cent. less than formerly charged under the credit system.

His stock will be found to consist of the latest and best materials of Home and Foreign Manufacture, consisting in part of

WEST OF ENGLAND BROAD-CLOTHS

FRENCH GOODS,

SCOTCH TWEEDS,

and a splendid assortment of Silk, Satin and Fancy Vestings, Silk Handkerchiefs, Ties, Gloves of various materials and colors, Shirts, &c., which he is now prepared to sell and make up to order in the latest and most approved English, French or American Styles, to suit customers, at a very small advance on cost (for cash).

He has just received the latest fashions from Europe and America, and will continue to receive monthly the very latest styles. He cordially invites his numerous customers and the public in general to give him a call as early as possible. His workmen will be, as usual, of the first class. The cutting will be done entirely by himself. Ladies' habits will receive his particular attention.

Remember! 25 per cent. less than the Credit System.

THE FOREST WINE.

THIS excellent MEDICAL WINE and the FOREST PILLS are fast gaining the good will and becoming the favorite medicine of the people, and known as a most effectual remedy in the cure of Dyspepsia Habitual Costiveness, Liver Complaint, Asthma, Piles, Obstinate Headache, Pimples, Blotches and unhealthy color of the skin, Jaundice, Ague and Fever, Sick Headache, Dysentery, Complaints incident only to Females, Languishing Weakness, Night Sweats, Nervous Disorders, Bilious Disorders, General Ill Health, and impaired state of the Constitution.

But a short time has elapsed since these great and good medicines have been made known to the public, yet their hands have experienced their good effects. Invalids give over by their physicians as incurable, have been restored to sound and vigorous health by their use. These medicines are unlike any others. Their wonderful properties act directly on those organs of the stomach, liver and kidneys, which is secreted the fluids, and separate the impurities from the blood. The Wine and Pills never Weaken but give strength and nourishment to both body and mind. The great innumerable good these medicines have done for the sick and afflicted, have induced thousands to recommend them to their friends and the public. Individuals of the highest integrity have voluntarily testified to the world in favor of their extraordinary virtues.

DR. I. A. STANLEY,

a celebrated physician, in a letter from Princeton New Jersey, dated Nov. 16, 1849 says, as the result of his experience he had never seen anything to compare with the Forest Wine and Pills, in the same time in curing scrofulous cases or constitutional debility and scrofulous affections, which it cured in an incredible short time.—Among the lecturers of the Medical Faculty of New York, who have witnessed the great results of the Forest Wine and recommended it in numerous complaints, will be found the names of the celebrated Dr. M. T. Goodhue, Dr. L. Cheesman Dr. Chilton, Dr. Wm. Brown, Dr. Marcus, Dr. J. M. Moreno, and others.

TESTIMONY

Of Mr. Johnson Burke a highly respectable citizen of Waverly Place, New York:

DR. G. W. HALSEY—Dear Sir: I esteem the Forest Wine as the King of Medicines. It has done for me in five weeks what three physicians failed to do in as many years. In 1845 I became the victim of the Heart disease and Nervous Affection, which have been a source of misery ever since, until I procured your Forest Wine and Pills, although I had waited several hundred miles for medical assistance. During the last two years I was obliged to keep my house nearly all the time and gave up business in consequence of my ill-health, I had not much hopes of recovery. My constitution was of a class under which nature sinks and life becomes a burthen.—Seeing your Forest Wine Advertised, I concluded to give it a trial, and before finishing the third bottle I was a different person, and was able to resume business again, entirely cured by taking five bottles. For the benefit of those afflicted with similar complaints you are at liberty to publish this.

Yours &c.,
JOHNSON BURKE,
Waverly Place, N. Y.

General Debility, Emaciation, wasting of the Body, &c.

Many persons are afflicted with some one of the above complaints without being able to trace it from any particular source. And therefore they neglect it, and suffer on until the disease becomes constitutional. These disorders are often characterized by a sense of sinking, or entire exhaustion after exertion. Some experience a slight faintness, dizziness and at times paleness or flushing of the countenance, palpitation of the heart or the stomach. The remedies which have ever attended the use of the Forest Wine and Pills, in every species of debility, is conclusive evidence of its happy results in this class of disorders. Many have resorted to nervous cures as an ultimatum and been speedily cured. For nervous disorders and debility the Wine and Pills are taken according to the directions on the label.

TO THE LADIES.

True Beauty and loveliness accompany the highest perfection of health, which again invariably follows the PUREST STATE OF THE BLOOD. What artificial appendages equal that vivid expression of countenance which flows from the fountain of health? What paint can compare with the crimsoned colored blood casting its brilliant transparent hue through the transparent texture of the skin? What rouge can give the captivating flush of beauty like the heart in its highest perfection? Let Dr. Halsey's wine supply the place of all cosmetics. Use one of this excellent wine in a wine glass of pure cold water and it will be seen coursing through the veins, penetrate the cuticle those that verge towards the surface of the skin, causing an invariably pimples or blotches to appear, imparting a vivid, rosy glow to the skin and brilliancy expression to the eyes.

THIS IS NATURAL BEAUTY.

In corroboration of these facts, Dr. Halsey has many testimonials. The following is a specimen of moral and respectable standing in society, and to us by her mother residing in Rutgers street,

New York, July 7th, 1849.

DR. G. W. HALSEY—

My sister from her youth had been in very delicate health, complaining frequently of weakness of the chest attended with a cough. About the age of 18 she began to get much worse. For six months previous to coming to live with your mother she had scarcely been able to get out of the house. Her countenance was pearly emaciated, yellow and sickly. Her face and neck was covered with blotches, pimples and sores. Her cough increased and her cough increasing. In June she took every appearance of soon becoming an unhappy victim to consumption. At this time she commenced to use your Forest Wine and Pills, which she continued using according to the directions. She gradually improved as she advanced in her use. Her health was restored to perfect recovery was uncommonly good appetite, her face hourly became smooth and her cheeks rosy. Her cough left her entirely. She is now strong and vigorous and presents the finest example of health I ever witnessed.

JOHN S. MAXWELL.

GUM-COATED FOREST PILLS,

Manufactured on the same principle as the Forest Wine to which it is an important adjunct. They are coated with pure Gum Arabic, an important invention for which Dr. Halsey has received the Forest Wine and Pills by the Government of the United States.

Dr. Halsey's Forest Wine and Gum-coated Forest Pills unite in accomplishing the same great end—THE PURIFICATION OF THE BLOOD, THE RENOVATION & INVIGORATION OF THE STOMACH AND BOWELS.

The life principle of man is the blood, no matter are their organs of the stomach which secrete the blood, the food of nutrition and removed to health or from by the use of the Forest Pills and pure rich blood made to flow in the veins by the use of the Forest Wine, that causes health and strength, and never-ending life. Therein the principle on which is founded these great medicines, and by which nearly all diseases are cured.

The Forest Wine is put up in large square bottles, with Dr. Halsey's name blown in the glass. One bottle per dozen or six bottles for Five Dollars. Gum-coated Forest Pills, 25c. per box.

THE BLACK SEA FLEET.

By the last accounts the fleets was still off Sebastipol. For several days there has been a fog and the fleets had to keep noises to prevent their running foul of each other.

AUSTRIA AND GREECE.

The French and English Governments having given full explanations to that of Austria with respect to the joint expedition which they have been obliged to send to Greece,

The Cabinet of Vienna replied that coincided with the view taken of the affair by the two governments, and that it blames the conduct of King Otho and his advisers and that it fully approves of the measure adopted to bring that subject to reason.

A letter from Bucharest of the 17th in the Swabian Mercury says:—

The Governor General Baron de Bubberge had communicated to the Boyards an order received from the Emperor of Russia, which directs that Wallachia shall be again occupied, and not only Silistria is to be taken but also Turtuika and Rutschuk.

Cronstadt.

The following description of Cronstadt, given in a Berlin journal, although incomplete, may not be uninteresting at the present moment:—

"Cronstadt is situated on the island of Kosline, at the eastern corner of the Finland Gulf.

The island about 1½ English miles long and proportionately narrow, is close to the mouth of the Neva, and may be regarded as the port of St Petersburgh, whence it is distant about 18 miles (English.) The town, which owes its foundation to Peter the Great contains about 30,000 inhabitants, and is intersected by the Peter and Catherina canals. On the northern side of the island stands the powerful Alexander ramparts, constructed of solid granite blocks and armed wit the heaviest guns.

On the southern flank of this is the harbor, the channel to which is defended by the citadel, erected on a rocky foundation, and on the opposite side by the Kronslot fortress.—Properly speaking there exist three harbors for ships of war within the island, with docks, arsenals, building yards and so forth. A fourth and smaller harbor for mercantile vessels also exists within the defences.

The old Menschikoff palace has long been converted into a foundry, arsenal, and school for pilots:

The Marine hospital is arranged for 2,6000 patients. In order to diminish dangers that may occur from fire, all wooden constructions have been pulled down and all superfluous stores removed.

ROMANIST PROSELYTISM IN DENMARK.

The Copenhagen correspondent of the Morning Chronicle writes;—"The Roman propaganda is showing increased activity both here and in other northern capitals. One method is free schools, often accompanied by monied and other temporal assistance, a temptation which the parents of some poor children unfortunately are base enough to give way to. These children are afterwards made proselytes of This converting market is a foul blot on the Roman clergy in the North, and excites more bitterness than any other part of their proceedings.

In Denmark and Norway the Roman church has full liberty; in Sweden it is under the severest restrictiyns, in the same way as the other sects, but it enjoys the private ane all powerful patronage of the court, the mother and wife of King Oscar being papists."

Opinions of the European Press on the War.

The Press thus speaks on the conduct of the war:—

The temper of the public mind at this moment is peculiar. The silence of expectation is just yielding to the mutterings of discontent. Men are beginning openly to wonder how it is that after months of preparation for war, we still hear nothing of open hostilities, and that our Euxine fleet in particular has remained idle, though opportunities of attack did not seem wanting to a vigilant commander.

There has been a disposition in some quarters to blame Admiral Dundas for this inaction. We are sure the reproach is unjust. We are perfectly satisfied that he has acted throughout in strict obedience to his orders, and that the government alone is to blame for that delay which has proved so serricevable to Russia. It could not be the Admiral's fault that he was detained at Constantinople for want of coals, though it might be the fault of that particular officer of the Admiralty whose place it was to see that the supply was amply sufficient for the requirements of the fleet.

The insinuations against the distinguished commander would, indeed, be unworthy of notice if they did not indicate the destitution with which the country is beginning to regard the conduct of the war. The ministers can by no strangers to this feeling, and we believe there are some among them so unscrupulous as to be anxious to shift from themselves the responsibility of their acts, and to care little on whose head the storm of popular rage may break, so that they escape its effects.

While the country is impatiently expecting some decisive results from the declaration of war, each department of administration, obedient to its presiding influence, exercises its ingenuity in devising hindrances to a real and vigorous prosecution of hostilies. At the moment or action it is discovered that there is something wanting. Our troops are delayed for want of transports, and reach a foreign shore at last, wanting common necessaries; and our naval commanders, when bent on some daring exploit, look into their instructions and find they want power to act. It is even doubtful whether the prizes which have been construed under the ministerial orders to be prizes at all, and whether they will not be set free with abundant apologies for the "mistake" committed in their capture.

We are, in fact, talking as if we were at war, and acting as if we were at peace. Instead of a sea fight we have a wreckage of commercial civilities. The recent orders in council must in some way or other have been concerted with the Russian Court, as substantially the same regulations to extend the time for the free passage of ships on the one side and on the other, and to carry on trade on neutral bottoms, were published almost simultaneously in London and St. Petersburg. We profess to be anxious to engage the German States in an alliance against our foe, yet we make it directly their interest to preserve neutrality by throwing the whole trade with Russia, which we allow to remain open, into their hands.

It is a fact strikingly significate of the disposition of our government that up to this date our hostility has been confined to show merely. It is now everywhere asked—Why is this? How long is it to last? How long are we to make war as it it were a military masquerade to fence with buttons on our foils and fire blank cartridge? We may have peace or war, but we cannot have both. Their duties are irreconcilable.

The organization of war demands a pervading energy and a happy audacity that exults in surmounting difficulties. There must be present in a War Minister the talent which inspires others—the hardy resolve—the divining genius—the foresight that plans—something of the enthusiasm which can "do or die;" and but where shall we look for these qualities in Lort Aberdeen's Cabinet?

It is mere folly or cowardice to encourage the idea that commercial relations can be maintained between countries whose governments are really at enmity. Should hostilities commence in earnest, the delusion would be scattered in an instant, and that it is now fevored is another instance that the government is playing the country false, and that it yet hopes that the Turkish empire may yet be overthrown by Greek insurrection or Russian victory, before the Czar has felt the force of our arms. On this supposition, and on this only, the conduct of our government is intelligible. The delay at the War Office—the evasions of the Colonial Secretary—the issue of the order in Council—the emptiness of the Exchequer—the inaction of our forces—all are explained.

The Daily Express thus remarks:—

For the honor of the nation, we would gladly discover some principle, if such there be, in the Eastern policy of Her Majesty's Ministers; and, difficult though the task be, we flatter ourselves that we have accomplished it.

To ordinary comprehensions the history of this affair has been a very simple one. The Emperor of Russia, believing, from a remembrance of certain secret arrangements in 1844, that Lord Aberdeen was of the same opinion as himself, considered the accession to power of that statesman as a signal that he might begin to menace Turkey. Lord Aberdeen played into his hands as long as the rising indignation of the British people would permit him to do so; and it was only when these lively remonstrances and the resignation of Lord Palmerston demonstrated the resolve of that minister not to be a party to his country's degradation, that an anti-Russian policy was at last commenced.

But what has astonished the world more than the original leaning of Lord Aberdeen towards Russia is the slowness of our military movements, and the marked reluctance of our Government to enter on the war. Above all, the number of troops sent to the East appears wholly inadequate for the gravity of the occasion: and the scheme of operations looks much more like a feint, than a deliberately resolved plan of campaign, at the commencement of an almost unparalleled contest. This is what puzzles the public. They could understand the earlier acts of the drama, by a careful review of the character and conduct of Lord Aberdeen, aided by the light afforded by the secret correspondence; but how a ministry of energetic administrative officers could forget their merely ministerial duty is entirely passed comprehension.

We very much fear that even now the spirit Peelism prevails in the Cabinet, and that the same maudlin hope of peace which enfeebled the diplomatic action of the country in the previous stages of the dispute pursues us still, when we have actually entered on war We have not forgotten the drivil ing expressions of Lord Aberdean in the House of Lords long after all around him had become convinced of the utter folly of such expectations We have not forgotten that almost on the very evening before the actual declaration of war Lord Aberdeen, with tears in his eyes, maundered for many minutes over his hope of peace and declared that, for his part, he would never give up that hope. We believe that Lord Aberdeen, Mr. Gladstone, and Mr. Herbert and some other men of the same stamp in the Ministry, are sufficiently infatuated to cling to that hope, with the English and French fleets in the Baltic and the Black Seas, and the associated troops of the two nations on on their way to sustain the gallant generalissimo of the Turks.

Yes; these men even now count upon moral influence as an element in the settlement of the question. They have never understood and, with the exception of Lord Palmerston, do not yet understand the real policy and intentions of the Emperor of Russia; and they imagine that, by fresh and more general combinations, the can intimidate him from the final accomplishment of his purpose.

At the present moment the reliance of these imbecile dreamers—these super philosophic speculators on the destinies of mankind—is upon the moral influence of the new attitude taken by Prussia and Austria.

They imagine that the Czar will at last recoil before a European combination. For this it is that the departure of our troops has been delayed; for this, that a number so inadequate has been sent out, in order that the Ministers may hereafter vaunt, with the Manchester school, their combination of foresight and economy.

They expect that some day a telegraphic message will arrive from Berlin or Vienna with the welcome news that Russia, convinced of the impossibility of carrying out her designs, is suing for peace.

Little do they know of the character of the man, or rather of the system to which they are opposed. Still less do they comprehend the kind of fatalism which dominates over even that man, and controls his actions. We live in an age of little men. Our Government is composed of men of little minds—of clever persons who have never touched the grander heights of political philosophy. They do not perceive because their minds are incapable of perceiving, that these Russians are another of those scourges which Providence for its own wise ends, has permitted for the ultimate good of mankind.

If they had read the history of the world in any other spirit than that of the scholiast and the pelagogue, they would have noted that these barbarian invasions have always occurred at that turning point in that particular era in civilization when the period of decay might be perceived, although the original forces still remain unimpaired; that they have always resulted in the spread among the conquerors of this civilization, which otherwise would have fallen into hopeless corruption. It was thus that Greek civilization spread in Asia, in the train of Alexander's revenge for the invasion of Xerxes; it was thus that Roman civilization retro-acted on the barbarians of the North. That Russia ever can overrun Europe we trust it is impossible, but assuredly if, by our insensate undervaluing of the gravity of the case we permit Russia to gain an advantage in an armed contest, we shall re:ad for an unlimited period that return tide of civilization which otherwise would bear down upon those northern barbarians, and, by bringing them within the sphere of modern influences, avert more a serious danger hereafter

Yet such is the tendency of Lord Aberdeen's whole policy, and especially of the infatuated clinging to the hope of peace.

The War.

VIENNA, June 4,

The note, recently forwarded by the Austrian government to St. Petersburg, requires that Russia shall fix a date for the evacuation of the principalities; and in case of a refusal, Austria is prepared to move a force not far short of 300,000 able men upon the River Danube.

VIENNA, Friday, June 2.

Austria despatched to day a most earnest summons(sommation) to Russia to evacuate the principalities within a time to be specified by the Czar himself.

BUCHAREST, May 31.

An action has taken place at Brankowani, near Slatina. The Russians lost 500 men killed and wounded, and retreated.

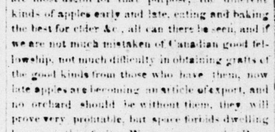
COPENHAGEN, June 3.

The Bull Dog has taken a Russian ship, the Johanna Vincent.

Significant Precautions at St. Petersburgh.

"Yesterday morning," says the St Petersburgh correspondent of the Vienna Presse, writing on the 21st ult, "there appeared an order of the minister of police, prescribing what the inhabitants of St. Petersburg are to do in the event of seige, or rather a blockade of the city. If Cronstadt should fall into the power of the allied fleets, women children and old men are immediately to leave the capital, the troops are to be removed from the houses, the streets are to be unpaved, and the bells of the holy churches and the images of the saints are to be removed to Moscow. Notwithstanding all there precautions, the order expressed the assurance that the enemys fleet will perish on the rocks, and under the cannon of Cronstadt. All measures necessitated by a long and energetic war are being taken here. Both sides of the Neva are being protected with very strong and defensive works."

KIEL, May, 31.



The French fleet, which, in consequence of the light wind prevailing yesterday afternoon, cast off Bolk, about twelve miles from this place, weighed again a dawn this morning, and sail away for Gothland, there to await it is thought, further information as to the movements of Sir Charles Napier. The Pourvuiante fast-sailing frigate will proceed direct to Memel, for instructions for the French Admiral. One of the ships in passing out of the inner bay yesterday took the ground, but by the aid of a steamer was instantly got off again without any damage. She was the leading ship of the squadron and in consequence, the others were forewarned in time.

PROBABLE PECULIAR POSITION OF THE EUROPEAN POWERS.

We learn from a quarter which we have invariably found to be well informed, that the summons to evacuate the principalities forwarded to Russia jointly by Austria and Prussia is not only with the Czars consent, but actually at his instigation. If so the summons will of course be complied with, and we may, in that case, expect to hear in a fortnight that the Russians are about to hide behind the Pruth. The reasons of the Autocrat's readiness to adopt this course is understood to be, that he will thereby afterwards, compel Austria and Prussia to become his active friends, they having pledged themselves, in the event of his withdrawing his troops from Wallachia and Moldavia, to protect him against any abridgement of his power or curtailment of his territory, on the part of France and England.

In this way, the Czar makes sure of escaping the consequences of his criminal conduct. But then it has to be remembered, on the other hand, when the western powers have pledged themselves to exact from Nicholas material guarantees for the future peace of Europe.

It is therefore probable, in the highest degree that France and England may come in direct collision with Prussia and Austria before the eastern question is settled. If the German powers and the western powers each prove true to there pledges, it is not easy to see how a war of France and England united on the one hand, against Austria, and Prussia on the other can easily be avoided.—Morning Chronicle.

NEXT PROVINCIAL SHOW.

To resume our promise we now direct attention to horticultural products for which prizes will be awarded. And first we may observe that apples are in Canada a necessary of life, they are as necessary to the Canadians as the potato is to the Irish. We have seen in Canada large Orchards all raised from seed, generally bearing good fruit, some as large as any we have seen in England. In France, the refuse of the orchard and fruit room is manufactured by the ordinary means of firmentation and distilling into an excellent brandy. The medical properties of the apple are considerable. The fruit when ripe is laxitive, and when boiled or roasted it has been found useful in cases of indigestion and weakness of the stomach and also in putrid and malignant fevers, as connected with the arts, the bark is used in dying a yellow color, and the wood for turning and other purposes. The pulp when mixed with lard forms pomatum. Very excellent bread has been made in France of apples it was said to be invented by M. Duduit de Mayieve in the following simple manner: "After having boiled one-third of pealed apples he bruised them when quite warm into two thirds of flour, including the proper quantity of yeast, and kneeded the whole without water, the juice of the fruit being quite sufficient when this mixture had acquired the consistency of paste he put it into a vessel, in which he allowed it to rise for about twelve hours, by this process he obtained a very excellent bread full of eyes, and extremely palatable and light.—Pomarium Britannicum." We had nearly forgotten the excellent cider for which we are indebted to the apple. This country is particularly suited to the growth of the apple and there are a few horticultural productions capable of paying better with less trouble than the apples. But still how often do we find an orchard composed of all autumn fruit, now often more than half the trees of small bad crabs, as we may call them and sometimes old trees out of bearing. Now, these defects are easily obviated, the exhibitions are most useful for that purpose, the different kinds of apples early and late, eating and baking the best for cider &c., all can there be seen, and if we are not much mistaken of Canadian good fellowship, not much difficulty in obtaining grafts of the good kinds from those who have them, now late apples are becoming an article of export, and no orchard should be without them, they will prove very profitable, but space forbids dwelling longer on the fruit. We now pass to the Pear. In horticultural works we learn that the pear is a much more hardy and durable tree, although longer coming into fruit than the apple, but it will exist for centuries, from its fermented juice perry is made, the wood is used by the turner, and the leaves dye yellow, and are also used to give a green to blue cloths. Both apple and pear trees when old can be renovated by cutting them down above the graft, and putting some tea lead to protect the cut, a new head will grow, and if the former fruit be bad can be grafted on, for this discovery we are indebted to Mr. Forsyth, who was gardener at Kew during George III's time. Pears, answer well in Canada but the best kinds suited to the climate are not propogated.

Plumbs are next enumerated, they like the apples are much neglected, we see trees bending down under the wild plumb, that with a little trouble would give immense crops of green gage violet orleau or other cultivated kinds, and for which a ready market could be obtained according to Philips "the wild plumb was used as medicine by the ancients and the bark of the tree is thought to be equal to the Prussian bark in cases of intermitting fever." A palatable wine is also made from the plumb and the wood is used for turning cabinet work, and in making musical instruments; the celebrated "Washington," one of the best kinds in England was imported from New York, all kinds of plumbs will do well here and deserve cultivation.

Peaches are next in the list, the leaves of the peach, containing a portion of Prussic acid when steeped in gin or whiskey give it a flavor like Noyeau. The peech flowers when made into a syrup are givenas an apperient to children, and are said according to Gerard to destroy worms. The wood of the peech tree produces the color called rose pink. The cultivation of the peach is much neglected in Canada, those who have taken any trouble with its cultivation are amply repaid.

Grapes come next, and there is no fruit we are convinced would succeed better here, if the proper kinds were selected, and little pains taken to choose a suitable soil and aspect,. Last year we had the pleasure of seeing, to us, a novel experiment, the wild vine which grows so luxuriently, transplanted, cut down within four inches of the ground, and a cutting of the best kind inserted in the centre of it. This method succeeds and the inserted kind grows with all the natural luxuriance of the wild kind.

As to mellons we need only tell our friends across the Atlantic, that they require no hot beds or none of the care bestowed on them in Europe but grow like the turnip or any other hardy plant

We do not see nuts enumerated, any kind would if cultivated succeed well here, our observations are however, confined to those things enumerated in the list for competition for prizes.

We shall postpone some observations or other classes until our next. We are happy to see the enclosure of the ground for the show proceeding, the buildings when erected, especially the Floral Hall will be so contrived as to avoid any unnecessary crush and afford an opportunity for each person seeing every plant exhibited, we trust every exertion will be made by those having gardens and greenhouses to ensure the occupation of every portion of space, and present the floral taste of London and Woodstock in favorable comparison with places where the previous shows have been held.

RUSSIA.

A few short remarks prompted by scanning over some of the numerous works recently written on this country, may not prove uninteresting to some of our readers. The extensive region now known as Russia, between the Baltic and Black seas, was from time immemorial, inhabited by Slavonic tribes referred to in Herodotus Book 3., who designated them under the name of Scythia. The expedition of Darius Hystaspes into this country proved as fatal to him as those of Charles the twelfth and Napoleon several centuries later, in the latter part of the ninth century, Rurick, one of the Scandinavian Chiefs, established a permanent dominion over the Slavonic and Flemish Tribes in the very fertile neighborhood of the Baltic, and gave the name of Russia to this extensive region. Soon after Rurick established himself at Novogorod, a number of his countrymen proceeded south, and come to Kioff, where they found a permanent settlement, they were so considerable that they undertook an expedition to the Bosphorus in A.D. 865, when they made an unsuccessful attempt upon Constantinople, where the name of Russia was than heard for the first time. Here we perceive that nearly one thousand years ago the Russians made an attempt to gain Constantinople, and the history of the ninth may compare with that of the nineteenth century. Both in the ninth and tenth centuries we learn of frequent invasions by Russia, and concessions wrung from the eastern emperors, Nestor the historian relates that Sviatoslav, the Nicholas of the tenth century, consided himself for his retreat in that excursion by saying "whenever we next find occasion of quarrell with Greece we shall assemble a more numerous army, and we know now how to find our way to Constantinople."

A. D. 1042—Another expedition was taken against Constantinople, and which like those of 901, and Marshall Diebitch in 1828 and 1829 marched on the western coast of the Black Sea supplied by a fleet along the coast. The Greek emperor sent an embassy to meet Vladimer who led the expedition of 1043, and Vladimer returned an insolent answer, a'la Menschicoff, and continued his advance. The Rusian fleet having been defeated off Pharos, near the entrance of the Bosphorus, the army deprived of the support of the fleet were routed at Varna. After this the internal divisions of Russia prevented another invasion in 1571 the Khan of Crimea a vessel of the Sultan invaded Russia and burned Moscow, but peace was again restored, and lasted till 1667, when Russia obtained from Poland the cession of the Ukrane. This led to the first regular war between Russia and Turkey in 1677 it produced no consequences, and peace was restored in 1681, we now come to the reign of Peter the Great to which we referred in former numbers, those references may not prove uninteresting in the present time, or the parallel drawn unintructive. We shall be brief in another reference by the treaty of Kazuadge in 1774 the Khan of Crimea was declared independant and Russia obtained the ports of Kerch, Yenikale, Kinburn Azoff and Taganrog, besides other advantages the most remarkable of which was the one in which Turkey promised protection to the Christian churches, and permitted Russia to negociate in favor of a greek church which was to be built by the Russian government, in consequence of that Russia now claims the protect ate over the Greek Church in Turkey. At the time that treaty was made Baron Thugut was the Austrian Ambassador at Constantinople and his communication with his court on the subject was quite oracular.

"I have no doubt that notwithstanding the insignificant declarations of the Reis Effendi against the pretensions of the Russians, who claim the right of protection over their Greek coreligionaries, the Russian plenipotentiaries will prove their skill, and know how to attain their object by some mora or less distinct stipulation of the treaty.

It is with grief that I foresee the melancholy consequences which may result to the Catholic religion in the Levant, from the superiority of the Schismatic church."

"As the present peace gives to Russia on one side the eastern part of Crimea, the fortress of Yenikale, and particularly the noble harbor of Kerch, and on the other side the possession of Kinburn, and of the mouths and banks of the Dnieper, as she moreover intends not only to restore the fortifications of Kinburn at the mouth of the Dan, but also to complete a the defence of the harbor of Taganrog, finally as these countries produce in abundance timber, iron, hemp, and all the materials needed for the construction of ships, it will be easy for her to build at Kerch in a short time and at little expense a fleet of twelve or fifteen line of battle ships; and in the other ports which she has recently acquired a number of smaller vessels and thus to have always ready the means for transporting a large number of troops over the Black Sea.

On the other hand, as it is impossible to doubt that Russ a will always keep in her new territory an army of thirty or forty thousand men, it follows that wdenever the Cabinet of St. Petersburg may choose, Russia shall always be able, without previously making any extraordinary armaments to effect a landing on the boasts of the Black Sea, and to conduct with a favorable wind in thirty six or forty eight eight hours, twenty thousand men from Kerch to the very walls of Constantinople.

In such a case a conspiracy arranged beforehand with the leaders of the Schismatic religion will undoubtedly break out.

Nothing will then remain to the Sultan, unless to leave his palace at the first news of the Russian movement, and to fly to Asia abandoning the throne of the Eastern empire to a more skilful possessor.

When Constantinople has been once conquered, terror, and the assistance of the schismatic christians of Turkey, may subject without great trouble to the Russian sceptre the Archipelago, the coasts of Asia Minor and the whole of Greece to the shores of the Adriatic."

"Then the possession of these lands so much favored by nature, and with which no other country in the world can vie, in respect to the fertility and richness of the soil, will raise Russia to a height of power surpassing the most fabulous accounts of the greatness of ancient empire."

"As the revolution may be at some future time effected from the Black Sea in in a very short time with out noise, and without great and extensive preparations, it is not probable that Russia should choose again for the chief theatre of her operations the banks of the Danester and the Danube."

"A war undertaken at such a distance from her frontiers, must be very difficult and expensive and cannot be terminated except in several campaigns, or give any decisive result to whicat she may from her new frontier at every time and in the space of two days, make an attack on the very walls of Constantinople."

"Russia cannot, in fact," he adds, "flatter herself that she will be able at once to occupy all those countries and to maintain possession of them."

She must expect that at the overthrow of the Ottoman empire, the provinces situated on the frontiers of Austria will fall to the share of that power. The Russian Cabinet will not probably oppose this acquisition, at least it will not be able to prevent it."

The acquisition of Bosnia, Servia, &c., which Austria would thus make, though important in other circumstances would not be of great value to Russia from the moment when the rest of the Turkish dominion fall into their hands."

"The most delicate and dangerous part of all this business is, that the existence of the Turk appears henceforward to depend on the will of other courts."

"As soon as the works which are to be executed in the new Russian establishment shall be completed, we may expect any the capture of Constantinople by the Russians."

"This capital may be conquered by an unexpected attack, before the news of the movement of the Russian army will have reached the frontiers of other Christian powers."

"By an a iro l combination of the articles of this treaty, the Ottoman empire becomes from this day a kind of Russian province whence the court of St. Petersburg may draw troops and money; and, finally, as Russia will be henceforward able to dictate to the Sultan, and as she has the means of compelling him to yield, she may perhaps rest satisfied for some years to come by reigning in his name, until she thinks the favorable moment is come to take complete possession of his dominions."

RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

We regret to record another fatal accident on this line on the 22th. It appears some workmen repairing the road left a rail loose, and signaling within too short a distance the engineer could not stop the train in time, it consequently ran off the track and several of the carriages were broken two lives lost, and several passengers were badly injured. We regret extremely that some of the gentlemen travelling in the cars when accidents occur do not take the trouble to communicate with the Press on the subject, as we are totally dependant for our own information to report, and as report is so contradictory, it is often difficult to ascertain the truth.

We believe the above to be the truest report, but cannot say further. The accident occurred at Princeton.

The Late Mr. Worthington.

The subjoined communication relative to the melancholy death of Mr. D. W. Worthington, conductor on the Great Western Railway, has been handed us for publication with a view to contradict certain misstatements which have got into circulation. We regret that our accounnt of the accident was erroneous in some particulare, but it was as correct as it possibly could be under the circumstances:—

The late Mr. Worthington, as the conductor of the above named train, on his arrival in London on the day before mentioned, felt it necessary to detatch from his train one or two carriages, not feeling satisfied with their state of repair; in consequence two fresh carriages were added, this change consumed about 20 minutes of the running time. The late conductor was making up his time satisfactorily, and had been complimented by gentlemen belonging to a large party of travelers from the Eastern states, upon the precautionary measures he had taken to procure their continued safety; and while proceeding along his journey west of Wardsville, and over a piece of indifferently balasted road, the cars bounded unusually, so much so as to excite the feare of the late Mr. Worthington for the safety of the carriages.

At this time the late conductor was passing through one of the carriages (from which he afterwards fell) and immediately turned back to examine the forepart of the under carriage, after satisfying himself that all was right there he then proceeded hastily through the same carriage to examine the hinder running carriage, and while holding on by the platform rail, and leaning over in to the road, for the purposes just named, his head unfortunately came in violent contact with one of two posts of one of the cowguards at the roadside, having passed by the east end post of the two in safety; the western post against which Mr. Worthington struck, and by which he was instantly killed, overhung the road, about 12 inches out of a perpendicular line, and was observed to be in this position when his lifeless body was taken up from the road; this fact was noted; besides the fact, that, when certain friends of the deceased, went up on the road next morning after the coroner's inquest was held, to survey and inspect the fatal place, the post was untouched with, by some persons employed by the G. W. Railway.

It is evident to those who are in possession of the facts of this sad case, and which may hereafter be more fully developed. That the late Mr. Worthington had calculated his distance—had already passed safely by other cow-guards, while in the act of examining the running gear of one of his carriages, and but for the culpable condition of the fatal post in question, would have escaped all harm.

The late conductor, Worthington, was a prompt, business-like, gentlemanly young man, of much promise, and was a general favorite on the G. W. Railroad, more particularly with the United States travellers, amongst whom he had been for nearly two years in connection with the New York Erie Railroad. His untimely end has been deeply regretted, and it has cast a blight and and a gloom over his family. He was the second of Thomas Worthington, Esq., collector of Customs for Wellington, and the well known "Inspector of Ports for Upper Canada," who at the time of this sad event, was in the cars with his late son, on his way to the Port of Chatham, being on an inspecting tour to the various railroad ports. Mrs. Worthington was erected to mourn both father and son at the Chatham station—little expecting the overwhelming and dire calamity which had befallen that once happy circle, while an only sister, and a younger brother passed with in the morning at London amongst their relatives, never more to be seen by him who had been the cheerful companion of their childhood, and whose young hearts were soon to be stricken with the melancholy and appalling tidings of the death of their brother.

COPY OF VERDICT OF CORONER'S INQUEST HELD ON THE BODY OF THE LATE WILLIAM DIXON WORTHINGTON.

"That the same William Dixon Worthington came to his death accidently in consequence of being thrown off a Railroad car belonging to the Great Western Railroad Company, on the Great Western Railroad, about fifteen miles east of Chatham station, on the first day of June, inst., whilst in the execution of his duty as a conductor on the said Railroad, and whilst examining one of the cars; and the Jury has every reason to believe that it was through the zealous discharge to do his duty that the said accident occured."

THE DISSOLUTION OF PARLIAMENT.

We have been obliged to curtail our remarks upon this subject, until our next, in consequence of other matter coming in late to which we must give place in this issue, but silence might be construed into approval of one of the most unconstitutional acts on record, Lord Elgin & Co. thought fit to abdicate themselves from the province until the present month, June, the country threatens almost unanimously demand a meeting of the Provincial parliament, that meeting has taken place and is now over, no business was done the representatives of the people thought proper to differ in opinion from Lord Elgin & Co., an amendment to the address was proposed and carried against them, and what was the result, because any members were found independant enough to differ in opinion from the "infallable Hincks" they are to be sent home to undergo all the trouble and cost of another election, the business of the country to remain at a standstill and the leeches in power to extract a little more of the golden drops from the provincial Exchequer, the present state of the Exchequer must be considered the shelling of Mr Hincks not quite within grasp at present, and therefore delays were to be interposed. Should the new parliament prove refractory a second appeal may be made after the extended registration bill comes into operation on the 1st of July next, and fresh elections may keep alive the spirit of economy so conducive to the charitable tastes of the family of Elgin & Co. we must here tell our readers Sir Allen McNab on the part of the majority of the House of Assembly the bill at once, to bring the extended representation into operation. But that offer would not suit a government composed of men unprincipled assertions and devoid of any redeeming quality, the leaders of their own party and the unfortunate victims of their opponents despised by all respected by none, they have extended their lease of office—but we hope in our next to go into particulars.

THE FOREST WINE.

THIS excellent MEDICAL WINE and the FOREST PILLS are in daily increasing demand, and become the favorite medicine of the people, and known as a most effectual remedy in the cure of Dyspepsia, Habitual Costiveness, Liver Complaint, Asthma, Piles, Gravel, Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Headache and miserable relief of the sick, Jaundice, Acute and Chronic Rheumatism, Erysipelas, Complaints peculiar to Females, Diseases of the Kidneys, General Ill Health, and more ineffectual for Cold Constitutions.

Extraordinary cures have been made known to the public, and numerous others have been made known to the proprietor, which have been effected by the use of these medicines, after the most eminent medical men have failed to give relief, and pronounced the case incurable, and given up their patients to die. Many of these cases have been of the most desperate character, and of long standing, which would appear impossible to be cured by any medicine, but give strength and confidence to those who have failed to procure relief from other sources.

The great unrivalled good these medicines have done for the afflicted, and the numerous testimonials received from the highest authorities in favor of their extraordinary virtues, have induced the proprietor to publish a few of the many in favor of their Wine and Pills.

DR. I. A. STANLEY,

a celebrated physician, and other from Princeton, New Jersey, dated Nov. 16, 1849 certified that the Forest Wine since he had never seen anything to compare with the Forest Wine as a medicine for the cure of Dyspepsia, which it cured in an incredible short time. Among the members of the Medical Faculty in New York, who have witnessed the great benefits of the Forest Wine and recommended it in numerous cases, will be found the names of the following gentlemen, viz: Professor Chesebrough, Dr. Cheesman, Dr. Wm. Brown, Dr. Marvin, Dr. J. M. Mc Lane, and others.

TESTIMONY

Of Mr. Johnson Burke, a highly respectable citizen of Waverly, Tompkins county, N. Y.

Dr. G. W. Haley—Dear Sir—I believe the Forest Wine as you prepare it, is the best medicine I have ever used in my family. In fact I consider it indispensable. I have used it for five years. In that time I have had the dysentery, and never found anything to relieve me like the Forest Wine. I have also used the Forest Pills, although I do not think them quite as valuable as the Wine. I was also troubled with a severe pain in my side, which obliged me to keep my bed for a week. The Forest Wine relieved me in a few days, so that I was able to attend to my business in a few days. I have also used the Forest Wine for my children, and found it a safe and excellent medicine for children. Being your Forest Wine Agent, I consider it my duty to say this much in favor of your medicine. I have had a different person call on me for your medicine, and I have entirely refused to sell any but what I get from you. Almost every person who calls for your medicine, I recommend to call on you for it. You are at liberty to publish this.

Yours &c.,
JOHNSON BURKE.

General Debility, Prostration, Nervous Diseases.

Many persons are troubled with a general debility of the system, without being sick enough to require a physician, and without knowing what is the matter with them. After the slightest exertion they become fatigued, and are unable to perform the ordinary duties of life. Others are afflicted with nervous diseases, which render them miserable, and unfit for business or society. Such persons will find the Forest Wine a sovereign remedy for their complaints. Being entirely free from alcohol, it can be taken by the most delicate female, or the youngest child, without producing the least intoxication, and may be used with safety in all seasons and under all circumstances. Being composed entirely of vegetable matter, it is a powerful tonic, and at the same time a gentle stimulant, and by its use the most delicate female may be restored to perfect health, and the strength of the strongest man increased to an unlimited degree. Those who have been in the habit of using ardent spirits, will find the Forest Wine a different preparation from the vile compounds which they have been accustomed to imbibe, and will find that by its use they will entirely lose all desire for such poisons. Those who have been in the habit of using tobacco, will find the Forest Wine a powerful antidote to that poison, and will find that by its use they will entirely lose all desire for it. Those who have been in the habit of using opium, will find the Forest Wine a powerful antidote to that poison, and will find that by its use they will entirely lose all desire for it. Those who have been in the habit of using laudanum, will find the Forest Wine a powerful antidote to that poison, and will find that by its use they will entirely lose all desire for it. Those who have been in the habit of using any other poisonous drug, will find the Forest Wine a powerful antidote to that poison, and will find that by its use they will entirely lose all desire for it.

TO THE LADIES.

The Lowell Courier contains the following notice of the extensive factory of Messrs. Boott & Co., at Lowell, Mass., where the PLEASANT STAPLE OF THIS COUNTRY is manufactured:

"Upon entering the apartments where the looms are in operation, the first thing that attracts the attention of the visitor is the perfect order and neatness which prevails throughout the whole establishment. There is no dirt to be seen anywhere, and the operatives appear to be as neat and tidy as the rooms in which they work. What chance is there for a young woman who is compelled to labor in her daily occupation in a filthy, dirty room, to be neat and tidy in her dress? Let the factory girl be placed in a neat, clean room, and she will feel ashamed to appear in a dirty dress. Her own self-respect will prompt her to it. Public opinion is all powerful, and will compel her to it. Public opinion is all powerful, and will compel her to it. Public opinion is all powerful, and will compel capital punishment on those who abandon Islamism in order to embrace some other faith; the exactions and the arbitrary conduct formerly practiced upon christ anshave ceased by degrees in the neighboring provinces of Constantinople; and, at last, without renouncing their position as the governing race, the Turks have admitted christians to undertake, with them, a certain number of functions, like, in this respect, those aristocracies which know how to open their ranks to merit.

It is fortunate the Turkish government is deriving encouragement from the success of that which it has itself undertaken. It has done much there remains not less for it do yet.—Money it is said are the sinews of war. It is by the same rule, the sinews of peace. The power and prosperity of a state depend, if not exclusively, at least principally, upon its system of finance; but nothing is more imperfect than the organization of the finances of the Ottomaw Empire.

For some years the ordinary revenue of Turkey has not exceeded the amount of 750,000,000 piastres, and it has not been below 650,000,000. In order to explain this variation, it is sufficient to say that the principle sources of income are the tenths upon the produce of the soil and the customs. The expenses, which are more easy to determine than the receipts, have reached to 783,400,000 piasters. The details of a Turkish budget are very different from those of a budget among the people of the west. We may judge of this by the following table of receipts and expenditure, which, indeed, it is otherwise curious to compare. The expenditure is divided in the following manner among the different services:—

	Piasters.
The Sultan's civil list	75,000,000
Civil list of the Sultana mother (previous to her death) and of his two married sisters	8,400,000
Army	370,000,000
Navy	37,500,000
Materials of war, artillery, engineers and fortresses	30,000,000
Salaries of employees in all the empire and in every branch of the administration	135,000,000
Subvention to the administration of wakoufs for the establishments depending on them	12,000,000
Contingent annuities	6,000,000
Interest at six per cent. on bons du trésor	9,000,000
Annuities payable in compensation for ancient debts to proprietors dispossessed	40,000,000
Foreign affairs—embassies and consulates	3,000,000
Expenses for objects of public utility	10,000,000
Total Piasters	733,400,000

Such are the whole expenses of the Turkish government. Here are its different sources of income:—

	Piasters.
Tenths	220,000,000
Income Tax	300,000,000
Personal taxes on non-Mussulman subjects	40,000,000
Customs	86,000,000
Tribute from Egypt	30,000,000
" " Wallachia	2,300,000
" " Moldavia	1,000,000
" " Servia	2,000,000

We thus know the elements of the budget and the financial resources. What measures ther, should be taken to establish this budget on a firm and regular basis? These measures are indicated by the nature of the obstacles to be overcome, and which it remains for us to enumerate.

Among these obstacles we must reckon in the first rank the existence of the wakoufs. They call by this name all the property consecrated to the mosques and religious foundations, whether they have proceeded from pious legacies or have been confided to the administrators of the mosques by virtue of a convention. Free property takes the name of mulk. It is well known that the desire to contribute to the support of the mosques has not been the sole motives for the donations of the faithful stewards. The real end of the proprietor has often been to insure one portion of his fortune against the caprices of tyranny. The chances of reversion to the profit of the mosque, and the annual rent which the depositary pays to it are not considered too high a premium, when the question is how to avoid confiscation or a forced sale at the suit of impatient creditors. Whatever be the reason which may have determined proprietors to put their land into the hands of the administration of wakoufs, the administration is nominally the proprietor of three fourths of the real property of the Turkish Empire.—Nevertheless the annual revenue of the administration of wakoufs is not valued at more than 20,000,000 piastres. There is one fact still more strange—the budget of the state is obliged to furnish 12,500,000 piastres for the support of the mosques and charitable establishments.—This apparent contradiction is explained by the small rent stipulated at the beginning, in money of which the name has not changed, but which has twenty times its value now: by the frauds common at the declaration of prices at sales; by precautions taken to avoid the case of remainder; and, lastly, by concessions made to relations for the redemption of titles were cases of remainder are presented.

Without changing the system, it is evident that some well devised measures might produce great benefit to the treasury but results much more important would be obtained if they were able to disinterest the mosques, and give the actual tenants new titles, which would render them real proprietors. This reform is generally needed.

The tax called vergu, formerly salian, corresponding with the English income-tax. It varies according to the locality from 10 to 25 per cent. It is a tax raised upon the presumed fortune—real, personal or commercial. It is placed indifferently upon all subjects of the Grand Seignor. Kiosklemen of Rayas. The intervention of the municipalities which exist everywhere in Turkey, are charged with its appointment and its collection, and they turn over the produce to the financial agents of the government. This intervention of the municipalities in financial questions is one of the principles of their organization in the East; but this principal supposes in the municipalities enlightened and equitable views, which was not always met with. There are some in which the patriarchal and fraternal spirit of the earliest times are preserved the fortune of each consisting generally of land and cattle, is of public notoriety, The distribution of the tax is easy, and its collection is effected without reclamations or resistance. In some communes of Asia Minor justice is not so scrupulously applied. Although municipal functions are elective, they are two often the prize of intrigue, and the privilege of great influence, from which in fortunes are not always those which have to bear the highest tax; the small ones suffer and the treasury with them.

The tenths are not the vergu, the most productive branch of the revenue of Turkey, they are collected upon all the productions of the earth, fruits, and cereals. In Roumelia they extend to sheep. It is the same in some localities in Asia Minor. In others immunity is compensated by a surcharge upon the tax. With the view of receiving money instead of the produce of nature, the government has recourse to a disastrous expedient, which is one of the principal vices in the financial legislation of the empire. It puts this to auction, the same as the customs of many cities. The purchasers effect their reimbursement by means of special agents, with the concurrence of the municipalities and the representative of the central authority. We may easily conceive the inconceivenience of this system. But altogether vicious as it is, it is a step in the right direction.

Provincial.

The Hon. John McDonald on Ministerial Corruption.

The cup of Ministerial bitterness which the Ministry must drink is nearly full. The corruption and the lying necessary for successful swindling and corrupt practices are beginning to produce those evil consequence which ever physically or morally, follow an abuse of strength. That which comes easily goes easily, and power obtained, and for a time maintained by corruption, must pass easily as way, as must wealth, suddenly resulting from such power also disappear. A ministry cradled, trained, expert, and practised in impurity cannot do otherwise than reap the fruits of sin. On Monday evening last, the Hon. John A. McDonald of Kingston shrivelled up the Inspector General to a mummy. As the words, of scorn, defiance, contempt, and truth fell upon the ears of the astonished premier, his eyes shrunk back into their sockets, his cheeks became pale, his hand was palsied, as he sat listening to the withering tongue of truth, Cameron standing like a gaping idiot beside him, retaining only sufficient intellect and hardly sufficient voice screech to huskily in reply as it were, to one assertion of the ministerial opponent—"it is as false as Hell" Never was a speech more telling, not on account of its eloquence altogether, but on account of its truth, being uttered in a Canadian Parliament. Sentence followed sentence, so poisonously that the spasmodic contortions of the ministry was dreadful to behold. As the speaker told the writhing creatures how the sacrificed their pledges, changed their faith and submitted to the tools of others and why, the onlookers were alarmed lest death should follow fear; the Parliament was incompetent to legislate on the Clergy Reserves because ministers had sold to themselves government properties. Parliament was incompetent to deal with the Seigneurial Tenure question, because ministers had embezzeled debentures robbed Corporations, and taken the Blackmail of certain bankers. The government had resolved to amuse the public with their assumed turncoatisms to avoid the exposure of their delinquincies, mayhap, resolved only to pass such needful measeures as suited them, dissolved the House and appeal to the country. Previous impunity had made the now withered up Premier to be Cromwellism. When he refused to permit legislation, he did no virtually say as Mr. Macdonald alleged he did while pointing to the mace,—"Take away that bauble." Mr. Macdonald virtually gave expression to the actual practice of the present ministry, who treat the Lower Canadians as lapdogs, cajole the Irish, coquette with a few mercantile courtiers, and spurns everything British in the colonies besides. There is another time at hand. Men who hate each other as intensely as Messrs. Cameron and Hincks do, cannot long be colleagued, though bound together by crime. The desire to be free will make the most foolish or the most impulsive peach, as Malcolm Cameron was about to do at Perth. Petty jealousy or the unequal division of the plunder will lead to backbitings and treachery. The most womanish among a trite of thieves is often the spiteful informant of the police, she being king's evidence escapes. There is one among the debenture plunderers accustomed to treachery as Mr. Cauchon is to prevarication. Mr. Cameron jibbited Mr. Hincks for his Point Levi jobbing, and Mr. Hincks and Mr. Cameron still row in the same boat together! Mr. Cameron saying, although the facts laded to by Mr. Macdonald is recorded against him, that Mr. Macdonald uttered, was as false as hell, the only language, according to him, that he could use that parliament could understand. Parliament may understand other language, however, and the corruptionists be treated in Canada as was Sir Robert Walpole in England.

Prorogation of the "Long Parliament."

Quebec, June 23rd 1854.

The House met at 3 o'clock amidst great excitement.

After the speaker had taken the chair, Sir Allan McNab addressing the Ministry, asked if it was the intention of his Excellency to prorogue the House?

Mr Hincks answered, yes!

Sir Allan McNab asked if this was to be done in order afterwards to dissolve it?

Mr. Hincks, yes!

Sir Allan McNab, without altering the Franchise bill so as to make it come into immediate operation?

Mr. Hincks, of course.

Sir A M Nab—I have then to say for myself and my friends near me that we are quite ready to give our assistance to pass that bill in order to make it available at the next election.

We are also ready to vote the supplies, or do anything else to enable the Government to be carried on in the best manner. It is not necessary for me to remark on this proposition without affording the country the means of understanding our reasons.

We can only say that we are ready to sustain a respectful reply to the speech, and if the good sense of the House choose to insert in that reply sentiments not in accordance with those of Gentlemen opposite, the latter ought not to have shrunk from the responsibility of presenting it, and thus avoid advising his excellency to do, what he took to be a breach of the Constitution.

They thus prevented the house from giving its views to the Governor.

I think it necessary to express these sentiments, in order that the truth should be known.

Mr. McKenzie entirely agreed with the learned and gallant knight, (loud cries of hear hear.) The House has placed on the statute book a bill to which it had given an unanimous consent, to give a wider expression to the popular opinion of the country. This was no measure of class or party, but conceded all, and he would just read the preamble to show how necessary and just it was thought He read as follows:—

"Whereas it is right to extend the elective Franchise, to certain classes of persons now excluded from voting at elections of members of the legislative assembly."

Here the messenger from the council appeared at the bar and the speaker read the notice to prorogue.

Mr. McKenzie said there was no necessity for delay, the bill in question could be passed immediately.

The 10,000 job was passed through its stages at once; and passing this bill would give the Franchise to 100,000 people.

Would they dissolve before they had completed it?

The bill should be carried at once, (great cheering through the house.)

The speaker here rose, and Mr. McKenzie said, give me a minute, (cheers, and cries of go on, the speaker standing all the time.) He asked if the Inspector General, who had once so easily secured his exclusion from the House, was now to deprive thousands of their political rights by excluding them from voting for their representatives.

It was too bad to be driven from their seats like soldiers by a drill sergeant in a garrison town. We had come to see the public acts, where were they? The treaty, what has become of it? To lower the tariff, why is it not done? Was all information thus to be shut out from them, though their table was furnished with a list of reports which ought to have been presented, (hours of applause, and cries of order.) As an old Reformer he cried shame on the Government! (cries of hurrah,) shame on them. (cries of hear, hear, and hurrah.)

Three knocks were now heard at the door. Shame on them (cries of go on) What was to be said to the constituencies of this summary way of disposing of the House.

He would move that the House sit still till six o'clock.

The Speaker—That cannot be done if any member objects to it.

Mr McKenzie.—The Governor General had declared in a late speech that the people of Canada were very loyal to the Queen.—Was that a way to increase their loyalty?

Mr McDonald of Kingston, began to speak with great vehemence in the midst of great uproar saying that it was quite necessary to return a respectful answer.

Hr McKenzie here walked with his motion to the speakers chair.

Mr Sherwood here rose to a question of order.

"The messenger had been admitted without the consent of the house.

Mr. McDonald, still standing proceeded.

He stood there for the liberties of the people of Canada. [Here the uproar of the House became tremendous.] Mr. McDonald speaking at the top of his voice and with violent gesticulation, but being quite unable to make himself heard, and the speaker standing as if to speak.

Mr. Drummond called on the Speaker to keep order—to preserve the dignity of the House.

Mr. Robinson rising with great excitement exclaimed dignity of the house indeed! With what dignity are we treated.

Mr McKenzie.—Put my motion, (Order, chair, hear, hear.)

Sir Allan McNab during a moments calm, said the minority had not explained whether they had tendered their resignation or in what position they stood before the country. Was this like English statesmen? yet standing with only four independent votes from Upper Canada, and a bare majority from Lower Canada.

They will allow nothing to be said, but dissolve the House the moment it expresses an opinion different from theirs.

Mr. Brown attempted to speak, was understood to say, why don't the Ministry pass their necessary measures?—They dissolve to escape inquiry into their corruption. (Cries of yes, nup tremendous noise.)

Mr Langton asked the Speaker whether he could speak, if not, he would to his opinion.

The Speaker stated he had said "admit the messenger" and that being done, and the messenger within the walls he thought all discussion irregular. (Cries of chair, chair, Mr Brown still standing and attempting to speak.

The House then rose and went to the legislative chambers.

On entering, the Speaker of the Assembly read the following speech to the Governor:—

May it please Your Excellency—

It has been the immemorial custom of Speakers of the Commons House of Parliament to report and to communicate to the throne the general result of the deliberations of the Assembly upon the principal objects which employed the attention of Parliament during the period of their labors.

This is not now part of mine. In addressing your Excellency, in as much as there has been enact passed, or judgement of Parliament obtained on the part of Her Majesty's faithful commons.

It is not from any want of respect to yourself, or the august person whom you represent, that no answer has been returned by the Legislative assembly to your gracious speech from the Throne,

After the Speaker had done reading, Lord Elgin then read the speech proroguing the Parliament.

LONDON, FRIDAY, JULY 7, 1854

THE ELECTIONS.

Here we enjoy queer combinations! Preparations for our Provincial show, for the harvest and our political rights and liberties. No doubt the warmth of the weather will tend considerably to keep up considerably the political temperature. We may well pause and ask our readers what dire necessity existed to take the farmers from their important occupations at this period of the year! When did the ministry discover that the Parliament who had hitherto been so subservient to their wishes, and who were especially returned to carry out those great measures of reform par excellence so lavishly promised had ceased to represent their several constituencies. Did the transatlantic trip of Lord Elgin and Mr Hincks enable them to ascertain that there was something rotten in the state of Denmark and was the secret embassy to Washington, and the vaunted declaration of the Government Press, "Free trade with the States" intended no doubt to secure his Excellency a public entry into Montreal and Quebec, part of the system to obtain a "long day" which can also be discernable from his Excellency's dissolving speech. "When I met you at the commencement of the present session I expressed a hope that you would proceed without delay to pass such a law in reference to the period appointed for introducing the Amended Franchise Bill, as would have enabled me to bring at once into operation those important measures affecting the Representation of the people in Parliament which were adopted by you with such singular unanimity last session. Having been disappointed in the expectation &c. &c." Well it seems rather strange that immediately before the message of his Excellency was delivered to the speaker Sir Allan McNab on the part of the Conservative members present offered to assist in bringing this very Franchise act into immediate operation.—Here we find his Excellency guilty of either uttering a deliberate falsehood, or else being grossly ignorant of what every one in Quebec was perfectly cognizant of. If delay had not been the object of our Canadian ministry we opine that this hitherto pliant Provincial Parliament could not have been so summary dissolved. A Parliament called especially to reform the then existing state of things. A Parliament who passed the increased Representation Bill, the increased Franchise Act, and other measures denominated Reform.

But for certain ominous signs we cannot forget that this Rarliament is only now for the first time to be a mere sufferance assembly. We cannot forget that this shade of a Parliament had submitted to it the great question agitating the Eastern Province that of the seigniorial tenure question and that this ignorant and incompetent body passed this bill which was subsequently rejected by the Upper House. The audacity and mendacious position occupied by the ministerial press is too gross to pass without comment. We give elsewhere the condensed scene in the House, and the most impartial reader will see how little blame is to be attached to the Tories they even through their Sir Allan offered to pass the act at once, to bring these 100,000 new electors into the field, but such a course would not suit our corrupt ministry, men who like itinerant pedlers of damaged goods went about to unburthen their guilty consciences last fall through the country, at the different banquets, and well exemplified the old adage, "When rogues fall out, honest men come by their own" by their abuse of each other, men who perpetually parade the magic word Reform.

Certainly we admit there is generally cause for rejoicing over a reformed rake, a reformed drunkard or any other reformed character, and the country now demand reformed politicians, a reformed ministry, the country are now beginning to understand the difference between premises and acts.

These vaunted and lofty promises of roads, bridges, Railways Harbors, local acts recklessly promised on the eve of an election ARE PROMISES and remain as promises only.

Possession is said to be nine parts in the law. The possession of the seat by those self stiled reformers is the only possession required by them to forget all their promises so lately given for a purpose. We regret to say those who unjustly assume the appellation of Reformers, generally do so from the vast extent of that undefined term reform.

They can shelter themselves so easily under some branch of the reform tree; but we intreat our readers to make these dissemblers define what they are and at once say what measures they call reform and how they purpose to carry them out.

We like honest men of every shade of politics but we equally despise the dishonest. If an aspirant for parliamentary honors has not brains to have an opinion of his own, the constituency who elect him return as it were the party of which he is a miserable slave. On the other hand he may be a clever designing man who studying the varied hues of his supporters, may ably play one class off against another, but we cannot see what very fine distinction can be drawn so as to justify political lying and condemn in the various transitions of life, how a man who in other respects and other situations is generally deemed respectable, may have a political character apart from his other, so bad that nobody will believe him. No we believe there can be honest men in a classes of life, and, we believe, the time has come when the political aspirants for parliamentary honors who tells the truth will be sought out and respected, the days of shuffling, duplicity and treachery are numbered. The honest men who hitherto classed themselves under the reform banner have retired in disgust from their associates and we believe notwithstanding the vaunting of the ministerial press the time has come when the country, through her new Representatives will exclaim eo her present ministers, "Get you gone you pack of knaves and give place to honester men!"

THE ELECTIONS.

From the amount of other matter already set up, we are unable to dwell at any length upon the merits of the several candidates now seeking the representation of London. Mr. Wilson who has been named by the Radical party as their candidate appears from his address anxious to receive suggestions as to what more he may be required to promise he appears quite willing to be every man's man, and to swallow every pill that each political Quack may think proper to administer. We hope in our next to afford Mr. Wilson an opportunity of disproving some rather queer proceedings alledged against him by some of the town officials respecting his taxes. In the mean time we hope he has refunded to his tenants the taxes they paid, and, which never came out of his pocket.

As to Mr. Dixon's address it is manly and straightforward, his past conduct is a far better guarantee of his future than that of his opponent. We concede to our contemporary the Free Press one of the many qualifications he ascribes to Mr. Wilson "Energy" and that one only.

We do not believe a man can change his colors as he does his dress. The Writ we believe has not yet come for the town, and therefore we shall have other opportunities of recurring to the subject, in the mean time, we assure our readers, that, Mr. Dixon's canvass has been most successful; we are engaged in no ordinary contest, and therefore every conservative must act with energy and perseverance, and no exertion must be spared until victory has crowned our efforts. Mr. Hincks we are happy to say will be opposed in Renfrew by Mr. McDonald of Kingston, and in the south riding of Oxford by Mr. Carroll, an old Reformer, and Mr. Miller a Conservative.

We take from our contemporary the British Canadian the following extract, viz:—

"But the Clergy Reserves do not produce now £50,000 annually or anything like it.—We have the account of the year 1853 before us, and we find the sum applicable for religious purposes in that year was £21,396 5s 6d only, and if the whole of this were available for division under the bill submitted by the ministers for the approval of the people, it would give to each individual the annual sum of two pence half penny, and to each tax payer an annual relief of two pence half penny for each twenty shillings of taxes payable by him. Again we ask is not this a great temptation to the crime of sacrilege?"

We now ask the secularizers whether agitation is deemed dear or cheap at two pence half penny to every tax-payer, but behind the scenes we may uncover something else by throwing in to the ministerial market two provincial funds, and more land. More provincial robbery may be practised, more Point Levi jobs may instigate Mr. Hincks philantrophically to become the purchaser of trust property, in order to prevent any loss to the province by its being sold under value. Though the overplus would enrich only the firm of Hincks & Co., who of course reconcile the discrepancy by considering themselves and Canada as one, and the same.

THE EAST RIDING OF MIDDLESEX.

The Sheriff has appointed the 15th for the Nomination. This issue contains the address of Wm. Horton, a gentleman whose politics have never wavered, who for years has resided amongst you, and whom the conservative delegates of all the townships gave the unanimous nomination to.

Whether the system of nomination by Delegates as here, or coming out on a requisition as in the old country be the best we shall not now determine, but the system of Delegates being the one universally followed here, should be fairly and energetically carried out. We have heard objections raised to Mr. Horton as being a lawyer. Such an objection raised now comes from an enemy. If the delegates had been instructed no lawyer will be taken, then, indeed, we might say there was a violation of their trust. Or if the proceedings of that delegation had been then objectionable, it should have been at once set aside, but having been acquiesced in so far, none but a traitor to his cause would now try to upset it. The Parliament will be a short one, the extended franchise comes into operation the first of the new year 100,000 electors will not be long left unrepresented, then, if a general feeling exists against lawyers, why there will be an opportunity to select a representative from another profession or class. We cannot believe that any true conservatives will hold back. Neither fear, favor, or affection should influence a vote. A great principle is involved you are called on to exercise a sacred trust for the good of your country.

No ties of relationship, no bond of Neighborhood, no obligation should induce you to record your vote for any man but he whose principles are Conservative. The present is one of the most eventful elections that has taken place in the province for years. An unprincipled faction under the pretence of reforming abuses have usurped the reigns of government, and their leader has ruled with an iron despotism, professing reform they have given you with 100,000 inhabitants more than the lower province the same number of representatives, when all true reformers knew that representation should be according to population. They could as readily have brought the representative bill into question the 1st of May last, as the 1st of January next, but that would have deprived them of the power of annoying the conservative farmers of the country, by taking twice within the year from their important farming operations; but what do they care, trifles do not restrain them in their onward course. Men who can put a deliberate falsehood in the mouth of her Majesty's representative, by assigning as his reason for dissolving the last Parliament "that they refused to sanction certain bills" but Sir Allan McNab, the evening before in the House offered on the part of the Conservatives to pass. These daring unprincipled jobbers whom every independent reform journal have repudiated have now appealed to the Country Conservatives of the East riding. Do your duty, let your watchword be Horton and No Surrender!! No holding back, no lukewarmness will answer, energetic means must be taken and a long pull, a strong pull and a pull altogether will carry the day.

REV. WM. POLLARD.

This gentlemen, after seven years ministry in Loondon, amongst the Wesleyan Methodists has been removed to Quebec. His unobtrusive manner, indefatigable pursuit of his calling and bearing as a minister of the gospel, obtained for him while here the universal good wishes of all denominations, and we have no doubt his worth will soon be appreciated an engst his new congregation and we wish him every success.

Adjourned.

MR. FERGUSON.

The citizens of London enjoyed a rich musical treat on Tuesday evening last. The Mechanic's Institute would have been much more crowded but for the inclemency of the weather Mr. Fergusson who played with such effect on the Irish Union Pipes several popular tunes, was assisted at intervals between the instrumental music by Captain Purdon who entertained the audience with several excellent songs, such as Anna Laurie, encored My own Country, encored, Happy Land, The Cork Leg, and another sometime sung the English gentleman, and Mr. Fergusson also excited considerable applause when singing the Man That Could'nt Get Warm, Widow McCree, &c, &c.,

God Save The Queen was then sung by Capt. Purdone, the audience all standing up when the assembly broke up, evidently well pleased with the evenings amusement.

To the Editor of the Times.

SIR,

On Tuesday the 4th instant a Conservative Convention was held at Strathroy to nominate a candidate in that interest to represent the West Riding of Middlesex. It was expected that each of the townships within the Riding would have been represented, but there were only three represented. Mr. Bryy was called to the chair, when T. C. Dixon, Esq., addressed the meeting, and explained how unconstitutionally and ignominously the Representatives of the people had been sent home, without being allowed to transact any business.

Capt. Wilson late Barrack Master of London being called on to express his political views at once came forward, and having made some appropriate remarks on the system of ministerial jobbing which arrived at such perfection previous to the dissolution, proceeded to explain his views on all the political questions now agitating the Province.

Mr. Keefer was next called upon, but, having so recently delivered his opinions at a former meeting, did not deem it necessary again to do so, but suggested as two Conservative candidates were in the field (Captain Wilson and himself) that a committee should there be formed to invite each township, to send delegates to a meeting to be held again at Strathroy on the 11th instant, for the purpose of selecting a fit and proper person as a conservative candidate to represent the West Riding which resolution being passed, and a vote of thanks to the chairman the meeting adjourned.

Yours truly
AN ELECTOR.

MADAME SONTAG.—Madame Sontag is dead. She was attacked by cholera while on the road from Mexico to Vera Cruz where she was to embark for the United States, and died on the 16th of this month.—New York Tribune.

ORR.—The 'Angel Gabriel' who was lately reported to have been shot, addressed a large meeting in Laurence, (Mass.) on Friday, and succeeded in gulling some people out of $46.

TO THE CONSERVATIVE ELECTORS
Of the East Riding of Middlesex.

GENTLEMEN:

The Present Ministry having long since lost the confidence of the country, have at last been condemned and defeated in their place in Parliament; they still however refuse to deliver up the Seals of Office as required by constitutional usage and the principles of Responsible Government by which they profess to be guided.

Parliament was dissolved on the 23rd of June last, Writs were that day issued for a general election, and you will be called upon in the course of a few days to elect a fit and proper person to represent your interests in the next provincial Parliament, under the new act for extending the Representation of the country.

In the month of March last you did me the honor through a convention chosen by yourselves of nominating me as a Conservative candidate for this Riding: I feel grateful for the honor intended me, and for the confidence implied by your choice I accept the nomination, and shall, if elected, endeavour to justify to some extent at least the good opinion which your partiality has extended to me, and I trust I shall ever be found true to the Conservative principle which have generally been advocated by the party to which I profess to belong. The first of these principles is—Loyalty to the Queen and British Connexion.

I shall devote myself to the difficult task of checking the wholesale system of jobbing so prevalent in high quarters, and so injurious to public morality and the best interests of all classes of society, and I shall assist in the investigation and exposure of many and grave charges, in these respects, to which the Ministry appear to have subjected themselves.

I shall urge the immediate and final settlement of the Clergy Reserves upon fair and equitable principles, having due regard for the various religious bodies at present interested in their distribution.

I shall advocate the extension of Railroads throughout the province, as essential to our agricultural and commercial interests and as opening up and developing the resources of the country, and I shall assist in advancing every measure which I may consider the interest of the Province requires, without regard to the party from which such measure may originate.

The present Assessment Law is in my opinion defective, and imposes too heavy a tax upon the Agricultural and other industrial classes, whilst others are enabled to avoid payment almost altogether. I should give my best attention to the alteration of this Act, so as to make its provisions less burdensome to the classes specified.

I shall have the honor of meeting you at the Hustings, and will then enter more fully into the questions now before the country.

WM. HORTON.

To the Independant Electors of the TOWN OF LONDON.

GENTLEMEN,—The recent action of the Government in suddenly dissolving the House of Assembly, at a most inconvenient season, and in a manner wholly unconstitutional, and without precedent in Parliamentary history, since the days of Oliver Cromwell and notwithstanding the offer made by the opposition, in the true spirit of honorable British Legislation, to pass the new Franchise Law, and other measures essential to sustain the constitutional government of the country, renders it necessary that you should again exercise your important privilege of electing your representative for the new parliament.

The members of the late House who endeavored to the last, to withstand the ministerial dictation which required them to do the bidding of the government, what be it ration or delay, and who have try so doing upheld the liberties of a British Parliament, and the rights of British freemen, need not certainly be ashamed, once more to appear before their constituents. Accordingly, having been honored with your confidence, I feel happy of again appealing to my fellow townsmen, upon a matter of such vital importance to the future liberties of them selves and their children. And I feel encouraged the more to make this appeal, since I have again received the invitation of the Conservative electors at this Town, unanimously expressed at a meeting held for that purpose, to offer myself to be put in nomination as their candidate—and, consequently I cheerfully responded to their call.

After the many years during which you have had an opportunity of knowing and testing my political opinions it would be tedious, and I conceive useless to att

That this Joint Meeting of the London Grammar and Common School Board of Trustees having fully discussed the subject of an almagamation of the two Boards, as provided for by the Grammar School Act, XVI Vic., Cap., 186, is of opinion that such a measure would be exceedingly beneficial to the educational interests of both town and country, if it can be carried out on equitable and satisfactory terms, as to joint property, and annual income, and that a committee be appointed to draw up a plan of union, to be submitted to a future meeting similar to the present. No. 1, Containing 105 Acres Principally clay Loom, 75 Acres of which are cleared, well fenced and in a high state of cultivation, a never-failing spring of water running through it, and on this lot is the Homestead, commanding a fine view of the River Thames, and the most picturesque scenery around, the Frame Dwelling House is commodious, well adapted for a large family, no expense being spared in fitting it up with every convenience—the spacious Dining Room panelled with Black Walnut, large Sitting Rooms, five good Bed Rooms, Kitchen, Pantry, &c.,—two large Frame Barns, a Shed, 80 x 16 feet long, and good stables capital Garden and Orchard, two wells of excellent water, the whole replete with every requisite of a farm.

A CAPITAL DISTILLERY

Frame Store, Shed, Granary, Dwelling House and Barn. This is a very valuable property, a large amount of business can be carried on, its nearness to the Railroad by means of the Gravelled Roads recently made to it, brings this property within one hours transit to London. It offers a very rare chance for a limited capital. A vast increase in the value of this property may with certainty be calculated upon.

Lot 5, forms the other part of the lot, containing 50 Acres, 20 acres of which are cleared. The whole of this valuable estate is well deserving the attention of parties purchasing Farms, &c. The splendid situation of this property for farming purposes, so near to the Great Western Railway Station, and upon good roads, and surrounded with the most beautiful scenery of Western Canada, strongly recommends itself to the immediate notice of parties desirous of purchasing property that must double and treble its present value in a very short time, the increase in the value of London, Londonites in the value of property in Delaware and its neighbourhood, will justify this conclusion. This is a rare chance and not to be lost sight of by parties seeking farms and without delay should be inspected. The crops will be reserved. Possession given after harvest.

PIANOS,
Music, and Musical Merchandise.
HERMAN KORDES,

HAving just returned to London, would most respectfully intimate to his patrons, friends, and the gentry in general that he has now on the way a very choice selection of Pianos, Melodeons, Music and Musical Merchandise.

all of which will be ready for inspection in three or four days. With the stock now on hand he will have then some Sixteen Pianos from the Factories of Chickering, Stodart, Dunham, Bacon, and Raven, comprising 6 Octave, Square and Round, to 7 Octaves Square and Round. Also 3 Octaves of Chickering and Stodart, which are so constructed under the name of

"LOUIS THE 14th."

Carved, round in front and back, and carved legs, very beautiful and superior Pianos indeed. Not a piano enters the established limit of Mr. K., but is selected, tried, and found warrantable and good by musicians, and Mr. K., prides himself of being considered by the community at large a very efficient judge in those matters.

For some two years Mr. K. has worked hard to have a Music Establishment in London, which was found on such a basis and conducted in such a manner and on such principles that, FROM THE FIRST BEGINNING, it evidently was a credit to the Town, as to the proprietor. With the increasing prosperity of the town and country, the establishment has increased and prospered, and Mr. K. is most happy in saying that, at this moment, he can command, in the supply of pianos alone, to the amount of some £5,000.

In the last two years Mr. K. has sold some SIXTY new pianos in London and surrounding parts, each now piano fully warranted, which gives the purchaser a perfect right to return the instrument if it does not give entire satisfaction. Chickering's, Stodart's and Dunham's pianos have been sold, not only here but over the whole province for the last 20 years, are thoroughly known and unanimously acknowledged to be the very best as regards quality of tone, keeping in tune and durability. Take a Chickering, Stodart and Dunham piano which has been used and much used, for the last 12 years, and it produces a better, fuller and clearer tone than can be found in the instrument of almost any other maker which has been used for perhaps 2 years. It is surprising, but nevertheless true, that a Stodart piano for instance, improves the more the more it is used. It must of course be used as efully and properly. The character and reputation of these pianos being fully established, is the reason why Mr. K. almost exclusively confines himself to these makers; he has occasions to sell to patrons such pianos in which he has entire confidence. He did not open such an establishment for the purpose of selling 10 or 12 pianos of obscure makers, picked up we one knows where, nor caring what the result might be as long as there was a surplus of a certain amount of pounds shillings and pence, his store was opened with the firm resolution to have the best possible pianos, to sell them at as low a price as they can be had at the factory, duty included, to show liberality to the utmost extent in order to assist patrons in the purchase of such an article, and by the carrying out of this resolution to be enabled to go on increasing and extending in accordance with the demands of the town and and surrounding parts,

The Melodeons which are used in Mr. K's. establishment are manufactured by Prince & Co., in Buffalo, and are so favorably known that they require no comment on his hands. He would only say that patrons purchasing from him are a trifle in doing so.

His stock of Music is likewise selected by himself, comprising all the newest in that branch, and will be very large indeed. Regarding musical merchandize, Brass instruments, Clarinets, Flutes, Fife, Guitars, Banjos, Flutes, Accordeons, Tambourins, Rosin, Violin strings, Guitar, and Violincello strings, Tad pieces, Bridges, Tuning Forks, Tuning Hammers, Bass drums, Snare drums, &c. In fact every thing in that department is also selected by himself and will give satisfaction Also instruction books for every kind of instrument, Glee books, Leaners and Carhart's Melodeon books, &c. Also Sacred Music books, comprising all the best and newest in that line. Piano covers, both cloth and Indiarubber, Piano stools &c., &c.

Mr. K. begs his patrons and friends to accept his warmest and sincerest thanks for their kindness and patronage extended to him, as well in his profession as teacher, as also to his Music establishment, and respectfully hopes a continuance of the same. He is determined and fully able, under such patronage, to bring his music establishment to as high a state of perfection, and reputation as his friends and the public generally can desire.

Honesty, integrity, liberality and persevering industry are Mr. K's. principles.

Whereas it is expedient and necessary to raise by way of loan on the credit of the Town of London, a sum of money to pay for certain improvements now commenced in the Town of London, that is to say in the completion of the Town Hall and certain main sewers in the said Town—and for the making, grading, gravel ing, and repairing of certain streets in the Town of London as recommended by the committee of the Town Council on improvements of streets for the year A. D. 1854.

And Whereas the cost of the completion of the Town Hall and Sewers is estimated at £8,000 and the cost of making, grading gravelling and repairing the said streets is estimated at £10,000 making in all the sum of £18,000.

And it will require the sum of £1080 to be raised annually to pay the interest on the Debentures of the Upper Canada Municipal Corporations Act of 1850 as a special rate for the payment of such loans and interest as the same shall become payable according to this By-Law.

And whereas the whole rateable property of the Town of London for the year A. D. 1853 was £46,317 13 4; and the annual rate in the pound required as a special rate for the payment of the interest on the principal of a loan of £18,000 is 5½d on the pound.

SECOND

That it shall be lawful for the Mayor to cause or direct any number of Debentures to be made out for such sum or sums of money not exceeding £18,000 as any person or persons, body corporate or politic shall agree to advance on the credit of such Debentures and the special rate hereinafter imposed and to cause the same to be under the common seal of the said Town signed by the Mayor and Treasurer and made out in such manner and form as the Mayor shall think fit provided always that no debenture shall be for a less sum than £25.

THIRD.

That the interest on such Debentures shall be payable half yearly at the office of the Treasurer of the Town of London on the second day of April and the second day of October in each year after this By-Law shall come into operation and the principal shall be payable at the said office within twenty years from the time appointed for this By-Law to take effect (exclusive of the first and last days of such period.)

FOURTH

That a special rate of 9d on the pound on the assessed value of all rateable property in the town of London over and above all other rates and taxes shall be raised levied and collected annually from and after the 1st day of May 1854 for twenty years inclusive for the purpose of paying the said sum of £1080 annually for the purpose aforesaid.

FIFTH.

That this By-Law shall take effect on the second day of October, A. D. 1854.

NOTICE.

The above is a true copy of a proposed By-Law to be taken into consideration by the Municipality of the Town of London in the County of Middlesex at the Foremans Hall on King Street in said town on second day of October, A. STEWART'S
EMPORIUM OF FASHIONS!
CASH SYSTEM
25 per cent. Cheaper than the Credit System.

IT is a well known fact that those giving credit (especially in the Tailoring line) are obliged, in order to make their business pay, to charge the well-meaning and good-paying customer with the garments of those who dress well, but never pay.

In order to prevent this injustice being practised on the honest and good-paying customer, the subscriber has adopted the Cash System. He will assure his customers that they will only have to pay for their own garments, and that at the rate of 25 per cent. less than formerly charged under the credit system.

His stock will be found to consist of the latest and best materials of Home and Foreign Manufacture, consisting in part of

WEST OF ENGLAND BROAD-CLOTHS
FRENCH GOODS,
SCOTCH TWEEDS,

and a splendid assortment of Silk, Satin and Fancy Vestings, Silk Handkerchiefs, Ties, Gloves of various materials and colors, Shirts, &c., which he is now prepared to sell and make up to order in the latest and most approved English, French or American Styles, to suit customers, at a very small advance on cost (for cash.)

He has just received the latest fashions from Europe and America, and will continue to receive monthly the very latest styles. He earnestly invites his numerous customers and the public in general to give him a call as early as possible. His workmen will be, as usual of the first class. The cutting will be done entirely by himself. Ladies' habits will receive his particular attention.

The great popularity which Moffat's Life Pills and Phœnix Bitters have attained in consequence of their extraordinary cures effected by their use, renders it unnecessary for the proprietor to enter into a particular analysis of their medicinal virtues or properties. Having been more than twenty years before the public, and having the united testimony of more than Three Millions of persons who have been restored to the enjoyment of perfect health by them it is believed that their reputation as the best Sy stabic medicine now before the public admits of no dispute, to almost every city and village in the United States there are many who are ready to testify to their efficacy in removing disease, and giving to the whole system renewed vigor and health.

In cases of Scrofula Ulcers, Scurvy or Eruptions of the skin, the operation of the Life Medicines is truly astonishing often removing in a few days every vestige of those loathsome diseases by their healing effects on the b l. Fever and Ague, Dyspepsia, Dropsy, Piles, and in short most all diseases, arising from impure blood or deranged stomach properties. No family should be without them as by their timely use much suffering and expense may be saved.

LONDON AGENCY.

MR. ALEXANDER MACDONALD, Agent.

THE Subscriber having been appointed agent for the above Company, for the Town of London and surrounding country, begs to inform the public that he is prepared to receive orders for insurance on the most favorable terms.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Fire Insurances will be effected at moderate rates of premium. Persons insured in this Company are not subject to be called on to make good losses which may happen to the insolvent or others—nor do they depend upon an uncertain fund of contribution—the capital stock of this Company being an unquestionable security to the insured in cases of loss or damage by fire. The company will not unnecessarily peril life by a proviso in the policy in case of claims. The liberal settlement of losses incurred by the great fire at Montreal in 1852—has practically shown to the inhabitants of British America the character which this company has ever manifested throughout the whole world under this head. It will only be necessary to add that the Agent of London can with confidence recommend to the public that they may feel assured that every legitimate claim will be immediately settled without reference to England.

LIFE DEPARTMENT.

Life risks taken on favorable terms. The important advantages allowed by the company in this branch, will include the following, viz:

Guarantee of an ample capital, moderate premiums, large participations of profits by the assured—amounting to two-thirds of its net amount—small charge for management—the expenses of the office being borne in due proportion by two branches, and exemption of the assured from the liability of partnership.

Additional advantages offered to Lives Assured with this company in Canada.

1. RESIDENCE.

Persons assured for the whole term of life will have permission without the payment of any extra premiums, to reside in any part of Europe, or in any place in North America to the North of 45 degrees of North latitude, but not to the westward of the Mississippi River.

They will also be allowed, without any extra charge, to cross and re-cross the Atlantic ocean in steamers or first class sailing vessels. To pass from any part of Europe to another—or from any part of North America to another, within the limits above specified, also to pass to and from, but not to reside in any place which shall not be further south than 35 degrees of North latitude, but not to the westward of the Mississippi River.

Further information, regarding the standing of the above Company may be obtained at the Agent's office, Dundas Street, where fire and life Assurances may be effected.

HIVATO CHINESE BALSAM.

Cures Sore Throats, Sore mouth, Colds, Choke Pains &c;

Mr. SWEET—This is to certify that I have used one of your Chinese Balsams on my family, which has done them much good. I have first used it in a case of scarlet Fever, and as soon as the child was taken, I applied the balsam on the throat and it checked a sore immediately—and as we have found it in a number of instances, I am satisfied that it is an infallible remedy. It is certainly the best thing I ever used in my family! Therefore I consider it a very valuable medicine.

Respectfully yours,

It has performed more wonderful cures in this country than any other external application. Cures all scalded horses. Rheumatism, sore feet, Insects and many other diseases none is heir to.

Try it; you will not regret it.

TO. W. C. SWEET.

DEAR SIR.—A sense of duty impels me to forward to you the following certificate:

For the last eight years I have been troubled with a Ulcerated Tumor, close to the rectum—and consulted Physicians and used local remedies but was in vain—except by the knife—and they would have charged me a high price.

I was about to employ one when I noticed your pamphlet containing your Balsam and Oil—and I concluded to try it. I followed your directions accurately—and in about three weeks was entirely cured. This is now about four years since, and I consider it to be a permanent cure.

I thoroughly certify that I was personally acquainted with Mr. Perry, and according to the facts of the above disease and cure.

THE UNEQUALLED MEDICINE

It is an infallible Remedy for Pulmonic Complaints, such as Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Asthma, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Wind Gatherings, Rheumatism, Colics and Cramps, Sudden Attacks, Sore Breasts, Nervousness, Pains in the Side, Loins, Back, Kidneys, Weakness, Lowness of Spirits, Languor, Lassitude, Dimness of Sight, Headache, Pains and Aches, Pains in Limbs, Hoarseness, Burns and Scalds, Rheumatism in Cattle, Hoof-and-Mouth Disease, &c.

WARRANTED IN ALL REASONABLE CASES.

Facts are stubborn things. The medicine is not supposed by any one to cure for the sake of humbug. It has only to prove itself to be worthy of public confidence, and it will receive it. Sweet's Family Curative Liniment, and Hivato Chinese Balsam, are two remedies that are now receiving the confidence of the public, and we pledge ourselves that if one bottle does not benefit, two will not, and if two do not, three will not

THE ELECTIONS OF 1851 AND 1852.

In 1851, the Upper Canada Reformers returned only a bare majority of two. The result, however, did not fairly show the strength of the two parties.

The Reformers lost some of their best counties through division, as Middlesex, for example. The unfair distribution of the Representation was the main cause of the smallness of the Reform majority.

This, and the division that existed in Reform constituencies, explain the meagerness of the liberal majority in Upper Canada, If we take the population of the several constituencies which returned Reformers contain a large aggregate majority of the population. Here are the figures.

Constituencies that returned Reformers.

It appears by the above figures that the constituencies which, at the last election returned Reformers contained an aggregate majority of the population of over 65,000.

The Times correspondent in Finland writes:—

"In a day or two it is probable that a portion of the Baltic fleet will proceed up the Gulf of Finland as far as the Island of Hogland, and make a demonstration off Cronstadt. There is no prospect, however, of any active operations being undertaken; as, from accounts received yesterday from England, and from persons in a position to afford some accurate information, it is inferred that there is a great probability of peace being proclaimed before the winter season sets in, and that the allied fleets will return to their respective countries before the end of the present year, without having been compelled to resort to any hostilities of importance."

RISE IN THE PRICE OF ENGLISH NEWSPAPERS.

In consequence of the rise in the price of paper in England, there is a general movement on the part of the newspaper proprietors to meet the additional expense, by increasing the price of their journals.

In Glasgow, the price of all the papers have been increased a penny, and the Birmingham Journal has just made a similar increase in England, which will, no doubt, be extensively followed.

LONDON, FRIDAY, JULY 14, 1854

THE ELECTIONS.

Our prospects here are very fair. All we want is unanimity and activity for complete success. As to the former—unanimity—we are all right. Dixon and Horton are the men! Any attempt to divide our interests would be frowned upon. No respectable party would allow himself to be put in nomination to the manifest injury of the cause. As to activity, if conservatives are not now on the alert they never will be. There never was, and never can be a time when such deep rooted and wide spread corruption prevailed in our parliament as at the present. The men who are now unblushingly coming forward again for the suffrages on the reform side, have sold themselves to the French; have broken their most solemn pledges; have subjected us to a Franchise measure which will give Lower Canada forever the advantage over us and stand in the way of our enterprise; have used their offices for their own personal advantage; have shamefully neglected the business of the country; have created unnecessary offices; have duped the Province in railroad matters; have perpetrated the most shameful jobs, and have deceived the country for years upon matters which they have declared to be most essential in their settlement to the happiness and prosperity of the province namely the Rectories and the Clergy Reserves and give proof by their latest acts that they intend still to please the French and to enable them to pocket the peoples cash to keep these important measures still unsettled, and to merely employ them as bugbears to excite the country, and as a hobby horse to ride into power, Electors of Middlesex! thousands of pounds of the peoples cash have been spent in useless debates upon these reserves and yet these men who impudently style themselves reformers have never lifted a finger to settle this vexed question. Can you sanction such abominable conduct? Can you be a party, either by supineness on the one hand, or by voting for them on the other to returning those idle drones who have fattened upon the hard earnings of the industrial classes, to their former power? Can Roman Catholics vote for men who pretend to be their faithful allies, yet who are as a Roman Catholic member styled them Pharisee brawlers watching like spiders in their webs to ruin the property of the Roman Catholic Church upon the first opportunity? Can protestants vote for a set of men who allowed a rabid mob to shoot down their fellow citizens, and the soldiers to butcher them in cool blood, simply because they were protestants and were enjoying their constitutional rights Can moderate Reformers vote for Hincks, Rolph and their confreres, men who have betrayed their confidence and deeply injured their cause! How then can conservatives be otherwise than active! Let but the public consider calmly the true state of things, and the inconsistent partizans of Hincks and his disreputable confreres, will be placed, at least in a miserable minority. ☞ Vote for Dixon and Horton!!!

T. C. DIXON.

We congratulate the Town of London upon the early appearance of this gentleman for their suffrages. He has been tried and found to be just the man we want. Firm as a rock; enterprising, industrious, always at his post; intimately acquainted with our wants and anxious to supply them; an old resident, identified with our general prosperity, thoroughly practical and comprehensive in his views. He is evidently the peoples man; and His vigorous and straightforward address must give great satisfaction. The rads have no chance of success against him. His friends, however must be active, lay down their plans for operation immediately and energetically carry them out. Let every Ward be immediately canvassed, and the people be furnished with information relative to the base conduct of the opposite party.

W.M. HORTON.

The Rads are all consternation respecting this gentleman, knowing that his straightforward manly conduct, which is almost proverbial must have great weight with the Riding. His worst political enemies cannot accuse him of any inconsistent act hence they represent him as too high a tory. Let not the electors be deceived on this point. Look at his address and consider the character of the man, and remember that this document is not got up to deceive, but that he will perform his promises! The reforms which are needed for our country are not to be carried out by Radicals who promise without due consideration; but by such men as Mr. Horton who consider what can be constitutionally done and what they are prepared themselves to do and who pledge themselves for their accomplishment as men of veracity, Mr. Horton is a practical moral conservative, who will do if placed in power, more than a dozen of those toady's can, who, as party men, calculate to fatten in the sunshine of state patronage. ☞ Let the address be circulated far and wide; ferret out the slanders of the state agents and expose them at once. The people will vote for Horton if they know his principles, and if his friends defend him.

THE LAST ACT.

The last scene presented to the Canadian public in the House, was the most indecent of all the exhibitions of the Hincks's Rolph government. For certain reasons it was deemed expedient by those calculating, chisilling gentlemen, to hurry on soon a dissolution and a new election; and to carry out their whim, they trampled upon the constitution, and dispensed with the session due to the country! The law is, that within a year from the close of the past session, another shall be held, yet these selfish demagogues held on to their emoluments with a death like grasp to the utmost limit of the prescribed period; then called by their accomplice, my Lord Elgin, the Parliament together; but instead of proceeding to discharge the peoples business, coolly advised a prorogation, which was followed immediately by a dissolution. Little cared the ministry about the business of the country; the convenience of the gentlemen comprising the Lower House, or all previous example and precedent. Selfishness has been predominant in all their previous acts, and pure selfishness was exhibited in the last moments of the late parliament in a most shameful manner. They have come suddenly upon the country in order to take the constituents by surprise; but the ruse will not take. The people of Canada will indignantly reject the whole pack of them at the polls, and their last Cromwelian act will tell mightily against them.

JOHN WILSON.

This gentleman of London Loose Fish notoriety, has the hardihood to again appear before the people of London for their suffrages. His prospects are very slim it is true, but then his vanity is great and the trial will not, probably, cost him much, for he has the Hincks Rolph influence at his back. His easy going principles enabled him to "jump Jim Crow" from Toryism to Radicalism, and to sell himself for anticipated messes of pottage, body and bones, to the French party, and to Inspector General Hincks No doubt state influence and state cash will be freely used in his behalf; but independent Reformers even, will not be found so venal, as to tender him their support. He has been weighed in scales and found wanting. A mere office seeker—a loose fish of the first water—a tool of the most corrupt ministry that Canada ever saw, the main body of the Reformers cannot vote for this slippery special pleader; especially, when one of their most worthy, enterprising, and consistent townsmen offers his services to them in the person of T. C. Dixon. Queries—what has John Wilson ever done to ensure election? Has his unworthy act of turning his coat done it? Has his independence as a member done it? Has his remarkable enterprise done it? Has his present sickly address to the electors done it? Those who wish to favor tyranny; useless taxation; corruption; complete submission to the French and ill disguised humbug, will vote for Wilson; the independent, intelligent, and progressive parties of the Reformers, it is to be believed, will shrink from giving countenance to John Wilson the passive tool of Hincks, Rolph, and Cameron.

WHY SHOULD THE HINCKS PARTY BE SUPPORTED.

Every intelligent voter should understand fully the claims which the candidates for office has upon him for his support both personally and as a party man What then are the claims of the man and the party who are now before the Reform constituents of this part of the Province? The personal claims are small indeed! What good then have their party done to deserve election? Have they countenanced loyalty. Look at the Rebel indemnification Bill. Have they practised economy. Look at their Jury Law, their Mounted Police, their perambulating government, their Custom House regulation making inland villages ports of entry their conduct in judicial matters, their parliamentary extravagance raising the wages of their friends, and creating new and useless offices. Their annual pay to hireling editors, look at their total rejection of retrenchment, their railroad trips to England and reciprocity journies to Washington, Look at their recklessness in reference to the Reserves and Rectories having sadded the province with the cost of an expensive English Chancery suit agreeing to pay all on both sides! Have they exhibited consistency? They were pledged to secularize the Reserves; but they have never turned a straw to do so, and it is the opinion of candid people that they have agreed with the French that they never shall be secularized! They have promised to seek the good of the Upper province, yet they have put us forever under the dominion of the Lower Canadian French. Have they passed an enlightened policy? They have not passed a single beneficial measure but what has been forced upon them and such as the country must have had done under any administration whatever. Have they exhibited self denial, There never was such systematic jobbing known in Canada, as these desperate adventurers have carried on from the turnpike road affairs to the £10,000 Job, and the Grand Trunk trickery. In short the remarks of William Lyon McKenzie as printed in his message are strictly correct. The (present reform) government is more systematically wicked, and corruption more barefaced than even when Durham and Sydenham turned from it with disgust." What a picture is this, drawn by one of the most thorough and undoubted reformers in Canada!! On what grounds then can a consistent loyal man, vote for Hinck's government.

ELECTIONS.

Though we are indebted to some of our conservative friends for several communications relative to the present elections, we must, however, add a few remarks of our own on that of the town of London. The nomination is fixed for the 19th and in our next we hope to give the speeches In the mean time we would urgently ask the electors whether they intend to support a man whose politics have always been the same, and who steadily adheres to what he promises; or, are they prepared to select one whose politics are as changeable as the seasons. We cannot but despise the politician, who, to catch a few votes, will promise any thing, even the most contrary, one to the other; who will have a public and a private conscience, when shall such noxious weeds be eradicated from the political platform. Mr. Wilson (one of the Candidates) at the last election stated that he was as good a conservative as Mr. Dixon, it did not suit him then to avow his secularizing views, if he had them, but it is well known Mr. Wilson is as opposed to secularization as Mr. Dixon, but still, to catch a few votes, he deigns to come out masked, to despoil the very church to which he is so liberal a contributor in securing a Bishops fund. We certainly give credit to Mr. Wilson for great prudence. No doubt informed by his kind friend Malcolm Cameron, (who so recently profited by his ministerial knowledge, to dupe the honest people of Sarnia into a believe of the two railways until he had sold his lots,) that a dissolution would not be far distant. A well this canny Scot thought he would anticipate the rainy day, and pocket £48 towards the election expenses. Accordingly, citizens of London, we find this gentleman, he whom you reposed confidence in before, by selecting him as your representative, requiting your past services, and like a good citizen, and one who has the interest of London deeply at heart, setting the good example of refusing to pay his taxes. Well, some may ask, how is that, a By-law was passed in 1853 for levying certain taxes; when the collector called for that tax, we are informed, Mr. Wilson said the by-law was illegal and that he would not pay it, or that if he was not asked to pay he would not take any steps in the matter. So far we may not be accurate, but now we come to facts. Mr. Wilson did take proceedings to quash your by-law, and he served your late Mayor with the legal documents necessary to do so, and we now ask Mr. Wilson, whether he did not in May last consent to stay all legal proceedings on his part, provided the town council paid him £18 costs, which he had already incurred, and £30 taxes paid by his tenants who were bound under their leases to pay them, and who never objected to pay them. We ask was it fair, was it honest to require the £30 taxes and retain them. We hope after the significant hint in our last, some twitches of conscience may have induced him to refund, though it may have been as above suggested "an election fund." We confess we cannot perceive what claims Mr. Wilson can urge on the constituency after such conduct. No doubt the same disinterested course would be pursued by him whenever opportunity offered, and no doubt this new secularizer, this advocate for the secularization of the Roman Catholic endowments in the Lower Province, may likewise find it in his conscience for consistency sake, to apply the funds so secularized, to his favorite Free School system. But space forbids enlargement.

AN ANGLICAN CLERGYMAN'S VEIW OF THE GOVERNMENT SECULARIZATION BILL.

Such is the heading of a column of matter in a recent number of the Toronto Leader, it has the modest signature of "Clericus Anglicanus," and dated Quebec, June 1851. We are thus particular, to shew what lengths the government press are driven to, to make "the worst appear the better cause." Truly we have our doubts as to the genuiness of this jesuitical production, most probably the effusion of some anonymous scribbler. We boldly assert that no clergyman of the Church of England, educated as the Church of England requires them to be at home, could possibly, if in his sober senses, allow such a production from his pen, hence it must have been some ministerial penny a liner who affixed the nameless "Clericus Anglicanus." This Lower Canadian ought to have asked some Old Countryman who Sir Fredrick Peel was, and what office he ever held, or now holds in the English ministry, as in the last paragraph he states, "by such noble examples Sir Fredrick Peel, the Duke of Newcastle, Mr. Gladstone, &c., &c. This scribler has promised more letters. "A few letters." He also has dwelt at some length in order to lay a superstructure "that these Clergy Reserves have been the bone of contention in the province for thirty years," &c., &c. If this Rev. gentleman had studied His Bible, he would have learned that the first duty we all owe is to God, and that his service may make a man's enemies those of his own household, but politically viewing it we find a party who are very quiet in office, and very loyal when paid for being so, the reverse when in opposition, those very men, whose views the fictitious sC. A. endeavors to sustain, and who now claims the credit of all the prosperity of Canada, were the very men, who, out of office, retarded its prosperity men who raised the standard of revolt and who kept out English capital, and were prepared for separation, if necessary, to attain their ends. We shall now give the unanimous opinion of the English Judges as to the term "Protestant Clergy." On the 4th May, 1840, the Lord Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas delivered the unanimous opinion of the Judges on the question, as follows:—

"My Lords—On the part of her Majesty's Judges, I have the honor to present to your Lordships, that the Judges of England, with the exception of Lord Denman and Lord Abinger, have met in Serjeants Inn, for the purpose of taking into consideration the several questions which your Lordships have been pleased to propose to us; and after discussion upon the subject, and deliberation, we have agreed unanimously upon the answers to be returned to those several questions, as follows:

"In answer to the first question, we are all of opinion that the words, 'a Protestant Clergy,' in the statute 31, Geo. III, cap. 83, are large enough to include, other clergy than those of the Church of England and Protestant Bishops, priests and Deacons who have received episcopal ordination.

"For these words which are first to be met with in the statute 14, Geo. III, cap. 83, (recited in the act now under consideration) appear to us, both in their natural force and meaning, and still more from the context of their clauses in which they are found, to be there used to designate and intend a clergy supposed to hold doctrine and discipline to the Church of Rome, and rather to aim at the encouragement of the Protestant religion, in opposition to the Romish Church, than to point exclusively to the Clergy of the Church of England. And when your Lordships desire the Judges to state if any other clergy are included, what other? We answer that it appears to us that the Established Church of Scotland is constitute an instance of such other Protestant clergy.

"And although in answering your Lordship's questions, we specify no other church than the Protestant Church of Scotland, we do not thereby intend that besides that church, the ministers of other churches may not be included under the the term "Protestant Clergy." At the same time, we do not find in the statute book the acknowledgement by the Legislature of any other clergy answering that description, and as we are not furnished by your Lordships with any information as to the doctrine or description of any other denominations of Protestants to which the statute of the 31, Geo. III, can by any possibility apply, we are unable to speed by any other to your Lordships as falling within the statute.

"I take the opportunity of transmitting the late Act of Parliament by which Upper Canada has been severed from the Lower Province, and which may be considered as the Magna Charta under which that colony will immediately be admitted to all the privileges that English-men enjoy, and will confederated and united, and earnestly pray and believe, for ever with Great Britain."

We have thus given the opinion at full length as an antidote to the truthful statement of this shameless writer, that the division of this reserve fund was illegal and impracticable, and long ago abandoned by the Home authorities; if he is not aware of it, he should be, that what was considered the only difficulty in the way of the union of the two provinces, was that very arrangement of the division of the Clergy Reserve fund. The worst feature of this letter we now come to. This miserable Craven imagines that the clergy of the established Church of England and Scotland can sell their conscience for a mess of pottage. He dares to suggest that as the incomes are secured for life to the present incumbents they should become parties to the plunder, and that they should not risk their small proportions of these funds now doled out to them, by any opposition to this pet scheme of plunder devised by the Elgin clique. As to the further threat of being obliged to refund, what has been heretofore paid, we treat it with the contempt it deserves. What does the writer mean by saying "your loyalty as well as your religion requires it to give it your support." Thank God we belong to the Church of England, where the right of private judgement is fully recognized, and where true loyalty is inculcated. The Queen we know can do no wrong, not so her representatives When Lord Normanby was Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, he was called to account for his unconstitutional acts by the House of Peers, Lord Elgin is likewise amenable to the same. The loyalty which permits a "Mondelet," to designate his sovereign "a Murderess,"; the loyalty which can only obtain the attendance of those to greet his public entry, who refused to celebrate their Sovereign's birth day, may appeal to some antiquated authority for its definition. And as to religion, the writer may have seen the outside of the Bible, he never read the inside, nor probably did he ever read the articles of the church he signs himself a member. We only hope that if this C. A. belongs to any church where human mortifications are deemed essential to future happiness, he will resort, without delay, to their cleansing efficacy, to efface those multitudinous falsehoods he has so shamelessly put forward. We cannot part from "this unknown," without telling him that Mr. Frederick Peel, (not his imaginable Sir F. P.) when introducing the Imperial Act of last year, stated plainly and undisguisedly, that the Roman Catholic church had not as good a title to the property in the Lower Province as the "Protesant Clergy," which can be defined, and was defined, by the highest judicial authorities in England had to their Reserves in the Upper Province. We trust this scribler will prepare himself better the next time he appears before the public in facts, religion, and constitutional law. We ought to appologize for noticing this attempt at deception, but we do so to shew the forlorn hope of the advocates of the Hincks party.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

An inquest was held on Wednesday evening by Dr. G Moore, on the body of Catherine McCallum of Township of Lobo. From the evidence it appeared that the deceased, who was a remarkably fat and heavy woman, was going home from London in a waggon—two other parties were travelling the same way in waggons almost abreast of each other, and, in endeavoring to pass them, the unfortunate woman was thrown out and killed. A verdict was returned in accordance with these facts—there is but too much reason too fear that all the parties had been drinking and were thereby rendered incapable of managing their teams properly.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

An Inquest was held last week by Dr. Moore at Muncy Town, on the body of an Indian woman named Mary Wauwagantun, who had been for some time living with a man named John Williams who is himself a mixture of Indian and Negro—the body has been buried for about two weeks, when some suspicious circumstances connected with her death having been heard by the Rev. W. Rose, superintendent of the Mount Elgin institution for the education of the Indians, that gentleman gave information to the proper authorities, and after a great deal of trouble succeeded in getting from the Indians a sufficient amount of evidence to enable a jury to bring a verdict of wilful murder against Williams, who was accordingly arrested and is now in Jail awaiting his trial at the next assizes. The woman's own statement made to the Indians before her death, was, that Williams had held her over a large fire of coals for a considerable length of time She lived three or four hours after she was found by the Indians.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.—We should feel obliged by our correspondents sending in communications on Monday, or Tuesday at farthest, as coming later prevents their insertion.

WIDE STREETS.—We regret instead of the proposed by-law the town council have not taken steps to plant two rows of trees in the centre of their wide streets, so as to ensure shady walks in the summer, especially as we have no squares or public gardens.

Correspondence.

To the Editor of the London Times.

MR. EDITOR,—

I was very much amused this evening, by being present at a meeting held in the Town of Delaware, which was called by John Scatcherd Esq., for the purpose of feeling the pulse of the electors of the Township. Mr. Scatcherd having been, for the last week, industriously engaged in this neighborhood, canvassing on the Reform ticket, with a view to defeat his opponent James Ferguson, Esq., "The People's Candidate." for the representation of the West Riding of the County of Middlesex.

A Mr. G. S. Rogers, a petty Merchant of this Town, and who palmed himself off as a delegate at the Strathroy Convention for the Township of Delaware, and who could not even get, in this Town, the paltry office of pound-keeper, opened the meeting and appointed himself chairman, being aware that the good people of Delaware would not support him. This self-appointed chairman, who is a rabid supporter of the said Convention and its simple nominee, with all the assurance of one who had been fairly appointed chairman by the majority of the meeting, called on Mr. Scatcherd to address the meeting, which Mr Scatcherd did at some length, and done his best to convince the meeting that he had strong claims on the suffrages of the electors of the West Riding of this County, all of which he found would not be swallowed by the good electors of this Town, for they would not swallow such stuff Mr Scatcherd is a stranger in our Riding, and one who the people do not want and in whom they have no confidence. He is not the man for Middlesex.

Mr Scatcherd having spoke for nearly two hours, but with little effect, as it did not go down with the people, James Ferguson, Esq. who had just come into Town, (by mere accident,) on his return home from the Western Townships of the County, where he had been canvassing, and called at one of our Delaware Hotels, where he was informed of the meeting, which was to take place this evening at the Town Hall, by the friends of Mr. Scatcherd, and was solicited by the electors to attend said meeting, which he did, to the great annoyance of Mr. Scatcherd and his supporters, for they had not the least idea, that also Jimmy was any where in these diggings, and would carry every thing before them.

After Mr. Scatcherd's lengthy speech, or rather address, which I must say was considered by some persons, BEAUTIFUL, Mr. James Ferguson was called upon to address the meeting, which was, or rather appeared to be, a damper upon the Scatcherd party, and they even tried to prevent James Ferguson, Esq., from doing so; however this objection was overruled and Mr. Ferguson was allowed to take the floor. He entered largely on the causes of the difficulties which now exist in the Riding, and the circumstances which gave rise to Mr. John Scatcherd being brought into this Riding, to divide the interest of his, Mr. Ferguson's, supporters, which he seemed to give a fair, strait forward statement of the facts which had occurred previous to this meeting, displaying at the same time his great skill, and spirit in the cause of honest legislation.

The most violent supporters of John Scatcherd, Esq. attempted to pass a resolution, pledging their confidence and support to him; the resolution being put to the meeting, a show of hands showed a majority in favor of James Ferguson, Esq., pledging their confidence and support to him, the people's candidate

Notwithstanding all the exertions, the efforts, and the finesse of the Convention of Mr. G S Rogers & Co. of Delaware James Ferguson, Esq., is now placed in a proud position, as the man for the West Riding of Middlesex And we may and will be perfectly satisfied with the return of old Jimmy, and no mistake

Yours, truly,

A VOTER.

DELAWARE, 8th July, 1854.

To the Independent Electors of the West Riding of Middlesex.

GENTLEMEN,—

On my return to London on Saturday last, my attention was called by my friends to an abusive and lying article in the Free Press, directed against me and my pretensions to represent you in Parliament. I am told that the thing who bears the misspelled cognomen of "Editor" of that journal, has boasted that this article has been extensively circulated among you. If that is the case, gentlemen, it behooves me to depart from that rule which every sensible man should adopt at Election times, of holding himself aloof from a contest with that disgusting and low class of wretches, whose poverty or innate dishonesty drives them into the market on these occasions, to mete out their villainous slanders by the dollar, currency.

Gentlemen, it requires no great discernment to point out the quarter from whence these slanders have been launched. I need scarcely tell you that the poor miserable-looking, carrotty headed Butcher boy, who but a short time since made his escape from the butcher's shambles at Paris, C. W., but who is now known as "Mister JOSIAH BLACKBURN, Editor of the Free Press," can know very little of me or my antecedents, or as little of my opponent, Mr. Scatcherd. He, sweet, innocent youth, only knows that his palm has been well greased, (as it is said it was to advocate the Port Stanley Railway) that Squire Scatcherd's son is a Lawyer, (very potential,) and that it pays much better to tickle Squires, Lawyers, and speculators in town lots, than to give himself any concern about the interests of the people. But, gentlemen, if you will attend a moment I think I can shew you that the Squire, Lawyer, and Butcher Boy—all put together—have made but a sorry mess of it. This noble and patriotic trio begin by styling me the "Refractory Candidate;" that is to say, gentlemen, that when I pledge myself to go for Law Reform, and to use every effort to prevent these Privileged Robbers from eating up the poor man's substance with law costs, I am evidently not the kind of man they want; I a'nt one of them; in short, I am not to be drilled into the conspiracy; and it is a piece of great impudence on the part of the people to think so. The Squire, the Lawyer, and the little Convention, will take care of the matter themselves. The next point I wish to notice is the clumsiness of these would-be writers of political articles Listen! how unblushingly they contradict themselves, and how unnecessary it is to be particular as to truth, when talking to the 'people.'

"There is an amusing letter in the London Times of Friday last, touching Mr. Ferguson and his claims to represent the West Riding of Middlesex, in which it is stated that the Free Press has 'stifled the legitimate expression of public opinion.' So far as Mr Ferguson is concerned this statement is utterly untrue. In our issue of April 27th, and again in that of June 5th, we gave full particulars of meetings which had been held in Mr Ferguson's favor. he account of the meeting held at Strathroy on 31st May, did not reach us till June 18th, by which time the matter had become stale."

In the above extract you will observe that my statement is first called "utterly untrue," then literally admitted, and an excuse made that the omission was because "the matter had become stale." What think ye of that, Electors? he Squire, the Lawyer, and the Butcher Boy decide that the selection of a Candidate for election has become "stale," because they (the Trio) have selected a nominee of their own.

Listen, again, to the Trio: "We have frequently told Mr. Ferguson that he should wait the issue of the Convention; but he, knowing that no Convention of sane men would support him, refused to wait for its decision, but commenced to address the "people" at every tavern corner, where a few "idle people were ready to listen to him."

So, gentlemen, the Butcher Boy, 'fresh from Paris,' frequently told me, for thirty years a resident of the County, that I must "wait until the Reeves, who perpetrated the Port Stanley Railway Job, met to nominate the Warden, who so hastily decided that the Railway Laborers and Printers' Boys of London had a majority over you, who have to pay the taxes, and I actually refused to wait until a portion of what is often facetiously termed "the assembled wisdom of the County," again met, to the number of nine, and told you who you must vote for." Observe, the parties who dare to take any interest in the matter are "idle people;" they have no business listening to any body at tavern corners! What right have they to think, when the Warden and Reeves are paid to think for them?

"It may be supposed," say the Trio, "that Mr. Ferguson is the Representative of some great principle, that he seeks to accomplish some great reform."

Gentlemen, I am proud to aspire to the honor of representing the interests of the people, and of assisting to carry that great object—Law Reform. I am proud of being "refractory" to the wire-pulling Lawyer who, by the aid of the little Convention and the hireling of the Free Press, wishes to return "my father, the Squire," and to "stifle the legitimate expressions of the people's wishes."

I am not ashamed to avow, that in old times when, having suffered sacrifices such as few Reformers have been called upon to suffer; when having been deprived of property, now valued at $20,000, solely for supporting a Reform Candidate, I thought myself as eligible as others, and quite as eligible as the "Squire," to fill vacant offices at the disposal of that Government which had always received my support. And, gentlemen, no more jealous rival had I in that field that my worthy friend the Lawyer's father, "Squire Scatcherd."

And now, gentlemen, in conclusion, just look at the company we find the "Trio" in, and the authority they quote as to the "Squire's" pretensions. The Prototype of July 1st says: "Mr. Scatcherd is a resident of West Nissouri for the last thirty-five years; an honorable and upright man, at present the Warden of Middlesex; and were it not for his radical predilections, we should rejoice at his success. He is, however, immensurably the best man named at the Strathroy Convention."

Freeman Talbot, the Editor of the Prototype, who is not unknown to you, and who, in the same issue, supports both Radical and Tory, says the 'Squire' is all right, and you have no right to dispute his opinion, for he knows who is best able to pay. In fact, the whole of the slanderous article throughout, though personally directed against me, is a piece of insolent dictation to you, and such as I am satisfied you will know how properly to resent.

I am, Gentlemen, Yours, &c.

Of the East Riding of Middlesex.

GENTLEMEN:

The Present Ministry having long since lost the confidence of the country, have at last been condemned and defeated in their place in Parliament; they still however refuse to deliver up the Seals of Office as required by constitutional usage and the principles of Responsible Government by which they profess to be guided.

Parliament was dissolved on the 22nd of June last. Writs were that day issued for a general election, and you will be called upon in the course of a few days, to elect a fit and proper person to represent your interests in the next provincial Parliament, under the new act for extending the Representation of the country.

In the month of March last you did me the honor through a requisition signed by upwards of 1,200 of you requesting me as a Conservative during the Riding. I feel grateful for the honor intended me, and for the confidence implied by your choice I accept the nomination, and shall, if elected, endeavour to testify to some extent at least the good opinion which your partiality has extended to me, and I shall ever be found true to the Conservative principles which have generally been advocated by the party to which I profess to belong. The cry of "Loyalty to the Queen, and Conservatism."

I shall devote myself to the difficult task of elucidating the wholesale system of jobbing so prevalent in high quarters, and so injurious to public morality and the best interests of all classes of society, and I shall assist in the investigation and exposure of many and grave charges, in the event of your choosing me to represent you in the House of Commons.

I shall oppose the immediate and final settlement of the Clergy Reserves upon fair and equitable principles, having due regard for the various religious bodies at present interested in the distribution.

I shall advocate the extension of Railroads throughout the province as essential to our agricultural and commercial interests and as opening up and developing the resources of the country and I shall assist in advancing every measure which I may consider the interest of the Province requires, without regard to the party from which such measure may originate.

The present Assessment Law is in my opinion defective, and imposes too heavy a tax upon the Agricultural and other industrial classes, whilst others are enabled to avoid payment almost altogether. I shall give my best attention to the alteration of this Act, so as to make its provisions less burdensome to the class specified.

I shall have the honor of meeting you at the Hustings, and will then enter more fully into the questions now before the country.

WM. HORTON.

London, July 3, 1854. 478-m

To the Independant Electors of the TOWN OF LONDON.

GENTLEMEN.—The recent action of the government in suddenly dissolving the House of Assembly, at a most inconvenient season, and in a manner wholly unconstitutional, and without precedent in Parliamentary history, since the days of Oliver Cromwell and notwithstanding the offer made by the opposition, in the true spirit of honorable British Legislation, to pass the new Franchise Law, and other measures essential to sustain the constitutional government of the country, renders it necessary that you should again exercise your important privilege of electing your representative for the new parliament.

The members of the late House who endeavored to the last, to withstand the ministerial dictation which required them to do the bidding of the government without hesitation or delay, and who have, by so doing, upheld the liberties of a British Parliament, and the rights of British freemen, need not certainly, be ashamed, once more to appear before their constituents. Accordingly, having been honored with your confidence, I feel happy of again appealing to my fellow townsmen, upon a matter of such vital importance to the future liberties of themselves and their children. And I feel encouraged the more, so make this appeal, since I have again received the invitation of the Conservative electors at this town, unanimously expressed at a meeting held for that purpose, to allow myself to be put in nomination as their candidate—and, consequently I cheerfully respond to their call.

After the many years during which you have had an opportunity of knowing and testing my political opinions it would be tedious, and I conceive useless to attempt an examination of them, further than to state that the same conservative principles which I have ever held and liberal application to the wants of our rapidly rising and prosperous country. To foster the invaluable blessings of religion and freedom, to establish a substantial and enlightened system of education, and to rectify or remove everything shown to be an abuse, is the line of duty which we shall always have my warmest and most strenuous support. On the subject of the Clergy Reserves, viz:

That a more equitable distribution of them is just and necessary, but that a contentment of the original grant should be preserved.

The immediate interest and advancement of London which should through the contemplation of railroads or any other public improvements, shall always receive my first and best attention, and exertion. And I hope that if I again have the honor to be entrusted with your confidence, that, whether as regards the interests of the town, or the welfare of the province, all my energies will be directed towards the public good,

I am, gentlemen, your obed'nt servant.

THOS. C DIXON.

Music, and Musical Merchandize

HERMAN KORDES,

Having just returned to London, would most respectfully intimate to his patrons friends, and the public in general that he has now on the way a very choice selection of

Pianos, Melodeons, Violins and Musical Merchandize,

all of which will be ready for inspection in three or four days. With the stock now on hand he will have then some Sixteen Pianos from the Factories of Chickering, Stodart, Dunham, Bacon, and Raven, comprising 6 Octave, Square and Round to 7 Octaves Square and Round. Also 6 Octaves of Chickering and Stodart, which are so celebrated under the name of

"LOUIS THE 14th."

Carved, round in front and back, and carved legs, very beautiful and superior Pianos indeed. Not a piano enters the establishment of Mr. K., but is selected, tried, and found warrantable and good by himself, and Mr. K., prides himself of being considered by the community at large a very efficient judge in those matters.

For some two years Mr. K. has worked hard to have a Music Establishment in London, which was found on such a basis and conducted in such a manner and on such principles that, FROM THE BEGINNING, it evidently was a credit to the Town, as to the proprietor. With the increasing prosperity of the town and country, the establishment has in reason and prospered, and Mr. K. is most happy in saying that, at this moment, he can command, in the supply of pianos alone, to the amount of some £5,000.

In the last two years Mr. K. has sold some SIXTY new pianos in London and surrounding parts, each now piano fully warranted, which affords the purchaser a perfect right to return the instrument if it does not give entire satisfaction. Chickering's, Stodart's and Dunham's pianos have been sold, not only here but over the whole province for the last 20 years, are thoroughly known and unanimously acknowledged to be the very best as regards quality of tone, keeping in tune and and durability. Taken Chickering, Stodart and Dunham pianos which he has now and had much used, for the last 12 years, and it produces a better, fuller and clearer tone than can be found in the instrument of almost any other maker which has been used for perhaps 2 years. It is surprising, but nevertheless true, that a Stodart piano for instance, improves the more the more it is used. It must of course be used carefully and properly. The character and reputation of these pianos having fully established, is the reason why Mr. K. almost exclusively confines himself to these makers; he is anxious to sell to patrons such pianos in which he has entire confidence. He did not open such an establishment for the purpose of selling 10 or 12 pianos of obscure makers, picked up in one knows where, nor caring what the result might be as long as there was a surplus of a certain amount of pounds shillings and pence, his store was opened with the firm resolution to have the best possible pianos to sell them at as low a price as they can be had at the factory, duty included, to show liberality to the utmost extent in order to assist patrons in the purchase of such an article, and by the carrying out of this resolution to be enabled to go on increasing and extending in accordance with the demands of the town and surrounding parts.

The Melodeons which are used in Mr. K's establishment are manufactured by Prince & Co., in Buffalo, and are so favorably known that they require no comment on his hands. He would only say that parties purchasing from him save a trifle in doing so.

His stock of Music is likewise selected by himself, comprising all the newest in that branch, and will be very large indeed. Regarding musical merchandize, Brass instruments, Clarinets, Flutes, Fife, Guitars, Banjos, Flutes, Accordeons, Tamborines, Rosin, Violin strings, Guitar, and Violincello strings, Tail pieces, Bridges, Tuning Forks Tuning Hammer, Bass drums, Snare drums, &c. In fact every thing in that department is also selected by himself and will give satisfaction Also instruction books for every kind of instrument, Glee books, Leaners and Catharis Melodeon books, &c. Also Sacred Music books, comprising all the best and newest in that line. Piano covers, both cloth and Indiarubber, Piano stools &c., &c.

Mr. K. begs his patrons and friends to accept his warmest and sincerest thanks for their kindness and patronage extended to him, as well in his profession as teacher, as also to his Music establishment, and respectfully hopes a continuance of the same. He is determined and fully able, under such patronage, to bring his music establishment to as high a state of perfection, and reputation as his friends and the public generally can desire.

Honesty, integrity, liberality and persevering industry are Mr. K's. principles.

STEWART'S EMPORIUM OF FASHIONS!

CASH SYSTEM

95 per cent. Cheaper than the Credit System.

IT is a well known fact that those giving credit (especially in the Tailoring line) are obliged, in order to make their business pay, to charge the well-meaning and good-paying customer with the garments of those who dress well, but never pay.

In order to prevent this injustice being practised on the honest and good-paying customer, the subscriber has adopted the Cash System. He will assure his customers that they will only have to pay for their own garments, and that at the rate of 25 per cent. less than formerly charged under the credit system.

His stock will be found to consist of the latest and best materials of Home and Foreign Manufacture, consisting in part of

He has just received the latest fashions from Europe and America, and will continue to receive monthly the very latest styles. He earnestly invites his numerous customers and the public in general to give him a call as early as possible. His workmen will be, as usual, of the first class. The cutting will be done entirely by himself. Ladies' habits will receive his particular attention.

THE FOREST WINE.

THIS excellent MEDICAL WINE and the FOREST PILLS are fast gaining the good will and becoming the favorite medicine of the people, and known as a most effectual remedy in the cure of Dyspepsia, Habitual Costiveness, Liver Complaint, Asthma, Piles, Obstinate Headache, Pimples, Blotches and unhealthy color of the skin, Jaundice, Ague and Fever, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Complaints incident only to Females, Languishing Weakness, Night Sweats, Nervous Disorders, Bilious Disorders, General Ill Health, and impaired state of the Constitution.

But a short time has elapsed since these great and good medicines have been made known to the public, yet thousands have experienced their good effects. Invalids given over by their physicians as incurable, have been restored to sound and vigorous health by their use. These medicines are unlike any other. Their two-fold properties act directly on those organs of the stomach, liver and kidneys, which secrete the fluids, and separate the impurities from the blood. The Wine and Pills never weaken or give strength and animation to both body and mind. The great amount of good these medicines have done to the sick and afflicted, have induced thousands to commend them to their friends and the public. Individuals of the highest integrity have voluntarily testified to the world in favor of their extraordinary virtues.

DR. I. A. STANLEY,

a celebrated physician, in a letter from Princeton New Jersey, dated Nov. 18, 1849 declares that in all his experience he had never seen anything to compare with the Forest Wine and Pills, at the same time relating several cases of constitutional debility and scrofulous affections, which it cured in an incredibly short time. Among the others on the Medical Faculty of New York, who have witnessed the great results of the Forest Wine and recommended it in numerous complaints, will be found the names of the celebrated Dr. M. T. Goodman, Dr. L. Freeman, Dr. Chilton, Dr. Wm. Brown, Dr. Marvin, J. M. Motenau, and others.

TESTIMONY

of Mr. Johnson Burke, a highly respectable citizen of Waverly Place, New York:

DR. G. W. HALSEY—Dear Sir: I esteem the Forest Wine as the King of Medicines. It has done for me in a few weeks what three physicians failed to do in as many years. And I declare the victim of the Heart disease Nervous Affections, which have been growing on me ever since 1841. I procured your Forest Wine and although I had wasted several hundred dollars for medical attendance. During the last two years I was forced to keep my house nearly all the time and gave up business in consequence of my ill-health, I had lost nearly all hopes of recovery. My complaint was of that class of which nature makes and then becomes a burthen, being your Forest Wine Advertised, I concluded to give it a trial before finishing the third bottle I felt like a new person, and was able to resume business again, which I owe entirely to taking five bottles. For the benefit of others afflicted with similar complaints you are at liberty to publish this.

Yours &c.,
JOHNSON BURKE,
Waverly Place, N. Y.

General Debility, Emaciation, wasting of the Body &c.

Many persons are afflicted with some one of the above complaints without being able to trace it to any particular cause. And therefore do not think of the proper remedy and the disease becomes constitutional. These disorders are often characterized by a sense of sinking, or entire exhaustion after exercise. Some experience sluggishness, lassitude and at times paleness or flushing of the countenance, palpitation of the heart or like symptoms.

The excellent effects which have ever attended the use of the Forest Wine and Pills in every species of debility is conclusive evidence of its happy results in this class of disorders. Many have resorted to these medicines as an exhaustion and been speedily cured. For nervous disorders and debility the Wine and Pills are taken according to the directions on the label.

TO THE LADIES.

True beauty and loveliness accompany the highest perfection of health which again invariably follows the PUREST STATE OF THE BLOOD. What artificial cosmetique equal that vivid expression of countenance which emanates from health? What paints can compare with the crimsoned roused blood coursing in the delicate hue through the transparent texture of the skin? What charms are more captivating than those of nature in her highest perfection? Let Dr. Halsey's wine supply the place of all cosmeticks. The use of this excellent wine in a short time creates pure, rich blood which, coursing through the veins, penetrates the minutest fibres and its verge towards the surface of the skin, causing all unsightly pimples and blotches to disappear, imparting a vivid rosy color to the skin and brilliant expression to the eyes

THIS IS NATURAL BEAUTY.

In corroboration of these facts, Dr. Halsey has many testimonials. The following is from a lady of most respectable standing in society, sent to us by her brother residing in Rutgers street,

New York, July 7th, 1849.

DR. G. W. HALSEY—

My sister from her youth had been in very delicate health complaining frequently of weakness of the chest attended with a cough. About the age of 18 she began to get much worse. For six months previous to commencing with your medicines she had not been able to get out of the house. Her countenance was greatly emaciated, yellow and sickly. Her face and neck was covered with disagreeable pustules every one much annoyed her cough increasing. In fine, she bore every appearance of soon becoming an unhappy victim to consumption. At this time I procured for her some of your Forest Wine and Pills, which she commenced using according to the directions. She gradually improved as she followed up the use of them. Her first symptoms of recovery was uncommonly good appetite, her face finally became smooth and her cheeks rosy. Her cough left her altogether. She is now strong and vigorous and presents the finest example of health I ever witnessed.

JOHN S. MAXWELL.

GUM-COATED FOREST PILLS,

Manufactured on the same principle as the Forest Wine to which it is an important adjunct. They are coated with pure Gum Arabic, an important invention for which Dr. Halsey has received the only Patent ever granted on Pills by the Government of the United States.

Dr. Halsey's Forest Wine and Gum-coated Forest Pills unite in accomplishing the same great end, THE PURIFICATION OF THE BLOOD, THE RENOVATION & RESTORATION OF THE STOMACH AND BOWELS.

The life principle of man is the blood, no sooner are those organs of the stomach which secrete the blood cleansed of all foul matter and restored to healthy action by the use of the Forest Pills and pure rich blood made to flow in the veins by the use of the Forest Wine, than disease begins to vanish and strength and energy of body return. This is the principle on which is founded these great medicines, and by which nearly all diseases are cured.

The Forest Wine is put up in large square bottles, with Dr. Halsey's name blown in the glass. One dollar per bottle, or six bottles for Five Dollars. Gum-coated Forest Pills, 25c. per box.

All kinds of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, from a PIANO PORTE down to a FIFE.

STRINGS of all kinds and of superior quality; in short, every thing which can or may be found in a well and carefully selected Music Store.

The PIANOS are made by the following celebrated Gentlemen, viz:

CHICKERING STODDART & DUNHAM,

Acknowledged to be the best on this part of the Globe, as are the MELODIANS, manufactured by PRINCE & CO. PIANOS and MELODIANS sold as Cheap and on as favourable Terms as they can be procured in Toronto, or from the Maker's themselves.

Besides these Pianos of Chickering, Stoddart & Dunham, Mr. Kordes keeps constantly on hand Pianos of other good makers, such as Baron and Raven, Gilbert, Gale, etc. Also second hand Pianos, from £10 upwards to £50. Old Pianos taken in exchange, and a liberal allowance made. Pianos Tuned and repaired. All orders from a distance promptly attended to.

Mr. Kordes has constantly on hand an assortment of very superior Brass Instruments, for the formation and use of Bands, as Ophicleides, Sax horns, Trombones, Compeans, Bugles, Post horns, French horns, etc., which will be sold low, and on very favorable terms.

Mr. Kordes would just say a few word regarding the Pianos of Chickering, Stodart & Dunham, in the first place, they are warranted to keep good and sound in all their parts, for any number of years, provided they receive good treatment.

In the second place, any person having such a thing as what is called an ear for music, will, without looking at the makers name, be able to detect the difference between a Stodart, a Dunham or a Chickering, to a Piano from any other maker, without exception; the woody, wiry, harsh kind of sound, so predominant in other instruments, is changed into a mellow, sweet, full and brilliant tone in the Pianos of the above three makers.

As regards keeping in tune; these Pianos require a good tuner 3 times in 12 months and decent treatment, they never require more than this, may, however, sometimes require less. Care and attention is all they need.

HERMAN KORDES.

LONDON, C. W.

The great popularity which Moffat's Life Pills and Phenix Bitters have attained, in consequence of the extraordinary cures effected by their use, renders it unnecessary for the proprietor to enter into a particular analysis of their medicinal virtues or properties. Having been more than twenty years before the public, and having the united testimony of more than Three Millions of persons who have been restored to the enjoyment of perfect health by them it is believed that their reputation as the best vegetable medicine now before the public admits of no dispute. In almost every city and village in the United States there are many who are ready to testify to their efficacy in removing disease and giving to the whole system renewed vigor and health.
In cases of Scrofula, Ulcers, Sorrow or Eruptions of the skin, the operation of the Life Medicines is truly astonishing often removing in a few days every vestige of these loathsome diseases. In their turn they effects on the blood in Fever and Ague, Dyspepsia, Dropsy, Piles, and in short most all diseases, soon yield to their curative properties. No family should be without them, as by their timely use much suffering and expense may be saved.

DEAR SIR.—A sense of duty impels me to forward to you the following certificate:
I for the last eight years, have been troubled with a Fistula and Tumor, close to the rectum.—I had consulted Physicians all of whom told me there was no cure, except by the knife, and they would have charged me a high price.
I was about to employ one, when you visited this place and gave me a bottle of your KING OF OILS. with astonishment now to see it. I procured your Chinese Balsom, and in three weeks was effectually cured. It is now five months since the cure, and I believe it to be a permanent cure.

CAMOMILE FLOWERS.
Patronized and Recommended by the most eminent Medical Practitioners in Canada.
London C. W. June 18th, 1852.
MESSRS. REXFORD & Co.
Gentlemen—I have received the Sample bottle of your "Compound Camomile Cordial," and consider it a beautiful as well as a highly palatable preparation. The aromatic fragrance and peculiar bitter flavor, in which lies the essential Medicinal qualities appear to be largely infused and well preserved, and as this vegetable tonic is highly beneficial in those forms of Dyspepsia depending on debility or want of tone in the digestive organs, (the form most frequently met with on the continent) your cordial will, I doubt not, form an inestimable addition to our Pharmacopœia.
From the knowledge possessed by me of Mr. Rexford, and his very high reputation as a Pharmaceutical Chemist I feel much pleasure in confidently recommending his Preparation of this valuable tonic to my professional brethren, and to the public, as a delightful and invigorating cordial.

It is now generally admitted by the learned and scientific, that the mysterious power called Galvanism or Magnetism, is in fact, the vitality of life, and that di ease, in many of its most painful forms is entirely owing to the absence of this Galvanic or Magnetic power in its healthy proportions. It then, we can readily supply this wonderous power when it is thus difficult, we can successfully combat disease, and this has been fully and p rfectly attained by the most wonderful scientific discovery of combining Magnetism or Galvanism with a fluid which has cost the inventor of this remedy years of study and labor.
There is not an intelligent Physician who has kept pace with the progress of science as that does not readily approve of the Magnetic power in various diseases, and there is scarcely a medical journal either in this country or Europe which makes its appearance without the statement of various causes, showing some new effect of these wonderful agents, or corroborating previous experience of their beneficial use. The inventor of the Galvanic Embrocation has great pleasure in being able to state that a majority of the most distinguished physicians of New York constantly recommend its Embrocation in their practice, and from many of them he has received the kindest testimonials of approval and recommendation.

Poetry.

"No Surrender."

Awake! you Protestants, awake!
No longer in supineness slumber;
Your lives and liberty at stake,
By Monks and Jesuits without number.
Thus lawless Jack and Popish Dan,
Revile our holy faiths defender;
Awake unite you every man
And let your cry be "No Surrender.

The bloody deeds of FORTY-ONE,
When cruel Popish persecution,
Did stain with gore—the silver Ban—
And strove to rend our constitution;
On memory's tablet deep engraved,
Shall never fade till death suspend her.
Awake! un te! ne'er be enslaved,
And let your cry be, "No Surrender."

To Derry walls direct your thoughts,
Behold they toil with crimson gory,
Where 'prentice boy- like lions fought—
To purchase for your Freedom's glory
Shall we those blood bought trophies yield—
Relinquish freedom or defend her?
Forbid, O heaven! no, take the field!
And let your cry be "No Surrender."

The Orange blood that tinged the BOYNE,
When William led our sires to action,
Calls from the ground—to arms—join
Ye Protestants—yield to no subjection.
The Scarlet W—e essays once more
To murder all who won't befriend her;
Rouse, your ancestors of yore,
And let your cry be "No Surrender."

The blood stained date of Ninety-eight,
Deserves our serious contemplation;
What blood was spilled, what numbers killed,
What murder and assassination!
To widow'd dames, expired in flames,
On forks their helpless orphans tender,
Awake! unite, maintain your right,
And let your cry be "No Surrender."

Though as the stars their numbers be,
Let not their boasted strength retard you,
The arm that guarded him shall guard you.
The W—e must fall, and so must all,
Who in her cause their service tender.
"I AM" that said, be not afraid!
But let your cry be "No Surrender,"

In Daniel's sacred vision read,
And also in the Revelation,
How many thousand Saints must bleed,
Before her final condemnation.
Six hundred and six first gave her rise—
John's forty months and two shall end her,
In sixty-six she sinks, she dies,
So let your cry be "No Surrender!"

Journey of Pope Pius the Seventh.

When Pius the Seventh from earth did stray,
And upward sought his aerial way,
To find what's famed in Romish story,
That cleansing place called Purgatory,
A place the Prophet's ne'er could view
A place that Christ never named or knew,
A place as false and whimsical
As the far famed island of Brazil.
As driven by storm from St Lucee,
Some hopeless bird is forced to flee,
Tired on the wing he turned about,
Some friendly asylum to find out:
But sought in vain, the deep appears,
And all his hopes are crowned in fears,
So driven from earth the Pope long sought,
For Purgatory but found it not;
Ten thousand fears distract his soul,
To think he cannot find the goal.
He stamped and raved at his sad doom,
And curs-e the lying Church of Rome,
At length he spied Heaven's shining gate,
And knocked presumptous in his heart.
He knocked a loud and older still.
Till Peter came—"Pray what's your will?"
His Holiness—"From earth I came,
The Pope has been my common name,
But in our church each learned Professor,
Called me Christs Vicar, your Successor;
And what to heretics seems odd.
I called myself Almighty G—d"
Quoth Peter—"Vain are all thy hopes
This gate hath ne'er admitted Popes,
And what may sound much stranger still,
It will not now nor never will."
"Well!" cried the Pope "if this be so,
One thing of you I fain would know—
Did King William and his army come,
Great Prince of Orange foe to Rome,
Who with his heretics did join,
And slew my papists at the Boyne;"
Quoth Peter William's in this place,
Pray would you wish to see his face?
"No!" cried the Pope as William's there,
By the eternal powers I swear,
I'd hell prefer and Satan's clan,
To Heaven with such an Orangeman;
Or if I had my book and bell.
I'd ring him out of Heaven to Hell,
St Peter shut the gate and left,
The Pope of ever hope bereft,
Who enraged most strange to tell,
Sought out the gloomy gates of hell,
And knocked aloud—a friar came,
And told him to send in his name,
Quoth Pius. "Tell Luciter the Pope,
Places in him his final hope:
Since heaven is shut I come to dwell
With him, and share his fate in hell!"
The Devil came out—but he showed no fear—
And said to Pius "You're welcome here!
For though on earth you did eat your God!
And called bread and wine his flesh and blood,
I admit you with pleasure, you see I'm civil,
But will take good care you don't eat the Devil!

RUSSIA AND TURKEY.

The War.

MOVEMENTS AT THE SEAT OF WAR.

(From the London Standard.)

Constentinople, June 10.

The enthusiasm of the Turks here has increased a hundredfold, and their sympathy in favor of the brave and heroic defenders of Silistria is unbounded.

It appears that, owing to the gratifying news that reach from the Danube, the duke's division will not start until its complement of cavalry and artillery reaches Constantinople. When that will be, God alone knows.

Since my last, one transport with horses has arrived, and the splendid steamer Himalaya only came in to-day.

The French are in the same condition.—They have been obliged to make arrangements with the Government for a loan of 4000 mounted Bashi-Bozuks, who are to be instructed by General Usuf, and Majors Magnau and Dufreil. The service of these troops will be to act as outposts. They will receive rations and the pay of the French cavalry.

General Lord Raglan is on the eve of organizing a body of Bashi-Bozuks, to act as advanced columns; and Colonel Beatson, of the Indian army, is to instruct these raw, undisciplined fellows.

The second division is on its way to Adrianople. The second brigade of the first division is at Gallipoli and will embark to morrow for Varna. To sum up, the allies have troops at Varna, Devna, Scutari, Pontegarade, Gallipoli, and Keshan. The Turks are very proud of their friends, and if they do not complain it is out of courtesy.

Ten powerful steamers, such as the Victoria and Golden Fleece, have been kept idle in front of Scutari for the last four weeks, whereas, if employed, hundreds of horses might have been conveyed by these very steamers from London to Varna.

A letter from Erzeroun of May 30, states that the celebrated Daghistan chief Schamyl had advanced to 55 miles of Tiflis, at the head of 30,000 men and 50 guns manned by Russian and Polish deserters.

The roads across the Caucasus are closed, and the only route for couriers is via Caspian Sea.

A letter from Trebizond of the 4th mentions that the the Russians who had evacuated Soukum, Gagri, Redout Kaleh, &c, in a strong body of 20,000 men, on their march to Tiflis had advanced to Dariel, where they were attacked by the Circassians, under the command Naib Mehemet Emin. The Russians were repulsed with 2000 hors de combat and three guns. Two Turkish steamers having two Circass an pach

LONDON, FRIDAY, JULY 21, 1854.

THE CANDIDATES.

John Wilson is in a miserable plight. He is called a loose fish, yet we have seen many different kinds of fish; Haddocks, Cat-Fish and Lobsters, but never beheld so unhappy a fish as this. Cast high and dry upon the strand, he flings his tail and leaves his side, but it will soon be all over with him—will be speedily worn out—buffoonery, fawning vindictiveness and effrontery will not save him.

Behold his performance! once the upholder of the family compact, subsequently the obsequious supporter of Mr. Draper, then the proposed conservative champion of London, next half conservative and half the opposite, now the swallower of the entire Radical platform.

Oh! but says honest John, I turned from convictions; but it is strange that John never charged, but when the Doves and fishes changed, he the conservative party remained in the ascendant, would he have ever thought of leaving them. No. But he saw where the spoils of office were, and thence forward he made them the points in his political compass by which to steer.

What are John Wilson's claims on this constituency? Did he ever firmly and consistently advocate any principle? Never. Always shuffling always vacillating, it is his very nature to change Eels may be called loose fish, but he is looser and more slippery than they.

To be sure he discovered that all the evils of Canada were attributable to the farmers wives wearing pramella shoes and silk stockings. And we desire to give him credit for this his profound political discovery. He also had the good fortune to obtain the aid of one little Frenchman, to reduce the wages of members of Parliament to two dollars a day, and let us be just and give him credit for these his greatest efforts at statesmanship.

It is strange that Mr. Wilson does not entirely rest his claims upon these great efforts. Such proud credentials might do more for him than bland smiles, convulsive laughs, Sarsaperilla, sweet cake for the children and ginger pop. But, alas! poor youth, even his own supporters doubt him. On the hearts of the people of this constituency he has no hold, and were he to be elected to morrow his present political supporters, for friendship he has none—would instantly turn upon him like a pack of wolves.

How different is the position of Mr Dixon every vindictive effort of his antagonist but strengthens his position, firm, straightforward, plain and practical; his friends can support him with confidence, for they know they can rely upon him. Full well they know that he cannot be bought or sold, and that he will never disappoint them.

Electors, let such be the man of your choice—and let Mr. Wilson go to Perth or Ramouskie and try his fortune there, but do not let him practice his mountebank light rope political performances at the expence of this Constituency again.

TO THE ELECTORS OF MIDDLESEX AND LONDON.

Fiery zeal—descending, at some direful blow,
To nibble brimstone in the realms below!

One of the highest privileges a subjects enjoys under the British Constitution is the share allotted him in its working, and the power indirectly placed within his grasp, at certain periods of calling to account the working machinery of that Constitution. The government, dependant for the means to carry on the offices of the country are obliged to get from the people the sinews of war "Money." The Representatives of the people alone can impose taxes, but, without these taxes being paid, the machinery of the State must come to a dead stop upon other political questions a government haas a right also to consult the country.

One of those occasions has now occurred. Before we can again address our readers, the elections, we are most interested in will have terminated, and you electors will only have to blame yourselves if the result prove that you repose confidence in men like our present ministers, "full of business, bustle, and chicanery" some of whom may be better described as

"of torrent tongue, and never blushing face;
——Knaves, who, in truth's despite,
Can white to black transform, and black to white,

14 Reform Journals have declared against this unprincipled and corrupt combination. Honest men may be found in every political class and we call on you as honest men of every class to guard against the foul stigma that your country would be branded with.

A few ministerial papers endeavour to disguise facts, they speak of the flourishing condition of the Revenue, how has that surplus been obtained if a man can raise money on notes mortgages or other securities he may I am the most monied man in the community, I am the man made of money, so the ministers who can raise money from 10 to 20 years credit, can likewise display wealth and it was by that very debenture system which filled the exchequer, that Mr. Hincks was enabled to speculate in Toronto Debentures dividing the spoil with his friend Bowes, the Point Levi job, the 50,000 paid up stock in the Grand Trunk Railway to the credit of Mr. Hincks.

Again a comparison has been instituted between the finances under Tory rule and the present reform system, we tell you as a fact and let reformers as they call themselves deny it if they dare, "that the Tories left at the close of the year 1847 the sum of £100,311 to the credit of the consolidated fund, while these excellent retrenching reformers just had £5,965 at the credit of that account the end of the year 1848, Well, again, if as the Reformers alledge that the country has a large surplus Revenue, what good is it. What taxes have been reduced, what alteration in the tariff has taken place?

Honest electors of every shade, will you support men who will go into Parliament as the willing slaves of such a ministry, will you by your votes endorse this public dishonesty will you for some trifling domestic matter absent yourselves from the poll, every elector here is independant. No influence can be brought to bear on men in this free country if possessed of ordinary common sense and ordinary ability to discern between right and wrong.

Men who regard falsehood or treachery in the dealings one with another, cannot be so blinded by party, cannot be so hood winked by ministerial scavengers, who, no doubt, will scour the country for votes, as not to be able to judge and act for themselves, and we have a misplaced confidence in our fellow countrymen if they will support in public what they condemn in private.—Once again we say let nothing keep you from the polls, record your votes for the anti-ministerialist and let these locusts who swarm over the country, and whose hateful propensities can only be assuaged by "Palm Oil" be amongst your fire exports.

"is there not
Some hidden thunder in the stores of heaven,
Red, with uncommon wrath, to blast the men
Who owe their greatness to their country's ruin?

Upper Canada members returned to present date, Ministerialists 2, against the Ministry 4.

EAST RIDING OF MIDDLESEX.

The nomination for the riding took place in the town of London on Saturday last pursuant to notice, after the proclamation for the election was read, the sheriff, James Hamilton, Esq., called on the electors to nominate a candidate. After some delay Lawrence Lawrason came forward and nominated Wm. Horton, Esq., which nomination was seconded by Garner Elwood, the Warden of Dorchester proposed Wm. Niles, Esq., which nomination was seconded by Mr. Edward Henry. A show of hands was then called for by the sheriff, which he declared to be in favor of Mr. Horton, after which a poll was demanded on behalf of Wm. Niles, Esq.,

Mr. Lawrason, Esq., remarked in his address that it must strike every one the very inconvenient season selected for dissolving it was done, he remarked to bolster up some people in power. The present ministry were left in a minority by an adverse vote. In fact a vote of want of confidence if he understood the true meaning of responsible government. he considered they should at once have resigned their places but instead of that they clung with all the desperation of despair.—This is not an appeal upon the vexed political questions of the day, and all other questions merge into insignificance compared with the question now before the country, which is, simply, a vote of want of confidence in the present ministry, a vote of want of confidence in one of the most corrupt unprincipled ministries that ever swayed the destinies of a country, men who three years since were comparatively poor now bending under the weight of their ill gotten wealth. Mr. Niles is a ministerialist, he is supported by the ministerial press and are you prepared by returning Mr. Niles to give your consent to all those degraded and degrading measures denominated ministerial. No. The electors of this riding will never record their votes for any but one that will act independent and as Mr. Horton's political opinions have been so well known for years, residing amongst you so consistant and straightforward.

Mr. Horton regretted Mr. Niles was not first proposed, as he then could have an opportunity of replying to him. Mr Niles was either a ministerialist or was not. The present ministry when coming into office had a larger working majority than other, and if they had only acted commonly honest might have ruled forever, but they had fallen to pieces by their own innate corruption.

A ministry when condemned by the House if he understood responsible government ought at once to have resigned, they lost the confidence of the country through their representation, but they duped public opinion, what care we who have speculated in the public funds, and who considered we had a right to do as we chosh with the monies of the country.

Mr. Niles denies now he is a ministerialist who does he keep company with, why with Mr. Blackburn the editor of the Free Press one of the few reform papers still adhering to the government because he receives all the pecuniary jobs the government can offer in the shape of government advertisements from the sheriff's office, the post office &c. &c. Let these men talk of retrenchment in the old tory times £100,000 covered the expenditure and now Mr. Hincks demands £800,000 but that is easily accented for the balance to the credit of the Province enables the ministere to act as a Broker, remember the 10,000 job, the Point Levi job, the Sault St. Marie job and others too numerous to mention, an objection has been raised to his profession. Mr. Notman was a lawyer, and then represented others. Mr Niles, not possessing confidence in himself, was obliged to employ Mr. Wilson to go out in West minster to canvass for him, and he, with very bad taste abuse his brother chip it was rather odd why a lawyer would not represent the county town, but still a lawyer was found in Mr. Wilson's estimation the best to represent the varied interests of the Town, it ought not to be a question what coat a man wears, but man will be the best to send to parliament to stop the curruption now going on, the ministry could over and over have secularized the reserves by large majorities if they chose, but it was too good a card to part with in 1841 the arrangements then agreed onought to have been carried out, and the matter could then have been settled. Mr Niles is for the free school system. Now if he lived in Lower Canada and the majority of the school district were Roman Catholic he thought he had a right to a separate school, he extended the same privilege to others, and he thought the Roman Catholics here were entitled to their separate schools if they preferred it, Mr. Hincks acted in this as the dictator of the Province, he had the audacity to say no member should introduce a bill into the house except a member of the Government, whereas any member had a perfect right to introduce what bill he liked, because the independent representative of the people chose to call for an investigation into the Point Levi job.—When Mr. Hincks and another member of the cabinet from their positionknew a station would be established availed themselves of that knowledge to become the purchaser and also to buy all opposition by giving £200 to a bidder to withdraw.

Such gross acts required strong measures to stop and if sent he would direct his attention at once to the investigation of the charge There were now 44 papers against the ministry, only 4 or 5 through the province were found corrupt enough to sustain them, he referred to the infamous reply of Mr. Hincks as to Judge Mondelet who after calling our beloved Queen and the brave soldiers and sailors now engaged in a just war in the east a murderess and murderers is still permitted to disgrace the Judicial Bench, he considered the assessment law incomplete all holders of notes were obliged to pay while the mortgages escaped free, this was unjust, should they select him as their representative he hoped with zeal and assiduity to earn their future support.

Mr. Niles made an unconnected and rambling reply he spoke of the union of Church and state which does not exist here, he said he did not understand the meaning of sectarian schools, he liked the small schools which brought home cheap education to every one, not the grammar schools or colleges intended only for the rich.

He then spoke of the tariff, infusing it with the reciprocity treaty, and as a defence of he ministry considered that every government if they had the opportunity of handling huge sums of money might unquestionably take a turn out of them as no one to call them to account but if the sum was small he thought it would be very wrong to do so, he said he was not a ministerialist but he was a reformer, and as such he would like to give a fair trial to the present government, though perhaps they went a leetle to far, and perhaps did some things he could not quite approve of still the country was indebted to them and he thought he might support them to a certain point (of what was correct) and perhaps a little further than that exact point, he would not bind himself to any precise course, and if elected he would whenever required resign his trust to those gave it to him, they knew he had no personal notions of ambition to gratify, he was known to them all (some one in the crowd cried "too well known.") He could not exactly oppose men like Mr. Hincks who had given them railways.

My onerous duties as Warden of your fine county has rendered me perfectly up to all the duties of legislation, I shall therefore be better able to take part in the forming of those many Bills likely to be introduced by our paternal government so long as I can consistantly support them.

Mr. Niles made as we understood some remarks on each of the ministerial jobs, but from several interruptions we were unable to catch his remarks.

ELECTION FOR THE TOWN OF LONDON.

On Wednesday last, Adam Hope, Esq., Returning Officer, having read the writ of Election Mr. Barker proposed John Wilson, Esq., and Mr. Johnson seconded the nomination, Lawrason, Esq., proposed and Mr. Nash seconded T. C. Dixon Esq., the late member. On a show of hands being called for it was impossible from the umbrellas and other obstructions to decide in whose favor they were. The returning officer deciding it Mr. Wilson's favor a poll was demanded on behalf of Mr. Dixon, after which, owing to the wet the proceedings were adjourned to the Court House. When W. Horton Esq., being nominated chairman, Mr. Barker stated it was not so much the man as the principles should guide them in their choice, he defended the course taken by the ministry on the Clergy Reserves, and stated with reference to the Maine Law, that there was nothing in the bible in favor of it, and if Jesus Christ intended such a law he would have referred to it, Mr. Johnson said a few words after which Mr. Wilson who promised not to act as he did before proceeded to address the electors, having alluded to true liberty being found under the English Constitution he proceeded to analyse Mr. Dixon's address and contended it was not unconstitutional to dissolve the Provincial Parliament admitted the P. G. had the two alternatives either resignation or dissolution, and cited three instances from English history the first in the time of William Pitt who instead of resigning in the face of adverse majorities held office. Thus, Mr. Dixon shewed, did not apply, as the P. G. had only one vote against them, nor did the other instances apply. Mr. Wilson endeavored to prove the existence of a strong tory party in Canada, which Mr. Dixon satisfactory disproved and shewed Mr. Wilson's ignorance of English history in referring the origin of Whig and Tory to the time of Pitt, whereas their names were first introduced into English history in the time of James the second. Mr. Dixon shewed as there were no nobility or aristocracy or union of church and state in Canada, their could be no tories here. Mr. Wilson said as to the Clergy Reserves he would not as a lawyer under any circumstances consent to the alienation of or interference with any grant given by the crown, unless it could be shewn the grant was illegal, the non appropriate property ought he thought be handed over to the municipalities according to population, he did not care a snap of his finger for the ministry he only looked to principle, he alluded to the time when he was kid 115 miles through the snow and would do so again if his sovereign required it. Altogether Mr. Wilson made a very lawyer like speech and with considerable tact endeavored not to commit himself.

Mr. Lawrason next came forward, and alluded to the last words of Mr. Wilson's address, "a principle of eternal truth." Mr. Wilson should recollect that eternal truth must something from the beginning, something unchanged and unchangeable; and if we had no better exemplification of eternal truth than in Mr. Wilson, we should have less to depend on than we have now. He alluded to Mr. Wilson going to Perth, and promising to give up London if he were elected for both, (Mr. Wilson here denied he was up for Perth,) yes, he went there but could not get the nomination, it was because the people of Perth would not trust him. It was curious to find Mr. Wilson always a government man; from Sir P. B. Head's administration to the present Hincks's administration there was always a close affinity between Mr. Wilson and the government. No matter what their politics, what their measures were the government, and John Wilson was always found with the government. What security had they for his political consistency; who could tell how the consistent patriot would vote, if he got into the House; in fact he would always be a "Loose Fish." If Brown was minister, or Mr. Christie or Sir Allan McNabb, only give John Wilson the opportunity, and he would be one of them, the Judship is the end, the end justifies the means, hence the consistency of this gentleman. To shew the gross humbug practised as to the settlement of the reserves, he referred to the Duke of Newcastle's recent speech in the House of Lords, when he distinctly stated, Lord Elgin and Mr. Hincks said if the Imperial act was passed, the provincial parliament would not secularize them, and on this promise the Imperial act was passed. He stated in reference to the prosperity of the province, that the reformers when out of office, kept the country in a perpetual disturbance; nay, even fomented rebellion, which kept capital out of the country, but the moment these gentlemen get into power, the conservatives couling their opposition to merely a constitutional one, not requiring the bribe of place or pay, to make them loyal, the country prospered. Having paid the highest compliment to Mr. Dixon he recommended him to the electors.

Mr. Dixon was happy again to meet his constituents, he had nothing to fear in being sent home, as he felt, he had, as an honest man, kept every promise he gave. The present was an election of principle. He contentended, notwithstanding Mr. Wilson's reference to history, that the present dissolution was unconstitutional. The act of union between the provinces required that a Session of Parliament should be held every year, and a provincial act declared, that to constitute a parliament, some act should be passed. Now the former session was prorogued on the 24th of June 1853, and was called together on the 13th of June 1854; being then dissolved without passing any act. Mr. McDonald, the Speaker, had strongly reprobated it, in his address to the Governor General. Mr. Dixon alluded to his calling Lord Chatham the head of the Tory party; whereas, any tyro in history, knows he was a whig. Mr. Wilson said the Conservative party had no opinion of their own, but were led, or rather driven by their leaders; whereas, the reverse was the case, any coercion, any clanship was amongst the Reformers; they have hitherto and the crumbs of office to keep them to their allegiance. Mr. Dixon referred to the humbug excuse of not considering the recent parliament competent to legislate upon the small sum of £120,000 Clergy Reserves; whereas, they were considered competent to legislate upon the Reciprocity Treaty, (which our paternal government said they should assent to without difficulty or delay), involving property to the value of £60,000,000. Mr. Dixon designated the Reciprocity Treaty as a most gross and flagititious measure; the section he particularly objected to, was the 3rd section, which gave the Americans the free use of our Lakes and Canals, and we are to receive in return the free use of Lake Michigan and they promised to use their influence to obtain a similar right for their Canadian friends, When did the Americans not take, as in; see the Oregon treaty; the Ashburton treaty, and even so far back as the treaty of Ghent, this infamous treaty. Mr. Wilson adopted in his address. The Clergy Reserves has been kept before the country as a toy to amuse them; it will not be settled even by the parliament. Mr. Dixon contended that the Imperial act creating the Clergy Reserves, only gave a power to vary and repeal, not to secularize. The arrangement entered into in 1841, ought to have been honestly carried out, by which they were divided into six parts; two to the church of England; 1 to the church of Scotland, and the remaining three to the other different denominations. They were able to pass a Representation Bill, extending from Gaspe to Sandwich; and an increased registration act, but they were not able to legislate for certain funds belonging to the clergy, now in the hands of the government; and why was that? because it enabled the government to dip their fingers into the exchequer, and perpetrate jobs like the Toronto shave; Point Levi; Sault ste Marie, &c. Their conduct was so infamous that all parties united to investigate into these charges, and a committee of enquiry into the Point Levi job; when the ministers availing themselves of the secret information, actually paid £200 to a bidder to withdraw from bidding, was got rid of by dissolution. We regret our space obliges to give only a small portion of this excellent and straightforward address.

THE ELECTIONS.

On Wednesday the electrors of London called on to decide who was to represent them in the next Parliament.

This is no ordinary contest, it it is a struggle between manly, straightforward, unbending integrity on the one hand, and time serving, office seeking inconsistency on the other. Electors of London, which do you prefer, the political chameleon of Upper Canada, or your late independant representative? One claims, your suffrages, aided by all the influence of the most unscrupulous ministry which ever mizzled this country, the other relies on his past services in your behalf, his wish to advance by every means in his power the interests of all classes of his fellow townsmen, and will go into Parliament thoroughly independant.

Mr. Wilson's recent visit to Quebec is rather significant and we would recommend to the careful consideration of the electors the following extract from a communication in the Globe.

"Although Mr. Wilson professes to blame the Ministry for not proceeding with the Reserve question, there can be no doubt, from the efforts of the ministerial clique here, that he will be their pliant tool, and that he will meet with his proper reward in a Judgeship Attorney Generalship, or some other good "ship" that may turn up. Thank Heaven! our officials do not represent the feelings of the people of this county, as Mr. Wilson may find if he has the hardihood to rely on such support. The people of this county are determined to have a thoroughly independant man, resident among them, and whose interests are identical with the crown, and not a mere speculating lawyer, of whom they know nothing, except that he is a renegade Tory to whom even his own town-men will not give their suffrage, and who has no interest whatever in the county, only so far as it may serve as the stepping stone for bringing his own talent into the Parliamentary market.

JULY THE 12th.

This auspicious day was ushered in by the merry peals of our bells. From about 10 o'clock A. M. the streets began to throng with vehicles, of all descriptions filled with well dressed persons, soon after a well dressed procession of horsemen and waggons entered the town by the Sarnia road, and after other lodges had arrived, the whole body proceeded to the field in front of the barracks, when falling into order the several lodges, with their appropriate flags and banners, each with their bands of music, proceeded under the County Grand Master Mr. John Wilson, Mr. Coote acting as Marshal, to the English Church, which soon became thronged. After meeting a most appropriate and excellent sermon from the Rev. B. Cronyn, Rector of London, and a collection made in aid of the Irish society acknowledged elsewhere.

The brethren reformed outside the Church and proceeded in procession through the principal streets, their bands playing appropriate airs when they all halted at the end of Dundas street, where they were addressed by Mr Horton the Conservative candidate (who had been previously introduced by the County Master,) his address was well redeived and unanimous promises of support gave him.—Soon after the numerous Lodges seperated returning home to their several localities where they dined together, and spent the evening, as in London, in the utmost harmony and brotherhood.

As far as we could learn, their appeared from 1600 to 2000 in the procession, amongst whom we recognized of London

Lodges 412 John Wilson Master & C. M.
- 230 Robert Dreaney do & D. M.
- 156 Bro. O'Neil do
- 189 Bro. Robinson do
- 229 Bro. Coote do
- 203 Bro. Stacebottom do
- 338 Bro. Weir do
- 152 Bro. McMillan do
- 173 Bro. Hall do
- 248 Bro. Scott do
- 347 Visiting Lodge

We cannot omit to state that Bro. Coote gave great satisfaction in the discharge of his duties as Marshall. The day was beautifully fine, and all passed off quietly and to the perfect satisfaction of all.

There were several visitors amongst them Bro. Ryan Master of the County of Elgin.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

On the 12th inst an inquest was held by Dr. Wanless on view of the body of Mrs. Loye, township of Westminster, who, it appeared by the evidence, had been in a state of melancholy madness for some previous. During the absence of the family in the hay-field on the 11th instant, the shut the door and arranged the things in the house very nicely, and then went up stairs and hung herself with a rope, which was made fast with a spike in the rafter. Verdict death accordingly during a fit of insanity.

THE BANK OF BRITISH NORTH AMERICA.

We are happy to learn that the Hon. George G. Goodhue has been appointed the Company's Director with Mr. Adams of this deservedly popular institution. Also that Mr. Elliot has been appointed solicitor of the bank. In making these happy elections, the Court of Directors have decidedly evinced that soundness of judgement which has always characterized their proceedings.

HOMŒPATHY.—By reference to Advertisment, it will be seen that Dr A. T. Bull, of the New York University, can be consulted in London, at his Rooms over the Store of Richmond & Co., Dundas Street, and at the Robinson Hall, by those who wish to give a trial to the Homœpathy System.

Col. Woods exhibition is well worth the attention of the public, there is no deception practised it may be to some a disagreeable sight to view their fellow creatures so different from the ordinary standard of humanity, while to others the freaks of dame nature may produce the contrary feeling.

☞ The statement in the Free Press as to my using threats to Mr. Pearson, foreman of my establishment, to induce him to vote for Mr. Dixon is unfounded and false, the miserable shift the Wilson party have resorted to show their weakness. Let Mr. Wilson recall his conduct to Mr Woods', at the last election.

COPY OF RESOLUTION.

Proposed by A. G. Lewis, Lieut. Colonel, seconded by Dennis Crotten, Esq

J. COLVILL,
Chairman.

To the Editor of the London Times.

SIR,

The present position of Mr. John Wilson is a very strange one. Among several peculiar features which the present position presents, I would beg to call your attention, and that of your readers, to the following:—Mr. Wilson has been indefatigable in endeavoring to obtain the votes of our Roman Catholic fellow citizens—this is well known.—Now, a friend of mine made the following enquiry of a Roman Catholic acquaintance; said my friend, "you are an advocate, I believe, for the School Law, as it now stands, with respect to separate schools, that is to say, you approve of allowing the members of your church to have separate schools as under the present law?"

"Certainly," was the answer. "Then," said my friend, "you are in favor of separate schools." "Most decidedly," was the reply. "Pray tell me," said my friend, "what are Mr. Wilson's views upon this head?" "Oh! all right!" "Why," said my friend in astonishment, "is it possible that Mr. Wilson will support separate schools?" "I answer you," was the reply, "he promised that he would support them, and more than that, I can tell you, that if he had not promised to do so, he would never have got a vote of mine."

Happening myself, to meet with a strenuous supporter of Mr. Wilson—but one who leans very strongly to the school of Mr. G. Brown—I had the curiosity, in the course of conversation, to inquire what his views were in reference to separate schools. "Oh?" said he, I am most decidedly opposed to them. I would neither allow Roman Catholics nor the members of any other denomination to have separate schools." "Separate schools," said he, "if permitted would ruin our common school system." I then ventured to enquire what Mr. John Wilson's views were upon this head, "Oh! said he, John is all right, he is decidedly opposed to separate schools." "Why," said I "does his Roman Catholic friends know of this?" "I cannot tell you," said he, "all I can say is, that if Mr. Wilson ever gave one vote in favor of separate Roman Catholic schools, I would never vote again for him as long as I live."

I walked on my way, and mused as I passed along, on the extraordinary power Mr. Wilson must possess to blow both hot and cold, and to wear a coat which appears green to one person and black to another. Many of his supporters are known to be most determined in their opposition to the separate school system. Quite as many, or nearly, are known to be in favor of them, and regard the question with Bishop Charbonnell; as one of the greatest consequence, and as the true test by which to try candidates. Yet both these parties, holding diametrically opposite sentiments, are quite satisfied that Mr. Wilson, agrees with them. Yet how marvelously clever he must be to gull so many people, who consider themselves so acute, truly he must have a coat of many color. Other inconsistencies quite as striking I might mention—but space forbids.—One thing is certain that if Mr. Wilson should be elected, (a calamity it is to be hoped our Town will be preserved from,) he had better get himself shelved into the judgeship before another election, otherwise he will get a precious roasting, because to carry on the deception, and please all his friends, is utterly impossible.

SPECTATOR.

LOSS OF LIFE.—On Tuesday last, we regret to say, the electric fluid struck a man of the name of Charles Jordan, residing on Hitchcock street in the house of Messrs. Plummer and Pacey and killed him on the spot, one corner of the house was likewise damaged, several persons were sitting at supper with the deceased but were not injured.

The Strathroy communication arrived last Friday too late for publication, and this week it would be old news.

By the next mails we may expect news from the Baltic, as Sir Charles Napier with all his fleet is before Cronstadt.

The Currency,

From the Montreal Herald.

The act to regulate the currency passed last session in Quebec had in it a clause, which made it inoperative until after a day fixed by Her Majesty for it to come into operation. That day has now been fixed by a proclamation just out for the 1st of August, 1854. The act it will be remembered, was passed after a rehearsal on the part of the Imperial Government to sanction some acts on the currency, which were previously passed in Quebec. All former currency acts are repealed, and it is enacted that the denominations of money in this Province shall hereafter be pounds, dollars, shillings, pence, cents and mills; the pound, shilling and penny shall have respectfully the same proportionate values as they now have. In any agreement or statement as to money either denomination may be lawfully used. The pound currency to be of 101 321-1000 grains Troy of gold, the standard of the United Kingdom; the dollar to be one-fourth of the value. The pound sterling to be £1 4s. 6d., or $4, and 86⅔ cents currency, and to be a legal tender for that amount. Lesser British gold coins to be also a legal tender for proportionate rates.

Public accounts to be kept in the denominations of coin prescribed by Her Majesty. Accounts may be kept or stated, or agreements made, however, to be legally binding, in either class.

Such silver coins as may be struck at the Royal Mint, of the finenese now fixed by law for coins of the United Kingdom, and of weight, being respectively the same proportionate value to be assigned to such coins in this province, which the weights of the silver coins of the United Kingdom, shall, by such names as shall be assigned to them by Her Majesty in her proclamation, declaring them lawful money of this province, be a legal tender at the rates assigned in such proclamation.

Until otherwise ordered by Royal proclamation, no silver coins in the United Kingdom shall pass current for sums in currency, according to the proportion hereinbefore fixed, for the coins in sterling, for which they pass current in the United Kingdom, and no other silver coin than those declared to be so by this act shall be a legal tender in this Province. No silver coins can be a legal tender for more than £2 10s.

The copper money of the United Kingdom to pass current and to be a legal tender to the amount of 1s. currency, and no more that is to say,—the copper penny two cents; half-penny one cent; and other subdivisions proportionably, Provided that any copper coins of like weights which Her Majesty may direct to be struck for the purpose shall be a legal tender, at the like rates, to the above mentioned amount, and Her Majesty may declare by proclamation that the copper coins of the United Kingdom shall not be lawful current money of the Province.

The American Eagle coined before the 1st July 1834, is to be a legal tender, and to pass current for $10 56 2-5 cents, or £2 13s. 4d. cy., coined after that day and before the 1st January 1842, or after that day; but while the same standard of fineness is retained in the United States mint, and weighing 10 pwts. 14 grs Troy shall pass current for $10 or £2 10s. cy. Such gold coins the multiples or halves of the above of the respective sums to be current in proportionate sums.

Other gold coins may be made current by Her Majesty's proclamation, at rates to be assigned in such proclamation, such rates to bear relation to the quantity of pure gold be in such coins, reckoning ninety two and eight hundred and seventy seven thousandths of grains to one pound currency.

Enormous Expense of Reform.

From the Cobourg Star.

On referring to the public accounts and estimates for 1851, we had a document signed F. Hincks, Inspector General, acquainting us that he will require to meet the expenditure of the current year, no less than £847,923 0s. 8d. viz: the following amounts as three estimates, £162,922 1s. 0d.—£194,420 13s. 6d.—and £488,580 15s. 2d.—and £4,000 from the Jesuit estates, which estates are the public property of the province. Now, the last public revenue of the year 1848 was £474,491 3s. 6d. We have therefore to pay, under the Hincks Cameron government, while those services the country has been blessed for the past seven years, no less an increase in tax atten in 1851 over the amount paid in 1848 than £373,432 9s. 2d., or an increase in the public burdens of averaging yearly £124,477 8s. 8d. In order, however, to place this alarming, unparalled extravagance beyond a cavil and contradict to the following statement is taken the last is made from the public accounts:

Taxation in 1848	- -	£474,491 3 6
Taxation in 1851	- -	847,923 9 3
Increase in 3 years	- -	£373,432 6 2

We, in the classification of the expenditure, may have made errors in charging some items to one head which ought to have appeared under another, but the aggregate increase in 3 years, including the present, promises to be as stated, no less than £373,432 6s. 2d., and this by a government promising the people Reform and Retrenchment.

It may be further useful that we should look at some of the items charged against the consolidated revenue of the Colony, to enlighten us as to the appropriation of the taxes which are levied nearly altogether upon the industry of the Anglo Saxon race.

	L. Canada.	U. Canada.
Pensions, Officers Legislat'eBodies	£ 307 6 8	153 6 8
Hospitals and other Charities	9,613 3 11	7,530 0 0
Education	7,160 0 0	3,611 2 2
	£17,080 10 7	11,294 8 10

We have thus in Mr. Hincks estimates for Pensions, Charities and Education for Lower Canada, £17,080 10s. 7d., and for Upper Canada, 11,294 10s. 7d. To the former amount we would just add from many items equally objectionable, three, viz:—Ground rent of Bishop's palace, Quebec, £1,111 2s. 2d.—Police Magistrates, Montreal and Quebec, £1,100, and interest on Quebec Turnpike Trust £1,600—we have then the sum of £20,891, 12s. 11d., for Lower Canada, against £11,294 8s. 10d. for Upper Canada.

We have not noticed the amount spent from the public revenue in deepening Lake St. Peter, to improve the value of public property in Montreal, or the £100,000 voted for the sufferers by fire in Quebec. Neither have we included the one hundred thousand pounds voted to French Rebels, or the four hundred thousand pounds expended in moving Parliaments and burning public buildings because we think further evidence unnecessary to shew the aim and certain consequences to the Anglo Saxon race, from that union with the French Canadians which Mr. Hincks is now exerting himself to perpetuate and which Mr. Cameron declares he will maintain "happen what may."

In the face of this state of public affairs, with a resolution of Mr. Hincks' standing on the proceedings of the Provincial Parliament to saddle us with an increase of twenty millions of dollars to the public debt, to be squandered in a Railroad scheme, and with a combination against us threatening a degraded serfdom, we find many of our countrymen going to the hustings at the present election on the question of the Clergy Reserves alone, quarrelling over a mess of ecclesiastical porridge, whilst our en

To the Electors of the WEST RIDING OF ELGIN.

GENTLEMEN.—The recent dissolution of the House of Assembly has again imposed the duty upon you of selecting a member to represent your interests in the provincial Parliament.

In anticipation of a general election, under the new Representation Act, I was solicited, some time since, by a number of the electors in the Riding, to become a candidate at the next election, and their choice was afterwards confirmed by the unanimous decision of the convention held at Wallacetown. I feel honored by this preference, and I naturally claim—from old associations, a long residence among you, and an intimate acquaintance with many of those whom I address—the privilege of taking a warm interest in your local and general prosperity, which has been and is identified with my own.

With this conviction, I am induced to offer myself for your suffrages, satisfied that no pledge is necessary on my part to assure you that I shall lose no opportunity of promoting the interests of the County.

My political opinions, as most of you are aware, are moderately Conservative; yet I shall at all times support such measures, from whatever parties they may emanate, as I conscientiously consider calculated to promote the true interests of the country at large. Those would more immediately claim my attention, which would tend to develop the resources of our own magnificent country; and among these, the project of a Southern Railway would receive my strongest support, as being calculated to have a powerful influence on our local prosperity.

On the subject of the Clergy Reserves, they have always been, and now are, a real difference of opinion, as the best mode of settling the question. My own conviction is, that the peace and well-being of Upper Canada depend upon their immediate secularization. Respecting their ultimate destination, while I regard most favorably their appropriation to the purposes of popular education, I shall, nevertheless, feel myself bound on this point to carry out, by my vote, if you elect me, the wishes of my constituents.

On all matters of public interest I shall always feel the greatest pleasure in consulting and acting with you, in order to secure your happiness and prosperity.

So soon as the writ of election for the West Riding of the County is received, I shall wait upon you and confer with you at large on all matters of public interest.

In conclusion, should you do me the honor to elect me as your representative, I shall feel that the ties that have hitherto existed between us are drawn closer, and I shall therefore endeavor a deeper and more lasting interest in your welfare and prosperity, from the new relations which will have sprung up between us.

I am, gentlemen, your obedient servant.

To the Electors of the West Riding OF MIDDLESEX.

GENTLEMEN,—

It is now some months since a number of you requested me to allow myself to be put in nomination as a candidate to represent your interest in Parliament.

Having assured myself by personal canvass of an extensive support, I made up my mind to accept your kind offer.

Parliament being now dissolved, the Elections will in all probability take place forthwith, I shall therefore immediately devote myself to an unwearied canvas for your suffrages, and pledge myself not to retire until the last vote is polled.

As soon as the necessary arrangements are completed, I shall make known to you by Handbill the different localities where I shall meet you for the purpose of explaining my views on the various political questions of the day. In the mean time,

I am Gentlemen,
Your obedient Servant

TO THE CONSERVATIVE ELECTORS

Of the East Riding of Middlesex.

GENTLEMEN:

The Present Ministry having long since lost the confidence of the country, have at last been condemned and defeated in their place in Parliament; they still however refuse to deliver up the Seals of Office as required by constitutional usage and the principles of Responsible Government by which they profess to be guided.

Parliament was dissolved on the 23rd of June last, Writs were that day issued for a general election, and you will be called upon in the course of a few days to elect a fit and proper person to represent your interests in the next provincial Parliament, under the new act for extending the Representation of the country.

In the month of March last you did me the honor through a convention chosen by yourselves of nominating me as a Conservative candidate for this Riding: I feel grateful for the honor intended me, and for the confidence manifested by your choice: I accept the nomination and shall, if elected, endeavour to justify to some extent at least the good opinion which your partiality has attended to me, and I trust I shall ever be found true to the Conservative principles which have generally been advocated by the party to which I profess to belong. The first of these principles is—Loyalty to the Queen and British Connexion.

I shall devote my zeal to the difficult task of checking the wholesale system of jobbing so prevalent in high quarters, and so injurious to public morality and the best interests of all classes of society, and I shall assist in the investigation and exposure of many and grave charges, in these respects, now pending in the Ministry appear to have subjected themselves.

I shall urge the immediate and final settlement of the Clergy Reserves upon fair and equitable principles, having due regard for the various religious bodies at present interested in their distribution.

I shall advocate the extension of Railroads throughout the province as essential to our agricultural and commercial interests and as opening up and developing the resources of the country, and I shall assist in advancing every measure which I may consider the interest of the Province requires, without regard to the party from which such measure may originate.

The present Assessment Law is in my opinion defective, and imposes too heavy a tax upon the Agricultural and other industrial classes, while others are enabled to avoid payment almost altogether. I shall give my best attention to the alteration of this Act, so as to make its provisions less burdensome to the classes specified.

I shall have the honor of meeting you at the Hustings, and will then enter more fully into the questions now before the country.

WM. HORTON.

London, July 3, 1854. 478-m

To the Independant Electors of the TOWN OF LONDON.

GENTLEMEN.—The recent action of the Government in suddenly dissolving the House of Assembly, at a most inconvenient season, and in a manner wholly unconstitutional, and without precedent in Parliamentary history, since the days of Oliver Cromwell and notwithstanding the offer made by the opposition, in the true spirit of loyal and reliable Legislation, to pass the new Franchise Law, and other measures essential to sustain the constitutional government of the country, renders it necessary that you should again exercise your important privilege of electing your representative for the new parliament.

The members of the late House who endeavored to the last, to withstand the ministerial dictation which required them to do the bidding of the government without being satisfied, and who have, by so doing, upheld the liberties of a British Parliament, and the rights of British freemen, need not certainly, be ashamed, once more to appear before their constituency. Accordingly, having been honored with your confidence, I feel bound by my again appealing to my fellow townsmen, upon a matter of such vital importance to the future liberties of themselves and their children. And I feel encouraged the more, to make this appeal, since I have again received the invitation of the Conservative electors at this town, unanimously expressed at a meeting held for that purpose, to allow myself to be put in nomination as their candidate—and, consequently I cheerfully responded to their call.

After the many years during which you have had an opportunity of knowing and testing my political opinions it would be tedious, and I conceive useless to attempt an explanation of them, further than to state that I hold the same conservative principles with a wide and liberal application to the wants of our rapidly rising and prosperous country. To foster the invaluable blessings of religious freedom, to establish a substantial and enlightened system of education, and to rectify or remove everything shown to be an abuse, is the line of policy which will always have my warmest and most strenuous support. On the subject of the Clergy Reserves, viz:

That a more equitable distribution of them is just and necessary, but that it is the intention of the original grant should be preserved.

The immediate interest and advancement of London whether through the centralization of railroads or any other public improvements shall always receive my first and best attention, and exertion. And I hope that if I again have the honor to be entrusted with your confidence, that, whether as regards the interests of the town, or the welfare of the province, all my energies will be directed towards the public good.

I am, gentlemen, your obed'nt servant.

This is a very valuable property, a large amount of business can be carried on, its nearness to the Railroad by means of the Gravelled Roads recently made to it, brings this property within an hours transit to London. It offers a very rare chance for a limited capital. A vast increase in the value of this property may with certainty be calculated upon.

Lot 5, forms the other part of the lot, containing 50 Acres, 20 acres of which are cleared. The whole of this valuable estate is well deserving the attention of parties purchasing Farms, &c. The splendid situation of this property for farming purposes, so near to the Great Western Railway Station, and upon good roads, and surrounded with the most beautiful scenery of Western canada, strongly recommends itself to the immediate notice of parties desirous of purchasing property that must double and tribble its present value in a very short time, the increase in the value of Lumber, the rapid rise in the value of property in Delaware and its neighborhood, will justify this conclusion. This is a rare chance and not to be lost sight of by parties seeking farms and without delay should be inspected. The crops will be reserved. Possession given after harvest.

CASH SYSTEM

25 per cent. Cheaper than the Credit System.

IT is a well known fact that those giving credit (especially in the Tailoring line) are obliged, in order to make their business pay, to charge the well-meaning and good-paying customer with the garments of those who dress well but never pay.

He will assure his customers that they will only have to pay for their own garments, and that at the rate of 25 per cent. less than formerly charged under the credit system.

His stock will be found to consist of the latest and best materials of Home and Foreign Manufacture, consisting in part of

He has just received the latest fashions from Europe and America, and will continue to receive monthly the very latest styles. THE FOREST WINE.

THIS excellent MEDICAL WINE and the FOREST PILLS are fast gaining the good will, and becoming favorite medicine of the people, and known as a most valuable remedy in the cure of Dyspepsia, Habitual Costiveness, Liver Complaint, Asthma, Piles, Obstinate Headache Pimples, Blotches and unhealthy color of the skin, Jaundice Ague and Fever, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Complaints incident only to Females, Languishing Weakness, Night Sweats, Nervous Disorders, Bilious Disorders, General Ill Health, and impaired state of the Constitution.

But a short time has elapsed since these great and good medicines have been made known to the public, yet thousands have experienced their good effects. Invalids given over by their physicians as incurable, have been restored to sound and vigorous health by their use. These medicines are unlike any other. Their two-fold properties act directly on those organs of the stomach liver and bowels, which secrete the fluids, and separate the impurities from the blood. The Wine and Pills never Weaken but give strength and animation to both body and mind. The great amount of good these medicines have done the sick and afflicted, have induced thousands to come forward of them to their friends and the public. Individuals of the highest integrity have voluntarily testified to the world in favor of their extraordinary virtues.

DR. I. A. STANLEY,

of Princeton, New Jersey, in a letter from Princeton New Jersey, dated Nov. 16, 1849, declares that in all his experience he had never seen anything to compare with the Forest Wine and Pills, at the same time relating several cases of constitutional debility and scrofulous affections, which it cured in an incredible short time. Among the testimonials of the Medical Faculty of New York, who have witnessed the great results of the Forest Wine and Pills, and recommended it in numerous complaints, will be found the names of the celebrated Dr. M. T. Goodman, Dr. L. Cannan, Dr. Chilton, Dr. Wm. Brown, Dr. Marvin, Dr. J. M. Moreano, and others.

TESTIMONY

Mr. Johnson Burke, a highly respectable citizen of Waverly Place, New York:

Dr. G. W. HALSEY—Dear Sir: I esteem the Forest Wine as the king of Medicines. It has done for me in three weeks what three physicians failed to do in as many months. In 1846 I became the victim of the Heart disease and Nervous Affections, which have been growing on me ever since, until I procured your Forest Wine and Pills, although I had wasted several hundred dollars for medical attendance. During the last two years I was obliged to keep my house nearly all the time and gave up all hopes of recovery. My complaint was of that class of which nature sinks and life becomes a burthen. Seeing your Forest Wine Advertised, I concluded to give it a trial, and before finishing the third bottle I felt like a different person, and was able to resume business again. I am entirely cured by taking five bottles. For the benefit of those afflicted with similar complaints you are at liberty to publish this.

Yours &c.
JOHNSON BURKE,
Waverly Place, N. Y.

General Debility, Emaciation, wasting of the Body &c. Many persons are afflicted with some one of the above complaints without being able to trace it to any particular cause. And therefore delay the use of the proper remedy till the disease becomes constitutional. These disorders often characterized by a sense of sinking, or entire suction after exercise. Some experience sluggishness, lassitude and at times paleness or flushing of the countenance, palpitation of the heart or like symptoms. The excellent effects which have ever attended the use of the Forest Wine and Pills, in every species of debility, is conclusive evidence of its happy results in this class of disorders. Many have resorted to these medicines as an ultimatum and been speedily cured. For various disorders and debility the Wine and Pills are to be taken according to the directions on the label.

TO THE LADIES.

The beauty and loveliness accompany the highest person of health which again invariably follows the USE OF THE BLOOD. What artificial colouring equal that vivid expression of countenance which emanates from health? What paints can compare with the crimsoned colored blood coursing its fullness and hue through the transparent texture of the skin? What charms are more captivating than those of nature in her highest perfection? Let Dr Halsey's wine supply the place of all cosmetics. The use of this excellent wine in a short time creates pure, rich blood which, coursing through the veins, penetrates the minutest fibres, and gives strength towards the surface of the skin, causing all sickly pimples and blotches to disappear, imparting a healthy color to the skin and brilliant expression to the eyes.

THIS IS NATURAL BEAUTY.

In corroboration of these facts, Dr. Halsey has many testimonials. The following is from a lady of most respectable standing in society, sent to us by her brother living in Rutgers street,

New York, July 7th, 1849.

G. W. HALSEY—

My sister, from her youth, had been in very delicate health, complaining frequently of weakness of the chest, followed with a cough. About the age of 18 she began to get much worse. For six months previous to commencing with your medicines she had not been able to walk out of the house. Her countenance was greatly emaciated, yellow and sickly. Her face and neck was covered with disagreeable pustules; eyes very much sunken, and her cough increasing. In fine, she bore every appearance of soon becoming an unhappy victim to consumption. At this time I procured for her some of your Forest Wine and Pills, which she commenced using according to the directions. She gradually improved as she moved up the use of them. Her first symptoms of recovery was uncommonly good appetite, her face finally became smooth and her cheeks rosy. Her cough left her together. She is now strong and vigorous and presents the finest example of health I ever witnessed.

JOHN S. MAXWELL.

GUM-COATED FOREST PILLS,

Manufactured on the same principle as the Forest Wine which it is an important adjunct. They are coated with pure Gum Arabic, an important invention, for which Dr. Halsey has received the only Patent ever granted on Pills by the Government of the United States.

Dr. Halsey's Forest Wine and Gum-coated Forest Pills unite to accomplishing the same great end, THE PURIFICATION OF THE BLOOD, THE RENOVATION & RESTORATION OF THE STOMACH AND BOWELS.

The life principle of man is the blood, no sooner are those organs of the stomach which secrete the blood, cleansed of morbid matter and restored to healthy action by the use of the Forest Pills, and pure rich blood made to flow in the veins, by the use of the Forest Wine, than disease begins to vanish and strength and energy of body returns. This is the principle on which is founded those great medicines, and by which nearly all diseases are cured.

The Forest Wine is put up in large square bottles, with Dr. Halsey's name blown in the glass. One Dollar per bottle, or six bottles for Five Dollars. Gum-coated Forest Pills, 25c. per box.

STRINGS of all kinds and of superior quality; in short, every thing which can or may be found in a well and carefully selected Music Store.

The PIANOS are made by the following celebrated Gentlemen, viz:

CHICKERING STODDART & DUNHAM,

Acknowledged to be the best on this part of the Globe, as are the MELODIANS, manufactured by PRINCE & CO. PIANOS and MELODIANS sold as Cheap and on as favourable Terms as they can be procured in Toronto, or from the Maker's themselves.

Besides these Pianos of Chickering, Stodart & Dunham. Mr. Kordes keeps constantly on hand Pianos of other good makers, such as Baron and Raven, Gilbert, Gale, etc. Also second hand Pianos, from £10 upwards to £50. Old Pianos taken in exchange, and a liberal allowance made. Pianos Tuned and repaired. All orders from a distance promptly attended to.

Mr. Kordes has constantly on hand an assortment of very superior Brass Instruments, for the formation and use of Bands, as Ophiclides, Sax horns, Trombones, Conopeans, Bugles, Post horns, French horns, etc., which will be sold low, and on very favorable terms.

Mr. Kordes would just say a few word- regarding the Pianos of Chickering, Stodart & Dunham, in the first place, they are warranted to keep good and sound in all their parts, for any number of years, provided they receive good treatment.

In the second place, any person having such a thing as what is called an ear for music, will, without looking at the makers name, be able to detect the difference between a Stodart, a Dunham or a Chickering, to a Piano from any other maker, without exception; the woody, tinny, harsh kind of sound, so predominant in other instruments, is changed into a mellow, sweet, full and brilliant tone in the Pianos of the above three makers.

As regards keeping in tune: these Pianos require a good tuner 3 times in 12 months and decent treatment, they never require more than this, may, however, sometimes require less. Care and attention is all they need.

LONDON, C. W.

The great popularity which Moffat's Life Pills and Phœnix Bitters have attained in consequence of the extraordinary cures effected by their use, renders it unnecessary for the proprietor to enter into a particular analysis of their medicinal virtues or properties. Having been more than twenty years before the public and having the united testimony of more than Three Millions of persons who have been restored to the enjoyment of perfect health by them, it is believed that their reputation as the best vegetable medicine now before the public admits of no dispute. They are used every city and village in the United States, there are many who are ready to testify to their efficacy in removing disease and giving to the whole system renewed vigor and health.

In cases of Scrofula, Ulcers, Scurvy or Eruptions of the skin the operation of the Life Medicines is truly astonishing, often running in a few days through a vast go of those loathsome diseases by their purifying effects on the blood. Fever and Ague, Dyspepsia, Dropsy, Piles, and in short nearly all diseases, soon yield to their curative influence. No family should be without them, as by their timely use much suffering and expense may be saved.

DEAR SIR.—A sense of duty impels me to forward to you the following certificate:

For the last eight years I have been troubled with a Female Tumor, closer to fair examination, had concealed Physicians all of whom told me there was no cure, except one by the knife, and they would have charged me a high price.

I was about to employ one, when you visited the place and gave me a bottle of your Rheumatic Oil—with instructions to use it internally and externally. I followed your directions implicitly—and in three weeks was entirely cured. Its now five months since the cure and I believe it to be a permanent cure.

London C. W. June 18th, 1852.

MESSRS. REXFORD & Co.

Gentlemen—I have received the Sample bottle of your "Compound Camomile Cordial," and consider it a valuable addition to the delightful class of preparations. The aromatic fragrance and peculiar bitter flavor, in which lies the essential Medicinal qualities appear to be largely mixed and well proportioned, and as they regard tonic is highly beneficial in those forms of Dyspepsia depending on debility or want of tone in the digestive organs. (the form most frequently met with on this continent) your cordial will, I doubt not, form an excellent addition to our Pharmacopœia.

From the knowledge possessed by me of Mr. Rexford, and his very high reputation as a Pharmaceutist, Chemist and Druggist, I can confidently recommend the Proprietors of this valuable Tonic to my professional brethren, and to the public, as a desirable and invigorating cordial.

DR. SHERWOOD'S Galvanic Embrocation. This Galvanic Embrocation is used with positive and permanent success in all diseased Rheumatism, as late or chronic, seated in the head joints or limbs, Gout, The Dolorous Nervous and Sick Headache, Paralysis, Fits, Epilepsy, Palpitation of the Heart, Spinal and Hip Complaints, stiffness of the Joints Lumbago, Neuralgia, Acute and Chronic Diseases, General Debility, Deficiency of Diseases, Giddiness Chills and Scalds, &c.

It is now generally admitted by the learned and scientific that the galvanic power called into action or Magnetism, is, in fact, the vitality of life, and that disease, in many of its most painful forms is entirely owing to the absence of this Galvanic or Magnetic power in its healthy proportions. If then, we can readily supply this vanished power when it is thus difficult, we can successfully combat disease, and this has been duly and judiciously attained by the most wonderful scientific discovery of combining Magnetism or Galvanism with a fluid which has cost the inventor of this remedy years of study and labor.

There is not an intelligent Physician who has kept pace with the progress of science that does not readily approve of the Magnetic power in various diseases, and there is scarcely a medical journal extant in this country or Europe which makes its appearance without the statement of various cases, showing some new effect of these wonderful telegraphs, or corroborating previous experience of their beneficial use. The inventor of the Galvanic Embrocation has great pleasure in being able to state that a majority of the most distinguished physicians of New York constantly recommend it in their practice, and from many of them he has received the kindest testimonials of approval and encouragement.

Poetry.

Sympathy.

BY BISHOP HEBER.

A knight and a lady once met in a grove,
While each was in quest of a fugitive love;
A river ran mournfully murmuring by,
And they wept in its waters for sympathy.

"O never was knight such a sorrow that bore!"
"O never was maid so deserted before!"
"From life and its woes let us instantly fly,
And jump in together for company."

They searched for an eddy that suited the deed,
But here was a bramble, and there was a weed;
"How tiresome it is!" said the fair, with a sigh;
So they sat down to rest them in company.

They gazed on each other, the maid and the knight:
How fair was her form and how goodly his height;
"One mournful embrace" sobbed the youth, "ere we die!"
So kissing and sobbing kept company.

"O had I but loved such an angel as you!"
"O had But my swain been a quarter as true!"
"To mas such perfection, how blinded was I!"
Sure now they were excellent company!

At length spoke the lass, 'twixt a smile and a tear—
"The weather is cold for a watery bier:
With summer returns we may easily die—
Till then let us sorrow in company.

Barber, Spare My Chin.

A PARADY.

Barber, spare my chin.
Touch not a single hair,
Let not thy ruthless steel invade,
My cherished goatee there!
Withold thy barber-ous blow;
Think of thy future lot,
Oh! barber, let it grow.
Thy steel must be in it not.

'Twas my forefathers pride,
His glo y and ne ow,
As with a trembling hand,
He stroked his goatee down
Blast not my future lot,
Forbear thy cruel blow,
Oh! barber harm it not,
But let my goatee grow!

Oft, when a lisping child,
In innocence arrayed,
My mother fair and mild,
In accents sweet has prayed!
A tear was in her eye,
As she checked my child sh g'ee,
I ask thee with a sigh,
Oh! barbe, let it be!

My heart string to nd it cling
Like ivy to the oak.
Would st thou deep anguish bring,
Forbear thy barber-ous stroke!
The storm without may rave,
Accus'd may be my lot,
While Pee a hand is save,
Thy steel shall harm it not.

RUSSIA AND TURKEY.

The War.

MOVEMENTS AT THE SEAT OF WAR.

FROM THE BALTIC.

Sir Charles Napier was lying in line of battle before Cronstadt but up to June 27th no attack had been made.

The English frigate Desperate had fired some shots, which the batteries returned.

Boomarsund was a second time bombarded on the 25th and 27th of June, and the fortifications were destroyed.

THE DANUBE.

On the 21st and 22nd ult., an important battle was fought. The particulars are derived from a dispatch from Bezault. Omar Pasha fell on the rear of 25,000 troops near Silistria, on the 21st, and the battle lasted nearly 2 days.

The Russians lost about 25,000. They however made good their retreat. The plans of the campaign and the movements of the hostile fleets are kept a profound secret.

A telegraph is being built to Varna, Shumla, Widdin and Gallipoli.

50,000 Anglo-French troops are still at Varna. St. Arnaud and Prince Napoleon are also there.

On the 22nd the cannonade and attack on the Russians rear guard was heard, and General Canrobert sent three squadrons to reconnoitre.

Omar Pacha is preparing to establish his head quarters at Rutschuk.

The communications with the Danube are kept open as far as Sisrone by the Turkish flotilla.

General Baraguay De Hilliers commands the division of the French army embarking for the Baltic.

The English line of battle ship St. Vincent Royal William, Algiers, Hannibal and Terrible and steamer Lynx and others are embarking a force at Sherborough.

From Asia the news is bad.

On June 19th the Turks met with a severe check in attempting to storm two redoubts between Unrchmen and Kalais. The Russians attacked them on the flank during the assault, and defeated them with a loss of 15,00 men, 13 cannon, 35 standards, and the entire camp equipments.

The crew of the English frigate Sanspareil are fortifying Shukumkaf, and the crew of the English frigate Sampson Entrenchid.

An erroneous account was received the account and stating that the Turks under Selim Pacha had defeated the Russians with heavy loss, but rallying accounts show that the Turks were disastrously defeated.

AUSTRALIA.

The ship Prince of the Seas. 1450 tons, Captain Brown laden with wood and timber has arrived with a mail. She has 29 cabin and thirty steerage passengers, and sailed from Sydney on the 25th of March, three days after the departure of the steamship Unicorn. Her passengers report that business was not brisk at Sydney.

Governor Fitzroy and suite were at Port Curtis, to open that new settlement for the embarkation of produce, where land had already been making a high price, as much as £300 having been given for small frontages. A dray road from Sydney is projected.

Gold ranges from £4 0s 4d, to £4 0s 6d per ounce, flour about £30 per ton bread has advanced from 1s 3d, to 1s 4d per quatern, beef 4½d to 7d per lb, legs of mutton 6 1-2, fresh butter 2s 6d to 3s 6d per lb—Maitland market, wholesale 2s per lb, eggs 2s 6d to 3s per dozen; potatoes 3d per lb., vegetables very dear.

Labour is in great demand, especially for agricultural purposes, and the settlement of respectable families is much retarded through the deficiency of good domestic servants.—Labourer's wages 10s per day, painters wages have recently risen from 12s 6d to 15s, carpenters 20s and 25s; stonemasons 30s, seamen £9 to £10 per month. Those on board the Prince of the Seas will receive £50 for the run to England.

Some fears are entertained of the colonies from attack by the Russians. It is calculated that the banks hold nearly 5,000,000 in specie.

The contemplated alteration of the site for the military barracks from Sydney to Melbourne is very unpopular in the former city.

CHINA.

HONG KONG MAY 6.—We have nothing very striking from the north. Our dates from Shanghai are down to the 2nd ult.

There has been no fresh disturbances and the settlement was quiet. The Imperial Commander in chief was occupied in forming his new encampment on the sites pointed out by the foreign authorities.

The French war steamer Colbert and the English steamer Styx, arrived at Shanghai on the 17th ult. This speedy reinforcement caused great astonishment among the Chinese.

We are now later dates from Pekin than given in our issue—viz to the 18th of March, but later details have reached of the discomfiture of the rebels in the Pelchelee province.

The North China Herald contains the manifesto of the Commissioners the treaty powers justifying the late proceedings and collision with the Imperial troops.

Captain Pearson of the American ship Rose Standish, we regret to say, had died of the wounds he received in the action of the 14th ult.

From Amoy our advices reach to the 28th ult. previously to which there had been threats of an attack on the city, on account of recent executions, which irritated the people, but no further allusion is made to it.

Trade was undisturbed, and a moderate business doing.

At Canton quiet prevails, and no indications of any disturbance.

The continued unfavourable advices from the interior seriously affect the import trade.

Teas and Silks were in the Hoonan, Hunch and Kiang si provinces, and dates of the 21th mention that Ceangcha and Hoonan had been taken by them.

The advices go on to mention that the provinces were overrun by banditti, and the feeling was very strong that the picking of the tea would be affected in those places, and lead to short supplies from them.

BUFFALO, July 22. 1854.

In consequence of various remours concerning cholera at the poor house in this city, a large party of physicians and citizens visited this house to-day and found everything connected with the establishment in the most horrible condition.

Within twenty-four hours fifteen insane persons and seven others had died of cholera and four more were then in a collapsed state.

The house was found to be so foul and filthy that it was found to be almost impossible for persons to enter into it. Its inmates are in the most awful condition imaginable. On inquiry it was found they had been kept on insufficient food, and that of the worst quality. Their regular diet has been for breakfast a piece of bread cut in pieces about five inches square, with coffee made from barley and a piece of salt pork; for dinner, they had the same fare with the exception of the coffee, and for supper they had bread and tea.

This is the kind of food the poor inmates have been accustomed to.

Scurvy was also found to be raging in as well as well as cholera.

Several deaths from actual starvation had taken place, particularly among the children.

The disclosures caused the most intense excitement throughout the city.

The locomotive turned a complete somersault anding in a cornfield; the baggage and express car partly torn to atoms. The engineer was slighdy injured. Mr. Stevens the Express Messenger, was badly injured and it is supposed that he will not recover. The passengers escaped unhurt.

RUSSIA HAVING A TURN ALL ROUND—NEW DIFFICULTY WITH THE UNITED STATES

(Translated from the Courier des Etats Unis July 20.)

Here is some news which is likely to cool down a little the manifestations of American sympathies towards Russia.—A private letter from the Sandwich affirms that a difficulty of the most serious kind has just sprung up betwen General Sawoika the Governor of Kamaschatka and of the Russian provinces on the North Western coast of America, and the United States consul at Novo-Akanguelsk (New Archangel.)

From its origin its character, and the questions to which it gives rise, this difficulty made be attended with the most important results, add may lead to a rupture between Russia and the United States, according to the course which the Government of the former may think proper to pursue.

From time immemorial the Americans have exercised the right of fishing and trading along the whole of the Northwest coast indiscriminately.

This right had never been contested, at least since the treaties executed between Russia and the administrations at Washington in the years 1821, 1824 and 1844.

In April last General Sawoika, acting under the powers that he held from his government, granted to a wealthy company the exclusive right of fishing upon the entire extent of the coast where the Russians hold their possessions.

This grant encompassed a very large zone and tract over which the Russians have no right whatever.

In the meantime General Sawoika announced to the foreign representatives the agreement just concluded, and prochaimed that those ships which should not respect the rights of the grantees, would be seized and that their owners would have to pay a fine of $3,000.

This measure created much excitement and the United States Consul protested in a most energetic manner against it. Notwithstanding this protest, the Russian officials have detained by force in the Bay of Sitka, an American and a Chilian ship, under pretence that they were specially fitted out for the fisheries just prohibited. Such was the state of things at the date of the latest advices.

In order that our readers may appreciate the exact range of this question, it is necessary to mention that Russia has, at several times claimed the most important districts of the western coast of America.—Upon these questions the most serious difficulties have arisen between the two countries, and up to the present time they have never been satisfactory settled, the lost treaty of 1844 being but a provisional one.

A military insurrection headed by O'Donnell has broken out in Spain. 4,000 of the Madrid garrison has marched out towards Toledo.

The collision between the Austrian and Russian forces in Moldavia is imminent.—The Russians had defended the Lireth and the Austrian commander had gone to the seat of war with orders to insist on the evacuation of Moldavia, which the Russians refuse.

Intelligence from Madrid to 30th ult., states that the town was much agitated. The insurgents to the number of 4,000 were at the Campo del Mora; about a gun shot from the place.

Gen. Campuzano, director of artillery had refused to attack them, although protesting his fidelity to his Queen.

Gen Lara also refused on the pretext that he could not rely on the garrison.

O'Donnell, it is said, has summoned the Queen to change her ministry, and unless she did so he would attack the town the same evening.

The Queen had replied to the summons that she will resist to the last.

Paris, July 4 h.

The Moniteur contains a despatch from Bayonne of the 3rd instant, which states that on the 29th ult., the Queen of Spain appeared on the Prado, and was well received by the troops and the populace.

A despatch from the Spanish Government states that on the 1st at 4 p. m. the Queen's troops attacked the insurgents and gained a signal advantage over them, the latter were routed, and many officers and privates have asked for permission to return to their duty.

Subsequent advices to the 2nd inst., state that Madrid was covered with barricades.

The populace are crying death to Sartorius.

The abdication of the Queen is under discussion and the formation of the Regency, of which Narvaez should be a member.

On the other hand the Patrie declares the news from Spain to be favorable to the Government, and that the insurgents after having been defeated marched to Toledo.

FROM THE BALTIC.

A despatch dated Hamburg July 4th, states that on the 29th ult., the Anglo-French fleets were lying before Cronstadt and that they expected a general attack the next day.

The attacking fleet consists of 12 screw line of battle ships, 9 French ships of the line and seven steam corvettes.

The bombardment of Bomersund began at 5 P. M., on 30th ult.

The masked batteries were dismantled at 7 o'clock, and at ten the Russian magazines were in a blaze.

One account states the English loss at 3 men, and another 4 killed and 7 wounded.

The Russians fought desperately,

A bomb fell on the deck of the Hector, and midshipman Lucas threw it overboard before exploded.

FROM THE BLACK SEA.

On the 24th June, eight Russian ships came out of Sebastipol and attacked three allied ships at the batteries.

The allied ships engaged were the Furious Terrible and Escaries.

The affair seems to be a running fight.

The Furious was considerably damaged. The main body of the allied fleets were at Baldick, some English boats taking soundings at the mouth of the Danlever exchanged shots with some Cossacks.

The Times says in a leading article, that it is probable Sir Charles Napier intends to offer battle to the Russian fleet to the Russian fleet or to reconoitre the defences of Cronstadt, rather than to make a regular attack upon that place.

At the same time he is desirous to ascertain whether it is possible to give a more systematic character to these operations than they have yet had, and to learn the effect of the fire of the large ships upon the Russian land defences.

Bombardment of Bomarsound.

A correspondent sends us the following account of the bombardment of Bomarsound:

"On the 21st of June the Hecla, Captain Hall, the Valorous, Captain Buckle, and the Odin, Scott, paddle steamers, undertook the difficult southerly passage between the Aland Isles towards Bomarsound.

"About 5 o'clock a large round tower appeared in sight, situated upon an elevated position, with two-thirds of its guns in casemates; and on a short time another of a similar description upon a still higher point of elevated ground: a little lower down on the same shore, a semi-circular fort with 80 guns mounted thereon, of which two-thirds were also casemated.

Sideward lay a third tower on the extreme point of the Island of Posto.

"The Hecla opened the cannonade against the fort, which returned it after a quarter of an hour's delay, when the conflict became general.

The English ships moved in a circle at their approach, directing their shots and shells with great precision.

About six o'clock a small battery placed on the border of a wood to the left of the fort and mounting six guns of the horse artillery, supported by sharp shooters opened a hot fire upon the steamers, which was answered with immediate effect.

"Several bombs fell close in front of this battery, which upon two occasions was deserted by the artillerymen in consequence; but fresh troops continually rushed to the guns with great courage and determination, while the riflemen maintained a constant fire.

A bomb with a burning fuza lit upon the deck of the Hecla, a young midshipman named Lucas, with great coulness, caught it up and threw it into the water before it exploded.

At 7 o'clock this battery was silenced and deserted by the men.

The English vessels then cast anchor in front of the fortress and continued their bombardment of it and the tower on the opposite side.

The fire was replied to at short intervals from the forts; but almost all the Russian balls fell short of vessels.

About 10 o'clock P. M, fire in the magazine in the further part of the fortress, and within the fortress itself appeared to have broken out and was hailed by three loud cheers from the ships crews.

"After the lapse of half an hour, fire was seen to the right of the first named place, which appeared to extend itself quickly; at the same moment a shell from the Valorous passed through the roof of the fortress, where it exploded, upon which Captain Hall threw out the signal "BRAVELY DONE, VALOROUS," which was answered with a hurrah.

At 1 o'clock A. M., on the 22nd, the British ceased firing, weighed anchor and passed through the Rimne on their return.

One man on board the Hecla, and two on board the Odin were slightly wounded but none killed.

Each of the vessels was hit several times by the shots of the enemy, one of which went through the paddle box of the Hecla. Another report mentions four wounded, and that shots had hit the Hecla, and that all the magazines in Bomarsound had been burnt down.

Captain Hall received on the 22nd an order to join Admiral Napier, from which circumstance some decisive operation is supposed to be contemplated.

A fisherman who had managed to escape from the Aland isles to the Faro Sound Shears stated that on the 21st he had heard a cannonade in the direction of Baro Sound, and saw a conflagration on the Finnish coast."

PRIVATE LETTER FROM THE BALTIC.

From the Portsmouth Guardian.

The following letter is from a native of Portsea, now serving in H. M. S. Blenheim in the Baltic.

Faro Sound, June 22nd 1854.

At twelve o'clock on Sunday night last, a party of blue jackets volunteers from different ships in the fleet (free being from Blenheim) rowed four miles up a creek, and having landed, walked five miles inland, where they attacked a Russian telegraph office—took all their signal books, telescopes, &c.,—cut down the staff, and chopped it into fragments.

The party then dug a hole and put in a decent dose of 60 pounds of gunpowder. They then laid a train to it, retired to a respectable distance, fired it, and in less than one minute the foundations of the telegraph office were fighting their way through the clouds to a tremendous height.

The party then took one of the men and made their conduct them to the shortest route by the water side, in case of the Russian cavalry coming down upon them—this being only about two miles from a station where there was a body of cavalry and lots of troops of all sorts.

When he had brought to the waterside they gave him a sovereign, thanked him for his kindness and despatched him back to his comrades.

They returned on board about nine o'clock on Monday morning,

Our men had to pass through a village on way, and as they were strongly armed with cutlasses and loaded muskets with fixed bayonets, the villagers ran out to beg for their lives, thinking the new comers were Frenchmen, as they do not much like the French. However, on being given to understand that they were Englishmen, the women turned from sobs to smiles, and the men some of whom could speak a few words of English began to speak and call them "good men." They also understood shaking the hands as a token of friendship.

The little Finsk lasses soon found that a British tar would sooner kiss them, than kill them, and this they soon experienced.

They were very pretty girls, and in a few minutes they seemed to get very much attached to our men. So much for the life of a jolly tar.

THE AUSTRIANS IN WALLACHIA,—THE ITALIAN HARVEST.

Special Correspondent of the Daily News.

Turin June 30th.

I have just passed through Slavonia and Crotia, the Papal states Modena and Parma, and write you from Piedmont.

There is only one opinion everywhere as to the final course of Austria, and all believe that she is deceiving the Western Powers. If not, she would have openly declared herself for England and France—the shortest method of keeping under the revolutionary elements within her own bosom.

It is astonishing that the Porte and her allies have been deceived into the monstrous blunder of suffering Austria to occupy the Danubian Principalities.

The only plausible reason to be given is that they could not help it, and submitted to necessity. It is very small benefit to Turkey or to the West, to have Austria there instead of Russia.

There is, however, one consolation, that if she attempts to take possession of Serbia she will be everywhere met with deserved detestation and a guerilla war. Poor Serbia, struggling for freedom, and prosperity and prosperity one now to be given over to this malicious tyranny!

If the western powers put any confidence in Austria, they will find it like a trust in the shadow of Egypt, and a broken reed that will pierce their hand

Universal, bitter, resolute hatred, is the is the only term to be given to the feeling of Hungarians, Serbians, Stavonians, Crotians and Italians towards Austria.

This feeling exists almost without exception in all these bountries and in the whole population. To be exact I mean in ninety-nine out of a hundred. Austria has driven 45,000 of the best citizens of her Lombardo-Venetian territory into Piedmont as exiles.—To speak of something better, the harvest in the north of Italy has begun,

It will be the most abundant that has been gathered for the last three years. This is an infinite blessing, as the last failed, and, the prices are trouvee and the misery great.—From Ravenna to Bologna and from Bologna to Turin, the whole country is like garden laughing with abundance.

Wheat and maize and other productions cover the whole land,

Between Ravanna and Bologna there is a vast quantity of hemp. The silk is secured and the vines, which hang in beautiful festoons from tree to tree, dividing the fields, are said to give no signs of disease as yet. But this last is still doubtful, and the price of ordinary wines is three limes that of common years.

THE PROPOSED CELEBRATION OF THE ANGLO-FRENCH ALLIANCE.

The proposed celebration of the Anglo-French Alliance in England, by "national festivals," is treated by the London Times in the following indignant style:—

All the mayors, and all the town councils, and all the lord provosts—nay, the official representatives of Oxford high tables and Cambridge combination rooms are to slaughter the fatted ox and stalled buck, and to swallow plenteous libations in honour of cosmopolitan unity and the 'advancement of science, development of art,' &c.

We assuredly do not undervalue the importance to the cause of European civilization of the present most happy and cordial alliance between France and England. Besides its vast and immediate political advantages, it is a great moral spectacle to the world. That two great and powerful nations should agree to lay aside their ancient rivalries for the sake of others rather than themselves—that they should willingly devote their blood and treasure to the defence of the poor and oppressed of an alien faith and strange nationality, this is a display of self sacrifice and fidelity to duty which we reverence too highly to permit it to be insulted by the vulgar ravelries of a Mansion-house feed, the fervid eloquence of a Toast-master Toole, and the pagentry of the buck-skinned functionary who, at civic banquets, ushers the company into the Egyptian Hall. A union so deep and true as that which happily exists between England and France can only be desecrated by this mode of celebrating it. What an estimate of international amity, to suppose that it can be cemented by stewing the fat of turtles and immolating hecatombs of kine! We can quite understand, however, how some gentlemen may see the advancement of science in the composition and deglution of milk-punch; and it is at least one method of diffusing knowledge to initiate French savans in the mysteries of white bait, and in the curious arts of "crave silence," and "three times three."

But there are, it seems, to be other parties to this tomfoolery besides the civic promoters of the affair. We are all to be made responsible for the guttling and guzzling of this synod of hardened epicures. One Davis "desires it to be understood that this is not a co-operative movement, but a public and national one"—by which we suppose the man means that the public is to pay for it. Against this insolence we positively protest. Of course, if our "distinguished countrymen who three years ago enjoyed the splendid hospitality of Paris" wish to give a return dinner, let them do it. "Our distinguished countrymen" on that occasion were the Lord Mayor and a posse of City shopkeepers, and we have no objection to any display of gratitude into which they may think fit to launch. But do not let them disguise the duty of paying their debts of hospitality under the grandiloquent nonsense of a "National Festival." A national festival is, properly speaking, a festival of nations. We might, if we pleased ask leave to hire the plains of Hungary for this purpose, or, after the fashion of Polynesia, invite all the Gallic tribes to a grand clearance of the South Downs, and to a universal boviede of the cattle on a thousand hills. Anything less than this, however, we cannot regard as a national Festival. And even were the thing, in any sense, more real and true than a vulgar piece of Mansion-house sentimentalism, the question occurs—is this a time for such reckless expenditure and profligate vanity? The world is now entering on what may prove a long and desolating war. Great Empires are confronting each other in arms—a question which has been for years the rock ahead of European statesmen is at length brought to a bloody arbitrament—and we are anxiously awaiting the issue. The hour of disaster itself is not so serious as the crisis of suspense. It is the time for listening to the cheers of lieutenant-governors and the lord grammar of civic speeches.

CONFIRMATION OF SCRIPTURE HISTORY.

An article in the last London Quarterly, reviewing Layard's Researches in Nineveh, and Col. Rawlinson's "Uniform Inscriptions," closes with the following testimony to the truthfulness and accuracy of the historical statements of Scripture:—

"We have also, in the results of these explorations, very powerful corroboration of the truth of Holy Scriptures. They have furnished these corroborations by exhibiting the names and actions of individuals specially mentioned in its sacred pages—as Sargon, Sennacherib, Esshariaddon, Nebuchadnezzar, and Cyrus. These kings are spoken of by the prophets, and other inspired writers, in connection with the most sublime miracles and prophecies. But the name and memorial of some of these have perished from the pages of profane history, sceptics have dared to sneer at the relations of Scripture concerning them. But how does the case now stand? The records of these sovereigns are found in the city which the sacred writers said they occupied, and, as clearly as can be ascertained, at the times, in the order, and under the circumstances which were ascribed to them. It would be easy to strengthen this general evidence by the citation of several pertinent instances; we simply refer to one. And we ask with confidence, what can be more striking than the account, in the Scriptures of Sennacherib's campaign against Judah, regarded as a confirmation of Holy Writ? Every fact stated in the Bible as occurring in Judea, is repeated in the inscriptions; and the ruin of his army is virtually admitted by Sennacherib, in the fact of Hezekiah's continued possession of Jerusalem. The memorable terms, 'I left to him his capital city, and some inferior towns found in, elevated neither the mercy nor the forbearance of the proud Assyrian, but distinctly proclaimed that his means of taking those places had been suddenly and miraculously destroyed.

"In addition to this historical testimony, we direct attention to one rather singular instance of fulfilled prophecy. In the prediction of Balaam, it is said, 'And he looked on the Kenites, and took up his parable and said, Strong is thy dwelling place, and thou puttest thy nest in a rock. Nevertheless, the Kenite shall be wasted, until Asshur shall carry thee away captive.' (Num. xxiv. 21, 22.) This was delivered a short time before the Israelites crossed the Jordan; and, at the same time, the prophet declared, 'Amalek was the first of the nations, but his latter end shall be, that he perish forever.' The Amalekites and Kenites dwelt, at this time, in immediate neighborhood, and continued to do so, until Saul received a command from God to destroy the former tribe. When entering on this work, he sent a message to the Kenites, thus: 'Go, depart, get you down from among the Amalekites, lest I destroy you with them.' 1 Samuel xv. 6. So the Kenites departed from among the Amalekites, and the latter were destroyed, according to the prediction delivered about five hundred years before; while the Kenites still remained subject to the accomplishment of the prophecy respecting them. Here the Holy Scripture leaves the case; but the Assyrian sculptors supply the desired information. In the, as Col. Rawlinson assures us, the captivity of the Kenites, by the Assyrian is duly related.

"These cases might be multiplied, but our limits forbid it. We estimate this corroboration of received truth as of the greatest value, not because we regard the Bible as deficient in demonstrative internal evidence,—we hold this to be complete,—but, because, in past days ancient history has been the favorite field for sceptics and infidels to vaunt their power, and to assail the truth. We may give a striking instance of the happy results of these and other cognate discoveries. Less than half a century ago, one of the most learned Deists of France a man of great energy, genius, and intellectual power, earnestly sought for a theme, in the development of which, he might, as he vainly hoped, destroy the authority of scripture, and subvert the doctrines of the gospel. Having made his selection, he took his stand amid venerable mounds, ruined architecture, and the debris of departed cities. He invoked the genius of the past to teach lessons of wisdom to mankind. The laboured efforts of Volney in his 'Ruins of Empires' failed; and we venture to predict that no similar attempt will ever be made for the like purpose. On the contrary, with our present means of information, if a zealous and enlightened Christian, of competent abilities and learning, were to devote himself to the illustration and defence of revealed truth, we doubt whether he could find a more efficient basis for those purposes than that which is now presented in the ruins and remains of ancient empires. Certainly Assyria, Babylon, Persia, and Egypt, would supply most ample contributions."

THE PAST HISTORY OF LAKE NAVIGATION.—We copy the following from the Cleveland Herald. It will be read with interest by all who are interested in the history of the navigation of Lake Erie.

The Griffin was the first vessel that floated on the Western lakes. She was of sixty tons burthen, completely rigged and on board were several small pieces of cannon, two of them brass. The keel was laid by La Lelie, at Cayuga creek, six miles above Niagara Falls 26th. January 1679; and, after experiencing great difficulty in ascending the Niagara, on the 7th of August she floated on the water of Lake Erie. A voyage was made to Green Bay, which was reached early in September.—On the 18th, the vessel in charge of the pilot and five others, and laden with a rich cargo of furs, was sent back to Niagara. Nothing was ever heard of her, but about the beginning of this century, upon a farm in Erie county, New York, near Eighteen mile creek, a large quantity of wrought iron, supposed to weigh seven or eight hundred pounds and evidently taken from a vessel, were found, much eaten by rust.—About fifteen years after, immediately succeeding a heavy blow, and in the same vicinity, upon the beach, was found the breech of a cannon; and under it another. Words, evidently in the French language, were upon them, and they were probably all that remained of the Griffin.

THE WAY THE MONEY GOES.

Profiting by the old adage—"Money makes the mare to go," the government, with an eye to the main thing, has succeeded in having the supplies for the current year promptly granted and almost without a murmur. By a simple vote of the House, the province is saddled with an enormous bill of expenses, and the people may well wonder how the sum of £295,558 14 6, as the amount for services for 1853, is to be expended, independent of £511,995 13 6 to meet the general expenses of the Government: Interest on Public Debt, Civil List, and £283,701 4 8 for Public Works. For the Militia Staff £2080 is to be provided. Expenses of the two Legislatures £48,390—including £4,500 as an Indemnity to the Lords for their valuable services during the present session? We were not aware that this Idemnity scheme had passed the House of Assembly, but perhaps being sure it is down among the estimates. In the simple matter of salaries to clerks &c., no less a sum than £1,536 11s 2d is required. Pensions extend to £1,019 16s 6d exclusive of various grants seperately voted. For Hospitals and other charities £23,445. Public Institutions £6,349 3s 5d. The Agricultural Bureau, two clerks, and a messenger £2,776. Printing for Public service £5,000. For arming Militia £10,000. Institutions for Deaf and Dumb £200,00. For completing and finishing Normal School £10 000.

Here are enumerated some pretty round sums, which will no doubt cause the reader to wonder at the reckless extravagance of a so called liberal Government. Toronto, as usual, falls in for a large share of the public spoils. In addition to the £60,000 to be expended in building new Parliament Houses, Toronto will enjoy the benefit of the following sums: Lunatic Asylum £7,350. Hospital £1,000, House of Industry £500, Mechanics' Institute £50, Atheneum £100. Scientific Observatory £2,000, do £2915s 5d. Experimental Farm £500, Post Office £3,000, Normal School £10,00, and Upper Canada College £1,111 2s, 2d. Hamilton will receive the following:—Hospital £600 Orphan Asylum 100l, Mechanics' Institute 50l, and for erection of a new Post Office 7,00l. What a contrast between the "ambitious little city" and the ex-seat of Government! An enormous amount of the public funds is annually expended in building up Toronto at the expense of other places, and yet the inhabitants cease not to complain. They have, however, become all of a sudden as meek as cooing doves, and are chuckling mightily over the prospect of the return of the seat of Government, which they are in a fair way of getting. It takes a liberal Government to be liberal with the public funds. The present ministers assumed power solemnly pledged to Retrenchment: how far they have fulfilled that pledge the public will be enabled to judge from the enormous expenditure to be provided for during the coming year. Instead of carrying out Retrenchment, they have added largely to the public expenditure, increased the salaries of officials, and established needless departments, such as the Agricultural Bureau, from which the country can never expect to derive any benefit. What a mockery the cry of retrenchment has proved, and how basely Messrs. Hincks; Rolph, & Co. have deceived those who placed in them the most implicit confidence.

THE HEMP TRADE.

From the Belfast Whig.

Under the head of "Hemp from Canada," will be found an extract from a valuable article on "Canada," which appears in the last edition of the Messrs. Black's Encyclopædia Britannica. At this time, when we are shut out from supplies of hemp from Russia, and when the prospect of the renewal of our trade with that country is remote enough, it is of the greatest importance to know that our dominions in North America may be able to furnish us with all the hemp which we require, and that the quality grown may be made to rival the hemp of Russia. A double benefit will certainly be conferred on this country, if we are able to supply our own manufactures with the article, and, at the same time, to give an impulse to an important branch of agricultural improvement in a country, whose interests are identical with our own.

HEMP FROM CANADA.—The growth of hemp in Canada assumes a position of great national importance at the present time when British supplies have been so seriously checked by our war with Russia. The important towns upon the Eastern coast of Scotland, which are the chief seats of the linen trade, are suffered severely by the check received by the trade on account of our being so dependent on Russia for this great staple of a growing branch of our national manufactures. Were our own dominions in North America to supply hemp for our manufactures in future, instead of our being, as hitherto, so wholly dependent upon Russia for supply, the change would be attended with signal advantage in more than one point of view. We would be giving employment to our own colonies, and thus fostering the growth of a country upon the verge of becoming a great nation, speaking our own language, and giving proof to the world of the advantages of those enlightened principles of free government by which our own enviable national greatness and prosperity have obtained. It may, perhaps, not be generally known that hemp grows spontaneously in Canada, particularly in all the lower or Eastern districts of the country. And it is stated, upon respectable authority, that under good cultivation, the quality is equal to Russian hemp. The soil and climate of Canada is believed to be eminently adapted to the growth both of both hemp and flax. Very many years ago, the culture of hemp in Canada was commenced with all the energy and vigor which a well-grounded confidence in the capabilities of the country for such production warranted; but, owing solely, it is believed to the want of efficient modes of converting the raw produce into a prepared state, and thus securing an immediately profitable market, the culture of hemp in Canada, upon any extensive scale was then abandoned. As memorials of the comparative success of the cultivation of hemp in Canada at that period, there at least were, not many years ago, and there may be still, farmers in Lower Canada holding medals from the British Society of Arts and Sciences for samples of hemp produced upon their farms. The elaborate work of the late Col. Bouchette on British America affords a good deal of information in regard to the capabilities of Canada for the growth of hemp, and explains the causes of the comparitive failure of these efforts, made many years ago, to introduce the cultivation of this important staple upon an extensive scale into Canada. Col. Bouchette was Surveyor-General of Lower Canada, and a corresponding member of the Society of Arts in London, and he was therefore enabled, both from his official position and general acquirements, to furnish facts and opinions of unquestionable value bearing upon the subject in question. According to calculations of Colonel Bouchette, the cost of one ton of merchantable hemp landed in England would be not quite 21*l*. sterling. The market price of Russian hemp in the English market at that time was 40*l*, 15*s*. sterling. It is at least highly probable, from what has been stated, that an important national staple of our manufactures may be procured to any extent, of equal value, and quite as cheaply, if not more so, in one of our own colonies, as the same article for which we are now dependant for our supply upon an inimical foreign power, which may to the utmost of its resources, as has been now proved place our interests in jeopardy to an inconvenient extent for some time, commercially as well as politically. The American navy use at present large quantities of native grown hemp. Mr. W. R. Shubrick, chief of the bureau of construction, navy department, United States, in a report to the secretary of the navy, recommends greater attention to the detail of cultivation, curing, and packing native-grown hemp, "which, in the opinion of the Bureau, would be found to be very beneficial in effect, and, in the course of time, make it altogether independent of a foreign market, for a material so important for naval purposes." Mr. Gardiner, Superintendent of the Ropework of the United States Navy-yard at Memphis, in a report of his department, further substantiates these views, concluding that, with proper care, "American hemp may, (as experiment has proved) be made to equal, if not to excel, any foreign importation. The quantity of hemp and flax produced in Canada, taken together, is officially returned, amounted, in 1852, to 1,917,666 pounds, being above 800 tons. The value placed upon this, by the Government Board of Registration and Statistics in Canada, is 3*l*. currency on 2*l*. currency per ton, which reduced to sterling, is 2*l*. 3*s*. The total value of the hemp and flax grown in Canada in 1852 was, therefore, according to this official valuation, 28,971*l*. provincial currency, and very nearly the whole was the growth of Lower Canada.—From the article "Canada" in the Encyclopædia Brittanica.

A PLAIN CHAPTER ON CHOLERA.

BY DR. JOHN G. DUNN.

Having been requested by several to give them a receipt for cholera, it may not be out of place to publish a few hints which may be put in practice by any one having the least idea of the usual remedies and common applications kept in every family, and in doing so I shall divest my language of every professional term that is not generally understood. It is not in the case that a person attacked by cholera makes a fatal delay in procuring a physician, or it is too far from his abode to have his attendance in time The disease is so generally insidious in its approach that every little diarhoea, or uneasiness in the bowels or stomach should be looked upon with suspicion when cholera is known to be in the neighborhood. A diarhoea, thus occurring should be treated immediately! Get good warm bath, as hot as you can bear it, and plenty of soap to cleanse the skin,—rub on a coarse towel until the surface grows red, then take two pills of blue mass with eight or ten drops of laudanum. This will prevent almost any attack of cholera in its first stage. When it is about, no one can pay too much attention to his diet or his feelings. Avoid unripe fruit, or too much of that which is ripe. Bathe every morning with cold water and rub the skin thoroughly for it has more to do with cholera than people are aware of.

If you let a slight diarhoea run on for a day or two, the first you know you are in the spasmodic clutch of cholera; which if you had checked it in season, and removed the cause by slight medication, the terrible grasp might never have been laid upon you. It does not always warn you with diarrhoea, for it sometimes comes suddenly. Now I merely wish to drop a few items of treatment to be used where medical treatment cannot be immediately procured. When a person is attacked with cholera boil a large kettle of water as soon as possible, strip the patient naked, get a large mustard poultice over the stomach and bowels; then wringing out three blankets from the boiling water and wrap him in them, winding a dry blanket on the outside to keep the heat in. Thus you apply heat all over the body and bring the bloom back to the skin. What's the use of your rubbing? It only creates a little heat;—the not apply it all over at once with the blankets; you may put some mustard or red pepper with the hot water if you chose. So much for the outside treatment; now the attention must be turned to the bowels and stomach. Intense purging and vomiting are almost always present in cholera, and from their exhausting influence demand prompt treatment. As soon as the skin begins to warm with the blankets, the alarming purging and vomiting ceases. Do not be afraid to give laudanum—give sixty drops at a dose—a little dose will do as good as you have a grant to deal with—knock him down with a big club, and when he's down keep him down. If the laudanum is vomited up repeat the dose immediately. Mix together red pepper, warm brandy, or whiskey, and a little camphor, and give it occasionally; but the great hope—the great dependence must be on your hot blankets and your laudanum. I will tell you why:

Cholera is a disease in which the blood leaves the vessels of the skin and is thrown in upon the bowels, stomach, liver, and other internal organs. Nature, in order to get rid of the unnatural accumulation of blood, strives to relieve herself by plunging it out and vomiting it up; but any one who has ever seen a person bled, has noticed that the blood separates into two parts, water and clot. In treating the disease there is one important item to be noticed: viz; when the purging and vomiting is somewhat checked and the skin begins to take on a warm sweat—there is often cold clammy sweat in Cholera which is equally as exhausting as the diarrhœa, s he hot blankets soon check it.

The great idea in cholera can be told in a few words—bring the blood back to the skin by applying heat to it externally—check the purging and vomiting with immense doses of Laudanum.

Laudanum not only does this but it also relieves the contracted state of the little vessels of the skin and thus opens the way for the blood to flow back to the surface. I have never known a case to die when treated thus

THE ORANGE INSTITUTION.

In our last we announced the receipt of the address from Col Whitehead, as the Grand Master of the Orange Institution of British North America, to the members thereof, and we this day lay the document before our readers.

It will be remembered that the Convention of County Masters recommended the election of Col. Whitehead to that high office, superceding both the rival claimants, and called on the members generally to concur in his Election.

This proposition was well received throughout the country, and the only show of opposition to it proceeded from Mr. Gowan, and his old an impracticable partizans assembled at Brantford, who gave an emphatic negative to anything in the shape of reconciliation, and even went so far as to say that Col. Whitehead approved of their determination, and had cast his lot among them.

The publication of the address of Col. Whitehead gives a complete denial to all these statements, and must place those who uttered them in anything but an enviable position before the society and the public.

Col. Whitehead declares the cordial acceptance of office in compliance with the wish of the great body of the Orangemen, most of whom have already pledged themselves to support him, and the remainder are now invited to rally round his reconciliation Banner.

The following is the address:—

Address of GEORGE W. WHITEHEAD, Esq., Grand Master—To the Members of the Orange Institution of British North America.

Woodstock, July 15, 1854.

BELOVED BRETHREN,—

It would be strange indeed if I did not take an early opportunity of declaring to you generally, my sense of the high honor conferred upon me, and the expression of confidence reposed in me, as evinced by your calling upon me to fill the responsible post of Grand Master of the Orange Institution of British North America.

My election to that office has taken place under circumstances of a peculiar nature.

A division had unfortunately occurred during the past year amongst the members of the institution, and the Orange body differed as to the validity of the election of two brethren of high standing in the Order, each of whom claimed to be your head, and each of whom had a large body of supporters.

Without expressing an opinion as to whom the right of office rested with the minority in either case were entitled to the respect of the majority.

Within our order such a state of division could not exist any time without impairing, if not destroying its efficiency, and the welfare of the institution being paramount to any consideration for individual members, however high their standing, it was not to be wondered that an early move was made to restore our unity.

At a meeting of our brethren held in Montreal in the month of October last a special committee was appointed to communicate with those who acknowledged another head, and to invite them to co-operate in the labor of reconciliation.

The sentiments of the various counties upon the existing cause of difference were ascertained, their suggestions considered and a meeting of the County Masters was subsequently convened, at which, after careful consideration it was unanimously agreed that at the then approaching period of the Annual Election, a change of grand officers was advisable and the election of others in their stead, as the principle, if not the sole step necessary to the complete restoration of unity in the order.

At that election the names of various brethren were recommended for the various offices and the hope was unanimously expressed that at the approaching annual election the desire of all to prefer the interest of the institution to the interest of individuals would be paramount, and though distance seperated their meetings, their feelings would be in unison, and that whether at Brantford or Bytown, the recommendations of the County Masters would have had effect, and the unity of the order be restored by the election to office of the brethren recommended by them.

On the 21st and 22nd of June, the respective meetings were held, the recommendations submitted to each, and though at that Brantford meeting the proposition for a reconciliation was rejected, yet it is worthy of note that out of Nine Hundred members of Grand Lodge with the Province of Canada, there were found but about one-sixth of that number who by their votes (no doubt unconsciously) manifested the interests of an individual against the Unity of our Order.

At the very large and influential meeting which took place at Bytown the recommendations of the County Masters were in every respect unanimously adopted, and by none concurred in more cordially than by the late Grand Master of the Order, Brother George Benjamin, and the officers last serving under him who have resolved at whatever personal sacrifice to remove all cause of dissension.

In pursuance of the recommendation of the meeting of the County Master, and the unanimous vote of the brethren assembled at Bytown, sanctioned as I believe it to be by the overwhelming majority of the members of the Grand Lodge, and supported too, by the nearly unanimous wishes of the members of the Order throughout this Province, I have been called on to fill the high and honorable post of Grand Master for the ensuing year.—This would in any circumstances have been an honor, but doubly so in my case as I have been called thereto by the unanimous vote of that portion of our body which acknowledged as their leader other than him under whom I was acting, and who was honorbedged by my conduct during the past year.

My personal feelings urged me to decline the high office conferred upon. But when it was represented to me that my acceptance of the trust would go far to, if not effectually reconcile the difference in our order, personal considerations were laid aside, and I have accepted the responsible office of Grand Master for the ensuing year, and entered on the discharge of the many and important duties thus imposed upon me.

I do so without fear as I feel confident that I shall be sustained in my efforts by the good sense of the Orangemen of British North America, particularly in this Province, and by none more cordially than by the Grand Officers and Brethren who were so lately opposed to me in the question which has unfortunately divided the Order.

Having thus declared my acceptance of the Office,—I shall now proceed to carry out the further recommendations of the County Masters, in the formation of two Provincial Grand Lodges for Canada West.

For that purpose a meeting will be held at Brantford on the 4th, and at Kingston on the 11th of August, at which those Brethren now entitled to vote in the Grand Lodge are invited to take part in the elections for the respective proposed lation and jobbing, associated with the name of the Hincks cabinet? no such thing! The strong objection against a lawyer amongst the farmers, induced them, unawares, to throw the weight into the ministerial scale. Those who call themselves Reformers though they may differ on details would, as a party, we believe, vote for His Satanic Majesty with the Horns and Hoofs, if branded on his forehead with the magic name Reform. We except, of course, some honorable men amongst them. Some, for instance, as in Westminister, who would not vote for Mr. Niles. The Conservative party would not, for the cause, stir out of their corn fields, when they had the excuse that their candidate was a Lawyer. We must congratulate the "Assembled Wisdom," of the addition of Mr. Niles. No doubt his deep erudition, will contrast favorably with that of Cicero Rose, and Amos Wright, should they be returned. The defender of the exensive frauds, perpetrated through the ministry on the Province, will rejoice at the return of the corruption-hating Mr. Niles, who, in his address at the nomination, distinctly declared, that where the sum of money was large it was quite justifiable for any Minister to take a turn out of it; but where the sum was small, it would be robbery!!! Electors, we congratulate you on the honesty of your Member's views. You may require some debentures soon converted into money, and Hincks and Rowes will form a precedent for Hincks and Niles. We trust Mr. Niles will also acquire a knowledge of what Sectarian Schools mean, of which he was ignorant the day of nomination. In fact the constituency ought to pay Secretary, we would not for the world say Schoolmaster to accompany their new representative to the Senate House. Electors of the East riding, a new election must soon take place, prepare in time, have your man ready, and hasten to wipe away the reproach that this hitherto Conservative riding has been made the close rotten burrough of one of the most corrupt, unprincipled and degraded ministries ever inflicted on an unhappy country.

COMMISSARIAT DEPARTMENT.

Last week several half-pay Officers and Pensioners came from remote country parts, to receive their half-pay or Pensions, and their was no commissariat officer here to pay them. This should not be so, there ought to be fixed times for paying, and with the present facility of travelling, the commissariat officer should be amble on the days of payment, at each station along the line, or if, so far as London is concerned such an arrangement could not be carried out, Major Graham, the staff officer of Pensioners, resident here, we feel quite certain would be found a satisfactory medium of payment. Those men who from long service or wounds received in their countrys cause, should not at their advanced age, be put to the serious inconvenience of travelling long distances, for nothing, besides incurring the expenses of remaining in town. We trust they will be seen to in future.

THEFT LAWS.

Last week we observed, contrary to an existing By-Law, large flags suspended, first across Ridout street and afterwards from the Robinson Hall to the Exchange building. We wish to call the attention of the authorities, (if there be any,) to the violation of the Law. We care not what the flags, or what the device on them, that is not the question, several horses would not pass them, and the drivers were obliged to turn round and go up North street, instead of going forward to Dundas Street, and the public Justly complains of this obstruction. Parties exhibiting, can hang their flags out of the building where the exhibition is, We do not object to that, but we do object to crossing a public street, and interfering with public traffic.

Owing to several omissions and errors in Mr. Monsarrat's letter, which appeared in our columns last week, we republish it in a correct shape, and have to apologize for the same.

TIMES IN DELAWARE.

Delaware, July 24, 1854.

MR. EDITOR,

A meeting was held here on Thursday evening the 20th, for the purpose of hearing Mr. Keefer address the electors, which he did in a noble manner, telling his views on the political points now brought forward before the electors of Canada. Mr. Keefer is a stranger to many that heard him, but his excellent speech gained for him the confidence of a few friends who were not pledged to the Scatcherd party. Mr. Keefer is thoroughly conversant with the wants of Canada. He knows what men is needed to enter the house for the next session; he described the political wants, the resources, and the geographical position of Canada to my entire satisfaction.

Jas. Fergusson, Esq., being present, also addressed the people in a happy style, peculiarly his own, said he was happy to see the Chair occupied by a gentleman who was not a delegate at the Strathroy convention, but occupied by a man who allowed every one to think and act for themselves. Mr. Fergusson complained fatigue, in travelling from place to place, addressing his constituents, but he entered into his speech in fine style, convincing even the Scatcherd party, if they would but own the truth, that he was much superior to their hero, and better qualified to represent the wants of the people. But, alas! they felt themselves bound in the messes of the Scatcherd net through the officiousness of that party here, which is quite apparent. The political conjuror, Hincks & Co., never played a deeper game, than did our polite merchant and his party. Polling commenced on Friday, and the man who could not build his own platform now made a speech, and got the most votes by the influence of the above party. I have heard Britons say they never would be slaves, but Britons are slaves in Delaware, to Factory cotton and Fish Hooks. But what interest has the party to demean themselves so? I know of none, except it is that Scatcherd pledges himself, if made, to secure the office of Secretary to Hincks & Co., where our Merchant's services would be much needed, and where all his acquirements would be needed to enslave his country; then the Fish Hooks and Factory cotton would be divided amongst the Scatcherd voters. At the Town Hall on Friday, their doings were so apparent to Mr. Bullen, Esq, on a matter I will not mention, that he asked G. S. Rogers if it was not so Mr. Roggers denied it; Mr. B. brought forward Mr. Web, J. P., who cleared it up to the entire satisfaction of Mr. B. and gave the lie to G. S. Rogers. This raised the courage of our Merchant, so that he poured upon Mr. Bullen such language not fit to be repeated. But he has set Scatcherd on his feet in Delaware, and he feels quite happy. Such, Mr. Editor, is the doings in Delaware at the present election.

$49,000 WORTH OF

Farms and Building Lots.

100 FARMS

AND

2,000 BUILDING LOTS!!

Will be divided among 600 Subscribers on the Evening of the 30th day of JULY, 1854.

☞ A large number are already engaged. Many of the Lots near these have been sold from 200 to 500 per cent. advance over the price for which these Lots are now sold showing that the purchaser will be a good investment.

Each subscriber, FOR ONLY $15, payable in instalment of $5 each will receive FOUR BUILDING LOTS, 25 by 100 feet, lying together, or a FARM of from 2 to 20 acres. These lots are beautifully located at LAKELAND Long Island, where a new Church and School house, and a number of private dwellings, stores, work-shops and factories, have already been erected, several more are now being built, and several hundred will be erected the coming season

This is a fine opportunity of getting clean of paying enormous rents in New York and obtaining a delightful country residence near the city, where the domestic comforts of a family circle can be fully realized, and where 25,000 building lots and about 500 farms have lately been sold; and sales are daily being made to individuals who, after careful examination of its location and ascertaining the quality of the soil, pre-selecting Farms for agricultural purposes being confident that no land so cheap and calculated to increase so rapidly in value can be had within 50 miles of the city. This land would have been all taken up years ago, but has been an entailed estate for the last century and completely locked up for upwards of two hundred years—since which large sales have been made, and where the well deer roamed at large may now be seen beautiful cottages and cultivated fields waving with the abundant productions of our mother earth.

The price at which this land is offered is less than its value for agricultural purposes alone, so that we do not see how any man of common sense can hesitate to secure a portion of it. This land is well worth the attention of both settlers and speculator, as it affords an opportunity for the safe investment of money. The day is not far distant when all the lands on the line of any railroad or steamboat route, and, within fifty miles of New York, will be worth ten times the prices now asked for property in Lakeland.

This is one of the best opportunities now offered to those of small means who are desirous of a home of their own, to purchase one for a mere trifle, also, a few Farms, containing each five and ten acres, and upwards, at from $35 to $45 per acre.

☞ All persons wishing to avail themselves of the opportunity now offered to procure a fine farm or splendid Building Lot near the Empire City, should make immediate application as they are nearly all disposed of. Apply to CHARLES WOOD, 208 Broadway, corner of Fulton street N. Y., where maps and pamphlets can be had or sent if required by mail, gratis.

CASH SYSTEM

25 per cent. Cheaper than the Credit System.

IT is a well known fact that those giving credit (especially in the "tailoring line) are obliged, in order to make their business pay, to charge the well-meaning and good-paying customer with the garments of those who dress well, but never pay.

In order to prevent this injustice being practised on the honest and good-paying customer, the subscriber has adopted the Cash System. He will assure his customers that they will only have to pay for their own garments, and that at the rate of 25 per cent. less than formerly charged under the credit system.

His stock will be found to consist of the latest and best materials of Home and Foreign Manufacture, consisting in part of

SCOTCH TWEEDS,

and a splendid assortment of Silk, Satin and Fancy Vestings, Silk Handkerchiefs, Ties, Gloves of various materials and colors, Shirts, &c., which he is now prepared to sell and make up to order in the latest and most approved English, French or American Styles, to suit customers, at a very small advance on cost (for cash.)

He has just received the latest fashions from Europe and America, and will continue to receive monthly the very latest styles. He cordially invites his numerous customers and the public in general to give him a call as early as possible. His workmen will be, as usual, of the first class. The cutting will be done entirely by himself. Ladies' habits will receive his particular attention.

THE FOREST WINE.

THIS excellent MEDICAL WINE and the FOREST PILLS are fast gaining the good will and becoming the favorite medicine of the people, and known as a most effectual remedy in the cure of Dyspepsia, Habitual Costiveness, Liver Complaint, Asthma, Piles, Obstinate Headache, Pimples, Boutches and generally color of the skin, Jaundice, Ague and Fever, Salt Rheum, Dyspepsia, Complaints incident only to Females, Loss of Nervous Weakness, Night Sweats, Disorders, General Ill Health, and impoverishment of the Constitution.

But a short time has elapsed since these great and good medicines have been made known to the public yet thousands have experienced their good effects. Invalids given over by their physicians as incurable, have been restored to sound and vigorous health by their use. These medicines are unlike any other. Their two-fold properties act directly on those organs of the stomach, liver and bowels, which secrete the fluids, and separate the impurities from the blood. The Wine and Pills never Weaken but give strength and sumation to both body and mind.

The great amounted good these medicines have done for the sick and afflicted, have induced thousands to commend them to their friends and the public. Individuals of the highest integrity have voluntarily testified to the world in favor of their extraordinary virtues.

DR. I. A. STANLEY,

A celebrated physician, in a letter from Princeton, New Jersey, dated Nov. 16, 1849, declares that in all his experience he had never seen anything to compare with the Forest Wine and Pills at the same time relating several cases of constitutional debility and scrofulous affections, which it cured in an incredible short time. Among the members of the Medical Faculty of New York, who have witnessed the great results of the Forest Wine, and recommended it in numerous complaints, will be found the names of the celebrated Dr. M. T. Goodman, Dr. L. Cheesman, Dr. Chilton, Dr. Wm. Brown, Dr. Marvin, Dr. J. M. Moreano, and others.

TESTIMONY

Of Mr. Johnson Burke, a highly respectable citizen of Waverly Place, New York:

DR. G. W. HALSEY—Dear Sir: I esteem the Forest Wine as the King of Medicines. It has done for me in five weeks what three physicians failed to do in as many years. In 1845 I became the victim of the Heart disease and Nervous Affections which have been growing on me ever since, until I procured your Forest Wine and Pills, although I had wasted several hundred dollars for medical attendance. During the last two years I was obliged to keep my house nearly all the time and gave up business in consequence of my ill-health, I had lost mental hopes of recovery. My complaint was of that character under which nature sinks and life becomes a burthen. Seeing your Forest Wine Advertised, I concluded to give it a trial and before finishing the third bottle I felt like a different person, and was able to resume business again entirely cured by taking five bottles. For the benefit of the afflicted with similar complaints you are at liberty to publish this.

Yours &c.
JOHNSON BURKE.
Waverly Place, N. Y.

General Debility, Emaciation, wasting of the Body &c

Many persons are afflicted with some one of the above complaints without being able to trace it to any particular cause. And therefore delay the use of the proper remedy until the disease becomes constitutional. These disorders are often characterized by a sense of sinking, or entire exhaustion after exercise. Some experience sluggishness, lassitude and at times paleness or flushing of the countenance, palpitation of the heart or like symptoms.

The excellent effects which have ever attended the use of the Forest Wine and Pills, in every specie of debility is conclusive evidence of its happy results in this class of disorders. Many have resorted to these medicines as an ultimatum and been speedily cured. For nervous disorders and debility the Wine and Pills are to be taken according to the directions on the label.

TO THE LADIES.

True beauty and love liness accompany the highest perfection of health, which again invariably follows the PUREST STATE OF THE BLOOD. What artificial appendages equal that vivid expression of countenance which emanates from health? What paints can compare with the crimsoned colored blood casting its brilliant carnate hue through the transparent texture of the skin? What beauty are more captivating than those of nature in her highest perfection? Let Dr. Halsey's wine supply the place of all cosmetics. The use of this excellent wine a short time creates pure, rich blood which coursing through the veins, penetrates the minutest fibres that verge towards the surface of the skin, causing all unhealthy pimples and blotches to disappear, imparting a vivid, rosy color to the skin and brilliant expression to the eyes

THIS IS NATURAL BEAUTY.

In corroboration of these facts, Dr. Halsey has many testimonials. The following is from a lady of most respectable standing in society, sent to us by her brother residing in Rutgers street,

New York, July 7th, 1849.

DR. G. W. HALSEY—

My sister from her youth had been in very delicate health, complaining frequently of sore throat of the chest attended with a cough. About the age of 18 she began to get much worse. For six months previous to commencing with your medicines she had not been able to get out of the house. Her countenance was greatly emaciated, yellow and sickly. Her face and neck was covered with disagreeable pothes eyes very much sunken and her cough increasing. In fine, she bore every appearance of soon becoming an unhappy victim to consumption. At this time I procured for her some of your Forest Wine and Pills, which she commenced using according to the directions. She gradually improved as she followed up the use of them. Her first symptoms of recovery was uncommonly good appetite, her face finally became smooth and her cheeks rosy. Her cough left her altogether. She is now strong and vigorous and presents the finest example of health I ever witnessed.

JOHN S. MAXWELL.

GUM-COATED FOREST PILLS,

Manufactured on the same principle as the Forest Wine to which it is an important adjunct. They are coated with pure Gum Arabic, an important invention, for which Dr. Halsey has received the only Patent ever granted on Pills by the Government of the United States.

Dr. Halsey's Forest Wine and Gum-coated Forest Pills unite in accomplishing the same great end, THE PURIFICATION OF THE BLOOD, THE RENOVATION & RESTORATION OF THE STOMACH AND BOWELS.

The life principle of man is the blood, no matter are diseases of the stomach which secrete the blood diseased or morbid matter and restored to healthy action by the use of the Forest Pills and pure rich blood made to flow in the veins, by the use of the Forest Wine, then vigorous begins to vanish and strength and energy of body return. This is the principle on which is founded these great medicines, and by which nearly all diseases are cured.

The Forest Wine is put up in large square bottles, with Dr. Halsey's name blown in the glass. One Dollar per bottle, or six bottles for Five Dollars. Gum-coated Forest Pills, 25c. per box.

Besides these Pianos of Chickering, Stodart & Dunham. Mr. Kordes keeps constantly on hand Pianos of other good makers, such as Baron and Raven, Gilbert, Gale, etc. Also second hand Pianos, from £10 upwards to £50. Old Pianos taken in exchange, and a liberal allowance made. Pianos Tuned and repaired. All orders from a distance promptly attended to.

Mr. Kordes has constantly on hand an assortment of very superior Brass Instruments, or the formation and use of Bands, as Ophiclides, Sax horns, Trombones, Conopeans, Bugles, Post horns, French horns, etc., which will be sold low, and on very favorable terms.

Mr. Kordes would just say a few words regarding the Pianos of Chickering, Stodart & Dunham, in the first place, they are warranted to keep good and sound in all their parts, for any number of years, provided they receive good treatment.

In the second place, any person having such a thing as what is called an ear for music, will, without looking at the makers name, be able to detect the difference between a Stodart, a Dunham or a Chickering, to a Piano from any other maker, without exception; the oudy, wiry, harsh kind of sound, so predominant in other instruments, is changed into a clear, sweet, full and brilliant tone in the Pianos of the above three makers.

As regards keeping in tune: these Pianos require a good tuner 3 times in 12 months and recent treatment, they never require more than this, may, however, sometimes require less. Care and attention is all they need.

LONDON, C. W.

The great popularity which Moffat's Life Pills and Phenix Bitters have attained, in consequence of the extraordinary cures effected by their use, renders it unnecessary for the proprietor to enter into a particular analysis of their medicinal virtues or properties. Having been more than twenty years before the public, and having the united testimony of more than Three Millions of persons who have been restored to the enjoyment of perfect health by them, it is believed that their reputation as the best vegetable medicine now before the public, stands of no disputation almost every city and village in the United States, there are many who are ready to testify to their efficacy in removing disease and giving to the whole system renewed vigor and health.

In cases of Scrofula, Ulcers, Scurvy or Eruptions of the skin the operation of the Life Medicines is truly astonishing often removing in a few days every vestige of these loathsome diseases by their purifying effects on the blood. Fever and Ague, Dyspepsia, Dropsy, Piles, and in short most all diseases, soon yield to their curative properties. No family should be without them as by their timely use much suffering and expense may be saved.

COMPOUND
CAMOMILE FLOWERS.
Patronized and Recommended by the most eminent Medical Practitioners in Canada.
London C. W. June 18th, 1852.

Messrs. Rexford & Co.
Gentlemen—I have received the Sample bottle of your "Compound Camomile Cordial," and consider it a beautiful as well as a highly palatable preparation. The aromatic fragrance and peculiar bitter flavor, in which lies the essential Medicinal qualities appear to be largely misused and well preserved, and as this vegetable tonic is highly beneficial in those cases of dyspepsia depending on debility or want of tone in the digestive organs, (the form most frequently met with on the continent) your cordial will I doubt not form an inestimable addition to our Pharmacopeia.
From the knowledge possessed by me of Mr. Rexford, and his very high reputation as a Pharmaceutical Chemist I feel much pleasure in confidently recommending the Preparation of this valuable tonic to my professional brethren and to the public, as a delightful and invigorating cordial.

DR. SHERWOODS Galvanic Embrocation This Galvanic Embrocation is used with positive and permanent success in all cases of Rheumatism, acute or chronic, seated in the head joints or limbs, Gout, Chronic or Nervous and Sick Headache, Paralysis, Fits, Epilepsy, Palpitation of the Heart, Spinal and Hip Complaints, Stiffness of the Joints, Lumbago, Neuralgia, Nervousness, General Debility, Deficiency of Diseases, Childbirth Burns and Scalds, &c.
It is now generally admitted by the learned and scientific, that the mysterious power called Galvanism or Magnetism, is, in fact, the vitality of life, and that disease, in many of its most painful forms is entirely owing to the absence of this Galvanic or Magnetic power in its healthy proportions. It then, we can readily supply this wondrous power when it is thus difficult, we can successfully combat disease, and this has been fully and perfectly attained by the most wonderful scientific discovery of combining Magnetism or Galvanism with a fluid which has cost the inventor of this remedy years of study and labor.
There is not an intelligent Physician who has kept pace with the progress of science that does not readily approve of the Magnetic power in various diseases, and there is scarcely a medical journal either in this country or Europe which makes its appearance without the statement of various cases, showing some new effect of these wonderful agents, or corroborating previous experience of their beneficial use. The inventor of the Galvanic Embrocation has great pleasure in bringing before the public that a majority of the most distinguished physicians of New York constantly recommend the Embrocation in their practice, and from many of them he has received the kindest testimonials of approval and recommendation.

Poetry.

Hon. Malcolm Cameron at Pinehill.

From the Globe.

PINEHILL, ROSANQUET 1854.

Not a cheer was heard, not a welcoming note,
As on through Rosanquet he hurried;
Not a banner was spread, not a flag was afloat,
Over the tavern where Malcolm tarried.

He bolted upright on the bar-room floor;
With vehement gesticulation,
And there he stood for a stricken hour,
Delivering a speechification

He told us what he and his colleagues had done,
And they feared not the censure of any—
That by night and by day in Council alone,
They had schemed for the good of the many.

We hinted that they by dissolving the House,
The rights of electors had trampled on,
[Here we had epithets full of abuse
Of the member for Kent and Lambton.]

Of pledges and platforms, he'd nothing to tell,
But he spoke of malicious slander,
Of newspaper paragraphs "false as hell,"
Till we listened with fear and wonder.

And on he blundered 'mong verbs and nouns,
And facts and fancies at random,
And he called us dull and uneducated clowns,
If hen we could not well understand him.

But Pinehill was no place for so learned a case,
So he closed—N. B no cheering—
And went off to enlighten some other place,
In his course of electioneering.

Lightly they'll talk of the portly man,
And with nodding and jobbing upbraid him—
But little he'll reck if they let him help on,
By the pelf which his plotting has made him.

"YOU HAVE TOLD ME THAT YOU TRUST ME!"
(ADDRESSED TO HIS CONFIDING BUTCHER.)

AIR—"Will you love me then as now"

You have told me that you trust me!
And you prove the words you speak,
As you send the meat in daily,
And the book but once a week!
May I hope your kindly feeling,
Nothing ever will estrange,
And this pleasant mode of dealing.
Circumstances never will change.
When you send a twelvemonth's bill in,
And to pay I don't know how,
When you hear I've not a shilling,
Will you trust me then as now,

Though a month may pass unclouded,
And you send what's ordered home,
Yet as week and week advances,
Thought across your mind must come,
You will lose your old politeness, ——
And reluctant fill your tray,
Cheerful looks will lose their lightness,
When you find I never pay—
When my debts have pressed upon me,
And my tradesmen make a row,
Will the change find you unchanging,
Will you trust me then as now.

IMPORTANT DEBATE IN THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

FROM THE DAILY NEWS, OF THE 30TH JUNE.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL (CANADA) BILL.

On the motion for going into committee on the bill,

The Earl of Derby said it now became his duty to state the grounds upon which he ventured to urge the suspension of this important measure, at least for the present session, the importance of which, not only to this particular colony, and the North American colonies generally, but to the colonial interests of this great country could hardly be exaggerated.

He had to apologise, in the first place, for taking the somewhat unusual course of taking this step on the present stage of the bill, and not on the second reading. His apology was that the bill had been read a second time on a day when it was not customary to introduce a bill, of any very great importance, and had therefore omitted to look into the votes He thought it would have been more convenient and usual, if, when a bill was important the noble lord who had charge of it stated the intentions of the government with regard to it, and explained its principal to the House What was the question, the noble duke was not well pleased the other day, when he expressed an opinion that the bill would convert the constitution of Canada into the constitution of a republic. He repeated that the bill would have that effect, and he now stated that it would not only practically convert Canada into a republic, but into one infinitely more democratic in its character, and having far fewer safeguards against hasty legislation, and the predominance of a single legislature, than were to be found in the constitution of the United States. The effect of the bill was to enable the colonies to legislate for themselves in a matter which had been reserved by government as a matter of imperial importance.

The imperial parliament had been more than once called on to exercise her imperial authority, and to give their sanction to acts of which they disapproved in themselves.

On one occasion they were called on to give their sanction to the Rebellion Losses Bill, which gave compensation not only to those who had suffered on the part of the Crown, but even to those who had promoted the rebellion.

He did not believe there was a single member of the House who, in assenting to that bill did not feel that he was doing that which was degrading to the country, and humiliating to this House (Hear, Hear.)

Another instance was the Clergy Reserves Bill. They were told that this was a more local concern—that it was only to enable the legislature of Canada to appropriate the Reserve funds of the Church.

That fallacy influenced a Right Rev. prelate to sacrifice the vested interests of the church in Canada. Immediately on that bill passing, however, the legislature of Canada proceeded to realize the worst anticipations of the opponents of the measure by proceeding to the secularization of the funds of the church (hear hear.)

If parliament was alway to waive its superior authority at the will of the colony, it was much better not to affect to have that authority at all, but to tell the colony that it was entirely independent (hear, hear.) On one occasion of the clergy reserves the house had the poor satisfaction of hoping that things would not turn out so bad as was anticipated; but this was no longer so; for the papers now left before parliament contained the bill which the legislative council proposed to adopt as soon as they obtained the requisite authority from the imperial government. The bill for uniting the two provinces of Canada had passed by an almost general concurrence; but he had doubted whether that measure would work well; and it had always been felt that the whole government authority in the colony should not be confined to a single chamber. This had been one of the demands of Canada previous to the rebellion. In 1837 a petition from the House of Assembly to the House of Commons asking that both Chambers should be elective; but Lord John Russell then declared it would be impossible to comply with that demand; and on a division the proposal was negatived by 317 to 56 (hear, hear.) The same view had been held by the present Chancellor of the Exchequer who declared that a governing body wholly elective would be an independant legislature.

Previous to 1840 the principle of responsible government was adopted; but Lord Metcalfe, than whom no abler man ever governed Canada, found the utmost difficulty in reconciling that principle with the control of the Imperial Parliament over the colonial legislature.

In 1840, when the bill for uniting the provinces passed, the Duke of Wellington, Mr. Gladstone and other eminent statesmen expressed the strongest apprehensions that the consequencies of this measure would be the severance of the colonies from the mother country.

The noble earl quoted from the speeches delivered by Lord Melbourne, Lord J Russell and the Earl of Durham, on that measure to show the views and objects with which it had been passed. He was confident that neither house would have sanctioned the measure that day, had they supposed that both chambers were to be elective. All the opinions then expressed went to show the absolute necessity of having a legislative council above popular control. From an examination of the papers before the house he found no trace of any bohision between the two houses; and it ought, at least, to have been shown that the constitution did not work well before a proposal was made which abrogated the monarchial principle (hear, hear.) On the other hand, they heard of nothing but the material prosperity and progress of Canada.—Was than an evidence of bad government? This progress had been such as to leave far behind the most successful of the United States.

This bill before the house he found was of such a democratic nature as to destroy some of the safeguards which had been retained, in the republican government of the United States. There the President and the power to retain his government though their measures might be defeated; and the resignation one minister might take place without affecting the rest.

The senate and house of repiefentatives were elected for different periods, and by different constituencies—thus forming a broad line of distinction between them, and no alteration could be made in the constitution itself without the consent of two-thirds of each branch of the legislature. There was a most extraordinary power possessed by the Supreme Court of the United States; it could declare any measure passed by the legislature unconstitutional and therefore null and void. (Hear, hear.) It was now pro within it, the trees are cut, by the blast, as if by a hedge-knife exactly in the direction the blast has received from the coping of the wall; that is, if the wall is flat at the top, the wood has suffered far in, if the angle of the top is small, the cut of the trees is exactly the same angle and extends far in, in proportion to the flatness of the angle; but if the angle is very acute, and seads the blast almost directly upwards, the wood almost escapes; the tree by the wall is slightly cut, and no more. These facts may not have been noticed in any scientific publication but they are, nevertheless, worthy of attention, and are open to every observer; and they suggest many ideas, of the utmost importance, as regards this division of the empire. They suggest, first, the great utility of shelter, as a general principle; but if we reflect, for a moment, that every gentleman's residence is sheltered, and that much of its beauty is held to depend upon that circumstance, we shall be satisfied, that the utility of shelter is not only recognized, but so completely established in the public mind, as to form one of the elements in our ideas of beauty. Again, by means of shelter in gardens, we can raise the fruits of entirely different climates. Those observations suggest, next, that, where woods are planted, the wall opposed to the most prevalent, or most destructive wind should be of considerable height; and, third, that even the form of the coping of dykes, for woods or fields, is of consequence; and that it should always be of such an angle, as to send the blast (which, in all cases, will obey it more or less) almost directly upwards. Holland is, for the most part, protected from water by dykes. It would not be so arduous to protect Scotland from wind, nor would a breach in the dykes be so dangerous. In Ireland, particularly in the Northern parts, shelter is much wanted, and, so far as it exists, produces the most marked effects. It may be essential to consider the figure of the dykes. Perhaps there is little doubt that they should, on the side exposed to the blast, be perpendicular, rather than sloping mounds; as the perpendicular face completely breaks the current of the stratum of air rushing against it, while an obstacle, of a sloping description, would merely change the direction of the blast, but not the force. For their structure they need not be expensive, being intended for use, not ornament; and their beauty would consist in their utility. Besides the scenery to which they would give rise—in belts of wood, sheltered corn-fields and cattle—these would constitute the beauties of the parts benefitted, and render the other necessaries of no moment. In time, too, they would become like natural objects, and covered with verdure and foliage of some description. They would, in this way, be as beautiful as useful; and both it is believed, in a very high degree.—Quarterly Journal of Agriculture

MOVEMENTS AT THE SEAT OF WAR.

Bombardment of Bomarsund.

Extract of a Private Letter just received.

H. M. S. Valyrous, off the Fort of Bomarsund, on our way to Oregrund
June 23rd, 1854,

My Dear Mr,——

As we have the Queen's messenger on board who is just going to leave us, I have a few moments to write you an account of a glorious action we have had with the fort of Bomarsound in the Aland isles.

The ships engaged were H. M. S. Hecla Captain Hall, Valorous, Captain Buckley; and the Odin, Captain Scott.

As we had obtained a pilot, we went up at once and found it a most beautiful cruize,—islands covered with pine trees and brushwood. These we raked as we went on, in order to clear them from any rifles or artillery they might have.

Now we came in sight of the fortification consisting of three martello towers, one on each hill, and a long low fortress close to the water's edge, casemated and pierced for eighty six guns.

We at once opened fire on the long fort and made the shot hop off it. We could plainly see the cannon balls coming toward's us and skip along the water.

Now, on our left, we observe in the wood horse artillery and a masked battery, which fired on us for an hour and a half, at last we silenced it. I could see the shot from our great guns tearing down the trees. We now turned our attention to the long fort again, and shelled it first all three ships firing at once.

As we neared one of the islands we heard the sharp report of Minie rifles, and the balls fell like hail upon our decks and on the water.

We turned the great sixty-eight pounder guns on the wood, and made three lanes up through the wood, and soon put an end to the rifle firing. We now turned our attention to the long fort again, which with the left hand martello tower was firing fast upon us. Our marine artillery could tell you the exact spot they intended to strike, and when the smoke cleared away, we could see the shells falling on the exact spot we expected.

I was on the main deck all the early part of the action, while we were firing the broadsides; but now, as the elevation was too much for the main deck guns, I went on the upper deck, and there they were firing shot and shell as fast as possible, both from the fort and from our own ships. We used to see the cannon balls from the fort and the bat balls used to hiss as they fell into the water close by the ships.

Now we only served the fort on fire in the middle, and began to fire a new and most deadly shell called "Meorsom's shell," which when bursting gave out a lilac flame. These shells we pitched right into the middle of the blaze which made it spread more and more. Now the ships gave terce cheers as they saw the flames, and the captain gave the signal "Well done Valorous," Now we sent in the shells fast, and a second fire broke out to the right and spread fast; three cheers, and at it they went, all three ships firing till all the shot and shell were used out. Then we left it there with three fires blazing away on the fort. We burned all the stores, but I fancy their magazine was under ground. The fire from the ships lasted from five p.m. on the 21st, till one a.m. on the morning of the 22nd. We got nine cannon shot on the ship's side and rigging, and a rifle ball broke the signal box under the captain's feet. We had not one single man killed in any of the ships. The Hecla had three wounded. The Odin had one wounded. We in the Valorous had none killed and none wounded. The action lasted eight hours, and not a moment's time lost. The booming of the guns was dreadful. Several people on board were deaf for some time after. I was glad to see such an action, and ending so well, too, without a single death in any one of the ships engaged We had the special service for thanksgiving after a victory.

We are all in great spirits on board; but, just at this moment I hear the order to "stand by the best bow anchor!" and as the Queen's messenger who is a captain in the 17th Lancers, leaves us here, I must give up.

The British Army in Turkey.

(Extract from a Private Letter received in Dublin.)

Camp, Varna, June 22, 1854.

My Dear ——— Should you perceive anything tremulous about my handwriting, I beg you will take into consideration that my right had four legs about a week ago, but one of them suffered a fracture on board ship. I have doctored it with a piece of cord and a splint, but nevertheless it is still what might be termed "groggy," and too much pressure of the elbow would squash the whole affair. I take the opportunity of a little quietness to write you a "yarn" according to promise, and give you some notion of the land we are living in, the life we are leading, and the manners and customs of the Osmanlis. Turkey, as far as I have seen of it, is a rich, picturesque, and beautiful country. In the neighborhood of Constantinople the hills and valleys are well cultivated, and covered with a rich verdure, which vies with our own native isle in the beauty of its green; and I need not to you who have read so much on the scenery of the Bosphorus, dwell on the loveliness of its shores. Suffice it to say, that there is no city in the world which, for position and natural advantages, for climate, commerce, and navigation, possess such advantages as Constantinople. It has everything that a nation could desire for its metropolis, but it has nothing! That beauteous city, with its domes, its mosques, and its gilded minarets, is but a goodly apple rotten at the core,—a mass of filthy, wretched houses falling to decay: Everything you see proves that the Ottoman power is dying, inch by inch, and already is in a state of national putrifrection. The mosques are well worth seeing, particularly those of Suliman and St. Sophia; the latter is the most splendid edifice internally I ever beheld, externally you would be disappointed with it. On entering it every portion of the building appears to the best advantage; there is nothing to mar or interrupt the view; the floor is covered with matting, on which the Faithful prostrate themselves, and perform their devotions with a deep attention to their worship which many professing Christians would do well to imitate. Poor people! —it is sad to see their thoughts centered on such a foundation. There are no seats or benches of any description in the church, except in one place, which is railed off for the women near the door. Volumes of the Koran are distributed on low tripods in different places in the mosque; some of them are beautifully bound, and have their pages decorated with fancy letters and figures in gold. If I had only dared I should have much liked to have tried the echo of the building by letting loose my voice in it; but I suppose the bowstring or the Bosphorus would have been my fate. The day, perhaps, may yet arrive when a purer religion and a truer faith may be preached within its walls, and when those spacious domes and wide arches may ring with the praises of God, and echo with the songs of Christian worship.

The Sultan's palaces and the Embassies are the only other buildings worth seeing. The most beautiful of the palaces is on the north side of the Golden Horn; it is a very elegant piece of architecture, and is nearly all of marble of snowy whiteness. I was obliged to content myself with an external view, as the Sultan was living in it at the time. Palaces seem to be his hobby—rather an expensive one for a Sovereign; he has one or two others in the Bosphorus, but they are not remarkable for their beauty; as for himself, he is about as "seedy" looking a man as ever I saw,—pale, sickly, and bent, and more like a peevish, querulous invalid than the monarch of the East; and his attendants are a ragged, miserable crew. Altogether, had you seen the Duke of Cambridge riding beside the Sultan on the day of a review held for his especial benefit and entertainment, you would have taken the former for the king and the latter for his valet de chambre suffering from a bad headache. The Embassies are very handsome, substantial edifices, only to be seen from the Bosphorus, as, with the exception of the English one, the the walls of the enclosure are so high in the street that the view is entirely obstructed. The English Ambassador's residence is a handsome square stone building, with a beautiful and highly polished marble staircase. There is a chapel attached to it, where the English residents and visitors to Constantinople can attend Divine Service. The French embassy is also a handsome house, but not substantial as the English. The Russian, unlike the temple of Janus, is closed in there warlike times.

We arrived here a few days ago, and nearly the whole expeditionary army is now encamped within about a mile of the town of Varna, which, same town, by the way, is about as wretched a town as can be well conceived. A few narrow streets and some miserable shops, and a rickety little mosque, is the whole affair. There are some fortifications around it which have been added by Sir John Burgoyne, and the place would now stand a siege. The only supplies we can get in the shape of little comforts for our table are from French shops and cafes, which, owing to the admirable promptitude and activity of the people, are already established, and in full vigour. At present the allied army musters above 30,000, and they are daily increasing. It is a magnificent force; and when we are all collected together, and taking into consideration that the Turks, single-handed, are nearly a match for the Russians, it will be strange to me if the Emperor does not receive a severe blow at the first onset when the three armies united give him battle. May God avert it all—for the carnage will be terrible; but if there must be war I think we are ready. We are encamped close to the margin of a fresh-water lake, where we bathe in the mornings, and where you would see young gentlemen fresh from all the luxuries of home service, who, had you hinted the prospects to them when lounging on some soft ottoman and basking in the smiles of some fair one, that they would be caught washing their own shirts and stockings, with their own hands, in the cleanest puddle they could find in Turkey,—I say the bare idea of such a thing would have made most of them faint. But nevertheless it is so; necessity conquers fastidiousness, and the greatest exquisite in the Guards has by this time abandoned his perfume bottle and his figured dressing gown, and is glad to eat his salt pork without a table-cloth and to drink his tea out of a pewter mug.

The worst and most natural source of discontent and growling amongst us is the want of a Post Office. At present we do not know when or how we may receive letters; and we have no means of transmitting them. A few clerks detached from the General Post-Office at home would settle the business in a few days, and afford to us that greatest of all pleasures to those who are far from their friends; the comfort of hearing from home; and I do not know anything so well calculated to make soldiers work with a will, and to inspire them with courage and ardour, than the proud feeling that they are not forgotten or neglected by those for whom they serve. The French in these matters are far beyond us.

Life in a tent is sometimes pleasant enough but suffers vicissitudes. First—if you do not slack it down at night, and rain or a heavy dew comes on, the canvass becomes so tight that it either pulls up the pegs or breaks the pole, whereby the whole affair comes down on your head, and you are half smothered before you can get out. Secondly—If you slack it too much, and it comes on to blow, the chances are that your house is carried off bodily. Thirdly—If it rains very hard, the wet comes through, and you are roused by feeling the rain in your face, and suddenly recollect that your waterproof coverlet is in the bottom of your well packed portmanteau, and there is every probability that you will be drenched before you can strike a light, find your keys, and poke into the box for the aforesaid India rubber blanket. Then there are hundreds of ants, which sometimes get into your bed, and

> One gentleman of England, who live at home at ease,
> Little do you know what we ugly fear from the flea.

however, it all passes off in a laugh, and our little misfortunes and mishaps are turned into matters of amusement. Thank God! we have health, that best of blessings; and were it not that the duties we are about to engage in are too solemn in their details and too awful in their consequences, our life would be one more of pleasure and variety than of irksome labour or discomfort.

THE RUSSIAN ACCOUNT OF THE BOMBARDMENT OE BOMARSUND

(From the St. Petersburg Journal.)

The General in command of the troops stationed in Finland announces, under date of the 13th of June, that the enemy has made an attempt against the fortress of Aland, but was successfully repulsed.

On the 9th at five in the afternoon, three of the enemys vessels (two steam-frigates of forty-eight guns and a steam corvette) approached the fort and opened a violent cannonade against it. The fort responded from both tiers, and afterwards the strand battery, armed with four light pieces of artillery from the garrison of Aland, and temporarily erected to the south of the fort, as also two companies of rifle-men who supported it, by their well-directed fire they turned the action of the enemy from the fort, and at the same time a cannon-ball from the battery broke the wheel of a steam boat. The enemy then, abandoning the fort, turned to the strand battery.

This battery stood the enemy's fire without interruption until eight o'clock at night, and the position was only quitted after the destruction of the parapets. As for the riflemen, who were spread along the shore to the right and left of the battery, they continued their fire without giving way, until the enemy's vesse ls had abandoned the battery to attack the fort again. Profiting by the enormous caliber of his guns, the enemy cast anchor at 1,000 sagenes (about one mile and one-third) from our fortifications, and threw bombs of three poods (108lb.) balls of 96lb., and 67lb, and congreve rockets. The commandant of the fort, Colonel Bodisco, deeming it unnecessary to lose ammunition uselessly in responding to the enemy at so great a distance, suspended his fire for some time; but when the enemy's vessels came nearer, with a view of making a breach in the rampart, we opened afresh against him with red-hot balls, which set fire to one of his frigates; the other had its poop damaged by a shot from the tower. In consequence, the enemy was obliged to give over the combat, and retired between one and two in the morning. Notwithstanding the violence of the cannonade, which had lasted more than nine hours, he did not succeed in doing any serious damage to the fortress.

Our loss in this affair has been very inconsiderable. The temporary battery had not a single man killed, and only twelve wounded. In the fort itself, Surgeon Bovkovitch, second medical officer of the military hospital of Aland, the Secretary of Sorokine College, and the auditor of the battalion of the line of Finland No. 19 besides two men were killed, and three men were wounded. The thick smoke which the wind carried from the vessels in the direction of the battery did not allow of our calculating even approximately the loss of the enemy, but in all probability it must have been important.

In his report of this success, the commandant of Aland bears testimony to the rare intrepidity and coolness during the action of the entire garrison intrusted to him, and in particular to the sagacity of the measures and the obstinate defence of Lieutenant Colonel de Fuinyalm, who commanded the strand battery and the rifl-men. Further he names as most distinguished the Lieutenant Colonel of Artillery Adlerberg; Adjutant Colonel Tamelander; Major De Kingstott and Captain De Granberg, both of the battalion of the line of Finland No. 19; Captain Kranso, Captain Schestoff (particularly); also Captain Fomine, of the regiment of the Cossacks of the Don; and Adjutant Wickberg, who carried the orders of the commandant.

PRIVATE LETTER FROM THE BALTIC.

From the Portsmouth Guardian.

The following letter is from a native of Portsea, now serving in H. M. S. Blenheim in the Baltic.

Faro Sound, June 22nd 1854.

At twelve o'clock on Sunday night last, a party of blue jackets volunteers from different ships in the fleet (three being from Blenheim) rowed four miles up a creek, and having landed, walked five miles inland, where they attacke d a Russian telegraph office—took all their sign l books, telescopes, &c.,—cut down the staff, and chopped it into fragments.

The party then dug a hole and put in a decent dose of 63 pounds of gunpowder. They then laid a train to it, retired to a respectable distance, fired it, and in less than one minute the foundations of the telegraph office were fighting their way through the clouds to a tremendous height.

The party then took one of the men and made him conduct them to the shortest route by the water side, in case of the Russian cavalry coming down upon them—this being only about two miles from a station where there was a body of cavalry and lots of troops of all sorts.

When he had brought to the waterside they gave him a sovereign, thanked him for his kindness and despatched him back to his comrades.

They returned on board about nine o'clock on Monday morning.

Our men had to passe through a village on way, and as they were strongly armed with cutlasses and loaded muskets with fixed bayonets, the villagers ran out to beg for their lives, thinking the new comers were Frenchmen, as they do not much like the French. However, on being given to understand that they were Englishmen, the women turned from sobs to smiles, and the men some of whom could speak a few words of English began to speak and call them "good men." They also understood shaking the hands as a token of friendship.

The little Finish lasses soon found that a British tar would sooner kiss them, than kill them, and this they soon experienced!

They were very pretty girls, and in a few minutes they seemed to get very much attached to our men. So much for the life of a jolly tar.

Commencement of No 1 Pier of the Victoria Bridge.

On Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock a select party of the friends of the contractors met on board the Beaver steam tug, and proceeded to the coffer dam of the No 1 Pier of the Victoria Bridge. The dam has been constructed by means of one of those gigantic wooden edifices, which we have already described, and having been puddled, cut without one difficulty, has, as we mentioned a day or two ago, been pumped clear of water for the commencement of the masonry.—As the steamer approached the dams the company had an excellent opportunity of judging of the immense difficulty of the work. The current running with extreme rapidity, and forming a considerable extent of broken water, in many places embarrassed by rocks and bolders, proved that it could be no slight task to convey to the spot, and then securely to moor, and sink, such unwieldy masses of carpentry. The steamboat having been made fast a little above the dam, the company were carried in three large boats to the No. 1 dam, and speedily disembarked. When upon the wooden wall, a large chamber presented itself below the feet of the visitors, having erected over it a high scaffolding supporting a couple of wooden bars with iron rails, on which travelled a carriage worked by a crank overhead, having dependant from it a chain and cant hooks for transporting stones from one part of the enclosure to another. At the upper part of the dam was a steam engine of considerable power, and some idea may be formed of the pumping force, as well as of the closeness of the enclosure, when we mention that the whole dam was cleared of water by the engine in less than two hours. An adjournment was speedily made to the bottom of the river, where ladies and gentlemen set themselves to work to geologize, in the way of procuring memorials of their visit to this "hydraulic lot." We saw nothing very remarkable in the shape of specimens, except one piece, which somewhat resembled an ammonite. The bottom was just in its natural state; the first process being to fill up the inequalities, so as to make a level bed for the regular courses of stone work. The first operation in this business of leveling took place at once. Some cement having been prepared, Sir Cusac Roney, Mr. Hodges, Mr. Ross, C. E., and some other gentlemen armed themselves with trowels, and went to work heartily preparing a bed for the rough stone intended to fill up one of the bottoms. The ladies, not to be behind hand, took the trowels in their turn, and Lady Rooney, Mrs. Hodges, Mrs. Maitland, and some other ladies, had soon put, what we think Mr. Snagsby calls "a fine point upon it." The stone being brought over the spot was lowered amidst several rounds of applause from workpeople and company; the ceremony being crowned by breaking a bottle of champagne upon the top of it. Cheers were then given for Mr Hodges, Sir C. P. Rooney, Mr. Ross, Mr. M'Kenzie, and other gentlemen connected with the work, followed by three cheers for Her Majesty. The champagne corks soon began to fly, and after a short lunch His Worship the Mayor proposed the health of James Hodges, Esq., and the contractors. Col. Maitland then proposed the health of Sir Cusac Roney and the managing directors of the Grand Trunk Company, and Mr. Holmes that of Mr. Ross, the Chief Engineer of the Line. All the gentlemen briefly returned thanks; and as the weather was very threatening there was a hasty movement for re embarkation, which, however, was not accomplished till several of the ladies and some of the gentlemen, had been wetted through by a heavy shower, which just then began to fall. It will be gratifying to our readers to know that another coffer-dam was sunk yesterday, making in all, three, and that the contractors have not only to construct all the piers with it them; but to use them again for other piers before the end of the season. The carrying on of such works, however, in our climate, is attended with difficulties which must arrest progress in spite of all foresight and energy. It was but a few weeks since the place where the dam now is, was covered with ice, and in less than three months all the expensive constructions prepared and put down, with so much care must be removed, for another long winter. Such obstacles task the patience and resolution of the most enterprising; but they will we are convinced, neither check the courage, nor abate the ardour of Mr. Hodges. The Victoria Bridge will proceed, not only in spite of frost and currents, but, also, in spite of the sneers and misrepresentations with which its promoters have been assailed.—Montreal Herald.

THE INSURRECTION IN SPAIN.

From the Correspondent of the London Times.

Madrid, July 3.

There is no positive news here this morning respecting the progress of the insurrection; but, on the other hand we have abundance of rumors, nearly every one of which has its opposite and contradictory account. The Gazette announces that a strong division of troops of all arms is to be sent out actively to pursue the insurgents, and I have just heard that it is to march to-day; but I presume this will depend much on the arrival of the 1,500 infantry and 300 horse from Valladolid. According to dispatches received by the government from the Alcaldes of the Escurial and Guadarrama, those troops were to pass last night at the latter place, 19 leagues off. Marching again, as is customary, at 4 o'clock in the morning, they ought to be here at 2 or 3 this afternoon, unless the insurgents meet them on the road, and either persuade them to join them, or attack them if they refuse, so that, before closing this letter I shall probably be able to write more positively on this head. The headquarters of the insurgents are at Aranjuez. It is said they formed a sort of Provisional Government—which was to be expected—and that they publish a Gazette of their own. All the accounts we receive of their strength are very vague, some stating it to have nearly doubled—an exaggeration which is, perhaps, based on the supposition that they have been joined by the Vast Global troops; which, however, is not the case, unless it has occured this morning. If the insurgents have gone to meet them, it is clear that they must have done so at a most critical distance from Madrid, for other parts of the new comers refused to join them, and the garrison of Madrid moved out they would be exposed to find themselves between two fires. The Gazette announces that one of the four insurgent generals was no longer with his companions yesterday evening, and the government people say to-day that Gen Messina has abandoned the insurrection. This is the construction they would naturally put upon his separation from them; but another, quite as probable, is that he has been detached with part of his forces, possibly to meet the troops from Valladolid, which is commanded by the Marquis of Villalvig (Colonel Zaldivar), an officer of no great military reputation.

ARRIVAL OF THE "CANADA."

FRENCH ARMY AB UT TO DISEMBARK.

A letter from Kiel, of the 19th, published in a Berlin paper, says:—"The French expeditionary army of the Baltic, will disembark provisionally at Zealand (Denmark), shortly.

Prussia and Austria have asked France and England for stated conditions on which they will conclude peace.

POSTPONEMENT OF ACTIVE MEASURES BY THE ALLIES.

The attack on Sebastopol was indefinitely postponed.

The attack on Cronstadt would not take place this year.

The great battle near Bucharest is problematical.

MESSAGE OF THE QUEEN.

In the House of Commons, the Earl of Harrington asked the Ministry whether they had authorized Lord Westmoreland to state to the Cabinet of Vienna, that Polish subjects of Russia will not be allowed to enter the English army or follow the standard of the allies. The Earl of Aberdeen replied that no instructions had been given.

The Earl of Aberdeen then brought forward the following message from the Queen: "Her Majesty, deeming it expedient to provide for any additional expenses which may arise in consequence of the war in which her Majesty is now engaged against the Emperor of Russia, in the defensive and offensive, asks the House of Lords their concurrence in such measures as may be necessary to make provision accordingly.

The message will be taken into consideration on Monday.

RUSSIAN DEFEAT AT BATAM.

A private telegraphic despatch from Constantinople, received at Paris, states that the Russians met with a check near Batam.

No change has occurred in the state of Eastern affairs, and none likely, until after further consideration by the English and French Governments.

AUSTRIA AND RUSSIA IMPENDING THE OPERATIONS OF THE ALLIES.

On the recent conduct of Austria, the Paris London Correspondent of the Chronicle announces the following communication: "The Cabinet of Vienna and Berlin communicated to the English and French Governments, the impression produced upon them by the answer of the Emperor Nicholas to the summons sent to Austria to evacuate the Principalities. The German powers now announce it as their opinion that the proposition contained in the Russian answer, if not altogether satisfactory, appear calculated to serve as a basis for future conferences. They moreover express their opinion that, it will not be possible to call upon Russia to evacuate the Principalities, if it be not at the same time clearly understood that the allied powers shall stop their movements in advance." In other words Austria has fallen back into alliance with Russia.

The Austrian reserves are to be called out and placed on a war footing.

Accounts from St. Petersburg state that the Czar is determined not to yield.

THE VICTORY OF GIURGEVO:

Details shew that the recent victory of Giurgevo was achieved by the Turks unassisted, leaving the whole banks of the Danube from Varna to Oltenitza in their hands.

The main body of the Turkish Army is said to be moving towards the mouth of the Danube.

THE ALLIES OCCUPY THE RUSSIAN FORTS.

The Allies have repaired and occupied the Russian batteries at the Sulina mouth of the Danube, and are employed in removing sunken ships from the channel.

PROBABLE FALL OF THE RUSSIAN FLOTILLA.

The Russian Danube flotillamust soon fall into the hands of the allies, and the free navigation of the Danube be established.

The French and English are slowly drawing their lines closer around the Russians.

BLACK SEA.

On the 7th, the combined fleets were seen off d'Kiriman, sailing east. It was reported that Admiral Blast had forced an entrance to Novawich, Asia.

Reerom Parotta surprised 12 600 Russians and defeated them, captured 56 guns and 400 men, in a mass, in the mountain.

MOWING BY MACHINERY.

On Monday last, a new Mowing Machine was tried on the farm of James Wright, Esq., Guelph Township. A number of the leading agriculturists of the Township were present, and expressed entire satisfaction at the manner in which the machine did its work. Its advantages over the Scythe are very great. It cuts the grass and leaves it spread out in swathes, as is done with the scythe, but spreads the crop equally as it proceeds on the ground; and it will cut a heavy crop as well as a light one. A man and a boy with one span of horses, will be able to cut ten acres a day, or one acre per hour—with this machine. Five acres of grass may be cut any forenoon, in a level field free from stones or stumps, and if the weather be fine, may be taken up with a horse-rake the next afternoon being then ready for the stack or the barn.—Grass cut by this machine being spread equally over the field when cut, requires no further trouble in making; a matter of great importance to the farmers in these times, when hands are so scarce that they can hardly be had for money at all. It is said that this machine will cut a crop that has been 'laid' by wind, or otherwise, equally as well as a crop standing straight, if it be cut in an opposite direction to that in which the grass may be laid. The machine used by Mr. Wright was manufactured at Brantford, and cost $100 cash.—Guelph Mercury.

Bank of British North America.

The eighteenth annual general meeting of this corporation was held at their house in St Helen's place; Mr. Gillespie in the chair.

The Secretary having read the advertisement convening the meeting proceeded to read the following report:—

"The statements of the accounts, which is duly laid before the proprietors, gives satisfactory evidence that the opinion expressed by your directors in their last report was well founded, and that the general prosperity which then distinguished the North American colonies which was of a character to have an important effect in increasing the profits of the bank.

"The net profits which the directors reported for 1852 amounted to £99,476 18s 3d. Those of 1853 amounted to £100,650 17s 10d. Being an increase of nearly 45 per cent.

"This increase is the result of a general extension of the business of the bank in every department, by which ample and profitable employment has been found for the whole of the capital.

"Your directors are also gratified in being able to state the accounts from the branches, so far as they have been received for the year 1854, are highly satisfactory.

"Although the trade of the North American colonies may not be considered as being directly exposed to injury from the existing state of warfare on the Continent of Europe, the possible consequences of its influences on the English money markets, have not been overlooked by your directors. They will therefore, endeavor so to regulate the several branches of the bank as to guard it against the risk to which any contingencies may possibly arise.

"In the year 1852, when the dividend was raised from 5 to 6 per cent. per annum, it was intimated from the Chair, that it at any future time the profits should again fall off, your directors would, without hesitation, reduce the rate of dividend and that, on the other hand when ever the profits should be found to accumulate considerably, after providing for the rate of 6 per cent. they would have much pleasure in dividing a bonus.

"Your directors are of opinion, that the time has now arrived when the accounts of the bank will justify them in affording an increased return to the proprietors on the above principle.

"It will be seen by the statement on the table, that on the 1st January last, after providing for the dividend payable in January and also for all known bad and doubtful debts the balance of undivided net profits amounted to £126,349 10s., showing an increase of £40,650 7s. 10d., during the year.

"your directors have therefore, decided in addition to the usual half yearly dividend at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, to appropriate a portion of this increase, amounting to £30,000, to the payment on the 5th of July next of the further sum of 2½. per share being 5 per cent on the capital stock of the bank.

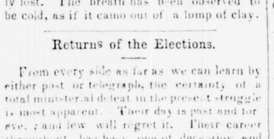
How to Recognise Cholera.

This disease, which has within a few years past, swept off so many thousand of human beings, often comes on suddenly, attacking persons who are, apparently in a good state of health, in common with the poor and wretched class. Cholera does not generally give any appreciable warning of its approach but its victims are suddenly seized when the least expect it. The following symptoms of this disease are given by M. Orton in his work, on the Diseases of India, with a truthfulness which we do not remember to have seen equalled in any other work; no one can mistake the disease for any other, when he sees it, after having read the following description of this devastating scourge. He says:—



"An extraordinary depression of spirits, and general uneasiness come on, attended by tremor and a sense of debility, giddiness and headache, and occasionally ringing in the ears is also felt, particularly when rising from the recumbent position, or making any sudden movement; pains resembling those which attend the accession of fever, are frequently felt in the limbs. The bowels are griped occasionally, and natural loose stools occurr. Nausea comes on. The circulation and temperature of the body are variously disturbed, but most commonly the pulse is accelerated and weakened. The skin is moist and colder than usual to the hand of another. In general, however, the severer affections quickly set in. Acute griping is felt in the bowels, the stools become extremely frequent and watery, and change to a grayish white color, so as exactly to resemble the congee or barley water. Vomiting comes on; and after the common contents of the stomach, a clear watery fluid interspersed with flaker of mucus; is discharged. Copious sweat breaks out and the anxiety and debility rapidly increase. The countenance assumes a very peculiar appearance, by which alone the disease may generally be distinguished. This is so remarkable, as occasionally to render servants recognised with difficulty by their masters, even in the earlier stages of the disease. It is usually during a fit of vomiting that spasms of the muscles are first felt. They affect occasionally the whole of the muscles of voluntary motion, but particularly those of the legs and feet. The respiration from the accession appears to be hurried and oppressed and is frequently complained of. As the disease increases in violence, the color of the whole surface changes to a livid hue, particularly round the eyes and at the extremities. The surface is bathed in cold sweats; the hands and feet, and afterwards the whole body grows cold.—From the first setting in of the disease an extreme thirst invariably attends; and notwithstanding the coldness of the body, there is a vehement longing for great quantities of cold water, which, however, though gratefully and eagerly received, frequently affords no relief to the morbid sensation.—Great oppression and sense of anxiety are also referred to in the praecordia. The urine when it does appear in the earlier stages, is pale and watery, but under the existence of the severer symptoms, that secretion, as well as that of bile, is completely suppressed. The tongue is natural at first, but in the course of the disease, it becomes furred and deficient of moisture; and dryness of the mouth and thirst is very generally complained of. The hands are sodden with cold sweats, shrivelled and wrinkled like those of a washerwoman's after a days labor, and frequently of dark a blue color. There is an extreme restlessness and anxiety, which prevent his remaining in instant in the same position.—It is gradually relieved or removed by stupor; and though these symptoms are of so opposite a nature, they are frequently present in a very considerable degree at the same time. After an uncertain continuance in this state, to which I cannot with truth apply a term with greater precision than a few hours, a remarkable change takes place.—The spasms, the vomiting, and purging, usually cease about the same time whatver is taken into the stomach is retained, even in large quantities, and clysters not rejected as formerly.—The powers of life continue rapidly to fail. The pulse becomes quite lost at the wrist, and even at the humerus. The pulsations of the heart itself is very feeble. The eye is sunk back and fixed in the socket; the cornea becomes dull and glassy. In attempts to sleep, the eye is half opened occasionally, the pupil is scarcely covered; deafness preceded or accompanied by tinnitus aurium, is very common in this stage; false vision, blindness, and dilated pupil, are equally so; speech becomes difficult, and the voice grows hoarse, hollow, and scarcely intelligible, or is entirely lost. The breath has been observed to be cold, as if it came out of a lump of clay.

Returns of the Elections.

From every side as far as we can learn by either post or telegraph, the certainty of a total ministerial defeat in the present struggle is most apparent. Their day is past and for ever; and few will regret it. Their career throughout, has been one of deception and chicanery, and their fall must be an exact proportion to their misdeeds, while they held the misplaced confidence of the country. By the last general accounts, the numbers pro et con, stood:—

Members favorable to the ministry,	9
do unfavorable do.	15
Independent,	11
Majority against the ministry	6

We may safely infer from the returns, so far that they must go "down among the dead men" and when we consider the fate of the Rev. Malcolm Cameron, in his own constituency, surrounded by his own neighbours, and in the midst of his own (!) ill gotten property, we may calculate on the speedy dissolution of his unprincipled compeers. —The Colonist of yesterday states that in Renfrew, Mr. McKinnon was ahead of Mr. Hincks at the first days polling. If this statement be a correct one, there can be little doubt of his triumphant return, on the close of the second day. At Bytown, the Ministerial and Reformist Candidates were "missing" at the end of the poll. At Hamilton, also, the ministry sustained a check in the aspirations—in the return of Sir Allan McNabb by a large majority over Buchanan. Polling commenced yesterday in Norfolk, but the result we have been unable to ascertain up to the hour of going to press. If the honest portion of the electors only do their duty, we have no fear of the result. Mr. Ritchie is an able candidate, and a man of large property—all within the County; but we fear unwavering loyalty will be found to operate against him in the Radical constituencies.—British Canadian.

London Times.

LONDON, FRIDAY, AUGUST 4, 1854.

LONDON ELECTION.

One of the results of the last election, not the least remarkable has been the telegraphic despatch used by our paternal government in rewarding the imminent personal exertions and great pecuniary losses sustained by our new member, John Wilson, Esq., M. P. P., by at once giving him the lucrative appointment of special bailiff to the town and appointing William Barker, Esq., the Reeve as his deputy. These gentlemen entered with the greatest alacrity on their new duties on Friday last, when they proceeded in a buggy to Mr Carter's hotel in this town and arrested Mr. Morton, who it was alledged had been engaged the previous day in a riot, whether this step was taken by the learned member to show his willingness to carry out those promises of "progression" and "law reform" alluded to by him on the hustings, we are at a loss to discover. Certainly a fusty old almanack once regarded as a law authority says it down that not even a peace officer can arrest for a mere breach of the peace after it is over, without an express warrant. See Bacon, abr, pl 53. Now if any of the wild Irish boys happened to be present, and just for a little bit spree thought proper to give these new constables a sound drubbing for their intemperate haste, we much wonder to what court they would then resort to uphold their authority. We should strongly advise our new member to refresh his memory in the fundamentals of law, which every tyro understands before he again allows his feelings to warp his judgment, and make such a despicable display of himself, but perchance he wishes to obtain some minor post under the "sergeant-at-arms when attending his parliamentary duties and this little practise here may be only initiatory.

But what shall we say about his deputy, (Mr. Barker) conduct in a Court of Justice on Saturday last. It was marked by a total disregard of those proper feelings which should actuate every well minkined person. The language employed towards Mr. Borton, and the vindictive expressions used towards one of the most useful and active constables (John Wilson) not the M. P. P. was totally indefensible. We only wonder the magistrates did not commit him for contempt We are reluctant to dwell longer on this matter as we understand superior proceedings are pending.

Another reflection arising from the recent election suggest the striking difference existing between the officials appointed under the old family compact or tory party, or whatever name they choose to designate the old government, and the hopeful selection of the present Reform Cabinet We observed the officials of Elgin, the Judge, Clerk of the Peace, and Deputy Clerk of the Crown hovering about during the elections. The two latter seemed particularly active both at the East Riding and Town elections, whereas the gentlemen holding those offices in Middlesex were in their offices attending to the duties of their office. Now the public have an express right to know whether these gentlemen get their appointments conditional to give their time at elections as political partizans. If an unfortunate Conservative holding the most petty office were to show himself at an election the Reform papers would howl like hungry wolves, and run him down till the place was won, but not so with these liberals, they can discern the slightest political interference in their opponents while they are blind to their own failings, we wonder who discharges the public duties of the offices of these absentees, or whether the absent days are holidays by act of parliament.

The matter must be looked to. Another circumstance we cannot omit to allude to, in St Patrick's Ward the returning officer could only see to his right, and unfortunately all on his left were overlooked, it happened, however, by accident, that the friends of John Wilson were on the right while Mr. Dixon's were on the left, and that said John Wilson was sitting beside said returning officer, and so long as the returning officer, to use a

THE CHOLERA AND CISTERN.

We commend the following extract to the perusal of our readers, it certainly must strike every one the vast value of cisterns if such be the case.

We cannot ourselves do more than give the extract, and leave it to the scientific to test its accuracy.

THE CHOLERA.—Dr. J. Hobbs of Memphis was addressed a letter to the Mayor of Nashville, Tenn., in which he states that by the use of cistern water entirely and exclusively, the cholera will disappear and never return. The doctor says that this is known to him by analysis, and by experience of twenty-four years. The editor of the Nashville Gazette says that from his own observations in the year 1849, when the cholera was in its worst stages, it was admitted by those best acquainted with the disease that those who used rain water where the disease was most prevalent were free from it.

AGATHA BEAUFORT; OR FAMILY PRIDE.—This is the title of a new work just published by Stringer & Townsend, of New York, We have not as yet had an opportunity of perusing this work, but from what the English press say of it we have no doubt it is entitled to a high place among modern works of fiction. The London Athaneum says:—"2.7 A work of much merit. Altogether, considering the powerful delineations of character, and the admirably grouped and often splendidly dramatic scene with which it abounds, and its high, artistic finish, the romance will take a distinguished place among the novels of the season. The writer's name is not given, but we think we know the master's hand that worked out its brilliant pages."

To the Editor of the London Times.

SIR,

It is very amusing to observe the rancor which certain of the ministerial papers exhibit towards those conservatives who profess to hold to reform principles in any one thing.

The Woodstock Gazateer for instance of the 15th July is quite rabid about Sir Allan McNab and secularization.

Perhaps that paper is not aware of the meaning of the word reform, it is not Radicalism or Democracy, but a gradual and moderate alteration wherever there is a necessity for it, and the Gazette may as well be told that a real Conservative is a much better reformer than a radical ever can or ever will be.

But the radical party cannot bear to give the Conservatives credit for consistency when they (the Conservatives) advocate secularization.

So long as the people generally were averse to secularize the reserves, the conservatives took that ground, but now it the country desire the change that party will help, no doubt to carry it and the rads are annoyed beyond measure at that fact and heap all the abuse they can upon what they style the old Tory party, which is in fact obsolete. Mere change for the love of change is what the radicals delight in, they are not Reformers in the real sense of the word.

With all the above however which is heaped upon upon Conservatives, it would be well if the Gazette were consistent, it is a poor rule that makes Fish of one and Flesh of another, but so anxious is that paper to soft sawder Mr. Hincks, and kick the Conservatives, that tho' he will not allow the latter to have the benefit of the stream yet the former may trim his boat to catch every breeze, and he is a smart man, for instance, Mr. Hincks at Ingersoll on the question of the Maine Liquor Law, was not he said at present prepared to give it his support.

Well and good we do not quarrell with Mr. Hincks on that account, it is a manly way of proceeding but in another column of the said Gazette, and right behind it! Important comes out the fact that Mr. Hincks has given the assurance that wherever an evident majority can be shown by a vote at the poll on the occasion of municipal election in favor of the Maine Law in the South Riding, he will either support such a measure by his vote or resign his seat.

Now if such a thing were to happen, which will Mr. Hincks do, there is but one answer to such a question.

He would swim with the tide, and small blame to him, as the Gazette would be one of the first to say, forgetting no doubt that this swimming with the stream is the great fact which has so excited his ire against Sir Allan and the Conservative party.

SECOND ANNUAL REPORT OF THE MERCANTILE LIBRARY ASSOCIATION.

The Board of Directors of the Town of London Mercantile Library Association, in conformity with the provisions of the Constitution have much pleasure in submitting this report for the year ending August 1854. Exhibiting a statement of the position in which it is at present placed, and the manner in which its interests, have been watched over during the past year.

They feel great satisfaction in being able to state that the affairs of the Association have been eminently progressing during their term of office and that its future prospects are such as could not have been anticipated by the most sanguine of those to whom it is indebted for its establishmen.

The removal of the rooms of the Association to the present central situation has in a great degree tended to increase the number of subscribers—A step which your board feels has met with the hearty concurrence and approbation of all.

The present rooms have been secured through the kindness and liberality of L. Lawrason, Esq., for the term of three years from this date.

The usefulness of this institution has been greatly enhanced by the addition of a library, containing many of the best English and American publications, selected with great care and discrimination and with an especial view to the interest and requirements of the association. A deficiency which was formerly experienced has thus been obviated, and the advantages arising from the possession of so many excellent works as History and Parliamentary Debates, have been universally and deservedly appreciated.

The Library contains 343 vols.

A full supply of provincial, American and Old Country papers, have been constantly ensured such as were available of the best and most popular kinds.

The Board of sincere gratification to the Directors that their selection of n was [illegible] &c., have given satisfaction. And that the change made in those papers [illegible] this year will meet your approval.

Your board cannot permit the opportunity to pass without acknowledging their sincere thanks to those through whose liberality in voluntarily subscribing to the Library fund so large a sum has been raised and so many valuable works added to our institution which has been the means of inducing several of our clerks to join the institution.

Your board humbly suggest that a more vigorous and general course should be made next year, not a one for new members but for voluntarily subscriptions to the library, out of 165 members now on the books only 48 have subscribed.

Your board have been most careful in applying such fund as was at their disposal, in the purchase of books for the library, and in providing necessary appendages for the use of the reading room.

A large and splendid set of Maps have been procured during year at a cost of $40 serving at the same time to furnish the room and to afford a ready and convenient means of reference.

A suitable supply of gas fittings has been provided, and the several committees have been prompt in securing in proportion to their means such improvements and requirements as were demanded by the increasing interest and importance of the Institution.

The Board of Directors feel great pleasure in expressing their approval of the manner in which the librarian, Mr. James Heron, has discharged his duties and would here state that they deem it advisable to increase his salary, as more time will be required every day from him, and as it will be indispensable for him to collect outstanding debts.

Your board would here impress on each member the necessity of strictly adhering to the By-laws of the Constitution of the Association which demand of each member his subscription in advance.

You will perceive by the financial statement here annexed the sum of thirty pounds is still due to the Association and were it not for the kindness and liberality of our Treasurer L. Lawrason, Esq., we should be unable to send home to Europe by our President Mr. C Cook, the sum of thirty pounds cy., to pay for and send out direct our newspapers, the rule adopted in the association is to pay all liabilities in advance and keep out of debt,

Your board trusts that when you are called upon next week for the next years subscription that you will do so cheerfully in advance,

The Board of Directors feel it incumbent on them to state that while much has been done in procuring members during the past year and thereby increasing the funds of the Association. Much remains in this respect to be accomplished and they would earnestly and respectfully urge upon their successors the importance of adopting measures for obtaining additions subscribers, believing as they do that if each member would only interest himself properly on this point that the energetic and united action of the members and board would unquestionably be rewarded by a large increase of names on the books of the Association.

HOW TO CURE PROFANENESS.—All know' says the San Francisco Christian Advocate, the shuddering frequency with which profanity mingles in the conversation of numbers in our midst.—Little children catch the habit in spite of paternal effort, and to the grief of all, defile their little speech with enormous oaths and vulgar phrases. Difficult and responsible indeed, is the lot of a parent in California. An intelligent lady of our acquaintance, whose little boy was beginning to use this strange talk, anxious to express to her child her horror of profanity hit upon the novel process of washing out his mouth with soap suds whenever he swore. It was an effectual cure.—The boy understood his mother's sense of the corruption of an oath, and the taste of suds, which together produced the desired effect.

DIED.

June 29th, suddenly, at a very advanced age at the residence of his son, Creagh Rectory, County Cork, the Rev. Hans Caulfield, Prebendary of Kilmanah, a benefice which he had held for upwards of fifty-three years. Under the Church Temporalities Act, the Primate and Archbishop of Dublin are empowered to present a fellow of Trinity College, Dublin, to this Prebend, (the annual value of which is £500) in default of which the right of presentation lapses to the Bishop of Ossory. The Rectory and Vicarage of Bodwell, value £300, held by Mr. Caulfield in addition to the Prebend, lapse to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners.

THE HOMESTEAD BILL will be passed by Charles Wood, Esq., at New York, on the Evening of June 1854, giving to each of 600 subscribers from 500 feet square to 20 Acres of Land, on the Long Island Rail Road, and but FIFTY miles from New York City.

STEWART'S EMPORIUM OF FASHIONS!

CASH SYSTEM

25 per cent. Cheaper than the Credit System.

IT is a well known fact that those giving credit (especially in the Tailoring line) are obliged, in order to make their business pay, to charge the well-meaning and good-paying customer with the garments of those who dress well, but never pay.

In order to prevent this injustice being practised on the honest and good-paying customer, the subscriber has adopted the Cash System. He will assure his customers that they will only have to pay for their own garments, and that at the rate of 25 per cent. less than formerly charged under the credit system.

His stock will be found to consist of the latest and best materials of Home and Foreign Manufacture, consisting in part of

WEST OF ENGLAND BROAD CLOTHS

FRENCH GOODS,

SCOTCH TWEEDS,

and a splendid assortment of Silk, Satin and Fancy Vestings, Silk Handkerchiefs, Ties, Gloves of various materials and colors, Shirts, &c., which he is now prepared to sell and make up to order in the latest and most approved English, French or American Styles, to suit customers, at a very small advance on cost (for cash).

He has just received the latest fashions from Europe and America, and will continue to receive monthly the very latest styles. He earnestly invites all numerous customers and the public in general to give him a call as early as possible. His workmen will be as usual, of the first class. The cutting will be done entirely by himself. Ladies' habits will receive his particular attention.

Mr. Kordes keeps constantly on hand Pianos of other good makers, such as Baron and Raven, Gilbert, Gale, etc. Also second hand Pianos, from £10 upwards to £50. Old Pianos taken in exchange, and a liberal allowance made. Pianos Tuned and repaired. All orders from a distance promptly attended to.

Mr. Kordes has constantly on hand an assortment of very superior Brass Instruments, for the formation and use of Bands, as Ophiclides, Sax horns, Trombones, Cowpeans, Bugles, Post horns, French horns, etc., which will be sold low, and on very favorable terms.

Mr. Kordes would just say a few words regarding the Pianos of Chickering, Stodart & Dunham, in the first place, they are warranted to keep good and sound in all their parts, for any number of years, provided they receive good treatment.

In the second place, any person having such a thing as what is called an ear for music, will, without looking at the makers name, be able to detect the difference between a Stodart, a Dunham or a Chickering, to a Piano from any other maker, without exception; the woody, wiry, harsh kind of sound, so predominant in other instruments, is changed into a mellow, sweet, full and brilliant tone in the Pianos of the above three makers.

As regards keeping in tune: these Pianos require a good tuner 3 times in 12 months as recent treatment, they never require more than this, may, however, sometimes require less. Care and attention is all they need.

Poetry,

LAY REVIVED FOR THE PRESENT TIME.

DOWN WITH THE MINISTRY.

AIR.—O Susanna don't you cry for me.

I dream't a dream the other night,
When everything was still,
Me dreamt I saw our Ministry
Coming down the hill;
Upon their backs were well filled packs,
But tears were in each eye;
And as they made the downward track,
The people raised the cry:—
"Down with the Ministry, don't you cry for they—
Are going to the devil, where such arrant knaves should stay.

First there was "Old Dissolving Views,"
His coat tails out of sight,
Who slunk away—his pledges broke,
The foremost in the fight,
Whilst Nortolk glorious as of old,
Pitched at him heart and hand,
Some Red Pine Logs as billets doux,
And shouted through the land:—
Down with the Ministry, &c.

Jim Morris was the next that came.
His "turned" coat was thread bare,
And worn to rags, while cast off bags
Which bore the mails were near,
The labels nearly all were gone;
Point Levi still was there,
And as its ticket "Number one"
I read once more the cheer,
Down with the Ministry, &c.

Another—Johnny Ross his name,
With weary steps came on,
Upon a Truck of Railway stock,
At length he sat him down.
And in it two were title deeds,
Lemoine Estates were they,
To which the Railway track must run,
No wonder people say
Down wit the Ministry, &c.

And next I saw the Drummond boy'
So streaked with fat and lean—
That Harlequin by blood and birth,
His like was never seen.
A kin he claimed to Jean Baptiste,'
A Fiddle Scotch his sire—
But when he called himself Canuc,
The people raised the cry
Down with the the Ministry, &c.

The knowing Coon came riding past,
His Bureau left behind:
The mail bags on his shoulders, they
Were filled just to his mind,
In one a pondrous book was stowed,
The Letter Writers Guide;
Reserves of Clergy sec' arized"
Hung at the other side
Down with the Ministry.

The last of all came Francis Hincks,
A bringing up the rear,
Beneath a load of ill-got wealth,
Which he could scarcely bear,
His nostrum quacks were all found out,
His polls were cast away,
Or pelted at him by the boys,
Oof Oxford whilst they say,
Down with the Ministry. don't you cry for they
Are going to the devil, where such arrant knaves should stay.

The Fifty Thousand stock was there,
Ten thousand shave and more;
Location Hincks, and Sault Marie,
Were added to his store.
A want of candour covered all.
His ill-ly gotten gain,
Oh, when my dream comes true 'tis then
We'll shout with might and main!
Down with the ministry, don't you cry for they—
Are going to the devil, where such arrant knaves should stay.

Oh, when my dream comes true this then,
We'll shout with might and main,
Down with the Ministry, don't you cry for they.
Are going to the devil, where such arrant knaves should stay.

EXPEDITION TO CENTRAL AFRICA.

From the Athaenum.

The following letter of Dr. Vogel, addressed to his relations add dated "Ashenumma, 26th November 1853," and communicated to us by Dr. Petermann, gives a characteristic description of the Tibbus and their country.

Ashehumma lies about 25 miles north of Cilma:—

"I have just succeeded in finding a man to carry despatcehs for me to Murzuk, and I therefore eagerly seize the opportunity of sending you these few lines from Ashenumma, an oasis situated in the middle of the great Desert of Sahara.

I have had a very tedious journey from Murzuk, nothing but sand and sky being visible for 15 days, not even the smallest blade of grass. Now, thank God, I am only about twenty-days journey from lake Tchad, and from verdant magnificient Bornu, and, taking all delays into calculation, I fully expect to keep New Year's day in Kuka.

I am as well as circumstances permit, only somewhat jaded which it not very wonderful, considering that for twenty successive days, I have passed thirteen hours daily on horseback, besides keeping watch for two hours every night with no other food than rice and some coarsely ground wheaten flour boiled in water, and now and then a handful of dates.

Here we have meat in abundance although I only take the broth myself, as I am suffering a little from Dyspepsia, and one must be particularly careful here, more than anywhere else, to avoid everything difficult to digest.

I wish you could but give a glance at this country—this sea of sands with its islets of and its black rocks rising naked and bald on every hand; and at men, burned nearly black with the sun, and in half Arabian, half European dress, lying flat on the ground in my tent while writing these lines, for my whole furniture consists of a camp chair, a mattress and two straw mats,—my table having been long since transformed into tent pegs and fuel.

As you are fond of animals you would be quite deligeted with my two horses a grey and a brown; they are so tame that they follow me everywhere just like dogs, and when I am at my meals they are sere to come and get a few dates from me.

The grey horse is a very beautiful one and a present from Hasan Pacha the governor of Murbuk; the brown horse on whose back I learned riding at Tripoli, is also a handsome creature but so unmanageable that none of my attendants will mount him, I am the only person he does not throw.

Yesterday I paid my visit to the Sultan of the Tibbus, in whose dominions I am for the moment residing.

He lives in a small hut built of earth and thatched with palm leaves, and he received me in a room, which served for himself, and some of his principal attendents and two goats and a horse besides.

His Majesty sat on a low cane bench, and was dressed in a blue blouse, with an enormous and shockingly dirty Turban on his head.

I went up to him and gave him my him, as a proof that I did not look upon him as my superior,—to the amazement of the Tibbus—and inquired after his health.

He in return asked me how I had left the Queen of England, and assured me that I might traverse his dominions in perfect security, since he would do everything for me that lay in his power.

He was highly pleased at my intention of despatching a messenger to Murzuk.

The first single messenger that ever performed the journey.—and promised me to forward safely any letter which I should want to send to Kuka. I presented him thereupon, to his great satisfaction with a red burnous and caftan, a piece of muslin, a red cap, two razors, and some pieces of grey calico.

As soon as I had returned to my tent, he sent me on his part two large dishes with boiled rice, and a fat sheep, which provisions my people disposed of in less than an hour.

"I have just been interrupted in my writing by about a dozen of the fair sex, who taking advantage of the momentary absence of my servants, had forced their way into my tent, where I had great difficulty in keeping them off from me. I presented each with four needles over which they were in ecstacies.

The ladies here wear a large knob or button of red coral, and their dress consists in a piece of calico, about one yard wide and three long, which they twist round the body. The rest of their covering is a shining black skin, which they strive to beautify by copious oiling. Their hair is plaited into innumerable little tresses dripping also with fat.

The total absence of money here is exceedingly disagreeable and trying.

Everything is paid in pieces of calico, necessitating of course an everlasting measuring and cutting which is exceedingly tedious.

The place is situated at the foot of a large steep rock, that looks almost like Kenigstein but which is perforated in every direction, for this rock is the retreat of the natives when attacked by the Tuaricks living westward from here.

Such invasions occur nearly every two years, and everything portable is carried off the men are put to death and the women taken for slaves.

These gentlemen had a strong desire to favor our caravan with a visit, and for three nights I slept with a revolver at my right hand, and a double barrelled gun at my left; but the have always found us too much on our guard and too strong, so we have hitherto remained unmolested.

But I must conclude. Some of the magnates of the place are announced, who have a fancy to taste my coffee.

Be under no apprehension if you

by such a circumstance as this, or the real diskomforts it originates in carrying out the details of a life under canvass.

In the same way that most indefatigable and invaluable body of men the sappers and miners, are impeded in their labours, not only by tee tools they have being frequently indifferent, but, what is worse, by the waft of the implements which they ought to carry.

We shall perhaps be hardly believed when we say, that patriotism, and not the wish to disturb officials in their easy chairs, induces us to arouse the public attention to this flaw defect.

A manufacturer, in a letter to a London paper, states that it immediately arises from the government contracts being much below the price at which good implements can be supplied.

In the times of yesterday we find the following letter:—

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES.

Sir,

The public have for some time past been startled by stories respecting the bad quality of the tools sent out for the use of our army in the East.

"Certain manufacturers of such tools have addressed letters to you upon the subject, giving their names, and testifying that the sum paid by government for the tools hitherto sent out and found useless, in consequence of their bad quality, is insufficient to ensure a supply of good serviceable articles.

Mhis is a very serious matter yet no notice has been taken of it in Parliament.

Te Secretary-at-War has not contradicted the rumour, neither has any independent member asked for any question to elucidate it.

Yet surely it would be politic, were M. S. Herbeat either to assure the House that there is no truth whatever in the story—if indeed it be unfounded—or were some independent member to put to him the following questions:

Have the tools hitherto sent out been complained of?

I Whose duty is it to see that they are of sufficient good quality before the are issued to the troops?

3 Has that officer discharged that duty, and if he has not, has he himself been discharged?

I am, Sir,

Your ob't servant.

COMMON SENSE.

It is not the first time that British soldiers have had to complain of similar abuses. In the Peninsular war, the main cause of the Duke of Wellington's failure at the first siege of Badajos was what is now in 1854 complained of.

It is almost incredible that the observations of our military historian Sir W. Napier on that republic in 1811 which we subjoin, should be applicable to the full extent to the government of the present day:—

"That a siege so conducted should fail against so brave and intelligent a garrison, is not strange, but it is most strange and culpable that a Government which had been so long engaged in war as the British should have left the engineer department, with respect to organization and equipment, in such a state, as to make it in despite of the officer's bravery, experience and zeal, a very inefficient arm of war.

The skill displayed belonged to particular persons, rather than to the corps at large, and the very tools with which they worked, especially those sent from the storekeepers department were so shamefully bad that the work required could scarcely be performed; the captured French tools were eagrly sought for as better than the British.

When soldier's lives and the honour of England's arms were at stake the English cutlery was found worse than the French."

PROVINCE OF CANADA.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE, QUEBEC.
Thursday, July 20, 1854.
Present:

His Excellency the Governor General in Council.

His Excellency has been pleased to approve the following code of directions and regulations adopted by the Central Board of Health, under the provisions of the Provincial Statute 8 Vic. cap. 8.

WM. H. LEE, C. E. C.

Chapter First

GENERAL AND PERSONAL DIRECTIONS TO FAMILIES AND INDIVIDUALS

1. Yards should be cleansed of all filth; dung-heaps, liquid manure, &c, should be removed without delay; low and wet places should be drained, but if this be not practicable at the moment, they should be filled with sand or old mortar, with a view to the absorbtion of the moisture. All premises around dwellings should be kept clean and dry. Privies should be thoroughly cleansed and washed, and their doors and covers left open to prevent the accumulation of foul air, and to allow of free ventilation.

2. Cellars which are inhabited, or used as kitchens, should be kept dry and comfortable by small fires, and a free circulation of the atmosphere, both by day and night, and their walls should be whitewashed twice a month during the prevalence of the epidemic; this also should be done in old houses, especially those occupied by the poorer classes. The floors of all houses where carpets are not used should be washed and scrubbed twice a week.

3. Every house should be well aired, chimney boards and stove pipe stoppers removed, and the doors of all apartments left open, both day and night. A ventilator in one window of each room, particularly in old and

5. Personal cleanliness should be strictly observed: a tepid bath taken two or three times a week, and the body rubbed dry with a coarse napkin, will be found very useful.

6. Flannel vests with sleeves, and Drawers should be worn next the skin, and persons subject to bowel complaints, should wear, in addition, a warm swathe of Flannel around the abdomen.

7. Strict moderation both in eating and drinking must be observed, and any excess of mental or bodily fatigue carefully avoided.—The diet should be of a light and nourishing nature, consisting mainly of animal food.—Fish of all kinds should be eaten with extreme caution, and vegetables should be used but sparingly, and those only to which the individual is well accustomed. Good mealy potatoes, steam-boiled or roasted, may be used as heretofore; bread should always be stale; rice should be used as much as possible; and green cooked vegetables, as peas, beans, cabbage, &c., should be avoided. Those whose bowels are easily affected by veal or fresh pork, or by boiled meats, should not eat those articles. When fruit is eaten, let it be with the utmost caution, and none but the ripest and most mellow should be indulged in.—Those fruits which require sugar to counteract their natural acidity, should not be used during the prevalence of cholera.

8. Those who from principle, or any other reason, object to the use of spirituous or fermented drinks at dinner, are recommended to take tea or toast water at that meal, but those who for years have been in the habit of using spirituous or fermented drinks, and in whom a sudden change in their mode of life might be attended with bad results, are strongly recommended to use those articles in small quantities, and of the best quality.

9. Long fasting should be avoided. Those whose avocations oblige them to dine late, should take a wholesome nutricious luncheon. Late suppers and indulgences in several viands at the same meal should be avoided.

10. In the warm months of summer, the thirst is generally very great, and cold and refreshing drinks are sought after with much avidity, than which nothing can be more dangerous. Cold and acid beverages, as cider, light acid wines, and brandy sipping, should be sedulously abstained from. Soda water, with an excess of alkali, or carrara water, flavored with a little syrup of ginger, and tincture of ginger, may be taken, but in small quantities at a time.

11. Nurses and others who attend the sick, should take nourishment frequently, and should not sleep in the apartments of those they are attending.

12. The Central Board, while it admits that science has not as yet discovered any specific for the cure or prevention of cholera, is nevertheless convinced that, with certain precautions, many cases may be prevented from being serious, and under this conviction it offers to the public some advice calculated, to protect, and give confidence during an epidemic of cholera.

13. Experience has proved that in a large majority of cases, cholera is ushered in by certain premonitory symptoms, such as looseness of the bowels, nausea, uneasiness of the stomach, colic, &c. These should be at once attended to, as in this stage the disease is easily controlled; and it is believed that many valuable lives have been lost in consequence of neglecting these indications. It is therefore advised that every family should have in the house some remedies recommended by their respective physicians, which can at once be administered, and further that the presence of the medical attendant be required without delay.

14. It is recommended that the sick should not be attended by a greater number of persons than is absolutely necessary, inasmuch as the crowd of persons in the room is prejudicial to the invalid, and predisposes the attendants to contract the disease.

15. The public are earnestly warned against the use of strong purgatives and emetics during the prevalence of cholera; and also against the indiscriminate use of various mineral waters so much used at present. These latter remedies are most valuable in many diseases when so selected and prescribed for the patient by his medical attendant, but as it frequently happens that the patient himself decides upon the quantity and quality of them he should drink, it is feared that much injury will result from the practice, although small quantities of them may be used with advantage. The Board also considers it its duty to warn the public against the use of the many kinds of Patent Medicines so extensively employed.

16. The clothing and bedding used by cholera patients should be destroyed by fire; when parties object to this course they should certainly be exposed to a high temperature in an oven, and then be thoroughly washed in the following mixture:

Chloride of Lime, one pound.
Water, four gallons.

As the disinfecting agent, the Board would recommend the Chloride of Lime, or the solution of the Chloride of Lime, for out offices, privies, sewers, drains, night chairs, &c.; and they are of opinion that in the sick chamber and other apartments in the vicinity of cholera patients, aromatic vinegar or burnt vinegar will be found useful and agreeable.

17. In conclusion, the Board would warn the public against unnecessary alarm, as, in its opinion, nothing will more certainly predispose to disease of any kind, than giving way to depressing fear. The Board, therefore, while it condemns in the most unqualified manner, the assembling together of large bodies of persons, as at balls, theatres, races, &c., would recommend cheerful society, by family or other small re unions, as calculated to keep up the buoyancy of the spirits and thus dispel unnecessary despondency.

Chapter Second.

GENERAL DIRECTIONS TO LOCAL BOARDS AND OTHER AUTHORITIES.

The Central Board directs and orders:

1. That the Local Boards in all cities, towns or places, where the disease seems likely to spread, to adopt the system of Daily Medical Domiciliary Visits, throughout the city, town or place, where practicable, or, at least, in those parts of the city, town or place, lying low, or which are badly ventilated, and occupied by the poorer classes of society.

2. That small and temporary hospitals should be opened in different parts of cities, towns or places, to which poor and indigent patients may at once be removed; thus avoiding the transport of patients through the city to a permanent hospital which may be at a distance, a step prejudicial to the patient, and alarming to the citizens.

3. That there shall be established Houses of Refuge in the non-infected districts, found so useful in Scotland and elsewhere, to which poor families, who may have lost any of their members by cholera, may be immediately removed while their own dwellings are being fumigated, white-washed, &c.

4. The Board directs the attention of the Local Boards to the over crowded state of the Boarding Houses occupied by emigrants and seamen at this season of the year, with a view to remedy this so fruitful a source of disease.

5 The Board directs the attention of the proper authorities, particularly of Quebec and Montreal, to the shameful manner in which, on certain occasions, the steamers trading between those cities are overcrowded with steerage passengers. These people have just come off a long voyage, during which they often suffer many privations, are consequently already predisposed to disease, and it is feared often fall victims to cholera, upon being exposed to the night air, or huddled together in large numbers between the decks.

6. The Central Board, while it admits that the question of the contagious or non contagious character of cholera is an open one, would nevertheless recommend all Local Boards, or other authorities to act upon the presumption that it is contagious; and would further suggest that the quarantine regulations at Grosse Isle should be strictly enforced.

7. The Board directs that so soon as it shall become known that cholera exists in any city, town or place, the Local Board shall cause the first few cases to be traced to their origin, which, with any other information that may be obtained, with reference to the course of the disease or otherwise, shall be communicated to the Central Board. The members of the medical professi n are also requested to communicate to the Board that line of practice, which, in their experience has proved most successful. The Central Board hopes thus to obtain much valuable information, and believes that the cause of humanity and science will, at the same time be promoted.

8. The Central Board of Health do hereby direct, and the Local and other Boards and Committees of Health and health officers aforesaid are hereby authorized to see that the following directions and regulations be strictly enforced:

9. That all putrid and unsound beef, pork, meat, fish, whether fresh or salted, hides, skins, all dead animals, animal excretions and remains and every putrid, offensive, unsound or unwholesome matter or substance whether animal or vegetable, found in any street or other place, be immediately removed or disposed of, so as most effectually to secure the public health.

10. That all cellars, sinks, cess-pools privies and places containing unwholesome matter or substance, which require cleansing, emptying, altering or repairing, in order to preserve the public health, be forthwith so cleansed, emptied altered or repaired, and abundantly sprinkled with lime, before and during the existence of any contagious disease or epidemic.

11. That all stagnant water about dwellings, yards, streets, and in cellars, pits and in vacant lots and other places, be at once drained off if practicable; and all hollow and wet places, be filled up with fresh earth and sand; and all drains, sewers and water-courses obstructed or stopped up, be at once opened so that the water may flow freely and unrestricted; and where the public health is endangered from the want of main drains or sewers in any street or place, that the proper authorities do forthwith cause the same to be made, so that all cellars, pits and vacant lots in which water remains may be immediately drained off.

12. That where swine are kept, if they occasion any bad or offensive odor, and especially if fed from the offal of butchers' sheds or slaughter houses, they be immediately removed to such a distance from any dwelling as that the inhabitants may not be annoyed by such offensive odors.

13. That butchers keep their premises particularly clean, and dispose, without delay, of all the offal, excrements and remains of the animals slaughtered, in such wise as not to offend their neighbours, or the public, with the bad odors resulting from the putrid effluvia, so abundantly given off from such substances. It would moreover, be desirable that no slaughter house be allowed within the limits of any city or town.

14. That all skins and hides, and the skulls horns and bones adhering to such skins and hides in tanners' yards and premises, and all hoofs and horns and bones collected for or intended to be used in the manufacturing of Neats Foot Oil, shall be allowed to accumulate but in every instance be removed before disagreeable odors arise therefrom, to such place, or be put in such a state as that the public health be not endangered thereby.

15. That Tanyards and Tanneries be visited by the Health officers at least once a week to see that hides or skins are not piled up in heaps or in a state of decomposition; and that the scrapings of hides and skins, and everything appertaining to them, in the raw green, or crude state, be at once removed, and burnt, or disposed of so as to prevent the escape of bad odors from their decomposition.

16. That all bones and skins collected for shipment, manufacture or other purposes, be at once removed, when they occasion offensive odors, to a place or places where they are not likely to prove detrimental to the public health. The Board also recommends that depots of these matters should not be allowed to exist within the limits of any city or town.

17 That all imported hides and skins be at once examined, and that such as have suffered from wet, or are in a putrid state, or commencing decomposition, be conveyed away or disposed of so as not to prove injurious to the health of the community.

18. That great attention shall be paid to the management of cemetries and other burying places. No interment shall be permitted within the walls of a church, or the limits of any city or town—care shall be taken to avoid any crowding in upon burying places, and closed vaults, in which recent interments have taken place, shall be opened with the utmost caution.

19. That during the prevalence of the epidemic, Undertakers, and parties in charge of funerals, shall adopt the shortest possible route to the intended burying place, thus avoiding the alarm caused to the public by the frequent appearance of such processions in the more public thoroughfares.

20. That during the prevalence of the epidemic, the keepers of hotels, taverns, boarding houses and other places of public accomodation, as well as citizens in general, to report or cause to be reported to the Local Board of Health for the district, any death from cholera which may occur on their respective premises.

21. That the Sexton or persons having the charge of any burial ground, or place where persons who may have died of Asiatic Cholera, shall be buried, shall once every twenty-four hours, during the prevalence of Asiatic Cholera in their respective localities, report, or cause to be reported in writing, to their respective local or other Boards or Committees of Health or Health officers aforesaid, the names of all persons who have been buried within the ground or place whereof they may be so in charge.

22 That the Captains or Masters of all ships steamboats, crafts and vessels arriving at any port or place within the province, shall report without delay to the Local Board thereof, any deaths that may have occurred on board during the voyage or passage, in order that precautionary measures, elsewhere referred to be taken,

23. That the Local and other Boards and Committees of Health throughout the Province, do report to the Secretary of the Central Board at least once a week, the state of the Public health, in the city, town or place for which they are appointed, specifying the nature of the disease, and the number of deaths.

London Times.

LONDON, FRIDAY, AUGUST 11, 1854.

THE HAPPY FAMILY.

In our last we briefly alluded to the sudden exit of some of the parties from the celebration at the Exchange Building on Thursday last. We had not space then, to refer to the statement of the ever watchful Hamilton Spectator," in a previous issue, that "the dinner was intended as a public demonstration of confidence in the Hincks Ministry." The result has justified the prediction. If we take a review of certain facts that have transpired, and which throw some light upon the unnatural combination of such incongruous materials as the party who returned John Wilson were composed of, and whom we have denominated the happy family. We should like to know what transpired between the first meeting of the Reformers when John Wilson's name would not go down, when the question of the town taxes which Mr. Wilson refused to pay, was brought forward, which the town Solicitor, gave the true version of, and which Mr. Wilson could not attempt to refute. Now, on the second meeting, if our informant be correct, the aforesaid John Wilson came forward and very adroitly stated his forgetfulness of not answering the aforesaid charge at the former meeting, but as false impressions might be created by his silence he then volunteered the explanations and appealed to the town Solicitor whether such was true. The learned gentleman retained his seat, and with a dignified silence allowed the statement, or explanation, to pass "sub silentio." Next we find the Catholic Institute holding a meeting, entering into resolutions pledging the members to vote for the Reform Candidate if he will support separate schools; but if not, to support the conservative. Still we find almost every one of them voting for John Wilson, the avowed government supporter of free schools, and voting against T. C. Dixon, (the consistent advocate of liberty of conscience), the advocate of seperate schools. How was this accomplished; what legerdemain was used, what fusion of such opposite parties. We predicted that honest men were to be found belonging to every class, men who adopt certain views different from others, but who never would consent that those views should be adopted by others under compulsion. Such Mr. Scatchard has proved himself, and such he deserves to be classed under the head of. So eager were the dispersed, and we may add discarded, Hincks Ministry to catch at any opportunity to get a demonstration in their favor, that it naturally occurred to them, that London, which had returned a reformer, and the two Ridings of Middlesex, with one riding of Elgin, would be the most suitable locality. Accordingly, a dinner was prepared to celebrate the Reform triumph (?) of the return of 4 members, instead of 2 conservatives, as in last parliament. This was all very fair, but the government officials, who usually prowl about such gatherings, suggested: we might as well just ask Mr. Hincks, he is in the next county, it is almost triumph, a we need not omit him. Accordingly an invitation was dispatched. Mr. Hincks too glad for the opportunity, suggested he had a "friend," who he wished to be asked. What difference! a few more guests, the room was large, the viands plenty and the champaign inexhaustable. So of course the hospitality was unlimited, all were welcome to the good cheer; and Messrs. Hincks, Rolph, Cameron, Morrison, &c., were found amongst the guests. Well, the old reformers did not anticipate this extension of hospitality; and a compromise, as we are told, was proffered to drink Mr. Hincks' health, not as a minister, but as an individual. Be this as it may, the toast proposed was the "Canadian Ministry." This was too nauseous a dose for the Independent Reformers to swallow, and accordingly, Mr. Scatchard, the organ of that section, protested against the trick, and refusing to drink the toast—assigning his reason beforehand—walked out of the room, and was followed by all those whose political independence was not extinguished by the presence of the ministers. Here is the first defeat of the unnatural combination referred to, there the first little family quarrel, the first shadow cast over progressive happiness anticipated. A ministry, whose Post Master General was rejected in two important constituencies, and in one of them replaced by a most determined enemy of the government. Another minister, one of the most popular and respected amongst them—Mr. Morin—was rejected in Lower Canada by a large magority, in an important constituency for no fault of his own, but merely for keeping bad company. The whipper-in was rejected, in the person of Mr. Christie, and the most determined oppositionist returned in the person of Mr. Cauchon. Sundry other charges proclaim the feeling of the country. Sundry other warnings betoken that the days of the present cabinet are numbered, and the rope of sand now uniting the two ends, will soon be snapped asunder. No longer can the country be deluded with the hackneied term reform, even the Clergy Reserve question—which, if settled on the ministerial basis, would relieve each tax-payer 4 cents on the pound, on the general taxation—lost its charms. Men are now beginning to think and act for themselves. As they are getting independent in means they are likewise getting independent in action and thought, and ministers will henceforth be regarded as trustees of the public weal to be called to account whenever they violate or neglect their duties.

THE BUREAU OF ECONOMY.

We have strong grounds for suspecting the creation of a Bureau of Economy. This department will be the medium of communication between the several municipalities, and the Paternal Government on the Clergy Reserve fund. The bill that was to have been submitted to the last convention—for we cannot call it a parliament—will, we suppose, explain the necessity of this new bureau. It has been rumoured that the consistent editor of the Woodstock Gazette, will obtain the Presidentship, as a reward for his disinterested services rendered the Inspector General at the last election, as well as some trifling compensation for all the seeming persecution incurred by him at a preceding one, when he vainly tested his popularity against the redoubtable Francis Hincks. If the funds derivable from the Reserves, will lighten the general taxation of the municipalities by 4 cents in the pound, it will not, surely, be consided too much to appropriate 1 cent for the collection and management, and another for the brokerage generally charged by the Inspector General for stock jobbing agencies, this will leave the very large sum of two cents in the pound for the general purposes of improvement, Roads, Bridges, &c., &c. It is rumored that Mr. Morin and Mr. Christie are to be connected with the board; our respected M. P. P. is said to be named as law adviser. Our far seeing executive deserve credit for supplying such a machinery necessary to carry out the provisions of this bill. And when we take into account the necessity of accurately ascertaining the death of each incumbent; the day each lease may fall out, and the increase in the value of land. As also, the certainty of the perpetual existence of the Bureau—rendered likely by the fact that the Reserve fund cannot be wound up for several years—the probability of some little difference amongst the municipalities as to the application of the funds, and similiry other unmistakeable signs of unanimous action. None can say 25 per cent. too much reward the working machinery, and prove the undoubted willingness, on the part of the ministry, to afford the same enlightenment to the country in this department, as Dr. Rolph and Malcolm Cameron have been able on agricultural subjects to do, by means of their Bureau.

NEXT PROVINCIAL SHOW.

After the past month of political excitement we have now a lull, before we are again engaged in a matter affecting more immediately the character of London and the Western District. Politically, we are many; with reference to this we are one. Conservative, Radical, Ministerialists, Clear Grit, even "Know Nothings," if there be any amongst us, must all merge their political differences, and as citizens unite to do honor to to those whose company they have solicited since the period London was selected as the "Locus" of the Provincial show for 1854. There is about six weeks intervening between this and the great show, which our municipalities so handsomely provided for. We ask, what steps have been taken by our town authorities to prepare for it? What arrangements have been made to afford accomdations to our guests? What to give a proper celebration to our annual Provincial fete! The natural and justifiable pride to exhibit the stock and agricultural produce of this Western District in fair competition with that of the other portions of the Province, will insure on the part of the farmers, united action. We trust the next meeting of the town Council will not without steps being taken to appoint their proper officers to carry out these necessary arrangements. We understand that the committee will give the grand if private parties should speculate in putting up some rough sheds to accomodate farmers teams who come from a distance, and whose horses would otherwise remain in the streets, by charging so much a day for each horse, and supplying hay and oats. Speculators might make a handsome remuneration and a shelter thereby provided.

BLACKWWOODS FOR JUNE & JULY.

This excellent reprint fully sustains its high character in the present two numbers, which we received together. We are happy to hear one of the drawbacks to subscribing is likely to be removed. (the uncertainty and delay in getting them), from some arrangement entered into between the Editor and publisher this side the water they will in future come out a few days later than they do at home. This will be a great matter, as early news is now desirable on all matters, especially upon the great question involving the European policy. In the July number a most instructive article appears upon "the growth and prospects of British America." We were certainly heretofore in the back ground as compared to other British colonies. They had their associations, societies, free passages, and all other systems of puffs, to induce emigration, while Canada has only now begun to emerge from the perpetual snow, she was said to be smothered in most of the year, without any of those great and continual efforts made by other colonies to bring their claims before the public. We steadily progressed. Those who have come out here with health and industry without money, have succeeded, and can now be found amongst the most independent of our residents. The vast productions of our soil have found their way to the English markets, and our prosperous farmers are found to afford a safe and annually increasing market for British productions. It is no wonder then, that the first magazine published at home should deem it necessary to refer to us, and we will not anticipate the pleasure of our readers by quoting any of it, but refer them to the July number. As a new series is now commencing it would be a most favorable opportunity for commencing as subscribers.

The four Reviews and Blackwood are to be had at Mr. Graham for the small sum of ten dollars a year.

THE ANGLO AMERICAN MAGAZINE FOR AUGUST.

This number of our valuable Provincial periodical has exceeded the preceeding ones, as well in matter as in the typographical arrangement. We are presented with a portrait of one of the best governors Canada ever had, (Lord Metcalf,) as also portraits of the sovereigns of the European belligerent countries. The article on the war of 1812 is sufficient to recommend this Magazine to every Canadian, and the many articles of high reading, so judiciously selected, will render it a favorable number with the general reader. Being only a quarter of a dollar a number, is within the reach of all. It can be had at Mr. Graham Dundas street.

THE WIDE STREETS.

Some time since the Town Council passed a resolution to enable certain parties to take in a certain space next their buildings for planting on condition of leaving both ends open to the public. We have lately met some parties who threaten if any contraction of the wide streets take place, to indite the parties who do so. We expressly insert this at the request of one of the parties, who allege the Town Council have no power to interfere with an act of Parliament and cannot give permission to any party to infringe on the public streets. We regret the town council do not plant in the centre of the wide streets, and thereby afford a shady walk in summer to those residing around such locality, and so remove all doubts on the subject. Without expressing any opinion, it would be as well to have the matter settled, as, we confess, if parties planting were to leave one end open, the number of free commoners in the shape of cows, pigs, &c.. &, that frequent our streets, would soon make short work of all improvements.

FREE COMMONERS.

The public complain very naturally of the gross violation of the by-law prohibiting pigs from domiciling in the public streets. The members of the Board of Health compel little chips, considered infectious to be burnt, but they permit pigs to wallow and create dirt in all parts of the town. Dogs, when deemed a nuisance and dangerous, were soon taken care of, when an order "to shoot all dogs" came out. A similar order is now demanded, when danger arises to the health of the community; the magistrates should not be afraid to put the law in force. We have no doubt such a law would cause the owners to look out and "save their Bacon."

"WHAT IS SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE, IS SAUCE FOR THE GANDER."

Yes, and we trust this apothegm will be acted on—honestly, thoroughly, and as persons do their work, whose hearts are really in it,—no half measures ought to be observed. In former years Mr Ferres—whose name wants no introduction at our hands to the public—the present member for the East Riding of Missisquoi, was shamefully and tyrannically dismissed from a Revenue situation he held in the district of Montreal—not for voting at the then recent general election, which alone the act of Parliament forbids persons holding the situation Mr. Ferres did,—but simply because he used his influence at that election, in a certain constituency, against a Radical nominee, now, forsooth, the Hon. L. T. Drummond, whose party was not at the time in power, but afterwards became so. For this unpardonable offence, Mr. Ferres had to make way for a miserable minion—Hincks's sordid serf—Wm. Ryan to wit, all without trial, or anything amounting to such proof and would be received in any court of Law. "Public Notoriety" was enough to cause Mr. Ferres's dismissal. How the organs exulted!—How the expectants to reap the garbage that fell from the Ministerial cribs, gloated over Mr. Ferres's disgrace and dismissal. Disgrace and dismissal!! Stop! it only put the man on his mettle, caused him to look within himself and find what was there. The consequence was he became the most brilliant and effective political writer in Canada, as the Editor and Proprietor of the Montreal Gazette. And he has been the hardest thorn in the side of the present corrupt Cabinet, and their trumpery tool—the seven thousand odd pounds a year liability,—that they ever have encountred. Mr. Ferres lately offered as a political candidate for the east riding of Missisquoi in opposition to the ministerial nominee, Gugy—of newspaper persecution notoriety—than whom a baser blood ne'er crawled. So bent were the government—and they were truly wise in their generation—in defeating Ferres, that the honorable (?!) Mr. Attorney General Drummond, went to the riding and stumped it against him. He offered money, any thing, to keep Ferres out. All proved ineffectual; Ferres was returned by nearly 500 majority. What defeat for the gab and guts government! What a triumph for their quondam victim!!! who, though not exactly what we should wish him on one point, the Clergy Reserve question, is, nevertheless, a staunch conservative in other respects, and an honorable man, nay, one of the most able men on this side of the Atlantic, and will, we are confident, do justice to the cause of conservatism, and (it follows) of honesty, against the schemes of the worst beggar opera administration that ever distinguished the annals of a Free Country. He will not, probably, have John Wilson or William Niles, to aid him in his patriotic exertions, we could scarcely expect it from their antecedents. Like carrion crows they will flock and cling to wherever there is corruption. But there will be good men and true enough, in the house, who will sanction Mr. Ferres, and as constitutional members act along with him in applying the political probe and amputating knife. There will, there must, soon be a radical change in the Government: and we trust the many officials throughout the country—not, perhaps in this country, but in the surrounding one—who after, the warning given at Mr. Ferre's expense—thought proper to interfere in the late elections—we don't wish to be persons!, or we could give a history of many—will be hard up to book, and "public notoriety," being already against them. If satisfactory proof can be otherwise obtained, they will be sent off to their private meditations—to see if they, as well as Mr. Ferres cannot better themselves by the chance, instead of holding Government offices, when they,—unlike Mr. Ferres—act like no living man. We trust the conservatives and independent voters, of all classes throughout the country, will lose no time in getting up petitions to the legislature to have the dirt-eating to dies dismissed — of course setting forth their offences. — And we trust Mr Ferres will attend to the thing with the energy he has hitherto been accustomed to bring to any matter he takes in hand—other members we are confident will do the same and in that view of the case we would, as friends recommend sundry acquaintances of ours, (we will not at present name them, but most of our readers will know whom we mean) to put their houses in order with as little delay as possible. We recollect one of the Lesslies of Toronto, a Revenue man of some sort accompanying Mr. Hincke some years ago—subsequent to Perre's dismissal and their emitting considerable quantities of "stinking breath," in the shape of political speeches in favour of the said Hincks, and tho' the matter was brought under the notice of the Government, yet Mr. Lesslie, was allowed to reform his situation, albeit the offence charged against him was just the same [barring the quality of the breath] as Mr. Ferres was discharged for. But we hope there are good times coming, that even handed justice will be dealt out and that it will be shewn emphatically by the party that must soon attain to power that,

HEROIC AND NOBLE CONDUCT OF A BOY 13 YEARS OF AGE.—On Saturday evening some young lads were flying a kite from Ridout street to the foot of North street near the river. A small boy named McBride, while resting with other boys on the foot bridge in the river, became exeited and fell in, the lad was soon immersed, but the boy above mentioned, named George Stevens, being more courageous than the rest, seeing the danger of the little fellow, rushed into the river, regardless of his own life, saved that of his companion and lead him home to his parents, on Ridout street, in safety.

MERCONTILE LIBRARY ASSOCIRTION.

In our last we published the second report of the above very useful institution, by which it will be seen the progress made since the last report. The very useful addition of 343 volumns of standard works on History, Philosophy, Sience, Art, Fiction and general Literature, ought to create a circulation amongst those who never had contributed to useful a purpose. "Out of 168 members, only 48 have subscribed" Such is the report and we trust before the time arrives for the next report, the library may be doubled. The papers and journals are most judicious'y selected, and we trust the efforts of the committe may be crowned with success.

A RETURN OF CONVICTIONS.

We were forcib y struck on perusing the list of fines imposed by magistrates from the 6th of February to the 26th of May, verified by the signature of J. B. Askin, Clerk of the Peace, to find the tetal to be 19, and out of the 19 no less than 11 for "Disturbing public worship." This is most disgraceful. We are not aware of any of these occurring in the Church of England or Established Church of Scotland, but suppose they are the offspring of the voluntary principle, and we wish our friends, the voluntaries, joy of the good voluntary behaviour practised amongst them.

CHOLERA.—We are happy to inform our readers that no new cases of cholera have occurred since yesterday morning.

THE TRIUMPH OF CORRUPTION.

(From the Quebec Observer.)

The game is ended. The representatives of Quebec in the council of the country, are Chabot, Blanchet, and Alleyn. The Bank of Upper Canada, the fitting organ of the Ministry, has enabled a corrupt government to corrupt an immoral constituency. Votes have cost from 5s to £4. £10,000 have been spent in returning to Parliament three gentlemen as unfitted to represent an intelligent constituency in Parliament, as any three gentlemen could be. Two lawyers and one physician to represent the commerce of Canada, is something so outrageous, that the circumstance is with difficulty accounted for. Mr. Alleyn, the Mayor of this city, doubtless worthily represents the Irish party, and more fitting representatives of an inert, trifling race than Chabot and Blanchet could not have been hit upon. The truth is, the British party took no interest in the election. The Canadians are numerically superior, the Irish are more numerous than the English and Scotch; and if the Irish and Canadians are joined together, they may do whatever they please. The Canadians, however, in combining with the Irish are committing a serious mistake. The Irish enemies are not the English and Scotch, but the Irish, who now nearly equal them numerically and will be soon numerically their superiors to do as they please, being governed by the English and Scotch monied aristocracy as soon as it becomes the interest of the monied Scotch and English Aristocracy to govern.

Countries are always governed by wealth, when the landed interest is most wealthy, then the lord, laird, or squire governs; when the Church is most wealthy, then the priest governs; when trade is omnipotent, trade governs. Trade governs in England and the United States just now, and trade is about to govern here. Stuart, Simard, and Dubord are defeated by a large majority: but they are not defeated by the ordinary means—the influence of the priesthood. They are defeated by an extraordinary expenditure of money. They are victims to that bribery and corruption of the cabinet which can only be sustained by bribery and corruption. They owe their defeat to the circumstance that the Ministry under the particular guidance of Mr. Provincial Secretary Chauveau issued tickets to Mr. Stewart's voters, which in value are equal to bank notes of various amoun

The possession of such a fortified place as Giurgevo, on the left bank of the Danube, opposite one of the principal Turkish fortresses, and connected by islands with the other shore is of the greatest value in a strategical point of view to the allied armies.

Prince Gortschakoff appears to have intrusted the defence of this important division to a small detachment, quite incapable of resisting the weight and vehemence of the Turkish attack. Measures were immediately taken by the Turks to improve the defences of the town, and it may probably be rendered impregnable to the Russian engineers as Kalafat or Silistria has already proved.

In the meantime the Russian divisions under General Paulloff and Sommoff retired upon the village of Fratesehti, where they were subsequently reinforced by the main body of General Gortschakoff's troops in Wallachia. We dissent from the statement that Omar Pasha proceeded on the day following the battle of Giurgevo to attack and defeat the Russians in that position, for it would have been needless to hazard a battle against an unequal force of Russians in the open field in a position chosen by themselves, and before the Turkish General could have the full support of the allied troops.

The greater probability is, that the Turks will accept the latter forces at and behind Giurgevo, while the Russians throw all their available strength into their advanced guard at Fratesehti, and, if they hold their ground there it is not impossible that a general action may be fought on the occasion of an attack on one or other of these positions.

Such an event will probably decide the English and French Generals to cross the Danube, and would in some degree give a different direction to the campaign from that which we had contemplated and desired.

ASPECT OF AFFAIRS IN EUROPE AT PRESENT.

Whatever may be the motives which appears to have suspended the direct action of the Austrian Government and the German Powers at the very moment when it was confidently supposed that General Coronini's division was about to enter the Principalities, the first and most important consideration for ourselves and for the world is, that the operations of the Turkish army, backed by the forces of France and England, are not in the slightest degree dependent on the intrigues of Berlin or the hesitation of Vienna.

On the contrary, there never has been a moment since the commencement of this war at which the belligerent powers were resolved and prepared to prosecute their enterprise with greater activity.

The delays which are inexplicable from the opening of a campaign, from the extreme difficulty of obtaining the means of transport, especially in a barbarous country are at last overcome.

The Russian defences at the Sulina mouth of the Danube are reported to have been attacked and destroyed by five British and French steamers.

A considerable detachment of French troops starts for the Baltic while the main expeditionary army under Marshal St. Arnaud and Lord Raglan, must have reached the Danube in time to support the fiery energetic and brilliant operations of Omar Pasha.

To talk of negotiations—and especially of negotiations on so flimsy and unsatisfactorily a basis as the last communication from St. Petersburg—at the moment when the bell-general powers are beginning to reap some of the advantages which they have a right to anticipate from their vast sacrifices and their long forbearance, is an absurdity of which no man in Europe except the King of Prussia can be guilty. The king of Prussia himself must be aware that he has lost all credit and influence with the Western Powers and with Europe and his Envoy in London, who went through the formality of presenting his credentials to Her Majesty yesterday, is not to be envied on the passing of the words he will have to perform.

But the Cabinet of Berlin still hopes to effect the ruin of Russia in Germany, and it is zealously seconded by several of the petty Courts.

From what is passing before our eyes, it is but too much to assert, that if the policy of Germany had depended on the secondary Sovereigns of that Country, and if Hanover, at not without reason, an independent line of conduct, the whole German nation would have been set in Russia in the contest.

It is felt throughout Germany, that the Emperor Francis Joseph is merely Prince Who has slow sense and spirit in this crisis, and that he has been thwarted by every influence which could be employed to keep him pusillanimous and shake his courage.

We can conceive no event so fatal to the interests of Germany and Europe, no resolution so disastrous, no treachery so suicidal, as a decision on the part of the Austrian Government to recede from the engagements it had contracted on those momentous questions with the belligerent Powers.—(London Times)

EXCHEQUER CHAMBER, July 3.

(Sittings in Error upon Cases from the Court of Exchequer, Present:—Justices Coleridge, Maule, Wightman, Cresswell Williams, Crompton, and Crowder.)

The Great Northern Railway Company v*gt. Harrison.*—The facts of this case will be in the recollection of our readers. The plaintiff Mr. Harrison, was a reporter on Bell's Life in London, and was proceeding to some races in the country on the Great Northern Railway, having made a pass out in name of Mr. Langley, the editor of the paper, which was stated to be "not transferable." An accident happened, Mr. Harrison was injured, and brought his action to recover damages. It was objected that there was evidence to go to the jury, and that the plaintiff was not lawfully, but unlawfully in the carriage. Mr. Baron Martin, who tried the case, held that there was evidence of the injury, and left it to them to say whether the plaintiff was lawfully in the carriage. A verdict was found for the plaintiff. To this ruling there was a bill of exceptions rendered, and the matter was urged when this court last met, but time was taken for consideration.

Mr. Justice Coleridge now delivered the judgment of the court, the question arose with regard to the issue on the allegation in the third count, that the plaintiff was lawfully in the carriage, the plea being that he was unlawfully in the carriage. The court was of opinion that the ruling of the learned baron was right. There was a practice existing between the railway company and Bell's Life that their reporters should go free. The reporter in this instance was supplied with a ticket having on it the name of a person in that department of the newspaper. That ticket had on it a memorandum, "Not transferable," and that if transferred the person using it would be liable to pay the penalty incurred by a passenger who travelled without paying his fare. The plaintiff was bona fide going a journey for the paper, and availed himself of this ticket, which he showed to the guard, and was put into the carriage.

It appeared that the plaintiff and other persons had on several occasions before travelled with similar tickets, and there was evidence that the persons whose names were on the tickets were personally known to several of the railway officers. The question was, whether the plaintiff was in the carriage under such circumstances as to make him a trespasser. The court thought the words on the pass ticket were not so conclusive as to make the other circumstances immaterial, but it was evidence for the jury as to the practice of the manner in which these tickets were used, and the jury were of opinion that the use of the tickets was known to the superintendent, and it would be wrong to say that he was a trespasser. It was matter for the jury, and that was the reason for saying that the judgement ought to be confirmed.

The Result in Upper Canada.

The returns from the various constituencies of Upper Canada are now nearly complete, only one (South Leeds) remaining to be heard from. The result is all, and more than we anticipated. Right has triumphed over might; and the friends of good government have sufficient cause for rejoicing, the victory being theirs. The Ministry have been completely routed, and although the majority of members returned are Reformers, there is not the least cause to doubt that the present corrupt and unprincipled administration will be left in an infamous minority when the House meets.—The returns for Upper Canada is, 64 in all, with one yet to be heard from, give the Ministry, including the doubtful ones, not more than 20, leaving the anti-ministerialists 44, or a majority of 24! There will, of course, be some waverers among those classed anti-ministerialists, yet we are inclined to think the strength of the Ministry will not number more than 20 at the most. Lower Canada has thus far given only a slight preponderance in favor of the Ministry and their measures, but we confidently expect that the majority in that section will be small. The result in Upper Canada is the more gratifying, when it is taken into consideration how much the ministry have exerted themselves to secure the return of their nominees, and the extraordinary amount of influence they have brought to bear upon the elections in the shape of patronage and an unlimited expenditure of money. Lambton and North Wentworth have proved incorruptible, and the overtures to purchase the support of the electors have been spurned with the contempt they deserved. The struggle has been contested with less vigor than on many previous occasions, but the result has shown that the exertions put forward by the friends of Constitutional Government have not been ineffectual. The verdict recorded against the Ministry is of a most decisive character, and we hope Mr. Hincks and his colleagues will profit by the lesson they have been taught.

In some two or three constituencies the seductive pretensions and promises of the Ministry have proved effectual, and the men whom Messrs. Hincks and Rolph so shamefully ducked, have consented to give them another trial. South Oxford and Norfolk stand out conspicuously as the rebukers of all the jobbing transactions of Hincks, and the treachery of Rolph. We only hope they may not have to repent the folly they have been guilty of. The two leading Upper Canadian members of the Administration have been sustained, but it is some consolation to know that the Postmaster General has been kicked out of two constituencies, and along with him the Hon. Mr. Morin, Provincial Secretary, and leader of the French Canadian party in the House. The two men the Ministry most cherished and spent so much money in attempting to oust from their constituencies, we mean Mr. George Brown, and A. Cauchon, have been returned by overwhelming majorities. The victory, we repeat, is one of the most decisive character, and a striking proof of the unpopularity of the men who, setting at defiance every principle of honor and fair play, attempted to ride into power again on their old stalking horse, the Clergy Reserves. A few weeks more will suffice to show if we are ripe for a change, or if the present Ministry occupy before the country.—Hamilton Spectator.

The PIANOS are made by the following celebrated manufacturers, viz:

CHICKERING, STODART & DUNHAM, NEW YORK.

Acknowledged to be the best on this part of the Globe, as are the MELODIANS, manufactured by PRINCE & CO. PIANOS and MELODIANS sold on Cheap and on as favourable Terms as they can be procured in Toronto or from the Maker's themselves.

Besides the above Pianos of Chickering, Stodart & Dunham, Mr. Kordes keeps constantly on hand Pianos of other good makers, such as Bacon and Raven, Gilbert, Gale, etc. Also second hand Pianos, from £10 upwards to £50. Old Pianos taken in exchange, and a liberal allowance made. Pianos Tuned and repaired. All orders from a distance promptly attended to.

Mr. Kordes has constantly on hand an assortment of very superior Brass Instruments, for the formation and use of Bands, as Ophicleides, Sax horns, Trombones, Cornopeans, Bugles, Post horns, French horns, etc., which will be sold low, and on very favorable terms.

Mr. Kordes would just say a few words regarding the Pianos of Chickering, Stodart & Dunham, in the first place, they are warranted to keep good and sound in all their parts, for any number of years, provided they receive good treatment.

In the second place, any person having such a thing as what is called an ear for music, will, without looking at the makers name, be able to detect the difference between a Stodart, a Dunham or a Chickering, to a Piano from any other maker, without excepting the woody, wiry, harsh kind of sound, so predominant in most instruments, is changed into a mellow, sweet, full and brilliant tone in the Pianos of the above makers.

As regards keeping in tune: these Pianos require a good tune 3 times in 12 mo the ordinary treatment, they never require more than this, may, however, sometimes require less. Care and attention is all they need.

The great popularity which Moffat's Life Pills & Phœnix Bitters have attained, in consequence of extraordinary cures effected by their use, renders unnecessary for the proprietor to enter into a particular analysis of their medicinal virtues or properties, having been more than twenty years before the public, and having the united testimony of more than Three Millions of persons who have been restored to the enjoyment of perfect health by them, it is believed that their reputation as the best vegetable medicine now before the public admits of no dispute. In almost every city and village in the United States there are many who are ready to testify to their efficacy in removing disease and giving to the whole system renewed vigor and health.

In cases of Scrofula, Ulcers, Scurvy or Eruptions of the skin, the operation of the Life Medicines is truly astonishing often removing in a few days every vestige of those loathsome diseases by their purifying effects on the blood. Fever and Ague, Dyspepsia, Dropsy, Piles, and in short most all diseases, soon yield to their curative properties. No family should be without them as by their timely use much suffering and expense may be saved.

Romelia, including six hundred thousand for the city of Constantinople.

We use the old names, because Turkish political circumscriptions are altogether conventional, and will eventually disappear. Of these, about a million and a half are Mussulmen, perhaps nearly as many Greeks in language and descent as well as in religion.—There are whole districts occupied by stray Sclavonicans and Romans, a great many stray Sclavonicans and Romans, a great many Jews, Armenians, &c., On the whole we may reckon for Turkey in Europe, 11,000,000 of Greeks, 3,650,000 Musulmen, 300,000 Roman Catholics, 250,000 Jews, 150,000 Gopsey heathens, chiefly in the Principalities of the Danube, and one hundred thousand Armenians.

In an ethological point of view, the Christian inhabitants of Turkey in Europe may be divided into three classes:

That in which the old Grace Roman element predominates, south of the Balkan and the Argentaro; the mixed Roman and Dacian race on the Danube; and between those two a Sclavonic belt, extending from the Adriatic to the Black Sea, but divided by peculiarities of language and national character into the Illyrio-Servians on the West, and the Bulgarians on the east. As to the Moslems according to Berghaus, only one-fifth, or 700,000 are genuine Osmanli Turks.

There are 250,000 Tartars; the remainder consists of converts from among the subject races, for whole districts in despair sometimes went over to Islatism at once, and multitudes of individuals reduced to slavery made the decisive confession "There is no God but God, and Mahomet is the Prophet of God" in order to have their chains taken off. The real Turk is a far nobler character than his proselytes—brave, hospitable, courageous, and when not carried away by his prejudices, intelligent.

The Position and Importance of Sebastopol.

From the London Times, July 25.

We are now approaching the sixth month of actual hostilities, and as yet not a shot has been fired by the land forces of England. The troops sent despatched on the "expedition to the East," took up their position successfully on the Dardenelles, on the Bosphorus, and at Varna; but, though the enemy lay within a few days' march, they have never been brought face to face with the Russians soldiers. By our intelligence from the seat of war the public will have been circumstantially apprised of the actual stations last occupied by the several divisions of the British army, and will have learnt that the advanced force is at, or about Devno, and the remainder is encamped in different positions between that place and Varna. For the information, however, of those readers who possess no detailed maps of the locality, we may state that the several points of Devno, Aladyn, Kopjik, &c., are all so close to one another, and to the coast, that the entire army may almost be considered at Varna still, and it would certainly be far easier to re-embark at that port for transport to the Crimea than to conduct it forward to the Danube.

This, it must be confessed, after all our exertions is not a satisfactory announcement, but the facts admits of much explanation, and the general result, if short of our desires, is still by no means unfortunate. If the war had been undertaken for the single purpose of expelling Prince Gortschakoff from the Principalities, the plain course would have been to carry the allied forces across the Danube with the expedition attainable. But such a movement, though calculated, perhaps, to produce a brilliant campaign, would have done very little for the true object of the war. The utmost succes of such an advance could only have accomplished a little earlier, and with somewhat more completness, what the determined valor of the Turks have accomplished as it is, while the flower of the British army would have found itself in a desolate country under a destructive sun, and in face of an enemy which, however discomfitted, was approaching its own resources exactly in proportion as we were drawn away from ours. An immediate advance into Wallachia, therefore, would, with reference to the broad policy of the war, have been a mistake. This policy consists in striking at the very heart of Russian power in the East and that heart is at Sebastopol. The forts and arsenals of Sebastopol, constitute the source, the secret and the symbol of Russian encroachment upon Turkish rights. It is from this redoubtable stronghold that the Czar incessantly threatens the Ottoman capital, commands the mouth of the Danube, domineers over the Black Sea, and spreads the terror or attraction of his name over Asia Minor. To destroy Sebastopol is nothing less than to demolish the entire fabric of Russian ambition in those very regions where it is most dangerous to Europe.

This feat, and this only, would have really promoted the solid and durable objects of the war. Then, why was such an achievement not immediately undertakon, and why were the British troops not immediately landed at the Crimea, instead of being detained on the other side of the Straits? The reply is obvious. When the expedition first sailed, the strength, or rather the weakness, of Russia could not be accurately estimated. It was not known but that she might cross both the Danube and the Balkan, or even carry Constantinople by a coup de main. Moreover, the first detachments of the allied forces were comparatively weak, the state of affairs was very imperfectly ascertained, and it would have been the height of folly to expose our battalions to attack and disaster without protection or support. If the British expedition of 25,000 men had been thrown upon the Crimea—that is to say upon Russian territory—in March last, it might at once have been assailed by twice its numbers, and possibly cut to pieces.

The first position, therefore, was the isthmus of the Dardnelles, a position which our command of the seas rendered impregnable, and from which an army marching on Constantinople could be taken in flank. From this point as the truth began to clear, and as it became evident that neither Constantinople or the Balkan was likely to be visited by Russian soldiers, we advanced successively to Schumi and Varna—the latter place being the most favorable point of departure for Sebastopol. But why, when at Varna, was the arms not employed in one duty or the other—either carried on the Danube or across the Crimea? Why have we halted between these two attractions, and so accomplished nothing at all? The result we suspect, though undoubtedly due in great degree to the vacillation of Austria, may also be traceable to the indecision naturally arising from the vicissitudes and uncertainty of events. The problem before the allied commanders was not simple.

The Contemptible Position of Austria and Prussia.

From the Times.

Talk of adventurers, of trading politicians, of flunkeys, of all those forms of ambitious vulgarity and ornamental servitude that excite the scorn of those who can afford the jest, there is the thing on the grandest possible scale. Here are two empires, Austria and Prussia, making up more than a million armed men, in the open market. Here are five hundred acres of soldiery for sale. Who will bid for them? Well if they could sell themselves to the highest bidder, war might still be a good sort of trade. It would be only the profession of knights adventurers, and not at all disreputable in lack of better employment. The million bayonets and sabres might win as much for their owners as a million spades and pruning-knives or shuttles. But unhappily for the comparison, the market is one of the most desperate characters. Grim necessity presides, and the military chapmen are bartering their arms and their honor, not for provinces or cities, but for existence. Self-preservation is the humble duty of the Monarchs and their legions. On either side they tremble for the safety of their frontiers and the obedience of their populations. If this is all that armies come to, what is the use of them? As well be the miser, who, with treasures untold, lives the life of the mendicant, and dies through fear of the workhouse, as the lord of a splendid army, and suffers the terrors of a Jew pedlar in a land of thieves. How great the impotence of power and the baseness of bravery! Visit these splendid cities, and see every day in their streets the pageant of war. Perceive, and admit without grudging, that England can produce no such spectacles, no such reviews, filling whole plains, no such fields of infantry, no such torrents of cavalry; own freely an irresistable power, and tremble for the unhappy nation exposed to the rage of these demi-gods and their countless myrmidons. But when the clash of arms and the thunder of artillery have had their effect, ask why such readiness at answer at all, seeing that none can be given, or it will be explained that the great and only object of these armies and their masters is to wait a little and then join the safest side. Whether they who act thus always join the safest side, and whether a decision deferred to the last possible moment, and made at last in a moment of terror, is likely to be better than one made more calmly and deliberatly, admits of some question. But, even if present safety be attained and even some trifling advantage, what is that to the world at large, and what is it to the moral interests of the empires themselves, whose forces and influences are directed on those principles? The respect for empires, the honor of armies and the reverence for dynasties must decline, when the merest self-preservation is confessed to be the sole motive of action. These vast armaments may or may not earn their pay by the protection of frontiers and the maintainance of the status quo; but, whenever the cause of Royal y, of prescriptive government, and of military regime, come to be hazarded on the turn of public opinion, it surely will be remembered how humble a part they were content to play when the liberties of Europe and the cause of right against might were in the great hour of trial.

Strength of the Austrian Army.

We read in the Gazette des postes, of Frankfort, July 20:—

The Austrian army reckons at this time nearly 400 batalions, 300 squadrons, and 125 mounted batteries. This organization dates from 1853, and its worthy of notice that the ancient batalions of the Landwehr have been replaced by a new system of reserve. If we add to this the peculiar organization of the military colonies at the frontiers, we may say without exaggeration that the military force of Austria, organized, and ready at command is in a proportion of two soldiers for every ten inhabitants, that is to say 750,000 men. In 1861, Austria had, indeed an army of 600,000 men in active service. Prussia reckons 260 batteries, 296 squadrons, and ninety nine mounted bateries, inclusive of the first ban of the landwher; the second ban of the landwher is not at hand, and forms a body of 116 batalions and 114 squadrons. The military power of Prussia is, therefore, three per cent, of the number of her inhabitants, and it forms a whole corpse of 500,000 men under arms. The states of the German federal army, making a deduction of the numbers furnished by Prussia and Austria, were carried through a resolution of the Diet, on March 10, 1853, to 125,000 infantry, 20,000 cavalry, and 280 cannons. The number of the inhabitants of German confedracy is 17,000,000, and its disposable force may be estimated at two per cent., that is to say 340,000 men. The military power of the whole of the Germany forms therefore a total corps of 1,360,000 men. According to the organization of 1853, Russia has at command an army of operation of 700,000 men and 1,500 cannons, inclusive of all the Reserves.

A letter from Lemberg, 18th says:—

Count Schlick, the Commander-in-chief of the 4th corps d'armee of Gallacia, arrived here yesterday, and to-day the Archduke Charles Louis, gives a grand dinner on the occasion. The last military measures with Russia proves that she expects a war with Austria. Troops are hastily marching from the interior of Poland on Podolia and Volhynia, particularly cavalry, as the employment of that force in the plains of Podolia is much relied on. The Cossacks have been called from all parts of the country, but they are for the most part irregulars. The concentration of troops in Podolia, in the line of the Sereth, and near the defiles of Transylvania, is much more considerable than on our northern frontier towards Volhynia. It is also stated that numerous bodies of troops are being assembled near Cracow. The Russians are seeking to cover their approaches to the Crimea in Bessarabia. The coast of the Baltic on the contrary, are nearly cleared of troops. It is stated that the Grand Duke will positively have the command in chief of the army of the south, and have with him Prince Gortschakoff and General Tchernischoff.

The Camp at Aledyn.

The country around the camp being so nearly desanted, and the difficulty of procuring any but "ration" supplies continually increasing, a market or bazaar has been established, under the auspices of the Duke of Cambridge. The prices average about as follows:—

Geese, 6d.; ducks, 6d.; chickens, 3d.; eggs, (scarce) ½d.; onions at various prices.

The poultry is of the toughest and most attenuated description, but is usually crammed with barley (when procurable) before being killed. Milk (goat's) is sold at 2½ a quart; and there is a substance called cheese, manufactured partly from goats' milk, but which emits such a compound of smells so villanous to civilized olfactories, that the troops can scarcely approach it, far less taste it. So exhausted is the country—always poor—but this year rendered peculiarly so by the neglect of even the ordinary cultivation, and the unscrupulous pillaging of the Ottoman armies in their march through and occupation of it, —that in the event (which heaven forfend is the unanimous cry of the troops) of the army remaining here for any considerable time longer, even these resources would be "used up." The desire of all parties for a decisive move in some quarter or another is growing into quite an agony. It would be difficult to characterize the emotionsof—friendly, but still ripening—envious-ness, excited yesterday by the appearance of a body of sailors and Sappers and Miners, under the command of Lieutenant Glyn (of the Britannia) and Prince Leiningen, en route overland for Rutschuck, where the Sappers, it is understood are to construct a bridge across the Danube, and the sailors are to be employed in manning (possibly officering) the Turkish boats upon the river, preparatory to further operations against Russia. Quite exultant are the anticipations indulged in by some of the younger and more sanguine spirits, whose zeal and impatience are greater than the information, as to the bridge being intended to form part of the road towards Russia; while others flying off to the opposite extreme of despondency, protest with oracular lugubriousness that what the army is to do is precisely nothing at all; that a "settlement" is near; and that, after passing a few months in in-glorious activity, the the troops will be back to England by Christmas. As to the generals, it must be confessed that between their own sense of what ought to have been done and the dogmatic criticisms propounded in the English newspapers as to what might be done, and the jealous suspiciousness of many even of the higher order of Turks, and the difficulties and inconveniences which hamper them on every side, they have more harassing and trying work on their hands than if they were in the midst of an actual campaign, face to face with the enemy.

The road towards Shumla, characterized as it is by all the vile annoyance of travelling in this country, is at present rather a busy scene, forming the high-road of communication with the Danube. Vast stores of Turkish ammunition are daily passing. Yesterday a train of 900 bullock wagons, with shot, provision, &c., passed us. Its destination was Silistria which, according to its rate of progress, it may reach in about a fortnight! A few days since, a body or about 6,000 ruffianly looking Bashi Bazouks marched down on their way to Varna. It is said that they are to be organized into regular regiments, and, in "impracticable" cases, to be compulsorily distributed singly among the Turkish batalions. General Beetson, whose reputation as a diciplinarian of unruly barbarians was gained in the British service in India, has undertaken an almost similar task with the body of Bashi-Bazouks on the Danube. Hitherto the troops, or rather armed banditti, in question have been chiefly formidable to the helpless natives of the districts in which they are quartered—murder and pillage being regarded by them as inalienable privileges. The French and English officers who have now to deal with them will render good service indeed if they succeed in teaching them better, and prevailing on them to observe the lesson when taught.—Correspondence of the Morning Post.

COMMERCIAL.

THE FOREIGN CORN TRADE.

From the Mark-lane Express

The weather appears to have undergone a similar improvement on the continent to that which it has undergone here. These, and the very dull reports from hence, have not been without their influence; but as stocks are every where short, prices have not given way in the foreign markets to the same extent as in this country.

At Danzig, on Tuesday last, the weather was wet, which, with the belief that England would, sooner or later, require further aid, imparted considerable firmness to the wheat trade. The day before, 600 quarters of ordinary mixed quality, weighing 60lbs. per bushel, changed hands at 59s. to 60s.; and it would not have been easy to have bought really fine high mixed below 70s. per quarter free on board.

At Rostock on Monday, the weather was fine, but during the preceeding week some mischief had been done by the heavy rain which had fallen, inasmuch as the crops had been a good deal lodged and beaten down.—With this exception, and partial complaints of rust, the reports as to the appearance of the outstanding corn were favorable. Stocks were very trifling, and some orders received from hence, limited at 70s. per quarter free on board, it had been impossible to execute.

At Settin on the 19th inst. holders of wheat were not by any means anxious sellers though the prospect for the approaching harvest were considered to be promising. Some days previous a parcel of fine Uckermark weighing 61lbs. had been sold at 63s. to 64s red Stettin at 60s. to 62, and Polish at 60s. to 63s. per quarter, free on board.

Hamburg letters of Tuesday state that, notwithstanding the dull reports from hence, holders of wheat had refused to make any material concession in prices, and for the few small lots which had been taken to complete cargoes full terms had been paid, say 70s for 61lbs. Mecklenburg, 69s for 61½lbs. dirto. and 68s for 59lbs. Upland all sorts 480lbs. Spring corn was dull and lower; 29s. to 29s. 6d. per quarter having been taken for 53lbs. to 54lbs. Danish barley, and 26s. per quarter free on board, for 40lbs. oats from Jutland.

In the Dutch markets nothing whatever appears to have been done for export; and at Rotterdam, on Monday, wheat moved off slowly for local consumption, at a decline of 1s. per quarter on the currency of that day we k.

From France we learn that the harvest was fast progressing in the Southern parts of the kingdom. Farmers had been too busily occupied to bring forward supplies of new wheat; and stocks of old being all but exhauste', prices had been well maintained in the face of fine weather and favorable reports as to the field of the new crop. At Paris, on Wednesday, buyers of wheat and flour confined their purchases to what they were compelled to take to provide for pressing wants; but so trading was the quantity on sale, that previous prices were steadily supported. The stock of flour had been reduced to 10,200 m t quin. At Havre business appears to have remained in a dull state; and although the quantity of American flour held there had been greatly reduced, its value had continued to tend downward.

The advices from Italy, Spain, &c., state that harvest operations were drawing to a close, and that farmers were generally satisfied with the result. Supplies of new wheat were beginning to come forward, and prices were everywhere declining. Whether Italy will have any wheat to spare for export may be doubted; but she will certainly not require to import to anything like the extent of last year, and Spain will probably be in a position to afford Great Britian supplies to some extent The Indian corn crop is likely to give a very good yield in most of the southern countries of Europe; this is a matter of great importance, as that article is extensively consumed there for human food.

Australia.

VICTORIA, GEELONG,
May 3, 1854.

Dear Sir,—I left San Francisco for Sydney in company with Messrs E. and T. Winstanley, of your City; and after being nearly shipwrecked twice, and short of provisions and water, arrived at Sydney after a passage of ten weeks. Not finding anything very particular in Sydney, I went to try my luck once more at digging, and accordingly started for the Turon mines, a distance of 150 miles: I walked up, carrying my knapsack and blankets, and generally walked from 30 to 35 miles a day. On arriving at the Turon I found the river too high to admit of our working, and accordingly went on to Tambaroora, 10 miles further, where I remained 2 months, but like a great many others had no luck. Twice I escaped the Commissioner, by jumping down a hole 15 feet, and getting into the Tunnel; but the third time I was caught, and in the lock-up nearly an hour, when I was let out by one of my Canadian friends paying 30s. for me.

I mined with a gentleman from London, formerly a page to Queen Adelaide. There was also the near relative of a Duke mining near us. On leaving the Tambaroora diggings, I went to the Turon, but finding the river still too high, I accepted an invitation to spend a month with him, and instructed him in some of our Canadian ways of doing things. Having heard a great deal of the Ophir diggings, I started with my knapsack, &c., but finding nothing to be done there, determined to try the Turon again, and on my way fell in with an American and his wife also going there; we decided to work together, and did pretty well the first two weeks, clearing nearly £20 each, which gave us some encouragement; we decided to remain, and accordingly put a comfortable cloth house, and made a garden of about half an acre of cabbages, potatoes, melons, &c.; and as the river was still too high to allow us to work in its bed, we took to sawing some lumber, which I assure you was something new to me; we sawed some 400 feet, and sold 125 feet, at 1s. per foot. The river still continuing too high to work to any advantage, I gave up mining, and started for Sidney on foot, and which I prefer to riding in such stages as they have there, and such roads. I had three of my fingers badly poisoned by the flies, which were very troublesome, and obliged us to wear veils. I arrived safe at Sydney, but was obliged to lay up and have my fingers attended to. I met with a friend in Mr.——— and in Mrs.——— an excellent nurse, under whose kind treatment I soon recovered; but I certainly was very so so, being nearly half starved. We could get no fresh meat unless we walked sixteen miles for it, which was no joke; we lived mostly on bacon, except when killed a possum which was very good eating. I was very much dissappointed in the country; I did not see a single farm, all wild land, and the timber not much use. Sydney is a well built city, and has a very fine harbor, which reminds me of the West Indies, but everything was very dull, especially to me, after coming from San Francisco; I came on to Melbourne; but only remained there two days, and from thence to Geelong, and got a situation. Melbourne is more go a-head than Sidney, but the climate in Melbourne and Geelong is wretched, dust and hot winds; In fact from what I have seen of the country I do not think much of it, and I wish I was back again to Canada. This place is going a head but slowly. There is a great demand for American hardware and groceries. An American axe with handle sells readily for 17s. 6d.; living and house rent very high; washing, 8s. per dozen. Money is to be made here, and will be as long as the mines continue to yield as they now do, but I neither like the country, climate, laws or people. This is a great country for drinking, which certainly does go-ahead, women and all, I never saw any thing equal to it—more blind people here than in any other country.

London Times.

LONDON, FRIDAY, AUGUST 18, 1854.

THE GENERAL ELECTION.

The elections ar now over, and in our last we gave an extract from the Hamilton Spectator as to the result being adverse to the ministry. The British Canadian says "The ministry have been able only to socure 12 seats in Upper Canada, whilst the leading men of the Conservative party have been elected by large majorities for leading constituencies." The North American, Reform Journal, says, "it is evident that Reformers as a party have achieved a splendie triumph. The progressive Reformers of Upper Canada and not the ministry, have accomplished this great Revolution in public opinion." Now, as to figures, the North American says the returns for Upper Canada may be classed as follows,

Independent Reformers - - - -	26
Ministerialists - - - -	14
Conservatives - - - -	15
Secularizationists - - - -	9
Corruptionists - - - -	1
	65

"Of the above we can safely say that not more than 20 will vote "Confidence in the Ministry." A vote of "Want of Confidence" will be moved as soon as the House meets, and giving them all the doubtful members and loose fish, it will stand for Upper Canada.

Yeas - - - -	45
Nays - - - -	20

being a majority against the ministry. The same authority goes on to state they will be in a minority also in Lower Canada, it adds the Post Master General has been defeated in two popular Constituencies. Dr. Rolph, another Member of the Cabinet was returned for Norfolk by submitting to a Convention, "and in consideration of present support, to trouble Norfolk no more" South Oxford (see the Woodstock Sentinel of August 3.) out of a Constituency of 1800, Mr Hincks received 625 or about ⅓ of the whole number." We commend the entire article inserted elsewhere as throwing light on the recent election for South Oxford, it will well repay an attentive perusal.

The same views as given above are endorsed by several of the Reform Journals of the Province while the Montreal Pilot. the government organ classes all returns under the head of Reformers and Conservatives, while the Leader and the other scattered Ministerial Papers adopt a similar classification.

When we reflect that Mr. Hincks at the Oxford Election expressly declared the dissolution was intended to obtain the verdict of the country on the Ministerial Policy. Not a question of Whig or Tory, Radical, Reformer, or Conservative, not a question as to the Clergy Reserves, Reciprocity, or any other leading question, but simply a verdict required, "whether the Hinck's Cabinet possesses the confidence of the Country, and whether the Country considers the objects achieved by them, justified the wholesale plunder of which they stand accused. Now, we admit, that there are many things where a great action is performed may be palliated, that without taking into account that action would have rendered the actors criminal. For instance besieging a town in order to force a surrender—a part may be set on fire, whereas to burn even a house without such an excuse is a penal act and subjects the party to the pains and penalties of the law.

A similar viewing of the question may here be suggested. Mr. Hincks says I have raised the Province to its present high state of prosperity, The end I achieved justified the means, and surely no cost could be too much. If I have enriched myself, I have enriched the Province, also, if the Provincial Debentures were valueless when I accepted office, they are not so now, and if I hold some or them, it is for the purpose of giving confidence to others.

We cannot approve this justification, the principle of the end justifying the means is made a rule for either religious or political action, we can have no confidence in the actors. A few circumstances that to an honest straightforward, person would apper rather mysterious may be accounted for by applying that rule at the recent elections

We observe the entire force and power of the ministry brought to bear in favor of Mr. Hartman of North York who voted against ministers on the vote of "want of confidence" and that against Mr. Price a Reformer.

We find the entire government influence exerted for Mr. Bowes a Conservative and Anti-Secularizationist. We find in several other constituencies similar inconsistencies. And in the classification of names we find Mr. Scatchard marked as a Government supporter, wherers we are all aware of the truly independent course he pursued here at the recent election. We might refer something to all the papers, but until the House meet and the diverse List is given us we would be only getting deeper in speculation. We cannot do better than conclude by giving an article from the Woodstock Sentinel Reform Journal on the election of 1854:

The Elections of 1854.

Nearly the whole of the election returns are in, and, with but few exceptions, the Ministerial candidates have been defeated; and saving Sir Allan McNab, J. H. Cameron W. B. Robinson and J. G. Bowes, Mr. Hincks' particular friend, and the man who received the support of the executive party in Toronto, all else have declared in favor of the settlement and secularization of the Clergy Reserves. In both instances it is gratifying to learn that the people of Canada are awake and determined to rid the country of the faction of unprincipled speculators, who for three years past, have so grossly violated their promises, perverted their position, and flogged the country solely for their own grandjement.

That burly braggadocio, Cameron, has met the fate he has long deserved, in two highly respectable constituencies, by large majorities notwithstanding the vast ministerial and monied influence brought to bear in his favor. Christie the man of all work, the ever ready scavenger to conceal the dirty work of his masters, has also been defeated in a constituency formed by himself and considered impregnable to any opponent of the government John White the cowardly traitor both to his country and his party is beat by a man hitherto unknown to the political world, but, who bears the reputation of being an honest man.

Every prominent member or supporter of the Ministry, with the exception of Hincks and Rolph, has had to retire, with ignominy and disgrace; and it would have been well, for those two, had the people rejected them and saved them from the more ignominious fate which awaits them. Out of office they must go, and out little time is left them to cover up or remove the evidences of their past iniquity. It will be a proud day for Canada when the doors of the Provincial chest shall be closed against the greedy fingers of the political Moloch (Hincks,) and the Council chamber freed from the pollution of the presence of that arch hypocrite (Rolph.)

What a shock to stock jobbing—to Railroad speculation! No premium for rascality will now be held out, and we shall not be astonished to find our public works stopped from the consequences which must result from an exposure of the true position on which they are based. This must have come to pass, ere long, and had so in part, but the crash had been warded off, and might have been prolonged until after the elections of 1855, by having resource to a desperate alternative had the Ministry succeeded at the recent elections; but the props are removed and no power can save them.

Mr. Hincks boasted, that the affairs of the Province was in so prosperous a condition that no difficulty would be experienced in their management, to use a nautical phrase, he said, we might lash the helm and go below, neither wind nor tide could do us harm. Any party, he said, might do the business now, his plans were so perfect and his system infallible. We shall see what will become of the Sault St. Marie Canal, the Chats Canal, and we hope soon to know the full extent of his financial jobbings in Provincial securities and Railroad Stocks.

Nothing, now, can screen his guilty from the penetrating eye of McKenzie, he will ferret the depths of Mr Hincks' rascality—the country will mourn over its blindness and stupidity—and it will be well for some of this neighborhood, if they too, are not found with the evidence of plunder upon them. This will be bad enough of itself. A loss to the country in a pecuniary point of view, of three or four hundred thousand pounds, can be borne with a better grace, than the loss which we suffer in our reputation, by the mismanagement of the reserves settlement.—That, also, will be found out. Documentary evidence, of the treachery of the Ministry will exhibit itself; and the to confiding people of Canada will find out, that while they were feasting Mr. Hincks and his party, he, (Mr. H.,) was quietly selling them and their birthright to the Priesthood of Rome and England.

A few weeks more and Mr. Hincks will be on the rack. The trust which was given to and to George Brown and to others, generally arranged him, will the public used and sadly duped people be given to know how week we shall be in a position, we hope, to announce the total strength of the opposition party, and we fervently trust, that all moderate conservative will lend his ear to the seductive flattery of Mr. Hincks, or, for a moment listen to the inducements he may have to sustain himself and defeat the wishes of the people.

GOVERNMENT INTERFERENCE.

The recent Elections have fully justified the Brantford Herald in recommending that certain Government Officials should not have the privilege of voting or the right to interfere at any of the elections, and we agree with our contemporary that no matter what party are in power, or who holds the reigns of government such should be law.

One of the most indecent displays took place at the recent general election at Quebec where Lord Elgin, the representative of the Sovereign, had the bad taste to present himself at one of the polling booths.

When an individual forgets to respect himself, we cannot others for despising him, instead of Lord Elgin being the independent and honorable man usually attributes of a British Peer, he becomes the subservient and base tool in the hands of his ministry to do their dirty work, it is high time our beloved sovereign should no longer be subject to the degradation of such a representative.

A member of the house of Peers in England is guilty of a breach of Parliament if he even canvasses for a member of the Lower House, and Hansard will afford instances to prove it, but here a Peer unfortunately of the realm, actually goes to the booth while the Election is going on and that Peer not even a member of the Upper House here, but the First Estate of the realm. And when we compare that fact with the protest against the late Election at Quebec inserted elsewhere headed "Corruption at Quebec," we are inclined to think our readers will at once see the evil that arises where the head is corupt, viz: that the members may also be. We to exemplify it direct attention to another "Infamous Corruption" wherein the Post Master General acting in accordance with the example set him makes the Post office a means of tyranny over those who differ from his infallible Cabinet. Again, a letter from Mr. Gift to the British Standard as the magistracy coupling that with the statement of th St, Catherines Constitutional as to the Government exertions made to defeat Mr. Street the late member, "the pig tail" quirl of J. P. was promised to some one hundred and fifty, as quiet as the Cabinet blacksmiths could mail it on, and Shrivelties. Judges, and Clerks of the Peace and other Straw Treklers, as proscription for non compliance, were shook over the heads of the popularity hunting multitude till honest men were made traitors, and leekspittle office holders marched to the polls as voters, Runners, and Bullies. We have it also on the best authority that Mr. Hincks, in person, worked like a galley slave, and that £5 a team per day was freely given to secure the defeat of Mr. Street. We might enlarge from the Globe, Mackenzie's Message and other papers in order to supply numerous other instances of government corruption, but we consider we have selected enough for one issue.

Now if twenty thousand dollars has been spent in Welland, against Mr. Street also large sums in Lambton and other places, freely used to secure the return of a government supporter, or defeat a regular oppotionist. The question may well be asked whose money was it, and where did it come from. We can easily show

Well we find in the records of the Provincial Parliament that May 31st 1853, Mr. Hincks moved that £30,000 be granted toward aiding the settlement of the vacant lands of Crown in Upper and Lower Canada. £15,000 to each. Mr. Hartman as one or the independent reformers voting this to the government. The fact is the country is asleep, they are spell-bound.

The same public accounts for 1853 shew also page 4 under the head of contingent expenses in Upper and Lower Canada, not otherwise provided for, £30,000 next page (5) for the arming and equipment of a volunteer militia in Upper and Lower Canada 10,000. Same page also to meet unforseen expenses in the various branches of the public service £500. We also find in page 6 "towards Building a new Court House and Goal in Kamaroaski £750 while in Upper Canada the Municipal ties are obliged to build their own. We also find items varying from fifth to five hundred pounds amounting in the aggregate to upwards of £5000 for the exclusive support of Roman Catholic institutions in the same Province.

We ask how long would a wholesale or retail merchant or even a petty hurter retain a Book keeper in his employment if he kept the Books as Mr. Hincks keeps the financial books of the Province which of the above parties if asked for one thousand pound for a matter that fifty pounds would be enough for would give it, why should the Province continue to pay the steward a man who has robbed it, not once or twice but repeatedly. Will they ever learn experience? hence importunity begets confidence, and the daring acts open y committed and openly justified. by a so-called responsible government have rendered the Government Departments of this Province a complete Augean Stable, the cleansing of which will endanger the political contamination of those who may be required to aid in the purifying process.

Talk of the corruption of Horace Walpole, go back to the most corrupt period of the Roman History, and you will not find any of the Governors of even the wealty Eastern provinces springing to wealth and independence in two years, and who commence in sebt could amass the enormous sum of 150*l*. to 200,000*l*. And yet these things did not arrive at the political perfection they have achieved under the finest government in the world. A government where the people possesses every power, where the people enjoy a "real, virtual, and positive Responsible Government," such is liberal sentiment, or in other words merits approbation of ministerial marsores.

THE RUSSIAN WAR.

The mean pettifogging course hitherto characteristic of the Coalition Ministry in England, and which will leave an indelible stain behind on Lord Aberdeen, the head of that ministry appears each day to be becoming more and more devoloped.

Lord Dudley Stewart's remark "that the armies and navies of England were at the Sent of War but what did they do, He, Lord D. S. felt certain that secret orders had been given by the Ministry to those Gallant Commanders, that they should do nothing" was left by the members of that Pettifogging Cabinet uncontradicted. When we compare this with the reluctance upon which that ministry entered upon the War, and the daring falsehood of Lord Aberdeen, "that he had no reason to doubt the honor of the Czar, or his truth" which the publication of the Secret Correspondence of Sir Hamilton Seymour our Ambassador at St. Petersburgh proved the falsehood of.

The Czar having made over ures for the partition of Turkey, offering England Egypt, and still Lord Aberdeen dared to say Russia had no intention of partitioning Turkey. It may be the dread of a victory may have more effect upon her Majesty's present advisers than the disgrace of a defeat, their high sense of patriotism, being regulated solely by their possession of office. A victory might involve the consideration of what guarantee should the western powers exact, from Russia for her future good behaviour.

My Lord Aberdeen does not like to deprive his good friend the Czar of Finland on the one side, the Crimea and Georgia on the other, and we firmly believe Lords Aberdeen and Clarendon are quite capable of any meanness to retain their present places.

We conclude these remarks by giving the following extract from the Morning Herald.

The Czar and the English Cabinet.

We cannot wonder at the strong feeling which we know has been excited by the last mail which on Tuesday morning we made upon the subject of the visit of Count Palden, a Russian agent to this city.

This feeling will not be less roused by the fact that it did not reach us on Tuesday night evidently attended to evade the question put to them by Mr Butt. We have been credibly informed that when Mr Butt was putting his question to Sir George Gray, Lord John Russell was actually waiting in the library until the time for asking questions was passed

After the statement made in the house there is no longer any reason for concealing the name of the Cabinet Minister who has acted as Count Pahlen's cicerone. The Earl Granville, late Lord President of her Majesty's Council, now Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, introduced this Russian agent to the Traveller's Club, and the name of the noble earl may be seen in the stranger's book, vouching that the emissary of Nicholas is a fit person to associate with British Gentlemen in the moments of unreserved and confidential intercourse

The entry in that book specifies, if we are not mistaken, the name and rank of the illustrious visitor. In the second column, if we remember right, the country of a stranger is designated and we presume the entry runs thus—

Count Nicholas Pahlen-
Country—Russia
Introduced by
The Earl Granville,
One of her Majesty's Cabinet Ministers.

A more flagrant outrage upon the feelings of Englishmen it is impossible to conceive.

NEW BOOKS.

OFF-HAND TAKINGS.—This is the title of a handsome volume, of life-like and graphic sketches of the most notable persons in America.—It embraces over 400 pages printed with beautiful type, on excellent paper, is handsomely bound, elegantly illustrated with 20 portraits in steel, is well adapted for the drawing-room table, and ought to be found in the house of all Americans particularly. The sketches are written in a piquant and charity style, and exhibit great penetratory analysis combined with dignity of tone and elegance of style, which cannot fail to command the admiration of all appreciating readers. While they possess much critical merit, they are entertaining and amusing, and will win green laurels and golden honors for their author, wherever they are read. The portraits are of the following distinguished persons:—Edward Everett, Edwin H. Chapin, Wm. H. Seward, John P. Hale, P. T. Barnum, Samuel Houston Neal Dow, Ogden Hoffman, Gerrit, Smith, Henry Ward Beecher, John Van Buren, George Law, Horace Greeley, S. A. Douglass, William Cullen Bryant, Thomas Hart Benton, G. C. Hebbe, Solon Robinson,

THE CHOLERA.

From the Reports of the Board of Health published in this weeks issue it will be obvious how greatly exaggerated the accounts were of the sanitary condition of London.

Very few of the Country people come into town and business of all kind has consequently felt a great depression, the mortality has been trifling compared with the cases under treatment, and the favorable change in the weather has latterly been most beneficial. We have every reason to feel thankful to a kind providence for the protection he has hitherto vouchsafee us, and to place our whole trust for the future in his almighty protection.

ence which was brought to bear on the late election for Lambton, I send you the following particulars. The inhabitants of this rising village feeling a want of Post Office accommodation, got up a petition to the Postmaster General, praying that a Post Office might be established at this place under my charge, to which this answer was returned.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
Quebec May 23rd, 1854.

SIR.—In answer to your letter of the 16th inst. I beg to say that instructions have been sent to the Post Office Inspector to establish an office at the Wardaville station under your charge, at as early a day as possible.

I am, Sir, your obed't s'v't,
W. H GRIFFIN,
Secretary.

Hosea Purdy, Esq.,
Wardsville, Mass.

In the interval between the receipt of the foregoing and the time of polling, Mr Hossie Victoria one of Mr. Cameron's agents called upon me, and wished to know if I would give my vote and influence to Mr. Cameron? I told him I had no vote in Lambton, and any influence I could exercise would be in behalf of Mr. Brown. He replied, then he could not expect any favor of Mr. Cameron, and immediately left for the residence of Mr. Robert Thomson, whom he found more easy, as the following serves to show:

Communication, inquiring when the Post Office would be opened, will show:

Toronto, July 21, 1854.

DEAR SIR.—I am in receipt of your letter of the 19th inst. and beg to say in reply, that the new Post Office at the Wardsville Station will be opened under the name of "Trinity" on the 1st prox. I have been directed to place Mr. Robert Thompson in charge of the duties.

I am, dear Sir,
Your obedient servant,
JOHN DEWIR.
P. Hosea Purdy, Post Office Inspector.
Newton, near Moss.

SIR.—I do not think my comment necessary, further than to say that I have been at considerable expense in furnishing an office, and that the man who could commit so gross and corrupt a job, well merits the two signal defeats he has met with in Lambton and Lanark.

I am Sir, yours respectfully,
HOSEA PURDY.'

Newton, Moss,
August 1st, 1854.

Where bribery more direct or straight forward? Was the official power ever more shamelessly used to help a set of political gamblers? We are only now beginning to discover the lengths to which the government have gone in their efforts to grasp the power which is leaving them so fast.

The violence and deliberate reception of bad voters in Lennox and Addington, are only paralleled by the corruption of the West.

The reader would not fail to notice the name given to the new Office. Mr. Malcolm Cameron gave it its title—he gave it while the Lambton contest was at its height—he gave it some four or five days before the polling commenced—and he called it "Triumph!"

The affair will be immediately brought under the notice of the Governor General, with other similar cases, in order that the principle on which government officers are to be removed, and successors appointed in future, may be distinctly understood. It will be of importance to know whether office is to be openly bartered for votes, and officials removed, simply because they will not canvass for an unpopular representative.—Globe.

THE COON'S LAST.

We find the following in the Streetsville Review of Saturday last.

Yesterday we received an epistle, written on the leaf of a copy-book, sealed with cobblers wax and stamped with a copper, of which the following is a faithful copy:

Corruption at Quebec.

The following is an extract from a montreal paper which appears in a Quebec paper made on behalf of Messrs. Stuart, Dubord and Simard, against the return of the ministerial candidates. The extract contains a narrative of the charges of corruption, and it concurs with all the advices we have received from Quebec on the subject. No doubt the allegations are true, and we trust, the ministerial candidates so fraudulently elected, may yet be unseated. Peruse the protest good reader, and therein you shall find another specimen of the infamous lengths this desperate ministry does not hesitate to go, to obtain an other lease of power:—

"Because a large majority of legal votes were recorded at said election in favor of said George Okill Stuart, Hypolite Dubord and George H. Simard, and of each of them because the majority of the Honorable Jean Chabot, Jean Blanchet, and Charles Alleyn, and of each of them was only a colonial majority, and was composed of persons not entitled to vote at the said election, because upwards of a thousand of the votes recorded in favor of the said Jean Chabot, Jean Blanchet, and Charles Alleyn, and of each of them were those of persons not possessing at the time of the said election the qualifications required by law to vote thereat, because one thousand and upwards of the votes which purport to have been duly recorded as legal votes for and on behalf of the said Jean Chabot, Jean Blanchet and Charles Alleyn, and of each of them, were those partly of persons who had voted more than once at the said election, and had not been in actual and uninterrupted possession of the lands and tenements upon which they claimed and pretended to be entitled to vote as proprietors and tenants according to the statute in that behalf. Because after the test of the writ for the said election and at and during the said election, and before the return of the said Jean Chabot, Jean Blanchet, and Charles Alleyn did directly and indirectly, by themselves and each of them and their and his authorized agents for that purpose, employ divers means of corruption, by giving sums of money, offices, places, employments, gratuities, rewards, and bonds, bills and notes, and conveyances of land and promises of the same to divers electors of the same city whose votes had been given and recorded in favor of them, the said Jean Chabot, Jean Blanchet and Charles Alleyn, and each of them, and by threatening divers of the said electors with the loss of their offices, salaries incomes, and advantages with the intent to corrupt and bribe divers of the said electors to vote for them, the said Jean Chabot, Jean Blanchet, and Charles Alleyn, and each of them, and to keep back divers others from voting for any other candidate; and that the said Jean Chabot, Jean Blanchet, and Charles Alleyn, and each of them did during the period aforesaid, by the said means of corruption, corrupt and bribe divers of the said electors to vote for them, the said Jean Chabot, Jean Blanchet and Charles Alleyn and divers others of them with intent to promote their and each of their elections, and other persons with intent to promote the election of the said candidates and each of them did provide and furnish entertainment at the expense of them the said Jean Chabot, Jean Blanchet, and Charles Alleyn, and did supply drink to the electors to the great scandal of the city and to the detriment and prejudice of the freedom of election, and in utter and open violation of the laws and statutes in force in this province: Because of the persons purporting to be electors voting at the several polling places at such election whose name is recorded in the poll books kept by the deputy and returning Officers as having voted at the said election for the said Jean Chabot, Jean Blanchet, and Charles Alleyn and for each of them one thousand and upwards never gave their votes at all and knew not in favor of whom their votes had been recorded as votes given at such election; and because on the contrary, when asked or called upon by the Deputy returning officer or officers to say in favor of whom they voted, or intended to vote such person s declared that they did not know, but handed up tickets on which the names of the said Jean Chabot, Jean Blanchet, and Charles Alleyn, had been previously written or printed, placed in the hands of such persons, severally and respectively by the said Jean Chabot, Jean Blanchet and Charles Alleyn, or others in their interest or intriguing on their behalf at the said election, which said tickets the said persons were unable to read or understand, but from which they deputy returning officer read and recorded the vote such mode of voting being subversive of the free and open expression of the opinions of the electors, exposing them to surprise, deception and fraud, and being also in direct violation of the laws and statutes regulating elections; because in truth and in fact numbers of the persons who so Voted were deceived and cheated by the falsehoods and representations of the parties by whom such illegal tickets were thrust into their hands before or as they appeared at the polling places respectively, and were made to vote in direct opposition to their real views and wishes, and because the laws and statutes of this Province have been and were from the commencement to the close of the said election in divers other particulars (which the said Geo. Okill Stuart, Hypolite Dubord and Geo. H. Simard, will at the proper time and place more particularly specify and state,) violated and set at naught; and because the said pretended election was and is by reason of the premises wholly and absolutely null and void, and so ought to be adjudged."

Extensive Fire at Chatham.

CHATHAM, Aug. 16, 1854.

Erberet's Block and Chatham Bridge are burned down. The loss is estimated at £20,000, and is scarcely half covered by insurance. The fire originated in an unoccupied building, formerly used as a tannery.

ANOTHER APPOINTMENTMENT OF THE GOVERNMENT IN QUEBEC.—Mr. Hawkins, Government shipping-officer at Quebec, died recently, and we learn from the Quebec Gazette that John Hearn one of the Chalmer's Church rioters, has been appointed in his stead. As our readers are aware, Hearn and his fellow-ruffians, were acquitted through the collusion or stupidity of the Crown officers, the evidence against them being so strong as to confirm the belief of their guilt in the minds of all. Yet this man has been appointed to an important and lucrative office under government, one which requires the highest character in the incumbent.

The Quebec Gazette also says:—

"Our correspondent 'Enquirer' is informed, in reply to his communication (see Gazette of to-day week), that a higgotted catholic of the name of Chrysostome of the Hearn style of ruffianism has been appointed to the stewardship of the Marine and Emigrant Hospital. The motive to applicants was a mere farce, a pre-determination having existed that no lunatic should be admitted to compete with one of Mother Church's chickens. —Globe.

THE PENALTY OF ANTI-MINISTERIALISM.—When recently addressing some of the electors of Dundalton, the Old Country exclaimed himself as a "moral religious man," in fact as a specimen of political saint who was in color too good for this blackguarding degenerate age!

The Koon did not exhibit himself with the flourish of the egotistic trumpet. He point blank cottoned to "Pilitaire," who has the impertinence to question his orthodoxy, and he (the Pilitaire to wit) would GO TO HELL, with his companions, unless they repented of their sinnices against the Ministry!!!

Now this is what Solomon calls "saving the whole a trail," and to no take.

Who can question but that Francis will be victorious at the coming contest when such a ghastly penalty awaits his adversaries?

I long ago, it is enough to make the hair of a monk's head stand on end, to hear an illiterate, and he need thumb-nigger enunciate such ramjam and unadulterated piosodency! Cameron is a veritable type of the canting miscreants of the great rebellion, who asked a blessing before murdering their men in march, and devoted to perdition all who refused to pronounce the shibboleth of treason and sacrilege!—Streetsville Review.

To the Editor of the British Standard.

SIR—I have received a printed letter from Mr. Bethune, Clerk of the Peace, informing me that I was appointed a magistrate, and to come up to Perth and qualify myself for the office. As I am a person who goes seldom or in home, and not much acquainted with the villany of the world, would you please to inform me through the medium of your most excellent conservative journal, to which I am a subscriber, by whose authority I was appointed to the Commission of the Peace? If I was recommended by a member of the present Government, I flog the commission back into the teeth of the scoundrel. What! I accept of a commission from a government which passed a bill to pay rebels for firing upon and murdering us—and who, if they had succeeded, would have hanged me, and every loyal man like me, who left his home to defend the province. Perhaps you could inform me why a Commission of the Peace was issued at this particular time. Some say it is on account of the election. Can this be true?—Can a virtuous government thus degrade itself, and stoop so low as to try and get votes by so disreputable a measure? The list of magesterial names for Montague is a disgrace. I am a Government; as an Ou-rang Outang has been actually placed in the Commission.

Yours truly,
THOMAS GIFT.

Montague, July 24, 1854.

THE CULTIVATION OF THE CRANBERRY

It now appears to be very successfully established that the cranberry, (Oxycocus Macrocarpus) can be advantageously cultivated on uplands as well as on swamp lands. On some upland field in Massachusetts 300 bushels to the acre, of very fine fruit have been obtained.

There are three varieties of cranberry—the barberry, the cherry, and the bell. This last species is the variety which flourishes upon dry soils; its berry grows much in the form of an egg. In its wild state it is found on the border of cranberry bogs, spreading its way to upland soil. The approved method of cultivation is to plough the land, spread on a quantity of swamp muck, and after harrowing the soil thoroughly set out the plants in drills twenty inches apart, hoeing them the first season. After this, no cultivation is needed. In three years the plant will cover the ground—provided the soil is too poor to encourage the growth of grass or weeds.

The cultivation of this fruit is highly recommended, as it is very remunerative, the crop being quite a sure one, the yield large and the demand unlimited. The time for planting is either in October or November, or in the spring, from the opening of the season to about the 25th of May.

MANURE FOR STRAWBERRIES.—One writer had a very productive bed 30 by 40 feet. I applied, says he, about one cart load to three times, commencing when the green leaves first began to start, and made the application just before the plants were in bloom, the following preparation: Nitrate of potash, (salt petre) glauber salts, and sal soda, (carbonate of soda) in the proportion of a teaspoonful of each, one quarter of a pound—dissolve in six gallons of water and sprinkle on with a watering pot. One third of this was applied at a time; and when the weather was very dry and clear soft water let on in the rows of using the preparations, as the growth of the young leaves is so rapid that, unless applied with water, the sun will scorch them. I used a common watering pot, making the application before evening. Managed in this way, and the weeds kept out, there is never any necessity of digging over the bed, or setting out new. Beds often years are not only as good but better than those of three years old.—Friends Review.

APPLES WITHOUT SEEDS OR CORES.—A correspondent of the Memphis Whig gives the following receipt for obtaining apples without seeds or cores:—Take the ends of the limbs of an apple tree, where they hang low, so as to reach the ground, dig a small hole for each end under the tree, bend it down and bury in the hole, confining it down so that it will remain. Do this in the winter, or beginning of spring. The end of the limb thus buried will take root and put out sprouts or scions, which when they become sufficiently large to "set out," dig up at the proper season, and transplant them in the orchard where you wish them to remain.—When they get large enough to bear, they will bear apples as above.

THE HOMESTEAD BILL will be passed by Charles Wood, Esq., at New York, on the Evening of June 1854, giving to each of 600 subscribers from 100 feet square to 20 Acres of Land, on the Long Island Rail Road, and but FIFTY miles from New York City.

OBITUARY.

Township of London.

Died, on the 13th inst., by a fall from his own barn loft, Mr. William Quinn, aged 54 years, leaving behind him a wife and eight children to deplore his sudden and melancholy death.

He was a native of Comber, County Down, Ireland, a Presbyterian by birth, and had his heart established in that form of christian worship.

But counting a man's faith sacred between him and his God, he was liberal and kind to all, for conscience's sake—but the church of his father's, was his own chiefjoy. He, after it began, a pious neighborhood, was among the first to move them to the erection of a little Bethel, for the worship of Zion's God,—and he had just lived to see the Shepherd in the fold breaking the Bread of Life to the little flock, and was himself one of the joyful sitters at the first sacramental suppers of the Lord, dispensed in that humble sanctuary, on the second Sabbath in July last.

But he has left the visible temple.—The spirit has joined the church triumphant, and shines in the glory of the Lamb, at that table in heaven which shall never be drawn. May it not be well to record a tribute to so good a man, the immense multitude that accompanied his earthly remains to their last resting place in this world; and O, how largely they prove and give force to the truth, "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord from henceforth; they rest from their labors and their works do follow them."

BIRTH.

In this Town, on the 12th inst, the wife of Mr. Herman Kordes, of a son.

MARRIED.

On Tuesday, the 15th inst., at St. Pauls Church, London, C. W., by the Rev. Benjamin Cronyn, A. M., Alfred Howell Vennor, Esq., to Georgina, youngest daughter of the late J. L. Monserrat, Esq.

DIED.

In this Town, on Tuesday, the 15th instant, after a few hours illness, Mr. Charles Merriman, aged 24 years. Deceased had been for a long period in the employ of Edward Adams, Esq. and was much esteemed as an active and intelligent young man.

Besides these Pianos of Chickering, Stodart & Dunham, Mr. Kordes has constantly on hand Pianos of other good makers, such as Boston and Raven, Gordon, Firth, second hand [illegible], from £10 upwards to £50. Old Pianos taken in exchange and a liberal allowance made. Pianos Tuned and repaired. All orders from a distance promptly attended to.

Mr. Kordes has constantly on hand an assortment of very superior Brass Instruments, of the formation and use of Bands, as Ophiclues, Sax horns, Trombones, Cornopeans, Bugles, Post horns, French horns, etc., which will be sold low, and on very favorable terms.

Mr. Kordes would just say a few words regarding the Pianos of Chickering, Stodar & Dunham, in the first place, they are warranted to keep good and sound in all their parts, for any number of years, provided they receive good treatment.

In the second place, any person having such a thing as what is called an ear for music, will, without looking at the makers name, be able to detect the difference between a Stodart, a Dunham or a Chickering, to a Piano from any other make, without exception; the woody, wiry, harsh kind of a tone, so predominant in other instruments, is changed into a full, sweet, rich and brilliant tone in the Pianos of the above three makers.

As regards keeping in tune; these Pianos require a good tune 3 times in 12 months after treatment, they never require more than this, many [illegible] sometimes require less.

The great popularity which Moffat's Life Pills and Phœnix Bitters have attained in consequence of the extraordinary cures effected by their use, renders it unnecessary for the proprietor to enter into a particular analysis of their medicinal virtues or properties Having been more than twenty years before the public, and having the united testimony of more than Three Millions of persons who have been restored to the enjoyment of perfect health by them it is considered that their reputation as the best vegetable medicine now before the public admits of no dispute. In almost every city and village in the United States there are many who are ready to testify to their efficacy in removing disease and giving to the system renewed vigor and health

In cases of Scrofula, Ulcers, Scurvy or Eruptions of the skin, the operation of the Life Medicine is truly astonishing often removing in a few days every vestige of those loathsome diseases by their purifying effects on the blood.

Dyspepsia, Dropsy, Piles, and in short most all diseases arising from a vitiated or impure state of the blood or system, yield to the cleansing and renovating influence of these Pills, and no family should be without them as by their timely use much suffering and expense may be saved.

DEAR SIR.—A sense of duty impels me to forward to you for the following certificate:

For the last eight years, I have been troubled with a Fistula in Palmo, close to the rectum.—I had consulted Physicians and others, but to me there was no cure, excepting the knife and they would have charged me a high price.

I was advised to apply your Chinese Balsam to the place and gave me a trial, and I am happy to say that my situation is now in a state of health. I followed your directions implicitly, and in three weeks was entirely cured. It is now over two years since the cure and I believe it to be a permanent one.

Gentlemen—I have received the Sample bottle of your "Compound Camomile Cordial," and consider it a most invaluable as well as a highly palatable preparation. The aromatic fragrance and peculiar bitter flavor, in which lies the essential of Medicinal virtues, appear to be largely infused and well preserved, and as this virtue is home is highly beneficial in those forms of dyspepsia depending on debility or want of tone in the digestive organs. One form most peculiarly and well is constantly your cordial with. I should not form an unsuitable addition to our Pharmacopœia.

From the knowledge possessed by me of Mr. Renford, and his very high reputation as a Pharmaceutical Chemist I feel myself justified in confidently recommending his Preparation to the Notice of the Medical Profession and to the public as a strong and invigorating

It is now generally admitted by the learned and scientific, that the magnetic power called Galvanism or Magnetism for the vitality of life, and that in case of each of its most painful forms is entirely owing to the absence of the Magnetic power in a medically proportion. Hence, we can readily supply this Wonderful power when it is thus deficient, we can successfully cure that disease, and has been fully and publicly attested by the most wonderful & genuine discovery of combining Magnetism or Galvanism with a fluid which has ever been the invention of this remedy is a most simply and natural.

There is not a single Physician who has kept pace with the progress of science as that does not readily approve of the Magnetic power in various diseases, and there is scarcely a medical journal either in this country or Europe which notices its appearance without the statement of its many cases, showing some new effect of these wonderful agents of concentrating precious experience of their beneficial uses. The inventor of the Galvanic Embrocation has the gratification of being able to state that a majority of the most distinguished physicians of New York constantly recommend it in their practice, and from many of them he has received the kindest testimonials of approval and recommendation.

Poetry.

THE WISH.

Well, then, now I do plainly see
This busy world and I shall ne'er agree;
The very honey of all earthly joy
Does of all meats the soonest cloy,
And they, methinks, deserve my pity,
Who for it can endure the stings,
The crowd, and buzz, and murmurings
Of this great hive, the city.

Ah! yet 'ere I descend to th' grave,
May I a small house and large garden have,
And a few friends, and many books both true,
Both wise, and both delightful too!
And since love ne'er will from me flee,
A mistress moderately fair,
And good as guardian angels are,
Only belov'd, and loving me!

Oh! fountains when in you shall I,
Myself, cas'd of unpeaceful thoughts, espy?
Oh fields, oh woods! when, when shall I be made
The happy tenant of your shade,
Here's the spring-head of pleasure's flood
Where all the riches lie, that she
Has coin'd and stamp'd for good.

Pride and ambition here
Only in far-fetched metaphors appear;
Here nought but winds can hurtful murmurs scatter,
And nought but Echo flatter,
The god's when they descended hither
From Heav'n, did always choose their way
And therefore we may boldly say,
That 'tis the way to thither.

How happy here should I,
And one dear she live, and embracing die
She who is all the world, and can exclude
In desert's solitude,
I should have then this only fear,
Lest men, when they my pleasures see,
Should hither throng to live like me,
And so make a city here.

The Partition of the Earth.

TRANSLATED FROM SCHILLER.

"Here take this world," cried Jovo from his high throne:
Addressing man: "the earthly sphere be thine;
I grant it thee, a free, perennial loan;
Divide it—brother feeling mark the line."

All hastened to establish each his claim.
Busy both young and old as industrious strove;
The farmer tried to seize the fields of grain.
The noble's son in forest chase to rove.

Whate'er his warehouse holds, the merchant sweeps:
The Abbot chooses rare and costly wine;
King barricades the bridges and the streets.
With voice potential cry; "the tenth is mine."

The spoil all meted out—alas! too late
Arrives the poet from some distant place;
"Ah! nothing left, how luckless is my fate!
Each worldly chattel could its master trace.

Woe me! shall I alone of all be cast
Unportioned from thee? Thy trust son?"
Thus ventured he his loud complaint to vent,
And prostrate fell before the heavenly throne.

"If in the land of dreams thou didst delay"
Pursued the God "by mortal beams not me;
Where wert thou on the world's division day?
The poet answered "Lord I was with thee!

Mine ears were doting on thy godly sight,
Mine ear on thy celestial harmony;
Pardon that spirit, which thy rich light,
Inebriate forfeits all its rights through thee"

What remedy is left? The world is given:
Nor harvest chase, nor commerce flows from me
If thou dost wish to breathe the air of heaven,
As of thou com'st; so oft shall welcome be.

The Spirit's Bank.

Oh, beauteous are the forms that stand
Beyond death's dusky wave,
And beckon to the Spirit's Land,
Across the narrow grave.

No damp is on the freed on's brow,
No dimness in his eye;
The dews of Heaven refresh him now.
The fount of life is nigh.

The parent soul's that o'er our bed
Oft poured the midnight prayer,
Now wonder where their cares are fled.
And calmly wait us there.

The dearer still—the close entwined,
With bands of roseate hue;
We thought teen fair; but now we find
'Twas but their shade we knew.

'Tis sweet, when o'er the earth unfurled
Spring's verdant banners wave,
To think how fair yon upper world,
Which knows no wintry grave.

'Tis sweet when tempests earth deform,
And whirlwinds sweep the sky,
To know a haven from a storm
When worlds themselves must die.

To know that there in safety rest
The tranquil barks of those.
Who, sailing on life's billowy crest,
Attained to heaven's repose.

To know that brethren fondly wait
Our mantion to prepare—
That death but opes that mansions gate
And, lo! our souls are there!

Literature.

Is he Married.

"What!" I exclaimed stirring the fire to make a blaze, for I had not ordered candles, "Is it possible? With Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomson's compliments—Charles Thomson married! married!—poor fellow!" I hastily obtained a candle, opened the packet, and found in it a piece of bridal cake, with a few words written in a small female hand, informing me that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomson would be ready to receive visitors on a certain day. I was perfectly astonished. Charles Thomson married! I would sooner have expected snow at midsummer. Married!—we were upon terms of the greatest intimacy; we we had dined together day by day for several years past; and yet I never even suspected that he was in love. When I last saw him he told me he was about to visit Tunbridge Wells, on business. And then to whom is he married? Everybody knows Charles Thomson; he is to be seen in every book shop, and at every book-stall and book auction in London. His days are spent in libraries and his nights, for the most part, in his study.—For himself, he is the mildest, meekest, most unobtrusive fellow in existence, he never can speak to woman without blushing; and as for wooing—shaw! the thing is impossible! He must have courted by deputy, and have been married by proxy. I could not understand it, and when I went out of doors the annoyance was still greater. I was continually met by such questions as, "Pray, who is Mrs. Charles Thomson?" "Who would have thought Charles Thomson would have married?—I was never so astonished as when I heard of it: who is she? I don't know." "Nonsense! impossible!" "It is true," said I surlily, and walked on.

Time, however, passed away as it was wont to do, and the period approached at which the happy couple were expected to return to town.

But a few mornings before the day arrived I was astonished by the usual sudden and abrupt entrance of my old friend Charles into my parlor.

"X" said my friend "how d'you do?"

I paused a moment regarding my old friend whose looks were full of trouble and anxiety, and then kindly enquired,

"My dear Charles, how are you:

"How—"

I hesitated; I would have inquired "How is Mrs. Thomson," but the words would not come forth, so I closed the sentence with,

"When did you come to town.

"Only last night, what an unlucky affair this is,"

"Ah, said I, I was dismally surprised to hear of it."

"How came you to be led into it."

"Oh, lord, I don't know; we are all of us overtaken at times, and I really thought I was doing a kindness."

"A kindness!," echoed I, "yes, but rts a very serious expense. Why didn't you talk to me about it.

"Oh, I had a sort of presentiment that I should repent it, and I thought you would only laugh at me. But what can I do?"

"What can you do? Why I suppose you have done everything that can be done, there is no getting out of it now."

"I am afraid not but I must change my mode of living."

"Ah, that you must; you must, you must give up your old literary pursuits, and attend closely to your profession, and all our comfortable dinners at——,

"Ah, those are all at an end."

"But did you get no money at all," inquired I."

"Not a sixpence," was the answer, "it was purely a matter of accommodation."

"An accommodation! why zounds man, how could you be such a fool!

"Oh I was taken by surprise in an evil moment. But regard it will be a lesson to me. I suppose I must sell Harbor Court!"

"Any I hope it's not so bad as that——,

"Indeed, but it is; where think you am I to get £500?

"500! Why what are you thinking about.'

"Thinking about' replied Charles, 'why about Sillery's bills,' producing at the same time a newspaper with the announcement of his bankruptcy— what else should I think about?'

"Ha! ha! ha!" cried I laughing at the equivoque "and I have been talking about your marriage.

"Marriage, nonsense what could put that into your head?'

"My dear fellow' exclaimed I "satisfy me that you are not married, and I will make you easy about Sillery's bills. His bankruptcy has been superceded, and I have money in my hands to pay your acceptances.'

I then produced my bridecake and its envelope—all turned out to be a hoax—we still have our old literary dinners, and Charles Thomson is not married.

CALIFORNIA LOVE-LETTER.—I would that my pen were dipped in the dyes of the rainbow plucked from the wing of an angel, that I might paint the burning brightness of that flame which thy thrilling eloquence hath enkindled!

Thou soft moonlight of sentiment—soft soap of consistency, thy voice is as gentle as the first stirring of an infants dream, as melodious as the braying of a mule thy step as light as the sylvan footed zephyr that fanned with the wing of perfume the gable end of Paradise.

Thy eyes are brilliants stolen from the seraphs—thy lips are as vivid as rose buds moistened with the dews of affection, thy words are as drops of amber, thy teeth are like unto snow set in a verbena bed. Oh! sweet spirit of camphor, double distilled essence of hartshorn! Sourkrout of all my hopes, apple sauce of my thoughts, buttermilk cut-up of my fancy, tiger of my innocence, butter of perfection, logwood of my melody thou art the gin and fancy of my dreams, the brandysmash of my waking visions, and Santa Cruz of my recollections.

Thou art as harmless as a leopard or a greased streak of lightning churned to consistency in the milkey whey. Thou art as innocent as a tiger; handsome as an elephant, melodious as a lion. Oh! onion of mo soul, pickled pumpkin of my affections, preserved crab of the garden of Smith's Island, where desperate love dwells

A Pointed Sermon.

Many an intercourse of an hour's length is not half so impressive as the following from an eccentric English divine.

"Be sober, grave temperate"—Titus ii 9.

1. There are three companions with whom you should always keep on good terms.
1. Your wife.
2. Your stomach.
3 Your conscience.

If you wish to enjoy peace long life and happiness, p r e t h m by temperance.

Intemperance produces
1. Domestic misery.
2. Premature death.
3. Infidelity.

To make these points clear I refer you,
1. To the Newgate calender.
2. To the Hospitals, Lunatic Asylums, and Work Houses.
2. To the past of what you have seen, read and suffered in mind, body and estate.

Dignity of an Indian Chief.

We doubt if the annals of ancient history furnish a reply surpassing in eloquence and grandeur the following from an untutored savage.

As Tecumseh proudly approached General Harrison rose to receive the chief and pointing to a bench prepared for the purpose said;

Your white father requests that you will be seated."

Tecumseh cast upon the American General a look of unmitigated scorn and indignation

"You my father!" said he "No! The Sun" pointing to that luminary in the heaven, "is my father! The Earth" pointing to the ground "is my mother, and" throwing himself upon the ground, "I will rest nowhere but upon her bosom."

☞ An auctioneer was much much annoyed by the low bids of one of his customers, and offered five dollars to any one who would put him out. A large ferocious individual approached the unfortunate offender, and in a whisper loud enough to be heard all over the room, thus addressed him—"My friend you go out with me, and I will give you half the money."

GRATIFYING FACT.—At a recent annual meeting of the London New Cemetery Company, the Chairman had "great pleasure in announcing to the meeting the gratifying fact that the burials in the cemetry for the last year were double the number of those of the year proceeding."

A LEGAL SETTLEMENT.—An elderly female, on being examined before the magistrate of Bungay as to her place of legal settlement, was asked what reasons she had for supposing that her deceased husband's settlement was in St. Andrew's. "The old lady, looking earnestly at the bench said, "He was born and married there, and they buried him him there and if that isn't settling him there I don't know what is."

UNANIMITY.—A Scotch parson in one of his prayers said,

"Lord bless the Grand Council, the Parliament and Grant that they may hang together.

A country fellow standing by replied 'Yes sir with all my heart and the sooner the better—and I and sure it is the prayer of all the good people.' 'But friends' said the parson 'I do not mean as that fellow does, but pray that they may hang together in accord and concord.' 'No matter what cord replid the other so 'tis but a strong one."

ROEBUCK HIMSELF AGAIN.—The Sheffield Independent announces that Mr. Roebuck's health is so much improved that he has accepted an invitation to the cutler's feast. We are happy to hear it, and hope Mr. Roebuck will do the cutler's the credit of playing a good knife and fork.

"ALREADY MARRIED.—A gentlemen having occasion to call on a physician the other day stopped at the door and rung the bell. The summons was answered by the Irish servant girl, of whom he inquired if the doctor was in.

"No."

"Was his lady in?"

"Yes."

"Was she engaged?"

The girl looked at him for a moment and a curious expression rested on her features as she replid,

"Dade sir, and she is already married."

When Coleridge was in love, he was compiled to leave his inamorata, and was consequently wretched. As he left the scenes of his amour however, he by degrees became reconciled, and philosophically came to the conclusion, "Love is a local anguish, I am fifty miles distant and not half so miserable.

The Russian women think their husbands are becoming cold and indifferent if they do not flog them once a week.

Mirabeau's valet, Teutch, regarded it as a great favor and compliment to be kicked by his master; and it is said that, however low spirited he was before, this always set him in an excellent humour.

A gentlemen asked an American what he would take to go upon the top of the house and sit all night naked? He immediately replied, 'what will you give?'

He put the same question to an Englishman, who, in proper time answered meaning the exact sum which he would taked to perform it.

He then asked the same of an Irishman—what he would take to go upon the top of the house and sit all night naked?—who immediately replied.—"And be jabers I should take a bad could?"

Travci gives a character of experience to our knowledge, and brings the figures on the tablet of memory into strong relief.

Rags, which are the reproach of poverty are the beggar's robes and graceful insignia of his profession, his tenure, his full dress, the suit in which he is expected to show himself in public.

Never believe to be right those who, having but a piece of metal in their chests, would persuade you that to be cold is to be wise.—Warmth is the vivifying influence of the universe, and the heart is the source of noble deeds.

What we call genius may, perhaps, with more strict propriety, be described as the spirit of discovery. Genius is the very eye of intellect and the wing of thought. It is always in advance of its time it is the pioneer for the generation which it precedes.

The following epitaph on Lord Aberdeen, from Hoods "Bridge of sighs" is found in th London Press:

ber of the various arms. These regiments are divided into battalions, escadrons, or companies, and have their standing staffs of officers and corporals on active service, and receiving full pay. It is the duty of the latter to live in the towns and villages among the soldiers, who, though on leave, are nevertheless, not discharged from the service, and these soldiers they must collect and drill once a week. The Redifs gather every year for four weeks at the head quarters of their respective ordous, and take part in field manœuvres. While thus on service she Redifs have the regular pay and the usual allowance of provisions (pain.)

The auxiliaries consist of the contingents of the tributary provinces. These provinces are—Servia, Bosnia and the Herzegowina, Upper Albania, and Egypt. It is very difficult to give even an approximate idea of the numbers of the auxiliaries; much depends on the politics of the time or the enemy against whom they are expected to take the field. In a war with Russia the number of auxiliaries may possibly amount to 105,000 or 110,000 men—viz., 6,000 from Wallachia 10,000 from Bosnia and the Herzegowina, 20,000 from Upper Albania, 30,000 from Servia, and 25,000 from Egypt. As the Danubian Principalities are occupied by the Russians, the auxiliaries from Wallachia will not be permitted to join the Turkish army. But it is likely that the free corps of Pandurs will assemble in Lesser Wallachia, and these free corps may possibly muster to the strength of from 7,000 to 8,000).

To resume: the irregular troops consist of Men.

1. Kavas or Gendarmes on foot, Seymens or mounted gendarmes, and county militia or Scubechis - - -		30,000
2. Tartars of Dobrodja and Asia Minor	-	5,000
3. Hungarian and Polish volunteers	- -	2,000
4. Mooslmin volunteers - - - - -		50,000
Total of irregulars - - -		87,000

The total of the military forces of Turkey may be summed as follows:

	Regts.	Reg'd	War footing.
Infantry - - - -	36	117,360	100,000
Cavalry - - - -	24	22,416	17,280
Artillery - - - -	6	7,800	7,800
Artillery in fortresses	4	5,200	5,200
Engineers - -	2	1,600	1,500
Detached Corps { In Candia	4	8,000	8,000
Tripoli.	2	4,000	4,000
Tunis.	2	4,000	4,000
	80	170,376	148,080
Reserves - - - -			148,080
Auxiliaries - - - -			121,000
Irregulars. - - - -			87,000
Total of forces - -			506,360

These 500,000 troops would not, of course, be prepared to take the field in the first weeks of the campaign—first, because the distances are too great and the various provinces so thinly populated, all of which interferes with the immediate concentration of the contingente; and secondly, because the expense of arming and keeping all these troops would be too heavy for the Imperial treasury. It ought also, to be remembered that the numbers and services of the auxiliary contingents; are likely to be effected by a variety of circumstances and events, and that the number of 121,000 may according to circumstances, be increased or lessened one-half.

The Ottoman navy consists of two or three deckers of 130 and 150 guns; four two deckers of 74 to 90 guns; ten sailing frigates of 40 to 60 guns; six corvettes of 22 to 26 guns: 14 brigs of 12 to 20 guns; 16 cutter schooners from 4 to 14 guns; 6 steam frigates of 400 to 800 horse-power; and 12 steam corvettes and schooners, making a total of 70 armed vessels, manned by 32,000 sailors and gunners. There is also a regiment of marines (Bahrie Alei) under the command of a general of Brigade.

The staff of the navy consists of the Kapcodan Pasha, First Lord of the Admiralty and Secretary at-War; five admirals, of whom three are in active service; the Commander of the fleet, the Kapoudan or Commander of a squadron, the Port-Admiral (Liman Kassi,) three Vice Admirals (Bahri Livet,) the Vice Admiral of the fleet (Patrons,) the Director of the Dockyard (Iphkane Mudiry) the Director of the Naval Academy, seven Rear-Admirals (Bahri Alai,) three of whom command on the stations of the Danube and the Black Sea, the Archipelago and the Persian Gulf, while four belong to the Council of the Admiralty. Among the latter is the Mimar bachi, or Chief Architect.—These commanders have the same rank and pay as the generals of the army; the admirals are on a footing with the Feriks; the vice-admirals with the Mir-Alais or colonels. The commander or flag-captain of an admiral's ship too, has the rank of a colonel.

THE SPANISH REVOLUTION.

THE PROBABLE FATE OF SPAIN

From the Paris Correspondent of the London Times July 21.

If the rumors afloat in Paris, in respect to the revolution commenced in Spain, were to be believed, England and France must have cut up and divided the inheritance of Queen Isabella, in nearly the same way that the Emperor Nicholas proposed to divide the succession of the "sick" Sultan. The only difference was that while the Czar proposed to secure the spoils of the Sultan to himself England and France proposed to dispose of Spain and, perhaps some other kingdoms, in an equally effectual, but less individuous way, by conferring them upon their allies and dependants. The bargain concluded between the Emperor Napoleon and her gracious Majesty Queen Victoria, as we are solemnly assured by the Paris legitimists and fusionists, is as follows:—France is, on the one hand, to forego all advantage from the revolution in Spain, and to consent to the elevation of Don Pedro V., King of Portugal—who, as every one knows, is a Coburg, and therefore the protege of England—to the throne of Spain. Don Pedro at the same time agreeing to take to wife the daughter of Queen Isabella II, who, by-the-by, is hardly two years old. In the meantime Spain is to be placed under a regency (Lord Howden, probably, appointing the regent, if not becoming regent himself,) and the Peninsula will thus be united into one great kingdom. As this settlement of the question would evidently give an immense advantage to England—for it would make of a small Coburg a great one—England is on her side, and as in duty bound to make concessions to France. And what are they? No less than this. England will offer no obstacle to the instalment on the throne of Naples of the son of Lucien Murat, while king Bomba and the whole of the Naples Bourbons are to be sent on their travels. By this plan not only will Europe get rid of the whole of the Bourbons, Parma excepted, but Murat will recover what he himself speaks of as "the throne of his ancestors."

It will perhaps be supposed, that this famous arrangement of the map of Europe is a joke, but such is not the case. It is really believed, or, at all events, spoken of as serious one by the partisans of more than one fallen dynasty. It is industriously circulated by those who have contributed to the fall, and themselves fallen—the family of Orleans and so warped is their judgement by their misfortunes that many of them believe it.—The misfortune is, that the very things which they falsely attribute to France and England are likely enough to happen, but because the crimes and errors of the sovereigns of Spain and Naples tend every day to bring it about. The plan of uniting Spain and Portugal under one head is not the project of England, but of a large portion of the public both Spanish and Portuguese, who have long looked to that union as the means of reviving the grandeur of the Spanish monarchy.

As far as England is concerned, her interests are rather the other way. As long as Spain and Portugal are separate kingdoms, the latter will be in a great measure dependent upon our government, and remain (as it is frequently reproached with being) a mere colony of England. If Portugal were united to Spain this state of things would no longer exist, and England would be deprived of one of her most powerful means of keeping up her influence, and extending her commerce in the Peninsula. But this view of the matter does not occur to parties who are willfully blind, and they will have it that Spain and Portugal are to be united by English intrigue and in order to advance a Coburg. It is true, however, that General O'Donnel and the parties of which he is the head are favorable to the union. This party has always been most hostile to England, but that fact does not prevent people from saying that it is encouraged by England, and that General O'Donnel was concealed in the English embassy in Madrid till he was prepared to raise the standard of insurrection.

As for the French intrigue to get rid of the King of Naples, and the bargain concluded about the matter between France and England, the whole story is, of course, bosh; but certainly his majesty of Naples has recently shown his hostility to the Western Powers and his sympathy for Russia in a way that will not be forgotten to him, when he forbade the exportation of sulphur to the belligerent Powers, and found means to insult the French functionaries who visited his kingdom. If such things be done, the King of Naples must take the consequence, and the blame must not be laid upon England and France.

From the London Standard.

The report of the committee of the Upper House, presented by the Bishop of London to Convocation last week, is a most important document, and stands in no need of recommendation from us to insure it the earnest attention of every friend of the church. The Bishops—for the report may be held to embody and express their feelings—have hereby declared their desire to see the following alterations effected in Church ritual and discipline:—

1. A sub-division of the present Morning Prayer into several services.
2. The aid of laymen to be ministerially employed by the clergy.
3. The combination of several clergymen into one ecclesiastical body in our church.
4. The commissioners earnestly recommend the dignitaries of the Church shall bestow their patronage only on deserving and able men.

That there is needless repetition in our Morning prayer is certain; and it is equally certain that the present form is a combination of several distinct services. To separate what was originally and properly distinct is a mere act of common sense. And we shall rejoice to see this done, especially because we have no doubt that the Eucharist will be much more generally attended than it now is, after the Communion Service shall have been made a separate office.

Although we cannot think that a really pious man could object to the present length of the Morning Service, there can be no doubt that its length does interfere so far with the duties and necessities of the poor, that it furnishes multitudes of them with an excuse for absenting themselves from church. And it is impossible to deny that there is a certain degree of force and reason in their excuse.

Equally rejoiced are we to see that the bishops have at length recognized the value and necessity of lay agency, as subsidary to the work of the clergy.

The extraordinary blessing which has attached the labours of Scripture Readers and City of London Missionaries, ought to have awakened the bishops long ago to the duty—for it is nothing less than a duty—of employing laymen in the ministerial work of the Church. The real strength of the Church lies in the laity; and the clergy will act most wisely, and in a manner most likely to promote their Master's cause, by treating the laity with the most confiding affectionate liberality.

The present number of clergymen is totally inadequate to the spiritual wants of the people, and to refuse the aid of laymen is to condemn the church to acknowledged and helpless incapacity—to incur a certain and formidable amount of disaffection where dutiful attachment might have been secured.

3. It is most wise to combine a number of clergymen in one united sphere of action under one church.

This is the cathedral principle, and we cannot help reminding the Bishop of London that if, instead of abolishing two thirds of the Stalls in Cathedrals, he had advised the Ecclesiastical Commissioners to expand the Cathedral system, and to make our cathedral clergy extensively and importantly useful, by attaching ministerial duties to prebends and canonries, he would not now have had to recommend the re establishment of a system which his own hand has been so fatally powerful in overthrowing.

4. The bishops recommend that patronage shall always be bestowed on deserving and able men. We say amen! to this recommendation with all our hearts. The fact that ability and zeal are not sure of meeting their reward at the hands of the dispensers of church patronage, has tended more than any other cause to hinder men of commanding powers from entering the ministry, and has a most pernicious effect in keeping down the standard of intellect amongst the clergy.—We hail this generous suggestion coming from the Bishop of London; nevertheless, we are tempted to remind him that in his own diocese ability, genius, and piety, have not been so conspicuously rewarded as we should have wished to see. Are not Hartwell, Horne, and Croly at this moment aged and poor Clergymen in the City of London? And are the claims of these able and admirable men not equal, in the judgement of the Bishop, to those of his own son and son-in-law? However, we cannot sufficiently express our delight at learning that the claims of meritorious ability are to be recognised not only by the bishop, but by all capitular and collegiate bodies, so that in future the dispensers of Church patronage will not look upon their power as given them for the advantage of themselves and their families, but for the promotion of the highest, the holiest, the most sublime purposes which it is given man to fulfil.

We use this language advisedly though reluctantly. The Church has been brought into a condition of such imminent danger, that nothing but the most absolute self-denial and devotion on the part of its ministers can save it. Out of the love we bear to it, out of the bitterness of the sorrow with which its perils fills us, we implore every minister of the Church to cast aside all thought of self, and to consider the advancement of the Gospel truth as his single and all-sufficient object.

REPORTED CAPTURE OF ALAND!

SORTIE BY A RUSSIANN STEAMER.

The Turkish Army Advancing on Buchares..

NEW YORK.

It is confirmed that the expedition against the Crimea and Sebastipol has left Varna.

Nothing certain regarding Boomersund has been received, except that it is about to be bombarded and the Aland Islands taken.

A Russian steamer made a sortie from Sebastipol, destroying three Turkish merchantmen and chasing the English steamer Cyclops, which vessel had left her guns on shore to carry a larger cargo of stores.

The Turkish army are advancing cautiously on Bucharest. A Russian rear guard was about half way between Bucharest and Busco.

On the 3rd the Turkish army had not entered Bucharest.

It is said that retrogade movements are being made in Moldavia. It is reported that according to an agreement between the Porte and the Austrian Envoy, the Turks will not enter Bucharest, and that the Turkish troops shall be withdrawn from the Danube on the arrival of the Austrians.

Omar Pacha has promised that Wallachia shall not be made the theatre of military movements.

It was rumoured, but not credited, that twelve vessels of war had cannonaded the Aland Islands for seven hours and that the French were in occupation of them.

Omar Pacha has asked for provisions and lodgement for 12,000 men in Bucharest, and rations for 20,000 outside its walls.

The British steamer Fury entered Sebastipol in the night, and remained till morning. She was fired at with hot shot and shell, but suffered no damage.

The cholera in the English camp at Varna was on the decrease. Great preparations were being made for an immediate advance of the allied forces.

The Turkish army is advancing in three columns towards Bucharest.

ITALY.

Cholera is on the decrease.

SPAIN.

The barricades have been taken down in Madrid.

It was reported that an armed force had forbidden Christina to leave Madrid without the payment of a large sum of money. Some of the wealthy citizens were leaving Barcelona fearing insurrection and cholera.

ENGLAND.

The payment of £500,0000 on account of the last exchequer bonds, tended to increase the depression in momentary affairs on Tuesday.

Bombay dates were to July 1st. They speak of a disposition towards peace on the part of the Court of Ava.

The Russians had captured the fortress of Rucan.

The Dutch expedition against Borneo had been successful.

The Corvette Summatra had been destroyed by fire.

The Turkish fleet had sailed for Varna with the pontoons and all the transports.

The Archduke Constantine narrowly escaped drowning at Cronstadt, by the upsetting of a boat. Admiral Galatgin and four seamen were drowned.

THE BALTIC.

The attack on Aland had not taken place on the 1st.

The fleet was still at Ledsund

Only the first portion of the French division of troops had joined the fleets on the 1st.

THE BALTIC.

Stockholm, Aug., 3

Gen. Baraguay d'Hilliers has joined the fleet with 7,000 men. The French troops are now off Aland. The Russians have sent considerable reinforcements to Gamala Carleby. The cholera is making great havoc at St. Petersburgh, General Baraguay d'Hilliers had an interview with the King of Sweden yesterday. His Majesty declared his willingness to unite with the Western Powers on certain conditions.

The following dispatch has been received via Copenhagen, and is dated August 3rd; General Baraguay d'Hilliers demanded to sail up to the Swedish capital in his ship, which is not armed. The steamer Reine Portense accordingly entered the port of Stockholm on the 29th ultimo.

Dantzic, August 3.

The steamer Nicholas 1st has just arrived. She left the fleet on the 1st inst, at Ledsund. The first division of French troops a rived there on the 31st July. A few cases of cholera had occurred.

A telegraphic dispatch from Stockholm to Gothenburg, dated July 27, runs as follows: "The day before yesterday a strong cannonade was heard at Soderarm Lighthouse, on the side of the Aland Islands. Inquiries have been made thereon at the Grzzlehamn telegraph station—but no answer has yet arrived."

A letter from Hamburg of the 30th ult., in the Independence of Brussels, says:—Four hundred English, on the 18th, made a descent on Colinga, on the Island of Oesel, the most important of the islands in the Gulf of Finland, opposite Livonia, and after having destroyed four boats, which were all found there they retired. Since the 23rd the blockade of the ports in the Gulf has become more rigorous. It is not possible for any vessel to enter or leave. The Custom's duties levied on that coast annually constituted a very important pecuniary resource for the Russian government, but at present they amount absolutely to nothing. Revel is strictly blockaded by four English vessels. On the 23rd. part of the English crews landed at Port Baltic, and demanded that three merchant ships which were under water should be given up to them. As it was impossible to give them up immediately, they fixed another day, and threatened that if not handed over they will burn the town."

Denmark has given her complete adherence to the Austro-Prussian treaty.

EGYPT.—ALEXANDRIA, July 26.—Said Pacha has granted an amnesty. He has abolished the corn monopoly, which has hitherto belonged to Government. He has re-established free trade in cotton, and modified various taxes. The popular enthusiasm was very great.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 1st.—The Czar supported by the Grand Duke Constantine, will resist to the last, and since the fleets of the enemy have left Cronstadt, he is more determined than ever. Count Nesselrode and the Grand Duke Crown Prince do all they can to prevail on the Emperor to alter his policy.—Their efforts are in vain, and although their adherents increase daily in numbers, the old Russian party has got the preponderance.

Temptations are a file, which rub off much of our self confidence.

I could never think well of a man, s intellectual or moral character if he was habitual unfaithful to his appointments.

Reason? how many eyes hast thou to see evils, and how dim, nay, blind thou art in preventing them.

A witty lawyer once jocosely asked a boarding house keeper the following question:—

"Mr. M——, if a man gives you £500 to keep for him and he dies, what do you do? Do you pray for him?" "No sir," replied Mr. M——, "I pray for another like him."

Any one may do a casual act of good nature; but a continuation of them shows it a part of the temperement.

London Times.

LONDON, FRIDAY, AUGUST 25, 1854.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Elsewhere will be found the report of the first meeting of the shareholders of this company, held at Quebec. So important a work to the entire province, needs no apology for the space it occupies; but our remarks shall be condensed, as many have an objection to read long articles, which, we confess, the data given us in the report would enable us to manufacture. First. Attention is directed, in the report of the directors, to the amalgamation of different lines to form the Grand Trunk, some of these lines in a kind of working order. On 292 miles of rail, "the traffic has gradually increased from £1,644 3s. 9d. sterling, which it was on the week ending the 7th January last, to £3,697 1s. 9d. sterling for the last week of the half year ending the 20th." The total receipts from the half year were £73,-112 8s. 2d. sterling, the expenditure £58,182 14s. 0d. The travel between Montreal and Portland, 292 miles, has been accomplished in 11¼ hours, or at the rate of a little over 25 miles an hour; 64 engines are employed on this line. The Canadian Steam Packet Company, we observe, are very irregular, and it we may judge from letters of emigrants, a strong case of neglect of duty is sustained against the provincial government for not thoroughly investigating the charges made against those vessels, receiving as they do provincial aid; better to be without a direct sea line, than have it conducted as it is. The report next alludes, to the share department, and we are happy to see the confidence at home is so great in the undertaking; that no less than £490,885 sterling has been paid in advance of future calls. They next allude to the debentures given by the province, or more plainly, Provincial aid, which we reccommend our readers to study. They hope to open 867 miles in October 1856, or as far west as Stratford. The postponed works comprehend 245 miles, involving an outlay of about two millions. Next we come to the Engineers report, which will be found very interesting as to the progress made in the execution of the works on the Montreal and Toronto sections. First the surveys; second, the purchase of land; third, the bridges; fourth the iron works, which are completing in England, and a portion now on their way out. There appears an average of 50 men and 8 horses per mile, in active work on this portion of the line. Next observe, that out of 15,000 tons of rails required 9,452 have been received, and 4,448 tons more are on their way out. 6000 more will be forwarded in September, when the whole will have arrived. Of 300,000 ties required 208,000 have been provided. Of 150 miles of fencing, 55 are completed. 44 miles already graded. The cars &c., will be commenced next year. The iron works are progressing in England. Next he takes the Toronto and Sarnia section, and reccom mend, that the average of men per mile, on that section being 22, should be increased. He next refers to one of the most stupendous works in the province—the Victoria Bridge—to which he draw attention. 1072 men and 72 horses are employed on this work alone. The Quebec and Richmond section is next briefly alluded to; then the Quebec and Trois Pistole section. The Montreal and Portland section has so far progressed as to admit of a large reduction of the workmen employed. This portion is now, as we above remarked, working. The report adds, "nothing in railway travelling can exceed the regularity with which time is kept by every train," as also we are happy to add "the almost entire freedom from accident of any kind whatever, since the line opened." The report of Mr. J. P. Bidder of Montreal, is also very interesting and the table of statistics useful and entertaining, as also his views of western produce, when this line shall be open between Stratford and Sarnia. We must feel proud at so gigantic an undertaking progressing so rapidly, and notwithstanding the depression in the money market, their appears no difficulty in obtaining the necessary supply to complete this great work. The punctuality of time in travelling, and the absence of accidents so common, unfortunately, on this side the Atlantic, are highly gratifying; and we feel confident the report we have referred to will be read attentively and offered a proud gratification to every Canadian.

POLITICAL PARTIES.

We cannot avoid remarking the universal assumption of some class name, without a single attribute belonging to the class so assumed in this country. We need not now revert to the classification adopted by the press in rebalding the various M. P.'s in to next parliament. The meeting of parliament alone can determine the class to which they belong, and the votes taken on the different division. But assuming the general division to Conservatives and Reformers, we again claim the right further to sub-divide them, and as Conservatives, so called, are found divided upon several questions, for instance, the Clergy Reserves, Reciprocity, &c., so we maintain, the Reformers are much more divided in sentiment, but not in action, or when their services are required for their party. Many who call themselves Reformers, will argue with you that Canada owes all her present prosperity to Reformers, and not content with assuming that, they also assume the attribute of loyalty as peculiar to themselves. Now we join issue with these gentlemen, and we tell them there are Reformers of two peculiarly distinct species, besides, also, a half and half kind of half way ones, there are those, who, calling themselves Reformers, exactly correspond with the Chartists in Eng and. And, again those who deem certain changes essential in the body politics, but who qualify those changes by requiring that they should be consistent with the frame work of the British Constitution, and with British Connection. The third class Reformers, we may describe as a peculiarly flexible ductile class, who will join the strongest and will always worship the rising sun. These may be designated the cormorants, or hungry wolves of the pack, dangerous to meddle with except filled to repletion. Some of our fellow countrymen, emigrating here from Great Britain who ranked there as constitutional Reformers, but strong anti-Chartists, are bewildered here, and are often found identifying themselves with men whose real principles and feelings are the very reverse of their own, and whom perfectly to understand a little research into the past history of Canada, would not prove either useless or uninstructive.

We shall then go back to 1836, when the loyalists, or those attached to British Connection, returned a triumphant majority to the House of Assembly. What was the result? The discomfited Republicans of the former House, who, had been so ignominiously driven from the position they disgraced, and, deprived of the power they abused, frantic with rage, and withering with envy, to use the language of an able writer of that day, on account of the unusual confidence which the superior intelligence of their successors had universally inspired. Resolved to harrass and embarrass the government by every means in their power, and if possible, ultimately to induce the people to revolt; a coterie of the most abandoned and worthless characters in the province, formed themselves into a committee in Toronto—of which committee, five of its members were afterwards tried for high treason—and it also included in its members McKenzie and and Morrison, of infamous notoriety. They issued a manifesto called "The declaration of the Reformers of the City of Toronto, to their fellow Reformers in Upper Canada." A more treasonable document scarcely ever issued from the press. After starting with a few abstract dogmas about human rights, in the fashion of American independence, they stated that, "the revolution of the United States, had been rewarded with a consecutive prosperity unexampled in the history of the world, and that the loyal valor of the United States; loyalty in Canada alone remained, amidst the blight of mis-government, to tell them what they might have been, as the not not less valient sons of American Independence. A painful experience had proved how impracticable it was for a succession of strangers beneficially to direct and conduct the affairs of a people 4000 miles off, and being an impracticable system felt to be intolerable, by those for whose good it was professedly intended, it ought to be abolished, under this mockery of human government, they had been insulted, injured, and reduced to the brink of human ruin." After much declamatory insolence, protesting against the interference of the Sovereign in preventing Americans from Naturalization and settlement in Canada, to any extent they pleased, they concluded by expressing their determination to organize themselves into a committee of obstruction, and to form local committees through all parts of the Province, armed with suitable powers as a congress to seek an effectual remedy for the grievances of the colonies." They went on step by step, increasing in assurance, audacity, and violence, as they proceeded; until at length, emboldened by the absence of any military power in the province, by a rebellion in the Lower province, and a Texian spirit in the States, they attempted by force of arms to subvert the authority of Great Britain. When we reflect upon the course generally adopted by our neighbors of getting possession of territory, "by fair means when they could, if not by foul," we cannot be surprised at the necessary precaution taken to guard against Americans settling in Canada. We see their anxiety for territory, and we almost daily see that if the people of a new territory are not inclined to form an item in the Great Republic, they will settle there and immediately commence disturbance and opposition to the existing state of things, in order to bring about that acquisition of territory, for which they are so celebrated. The future justified the proper steps then taken by the government and the loyalists. There have been, and there are still in the Province restless and intriguing persons, who, with an industry worthy of a better cause, labor most assiduously to poison all the fountains of contentment, and to create a belief, that the most intolerable evils, although unfelt, were prevailing and would very speedily fall on the people. They use the most unwarranted pains and resort to the most dishonest courses, to impress upon the minds of the people a desire for some new and untried scheme of government, which will be supposed to remove even every remote cause of complaint, and settle every cause of dissatisfaction. These persons call themselves Reformers, and their endeavors are always directed to promote discontent and dissaffection, and by that course obtain a certain popularity which neither their personal character or station could ever otherwise enable them to. Many there are now, in this province who understand these matters better than we do, and who could exclaim with Æneas "et quorum pars magna fui." But each year imports new settlers, and they are ignorant of what preceded their coming. We shal therefore in our next bring before them the meeting of Reformers on the 31st of July 1857 in Toronto.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

We return thanks to the late Postmaster General for the last report, which, though very interesting, is well condensed by the Quebec Colonist.

The Report of the Postmaster General for the postal year ending the 31st March, 1853, has just been published. It contains a variety of matter of a very interesting kind, of which we present a brief digest:—

During the year 176 new Post Offices were established; 604 miles of new post route were opened; and the augmentation in the annual mail transportation was 499,191 miles.

In 1851, the number of offices in operation was 601; in 1852, 814; and in 1853, 1015. The number of miles of annual transportation was, last year, 3,430,151. The number of letters which passed through the Post Office, in one week of 1853, was 1,251,750 of newspapers 1,165,500. The postal revenue of the year was £84,805 6s. 11d; while the disbursements for postal service in the Province were only £76,630 17s. 6d. In addition to this, however, there was the sum of £14,-348 19s. 4d. due to England for British Packet Postage; so that the total expenditure of the year was £90,979 17s. 2d., leaving a deficit of only £5,169 9s. 2d.

The actual deficit in the first year's operations of the department, under Provincial control, was £32,519,—a sum which was considerably more than covered by £15,00 the amount of the first appropriation in aid of the postal revenue. The second appropriation was only £5,00; so that with the balance of the first sum there has been sufficient to cover the entire expenditure of the postal year ending March, 1854.

The Postmaster General is confident that the Financial Report of 1854 will show a nearly balanced condition of Revenue and disbursement, if not a surplus; so that no appropriation will be needed in future to sustain the operation of the Department.

The correspondence between the Province and Great Britain, produced in 1842, a revenue of £13,916; in 1852, it produced £14,348.

During the year, postage stamps to the amount of £2,104 17s. 6d. were issued for the department and there were remaining on hand, on the first of March 1853, stamps to the value of £4,863 7s. 6d.

The expenditure for Mail service was $48,-555 3s. 3d; being at the rate of 3d. or 5 cts. per mile; while in the United States, it averages upwards of 7 cts. per mile. The sum expended for salaries was £28,823, or about 30 per cent of the revenue; while in the United States, the charge for this part of the service amounts to 42 per cent.

The amount collected on United States letters in Canada, during the year, was $54,311; the amount collected in the United States was $40,655.

The Provincial Dead Letters numbered 54,102; English, 7360; United States, 21,232; altogether 82,694 dead letters: besides 26,677 received from Washington as unclaimed.

MISREPRESENTATION.

It is lamentable, so often to observe the ignorance displayed of Old Country proceedings, and in this instance the Montreal Pilot—the government organ—contains the following from its London Correspondent:—

"The case of Mr. Justice Carden, who was tried for an attempted abduction of the person of Miss Arbuthnot, has been brought to a close, the delinquent being sentenced to an imprisonment of two years. The prisoner seems to have met with much sympathy from the ladies of the sister isle, who look upon so unmanly an attempt as an officacequite venial and would willingly forgive him the offence. It is scarcely necessary to add, that the punishment is not commensurate with the crime, and that from the evidence adduced on the trial, everything tended to prove the Justice a perfect scoundrel."

There is no such person as Mr. Justice Carden, Mr. Carden was a county magistrate only. Where none but men of high character, and high legal attainment, are selected for seats on the bench of the supreme courts, no apprehension need be entertained of such disgraceful conduct being practised by any of its occupants. In the states where the Judges are elected no doubt the commission of such an offence might prove an additional claim on the Electors.

MIRROR OF THE CHAGRES &c.—We are requested to state that this very beautiful and instructive entertainment will be opened next week in the Royal Exchange Hall. The above is in connection with Professor Nithenberg, whose lectures are said to be very amusing. The Toronto, Hamilton and Brantford papers, speak in high terms of the whole entertainment.

FIRE.

We regret to announce that the extensive mill of Messrs. Shaw and Reynert (in Westminster adjoining this Town) were distroyed by fire on Wednesday last, the 23rd. The fire broke out about a quarter past 12 o'clock noon, when the workmen were at dinner. No cause is assigned; but the supposition is that the fire commenced with some shavings in front of the furnace, which speedily igniting, extended to the shingle roof of the building and engine house, all was speedily reduced to ashes, save the Engine and boilers, which were considerably damaged. These premises, consisting of a grist mill, saw mill, planeing mill, turning lathes, &c. were only partially insured not, not covering half the loss. The proprietors had leased these premises to several parties some months before, and we sincerely sympatize with them. One man, we understand, was severely burnt.

THE LONDON STATION.

Rumor has it that Mr. Dunn of Ingersoll has obtained the contract for supplying the refreshment Room, at the London station of the Great Western Rilway. We are not aware of any tenders being published for obtaining contracts. Mr. Bridges, the Managing Director, besides, is in England and the Late Mr. Smith who so satisfactorily carried it on, incurred very heavy expenses in furnishing and fitting it up, and we consider it would be but an act of justice to permit his Executors for the sale of 5 orphan children to receive the management, which we understand now gives satisfaction.

CAUTION.—Spurious notes of the Commercial Bank in this town are now in circulation. A one dollar bills altered to ten, the two pounds ten inserted in the centre, instead of five shillings, is clumsily done. The genuine two dollar bills, also, have different devices, and a little care will enable the imposition to be easily detected.

TO OUR READERS.—Owing to the Compositors having mislaid the matter intende for the first side, they very improperly substituted miscellaneous matter, for which we have to apologize, the mistake being discovered too late to be rectified.

ENGLISH CHURCH.

We direct attention to the London Standard for particulars of changes recommended by convocation; to be made in the Church of England. We also are gratified to observe that a very important meeting of the Laity, has been held with reference to the abuses hitherto prevailing in the Churches of St. Pauls Knight's-bridge, and St. Barnabas Pimlico, and give an extract;—

The chairman said they met to check the progress of the most awful error which could prevail in any church, that of exalting man and making little of Christ. The outward practices and buffoonries that were made use of were sensual and were calculated to lead men away from their religion; but the erroneous doctrines that were taught were infinitely more dangerous—(hear.) He maintained that Christians could not be too careful to encourage simplicity in worship, and that they should therefore get rid of those dangerous additions which the Tractarian party had forced upon them in that parish and elsewhere, where they had obtained power.

A Voice—"Where is the Bishop of London?" (Laughter and cheers).

The Chairman reminded the meeting that it was not by noise and speaking evil of dignities the Protestants would secure their ends. Disturbance and division would only give the enemy success by surprise.

The Hon Colonel Smith Vereker moved the first resolution which was as follows:—

"That this meeting views with deep regret and apprehension the innovations and superstitious practices introduced of late years into the mode of worship in many of our parish churches, and calls upon all sincere Protestants to do all in their power to suppress them."

Mr. Dudley Ryder in seconding the resolution, said he was a most determined anti-Puseyite, and had taken a very decided course against the Pope when some time ago he endeavored to force his faith upon the nation. He was ashamed of the Bishops of this country.

A Voice—Three groans for the Bishops."

He looked upon the Protestantism of this country as a great "concern," and if the bishops, who were their directors, neglected their duty, and damaged the establishment, he would advise Protestants to do what dissatisfied share holders at railway meetings did, call the directors to account, and if necessary, supersede them. The plague-spot of Puseyism was visible in every part of the country, and it was necessary that the Bishops and clergy should be taught what they had to expect if they encouraged any longer.

Mr. Nicolay of Oxford street, a deputation from the parish of St. Marylebone, supported the resolution which was carried after some further discussion.

Mr. James Beale moved the next resolution, which was as follows:—

"That the Church of St. Paul, Knightsbridge, and the other Churches, built by the Society, have rendered most conspicuous by their excess and dangerous practices; and this meeting feels that it is therefore their duty to support the then churchwarden (Mr. Westerton) in his efforts to secure the simplicity and purity of Protestant worship in those Churches."

Mr. Berry seconded the resolution, which was carried nem. dis.

To the Editor of the London Times.

SIR,—In your issue of the 25th ult., I observe an article under the head of "Commissariat Department," which, as it reflects unduly on that department, requires immediate refutation. You there state "that at most several half pay officers and pensioners, came from remote country parts, to receive their half pay or pensions and there was no Commissariat officer here to pay them." Now, in the first place, before making so sweeping a charge against this department, you ought to have been aware, that the pensioners and half pay officers are not paid by the Commissariat officers but by Major Graham, staff officer of the pensioners, and as this gentleman resides in London, where his duty lies, I think there could have been no dissappointment, as regards them, in drawing their half yearly pay.

As a British officer, I have been paid by the department, since its establishment in London; but since it was done away with there, the custom invariably was, to notify the officers by advertisement, enclosed to each, stating the day on which the officers of the department would attend in London. For the past quarter, however this rule has been departed from. The Officers papers were transmitted from the department, with the request to return them receipted, and a draft would be forwarded to each for the amount of his pay. If, therefore, men choose to travel to London, and incur the expense of remaining in town, on a mere wild goose chase, why blame the Commissariat department. It is unjust, it is unfair, and I hope you will give this an insertion in your columns, to show in reality who the parties are most worthy of censure.

I have the honor to be, Sir,

ROBERT PEGLEY,
AN OFFICER.

Adelaide, August 17th, 1854.

We willingly insert the letter of our Adelaide correspondent. Several half pay officers were here waiting for their pay, at the time we inserted the remarks now censured. This letter presents the matter in a new light, and we must leave the discrepancy to be accounted for by the complainant. Our columns shall always be open to any portion of the public who consider themselves aggrieved, but if, in doing so, we shall be guilty of injustice to a public body, we shall always willingly afford them the means of defence.—Ed.

Provincial.

A Change.

The Quebec Gazette says:—In the last number of the True Witness, the Honorable Inspector General is handled in a most unmerciful manner. Mr Hincks' ambitious dreams are doomed to dispersion, without benefit of Clergy. Hear what the infallible anomaly says:—

"Mr. Hincks may be a wealthy, and a very smart man, in his own estimation, as holding a government situation, he is we dare say a most important personage; but we beg leave to assure him—that neither his wealth, nor his office, entitle him to be impertinent—and that, when he accuses our Catholic Clergy, of combatting, or of encouraging others in caballing, with Mr. G. Brown—and sneers at Catholics, "most under the influence of their Clergy" as "illiterate"—he shows himself as regardless of truth, as he is deficient in common courtesy, and all gentlemanly feeling.

"And yet we should feel grateful to Mr. Hincks for having at last thrown off the mask beneath which he has for some time contrived to conceal his real features; we should be thankful to him for having so declared himself as to render it impossible for any honest Catholic to trust him again. His sneers at us not; his mendacious assertions for perfectly harmless from his lips. He knows and every one knows, that the Catholic Clergy, and the laity who are [illegible] under their influence, are the very last men to [illegible] intrigue with Mr. Brown. Not that there would, after all, be anything so very atrocious in such intrigues. Mr. Brown is, to say the least, as good a man, as liberal a man, and as favorably disposed towards Catholics, as Mr. Hincks. The difference betwixt them in deed is all in the former's favor—for certainly no one can accuse Mr. Brown of being a hypocrite; and we must confess that we prefer an out-spoken unscrupulous foe, to a treacherous friend. Indeed of the TWO, Mr. BROWN, WITH ALL HIS FAULTS, WOULD BE A LESS DISREPUTABLE COLLEAGUE FOR CATHOLICS THAN MR. HINCKS.

"Nor need our Bishops, our Clergy, nor the laity "most under the influence of the clergy" take it to heart if they be held to favor in the eyes of Mr. Hincks. [illegible] ing [illegible] Canadian [illegible] course, and decide [illegible] of [illegible] Mr. Hincks. Honest Conservatives [illegible] expect to find fav

Having thus enumerated the amount of forces employed in prosecuting the works of the section now proceeding with, I shall briefly state the amount of work already accomplished, which I shall describe by commencing with the rails.

Of 15,000 tons of rails required there have been received 9,422 tons, and 4,448 tons in addition have been shipped and may shortly be expected. There are also, 6,000 tons more provided which await the departure of the September fleet from England when the whole will have been sent off.

Of 309,000 Ties required, there are 208,000 provided.

Of 150 miles of fencing, there are 55 miles completed, and the whole of the remainder provided.

44 miles are already graded and the remainder are being proceded with in full force.

The Culvert and Bridge Masonry are advancing in due proportion at every point where needed most, and every instance will, I believe keep pace with the other works.

It is intended to get the foundations for the station buildings at Montreal, throughout this season. These extend to an aggregate length of 3090 feet, in sundry buildings varying from 40 to 90 feet in width,some of which are two stories in height and consist principally of passenger stations, goods warehouses, locomotive erecting shops, smiths and foundry shops.

It is proposed to complete the car and smith's shops this season, so as to admit of commencing the construction of the car building stock, which is to be built upon the premises. The remaining buildings of the establishment being so far prepared this autumn, will be readily advanced to completion next year.

The locomotive power is being prepared in England, at the Canada Works Birkenhead, where the bridge iron work has also commenced, and upon those 650 artizans are now employed.

Another no less gratifying proof of the efficient performance of the service of the company, is to be found in the almost entire freedom from accident of any kind whatever. Excepting one instance, when the imperfect wheel of a goods waggon suddenly broke and damaged four other waggons with their contents, there is nothing to record worth mentioning since the company commenced working the line, and I sincerely trust that we shall continue to enjoy that immunity from casualities, which it has been our good fortune to experience.

I find on referring to our accounts, that in twelve months, ending on the 1st instant, the sum of £275,000 has been expended. One third of this amount has been spent upon the road land and stations; one third upon the supply of additional locomotive stock, and the remainder in payment of old contracts and outstanding liabilities in the aggregate amounting to nearly £950 per mile and yet we are not done.

The increasing traffic creates a constant demand for additional accommodation in stations now in use, and for new sidings, which the new mill and establishments upon the line amply justify; this will render necessary a further supply of rails &c.

Although a great deal has been effected in securing the extended accommodation at the fort and terminus the most important feature in the whole project, there still remains much to be accomplished which is now in active operation. Hence expenditure upon a large scale is going on, to stop, which would be virtually to close the door upon the trade. I would estimate the work still to be done on the line, and the stations between Montreal and Portland, and the necessary increase at the Port and Terminus to be about £150,000 stg. This would make the total cost of the line somewhat under nine thousand per mile.

I have the honor to be, Gentlemen,

Your most obdt servant,

(Signed) ALEX. M. ROSS

Engineer.

TORONTO AND SARNIA SECTION.

On the Western station, beyond Toronto, it will be in the recollection of the Board that all works west of St. Mary's 69 miles from Sarnia have been in abeyance, beyond this point nothing has been done, excepting the completion of surveys, and the securing the right of way.

The works of construction between Toronto and St. Mary's, 98 miles have made considerable progress, and at present the contractors operations are confined to the district extending from Toronto to Stratford 80 miles.

I find in the returns furnished to me by Mr Walter Shanley, my resident assistant in that district, that there are one thousand nine hundred and thirty men upon the work, this gives an average of about twenty-two to the mile, and considering the amount of earthwork yet to do on this section, I deem an increase of the forces advisable in that district advisable.

The masonry is as forward as can be desired and in every way satisfactory. The supply of crossties fencing and rails, as yet only reach 35 per cent, of the required amount.

VICTORIA BRIDGE.

I shall now refer to the Victoria Bridge which is to form the connecting link between the Western and Eastern Divisions of this system of Railway comprised in the Grand Trunk scheme; and with reference to it is important work, I have to state in addition to the North abutment dam, the dams of Nos. 1 and 2 piers are fixed in their places and No 1 dam was pumped out on Friday 14th inst in one hour and a half, thus fully testifying its efficiency, proving it to be as tight as a tub.

The machinery and other appliances necessary are now fixed and the masonry is being pushed with dam No 2, as well as the abutment dam, are being supplied with clay, puddle, necessary for their completion, and they will shortly be in the same state of forwardness as dam No 1, already referred to. Dams 3 and 4 are also constructed and they will be floated into their places as soon as practicable.

Wharves have been constructed on the St. Lawrence in the vicinity of the quarries, and railways are laid down to facilitate the shipment of the stone.

The contractors have also provided two very powerful steamboats, with a fleet of barges built for the purpose, which are designed to carry the stone to the site of the bridge The same new in active operation, and permanent progress will very rapidly begin to appear, which with the forces employed will soon be of importance.

At present, as shown by the appendix A. there are one thousand and seventy-two men and seventy two horses employed upon this work.

In relation for the construction of the iron work are proceeding at the Canada Works, Birkenhead, and a full commensurate with the magnitude of the undertaking under the direction and Superintendence of Mr. Stephenson, and in the course of next year we contemplate the erection of a considerable portion of this part of the work.

THE QUEBEC AND RICHMOND RAILWAY.

Comes next in order and with reference to it I have merely to state that every exertion is being made to lay and finish the superstructure of the permanent way, so as to be able to open to the traffic early in September.

The extension from Hadlow's Cove to Pilbeil's Wharf is progressing with vigor, and would be much further advanced now only that the Quebec Railway Company have not yet completed their portion of the Bridging on Scott and Leaving Wharf being ready, will, finally, contribute greatly, would also have expedited a similar state of forwardness on the Quebec side, if the authorities with whom we have to deal, for the project, had met our applications with promptitude.

QUEBEC AND TROIS PISTOLES.

I have now to refer to the Trois Pistoles section, which has finally been located from the point of departure from the Quebec and Richmond Railway to the River du Loup, 114 miles. Plans are in course of preparation to enable us to advertise for tenders for the earthworks, bridges and culverts, in the course of the present month.

The right of way has been secured for 90 miles.

The construction of the first 40 miles from the point of junction on the Quebec and Richmond Railway to St. Thomas was commenced early in the spring and by this time fully one-half of the grading of its length is completed.

The masonry for the large bridges is progressing and the iron work for those bridges is finished in England, and we are advised will be sent off as soon as its shipment can be effected.

The whole of the ties are provided and in course of delivery, also the whole of the fencing which is now being executed.

The rails, about 4000 tons have been provided us, although only 1000 tons have yet reached us.—The remainder will be forwarded as speedily as ship can be found for their transportation.

One thousand one hundred and forty two men and eighty four horses are now employed upon this section; and with the exception of two large bridges the whole of the grading will be completed this season.

MONTREAL AND PORTLAND.

The works of completion on this section were so far perfected as to admit of a large reduction of the forces employed.

Those still engaged are chiefly employed in relaying portions of the line at either end where cross bearers are being substituted for the objectionable mode adopted; the disadvantages of which were sufficiently apparent at so early a stage in the construction of the line so as to occasion its abandonment when not more than 20 per cent of the whole had been completed. In the course of the summer much of this inferior part of the line will be relaid and such work as will remain to be done in draining, &c., which the experience of last winter demonstrated to be so necessary will be carried out.

The line is now in good and fair running order throughout, and nothing in railway travelling can exceed the regularity with which time is kept by every train.

The Engineer's Report will inform you that the Quebec and Richmond road will be opened for traffic the first week in September.

On referring to some statistics relating to to Canada between Montreal and Toronto, I find that leaving out these cities as well as Kingston, the following districts, in which we shall have stations, contain the subjoined population.

The figures in themselves, would be sufficient to warrant my saying that this division of the line could not fail to be profitably worked; and in addition, the constant and increasing through travel between Montreal and Toronto, both passengers and merchandize, apart from all the local traffic, would almost in itself prove remunerative to the Shareholders. I must likewise be remembered that for many miles back, for the whole length of the line, the country is populated with the most rising and energetic classes of persons that can possibly be located in the neighborhood of a railroad, and that all from different points the traffic of the interior is brought to the line by railways now open and in course of construction.

Although I shall not more than allude to the Sarnia division, I am not unmindful that this and the districts beyond are the points from which we must receive an amount of traffic the magnitude of which we can form no conception of.

Whether as an amalgamated Company, with our neighbour the Great Western, or acting as an independent Company, I am convinced that a large amount of the breadstuffs of Michigan, Iowa, Wisconsin, and a portion of Illinois which now find their way to the sea-board by water and by the United States lines of roads, must pass over the Grand Trunk, not only on account of its being the cheapest and most direct route, but also because of the less number of handlings goods would have, and consequent extra rapidity with which they would be conveyed.

In fine, I may add, that the more I see and hear of the resources of this country the more assured I become of the absolute necessity of the Grand Trunk line of Railway, and in proving its necessity I cannot but prove also its pecuniary profit to the shareholders. Although on my first arrival in Canada, I had my doubts as to the earnings being as large as estimated in the prospectus, I have now much satisfaction in hearing the testimony to the reliability of the amount therein stated being realized, and that, too, within two or three years from the date at which a through communication shall have been established between Sarnia, or some other point in that district, with Portland and Quebec.

I am, Gentlemen, your most obdt. serv't.

(Signed.) S. P. BIDDER.

Montreal, July 24th, 1854.

The Chairman having called the attention of the meeting to the chief features in these reports.

The Honorable George Pemberton moved the adoption and confirmation of the Report of the Directors and of the accounts submitted with them.

Mr. J. B. Forsyth seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously.

The Chairman said that under the Company's Act, it was necessary for the shareholders to decide at this meeting the time at which the future meetings should take place annually, on the 1st Wednesday in September, and that at the meeting to be held in Sept., 1855 one third of the members of the Canadian Board should retire, one third in 1856 and the remaining third in 1857—the retiring Directors to be eligible for re election.

Mr. Henry LeMesurier, of Quebec, was elected a Director in the room of Captain Rhodes, resigned, and Mr William Molson Mr. William Workman, and Mr. Alfred Larocque, were appointed Auditors to the Company.

A resolution empowering the Directors to forfeit certain Shares of the late Quebec and Richmond Company in arrear, having been passed, the proceedings terminated with a vote of thanks to the President, which was proposed by Mr. Michael Scott of Quebec, and carried by acclamation.

The meeting then adjourned.

The Niagara Hosiery Factory.

There is no Canadian who understands the wants and capabilities of the country, but is aware of the advantages it offers as a wide field for domestic manufactures The raw material for many sorts of goods, especially woollens, exists here in abundance; while the market is ever extensive with the limits of the Province. In many articles of woollen manufacture such as domestic cloths, satinetts, blankets, flannels and the like, our country has already attained a very respectable reputation, both at home and abroad; while in other fabrics, such as hosiery and the various sorts of wares, the produce of the knitting loom, we have hitherto done nothing whatever. Yet as far as we can learn, this branch of the wool en trade, is one of the best and most profitable going, and cannot fail to prove a good business in Canada, where advantages exist for carrying it on, such as, if rightly made use of, would render us independent altogether of foreign importations, in this branch of trade.

We produce the raw material, wool, in great abundance. At present it is exported, subject to a duty of some 30 per cent in the United States, where it is manufactured; and then returned to us, subject again to a Provincial duty of 12½ per cent. Now it is as obvious as daylight, that apart from the regular profits of the manufacture—the amount of duty alone, to be saved, would make a very respectable profit to manufacturers in the Province. But when we take into consideration, that the cost of living, taxes and every other necessary item of expenditure, is lower with us than in the United States—that the heavy items of transportation charges, would be materialy reduced by fabricating the goods among the consumers, and that the further profit to be made by retaining at home the large sums annually sent out of the country to purchase these goods, we readily form a general opinion decidedly in favor of the advantages and profits to be derived from the establishment of a branch of manufactures that promises such good returns. From generals, if we descend to details, we are still more confirmed in our favorable opinion; and as we are not wholly without some data we mean to mention; few facts connected with this particular branch of business.

A beginning, and a very earnest beginning we are happy to say, has been made in Niagara to naturalize the hosiery manufacture among us. The Factory projected some time ago in Niagara by Mr Lee, has got into operation, although not yet completed—and as the only one of the kind in Canada, is worthy of a little attention.

It is known that many great improvements have been made of late years in knitting looms, but which, being all patented, have not got into general use. As far as we can understand, the new patent looms offer advantages of from 50 to 100 per cent over the old frames, and consequently give decided advantages over competitors not privileged to use them. The Hosiery factory of Mr. Lee, contains some of these new looms, which work admirably, both with plain and ribbed work. The new establishment contains some eight looms, all worked by steam power, and when in full operation, with their respective carding, spinning, and sewing machines, &c, are calculated we are informed, to give employment to about 40 girls, besides a number of men and boys—and can manufacture about 14 dozen of general hosiery goods per day—averaging in value some £10 per dozen wholesale price.

This work can be done with the machinery already set up—but the Factory is capable of doing ten times that amount with the addition of more machines, which occupy but little space. Mr. Lee has persevered under many discouragements; but we are truly glad to see that he has at length got under weigh, and that we can boast of the commencement of a new branch of industry amongst us.

It has been well and wisely said, that the man who makes two blades of grass grow where but one grew before, is a public benefactor; the same may surely be said of him who opens up a new source of trade, and offers new and profitable employment to honest industry. Establishments like the one in question are greatly to be desired; because they afford light and profitable work to a large class of industrious females, who otherwise know hardly how to dispose of themselves. Mr. Lee has procured some respectable and experienced young women from American Hosiery Factories, and by their training he hopes to initiate a good number of our industrious girls into the mysteries of knitting frames and good wages to the great benefit of all parties.

The samples of goods produced by Mr Lee have been pronounced by good judges to be first rate, and we are informed they can be manufactured and sold at prices that defy competition from importations whether British or American. There is no doubt that the Factory will turn out a good investment.—We look with much interest upon this commencement, and we need not say sincerely wish it abundant success.—Niagara Mail.

Mr. Kordes would just say a few words regarding the Pianos of Chickering, Stodart & Dunham, in the first place, they are warranted to keep good and sound in all their parts, for any number of years, provided they receive good treatment

In the second place, any person having such a thing as what is called an ear for music, will, without looking at the makers name, be able to detect the difference between a Stodart, a Dunham or a Chickering, to a Piano from any other maker, without exception; the woody, wiry, harsh kind of sound, so predominant in other instruments, is changed into a mellow, sweet, full and brilliant tone in the Pianos of the above three makers.

As regards keeping in tune: these Pianos require a good tuner 3 times in 12 months and decent treatment, they never require more than this, may, however, sometimes require less. Care and attention is all they need.

LONDON, C. W.

The great popularity which Moffat's Life Pills and Phœnix Bitters have attained, in consequence of the extraordinary cures effected by their use, renders it unnecessary for the proprietor to enter into a portion of analysis of their medicinal virtues or properties. Having been more than twenty years before the public and having the united testimony of more than Three Millions of persons who have been restored to the enjoyment of perfect health by them to believed that their reputation as the best vegetable medicine now before the public admits of no dispute. In almost every city and village in the United States there are many who are ready to testify to their efficacy in removing disease, and giving to the whole system renewed vigor and health.
In cases of Scrofula, Ulcers, Scurvy or Eruptions of the skin the operation of the Life Medicines is truly astonishing often removing in a few days every vestige of those loathsome diseases by their purifying effects on the blood. Fever and Ague, Dyspepsia, Dropsy, Piles, and in short most all diseases, soon yield to their curative properties. No family should be without them as by their timely use much suffering and expense may be saved

DEAR SIR.—A sense of duty impels me to forward to you the following certificate:
For the last eight years, I have been troubled with a Fistula of Tumor, close to the rectum.—I had consulted Physicians all of whom told me there was no cure, except by the knife, and they would have charged me a high price.
I was about to employ one, when you visited this place and gave me a bottle of your KING OF OILS, with instructions how to use it. I followed your directions implicitly, and in three weeks was entirely cured. It is now five months since the cure, and I believe it to be a permanent cure.

MESSRS. RENFORD & Co.
Gentlemen—I have received the Sample bottle of your "Compound Camomile Cordial," and consider it a beautiful as well as a highly palatable preparation. The aromatic fragrance and peculiar bitter flavor, in which lies the essential Medicinal qualities appear to be largely infused and well preserved, and as this vegetable tonic is highly beneficial in those forms of Dyspepsia depending on debility or want of tone in the digestive organs, (the form most frequently met with on the continent) your cordial will, I doubt not, form an unestimable addition to our Pharmacopeia.
From the knowledge possessed by me of Mr. Renford, and his very high reputation as a Pharmaceutical Chemist I feel much pleasure in confidently recommending his Preparation of that valuable tonic, to my professional brethren, and to the public, as a delightful and invigorating cordial.

Poetry.

To Brother Jonathan.

BY MARTIN F TOPPER.

Ho! Brother, I'm a Britisher,
A chip of heart of oak-
That wouldn't warp, or swerve, or stir,
From what I thought or spoke,—
And you—a blunt and honest man,
Straightforward, kind and true,
I tell you, Brother Jonathan,
That you're a Briton too.

I know your heart, an open heart,
I read your mind and will,
A greyhound ever on the start
To run for honor still;
And shrewd to scheme a likely plan,
And stout to see it done,
I tell you Brother Jonathan,
That you and I are one.

"God save Queen," delights you still,
And "British Grenadiers,"
The good old strings your heartstrings thrill
And catch you by both ears;
And we,—oh, hate us if you can,
For we are proud of you,
We like you Brother Jonathan,
And "Yankee Doodle" too.

There's nothing foreign in your face,
Or strange upon your tongue,
You come not of another race,
Of baser lineage sprung;
No, brother though away you ran
As truant boys will do,
Still true it is young Jonathan,
My fathers fathered you.

Well, well: and ever- praise of old,
That makes you famous still,
You would be just and may be bold
To share it if you will.—
Since England's glory first began,
Till just the other day,
The half is yours; but, Jonathan,
Why did you run away?

Oh, Brother, could we both be one,
In nation and in name,
How gladly would the very sun
Lie basking in our fame!
In either world to lead the van,
And go a-head for good.
While earth to John and Jonathan;
Yields tribute gratitude!

Add but your stripes and go'den stars,
To brave St. George's Cross,
And never dream of mutual wars,
Two dunces' mutual loss,
Let us two bless when others ban,
And love when others hate,
And so my cordial Jonathan,
We'll fit, I kalkelate.

What more! I touch not holier strings
A loftier strain to win;
Nor glance at prophets priests or kings,
Or kith or heavenly kin.
As friend with friend, and man with man,
O, let our hearts be thus,
As David's love to Jonathan,
Be Jonathan's to us!

Foreign Intelligence.

The Know-Nothings in the States.

This movement is unquestionably extending among native Americans, and as it will probably re act until the foreign population of the States and drive a large portion of those who would settle in the States to other countries, and especially to the Provinces, it becomes desirable to watch the movement, and to study its character and results.

The Know-Nothing movement was established at the last election, when the influence and interference of foreignors was strongly felt at the polls.

The religious element has been more recently imp ted into it; as any element or consideration would be the could influence the vote. The natiyists desire to restrict the new power in the use of the elective franchise No doubt abuses have occurred. We know of cases at the Elections in the States, in which citizens who had not passed through the forms required by the Constitution, were allowed to vote on the strength of an affidavit by A, that he had heard B declare, more than two years previous his intention of becoming a citizen.

These hearsay affidavits to a parole declaration of intention to naturalise, have been made fruitful sources of perjury and iniquity, and this impromptu method of naturalising foreignors for election purposes has greatly interfered with purity of election. We have no doubt, however, that the Irish and German people, woo are chiefly aimed at in the Know Nothing movement, would readily agree to petition Congress to prohibit all naturalising by party committees, or upon any other impulse than the unprompted desire of the applicant for citizenship. The older residents among the foreign population, know full well that the more recent arrivals are merely by the managers of elections for party purposes, and that they have comparatively little interest or knowledge of the questions upon which they are induced to vote. The new election laws have done something to guard against the abuse of the naturalization laws by exacting residence before conceding the rights of citizen-hip, but what our voters want is a registration of voters such as we have in England by which it may be known beforehand, that A. and B. are entitled to vote at a certain poll, and none others so that those who attempt to vote without the qualification, may be turned away from the poll, and punished for the attempts to assume rights to which they are not legally entitled.

All citizens should be equally and fully eligible for the excercise of the elective franchise; but the Constitution of the United States exacts that a man shall be resident five years after he has recorded by affidavit his intention to naturalise, and has renounced the allegiance under which he was born.

This provision, if rigidly enforced, as it ought to be, should be sufficient; but the Know Nothings, in attempting a crusade against all foreign influence forget that they are themselves the descendants of foreigners not many generations removed, and that it is to the influx of foreigners America owes her progress and prosperity, and to the mixiure of different races, and the infusion of new blood from various parts of the world, that she is indebted for the superior intelligence of her own population.

America owes a heavy debt of gratitude to Europe for the labor, intelligence and skill which have turned so much of the wilderness of the west, into the garden and the corn field which has raised her factories at Lowell and Manchester, and has taught machine making and mining at Pittsburg and Pottsville. If the Know-Nothing does not know this he knows nothing of the industrial history of his own country.

The spinning jenny and the steam engine were not invented by Know-Nothings, nor are they worked to the profit and advancement of the country exclusively by Know Nothings. It must be admitted that the natives of the Eastern states have shewn a marvellous aptitude in the improvement and employment of machinery.

They have wisely profited by the advantage of education and intelligence, and are reaping the rich fruit of the tree of knowledge which they have so freely planted and so well nurtured.

But the farmer who raises produce in the West is not generally a Know-Nothing, nor are the hands who till the soil nativists. It is a monstrous assumption for the Know-Nothings of New York, Pennsylvania, and New England, to attempt a crusade against the three and a half millions of foreignors who have arrived during the last five years, and who have not had time to qualify themselves for citizenship, according to the Constitution of the United States, or the three quarters of a million of foreignors who annually arrive in the ports of the United States. Know-Nothingism will assuredly re-act very prejudicially on the general interests of the country, if this be the principle on which it is founded, as we are led to believe.

The Germans, as well as the Irish have taken the alarm. Some wealthy Germans of Pennsylvannia have started a fund, which already amounts to many thousand dollars, the object being to notify the northern nations of this narrow and unworthy policy, and to divert emigration from the United States to the British Provinces, where no such unworthy jealousies or obstructions exist. We give our cousins over the line warning of this in time. If they neglect it, the stream of emigration from the north of Europe will be diverted hither.

We publish below a condensed statement of the form of initiation used by the Know-Nothings. It has all the mystery and fanaticism of the Italian Illuminati Societies without the redeeming point that they strike at tyranny and oppression, even though it be with the stiletto of the assassin; whereas the Know Nothing desecrates the memory of his emigrant forefather, in striking a secret blow at his emigrant follower.

INITIATION O

LONDON, CANADA WEST, TIMES AND GENERAL ADVERTISER

The Invasion of the Crimea.

It now appears that the expedition which left Varna on the 21st July, with General Brown on board the Agamemnon, and Gen. Canrobert on board the Napoleon, was not, as had been supposed the actual expedition against the Crimea, but merely an excursion to reconnoitre the coast. The excursion lasted six days. It was extended to Sebastopol, and the statement is that an English steamer having Gen. Brown on board actually penetrated and passed to the right in the harbor of Sebastopol, a story which seems to want confirmation. On the 27th the excursion returned to Varna. On the 30th the large fleet of transports lying in the Bosphorus receive orders to proceed to Varna, and, although we are not informed of the fact, a similar order was no doubt sent to those assembled in the harbors of Bourgas, Baltschick and Kostendje. The Turkish fleet weighed anchor on the 29th for the rendezvous at Varna.

The siege guns that recently arrived from France and England are kept afloat in the steamer that brought them, and will accompany the expedition. No secret is made of the proposed invasion. It is openly stated that under favorable circumstances a landing of 30,000 men will be effected in forty-eight hours from the period of leaving Varna; still leaving the line of battle ships to watch the Russian fleet. At the same time it is admitted that the embarkation will occupy some considerable period.

Cholera has broken out violently at Varna. Typhus fever has also appeared. The British lose more men by these maladies than the French. Gen. d'Allenville, commanding a division of cavalry, has died.

A conspiracy to burn the Russian fleet as it lay at anchor in the harbor, is reported to have been discovered at Sebastopol. No particulars are given, and the rumor is doubtful.

On the 17th July the British steamers Vesuvius and Spitfire were cruising off the Sulina mouth of the Danube, when their Captains determined to go up the river to the spot where Captain Parker was lately killed.—Having learned from an Austrian vessel that there were 11 feet of water in the channel, they launched the steamers' paddle-box boats, launches, gigs and cutters, and proceeded up the river, destroying the Russian stockades on both sides as they passed, without resistance. On arriving at the small town of Sulina they landed and set it on fire, and by 3 o'clock in the afternoon the whole town was in ruins, nothing being spared but the church and lighthouse.

THE ALAND ISLANDS.

These isles, which lie hardly 25 leagues distant from Stockholm, and are called by the Finns "Alvenommas," consist of about 80 inhabited and 200 uninhabited islands. The inhabitants, who number about 15,000, are of a healthy and cheerful race, who support themselves partly by agriculture and the breeding of cattle, partly by fishing and acting as pilots. They refuse to be called either Swedes or Finns, but proudly call themselves Alanders; and the chief island, with a superficies of about seven square leagues (while the whole of Aland contains perhaps 110 square leagues,) they called the "Continent" In olden times it had its own kings, and supported almost half the population of the archipelago. In addition to many good ports, it possesses in particular the safe anchorage of Lumparn, which is capacious enough for the whole Russian fleet, on the shore of which lies the strong fortress of Bomarsund, capable of containing within its walls 60,000 men. Bomarsund has only been built about 20 years, but the history of this group goes further back. Already, in the 14th century it is mentioned as an earldom, and at different times it has been in the possession of Swedish princes and queens, whether as fief or as jointure. Up to the year 1723 the islands were used by the Russian fleet (which then continually three-tenths of the Swedish shores) as a place of rendezvous. Many Alanders who had fled to Sweden returned after the peace of 1721. In 1743 and 1808 the Russians again took possession of the islands, but the Alanders secretly organized themselves in the latter year, surprised the Russians, and took the Russian commander, Major Neidhardt, prisoner. In 1809, however, the islands were taken again by the Russians, and since then have remained in their possession. On a lonely red granite rock in, close to the sea, the ruins of the once strong castle of Castelholm, which was up to 1634 the residence of the Swedish governor of the islands. The passage between these islands with their deeply indented bays, is more like an excursion on a lake than on the open sea. It is seldom possible to see far, either ahead or astern; the view is either bounded by fresh green meadows, with short legged cattle and sheep feeding on them, by nice looking villages surrounded by kitchen gardens, or by bare, desert cliffs of red granite, abounding in felspar, among which there stretch hazel shrubs, or thin, stunted woods of pine. At one of the most easterly Aland Islands, Sattunga, the steamer which plies between Stockholm and Finland, remains at anchor during the night, but at first dawn of day in summer it cautiously continues its course through the labrynth of islands, the channel between which is marked out by stakes, till it arrives at the mouth of the Aurajoki, where one has the first sight of the shore of Finland.

Allied Fleets in the Baltic.

The fortifications of Åland—Manœuvring of the Ships—Helsingfors and Cronstadt declared impregnable—Demeanour of the Russian troops—Health of the Seafors.

[Baro Sound, (July 18.) Correspondence of the London Times.]

One of the grandest spectacles ever witnessed in this our past ages is that affording at the present moment by the allied fleets under Admiral Sir Charles Napier and Admiral Parseval Deschene, at anchor in Baro Sound.

A description of this Sound has so frequently appeared in your columns that it would be superfluous for me to say more, save that it is protected by a huge breakwater, formed by nature of a chain of rocky islands. Upon one of these is erected the once famous Renskar lighthouse, and from the summit is distinctly discerned the Russian fleet at Helsingfors. Two small specks on the ocean point out the Euryalus and Cruiser, (English men of war) blockading the Russian arsenal, and bidding defiance to their fleet.

In relation to the efficiency and high state of discipline of the fleet there are not two opinions. The captains all concur in saying that, with the exception of a few veteran Coast guardsmen, they are well manned, and "ready, aye ready," for any service that the brave and discreet Sir Charles may ask of them. The men are kept regularly at exercise, and while one moment you observe all hands aloft in their evolutions of furling and reefing sails, lowering topmasts, top-gallant masts, yards, &c., in an instant the signal is run up by the Duke of Wellington, "Man and arm boats,' and 20 minutes have not elapsed when 180 boats, fully armed and equipped with every requisite for attack, are pulling away towards an island, with Admiral Chads at their head, blazing forth in sham attacks upon forts and batteries that have been rapidly raised by the engineers attached to the fleet. All this manœuving takes place within sight of the Russians, and the telegraph on the heights is continually observed making signals to Helsingfors.

Helsingfors and Constadt are impregnable and cannot be approached unless with the sacrifice of six or eight line-of battle ships. The people of England ought to be emphatically impressed with this fact, and the question then arises: is the conquest of either of these places worth the slaughter of 6,000 men? Between the island on which the batteries of Sweaborg are built a single ship alone can pass, and from the casements directed upon this point are the muzzles of 340 guns of large calibre.

A powerful army landing and encircling Helsingfors is considered the only feasible plan of operation, and when Bomarsund has fallen, as it will do in a few days, our hopes are directed to Sweden for assistance by land. When Sir C. Napier mounted Cronstadt every man in the fleet saw the madness of attempting to force a passage unless aided by land forces to distract the enemy.

The same correspondent dating from Lee Sound, (south of the Aland Islands,) on July 25th says:—

At 5 P. M., on the 23rd, we ran through a narrow channel, 100 yards only in width, and came out at once on Admiral Chad's squadron in Lumbar Bay, before the forts of Bomarsund. The chief battery is erected on the shore, in the shape of a curve, in order to sweep the whole of the bay. It is built of granite of two tiers, with 54 embrasures in each, thus being enabled to mount 108 guns; but at present they have only 92 mounted. It has bomb-proof roofing, and, to add to their security, a layer of four feet of sand rests upon this. On the rising ground immediately behind this are two round towers, and another at the extreme east, in each of which we counted 16 guns. A mud battery rapidly thrown up, still further to the east, completes their defence. Russian soldiers were lounging about on the shore, and officers were going to and fro on horseback without the slightest appearance of concern at the proximity of our English and French men-of-war, eight of which were moored within two miles and a-half of them. Many were the speculations regarding the vulnerability of these fortifications; but it was at once determined that the operation of shelling was futile, the opinion that a land attack by the troops now on their passage, with the broadsides of the men-of-war at one thousand yards, would soon complete their destruction.

It appears that the Valorous, going at a slow speed among the islands, ran upon a rock, and there being a swell on at that time, she has knocked on her fore foot and knee and became water-logged; a sail has been placed under her keel, and the last accounts are that she is afloat, but kept so with great difficulty. The masters are all prepared to take their ships to Bomarsund, although there are only four feet of water to spare in many of the passages.

The Dunerro, which grounded on Saturday night, has received no damage, nor the little Zephyr, which was in a similar position. The Locust is somewhere up the Gulf of Bothnia. Everything was quiet in the Fleet to day, like the intense calm preceeding the pretending storm. The Frenchmen are determined to do something, or they say they Persians will pelt them on their return.

The cholera, I am happy to say, is fast disappearing. The Austerlitz, at one period had as many as 150 cases on board. The Majestic went to sea to recruit the health of her crew. A very singular feature regarding this disease is that the screw vessels only have been attacked by the epidemic, the sailing vessels enjoying perfect immunity. Diluted sulpheric and camphor mixture is a favourite remedy. The better ventilation of the engine rooms becomes a serious consideration, and should force itself upon the attention of scientific men. To keep engineers and stokers in an atmosphere the temperature of which is 123 deg., is nothing but a lingering process of parboiling, and how they stand it so well passes comprehension.

The Battle at Giurgevo.

Letters detailing the particulars of the affair on the 8th, at Giurgevo, state three English officers fell, while leading the columns of Turks under their command. Captain Arnold and Lieutenant Meynell (of the 77th) both fell in the attack on a Russian Battery. Lieutenant Burke, of the Royal Engineers, at the head of 300 men were overwhelmed by superior numbers and lost 70 men, among whom was their leader, Lieutenant Burke, before they had time to entrench themselves from the tremendous fire of their enemy.

The following are the particulars of this affair:—

After the siege of Silistria was raised, and the Russians commenced retiring, Omar Pasha proposed crossing the Danube at Rustchuk, and Silistria, and sent 25,000 men to each of these towns. During the night of 6th, the Russians withdrew all their guns, and so few men were to be seen on the left bank that Hessem Pasha, the commander of the forces in Rutschuk, determined at once to effect a lodgement. At half-past nine a. m., four companies of infantry, under the command of Bekir Pasha, (accompanied by Bairam Pasha General Cannon) and Captain Foot, Royal Engineers, landed a little below the Russian battery, without opposition beyond a musketry fire. General Cannon advanced with some skirmishers along with Captain Bent, who was the first Englishman to land; they drove the enemy across the creek with considerable loss but the Russians who were in reality 800 strong, here made a stand, and the Turks had to retire to the river bank. After some smart fighting and a little manœuvring on the part of the Turks, a body of 500 men, commanded by Col. Balfour Ogilvie, aide de-camp to General Cannon, accompanied by Colonel C. Hinde, aide-de camp, Captain Arnold, 3rd Madras native infantry, and Lieutenant Meynell, of Her Majesty's 77th regiment, proceeded in the steamer for a mile and a half up the river, and landed on the left bank. Seeing during the passage that Bekir Pasha was likely to be hard, Colonel Ogilvie determined to effect a junction with him. He threw out fifty skirmishers in front under Captain Arnold, Colonel Hinde commanding the advance, and Lieutenant Meynell the rear guard. The enemey opened a severe fire of grape from two guns they brought up, and the infantry annoyed his left flank by an incessant musketry fire. After descending the river for about a mile, the Turks took a Russian battery close to the bank. Colonel Ogilvie ordered them to wait till Colonel Arnold should fall back. After half an hour, however, Col. Ogilvie, who could not see anything that was going on, and being anxious to join Bekir Pasha, pushed on down the river, leaving Lieut. Meynell with 50 men to keep the position till Capt. Arnold returned. By this time the steamer had made another trip, and 200 men came down the bank and joined Lieut. Meynell.—After a march of a mile and a half over ground occupied by the nemy, and commanded by their guns, at grape and canister range, the gallant party under Col. Ogilvie effected ajunction with Bekir Pasha, and this timely re-inforcement raised the spirits of the Turks. Captain Arnold's detention was explained. He had actually advanced with his 50 men on a Russian battery more than three hundred yards inland, in which there were two guns, driving them out of it (the enemy retiring with their pieces,) and held possession till overwhelming numbers forced him back on Lieutenant Meynell. Here they remained their ground for about two hours, with out any re-inforcements being sent from the town, until three fresh Russian batalions came down the heights, one of which joined in the attack. At this point the Turks, now far outnumbered, were driven out of the battery to the river bank. Captain Arnold and Lieut. Meynell were both killed: their bodies were found in the battery, which renders it evident the gallant fellows had fought were they stood till the last.—Notwithstanding the disparity of numbers, so greatly in favor of the Russians, the Turks maintained their position, and in the morning it was found that the Russian infantry had disappeared; their cavalry who were drawn up on the rising ground, drew off slowly an hour after daybreak, and the Turks commenced the melancholy task of burying the derd of both sides which were strewn over the battle field. In this hard fought action, which lasted nine hours, the soldiers on both sides displayed great courage. The Turks who made good their lodgement and slept on the field, may with justice claim the victory. There were 200 Turks killed of those who landed highest up the river; in the battery opposite the town there were 30 killed, and on the extreme right 70. The wounded amounted to about 600; total 900. Of the Russians about 950 were killed and wounded.

MORE TROOPS AND TRANSPORTS FOR THE WAR.

There is a report in circulation that 6,000 more troops are to be dispatched to the East, as soon as they can be got ready.

The government have hired the Mauritius another of the splendid iron 1800 ton screw steamers of the General Screw Company, for conveyance of troops and stores.

The 2,000-ton screw steamship Golden Fleece, belonging to the General Screw Company, will depart from Southampton for Constantinople or Varna in four days.

It was thought during the last season that there would be trouble among the men thus removed from any civil power equal to their own, and subjected to the severities of a climate to which they are unaccustomed. But this has not been the case. No time worth reckoning has been lost in consequence of any controversy between the employees and the company. This fact is very creditable to both parties. Men on the work have been boarded by the company at less rates than could have been done elsewhere. And those having families have been constantly supplied with provisions from the Company's stores at rates ruinous to the prospects of speculators here. Flour, for instance, has been steadily furnished for $8 per. brl., when merchants have sold at $10, and but for the course of the company, would have sold much higher. While this course has given satisfaction to the laborer it has had a contrary effect on the class above mentioned, whose complaints at times have been quite loud.

The difficulty of prosecuting the work during the winter, in a climate like this, can scarcely be appreciated by the people of Ohio. We have none seen the mercury at half past nine A. M., at 34 degrees below zero: and frequently 10 or 15 below, with high winds and drifting snow. At the earliest dawn of our short winter days, they having taken breakfast before daylight, the men are called out by the bell, and grope their way through atmosphere, thick with the drifting snow, to the big ditch. There they see the derricks, the drill houses, and everything which rises fifteen or twenty feet above ground. But where are their wheel barrows, their drills and hammers? Where are their picks and shovels, and their "runs," (viz, the rows of plank on which the load is wheeled out)? Nothing in sight but snow, snow, snow, and objects as high as a house. Everything else covered perhaps to the depth of three or four feet, has to be fished out, after the "gang" have found out, by the above named landmarks, the place in which they worked the preceeding evening. The first thing then is to clear off three or four feet of drift snow, to lay the work bare. And this part, during much of the winter, required from five to eight per cent of the laborers constantly.—And in many locations, the ice formed during the night by the water oozing through the rock from the river nearly equalled the amount of rock that could be taken out during the day. Then the day has not been more than eight hours and a half during the winter.

In truth, ours is a cold climate. On the 13th of April, I went with a party of six, to pay a visit to the "sugar bush," and we crossed the river, a mile wide, upon the ice with a two horse team without difficulty, and found nearly three feet of snow in the woods

The season is much later than usual, and the prospect is that we shall not see a boat from below before the second or third week in May.

The party who came up in the Northerner reached here on the 21st and 22nd instant after a tedious journey on the ice from Point de Tour.

The reports from the mining districts above are favorable, and there is a general looking towards the portions of Wisconsin and Minnesota bordering on Lake Superior, as land containing mineral. Parties are also forming from the north shore on the Canada side.

UNITED STATES CROPS.

OHIO,

The Hillsborough News, of the 17th inst., says:—An almost unprecedented drought has prevailed in this part of the country for nearly two months past. The injury to the corn crop must be very great, and we have heard it estimated that there will not be one-fourth of an average crop in this county. The potato crop must also be very small. Similar accounts reach us from other parts of Ohio, and from a great portion of the West. In the Wabash valley, the great corn region of Indiana, it is stated there will be one-fourth of a crop. Throughout middle and Southern Illinois and Missouri, and in portions of Kentucky and Tennessee, the drought has also done great injury. It is now too late for rain to be of any service to a great deal of the corn. On the whole the prospect is that the crop of that grain in the west will be half cut off, and that prices must materially advance. The same may be said of potatoes.

INDIANA.

The Northwestern Argus, of Putnam county says that the wheat crop, oats, and hay, have been abundant in that region—wheat being an average, and oats and hay are an unusual good crop. It adds, in reference to corn:—"The want of rain makes our corn fields look bad, and the present prospect is that the crop will be much under the average.—Many think, or pretend to think, of a failure, but we are by no means ready to credit these croakers. Our corn crop never has failed and will not this year, where the husbandman has done his duty."

A correspondent of the Bedford Standard, writing from Green county, says that the drouth in that and adjoining counties has continued so long and intensely that the corn is scalded, and in many places will not make anything. At the best it will not be half a crop.

The Spirit of the West, published at Columbus, in probably the harvest corn growing portion of the State, says, the corn crop will not yield more than the third of a crop. Potatoes and other vegetables are short but fruit abundant.

The Rockville Republican, (Park county,) speaks of the wheat, oats and hay in very much the same terms as the Argus, but adds in reference to the great staple:—"The farmers, however, entertain great fears of the corn crop. They represent that it is almost totally burned up by the great heat and drought, and let it rain as much as it will, there will not be more than half a crop if that. There have been but two small showers here for six weeks, and the water is very scarce, most of the water mills having stopped operations."

ILLINOIS.

The corn crop of this section of the country may be regarded as a total failure. There may be a few fields in this county that will contain pretty nearly an average yield, but on the whole the crop is very far from half the common production. A friend informed us a day or two ago that he had one hundred and fifty acres planted, and that it would do better than he expected if the whole of it should produce one hundred bushels. This is but a specimen. In some fields the stalks look as though a firebrand would set the whole mass in a blaze, while in many others they are so small as to be valueless for fodder. No one can remember of so total and extensive a failure in this staple ever having occurred before in this country.—Marshall Illinoisan.

ARKANSAS

From all the information we have been able to gather from Arkansas, the crops in that State, particularly in the counties bordering on the Mississippi and the larger tributary streams, promise a fine yield.

Destructive Fires in the Woods.

From the Bangor Whig, August 24.

Fires are raging in the woods to a terrible extent in every section of the country. The damage to the woodland and crops will be very great. Buildings have been burnt in Kenduskeag, Corinth, Charleston, Garland, and other towns. In many places the entire population are engaged in fighting fires. In Garland it is said that one family, who live some distance from any other house, are entirely surrounded by the flames, having no means of escape. It is not known whether they are dead or alive. Report says that the bridge at Bradford is burned, and a mill and one or two houses in Corinth.

We learn from the Peterborough Transcript the particulars of a fire in Stoddard, N. H.—The fire had taken in some woods belonging to the Stoddard Glass Company, and burned 200 or 300 acres of wood near the road. In the midst of it, and while the fire was near the road, a team in the charge of Mr. Curtis Hunt, belonging to Mr. Buss of Marlow, loaded with store goods to the amount of $700 belonging to Mr. Tisk merchant of Marlow, came up. Mr. Hunt state that he first went ahead and examined, and thought he could go through, the first being nearly ten rods distant. He made the attempt, but had not proceeded far before the fire was close upon him. A strong gust of wind blew the flames directly upon the horses, and they dropped as quick as if they had been shot. In a moment however, they rallied, and attempted to proceed, but were again struck with the flames and fell. Mr. Hunt saw that it was impossible to save the load, and attempted to unhitch the horses. He succeeded in releasing one of them, and getting him out alive though badly burned. The other two together with the waggon and load were burned. Mr. Hunt barely escaped, his shirt being nearly burned of his back, and his face and hands badly blistered. The load was on fire before he left it.

News from the West Indies.

By the Arrival of the Promethus we have received our files of Kingston (Jamaica) journals dated to the 10th inst.

We do not find any report of the progress or decline of the cholera.

The Kingston Morning Journal of August the 2nd says:—The ship Epsom, on her voyage from Hong Kong to this port, lost no fewer than forty Chinese emigrants. Since her arrival, about as many more have been sent to the hospital, and nine of that number have died. The disease that has carried them off is scurvy. We saw several of the Celestials yesterday, and to all appearance, they are really a robust race. We trust their moral qualities are equal to their physical appearance. A very respectable Mandarin has come with them. His name is Whang-te-Shang. He is a Christian, is very intelligent and speaks English fluently.

From Edward Lucas, Esq., the consignee of the schooner Emily, which arrived in this port from Navy Bay, on Tuesday afternoon, we learn that the first batch (100 in number) of Jamaica immigrants, who went out to the Isthmus, to work on the Panama Railroad, are about to return—their term of service being expired, and that a large number of these people will arrive in a few days.

ANTIGUA.

Emigration to Austra is from this colony seems to be progressing, as the following paragraph from the Observer will show:—

For some time past we have almost monthly witnessed the departure from our shores for distant lands, and in small parties, of some of our best citizens; and it has been remarked that gradually our little island was deprived of many worthy members of society. But the embarkation to day on board the ship Venus, en route for Australia, of 22 citizens, is something so much out of the common way as to induce serious reflection.

BRITISH GUIANA.

This colony has been visited with heavy rain, and thunderstorms of unusual severity had occurred at Georgetown. This is the more remarkable, as having taken place at a season that is ordinarily dry.

Cholera had broken out at St. Lucia and Granada.

From Barbadoes we learn that cholera had considerably abated in Bridgetown and the parish of St. Michael, and in other parts of the island; but it was still raging in St Philip. The Barbadian says that in the country parishes no less than 9,000 persons had been carried off by the epidemic; to which 6,000 buried in St. Michael must be added.

FROM SAULT STE. MARIE.

THE GREAT SHIP CANAL—ITS SIZE—PROGRESS OF THE WORK—THE WINTER, &c.

Correspondence of the Cleaveland Plaindealer.

MESSRS. EDITORS.—Perhaps you would like to know something concerning the ship canal around the falls of the St. Mary's at this place. A few leading facts, therefore, relating to the character and progress of the work may be worth a perusal.

The length of the excavation, from water to water is 4,350 feet, to which is added the pier below, 308 feet long, and the pier and the bank at the head 1000 feet long, making the entire length of the work 5,658 feet, 378 more than a mile. The fall of the St. Mary's is 18 feet, and the canal is to be 12 feet deep. The sides are to be inclined from the canal bottom to the slope, of 1½ feet to 1, and are to be walled with stone, where there is not a natural wall, so that they will present a rock surface throughout: On the canal bottom the width is 64 feet, consequently it is 100 feet wide. The walled banks are to rise 5 feet above water line, making breadth of canal at tow-path bank 115 feet. There is a basin 400 feet long, 40 feet wider than the canal, placed about 1000 feet above the locks. There are to be two locks, each 850 feet in length, between the gates, made with walls 10 feet thick at the base, and strengthened by stone buttresses on the outside 12 feet apart. Those will contain 15,000 cubic yards of masonry, of which probably 12,000 yards must be brought in vessels from a distance. Not less than 12,000 tons of it come in schooners from Malden, near Detroit. The locks are of sufficient capacity to admit the largest steamers now floating upon our lakes.

At the commencement of the work there were 205,360 cubic yards of rock and earth to be taken out, above water. The amount now remaining is less than one-sixth of this; and if the work of the present month equals that of the past, about six sevenths of the entire excavation work will be done above water leaving something less than 30,000 yards to take out. There will also be 24,000 yards of underwater excavation to prepare for the upper pier, the greater part of which is muck and gravel. The piers below are finished above water, and a temporary one 300 feet in length is put up on the north side of the canal, to accommodate the great freighting vessels of the company.

The timber required for locks, piers, caisson gate, &c., is nearly out; so the great work of the coming season is the masonry of the lock walls; and everything is in good condition for a completion of the canal during the summer and fall

The railroad and plank road used in the transportation of freight over the portage crossed the canal grounds, and, of course, had to be taken up during the winter, as the excavations advanced. They have both been rebuilt by the canal company, bridges being thrown across the canal to accommodate them, and they will be ready for use in three or four days.

From Oregon.

From the Organian, published at Portland we take the following:

A NEW GOLD DISCOVERY.—A report reached here yesterday by the steamer Lot Whitcomb, that gold mines had been discovered near Sherlwater Bay, and that the citizens had all abandoned their avocations and gone to digging for the "filthy lucre."

GENERAL STAMPEDE FOR THE MINES.—There appears to be an unusual excitement among the people hereabouts, in relation to the gold mines. Many have left and others are daily leaving for the newly discovered mines, leaving behind crops unharvested and business unsettled, which will prove a greater loss than all they can get in the gold-diggins.

The farmers are now engaged in their harvests. Wheat crops were never better.

IMPROVEMENT IN STEAM NAVIGATION.—Considerable interest has been excited in Edinburgh by the successful trial of the steam-vessel lately launched at Granton for the deep-sea fishing, as demonstrating the practicability of a new principle of steam propulsion superseding both the screw and paddle, and as likely to effect in some degree, a revolution in the art of steam navigation. The vessel is 100 feet long, with engines of 30 horse power. Externally there is nothing to distinguish it from a sailing vessel, except the presence on each side of the hull of a curved pipe 10 inches in diameter, termed a nozzle, communicating with a water-tight case with a horizontal wheel fixed on a crank shaft attached by piston rods to the engine, and on the steam being applied, the water-wheel revolves with velocity, and the water is discharged by the nozzles on each side of the vessel.—These form the only propelling power, and the invention is remarkable for its simplicity and effect. These nozzles are also of service in navigating the vessel, which, according to the angle of depression or elevation, turns in any direction, or stops altogether, even with the engines working at full power. Although capacity rather than speed was studied in the construction of the vessel, it easily attained eleven knots an hour. Economy of fuel, freedom from vibration, light draught, and a high rate of speed are among the advantages of the invention.—The vessel is being schooner rigged, and, when fitted with boats and fishing gear, it will proceed to the fishing ground in the Firth of Forth, and by lowering the Boats and crews, will be able to conduct the fishing operations with safety and celerity. Messrs. Ruthven, of Edinburgh, are the inventors, and the vessel is the first of the fleet of the Deep Sea Fishing Association of Scotland.

THE GREAT TELESCOPE ON WANDSWORTH COMMON.—We have been favored with the following additional particulars of the refractive powers and focal lengths of the lenses in the great achromatic telescope at Wandsworth Common, by the optician who made them, Mr. Thomas Slater of Somer's-place West, Euston-square:—The object glass is achromatic, consisting of plate and of flint glass. The plate glass was cast by the Thames Plate Glass Company, and is a most excellent piece, being perfectly homogeneous and free of strim. The refractive index of this glass turned out to be 1.5103, and it is worked to a positive focal length of 30 feet 1½ inch.—The flint glass is a very superior piece, and does great credit to the manufacturers Messrs. Chance of Birmingham. It is of uniform density, and very transparent; its reflective index is 1.6308, and it is made to a negative focus of 49 feet 10½ inches. The combined focal length of the plate and flint glass lenses is 76 feet to parallel rays. The focal length will be 85 feet only to objects at about 700 feet distance from the object glass. The diameter of the image of the full moon in this telescope is about 8 inches, and Mr. Slater has made an eye piece of that diameter, having a magnifying power of 125; another eye piece, which takes in about half the moon's diameter, has a magnifying power of 250, other eye pieces are also made, the powers of which vary from 500 to 3,000.

A CHANCERY SUIT OF 100 YEARS' STANDING WOUND UP.—The cause of Beckford versus Jaspar, wherein £10,000 was in dispute, is now in a fair way of being wound up. The original plaintiff was Thomas Beckford, executor of one James Pope, a merchant in Maderia, and Edward Jasper also a merchant, was the original defendant. Jasper owed Pope £10,000, and Pope died in 1473, and in 1748 Beckford, his executor, filed this bill against Jasper, who died before he could put in an answer. The suit was revived against Jaspers' executors, and in 1753 the cause was heard before Lord Chancellor Hardwick, and referred to the master to take accounts. In 1764 and in 1772 further proceedings were taken, and £630 in bank stock and £555 were lodged to the credit of the cause, which then slept until 1851, when Mr. J. D. Wadham, obtained administration to Pope, the original testator, and revived the bill against Jaspers' representatives. The funds to the credit of the cause had, by accumulation of dividends, bonnuses, &c., amounted to £70,00. Wadham had to take out administration to five intermediate estates, and to pay £778 for the stamp duties. The case is now wound up by an order to pay the costs of all parties out of the funds in court, and to share the remainder according to the respective rights of the claimants.

From the British Canadian

In the recent address of the Honorable John Young to the Electors of Montreal, he gave as one of his reasons for opposing the present Ministry, that "the Hon. Inspector General the leading member of it had notoriously been engaged in speculations, some of which were of a most questionable character and had publicly announced the principle that he holding the office of first minister of the Crown, had a right to speculate in public lands, and stocks on his own account the same as any other individual. Against that doctrine he considered it necessary to protest beliving that if it be allowed to prevail it would be subversive of morality in public men, and faught with danger to the best interests of the public." The notoriety of the speculations of Mr. Hincks, Mr. Malcolm Cameron and others, and the extent to which they have availed themselves of official knowledge acquired in an official capacity to guide their private speculations, is such that we need not make any specific allusion to them, and though such unscrupulous ministers have unscrupulous organs to defend and justify such acts, yet we are glad to find that there is a higher tone of public morality spreading in Canada, and that the public more generally are found to condemn what official hirelings are so ready to justify.—Perhaps it may give an impetus to the tone of popular feeling now flowing in the right direction, if we bring under the notice of Canadians a case in point which formed the subject of discussion in the House of Commons on the night of the 3rd inst., and which will show what they think in the old country of such disreputable transactions.

A few days previously Sir John Pakington gave notice that he would call the attention of the house to the circumstances under which the Honorable Francis Lawley had been appointed to the governorship of South Australia. The effect of the notice was that on the evening of the 3rd, Sir Geo. Grey the Colonial Secretary rose in his place and anticipated the question by volunteering the information. He said that the government of S. Australia, had been offered to Mr. Lawley who had been private Secretary to Mr. Gladstone, and had been accepted by him.—that since Sir John Pakington's notice had been given he had received information which altered his views to Mr. Lawley, and which we give in the words of the Parliamentary report, as follows:—

"On Friday last, after the morning sitting of the house, I returned to my office, and shortly after six o'clock, when about to return to the house, the Duke of Newcastle came into my room, and informed me at the earliest moment he could, that from true private quarters, in the course of that day, he had received information of rumors being in circulation highly injurious to the character of Mr. Lawley. The Duke of Newcastle stated he had been informed that very recently Mr. Lawley had become subject to heavy liabilities and debts in connection with transactions on the turf. He told me, besides, that there were rumors of a much more serious character as affecting the conduct, position, and character, of Mr. Lawley—viz., Mr. Lawley availed himself of the official knowledge acquired as private secretary to the right honorable gentleman the Chancellor of the Exchequer—Mr. Lawley being then out of town—and I told him the extreme surprise and concern with which I had just received this information from the Duke of Newcastle. I told him that I was assured of the entire concurrence of the Duke of Newcastle, that if there was any foundation of truth in the rumor, it was impossible that the appointment of Mr. Lawley could proceed. I stated that until the receipt of satisfactory information I should suspend all further proceedings with respect to the appointment of Mr. Lawley; and that, in justice to him, in justice to myself, in justice to the government, and in justice to the colony to which he was to be appointed, these reports should be communicated to Mr. Lawley at the earliest moment, in order that he might have the means and opportunity of explaining or refuting the charges.

"This morning I received from my right honorable friend the Chancellor of the Exchequer a communication, which I am sure he made with deep concern, and the receipt of which gave me equal concern, from which it appeared that Mr. Lawley had been engaged in speculation in the funds, which to a certain extent justified the rumors which had reached me, and with respect to which Mr. Lawley proceed the opinion,—an opinion in which my right honorable friend the Chancellor of the Exchequer and the Duke of Newcastle entirely concurred. As I am informed the speculations in which he engaged were long speculations. Mr. Lawley is no doubt entitled to the benefit of that statement. But such a statement could not affect the duty which I owed to the crown, to the country, and to the colony; and I immediately addressed a letter to her Majesty expressing my great concern that I had recently submitted to Her Majesty for her approval an appointment which I felt, under circumstances which had just come to my knowledge, it was my imperative duty humbly to advise her Majesty to recall."

Here then is the case of a private secretary of a Cabinet Minister awaiting himself of the official knowledge acquired by him in that capacity, in furtherance of his private speculations in the public funds. In ignorance of such acts he is appointed Governor of a British Colony; but the moment the fact is known that he has so acted, his appointment is cancelled.

Now, it instead of Francis Lawley, private secretary to Mr. Gladstone, we read "Francis Hincks Prime Minister of Canada," or M. Cameron, Post Master General, then the case will apply exactly to "this Canada," and we would ask, is it not the bounden duty of the Governor General to dismiss a minister, who has, as stated by Mr. Young—the late colleague—notoriously been engaged in speculations in public lands and stocks on his own account. What would be a breach of trust in England, and punishable as such, should be viewed in the same light in Canada. If Mr. Lawley from such a cause, was unfit to be Governor of South Australia neither F. Hincks nor Malcolm Cameron are fit to be Ministers of the Crown in Canada.

Railways in Canada.

Seven hundred miles of railway are now completed and in use in Canada. Over seven hundred miles more are under contract, a large portion of which will soon be completed. Lord Elgin is reported to have said that the passage of the Reciprocity Bill by the United States Senate, would "nearly double the value of Canada." Be that as it may, the passage of that important commercial treaty cannot fail to add immensely to the real value of Canadian Railway stock and swell the sum total of semi-annual dividends. Canada is keeping pace with the progress of the times in her railway enterprises, and if she but completes those in progress of construction, under contract or being surveyed, the country will then be so thoroughly intersected by rail, the lakes so completely connected, as to afford to that remarkably prosperous country opportunities for the most full development of its varied resources, under the operation of the recent reciprocal treaty with the American Union.

The first railway ever constructed in the Canadas was the Montreal and Champlain road, by which the city of Montreal was connected by rail and steamboat with New York and Boston. This was followed by the construction of the Montreal and Lachine Railway, to facilitate the travel up and down the St. Lawrence. The St. Lawrence and Atlantic Railway to connect with Portland, was completed during the last season; and the railway direct from Quebec to Portland, Me., via Rich mond, and connection thence to Portland with the route now open, will be completed in a few days.

In the Upper Province, the first railway constructed was the Northern, from Toronto to Lake Simcoe, which was opened nearly two years ago, and is in prosperous operation forming the most direct route from Boston and New York to the Sault Ste. Marie and copper regions. On the 17th of January, 1854, the Great Western, from Niagara Falls directly through Western Canada to Windsor opposite the city of Detroit, was opened and the event duly celebrated. This is one of the most substantial and thoroughly built railroads in America, and the cars pass over the road with comparative ease and freedom from unpleasant agitation. Three trains pass daily over the road, each way, between the Falls and Detroit, a distance of 229 miles, connecting at the Falls with trains from New York Boston, &c., and at Detroit with the trains from the West, and steamers up the Lakes. This road completes the last link of a direct line from the Atlantic States to the Great West, and adds vastly to the facilities for travel and traffic over that great commercial thoroughfare.

Another important addition to the Railways of Canada, is the Buffalo, Brantford and Goderich road, opened early this year as far as Paris, where it connects with the Great Western. The section from Paris to Goderich on Lake Huron, will be pushed through with vigor, and when completed, this route from Buffalo to the Upper Lakes will be very much shorter than any other, as a glance at the map of the country will show; and it cannot fail to be one of the most profitable roads in the country. Trains are running three times daily over the road, between Buffalo and Paris connecting with the trains on the G. W. This railway is under the excellent management and experience, good judgement and judicious arrangements of the Superintendent, Mr. Wallace, of Buffalo, who has secured for the road a high degree of popularity, and for himself the esteem and approbation of the administration, and in carrying out these measures the present ministry have only acted upon the suggestions of Sir Allan McNab The Postal system was also arranged by them although before any action was taken upon the question by the home Government, they were superseded. The honorable gentleman then alluded to his election. (Hear, hear.) He said he had to contend with the most formidable man in Canada for electioneering.—Those who had not witnessed, could have no idea of the extraordinary power of Mr. Cameron as an electioneerer—particularly on a first occasion. On a second run he is generally well known that his power is somewhat modified by all his broken promises. He then referred to the cry that was often raised that the present ministry had managed to fill the public chest while the former administration had nearly emptied the exchequer. He showed that that administration had even left behind to carry on the public works of the country without any increased taxation and that so soon as the Reform ministry came into power they increased taxation, in order to fill the exchequer, and instead of using any of that for public works, they issued £450,000 of debentures for that purpose and took advantage of the economy and the hard earning of the previous administration to fill their coffers. He objected to the ministry having so much floating money at their disposal as the present government had. It was in danger of being applied to their own selfish purposes, and besides it taxed the people unnecessarily. The hon. gentleman then referred to the breaking up of the recent house and the despatch of Lord Elgin in connection with it, and constitutionality of the step had been noticed in that despatch. He then alluded to some of the points adverted to by Mr. Gamble, and concluded by again thanking the assembly for the honor conferred upon him.

Several volunteer toasts were then given and responded to, and the party broke up at a late hour.

SOUTH OXFORD.

There is no longer any doubt as to the intention of Mr. Hincks abanding Oxford and taking his seat in Parliament for Renfrew. A correspondent in Ingersoll writes us as follows:—

"I may tell you that Mr. Hincks (so his friends here, say) has gone partner to the extent of £50 in the purchase of the Ingersoll Chronicle, with young Gurnett, who is to make it an out and-out Ministerial hack. A Requisition to the treed Goon, is this day being hawked about Town for signatures, by one upstart, purchased with a few small contracts, who says—"it is rather hard work like over driven, or sore-shouldered horses, they do not like to come into harness"—and in truth, I do not wonder at it. On Wednesday last, Mr Shenstone was here, and woke up the prisoners; however, to-day the village is full to overflowing with H longer exist. The pruning hook of the utilitarians has been applied to the different branches of government patronage, and with the exception of a very few and trivial offices the public more or less exercise an influence in the appointments. We ask the writer again to take the Church, the Law, the Army, and Navy, and he will find men holding the highest offices in these Professions, and who were ornaments to the high position they occupied. Who had been Lord St. Leonard who had been the late Lord Plunkett, who the late Lord Eldon and Stowell. No, the great advantage of the British Constitution is that the bare-footed boy perhaps walking the streets of London, and, perhaps sweeping the crossing, to the Houses of Parliament, may, by his talents and good conduct become a member of either of those Houses and raise himself either to the See of Canterbury in the Church, or the Woolsack at the law, (the highest offices in each profession.)

The gross ignorance of the writer is further developed by his allusion to Railway Companies Those Companies, in England, we beg to inform him are purely private speculations, unconnected with government, and if those private Projectors think their interests are better served by electing men of rank as Directors or Secretaries, we who advocate liberty of action have no right to find fault and tell them because they belong to the aristocracy they are unfit for any office or employment.

We refer our readers to another place where we have given the remarks of our contemporary the editor of the British Canadian, upon the course pursued by the Duke of Newcastle one of the obnoxious aristocracy who conceded the appointment of another member of that aristocracy, and for what, because he made use of his ministerial position and knowledge in certain speculations here the chief ministers, not subordinates as in England, have been notoriously engaged in speculations, making use of their ministerial knowledge for the purpose and openly defending their conduct.

Such men can have no scruples in their recommendations of such as are to be called to the Upper House, and of course men whose examples is generally looked up to will naturally select such pliant men of talent as the Sam Mills of Canada, so that they they may not be incurring the risk of irritating statesmen antagonistic to themselves. We perceive by the letter of the London Correspondent of the Hamilton Spectator that even now in England the gross jobbering and unprincipled conduct of our Canadian Executive has become a topic of discussion and the celebrated Elgin despatch lately so often referred to, has not raised the Rebellion Losses Peer in the estimation of British Loyalists. A document such as it is might emanate from the pen of a special pleader or some logician from the school of Ignatius Loyala where reasoning faculties are attener bent to disguise than elicit truth, when the English public compare the well merited rebuke from the speaker, and the offer made by the opposition with reference to the new Franchise act as also the discussion during the previous session regarding the period for annually assembling the Provincial Parliament, the manner in which that discussion terminated and the gross violation of the compromise entered into with the Representatives of the people by the Hincks-Elgin Executive the very type of Responsible government they may justly exclaim we have done every thing for you Canadians but what have you done for yourselves, to make others respect yourselves hence hence these Scribblers on British Institutions should first look at home and as it were come into print with clean hands.

TRUTH WILL OUT.

We present our readers with a portion of Mr. Caley's speech, delivered at a dinner recently given to celebrate the return of Mr. Gamble, in which he takes the ground from under the boasting Hincks Ministry. The reciprocity question; the railway system; the post office system, and the finances of the province are ably handled, and the impartial reader will perceive the party to whom the Province is really indebted for the improvements that have taken place, and also for the financial finesse exhibited by the "Thimble Rigging" administration of Messrs. Hincks, Rolph and Cameron. We rejoice that Mr. Caley, an old member of the former Conservative Government, should be in the house, in order to unravel the mystified webs of our present finance: —

Mr. Cayley replied at some length. He thanked them for the handsome and hearty manner in which his name had been received and expressed his regret that some one of that administration to which allusion had been made—more able more eloquent—was not present to respond to the remarks of the Vice Chairman. He expressed his regret at the absence of of Mr. Billiard Cameron and Mr. Robinson, whom he expected to see present. He then referred to the points introduced by Mr. Wadsworth, and expressed his surprise that they had been brought forward so fully upon the spur of the moment. Reciprocity was first taken up by them, but they intended to recommend a system that should work mutually to the interests of both countries, and not to make reciprocity all on one side. A great noise had been made about the railway measures of the present ministry, but he would say that the credit of the railway system of Canada was due to Sir Allan McNabb, one of the members of that same travelling public. From his employees Mr. Wallace received a few days ago, a token of their regard, in the presentation of a complete and costly service of silver plate.

Just completed we have the Ontario and Erie Railway, through Canada West, from Lake to Lake, along the route to Niagara River, via the roaring cataract, and through a succession of attractive and thrilling scenery.

The Bytown and Prescott Railway is completed and in operation from Prescott to the village of Kemptville, and a steamer connecting at Kemptville, via the Rideau Canal to Bytown has reduced the time between Prescott (on the St. Lawrence, opposite Ogdensburgh, N. Y.,) to Bytown on the Ottawa, to five or six hours travel.

Such is the progress of railway enterprise in Canada, or the Canadian nation, as the London Times will have it? and if the Reciprocity measure does not "double the value of Canada," her railways will do it.—International Journal.

THE PROVINCIAL FAIR.

We are much gratified to find the old adage exemplified, "Long Expected comes at Last." The Provincial Fair, which is to take place here on the 26th, 27th, 28th and 29th of the present month, has been this week most prominently brought under the consideration of the Town Council by Col. Askin, and to do justice to our City Fathers they at once enthusiastically entered upon the subject.

Mr. Leonard in the handsomest manner was willing to give the use of his capacious building near the Goods Depot. And Councillors Barker in moving the resolution elsewhere inserted seemed to think a Ball one night and a concert another would probably prove the most acceptable demonstrations to our guests. A public dinner is somewhat a selfish concern as the ladies are necessarily excluded, hence the object should be in an entertainment to combine the attendence of all.

Knowing that some have conscientious scruples to attend a Ball Room, the Concert will afford them an opportunity of partaken of the hospitality of the far west.

To effectually carry out these suggestions a public meeting will be called by his Worship the Mayor—and we feel confident that the Inhabitants of London and neighborhood, will not prove an to, Hamilton &c., whose previous shows have been held. The time is rapidly drawing on, and not a moment is to be lost, therefore we feel confident that at the approaching public meeting such a division of labor will take place as will by trifling exertion exemplify another old adage, "Many hands make light work."

NO HONESTY AMONGST THIEVES,

Read the subjoined from the Elora Backwoodsman, and ask, where has the virtuous indignation evaporated preceeding the election? Where is the crow against corruption? where the denunciation against Ministerial corruption and bribery? Truly the fitters are judged, and the dictator of Canada holds his lieges in bondage. The Clergy Reserves must be kept for another election; no good a grievance to settle at once. Men who live by agitation could not exist in quiet, and the excitement is an attribute of their political existence:

We are inclined to believe that the Ministry will be supported that the Reserve question will not be settled, 'till after another election, that a reorganization of the Cabinet will take place before the close of the session, and that the opposition will damage its prospects by rashness, and the want of a sufficient and honest leader. We may be very far wrong in our estimate of probabilities, but present appearances are strongly in favor of it. It is a sorry admission to make, but we do not believe that, however many second-fiddles there may be, that there is a member in the House, with the exception of Hincks', fit to hold the reins as Premier Because of wrangling as to the his successor, and the paucity of talent amongst members, he will hold on yet a while longer to power. If he resigns he will produce greater consternation in the opposition camp than ever, if refusing to secularize the Reserves. There is evidently a Gordian Knot to untie, and we leave to the Alexanders of the press to dispose of.

MIRROR OF THE GOLDEN LAND, AND PROFESSOR WITTENBERG.—Next Monday Evening, at the Royal Exchange Hall, the above somewhat famous work of art, and the amusing Professor, will hold forth, to the edification and amusement of the inhabitants of this town. It comes here highly recommended for its artistic beauty, as well as for fidelity in the representation of the views. See Bills.

We return our best thanks to H. C. R. Beeche Esq., for a copy of the London Times, in advance of the mail.

We regret to announce that two young boys when bathing were drowned near this town, on Thursday the 31st ult. The body of one has been found, the other has not.

We were much gratified to observe the handsome remarks of our contemporary the Free Press on T. C. Dixon, Esq., who is about to commence as Commission Agent:

We observe from the columns of a contemporary that T. C. Dixon, Esq., has commenced business on Lumley street, as a Broker and Commission Merchant. In giving this announcement as much publicity as our columns afford, we would, at the same time express the hope that Mr. Dixon will be eminently successful in his new undertaking.

ARISTOCRACY.

We cannot refrain from giving our readers an extract showing what our neighbors across the line regard as the brand of Aristocracy, it is certainly very amusing—

SIR WILLIAM DON.

A few weeks since took me on a flying visit to Pittsburgh. Whilst there the reputed eccentricities of the tall Scotch baronet Sir William Don, induced me to stroll late in the evening into the Theatre. On entering, a storm of hisses greeted my somewhat astonished ears, which I found was directed towards Sir William who was vainly endeavoring to obtain a hearing.

At last, however, order having been somewhat restored, he addressed the audience, as far as I can recollect in these words:—

I have been in this country ladies and gentlemen four years, and never before, in my theatrical career, level I received a mark of disapprobation. I understand I am charged in this city with the crime of being an aristocrat simply because I cease to exercise that liberty you have taught me during my residence in the United States, and refected to dine in my own room in preference to suffering the suffocating atmosphere of the dining room of the City Hall, which is all are my monopolized by flies, and where, in deference to the other guests, I could not appear without my coat. Now, ladies and gentlemen, if you call it aristocracy for a man to dine in his room with his shirt sleeves turned up, upon cold mutton and potatoes, I must politely ask you want you call democracy. I have always endeavored to avoid offending any one. If on the present occasion I have done, why, I can only say I am sorry for it."

He then bowed and retired, and I will do the Alleghany the justice to say, they seemed to appreciate his blunt explanation. The hisses were changed into tears; and I am told they supported him liberally throughout an excellent engagement.

To the Editor of the Times.

SIR,

It must always be an unenviable position for a man to assume when he takes up his pen to censure the acts of any public body of men the more particularly constituted or chosen as the guardians of life and health; but a feeling of humanity counels me to occupy a place in your journal, with the view, that some active steps may at once be taken to re-open your Cholera Hospital, which, I doubt not you have heard has been closed these some days.

It is with deep regret I learn that the disease has again visited your town, and the more especially the East end of Dundas Street, as well as other localities. John Tuke, Mr. Warner's son, Mr. Coxton and J. Tooker, North Street, as well as many others whose names I have not been able to find out, I am ever desirous to offer my humble need of praise to constituted body, when governed in their Councils, by a due regard towards pecuniary expenditure, but where this too rigid economy is attended ay a large sacrifice of human life, then I say it carries with it the stamp of recklessness for same, what constitutes or contributes to the prosperity of any country are hands and intelligence to work her resources consequently we cannot afford to lose any.

Let your hospitals be at once opened, and inspectors appointed for each Ward, and have the disease treated in its first stage, and then you may hope under God's assistence to save many a valuable life who may be spared his or her proportion towards the expenses of your town.

Hoping, sir, that you will excuse the liberty I take

I remain

Your obdt serv't,

A TAX-PAYER.

"UNCLE NED HAD NO HAIR ON THE TOP OF HIS HEAD, IN THE PLACE WHERE THE HAIR OUGHT TO GROW."

But he lived previous to the discovery of Lyon's celebrated Kathairon, which not only preserves and beautifies, but restores the hair at any period of life. Only those who will not try it, are troubled with Baldness, Dandruff, or harsh unpleasant hair.

From the Home Journal, N. Y.

"No article ever acquired so rapid celebrity and universal appreciation as LYON'S KATHAIRON. To those who have used it (and who has not) the reason is obvious, as its invigorating and beautifying effects and agreeable Perfume, stamp it an indespensible article of the toilet." Sold at the old price of 25 cents, in large bottles, by all dealers, everywhere.

All kinds of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, from a PIANO PORTE down to a FIFE.

STRINGS of all kinds and of superior quality; in short, every thing which can or may be found in a well and carefully selected Music Store.

The PIANOS are made by the following celebrated Gentlemen, viz:

CHICKERING STODDART & DUNHAM,

Acknowledged to be the best on this part of the Globe, as are the MELODIANS, manufactured by PRINCE & CO. PIANOS and MELODIANS sold as Cheap and on as favourable Terms as they can be procured in Toronto, or from the Maker's themselves.

Besides these Pianos of Chickering, Stodart & Dunham. Mr. Kordes keeps constantly on hand Pianos of other good makers, such as Baron and Raven, Gilbert, Gale, etc. Also second hand Pianos, from £10 upwards to £50. Old Pianos taken in exchange, and a liberal allowance made. Pianos Tuned and repaired. All orders from a distance promptly attended to.

Mr. Kordes has constantly on hand an assortment of very superior Brass Instruments, for the formation and use of Bands, as Ophiclides, Sax horns, Trombones, Cooopeans, Bugles, Post horns, French horns, etc., which will be sold low, and on very favorable terms.

Mr. Kordes would just say a few words regarding the Pianos of Chickering, Stodart & Dunham, in the first place, they are warranted to keep good and sound in all their parts, for any number of years, provided they receive good treatment.

In the second place, any person having such a thing as what is called an ear for music, will, without looking at the makers name, be able to detect the difference between a Stodart, a Dunham or a Chickering, to a Piano from any other maker, without exception; the woody, wiry, harsh kind of sound, so predominant in other instruments, is changed into a mellow, sweet, full and brilliant tone in the Pianos of the above three makers.

As regards keeping in tune; these Pianos require a good tuner 3 times in 12 months and decent treatment, they never require more than this, may, however, sometimes require less. Care and attention is all they need.

LONDON, C. W.

Our great popularity which Moffat's Life Pills and Phœnix Bitters have attained in consequence of the extraordinary cures effected by their use, renders it unnecessary for the proprietor to enter into a particular analysis of their medicinal virtues or properties. Having been more than twenty years before the public, and having the united testimony of more than Three Millions of persons who have been restored to the enjoyment of perfect health by them it is believed that their reputation as the best family medicine now before the public admits of no dispute. In almost every city and village in the United States, there are many who are ready to testify to their efficacy in removing disease and giving to the whole system renewed vigor and health.

In cases of Scrofula, Ulcers, Scurvy or Eruptions of the skin the operation of the Life Medicines is truly astonishing often removing in a few days every vestige of these loathsome diseases by their purifying effects on the blood. Fever and Ague, Dyspepsia, Dropsy, Piles, and in short most all diseases arising from impurities of the blood or deranged stomach and bowels, are entirely subdued by them.

Full directions accompany each box of pills and bottle of Phœnix Bitters, so that no one need suffer from these diseases a day longer than they choose to do so. Remember that Moffat's Life Pills and Phœnix Bitters are entirely vegetable and contain no mercury or other mineral, and may be taken at all times with perfect safety by the most delicate female or infant.

Be sure and ask for Moffat's Life Pills and Phœnix Bitters, and take no others, as all pretended remedies are worthless.

be dashed to earth do it at once' Why were my last letters unanswered? Why do I find you here?"

You find me here, fair lady, because I have no more money to spend. For the same reason I left G. so suddenly that I had no time to inform Miss Herbert of my departure, and since I reached New York, I could not see her, thus attired, thus destitute."

"Uncle James was right then," mournfully sighed his auditress; "I was forgotten."

"Nay, Sarah Herbert," and his hateur vanished like the passing gloom of a thunder cloud from a summer's landscape; "I have never for an instant forgotten you. Could I forget those lips I have so often pressed, that form my arm has encircled, aye, could I forget the heart burning kiss on that day of maddening agony, never, never! But though I worship you, it must henceforth be as the wanderer adores the star, which lights his lonely path through the wilderness. I am unworthy of love like yours. I dare not touch you for I am polluted. Your visit this night will be to me as the spring in the desert, as light to the captive. But, we must part, and, forever! I can never wed you to a life of degradation, and such must be mine henceforth, disowned by my father, and cast upon the wide world."

"Clifford generous, dearest, Clifford, accept thou this" and she drew from her bosom a small miniature of him, such as he was in happier days. One long year has passed since I have gained any tidings of you, and yet, so true my memory preserved your image, that last week I drew this likeness. I have been sought by many, but my heart has turned from a blood fondly clung to thee, and now I hear from your lips this sentence. Oh, Clifford let us be one before the altar and what shall separate us?"

A low tap on the door reminded them that their hour was past. Slowly rose Sarah Herbert, and as Clifford did the same, she knelt on that stone floor before him.

"I stir not hence till I have your promise that my most ardent desire shall be granted."

"I promise that to-morrow evening if you will but come here, I will gratify you in anything that you ask. Rise, rise, dearest, best" said he, raising her tenderly and pressing her to his bosom. "You must go now; there is another call for you," and, acquiescing in the necessity alluded to, our heroine withdrew.

The next day, as they rose from dinner, James Leventon led his niece to his study, and placing her on the sofa beside him, put into her hand an open note, containing these words:

"Precious one—

To night, at nine o'clock, be with me. Be punctual. I need not say be faithful.

Thine own C."

"This accidentally came into my hands, my child, and was opened ere I noticed the direction. Do you know that writing said Mr. L."

"Yes uncle."

"And you would go, wretched girl; you would rush in the prison of crime that unworthy man."

"Aye, uncle, though I purchased death by it, though it procured for me the martyr's doom."

"Martyrs are not so easily made in these days," replied Mr. L. and he paused. He knew the spirit with which he had to contend, and at length added: "You shall go, and I will accompany you. You shall have your own way. God grant it prove not a curse to you."

Nine was striking solemnly from the prison clock, as Mr. Leventon and his neice entered the low door of the cell. What a scene presented itself. On the straw bed in one corner lay Clifford Allston; by his side stood a clergyman who motioned them to approach saying in an under tone, "Did he expect you he has spoken of nine o'clock in his ravings, and requested my presence here at that hour."

"Sarah, be calm" said Mr. L. as he laid a restraining hand on her to prevent her madly rushing to the bedside. "Be composed my dear child and look upward for strength to bear the trial which I see will be yours" added he affectionately passing his arm around her.

"He is calm now" said the benevolent looking minister "I have summoned a physician. Hear he is," and Dr. M. came in, he passed to the patient, regarded him, examined his features, and, seizing the lamp searched carefully the apartment, looked into the pockets of the sick man's clothes, and at length approached the group who watched his every movement with intense eagerness, said, "He is poisoned. Know you anything of it she exclaimed, turning to the turnkey who stood by the door.

The man replied in the negative, adding that he only knew Mr. Johnson (his assumed name) was a great opium chewer, and had been so for a long time.

"I judged so" said Dr. M. "when did this stupor commence."

"Oh! sir it was about four o'clock he began to rave awfully, and to talk about some lady and a minister and nine o'clock, and then he spoke again of his father and of a cruel uncle and vowed revenge, but about half an hour ago he began to calm off and has ever since been as you see.

Is the young man an acquaintance of yours Mr. Leventon" asked the minister, with a wondering glance at Sarah, who, with her mantilla closely drawn around her face, stood leaning on her uncle for support.

"Slightly so sir said that gentleman with a cold repelling air.

"Nerve yourself" said Dr. M "for a fearful struggle" then coming nearer to Miss H. whispered.

"My dear child let me urge you to leave this horrid place. Your agitation may expose you, and you can be of no possible service."

"Aye, do, my dear girl," said her uncle; "I will remain, and report to you faithfully every particular."

"Urge me not, urge me not" was the reply. "My brain reels! Oh! for strength!" Mr. Leventon placed her on the wooden bench, and Dr. M. who having been for years an intimate friend of the family, had recognized Sarah at once, took from the medicine chest which had been brought in by his direction some restorative drops, and after inducing upon her swallowing them, as a condition of her stay, induced, by cogent, golden reason, the absence of the prison official, and drawing near Mr. L., held, for a few moments, a whispered consultation, when, leading towards him the venerable clergymen he said:

"There need be no concealment here, Dr. Wilson. I have answered to Mr. Leventon for your secrecy, and beg leave formally to introduce you to each other. A paroxysm I foresee will soon commence which will require our united energy.

"Ha!" shouted the patient, "not mine yet! deceived, clocks put back. Cajoled.

His voice seemed to inspire Miss Herbert. She sprang to him and throwing back her mantle exclaimed:

"Did I ever deceive you Clifford. False to all else, to you I was and am true.

"Aye, here here to be married. A wedding in black" he exclaimed as his eye glanced over her mantle, "prophetically appropriate, but no parson yet, Ah! Dr. Wilson you've come to marry me, ha! ha! ha! Your fee will be munificent, ha! ha!"

"Clifford, dearest" interposed Sarah, putting her hand gently on his forehead and parting the rich gold masses of hair that lay disturbed and matted where it was wont to fall so gracefully.

"Mother, you here—yes we will walk in the green field down by the little river, and come home over the foot-bridge. No, no, Sarah Herbert, too pure art thou for me—out out, wretches, ye shall not touch her."

Dr. M. advanced with a draught which was rejected by Allston with characteristic impetuosity, and for two hours did the dismayed group listen to ravings such as a lost spirit might utter. They are too fearful to be recorded. Oath, blasphemies poured from his mouth. He sometimes babbled green fields, sometimes addressed Miss H., as an accusing spirit, and sometimes as his mother.

The clock told twelve, and, to the surprise of all, calmness stole over the maniac. He gazed around him with an intelligent look, and said, "Sarah, you have fulfilled your promise, and I see Dr. Wilson is here! who are these?"

"My uncle, dearest Clifford" replied the agonized girl, summoning all her fortitude, and Dr. W. whose presence has been necessary in your extreme illness."

"Methought I was ill, love, but you are here," and he feebly grasped her hand, and, hurrying it to his lips impressed a kiss upon it. "I feel quite well, but weak."

Dr. Wilson advanced. "My dear young friend," said he solemnly, "I must tell you that you are very near the close of life. A few moments may terminate your earthly existence—have you any message for your father? Have you any worldly business to be transacted? Have you made your peace with ——?"

"I defy you and the death of which you speak," growled the dying man; "I sent for you to marry me, and you would try to frighten me. Clifford Allston has heard sermons and cants before," and beckoning to Dr. M. he whispered "Opium, Dr, opium,—give me some and I shall be quite well."

"I must confirm" said Dr. M. with deep emotion, "what Dr. Wilson has just been saying to you, an hour hence may find you in eternity."

"Eternity. I do not dread it! The scarecrow of fools, but Sarah dearest, best," turning to the almost petrified Miss H "grant me one favor. If I must die let me leave behind me one to bear my name—who shall have a right to mourn for me. Let me now be married? Do you consent?

"Thine forever Clifford" was the only reply.

The uncle interposed "Mr. Allston this must not be. I would not in an hour like this seem harsh! Nay, dearest Sarah" he continued in answer to her pleading look. "I have indulged you beyond all limit, but this must never be—a niece of mine married in prison and under such circumstances! No, No. My child, I must disregard your petition,

"Nay uncle!"

"Should that request again be urged, Mr. Allston, Sarah must instantly depart"

"Mr. Allston" said the clergyman I conjure you not to leave this world absorbed in its love or its hates. Listen to the voice of mercy before whose tribunal you must very soon stand. Can you meet him with joy, are you ready to die."

"Ready to die" howled Clifford "Mock me not old man, ready to meet the judge of all men. Aye, I am ready, ripe, ripe, for hell. I feel its fires, I hear its groans. The worms crop raw——ing my vitals? Doctor, give me some opium. Let me forget—oh! see that fiend, he shrieks at me.

"Oh! Clifford be composed, you'll break my heart! indeed you will. Be quiet, be calm. Look at me, love."

"Aye, Sarah, I have said heaven was in your eye—but I'm going——where——going to——"

It was all over, and as Doc or M. closed those glassy eyes, once so brilliant, Sarah Herbert, who had schooled herself to bear hitherto now fell into a death-like swoon, and was thus carried to her home, where for four weeks she hovered between life and death. The unremitting attentions of Dr. M. were by God's blessing, efficacious, and from that couch of suffering, Sarah Herbert could date the dawn of a new existence. She was, in the eye of the world, a faded beauty but to those who look for something more than mere perfection of form and features, her face was far more lovely than ever, for its expression spoke of a soul at peace with all mankind, with its God. The cup of affliction which she had in her youthful folly thus early drained, cast a deep shadow upon her life; but she was led to look through to him who oft times allows his creatures "to eat of the fruits of their own doings," and thus teaches them the unsatisfying nature of all earthly things.

The stranger who visits A——, in India, will be told of the American lady who taught the children of the village; soothed many a sick bed and brought more than one outcast to the Saviour, and he will be led to the enclosure of the mission chapel where beneath a tall palm tree is a marble slab with this inscription:

SARAH HERBERT,
Æt 45.

"Perfect through suffering purified
And strengthening by its power.
This be the record of my soul,
In its departing hour."

Poultry Raising.

At a recent meeting of the Concord (N. H.) Farmer's Club, the question being, "Is the raising of poultry profitable?" Mr. James P. Brown said he had entertained the opinion that the raising of poultry could not be made profitable among farmers. His sons, however, had a different opinion, a year ago he proposed to sell them all his poultry, and purchase with them all eggs and chickens he needed for that family, upon condition that they were to keep an accurate account of the expenses, and make a true return to him at the end of the year.

Before coming to the meeting he had called upon them for a return up to this time, the period including nine months, and the following is their statement:

Had on hand, March 1st, 1852. 26 fowls, valued at,	$10.00
Cost of keeping, consisting of corn, meal, potatoes and meat, 19 63—$29.63
Received for 32 spring chicks, sold,	29.03
For eggs up to December 1st,	19.31
Have now 31 fowls, worth 33 cents each,	27.33——75.67
Expenses,	29.65
Profit in nine months,	$45.02

He had seen from day to day how the fowls had been taken care of, and after reading this statement, had changed his opinion, and now believes that poultry may be profitably raised by bestowing upon it the same attention that is given to other farm stock when well-taken care of. These fowls were plentifully supplied with such food as is accessible to all who usually keep them—corn, oats, potatoes, and occasionally fresh meat, such as the plucks of sheep, or the flesh of young calves, many of which are killed at the age of three or four days by those who are selling milk.

Mr. Jacob B. Farmer said, a few years ago he thought he knew something about fowls, but recently had almost come to the conclusion that his knowledge was not to be relied on. He had often found as much clear profit from a single hen through the winter as from a cow. Had frequently got $1,50 per bushel for the grain fed to them, and he received as high as $2.40 a bushel. They should be kept, he said, in a dry warm place. During the last year his fowls had been diseased, and he had received no profit from them whatever. When he had made a profit it was from the native breed.

Mr. C. W. Goodnow, said he had been thinking of Mr. Brown's profits on a single hen, and they would be about 500 per cent. on the investment. He thought Mr. B's opportunities for keeping fowls very advantageous; his own advantages were not so good, but he thought they afforded a fairer opportunity to get at the actual profits than when they were running on the farm. He had only an acre or two of garden, and was obliged to keep his fowls in somewhat narrower limits than the farmer does his. By careful experiment, he had ascertained that each hen requires one bushel and a third of grain each year, which he thought would not be at a less average cost than $1,33 a year; then how shall he find his profits? Would she afford him 12 dozen eggs a year? if so, she would pay cost, but nothing more; in all his experiments, which had been many, he had not been able to derive a profit from them, beyond the keeping of some eight or twelve, which number would provide mostly for themselves while the ground is open.

Mr. Simon Brown related some experiences in which he had realized larger profits from the investment made in his poultry than from any other item in his farm.

Mr. J. Reynolds said he knew a lad who five years ago began to keep poultry. He bought five or six hens, raised chickens, and sold chickens and eggs. He fed largely upon fresh fish. He now has a flock of some fifty hens! has purchased a cow, repaired his little barn, clothed himself, assisted his mother more or less, and is now, from the sale of his milk, and the produce of his poultry, quite a thriving young man, accumulating a very pretty capital.

The Trial of J. S. Orr, at Charleston.

The trial of Orr, known as "Angel Gabriel," which was postponed till Tuesday last, came up this morning before Justice Warren, of Charleston. The three complaints found against Orr, viz:—disturbing a place of worship on the Lord's day; disturbing the peace by the blowing of his trumpet on the Lord's day; and for selling hand bills on the Lord's day,—were severally proved by the testimony of many witnesses.

The defendant called up several witnesses, but their evidence only went to corroborate that given by the government. In defence Orr stated to the court that he had no wilful intentions to disturb any person or persons, but he admitted the truth of the complaints. He also indulged in a tirade against the officers who arrested him, the press generally, and the Romish Church in particular.

Mr. Griffith, for the Government, made some extremely sensible and appropriate remarks upon the character and designs of Orr, and gave some good advice to those who are so foolish as to sustain the impostor "Gabriel."

Justice Warren defined the statute law, in regard to the proper observance of the Sabbath, very clearly to the defendant, and adjudged him guilty, by the evidence on each complaint. The Justices further remarked that sundry papers had been sent to him anonymously, which were of a threatening character, in the event of his deciding unfavorably for the defendant.

He stated that those who sent them would be disappointed in their aims. He then read to the defendant the amount of fine and costs on each complaint, amounting in all to $74, and ordered him to find sureties in $300 for his good behaviour in all the towns and cities in the Commonwealth, for the term of six months.

Orr paid his fine promptly, without saying a word, and having found sureties for his good behaviour, was allowed to depart.

The Court room was crowded during the trial, but everything passed off quietly.—Boston Herald, August 30.

ARRIVAL OF THE WASHINGTON.

NEW YORK, August 31st.

The Washington arrived this afternoon at one o'clock, bringing 240 passengers and 450 tons of goods.

Lord John Russel had stated in Parliament, that a communication had been sent by the Czar to the Austrian Government that he intended to evacuate the Principalities. The Austrian Minister had intimated to the Ministers of England and France, that his Government was, nevertheless, ready to interchange notes as provisionally agreed upon, with the view of obtaining security for future peace. It remains to be seen, however, whether Austria would put her armies in action to obtain those securities by force, if they could not be obtained by negotiation.

The Queen's speech at the prorogation of Parliament in reference to the war was temperate and firm. The effectual repression of the ambitious and aggressive spirit of Russia, she said, was the sole object for which the British and French forces had co-operated, and to which they were devoting all their power.

The French Ambassador at Madrid has been threatened by the Pope.

Trade at Canton showed symptoms of improvement. The excess of imports of tea as compared with those of last year was estimated at 31,000,00 lbs.

The British barque Tolusse, with 350 Californian bound passengers, was lost in the Pirate Shoals. None of the passengers were lost.

Confidence at Hong Kong had been restored. Pirates still abounded in the Canton rivers. The steamer Plymouth was at Shanghae.

ARRIVAL OF THE PACIFIC.

CAPTURE OF BOMARSUND CONFIRMED.

New York, Sept. 3rd.

The steamer Pacific, Captain Ney arrived at 3 o'clock. She left Liverpool on the 23rd ult.

Cotton market dull; prices are 1-6 to 1-8 lower; sales 3 days 13,000 bales.

Flour—fair request; 6d. to 9d. decline on the parrel. Wheat declined 3d. to 4d.

Corn active for speculation; market 6d. lower.

Consol's buoyant—closing 94 to 94¼.

NEWS OF THE WAR.

The surrender of Bomarsund is confirmed. The Paris Moniteur announces that the Austrian forces had actually entered the Principalities and Archangel is effectually blockaded.

All quiet in Spain.

Trade in Manchester quiet and buyers not disposed to make further contracts.

The ship Shannon bound from Glasgow to Mon real, was destroyed by fire on 3rd ult. Passengers, officers and crew all saved.

Letters from Bomarsund give the details of the capture. The effect of the guns upon the walls was terrific, and large blocks of marble which appeared impregnable fell out in masses. The English loss was 1, French loss trifling. The enemy had 6 killed and 7 wounded. 2,000 prisoners were taken, and are to be sent to France in English ships. Among the prisoners are General Boudisco, the Governor, also the Lieutenant Governor of the Fortress. The Bombardment lasted four days, one of the forts "Zee," was blown up after it had capitulated, whether by Russians or French remains as yet uncertain.

ARRIVAL OF THE EUROPA.

The following report of the Europa's news is from the New York papers of Wednesday.

THE WAR.

From Vienna, the 16th, it is telegraphed: —"There is reason to believe that Prince Alexander Gortschakoff this morning notified the Austrian Government, that as long as the Turks are in Wallachia the Russians will retain strategetic points in the Principalities. Austria has given up the intention of proposing to the Germanic Diet to put the federal army on a war footing."

THE BALTIC.

The Paris Moniteur announces that on the 7th and 8th August, the French expeditionary force was landed on the Island of Aland, north of the fortress of Bomarsund. At the same time a force of English and French marines landed south of the fortress. The disembarkation was covered by war steamers, and was effected, as the Moniteur says, without a man getting his feet wet. They then erected their batteries, while the Russians destroyed theirs, and fell back on the main fortress. By the 13th the fortress was completely invested. On the 15th the Russians made a sortie, but were driven in. On the 15th the French carried a redoubt of eight guns without losing a man. Another account says it was a strong fort they took after several hours' fighting.

The bombardment of the main fortress was to begin on the 16th.

Reports in the English papers say that the inhabitants of Aland had risen against the Russians, and it was proclaimed by order of the French Admiral, from the pulpits of the Churches, that the Russian sway on the islands had ceased.

THE DANUBE.

The aspect of affairs on the Danube is quite unchanged.

The Russians continue to fortify all strategetic points as they advance.

The London Daily News contains a remarkable special correspondence, stating that the British troops in camp at Monastir, near Devena, are decimated by malignant cholera, totally destitute of medicine, famishing for lack of food, and are discontented and almost disorganized. The Times correspondent partly confirms the statement.

Prince Paskiewith returned to Warsaw on the 13th and will again take the command of the Southern Army.

THE BLACK SEA.

As yet nothing has been done.

Constantinople letters speak of the expedition against the Crimea as still in progress, but that the attack is deferred on account of the cholera.

Important intelligence is expected from the East before the next week.

A Russian despatch from Odessa expressly says: "The allied fleets tried to land at Balaklawa, Crimea."

At Sebastopol it was reported that Admiral Lyons, had bombarded Anapa for 24 hours. The result was unknown.

The Sultan's daughter, Princess Fatima, was married to Reschid Pasha's son, at Constantinople, on the 10th inst.

The Russian fleet came out of Sebastopol and was off Odessa, but they returned in safety.

ASIA.

On the 4th August, an offensive and defensive alliance was concluded between the Porte and Schamyl. The terms have not transpired. It is, however, understood that Schamyl insisted that the Porte should recognize the independence of Circassia; he in return offering the assistance of 50,000 mountaineers to act in concert with the Turkish forces.

It is said that Schamyl has obtained a great victory over the Russians, but Russian reports state that General Wrangle had advanced with the Russian troops from Erivan, and defeated the Turks near Bajezid, with great slaughter, captured eight guns and afterwards occupied Bajezid.

Mercantile letters from Bagdad say that contracts have been made to furnish supplies and transports for a Hindoo British force which would arrive via the Persian Gulf, and be landed at Baza, mouth of the river Tigris.

The emperor of Morocco has pronounced his intention to present the Sultan with thirty millions of piastres, and 12,000 troops annually while the war lasts.

LATEST BY TELEGRAPH.

The Anglo-French Land force at Bomarsund is 15,000 strong—supported by the fleets.

BERLIN 16.—The Vienna conference is expected to re assemble next week.

PARIS, 18th, Evening.—The following despatch has just been received; "Orders have been issued for the Austrians to enter Wallachia, and they have commenced crossing the frontier at Turnu Severin."

Odessa letters of the 7th say that no real blockade exists either at Odessa or the East of Azof.

MADRID, 16th.—The Juntas of Malaga and Lerida refuse to recognize the new Government.

LONDON, Saturday.—Fort Tzee and Fort Nottick at Aland have been taken—one by the French and the other by the English.—The loss of the allies was small.

SURRENDER OF BOMARSUND.

The British steamer Basilisk has arrived at Dantzic from the Baltic, and brings the news that Bomarsund surrendered on the 16th inst.

2,000 Russians were taken prisoners.

The French lost one hundred and sixty killed.

William Lettsoh is appointed Secretary of the British Legation at Mexico.

THE HARVEST IN ENGLAND.

The Gardner's Chronicle, published in London, by Lindley, the distinguished Botanist, and one of the reliable authorities on Agricultural matters, publishes tabular reports from its own correspondents in every county in England, as well as various parts of Ireland, Scotland and Wales, of the prospects of the harvest in their respective districts. The following are the results of an analysis of reports from 134 correspondents, spread over the 40 English Counties:

"Wheat: Favorable, 112; unfavorable 12; neuter, 10.

"Barley: Favorable, 103: unfavorable, 12; neuter, 12.

"Oats: Favorable, 104; unfavorable, 12; neutral, 11."

Partial enquiries made in the Irish, Scotch and Welsh counties give similar favorable results.

THE NEW GOVERNOR.

We find the following in the Quebec Mercury, of the 26th ult.

Colonel Havre, A. D. C. to His Excellency Sir Edmund Head, has arrived in town, from New Brunswick, and is at present sojourning at Spencer Wood.

We understand that Lord Elgin will proceed to England immediately on the meeting of Parliament.

Further, we hear from New Brunswick that Sir Edmund Head will assume the reins of power with special authority from Downing Street to forward an immediate union of all the Provinces.

A move, in the right direction, unhappily a little late, but entrusted to able and honest hands, and which it is to be hoped the measure will not be behind in the requirements of the age, at least it is the duty of every good subject to support it.

It would appear from the above that "the Bruce" will shortly take his departure from amongst us, but whether to assume the governor generalship of India or not, is a matter of doubt.—Spectator.

The Mortality in Hamilton.

We publish below, the final report of the Board of Health, embracing all the deaths in this city, from all causes, from 29th June to the 23 ult. The aggregate presents a very large number, 776 in less than two months, and out of that total, 543 from Cholera, some where about half the number. Most fresh cases have a peculiar early fatality, but it is to be hoped, however, that the decreasing average has now attained its progress, and as the cooler days of autumn are never was at this season of the year. Germans and Norwegians, it will be observed, form the largest number of strangers that have fallen victims to the ravages of the cholera in our midst; all, with a few exceptions, being immigrants.—Of residents the native Canadians, and Americans, exceed all others in number, the Irish come next, and the English and Scotch are nearly equal.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

Statement of mortality in the City of Hamilton, from the 29th of June, to the 23rd of August:

English	97
Irish	186
Scotch	94
Germans and Norwegians	197
Canadians and Americans	201
Total Mortality	776
From Cholera	543
Other Causes	233

210 of the above were Emigrants.

PORTABLE STEAM SAW MILL.

We have been favoured with a description of a portable steam Saw-mill, just constructed by Messrs. Angew, Dickey & Co., of this City, for Messrs. Jones, Manning & Co., contractors on the Grand Trunk Railway, which is deserving of some notice on account of its novelty of construction and the compactness of the machine in proportion to the power of the engine. The whole of the machinery is disposed in a strong oak trunk which, with the engine, &c., weighs about three tons.—On one side of the trunk stands a tubular boiler, with inside fire box, and so constructed as to give an extensive heating surface in proportion to the body of water to be heated, and to the side of the boiler is fitted a strong cast-iron frame on which the engine is built. On the other side of the trunk is the carriage which is connected with the engine in such a manner that by the simple moving of a lever, the sawyer can control its motion so as to make it stop, advance or recede at pleasure. The engine is of 8-horse power, and the waste steam is made to pass through a pipe to heat the water before going into the boiler. The whole is put together in a skilful and substantial manner, in the highest degree creditable to the enterprising builders.

Before leaving the shop, the engine was steamed up and sawed a log of 20 inches in diameter in the presence of the owners, who expressed themselves highly pleased at the success of the experiment. It is made to cut ties for the Grand Trunk Railway, 9 feet long, and when in full operation is expected to cut 300 a day, but the builders are confident that mills on the same principle could easily be made to cut lumber for all common purposes. The contractors are to lay logs along the line, and the machine will be moved along from point to point to cut them into ties. Several others, both large and small, are now in course of being constructed.—Globe.

LIKE MASTER LIKE MAN.

The following bonnie wee bit of information we received from the British Canadian:

"An illiterate Postmaster and Magistrate is an anomaly, yet it seems that a Mr. William Watson, of Brooke, in the County of Lambton, "who can neither read nor write and has to sign his name with the usual x" has lately been honored with the commission of the peace for the County of Lambton.—This was not sufficient inducement for the support of Malcolm Cameron, and so as Mr. Archibald McGregor, the Post Master of Brooke, refused to vote for Mr. Cameron, it was resolved to displace him. The office was offered to four different persons, the four votes were recorded, three of course were disappointed, and it has fallen upon the learned Mr. Wm. Watson, and the man who can neither read nor write is to be the letter sorter, letter forwarder, and letter deliverer, of the correspondence which has hitherto gone through the Brooke Post Office. Only fancy such a man placed in such a position."

With all due deference to the Canadian we opine he is kicking up a shindy about nothing.

In Solomon's humble opinion, the appointment of Squire William Watson to the Postmastership of Brooke, was excellently appropriate, when the circumstances of the case are taken into account.

There would be an end to all subordination if servants were to be more learned than their masters. Nay, we will go a step further, and affirm that where the employer knows as much as his employer, the former almost invariably cooks up his case to the latter!

This being conceded, does the Canadian not at once perceive that when a Postmaster General cannot spell, it would be gross presumption in his deputy to be able to write?

BOY KILLED BY THE FALLING OF AN OVEN.—On Thursday last an inquest was held before H. B. Ball, Esq., Coroner, on the body of a lad named Lawrence Shea, who came to his death by being smothered in consequence of the falling of a Baker's oven. It appears that Mr. Toumkins, a baker, residing on James Street, entered into a contract with a man by the name of Stephens, to build an Oven, the said Stephens to provide all material and warrant the work for three months. The arch was finished on Thursday Morning, and before noon Stephens sent his son, a lad about ten years old, to take away the clay in the Oven which supports the arch;—the deceased coming along where the other boy was working—commenced assisting him, and the two had nearly taken all the clay out, when the walls gave way, and the whole of the arch came down on the two boys. Assistance was immediately at hand, and rubbish cleared away, but not before the deceased had been suffocated. The other lad met with little or no injury, as in consequence of the way in which the bricks fell he was able to breathe. The Jury after a careful examination of the different witnesses, returned the following verdict:—That Lawrence Shea came to his death by the falling of an Oven, which was building by Jonathan Stephens, for William Humphries, into which the deceased voluntarily entered. They are also of opinion that the said Jonathan Stephens is liable to very severe censure for the hasty and unworkmanlike manner in which said Oven was constructed.—Hamilton Gazette.

A Jesuit's Oath.

The following is the oath taken by every Jesuit Priest. The undersigned, a member of the Society (for it has spread itself all over the whole world) is, "to live and die under the means," and a rule of the Order is that every member "ought sincerely to allow himself to be carried, ruled, placed, displaced by Divine Providence through his superiors," just as if he were a corpse; or, like the staff which an old man holds in his hand, and which serves him as he pleases.

Each Novitiate, after years of the strictest discipline and hard study, on receiving the commission of Priesthood swears.

I, A. B., now in the presence of Almighty God, the blessed Virgin Mary, the holy apostles, St. Peter and St. Paul, and the Saints, and the Sacred Host of Heaven, and to my ghostly father, do declare my heart, without mental reservation, that his Holiness, Pope ——, is Christ's Vicar General, and is the true and only head of the Catholic Church, throughout the earth; that by virtue of the keys of binding and loosing given to his Holiness by Jesus Christ, he has power to depose heretical kings, princes, states commonwealths and governments, all being illegal, without his sacred confirmation; and that they may safely be destroyed; therefore to the utmost of my power I shall and will defend this doctrine, and his holiness' rights and customs against all usurpers of the heretical authority whatsoever, especially against the new pretended authority, and church of England, and all adherents, because she and they are heretical, opposing the sacred mother church of Rome.

I do renounce and disown my allegiance to any heretical king, prince or state named Protestants, or of obedience to any of their inferior magistrates. I do further declare the doctrine of the church of England, of Calvinists, Hugenots, and other heretics to be damnable, and those to be damned who will not forsake the same. I do further declare that I will help, assist and advise all our or any of His Holiness' agents in any place wherever I shall be; and do my utmost to extirpate the heretical Protestants' doctrine, and to destroy all their pretended powers regal or otherwise. I do further promise and declare that notwithstanding I am dispensed to assume any religion heretical, for the mother churches interest, to keep secret and private all her agents' counsels, as they intrust me, and not to divulge, directly or indirectly, by word, writing or circumstance whatever, but shall execute all that shall be proposed, given in charge or discovered unto me by you, my ghostly father, or by any of this sacred convent. All which, I, A. B., do swear by the blessed Trinity and blessed Sacrament, which I am now to receive, to perform, and on my part, to keep inviolably; and I do call all the heavenly and glorious host of Heaven, to witness these my real intentions to keep this my oath. In testimony hereof, I take this most holy and blessed sacrament of the Eucharist, and to witness the same further with my hand and seal, in the presence of this holy convent, this ——day of, &c.

The Know-Nothings.

This secret body appears to gain strength day by day. In every state of the American Union they have opened wigwams, and the secrecy with which they conduct all their operations, and the remarkable success which has attended them, are perhaps without a parallel in modern times. In every United States paper we pick up we read of their doings at elections, in almost every instance returning the men of their nominating. The interference of this body at the polls has so far been confined to Municipal and State elections, but it is now confidently asserted that they will carry the elections for Congress in the fall, and elect the next President. We give a couple of extracts from the New York Tribune, of a late date to show the way in which they manage their business:

"As instances of the profound secresy of their movements we notice that in Alabama, Geo., at a special election for Alderman, in the morning there was but one Know-Nothing candidate, but in the evening, Mr. E. J. Haley a quiet respectable citizen who never aspired to office, came 120 ahead, to the astonishment of everybody and himself especially.

At Allegheny, Penn., the other day, there was an election for Councilman to fill a vacancy in the Second Ward. J. R. Large and John Conley were the only candidates heard of. When the polls closed, the vote was declared:

Large - - - -	43
Conley - - - -	23
James Gardner - - -	84

When this result was announced, everybody appeared to be astonished. No one could be found who had voted for Gardiner or seen his tickets or even knew that he was a candidate. Even the two other candidates were not aware of a third party running in opposition to them.

Opposition to the Irish Catholics it would appear is the main object of this organization, although not the only one."

KNOW NOTHINGS.

As an offset to what we previously stated in respect to the prosperity of this combination, we insert the following:

"What a great deal said now-a-days about the Know-Nothings. Almost every body has something to say about them, but we doubt very much whether one in ten of those who use the term know anything about its origin, or the nature of the order which bears the quaint title. The American press teems with articles about this secret order, and, as a general thing, concur in denouncing it as a most wicked and dangerous institution. Although the Know-Nothings are a strictly secret organization, still their great or leading objects are made public. In speaking of this order an American paper says:

These traitors to the liberty of their country ask:

1st. The repeal of the naturalization laws.

2nd. None but native Americans for office.

3rd. A pure American common school system.

4th. War to the hilt on political Romanism.

5th. Opposition first and last to the formation of military companies composed of foreigners.

6th. The advocate of a sound, healthy and safe nationality.

7th. Political hostility to all papal influences, no matter what they may be.

8th. American institutions (that is sectarian and selfish institutions) and American sentiments.

9th. More stringent and effective emigration laws.

These are some of the leading articles for political effect which these political partialists have adopted; the purport of a list which is to trample upon their own proud government which already is umpire of the world by the spirit and genius of its policy—by its universal declaration that it is

"The and of the free,
And the home of the brave!"

The Know-Nothings are said to be increasing in number to a most astonishing extent. Lodges are being organized in every city, town and village in the country, and serious consequences are beginning to be appreciated from the influence this order will exert over the elections, &c. The Louisville Journal, a very ably conducted paper, in the course of an article, denunciatory of the Know-Nothings, uses the following strong language:

"Indeed, the Know-Nothings are of the same old bigoted, selfish, illiberal, intolerant anti-social, anti-fraternal, anti-pacific, anti-philosophical, anti-republican, anti-democratic and, well may it be added, anti-American, anti christian, Tory, aristocracy; spawned in this country in the secret hiding places of the traitors of the Revolution the same out which has once again brought forth a new party—an oppressor and tyrant to the many and a

The Democratic Review also calls upon the organs of the Democratic party throughout the Union, to denounce this order. It says:

"We cannot conceive any thing more [illegible] than the existence of a secret political organization, which, with its lodges, its signs, its passwords, its oaths, and its secret obligations, is arrayed against each other, from that of the highest to the lowest, in all the States and Territories of the Union, and which, by its very nature, is as well as incompatible with the equal rights of millions of men invited hither, with the assurance that they should share equally in our inheritance. Have we not already enough of the elements of discord among us? If a wished to destroy all identity of feelings of purpose in the people of the United States, to distract the union by the infusion of a farago of discords; and place the different races of man, of which it is composed, in a state of permanent hostility to each other, there never was a more effectual plan devised for such a purpose, than this dark conspiracy of Abolitionism, Know Nothingism and Whiggery; which last, is in fact, the basis and cement of the entire fabric, as well as the grand laboratory in which all these combustible materials of mobs and tumultuous assemblages of the city populace are fabricated. Without the aid and support of this party, which seems daily undergoing a process of degradation, these various shreds and patches of faction would be comparatively harmless."

Fires in the Woods.

From the Kingston News.

We have handed to us the annexed letter giving a more particular description of the ravages by fire in the woods in the neighborhood of Burrit's rapids than was furnished in the note by the same writer to the editor of this paper.

Mr. Grant writes to a relative in this city thus:—

Marlboro' Burrit's Rapids.

Dear ——,

One of the greatest misfortunes that ever happened to your correspondent occured yesterday afternoon, by the conflagration of a large extension of our section of the country I cannot at this moment attempt to describe the awful visitation it hath pleased the Almighty to afflict us with. At least a dozen of families besides ourselves left houseless and homeless; everything constituting the necessaries of life have been in one short hour taken from us. The fire had been raging in the woods for some days, but had created no particular alarm until yesterday the 24th, when the course of the wind directed the destruction towards our premises. Little time was left me to save my family which I succeeded in doing, and removed them to the only place of safety near the bed of the creek where I covered them with a few wet blankets, and returned to my house in the hope of rescuing a few valuables which hope proved fruitless, as all was enveloped in flames.

M—— and I fled like Lot and his wife for our lives to the spot where we had left our six children, There we remained until ten o'clock at night when our kind friend Mr. Burritt sought us and found us in the woods and conducted us to his hospitable roof, where we are at present in a most destitute state, having lost every article except what was on our backs.

Notwithstanding, I am very grateful that our lives had been spared, but deplore the loss of my helpless cattle which were surrounded by a mass of fire. It is now 6 o'clock a. m. the fire is still raging with impetuous fury. My poor neighbors as well as myself are utterly ruined.

LONDON, FRIDAY, SE

THE MISSOURI TRAGEDY.

The following, from the Liberty Mo. Tribune, may give some idea of the state of society in those parts; however, it is not much thought of, such scenes being the fashion with the free. Lynching is peculiarly American, and is not transmissive, being confined to that enlightened people:—

TO THE PUBLIC.

Whereas, the public attention will be called on to inquire into the following reports as to the whole sale butcheries committed in the town o Smithville, Mo.,—now be it known that there had been a gang of thieves and outlaws quartered in this vicinity, which not has been established by a court of enquiry according to the laws of the country.

These knaves and incendiaries had been notified to leave Clay and the adjoining counties by more than one hundred respectable citizens in this vicinity. Their answer was that they would not leave, and that fifty armed men could not make them leave. Thus the matter passed on for a season, until Monday the 6th day of August the day of the election, when they sent word that they intended to clear out the town, commencing on those who had used the most exertions in prosecuting them with the law, even telling their friends where they wish'd to be buried if they fell in the conflict.

They then armed themselves with two pistols (revolvers) each, and bowie knives and dirks. Thus equipped they made their appearance in town. Their leader, Samuel Shackelford, commenced a conversation in an insulting manner with John W. Douglass, and alluded to William Ross, both respectable citizens of this community. Mr. Ross replied in a calm manner, but was attacked by the onset by Samuel Shackelford, and at that moment a person, a relation of Shackelford's passed between them for a moment; Shackelford drew a pistol, the person passed on, and Shackelford shot William Ross twice, wounding him severely, perhaps mortally — Shackelford then returned and shot Douglass twice and then Mr. Imhoff twice. Douglass then turned the fire on Shackelford twice, wounding him, and then Douglass drew a bowie knife, he (Douglass) being the only citizen on the ground who was armed. W. Shackelford seized Douglass and got his knife and pistol, and then commenced the work of destruction on Douglass, inflicting several wounds of which Douglass fell dead. He then shot two or three times at Mr. Imhoff, but without effect. Perceiving them inclined to stop the effusion of blood, Samuel Shackelford stabbed every person who he suspected his enemy, inflicting a mortal wound on S. J. Ross, and also cutting and stabbing Jas Watkins, who was a stranger, and of young Ross, and also young Ross. John W. Calloway ran in and shot at Mr. Imhoff as he passed on, as did Samuel Shackelford Calloway then shot Wm. Slater, wounding him slightly in the leg.

By this time the fight became general — Stones and clubs were in order. The Shackelfords and Calloways retreated, and in so doing attempted to kill others, whom they considered their enemies. Samuel Shackelford's pistol, which he drew with the intention of shooting Mr. Payne, missed fire and he then threw his pistol at him. They then entered a drug store and locked themselves up for defence, but owing to Samuel Shackelford, being wounded, and the people threatening to fire the house, they surrendered to the populace. The populace were frenzied. Ropes were called for, guns and pistols procured, and all hands calling for immediate vengeance on the murderers. Thus it passed on until the people in all directions were notified of the circumstances. They came from Platte County—Ridgely was a precinct, and it being a public day the people flocked in greater numbers to this place. The cry was "Lynch, hang the thieves and murderers." Two or three hundred persons were present. Will m Shackelford was then hung. John Calloway was next hung, who stated that Samuel Shackelford was to blame for all the trouble, that Samuel Shackelford induced him into stealing horses; that Samuel Shackelford stole the mule that he was arrested for, and he took it and sold it to S. Joseph, and they had not concluded to kill the two Shackelfords until after the election, but for the over persuasion of ——— that he would stand up to and [illegible] over action for the civil authorities to have its course, but said to no effect.— Order was confounded; confusion reigned. Men paraded the streets like dragoons in military service. Now, the whole of this resulted from an effort on the part of the citizens to bring the thieves to justice according to law, for the commission of crimes, their guilt of which they acknowledge.

MANY CITIZENS

Smithville, Aug. 9, 1854.

P. S.—There had been an attempt to assassinate Douglass, at the dead hour of night, supposed to have been by these murderers, and he was threatened by them, which was the reason why he was armed.

Provincial Parliament.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE "TIMES"

ELECTION OF SPEAKER.

QUEBEC September 5.

The House, having been opened by the governor at three o'clock Mr Sicotte, seconded by Mr. Lemieux, proposed Mr. Cartier as speaker. Mr. Dorin, seconded by Mr Hamman, then proposed Mr. Sicotte For Cartier, 59; nays, 62 For Sicotte yeas, 79; nays, 41.

THE GOVERNOR'S SPEECH

Gentlemen:—

It affords me much satisfaction to meet you. The increase of the members of the Legislative Assembly will, I trust, give additional weight to the deliberations of the legislature and afford more ample security that is hitherto existed for the due representation in parliament of all interests of the Province. Subjects of vast importance and great magnitude will necessarily come under your consideration during the session. The Imperial Parliament has recently passed two acts, which impose on this legislature responsibilities of a very grave character. One of these acts empowers the Canadian parliament to alter the Constitution of the Legislative Council. The substitution of the principle of popular election, for that of nomination in the crown, in the appointment of that body, is obviously a task of considerable difficulty, for the execution of which, little aid can be derived from experience, as parliamentary and ministerial responsibility in the British sense of the term, are for the most part unknown to the constitution of countries, when the legislative bodies consist of two elective chambers. In order, however, to give this important branch of legislature the might and influence which it is most desirable it should possess, some changes in its constitution seems to be imperatively required, and the difficulties to which I have referred, will, I trust, be surmounted The other act removes the restriction which have for some time past, prevented the Provincial Legislature from dealing with the clergy Reserves from an early period in the history of Upper Canada. The provision which was originally intended for the support of the Protestant faith, has become a source of discord and argument in that section of the Province. It is most desirable, in the interest of religion and social harmony, that a final and conclusive adjustment of this long pending question should take place without delay. The subject was distinctly brought before the people of the province at the late election, and their opinion upon it expressed in an unequivocal manner. I trust, therefore, that you will be able, without difficulty, to agree upon a measure for accomplishing this object, which will give general satisfaction. The condition of properties held under seigneurial tenure will also, it may be presumed, engage your attention at an early period, with a view to the determination of certain questions affecting them, which cannot be kept in suspense, without detriment to the seigneurial constituencies. You will no doubt see the importance of approaching this subject with caution, and with a due regard to the legal and equitable claim of all parties interested. Security of property is an indispensible condition to economical progress, and persons who invest their funds in property in Canada, must look to the justice and moderation of the legislature for that protection which is afforded by judicious tribunals. You may probably take into consideration the expediency of assimilating the municipal institutions, far as circumstances will permit, a system to which, since its introduction, contributed so materially to the prosperity of Upper Canada, and also of extending to the former section of the Province the advantages of the municipal loan fund act. These and other subjects of importance, will be submitted for your deliberation.

Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly.

I will direct the public accounts for the last year, and estimates for the current year to be laid before you at the earliest convenience, and I rely upon your readiness to make the necessary provisions for the exigencies of the public service

Honorable Gentlemen and Gentlemen

You may probably be of opinion, that the prosperous condition of the revenue affords an opportunity of which Parliament may properly avail itself, to review the present tariff, to the removal of such duties as affect raw materials emply yed in ship-building, and other branches of manufacture, within this Province, and to the reduction of others, to which, articles entering largely into the consumption of the people are now subject. I will lay before you a copy of the treaty which has been concluded between her majesty and the United States government, and I recommend to your consideration, the propriety of amending the act passed in 1849, for the free admission into Canada, of certain articles of the growth and production of the United States, so as to bring it into harmony with the provisions of the treaty.— The Government and Congress of the United States have evinced a liberal and friendly disposition in dealing with this subject, and I trust that they will be met by a corresponding spirit, by the Provincial Legislature.— The removal of duties on importations of productions of Canada, into the markets of the United States, will, it may be hoped, have a tendency to perpetuate and extend a prosperity which has prevailed of late, to so remarkable a degree

QUEBEC, September 7

Mr. J. B. Dorion moved that, as a matter of privilege, the poll book of the county of Bagot be brought up.

Mr. Drummond asked if there was any objection

Mr. Dorion said there was not. He regarded it as a matter of privilege.

Mr. Drummond thought the motives for the motion ought to be assigned.

Mr. Morin held the same opinion.

After some conversation, the motion was carried. The return being produced by the clerk of the crown in chancery, Mr Dorion explained that Mr. Bourbeau had been appointed returning officer, and in that capacity had returned himself as member. He therefore would like the matter to be settled. Motion

Mr. D. [illegible] a committee of the whole, [illegible] Mr. Bourbeau [illegible] to any subject Mr. Bourbeau took from [illegible] $2,000 a day, and he ought not to receive [illegible] to criminate. The proper course was to move that the returning officer be brought to the Bar of the House and examined.

After some conversation, Mr. Dorion said he had no objections to alter his motion, as suggested by Mr. Cameron.

Mr. A. A. Dorion said there was no penalty, and thought the question might be put as first proposed.

The debate is going on as the report leaves.

An Inquest was held on the body before H. B. Bull Esq., Coroner, when it was proved that the usual warning had been given, but that the deceased was rather deaf Some of the witnesses also stated that if he had remained in the drain the cars would have passed over him without injury. The Cars were shoved up about 20 yards but the deceased was working close to them before they started. There were about 18 Cars in the train. A verdict of accidental death was rendered after a long and close examination of the several witnesses. The deceased was an elderly man and well known in the city for many years, he was industrious and sober, and leaves a wife and family.—Hamilton Gazette

$13,000 WORTH OF

Farms and Building Lots.

100 FARMS
AND
2,000 BUILDING LOTS!!

Will be divided among 600 Subscribers on the Evening of the 21th day of AUG., 1851.

☞ A large number are already engaged. Many of the Lots near these have been sold from 200 to 500 per cent. advance over the price for which these Lots are now sold; showing that the purchase will be a good investment.

Each subscriber, FOR ONLY $15 payable in instalment of $5 each will receive FOUR BUILDING LOTS, 25 by 100 feet, lying together, or a FARM of from 2 to 20 acres. These lots are beautifully located at LAKELAND, Long Island, where a new Church and School house and a number of private dwellings, stores, work-shops and factories, have already been erected, several more are now being built, and several hundred will be erected the coming season

This is a fine opportunity of getting clear of paying enormous rents in New York and owning a delightful country residence near the city, where the domestic comforts of a family circle can be fully realized, and where 25,000 building lots and about 570 farms have lately been sold; and sales are daily being made to individuals who, after careful examination as to location and ascertaining the quality of the soil are selecting Farms for agricultural purposes being confident that no land so cheap and calculated to increase so rapidly in value can be had within 50 miles of the city. This land would have been all taken up years back, but has been an entailed estate for the last century and conspicuously locked up for upwards of two hundred years—since which large sales have been made, and where the wild deer roamed at large may now be seen beautiful cottages and cultivated fields waving with the abundant productions of our mother earth.

The price at which this land is offered is less than its value for agricultural purposes alone, so that we do not see how any man of common sense can hesitate to secure a portion of it. This land is well worth the attention of both settlers and speculators, as it affords an opportunity for the safe investment of money. The day is not far distant when all the lands on the line of any railroad or steamboat route, and within fifty miles of New York, will be worth ten times the prices now asked for property in Lots and.

The is one of the best opportunities now offered to those of small me ns who are desirous of a home of their own, to purchase one for a mere trifle; also, a few Farms containing each five and ten acres, and upwards, at from $25 to $35 per acre.

☞ All persons wishing to avail themselves of the opportunity now offered to procure a fine farm or splendid Building Lot near the Empire City, should make immediate application as they are nearly all disposed of. Apply to CHARLES WOOD, 208 Broadway, corner of Fulton street N. Y., where maps and pamphlets can be had or sent if required by mail, gratis.

The PIANOS are made by the following celebrated Gentlemen, viz:

CHICKERING STODDART & DUNHAM.

Acknowledged to be the best on this part of the Globe, as are the MELODIANS, manufactured by PRINCE & CO. PIANOS and MELODIANS sold as Cheap and on as favourable Terms as they can be procured in Toronto, or from the Maker's themselves.

Besides these choice of Chickering, Stodart & Dunham. Mr. Kordes keeps constantly on hand Pianos of other good makers, such as Boron and Raven, Gilbert, Gale, etc. Also second hand Pianos, from £10 upwards to £50. Old Pianos taken in exchange, and a liberal allowance made. Pianos Tuned and repaired. All orders from a distance promptly attended to.

Mr. Kordes has constantly on hand an assortment of very superior Brass Instruments, of the formation and use of Bands, as Ophiclides, Sax horns, Trombones, Cornopeans, Bugles, Post horns, French horns, etc., which will be sold low, and on very favorable terms.

Mr. Kordes would just say a few words regarding the Pianos of Chickering, Stodart & Dunham, is the first place, they are warranted to keep good and sound in all their parts, for any number of years, provided they receive good treatment.

In the second place, any person having such a thing as what is called an ear for music, will, without looking at the makers name, be able to detect the difference between a Stodart, a Dunham or a Chickering, to a Piano from any other maker, without exception; the woody, wiry, harsh kind of sound, so predominant in other instruments, is changed into a mellow, sweet, rich and brilliant tone in the Pianos of the above three makers.

As regards keeping in tune: these Pianos require a good tuner 3 times in 12 months an event treatment, they never require more than this, may, however, sometimes require less care and attention is all they need.

LONDON, C. W.

The great popularity which Moffat's Life Pills and Phœnix Bitters have attained in consequence of the extraordinary cures effected by their use, tend to render necessary for the proprietor to enter into a correct analysis of their medicinal virtues or properties, having been more than twenty years before the public, and having the united testimony of more than Three Millions of persons who have been restored to the enjoyment of perfect health by them it is believed that their reputation as the best working medicine now before the public, admits of no dispute. In almost every city and village in the United States there are many who are ready to testify to their efficacy in removing disease and giving to the whole system renewed vigor and health.

In cases of Scrofula, Ulcers, Scurvy or Eruptions of the skin the operation of the Life Medicines is truly astonishing often removing in a few days the vestige of these loathsome diseases by their powerful purifying effects on the blood. Fever and Ague, Dyspepsia, Dropsy, Piles, and in short most all diseases, soon yield to their curative properties. No family should be without them as by their timely use much suffering and expense may be saved.

London C. W. June 18th, 1852.

MESSRS. RENFORD & Co.

Gentlemen—I have received the Sample bottle of your "Compound Camomile Cordial," and consider it a beautiful as well as highly palatable preparation. The aromatic fragrance and peculiar bitter flavour in which lies the essential Medicinal qualities appear to be largely infused and well preserved, and as this Cordial so tonic is highly beneficial in those forms of Dyspepsia depending on debility or want of tone in the digestive organs, (the form most frequently met with on the continent) your cordial will, I doubt not, form an inestimable addition to our Pharmacopœia.

From the knowledge possessed by me of Mr. Renford, and his well merited reputation as a Pharmaceutical Chemist I feel much pleasure in confidently recommending his Preparation of this valuable tonic, to my professional brethren and to the public, as a delightful and invigorating cordial.

DR. SHERWOOD'S Galvanic Embrocation This Galvanic Embrocation is noted with positive and permanent success in all cases of Rheumatism, acute or chronic, seated in the head joints or limbs, Gout, Tic Douloureux Nervousness and Sick Headache, Paralysis, Fits, Epilepsy, Palpitation of the Heart, Spasm and Hip Complaints, stiffness of the Joints Lumbago, Neuralgia, Nervous Tremors, General Debility, Deficiency of Diseases, Chilblanes Burns and Scalds, &c.

It is now generally admitted by the learned and scientific, that the mysterious power called Galvanism or Magnetism, is in fact, the vitality of life, and that diseases, in many of its most painful forms is entirely owing to the absence of this Galvanic or Magnetic power in its healthy proportions. If then, we can readily supply this wondrous power when it is thus difficult, we can successfully combat disease, and has has been fully and perfectly attained by the most wonderful scientific discovery of combining Magnetism or Galvanism with a fluid which has cost the inventor of this remedy years of study and labor.

There is not an intelligent Physician who has kept pace with the progress of science that does not readily approve of the Magnecine power in various diseases, and there is scarcely a medical journal either in this country or Europe which makes its appearance without the statement of various causes, showing some new effect of these wonderful agents, or corroborating previous experience of their beneficial use. The inventor of the Galvanic Embrocation has great pleasure in being able to state that a majority of the most distinguished physicians of New York constantly recommend this Embrocation in their practice, and from many of them he has received the kindest testimonials of approval and recommendation.

Poetry.

Familiar Things.

There is a truth that travel brings,
And truth of homely birth;
We dwell among familiar things,
And little know their worth,
The emigrant in distant lands;
The sailor on the sea,
For all that round us silent stands,
Have deeper hearts than we.

We dwell among familiar things;
And daily with dull sight,
We touch a thousand secret springs,
Of sorrow and delight:
Delight and reverential bliss
To those who exiled for,
Stretch dreamy arms to clasp and kiss,
Each little household star.

We dwell among familiar things,
We know them by their use;
And by their many mis'rings.
Their value we deduce.
We pass them even silently,
Forgetful each can speak, though dumb,
And of the ghostly days gone by.
Strange witness might become.

We dwell among familiar things,
But should it be our lot,
To sever all the binding strings
That form the household knot;
To wander upon alien mould;
And cross the restless foam;
How early should we then behold;
The Dearies at Home!

Literature.

Putting the Question.

From the Quarterly Review.

Although the old rule of turning strangers out of the House during the mystic process of division has been rescinded, it is with an exception as regards those who sit in the Speaker's Gallery, and who might cause inconvenience by getting among the members. So that; declaration "Strangers must withdraw," though a brutem fulmen for the strangers above, turns "Ingenuus" out. He must therefore hasten up stairs and watch the proceedings from the privileged gallery.

There is a sand glass on the Speakers table and this is turned over when the debate concludes, and during the two minutes that the sand is running, members, duly warned, hurry up from the library, smoking rooms, dining rooms, and the Toames promenade, where at high water, and when the wind does not bring over the reek of tuose foul manufactories, a Senator's lounge is not unpleasant—the accessories of the scene being the sparkling lights, splashing river, and a good cigar. The time is up, everybody has been whipped in and see how the bar is crammed, and how the foremost ranks press forward to the centre of the house. The Speaker orders the doors to be closed. He then puts the question. Its form is mystic, as are many things here, but there is no great danger of a mistake, whippers in being alert, and members know the advantage of following their leaders. The proposal was, that the Criminal Entranchisement Bill should be read a second time. Sir F. Thesiger's amendment was, that instead of the words "a second time" there should be inserted this "day six months." The question is, whether the words proposed to be left out, namely "a second time" s hall stand.

"Those who are of a different opinion say Aye."

"Aye," say a great many voices on the Government side.

"Those who are of a contrary opinion say No."

"No comes in thunder from the opposition who have better lungs than the Ministerialists.

The speaker then casually remarks;

"I think the Ayes have it.

He is, however, instantly and fiatly contradicted by various Noes, and without contesting the point exclaims;

"The Ayes to the right the Noes to the left."

All the members come down from their seats and the floor is crowded. They are making their way slowly to the lobies appropriated for them. The Speaker nominates two tellers on each side whose business it is to ascertain the numbers—a couple of Government men and the mover and seconder of the amendment. While the House is clearing the four tellers linger and exchange jokes. A member is taking the opposite side to that of his party and the teller calls after him that he is going the wrong way, a young gentleman with a large paletot has arrived in a Highland dress from some masked ball, and one of the four, as he passes, invites him to take off the paletot in order to delight the Speaker's eyes with a view of his costume. As soon as the house is reported clear, the tellers follow to do their work.

Now the members having voted begin to re-enter in single file, and return to their seats A clerk in wig and gown goes to the opposition green box to be ready to take the numbers. Sir Frederick Thesiger comes in looking quite triumphant, walks up to the clerk and speaks—a sensation around the house, and then a tremendous opposition cheer. Enter Mr. Hayter, Secretary to the Treasury, not looking quite so well pleased, and he also approaches the clerk. The four tellers then form in line and retire backing. As they do so their position indicates the victory. The right hand man of the four belongs to the winning side, and in that station is the tall form of Sir Frederick Thesiger. Another tremendous cheer, and the four go bowing up to the table, and Sir Frederick reads from a paper.

"The Ayes to the right were 220 the Noes to the left 234."

Terrific cheering, Government beaten by 14, and the Criminal Enfranchisement Bill lost.

For a few minutes business is suspended, members laugh over the victory and defeat, Ingenuus may suppose that they are consoling one another under the painful catastrophe; but it is more probable they are arranging what other business shall be done that night.

Doors been re-opened members depart, though so large a house usually leaves a pretty large fragment up to the time of adjournment.

NO WIT IN THE HOUSE.

We have frequently heard it asked whether ther there is much wit in the house, and have never known any variation in the reply. Very seldom, indeed is a good thing said within these walls. Yet the house of Commons is an indulgent audience where it likes the speaker; but it is here, as elsewhere, the most senile anecdote, execrably told, will be endured from a favorite, while an unknown man, will receive a groan in return for an epigram. The last deliberately conceived neat thing within our recollection was said by the late Mr. Sheil, who complimenting a noble lord who is ever active in the cause of Christian civilization, said that he "had made humanity one of Shaftsbury's Characteristics." One jest delights the house, indeed it never fails; and it must have been heard a good many thousand times. It is when the speaker confuses the name of the member to whom he refers with that of the place for which the gentlemen site. Accidentally, or (such things are) by design, let a senator speak of the noble lord the member for Palmerston, or the honorable baronet th member for Molesworth, and the House goes off into a roar. It is a safe point, like Mr. Hardcastle's anecdote of old Grouse in the gun-room: "Your worship must not tell that if we are not to laugh; I can't help laughing at that, we have laughed at it these twenty years."

Among the smaller recreations of the house is the raising a terrific cry when a member, new to parliamentary manners accidentally walks between the speaker and the member speaking. This unpardonable violation of etiquette brings from all sides the most indignant exclamations. The puzzled look of the criminal as he sits down, that what have I done is part of the sport; and we almost fear that by publishing the secret we shall be depriving the House of one of its innocent amusements.

Wild Man of Africa.

There is another inhabitant of the woods by the Gaboon River, more to be feared than the African boa, it is the wild man of the woods, not the ourang-outang, though an immense ape—always acting on the offensive and ready to attack man. The bones of his extremeties are longer than those of an ordinary sized full grown man. I have examined them here and whilst contemplating the skull, the jaws, and their terrible apparatus, really experienced a sort of shuddering. The canine teeth are upwards of 2 inches long, and of proportionate bulk. There is a ridge running from the top of the nose backwards over the crown of the head; to this

EUROPEAN NEWS.

By the Pacific

LONDON DATES—AUGUST 24.

From the Baltic, Capture of Bomarsund.

A Liverpool correspondent succeeded in procuring in time to be telegraphed per Europa via Halifax, the earliest intelligence of the surrender of Bomarsund to the allies on the 16th, with its garrison of 2,000 men as prisoners of war.

The papers by the Pacific confirms the announcement. On Saturday, 19th, the English steamer Basilisk and the French steamer Reine Hortense arrived at Dantzic with the intelligence that at 12½ P. M., on the 16th the fortress of Bomarsund capitulated, when the garrison numbering 2,000, was immediately embarked on board the allied fleet.—There was little loss of life on either side, the French having lost 120 killed, and the British only three or four. The round towers behind Bomarsund, named Forts Tzee and Nottich had been previously reduced—no very difficult task, as they were garrisoned by only 120 men each. The handful of artillerymen in Tzee made a stout defence 50 being killed and only 35 taken unhurt. Nottich was carried without loss. Both forts when captured were blown up, and the main assault was directed on Bomarsund itself, of which the walls were badly damaged before the garrison consented to surrender. No other result could have been expected, for it was impossible that 2,000 could long have held out against a besieging army of 12,000 supported by a fleet in force. The honor of the victory such as it is, belongs wholly to the French, and therefore on Sunday, the 20th, the guns of the Invalide announced to the citizens of Paris the first victory of the war.

Our private accounts from Dantzic say that the number of prisoners does not exceed 1,500, and that they have been sent to Ledsund. It was reported that a considerable proportion of the garrison had succeeded in retiring, and that it was intended entirely to evacuate and destroy the works, but the attack by the allies prevented this intention from being fully carried into effect. An overwhelming display of force was made on the part of the allies. Nine fewer than fifteen sail of the line, of which four ships and four screamers were French, lay with their bronze mouths within range of the fortress. The allies claim to have found 100 pieces of cannon mounted and dismounted. Our correspondent does not state whether or not the French fleet left the fortress, but from the circumstance that the English papers have a list of casualties incurred by the ships Penelope, Hecla, Terrapin and Belle while "under fire at Bomarsund," it is likely they did.

From the circumstance that Admiral Napier has issued a notice, warning all neutral vessels to leave the port of Riga before the 1st of August, it was surmised that Riga would be the next point of attack. An account of the Bomarsund affair, from Stockholm 29th, mentions that a bombardment was kept up from five o'clock morning of the 15th to 2 o'clock morning of the 16th, and that part of the works were blown up, before proposals were made to surrender. The prisoners will be sent to France on board English ships. Gen Baraguay d'Hilliers had a narrow escape, a cannon ball having passed between him and the aide-de camp with whom he was conversing.

ENGLAND.

The dispatch to which Lord Clarendon replied on July 22, to the last communication made by Russia to the Austrian Government also the notes exchanged on August 8, between the English, French, and Austrian Ministers were laid before Parliament on the last day of the session, but have only now been made public. We have already stated the substance of those dispatches, namely :—The Russian protectorate over the Principalities must be given up, and the privileges granted to those Provinces by the Sultan be placed under the collective guarantee of Europe ; 2. That the navigation of the Danube must be made free : 3 That the treaty of 13th July, 1841, be revised with reference to the balance of power : and 4 That the Russian claim to a protectorate over the Christian subjects of the Porte must be given up. All of which terms Austria is made cognizant of, and agrees not to treat except on these bases.

The London Times copies from a New York paper an article respecting Dr. Cottman's mission to Washington, and makes it the subject of a rather clever leading article. The London Daily News has another in the same vein, though inferior in talent.

A collision had occurred on the South Eastern and Brighton Railway, by which two or three persons were killed and over a hundred badly injured.

An unfortunate accident occurred on the Cairnbeath, Moore, Scotland. While a party of gentlemen were enjoying the sport of shooting, a fowling piece in the hands of William Morrison, (Quere, Murray ?) of Newmains, accidentally discharged, and killed William Cochran, provision merchant of Glasgow.

Agriculture.

Salt as a Manure.

G. D. asks us for advice as to "the application of common Salt as a manure for different crops," &c., which we proceed to give to the best of our ability. Any good farmer who has used Salt may correct our notions by his own experience.

The best mode of applying Salt to any land not recently and heavily limed, we believe to be thus: Set conviently to water a half-hogshead, large tub or half-barrel, that will hold liquid ; put in two or three bricks standing on end, and thereon set a basket containing a bushel or more of Salt ; now dash pail-after pail-ful of water on the Salt until the whole is dissolved ; put more Salt into the basket, and throw on water until your tub is full of water, containing all the Salt it will dissolve. (It may be a little easier though in the process to fill your tub two thirds full of water, and set your basket of Salt into it as aforesaid.) Have a cart-load of lime ready (fresh or recent lime, if fresh from the kiln should be unslacked, as is valuable for this use as any other, while usually very cheap,) and pour this dissolved Salt on the Lime until it will take up no more, and you have now a perfect chemical compound of Lime and Salt —in other words a Chloride of Lime. This is Prof. Mapes' mode of applying Lime—whether original with him or not, is of no consequence, but it seems to us very rational and economical. With the ordinary New York Salt, an hours' labor should suffice to prepare a cart load of this chloride, which may be sowed on the recently plowed land and harrowed in with oats or any broad-cast seed, or in preparation for planting. We have not seen it tried as a top-dressing for Grass, but think it would do good even there.

A still better, though slower, mode of applying the Chloride of Lime aforesaid, is this: If you have a piece of swamp or bog land, or any sort of frog pond, cut off the bushes, if such there be, give its water an outlet if necessary, and improve the dryest part of the summer or fall to draw out upon the nearest high level spot, as many loads of muck as you can find time for—a thousand would not be too many though the area of your farm be but twenty acres. Estimate the solid contents of your muck heap, and apply one bushel of Salt and Lime mixture aforesaid to each cord of the muck. It may or may not be wise to set up four crotch-ed sticks or posts two eight and two ten feet high, at the corners of your pile, run poles across, and put the rudest possible roof of slabs or refuse boards over head, leaving ample room for the air to sweep over the pile, with chances for part of the rain to drip through between the loose boards. We think it would pay to shovel the hay over once in November and again in March ; but we are not sure of this. Haul out as you plough up land in the spring, and spread broadcast, taking care not to spread too thin —forty cords to the acre is little enough, and there are acres that would thank you for a hundred—and we will warrant the land not to forget the application for many a fruitful year.

Salt may be profitably applied in its natural state, or simply dissolved as aforesaid, and mixed (instead of Lime) with enough muck or dry earth to absorb it, on fields infested by worms, as wet lands recently taken out of grass are apt to be. We lost more than half of what should have been our best acre of corn this year by wire-worms, when five or six bushels of salt harrowed in as aforesaid, just before planting, would have saved nearly all of it. After loosing half the stocks we had the sickly looking residue well dosed with raw Salt, a handful to each hill, applied quite near to the young corn ; and though the ends of the leaves were thereby scorched and killed as if exposed to fire, yet the corn speedily recovered, while the worms disappeared.—We don't advise this mode of application—there are ever so many better—but if we ever have another crop attacked by worms of any sort, we shall take their opinion of the virtues of Salt.

In England Salt is used at the rate of three to seventeen bushels per acre.—New York Tribune.

The Price of Wheat.

The following table which we find in Hunt's Merchants' Magazine, is from the minutes kept at the office of the Van Rensselaer Manor, at Albany, where large amounts of rent are payable in wheat, or a cash equivalent, on the first of January each year : and as two parties are deeply interested in the price, it is probably the most reliable and correct of any record that can be obtained. There is quite a lesson in these figures—look at them :—

You will notice that only five times in all these years wheat has been $2 or upwards per bushel, while it has been seventeen times at $1 or under—twice at near 75 cts. Only once since 1817 (37 years) to wit, in 1837, has it reached $2. The average price for the whole period is $1 38c. For the last thirty years, it is $1 25c., and we give it as a prophecy, which we think may be relied upon, that that will be the price next January. Those who are interested may as well make a note of that. The crop of wheat is too good ; too widely extended, and the demand for export to Europe and California too limited and flour speculators too hard-up, to maintain present prices. You may as well mark that, Messrs. Farmers and Wheat buyers.

PICKLED PEACHES.—Select ripe cling stone peaches. To one gallon of good vinegar add four pounds of brown sugar ; boil this for a few minutes, and take off any scum that may rise. Rub the peaches with a flannel cloth, to remove the down, and stick a clove in each; put them in glass or stone jars, pour on them boiling hot. When cool cover over the jars and let them stand in a cool place for a week or ten days, then pour off the liquor and boil it as before, after which return it, boiling, to the peaches, which should be carefully covered and stored away for future use. If your peaches are very hard, boil them in water, to tender, before you pickle them, and they will be fit for use immediately.—National Cook Book.

FRIED CUCUMBERS.—Peel, and slice longitudinally, about one quarter of an inch thick. —Dredge with flour, and fry in butter or good pork gravy until cooked brown : add a little salt and pepper, and eat them for oysters.

Fire at Rochester—Loss $100,000.

ROCHESTER, SEPT. 7—7 P. M.

A fire broke out at five this P. M., in the wood sheds adjoining the large engine house of the Central Road, North street, which instantly spread to the round house, and in less than ten minutes the whole of it was in flames. There were seven fine locomotives in the house which could not be removed and all were lost.

The wood sheds were destroyed and 300 cords of wood were also destroyed.

The fire caught from the small engine used in sawing wood.

Total loss probably not much less than $100,000. No insurance.

The tracks were all badly damaged, so that no trains will probably pass to-night.

Two cars loaded with flour were also burnt.

Steamboat Explosion.

A telegraphic despatch from Cincinnati gives a brief account of the explosion of the boilers of the steamboat "Timour, No. 2," while lying near the wharf near Jefferson city, State of Missouri, some days since. Providentially, her passengers were just landed, and therefore the loss of life and the number of wounded, are not so great as would have resulted had the disaster happened a few minutes sooner. It was supposed some 15 or 16 persons were killed or thrown overboard and drowned, and about seventeen were scalded and otherwise injured. The steamboat was almost completely demolished, and but little of her cargo was saved. The Engineers were held, in heavy bonds, to answer any charge that may be brought against them.

Last year there were consumed in the United States about 705,000,000 pounds of cane sugar and 27,000,000 pounds maple sugar. If the dealers wholesale and retail together, made a profit of only 2 cents a pound on this sugar, these profits alone would amount to nearly $15,000,000.

The drought has been severely felt all over the United States. The New York Tribune publishes a list of complaints (58), copied from various exchanges, showing that its effects have been felt in eighteen of the different States.

On one of the railroads leading into Buffalo pickpockets have lately made a practice of plying their trade. A gentleman named Babcock had his pockets picked of over $10,000, on the road in question a few days ago.

The Express between Albany and Syracuse, ran over, and killed two ladies who were walking on the track, on the 29th ult. They were literally torn to pieces, their limbs were torn from their bodies. Their names are not given.

Messrs. Trickam and Adams, Merchants, of Boston, were arrested on the 29th ult., for swindling. The allegation is that they purchased $25,000 worth of flour, groceries, liquors, cigars, &c., from various wholesale dealers, sending them to the railroad depots and closing their store. A part of the goods said to be fraudulently obtained, have been reclaimed by the original owners.

Advices from Tennessee, Alabama, and Georgia speak favorably of the corn crops, and throughout most of the Western States there have been rains which have greatly improved the condition of the crops. The indications now are that taking the country through the yield will not be much below a fair average.

Some fiends in human form have recently made several attempts to throw the trains on the Ohio and Pennsylvania Railroad off the track ; and on two occasions on the 29th ult. they were successful. At one place an iron rail was placed across the track, and caused the upsetting of the train, by which some of the firemen and engineers were badly hurt, but no lives lost. On another part of the road, the engines were thrown off by some logs placed on the track. The engine was completely broken up, but no life was lost Parties guilty of such offences, dangerous to the lives of numbers, should be regarded as murderers, and punished accordingly.

☞ The loss by the Milwaukie fire is now fully estimated at $380,000, on which an insurance was effected to the amount of $283,000.

The Journal of Commerce says the assessor's return, just sent in, shows an enormous increase in the valuation both of real and personal property in New York, during the past year, amounting on real estate to eighty seven millions of dollars over and above the assesment of last year. The comparison is shown as follows :—The total assessment returned for 1853, was $401,466,796 ; do. do. for 1854, $488,000,000.

We understand, says the Troy Times, that the loss of the mechanics Mutual insurance Co. by the late fire, amounts to $67,000 ; and that the assessment on the premium notes will amount to 39 per cent.

LONDON.

London is a very remarkable town ; it is remarkable for its rapid growth, for its River Thames, and for more than one other striking resemblance which it bears to that other little town over the bay, from which it received its name. Some inconsiderate politician proposed, a year ago, that the name of the place should be changed, but the citizens (London is about to become a city) rejected the proposition with disdain.

London is very nearly in the centre of the peninsula of Western Canada, and is surrounded by an admirable agricultural country —one writer says, "by the finest farming country in Canada," and he is probably right. It is 26 miles from Port Stanley, on Lake Erie, 120 miles from Detroit, with which it is connected by the Great Western Railway, 61 miles from Port Sarnia, and 60 from Goderich, on Lake Huron. London contains a population of over 10,000, and has over 1500 buildings, many of them fine brick edifices, now going up in the town! An Hotel is being erected which surpasses in size everything of the kind in British America. There are a large number of brick yards, some of them very extensive, in the vicinity of the town, but the supply is not equal to the demand. The brick are all of a light cream color, and give the town a pleasing, though somewhat novel appearance. It has thirteen churches, some of them very fine buildings ; a Mechanics' Institute, Library and News-Room ; its Covent Garden Market (a beautiful brick building ;) and a brick and stone town hall of a large size and fine proportions is now going up, the stone for which was brought from Cleaveland, Ohio. The Hotels are numerous, and some of them excellent houses. The "Robinson Hall" is a large and well-conducted establishment; the "American Hotel" is a central, airy, well-managed and well-filled house ; the "City Hotel" is deservedly popular, and is now receiving an extensive addition to its capacity ; Mr. McCann has recently erected and opened a fine house ; and there with some dozen others, together with the large hotel now going up, will offer ample room for the travel for some time to come.

The space surveyed and laid out for the town embraces 1,400 acres ; the streets run at right angles ; the town is beautifully situated at the north and east branches of the river Thames. The climate is healthy, the winters are mild, the town being nearly in the same latitude as Boston. The Great Western passes through the skirts of the town ; another railway is nearly finished, to connect London with Lake Erie, at Port Stanley. Everything seems to indicate a bright and prosperous future for the place.—A writer on Canada and the Canadians, says of London :

"London, in the heart of the Canadian peninsula, is likely to become a city after the 1st of January next, having now more than 10,000 inhabitants—the number required to entitle our towns to civic titles and dignity. It is the centre of a rich tract of country, peopled by British of an energetic disposition, and is about to communicate with the seaboard by three main and distinct lines of railroad. I know no place in Canada having brighter prospects. It was for some time the military depot for the western section of the Province, and it was feared that the numerous severe fires from which it suffered, and the removal of the 'sodgers,' would nip its hopes in the bud, but has rallied from its temporary depression, and is progressing with astonishing rapidity. It has its Thames, its Westminster and its Middlesex, with Essex and Kent beyond, and copies many of its local names from the most familiar of those used in the world's metropolis. In ten years it will rank before Kingston, I believe, and be the third city in Upper Canada."—International Journal.

BUREAU OF AGRICULTURE,

QUEBEC, 1st September, 1854.

His Excellency the Governor General has been pleased to grant Letters Patent of Invention for a period of fourteen years, from the date thereof to the following persons, viz :—

Joseph Thirkell, of the town of London, in the County of Middlesex, Agricultural Implement Maker, for "Improvements in the forming, shaping and casting of Iron Ploughs. (Dated 29th May, 1854.)

Joseph Scobell, of the city of Montreal, Architect and Builder, for "A new and improved method of covering roofs with slate." [Dated 29th May, 1854.]

Wm. J. Hackett, of the city of Toronto, in the County of York, Machinist, for "an Improved Signal Light for Railways"—[Dated 30th June, 1854.

Richard Mochail, of the Township of Hamilton, in the County of Northumberland, Cabinetmaker, for "a machine for working irregular surfaces," so as to form a piece of timbe to any required shape. (Dated July 13th 1854.)

John Brown, of the city of Toronto, in the County of York, Machinist, for "a seed sower." (Dated 21st July 1854.)

Thomas Murgatroyd, of Smithville, in the Township of Grimsby, County of Lincoln, Machinist, for "new and useful improvements on carriages" [Dated 21st July, 1854.

D'Arcy Porter, of the city of Hamilton, in the County of Wentworth, Machinist, for a new and useful sewing machine." (Dated, 21st July, 1854.)

John Pye, of the County of Quebec, Plumber and Brass Founder, for "a new and improved method of constructing water closets." [Dated, 14th August, 1854.]

Stephen Redington Andres, of the village of Chambly in the County of Chambly, Esq. for "the new art of manufacturing paper from the plant known by the Limear generic name of Gnaphalium, and vulgarlarly called Cudweed or Life Everlasting" (Dated 25th August 1854.)

A REALLY HUMANE MAN.—Dr Wolfred Nelson, the Mayor of Montreal, while coming up to Kingston recently to attend to his duties as Inspector of the Penitentiary, was witness to some great acts of kindness and personal intrepidity on the part of Mr. Magrath, the bar tender of the Royal Mail Steamer Ottawa, Capt. Putnam. Dr. Wolfred Nelson tells us, that on board the boat were a large party of Emigrants, many of whom were down with incipient Cholera : that Mr. Magrath paid the most unremitting personal attention to them all ; was ever amid them with stimulants and other Cholera remedies, and was the means, by Doctor Avers, of stopping the disease in no less a number than seventeen cases ! Capt. Putnam further tells us, that this conduct is no special case, but that on many other occasions, it had been equally praiseworthy. In fact he is a most invaluable man. Such humanity is worthy of notice and commendation.—Kingston Whig.

A WONDERFUL ESCAPE.—On Wednesday the 2nd instant, a son of Mr. John Jeffery, of Port Hope, aged four years, fell into a well said to be between sixty and seventy feet deep, where there were only three or four feet of water in it. On the alarm being given by the child's mother, Mr. J. Smith, tanner, and Mr. Wright, stage driver, happened to be passing at the time, and Mr. Smith being let down to the bottom of the well by a rope, got hold of the boy, and Mr. Wright and another person drew them both out of the well, and strange to tell, the little fellow escaped without sustaining any injury, except a slight contusion on one of his hips. We understand that he was running about in the course of a few hours, as if nothing had happened to him. Messrs. Smith and Wright deserve great praise for their prompt and intrepid conduct on this trying occasion.—Port Hope Watchman.

A SINGULAR FACT.—Is it not singular that the name of God should be spelt with four letters in so many different languages. In Latin it is Deus ; French, Dieu ; Old Greek, Zeus ; German, Gott ; Old German, Odin ; Swedish, Gode ; Hebrew, Adon ; Dutch, Heer ; Syrian, Adad ; Persian, Sire ; Tartarian, Ilgu ; Sclavonian, Belg, or Bog ; Spanish, Aindoe, Esgu, or Zeni ; Turkish, Abdi ; Egyptian, Ammu or Zem ; Japanese, Zain ; Peruvian, Lian ; Wallachian, Zene ; Etrurian, Char ; Tyrrhenian, Eber ; Irish Dea ; Croatian, Deha ; Margarian, Oeso ; Arabian, Alla ; Lisultann, Bog. There are several other languages in which the word is marked with the same peculiarity.

PROTESTANISM IN ITALY.—During the past year, 110 houses, with 4000 rooms, have been built in Turin, and all this is attributable to the fact that the new Constitution tolerates religious liberty. While every other Italian city is decaying like a corpse, Turin is growing under the influences of protestantism, like a green bay tree. The Waldenses, are about opening in that city, a protestant temple the first in Italy, upon the very spot where the Dominicans burnt the bodies of the martyrs.

MRS. C. P. TRAIL.—This lady, who has already done so much for Canadian Literature, is about to lay us under fresh obligations. She is preparing for publication a work entitled, "The Female Emigrant's Guide, or Hints on Canadian Housekeeping." It is to be published by Maclear & Co., at the price of five shillings and will be sent post free to any part of British North America.

Having seen the manuscript, we feel warranted in stating that the work in question is of a very high order of merit. It is replete at once with the useful and entertaining, and whilst abounding with practical matter, is as readable as a novel. Indeed nothing else could be expected from the pen of the authoress of the "Backwoods of Canada."

Our excellent friend the Old Countryman has kindly consented to receive subscriptions for the book, and we trust that all who can read, and can afford the tin, will transmit him their names "right away !"—Exchange Paper.

The Sons of Temperance of Galt, and a gratifying display of the Daughters also in their company, had a spree on Wednesday, on the Rail, from Galt to Niagara Falls.—They started from hence a little after seven in the morning, to the number of nearly 100, and got to the Falls about 10 o'clock, where they enjoyed themselves heartily in contemplating the fall of their favorite, and when satisfied with looking at, and tasting it, returned to Galt in safety. The only complaint we hear is, that the engine, being one of their body, drank all the water at each of the stations, and they verily believed would have done the same at the Falls, had it had an opportunity.—Reporter.

An accident, which threatened to be attended with very serious consequences occurred at Elora on Wednesday. The Guelph and Elora Mail Stage arrived at the latter place, as usual about noon, and on descending the hill near Mr. Geddes, was upset with fearful violence. There were fifteen or sixteen passengers on the stage, one half of whom were on the outside, and the coach fell heavily on the body of one of the travellers, and seriously, if not fatally injured him. Female, also, was seriously bruised. They were carried into the Elora Hotel. The entrance to Elora from the Guelph road is most awkward, and ought immediately to be altered.—Galt Reporter.

We regret very much to learn from reliable authority, that along the borders of the Garafraxa road between eight and twelve miles from this place, the wolves are committing very serious depredations among the sheep, by successive nightly onslaughts.—They have robbed one farmer of every one he had—thirteen in number. Three days ago we received notice that within the preceding week they had killed on a small average, no fewer than forty-eight head. It is surely time that the farmers in that locality, should rise en-masse and go forth on a war of extermination, we learn also that a greater number of bears than usual, have been seen of late, in this and the immediately surrounding townships.—Owen Sound Times.

STEAM MILLS STOPPED FOR THE WANT OF WATER.—We learn on a recent trip to Montreal, that the Britannia Steam Saw Mills, on the line of the Grand Trunk Railway beyond Acton, have been suspended for the last three weeks for the want of water to supply the engines. The drouth is excessive along the whole line to Montreal. The Britannia company have two mills, which, when in operation, cut about 40,000 feet of lumber per day.—Sherwood Gazette.

FATAL ACCIDENT ON BOARD SHIP.—Michael Stapleton, a Stevedore, was killed on Friday while at work loading a vessel at the Coves. It appears that a stick of timber then being taken on board the vessel, through the port was stopped at a certain altitude ; and that while the deceased was in the act of looking out through the port, the end canted up, and caught his head between it and the upper part of the port, literally smashing, we are told, the face and head to mummy.—The deceased was a very respectable man, lived at Cape Blanc, and has left a large family to mourn his untimely fate.—Quebec Gazette.

CAUTION TO PERSONS USING CHOLERA PREVENTATIVES.—We are informed that no less than eight persons have been admitted into the Lunatic Asylum in a state of insanity, occasioned by consuming large quantities of camphor to prevent cholera. Some of them carried it about in their pockets, and kept from time to time eating small quantities of it. Others took it dissolved in brandy. In all cases where it was taken in any quantity it produced insanity. It is a fact well known that a comparatively small quantity of camphor will set a dog mad ; and that he will soon afterwards die. The public cannot be too cautious in the use of this and other cholera preventatives.—Colonist.

CRICKET.—The return match between the Hamilton and Brantford Clubs, took place in the former city on Thursday afternoon last, the 7th inst., and was won by the former, who made the game by 37 runs, the Brantford Club having made 92, the Hamilton 125. There was good playing on both sides.

The Rev. Pierre Chaniel, one of the priests of the Seminary, Montreal, was drowned while bathing last Wednesday, at five p. m., in the Lake of the Two Mountains.

☞ The Niagara Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, reports an increase of 259 members within its bounds, which, added to the increase in the Bay of Quinte Conference, makes a total increase of 808 members throughout the church, during past year.

We understand that the Rev. Alexander Kennedy has accepted of a call from the U. P. Congregation of Dumbarton and Canton ; and that his induction is appointed to take place on Tuesday, 3rd October.

AYR OBSERVER.—This is the title of a paper proposed to be published in the village of Ayr, in the township of Dumfries, by James Somerville & Co. It is to be conducted on Reform principles.

ACCIDENT.—Last Monday, a Mr. Dease, while on the Railway leading to the quarry of the Grand Trunk Railway at St. Claire, came in contact with a loaded car, when by some accident he was thrown underneath it, and one of his arms was so severely crushed as to necessitate immediate amputation.

THE BUFFALO AND GODERICH RAILROAD.—We understand that final arrangements were made a few days ago, by the contractors, to complete, and have it in running order, within the course of the year, the whole distance to Stratford.

THE NEW HOUSE.—In Mackenzie's Message it is stated "that of the 128 Members returned to Parliament, 78 are new Members or were not in the last Legislature ; that 50 of the Members of that Legislature are re-elected ; and that 34 were not sent back or have retired. Nearly two-thirds of the House are new."

VERY LATE and IMPORTANT FROM QUEBEC. —By a special Telegraphic despatch from Quebec last night, we learn that great excitement prevails on account of Hincks having sold the Reformers to McNab and has admitted his treachery. Spence, Smith (Port Hope) Southwick, Niles, and Ross are among the traitors. Spence was hissed in the house Messrs. Merritt, McDonald of Glengarry, Freeman, Rolph and others denounced the coalition as base, and Hincks as a traitor.—A meeting of Independent Reformers was held yesterday morning and adopted an Address to the Electors.—North American.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—A fatal accident occurred on Tuesday last, on the B. B. & G. Railway, within the town limits. It appears that the engine coming in met with some obstruction, causing a temporary delay, when a German and two or three other persons got on a hand car, and started with a light to ascertain what was the cause of the delay.—While proceeding towards the engine, two gravel cars became detached from the train, and passed rapidly down the grade, crushing the hand car in their progress, and killing the German instantly. The others who were on the car escaped serious injury by jumping off before the collision took place.—Brant Herald.

The Rouge Party.

The following is an extract from the Colonist's Quebec correspondence. It speaks the truth. The party is destined to lead and sway the public mind, and many of the ablest, ere long, will fill the highest offices in the land :

The rouge party—a number of whom I speak—I cannot report, because I do not sufficiently understand French to do so. I shall however, devote a letter to a description of the men and their style of speaking to-morrow. They are unquestionably the most talented men the French Canadians have sent into Parliament since the union. They are mostly all young men ; they live together ; pull together in everything ; and surpass, in my opinion, any similar number of young men, in brilliant talent and graceful oratory, in either Province. They are beautiful, and at the same time, eloquent and forcible speakers.

The Home-tead Bill.

From the Toronto Pilot.

The Bill recently passed under this title in the United States speaks worthy, so far as its provisions are concerned, of the attention of our own Legislature. The Bill as first introduced had for its object to attract emigrants and settlers into the interior by conferring free grants of land upon those who would within a given period, cultivate and reclaim this land. The free gift of land was changed by the Senate into a conditional and and graduated purchase. The New York Tribune shortly and succinctly describes the measures which might be called a Bill to facilitate the settlement of wild land, and for attracting population from the cities to the country :—

"Its provisions are new and quite comprehensive, not to say radical in their character. First, it provides for graduating the price of land according to the time they have been in the market. For lands which have been offered at public sale, and remain un-old for five years, $1 an acre is to be charged ; for land remaining unsold ten years, 75 cents is to be the price ; for land remaining fifteen years, 50 cents ; twenty years, 25 cents ; thirty years, 12½ cents. Secondly, it provides that States may acquire a pre-emption right to all, or any class of lands above the Government standard and appropriate to themselves the excess. Thirdly, the bill provides that the States may lay out railroads and canals through the lands belonging to the United States, and have the right to pre-empt 7,390 acres per mile on either side of said canals or railroads, the same being set apart by the Secretary of the Interior, to be paid for in cash in ten years. Fourthly, the bill provides that any free white person, of the age of twenty-one years, or who is the head of a family shall be entitled to enter a quarter section of unappropriated land, for use and occupancy, at the minimun prices above named, and at the expiration of five years, having resided on and cultivated said land, be entitled to a patent after having taken the necessary oath and paid 25 cents an acre for said land ; or, if it has been unsold in the market more than twenty years, 12½ cents an acre. And the same right and privilege shall be extended to any settlers who have now entered and reside upon any public lands subject to pre-emption."

Provincial Parliament.

RESIGNATION OF THE MINISTRY.

QUEBEC, September 9.

Last night the ministry were beaten on several divisions, on the Bagot election. The test was : Yeas 47 ; Nays 63—leaving the ministry in a minority of 14. Some of the subsequent divisions were worse for the ministry.

After the routine of business had been disposed of, Mr. Hincks rose and spoke as follows :—

I rise to move that the order of the day be postponed till Monday. I have thought it my duty, in conjunction with my colleagues, to tender our resignation to his excellency, and he has been pleased to accept them, and we only hold office until our successors are appointed. I shall not go back to matters of the ministry that preceeded us, except to remind the House that after the administration had been some time in office, and after we had carried by a considerable majority measures which I think have been received with great satisfaction by the country, and with which I shall always be proud to be identified, that after this and during the session of 1849, we had such evidence of disaffection in Upper Canada, by whose support and confidence we had been able to carry on the government, that at a late period of the session the attorney general, Mr. Baldwin, was under the necessity of tendering his resignation. At that time I was anxious to retire from government, but Mr. Baldwin urged upon me the importance of not taking that step. He considered the measure on which the government had been defeated as one with which he was particularly identified, and that I should not be justified in resigning at that time. It is well known that the present chief justice for Lower Canada, the leader of the government in that part of the Province, had announced his intention of retiring from public life. I thought, therefore, it was best to carry on the business of the country until the end of parliament, and then place the governor in a position to form a new administration. When my friend tendered his resignation, his excellency sent for me, and for the Commissioner of the Crown Lands. We both agreed that it was the most important that the administration should command the confidence of both sections of the province, by endeavouring to avoid controversy, and I shall, therefore, say nothing about the charges brought against me, with respect to combinations. I merely remark that I thought it desirable, with a view to preserve the integrity of the Liberal party in Upper Canada, to seek the support of persons who had been long in opposition to the government ; at the same time I felt I could not do so at the sacrifice of those men who had faithfully adhered to the government. Prominent among those was Mr. Richards, and I felt that if acting with the president of Legislative Council and the hon. member for Glengary, by inviting gentlemen entirely from the opposition, and excluding them who had adhered to it, I should lose my character as a public man. I therefore opened negotiations for the formation of a ministry. A great deal of conversation had taken place, and whether by the hon. member for Glegary or others, I do not know. It had generally been given out that the present post-master general and the member for Norfolk were to be in the administration. The public expectation being thus excited, I proposed to the member for Norfolk to join me, and told him my intentions to offer the attorney generalship to Mr. Richards. The hon. gentleman said he could not accept office without Mr. Cameron, and I offered him the crown lands, and I was thus enabled to place the department at the disposal of Mr Cameron. I subsequently passed a number of measures, of which the country can judge. The administration in the meantime was opposed by the member for Lambton, who, I must do him the justice to say, was always straightforward in his opposition. There has been no misunderstanding about him ; at any rate he thought it was desirable to obstruct the progress of the administration and gradually an opposition sprang up in the Lower Canada party, until the last session disaffection had been so great that the government was placed in a minority. During all this time, however, Mr. Morin had the support of a majority from Lower Canada, without distinction of origin, for several gentlemen of English origin have given us as firm supports as any other of them. We owe them the utmost gratitude and affection ; certainly no man ever deserved better support than my honorable friend. I can hardly trust myself to thank his supporters. The vote which must be admitted equivalent to a want of confidence having been passed last session, we recommended a dissolution. It was with deliberation, and if the great measures so long desired are placed out of danger ; it is owing to the policy then adopted. The result of the election was an overpowering majority in favor of the measures I refer to, particularly the clergy reserves.

We met parliament with every reason to expect to be sustained. The first question related to the speakership. On that subject I had a strong opinion that if beaten upon it the administration would not lose the confidence of the House. From that moment we have heard every hour of some one who was going to support the ministry but was going to do so no longer. (Laughter.) The government candidate for speakership was, nevertheless, supported by a fair majority in Lower Canada. Hence the great surprise of knowing that the people where he was best known gave him that support, but he was beaten by a majority of twelve from Upper Canada. This was a very important fact, and caused our friends considerable anxiety, by my ability to secure any majority generally, by my being able to bring from Upper Canada a support that would have enabled him to carry on the government. I made it my endeavor that it was almost impossible to carry on the business of the country, whether there were a majority or not upon the speech. I, nevertheless, intended up to a late period evening, to allow the address to go on, and afterwards I took my own course, but last evening there came up a question which I considered of great import. The solicitor general asked for twenty-four hours to consider. The government were unable to obtain that delay, and were subjected to the taunts of the opposition. We were placed in a most embarrassing position, and I at once thought it my duty to postpone. I therefore told my hon. friend last night that I must tender my resignation this morning—we accordingly did so. In the course of the discussion certain charges, personal to myself, have been made. I trust hon. gentlemen will think that I desire not to evade enquiry. I court it. (Here Mr. McKenzie gave an ironical cheer.) In reference to that hon. member I may say that he used his utmost efforts to cause me to lose my election at Oxford. He circulated his Mercury extras, Globe extras, North American and Examiner extras, full of accusations against me ; and what was the result ? His candidate got twenty-three votes. I may also mention that I received the suffrages of the county of Renfrew, which I did not solicit, and with this I shall conclude, only soliciting time to read an extract from the speech of Sir Robert Peel. (Here follows a very long extract.) I desire to add nothing, more than to express my thanks to the hon. gentlemen, for the kindness they have listened to me. I need, however, say this. I trust our public men will not be guided by selfish considerations ; for my own part I wish to take a place when I shall leave these benches, by the side of the hon. member for Lincoln, (Mr. Merritt) who has been wisely described by a news paper as "government impossibly." A great many members in this house I am happy to count among my friends, and I am sure I have many in Oxford. Many gentlemen in the opposition entertain feelings of friendship for me.

At the conclusion of this speech Mr. Morin was so affected that he shed tears, and Mr. Young,

MAGNIFICENT ESTATE!

FOR SALE BY AUCTION.

Divided into 150 Villa and Park Lots, with

NEW THREE STORY FLOURING MILL

Brewery, Store and Store Houses, and Two CAPITAL FAMILY RESIDENCES, in the Town of St. Thomas, County of Elgin.

E. EMERY

HAS been favored with instructions from John Wilson Esq., to submit to Public Competition, at the Town Hall, and on the Premises, if necessary,

On Monday, the 2nd of October, 1854,

At 11 o'clock, a.m., precisely.

The whole of that valuable and beautiful Property known as the Paul Estate, including the splendid and newly erected Flouring Mill, Brewery, Family Residences, Store and Store House.

THE LOTS

Are admirably laid out, fronting on spacious streets, and forming some of the most beautiful terraces for Private or Villa Residences that can be desired; commanding some of the finest scenery around St. Thomas, which is celebrated for its beauty and healthy locality. Each lot will contain about ¼ of an acre, varying from fifty to one hundred and fifty feet.

The PARK LOTS contain from 1 to 2 acres each.

THE FLOURING MILL

Which has been recently erected at considerable expense, contains three Run of Stones, with all requisite machinery for doing an extensive business, and its convenience to the Markets will at all times command a large amount of trade.

THE WATER PRIVILEGE

Being beautifully located, and on an excellent stream of water, has not its parallel in the Western Province.

THE FRAME BREWERY

Has also been recently erected, and is on an extensive scale, and capable of doing a good business. These, with the Store, &c., are investments rarely to be met with.

THE FRAME RESIDENCES

Are commodious and conveniently arranged, suitable for a gentleman and family. Good garden with the choicest fruit trees, &c. Soft and spring water in abundance.

THE FRAME STORE

Is also newly built, and fitted up for a general business, and being on the main road from London to Port Stanley, and in a line with the flouring Mill and Brewery, it will command an extensive trade.

Adjoining the store is a large and well built

STORE HOUSE.

Also, will be sold at the same time, the Lot nearly opposite the St. Thomas Hotel, and directly west of Dr. Southwick's Drug Store, containing a frontage of 150 feet on Talbot Street.

Also, that splendid business stand opposite Thomas Hodge's new Brick block, containing 100 feet frontage on Talbot Street, both of which will be divided into Lots to suit purchasers

Also, four Lots on Pleasant Street, each 50 ft. frontage, and two Lots corner of Centre Pleasant and Walnut Streets, with 50 feet frontage on Centre Street.

The whole of the above property is situated in the rapidly increasing and flourishing Town of St. Thomas, now the County of Elgin. The town is extending in the direction of this property,—the Court House is already built in the vicinity, and wide excellent streets are laid out in communication with it, and considerable quantity of building lots for building purposes are also purchased.

The Railroad Depot will soon be commenced, and eventually the principal part of the town will be in this locality. Its onward course is certain. The London and Port Stanley Railroad, its Southern line of Road will soon be in full operation, and a large amount of money must find its way into the town. The population will rapidly increase, and property of every description will rise in value, and Elgin in a short time will become one of the wealthiest and finest agricultural Counties of the Western Province, and now is the time for parties to invest capital in this part of the town, particularly on the very liberal terms which will be made known the day of sale.

Maps of the property can be seen at the principal hotels and public offices in St. Thomas, Port Stanley, London; Ingersoll, Woodstock, Brantford, Hamilton, Toronto, and at the City Auction Mart, London.

All kinds of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, from a PIANO PORTE down to a FIFE.

STRINGS of all kinds and of superior quality; in short, every thing which can or may be found in a well and carefully selected Music Store.

The PIANOS are made by the following celebrate Gentlemen, viz:

CHICKERING STODDART & DUNHAM.

Acknowledged to be the best Instruments of the Country, as are the MELODIANS, manufactured by PRINCE & CO. PIANOS and MELODIANS sold as Cheap and on as favorable Terms as they can be purchased in Toronto, from the Makers themselves.

Besides these Pianos of Chickering, Stodart & Dunham, Mr. Kordes keeps constantly on hand Pianos of other good makers, such as Boston and Raven, Gilbert, Gale, &c., second hand Pianos, from £10 upwards to £50. Old Pianos taken in exchange and a liberal allowance made, Pianos tuned and repaired. All orders from a distance promptly attended to.

Mr. Kordes has constantly on hand an assortment of very superior Brass Instruments, for the formation and use of Bands, as Opbicleides, Sax horns, Trombones, Cornopeans, Bugles, Post horns, French horns, etc., which will be sold low, and on very favorable terms.

Mr. Kordes would just say a few words regarding the Pianos of Chickering, Stodart & Dunham, in the first place, they are warranted to keep good and sound in all their parts, for any number of years, provided they receive good treatment.

In the second place, any person having such a thing as what is called an ear for music, will, without looking at the makers name, be able to detect the difference between a Stodart, a Dunham or a Chickering, to a Piano from any other maker, without exception; the woody, wiry, harsh kind of sound, so predominant in other instruments, is changed into a mellow, sweet, full and brilliant tone in the Pianos of the above three makers.

As regards keeping in tune: these Pianos require a good tuner 3 times in 12 mo the ordinary treatment, they never require more than this, may, however, sometimes require less Care and attention is all they need.

LONDON, C. W.

The great popularity which Moffat's Life Pills and Phœnix Bitters have attained in consequence of the extraordinary cures effected by their use, renders unnecessary for the proprietor to enter into a particular analysis of their medicinal virtues or properties having been more than twenty years before the public, and having the unbiased testimony of more than Three Millions of persons who have been restored to the enjoyment of perfect health by them, it is believed that their reputation as the best vegetable medicine before the public admits of no doubt. In almost every city and village in the United States there are many who are ready to testify to their efficacy in removing disease and giving to the system renewed vigor and health.

In cases of Scrofula, Ulcers, Scurvy or Eruption of the skin, the operation of the Life Medicines is truly astonishing, often removing in a few days all vestige of those loathsome diseases by their following effects on the blood. Fever and Ague, Dyspepsia, Dropsy, Piles, and in short most all diseases, soon yield to their curative properties. No family should be without them as by their timely use much suffering and expense may be saved.

LONDON AGENCY.

MR. ALEXANDER MACDONALD, Agent.

THE subscriber having been appointed agent for the above Company, for the Town of London and surrounding country, begs to inform the public that he is prepared to receive orders for insurance on the most favorable terms.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Fire Insurances will be effected at moderate rates of premium. Persons insured in this Company are not subject to be called on to make good losses which may happen to the insured or others—nor do they depend upon an uncertain fund or contribution—the capital stock of this Company being an unquestionable security to the insured in cases of loss or damage by fire. The company will ever distinguish itself by its promptness in the settlement of claims. The liberal settlement of losses incurred by the great fire at Montreal in 1852—has practically shown to the inhabitants of British America, the character which this company has ever manifested throughout the whole world under this head. It will only be necessary to add that the Agent at London, can with confidence announce to the public that they may feel assured that every legitimate claim will be immediately settled without reference to England.

CAMOMILE FLOWERS.

Patronized and Recommended by the most eminent Medical Practitioners in Canada.

London C. W. June 18th, 1852.

MESSRS. REXFORD & Co.

Gentlemen—I have received the Sample bottle of your "Compound Camomile Cordial," and consider it a beautiful as well as a highly palatable preparation. The aromatic fragrance and permanent bitter flavour, in which lies the Essential Medicinal qualities appear to be lasting and well preserved, and as this vegetable tonic is highly beneficial in those forms of Dyspepsia depending on debility or want of tone in the digestive organs, (the form most frequently met with on the continent) your cordial will, I doubt not, form an inestimable addition to our Pharmacopeeia.

From the knowledge possessed by me of Mr. Rexford, and his very high reputation as a Pharmaceutical Chemist I feel much pleasure in confidently recommending his Preparation of this valuable tonic, to my professional brethren, and to the public, as a delightful and invigorating cordial.

DR. SHERWOOD'S Galvanic Embrocation. This Galvanic Embrocation is used with positive and permanent success in all cases of Rheumatism, acute or chronic, seated in the head joints or limbs, Gout, The Dolloreux Nervuous and Sick Headache, Paralysis, Fits, Epilipsy, Palpitation of the Heart, Spinal and Hip Complaints, stiffness of the Joints Lumbago, Neuralgia, Nervious Tremors, General Debility, Deficiency of Diseases, Childbirtnes Burns and Scalds, &c.

It is now generally admitted by the learned and scientific, that the mysterious power called Galvanism or Magnetism, is, in fact, the vitality of life, and that disease, in many of its most painful forms is entirely owing to the absence of this Galvanic or Magnetic power in its healthy proportions. It then, we can readily supply this wondrous power when its thus difficult, we can successfully combat disease, and this has been fully and perfectly attained by the most wonderful scientific discovery of combining Magnetism or Galvanism with a fluid which has cost the inventor of this remedy years of study and labor.

There is not an intelligent Physician who has kept place with the progress of scien ce that does not readily approve of the Magnecric power in various diseases, and there is scarcely a medical journal either in this country or Europe which makes its appearance without the statement of various causes, showing some new effect of these wonderful agents, or corroborating previous experience of their beneficial use. The inventor of the Galvanic Embrocation has great pleasure in being able to state that a majority of the most distinguished physicians of New York constantly reccommend this Embrocation to their practice, and from many of them he has received the kindest testimonials of approval and recommendation.

Poetry.

The Happy Farmer.

BY MRS. SIGOURNEY.

Saw ye the farmer at his plough,
As you were riding by,
Or, wearied 'neath his noon day toil,
When summer suns were high?
And thought ye that his lot was hard,
And did you thank your God,
That you and yours were not condemned
Thus like a slave to plod.

Come, see him at his harvest home,
When garden, field and tree,
Conspire, with flowing stores to fill,
His barn and granary.
His healthy children gaily sport,
Amid the new mown hay.
Or proudly aid with vigorous arm,
His task as best they may.

The dog partakes his master's joy,
And guards the loaded wain,
The feathery people clap their wings
And lend their young ing train.
Perchance the hoary grandsire's eye,
The glowing scene surveys,
And breathes a blessing on his race,
Or guides his evening praise.

The harvest Giver is their friend—
The Maker of the soil;
And earth, the mother, gives them bread,
And cheers their patient toil.
Come join them round their wintry hearth,
Their heartfelt pleasure see,
And you can better judge how blest
The farmer's life may be.

Destruction of the Inquisition in Spain.

In 1809 Col. Lamanowsky was attached to that portion of Napoleon's army which was stationed in Madrid.

"While in this city," says Colonel L. "I used to speak freely about the priests and the Jusuits, and of the Inquisition. It had been decreed by the Emperor Napoleon that the Inquisition and monasteries should be suppressed; but the decree, like some of the laws enacted in this country was not executed.—Months had passed away, but the prisons of the Inquisition, were still unopened. One night about ten or eleven o'clock, as Col. L. was walking the streets of Madrid, two armed men sprang upon him from an alley and made a furious attack. He instantly drew his sword and put himself in a position of defence, and while struggling with them saw at a distance the lights of the patrols, French soldiers mounted, who carried lanterns and rode through the streets of the city at all hours of the night to preserve order. He called to them in French, and as they hastened to his assistance the assailants took to their heels and escaped, not, however, before he saw by their dress that they belonged to the Guards of the Inquisition.

The Colonel went immediately to Marshal Soult, then Governor of Madrid told him what had taken place and reminded him of the decree to suppress this institution. Marshal Soult replied that he might go and destroy it Col L. told him that his regiment, the 9th of the Polish Lancers was not fit for such a service; but if he would give him an additional regiment, the 117th, he would undertake the work. The 116th was under the command of Col. De Lile. The troops required were granted and I proceeded said Col. L, to the Inquisition which was situated about five miles from the city. It was surrounded by a wall of great strength and defended by a company of soldiers. When we arrived at the wall I addressed one of the sentinels and summoned the holy fathers to surrender to the Imperial army, and open the gates of the Inquisition. The sentinel, who was standing on the wall, appeared to enter into conversation, for a moment, with some one within, at the close of which he presented his musket, and shot one of my men.

This was the signal for attack, and I ordered my troops to fire upon those who appeared on the walls.

It was soon obvious that it was an unequal warfare. The walls of the Inquisition were covered with the soldiers of the holy office; there was also a breastwork upon the wall behind which they but partially exposed themselves as they discharged their muskets. Our troops were in the open plain, and exposed to a destructive fire. We had no cannon nor could we scale the walls and the gates resisted successfully every attempt at forcing them. I could not retire and send for cannon to break through the walls without giving them time to lay a train and blow us up. I saw that it was necessary to change the mode of attack, and directed some trees to be cut down and trimmed, to be used as battering rams.

Two of these were taken up by a detachment of men as numerous as could work to advantage, and brought to bear upon the walls with all the powers they could exert, while the troops kept up a fire to protect them from the enemy's fire from the walls. Presently the walls began to tremble, and the Imperial troops rushed into the Inquisition. Here we met with an incident which in the nineteenth century is equal to. The Inquisitor General followed by the father confessors in their priestly robes all came out of their rooms as we were making our way into the interior of the Inquisition, with long faces and their arms crossed over their breasts, their fingers resting on their shoulders, as though they had been deaf to all the noise of attack and defence and had just learned what was going on, they addressed themselves in the language of rebuke to their own soldiers, saying, "Why do you fight our friends the French."

Their intention, no doubt, was to make us think that this defence was totally unauthorized by them, hoping, if they could make us believe that they were friendly, they should have a better opportunity, in the confusion of the moment to escape. The artifice was too shallow and did not succeed. I caused them to be placed under guard, and all the soldiers of the Inquisition to be secured as prisoners. We then proceeded to examine all the rooms of the stately edifice. We passed through room after room, found all perfectly in order, richly furnished, with altars and crucifixes, and wax candles in abundance, but could not discover no evidences of iniquity being practised there—nothing of these peculiar features which we expected to find in an Inquisition. We found splendid paintings, and a rich and extensive library. Here was beauty and splendor, and the most perfect order on which my eyes had ever rested. The architecture, the proportions were perfect. The ceiling and floors of wood were scoured and highly polished. The marble pavements were arranged with a strict regard to order. There was everything to please the eye, and gratify a cultivated taste; but where were those horrid instruments of torture of which we had been told, and where those dungeons in which human beings were said to be buried alive? We searched in vain. The holy fathers assured us that they had been belied, and that we had seen all, and I was prepared to give up the search convinced that this Inquisition was different from others of which I had heard.

But Col. DeLile was not so ready as myself to relinquish our investigation and said to me "Colonel, you are commander to day, and as you say, so must it be, but if you will be advised by me, let this marble floor be examined. Let water be brought and poured upon it, and we will which and see if there is any place which it passes more freely than others." I replied to him, "Do as you please Colonel, and ordered water to be brought accordingly. The slabs of marble were large and beautifully polished. When the water had been poured over the floor much to the dissatisfaction of the Inquisitors, a careful examination was made of every seam in the floor to see if the water passed through. Presently Col. DeLile exclaimed that he had found it. By the side of one of those marble slabs the water passed through fast, as though there was an opening beneath. All hands were at work for further discovery; the officers with their swords, the soldiers with their bayonets, seeking to clear out the seam and pry up the slab; others with the butts of their muskets striking the slab with all their mights to break it, while the priests remonstrated against our desecation of their hol

SPAIN.

The Union Republican Club has been closed by order of the Government.

Several smaller clubs have also been dispersed.

The Government had also published the defalcations of the previous ministry, showing a total of $30,000,000 with the revenues of Cuba mortgaged, and all the extra resources of the kingdom pledged.

Espartero had raised a temporary loan of $2,000,000 on the Havana customs and bank securities.

Queen Christina had left Madrid for Portugal with the sanction of the government, where she will embark for Italy or France.

Much of her wealth is safely invested in foreign securities.

Notwithstanding the profound tranquility, private advices report outbreaks at Madrid on the 28th when it became known that Christina had escaped.

A few barricades were erected, but were pulled down by the National Guards.

Saragossa continues restless, and the whole province of Aragon is unquiet.

Carlist movements were spoken of in two or three quarters, and there are hints of military disaffection in Gallicia.

VIENNA, Aug. 20.—Count Buol is said to have displayed unusual warmth during the conference which he yesterday held with the Prussian Minister. He enumerated the sacrifices which Austria had made in order to prevent the encroachments of Russia, and gave Count Armin to understand that the stipulations contained in the treaty of April 20 were, under present circumstances insufficient.

It is believed that Count Arnim will go again to Berlin. Prince Alexander Gortschakoff has received some intimation relative to the probable fact of the Austrian note.—It is likely no direct answer will be given, but that Austria will be desired to give explanations relative to her real intentions and wishes.

BUCHAREST, 22nd.—Nothing of importance. There is little chance of Moldavia being speedily evacuated. The victories gained in Asia were celebrated by the Russians on the 16th at Folchani, and the firing gave rise to a report that a battle had been fought at Bucco in Wallachia.

THEY CATCHING BY BLOODHOUNDS.—The Sussex Express, in noticing a recent capture of sheep stealers by Police Superintendent Smith, of Alten, says:—

"This is the second capture this active officer has made within the past two months.—A few weeks ago the same parties stole a sheep from Mr. Butterworth, of the same parish, and Mr. Smith and his bloodhounds were sent for. The latter ran from the spot where the sheep was killed through the most remote valleys in the neighborhood, a distance of three miles, causing great sensation to the guilty gang. They ultimately arrived at a cottage occupied by a shoemaker, when the gallant huntsman was accosted by the paralysed inmate as to what his business was there he was informed of the nature of the visit.—The bloodhounds tried to make an entrance to their prey, through the thatch on the roof of the cottage. The door, however, was opened, a search was made, and part of the sheep found in the house. The prisoners were consequently apprehended and committed for trial.

A SHARP ENCOUNTER WITH PIRATES.—We read in the Debats:—

"A letter from Samos of the 5th contains interesting details respecting an attack which was made on the 3rd in the little Island of Lero, near Samos, on a band of Greek pirates, by the crew of the screw corvette the Chantal, Capt Poultier. Having landed at daybreak, under the command of Lieutenant Laurent and M. Souza Carrea, an officer of the Brazilian navy in the service of France, the company of disembarkation found the pirates about nine o'clock in the morning, and forced them to seek refuge in a strongly built house where they barricaded themselves. In those parts, houses being at all times exposed to pirates, especially in the sea shore are built like block houses, without interior openings by which they can be attacked, provided with loopholes for musket firing and capable of resisting musketry. It was in a building of this kind that the pirates took up a position It could not be hoped to expel them with muskets, and it therefore was necessary to send a detachment on board for a howitzer.

The combat then commenced, the pirates opposing the most energetic resistance, which would have done them the greatest honor if their cause had been honorable. After about five hours, the ammunition having begun to fail the French detachment, the commander, who could not remain in check before such adversaries gave orders for an attack, and our sailors rushed on the house, and, amidst a shower of balls, broke open the door with hatchets. Some seconds after the affair was at an end; the pirates were all shot with the exception of five of them, who were hanged the next day to the end of the yards of the corvette. We had in this affair, which was a very sharp one, one man killed, and several wounded.

THE PRINCE OF WALES.—Since the union with Ireland, the title of the heir apparent is "Princeps Britannicarum" Prince of Great Britain; the Sovereign being styled "Rex" or "Regina Britannarum." He is still however generally distinguished as Prince of Wales, the title derived from the unfortunate Prince Llewellyn, at whose death Wales was annexed to the English Crown.

ORIGIN OF REFLECTING LIGHT HOUSES.—In the last century, at a meeting of a society of Mathematicians, at Liverpool, one of the members proposed to lay a wager that he would read the paragraph of a newspaper at ten yards distance, with the light of a farthing candle. The wager was laid, and the proposer having covered the inside of a wooden dish with pieces of looking-glass, fastened in with glazier's putty, placed his reflector behind the candle and won his wager. One of the company marked this with a philosophic eye. This was Captain Hutchinson, the dockmaster with whom originated the reflecting light-house—erected at Liverpool in 1763.

FARMS IN ENGLAND.—Farms occupy two-thirds of the land of England. The number of the farms is 225,318; the average size is 111 acres.—Two-thirds of the farms are under that size, but there are 571 above 1000 acres. The large holdings abound in the southeastern and eastern counties; the small farms in the north. There are 2,000 English farmers holding 2,000,000 acres; and there are 97,000 English farmers not holding more. United States.

Interesting from Texas.

A correspondent of the San Antonio Ledger signed Deer Hunter, and dated Fort Mason, July 3, says that a large number of Indians have gone in the direction of Fort McCavett. Articles of furniture, clothes outside of the houses, and horses, have been stolen by the Indians. Steers have also been killed for food:

In the Western Texan we find a letter addressed to the Quartermaster at San Antonio, from Captain Calhoun, Fort Chadbourn, July 30. He says that he has been informed by the principal chiefs of the Northern Camanches, that, "within the last few days runners had come within their camps from the Northern bands, inviting them to come and join in an expedition into Mexico, to avenge the massacre of a large party of their people not many months since. They state that these parties already number over four hundred, and are increasing; some of their young men having joined these parties, have already passed down." A son of Cecilia Lopez, near Corpus Christi, has been recovered from the Camanches. The boy reports as follows:—

He was hunting mustangs about 3 months since, with his father and another relative, when he was pursued by the Indians, struck from his horse and captured. The Indians went to Laredo, where they captured another boy and some horses—the boy they killed soon after. From Laredo they proceeded towards the Nueces, and on the Laredo road near where it parts from the road leading to Guerrero, they attacked a train of fourteen waggons, killed five teamsters and ran off with the mules. While making their way in this direction they were overtaken by a party of soldiers, when in camp, several of them killed and wounded and the mules retaken; the rest with the boy escaping.

We are glad to learn of the arrival at Fort Arbuckle, on our northern frontier, of Major D. F. Whiting, in command of the 9th U. S. Infantry. The gathering to which Captain Calhoun refers, is probably a council of the Creeks, Camanches, Shawnees and Kikapoos held last July, to settle difficulties existing between the Shawnees and Camanches.

Some depredation have taken place near Fort Merrill, which are supposed to have been committed by Mexicans. The troops followed the trail for some days without success. These Mexicans stole seven valuable horses from the citizens of Gussetsville.

We find in the Nueces Valley, a graphic account of the events proceeding the death of Capt. Van Buren:

The party of Indians with whom Capt Van Buren fought, had been followed for some days by Capt. John King, 1st Infantry, and had lost one of their number in a skirmish with him, a few days before Capt. Van Buren discovered the trail, which he immediately pursued. V. B. followed them three hundred miles—crossed the Nueces river four times, several times being compelled to make bridges of lariats, for the purpose of getting his arms and ammunition over. During the pursuit he came to a large lake, which the Lipans whom he had with him, said was a league in length, over this lake he had to raft his arms, &c. and swim the animals. He promised his guide and the Lipan's valuable presents if they would but overtake the foe. Notwithstanding all obstacles, they came in sight of the Indians between Lake Trinidad and Fort Ewell on the 11th ult., and immediately engaged them. The Indians had stripped their horses of everything, and were apparently awaiting him and his men. At first he charged with six shooters, but finding the Indians were getting the best of the fight, he ordered the men to their rifles. At the first fire four Indians fell, and the rest commenced to retreat. The Captain was shot through the arm previous to ordering his men to use their rifles, and immediately after through the body; the arrow entered three inches above the navel, and came out behind, about four inches lower down, going entirely through the sabre belt. He pulled it out with both hands, and getting from his horse immediately fainted. At the time he was shot through the body, he was after an Indian with his sabre drawn, and in the act of striking him. Half of his body was paralyzed from the shock. The Indians were totally routed, leaving on the field everything except their horses. During the fight a portion of the Indians acted as voltigeurs, dismounting, fighting, and as quickly springing upon their horses again. These feats are regarded as being almost miraculous, and can only be believed by those who witness them. The Captain laid on the ground three days before medical aid arrived. At the end of that time an ambulance was sent out, which brought him to this place where he breathed his last.

The Indian Difficulties in the West.

[From the St. Paul (Min.) Democrat Aug. 23]

We have received some further and reliable advices relative to the disturbances between the Sioux and Chippewas. It comes from two sources and is briefly as follows:—

"Hole-in-the-Day recently pretended to have had a spiritual conversation with his deceased father, having lain and watched upon the old warriors grave all night. The direction to him by the old chief was to go on the war path against the Sioux and the assurance was further given him that several battles would be fought, in one of which Hole-in-the-Day— would be killed. He gathered about him some one hundred and thirty warriors, and on his way from Crow Wing to Lac qui Parle, fell upon a camp of thirty Sioux, with whom he had a running and hard fight, in which the Sioux appear to have been the success ful combatants. One Chippewa was killed, and his body hacked to pieces in sight of his friends by the old Sioux Squaws. Three of Hole-in-the Day's band are also wounded, and as they returned to Crow Wing without any scalps, their story of the fight, in which they represent themselves as victors, is not by any means believed.

This attack roused the Sioux, and retaliation was resolved upon. Several parties went out on the war path, and one of these encountered and massacred a party of Pillager Chippewas at a point between Otter tail Lake and Long Prarie. The party was upon a hunting expedition, and were not prepared for battle. Twenty five were killed, and seven women and two men escaped.—They sought refuge at the agency, but soon returned to bury their dead. They aver that they found one Sioux dead upon the field of battle, but not no scalp was brought in, the story is not thought to be true.

The Pillagers charge this heavy disaster upon Hole in the-Day, and his untimely war operation.

RETURN OF THE MORMONS.—A western paper says that a few days since a train composed of nine waggons and fifty persons, crossed the Missouri eastwardly in search of a new home. They left Salt Lake City on account of the oppression and immorality of their church.

Provincial,

One of the most glaring impositions practised by the present Government, is in the case of Mr. Morin's election for Chicoutimi. We are rather surprised that the French Commissioner of Crown Lands, who is regarded as a man of scrupulous honor, should permit a trick to be played for his benefit, of so disgraceful a character. It is not, we hope to be inferred that, according to the school copy-line, "evil communications," have corrupted Mr. Morin's good manners. We trust the name of Mr. Morin was used on the occasion without his consent, and the honorable gentleman will not lend himself to a breach of the law, by taking his seat. It is indeed, of great importance to the Government that the Premier of Lower Canada should be in his place to strengthen the hearts of the ministerial faction; but it is far more important that Mr. Morin should maintain a name unsullied by political trickery.

Our readers know that when Mr. Morin was defeated in Terrebonne, his friends or himself proceeded to make arrangements to secure for him the county of Chicoutimi.—Mr. Price and Mr. Mathieu had been regularly nominated as candidates on the day of election. One of them received a show of hands and was declared duly elected, and the other demanded a poll, which was fixed for a particular day. How, then, was it posible that Mr. Morin could take part in the contest when he had not been brought before the public on the nomination day? The difficulty did not stagger the members of the government. It was with them a struggle for life. They proceeded to secure first the consent of Messrs. Price and Mathieu, so that they should remain neutral. Rumor says that one of these parties (the latter) received the sum of £250 in hard cash, and the former, the promise of an office. As to the particular inducements we cannot vouch; certain it is, however, that the right means were used and the candidates consented to retire. The next step was to induce the Returning Officer to obliterate their names from the poll books and to insert that of Mr. Morin in their place. They succeeded in doing this either by bribery or by the most egregious deception practised on the weakness of the Returning Officer. The infamy of these proceedings must be evident to the dullest understanding. The people of Chicoutimi were assured on the day of nomination that Price and Mathieu were to be the candidates. Mr. Morin's name was never mentioned to them, as a candidate they were offered no opportunity of opposing his election. To say that there was any other freedom of choice is ridiculous. The two candidates known to the electors were withdrawn, and the Hobson's choice offered to the latter, either of voting for Morin or staying at home. If this practice were to be permitted as a rule how convenient it would be for unpopular ministers. All that they would have to do would be to wait till the nomination was over, then bribe the nominees off the track and walk the course without any opposition. No one could attempt to defend such a monstrosity; and we trust that ere this, Mr Morin has repudiated it, by refusing to take his seat. If he has not—if the influence which induced the returning officer to fly in the face of the clearest instructions of the Act which he was appointed to carry out, really came from the Crown Land Commissioner—we shall henceforth place him a great deal lower in the ranks of our public men than we have hitherto done. The fact that he has said not a word in rebuke to his colleagues' jobs might be overlooked—Mr. Morin is a man of mild disposition, unapt to take troublesome courses however right or expedient they may be. But when he joins for his own benefit—when he lends his personal influence to an open and deliberate breach of the law—we are compelled to set him on the same level as his colleagues.

The conduct of Mr. Drummond Mississquio, was more openly corrupt than that of Mr. Morin. No contradiction has yet appeared, either from the Attorney General East, himself, or any of the organs, to the distinct assertions made under the signatures of respectable parties, that Mr. Drummond offered a large bribe to induce a candidate to come forward for Missisquoi, and furthermore, openly proposed that the people of the county should be bribed. It will never be forgotten, we trust, while Mr D. remains in public life, that at a meeting of Gugy's supporters, when a gentlemen asked what they were to say to the people to induce them to vote against Mr, Ferres, he exclaimed, "Say 'money' to them!" What a speech was that for a responsible Minister of the Crown! What lessons of morality and honesty did the Attorney General carry with him to the people of the townships.

Mr. David Robins is the next ministerialista, of whose misdeeds we have a complete account. The wholesale voting in the township of Sheffield, was a most infamous violation of the Election Act—prompted, we have no doubt, by the Government. It has gained a vote for them at the beginning of the session. That will make it all right in their own eyes, but not in those of the public.

It is well known that Mr. Wm. Lyon Mc Kenzie took an active part in the late contest in South Oxford, that he spoke, canvassed and wrote against Mr. Hincks. His last issue of the Message informs us he is convinced that the most infamous means were used to counteract the Independent Reform influence—as to which he promises further revelations. As the member for Halidmand says it is incredible that a Reform candidate running honestly against Mr. Hincks could only get eight Reform votes. The official influence, intimidation and direct bribery by Mr. Cameron in his Lambton election are still in the memory of our readers.—From Gaspe to Sarnia, the ministry have used none but the basest means to carry their elections. It is a pleasure to know that, in the new and enlarged house this kind of treachery is not powerful as in the late assembly. A very small number of members do not form a working majority. It is requisite to buy a number almost beyond the means of any government. In spite of all these successful corruptions the present Cabinet cannot secure a working majority by these nefarious means.—Globe.

The New Ministry.

OPINION OF THE PRESS.

We quote the opinions of some of our contemporaries on the new combination. The Hamilton Spectator, says:—

That the policy of the present Ministry will give general satisfaction at least in Upper Canada, we have the utmost confidence Prior to proceeding to Parliament, the Coalition Cadets had decided in case they were called to office, upon bringing in a measure for the immediate secularisation of the Clergy Reserves. Whatever views some of them might entertain, individually, on that vexed question, they were satisfied to take the result of the recent election as the solemn decision of the country, and were determined, should circumstances put them in a position to do so, to get rid of the questions which have so long formed the stock in trade of the agitator and demagogue.

The late hour at which we received the telegraph report prevents us from saying more on this subject to day, but we repeat that the Ministry just formed will, with the measures which they propose to carry, be a strong ministry, while in talent they stand immeasurably before their predecessors.

(From the Daily News.)

THE NEW MINISTRY.—"The Queen's government must be carried out"! In the spirit of these words a tribute to the late Duke of Wellington on the occasion of a Ministerial crisis, Sir Allan McNab and Mr. Morin appear to have acted in the formation of the ministry announced yesterday morning. A compromise—a coalition—became a matter of necessity, and though coalitions are rarely successful and are frequently fatal to political character and influence of their authors, Mr. Morin and Sir Allan have had the courage to meet the requirement of the moment, and either opponents, now unite in assuming the responsibility of carrying on the Queen's government.

Will they be sustained in the step which they have thus taken? We think they will. There are doubtless difficulties in the path of the new ministry. But thinking as we do with Mr. Hincks, that no other arrangement than that just made was possible, and looking to the promises of support given by some, and of forbearance by others of the liberal party, there seems little reason to doubt that all obstacles will be overcome, and that the country will again enjoy the advantages of a "strong" Government having its responsibilities to the people enforced by a good opposition.

(From the Montreal Commercial Advertiser.)

THE NEW MINISTRY.—Our readers will have probably by this time, formed their conjectures, and embraced their own opinion as to the stability or otherwise of the new Administration. In Montreal at least, the period of its existence has been well canvassed, and we are bound to say that the general idea is it can not hold together long. There is a growing dissatisfaction at the only partial purging of the corruptionists, who it is said ought to be kicked out root and branch. The neglect shown those who are unrepresented—who in the ministry are unrepresented—also forms a topic of discussion, and the feeling seems to be that only half measures have been adopted, when full and perfect regeneration, might have been easily and successfully accomplished.

It must be remembered, however, that the crisis was of unexampled difficulty; that there was no time for calm and deliberate discussion, that the enemy though defeated was not conquered; but ready on the slightest advantage, to return to the attack. Besides this the distinction of parties are so numerous, and the claims of leaders so pressing, that a combination of discordant materials so far as minor political opinions are concerned, was rendered absolutely necessary.

By the defeat of the enemy, the important has been already gained. The three arch-scoundrels have been sent to the right about, and Hincks, Rolph and Cameron will no more worry and distress us. Had nothing save this been achieved, the country might be thankful and trust to time and Providence still further to rid us of the base and unworthy. Morin, we believe, was more sinned against than sinning, and none of the mean and dirty crimes which were laid to the charge of his colleagues, were so much as breathed against him.

The Combination Ministry, it will have been seen, are pledged to carry out the measures the late government introduced. The sooner this is set about the better. The way in which they deal with the great question before them, will be the best test of their fitness for office, and afford us a better means of judging whether they are likely to remain in it or not.

We are disposed to give them a fair trial. They have undertaken a dangerous and onerous office, at a very disturbed period, and we shall not be of those who would aggravate their difficulties, or do aught that might throw additional stumbling-blocks in their way. Let them have a field and no favor. They know what the country wants, and what it expects from them. By taking office, they have agreed to merge party differences, to promote the public good, and it is in their mutual forbearance, their wise and temperate behaviour, that we look for their success. Their movements will be watched with jealous care, and they need not be told that the public are slow to praise and very quick to blame, or that the least deviation from the honest straightforward path, will be the signal for their downfall.

(From the Belville Tribune.)

Last week we made the observation that whatever ministry or combination may grow out of the present crisis, it appears to us but fair, that they should be allowed a generous or prudential trial, providing their programme be liberal and their measures bear the same stamp. This principle we are still willing to adhere to;—nevertheless, we cannot at present approve of the "combination ministry," for it does seem strange that men who had just been driven from office for want of confidence, should form part of the new government and expect to command the confidence of the new Parliament.—however, the new ministry promise very liberally and perhaps therefore the house may overlook the novelty exhibited in the composition of the present ministry.—Representatives should go to Parliament not to support men, this minister or that, but to obtain the best measures possible for the country. It is certain parties in the House to a considerable extent, have cast aside their party arms to form a ministry—a ministry let us hope, which will meet the expectations of the country.

(From the Cobourg Star.)

COALITION GOVERNMENT.—For eight long years we have written in favor of a Coalition Government. It is therefore unnecessary to inform our readers that we give our hearty support and best wishes to the one just formed. We do not write on party grounds or for party objects; but for the preservation of the public credit here and abroad. And when we see men of commanding political talent and official experience—men of penetration, forethought, activity and resolution combining to sustain Constitutional Government and put down factions, we can confidently lend our aid, and appeal to the country to sustain them in power.

It is greatly to the credit of the new administration that they have abandoned the dogmatism of party; and set the example of allaying those foolish passions and distinctions which once arrayed men against each other, thus preparing themselves to exercise an independence of judgement and character which mere partyism proscribes, and to combine the lesser hues and shades of opinion in the broad daylight of public interest and public duty.

The principle on which the administration is formed is one of compromise. Sir Allan McNab has no doubt adopted the leading measures of the late ministry, resigning to himself however the right to carry them on in a CONSERVATIVE spirit. This is precisely the policy which is required by the interests of the country and most suitable to the very peculiar circumstances under which Sir Allan has been forced into power. The almost unanimous verdict of the country having been rendered there is nothing left to the new ministry but to bow to its decision.—This, we contend, is a very plain, a very allowable, and even a praiseworthy policy. It is plain, fair, and above board. Under such circumstances, no one can censure Sir Allan and his friends for taking office. In our opinion they have only fulfilled a duty in accepting office. They raised no particular question that led to the dissolution of the late government; they did not call upon the House to overthrow by an adverse vote a definite line of policy pursued by the late government in order that they might substitute for it a definite line of policy of their own, but they were brought into power for two reasons.—First—because the late government had lost the confidence of their supporters; and secondly—because there was no other party sufficiently strong, or so enjoying the confidence of the country as to enable them to take the reins of power. Under such circumstances, we repeat Sir Allan and his friends would have neglected their duty had they not done their best to carry on the business of the country. The Reciprocity act in particular should be brought immediately into operation as should also the several acts for the extension of Back Capital.

(From the Woodstock Sentinel.)

For our part we care not—so long as the business of the country is judiciously and honestly managed—to which party that management may be entrusted; but the experience of the past warns us not to be too sanguine. The present position will, however, have a strong tendency to allay political party strife; and if such spirits as the editor of the Castellan can put their necks under the yoke of Sir Allan; and a few expectants in this place, and the rest out the county, only "wait a little longer" for that good "time coming" we see nothing to prevent the successful termination of all our hopes. Whatever some may think—though sadly disappointed—we confess—leaving all party sacrifices out of the question—the present arrangement is, not only one to secure to the country, in a perceable and orderly way, and in a way certain to succeed, those measures which Canada has so long labored to accomplish.

(From the Belleville Intelligencer.)

Can the Conservatives justify their proceedings? It is time, and has been appa ent since the elections, that the Reserves would have to be secularized, much as we might wish to have this from our view. Still it was too apparent to be denied. The question then arises with Sir Allan and his colleagues, as to who should secularize them, and whether it would be statesmanlike for him to still protest against that which must inevitably take place, and that if he did not step forward and settle the long vexed question, others would. He therefore adopted English precedents, threw overboard his long-cherished opinions and principles, for the sake of the peace of the country, and coalesed with those who have been his bitterest opponents. It is true that precedents can be found by which to justify this step. He has the action of Sir Robert Peel and the Duke of Wellington, on the Reform Bill—the Emancipation Act, and the Free Trade policy. So standing upon his patriotism he can hurl defiance at his accusers. But with all these cases in justification, will his friends and the public generally sustain this proceeding? We think not.—Had a coalition been formed with men against whom no charge of jobbery or corruption could be brought, and none of the late Ministry remained, even at a sacrifice of certain measures, we should have been ready to give them, at least, a fair trial. But how can Ross, Morin, Drummond and others of the old ministry be separated from the responsibility of Hincks' official jobbing. They, knowing the facts, and if not connected with him, yet defended him, and retained office, and are therefore equally culpable. Has the Hon. John Ross no hand in these speculations? Is he not fully cognizant of the £50,000 Grand Trunk Debenture Job, and did he not support him in it? Is he not equally well informed upon the £10,000 shave with Bowes, and did he not sustain him in that transaction, and therefore become a party to it? The Point Levi Job—the red Pine Timber Job and various other Jobs, stare us in the face, and for which each member of the administration is responsible. No less a job was the sale of the Presqu'Isle property in which the Hon. John became the sole purchaser. And is an investigation into these charges to be burked and hushed up by a combination? Or is the burial of past robberies, to be the price of Hincks' support! If so, the sooner this combination is severed the better for the country. As nothing short of a whole and complete investigation into the whole schemes and speculations of the late Ministry will satisfy the people.

(From the British Whig.)

A new Ministry has been formed, and that Ministry is Reform in Lower Canada, and Conservative in Upper Canada. The Conservative members of the Cabinet are leagued to carry on the measures of their predecessors; consequently if they do that, there will not be much cause for dissatisfaction. If the new men are pleased to swallow all they have uttered, and to abandon all the principles for which they have contended for the past five years, and for the mere love of office adopt and forward those of their opponents, they will be virtual reformers, and that's all the country requires. Of two evils, the least has been chosen instead of the rampant Clear Grits and Rouges, with Brown and Cauchon at their head, we have a Ministry composed at least of gentlemen.

(From the Free Press.)

But this ministry, according to the explanations of Mr. Morin, is prepared to carry out the measures announced in the speech from the throne, as the measures of the late government. Well, this is so far encouraging. The leaders of the Tory party found themselves in such a position that there was not the least chance of their succeeding in their Government without abandoning their avowed principles, embracing the platform of their predecessors—in short ceasing to be Tories—and promising the Secularization of the Clergy Reserves, and the proper adjustment of the Seignorial Tenure question. It looks something like arriving at a successful issue, when the two contending political parties are both pledged to carry the same liberal measures. It is not a new feature in politics for the opposition to carry the measures they once denounced.

(From the Old Countryman.)

We approve of the Coalition Ministry? There is one at home, where men of the noblest birth, and the richest means and endowments, and holding, personally, opinions utterly at variance with one another, are getting on harmoniously together, like patriots and gentlemen, and conducting the state vessel safely through the billows, cheered by the confidence of their Queen and country.—Is nothing in imitation of this ever to be done in Canada? Is she still to be the prey of this or that set of birds of prey, who hurry in a moment of difficulty to gorge themselves upon the mighty carcass. Is there never to rise up in our midst a great minded Peel, to direct and counsel us, in the moments of trial? Demagogues are waiting for a scramble—and passing events; and predicting calmly the result which must follow a want of capability in temporal, and a principle and consistency and honor in higher matters.

PROVINCIAL PARLIAMENT.

QUEBEC September 15.

Last night, after some conversation on the point of order, Mr. Felton introduced a bill to constitute the electoral County of Sherbrooke into a separate municipality

Mr. Drummond said it was the intention of the government to bring in a general bill on this subject.

On motion of Mr. Mackenzie an address was ordered for a return of all the moneys in the hands of clerks in the Crown Land Office

Also for a return relative to the roads harbors, bridges, &c., sold by government to parties or individuals.

Also a return relative to the location in the Seigniory of Longueuil

Also, for a copy of a lease or patent, granting certain lands to a Mr or near Round East, to John Prince, Esq.

Mr. Mackenzie remarked that he was much surprised to learn that valuable public property should have been let or sold to Col Prince for a mere song. That explained his extraordinary conduct in the House.

Mr. Mackenzie further moved for a return of election receipts.

He did so, because he had heard of some extraordinary voting, as for instance, in one county he was told the votes polled exceeded the whole population, and that was immoral. After some conversation the motion was carried.

Also, on motion of the same member, a return was ordered relative to the financial affairs of the Post Office during the last six months, also the amount of cash at the credit of the government in the banks and other money'ed institutions.

The same hon. member moved that the clerk be instructed to obtain from the managers of each of the chartered banks in Canada the name of every shareholder, the amount in stock of the shareholders, and the premium paid to them.

Mr. Morin thought the names of shareholders ought not to be asked for, but the number or amount of stock held by each might be asked for.

Mr. Mackenzie persisted in his motion; he held they had a right to ask any information from Companies to whom they granted charters.

Mr. Merritt took the same view. Messrs. J. H. Cameron and Gamble strongly opposed the asking for names, as improper and inquisitorial.

Mr. Mackenzie said he would leave out of his motion the word "premium," and had no objection to postpone the motion to allow a little time to members to reflect.

Mr. Drummond contended that it would be mere impertinence of the House to ask the banks for the names of all their stockholders, but if the hon. member desired to have the names of members of Parliament who held stock in any particular bank or banks he have no objection.

Mr. ——— said that under our system of banking it was necessary that stockholders should be made public, as they were only responsible for double the amount of their stock.

The motion was postponed.

Mr. Felton introduced a law in reference to forgery and false personation.

Mr. Felton moved for a committee to inquire into the state of agriculture in Lower Canada.

The debate on the address then commenced. It was principally remarkable for a strong denunciation of the coalition by Dr. Rolph.

Mr. Cameron introduced a bill for the better administration of the estates of deceased persons.

The same member introduced a bill for the relief of merchants, traders, and others. This motion gave rise to a conversation, the effect of which was that Messrs. Cartier, Cameron, Brown, and Gamble expressed the belief that a bankrupt law of some sort was necessary and desired by the mercantile community.

Mr. Young said that this law had given great dissatisfaction, but that some law on the subject might be desirable.

Messrs. Dorion, of Montreal, and McDonald, of Glengarry, expressed the belief that the last bankrupt Bill had been the source of a great deal of immorality.

Mr Drummond said a few words which the reporter understood to be in favor of modified bankrupt law.

Mr. Mackenzie introduced a bill to exempt the tools, wearing apparel, &c, of debtors for seizure of debts.

On motion of Mr. Morin, a committe was ordered to prepare a list of standing committees.

The debate on the address was taken up. Mr Langton commencing the debate, which was continued till the adjournment which did not take place until a late hour.

QUEBEC, September 16.

Last night after the Reporter left, the debate on the Address was continued till half-past 11 o'clock. Messrs Langton, Hincks, and Stevenson, for the Ministry.

Messrs. Foley, Hartman, and Marchildon for the opposition.

None of the Ministers have as yet spoken.

LONDON, FRIDAY, SEPT. 22, 1854

THE COALITION MINISTRY.

We give to-day the opinion of several of our cotemporaries relative to the new Ministry; these opinions which were selected to hand, are a fair sample of the diversity of feeling and opinion which prevails generally in the Province. The conservatives generally seem willing to quietly wait and see the developement of the policy of the new cabinet, without offering factious opposition, feeling confident that Sir Allan and his Tory friends will not compromise either their principles or their popularity by any sudden movements towards socialism and infidelity. On the other hand, some of the Reform journals urge war to the knife against the whole combination and arrangement, and declaim against them in no measured terms. The majority of the papers in Canada West seem willing to give the new Ministry a trial, and to render them their support if their course be a judicious one. The only formidable opposition which is made to the new ministry proceeds from a quarter where it was least expected, namely, from George Brown and the Clear Grit—Rouge—party. These consistent gentlemen declare their abhorrence of unprincipled and unnatural combinations, and at the same time, issue a manifesto, to which are attached names which prove a combination and coalition the most revolting and degrading. George Brown in particular, the man who of late has been prating so much about principles and protestantism, is now found to attach himself readily to the Roman Catholic exclusionists, and to the Malcolm Cameron clear grit ultraists. Brown finds himself now the head of a party who are bound by no common bond, whose views, principles and feelings are diametrically opposed each to the other, excluding merely the one very evident desire—self aggrandisement in the holding of Government power.

Let any impartial person examine carefully the names and position of the individuals whose signatures are attached to themanifesto—which we place at the foot of this article—and he will see that the combination which exists in the present Ministy is exceedingly simple, in comparison with the villainous compound presented by this manifesto. To maintain the portion of an ultra oppositionist to any Government but one of his own moulding, George Brown hesitates not to be identified with the most motly groupe of political aspirants that was ever known in Canada. Our excellent cotemporary the Hamilton Spectator thus represents the chamelion-hued GEORGE OF THE MANIFESTO.—"Brown the demagogue, Rolph the traitor, Foley the late Ministerial apologist, Freeman, anything for office, and his right-hand man McKerl it, are troubled with Baldness, Dandruff, or harsh unpleasant hair.

AYER'S PILLS.

FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A FAMILY PHYSIC.

There has long existed a public demand for an effective purgative pill which could be relied on as sure and perfectly safe in its operation. This has been proved to meet that demand, and an extensive trial of its virtues has conclusively shown with what success it accomplishes the purpose designed. It may not be a physical Fact but not so easy to make the best of all Pills—one that should have none of the objections, but all the advantages of every other pill. This have every attempted here, and with what success we would respectfully submit to the public decision.
