ANDREW CARNEGIE ON EDUCATION. College to Improve Business Men and Clergymen. Gives Former Top Big Ideas and Leads Latter to Higher Criticism Which Desires Religion.

(Special to the Star.) LONDON, Nov. 11.—Just prior to his departure for New York Andrew Carnegie was interviewed upon the subject of charities and trusts. He was told that a certain millionaire, once closely associated with him in business, had suggested the formation of a business charity trust. According to the original suggestion the trust would be composed of millionaires, and Mr. Carnegie as chairman. Quick as lightning the philosopher of Skibo Castle flashed forth, "No. There is only one royal road to success. Men must depend upon themselves. I mean democracy must help itself. It is not to be depended upon either class or millionaire trusts as a panacea. The trust of the classes or castes has failed. I am the very reverse of a pessimist; yet if I thought democracy were a failure I should conclude that there was no hope for humanity. Millionaires have their uses, but not for a charity trust. They should use their surplus wealth for the highest good of the people. If they do that they have a reason d'être, and they show that they are a far more noble institution than feudalism. I have not respect for the millionaires who sit upon the angel of death knocks at his door before he gives his wealth. He cannot take it with him. I believe some millionaires would if they could."

TO STAY THE HANDS OF SELF-DESTROYERS. Anti-Suicide Commission Doing Good Work in Cleveland. Every Person Contemplating Suicide Is Invited to Write to the Commissioners and Tell His or Her Troubles.

(Special to the Star.) NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—A Cleveland despatch to the World says: To stay the hands of the self-destroyers and to remedy all possible causes of the suicidal impulse is the object of the anti-suicide commission appointed by Mayor Tom L. Johnson, Frederick C. Howe, State Senator-elect William H. Greenleaf, former probation officer of the juvenile court, and the Rev. Harry E. Cooke, member of the board of public service, comprise the commission. Every person in Cleveland who is contemplating suicide is invited to write a letter to the commission and tell his or her troubles. For people dependent upon employment the commission will endeavor to obtain employment, while the needs and wants of others seeking aid will be looked after. "It is the greatest work ever attempted here," said Mayor Johnson. "The commission's primary object is to prevent suicide. Suicides and attempted suicides are not always proof of insanity, though the fact of self-destruction always suggests it. The increased number of suicides recently must be considered along with the increase of population and the strenuous efforts necessary to maintain existence today. The foreign element, which is growing rapidly, must also be remembered. Immigrants become homesick when the ideas of America brought with them from the old country are dispelled. I think it is safe to say that 80 per cent of the suicides here belong to the foreign element. Alcoholism is certainly a cause whatever and wherever possible, but I should not connect it to that extent with suicide. Worry from any cause whatever and low nervous condition are chiefly responsible. "This commission will investigate these conditions and wherever possible, will render such assistance as will make the victim of melancholia see the brighter side of life. Each of these men has much experience in society work, and is well fitted for the work."

CHARLES E. HUGHES, the distinguished New York lawyer who has won wide fame as the chief inquirer for the legislative committee that has been investigating the affairs of the insurance companies.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA IN QUARREL WITH WAR OFFICE. She Finds Fault With Plans For New Military Hospital and War Secretary Must Crawl.

(Special to the Star.) LONDON, Nov. 11.—An interesting quarrel has arisen between Queen Alexandra and the war office over the accommodation of the nurses in the new military hospital at Millbank. Her majesty who takes keen interest in the nursing military service on seeing the design of the new hospital expressed herself strongly on the inadequacy of the provision made for the nursing staff and it is said that an earnest appeal to have it improved. The Army Nursing Board, however, supported, it would seem, if not actually instigated by the higher war office authorities, who regarded the queen's intervention as an officious interference with their work, have steadily declined to hearken to the appeals of her majesty. It is said when she offered to help defray extra cost of an accommodation out of her private purse. But the dispute did not end there for the facts have now been published by the British Medical Journal, which calls upon public opinion to bring Arnold Forster to reason. Those who have seen the plans declare that the queen is perfectly right in her objections to them, and as she is a person not accustomed to have her wishes lightly overlooked it begins to appear as though Mr. Forster may have to climb down as he did in the case of the recent volunteer circular.

WINTER PORT TRADE WILL BE BIGGEST YET. First Steamer of the Season Due Next Week. C. P. R. Elevator Has Been Receiving Grain For Over a Week—Schedule of Steamers of the Several Lines.

The St. John winter port season has already commenced in good shape. On Thursday the Allan Line steamer Parlaton from Liverpool and today the first Donaldson Line Alcidis leaves Glasgow. The C. P. R. elevator has been receiving all week and has up to this morning stored away 100,000 bushels of wheat from Port William. Everything is in readiness for the steamers which are expected to use the berth as last year. The first eight sailings of the Allan Line are as follows:

Table with columns: From, To, Date. Lists ship arrivals from Liverpool, St. John, and other ports.

The C. P. R. will also conduct a fortnightly service to London and Alms, and the first sailing from St. John will be about December 3rd. The first Manchester Line steamer will arrive here about December 10th and the first ten sailings to Manchester are scheduled as follows:

NEW YORK HORSE SHOW. NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Seventeen hundred entries, 250 more than last year and comprising the pick of the show horses throughout the country, have been received for the exhibition of the National Horse Show Association which will begin at Madison Square Garden next Monday morning. The greatest increase in entries is for harness horses. After an absence of a year, Judge W. H. Moore, of Chicago, will again be represented, having one hundred entries. He owns King, one of the best known horses in the country, and many other ribbon winners. Beside, Eben Jordan, of Boston, who won about everything in eight last year, again has a large entry. Reginald Vanderbilt has a number of entries, as well as Alfred G. Vanderbilt. Mrs. J. Gerkin will also exhibit her many blue ribbon and cup winners. The hunter and jumper classes will be well represented. The special classes have filled better than ever, and the Waldorf Astoria cup contest will have some of the best horses that ever competed for it.

MRS. L. HUBBARD MET NO HARDSHIPS. Says She Had a Splendid Trip and Enjoyed It. Followed Step by Step the Trail Her Husband Followed When He Perished Three Years Ago.

(Special to the Star.) NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Mrs. Leonard Hubbard, Jr., has sent the following message to the World from Chateau Bay, Labrador, under date of November 10: "Our undertaking has been successful. We were away prepared to meet many hardships, I met none. "It was a splendid trip which gave me pleasure and more than pleasure, the privilege of offering tribute to one whose life and the spirit in which he lived were beautiful beyond anything that life has shown me. "On June 25th, at 3.30 p. m., we left Northwest River in an attempt to cross the northeastern portion of Labrador peninsula by way of the Nascaupe and George rivers. On August 27, at 11.30 a. m., we were received at the George River, Hudson Bay Company's post at Ungava Bay, by John Ford, the company's agent. Five hundred and fifty miles of our journey was accomplished without serious mishaps. One accident we had on the Nascaupe River when a canoe turned in the rapids and two men barely escaped drowning. We lost part of the outfit but not enough to force us to turn back. "When we left Northwest River, our first objective point was Seal Lake, which we reached on Monday, July 15. We met our first camp on Lake Michokannu on August 8. We saw one head of the heights of the table land and the head of the George River on August 19. "On the George River we met two bands of Indians, the first fifty miles below the head waters. These we found to belong to the Montagnais tribe. Two days and a half below them at Indians House Lake we came on the Nascaupe or "Barren Ground People." At both camps we were received in a grand manner. George Elsen, Mrs. Hubbard's half breed Indian guide, who had accompanied her husband's expedition, being able to speak to them in their own language. "We had no illness in the party. We left George River on the steamer Tulligan on October 22, reaching Rigolette, Nov. 1. We were fortunate enough to connect there with the steamer King Edward, which is due in Quebec about Nov. 15. "This is the first message, beyond a bare announcement of the safety of this intrepid woman, who has returned from the Labrador wastes where her husband perished in 1902, after having followed step by step his trail in the frozen wastes and settled once and for all, in her own mind the manner of his death."

BEHIND THE CURTAIN. PARIS, Nov. 11.—"An Academy of Music" is the subject for a forthcoming composition in architecture at the government school of fine arts. Students intending to compete had to acquire some personal knowledge of the inner workings of such an edifice, and seventy-five of them were allowed to explore the Grand Opera House from top to bottom. Now the Paris Academy of Music includes dancing, and students were therefore admitted also to the sacred precincts of the corps de ballet. During their exploration of the opera they came to a heavy curtain hiding a doorway. They were told that the interests of architectural art they could lift the curtain and they did so. At this point the narrative falls into three distinct versions, which must be taken severally. The first related by the shocked persons present behind the curtain, and the younger ladies of the corps de ballet were being instructed in the mysteries of "jetez lottus," "pointes," and so on, and that the students joined in the class. They performed jetez battus of their own invention, whirled off the tutu clad ladies in a barbaric dance, and eventually performed a saraband with war whoops round the corps de ballet, imprisoned in a circle of capering art students. In fact shocked persons say that the scenes were scandalous, and that the dignity of the corps de ballet was seriously ruffled. The second version is a much more indulgent one. According to this the students demurely looked on, and took notes for purposes of study while the ballet went through their exercises. At the close they applauded enthusiastically, and the ladies acknowledged their approval by courtesying and blowing kisses in proper stage fashion. Later on the seventy-five students met two ladies of the ballet in the museum and unanimously told the latter that in their opinion they were the prettiest girls they had ever in the course of a GERMAN CRUELTY IN SOUTH AFRICA. Butchery of Native Women and Children. Young Transvaal Man Who Was Forced to Assist in War With Natives Makes Strong Charges.

(Special to the Star.) CAPE TOWN, Nov. 11.—The Argus, one of the leading newspapers, prints evidence in support of the allegations of cruelties that were practiced on the natives in German Southwest Africa, and that British subjects, English and Dutch, were ostentatiously recruited or transported riding and then compelled to take up arms. A young Transvaal Dutchman states that he and forty-two other were engaged in Johannesburg in September, 1904. "When we arrived at Lohandavia we were served out with rifles and with twenty rounds of ammunition each, and further on with seventy-two rounds. None of us wanted to fight. We had gone there to make a living by transport-riding. Near Okanillo we came in contact with the natives, and we were compelled by the Germans to go into the fighting line and take our share of the fight. One of our men, De Wet, was wounded in the leg. That night we had to take our share of the picket duty. We refused at first to fight or to do picket duty but we were told we were under German martial law and must obey orders. At Okanillo, about February 12, I saw a number of women and children executed. These were cruel women and six children. They were all strung up to trees by the neck and then shot. The German said a word. One scene after another we were watching. The natives who were fighting, and some of the children could not have been over five years of age. A lieutenant gave the orders. Five soldiers would take each woman or child in a rope around their necks, string them up over a branch and shoot them. No woman did not shriek for mercy; they were all shot. They were glad to be released from their sufferings for they had been cruelly treated. I have seen at least twenty-five of them with my own eyes hanged and shot."

HONESTY OF ENGLISH M. P. QUESTIONED. (Special to the Star.) LONDON, Nov. 11.—There is a split in the Conservative party in North Lambeth over the character and reputation of the sitting Conservative member, Fred Hornor. One section believes that Mr. Hornor is the soul of honor and that the transactions in bad checks which Mr. Labouchere has called into question in "Truth" will be satisfactorily explained. This section is loyal to Mr. Hornor, and holds the principle no charge preferred by an opponent of the party should be believed. They go even farther and declare that even a true charge coming from such a tainted Liberal source should be treated with contempt. The other section, while professing to confide absolutely in Mr. Hornor's rectitude, take the view that it would be better for the country in order to still the outcry of prejudiced persons if Mr. Hornor offered some kind of an explanation of the transactions about which Mr. Labouchere has written.

SENSATIONAL REVELATIONS. NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—A Caracas despatch to the Herald dated Friday says: Sensational revelations in regard to the French Cable Company are believed to have caused France to accept the final proposition of President Castro that is a withdrawal of notes exchanged with M. Haiphong, French charge d'affaires, in proper stage fashion. The International Lullian "King Humbert Prize" of 2,500 francs for the most important contribution to orthopaedic surgery has been assigned to Dr. Oscar Culpitt, of Heidelberg.

TODAY THE FIRST CHAPTERS OF THE FASCINATING STORY THOROUGHBREDS WILL APPEAR IN THE STAR.

The Football Hero's Spartan Training

IT'S IMPORTANT TO KEEP THEM JOYLY

THE TRAINER PERSONALLY ATTENDS THE HOSPITAL SQUAD

ALL THIS MUST BE FORGONE

JUST BEFORE A GAME

I have said that the trainer keeps at the players continually; but, of course, there is the invariable exception, which is evident on the morning of a big game. When the men appear in the dining room for breakfast, the trainer does not stily crack jokes, that the solemn looks may be lifted from the faces of the young men before him. The meal is eaten in silence; silently, one by one, the men steal away and the table, and apparently dead asleep, as they appear, each to his own room. Five minutes later, if the trainer were foolish enough to go the rounds, he would find every man stretched full length on his bed, with his face turned to the wall, and apparently dead asleep, as quiet is he. But instead of doing so unwise a thing, the trainer slips quietly to the phone, calls up the head coach and gives him a message after this fashion:

"It looks good. They're as solemn as ovens, and for long they are in the room, making up their minds to do or die." And when lunch is over, the trainer, having beheld a table full of determined men, makes the coach's heart exceeding glad with this bit of intelligence:

"They've fought the game to a finish as a slaps player found, the trainer at once sets about to make his nerves steady and divorce him from worry. The long experience has taught trainers that sleeplessness on the part of football players, in the face of all the work they are called upon to do, is almost invariably due to 'nerves' and worry. Sometimes a stiff curtain lecture will straighten out the player nicely; sometimes it is necessary to load work on him till sheer weariness makes him fall dead asleep just as his head sinks into his pillow.

again in the morning, on the minute, again in them coming, on the minute, to drink a glass of water apiece (or all the other things of that kind) before all over again—and again—and again—and yet again, for the glory of the dear old alma mater, till the season ends with victory, let us hope, over the doughty warriors of the traditional rival. Oh, it's real Spartan training, there's not a doubt of that!

THE PROPER WAY TO TAKE FOOTBALL

"But," you say, "as saying in a puzzled sort of way at about this point, 'can the boy manage to do all this and still keep up in his regular college work?'" Well, the answer is easy. He studies on an average two hours a night, besides putting in his regular periods in lecture rooms and laboratories. He would scarcely devote more than two hours a night to study were he taking no football course. Instead he would go to the fraternity meetings and receptions, full engagements with the sisters of college friends and seek the theatre frequently. The time taken for football is not subtracted from the time for study. It is made by the players cutting out social pleasures for the period of training.

That this method of dividing time between football and studies is right and proper has its proof in the record that the football players are generally to be found among the leading students at any college or university. And the work they do in football, as well as the regular life they lead, aids them greatly to stand at or near the heads of their respective classes. It is a tried axiom that a riotously healthy body makes a vigorous, active mind; and if ever any form of exercise is calculated to impart riotous health to any one, it is football. Football, rightly taken, is complementary to the regular work of college.

WHY SOME PLAYERS "FLUNK"

Once in a while, it is true, the outside world hears of some football player who is "flunked" by a faculty because he has "flunked" in his studies; or of being dismissed from a college for the same reason. If you will take the trouble to investigate the next case of the sort coming to your notice, it's practically humanly certain that you will discover that the man flunked because he tried to take at one and the same time not only the course in football, but another as well in social amusement—when he should have been bending over his books instead. There have been cases, however, of star players—students who also spent several nights a week earning their way through college. One man that I recall who did this was "Pineapple," of Columbia University, who taught night school four nights a week in Newark, N. J.

Such men are rightfully doubly respected and honored by undergraduates and alumni and faculties alike for their unselfish and equally heroic work in behalf of both the school and the athletic glory of their beloved alma maters.

For Two Months Before Thanksgiving He Leads as Rigorous a Life as Ever the Doughty Spartan Warrior Did.

And for That Period He Has to Forget Absolutely That He Has a Mind of His Own and Obey Implicitly the Instructions of Trainer and Coach.

From the Time He Rises at Seven in the Morning Till He Is Tucked in Bed at Ten He Is Training—Training—Training.

By Guy T. Wainwright.
As you breathlessly watch your dearly beloved son (or some other girl's brother) imperially covering himself with glory and glory on some of the "starving" American football fields, these crisp November days, when the season is in its apogee, do you ever give a passing thought to the course of training that the boy has had to undergo in order to become a hero in your own and the eyes of the frantically cheering thousands about you?
No, you haven't. Well, let's consider it now; and as we do, it's dollars to doughnuts that admiration will grow apace for the lustrous specimen of young manhood, this moment being lifted in triumph upon the shoulders of his joyfully insane college mates. For his is a training that doubtless would have made a Spartan warrior of the ancient days. Lyrical wind—and admiration! For that doughty, self-denying ancient has always been great through the centuries, right down to the present day.
For two months, counting backward from Thanksgiving Day, the football hero is in training every minute. An early as possible in the season he must become chock full of strength, agility, speed, endurance, show, all, and the science of the game. It is the trainer's duty to equip him with all the essentials, except the last—that is the coach's task. That he may perform his part of the work to the best advantage, the trainer, whenever the college authorities will let him, gathers each and every football hero unto himself in a training or football house. And right here it might be well to remark that no college or university which offers an advanced course in football is without its football house nowadays. Only those seats of learning equipped to give the ordinary course still insist that the training shall take place in the dormitories.

CHIEF QUALIFICATIONS OF THE TRAINER.

Although a football house usually holds, besides the trainer, from twenty-five to thirty players, four or five assistants to the trainer, a chief and a corps of waiters, there is only one mind in that house from the time it opens until the men break training at the season's end. And that mind is the trainer's.
When he says come, the man to whom he says it must come instant—or else he goes with even greater alacrity. There must be no questioning of his authority, even by laudens, in any quarter. His hands must not be tied by any one, in any way. All the responsibility for the physical condition of his charges must be his. His word must be law, and final law at that. Else how could a team be whipped into perfect condition, physically, in a few all too fleeting weeks for the overshadowing big games of the season's height? For, as every right-minded person knows, too many cooks invariably spoil what was meant to be a good meal; and the old world long since learned by bitter experience that the only way to handle a body of men to the best advantage of all, collectively and individually, is by discipline—the more perfect the better.
But it must not be gathered that the trainer, because his powers in the training house are autocratic, is anything short of a very benevolent despot, indeed, since he exercises his authority for the sole good and immediate glory of the young men under him. They recognize this; but ask some griddon scared veteran what was the hardest thing he had to do while training for the "varsity" team and I'm certain that you will get a reply worded something like this:

"To forget that you had a mind and a will of your own from the moment you began training until you broke it with a 'feed' fit for the gods."
From the start of training, too, begins a rigorous daily routine that would prove disastrous to any person less steadily and enthusiastically imbued with a grist purpose than is the weakest hearted of all the "scrub" men.

THE DAY'S STRENUOUS START.

In a certain famous eastern university, whose method of training is representative, the football squad is turned out of their beds by the trainer and his assistants three-quarters of an hour before breakfast. The men jump into jerseys and trousers, and a few minutes after seven, the regular hour for rising, they start in on a half hour's stiff exercise. One morning this consists in going through the setting up exercises of the army—a splendid series of movements for every part of the human system. The next morning it is calisthenics, perhaps, or the medicine ball, or a walk of two miles, finishing with a sprint of a hundred yards. Frequently there is punting and drop kicking by the kickers, excused from walks and other exercise.

Once back at the football house, those men who have perspired freely rub themselves down with a rough towel, all dress for breakfast, and, right on the minute of the hour set for it, the meal begins. At the head of the varsity table sits the trainer; one of his assistants occupies a similar position at the college, or scrub, table, usually set in another room; and each trainer serves to each player just as much food as he (the trainer) thinks the player should have, and no more. Three times a day a player's food is thus dished out to him, the portions being determined by the trainer's careful study of the needs of the young man's physical being. Thus, many a player is kept from eating too much; and if the trainer sees that a player is not eating what he should, then steps are taken to provide him with a proper appetite. Perhaps he is given more work. Perhaps he has been worked a little too hard, and is proving himself too "stale" or "stale" by retarding his food. In that event, his task is lightened until he is in fine fettle once more, and ready to eat any and everything set before him.

A representative breakfast consists of fruit, with laxative properties—above all things, the functions of the body must be regularly maintained—a cereal, with cream, a chop, soft-boiled eggs, and a cup of coffee apiece for only those men who have been accustomed to it. All others are forbidden to share of it—and they know better than to beg for it, no matter how tantalizing the aroma from the steaming cups of their more favored table mates on a frosty morning.

LESSONS IN HOW TO EAT.

While the men are disposing of this simple but highly nutritious meal, as well as the other two of the day, they manner of eating is constantly under observation.
"Jones," the trainer, calls to the "varsity" fullback, "quick bolting your food like a starved dog. But slowly—eat like Smith, who's chewing as deliberately on his mouthful of chop as a cow chews her cud."
"Look here, Henry, this eatin' ain't a life and death matter," the assistant trainer calls out to a line man of the scrub. "Cheer up when you eat—a good laugh'll help your digestion. 'Beef' ain't you got any appetite this mornin'?" Guess I'll have to find out the reason why soon's the meal's over.
If any man has an appearance of not having slept well, a mental note is made of it, and after breakfast the matter is taken up with him, that sound sleep may be his portion thereafter. Oh, in numerous ways the boys are scrutinized at meal time—studied as carefully and in as cold-blooded a manner, apparently, as a race horse by the men charged with developing every iota of its potential powers against the day of a famous derby. And yet the meals are well spaced with beautiful cheerfulness, so diplomatically do the trainer and his assistants make their observations.

At 2 the lectures begin—in the meantime the players have not been able to indulge in a morning pull at pipes, for when the season begins they are told that they must forswear "nicotine, intoxicants and women." Lectures over at noon, lunch is served fifteen minutes later—perhaps a cup of bouillon, cold roast beef, baked potatoes, apple sauce, and sometimes a green vegetable. At 1 o'clock the men are in lectures again or laboratories, where they remain till 4, when they report to the "gym," and there, after being weighed, stripped, and dressed in the full armor of the field. During the preliminary season the trainer sees to it that the men are padded like so many vain women. As their bodies become insured to the rough and tumble of the game the pads are reduced in number, until, with the coming of the big games, they have been almost entirely discarded. In such a brief time, by systematic training and regular life, can young muscles be made to withstand shocks that would result in broken bones and general disability for weeks were they to be experienced by even the strongest men in ordinary walks of life.

FATHOMING THE SCIENCE OF THE GAME ITSELF.

Of course, with the players once on the field, the trainer drops to secondary, the head coach taking first place. He alone instructs the men in the intricate science of the game, its plays, signals, tricks. The trainer, so far as regular life, can young muscles be made to withstand shocks that would result in broken bones and general disability for weeks were they to be experienced by even the strongest men in ordinary walks of life.
Every trainer makes a great mystery of the rubbing material that he employs. Not for a million dollars would he let its ingredients become public property, for, he it knows, these ingredients are the only ones that, mixed, will make bruises to disappear as if by magic, and cause even a sadly battered player to rise up from the rubbing table feeling like a freshly groomed god. It has frequently been whispered by the cynical that this secret compound is nearly always nothing more than a mixture of such common stuffs as alcohol and witch hazel. The reply of a self-respecting trainer to any such insinuation is to throw more mystery than ever about the preparation, which little circumstance has led ### other serious injuries sustained, these being looked after by the team surgeon, who always attends practice.

Practice usually lasts for an hour and a half. In that time each man is instructed not only in team play, but his own specialty, the object of it all being ultimately to make eleven units work beautifully as one. Sometimes the state of mind of the players, as soon as the coach is done with them, they drop back to normal and remain there throughout the rest of the season. A chart of the weights is kept by a trained and by means of it he is greatly aided in determining the physical condition of each player, and in bringing him to the height of physical condition, and to keep him there until his last football day is over. It is as important to keep a player in this state as it is to get him into it. A player who becomes "stale" is as useless, almost, on the football field as a novice.

THE EXQUISITE ORDEAL OF BEING RUBBED.

The weighing in, over the players who have bruises or sprains get over hot or cold water jets, according to the trainer's instructions, and later on, like their more fortunate fellows, stand under hot water shower baths for two minutes, finish off with dashes of cold water, dry themselves briskly with rough towels, and then go to the rubbing tables.
Here the men are rubbed, thoroughly, systematically, strenuously, and with all muscular power possible, by the trainer and his assistants. The message that gets into a Turkish bath is merely a fly's touch compared with the torturous heading that the player undergoes. Small wonder, then, that at this time sprains and bruises on the very bones themselves are made to vanish completely.

Every trainer makes a great mystery of the rubbing material that he employs. Not for a million dollars would he let its ingredients become public property, for, he it knows, these ingredients are the only ones that, mixed, will make bruises to disappear as if by magic, and cause even a sadly battered player to rise up from the rubbing table feeling like a freshly groomed god. It has frequently been whispered by the cynical that this secret compound is nearly always nothing more than a mixture of such common stuffs as alcohol and witch hazel. The reply of a self-respecting trainer to any such insinuation is to throw more mystery than ever about the preparation, which little circumstance has led

be cynical to add that the trainer

he players with the firm belief that he rubbing material is even more potent in its effects than it really is. Practically every sort of a trick, don't you know.
"AMISHING, ALMOST FOR WATER."
At any rate, when the hospital squad as come out from under the hands of the trainer himself, and the rest have been sedulously carried from head to foot by the assistants, each and every nother's son of them is more than ready for the dinner of rich vegetable soup, thick, juicy beefsteak, fluffy mashed potatoes, finely chopped split pea, or beans, and, if early in the season, two glasses of milk or water. At this period of training a like quantity of liquid is permitted at lunch also, but as the season advances the amount is cut down, and the manner in which the players eat the water pitcher would bring tears to the eyes of their doting boys at meal time. To get some idea of a player's ever present longing for water in it comes has gone on what may be termed a "water drunk" for want of a better name, immediately after breaking training.

DIVERSIONS THAT THE TRAINER PERMITS.

And yet the players have their diversions; that trainer is unknown who does not insist on diversions, and see to it that they are indulged in, simply and moderately, of course.
A great deal of the amusement is of an informal character. With design the old "varsity" men and the best of the "scrub" two weeks before the opening of college, and he encourages the men to gather about it and sing their college songs. He also crastily leads them up to the pool table in an adjoining room, and if he discovers that some one is expert on the mandolin or guitar, he diplomatically induces its owner to entertain his mates with their favorite melodies. The trainer leads in the joke making; he laughs heartily and long at the slightest provocation—laughter is contagious. Withal, he endeavors to make every man a jolly good fellow with all the others. A team of friends can go through a line of college beef that would stand like a stone wall against the onslaughts of a team with members of both "varsity" and "scrub" teams attend a football lecture by the coach, and give heed to blackboard demonstrations of plays, old and new.

TUCKING THE PLAYERS IN BED.

And then, at ten, it's to bed for everybody, except the trainer, who, five minutes or so after the hour, goes the rounds to see that each room is properly tucked up, and listens to the toings of any sleepless one among his charges. Happily, this part ### of his vigil is seldom rewarded, but a

slaps player found, the trainer at once sets about to make his nerves steady and divorce him from worry. The long experience has taught trainers that sleeplessness on the part of football players, in the face of all the work they are called upon to do, is almost invariably due to "nerves" and worry. FOOTBALL.

NEPTUNE-BEAVER.
The final game in the football league to decide the winner of the trophy will be played at three o'clock this afternoon between the Beavers and the Neptunes. The former have won six games, tied one and lost one, while the Neptunes have won five and tied three. The line-up will be as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Position and Name. Includes Fullback, Halfback, Quarterback, etc.

MT. ALLISON WINS.

SACKVILLE, N. B., Nov. 10.—Mount Allison today succeeded in retaining the intercollegiate trophy by defeating Acadia by the score of 10 to 6. The game was won in the last ten minutes, when the home team made eight points and turned what seemed a crushing defeat into a glorious victory. A large crowd was present, and Acadia had many supporters, seventeen according to the report of the referee. The enthusiasm was intense, and after the game the students went football mad. The teams were fairly evenly matched, but the game was played mostly in Mt. Allison's territory. Acadia's forwards were heavier and settled most of the gains for the visitors, Freese showing up as a star. The backs were used mainly as a defense, but at times got in good gains. Mount Allison, on the other hand, played more of a half-back game, although the scrimmage got in some good dribbles. Mount Allison was twice forced to touch for safety. The game was very free from errors and was a good exhibition of English Rugby. Wright at half and Steeves and Doe of the forwards secured up most prominently. In the first half the ball was continually worked from one end of the field to the other, neither side having any particular advantage. Finally, near the close of the half, Lewis scored for Acadia, which, however, Freese failed to convert. In this half Eaton and Norman were slightly injured, causing short delays. The second half was a repetition of the first, the play being about even. About the middle of the half Dewitt secured the ball by following up a kick, and by a brilliant run made Acadia's second, but Freese failed to convert. The score, Acadia, 6; Mt. Allison, 0. With ten minutes left the home boys went in to win. The ball was rushed to Acadia's end and Bell made a beautiful run and scored. The try was not converted. With seven minutes left Mt. Allison played harder and during the last few minutes Wright went over for the last try. Jakeman kicked a beautiful goal and the game stood: Mt. Allison, 8; Acadia, 6. Frank Stephens of the Wanderers made a most efficient referee. The teams lined up as follows:

DALHOUSIE AT BOSTON.

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—Much interest is taken in the English game which is to be played in the Stadium tomorrow afternoon between the Dalhousie and Dal-Half teams. Free, Elliot will be present to compare the game with American rugby, which he has at various times criticized most severely. Invitations have been sent to the football managements of all of the colleges in Harvard's football schedule and to Princeton and Cornell.

HIGH SCHOOL.

The trip of the High School team to Fredericton to play the Canadian club of the capital has been called off on the account of word being received yesterday from the Fredericton team that the field was not in a fit condition to play.

MOHAWKS GETTING READY.

The Mohawks will shortly don their war paint and feathers, and go after all the hockey scaps in sight. A number of the club's members met at White's last evening, and after being fortified with oysters and good cigars, proceeded to sum up the hockey situation. The opinion of the meeting was favorable to the organization of a City League, to include teams from the city proper and the north and west ends. The meeting last evening was of a social nature, and nothing definite was decided upon. A regular meeting will be held early in December, at which the organization of the club for the winter season will be proceeded with, and a definite programme mapped out.

WOODEN PAVEMENTS.

Wooden pavements, after a light fall of snow, are particularly dangerous to horses. This was forcibly exemplified on Friday morning, when many horses fell the minute they struck the Main street pavement. One case, that of a pair of horses, was particularly noticeable. One fell, the other did not. The one that fell was shod with ordinary shoes, the other with heavy, heavy shoes. All owners of horses should look into the merits of these shoes. They may save a horse's life. They are not expensive. They save time, and can be bought from any blacksmith, or from W. H. Thorne & Co., Limited, Market square.

IMPROVEMENTS MADE IN SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF

During the past month or two the board of management of the New Brunswick School for the Deaf has spent about a thousand dollars in rearranging the interior of the building. The big coach house attached to the main school has been remodelled and part of it has been made into a spacious sitting room for the boys, the girls will be given exclusive of that room in the main building, merely used in common. Then the alterations have been rearranged that now the boys and girls sit opposite portions of the building. There is the most complete section possible, and the new system proving much better than the old. The attendance at the school has increased this term, there being thirty-six pupils in residence, against thirty last year.

RE-ORGANIZATION OF HAMPTON LODGE.

A public temperance meeting was held in the Agricultural Hall, Hampton Village, Thursday evening, Nov. 9. Addresses were given by the Revs. Glover and A. Spittell, and by Messrs. Flowering, A. Riddick, R. E. Seel and W. H. Robertson of Hampton, the Rev. T. Marshall, G. C. T. of G. Tempers. At the close of the meeting Hampton Lodge of Good Templars, N. B., was reorganized. Nineteen members were initiated and the following officers were elected: Chief Templar, B. Seever; Vice Templar, Miss E. B. Flowering; Sup't. of Juvenile Templars, Mrs. W. D. Fowler; Secretary, Rev. A. Spittell; Financial Secretary, H. A. Frobbie; Treasurer, Miss L. J. Bailey; Marshal, W. V. Beatty; Chaplain, Rev. B. Glover; Guard, W. H. REFORMS IN HOLLAND. The new government of Holland is starting out on its career with a book of radical social reforms which, though many of them are undoubtedly charged with benefit to social conditions, it is very doubtful if it can carry through owing to its narrow majority in a parliament containing many warring factions. Of the 110 members of which the popular chamber is composed the total number which can be reckoned upon by the government in an ordinary division is only 52—a working majority of four. Of these seven are Socialists whose allegiance is doubtful. The rest are made up of Liberal-Democrats, Liberal-Conservatives, and advanced Liberals, the latter being numerically the strongest. Of the 48 members of the Right 24 are Catholics, 12 are revolutionaries or Catholics and eight historic Christians.

The complexity of the situation is aggravated by the fact that while each party of the Left has its own particular programme, different groups are united on particular measures of reform.

In spite of these conditions the government proposes, among other notable reforms, to introduce conditional sentences of punishment in courts of law, to abolish obsolete laws in respect of trade and navigation, to develop technical instruction, and to revise the law regulating the sale of alcoholic liquors.

In order to meet the deficit already announced by the Minister of Finance additional centimes will be levied in the form of a provisional tax upon property and income. Physical culture will be included in state instruction with a view of fitting the youth of the country for military service, and the army contingent will be increased with a view to reduction in the term of service. Other measures include compulsory insurance against accident, sickness and old age, the conditions being extended to those engaged in agriculture, fisheries, and the merchant service.

The latest innovation is especially worthy of the consideration of the rulers of this and all other countries. A compulsory system of state insurance whereby every man would be forced to provide for the always impending rainy day would mean a healthy poverty and make almshouses useless than any scheme social reformers have yet devised.

A MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP CONVENT. "I do not believe in the idea of municipal ownership but municipal ownership is a certainty as sure as I am alive." This, the most recent public deliverance of Andrew Carnegie, is a remarkable admission from a man who made his millions from a system which is the exact antithesis of public ownership—a system which allowed him to grind from his workmen and from the people who need his manufactures so much money that it is taking his whole time now to give it away. But having made all he wants out of the exploitation of the public he is now ready to admit that the people have some rights especially in connection with values which they themselves create. In the same interview from which the sentence quoted above is taken, he says: "The increase in value made by an increase in population should belong to the city. No city should give away a franchise that belongs to the people, but whether a city should give it as a lease for a time is another affair. The lease given should be for as short a time as possible. The shorter the better. The ownership should always remain with the city. The people seemingly want municipal ownership and they should get it."

And they will get it, too, Mr. Carnegie. Nothing is more evident to the mind of a recent convert and nothing is more certain than that this growth will continue until the power of great corporations to fatten on the need of the people is broken for good and all.

SPREAD OF TYPHOID. Is medical opinion changing in regard to the propagation of typhoid? It has been taught in the medical schools that this disease was spread by drinking water containing the germs. Dr. Victor C. Vaughan of Michigan, who was one of the commissioners appointed by the secretary of war in 1898 to investigate the origin and spread of typhoid fever in the United States military camps during the Spanish-American war, advanced the proposition that typhoid fever is very largely communicated by personal contact. If this conclusion is correct, the treatment, or rather the methods of preventing the spread of the disease, must undergo a revolution. In the opinion of Dr. Vaughan, typhoid germs originate in water and milk, but are contagious after once getting hold of a victim, and he advises that every case should be followed by a systematic and right disinfection.

Dr. Harrington of Boston, who shared this view of the spread of typhoid fever, stated that a recent investigation in Germany showed the correctness of the contagion theory. An outbreak of typhoid occurred in a Polish settlement in eastern Prussia, but when the water and milk supply was examined by expert chemists they were found to be absolutely free from the typhoid germ. A careful investigation by the doctors led to the conclusion that the fever was spread by personal contact—London, Free Press.

THE SEATS OF THE MIGHTY. (Edmund Vance Cooke.) Of all the chairs of church or state—Bench, wood-pane throne or what you will—The written in the book of Fate The high-chair, is the highest still.

Lolled in the office-chair, there sits The master of a thousand mill; Men toil at rest as he permits; Men fall or prosper as he will.

Perched in the polished bench, where strife Cries to condemn or pleads to save, Sits one, and bids the light from life, Or nods another to the grave.

Squat in his place of power, behold The monarch of a mighty land! And destined all climates to behold Toyed in the hollow of his hand.

But over all and over each Another sits, who must be reckoned; The eternal woman come to teach The first of men he is but second.

Yet hardly is her reign begun Till she must learn as she has schooled; For lo! there comes the helpless one And rules the ruler of the ruled.

For chairs of church or seats of state—Bench, wood-pane throne, or what you will—Are only relatively great; The high-chair is the highest still.

THE RING. YESTERDAY'S BOUTS. BALTIMORE, Nov. 10.—Before the Eureka A. C. tonight, Kid Sullivan of Washington made good his declaration that he would stop Tommy Lowe, also of Washington, before the end of the 15 rounds their bout was scheduled to go, or to forfeit all claims to the prize. The fight came in the eighth, when Referee O'Hara gave the decision to Sullivan because Lowe for the third time within two rounds went to his knees without being hit, in order to save himself from a knockout. There was dissent from the decision.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Nov. 10.—Harry Edels of Chelsea and John Reed of Lynn went 12 of the fastest rounds seen in this city for some time before the Unity Cycle Club tonight. The referee declared the bout a draw, and the decision was enthusiastically received.

THE TURF. NEW THREE-MILE RECORD. On the Old Point Breeze track at Philadelphia Wednesday, a new world's record for three-mile to wagon unopposed was created by Ed. Bryan, 2:16 1/4, holder of the two-mile record. His time was 1:20 1/2 in 1887. Ed. Bryan, the name of Francis stepped three miles to a high-wheel wagon in 7:33 1/2. Ed Bryan went 12 of the fastest rounds seen in this city for some time before the Unity Cycle Club tonight. The referee declared the bout a draw, and the decision was enthusiastically received.

WRESTLING. APOLLO DEFEATS YANKEE ROOPIES. MONTREAL, Nov. 10.—Apollo, the Irish wrestler, tonight defeated Yankee Rogers, of Buffalo, to two straight falls. Croco-Roman. The first in 17 minutes and the second in 41 minutes.

BOWLING. BOWL WITH RUBBER BALLS. The introduction of the hard rubber ball on the alleys in New York is fast becoming popular. Bowlers who were once of the opinion that nothing could ever take the place of the lignum vitae sphere have altered their opinion and are now using the perfected ball with better results in many instances. The advantage of the bowler using the new sphere in a tournament or match game is obvious. He has at his command a wud to cause a deficiency, no effect of the weather to guard against. Little care is required, which is not the case with a wooden sphere. An improvement has been made in the grip, the holes being spiral. This alone is a great advantage. Perspiring hands make little difference.

WHERE ASBESTOS COMES FROM. Asbestos is a mineral, a silicate of magnesium and lime, together with iron oxide. It is worked in commercial deposits in Italy, Tasmania, New South Wales, Canada and the United States. Its distinguishing economical character lies in its resistance to heat and indestructibility through fire. For this reason it has been found particularly available as a covering for boilers and steam pipes, and when made into paper or inked as paint it serves to fireproof combustible substances. Its value depends upon the particular form in which it is vended. Most of the crude mineral used in manufacture in this country is brought from Canada.

DIAMOND ADVICE. PUT YOUR MONEY INTO DIAMONDS. Diamonds in your possession represent money—more money than you pay for them after you have worn them a while, for the advance in price is very marked and there is positively no danger of diamonds depreciating in value in our time. Of course it is always necessary to choose wisely and pay the right prices when you make your selection; therefore it is essential that you should choose the gems at a responsible house and I have a record, and a reputation I think enviable, and my very large stock of set and unset gems allows for the best selection in this city or province.

Respectfully yours WY. TREMAINE GARD, 77 Charlotte St., Direct Importer.

BIRTH. DODGE—On Nov. 10th, to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Dodge, a daughter.

SATURDAY SERMONETTE. WASTE PAPER BASKETS.

When you get up—the half hour, loopy Spurgeon, and has of late been doing see what you will find, and what merits will be awakened. If the waste basket is your own—and you will scarcely look over another unless it is your own—then you will find the letter (torn in halves) you thought was safely pigeonholed for future reference, and other memoranda too valuable to be lost.

Before sending your basket to the furnace you will look it over, if you are wise, and save money and trouble by doing it, for no matter how careful and methodical you may be, careless hands—sometimes your own: sometimes a meddler's—will have brushed valuable papers away.

What encyclopedias waste paper baskets are. There are all kinds of letters in them, some of them torn into tiny bits. What sensations and scandals they would make in the hands of a clever reporter; how he would revel in them and how the public—with a little p—would gloat over them. Letters from boxes that were never read, begging letters, dunning letters and sometimes love letters, so ardent that they almost burn before they go to their fiery furnace.

What toms they are, the waste paper baskets in editorial rooms. What hopes are buried in them. This one for instance, led with its blue ribbon—the writer is evidently a blonde and if you have any imaginations you can picture her as she sends off her dainty manuscript. She was to have fame and cheques galore; poor little dreamer, she forgot to enclose stamps for return of manuscript in case of refusal and there it lies, the child of so many hopes, in its basket grave.

But if there are shed over waste paper baskets—as our new mode grows—in magazine editorial rooms, the waste basket in the office of an "Independent" newspaper is buried deep in the maledictions of the man with a "gravy" face. He has suffered—or thinks he has—at the hands of a soulless corporation government, or insurance company and threats for revenge, so he will roset that corporation or trust or whatever it is, in the newspapers. But the inter-dependent paper cares not offend its advertisers and patrons and his letter is curily declined with thanks.

The waste basket is a great benefactor for it saves us from the spring poet in his madness and the ordinary poet in his sadness.

The waste basket is a great asset, for in its capacious maw are gems that never sparkled in the public eye, and flowers that have wasted their sweetness in its wilderness.

SUPREME COURT CONSIDERS

MISS FRENCH'S CASE.

Chief Justice Fails to See How She Could Be Made an Attorney Under the Law

Opinions of the Other Judges
FREDERICTON, Nov. 10.—The case of Miss French occupied the attention of the supreme court the latter part of the afternoon. Much interest has been taken in this case, so called, and consequently there was quite a large attendance in the court room when A. B. Connell, president of the Baristers' Society, arose and briefly stated the facts to the judges. He said he did not appear either to support or oppose the admission of Miss French from being an attorney. He was there simply to act on behalf of the society, which requested that the court should give an opinion on the matter. He would not argue, but present what authorities he had found on the question. He referred to the act of the assembly which qualified persons to become attorneys and also to the interpolation act which interpolated the word person, and the question for consideration was whether the word person included female. In England and the colonies there was no authority to be found bearing directly on the subject, as the case of making a woman an attorney seemed never to have come up. In the United States there were several cases. Many of these were against the admission of a woman under the common law, but five states had decided favorably. The several cases were cited. The chief justice said that he could not see how a woman could be made an attorney under the law unless it was shown that the statute had been passed giving this power, and with this remark the other judges, with the probable exception of Judge Hamilton, apparently concurred. Mr. Skinner, who appeared for Miss French, took the ground if there was no prohibitory act Miss French was entitled under the interpretation of the present law to be admitted an attorney, and asked for the court's consideration where the whole matter was thoroughly gone into. From the remarks made by the bench during Mr.

RESUMED SITTINGS OF TARIFF COMMISSION

MONTREAL, Nov. 10.—The tariff commission resumed its sittings this afternoon. The wholesale clothing manufacturers asked that no advance be made in the duty on woollens, and that if changes were made that the preference formerly given to alpaca, mohair and Italian linings be restored, such goods not being made in Canada. The deputations of farmers from Huntingdon county were heard. They did not want any changes made in the tariff. The tobacco growers asked that a further duty of 80 cents per pound be imposed on all tobacco brought into Canada for manufacturing purposes; also asked that only one revenue stamp be issued, the same for all classes of tobacco. The contention of growers is that Canadian tobacco has shown that it is as good as any. James Robertson & Co. asked for increased duty on sheet steel. Cement importers asked for a reduction in the duty on cement, which they figured out to be between 60 and 70 cents. It is also alleged that an agreement existed between Canadian manufacturers to keep up prices. Manufacturers of pickles, leather belts and jewelry appeared before the

A WOMAN'S BACK IS THE MAINSPRING OF HER PHYSICAL SYSTEM.

The Slightest Backache, is ache, is neglected, is liable to cause Years of Terrible Suffering. No woman can be strong and healthy unless the kidneys are well, and regular in their action. When the kidneys are ill, the whole body is ill, for the poisons which the kidneys ought to have filtered out of the blood are left in the system. The female constitution is naturally more subject to kidney disease than a man's, and what is more, a woman's work is never done—her whole life is one continuous strain. How many women have you heard say: "My, how my back aches! Do you know that backache is one of the first signs of kidney trouble? It is, and should be attended to immediately. Other symptoms are frequent thirst, scanty, thick, cloudy or highly colored urine, burning sensation when urinating, itching under the feet and ankles, floating specks before the eyes, etc. These symptoms, if not taken in time and cured at once, will cause years of terrible kidney suffering. All these symptoms, and, in fact, these diseases may be cured by the use of

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS They act directly on the kidneys, and make them strong and healthy. Mrs. Mary Gully, Auburn, N. S., writes: "For over four months I was troubled with a lame back and was unable to turn or to do without help. I was induced by a friend to try Doan's Kidney Pills. After using two-thirds of a box my back was as well as ever." Price 50 cents per box or three boxes for $1.25 at all dealers, or sent direct on receipt of price. HOW RAILWAYS "STEAL" FREIGHT CARS

Belonging to Each Other—Final Sitting of Railway Commission. MONTREAL, Nov. 10.—The principal feature of the final sitting of the railway commission, which was held today to enquire into complaints of the delegation of Millers' Association against the Grand Trunk for alleged undue discrimination in the transportation of their goods, was a highly illuminative incident that revealed the methods by which railway companies impound each other's cars when occasion demands and opportunity offers. J. W. Loud, who continued his testimony on behalf of the Grand Trunk in position in regard to the freight movement, stated that one of the difficulties that he had experienced in dealing with the transportation of millers' products was the fact that they were shipped from railroads to provincial ports, and when they sent their cars down there they were "stolen." That is to say, they were seized by the Intercolonial and used for its own traffic. Mr. Loud admitted that it was a common practice for railroads to "steal" each other's cars and to keep them and use them when required without consent of the company that owned them, but subject to per diem charges. Some of the cars sent to the Intercolonial had never been returned.

REV. MR. BURNETT AND WINNIPEG.

(Manitoba Free Press.) Rev. Christopher Burnett, new minister of the Powers street Baptist church, arrives in the city today and will preach his first sermon in that church on Sunday, Nov. 12. Mr. Burnett is of English birth, and did his first work as a minister in England. Coming to America, he became pastor of a suburban New York church and was afterwards called to work in New York city. From the American metropolis, he went to his present charge in St. John, N. B., where he has been for several years minister of the Leinster street church. The St. John congregation are very reluctant to part with their minister and are offering him considerably more than paid by the Winnipeg church to remain. He is also under call to a Baptist church in Brantford at a better salary. He had, however, made a decision some time ago to come west and will do so as announced. Mr. Burnett is a young man, in the prime of life, and is expected to do an important work in the Baptist church of north Winnipeg. The members of the body are much pleased at the prospect of his coming and look forward to large expansion of the work of the church under his direction. The Powers street church is the only English speaking Baptist church in north Winnipeg, which is now computed to have a population of twenty thousand people. It is believed that an excellent church can be built up in this portion of the city in the next few years. The new pastor will reside on Boyd avenue, his family coming west with him. A reception will be accorded him on Thursday, the 9th inst., from 8 to 8

TWO WIVES DIED AFTER OPERATIONS

A very sad death occurred at the Public Hospital on Thursday evening, as the result of an operation performed for the relief of a long suffering wife of John Jenkins of No. 1 Long Wharf. Mrs. Jenkins had been suffering for about a fortnight, when she was taken to the hospital Thursday afternoon. The operation took place between 4 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon. A little after 9 o'clock that evening Mr. Jenkins called up the hospital and received word that his wife was resting easily. About an hour later, on calling up again, he was greatly shocked to hear she was dead. Mrs. Jenkins was only 25 years of age. The couple were married less than two years. The deceased was the daughter of D. B. Kent of Amherst, N. S. She leaves no children, and the only relative living in the city is a brother. The funeral will take place at 2 1/2 p.m. this afternoon, interment at Cedar Hill. This is the second time in less than four years that Mr. Jenkins has been rendered a widower as the result of death following an operation. His first wife, whose maiden name was Annie Worden, died three years ago last February as the result of the same sort of operation. She had lived a few days after the operation, and her death took place about an hour after she was brought home from the hospital.

MILLIONAIRE BRIDE HOME ON A VISIT

Frederic Stevens and bride of New York arrived in the city yesterday and are guests at the Royal. Mrs. Stevens was formerly Miss Carrie Seely, daughter of D. J. Seely of this city, and while practicing her profession as a trained nurse in New York met Mr. Stevens, who is a member of one of the oldest families of that city and reputed to be a multi-millionaire. The details of the romantic marriage of the couple, which took place less than a year ago, occasionally excite much interest both in New York and St. John. Mr. Stevens is a director of many large corporations and financial institutions, among the latter being the Chemical National Bank and the Galtain Bank of New York. The late Mrs. Stevens was founded by Mr. Stevens' grandfather, Mr. and Mrs. Stevens recently returned from a four months' European tour, during which they were accompanied by the bride's sister, Miss Helen Seely. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens expect to remain in St. John until Monday or Tuesday of next week. Last evening a reception was held at the home of D. J. Seely in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Stevens. About twenty-five friends of the family were present.

THE BURNS MONUMENT.

The New Brunswick Burns memorial committee, representing the Federation Society of Saint Andrew, the Saint Andrew's Society of St. John and the Highland Society of Miramichi, have procured subscriptions amounting to upwards of $500 for the erection of a statue of Robert Burns at the capital of the province. The subscription has been obtained exclusively in the membership of the societies named, with the exception of a few, which have been voluntarily forwarded from other places to the treasurer of the committee. An appeal to the public will be required to defray the full cost of the proposed monument. It has been determined by the committee to publish this notice, so that all Scottish residents of the province and all admirers of the immortal bard who have not already subscribed may have an opportunity of contributing something to the memorial, which it is hoped to make the handsomest public monument in New Brunswick. All who desire to do so may forward their contributions to the treasurer of the committee, Jas. McMurray, Fredericton, and the committee would like any who propose to contribute to do so, or to notify the treasurer of their intention at their earliest convenience, as the committee wish as soon as possible to be in a position to let a contract for the work, in order that the memorial may be unveiled on the anniversary of Burns' death in July next. It has also been suggested that there may be many communities in the province where substantial amounts could be raised by the Scottish residents organizing Scottish concerts in behalf of the undertaking. Already a very successful concert has been held at Antigonish for this purpose, the proceeds of which have been forwarded to the treasurer. If there are in any town or village any number of persons in sympathy with the movement who would like this to assist the provincial committee would cordially appreciate any effort they might put forward in this behalf, and it is suggested that the next anniversary of Burns' birth on the 25th of January might be made an occasion for any such concert throughout the province. All contributions will be publicly acknowledged. OSWALD S. CROCKETT, Chairman. A. STIRLING McFARLANE, Secretary. Fredericton, Nov. 11th, 1905.

NOT SURPRISED AT ELECTION RESULTS

J. J. Enright of New York, who is in the city, a guest at the Royal, was not greatly surprised at the splendid showing made by Hearst in the contest for the mayoralty of New York. Mr. Enright says that the policy of municipal reform is gaining great headway in the principal cities of the United States. In New York, Mr. Enright says, the citizens are much incensed at the treatment they have received at the hands of the gas combine, and are beginning to think that there will be no remedy until the city gets the control of the gas business in its own hands. The same is true of nearly all the great utilities. If the experiment can be made to succeed in New Zealand and the sleepy city of Glasgow, surely in the progressive and modern cities of the United States it can be made to succeed. It is suggested that the people are becoming tired of machine politics and disgusted with "boss" rule. Mr. Enright said his business in the city was of a private nature, but it is known that it has to do with the affairs of the Telegraph.

TAKES HER LIFE 'BECAUSE WICKED'

New London Girl Gives That as Her Reason For Drinking Carbolic Acid. MISS RUSSELL, twenty-three years old, daughter of Henry E. Russell, a retired hardware manufacturer residing at No. 1001 Ocean avenue, died soon after two o'clock yesterday morning from drinking a large quantity of carbolic acid. Miss Russell was born in New Britain and received her education in that city. She came to New London with her parents a few years ago. She returned from a vacation trip about a month ago and since then had been under the care of Dr. Grievold Bragaw for nervous trouble. She is said to have had a religious mania. Miss Russell's mother has long been an invalid, seldom leaving her room, and has been cared for by Miss Milner, who acted as nurse and chaperon for the daughter. Miss Milner was awakened by the heavy breathing in the room above her, and, running up stairs, found Miss Russell writhing in agony. Doctors were called by telephone, but the girl died before they could reach the house. A note addressed to the girl's father was found in the room. It is said the note declared she had "been a wicked girl" and gave that as an explanation. Her father, Mr. Russell is prostrated and Dr. Bragaw is in constant attendance upon him. Medical Examiner Graves says the girl committed suicide while mentally diseased. Mr. Russell was for many years president of the Russell & Erwin Manufacturing Company of New Britain, but in late years has been leading a retired life. His residence is one of the most expensive of the summer villas in the Pequot colony.

The Bavarian is Still Hard and Fast—Work of Discharging Going On.

QUEBEC, Nov. 10.—No attempt will be made for the present to get the steamer Bavarian off Wye Rock. The Albatross, who had an option of St. Joseph De Levis graving dock, have notified the government that they will not require it for the present, and on that account the German steamer Euphemia, injured in collision with the Norwegian steamer Tordenskjold some time ago, will occupy the dock for temporary repairs.

THOROUGHBREDS By W. A. FRASER. Serial Rights for this district held exclusively by the Star.

Less than a hundred miles from the city of Gotham, across broad green fields, dotted in squares and oblong valleys by full-fledged maple, ash and mulberry, was the village of Brookfield. A hundred years of expansion in the surrounding land had acted inversely, with the little hamlet, and had pinched it into a hermitical isolation.

That a concert might lighten the financial load. The idea was not alarmingly original, and the carrying out of it was on conventional lines: local volunteer talent, and a strong appeal to the people of Brookfield for their patronage.

With strappings a-filing, empty-saddled the Bay, et cetera, for stride, galloped and bounded. Just missing his swerve, I called on the Black, and drew out as he bravely responded.

The Brookfieldians had discovered a huge beetle in the amber of their serene existence. It was really the Reverend Dolman who had unearthed the monster. The beetle in the amber was a perfect model was to the Reverend Dolman. There were, on opposite sides of the fence, two men of strong beliefs were set on opposite sides of the fence.

From beneath the coat fell away in long graceful lines a black riding skirt; a dark oval face, set with large wondrous gray eyes—the Porter eyes—confronted the quaint little old lady.

At the bank something struck, and a cloud of white dust hid the wall as though it were brushed. The people fowed from the church full of an expressive contentment, shaking by exuberant condensation of the sacrifice to square themselves somehow with their consciousness for this brief backsliding.

Quite by chance Dick Langdon had come into his hands over a matter of borrowed money. It led like a robin, said the banker virtually owning every horse that raced in the trainer's name.

THE RUN OF CRUSADER. Full weight they had given the gaiting big Black—a hundred and sixty he carried; and the run for the "Hunt Cup" was over three miles, with mud-wall and water-jump studded.

THE RUN OF CRUSADER. But the big gallant Black took off with a swing—full thirty feet ere we had headed. As we rounded the turn I could see Little Jack go up to the mare that was leading.

Just the last jump and Crusader took off twenty feet from the brush-covered timber. Then the Bay jumped—too short for his stride—and fell, with his head on my wither.

Just once we lined up; then down cut the flag, and "Go!" hoarse-voiced the Starter. And the thunder of hoofs, and the clanking of bits, made music to me on Crusader.

At the bank something struck, and a cloud of white dust hid the wall as though it were brushed. The people fowed from the church full of an expressive contentment, shaking by exuberant condensation of the sacrifice to square themselves somehow with their consciousness for this brief backsliding.

One of the men, overfilled with his exceeding wrath, and the giver the expression to a most unchristian opinion of her modesty. The sharp stare of the boy faded to the man of harsh instinct, and his face flushed hot with resentment.

It was the May meeting at Morris Park, and Morris Park is the most beautiful race course in all America. John Porter, walking up the steps of the grand stand, heard some one call him by name.

"What was it about?" the girl asked. "Crandall was jawing about people who own race horses," the boy answered, evasively. "It's Crandall, the butcher."

They're sulky brutes, like the old horse; and if Lucretia's best, it won't be Lucretia that'll turn the trick. The bell clanged imperiously at the Judge's stand. Porter pulled out his watch and looked at it.

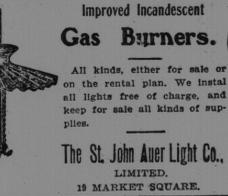

As Porter went down the steps his companion leaned over the rail and crooked his fingers at a thin-faced man with a blonde mustache who had been keeping a corner of his eye on the box.

As he turned he saw something that checked his futile anger. A tall shadow that had come up the path behind them stretched out an arm, and he heard the villiter's words gurgle and sizzle away, as one of the strong hands that had been the tattoo of approbation clutched him by the throat.

"It's George Mortimer—he's in our bank," Alan confided to his sister, as they moved away. "He's all right—he's strong as a horse; and I bet Crandall'll have a kink in his neck tomorrow, where George pinched him."

"What was it about?" the girl asked. "Crandall was jawing about people who own race horses," the boy answered, evasively. "It's Crandall, the butcher."

"That's just it," cried Dixon. "Grant comes to me that day—you know Grant, he works the commission for Dick Langdon—and tells me to leave the horse alone; and today he comes and—he's beaten."

Today's announcement from M. R. A.'s includes a continuance of the Hat Bargains up to 10 tonight; the cheap Comfortable, the 7-12 Flannelette and the Sample Napkins. A tempting array for Saturday shoppers.

The annual public meeting of the Free Kindergarten will be held Thursday evening, Nov. 16, at eight o'clock, in the assembly hall of the High School. Dr. James L. Hughes of Toronto, will address the meeting.

The St. John Typographical union meets tonight, and the question of a contribution to the International strike fund is likely to come up. Considerable interest is being taken in the strike at Winnipeg. The Ottawa union lately voted such a contribution.

John Stewart, the veteran locomotive driver, is today celebrating his 75th birthday. Mr. Stewart is about the oldest driver on the road. He retired from active work about six months ago. Mr. Stewart has the splendid record of having not met with an accident in his railway career.

Men and boys who intend buying a new overcoat for Sunday can get the most for their money at M. R. A., where an immense stock of big, warm, stylish and reliable overcoats at very moderate prices is at their service. Genuinely good, trustworthy garments; coats that will wear years.

The new schedule of steamship rates has been drawn up and submitted to the Mayor White said this morning that there would not likely be any trouble about the matter as the rates were not excessive. This new schedule was arranged when it was decided to pay back the $20,000 borrowed from the C. P. R.

Rev. Frederick T. Snell, of Acton, London, is now in this city, stopping on the West Side. Mr. Snell studied at the Fawcett College, London, under Mr. Spurgeon, and has of late been doing evangelistic work in England. He will speak in the Ladies' Baptist church on the West Side in the morning and in Brussels street United Baptist church in the evening.

CURIOS RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

(Special to the Star.)
YARIS, Nov. 11.—A curious accident happened to the Venice-Milan express a few miles from Milan recently. The axles of two wheels of the last carriage broke, and the wheels became detached from the carriage, carrying away a part of the flooring with them. The passengers feeling the floor give way clung to the baggage racks and to other things that they could catch hold of. Being unable to sound the alarm signal the express continued its way. When at last the engine driver noticed that there was something wrong and pulled up almost all of the women passengers in the wrecked car fainting. Some of them were quite seriously hurt.

WHARF OWNER OBJECTS.

ST. JOHN, Nov. 11, 1905.
To the Editor of the Star:
Sir,—By reports of the doings of the common council it appears that a lease of the Anchor Line wharf and warehouse is to be given to the steamer Senlac & Co. Is it fair treatment to private wharf owners for the city to enter into competition with them and deprive their property? The law provides fees for side and top wharves, and why should the city lease this valuable property at an absurdly low price and prevent private owners from getting a fair revenue from their property?

If the Senlac requires this berth let her pay what is provided by law.

TAX PAYER.

DONALDSON LINE.
S. S. "Alders" left Glasgow at noon today for St. John. She is the first steamer on the winter service, which will be weekly as heretofore.

JIMMY PRICE WILL SKATE.

The Speedy St. John Boy May Not Be Able to Attend All Meets But Has No Idea of Retiring From the Sport.

Jimmy Price, the speedy little skater, who won such signal honors at Montreal last winter against Morris Wood, the American champion and other crack-jacks, intimated today that he might not be seen on the ice in competition this coming winter.

Price has been very busy all summer, traveling for a local medicine house, and it is very probable he will continue in this line of work during the winter. This in itself would make it impossible for him to do much training.

By no means has the local Mercury given up the idea of competitive skating, but just at present the more real things of life appeal more strongly to him. He has an eye open for foreign matches in the future, and will probably take on some of the Upper Canadian or American skaters before he is done with the game.

Furthermore Jimmy Price is going to take warning from Fen Parker's case. The ex-champion overdid himself a couple of seasons ago, and as a result had a long illness, chiefly rheumatic. At any rate St. John lovers of the skating sport will hope to have local laurels decided by the little man, who used to live up river, even if his efforts are but few and far between.

A PECULIAR CASE.

Prisoner in Police Cells Considered by Officials Too Filthy to be Taken Into Court.

At the police court this morning contractor Corbett reported for allowing a brick and deal ends to fall from the new Globe building, was fined $100 for the sidewalk fenced off.

James Dunlop for being drunk on Waterloo street was remanded. Dennis Sullivan, drunk on Pond street, was remanded and may be sent to jail for six months without a fine for being a habitual drunkard.

Michael Dwyer arrested for being drunk and begging on Dock street, was fined $5 for drunkenness and remanded on the charge of begging.

Two boys Watson and Connell charged with throwing stones on the street said it was not stones but pieces of squash. The magistrate said there was too much of this stone throwing and told the boys they were liable to a fine of $5 or two months jail.

Freud Shilling was gathered in by the police this morning and sentenced to three months in the Almsouse.

Joseph Nyles arrested for vagrancy was left in the cells this morning being too filthy to be brought into court.

ST. RY. TO RUN FOG ALARM.

In a short time the fog alarm on Beacon Light will be run by power from the Street Railway Co. Poles have been placed in position from Tilton's Corner, down Prince and Lower streets and from Blue Rock a cable is being placed in position to the Beacon.

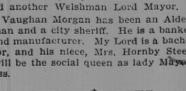

The fog bell is at present worked by weights, which are wound up by hand and which during foggy weather requires a constant attendant. The new arrangement will be found quite a convenience.

Another extension which the Street Railway Co. have in hand at the present time is the lighting of the C. P. R. yards at Bay Shore. The wires have been laid from Seaside Park, and the work was about completed today. The plans for lighting the yards are quite extensive, and include a large number of arc and incandescent lights. Not only the yards will be lighted, but the round house, also it is expected that by Monday new lighting will be used.

The Street Railway Co. are erecting their new sweeper and snow plow early next week. W. Z. Earle said this morning that if this winter is to be as severe as last the new machinery will be very necessary.
