Composition of the New House of Parliament.

An Imprisoned Socialist Elected in Preference to a Prince.

Thirty Thousand Persons Undertake the Pilgrimage to Lourdes.

LARGEST CARGO STEAMER

AFLOAT. London, Aug. 18.-The new White Star line freight steamer Georgia sailed on her maiden voyage from Liverpool for New York Friday. She is the largest cargo steamer afloat. The White Star line freight steamer Runic, Capt. Lancaster, at Liverpool from New York, was slightly damaged by colliding with the landing stage.

COMPOSITION OF PARLIAMENT. London, Aug. 18 .- A census of the Parliaments hows that only 190 out of 668 are new members. As to occupation 150 are lawyers, 54 are manufacturers, 88 are merchants, 10 professors in universities, 31 journalists, 12 skilled laborers, 19 brewers, distillers and wine merchants, 46 army and navy officers in active service, 146 gentry, peers' sons and peers' brothers.

A GREAT PILGRIMAGE.

Paris, Aug. 19.-A great pilgrimage to Lourdes is now under way. Today twelve special trains left here on the Orleans Railway with pilgrims for that shrine. Many of the travelers were so ill or crippled that it was necessary to carry them to the trains on stretchers. With accessions from the country the pilgrims will number 30,000 persons. They will begin to arrive at Lourdes

DEFEATED THE PRINCE. Rome, Aug. 18.-Guiseppe De Felice

Giuffrida, the well-known Socialist, who was sentenced to imprisonment for connection with the Socialist disturbances in Sicily, was today elected a member of the Chamber of Deputies at a bye-election held in the fourth district of Rome, defeating Prince Odelscalchi. Though the election is null. owing to the successful candidate being in prison, it indicates the feeling that is entertained by many of the electors in favor of granting amnesty to him. LORD LONSDALE'S LAVISH.

London, Aug. 18.-Lord Lonsdale, it is declared, expended $200,000 in the four days' entertainment of Emperor William at the family castle in Cumberland. Not only the family servants, but all the retainers on the Lonsdale estates were provided with special uniforms for the occasion, and money was distributed breadcast by Lord Lonsdale to the surrounding villages to enable them to decorate in the Kaiser's honor. He will return the visit at the Kaiser's special invitation in the summer. It is mentioned that one of the Emperor's presents to Lord Lonsdals was a gold eigar box, with the Imperial crown and arms in magnificent rubles and diamonds, which cost

THE WAR IN MADAGASCAR. Marseilles, Aug., 18. - The steamer Yang-tse arrived here today from Madagascar. She had on board when she left Madagascar 136 French soldiers who had been invalided home. Ninety-seven of these are now convalescent, thirteen show no improvement and three died on the voyage. Ten of the sick soldiers remained at Zanibar and thirteen at Port Said, their condition being such that they were unable to proceed.

The Yang-tse brought Tamatave papers chronicing the news that the Hova Prime Minister who is the husband of the Queen, sent a flag of truce to Gen Duchesne, the commander of the French forces who had reached the capital.

The Madagascar News, advised the Hovas to burn the capital on the approach of the French. It is stated that the Prime Minister has decided to set fire to Antananorivo before the French forces get with striking distance of it, and to retreat to the southward. Envoys of the Queen arrested Kamasombazaba, who was charged with not defending Marovosy and with not burning the stores there before he retreated. He was taken to Antananarivo, and after a summary trial was convicted and sentenced to be burned alive. The sentence was car-

It is reported that the Prime Minister has decreed the expulsion of the British, American and Norwegian traders and missionaries in Imerina.

season's crop. At Erieau, a summer resort, south of Blenheim, on Lake Erie, all the tents occupied by campers were blown down. Near Paisley lightning struck the barn owned by Mr. H. J. Smith and rented by Mr. E. A. McArtney. The building was completely destroyed, but part of the contents were saved. Mr. William Giles and his hired man were drawing in peas, when lightning struck the load, killing one of the horses and stunning both men. Two barns both full of farm produce, fer to speculate on the future.—Montreal situated on lot 29. con. 1, township of Me. Trade Bulletin.

Gillivray, adjacent to the Lucan railway crossing, owned by Mr. T. Duncan, were struck by lightning and burned, together with contents.

At Petrolea the chimney on the city hall was badly wrecked, Mr. F. Riddle's residence, also Mr. D. Sinclair's residence was damaged, and Miss Sinclair received a shock, but nothing serious. About 100 derricks were blown down.

At Uxbridge two barns were destroyed by lightning.

The spire of Knox Church, Stratford, was struck by lightning at a height af 200 feet from the ground, setting it on fire. The fire brigade, by passing a line of hose up inside the spire, subdued the flames after half an hour's hard work. During the terrific wind storm Saturday morning the United Presbyterian Church, under process of construction at the corner of Grand River and Alexandrine avenues, Detroit, was practically demolished. Fully fifteen workmen were about the building at the time, one of whom, Frank Cinowa, was almost instautly killed, while several others were severely injured.

MRS. HOWARD.

The Alleged Wife of Holmes, Has Confidence in Her Partner.

Detective Geyer Still Searching for Howard Pietzel's Remains.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 18.—The alleged wife of H. H. Holmes, Mrs. Howard, as she is known, is bound to leave Philadelphia for Boston, where, it is said, she will spend some time with Miss Helen Mudgett, the sister of the noted criminal Holmes. Mrs. Howard has kept in strict seclusion during her residence in this city but is alleged to have said that she knew nothing that would incriminate the man who posed as her hus-

According to her own story she first met Holmes in Chicago. They were married in December, 1893, in Denver, and Mrs. Howard, whose maiden name was Yoko, has her marriage certificate to prove the fact. Mrs. Howard it is said had perfect confidence in the man she believed to be her husband and never suspected she was a swindler or worse. To her Holmes explained that he changed his name on account several real estate transactions. She also claimed to have property of her own in Indianapolis worth $81,000. Mrs. Howard will be 26 years old next Monday. She is a small woman with finely cut features and golden hair. She was educated in Western College, Illinois, and is a fine musician.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 18.—Detective Geyer and Inspector W. A. Gary, of the Fidelity Insurance Co., have returned to Indianapolis to resume the search for the body of Howard Pietzel. Geyer says he is now satisfied that Howard Pietzel was murdered and the body disposed of in this city.

THE BUTTER TRADE. Mail advices from England report a decline of 10s per cwt. in the price of butter, a portion of which was subsequently recovered; but offers of finest Canadian creamery by cable within the past few days at 17c have brought no response, which shows there is not much life in the market on the other side. A short time since as high as 18c was paid for the finest fresh made creamery for export, so that values in England are fully Ic lower for the Canadian product than they were. The recent decline on the other side was due to the increased home market there, which followed the copious rainfall succeeding the draught. The weakness in the foreign market has induced a decidedly easier feeling here, but owing to cold storage facilities, holders pre-

Sad Death of Mr. Henry Tunks, of Westminster.

He Went to Attend a Horse-His Injuries Prove Fatal in Seven Hours.

Mr. Henry Tunks, a well-known Westminster farmer residing on North street, died last evening at 5 o'clock, after only seven hours' illness, all of which time he was About 9:30 yesterday morning Mr. Tunks went to the barn to dress a wound on one of the horse's feet. He had been gone about half an hour when one of his sons went to get his bicycle, which was leaning against the barn. As he neared the building he heard loud moaning, and on entering found his father lying on the floor with an ugly wound on the left temple. Mr. Tunks was unconscious, and after removal to the house everything possible was done to restore him to consciousness. It was useless, however, and after lingering until 7 o'clock in the evening he passed away.

The wound, which was very deep, was undoubtedly caused by a kick from the horse. Deceased was born 55 years ago on the property now occupied by the reservoir at Springbank, and was a continuous resident of Westminster all his life. He was known throughout the entire township and was respected by all. Besides a widow he leaves two sons, Nathaniel and Stanleyand two daughters-Annie and Eliza-at home. John, a third son, lives on an adjoining farm. The funeral takes place tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock.

British press about two very distinguished archæologists—Sir William Wilde, and Dr. Donovan. It seems that these two gentlemen made an excursion to the Isles of Arran, where interesting remains of archeological nature have been found. They came across a little rough stone building, and both entered into a fierce argument as to the exact century of its erection. Finally each claimed a date, one giving it the sixth century, and the other a later one. A native who had listened with gaping mouth and ears to the lengthy and learned terms used by the disputants, broke into the conversation with the remark: "Faix, you're both wrong so far as that little buildin' is concerned; it was built just two years ago by Tim Doolan for his jackass."

Opening of the Tecumseh Park Bicycle Track.

Rain Keeps Away the Crowd, But Fails to Spoil the Races.

Remarkable Riding of Novice Allan

Carman Beats Radway in the "B" Class Championship.

Addresses by Mayor J. W. Little and Mr. W. J. Reid-Geo. Fagg Wins the City Championship in "A" Class-Remarkably Good Racing.

The Tecumseh Park bicycle track was opened on Saturday afternoon, and a splendid series of races run off immediately after a rain storm that would have made the sand track at Queen's Park useless for a couple of days. While the rain did not even make the track slow, it spoiled the crowd, and instead of several thousand citizens being present, as was anticipated, the stands held only about 800.

The weather was most discouraging to the management. Up to 2 o'clockone hour before the time set for opening-the weather was perfect. Shortly after 2 a sudden storm blew up from the northwest. The heavy clouds so darkened the atmosphere for a short while that electricity and gas were called into requisition in many of the down town places of business. At 3 it was pouring rain, but fifteen minutes later the weather had moderated sufficiently to permit the Musical Society Band to form on Dundas street at Richmond and march to the grounds. The bandsmen had just got nicely seated on chairs, on the green, when the rain again commenced to fall. They then sought shelter on the covered

While it rained not a few took advantage of the wait to thoroughly examine the new grand stands. The three will seat 4,000. The open stands have a capacity of 1,400 each, and the covered stand 1,200. The workmen were not short of timber, and did not cover only the back portion of the stands. Instead, the roof projects over the course, making the shelter secure, no matter from what direction the storm flower)—Sweet as the giver. He (wishing to be very complimentary indeed)—Oh foul tips when basball is being played. to be very complimentary indeed)—Oh— Something for moralists to ruminate upon is the use that staid Presoyterian pews are put to in the construction of the stand. They form part of the seats of the covered stand, and the lover of baseball may start guiltily as he finds his own name thereon. Indeed, after the addresses were over on Saturday, it is alleged that several persons abstractedly leaned forward and felt for a hymn book. Such was the effect of their surroundings. Wheelmen say that the ordinary hymn book does not contain strong enough adjectives to sing the praises of the new track and grand stands. They, too, are interested in the stands, for are not their dressing rooms underneath? The day of the rub-down in a canvas tent is past, as far as London wheelmen are concerned on the Tecumseh track. The dressing rooms are entered from the front of the track and extend north and south underneath the stand. Two large hallways lead from end to end. Off these are the rooms. Cot beds are furnished for the convenience of the rider whose "man" is busy giving him a rub-down after the race. And what the boys appreciate more than all is a handy shower bath.

OPENING CEREMONIES. Opening addresses were delivered by Mayor J. W. Little and by Mr. W. J. Reid, owner of the track and park. It was nearly 4 o'clock before the weather gave promise of allowing the races to proceed. The committee then decided to go ahead with the ceremonies, and the mayor delivered the opening address. "I am very sorry that the weather has interfered with the success of this meeting," said the mayor, "but we will only have to do what we can to put up with it. On behalf of the citizens of London I desire to congratulate all who are interested in athetic sports, and especially bicycle riders, on the opening of this park. It is fortunate that we have amongst us an enterprising citizen who is willing to invest his money in a venture of this kind-cheers)—and we are also indebted to the young men who have agreed to bear a share of the risk. (Hear, hear.) "Bicycle riding tends to develop many of the qualities which must prove valuable in every-day life. A good rider must be cautious and prudent, otherwise he is likely to come to grief; he must learn to be self-reliant and to act independently, for no one can assist him in his journeys. He must have strong nerves and be prompt to act in lisions and other accidents; and, last of all, he must avoid excesses of every kind; a drunken man on a bicycle would be a sight for the gods. (Hear, "The cultivation of these qualities and their application to our regular duties should certainly, under ordinary circumstances, lead to success in any calling. (Applause.) We are, therefore, under obligation to those who furnish facilities for the development of our young people in this way. And, indeed, this remark applies not only to bicycle riding, but to all other manly sports, so long as they are free from an emergency if he would escape col-

vicious surroundings, and not carried to excess. "London has always kept well to the front in bicycle matters. I under-stand a London club holds the proud position of senior member of the Can-adian Wheelmen's Association, and the various clubs in the city now have upwards of 500 members in all-a very large number, I take it, in proportion to our population. (Cheers.) "No doubt the opening of this park and the improved paving in our streets will be the means of stimulating the increasing their numbers. Some time ago a Toronto newspaper, in an article on paving, expressed a regret that the interests of the cyclists had not been better protected when the arrange-ments for paving were made. The ar-ticle recommended that on all streets where cars run a three-foot devil strip should be paved either with asphalt or brick. Now, in this city, wherever there are double tracks there is to be a four-foot devil strip paved in the same way as the remainder of the street. Before the end of the year there will be nearly a mile of asphalt, and all over the city the cobblestones are to be removed and replaced by cedar blocks where the street is blocked, and by gravel and broken stone where there is no paving. (Applause.)

"I must not take up any more of your time. I trust your meet will be the most successful. What a contrast there is between your surroundings of today and those of the first meet held in the city some fourteeen years ago. (Hear, hear.) May your development in the future be even more rapid than in the past, and the improvements in your wheels as great as the change from the wooden wheels of the early part of the century to the pneumatic tires of today.

"I hope you will succeed in having the annual meet of the Canadian Asecciation here next year. If there is anything I can do to assist you in this matter before I leave the mayor's chair I shall be most happy to do so. (Cheers.) I am glad to be with you today, and very much pleased to see so many ladies interested in cycling. It is most fortunate that each year the number of lady cyclists is increasing. Sport carried on in the presence of ladies tends to refine and elevate and drive away everything of a coarse or vulgar nature, and I trust all your clubs will endeavor to do what they can to induce ladies to join. (Applause.) I thank you for a your patient attention, and now have much pleasure in declaring Tecumseh Athletic Park open." (Loud cheering.)

Mr. W. J. Reid was the next speaker. "Mr. Mayor, Ladies and Gentlemen," said he, "it is very gratifying to me to have such kindly words expressed in the manner in which the mayor has expressed them. But I can assure you that it gives me great pleasure in knowing that I have been partly the means of bringing about the successful finishing of the bicycle track and grounds. (Applause.) The thought came to me a short time ago that I would like to learn to rice the bicycle. I also thought I would like a track. Now I have got a track, but I have not got a bicycle." (Laughter.)
Mr. Reid then had a little fun at the expense of Col. Leys, and again expressed himself as grateful for the kind remarks made by the mayor. "I trust." said he, "this is only the start of an era of bicycle riding in the city, and I will gladly do anything in my power to further the sport. We will have in the near future, so Mr. Hyman has told me, a cricket club laying out their crease here. We already have a baseball diamond, and with a cricket crease, baseball diamond and bicycle will have as good an athletic grounds as there is in the country. "We wish to develop our boys. Our object is to further as much as possible amateur athletics. That we hold to be the proper thing to encourage—professionalism is a thing of the past, and from this out it is an assured fact that we will have here all kinds of legitimate sports." (Cheers.).

Then Mr. George Macheth pulled the bell for the first event and the track was really opened.

THE RACES. The races demonstrated clearly the benefit of the new track to those who have trained thereon, and some of this year's riders who have had that advantage opened everybody's eyes.

events were divided into two classes-A and B. Class A riders are those who are not interested in the sale of any particular bicycle, and who pay all their own expenses Class B riders are those who may be employed in the bicycle business, and have their expenses paid by their employers. In class A the surprise of the meet was the riding of Allan Leys, son of Col. Leys. This is his first season, and he carried off first prize money in the novice race, first in the two-mile six minute class, and second in the threemile handicap. He was second in the city championship mile dash, and was beaten by George Fogg, another promising young rider, who, however, had saved his strength for the city championship event by not entering the previous races, as Leys did. Fogg also took first in the handicap race, which followed, and in which Leys took sec-

Fogg's gold medal won as city champion is valued at $25. As first in the three-mile handicap he won an upholstered easy chair, valued at $20-$45 in all

Redway is no longer city champion in class B. Carman wears the honors. Carman also took first in the two-mile. :20 class, and finished slightly behind Radway in the team and handicap races. The fact that the longer Carman and Radway raced together the greater advantage Radway seemed to have still keeps Radway's stock up well as a long distance rider. Carman has the advantage, however, in the lesser races. ONE MILE-CLASS "B"-NOVICE

The sports opened with a one mile novice race for class B riders. The enrices were Ashton Brown, L. B. C.; W. F. Horton. M. B. C.; W. Goodwin, L. B. C., and Len Goodwin, M. B. C. Brown led for two laps, and apparently had an easy chance of winning as the quartet entered the stretch on the last lap. To the surprise of everybody, Horton put on a terrific spurt and beat Brown out within a few yards of the Len Goodwin finished third. Time. 2:37 3-5. ONE MILE, CLASS "A"-NOVICE.

There were six starters—E. C. Bernard, L. B. C.; C. C. Cottrell, Toronto; Geo. Crabb, L. B. C.: Allan Levs, L. B. C.: Fred Deeley, L. B. C.; J. W. Chambers, M. B. C. Deeley paced the crowd for two laps, for which he received third place, although he did not finish. Deeley, Bernard, Leys, Crabb and Cottrell made two laps in the order named, Chambers dropping cut after the first hundred yards. Leys started to sprint on the last half of the last lap and managed to keep in front until the tape was crossed. Crabb took second and Bernard finished third, but got

no prize. Time, 2:25.
TWO MILE, CLASS "B"—5:20 CLASS. Ashton Brown got third place in this event for pacing Carman, Radway and Devine (St. Thomas) for the greater part of the two miles. Then he obligingly dropped out and left the race to Carman, Radway and Devine. Radway enthusiasm of cyclists, and still further | set the pace until passed by Carman on the latter half of the final lap. Radway tried hard to catch Carman's terrific pace, but could not and finished second. Divine finished third, but Brown got the prize for pacing. Time, 5:17. TWO MILE, CLASS "A"—6:00 CLASS.

There were so many entries in this race that it was run in heats. First heat—C. E. Bernard, L. B. C.; John Feeley, M. B. C.; John A. Har-ley, Petrolea, and C. C. Cottrell, Toronto, started. The heat was won by Harley, with Cottrell second. Time, 5:40 3-5

Second heat—Leys, L. B. C.; F. Dun-bar, Stratford; C. C. Chisholm, Goder-ich, and George Crabb, L. B. C., start-ed. They finished in the order given, although Crabb was given a place in the final heat for pacing. Time, 5:36 4-5. Final heat—Levs, Cottrell, Harley, Dunbar and Crabb lined up for the final heat, but after the start was made no one would set the pace. The riders were stopped after the first lap and a time limit of 5:40 set. This procedure made a race of what promised to be a loaf. Leys won, with Dunbar second and Harley third. Crabb, however, got third prize for pacing. Time 5:35,3-5.
ONE MILE CITY CHAMPIONSHIP— CLASS "B."

The entries were Ashton Brown, W. M. Carman, F. F. Radway and C. W. Bowyer, all of the L. B. C. L. Goodwin paced the quartet for the first lap, and Devine did similar work for the second lap. Brown and Bowyer were out of in the final lap, and left the fight between Carman and Radway. Carman won by two lengths. Time, 2:25 4-5. ONE MILE, CITY CHAMPIONSHIP— CLASS "A."

C. E. Bernard, George Crabb, Allan Leys, Fred Deeley, of the L. B. C., F. R. Sweeney, unattached, and George A. Fogg, M. B. C., started. John Feeley acted as pacemaker. Levs led for the first two and a half laps, Fogg, Sweeney and Bernard stringing out close behind. Leys started to spurt, but Fogg caught his pace and passed him. They made a gallant fight for it, but Fogg's fresh condition told, and he won by a length. Time, 2:43 1-5.

THREE MILE CLASS "B"-HANDI-CAP. As there was no time prize, this race was rather tame. Carman and Radway started from scratch, Devine had 100 yards, Brown 350, Horton 375, L. Good-win 400, C. Manville 425, and W. Goodwin 450 yards. The finish was close between Manville and Brown, the former winning only by three inches. Horto was third and Radway fourth. Time, 7:46 4-5.

THREE MILE, CLASS "A"-HANDI-

CAP. The entries were: J. A. Harley, Petrolea, scratch; Dr. Robertson, Stratford, 100 yards; F. Dunbar, Stratford, 100 yards; C. C. Chisholm, Goderich, 100 yards; Allan Leys, L. B. C., 200 yards; Geo. Fogg, M. B. C., 200 yards; F. R. Sweeney, London, 200 yards; Geo. Crabb, L. B. C., 250 yards; C. C. Cottrell, Toronto, 250 yards; F. A. Smith, M. B. C., 250 yards; C. E. Bernard, L. B. C., 300 yards; F. Deeley, L. B. C., 350 yards; O. E. Stevens, L. B. C., 450 yards; John Feeley, M. B. C., 450 yards; A. E. Mann, London, 550 yards. The finish of this race was the prettiest sight of the whole day. Harley gave up the job of trying to catch the 200-yard flyers and retired. Mann fell and also gave up. Several others dropped out and left the race between Leys, Fogg, Crabb and Sweeney. The riders were bunched at the finish, and Fogg took first prize, Leys second, Crabb third and Sweeney fourth. Time,

WHEN ADAM WAS A BOY.

This was years ago, for Adam has been dead quite a while, though to be sure he has left a progeny that keeps up pretty well the family characteristics. There are wise men today who delve into the misty past and tell as all sorts of things, but they are silent on those events that would make Adam interesting to the modern man. What did Adam do when he run a sliver under his finger nail? Had he to take measles and whooping cough? If he had corns, did he cut them with a razor, or did he stretch forth a hand in the future and get a bottle of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor? Putnam's is the best, is sure, safe, painless, and acts in 24 hours.

LETTERS TO THE "ADVERTISER."

If you have a grievance to ventilate, information to give, a subject of public interest to discuss, or a service to acknowledge, we will print it in this column, provided the name of the writer is attached to his or her communication for publication. Make it as brief as possible.

Should Have an Abatteir.

To the Editor of the ""Advertiser": I am not a citizen of London, but I live so near the city that I consider my interests about identical with those of the citizens. I have lately been observing some correspondence in your paper, by which I gather that there is a scheme on foot to erect an abattoir for the city, to which all animals shall be taken for slaughter which are to be used for food in the city. I am a butcher by trade-worked at it for more than 40 years—and frequently do some slaughtering yet. I know good meat when I see it, dead or alive, and I must say that I think that this city ought to have some means whereby it would be assured of a better quality of meat than I have seen sometimes offered for sale on the city market. My observation enables me to fully corroborate what Mr. Hutchinson and Mr. Morris and others have said about it; indeed, if they or I were to tell the whole truth as to what is sometimes to be seen, and call things by their right names, I fear your readers would be filled with disgust. It is not a pleasant subject, but the health of all who are not strict vegetarians is concerned, and I would like to see the matter kept stirred up till something is done. Attention has been called to the socalled veal-better called foetuses-and to the cancerous and other diseased and unwholesome meat which appears frequently. There is still another feature of the case. In most of the private slaughter-houses the offal (blood, entrails, etc.) is fed to hogs, because there seems no other convenient method of disposing of it in a small way, and these hogs are in their turn butchered for meat. Some will tell you that this makes good pork, but I leave it to the common sense of your readers to say whether the flesh of what be-comes practically a carnivorous animal, and one fed on entrails and blood at that, is what they want. The fact is well known to every packer of pork that the meat of hogs so fed can hardly be cured at all, and at the best it remains soft, flabby and inferior. In the course of my business I have had eccasion to visit abattoirs at Cleveland and other places, and I find that in them the offal is converted by a cleanly, odorless process into a fertilizer of a good quality, and I have no doubt that such would be the disposition made of it here. From what I can hear, I believe this scheme will be generally favored by the local butchers of the city, and J should think it would be by all (unless it might be by some outside vendors of scallawag beef and such), and will likely receive their support, as it certainly will mine, if properly conducted.

If, Mr. Editor, I may at some future time be again allowed a little of your valuable space, I should like to deal further with some of these matters. THOS. J. COOK. Yours, etc.

Hamilton road, Aug. 16, 1895. Objects to the Heading.

To the Editor of the "Advertiser": I have read Dr. Mackay's reply to Hon. David Mills, and also your heading to that letter, which reads: "Another attack on the western statesman, because he and the Liberal party will not put prohibition above all other issues." It does not seem to me to be just quite fair for you to stamp his letter with an interpretation of your own before publication. Many will read the heading without taking the trouble to read such a long letter, and will thus get a very wrong impression of the writer as well as the letter. In my humble opinion the letter will not bear any such interpretation. Would it not have been fairer to have said that the doctor was criven into this position because the politicians of both parties put prohibition below all other issues, instead of "above all other issues"? If Hon. D. Mills is correctly reported in the "Advertiser," it is fair to infer that he does not believe in prohibitory legislation at all. I would be sorry to Over "Y" rooms, Spencer Block, Dundas street, east of Wellington street. believe, as he seems to do, that people cannot be helped to avoid temptation by wise legislation. If that be true, then Sunday laws, laws against gamb-ling, etc., are entirely useless, and we might just as well allow every man to sell liquor who will pay the license fee. The great contention of Dr. Mackay cannot be denied by anyone, that both political parties would fain combine the Christian vote and the saloon vote.

Nor can anyone deny that they have very adroitly succeeded in doing so on many occasions. I think it is generally admitted that the sale of intoxicating liquors is the cause of three-fourths of the misery and crime in the land. If that be true, what can we expect if Christians continue to vote with and for the instruments of so much evil. In these days of party frenzy few men can be said to have any political independence whatever. They belong to their party leaders as much as if they were their slaves, and vote as they are told all their lives. But there can be no question of the independence or the honesty of purpose of the Rev. Dr. Mackay, and he should have the support of all thinking men, rather than a politician who does not believe in the power of the law to aid the moral development of the people. H. ARNOTT. In Re the Bands.

To the Editor of the "Advertiser": In Friday's issue of your valuable paper it was stated that Capt. Thomas and Bandmaster Tresham complained to No. 2 Committee that injustice had been done the 7th Battalion Band in the matter of the division of the grant for open air concerts, claiming that the Musical Society Band had played seven times to its three. However this may be I will not pretend to say, except that it may have been on account of the earlier and complete organization of the Musical Society Band, while the youngsters of the reconstructed 7th Band were being taught the gamut. But what concerns the writer was the statement made by the gallant captain that the Hussars Band was, "he was told," made up largely of members of the Musical Society Band. This is not so, and the speaker should have been more careful in giving currency to hearsay stories for the purpose of bolstering up a band of the "Buttercups and Daisies" style of music, and depreciation of the Hussars Band. which is complete in itself, owns it own instruments, and pays it way without whining.
The Hussars Band has had but two concerts, the performances being conceded to be of a high order, and perfectly satisfactory to the music-loving citizens, and there exists no reason why the 7th Band should play greater number of times than the Hussare Band. Thanking you for inserting this correction, yours, etc., THOMAS H. WARREN, Bandmaster Hussars Band.

The English yachtsmen are already counting on the Valkyrie taking back the America's cup, and say: "If it comes back, it will stay." Isn't that a trifle over-confident? The race hasn't been sailed yet, and there's many a slip twixt the cup and the ship that is to take it away. To the Englishmen it has long been a cup that cheers, but they are premature in letting it inebriate at this stage of the game.

The Summer Girl's Fan.

The idea that the fan and its coquettish use originated with Eve in the Garden of Eden seems entirely consistent | the number of chattel mortgages in Onwith its significance in the hands of the summer girl, providing she has become expert in the art of using it. When considered from a practical point of view it is a simple instrument for producing a cooling breeze, but as a means of conveying silent love messages it is certainly a poem without words. A young girl's summer outfit is not complete without a variety of pretty fans for use at all times of day and evening, and the dainty Empire fans are perhaps the prettiest of all. Excellent copies of these, made of fancy paper, are sold for a very small sum but the real beauty has a tortoise-shell or mother-of-pearl sticks, and is made of silk exquisitely painted in figures framed by a scroll of glittering paillettes. A Louis XVI. fan of black net is very effective with a painted silk medallion set into the center, the edge being of silk, in scrolls which spread out on the net. Silken medallions are a feature of the newest fans, and small fans of scented wood and dainty gauze very quaint with their illuminated sticks shutting up in the form of an ivy bough. Feather fans are much cheaper than they were and those with ostrich tips turning down from the top are the latest fancy. A real novelty is a fan of white net, scalloped on the edge and a satin medallion in the center, on which a dainty columbine is painted, and from this shining lines of gold spangles radiate. The white sticks glitter with gold and silver stars. The Empire fans are small in size, but not in price, as the ivory, pearl and ebony sticks are inlaid with gold, while the mounts of hand-painted ribbon are divided by another strip of inlaid pearl. A black lisse fan, spangled with golden stars, is very effective with a black evening gown, and a fan de luxe is in natural ostrich feathers mounted with motherof-pearl sticks inlaid with gold.

New Designs in China. A London firm has lately produced a decided novelty for the table, which in these days, when all desire attractive and perfect appointments will be greatly appreciated. This consists of a dessert service, the "Auid Lang Syne" service, in beautiful blue spodi china, with landscape medallions in the center of each. This, of caurse, is not news, the novelty being that the designers are prepared to decorate with any desired landscape So, should the purchaser be also the possessor of one of "England's stately homes," he may have his service decorated with sketches taken from the various points of beauty on his own domains, choosing himself the points of interest he prefers, and thus bequeath to his heirs a charming heirloom. Another novelty furnished by the same establishment which will doubtless prove popular with the smart set, is a luncheen service prepared in any chosen racing colors. The dishes are wonderfuly compact and apropos, being put together in sets of three, the stand of one forming the lid of the other. The size of the service must, of course, depend upon the number to be entertained. Another item, not so much of a novel. ty, perhaps, is the new fireproof ware, which is a soft, dark green. The color is very beautiful and will be a pretty addition to any table, and without doubt will do away with the old color of dark redbrown ware so long in vogue. The cafetieres in this ware are especially pretty.

ANGLOPHOBIA IN GERMANY. London, Aug. 18.-A Berlin special mays: Politically the relations between Germany and England have almost monopolized public attention and are the reason for a general discussion by the entire press. This has been brought about by several editorials in the London Standard and Daily News, which were extremely distasteful to Germans. In fact, the Hanover Courier even went so far as to say that the Emperor's periodical visits to England were not approved by the nation, as they merely served to increase British insolence. An article in the Standard, especially advising the Emperor that his aim ought to be to show himself worthy of his maternal ancestry, has aroused a perfect storm of indignation. In fact, the entire press has given vent to a violent burst of Anglophobia with Prince Bismarck's Hamburger Nachrichten in the van. But the official press, including the North German Gazette, has joined in the outery, and there is no doubt that just now England is the country most hated by Germany.

The memorial celebrations of the battles fought against the French in August, 1870, continue to be the order of the day among the Germans. The various battle fields around Metz are being visited by thousands of veterans and other visitors, and a monument has been placed on the battle field of Vionville in memory of Prince Frederick Charles. During the last nineteen years the archdeacon has been one of the glories of the abbey. Few people are aware that he was born in Bombay and that he was educated in the Isle of Man, in whose picturesque scenery he placed his excellent school story," Eric; or, Little by Little." When at Cambridge he wrete, in 1852, a prize poem, an honor shared in previous years by such men as Macaulay, Praed, Christopher Wordsworth and Alfred Tennyson. The school master has now merged into the preacher, but Dean Farrar was one of the most successful public school tutors ever known in Britain. The head of Marlborough College once wrote of his one-time assistant: "I never knew of any one who had greater power of stimulating intellectual exertion and literary tastes among the boys with whom he came in contact; his character is most lovable; he wins to himself all who approach him. He would be, I am sure, the magnet of all that is noble and generous in the hearts of those whom he rules." And later on, Prof. Max Muller, who cannot be accused of having any great affection for the clergy, observed that "Farrar's name would add luster to any school in England." His chief post for some years was the mastership of Mariborough College. He has always been in favor of total abstinence, and is a fearless advocate of the total suppression of the liquor traffic. Dean Farrar, who has had an exceptionally happy home life, surrounded by his wife and many gifted children, will lose about $5,000 a year by his promotion to Canterbury, but he will probably give himself up to more literary work. In one particuto more literary work. In one particular Farrar will be much missed in London. He has helped to marry most of the fashionable couples in London during the last ten years.

OPPOSED TO DISCRIMINATING DUTIES.

Notice has been given by Mr. Vincent that he will at an early day move in the House of Commons a resolution that Great Britain give a year's notice that Great Britain give a year's notice to the Governments of Belgium and Germany for the elimination of the clauses in the commercial treaties with those countries of 1862 and 1865 respec-tively, precluding the treatment of British goods in British colonies upon more advantageous terms than are accorded foreign goods. The Statist advises Mr. Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, to give notice of the termination of these treaties, and expresses the belief that should this be done Germany would not take any reallatory steps

THE COPYRIGHT QUESTION. Mr. F. H. Scott, president of the Century Publishing Company, of New York, who is in London, in an interview regarding the Canadian copyright law, says the scheme will not be of any benefit to authors or literature of Canada, where the market is small, while it will be a serious menace to the rights of authors in the United States. The Spectator, referring to the matter, says Canada wants something which will bring the whole system of international copyright to ruin.

NEW TRANSATLANTIC STEAMER

LINE. In regard to the company which it was reported recently had been formed, with Sir W. T. Lewis as chairman, to establish a regular line of steamers to run direct between Cariff and New York, the Transport says it will be called the Cardiff-American Transport Docks Company, of Cardiff, will shortly begin the erection of a large port warehouse for the accommodation of the new company, the vessels of which will be mainly devoted to the carrying of freight, including cattle.

During the visit of Emperor William to Cowes, while his Majesty was one day on the lawn of the Royal Yacht Squadron engaged in conversation with era in her hand and attempted to secure a picture of the Emperor. Great indignation was expressed by those who saw the act, and precautions were taken to prevent a repetition of the incident, men being placed at all en-trances to the grounds with instructions to prevent the admission of any persons carrying cameras.

AN ALARMING CIRCULAR. The British War Office has issued an emergency letter to the city officials and metropolitan boards of guardians asking whether in the event of war they would be prepared to allow the War Department to utilize the infirmaries for the mobilization of an army corps for home defense. The letter is probably a routine affair, without significance, but some of the Sunday papers try to raise a scare over the matter. Lloyds calls it alarming, and says that naval and military men at the service clubs told a Lloyds inquirer that never in their experience had the War Office so suddenly issued such an alarming circular. They could not imagine any reason for such proceed-ings on the part of the War Department, and indulged in the gravest surmises over the matter. MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING.

Mr. Isaac N. Ford cables from London to the New York Times: The political play of "Much Ado About Nothhas been on the stage at Westminster, but is not drawing well, and is generally condemned as fit only for the silly season, notwithstanding Dr. Tanner's effort to supply the comedy elements. The newspapers have published detailed accounts of the ventional performances of the "Black Rod" and the by-play of swearing in members of Parliament, but these have een artificial efforts to entertain a bored and listless public. The election of the Speaker was followed in due course by the Queen's speech dealing exclusively with foreign affairs, and the debates in both Houses on Imperial affairs, with some good-humored banter by Lord Rosebery on the political situation and a series of aggressive speeches by the Irish members on foreign affairs. There was no dive gence of views respecting either Armenia or China, but there was sharp criticism from the Opposition benches of Lord Salisbury's reversal of the judgment of the previous Government with regard to Chitral. One of the best speeches was made by Sir Charles Dilke, who summed up the case when he declared that the question of the retention or evacuation of Chitral was settled when the Indian authorities were of one in favor of holding on the conquest.

LORD SALISBURY'S WARNING. Lord Salisbury's warning to the Sultan was meant to be loud enough to reach to the Yildiz Kiosk. He remarked in his most impressive manner that the Ports would make a grave and calamitous mistake if for the sake of maintaining its formal independence and resisiting possible encroachment on its normal prerogatives it refused to histen to the advice of the powers and put an end to anarchy in its dominions. Seldom has such menacing language been used by an English statesman. The Sultan will undoubtedly pay more attention to a responsible Prime Minister than to a retired statesman speaking at Chester; but advice he is accustomed to disdain, unless there is the shadow of a club behind it. It is not by any means certain whether Lord Salisbury himself would favor strong coercive measures, even if the powers could agree upon such an aggressive

THE MISSIONARY MASSACRE.

With reference to the massacre of missionaries in China, the horror felt by civilized countries is shared by the Imperial Government, which lacks not willingness, but power, to bring to justice those guilty of the atrocities. It has been suspected that the British Government lack a positive policy in dealing with China, and certainly Lord Salisbury has failed to disclose one. The massacre of the missionaries has been a subject of discussion and prayer at Exeter Hall, where the Church Missionary Society has held crowded meetings; but an undertone of criticism of the methods of evangelizing China and of skepticism respecting their results is also heard. While sympathy is everywhere expressed for the families bereaved by the deaths of the mission-aries, the opinion is expressed by many writers for the press and some member-of Parliament that Chinese hostility has been invited by the lack of adaptability at stations to eastern customs. meager results of the work of Christianizing the Chinese are cited, and the question is bluntly asked, is the game worth the candle? The foreign missionary cause is not so popular in England as is political campaigning for the defence of the established church.

POSITION OF THE LIBERAL LEAD-

Lord Rosebery assumed a jocular tone in his comments on the political situation, but while his speech in the House of Lords was bright and amusing, it was lacking in dignity and sense of responsibility. Sir William Harcourt was apparently depressed by the political revolution, and not disposed to be either aggresive or humorous in his speech on the Government policy. The Liberal leaders are not, however, so despondent as their political opponents imagine. They will not proclaim their views from the housetops, but privately among themselves they are talking over the recent revolution of public opinion, and agreeing among themselves respecting the leading causes. They frankly admit that it was a serious mistake to go to the country with so many large issues. The temperance question, they are agreed, damaged their cause more than anything else, since it arrayed in antagonism the powerful and unscrupulous class of publicans and alienated the sympathy f swarms of workingmen. They consider that the Liberal methods of advocating and presenting the Newcastle ogramme have been ill-judged, but that these principles will win in the end. The next party platform will have fewer planks. The Liberal leaders also attribute their defeat in no small measure to the hard times. There had been commercial depression and lack of employment for the industrial classes for three years, and the improvement of the American trade this season came too late to reassure discontented work-Baron de Courcel, the French ambas-sador to Great Britain, a French lady that the political pendulum will speed-ily swing backward, and that many throng present with a snap shot cam- seats which they have lost by small !

lution or reorganization of the party or change in its present leadership is a figment of irresponsible minds. Lord Rosebery will be a strong leader in the Opposition than at the head of the Government.

UNIONISTS CELEBRATING. The Unionists' victory has been celebrated by the National Union Conservative associations and by the Primrose League. The financial strength of the party is shown by the statement that upward of 25,000,000 leaflets and 200,000 posters were sent out from the central office of the National Union.

THE IRISH CONFERENCES. The Irish conferences have ended in the re-election of Mr. McCarthy as chairman and a compromise between the Healyites and the Dillonites over the Omagh controversy. Extreme voted down, and Mr. measures were Healy was let off so easily that he may claim something of a triumph. The new consultative committee includes five Dillonites and three Healy-Moderate men have succeeded in patching up a peace between the two factions. The Nationalist leaders are in excellent fighting form, and have taken up with one accord Parnell's policy of forcing Irish questions upon the attention of Parliament. Messrs. Redmond, Healy and Dillon have each in his own turn employed the same general tactics, and the debates on Irish questions will have to be arbitrarily shut off if the Government are to obtain financial supplies and adjourn Parliament in a fortnight.

DR. TANNER'S METHODS. Dr. Tanner's methods are his own. His first exploit was an ironical shout of "Lord Orchid!" on the day when the report was published that Mr. Chamberlain would be knighted or made a baronet for his services to the Unionist cause. His next adventure xposed him to discipline from the Speaker and suspension from the House. The Speaker astonished even the Irish members by giving at a moment's notice Dr. Tanner's complete four-barelled name, and justified the complimentary forecasts earlier in the week of his self-possession.

THE NEW COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF. The appointment of Lord Wolseley as commander-in-chief will give general satisfaction in military and political circles. The selection of the Duke of Connaught would have been a grave blunder. The choice really lay beween LordsWolseley andRoberts when Sir Redvers Buller had been set aside as undeserving of the highest honors. Lord Wolseley has had an Imperial and Lord Roberts an Indian experience. Lord Wolseley has perhaps a better equipment for the past than his rival although he knows almost too much about office and its coils of red tape. One who knew less about it might make a more radical reformer. Lord Roberts has an important command in Ireland, and Lord Wolseley's laurels will not cause his rival any loss of sleep.

THE BIMETALLISTS. The bimetallists have not yet completed their count of the new Parliament, but they assert that eight members of the Government favor their general elections. Houldsworth has agreed to form a committee inside Parliament in favor of bimetallism. Controversial literature on the currency question steadily increases with two antogonistic leagues in the field and the newspapers hospitable to letter writers in the dull season. One correspondent has excited the wrath of the writer of the money articl in the Times, and extorted from him a declaration that no ratio can be maintained permanently by any combination of governments, but that if ever an international conference meets effective bimetallism support will be given only on the ratio of 15 1-2 to 1

POOR HARVEST PROSPECTS All forecasts of the English harvests are most dismal. Every crop runs far below the average, and the results of the season's farming in Great Britain and Ireland are less favorable than those of 1893, which was the worst harrest since 1879. Naturally Parliament is already solicited to legislate in the interest of the farmers and to adopt the programme of the National Agricultural Union. Land is steadily going out of cultivation in England, the far-mers being unable to face the low prices and foreign competition, and beig also harrassed by high rents and restrictions upon methods of agricul-

MANUFACTURING PROSPERING. While the farming industries are suffering, manufacturing is prospering, owing to the improvement of the American trade. This continues to be marked, especially in cottons and wool-The improvement in the iron trade comes more slowly. Among other English industries favorably affected by the American tariff is the manufacture of china and eatherware. A correspondent of the Chronicle at Wolverhampton reports great activity in the potteries at Henley, Burslem, Stoke, Dongton, Fenton and Tunstall, in consequence of the revival of trade with America, exports for the seven months indicating the largest shipments for many years.

POOR OUTLOOK FOR FARMERS. The New York's Sun's London special says: At last it is beginning to be realized that the case of the English grain raisers is permanently hopeless. The fact was practically admitted at the conference on the question of a national bread supply held this week. The comforting notion had been clung to for several years past that there is such a thing as a limit to the depression, and when that has been reached matters will necessarily begin to mend. Last year it was thought that British corn had reached such a point, and that as the farmer could not possibly do worse, he was bound to do better. This cheerful calculation has been upset. In the coming season England will import a larger proportion of meat and flour even than last year. As matters stand wheat can only be grown at considerable loss.

EARL DERBY PROVOKES THE

PEOPLE. The late Canadian Viceroy, Earl Derby, has engaged in a combat with the inhabitants of one of his Flintshire manors, which it is reported has developed into a small civil war. They have enjoyed a short cut foot path over the hill on his castle domain for three generations. He has now inclosed with a high fence and ordered that admission to the hill and castle ruins shall only be by ticket. Mobs of indig-nant villagers tear down the fence as fast as it is built and burn the notice boards, and a Welsh member, who passed through the district today says that the expectation is that a force of Chester police will be brought out to coerce the crowd, which is quite resolved to

BASEBALL.

TORONTO AND SYRACUSE. Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Syracuse and Toronto played two games here yesterday. The second game will go down in the history of local baseball as the finest of the season, if not the best ever seen on the Syracuse diamond. The first game was an easy victory for the Stars. It was a slugging match all through, marked by some excellent fielding work at times on both sides. Smith won the second game for Toronto in the ninth inning by a magnificent drive for two bases to right field, allowing Freeman, who had been given a base on balls a chance to score. Toronto and Syracuse both played the game of their lives all through. Toronto fairly deserved the game, as their hitting was heavier, although the local fanatics blame the Stars' defeat to stupid base runnings in the first inning, when five hits in rapid succession netted only two runs. The Stars outfield robbed Toronto of hits good for at least a dozen bases early in the game through oldtime circus catches by

BIG, SAUCY RATS.

Swimming Two Miles from the Mainland, They Take Possession of an Island and Drive the

The Island of Tropic, 20 miles south of here, has been invaded by an army of savage rats, and the inhabitants have been forced to flee for their lives.

Tropic is three miles long and two miles wide, and the soil is very fertile. A dozen families have settled on the island and engaged in growing vegetables for market. George Butler, one of the settlers, has just reached here, and tells a thrilling story of the invasion and subjugation of Tropic by the rats. Up to a month ago, according to Mr. Butler, there were no rats on theisland. At that time the advance guard of the rodents arrived and were quickly followed by others until in two weeks there were fully 10,000 on the island.

The rats came from the mainland, which was only two miles away, and Mr. Butler affirms that they swam across. He says he has seen them coming out of the water by hundreds. At first the rats contented themselves with attacking the vegetables, which were soon destroyed. Then they invaded the homes of the settlers. The latter made war on the rats, killing hundreds of them. Mr. Butler says he has killed as many as 100 at one shot, but the others would rush forward and attack him, biting him viciously on the legs.

In spite of the slaughter, the rats got into the houses and attacked the women and children. Several of the latter were badly torn by the sharp fangs of the rodents. One baby was so severely bitten about the face that its life is despaired of.

For three nights Mr. Butler says not soul on the island slept, as that would have meant death. At last the people in terror and worn out fled in their boats to the main. land, where they are now camped in a destitute condition. Mr. Butler says the rats pursued them to the water's edge, and the women and chilboats could be pushed off. Every vestige of vegetation has been destroyed on the island and it resembles a desert. The rats are described as gray in color and monstrous in size, being larger than squirrels.

WHAT PROTECTION MEANS. Liberty to Do What We Want is De stroyed.

(By J. W. Bengough.) What does high tarmsm protect?
The befuddled electors are not expected to go behind the word, and as a matter of fact most of them do not. They are simply to keep their eyes on it, just as the hypnotist's "subjects" gaze steadily on the metal disk he gives them until they are thoroughly mesmerized. They are to understand that the high tariff protects the country, and to protect one's native country is to do a thing which commends itself to a patriotic man. To protect the country he is to protect the people of the country-all the people-and, of course, the working masses that form the great majority. And to protect them from what? I don't think the average voter ever gets the length of asking this question or demanding of asking this question or demanding a plain answer. The hypnotic condition supervenes before he gets so far, and he goes and casts his ballot for the hypnotizer. But let us have an answer to it now. It is a good and praiseworthy thing to protect one's country from enemies or evils, and it is conceivable that a prohibitory tariff on impure literature or any similare offensive and injurious thing would really be protection properly so called. But what is it the high tariff advecates really hide behind this mask cf an honest word? What do they purpose to keep out of the country? Enemies? No; friends. Evils? No; Foreign traders who come gcods. with their products-things that we want-to give them to us in exchange for things that they want! Would any sane, unhypnotized man call such stupidity "protecting" a country?

Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute. This widely celebrated institution, located at Buffalo, N. Y., organized with a full staff of experienced and skillfull physicians and surgeons, constituting the most complete organization of medical and surgical skill in America, for the treatment of all chronic diseases, whether requiring medical or surgical means for their cure. Marvelous success has been achieved in the cure of all nasal, throat and lung diseases, liver and kidney diseases, diseases of the digestive organs, bladder diseases, diseases peculiar to women, blood taints and skin diseases, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervous debility, paralysis, epilepsy (fits), and kindred affections. *ARTISTIC FIREBOARD.

HOW TO EFFECT A DESIRABLE AND EASY TRANSFORMATION.

The Old Fireplace Made a Thing of Beauty And a Joy Forever-Work That Can Be Done by Deft Hands in Spare Moments

Grates are quite fashionable, and most modern houses are furnished with one or twe in addition to the usual provision for stoves. But in some houses, especially in old farmhouses built twenty-five or thirty years ago, the fireplace was made for use, with little regard for beauty. Now, these have become an eyesore to people who have grown up without even having once used them. Usually the first step toward a

AN ARTISTIC FIREBOARD. remedy is to shut the opening with a board; but this is often little better than that which it hides. If covered with paper the paper is likely to crack along the seams.

A friend seems to have solved the problem, however, in a fairly satisfactory way. The mantel and fireplace were extremely plain, and the fireboard was of bare yellow pine boards, with which she was never pleased. At last, an idea struck her: she would turn the family artist, and nearly every family has one, to some account. The board was covered tightly with double-width, unbleached muslin, and then the cloth beaten full of starch paste to fill all the pores. When this was dry, it was painted all over with common white lead, and made ready to turn over to the artist, who, by the way, is generally enough of an artisan to do the entire work. On this board the artist painted a design representing bent-iron work over-run with wistar as, the metal work done in bronze or brown (see cut). In the centre is a bracket supporting a lovely blue porcelain vase, in which grows a clump of iris. Of course the flowers should be painted in their usual colors, but the design may be changed or medified to suit the fancy. However, flowers and vase should always be in harmony with each other. This is especially the case here, as the blue vase. purple iris and purplish wistaria combine to make a beautiful, yet modest and unpretentious piece of work. The fireboard lambrequin brings about quite a desirable known. transformation of the fireplace, to the great satisfaction of all.-Rural New Yorker.

HOW TO KEEP YOUNG.

The Daily Nap a Useful Aid in the Preservation of Beauty.

Women in this country might learn an advantageous lesson of their French sisters in the art of keeping young. But it is no receipt for cosmetics that they would acquire. First of all, French dames do not worry, or if they do they conceal the fact admirably. They are apparently on the crest of the wave of good fortune perpetually. Next, and almost equally important, they decline to hurry. They take life moderately, perform their duties without haste and linger over their pleasures. And in these two simple rules lies a mine of wealth for her who is wise enough to appropriate it. The daily nap is a vauable auxiliary to preserving youth. And, speaking of rest, Mrs. Alma Calder Johnson deplores the fact that the little flap of flesh once wont to cover our ear orifices at will is no longer in working order. "It was at one time, you know," she says, "just like our eye lids, and could thus shut out sound as readly as the former could shut out sight. Now, however, we must resort to artificial means to rest our tired tympanums. I often think what a blessed privilege it would be to be able to stop up our ears whenver we wanted. There is nothing that rests me like closing my eyes, and I make a practice of always doing so in street cars and like places. Thus I gain odd minutes of repose, with comparatively little expenditure of time."-Philadelphia Times.

A Terrible Rumor from Paris.

A rumor comes from Paris that parted hair is not to be the fashion much longer; that, even more trying still, the pompadour roll surrounding the face is to be the thing. If this be so, then for are turn of the rats. Those curious abominations of our mothers' time over which the hair is brushed will once more be used. With the hair brushed back in this fashion it is to be arranged in the shape of a figure eight, quite high at the back of the head. and the Psyche knot, which has been with us long enough to become modified into quite a graceful arrangement, will have to go.

How to Make Swallow Rows. "Swallow bows" are now taking the place of butterfly bows, and are made in this way: Take a stiff glace ribbon two or three inches wide and cut one end with long, sharp points like a swallow's tail. Place a loop below, which represents the thickness of the bird's body, and then two side ends cut in diagonal points for the wings. With a rosette as a finish this makes a very effective bow. A charming hat trimmed with two of these swallow bows one on either side, was of black leghorn, with fluted brim and a full red June rose in each flute.

A Drawing Room's Decorations.

The walls of a certain drawing-room are very effectively treated and in a unique manner. Deep maroon brocade has been tacked over it to simulate wallpaper, but with a result far richer than the costliest variety of paper. The heavy fabric forms a superb background for the pictures and ornaments of the room, and is splendid in its effect when lighted by the many glittering candelabra with which the apartment shines at night.

A MYSTERY OF THE AGES. Counterfeit Maid of Orleans Foremost of All Historic Imposters.

In the long array of historic impostors the foremost place is due of the false Pucelle, says the Ninetcenth Century Review. That false Pucelles should arise indeed was not strange; rather it would have been strange had they not arisen. Through the middle ages the common policy of secretly murdering political prisoners was always dogged by the nemesis of pretenders. When one was put down another arose. These shadows Egga-Dull; State, 14c to 15½c; western fresh, played their parts with varying success. but not one of them had so hard a part to play, not one of them played it with such spirit and unparalleled success as the false Pucelle.

> Let us consider the difficulties which attended her enterprise. She was obliged to represeent a character unique in the history of the world, a maiden warrior, whose face whose ways, and "noble manners," were intimately familiar to her kinsfolk, to the court, to the army, to the companies, to the clergy, and to many of the cities of France.

She had to deceive or to make accomplices of the brothers, and probably of the cousins, of Jeanne d'Arc. Now, if the brothers may have had something to gain by the resurrection of their sister, the cousins gained nothing, but were at the expense of "much good cheer." Again, this shadow was obliged to beguile the whole town of Orleans, where Jeanne d'Arc was intimately well known to everybody above the age of twelve. The impostor was welcomed by gentlemen who had seen the true maid at the coronation in Rheims. Finally, she rode 'boot to boot'' beside the Marechal de Rais, as Jeanne d'Arc had often ridden six years before.

For the impostor, unlike Perkin Warbeck, enjoyed no advantage from long lapse of time and confusion of memories. The maid's brother had charged beside her at Compiegne in 1430; the town of Orleans had entertained the maid in 1430, yet both the city and the brothers accepted the shadow in 1436! The burning of the true maid had been witnessed by tens of thousands of people on May 30, 1431; nevertheless the autumn of 1436 saw the false maid accepted by the very people who knew the true maid best. Mysterious in her origin, the false Pucelle evades us in her decline. We lose sight of her forever in 1457. It is only certain that all domestic and official belief in her must have expired with the reversal of the judgment of the Court of Rouen, by the Inquisition, in the previous year. The whole affair is the most inscrutable of historical romances, and is complicated by some slight inaccuracies and confusions of learned modern French historians. To them and to their diligent researches in archives we owe all our information, yet it must be said that they occasionally mislead or perplex us by making errors not very difficult to avoid. Monsleur Vignier says that the Duc de Grammont has been surprised by his maintaining that Jeanne was not burned. His authority for his scepticism is the extract from the Metz Chronicle discovered by his brother Pere Vignier, and copied out for him by a notary royal, as early as March, 1645. This famous extract may be abridged to the following effect: On May 20, 1436, la Pucelle Jeanne arrived at La Grange aux Ormes. near St. Privay. Thence she was taken to see some noblemen at Metz, "et se faisoit ap-peler Claude."

That same day came two of the maid's brothers, Pierre du Las. a knight, and Petit Jehan, an esquire. They thought that their sister had been burned but, as soon as they saw this woman, they recognized her, as she did them. Presents l of arms, horses and jewels were conferred on this false Pucelle, who passed into Luxembourg, where she was entertained at Arlon, by Mme. de Luxembourg-Elizabeth of Gorlitz. Thence the Count of Warnonbourg (Wurtemberg) led her to Cologne; he loved her much, and gave her a very fair cuirass. (Some of the gentlemen who welcomed this false maid had seen Jeanne d'Arc at Rheims, says M. Lecoy de la Marche.) From Cologne she reurned to Arlon, and married the knight Robert des Armoises, or des Hermoises. The bride and bridegroom retired to Metz. "and lived as long as they pleased, in Robert's house before the church of Saincte Segoleine."

A NOVEL CONTEST IN WHICH SIXTY-SEVEN PERSONS START.

Jolly Sport of the "Timber-Toed"-This Is the Newest Parisian Invention, and a Race on Crutches or Stilts is the Next

A race between sixty-six wooden-legged men and one wooden-legged woman was the novel sporting event which took place on March 10 at Nogent-sur-Marne, a pretty village three miles east of the Paris fortifications. Judging from the widespread attention which the contest attracted and the ardor of the numerous competitors, "courses de jambards," or wooden-leg races, bid fair to become epidemic in and around Paris during the coming summer.

The novel idea originated in the nimble brain of M. Viard, the one-legged tavernkeeper in this village on the river Marne. Business for the purveyors of food and drink-especially drink-has been much depressed of late, and one rainy evening not long ago, after listening for some time to the boasts of pedestrian prowess made by two of his patrons who were "timber-toed" like himself, he offered to race them both twice round the large room for a bottle of wine.

The inn-keeper won, and while enjoying the fruits of his victory suddenly proposed to the assembled company a similar contest on a large scale. The idea met with instant favor, and a committee was organized for the reception of entries.

The sixty-seven who competed responded at the first call, and it was deemed wise not to increase this number until the succees or failure of the first meeting was assured.

A short time before the race took place the competitors filed into M. Viard's cabaret in order to verify their entries and to receive the numbered armlets which were to serve them for their colors. Some of the names of the contestants were most picturesque. One, a M. Tissot, insisted on being described in this fashion: "The Terrible Champion of Belleville, widely known as 'Head of Celery;' the professional acrobat, who will perform tomorrow in one of our grand Parisian cafe concerts." The other curious types ranged in years from a boy of nine to a gray-beard of sixty. There were M. Roulin, who had ome all the way from Orleans; "M. Jack," a burly Englishman dressed like an undertaker's mute; M. Florent, "a lyric artist" from the Delassements-Comiques of Menilmontant, a well-known an illustrious family, M. le Comte de attention, however, was the sole repregentative of the feebler but more beautiful sex, Mlle. Collet, who did not draw back at the prospect of showing her wooden leg.

The course was about 600 feet in length. along the road lying between the river and the base of the viaduct of Nogent-sur-Marne. It was a most picturesque spot, and a large crowd lined both sides of the

Before the races began the contestants busied themselves with all sorts of preparations. Some took a preliminary canter over the course, while others spent their time in putting the finishing touches to the wooden members. One of the champions even went so far as to give his a careful scraping. The ground was moist, and by this means he hoped to diminish the adhesion of the mud.

When 2 o'clock came the starter called the first race through an immense tin speaking-trumpet, but when the contestants lined up an unforeseen difficulty presented itself; there were sixty-five who had lost their legs at the thigh, and two whose stumps extended below the knees. After much discussion the committee declined to make any distinction, and a lively storm of protests at once arose. One of the runners objected obstinately and retired from the race. Finally, everything having been arranged, the starting signal was given, and M. Roulin. who had the advantage of a knee, was easily the winner. It was so evident that his leg, having been cut below the knee, gave him great superiority over the "cuissards," or those who had lost theirs at the thigh, that he was at once unanimously disqualified. He acknowledged the justice of the decision upon being promised that the papers should mention his victory, and that he should not lose the bets he had made. He took pride in the fact that his name would thus pass down to posterity as the champion wooden-legged runner of the world, in the "jambard" class. Special races then followed, the contestants being matched according to age. those with the right leg gone being pitted against each other, while those whose left legs were missing raced together. Then there were races between the champions of each class, and finally a consolation

The weather was threatening, and the track slow and heavy from recent rains, but both participants and spectators were more than satisfied with the results, and there was much laughter as some of the runners went by jumping on all fours and turning cartwheels like a new species of kangaroo. There were several falls, but none of them serious. Towards the end of the contest the number of accidents increased owing to the track becoming more slippery and to the contestants being less able to carry their constantly increasing loads of spirituous refreshment offered by the enthusiastic spectators.

After the races were over came the formal distribution of prizes. which was accompanied by much cheering and popping of corks, and a continual murmur of "A votre sante, monsieur," "Al a votre," which is the French way of saying "Here's looking at you" Paul Rouin carried off the first prize, a bronze statue of Fame, while the other winners were presented with carved canes, bottles of champagne, pictures, medals and watches. One of them received a tobacco box set in a wooden leg. Thirty-four new pairs of shoes were provided by the committee, so twice that number of competitors went away well shod and happy. After the prizes had been distributed, everybody adjourned to the Moulin Rouge of the town, where they enjoyed themselves in dancing, the usual noise of which was augmented by the lively thumping of wooden legs. There was one dark speck, and only deigned to reply or to send a prize. The tavern-keepers of Nogent-sur-Marne are full of joy since the success of M.

Viard's experiment, and think they have found in it a short cut to fortune. In the fever of their first success a thousand projects haunt their minds. They are already planning steeplechases for one-legged men, with jumps over all sorts of obstacles and ditches. Races between culsde-jatte, or people who have lost their legs at the hips and push themselves about with their hands in little low carts, are also talked of. A race between cripples who are minus both legs and walk on stilts, and also a contest on crutches, will take place early in August.

CAPT, DREYFUS' ISLE.

The Wild Fever-Infested Island to Which the French Captain Has Been Exiled. If you will look at the map of South America you will find near the coast of French Guiana, a few degrees from the equator, three small dots marked "Iles de Salut." Eight months of the year they are drenched with a fierce downpour of rain, such as is unknown outside the tropics. Fever, serpents and savage beasts quarter of Paris, and the descendant of infest the land, and the ocean surrounding it swarms with sharks. In this place Stock. The one who attracted the most | Capt. Dreyfus, who was recently convicted of having betrayed military secrets of the French Government, will end his life.

The Iles de Salut are three in number, and lie in the Atlantic Ocean, seven miles off the mouth of the Kourou River and twenty-five miles northwest of the city of Cavenne, the capital of French Guiana. The largest is the Ile Royale, which is about three miles long; the other two are a trifle smaller and are called He St. Joseph and Ile du Diable. All three are covered with dense forests and are separated from one another by narrow chan-

On one of these islands the French Penal Administration has located a hospital for the convicts, whose health has been broken by a long sojourn on the mainland. One of the islands is inhabited by lepers who live there in complete isolation, awaiting the tardy approach of death to release them from their miseries. On one of the others a fortified prison will be established, to carry out to the letter the sentence of the French Council of War, which decreed that Capt. Dreyfus should expiate his crime by life imprisonment in a fortified place in a convict colony of France. French Guiana's reputation for unhealthiness is well justified. When, in 1852, the French Government decided to do away with the galleys at Toulon and other ports and send the convicts there in to the colonies, Guiana was chosen as the chief place of deportation. The mortality among the condemned was terrible. The first arrivals were placed on the Iles de Salut, and an epidemic of typhus fever and dysentery broke out among them almost immediately. Prisons were then built on the mainland but there the yellow fever appeared and all but destroyed the convicts and their keepers. In two years a quarter of the guards were dead and a third of the prisoners. In the eleven years from 1852 to 1863, 23,087 convicts were sent to French Guiana, of these 11,486 died, 3,023 were liberated and returned home, 2,815 escaped or disappeared and but 1,501 remained alive in the colony.

In 1868 it was decided to deport most of the common felons to New Caledonia which is blessed with a remarkably fine climate. Life convicts and those especially dangerous, however, were still sent to Guiana. Then came the law of 1885 which banished Anarchists and others convicted of political offences to Guiana. It seems strange that these should be sent to die in that notoriously sickly place while murderers and other dangerous criminals should be deported to New Caledonia. where their lives would be happier then those of the majority of French peasants. Statistics show that escapes from Guiana are frequent among the convicts working on the mainland. While some may elude the vigilance of the guards and escape into the forest, but few ever reach Dutch or French Gulana, for every step of the journey through the forests is beset by unspeakable dangers and privations.

The convicts on the Iles de Salut are more easily guarded, and escapes are next to impossible. A boat cannot leave the shore without being perceived, and escape by swimming is not to be thought of, as the hungry sharks would swarm in an instant and snap up whoever dared cast himself into the sea.

Sharks are so numerous in these waters that on the Hes de aut they do not take the trouble to bury the dead. The bodies are placed in a boat toward 6 o'clock in the evening and rowed by a convict crew out into the roadstead. A few hundred yards from shore, while the sound of the bell in the little chapel on the Ile Royale floats faintly over the water, the crew take the corpses and cast them overboard. A body scarcely sinks before the sharks seize it, and the crimsoned water shows that the corpse has disappeared forever. Indiana heirs of Lord Antrim, will make contest for the alleged $75,000,000 estate in England

A BUSY swallow unintentionally committed suicide in Port Jervis the other day. It was building a nest, and when coming from its hole a straw caught about the head and suspended the bird in the air until death came. The bird fought desperately to release itself, and sent up a cry of terror that attracted a large audience.

The Secret Out.

An open room opened before him; that is, there was no one in it, though from the preparations visible on the table before him and from the somewhat savory smell that arose from the various pots and pans steaming on the stove, he gathered there was someone in the house in the large and comfortable sitting room of which he caught a glimpse through the half-open door

Resolved not to stop at anything, low that he had entered the house, he gave a sharp rap at the door, and with just an instant's delay, follow-ed it by a quick entrance that disturbed no one. For this room like the back one was entirely empty, and he found himself staring with sinking heart and a discouraged spirit at a collection of stiff photographs in pine cone frames on a mantel shelf that reached nearly to the low ceiling. No evidence here or anywhere in the room, that presence, to encounter which had come so far, and was now risking so much in the way of politeness and habitual self-respect. "Oh, I'll drive you; but it's curus. That man! Why, I thought he never He was still standing there, hesitating whether to pursue his researches into the ghostly parlor, when he heard a sudden step, then the sound of a door hurriedly opened and shut, and then-could he believe his ears? the tramp of a man's foot on the path without, followed by the noise of wheels, as if the horse and buggy he had left in front was being tampered with. Struck with consternation, but not robbed entirely of his self-possession, he ignored all the properties, and, bounding forward into the hall, he reached the front door and flung it open. Dr. Molesworth, with hat in hand and his overcoat on his arm, was irmping into his buggy.

"For mercy's sake, Molesworth!" the doctor cried, holding out his arms, as if in that way he could stop that stern and determined man. But the other only waved his hand, and, thrusting on his hat, took the lines and speedily drove away. As he did so Dr. Cameron called out once more: "If you are a man, come back and face me, but if you are a The words were lost in the clatter of the horse's heels. Dr. Cameron stepped into the house and sunk helplessly on the first seat he found there. So Julius Molesworth was a coward as well as a knave, and was not above the meanest of tricks to save himself from an encounter that his conscience told him could bode no good. Dr. Cameron writhed with shame and impotent rage as he thought f it, and could have cursed his folly for the lack of precaution he had shown in leaving his horse within the reach of the pursued fugitive. But tho could have calculated upon such an expedient being employed by a man for whom he had once done on actual service? though to be sure he had unwittingly robbed him of his bride and been unwittingly robbed of her affections in return.

The direction taken by Dr. Molesworth in his flight had been away from This added to the perplexity of Dr. Cameron, who saw himself left at a strange house in the face of a coming storm, and with no means of return to his comfortable quarters or of nursuit of the man whose dastardly flight proved him to be even more of a factor than he had supposed in the great mystery which involved not only his own honor, but that of a beloved and stricken wife. His thoughts were interrupted in a characteristic manner. "Well!" exclaimed a voice from the doerway, "and what does this mean?" He rose, turned and faced a strongly built, somewhat energetic middle-aged woman, whose air and attitude bespoke her to be the mistress of the house. "Ah, madam, excuse me," said he, giving her such a bow as she had probably never before received. "You find me an unwelcome intruder into your home. I came to see that gentleman who has been boarding with you, and has played me the trick of running off with my horse and buggy, without giving me so much as an opportunity of telling him my business." "He is a smart un," was all the ans-wer he received, as the woman strode into the room, and stood peering out of one of the side windows that over-

"Because it is going to storm. It is going to storm so that the man who has half an hour's start will never be come up with by the person who chooses to follow him."

Dr. Cameron laughed. "You speak as if it were January, and we were in the wilds of some wil-derness, instead of being not a hundred miles from New York, and in a time of the year when winds blow and snow scurries, but does not pack or

Moved by these words, Dr. Cameron mechanically cast a glance from the window before which she was standing. But she did not see the sky, for his attention was immediately diverted by the sight of a team descending the hill towards the house. What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vemiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea-the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children." Dr. G. C. Osgood,

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription

> H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among cur medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
