Now is gathered in the mountains near Alexandria, Syria, and is packed in a conical pit, stamped in tightly and covered with straw and leaves. At the bottom of the pit a well is dug with a drain connected at the bottom to carry off the water formed from melted snow. As the cost of collecting and storing is very small, the only labor is in delivering to the consumer, which is accomplished by pack horses.

The selling price is 10 to 25 cents a hundred pounds and often cheaper.

A SOOTHING OIL.—To throw oil upon the troubled waters means to subside the most boisterous sea. To apply Dr. Thomas' Sickle Oil to the troubled body when it is racked with pain means speedy subjugation of the most refractory elements. It cures pain, heat, inflammation, takes the fire from burns, and is a general household medicine in many ailments. It is worth much.

MORTALITY AMONG INFANTS

The clergy now only receiving a minimum of $750 should receive, at least, $800, with residence included, or $900 without a house.

Get Rich To Give More.

One of the most momentous tasks the churchworkers would have to face in the immediate future was that of teaching the rich to give more liberally, in more equal proportion to their wealth, than they had been in the habit of giving in the past. He stated that he personally knew many rich members of the church who thought nothing of spending $1,000 or more on a ball, while the best they would do for the church, at one time, was to give a paltry $10.

"I find," continued the speaker, "that the rank and file of the church members are always more liberal in proportion to their means than are the rich."

Change Time of Meetings.

An important and far-reaching innovation in local church circles at least—suggested by the bishop for the synod's concurrence, was the establishing of two regular annual house-to-house canvasses in each parish. This scheme had been tried with great success in the Diocese of Quebec, and the churches there were richer, financially, than in any other part of Canada. The bishop went on to state that he hoped to see persons appointed in each parish to carry on the work suggested.

The question of holding the meeting of the synod in June was one which should come up during the present meeting for next month. June was a most inconvenient month for large numbers to attend the meetings, and January appeared far more suitable for every purpose. In June the farmers were busy, the lawyers were unusually busy, owing to the courts held at this time, and altogether it was anything but a favorable month for them to come to the synod.

Assess London Parishes.

"It has been suggested," continued the bishop, "that it is manifestly unfair to ask outside delegates to come to London each year and bear the expense of traveling, the cost of hotel accommodations and other outlays incidental to the trip, when the London delegates are never required to spend a cent. Further back than I can remember the synod meetings have ever been held in this city, and it is generally realized that it is the most convenient location possible. However, inasmuch as it is unfair to the outside churches to ask them to send delegates at a big expense each year, while the London churches expend nothing in that direction, and nearby churches very little, I would suggest that each parish be assessed for an equal amount of the total expenses. If each parish were taxed $4.50, the total cost of sending delegates would be easily covered without burdening the more distant smaller churches. Again, such a movement would result in the sending of more delegates to the synod each year."

His lordship desired that everyone who could would be in attendance in this city on September 17, when the Lord Bishop of England would preach a jubilee sermon.

Economical Changes.

Great economical changes were being wrought constantly in the present age, said his lordship. Parishes were constantly growing smaller and consequently those who remained and were able were obliged to contribute more and more to the church as time passed on. People were moving from the farms to the cities, and to the West, and in one instance, in Canada, a parish where but forty families remained of an original sixty.

Families coming over from the Old Country, too, should be looked after fully and made to feel that they are indeed welcome, not only to beautiful Canada, but to the Church of England as well.

Look After Immigrants.

"The Englishman will not make himself conspicuous," said the bishop, "but he expects his share of attention just the same, and he should get it. When he first lands he may be of little account in a financial way, but remember, the farm laborer of today is the prosperous farmer of tomorrow."

Church Extension.

The speaker dwelt at some length on the important subject of "church extension," and said that it should be more intelligently studied and practiced than it had been in the past. The greatest obstacle, his lordship said, was lack of money in the smaller districts. Outside of the big cities when a new church is built, the total expense has to be borne by a small number of people. After the church is erected the synod steps in and offers to provide a pastor for the new edifice. "The time to give assistance," continued the bishop, "is at the start. Sometimes a parish is started by utilizing a convenient schoolhouse for a meeting-house, but often-times the people become discouraged when after a year or two, they are still unable to build a church, and the movement dies out. In times gone by church extension was encouraged by grants from the church society, and had these grants been continued there would have now been churches in every necessary place."

The Sunday Schools.

The bishop discussed briefly the A.

RARE EXPONENTS OF THE CABINET MAKERS' ART.

The cases of the New Scale Williams Pianos are indeed rare exponents of the cabinet makers' art. Nothing made surpasses their chaste simplicity, or, if you are a lover of the ornate, the sweetness of the finish.

The New Scale Williams Piano itself, however, is the real value of the instrument, and it fully carries out the promise of its beautiful exterior.

Local warehouses.

The Williams Piano Company, Limited, 155 Dundas street, London, Ont. E. P. Champ, manager.

Y. P. A. and said that the great amount of work performed by the organization showed that the movement had passed the experimental stage.

To the Sunday schools, too, much encouragement should be given, for it was from them that the church received strong, robust, Christian boys and girls. Many of the schools, the speaker said, were flooded with other denominational pamphlets and other reading matter, that, in his opinion should be somewhere else.

His lordship recommended strongly that a man be appointed in this diocese to look after the organizing of young people's societies, and Sunday schools.

ing the previous year, being $15,251 43, as against $15,000 89 for last year.

The regular collections for the mission fund amounted to $4,385 29, a decrease of $841. Hearty thanks were again tendered to the diocesan branch of the Woman's Auxiliary Missionary Association for their generous contribution of $37 10 towards the current account.

The sum of $6,162 32 was paid in grants for assisting in maintaining services in mission parishes, the full amount authorized by the canon being paid in each case.

The sum of $6,163 55 has been paid as annuities to widows and orphans, an increase of $340 34 over the previous year.

A decrease of $302 03 was reported in the collections for the general purpose fund, as compared with the previous year. This apparent shrinkage is due to the neglect of some large congregations to send in their collections to the synod office in time, before the books closed for the end of the year.

The total amount subscribed towards the liquidation of the diocesan debt up to April 30, was $46,233 63; of this amount $29,126 94 has been paid.

The contributions for missionary, educational and other purposes outside the diocese totaled $19,174 41.

The synod now holds as capital for various trust purposes, $780,696 68. Of this, $729,806 24 forms the consolidated capital account, and $50,890 44, consisting of the see house debt and another small account, is held in a temporary investment account.

The committee recommended that synod assessment be one per cent of the amount raised for parochial purposes, on basis of missionary apportionment, and that in no case the assessment be less than $3 from each congregation.

MAN'S AGE IN BRITAIN.

The editor of the Museum Gazette, of London, has made an attempt to estimate the length of time man has inhabited Great Britain. He allows 250,000 years. The period seems long, but the tendency of late has been to extend it, so that the historic period of some 5,000 years in Britain is a small fraction of man's existence there, as the whole human epoch is a small fraction of the world's history.

What, it is asked, was man doing during those 200,000 centuries before history began? The writer answers: "Man's brain was slowly increasing in size, and its case, the skull, was getting larger and of better form. The forehead was rising and filling forward, and the intellect was developing. Speech was improving, and manners undergoing amelioration. Animals were being tamed and the supply of food was becoming more abundant and more varied. In a word, the human being was gradually becoming fitted to take advantage of future discoveries."

The order of developing is more easily determined than the lapse of time. Awebury and Stonehenge go back to at least 2,000 B. C.

A report from Yokohama is to the effect that there is a growing demand in Japan for pianos, which are chiefly supplied by the United States, Great Britain and Germany. American pianos are now to be found in the homes of many wealthy Japanese in all the larger cities of the Mikado's empire.

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 19.

SPOILSMEN AND THE BENCH.

The demand for the resignation of Police Magistrate Woodvatt, of Brantford, is the latest achievement of the spoilsmen.The trifling pretext is advanced that Mr. Woodvatt used intemperate language toward certain members of the Ministerial Alliance.Mr. Woodvatt has held his office for seventeen years, and the Expositor says he has discharged his duties with "singular efficiency." It adds that the Conservative candidate for South Brant
in the last Provincial election pledged himself to effect Mr. Woodvatt's dismissal, and that the charges against him are merely an excuse for placating the local head-hunters.If Mr. Woodvatt had been of a different stripe of politics before he ascended the bench there would have no thought of removing him. The attack upon him is one of the most insidious and dangerous manifestations of the spoils system. It is practically an attempt to exercise a terrorism over the magistracy of the Province. The dismissal of hundreds of justices of the peace and the appointment of others,
on party grounds, was a vicious precedent. The crowning outrage is the threat against the police magistrates of Ontario, whose independence has not been hitherto challenged. They have been considered as free from party influence or dictation as the county and high court judges. Now, they are given warning that they are to be regarded as party prey, and the whole pack of spoilsmen will be on their heels.

EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY.

The question of compensation to workmen injured while following their daily employment is engaging not a little attention on both sides of the Atlantic. President Roosevelt made it subject of discussion in a recent speech, while in Great Britain a new law bearing on the matter goes into effect the first of next month. The President, in his speech, laid down the principle that workmen should receive a certain definite and limited compensation for all accidents in industry, irrespective of negligence. His meaning is taken to be that some sort of insurance should be provided, so there would be no question as to benefits.
He is of opinion that the family of a workman killed in the performance of his duties should not suffer the whole penalty. If all employees were required to provide against such occurrences, no undue advantage would be given one over another. Besides that, if the certainty of damage confronts the employer he will provide a fund for the purpose, and thus avoid the ruinous results of an unexpected verdict. Under such a system the President believes the employer who is particularly careful to avoid accidents will reap an extra profit, and there would thus be an incentive to take that degree of care that will eliminate the avoidable accidents.The law on this subject in the United States as now and heretofore administered by no means bears out the popular conception that any sort of accident case is simply a mine of wealth to the plaintiff and his lawyers. As a matter of fact, in four out of five accident cases the plaintiff is absolutely remediless, so far as his legal rights are concerned. The popular notion of the value of an accident as an asset
results from the widespread publicity
given to the rendering of a large verdict in favor of a plaintiff when some rare chance of that kind occurs. To the initiated, such a verdict means very little, inasmuch as in the great majority of instances such verdicts are almost invariably upset on appeal. The real theory is that before a poor and ignorant man, however seriously injured, should receive such an amount from the pockets of one who is supposed to have no consideration for it,
such a person ought to have two or three runs for his money. As a rule, long before such a plaintiff can obtain
a final judgment in his favor he is willing to settle for a much smaller sum than originally fixed.In Great Britain there are already two acts in force dealing with workmen's compensation. The new act removes certain contentious points in the old ones, and is applicable to any servant or workman in any employment not earning over £50 a year. The only plea on which the employer can set up a defense is that the injury was the result of the serious and wilful misconduct of the injured person, and even this defense may not avail where the injury has resulted in death. Provision is made for the rate of compensation to be paid, and also for arbitration incase of dispute. Three classes of compensation are provided for—death, total incapacitation for work and partial incapacitation for a limited period exceeding one week, or for all the victim's life. In case of death the deceased's dependents can recover three years' wages. Total or partial incapacitation entitles the employee to an allowance equal to one-half his weekly wages during incapacity. Should eventually a man or woman partially incapacitated be able to earn in some other employment as much as before the accident, the employer no longer
remains liable, unless it should happen that the second employment fails, and incapacity is renewed, in which event
the person may again come upon the employer for the compensation originally held to be due. Should the employee be able to earn something, but less than before the injury, compensation may be exacted to an amount sufficient to make up the deficiency. The evident intention of the act is to make the employer share the loss of wages caused by the accident. The amount for which the employer may be held liable is, however, limited to £1 a week. The employer may at the end of six months obtain relief from his liability by paying a stipulated lump sum. In the event of an employer becoming bankrupt the employee may file
his claim as a lump sum, and is made a preference creditor up to £100. In all probability, employers as a rule will cover themselves by means of liability insurance, as is done by the majority of employers of labor in Canada, which,
of course, means an addition to the annual expense account. The provisions of the act apply to domestic servants, who have not been considered in previous legislation. In case of the death of a servant through accident, his dependents may collect three years' engages, or if injured she will be entitled to half her wages. As legislation is undoubtedly far in advance of any yet placed on the British statute books.

ANOTHER BALLOON PUNCTURED.

Some of our Conservative contemporaries have been making a great pother about the price of school books, and assuring the people that they will be saved a fortune under the new contract framed between the Whitney Government and the publishers. The Toronto Telegram, London Free Press and other sheets have estimated the saving at $100,000 per year, through some process of the imagination, and have din-ned this fiction into the ears of the electors as if it were a solemn fact.
They are corrected by Mr. John A.
Cooper, one of the text-book commissioners appointed by the Whitney Government, upon whose report the Government acted. In his paper, the Canadian Courier, he says:"Some newspapers throughout the country have been accepting without reserve the statement that 'the improved quality and reduced price of the Ontario school books will be as good as the distribution of $100,000 per annum among the families of this Province. The statement is scarcely justified by the facts, there is considerable question as to whether the new readers will be improved or not.
The education department has not taken the public into its confidence and given an outline of the improvement proposed. Those who profess to know seem to think that the books
will be only slightly superior in quality to the old. They claim that, as the contract was made with the former publishers of the books, and at a low price, much improvement cannot be expected.""In the second place, the total average price paid each year for all the readers sold in Ontario is only $45,000 a year. The price has been reduced from $1 15 a year to 48 cents a year. This means a reduction of about $25,000 a year, which is a long distance from $100,000.""Further, this reduction in price lasts only one and a half years. What will happen then is a matter of conjecture. The probability is that if a new set of readers is prepared and the paper and binding brought up to date, the price will go back to the old figure, if not higher."The price of readers will go back to the old figure, if not higher! Those who have been attacking the former management of the education department are at least premature in shouting over the achievements of the new one.
They used to declaim against the publication of school books by contract with certain publishers, but the present administration, in the teeth of its platform utterances, has adopted the same system. When the Government settles this question it will probably be found that the old administration was not far astray in its methods, and that a great deal of the outcry against the "school book ring"
was party claptrap.In deploring the death rate, the Bishop of Huron is probably on stronger ground than in criticising the birth rate.The Conservative press sees the dissolution of Parliament this year, but what about the dissolution of the Conservative party since 1897?The Car was the first royal advocate of disarmament, and now throws cold water on the idea. This is a sample of Muscovite policy in all things.Mr. Foster says that he entered public life a poor man and left it a poor man.
This plea merely shows that the get-rich-quick craze struck him somewhat late in life.

Warden William Tait has been nominated for the Commons by Wm.

Elgin Liberal. Tait is "a good name in North Bruce" to paraphrase a famous telegram. May William do as well as the redoubtable John.Another Toronto woman stepped off
a street car backwards and was killed.
This habit is one of the standing jokes against women, and is attributed by facetious men to some perverse feminine characteristic. It is no such thing but merely the natural desire to use
the right hand in grasping a support.
As long as street cars pass each other on the right and passengers have to alight on the same side, these accidents
will happen.

SHORT GRAMMAR.

I'D LIKE TO GO BACK.

[Milwaukee Sentinel.]
I'd like to go back, go way back to the days, when I was a lad.Went over the fields with a oen of bait and a hickory pole with dad.I'd like to go trudging along again to the hit of a sonnet's end, the time Julius Cæsar conquered Britain, he would
not be through now, and he would have to live more than two hundred
years longer before his task would be completed.Though a private undertaking, this project exceeds in magnitude any of the extensive irrigation projects on the continent, and one of the least known.
This is the undertaking of the Canadian Pacific Railway, by which a tract of land in Southern Alberta twice as large as the State of Delaware and four times as large as the State of Rhode Island is being converted from a sub-humid range country into fertile farming land.The task is a gigantic one. If one man with a shovel had started to do the digging involved in it he would have had to work eight hours a day every day for 2,200 years. If he had begun his work at the time Julius Cæsar conquered Britain, he would
not be through now, and he would
have to live more than two hundred
years longer before his task would be completed.The area included in these plans is a block of three million acres of prairie plateau on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, just north of the international boundary
and Montana. A province by itself, this enormous territory is probably the largest block of land under single ownership in America. Shielded on the west by the foothills of the Canadian Rockies, the land slopes broadly eastward into the valley of the South Saatchewan and the fertile plain and farming lands of that section. Its mean elevation of 2,800 feet and the dry
"Chinook" winds from the southwest give it a warm, equable climate, where it is summer almost into summer,
and baseball, tennis and cricket are midwinter pastimes.Mountains Shut Out Moisture.
When the first settlers pushed their way across the plains in the early eighties in the track of the new railway they found the luxuriant dry grass
of this prairie, so fertile and so dry
that it sustained large herds of sheep and cattle. Some of the early homesteaders started farms in the valley and along the bottom lands. The black loam was excellent for crops, but the rock wall of the mountains to the west, which shut out the winter winds, sometimes shut out the moisture, too, and the farmers early discovered that in a great part of Southern Alberta artificial moisture meant the insurance of maximum crops every year.This was particularly true of the three million acres of the Canadian Pacific. To get an idea of this domain, picture to yourself a tract of land 150 miles long, 40 miles wide and shaped like an enormous curved meat chopper or heavy butcher knife.The northern boundary, the blade of the knife, is the Red Deer River, and the southern the irregular course of the Bow River. Between these two the land stretches in general southeasterly direction from the city of Calgary and the fifth meridian to the line between ranges 10 and 11 west of the fourth meridian. The soil inside these boundary lines is of the best, with good clay sub-soil and the area, as a whole,
is especially adapted to the application of water, and lends itself readily to the great canals and secondary ditches.
Four years ago the railroad ordered surveys of the entire region. These surveys developed the fact that at least half the area, or a million and a half acres, could be brought directly under irrigation by the construction of canals from the Bow River, whose sources are fed by the unmelting snow of the western mountains. Two years ago construction work was commenced,
and already more than one thousand miles of canals have been dug.The total undertaking calls for the construction of 2,900 miles of canals
and ditches, or an artificial river long enough to reach across the continent from New York to San Francisco. This construction will entail the excavation of the enormous mass of 24,750,000 cubic yards of material, and will cost somewhere between five and six million dollars.These remarkable figures place the present project in a class by itself, and explain the interest which the United States Government engineers are taking in the undertaking. One of the engineers, Mr. Brown, of the United States Army, is now in Canada, andUnited States. His essay has been reproduced in several languages, and to this day is a standard on the subject.

COMING TO THEIR SENSES.

[New York Mail.]
We have talked about "British gold" in our tariff fight; invigilant British ministers
into committing themselves as to our political issues, and then demanded their recall; passed resolutions urging interference
to end the Boer war, to reform the international administration of Russia, to stop
"Oougo atrocities," of which we know nothing. It will help us to get the anti-American demonstrations in Japan at their proper perspective if we examine our own record of international exasperation. And it may also help us to appraise that record
at its proper value.

HIS BAGGAGE.

[London Globe.]
"Ticket," said the conductor, as he opened the door of a car in which sat a man who looked as if he was anchored to his seat. The man handed over the required passage ticket, which was duly inspected.
Then, looking around the conductor said:
"Is there another gentleman in the car?""No," said the other suitcase yours, then, too?"
"Other suitcase?"
"Yes, on the floor there, by the other.""Those," said the traveler with dignity,
"are my feet."

CURE SICK HEADACHE

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cure the headache, they are worth the price.

As the headache is almost universal to those who suffer from this distressing complaint, but fortunately their goodness does not extend here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all, sick headache is the best of all cures.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action place all who use them.

"First Aid" to the Bowels

WHEN Heartburn, Sour Stomach, headache, Bad Breath, coated Tongue, Belching of Stomach, Gas, or any of these forerunners of Indigestion appear, Old Dr. Cascaret wants to be right on the spot in your pocket.

Dr. Cascaret guarantees to cure the most obstinate cases of Constipation and Indigestion, without discomfort or inconvenience.

His medicine does not gripe nor purge, but exercises naturally the muscles that line the walls of the Intestines and Bowels.

Want of Exercise weakens and relaxes the Bowel-Muscles, just as it weakens Arm and Leg muscles.

Old Dr. Cascaret goes directly after these Bowel-Muscles. He wakes them up just as a cold bath would wake up a lazy person.

Then he works them (through the nerves) till they get so strong from that Exercise that they don't need any more help to do their duty.

Heavy dinners, late suppers, whiskey, wine or beer drinking, nervous excitement, sudden exposure to cold or heat and a dozen other everyday likelihoods tire the Bowel-Muscles.

In such cases a little Cascaret in time is worth fifty dollars worth of Treatment later on, to say nothing of the suffering, discomfort, loss of Business Energy, and loss of Social Sunshine it saves.

Little thin Cascaret Box, shaped so you don't notice its presence in purse or vest-pocket.

GIN PILLS

CURE Kidney Troubles

The Hound of The Baskervilles

BY SIR A. CONAN DOYLE.

CHAPTER XI.

The extract from my private diary which forms the last chapter has brought my narrative up to the 18th of October, a time when these strange events began to move swiftly towards their terrible conclusion. The incidents of the next few days are indelibly graven upon my recollection, and I can tell them without reference to the notes made at the time. I start then from the day which succeeded that upon which I had established two facts of great importance, the one that Mrs. Lyons, of Coombe Tracey, had written to Sir Charles Baskerville, and made an appointment with him at the very place and hour that he met his death, the other that the lurking man upon the moor was to be found among the stone huts upon the hillsides. With these two facts in my possession I felt that either my intelligence or my courage must be deficient if I could not throw some further light upon these dark places.

I had no opportunity to tell the baronet what I had learned about Mrs. Lyons upon the evening before, for Dr. Mortimer remained with him at cards until it was very late. At breakfast, however, I informed him about my discovery, and asked him whether he would care to accompany me to Coombe Tracey. At first he was very eager to come, but on second thoughts it seemed to both of us that if I went alone the results might be better. The more formal we made the visit the less information we might obtain. I left Sir Henry behind, therefore, not without some prickings of conscience, and drove off on my new quest.

When I reached Coombe Tracey I told Perkins to put up the horses, and

I made inquiries for the lady whom I had come to interrogate. I had no difficulty in finding her rooms, which were central and well-appointed. A maid showed me in without ceremony, and as I entered the sitting-room, a lady, who was sitting before a Remington typewriter, sprang up with a pleasant smile of welcome. Her face fell, however, when she saw that I was a stranger, and she sat down again, and asked me the object of my visit.

The first impression left by Mrs. Lyons was one of extreme beauty. Her eyes and hair were of the same rich hazel color, and her cheeks, though considerably freckled, were flushed with the exquisite bloom of the brunette, the dainty pink which lurks at the heart of the sulphur rose. Admiration was, I repeat, the first impression. But the second was criticism. There was something subtly wrong with the face, some coarseness of expression, some hardness, perhaps, of eye, some looseness of lip which marred its perfect beauty. But these, of course, are after-thoughts. At the moment was simply conscious that I was in the presence of a very handsome woman, and that she was asking me the reason of my visit. I had not quite understood until that instant how delicate my mission was.

"I have the pleasure," said I, "of knowing your father."

It was a clumsy introduction and this lady made me feel it.

"There is nothing in common between my father and me!" she said. "I owe him nothing, and his friends are not mine. If it were not for the late Sir Charles Baskerville and some other kind hearts I might have starved for all that my father cared."

"It was about the late Sir Charles Baskerville that I have come to see you."

"The freckles started out on the lady's face."

"What can I tell you about him?" she asked, and her fingers played nervously over the stops of her typewriter.

"You knew him, did you not?"

"I have already said that I owe a great deal to his kindness. If I am able to support myself it is largely due to the interest which he took in my unhappy situation."

"Did you correspond with him?"

"The lady looked quickly up with an angry gleam in her eyes."

"What is the object of these questions?" she asked sharply.

"The object is to avoid a public scandal. It is better that I should ask them here than that the matter should pass outside our control."

She was silent and her face was still very pale. At last she looked up with something reckless and defiant in her manner.

"Well, I'll answer," she said. "What are your questions?"

"Did you correspond with Sir Charles?"

"I certainly wrote to him once or twice to acknowledge his delicacy and his generosity."

"Have you the dates of those letters?"

"No."

"Have you ever met him?"

"Yes, once or twice when he came into Coombe Tracey. He was a very retiring man, and he preferred to do good by stealth."

"But if you saw him so seldom and wrote so seldom, how did he know enough about your affairs to be able to help you, as you say that he has done?"

She met my difficulty with the utmost readiness.

"There were several gentlemen who knew my sad history and united to help me. One was Mr. Stapleton, a neighbor and intimate friend of Sir Charles. He was exceedingly kind and it was through him that Sir Charles learned about my affairs."

"I knew already that Sir Charles Baskerville had made Stapleton his almoner upon several occasions, so the lady's statement bore the impress of truth upon it."

"Did you ever write to Sir Charles asking him to meet you?" I continued.

Mrs. Lyons flushed with anger again. "Really, sir, this is a very extraordinary question."

"I am sorry, madame, but I must repeat it."

"Then I answer, certainly not."

"Not on the very day of Sir Charles' death?"

The flush had faded in an instant, and a deathly face was before me. Her dry lips could not speak the "No" which I saw rather than heard.

"Surely your memory deceives you," said I. "I could even quote a passage of your letter. It ran: 'Please, please, as you are a gentleman, burn this letter, and be at the gate at ten o'clock.'"

I thought that she had fainted, but she recovered herself by a supreme effort.

"Is there no such thing as a gentleman?" she gasped.

"You do Sir Charles an injustice. He did burn the letter. But sometimes a letter may be legible even when burned. You acknowledge now that you wrote it."

"Yes, I did write it," she cried, pouring out her soul in a torrent of words. "I did write it. Why should I deny it? I have no reason to be ashamed of it. I wished him to help me. I believed that if I had an interview I could gain his help, so I asked him to meet me."

"But why at such an hour?"

"Because I had only just learned that he was going to London next day and might be away for months. There were reasons why I could not get there earlier."

"But why a rendezvous in the garden instead of to the house?"

"Do you think a woman could go alone at that hour to a bachelor's house?"

"Well, what happened when you did get there?"

"I never went."

"Mrs. Lyons!"

"No, I swear it to you on all I hold sacred. I never went. Something intervened to prevent my going."

"What was that?"

"That is a private matter. I cannot tell it."

"You acknowledge then that you wrote it?"

"That is the truth."

Again and again I cross-questioned her, but I could never get past that point.

"Mrs. Lyons," said I, as I rose from this long and inconclusive interview, "you are taking a very great responsibility and putting yourself in a very false position by not making an absolutely clean breast of all that you know. If I have to call in the aid of the police you will find how seriously you are compromised. If your position is innocent, why did you in the first instance deny having written to Sir Charles upon that date?"

"Because I feared that some false conclusion might be drawn from it, and that I might find myself involved in a scandal."

"And why were you so pressing that Sir Charles should destroy your letter?"

"If you have read the letter you will know."

"I did not say that I had read all the letter."

"You quoted some of it."

"I quoted the postscript. The letter had, as I said, been burned, and it was not at all legible. I ask you once again why it was that you were so pressing that Sir Charles should destroy this letter, which he received on the day of his death?"

"The matter is a very private one."

"The more reason why you should avoid a public investigation."

"I will tell you, then. If you have heard anything of my unhappy history you will know that I made a rash marriage and had reason to regret it."

"I have heard so much."

"My life has been one incessant persecution from a husband whom I abandoned from a husband whom I abandoned. The law is upon his side, and every day I am faced by the possibility that he may force me to live with him. At the time that I wrote this letter to Sir Charles I had learned that there was a prospect of regaining my freedom if certain expenses could be met. It meant everything to me—peace of mind, happiness, self-respect—everything. I knew Sir Charles' generosity, and I thought that if he heard the story from my own lips he would help me."

"Then how is it that you did not do so?"

"Because I received help in the interval from another source."

"Why, then, did you not write to Sir Charles and explain this?"

"So I should have done had I not seen his death in the paper next morning."

The woman's story hung coherently together, and all my questions were unable to shake it. I could only check it by finding out if she had, indeed, instituted divorce proceedings against her husband at or about the time of the tragedy.

It was unlikely that she would dare to say that she had not been to Baskerville Hall if she really had been, for a trap would be necessary to take her there, and could not have returned to Coombe Tracey until the early hours of the morning. Such an excursion could not be kept secret. The probability was, therefore, that she was telling the truth, or at least, a part of the truth. I came away baffled and disheartened. Once again I had reached that dead wall which seemed to be built across every path by which I tried to get at the object of my mission. And yet the more I thought of the lady's face and manner the more I felt that something was being held back from me. Why should she turn so pale? Why should she fight against every admission until it was forced from her? Why should she have been so reticent at the time of the tragedy? Surely the explanation of all this could not be as innocent as she would have me believe. For the moment I could proceed no farther in that direction, but must turn back to that other clue which was to be sought for among the stone huts upon the moor.

And that was a most vague direction. I realized it as I drove back and noted how hill after hill showed traces of the ancient people. Barrymore's only indication had been that the stranger lived in one of these abandoned huts, and many of them are scattered throughout the length and breadth of the moor. But I had my own experience to guide me since it had shown me the man himself standing upon the summit of the Black Tor. That then should be the center of my search. From there I should explore every hut upon the moor until I lighted upon the right one. If this man were inside it I should find out from his own lips, at the point of my revolver, if necessary, who he was and why he had dogged us so long. He might slip away from us in the crowd of Regent Street, but it would puzzle him to do so upon the long and the other hand, if I should find the hut and its tenant should not be within it, I must remain there, however long the vigil, until he returned. Holmes had missed him in London. It would indeed be a triumph for me if I could run him to earth, where my master had failed.

Luck had been against us again and again in this inquiry, but now at least it came to my aid. And the messenger of good fortune was none other than Mr. Frankland, who was standing, gray-whiskered and red-faced, outside the gate of his garden, which opened on to the high road along which I traveled.

"Good-day, Dr. Watson!" cried he, with unwonted good humor. "You must really give your horses a rest, and come in to have a glass of wine and to congratulate me."

My feelings towards him were far from being friendly after what I had heard of his treatment of his daughter, but I was anxious to send Perkins and the wagonette home, and the opportunity was a good one. I alighted and sent a message to Sir Henry that I would walk over in time for dinner. Then I followed Frankland into his dining-room.

No Good Flour Can Be Made

EASILY. It takes time, trouble and the closest attention to the minutest detail of every milling process, to say nothing of adding considerably to the cost of production, to make a good flour.

You know you must watch your bread carefully during every process, from the mixing to the baking, but however close the attention you may give it your trouble will be wasted, unless you are using a flour which has been made with corresponding care.

No brands on the market today are made more carefully than our "FIVE ROSES" and "HARVEST QUEEN." The grain itself is cleaned by the newest and most perfect machinery before being ground, and the flour is sifted and tested by experts at every stage of the milling in order to insure the nearest approach to perfection it is possible to obtain by modern methods.

If you use these brands and give corresponding attention to the details of your baking, you will have as a result bread which cannot be equalled for quality and nourishing value.

Homesekers' Excursions.

If you think of making a trip to Manitoba or the great Northwest Province this summer, you should make a point of securing, from the nearest C. P. R. agent, a free copy of that railroad's booklet giving information about the popular Homesekers' Excursions. These excursions are well-known money-savers, and this year are more attractive than ever. Increased traffic has meant a larger number, nine of them this season, of which, at the time of writing, seven have still to run, leaving Toronto July 2, 16, 30; Aug. 13, 27; Sept. 10 and 24. Special trains are used, carrying colonists and tourist sleepers, berths in the latter at small additional charge. Tickets are issued from all Ontario stations at remarkably low rates, ranging from $32 round-trip to Winnipeg to $42 50 round-trip to Edmonton, and embracing all important points in the North-west. They are good to return within 60 days, stopovers permitted. Ask nearest C. P. R. agent for particulars. W. Fulton, C. P. and T. A., 161 Dundas, corner Richmond, London, or apply direct to C. B. Foster, district passenger agent, Toronto. 69-c

A PILL FOR GENEROUS EATERS.

There are many persons of healthy appetite and poor digestion who, after a hearty meal, are subject to much suffering. The food of which they have partaken lies like a lead in their stomachs. Headache, depression, a smothering feeling follow. One so afflicted is unfit for business or work of any kind. In this condition Parmelee's Food will bring relief. They will assist the assimilation of the aliment, and used according to directions will restore healthy digestion.

The tunnel which will eventually connect Sicily with Italy will be nearly nine miles long.

The smallest inhabited island in the world is that on which the Eddystone lighthouse stands, for at low water it is only 22 feet in diameter. At high tide the base of the lighthouse, which is 100 feet in diameter, is completely submerged.

German military authorities are experimenting with a device by which the location of troops using smokeless powder may be easily discovered. By this device it is proposed to survey the landscape through pale red glasses.

Perrin's Biscuits

PERRIN'S CREAM TOAST

This is one of the daintiest and tastiest biscuits that is baked in the Perrin ovens. Hard, yet wonderfully crisp, with a pleasant, sweet flavor, and a design most stylish, it is a very appropriate biscuit for afternoon teas, receptions and other social occasions.

Remember, "Cream Toast" is only manufactured by Perrin's. Ask for it by name.

Your grocer will supply you.

Just a little better than the rest

The flash of smokeless powder appears strong in red light, while ordinary objects are dimmed. By turning field glasses with the device in question, which is provided with screens of the proper tint, the position of concealed marksmen can be detected.

MAKES A NEW MARK FOR CANADA LA POINTS GOES MILE IN 2:09 3-4

Fast Time Made by Jack Rombough's Horse on Half-Mile Track at Seaford.

Seaford, June 18.—La Points, Jack Rombough's fast horse, won the great 2:10 pace at the opening of the races here today, and in doing so broke the Canadian mile record for a half-mile track.

The other events on the card were fairly well contested, although Peter Miller had little difficulty in taking the 2:50 pace from Jerry Dillard.

The weather was fine, the track fast, and the attendance above par.

Summary.—June 18.—The opening day of the eighth annual meeting of the Seaford Turf Club was a most gratifying one to the members of the association. The weather was ideal, and the day's events were very successfully carried out. The best event of the day was the 2:10 pace, in which five horses started, and which was won without doubt one of the most beautiful races anyone could see. Both the heat and the race were a perfect model. It was won by La Points, a horse owned by Jack Rombough, of Wingham. The time was 2:09 3-4, the fastest mile ever made in Canada on a half-mile track. This race, as the score indicates, was well worth coming many miles to see.

First race, 2:50 pace (stake): Peter Miller, S. A. Proctor, Newmarket; Jerry Dillard, F. H. Brisco, Chatham; Texas M. W. Burns, Kinslandine, ds. Sally Hill, H. Drenklein, Meadville, Pa.

Time—2:09 3-4, 2:22 1-2, 2:30.

Second race, 2:15 pace: Spring, A. W. Tyson, Guelph; Collingwood Boy, P. J. Stone, Collingwood; Nellie D., R. Davidson, Mitchell; Eater, J. A. Deane, Deseronto; Conley, Brantford, 7 4 3 5 4.

Time—2:14 1-2, 2:18 1-2, 2:21 1-2, 2:27.

Third race, 2:10 pace: La Points, J. Rombough, Wingham; Collingwood Boy, P. J. Stone, Collingwood; Nellie D., R. Davidson, Mitchell; Eater, J. A. Deane, Deseronto; Conley, Brantford, 7 4 3 5 4.

Time—2:14 1-2, 2:18 1-2, 2:21 1-2, 2:27.

Fourth race, 2:10 pace: La Points, J. Rombough, Wingham; Collingwood Boy, P. J. Stone, Collingwood; Nellie D., R. Davidson, Mitchell; Eater, J. A. Deane, Deseronto; Conley, Brantford, 7 4 3 5 4.

Time—2:14 1-2, 2:18 1-2, 2:21 1-2, 2:27.

GRIMSHAW GOES TO TORONTO CLUB

A Former London Canadian Leaguer Turned Over by Boston Americans.

According to the Toronto Star Myron Grimshaw, the hard-hitting first baseman and outfielder of the Boston Americans, formerly of the London Canadian League team, has been signed by the Toronto Club. Grimshaw is well-known to the Eastern League, having been a member of the Buffalo Club until three seasons ago, when he was drafted by Boston. For two seasons he played first base for the Beaneaters, but this season he has been in the outfield. Last year he was one of the leading hitters in the league, batting .200, and it is predicted that he will easily exceed the 200 mark here. He fielded .987. During the season he made 15 two-base hits, 14 three-base hits, 8 sacrifice hits and had 5 stolen bases.

In addition to Grimshaw the team will also be strengthened by the acquisition of Schaffy, the infielder of the Washington Americans. He was one of the leading run-getters of the league and a good extra base hitter, having 14 two-baggers, 9 three-baggers, 21 sacrifices and 29 stolen bases to his credit. He is coming here simply because Washington has a surplus of material, and the same applies to Grimshaw. Schaffy will report at once, and will play second until Flood recovers from his recent injury. Grimshaw will report on Thursday.

It seems to be the general belief at Toronto that John Thoney will figure in the deal whereby Schaffy and Grimshaw come to the Maple Leafs, and this phase of the subject was suggested to Mr. McCaffrey yesterday. "Well, you can just say for me that Thoney is here for this season, at least, and nothing can pull him away. If he does go at the end of the year, it will be with a string on him as long as himself."

Thoney, who is only 26 years of age, is one of the few players who made good right off the reel in professional ball.

BURNS IS NOT AS BAD AS PAINTED

Canuck Is Defended by George Siler—Beat Squires, All Will Be Forgiven.

Chicago, June 18.—George Siler, the well-known writer on ring matters, says: Interest in the international heavyweight championship fight between Bill Squires, champion of Australia, and Tommy Burns, the recognized champion of America, scheduled to take place at Colma on Independence Day, is increasing as the date of the contest draws near. Little or no stock was taken in the affair when the match was arranged, because Bill was not taken seriously as a fighter, and because of the part Burns took in his last encounter with O'Brien. The rank and file of pugilism and the lovers of sports sported in particular thought Burns should have been ostracized from the game instead of given the chance to fight for the highest honors in pugilism.

The match was generally denounced and Jim Coffroth, who brought the men together, was censured for so doing. Convinced that the fight was a fixture, and that, in the words of our old friend, Joe Yendig, "the fight surely would take place," those who at first were set against it accepted the inevitable and immediately began, and still are, rooting for the Australian to win. Not because they wish to see the heavyweight championship title packed and shipped to Australia, but because Burns has brought himself into disfavor with the lovers of square sport.

And also, I might add, because Squires, during his sojourn in the country, has proven himself a man in all the world implies.

Tommy, however, is not half as bad as he has been painted. True, he has been accused of trying to fix fights, but his accusers also founded in the air. His affair with Jack O'Brien at Los Angeles left a dark brown taste in the mouths of the lovers of the game, but they have partly forgiven the part he took in it because he exposed Jack. There is no doubt Burns thought he was acting right and for the betterment of the sport, but the American public detest a "double crosser" in any branch of sport. That Los Angeles affair is still fresh in their memory, and that is why he is shy of rooters.

Should he beat Squires, all will be forgiven, and in the vernacular of the old-timers, he will be the "white-haired boy."

YESTERDAY'S GAMES IN SCHOOL LEAGUE

The School League games yesterday resulted as follows:

Cruikshanks, Cooper and Forsythe; Tanner, Sage and Chatto and Robinson. Umpire, Inspector Edwards.
Rectory street.....10
Corbome street.....7
Mitchell, Ashplant and Leachbrook; Morrison and Wright. Umpire, Trustee Graham.
Lorne avenue.....12
Victoria.....8
Petherington and Reid; Scandrett and Port.

The uncertainties of harness racing were never better illustrated than they were yesterday at Seaford, when La Points, driven by Jack Rombough, of Wingham, won the 2:10 pace, incidentally breaking the Canadian half-mile track record.

With the exception of one horse—Missouri Chief—the entries at Seaford in the 2:10 pace were identically the same as those which faced the starter in a similar event in London last week. Albeit, the finish was somewhat different. In the local contest Elmwood finished first, in the following manner: 3, 1, 1, 1, while La Points came a poor second with 1, 6, 5, 4. Collingwood Rooker won up third with 6, 2, 2, 2, and Irene D and Raoul W. were both drawn after a couple of heats had been run.

Yesterday Elmwood was a close second, Collingwood Rooker third and Irene D and Raoul W. were distanced. The latter horse won the first heat and was flagged in the second. Another feature of yesterday's great contest was that the time in each heat, with the exception of the last of the 2:10 pace, was from one to five and a quarter seconds faster than that made in London. The London time for the four heats was 2:15, 2:15, 2:18 1/2, 2:16, while the time for the five heats at Seaford was 2:14, 2:15, 2:09 3/4, 2:12 and 2:15.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED.
A meeting of the Canadian Club sports committee was held last night, but practically nothing new in reference to the Dominion Day meet was brought forth. The prize list, which was published in The Advertiser several weeks ago was gone over, and added assurance was given that Longboat would surely appear in an exhibition here on that day.

The committee appointed to handle the Canadian Club's end of the programme is as follows: S. F. Glass, H. E. Buttrey, Ald. Gillespie, Dr. J. D. Wilson, Geo. S. Gibbons, K.C., Mayor Judd, Ald. Stevely, B. C. McCann and Dr. Arkell.

LONDON RACES, BEST EVER.
The Horse World says: "The Canadian Circuit races at London, Ont., the past week were the best ever held in that splendid city of 75,000 inhabitants."

THE MATINEE RACES.
The matinee races this afternoon at Queen's Park promise to be hotly contested, and a large field of starters is assured. Among the new starters will be seen Orangette, a black gelding, and Assinibola, a bay stallion. The former horse is a pacer, while the latter is a trotter. Dr. J. F. Wood will handle the pair, and he feels highly confident that both of them will make a creditable showing. The track is fast today, and some excellent time should result.

$4,000,000 IN TURF PURSES.
During the trotting and pacing season of 1907 it is estimated that more than $4,000,000 will be distributed in purses and stakes among harness horsemen by the various racing organizations and fair associations of the country. Already more than 400 associations have selected dates for race meetings and announced their purses. The Grand Circuit alone will hang up more than $400,000, while the Great Western Circuit, embracing twelve cities in Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota, will give purses aggregating $200,000, and several minor circuits, which do not take in fair organizations, will distribute sums ranging from $25,000 to $75,000. This will be a great year for the harness horses.

A Batch of Good Stories Told of the Ball Players

A Youthful Ruler.

Harry Davis, the Athletics' slugging first baseman, is not only one of the best-natured among the players, but he is also the proud papa of a merry little type, who, to judge from what Harry tells, must be the real candy kid about the Davis household.

Catcher Schreck was reading an account of the birth of the royal heir in Spain, and when Ossie came across the fact that the Spanish king was barely of age he turned to the other Philadelphia players and remarked: "I'll be darned if I don't think that 21 years of age is entirely too young for a fellow to be a king." "You don't know what you are talking about, Ossie," said Harry Davis, as he began tightening up his belt. "Why, we have an absolute monarch up at our house who is only 2 years old."

Dad Got Worst of It.

It was during a game between the Philadelphia Athletics and the New Yorks, and Tim Hurst was certainly having his work cut out for him. Every decision appeared to be the cause of protests from one side or the other, while the New York crowd was hot after the little indicator handle was in the hands of the home team.

Now, when the home team, or, in fact, any other team, gets after this little fellow, one may expect to see the kicking side get the worst end of it, as Tim will surely come out ahead on the deal.

This particular day, Clarke, the pitcher, had been giving Tim considerable back-talk, and the more he talked the more of the home plate did he eccentric Dad have to cut before Hurst would credit him with a strike. Finally Clarke became exasperated because Tim wouldn't call 'em good when he cut the corners. When Hurst had called one a ball that Dad seemed to think ought to have been a strike, the excited Clarke, throwing discretion to the wind, and with his face distorted with rage, ran up to where the umpire stood, back of the catcher, and in a voice that could be heard all over the grandstand he shrieked: "Look a here, Tim Hurst, what are you trying to do? Do you want to make a fool out of me?"

"I do not, Mr. Clarke," replied Tim, with mock politeness; "in your case I feel safe in allowing nature to take its course."

Why the Black Sea Looks Blue.
Altizer, of the Washington club, on account of his having traveled in the far east, where he did military service for Uncle Sam, is looked upon as an authority by his team-mates when any argument arises among the players which deals with things or happenings in the Orient.

The other day Charley Hickman, who is a scholar when it comes to geography, was talking about Jones, the speedy outfielder, about the territory of Russia, when Jones stopped him long enough to inquire as to why it happened that the Black Sea looked blue.

This question stumped the cheerful Hickman, and he turned to Dave Altizer, who was lacing his shoes, and asked him why it was that the Black Sea looked blue.

Altizer finished lacing his shoe, and then, rising to his feet, he faced Hickman and said:

show up around the hotel to pay his respects to the royal James.

This resulted in Jimmy being gazed a whole lot by the other members of the team, who used to ask Jimmy what crime such and such a visitor committed. It didn't make any difference to the players whether it was a crook or an honest man who happened to drop around the hotel to see Ryan, the merry balltossers put all of Jimmy's visitors in the rogue class.

But Jimmy didn't mind the kidding, for he is himself a past master in the art of kidding.

One day in St. Louis a fine-looking man called to see Ryan, and from his face and the great front he put up one would have picked him out as possessing the highest respectability. There was not the slightest sign of degeneracy discernible, and for once the team did not get after Jimmy about his caller, but let him alone.

"Well, how do you congratulate Jimmy on that friend, anyway, because I believe him to be straight, and I bet that Ryan never had to lock him up when he was a detective."

"That fellow honest, Jimmy?" asked Wyatt Lee.

"Who? He honest?" snorted Jimmy.

"Why, give that a chance and he'd pick the pockets of a pool table."

ONTARIO BOWLING ANNUAL DURING WEEK OF JULY 8

Toronto, June 18.—The different committees who have in charge the arrangements for the Ontario Bowling Association tournament, which will be held during the week of July 8, have been busy. The prize committee has chosen a very fine list of prizes for the different events, and the grounds committee is putting forth every effort to have the greens as perfect as possible.

Players who took part in the tournament last year will remember that the greens were in excellent shape, and it is confidently expected that the rinks this year will be found to be in even better condition than last year.

Honorary Secretary Postlethwaite expects the big event to be unusually successful this season. Westmount is coming up after the trophy, four rinks strong, while Valleyfield will also be represented by two or three rinks. This is the largest representation that ever journeyed so far for this tournament. Westmount has been sending only one rink and Valleyfield has never before been represented. Both contingents from the east will, it is said, be very strong.

Considerable work has been done on the greens already and the committee is going across the lake tomorrow to have a look at the lawn. They will be accompanied by Burley, the Granite green expert.

BASEBALL STARS DEFEAT DOMINIONS.

The South London Stars are looking for trouble, and looking for it earnestly. Yesterday they put a large crimp in the diamond aspirations of the Dominions in a fast contest on the island diamond, by a score of 4 to 3, and now they challenge all teams in the city whose players average 14 years.

The Stars lined up as follows: E. Maudsley, catcher; J. Durham, pitcher; W. McKenzie, first base; E. McKenzie, second base; B. Clarke, third base; W. Campbell, shortstop; W. Walton, M. Knowles and O. Loney, fielders; J. Paulaitis and F. Maudsley, spare men.

Weekes and Wheatcroft officiated as battery for the losers.

BRENNAN KNOCKED OUT.
Cincinnati, June 18.—Roger Brennan, catcher of the New York Nationals, was hit by a pitched ball in the third innings of today's game with Cincinnati.

The ball pitched by Coakley struck Brennan behind the left ear and he fell to the ground unconscious. After about ten minutes he was revived, but later again lapsed into unconsciousness. He was removed to the Seton hospital.

Physicians say that provided no blood clot gathers in the brain Brennan will be able to play ball within a few days. He is resting well.

ONE FOR RIDGETOWN.

Ridgetown, June 18.—An exciting ball game took place between Highgate's crack team and the locals. There are heavy hitters on both teams and as a result there was considerable work for the fielders.

EASTERN GAMES FOR OTTAWA.

Ottawa, June 18.—While in Toronto Saturday, Mr. William Foran, chairman of the old boys' sports committee, had a talk with Mr. L. Solman, who is a director of the Toronto Baseball Club, and that gentleman gave assurance that he could transfer the Toronto-Provident Eastern League series here for carnival week. It is also thought probable a Montreal series may be transferred here for one or two days.

WEST LORNE WINS.

Tommy Hyttenrauch, a London City League pitcher, did the box work for Appin in a game with West Lorne at the latter place yesterday. He did fairly well, but not well enough to win, the score being 5 to 4. The game was one of the finest ever seen at West Lorne, which is noted for its warm baseball matches. The score: Appin.....300100000-4
West Lorne.....11000020-5

Batteries—Appin, Hyttenrauch and Gibson; West Lorne, Neil and Clark. Hits off Hyttenrauch, 7; of Neil, 6. Struck out by Hyttenrauch, 12; by Neil, 17. Umpires, Messrs. McCallum, of Glenora, and Fuller, of West Lorne.

ENGLISHMEN HAVE SPLENDID OUTING

Celebrate the Anniversary of Waterloo With Big Picnic.

RACES AND GAMES AT LAKESIDE

Baby Show, Beauty Contest and Big Family Competition Also on the Programme.

The Englishmen of this city and St. Thomas yesterday marked the 122nd anniversary of the Battle of Waterloo by holding a big picnic at Port Stanley. The outing was promoted by the Englishmen of this city, but their brethren of the Railroad City joined hands with them, and did their share to make the affair a success.

The day was most pleasantly spent in the good old English way. The weatherman looked with favor on the picnicers, and everything else seemed to be favorable for such an occasion. The Englishmen and their friends started in the morning at 10 o'clock in the morning, and every Pere Marquette train for the blance of the day carried its contingent. The Seventh Regiment Band went along with them, and throughout the afternoon and evening it furnished a programme of music for the amusement of the party, the numbers for the most part being specially dear to the Englishman's heart.

The sight presented on the Heights under the shade of the big trees was most picturesque and pleasing. Gatherings great and small were to be seen everywhere. In the afternoon, a programme of sports was run off, in good style, and with liberal prizes up for competition, there was no dearth of entries.

The first event was a cricket match between London and St. Thomas, which proved of great interest and resulted in an easy victory for the former City cricketers. Some splendid cricket was shown, and when the game was concluded, many of the older Englishmen, who played the game years ago, and who had begun to think that the younger generation had lost all hold on it, were heard to express themselves as surprised at the ability of the teams. Those who know, say that from yesterday's showing a very strong team could be organized in London.

Sports Galore.

But cricket was not the only game which the Londoners were able to play. They could pitch the curves known to baseball, and trimmings of the St. Thomas nine to the tune of 10 to 5. The prize for the best baseball, a five-dollar bill, was awarded to a London man. The second prize, a bat, was awarded to Mr. Fitzgerald, while the third, a ball, was given to Mr. Down.

In another part of the grounds quarts were enjoyed by a large number who became so engrossed in the game that they could hardly be enticed away from the sport by the call for supper.

The Races.

Then came a long programme of sports in the form of racing events, some of which resulted as follows: Egg and spoon race—1 Mrs. Russell, 2 Mrs. Alway, 3 Mrs. Craven. Thread and needle race—1 Miss Lena Dicker, 2 Mrs. E. Clarke, 3 Mrs. James. Three-legged race—1 Fitzgerald and Donohue, 2 Mizzie and Denton, 3 Mason brothers. Men's race—1 Mr. Gould, 2 George Leslie, 3 E. Manness. The dog dancing was won by Mrs. E. Clarke.

Race for ladies over 50—1 Mrs. Pearce, 2 Mrs. Smith, 3 Mrs. Johnston. Committee's race—1 Wm. Bedford, 2 Harry Rymill, 3 W. C. Coo. Girls from 6 to 10 years—1 Miss Parrell, 2 Miss Brierly, 3 Elsie Waters. Consolation race, ladies over 50—1 Mrs. Pearce, 2 Mrs. Smith, 3 Mrs. Johnston. Girls, 10 to 16—1 Miss Horn, 2 Eva Hunt, 3 Olive Coo.

The Baby Show.

Among the special features of the day's programme was the baby show, the judges for which were Ald. J. Saunders, Ald. Neil Cooper and Mr. W. H. Denton. Many fine youngsters were presented.

Then there was the contest for the best-looking young lady, which was won by Miss Maud Orr. There was also a prize for the couple having the largest family. It was won easily by Mr. and Mrs. Chisholm, of Queen's avenue east, who presented ten children, five of whom were members of the militia. Mr. and Mrs. Foxworthy came next with a family of nine children, while Mr. and Mrs. Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. Smith each presented families of six children, and took third place together.

The prize for the best John Bull character was won by Mr. John Parkhouse. Mr. Parkhouse is a typical British sailor, and spent 27 years in the navy, for which he received the long-service medal. After being presented with the prize, a $5 bill, Mr. Parkhouse was called upon for a song, and rendered "The Minute-Gun at Sea."

The Band Concert.

During this afternoon the Seventh Regiment Band rendered some excellent music, and also in the evening.

The personnel of the committee which had so much to do with the success of the picnic was as follows: President, Ex-Mayor E. T. Essery; vice-president, Ald. N. Cooper; secretary, Thomas Colledge; treasurer, R. A. Jones; his Worship Mayor J. C. Judd; J. Nutkins; J. Sanders; W. Bedford; Thomas Edwards; R. R. A. Emery; Dr. English; F. Tucker; J. J. Russell; J. Hughes; Mrs. E. Hooper; W. C. Coo; A. Benbow; W. G. R. Jenkins; Mrs. J. Nutkins; W. G. R. Bartram; J. G. Martyn; A. Honour and E. H. Wignett.

WOULD NOT RELEGATE THE BIBLE TO REALM OF COMMON LITERATURE

Synod of Huron Delegates Would Not Have It Studied
as Such.

This morning's meeting of the first session of the Synod of the Diocese of Huron was taken up with a discussion of the reports of the committees on Sunday school work, and on the teaching of the Bible in the schools, both public and advanced.

The report of the Sunday school committee was received, and showed a very satisfactory condition. Fourteen schools presented a total of 80 candidates for examination. Of these candidates, 19 took the teachers' examination, 16 getting first-class certificates, and 2 second-class. Twenty-four took the senior pupils' examination. Of these 17 obtained first-class certificates, 6 second class, and 1 third class.

Thirty-seven took the junior pupils' examination. Of these 20 took first-class certificates, 15 second class, and 1 third class. The average percentage obtained in the examination was 59. In prayer book, 75. Miss M. Theapleton, of St. Paul's Cathedral, secured the gold medal awarded for the highest teacher's standing. Miss Cecily Maude, of Christ Church, London, won the silver medal for highest senior pupil's standing. Miss Hazel O'Neill, of All Saints' Church, Windsor, in the examination for junior pupils, obtained the highest marks, 90 per cent in Scripture, and 100 per cent in prayer book.

A large number of books had been added to the Sunday school libraries, among them being books on graded instruction recommended by the committee last year.

Some Recommendations.

The following recommendations were made by the committee: "Your committee cannot too strongly urge the necessity of children being trained to join with their parents in the worship of God in the church. It is the duty of the home department of the Sunday school to be a most useful adjunct of our work. It should be carefully considered in every parish, and introduced wherever possible. Useful quarterlies for this form of instruction are provided."

Importance of Normal Classes.

Your committee has again and again urged the importance of having normal classes wherever possible, so that instruction in the art of teaching could be given by properly-trained teachers. We are firmly convinced that such a training class should be formed in every parish.

It has been suggested by the Deanery of Elgin that the training of Sunday school teachers might be furthered by the holding of summer schools for instruction in Sunday school work at various points in the diocese.

Your committee would respectfully suggest to His Lordship the Bishop of Huron the observing of the Day of Intercession for Sunday schools, as appointed by the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Methods of Training Teachers.

The receiving of the report on Sunday school work gave rise to a lengthy discussion on the methods of training Sunday school teachers. Rev. Dyson Heague, Bishop Williams and others spoke at some length. The report suggested normal teachers to train teachers.

NEIGHBORS DISAGREE COURT CASES ENSUE

John Henley and Mrs. Mary Robinson
the Principals.

Squires Glass and Chittick will have a pretty problem to solve tomorrow, when John Henley, of London Township, appears on a charge of assault, preferred by Mary Robinson, a neighbor.

The complainant in the case will in turn have to face a charge of trespass and using abusive language preferred by the defendant in the first case.

From what can be learned, Mrs. Robinson's chickens have been guilty, and are said, of overrunning Henley's property, and damaging his garden. Yesterday, so it is alleged, Henley captured the chickens as they were proceeding to devour his lettuce, and he drove them into the woodshed and locked them up. Then it is said that Mrs. Robinson appeared on the scene, it is alleged, to turn the fowl over, and ordered their owner off his property. Words ensued, and eventually, so it is claimed, Henley picked the woman up, carried her over to the fence dividing the two properties, and deposited her on her own side of the fence.

Then she went to Squire Chittick and swore out an information against Henley on the charge mentioned. Henley, in turn, hunted up Squire Glass and laid information against Mrs. Robinson on charges of trespass and using abusive language.

SAVED THE CREW.

Torquay, England, June 19.—A torpedo boat, name unknown, was sunk off Bay Head this afternoon after an explosion. The British torpedo gunboat Dryad saved the torpedo boat's crew.

Figures concerning the students matriculated at Cornell in the last 20 years indicate that 42 per cent have come from private schools and 58 per cent from public schools. Of private school pupils 153 were dropped after the first term and 111 from public schools, and the percentage of failures among the public school graduates is much lower than those of private schools. Consequently, the Cornell faculty favors withdrawing the privilege of admission by certificate from private schools.

ers, and the suggestion was put to the clergymen in the form of a motion and carried.

Summer schools for instruction in Sunday school work for teachers were also recommended by the report, and some discussion followed. A motion was made to the effect that such schools be instituted. Several of the clergy and laymen thought that the committee should have made out some plans and presented them for consideration at the synod. The motion carried.

The question of the appointment of a field secretary for the diocese to go from place to place and instruct the teachers was strongly recommended by several, including Rev. Mr. Chadwick, of Windsor; Mr. Backus, of Aylmer; Mr. Henderson, Mr. Bourne, of Listowel; Mr. B. H. Hind, of Sandwich; Rev. Dean Davis, Lieut.-Col. F. McQueen, of Woodstock.

It was finally decided to lay over the discussion of the report of the committee on the bishop's charge to the traveling secretary might be a great advantage, while others thought that he would not be able to do any good. Others thought the secretary should assume the duties of an inspector of Sunday schools.

Archdeacon McKenley, of Brantford, recommended that the prayer book more in the Sunday schools. Several others agreed with his suggestion.

Sunday School Publication Needed.

Rev. E. W. Hughes spoke of the great need of having a Sunday school publication, and he recommended that instead of spending the money on libraries it be applied to a Sunday school paper.

Principal Waller, of Huron College, suggested that the report of the Sunday school committee and of the discussions connected with it, be printed on separate sheets and distributed among the Sunday schools.

Rev. T. A. Wright, of Walkerton, said that the diocese should go very carefully about any such move as the publication of a Sunday school paper.

Bible in the Schools.

The report of the committee on the teaching of the Bible in the schools was received, and the committee suggested that if the Bible could not be introduced as a religious study, it should be introduced as a work of literature.

The discussion on the suggestion regarding the introduction of the Bible as a book for literary study in the schools, both public and high, was quite lengthy. Some thought that it would be a great aid toward religious instruction. Others thought that it should not be relegated to the realm of common literature and studied as such in schools. A few suggested that the Bible should be taught, but from a religious, and not from a literary, standpoint.

A few declared that it would be impossible to drag the Bible down to the level of every-day literature, by teaching in the schools as literature.

Others thought that the Sunday schools are not sufficient for all the necessary teaching of the Bible. The general opinion was that it would be impossible to degrade the inspired Scriptures, no matter what its surroundings, and they suggested that the Bible should be taught.

A QUIET WEDDING AT THE MEMORIAL

Mr. John W. Tucker and Miss Helen Taylor the Principals.

Miss Helen Taylor and Mr. John W. Tucker, both of this city, were married at the Memorial Church this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by the rector, Rev. Dyson Hague.

Owing to the recent death of the groom's father, the wedding was a very quiet one, only the immediate friends and relatives of the bride and groom being present.

The church was decorated with lilacs, palms and bridal wreaths, and presented a very beautiful appearance. As the bridal couple entered the church, Miss Kathleen Moore played the "Bridal Chorus," and later, when the register was being signed, Miss Margaret Wilson sang Palm's beautiful "O, Perfect Love."

The bride, who is the third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Taylor, of 563 Queen's avenue, was given away by her father. She wore a very pretty gown of ivory shimmering satin, with an overdress of cream embroidery, studded with seed-pearls. She carried a beautiful shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Margaret L. Wilson, who acted as bridesmaid, was attired in a dress of point d'esprit over white silk, and carried pink roses.

Mr. Anthony Tucker, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

The groom's present to the bride was a beautiful silver set, while the bridesmaid received a handsome amethyst pin, and the groomsmen a pearl earring.

PAY YOUR DOG TAX.

Some citizens have objected to the form of notice sent out by Inspector McCallum to pay dog taxes. The inspector suggests that if people will call at once and pay the tax there will be no occasion to send a notice to anyone. This applies to every person in London who keeps a dog and who has not as yet paid up.

POLICE CHIEFS TO MEET.

The annual meeting of the Chief Constables' Association of Canada will be held in Montreal on July 23 and 24. Mr. Wm. Stark, of Toronto, secretary-treasurer, has issued a circular regarding the meeting, in which he says: "As every municipality in Canada is interested in the efficient and honest administration of the law it is hoped that police boards, police committees and county councils everywhere will make such financial arrangements as will not only secure to their chief or high constable membership in the association, but also insure his attendance at the convention, where he will have the opportunity of

MERCURY NEARED THE NINETY MARK

Yesterday Was a Scorch in London, and Also in Other Sections.

Is it warm enough for you? Do you think that this will do? How would you like an ice cream soda or a lemonade for two?

This is the song that made you shiver a week ago, when you were wrapped up in warm clothes, and were seeking warm nooks in the house, but now it is the song which appeals to you—especially the lemonade and ice cream. Summer appears to have been peering down the chimney of June, and to have lost its balance and came tumbling through the roof, plaster and all. This is so sudden. No one expected G. O. Summer to be anywhere in the neighborhood a few days ago, but he certainly was hanging around.

Yesterday the highest registration at the local observatory was 87 above. This morning it was at 8 o'clock about 69, but this was only a beginning.

The probabilities yesterday said cooler today, and for a while last evening it looked as though the weatherman was going to win out on his guess. The dice went back on him, however, as today's temperature demonstrates.

According to the figures of the Ontario Weather Bureau at Toronto, the highest temperature of the whole of last season was 92 in the shade.

Many a Londoner who prided himself upon the fact that if the weather was bad he had the satisfaction of knowing he would not need a straw hat this summer, fairly ran himself a race to his hatter's yesterday to secure a piece of straw headgear.

Occasionally a horse with a master who looked after his comforts was to be seen trudging down the street wearing his sunbonnet and using his ears for hatpins.

"Isn't it a scorcher?" could be heard on every side yesterday. The English picnic took many to Port Stanley, and away from the heat of the city, while Springfield also did a land office business during the day and evening.

"It is warm, no, hot, in all Ontario," said the man who strikes temperature averages for Ontario yesterday. It is hot in Toronto, but the temperature is higher in places back from the lakes. Rockville had a temperature of 94 yesterday, and Ottawa had 92, and of these were the highest and next to highest temperatures on the whole continent. In a large part of Ontario yesterday the temperature was over 90°.

DEATH OF JOHN STEPLER

Old-Time Resident of Sarnia Passes Away at Guelph.

Sarnia, June 18.—Mr. John Stepler, who, with the late J. VanStuden, founded the Sarnia hub and spoke works, and for many years a well-known business man, died at Guelph on Monday. Mr. Stepler at the time of death was aged 71 years. He had only been in Guelph a short time on a visit to friends, when he was taken down with an illness that baffled the best of medical skill and attention. He is survived by five sons: William, of Strathroy; John, of Chicago; James, of Fielding, Sask.; Robert, of Alpena, Mich.; and Allen, of Ottaville, Ont. The remains will be interred in Lakeview Cemetery.

The Chinese on the Rand were allowed so much opium, the maximum a month being two pounds. This would suffice to stock an ordinary chemist's shop for a year. Two pounds of opium represent 27,948 average medicinal doses.

ST. PETER'S COURT HONORS A P. C. R.

Jewel and Address Presented to Bro. Thomas Gould—A Popular Ex-Officer.

The tenth anniversary of the organization of St. Peter's Court, No. 655, Catholic Order of Foresters, was observed last week in this city and the members took occasion to especially honor Past Chief Ranger Thomas Gould, who was presented with a very handsome past chief ranger's jewel and an illustrated address. Mr. Gould has always taken a deep interest in the affairs of the order, and especially in St. Peter's Court, and it was felt by all that his untiring work should be recognized. The address, which was as follows, breathes the spirit with which Bro. Gould is regarded by his fellow Foresters.

"Dear Brother Gould.—We have assembled here tonight to express in word and in effect our appreciation of your untiring efforts in the successful organization of St. Peter's Court, C. O. F., 1897, and in its steady upbuilding ever since. Owing to the active part you have ever taken in the welfare of the court you were largely instrumental in adding to its membership, and whereas ten years ago 27 members answered the roll call, now 207 claim the privilege of brotherhood.

"Whether in the capacity of organizer, chief ranger or past chief ranger, you have ever proved yourself to be a Catholic Forester in the truest sense of the word; arousing within us, one and all, a laudable pride regarding you as the founder and father of St. Peter's Court.

"As a token of our great appreciation, we beg leave to present you with an emblem of the order, coupled with our fervent wishes that you may be spared many years to encourage us with your presence and your counsel."

(Signed) P. F. Gleason, G.P.O. Meera, Hugh Johnston, Wm. Dwyer, M. G. Delaney, R. J. Flynn, James Evans, W. J. Clark, P. Flaherty, W. F. Bowlers, W. T. Groom, Wm. Casey, C. Binks, J. J. McKeough, J. F. Crumme, M. F. O'Mara.

Brother Gleason read the address and Brother Johnston made the presentation.

Brother Gould made a brief speech, in which he heartily thanked his brother Foresters for the kind feelings expressed in the address, and for the beautiful jewel presented him.

HOWITT—FREEMAN

Rev. Arthur Carlisle, of Lucan, United Young Londoners.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman, 171 Adelaide street, was the scene of a very pretty wedding yesterday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, when their daughter, Miss Marjorie Freeman, was united to Mr. Ernest Howitt, Rev. Arthur Carlisle, of Lucan, formerly of this city, officiating.

Miss Margaret Reid, who was supported by a gown of white silk, with a veil caught with a bridal wreath. She carried bridal roses.

The bridesmaids wore pale blue etamine and carried white carnations. Miss Edith Duckworth, cousin of the groom, acted as flower girl, wearing white silk.

Mr. Peter Healy was groomsman. The groom's present to the bride was a handsome necklace, while to the bridesmaid he gave a beautiful crescent, and to the groomsman a stickpin. The flower girl was presented with a ring.

A wedding breakfast was served in the dining-room after the ceremony. The happy couple were the recipients of many beautiful and handsome presents, showing the high esteem in which they are held by a wide circle of friends.

After a short honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Howitt will reside on Adelaide street.

We are the introducers of the famous White House Coffee. Sold at 10c per pound, 40c per pound. F. E. Smythe, grocer, Phone 1291.

New Line to Muskoka

Canada's greatest railway, in building a line to connect Toronto with the main transcontinental track at Sudbury, has incidentally given us a new direct route to the Muskoka Lakes district, over which fast passenger trains will be running after Saturday, June 22. Bala, which is reached in three and a half hours from Toronto, will be the Lakes terminus this summer, and there steamers of the Muskoka Navigation Company will connect with the trains, carrying travelers to all points on Lakes Muskoka, Joseph and Rosseau. The roadbed is heavily laid and well ballasted, train equipment is new and handsome, and excellent time is made. In addition to the local trains there will be two fly-nets to the Lakes, and two fly-nets and Sunrise Express, and two fly-nets and the Queen City Flyer and Twilight Limited. Through sleepers will run to and from Toronto, Buffalo, Pittsburgh and New York, and, of course, a splendid equipment of parlor cars, dining cars, and luxurious day coaches. C. E. Bennett, district passenger agent, C. P. R., at Toronto, will be glad to mail full particulars of trains and handsome illustrated Muskoka folder, or same may be obtained free from local agent, 161 Dundas street, Toronto, Ont. 70c

STUDENTS SPEND A PLEASANT TIME

Diplomas Presented to Harding Hall Graduates—Operetta Presented in Pleasing Manner.

Commencement exercises of Harding Hall College and Central Conservatory attracted a large audience to the Auditorium last night.

The presentation of diplomas to three graduates in the literary course proved very interesting to the successful young ladies being as follows:

Miss M. Turtle, Shetland.
Miss Bertha Johnston, Atkin.
Miss Irene McLeod, London.

As the music examinations are held in July, the presentation of diplomas in this branch of college work will take place later.

The first part of the programme consisted of a musical and literary programme made up of piano solos by Miss M. L. Genge, Alvinston; Miss Florence Varnum, Miss L. J. Flory and Miss A. L. Powell; recitations by Miss Bertha Johnston, of Atkin, and Miss Mary Turtle, of Shetland; instrumental solos (mandolin and guitar) by Mrs. Jordan and her pupils, Misses Marshall, Fitch and Gardhouse, and string trios and quartettes by Mr. Featherston and his children. All were given in excellent style.

A sparkling little operetta entitled "Heldiae," formed the second part of the entertainment. The words and music were written by Mrs. (Principal) Baker, and it certainly proved a delightful offering. Twenty-nine ladies had been trained in the several parts by Mrs. Baker, but unfortunately she was unable to be present last night, as she was called to the bedside of her mother in Massachusetts, her mother being very ill.

Mr. J. W. Featherston took her place, and carried out the operetta in a very praiseworthy manner.

Those taking part in the presentation were as follows:

Phoebus, M. E. Turtle; Cynthia, Shirley McCallum; Siria, Bertha Johnston; Alpha, Lyra, Jean Woolverton; Arcadia, Vera Presnall; Beta, Andromeda, Anna Marshall; Alpha Auriga, Harriet Fitch; Alpha Sagitta, Mary Mitchell; Delta, Lily Thompson; Corona, Borealis, Lily Thompson; Irene McLeod, Florence Smart, Marjorie Fraser, Annie McArthur, Martha White, Agnes Millar, Bertha Mountjoy, Nellie Smart, Helen Fraser.

Stellae Minores—Bessie Mountjoy, Guinevere Weekes, Edith Featherston, Merlin Pococke, Verna Sloan, Vera Simpson, Glynn Howard, Helen Santo, Flossie Cowan, Lily Santo.

The thoroughbred, thanks to our incessant overreaching and abuse of its representatives under the shallow pretense of "improving the breed of horses," has become a cripple, often at birth, nearly always at 2 years old; a nervous rattlepate, slight of physique and erratic of manners. As a progenitor of harness horses he is so prepotent that he controls both action and conformation; as a saddle horse or hunter he is too light, too unsound, and too crack-brained.
