The Grand Trunk strikers have a proposition under way to bring Vice-President Murdock, or some other prominent leader to this city to address a public meeting of the citizens and explain to them in detail the situation, just what the conditions were under which the men were working, what they ask of the company, and the dangers that the travelling public are facing by riding on trains manned by inexperienced men.

"Many people do not understand the matter very much," said one of the committee to The Advertiser, "and joyable time. there is a strong feeling among the men that if Mr. Murdock, or some other good speaker, who has a thorough grasp of the matter, were to come and address a public meeting here, and in other cities also, much good would result. Tells Railway Officials That Industries Are Suffering and That People Desire Peace.

[G. N. W. Dispatch.] Stratford, July 29.-The following telegram has been received from President Hays, of the Grand Trunk Railway, in reply to the one Mayor Dingman sent yesterday, and the mayor's rejoinder sent this morning is also given:

"Montreal, July 28. "W. S. Dingman, Mayor, Stratford .-Replying to your message. At conference held here yesterday between Messrs. Garretson and Lee, and Mr. Fitzhugh and myself, the first-named gentlemen explained that their offer to arbitrate was conditional upon all of the men who had left our service being reinstated in their former positions, with all their previous rights and without regard to these who had taken their places, they also stated such parts of the majority report of the board of conciliation as were agreed to by them only should be made effective, and the other parts should be arbitrated. Your message leads me to believe you are wiring me without a full understanding of the situation as above setforth."

RAISING THE MAINE BECOMES A PUZZLE

War Department May Finally Determine to Do the Work Itself.

Washington, July 28.-Mr. John F. O'Rourke, president of the O'Rourke Construction Company, of New York, was a visitor at the war department today, where he had a conference with Gen. Oliver, acting secretary of war, in regard to raising the Maine, now lying in Havana harbor.

Mr. O'Rourke proposes to raise the famous battleship by means of a floating wharf, to be constructed around the wreck. He would try to lift her by using caissons.

Nothing has been decided by the war department as to Mr. O'Rourke's plan or the plans of several other contractors submitted to the department. Congress appropriated $300,000 at its last session to be used in connection with the raising of the Maine and the investigations to be made to find the est method of raising her.

No action will be taken by the war department until an opinion asked for from the attorney-general has been received as to whether it will be necessary to spend the whole $300,000 for investigation of methods of rais- kets good to return within 15 days, ing the vessel or whether some of the and stop-over at Philadelphia, Particnoney may be used for actually get- ulars at 8 King street east, Toronto

It is possible that the war department will not give the work of raising the vessel to any private contractor, it was said at the war department today, but will do the work with its own vessels, men and material.

As yet the details of the commemoration have not been fully worked out, but it is intended that it shall be observed in the principal cities and towns on both sides of the line, the great events of public interest to take place in Buffalo, Niagara Falls, and Toronto. THE WOMAN'S CORNER

NEW SHOES OF 400 YEARS AGO men?

Speaking of new and novel styles in footgear, here are a couple of samples displayed in the Paris shops of 1512-just 400 years ago. They have been preserved in good condition in a French museum.

The peg heel of the one shown above was covered with leather, while the main part of the shoe is of openwork leather, over satin. The toe comes to out collars. a decided point. There was point to almost everything in those days.

But look at the big, ungainly slipper below. It was intended for street wear, with a very high heel and a very thick sole to keep some dainty "Trilby" from the thick mud of Paris. The sole is hollow. The flowers on the toe are a peculiar feature.

Ginger Beer.

A good ginger beer is made by placing two or more ounces of ground ginger root in a kettle with half an ounce of cream of tartar, two large lemons sliced, two pounds of broken sugar, and two gallons of boiling water. Let simmer over a slow fire for half an hour. When the liquor is nearly cold, stir into it a large tablespoonful of the best yeast. Let it ferment for about 24 hours before bottling for use.

Stuffed Eggs.

Boil the requisite number of eggs slowly for 15 or 20 . minutes. The longer a hard-boiled egg is cooked, the more palatable and the more digestible it will be. When the eggs are cold, split them lengthwise, remove the yolks and crumb them into a bowl. Add minced chicken and ham, melted butter, pepper, salt and a little cream of vinegar. Pile the filling into the egg whites and half in a piece of oiled paper. The more trouble you take in preparing a picnic meal, the less it will require to serve it, and the eggs can be passed about in their neat paper wrappings without dan-

"How will you go about it?" she asked, leaning half across the lable, her aims folded under her perfect chin.

I shrugged my shoulders. "It's either money or force," I said. Then I stopped, remembering the request of the countess as I came out the door. That was the discovery I had made which was anything but clear. I resolved to see if the princess could make the matter out.

elves had been down at work in the ground, calling the flowers to wake and grow. It was spring. The birds were all singing, and surely it was time for the flowers to be putting forth their delicate green leaves. All the plants, even to the tiniest violets, hurried to appear. That is, all but one sleepy, young, lazy violet that just curled herself up and snuggled deeper, saying to herself: "I am tired. I don't want to get up yet." The princess asked me of America. The evening was soft; I had broken bread with this woman now seated by my side. Was it any wonder if for an instant I forgot myself as we talked on? For an instant, I say, and it was only for an instant.

A feeling flashed through me that we

A feeling flashed through me that we two sat there in America, not Scarvania.

We had just come from the dance, the music I could almost hear floating softly music I could almost hear floating softly on the air as we spoke of my country. But it was the very freedom of the thinking that brought me to a realization of the facts. To think I could so soon after having met her dined thus. The trust and faith she placed in me I felt deeply. Yet she was a princess, I a private gentleman, bent on her service, and so we could not have but come from the dance, even had there been a dance to come from.

The change in mood made me restless, and I longed for Karl or Kurlmurt to come back. Suddenly I saw some one come back. Suddenly I saw and turned noving in the park near by and turned "It's one of the guards," the princess said, following my look. Lieutenant Barnsmurk is in the hall outside your door and he has three men in the park. My uncle insisted upon it. You see, we did not know but what something had happened you. He felt them are none," Karl said.

"Or possibly he has turned them over to Zergald, but is telling the woman he has not, so as to put off the final settlement with her," Krulmurt suggested.

"He's in love with her," I said.
They all looked at me in astonishment. Kurlmurt growled, Karl laughed, but the princess continued to look at me.

"He's been in love before," Karl said in anything but a complimentary tone.

"I don't think he's lying to the countess," I insisted.

"Nor do I," the princess agreed, speaking slowly and still looking at me.

"Well, however it may be, what's to be done?" Kurlmurt exclaimed.

"Call on Heiprich and the countess."

"That was really a very enjoyable affair," I said, smiling at the recollection. We had got back to the matter in hand again, and it was as well.

"Then you really love danger?"
I looked at her in surprise, for she asked the question almost eagerly.

"Why no," I said.

"Then why take it?" she asked.

For a moment I tried to see the means. "Well, however it may be, what's to be done?" Kurlmurt exclaimed.
"Call on Heinrich and suggest there is money to be had from us," I said.
"But there isn't," the princess said slowly. "We haven't it to bid against Zergald. He is in full power, and Heinrich can get almost anything he may ask with such evidence in his hands."
"He'll be a grand duke," Karl said.
I saw the largeness of the stake for which Heinrich was playing.
"If we can't bribe him we'll simply have to take them from him," I said.
"Yes, very capital," Kurlmurt sneered,
"but how?"
"Mr. Converse will find a way." the

For a moment I tried to see the meaning of the question in her face, then I turned and looked out over the park, then back at her.

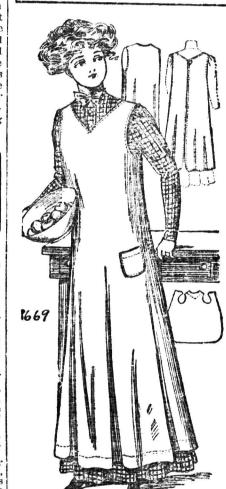

The sentinel passed out of sight, but The senunel passed out of sight, but his presence seemed to say there was real danger, of which she asked if I had a pleasure in partaking.

But the reason that I looked at her and then away, then back again, was because she had given me a chance by her ques-tion to tell her truly why I liked this danger and took it.

And then as I was about to answer her in a way I'll not set down here I remembered Karl had told me there was danger in the matter long before I met the princess. So, of course, the answer that I would have made could not have been the reason I took it at all. And yet I must make some answer, so I said:
"For the sake of turning the furrow straight after once getting my hands on and took it. straight after once getting my hands on

BOTH RINKS POOR ON RUNNING SHOTS.

There was little running. As a matter of fact neither was extremely successful at this kind of a game. Skip Willison had four or five very fine runs, and Lind had one successful run. Begg, on the other hand, missed four runners, and some of the other players missed also. It was a draw game pure and simple, and there were no toy ends from start to finish. Perhaps the most brilliant bowling individually was done by Mr. Willison and Jimmy Bell. The Toronto skip played in magnificent form all the way through. It was perhaps one of finest games he has ever shown in the W. O. B. A., and he received rounds of applause on his excellent playing. His draw shots were particularly effective.

Jimmy Bell was brilliant, and could always be counted on to place shot in an almost unbeatable position.
Skip Lind was also good. He drew well on most occasions, and in the pinch was generally very good. Fred Beltz was unfortunate in placing his shots. He bowled brilliantly, but at times unsuccessfully, losing excellent shots by a mere hair. Morris and Mackenzie, the leads, had trouble with the green, and neither showed the brilliant form that characterized their play earlier in the tourney.

MORRIS' FINE WORK CLINCHED THE VICTORY.

Morris, however, on the last end placed a great bowl that made it prac-ticlly impossible for the London rink to lose. It was finely placed. Robertson, for Toronto, was brilliant in spots. He also had trouble finding the green.

The Toronto skip started out, and took the first three ends. At the close of the sixth end, Willison led, 6 to 2, Lind then scored four by brilliant bowling, and from that time always took command of the situation. He had a lead of seven at the fourteenth end, and a lead of three at the eighteenth end.

So far as unfortunate shots were concerned, both skips were about even. Lind wicked one of his shots out giving Willison an end, but the Toronto skip did likewise later, and there was little to complain about on this

WILLISON LOOKED GOOD IN TWELFTH.

The London "Kids" have bowled before in tourneys and have shown themselves good opponents. An Opportunity for You Careful investors are convinced that joint ownership interests in "Springwood Park" are sure safe money makers. Where can you buy such attractive home-sites at so small a cost? Where can you invest your money with the possibility of better profits?

THE ANSWER

Walk over our park and see for yourself its natural beauty, sanitary elevation, fine shade trees and pleasant surroundings. Inspect the immense residence, with its large grounds, at $200. Keep in mind that Springwood Park is the most convenient and most pleasantly situated residence park in London. That it is just seven minutes from Dundas and Richmond streets by the cars, which stop within 300 yards of the property—on the opposite side of High street from John McClary's residence—has no factories and no railroad yards—highest elevation—city conveniences—building restrictions -66-foot streets, and is "THE CREAM OF LONDON REAL ESTATE"-and the answer is: Springwood Park cannot

WHEN TO INVEST

Now is the proper time to invest in London Real Estate. Buy when prices are low and sell at a profit. Our experience: "The man who buys while others are thinking about it, resells at a profit to the men who did all the thinking."

WHAT $200 WILL NOT DO

$200 will not buy you a 30-foot building lot in any high-class location in London today, much less a 40, 45, 55 foot

$200 cannot earn you more than 3 to 4 per cent in the bank.

$200 will not earn you less than 10% invested properly in real estate.

$200 would not do much more than decorate your home—it certainly would not buy you a 7 or 22 roomed solid brick WHAT IS WANTED

Make your money work for you. Large fortunes have been made out of real estate. Modern six, seven and eight roomed houses, with all conveniences, are at a premium in London today. They will rent 365 days in the year, and pay you from 10% up. We will lend you the money to build.

A CLEAR TITLE

There is just one payment to be made. You get your lot, or lots, free from encumbrance, and can commence building at once. No monthly payments to worry about. A clear-cut, straightforward proposition.

Our booklet explains everything fully. May we mail it to you? There are few diseases that cause more acute suffering than Kidney Trouble, and Mr. F. A. Thomas, of Sudbury Ont., is one of those who know it. He writes: "For over three years I suffered from kidney disease. First I thought I had sprained my back, for suddenly the pain would catch the small of my back and it would be impossible for me to straighten myself up for several minutes. A dull ache across the kidneys was always present, my urine was thick and cloudy, and passing it caused a burning, scalding pain. ROCKEFELLERS' FEUD SAID TO HAVE ENDED

The Brothers Reconciled After a Quarrel of Thirty Years Standing.

Cleveland, July 29.-John D. Rockefeller and his brother Frank have become reconciled, and the feud which has kept them bitter enemies for over 30 years has come to an end. Just how the reconciliation was effected will probably never become known. The Rockefellers will not discuss it.

Friends do not hesitate to assert that John D. Rockefeller has probably made restitution to his brother Frank of the thousands of dollars of which Frank has always claimed the oil king cheated him. A Straight Talk to Men Who Are About to Buy New Clothes

There is no getting away from the fact that you can always buy Good Clothing at Grafton's for less money than you can buy it for anywhere else, but you can now buy good Clothing at Grafton's at one-third to very nearly one-half less than usual Grafton prices.

If you'll only do a little thinking you'll readily see why buying clothing at Grafton's means economy, and buying clothing anywhere else means extravagance. Now, we're not knocking anyone else; we're simply giving you the facts as we know them to exist, and we want you to do a little investigating on your own account. We'll be perfectly willing to abide by your judgment after that.

No clothes in the world are better than Grafton's clothes. They can't be, because the best materials and the best tailoring obtainable are utilized in the production of Grafton's clothes. We have only to point to our great business, the greatest clothing business in Canada, to prove our case. Do you think we could have won and maintained our undisputed leadership for nearly sixty years unless we had built on a solid foundation of

But because we make all our own clothing, and have no middleman's profit to pay, we are able to sell directly to you at one-fourth to one-third less than other stores must charge. Anyone who has ever made a comparison knows this to be a fact.

So, starting with prices that are at least 25 per cent below those of others, we have for our Half-Yearly Sale of all small lots cut these less-than-others' prices a third and more. So you get a double saving on every garment you buy at this sale, and if you'll only compare our offerings with the so-called bargains of other stores, you'll be astonished to find how much you can save by buying here.

This is why it is economy to buy at Grafton's and extravagance to buy anywhere else.

All the best styles of the season are included in these special lots, and there are sizes to fit every man and young man.

BREEZE OVER A RADIAL

"I'll Feed the Detegates if That's What You're Afraid Of," Mr. Coo Shouted-People's Railway to Interview City.

There was a breeze at the session of the city council last night regarding a meeting with the promoters of the People's Railway of Berlin and Guelph. The incident created quite a bit of excitement.

"I would like to see the council give these men a rousing reception," declared Mr. W. C. Coo, who waited on the city in regard to the matter. "We need radial railways, and I think it would be to our advantage to have the council meet Mr. Bugg, the manager, and discuss the situation.

"I am not interested, except as a citizen," he explained. They wrote to me saying that they would like to meet the council here, and I have brought the matter before you. They will be in the city Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. · Looking for a Bonus.

Ald. Richter, in discussing the mat-ter, stated that the company was, in all probability, looking for a bonus from the municipality and for the citizens to take stock in the road. He also stated that he had visited the neighborhood not long ago, and railway operates through a township where it has no bylaw giving it the right to do so."

"Do not throw water on the scheme until you hear what it is," suggested "This is a matter for No. 1 committee," said Ald. Saunders, "I move that it be sent to that body."

Some Hot Shot.
"What is the use of that?" shot back Mr. Coo. "You can meet these men at 3:30 all right, and hear their proposition. So far as I know there is no suggestion of bonuses or anything of

DECLARES HAYS DIDN'T REFUSE TO ARBITRATE

Did Not Reject Positively as Reported, Says Strike Leader

Garreison.

Toronto. July 28 .- "That statement in one of the morning papers that Mr. Hays, president of the Grand Trunk, had positively refused to arbitrate at the conference we had with him yesterday in Montreal, is incorrect." said President Garretson, of the Order of Railroad Conductors. morning, when interviewed in the King Edward Hotel.

"What Mr. Hays did say was that would talk the matter over with Vice-President Fitzhugh, of the Grand Trunk, today, and communicate with us later. Both President Lee and my-self told him that he could catch us at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, any time today."

"Do you think Mr. Hayes will consent to arbitrate?" asked the reporter.
"I could not say, but I rather think he will, as there is great pressure beforces," was the answer.

Mission of Peace. Then Messrs. Garretson and Lee gave a full recital of what took place at the conference vesterday. We went to Mr. Hays and told him that we had heard that there were reerence with Reeve S. Frank Glass of ports around that our mission in Can-London township will be held to con- ada was one of war, which we assured him was false, and asserted that we were on an errand of peace if it could be secured with honor. trouble. Message to King.
"We then showed the following message we had sent to Mr. King. "After careful discussion and full reports as to existing conditions on the Grand Trunk, the fact that is brought into most prominence is, if both sides persist in the determination to fight it out to a finish, that communities, industries and the public, who are wholly dependent on the Grand Trunk service must continue to suffer both loss and hardship thereby. "Both sides should give consideration to the interests of those who suffer from the effects of the strike, and we fully approve and indorse the action of our representatives, Berry and Murdock, in indicating to you their willingness to leave the decision of the points of difference between the Grant Trunk Railway and their conductor

"We explained that we were ready to accept an impartial tribunal to deal with the matters between the parties.' "There was no mention then of the nationality of the arbitrators?" asked the reporter of Mr. Garretson.
"Not at all. We don't care a hang for nationality; our organization has none. All we ask is that the repre sentatives be men.

'Can we discuss that question and arrive at a settlement? "He did neither agree to nor refuse to agree to such a course. He raised the question as to how our men would return to the service. We told him of the men returning to their old positions, with the exception of those who had committed acts of violence, whom we would not defend in the least.

"We have already heard that some of your members are in jail," said Mr. "That may be," we answered, "but still that does not say that they are guilty of committing any act of violence, and we shall regard them as innocent until the law says they are guilty, and then we shall have nothing more to do with them. "If he retained his uncompromising attitude in the fight we clearly gave him to understand that it would be a fight to a finish, and that the burden of hardship forced upon the public would not be our fault when he had refused a pacific proposition.
