WILSON PLEADS IN EARNEST

For the Repeal of the Panama Tolls Bill by Congress.

Asks That Members Do the Large Thing as the Only One.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] WASHINGTON, March 5.—President Wilson personally appealed to Congress, assembled in joint session to-day to sustain the national honor of the United States in upholding treaty obligations by repealing the Panama tolls resumption against which Great Britain protests.

"I shall not know how to deal with other matters of even greater delicacy and nearer consequence if you do not grant it to me in ungrudging measure," said the president. "The large thing to do is the only thing we can afford to do; a voluntary withdrawal from a position everywhere questioned and misunderstood. We ought to reverse our action without raising the question whether we were right or wrong, and so once more disengage ourselves from the Panama tolls without quibble or hesitation."

President Wilson's address, the shortest he has yet delivered to Congress, was as follows: "Gentlemen of the congress: "I have come to you upon an errand which can be very briefly performed, but I beg that you will not measure its importance by the number of sentences in which I state it. No communication I have addressed to the Congress carried with it graver or more far-reaching implications to the country, and I come now to speak upon a matter with regard to which I am charged in a peculiar degree, by the constitution itself with personal responsibility."

"I have come to ask for the repeal of that provision of the Panama Canal act of August 24, 1912, which exempts vessels engaged in the coastwise trade of the United States from payment of tolls and to urge upon you the justice, the wisdom and the large policy of such a repeal with the utmost earnestness of which I am able."

"In my own judgment, very fully considered and maturely formed, that exemption constitutes a mistaken economic policy from every point of view and is moreover, in plain contravention of the treaty with Great Britain concerning the canal, concluded on Nov. 1901. But I have not come to you to urge my personal views. I have come to state to you a fact and a situation. Whatever may

United States Is Now Anxious For Good Will

Mexican Situation Arouses Ambitions of the Japs.

LONDON, March 5.—The policy of the United States towards Mexico to-day again occupies a leading place in the editorial columns of the English newspapers.

The Evening Standard discovers a "marked change in the whole trend of American foreign policy. Instead of 'haughty insolation' based on the strict letter of the Monroe doctrine, the United States is now becoming anxious to stand well with the European powers. The government at Washington is apprehensive lest it become involved in intervention in Mexico. Japan might seize the occasion to carry her ambitious designs on the Philippines and Hawaii into effect and believes that Europe if so desired could lay an embargo on Japanese ambitions."

Hon. Mr. Paterson Greatly Improved

PICTON, March 5.—Hon. Wm. Paterson, ex-Minister of Trade and Commerce at Ottawa, who has been ill at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Branscombe, is now well on the road towards recovery. A marked improvement has characterized his condition during the past few days. Towards the end of last week Mr. Paterson was seriously ill, but later was able to leave his room.

LIBERAL STATEMENT RESENTED

Not One Stone Cutter on Post Office is an American.

Secretary Fairley of the Local Union Issues a Statement.

At a recent meeting of the stone cutters union in this city, strong resentment was expressed at some of the declarations of Liberal M. P.'s in regard to the stone work on the new Brantford post office. Secretary Fairley of the stone cutters union, handed out an official statement to-day, "There is not one man," he declared "employed in stone work on the Brantford post office who is an American. As a matter of fact, the foreman, said to be a Yankee, is a Scotchman, as most of the stone cutters are, and he has had five years experience in this city. Our men are just as good stone workers as the United States or any other country can produce, and the insinuations given by some of the Liberals at Ottawa in the discussion in Parliament were founded on ignorance."

Mr. Fairley said that every man on the job was incensed at some of the things said. "As regards the stone itself, it was of a superior quality, and," said the secretary of the union, "if the quarry masters of Canada looked after their interests as well as we look after ours, there would have been no need of the discussion."

Sir Thomas Makes Denial

[By Special Wire to The Courier] MONTREAL, March 5.—When asked to-day to make a statement regarding the repeated rumors that he would take over the office of high commissioner for Canada, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy said: "These rumors are quite baseless, and I cannot understand how they got started. Even if my ambition lay in that direction and I was wanted I feel that the Canadian Pacific will have a lien on my services until I am too old to be of further use."

Old Woman Tells King To Build More Churches

COPENHAGEN, March 5.—King Christian was stopped as he was entering a new church here yesterday by an old woman, who seized his arm and exclaimed: "I must have a talk with you. The policemen were about to arrest the woman when the ruler forbade this, and smilingly shook hands with the woman and invited her to the palace. She replied: "God bless you, I want you to build more churches."

Another Reduction In Price of Times

LONDON, March 5.—It is learned on good authority that the Times will be reduced from twopence to a penny (two cents) in a few weeks. The price of the paper was reduced from threepence a short time ago, but the increase in circulation was only about 3,000 a day, and Lord Northcliffe, the proprietor, is looking for a large circulation.

"LIED TO SAVE HIS NECK" DECLARES FRED CAUDWELL RE ELLIS ON TRIAL FOR MURDER OF HIS WIFE

Brantford Merchant Completely Denounces Cowardice of Cincinnati Wife Slayer in An Interview Here Yesterday — Was Victim of Circumstances at a Hotel Resort — Widespread Interest in the Case.

(Special to the Courier) CHICAGO, March 5.—William Cheney Ellis, the wealthy Cincinnati manufacturer, who is on trial charged with having murdered his wife in a Chicago hotel last October, will probably know his fate before night.

Stephen A. Malato, assistant state's attorney, expected to make the closing arguments for the prosecution at the opening of court to-day. The case will then go to the jury. Counsel for Ellis completed their arguments last night at a special session of court. The prosecution expected to make another strong plea in their closing argument that Ellis be given the death penalty. Attorneys for Ellis pleaded transitory insanity.

Desire to hear the final arraignment of Ellis caused the corridors leading to the court-room to-day to be packed with a throng which included a large percentage of fashionably-dressed women. Every seat in the court-room was taken as Malato began his last attack on the defence's insanity plea. Six forms of verdict were prepared to be given to the jury when it retired.

Malato's final address was brief. He closed with a final demand that the death penalty be inflicted on Ellis, who, he argued, was fully responsible when he killed Mrs. Ellis. Judge Petit then instructed the jury.

In view of the widespread interest in the case in which W. C. Ellis is on trial for the murder of his wife in Chicago, in which the name of Mr. Fred Caudwell, of this city, has been mentioned, the Courier reproduces to-day a despatch sent by a staff reporter of the Chicago Daily News from Brantford yesterday. The despatch gives the complete statement of Mr. Caudwell, in connection with the matter, and reads as follows:

BRANTFORD, Ont., March 4.—William Cheney Ellis, filed the telegram in Cincinnati, which was read in court yesterday by Judge Adolor Petit, according to the belief of Fred G. Caudwell, senior member of the clothing firm of Caudwell & Beckett, this city, who emancipated the fair name of Mrs. Ellis in an interview with a reporter for The Daily News to-day.

In his interview, Caudwell made the following points: That Ellis sent the telegram in the hope of throwing suspicion upon his wife's character.

That he (Caudwell) was never in Chicago in his life.

That he avoided the company of Ellis and his wife while at Georgian Bay last summer, often waiting until they were through eating at the table before taking his meals.

That Ellis and his wife were inseparable, and it would have been impossible for anyone to have formed a clandestine friendship with the good woman.

That Mrs. Ellis was not the kind of woman that would permit advances from anyone.

That she was motherly, staid, and very lady-like, quiet woman, and was the least known person at the hotel, because of her refusal to mix with others at the hotel.

That her daughter was ever in her company to whom she was devoted, and she was ever talking of the little one she had left at home.

That Ellis invited him to visit them in Cincinnati, but he ignored the invitation and said he would not visit them.

That he avoided Ellis and his family because of the appearance of Ellis, who was evidently suffering from some malady which caused him to shun Ellis and his family.

That Ellis impressed him as a man that was afraid of himself, because of his nervousness, and that his appearance because of eruptions on his face and neck kept him from association with the other guests at the hotel.

That he never received any correspondence from Mrs. Ellis in his life and believed at the time of the telegram, and still believes, that Ellis sent the telegram. He declares that he did not think enough of the telegram to reply to it.

That he was not out of Brantford from the time he returned from his vacation until Christmas day.

That Ellis is sacrificing the fair name of his good wife for the sake of his own neck.

That Mrs. Ellis never gave him any reason to believe that she would entertain an advancement from any one and she would be the last woman in the world to send the telegram which is accredited to her.

Chief Slein's Annual Report

According to the report of Chief of Police Slein, which will be submitted at the annual meeting of the police commissioners next week, crime has increased in Brantford. The police department was called upon to handle a greater number of cases than ever, mostly of a minor nature. In the matter of drunks and disorderlies there was an increase in the number of cases over the previous year. The Chief in his report makes several recommendations, an increase in the personnel of the department being one of the proposals.

W.C. GOOD SPEAKS AT CONGRESS

Brantford Man Makes Himself Heard at Big Gathering.

Little Faith in the Newspapers to Get Wrong Righted.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] OTTAWA, Ont., March 5.—"Canada needs 100 Lloyd-Georges," said Rev. Prof. W. W. Andrews, of Regina, speaking on "Political Purity," at the Social Service Congress to-day. "And some Asquiths," shouted a delegate from the rear of the hall. "Anyone who is a good man," returned Prof. Andrews.

A vigorous defence of the Oriental people, especially the Chinese was advanced by the professor. "There is none better to mix with our blood than the Oriental," he said. "The people who carry the most grey matter over their shoulders are the Chinese. What is the matter with the Orientals. Are they too honest for us?"

He claimed that the Chinese in his home city Regina, shame the white people by their manifestation of the spirit of brotherhood. "There are three lizardly things that are corrupting politics," he went on. "One is graft, particularly rampant in the public works and purchasing departments of practically all governments. Another is, the tampering with the honor of legislators, and the third is the bribery of voters. Canada, and we need to admit women to the franchise."

Though he believed in the franchise being extended to women, Prof. Andrews explained that the woman voters can be tampered with will come with others who will appreciate and honor their right and privilege to vote. "But there will be no question which way the trend will be. If democracy is to be safe there must be developed in the people a higher social conscience and higher intelligence. This is the only way of safety."

A comprehensive report on election conditions throughout the Dominion was presented by Rev. S. E. Gregg, B.A., chairman of the committee on political purity, and changes of marked importance were suggested. The report was obtained "from writers of political authority," and while some believed corruption was a glaring factor, others thought it was greatly exaggerated.

In many of the Ontario constituencies, the report stated there were from 200 to 1,000 electors whom the machine men knew they could swing. Few had any idea of the degradation to which some electors had fallen.

The number of candidates who have the "barrel" are more and more in evidence at every "election," the report continued. "It is nothing to be told, 'Mr. Blank,' newly rich, is nominated and ought to be elected." Fourteen per cent. of the writers believe this condition to be true; 38 per cent. admit it in a degree; while 30 per cent. say the irregularities are trifling.

GAVE GIRL WHISKEY ON DRIVE

Children's Aid Authorities are Investigating Case.

Girl Registered at Local Hotel and He Came in Later.

Authorities described Ethel Dunn's disappearance and subsequent reappearance as merely a young girl's escapade. There is only one thing to it, she got caught at it merely because she was under the supervision of the Children's Aid Society. It turns-out that she left her employers house and was parading the streets when she was accosted by a young man who happened to have a rig at his disposal. He suggested a ride, and she welcomed the idea and they together travelled into the country.

It was late when they arrived back and the girl was afraid to go home, and after wandering around with the man, who gave the name of John Mack, she went to the Imperial Hotel where she registered as Miss Jones of no address, on Sunday afternoon. On Monday Mack registered in the book under that name and took a room and stayed at the hotel until Tuesday morning, when he departed. She remained until Wednesday and she left during the morning. On Tuesday night she was out and had a walk around the town at night, but it is not known whom she spoke to or walked with. She on that occasion was absent for a considerable time. Her whereabouts were then discovered and Mr. Axford had no difficulty in locating her. There is no suggestion of white slaying, and Mack, who is being sought, will only be charged with supplying liquor to a minor. She says that he gave her a great deal of whiskey while they were out driving and that she hardly knew what she was doing. She, like many other girls who have been participants in escapades, is very reticent about what occurred. The girl may have made a slip, but the authorities think that the suggestions of immorality have been exaggerated. greatly exaggerated. The man said to be the chief offender of the two was the name of John Mack, and his signature on the register at the Imperial shows little sign of culture. It is principally a scrawl and intimates that the writer came from Belleville. From its character, Mack evidently was trying to disguise his calligraphy. The name "Miss Jones," as written betrayed signs of nervousness. Mack, as he is supposed to be, was working for the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, and he lodged at 47 Arthur street. Immediately he had any suspicions that he might be wanted by the police he put on his coat and his clothes at his lodgings, and since then has not been seen. No charge of abduction can be laid against him, as she went with him of her own accord, and she registered before he was seen at the hotel. He had also left before she did, so that there seems to be very little abduction in the whole affair. She ascribes the whole incident to the fact that she was practically drugged with whiskey.

PROPOSE TO BRING CHANCELLOR TO BOOK

LONDON, March 5.—Sir John Randles, a Unionist member of parliament, has given notice that he will move in the House on March 10 the following resolution:

"That the House contemplates with regret the repeated inaccuracies of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and his gross and unfounded attacks on individuals."

Mr. Lloyd George has postponed an engagement at Cambridge so that he may be in the House to make a reply.

Mr. Building Permits. Building permits were issued this morning for a new floor and ceiling in store, 182 Dalhousie St., to G. Jarvis, cost $75; H. J. Wallace, 291 Brant avenue, for a frame garage, covered with iron to cost $100, and to A. C. Lyons, 68 Colborne Street for alterations to his store front at a cost of $1,000.

ATLANTIC FLIGHT NOT YET FEASIBLE

Winston Churchill Thinks Airmen's Hopes Are Premature.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] LONDON, March 5.—Winston S. Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, whose enthusiasm for aviation has been often demonstrated, does not share the belief of those who regard the plan for a flight across the Atlantic as feasible. In the course of a speech at a dinner of the Aero Club last evening, Mr. Churchill said: "We are talking to-day of flying across the Atlantic in a mere hopeful tone than they of four years ago took of flying across the Channel. I am bound to say I think that an attempt to fly across the Atlantic in present circumstances is premature. An undue element of risk appears to be attached to any such enterprise, but the progress in the science of aviation has been enormous and it cannot be doubted that in the near future we may see heavy aeroplanes or great airships making voyages as a matter of common experience, which nowadays would be regarded as extraordinary accomplishments."

The First Lord contended that Great Britain should have the foremost place in aviation, but although he recognized the brilliant achievements of civilians, he added that nothing but the supreme stimulus of considerations of war and generous contributions on the part of the taxpayers can carry her to that place. The art of science of flying, he went on, afforded a fairer field for emulation than many games which entered into the program for international contests. The risks of flying, although they cannot be denied, have been very much exaggerated, they are not, Mr. Churchill said, unduly excessive. More lives have been lost in submarines than in aviation service since he had been in the Admiralty.

How Temperance Sentiment Has Grown In Brantford And County in Past Years

The Blue Book of the Ontario Liquor License Department, just issued, gives interesting statistics regarding Brantford and Brant county, which show in a marked degree the growth of temperance sentiment by the reduction of licenses. In the year 1874 Brant county, exclusive of Brantford, had 95 taverns and 29 shops where liquor was sold under provincial license. To-day there are only four taverns and one shop outside of Brantford, and they are in the town of Paris. In 1877 the Dunkin Act was enforced, when there were no licenses but lots of liquor. In 1885 there were 44 taverns and 7 shops. In 1886 and for two years following the Canada Temperance Act was in force. In 1889 the number of tavern licenses was 26 and shops 2. In 1909 the number was 16 taverns and 1 shop, while the next year local option cut all off except those in the town of Paris.

In Brantford the reduction has been steady, but not so pronounced as in the county. In 1886 the city had 19 taverns, 5 shops and 3 wholesale houses. From 1887 to 1894 the number of taverns remained at 18, shops 5 and wholesale houses 1. From 1895 to 1899 there were 16 taverns and 4 shops, but in 1900 and 1901 the number of taverns was increased to 17. In 1910 only 9 licenses were issued to hotels and 3 to shops, following reductions made by the City Council.

In regard to revenue, Paris derives $532 yearly and Brantford $2350. The total collected in licenses in this city is $6124. The Blue Book also shows the enforcement. In North Brant there were two convictions against licensees and 7 against non-license holders. In South Brant no convictions were registered against license-holders and 23 against non-licensees, in local option territory chiefly. There were also three dismissals.

HOME RULE
BILL READ
FIRST TIME

Introduced Amid Cheers in House of Commons To-day

[By Special Wire to The Courier] LONDON, March 5.—The Home Rule for Ireland Bill was introduced again into the House of Commons to-day by Augustine Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland was read a first time amid prolonged Ministerial and Nationalist cheers.

The government has succeeded in keeping secret the nature of the concessions to be offered by Premier Asquith on Monday when the bill comes up for its second reading. According to reports from officials closely connected with the Cabinet, however, Premier Asquith will simply propose that any Irish county by a plebiscite vote itself out of the operation of the bill for a period of three years. It is generally regarded in parliamentary circles as certain that the Unionists will reject any concessions Premier Asquith is likely to offer.

Will Purify
Water Supply

Announcement Made To-day by Medical Health Officer.

It was announced to-day that the water supply of the city would be chlorinated. When Secretary Frank was asked regarding the matter he referred the Courier to Medical Health Officer Pearson for an explanation. Dr. Pearson announced that there was absolutely nothing to be alarmed about as regards the step decided upon, but it was being carried out more as a safeguard against possibilities than any present danger. "You see," said Dr. Pearson "certain changes are now being effected at the waterworks galleries. These changes might render the filtration not as good as it otherwise might be affected. As a matter of precaution I have advised that the water be chlorinated and this process will be carried out pending the completion of waterworks extension."

D Company

Soccer Championships of Dufferins Won by Team.

The championship of the regiment in soccer has fallen to the lot of D company who won one of the finest contests seen at the Armories last evening by the close score of three to two. Playing well, E company obtained the first goal and then they appeared to be over confident and before they could retaliate, D company had scored twice and holding their own, and at half time D company were leading. Upon the resumption E company equalized and playing briskly made things hum. Just before the close, however, D men rushed their opponents and amid great jubilation scored the goal which obtained for them the title. Perhaps it is not wise to individualize but the honors of the night were taken by Forgie who was the best man on the floor. He played a magnificent defending game. The line up was: D company: Martin, Williams, Marton, Vining, Owne and McCloud. E Co.: J. Scanlon, T. Williams, H. Collins.

Owing to some local boxing bouts the Dufferins soft ball men who accepted the challenge sent out from the Courier, will not be able to play the game as accepted on Friday night. They will make arrangements for a future date.

CANADA'S FIRST GASOLINE AUTOMOBILE
To Mr. John Moodie, of Hamilton, Ontario, is attributed the great honor of having been the first owner of a real gasoline automobile in Canada. This particular car was a Winton, which Mr. Moodie afterwards sold to Dr. P. E. Doollittle of Toronto, who is credited with having been the first owner of a gasoline car in the City of Toronto, and many are the people who in olden days used to smile at the doctor pushing this car home with the assistance of a few sympathizers.

Mr. Moodie is probably the best posted autoist in Canada. He has owned and driven many cars since he purchased his first car, and is now the possessor of two magnificent Daimlers, a splendid limousine and a large touring car and owns as well a powerful roadster of another make.

Mr. Moodie has toured all over America and throughout the British Isles and the Continent several times, running over there almost every spring of summer for an enjoyable auto trip.

Mr. Moodie sails from Halifax for Europe en route for his annual auto trip on the great new Allan Liner S. S. "Alsatian," on March 28th. After an exhaustive research at the Toronto Motor Show and elsewhere, Mr. Moodie has chosen a "KEETON" new model 4-35 touring car as the most appropriate car in which to make a quick classy luxurious and thoroughly enjoyable motor trip, with his family in the British Isles.

He is taking a "Keeton" 4-35 with him in preference to all other Canadian, American and English cars, which he has thoroughly investigated, and this decision in the light of his experience as an owner and operator of many and all kinds of motor cars, covering many years must necessarily prove intensely interesting to all owners and operators of automobiles.

Price of Footwear is to Advance, It is Rumored.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] LONDON, Ont., March 5.—As an important centre of boot and shoe manufacturing this city is greatly interested in the reports from various points throughout Canada and the United States that the prices of boots and shoes and all other commodities manufactured from leather will soon be advanced. Leading manufacturers of this city when interviewed declared that an advance in price was inevitable. It was pointed out that the price of shoes like any other material is governed by the cost of material plus the cost of manufacture, and the present situation is that while the cattle supply of the world is steadily decreasing the world's population is increasing. Besides leather is being used in large quantities for the automobile and other businesses drawing largely on the already meagre supply. The manufacturers also claim that the labor costs are steadily advancing every revision being in favor of the operators.

EVANTUREL'S CASE

Mr. Evanturel, Liberal member for Prescott, who sought to sell his influence in the House to the liquor men for $10,000, has now had it put up to him to resign or stand worse consequences.

In a letter to the chamber he admitted "thoughtlessness and foolishness," and sought to smooth matters over with an apology.

That was a very mild manner indeed in which to attempt to escape from one of the most reprehensible actions ever charged against any representative. Hon. Mr. Foy, who is leading the House during the absence of Sir James Whitney, very properly stated that such would not be enough, and in this Mr. Rowell, leader of the Opposition, also concurred.

Evanturel proved himself false to his oath as member, recreant to a proper sense of parliamentary obligation, and in addition tried to sell an influence which he should have held to be sacred. If he has at last developed a recognition of the enormity of his utterly indefensible conduct he should get out without any more ado and be mighty thankful to escape so easily.

INTERIOR REPORT

The fortieth annual report of the Department of the Interior for the year ending with March 1913 has just been issued.

A general advance, with few exceptions, may be noted over the records of the preceding year. There has been, however, a decrease in the number of homestead entries, this falling off being due partly to the great demand for homestead lands and the consequent necessity of going farther from present transportation facilities, but due also, doubtless, to the increased capital brought to Canada by many settlers, particularly those from the United States which has enabled many to purchase land near railways and towns rather than homesteads in districts not so well served by railways. Attention is called to the financial statements showing that the total cash revenue from all sources has increased during the year from $6,714,734 to $9,533,945, an advance of almost $3,000,000. This revenue has increased about seven-fold in the past 10 years. It is interesting to note that the immigrant arrivals of the year established a high water mark, the arrivals numbering over 400,000, which is almost 50,000 beyond the record of any preceding year. It is gratifying to observe that of this large immigration 150,000 came from the British Isles. It is also worthy of mention that the immigration of agriculturists and domestics continues to hold a large place in the general returns, the number of domestics having increased in the last ten years from 3,500 to 20,000, and the agriculturists from 30,278 to about 70,000 in the past year. The 34,000 homesteads entries, it is estimated, account for the settlement of over 80,000 people on the free lands of the West, and when there are added to this figure the large number who have purchased land in the Prairie Provinces, and the thousands of farmers and farm laborers who have settled in other Provinces of the Dominion, it is evident that a considerable percentage of immigration continues to turn to agricultural pursuits.

AN INDEPENDENT VIEW

The Hamilton Herald (Independent) during the course of an editorial says:

"Mr. Verille of Maisonneuve, is nominally a member of the Independent Labor party but his record as a member of parliament proves him to be really a Liberal. It is not on record that he ever said or did anything out of parliament to embarrass the Laurier government. On the contrary, in connection with the eight-hour bill the suspicion was so strong that he acted in collusion with the then minister of labor to suppress the bill, that he was subjected to much criticism by representative labor men. Since the present government came into office however Mr. Verille has been very much 'on the job' as an independent champion of labor in parliament, his championship consisting mainly of attacks on the government, particularly the minister of labor, on account of sins of omission or commission.

The resolution of censure on the minister of labor introduced yesterday by Mr. Verille would have been more convincing if it had been more moderate. For, evidently, it was moved with a view to political effect. To charge Mr. Crothers with 'persistent neglect and absolute indifference' in connection with the miners strike in Vancouver Island was rather too much. The minister went out to the scene of the trouble, made investigations, endeavored vainly to induce the parties to the dispute to have the dispute arbitrated under the provisions of the Lemieux act, appointed a special commission to make a thorough investigation and submit a report. It is possible that the minister may have done more. It is possible that he was convinced by what he heard and saw that there were faults on both sides, and that his sympathy with the strikers was not so warm as the labor men would have desired. It is possible that when the miners defied the act and went on strike unlawfully, without giving the labor department a chance to take action, the minister was unduly resentful. He may not have been as energetic as he might have been; but to charge him with 'persistent neglect and absolute indifference' is sufficient to stamp his accuser as a prejudiced partisan.

In his defence Mr. Crothers turned the tables on one of his assailants, E. M. Macdonald of Picton, quite effectively. Mr. Macdonald had charged the minister with being unjustly prejudiced against the United Mine Workers' organization. Mr. Crothers produced letters written by Mr. Macdonald at the time of the Miners' strike in Nova Scotia, urging the department of labor to take legal proceedings against the United Mine Workers who went on strike, and proposing that legislation be enacted to prevent American labor leaders entering Canada to promote strikes. The production of these letters must have been embarrassing to Mr. Macdonald.

SPEAKING OUT IN MEETING

A prominent writer of the United States, who is well acquainted with the countries of South America, talks out in a very plain way with reference to the Mexican situation.

He says that no matter what Government has been in power the men at Washington, and Americans generally, do not seem to realize that the peoples in question are altogether different from themselves, and that their viewpoint is not at all akin in any direction.

With these things taken into account, he states that the Mexicans and the others would be much more amenable to suggestions from Uncle Sam than they have ever yet proved. As for the Monroe doctrine, he declares it to be absolutely dead and not taken into any consideration at all by the nations supposed to come within its scope.

Incidentally the writer pays a very high tribute to the wonderful success and the diplomacy with which John Bull manages to handle alien races. He instances, among other examples, India and Egypt, where teeming millions are governed and held in leash by a mere handful of administrators and soldiers. He accounts for this on the basis of a thoroughly trained set of diplomats, the close and intelligent study of racial thought and feeling, the entire absence of interference with castes, religions, and so on, and the prompt promotion to positions of responsibility to natives who prove themselves worthy. Any student of history will recognize the absolute correctness of this diagnosis.

A FINE COMPANY

The annual report of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada tells a very pleasing story to policy holders and all concerned. In addition to the transfer of a sufficient sum to bring the surplus up to $5,732,986 there was a distribution of profits of $706,424. The fact that since 1872 the income has grown from $48,210 to $13,996,401, assets from $96,461 to $55,726,347 and assurance in force from $1,064,350 to $202,363,096 constitutes abundant evidence of the high regard in which this institution deservedly stands in public estimation and of good management.

Mr. Thomas Hendry, the manager for this district ranks high among the best of the officers of the company in that capacity.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Evanturel apparently believes that he was honest in his dishonesty.

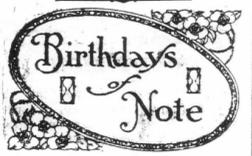

Surgeons have separated Siamese twins recently born in France. Now the mother will know which one to spank should occasion so arise.

Toronto bank clerks have organized for the promotion of their interests. For handling the coin they seem to think that this also will prove a coin of advantage.

President Wilson's message with regard to the keeping of a solemn obligation entered into with John Bull regarding the Panama Canal tolls is a most manly document. All honor to him for it.

At a special meeting of Woodstock City Council it was decided to ask Mr. E. W. Nesbitt, M.P., for North Oxford, to earnestly protest at Ottawa against Tilbury gas unless purified. The popularity in all quarters of that article cannot exactly be termed as intense, although the odor is, and then some.

It is proposed at Ottawa to increase the salary of the Canadian High Commissioner in the Old Land from $10,000 to $30,000. That will be just $14,300 more than the Premier receives, including his sessional indemnity of $2500. However, the demands upon such an official in London are very heavy if he upholds the prominence of the post in a proper manner, and no Canadian would wish for anything less than that.

THURSDAY, MARCH FIFTH

The Hon. L. A. Taschereau, Minister of Public Works for Quebec, is forty-seven years of age today.

He is the most distinguished living representative of one of the greatest French-Canadian families that ever lived in this country. A nephew of the late Cardinal Taschereau he was also related closely to the late Chief Justice Taschereau.

His father, grandfather and great grandfather were all judges and took a prominent part in the administration of the law in Lower Canada. He himself is a lawyer of high reputation, enjoying probably the most extensive practice in Quebec City, and will doubtless himself occupy a seat on the Bench in due time. Meanwhile he works hard at his dual task of administering an important state department and carrying on a big legal practice.

PLAIN SPEECH.

Old Ebenezer Jimpson Jinks takes pride in saying what he thinks. "I do not mince my words," says he, "but speak my mind out, bold and free; and if I do not like a gent, I make it plainly evident; I air my views to beat the band, and people know just where I stand." He takes a foolish pride methinks, does Ebenezer Jimpson Jinks, in being rude and rough of speech, but few regard him as a peach. He keeps his neighbors hot and sore, and they denounce him as a bore. "We'd pay the freight," they often say, "if he would only move away!" And people dodge him on the street; they hate to hear old Jinks' repeat "his honest views" on this and that, which views are spoken through his hat. When he steps to join a crowd, you'd think a cold and clammy shroud had fallen on that bunch of men, who all disperse, to meet again when there's no Jinks to give the blues expounding "his straightforward views." If you would have a grist of friends you'll bear in mind that friendship ends, and cordial feeling slinks behind, when you begin to "speak your mind."

be our own difference of opinion, concerning this much debated measure, its meaning is not debated outside the United States. Everywhere else the language of the treaty is given but one interpretation and that interpretation precludes the exemption I am asking you to repeal. We consented to the treaty; its language we accepted; if we did not originate it; and, we are too big, too powerful, too self-respecting a nation to interpret with too strained or refined a reading of words of our own promises just because we have power enough to give us leave to read them as we please. The large thing to do is the only thing we can afford to do; a voluntary withdrawal from a position everywhere questioned and misunderstood. We ought to reverse our action without raising the question whether we were right or wrong, and so once more deserve our reputation for generosity and the redemption of every obligation without quibble or hesitation.

"I ask this of you in support of the foreign policy of the administration. I shall not know how to deal with other matters of even greater delicacy and nearer consequence if you do not grant it to me in ungrudging measure." The Panama tolls question has been a subject of dispute for nearly two years. Diplomatic correspondence between Great Britain and the United States found the question unsettled when President La Follette left office. Except for an assurance to James Bryce, then British ambassador, when he left the United States a year ago that the question would be taken up in the regular session of Congress, President Wilson has never directed any official communication to England on the tolls question. The President recently told callers he had never discussed the matter formally or informally with the British Ambassador here, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, because he believed the obligation on the part of the United States to repeal the exemption clause was one which the United States government itself should realize without outside influence or pressure. Administration leaders in both House and Senate have assured the President that with the delivery of a message by him showing that national circumstances had arisen since the measure was last debated, the President's suggestion for repeal would be met with prompt action.

"LIED TO SAVE HIS NECK" DECLARES FRED CAUDWELL

Mr. Caudwell's Story.

There is Caudwell's story as told to a reporter for The Daily News: "I met the Ellis family at the Obijway Hotel, Point Aux Barques, Georgian Bay, last September," he said. "They were stopping at that hotel and they were assigned to seats at the table at which I dined. This was the only place that I met any of the Ellis family at any time, unless it was to remark the time of day while they were on the porch together."

"It was my vacation time, and I spent fourteen days at the resort and Mr. and Mrs. Ellis and their seven year old daughter were there about seven of the fourteen days that I was there. I never spent ten minutes in their company, outside of the time at meals. Ellis often carried on quite a conversation at the table, and told me of his losses in the harness business because of the introduction of the automobile into service. He was very nervous at all times."

"Mrs. Ellis seemed an older woman than those with whom I associated. She seemed more motherly than anyone at the hotel. She was devoted to her daughter, and I do not believe that I ever saw her any place that the little girl was not on her arm, with her fondling her and playing with her or telling her stories, or singing to her. Mrs. Ellis seemed very happy in the love of her children, and if one let her, she would talk for hours about the little one at home. Once at the table, she said: 'I am afraid I bore you, Mr. Caudwell, with my talk about the little one at home, because you are a young man and don't seem to be interested in those things.'"

"The Ellis' never joined in the parties of the guests at the hotel. They seemed to want to stay by themselves. They would go out together in a row boat fishing, taking the little girl with them and would spend the whole day, after which they would retire early and never take part in the whist games in the hotel parlor in the evening."

"All Mrs. Ellis seemed to worry about was the health of her husband and the comfort of her children. She did not seem to care anything about anything else that happened. The couple—rather the three would go for walks together always alone, and the entering of my name into this case is an outrage, although it has not hurt me among my friends who have known me for years and have since expressed their confidence in me. When a man lives in a town like Brantford for 15 years and has been in business for 12 years, the inhabitants pretty nearly know what his character and habits are. My friends have stood with me in this matter, and they feel as I do that this man Ellis is trying to sacrifice the reputation of his wife, and my reputation in the hope of saving his own neck from the gallows, for the cowardly act which he committed."

"I sincerely believe that it was Ellis and not Mrs. Ellis that sent the telegram to me. I think that he planned to kill his wife for some other reason and thought this would be the best defence that could be made. It is very apparent that he handled the telegram, for it is not logical to believe that if his wife were to file a telegram of that kind that she would leave any trace of it where her husband could find it and follow her to wreak out his revenge."

"I thought the telegram that I received was from Mr. Ellis when I got it, for I did not remember his initials as it was signed 'E. H. Ellis.' I ignored the telegram entirely because I was not anxious to have anything to do with the Ellis family."

"The first I knew of my name having been connected with the case was when Chief of Police Slemmin of the Brantford Police Department called and informed me that I was implicated in a murder case. About the same time a friend of mine called me up and asked me if I had seen the papers. He told me I was mixed up in a murder case and I told him to stop his joking."

"Chief Slemmin satisfied himself that I was not out of Brantford and wired the Chicago authorities to that effect. 'I was never in Cincinnati or Chicago in my life, although Ellis told me that when I got to Cincinnati to come and visit him and his family. I told him I thought I would never get to Cincinnati. Mrs. Ellis never gave me any invitation of this kind, and she was a woman that I never would have taken for one who would give anyone an invitation of this kind, unless it as prompted by her husband. 'Ellis never gave any intimation of his jealousy and it is the last thing that ever entered my head. I cannot understand why he picked me out of the hundred guests at that hotel, unless it was because I sat at the same table with them.'"

Their room at the hotel was on the second floor, while mine was on the third floor and there was no reason for any feeling because of the closeness of the rooms."

"Ellis did not drink much while he was up there, although he told me that he had been a heavy drinker in his day."

"I often waited until they had left the table to avoid their company and I kept away from Ellis outside because of his appearance. He had eruptions on his neck and face, which made me believe he was not in my station in life, and I kept away from him and his."

"Ellis impressed me as an inferior man, who was afraid of himself because of his nervousness and he also felt the cast of his appearance."

"I was not out of Brantford from the time I returned from my vacation until Christmas day."

"It seems to me to be an awful situation when a man becomes so devoid of humanity and feeling for himself that he will cast into the discard the reputation of a woman like this. She seemed to me to be as pure and self-respecting as any woman I ever saw. She was motherhood itself, sweet-tempered, loving, realizing the responsibility of what motherhood meant, careful of her offspring, cheerful in her suffering—for I believe she suffered because of her husband's condition. She seemed to be a woman who felt that she had made her row and she intended to hoe it, regardless of what the world thought, or what it did to prevent her doing so."

"This attempt to blast her character, in my opinion, is a carefully-laid plot, because if nothing else would keep her from sending that telegram, it would be the love that she showed for her two children, and the love that I saw she held for the one that she had with her."

"I don't think that the courts of the United States will be fooled by this man. I would have gone to Chicago to testify if I felt that I could do that woman's name any good, but I feel that by making my statement to the public, and expressing the same words as I would give as a witness, I can do as much as I could by neglecting my business to go to Chicago."

"If there is no more reason for the killing of Mrs. Ellis than her relations with me, her spirit must be hovering over the courtroom, swallowing bitterly the attacks upon her name which are being made unjustly by a man who apparently was a coward from the start."

Fred G. Caudwell is a man 35 years of age, although his appearance is that he has not lived that many years in experience, for he does not show the years like a man who has lived that long in the larger city. He is an unmarried man and boards at 120 Darling street, where he has lived for several years. His home is in Reading, England, where his parents live, and he was educated at Caversham Hall, Windsor, England. He came to the Dominion at the age of 17 years, and was a cricket, boxing and football expert at college. He is a tall, medium-built, athletic chap, with a pompadour of black hair, a handsome face, and his dress is that of the modest sartorial expert. His dress follows closely the business he is in. He seems to have learned to dress from his experience in his business. He has been engaged in the business here for 12 years, originally as Caudwell & Company, until he took in his partner, His sincerity and the flash of his eye as he refers to Ellis' bringing his name into the case does not bid very well for that man who is on trial for his life in Chicago."

He read with interest the transcript of the evidence taken in Judge Petit's court yesterday, and then unburdened himself of any part he might have had in besmirching the name of the murdered woman. Townsfolk look upon him as one of their foremost citizens, and as he walks along the street in his town he is greeted by persons by the score. He is a man that a woman could fall in love with, but he also is a man that could hold off the attention of anyone whom he did not choose to associate with. Such is the case of the

RAS SAID HE COULD CURE LAME HOSS—POLICE NEWS

Israel Himel Charged With Cruelty in Case This Morning

A wanderer from Palestine named Israel Himel found his way into the City Police Court this morning in answer to a summons charging him with cruelty to a horse. He pleaded that he had done with the animal and had handed it over to Ras, Clouse, who said that he could cure it. He brought the animal in from Woodstock and knowing it was lame, proceeded to discard it with characteristic caution. To this end he took the lame horse to Ras, who thereupon accepted all responsibility with regard to the condition of the horse. P. C. Borthwick discovered the animal there and it was too weak to rise to its feet and several men had to assist it. Dr. Cutcliffe testified as to the condition of the nag and corroborated the P. C.'s evidence. Ras Clouse would not have the responsibility palmed upon him as the Hebrew attempted and said the horse was still the property of Israel, although it was in his stable. He had not as alleged by the defendant, undertaken to pay all fines which might be inflicted in case the animal was discovered. Found guilty, Israel has got to pay the fine of $10 and costs, $11.85 in all or suffer incarceration for 10 days.

FIERCE RIOT AT LABORITE RALLY

Militants Started Battle in Which Hair Was Pulled and Faces Scratched.

LONDON, March 5.—Militant suffragettes last night gave further proof that their bitterest animosity is reserved for the Labor party, the only political party which has espoused their cause. As soon as J. Ramsay MacDonald, chairman of the Labor party began speaking at a Labor party rally in Memorial Hall, suffragettes in all parts of the chamber aided by a number of male supporters started to howl him down.

Women ushers had been engaged to deal with women interruptors of the meeting and male to take care of masculine disturbers, but as "bouncers" for their own sex the women proved failures, and the men had to take over their duties. For nearly an hour a fierce struggle raged in the hall. There were frequent free fights between men, while women grabbed one another by the hair and scratched faces and tore clothing. Windows were smashed and chairs broken during the disorder.

Eventually the police were summoned to restore order and Mr. MacDonald got a chance to finish his speech. In concluding he said that if the vote could be gained for women by turning out the government the Labor party would assist them.

The worst enemy to the women's cause, he declared, were the militant suffragettes, of whose methods the people in the hall had just had a striking illustration.

WANDERERS DID THE UNEXPECTED

Defeated the Torontos in a Brilliant Game by 7-5.

TORONTO, March 5.—The unexpected has happened in this city last night when the Wanderers defeated the Torontos by 7 to 5 in the final N. H. A. fixture of the season. The Wanderers' victory, along with the defeat of the Torontos by the Canadiens at Montreal leaves Torontos and Canadiens tied for the honours, and home and home games will probably be played with total goals on the round to count. Torontos' defeat was a great surprise. True, the Wanderers played brilliantly, but it is equally true that the Torontos did not come up to form. Much dissatisfaction was expressed by local fans at the way the Torontos played.

Torontos started well, rushing the play and talking twice in the first period, while the visitors scored one. The Torontos had the best of the play up to this stage, then things changed. In the remaining two periods there was nothing to it but Wanderers, Walker and Foyston displayed their regular form and were alone in this respect, so far as the local team was concerned. Davidson replaced him with "Cully" Wilson in the last period, during which Wilson scored twice. In the Wanderers team there was not a weak spot. Ross and H. Cleghorn were in magnificent form and Warwick was strong in goal. Roberts and Hylav were the most effective of their forwards and Hyland was the chief goal getter of the visitors.

Canadiens Turned Defeat Into Victory. MONTREAL, March 5.—Canadiens turned what looked like defeat into victory in the closing moments of their meeting with Torontos at the Arena last night. In the early stages the visitors had the edge on the locals, and although the flying Frenchmen secured the decision of 2-5 to 3 score, there was hardly that difference in the play of the two teams. Torontos determined to do all in their power to help Torontos win the championship by beating Canadiens, played the locals off their feet for the first period and through the greater part of the third session.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURE ALL KIDNEY DISEASES BRIGIT'S DISEASE DIABETES BACKACHE

Sporting Comment

A member of the Duffs is credited with the following statement: "Why, we will beat their heads off; just watch."

The Duffs have accepted the challenge of the "Picked Team" from the soft ball league and the game is scheduled for Friday night.

President Fitzgerald is doing all in his power to get the National Commission to take a sworn statement of the municipal census and thus give the league a higher rating.

Skiing is becoming a popular sport in Eastern Canada. Swiss experts have been brought over to Canada to teach the Canadians the art of handling skis.

The All Stars have refused to give their line-up saying they have a number of "dark horses" whom they don't wish to uncover until Friday night. They are confident that they will make the Duffs look like ten cents but the Duffs are from Missouri and, therefore, they will have to be shown.

It is hoped by the lovers of sport in general that the management of the boxing bouts will start the bill-to-morrow night sharp at 8.15, the scheduled time. All the previous fights have been late in starting and the crowd gets restless and then when the curtain goes up they are naturally noisy. Another thing it helps to keep the people away. So for their own good it would be wiser to start promptly.

The National Commission has refused to give the Canadian League a Class B rating and they give two reasons for not granting it. The first is that Torontos having an International League team the population of that city cannot be counted and the other is that the remaining cities have not the required number of residents in them. The census they get their authority from was taken ten years ago. This hardly seems fair to the Canadian League for all the cities have grown since that census was taken and now there is not the shadow of a doubt but that the league could run over the required 100,000 to make it a Class B organization.

A London cable yesterday had the following: Although Wells in his attempt to come back knocked out Bandsman Blake in the fourth round, at the Palladium last night, it was a sorry victory and did little to enhance the reputation of the Bombardier, who has now the title of English champion. For two rounds Wells showed all his old nervousness and boxed like a novice, the better man. He followed Carpenter's methods, but without Carpenter's skill. The fact that he was knocked out in the fourth round was more by bad luck than good fighting on the part of Wells.

It was generally admitted at the ringside that the Bombardier had never had two rounds against a real champion like Johnson or Langford. The fight by rounds: First round—Blake got to work quickly and began to force the pace. Fighting at close quarters, he drove Wells around the ring, putting in some heavy face and body blows. Blake's round.

Second round—The bandsman started off with a rush, sending a series of rights and lefts to the face. Wells showing great nervousness, making few attempts to retaliate. Blake's round.

Third round—Wells began to get aggressive, and adopting Blake's tactics staggered the bandsman with a succession of heavy body blows. Blake went to his corner in distress. Wells' round.

Fourth round—Blake apparently recovered again and began to force the pace, but before the round was half over Wells connected with the bandsman's jaw, putting him down for the count.

HAMILTON LADIES LOST TO BRANTFORD

Two Teams of Basketballs From the Ambitious City Go Down to Defeat Last Night.

Two teams of Hamilton Y. W. C. A. basketballeters journeyed to this city last night by special car, bringing along a good crowd of followers, and met defeat at the hands of two local teams of young ladies. A junior team from the Hamilton Y. W. C. A. suffered a severe trouncing at the hands of the B. C. I. girls to the tune of 24-5. The visitors were clearly outclassed in team work and their shooting was inaccurate. On their showing last night, the girls have it on some of the male basketball teams in the art of checking. In fact the girls all played their checks almost perfectly, and whenever a girl would get the ball an opponent was always there to check her hand.

But it was in the shooting department that the locals had it on the visitors, and in this department Miss Margaret Matthews was the star. This young lady was undoubtedly the best shot on the floor last night in either game. It was a treat to see her shoot at the basket. Cool and deliberate, she never failed to make a shot dead on the cage, and as a result she scored the largest majority of the Brantford goals. All the other members of the team played good games, both on the defense and the offensive.

For Hamilton, the Pyke sisters on the forward line, were perhaps the best, but the whole team put up a plucky fight. They were a plucky bunch, and credit must be given them for the game fight they made, considering the odds they were playing against.

The first half was Brantford all the way, and the half time score stood 12 to 2 in their favor. The second half opened with the Hamilton girls playing an aggressive game and for a while they had the locals on the run. However the Collegiate girls pulled together and scored 12 more baskets, making the final score 24 to 5. The teams: Hamilton (5)—Defense, Misses Brunt and Fitzsimmons; centre, Miss G. Pyke; forwards, Miss M. Pyke and Miss Gough.

Brantford (24)—Defense, Misses Gaffney and Ames; centre, Miss Longstreet; forwards, Misses Matthews and Walker. Referees—Edginton, Hamilton, and Slemm, Brantford.

The second game was faster than the first one, and if anything a rougher. The Hamilton girls were up as decidedly the better man. They were the contestants, and the players mixed it considerably. The game had to be called before full time to allow the Hamilton girls to catch their car.

The game was itself full of thrills and the girls checked even better than in the first one. The final score was 8 to 7 in favor of the locals, and of the 5 points scored by both teams 4 of them were gotten through foul.

The Hamilton girls had better combination than the locals, and on the whole were more accurate in their shooting, but the locals offset this deficit by better checking and a greater number of fouls. The first half was exceedingly fast, and for a time it looked as if Hamilton was going to be too much for the local young ladies. The half time score was 4 to 2 in favor of the Midgets.

The second half opened up with some hard checking and some clever aggressive work on the part of the Tigers. Play was mixed up pretty well, and some of the girls received some severe jolts during the last period. The Hamilton girls were somewhat handicapped by the crowd which lined both sides of the gymnasium, and this no doubt was detrimental to their team work. The teams: Hamilton (7)—Defense, Misses Irma Ashton and Cecil Chilman; centre, Miss Ruby Chilman; forwards, Misses Kate Schmeiger and Anna Doula.

Brantford (8)—Defense, Misses Evelyn Fenn and Melva Bowman; centre, Miss Irene Wilson; forwards, Misses Mabel Bartle and Marion Tobias.

After the games a light luncheon was served the visitors, who took a late car for home.

Indoor Baseball

The Sporting Editor Courier: The Queen Rifles Indoor Ball team accept the challenge of the "Picked Team" from the Soft Ball League for a game of indoor baseball to be played at the Armories. We will play them Friday night, March 6th. The game to start at 8.15 sharp, and if they show the class they think they have, another game can possibly be arranged. We would like to know the line up of this picked team as we do not wish to make a joke of the game by playing a poor team.

The Duffs do not consider themselves unbeatable but have every reason to feel proud of their showing this year, not having lost a game; so bring on the best in the city and give "these followers of the sport" something to cheer for.

The Neuralgia settled in my lungs and I took bottle after bottle of medicine without relief. The doctor told me I would not get better but 'Fruit-a-tives' proved that the doctor was wrong, by giving me quick relief and finally and completely curing me. I would not have my present health if it was not for 'Fruit-a-tives' and I am glad of the opportunity of giving you this letter about such a splendid remedy as 'Fruit-a-tives', for the guidance of other women who may be similarly affected."

Old Country Soccer News

Cuggy also comes in for some special praise from a well known critic. Southern League did better than the score seems to indicate, indeed one writer declares that the League was lucky to win at all.

Gillespie has been in such brilliant form since he did so well for Ireland in the first international that he was almost certain to be very much in the picture at Middlesbrough.

McNed of Albion, created a most favorable impression, and is likely to prove a strong claimant for a further chance in the next international game. Harrop was in the wars on Monday and the Villa player was advised not to continue on the field but he pluckily stuck to his work.

Rotherham County, who have won the Midland League Championship two years in succession and are pretty certain to gain the honors again this season, intend applying for admission to the Second Division.

If the "Wolves" had only beaten the Wednesday it would have proved the Midlands with a fourth in the record, for never have so many of them got so far in the English Cup. Lancashire have held the cup 12 times, the Midlands 10, and Yorkshire clubs 6.

Whatever some people may think of Pennington, he is not going to be moved from the English team on his showing for the league on Monday. Lacey continues to score at the rate of one goal per match, and it will soon be regarded as unlikely for Everton when the sequence ceases.

Since the disaster last week at Sheffield many clubs have been increasing their insurance-against-accidents policies.

Asked as to the safety of their big "Spion Kop," Liverpool have given an absolute and emphatic guarantee as to its being quite safe.

Only six of last year's sixteen are again standing in the same position. How many will answer to their names after next week's ties are played?

The League would probably like to have taken one of the four brilliant wings but for objections of clubs.

Sheffield Wednesday have been searching in Scotland for a new full back, but declined to pay the price £2,500 asked for Blair by Glasgow (Clyde, though probably they may have gone £2,000. The Wednesday also approached Edinburgh Hibernians for Templeton, but the "Hibs" declared they will not entertain the matter at any price.

Fancy six of the first seven clubs in the league losing. It gave the bottom markers a bit of a lift. The Rovers are making things very warm from a championship point of view, and it looks as if they would take a bit of moving from the top.

As showing what Harold Fleming's absence means to Swindon, it may be noted that his club has now lost the lead in the Southern league. Leeds City caught a fearful thrashing at Leicester, and it looks as if both Hull and the other Yorkshire teams were failing once again to stand the pace.

It seems that Enland have at last a thoroughly workable right wing, a position which has been their trouble for several seasons.

Mr. H. S. Bamlett of Gateshead, met with an unusual accident at Barnsley. He collided with Barson, and had to be assisted off, suffering a severe injury to his nose. He pluckily resumed however, after about ten minutes rest and attention.

Hampton of the Villa, has been pointing out a very patent fact, namely, that there is a vast difference between League and Cup-tie football.

Clapton Orient have yet to have their home record blemished with defeat, but few clubs have lost fewer away from their own pitch.

Travers has become one of the chief goal scorers for Barnsley. The latter now Travers has gone, is getting most of the lime-light.

Will Upset All the Dope

Pitcher Secured by the Local Club Said to be the Real Goods

It is all right for the ordinary fan to sit back and smile, when he reads pre-season dope. That is the fan's special privilege. But the dope that Rube Deneau hands out as regards Ray Connell, a Rochester pitcher, whose signed contract has arrived, is such as to encourage the gloomiest of fans and then some. Deneau says that Connell will walk through this league. When the season was at its height last year and London needed good men to keep in the running, Deneau offered Connell a house and lot and a mortgage on the London ball park to join the Cockneys. Connell refused, however. What kind of mesmerism Deneau has exercised on Connell this year to get him to join Brantford is not known at present. At any rate he will be here. It is pitchers we need and Connell has the reputation of being one of the classiest on the market. It is a little early yet to claim the pennant, but it looks like a good gamble that Brantford will have a good team this year.

We are hearing again the old rumor as to the Southern League coming under the League regime as a Third Division. But a lot will be said and discussed ere that is accomplished. Indeed the well known fact that the Southern League are chafing more than ever under the existing League agreement goes rather to discount the idea of their joining the League en bloc.

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

Grandma Kept Her Locks, Dark, Glossy Thick with a Mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmothers treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. TARZAN OF THE APES

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

Copyright, 1912, by the Frank A. Munsey Company

He was nearly ten before he commenced to realize that a great difference existed between himself and his fellows. His little body, burned almost black by exposure, suddenly caused him feelings of intense shame, for he realized that it was entirely hairless, like some low snake or reptile. In the higher land which his tribe frequented was a little lake, and it was here that Tarzan first saw his face in the clear, still waters of its bosom. It was on a sultry day of the dry season that he had one of his cousins had come down to the bank to drink. As they leaned over both little faces were mirrored on the placid pool, the fierce and terrible features of the ape beside those of the aristocratic scion of an old English house.

Tarzan was appalled. It had been bad enough to be hairless, but to own such a countenance! He wondered that the other apes could look at him at all. So intent was he upon his personal appraisal of his features that he did not hear the parting of the tall grass behind him as a great body pushed itself stealthily through the jungle, nor did his companion, the ape, hear either, for he was drinking, and the noise of his sucking lips drowned the quiet approach of the intruder. Not thirty paces behind the two he crouched—Sabor, the tiger—lashing his tail. Cautiously he moved a great padded paw forward, noiselessly placing it before he lifted the next. Thus he advanced, his belly low, almost touching the surface of the ground—a great cat preparing to spring upon its prey.

Now he was within ten feet of the two unsuspecting little playfellows. Carefully he drew his hind feet well up beneath his body, the great muscles rolling under the beautiful skin of black and yellow. So low he was crouching that he seemed flattened to the earth except for the upward bend of the glossy back as it gathered for the spring. No longer the tall lashed. Quiet and straight behind him it lay. An instant he paused thus as though turned to stone, and then, with an awful scream, he sprang. Sabor, the tiger, was a wise hunter. To one less wise the wild alarm of his fierce cry as he sprang would have seemed a foolish thing, for could he not more surely have fallen upon his victims had he but quietly leaped without that loud shriek? But Sabor knew well the wondrous quickness of the jungle folk and their almost unbelievable powers of hearing. To them the sudden spring of one blade of grass across another was as effectual a warning as his loudest cry, and Sabor knew that he could not make that leap without a little noise. His wild scream was not a warning, but instead was meant to freeze his poor victims in a paralysis of terror.

His fraction of an instant, which would suffice for his mighty claws to sink into their soft flesh and hold them beyond peradventure of escape. In so far as the ape was concerned, Sabor reasoned correctly. The little fellow crouched trembling just an instant, but that instant was quite long enough to permit his undying. Not so, however, with Tarzan, the man-child. Before him lay the deep waters of the little lake, behind him certain death—a cruel death beneath tearing claws and rending fangs.

Tarzan had always hated water, except as a medium for quenching his thirst. He hated it because he connected it with the chill and discomfort of the torrential rains, and he feared it for the thunder and lightning and wind which accompanied it. But of the two evils his quick mind chose the lesser, and before the great beast had covered half his leap Tarzan felt the chill waters close above his head.

He could not swim, and the water was very deep. But still he lost no particle of that self reliance and resourcefulness which were the badges of his superior being. Rapidly he moved his hands and feet in an attempt to scramble upward, and, possibly more by chance than design, he fell into the stroke that a dog uses when swimming, so that within a few seconds his nose was above water, and he found that he could keep it there by continuing his strokes and also make progress through the water.

He was much surprised and pleased with this new acquisition which had been so suddenly thrust upon him, but he had no time for thinking much upon it. He was now swimming parallel to the bank, and there he saw the cruel beast that would have seized him crouching upon the still form of his playmate. The tiger was intently watching Tarzan, evidently expecting him to return to shore, but this the boy had no intention of doing. Instead he raised his voice in the call of distress common to his tribe, adding to it the warning which would prevent would be rescuers from running into the clutches of Sabor. Almost immediately there came an answer from the distance, and presently forty or fifty great apes swung rapidly and majestically through the trees toward the scene of tragedy. In the van was Kala, for she had recognized the tones of her best beloved, and with her was the mother of the little ape who lay dead beneath cruel Sabor. Though more powerful and better equipped for fighting than the apes, the tiger had no desire to meet these enraged adults, and with a snarl of hatred he sprang quickly into the brush and disappeared.

Tarzan now swam to shore and clambered quickly upon dry land. The feeling of freshness and exhilaration which the cool waters had imparted to him filled his being with grateful surprise, and ever after he lost no opportunity to take a daily plunge in lake or stream or ocean when it was possible to do so. For a long time Kala could not accustom herself to the sight, for though her people could swim when forced to it, they did not like to enter water and never did so voluntarily. That the huge fierce brute loved her child of another race is beyond question, and he, too, gave to the great, hairy beast all the affection that would have belonged to his fair young mother had she lived. When he was disobedient she cuffed him, it is true, but she was never cruel to him and was more often caressing than chastising him. Tublat, her husband, always hated Tarzan and on several occasions had come near ending his youthful career. Tarzan's superior intelligence and cunning permitted him to invent a thousand diabolical tricks to add to the burdens of Tublat's life.

A RETURN of smooth-faced clothes promised for the spring, which means that broadcloth and similar fabrics will be back in favor. Also it forecasts the solid colors having the leadership over mixtures.

Who Are Dressed Best? However, there are women who will never bring themselves to the point of running after every dress whim, and they continue to choose quiet, rich materials, and have them made so individual that they belong to them despite changes.

Dress is by no means a frivolous subject. It has always played an important part in the history of the world and its development and has been a trivial subject only through the lightness of discussion.

Today it is so thoroughly typical of the remarkable epoch through which we are passing that the keen observer finds much to interest and instruct in the somewhat minute study of its variations.

Observe the women with whom you come in daily contact and you will find in seven cases out of every ten, that the clothes worn are less what is laid down by hard and fast fashion rules than they are the things which are best suited for the individual in the work she is called to do.

Oh, of course, there are the "society" girls, but even they have their activities, and they are not the same as the "society" girls of the past. They are more natural than that their activity, their allied interests should manifest itself in their appearance which may be interpreted to read their dress.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Saving Power of Hope Best Aid of Science

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

Copyright, 1914, by L. K. Hirschberg.

HOPE springs eternal in the human breast. It has been ever so and it will always be. It is physiologically impossible to be lacking in hope, if the health that sniffs the morning air is in your body. Lack of hope is incompatible with robust sanity and an unimpaired physique.

There are no expressions more often heard by physicians than these: "Why, doctor, I never had anything like this before!" or "That could never happen to me."

Both of these naive remarks are fundamentally due to the hope inherent in living tissues. Indeed, it is impossible for a well, or partly ill, person to conceive, much less realize, herself or himself as sick, dead or a slave to pain, or to any other habit-forming drug.

You may recall that the name of the first woman was not Eve, according to the Greeks, but Pandora, made by the god Vulcan out of the earth. Pandora means all gifted. She was so named because all the gods each contributed a gift to her charms.

"When man and nature mourned their first decay, Pandora, made by the gods, came to the rescue whenever inspiration ran low in dress adorning. The airy, illusive flutter provides a motif which is invariably acceptable."

Physicians and surgeons, no matter how superior and excessive their knowledge may be, are wanting in knowledge about the very disorders which they most about. Prof. Thomas MacCrae, one of the very best teachers of medicine, once truly said that over 80 per cent of dogmatic medical assertions were absolutely incorrect.

He will not undertake to prescribe or offer advice for individual cases. Where the subject is not of general interest letters will be answered personally if a stamped and addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all inquiries to Dr. L. K. Hirschberg, care of this office.

Advice to Girls By Annie Laurie Dear Annie Laurie—I have a nice sweetheart, but there's something about him that is so peculiar. He's very nice to me when we are alone together, but the minute we go out there are other people he acts so queer.

What do you suppose makes him act that way? EMBARRASSED. MAYBE he is ashamed of you—and can't help showing it. Perhaps he comes from a different social class and you do things that embarrass him, and he's just glad enough to be afraid that some one else will notice it.

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her care of this office.

He may not be that sort of man at all. Is he from the country? Country people often act like that, haven't you noticed it? They're afraid to speak, or move, or look for fear somebody who doesn't know they're alive will think they are queer or something.

Oyster Luxuries

MME. MATZENAUER

If I had not been successful as a contralto, I know I would have succeeded as a cook. I love to cook fully as well as to sing and, while my cooking audiences are of necessity small, they are always enthusiastic and demand many courses.

Then set the tomatoes in a baking pan and cut a slice off the top of the tomatoes and scoop out enough to make a cavity big enough to hold an oyster and a mushroom. Brush with melted butter, dust with paprika and then fill the tomato cavities with the oyster and mushroom and place the pan in the oven until the tomatoes are tender. Baste every few minutes with melted butter while baking.

This is one of my regular breakfasts while in New York, for I have a large housekeeping apartment. The kitchen is the most important room, without exception, and in my kitchen I have about everything I have ever heard of in the way of cooking appliances adaptable to a small family.

Folklore Signs and Omens

By Elizabeth Hayward

It is but natural that love, courtship and marriage should occupy a large place in the folk lore of all countries, and superstition has surrounded the mating of young people with all sorts of mysterious signs and omens. Naturally, also, the desire to raise the curtain that veils the future and reveal the personality of the expected one, must stand foremost in the mind of most normal maidens of whatever age or country.

One method of divination was to cut the common brake or woodfern, just above the root, to ascertain the initials of the name of the future husband or wife. Another was to peel an apple carefully so as not to break the paring, which was then flung backward over the head. In falling the apple peel would form the initials of the mysterious one waited for. The little insect known as the lady bug was caught and thrown in the air as the following couplet was repeated: Fly away east, and fly away west, Show me where lives the one I like the best. The insect was supposed to fly directly toward the home of the future partner. If the affection of the loved one was doubted, the maiden placed a nut on the bars of the grate, saying: If he loves me, soap and fly. If he loves me not, live and die. If the maiden chances to sleep in a strange bed she ties her garter around the bed post and ties a knot in it, repeating in the mean time: This knot I knit, this knot I tie, To see my love as he goes by, In his apparel and array, As he walks in every day.

Hallow'en was looked upon as the time above all others when the supernatural influences were most propitious for divination in matters of love. One of the many spells resorted to by maidens was to go into the garden and pick 12 sage-leaves without injuring the stalk. Before she reaches the twelfth the young woman should see the shadowy outlines of the young man she will marry. She must not exhibit any show of alarm, as he will be frightened away and the spell broken. If the young woman was in doubt as to the identity of the one who appeared, she would go to the altar, she walked into the field and plucked a dandelion, the flower which has risen until it was surrounded by a globe of feathery tops to reach seed. These she tried to blow off with one breath. The number of puffs required to blow all the seeds off showed the number of years that must elapse before she was wedded. It was an old custom for an elder unmarried sister to dance bare-footed, at the wedding of a younger sister, in the way she would die. It will be remembered that Shakespeare makes Katharine say to her father in allusion to Blanche: She is your treasure, she must have a husband, I must dance barefoot on her wedding day.

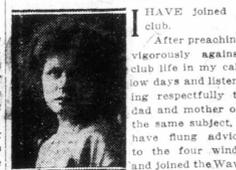

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

By Leona Dalrymple

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $15,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

The truth, plain and unvarnished, about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with growing interest.

Joining a Club XXVIII

LEONA DALRYMPLE

I HAVE joined a club. After preaching vigorously against club life in my calendar days and listening respectfully to the many spells resorted to by maidens was to go into the garden and pick 12 sage-leaves without injuring the stalk. Before she reaches the twelfth the young woman should see the shadowy outlines of the young man she will marry. She must not exhibit any show of alarm, as he will be frightened away and the spell broken.

Peter, I'm satisfied," she said tearfully. "What in the world do you want to do?" "How could I answer that? If I told you I needed intellectual companionship—as well as physical—she'd misunderstand. Therefore I've given up the struggle and joined a club.

If Mary and I liked the same books and pictures and music, or if Mary's notions about anything were sufficiently robust to command my respect, we'd doubtless find a lot to talk about. But Mary is easily awayed. Her opinions depend largely upon the personal magnetism of the person who is talking.

There are lots of women who agree with whatever you say and let it go at that. Personally, I'd rather have my wife express a forceful opinion and stick to it. But the only time Mary is at all forceful is when she's stubborn, and when she's stubborn she's invariably "unclubbable," and there you have it. "A club!" exclaimed Mary, when I told her. "Peter, you don't—you can't mean it!" "Why not?" I asked defensively. "Will you actually be selfish enough to go off in the evening and enjoy your self when you know I'm home?" "But Mary," I suggested, "if I work all day, what other time have I to myself?" "What about me?" demanded Mary, logically. "Don't you go to card clubs and bowling clubs in the afternoon?" I inquired mildly. "If I had sufficient time to do that, most assuredly I wouldn't care to go out in the evening. I'd have my pleasure earlier in the day."

Too Fast "Gosh—Do you ever follow your wife's advice? Ukerdek—Well, I try to, but I am never able to keep up with it." Sharpened "There does not seem to be anything sharp about him." "Oh, I don't know. He has an appetite." Something of a Str "Did their sudden marriage make any stir in society?" "Well, yes. It was not known that they were so close at all."
