The Advantages of a Residential School for Boys.

Since good High Schools have been established in many sections of our country, thus bringing the more advanced training provided by public schools within the reach of a large number of the people, the question arises, 'Why do we still require residential schools, such as Acadia Collegiate and Business Academy, in Kings County?' The following questions are suggested:

1. Many boys who leave the public schools because teachers have failed to interest them in their work, under new conditions and new environment at 'Acadia,' with teachers who are known to be successful in dealing with boys, find a new interest in their studies. There is a period in the life of most boys when they do better work under the instruction of male teachers.

2. The disciplinary value of the residential school is very great. In these days many boys have little or very poor discipline at home. In a well ordered residential school every day has its program which must be followed. Promptness at meals, punctuality at classes, regularity of habits, care of health, the spirit of respect, regard for the rights of others—the spirit of unselfishness and helpfulness—all these and more belong to the disciplinary training of such a school. Such training can be given to the best advantage where the teachers live with the boys, directing their activities and exerting constant influence over them. It has been well said that the high character of the Englishmen in public life and in commercial pursuits is due in a large measure to the Residential Schools which are so generally patronized in Great Britain.

3. Provision is made for the young men who are awakened late in life to the need of an education. A young man of eighteen or twenty-two years who wishes to become a minister or to enter some other profession is unwilling to go into the public school and sit beside boys of twelve or fourteen years of age. At 'Acadia' such a young man of his own age, a boy of twelve or fourteen has many companions of his own age, so the young man of twenty years will usually find in his class several who are older than himself.

4. Notwithstanding the large number of High Schools, a very large proportion of our population still live in districts remote from towns and cities where such schools are located. In order to secure advanced education, many young people, for this reason must leave their homes. Better results can be secured if such persons attend a good boarding school where proper supervision is given, rather than attend public school in a town, where, as is frequently the case, no proper supervision outside the classroom has been provided. This paragraph has special application to the boy or girl who seeks for a Business Training or wishes a course in Stenography or Typewriting.

5. The importance of the moral and religious environment cannot be overestimated. The teachers are men of Christian character who recognize that by precept and by example they are influencing boys and young men of an impressionable age. Church attendance, instruction in Bible, the Y. M. C. Association, daily chapel exercises, addresses and lectures by visiting clergymen of various denominations as well as by other prominent men, the desirable conditions of life in a small town as contrasted with the life of a city full of its temptations and diversions—all these things make up a delightful environment which must be helpful and inspiring to the moral and religious life of a boy or young man. Many boys in such surroundings make their great and serious decisions for life.

Other reasons might be suggested, but these are sufficient to indicate that a great work yet remains for the Residential School, and that many parents who desire the highest welfare of their sons will do well to direct them to Acadia Collegiate and Business Academy.

W. L. ARCHIBALD, Principal, Wolfville, N. S.

Men of 29 Beware!
If a man is going to commit crime during his lifetime, the chances are that he will do it at the age of twenty-nine. It is a curious fact that statistics have shown that man is more dangerous at this period of his life than at any other.
The general supposition is that men have attained the highest development of their mental and physical powers at twenty-nine, and they are supposed to be able to distinguish between right and wrong and to realize the consequences liable to follow the indulgence of either.
Next to the age of twenty-nine, the greatest number of criminals have been aged twenty-one, twenty-seven or forty-five years.

Fighting For Happiness.

When you get into a frame of mind that makes life seem one tiresome battle after another, with no pleasure when ill-health seems to take all the joy out of life and you worry over things that are really not worth worrying about, then your nervous system is becoming exhausted, and you are on the way to a general breakdown.

To build up the blood and strengthen the nerves there is one remedy that has been a household word for more than a generation—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. It is the actual mission of these pills to make new, rich, red blood, which strengthens the nerves and tones the entire system. They give you a new appetite, make sleep refreshing, put color in the lips and cheeks, and drive away that unnatural tired feeling that oppresses so many people. If you want to experience new health and happiness give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial.

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $3.00 from Dr. W. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Some Simple Dyeing.

Home dyeing used to be a fussy and rather complicated process, but that was partly due to the nature of the materials treated. Nowadays part of the re-coloring is merely for dainty sheer blouses or the thin silks that we replaced the heavier silks to a great extent. And we do it without any great trouble and with such simple agents as a bit of crepe paper or a little red ink. True, these are not proper indelible dyes. They are what dyers call 'fugitive' colorings and after the garment goes to the laundry the simple coloring process must be repeated. Discretion must be used in choosing the colors, as these impromptu dyes are only really good for tinting a white fabric or restoring its original hue after a faded garment. For instance an orange colored silk bath in water colored by soaking in some bits of orange-colored crepe paper. While it soaked there for a few minutes it was kept moving in the water so that it would not be streaked with the coloring matter. Then it can be used in just the same way. Red ink does nearly as well for shades of pink. Silk, all white ostrich feathers, lace or white artificial roses, can become the desired shade of pink if just the right quantity of the dyeing material is added.

Smith is no longer the commonest name in New York city. After 131 years of unbroken supremacy the Smiths have at last been crowded out by the Cohens. The 1917 New York city directory contains 454 columns of Smiths and 493 columns of Cohens. Third place goes to Browns, with the Levy finishing a straggling fourth. Messrs. Re and O are tied for the honor of having the shortest name in the city while Spiros Pappathanassiou holds the record for length.

The Soldier and His Comrades.

If the new soldier, before joining the colors, has had everything much his own way at home, the first thing that he will discover when he goes to camp is that he counts for just one individual in his squad.

While in the family circle he may have been one per cent. important in the eyes of his father, he is simply one of eight men who occupy the same tent. Theoretically, the new soldier may know that he should obey officers and non-commissioned officers, including the corporal who lives in his tent; but what he may not realize is that in all questions not involving authority from above, he is also circumvented by the rights and privileges of others. The rights and convenience of others as well as his own must be thoroughly fixed in his mind. It must be a process of giving and taking all down the line.

The ratio of the rights and conveniences of others to his own, in fact, is about seven to one. Eliminating the corporal, whose position in the tent is official and paternal, the new soldier is entitled to his share of the common rights and privileges—no more—and must ungrudgingly perform his share of the common work—no less.

If the new soldier fails to conform to these rules of conduct, not only will he be disciplined with cellophane tags and details by the corporal, but he will find that his tent-mates instinctively league themselves against him. They watch for every opportunity to make life irksome for him, in jealously plying the work upon him in left ways which they will discover; and, if he is incorrigible, they will find a chance (whether it is prohibited or not) to toss him up in a blanket, or send him through a squad spanking machine. A squad spanking machine operates with slats. And if the new soldier has rendered himself obnoxious in the tent, he will find that the corporal, if he does not actually assist in this treatment, will at least sanction it.

But if the new soldier, from the start, is cheerful, agreeable, alert, willing at all times to help in policing the tent—keeping his own effects in order and in common space, and properly clean—always ready to respond to details, and never forgetful of the fact that he is but one of seven privates with equal duties and rights, he will have nothing to worry about from his companions.

Why Barns Burn.

Sweating hay is the most important cause of barn fire loss, for it may produce spontaneous combustion and also may draw lightning. Why does hay become heated and sweat? The cells in hay continue to live and breathe for some time after it is cut, and they alone, in a close, unventilated mow, heat the hay to a temperature of 132 deg. F. Added to this is the heat from the microscopic spores of fungi which continued to grow in the blades of hay during its fermentation, the heat created by the development of the hayseeds, and the heat of the sun upon the roof.

These three causes acting together may heat hay that is well packed in a close mow where there is no circulation of air to carry off the heat, to a temperature of 212 deg. F., at which water boils. Then the hay begins to char, and charcoal so formed absorbs oxygen and the mass grows still hotter. The heat perhaps reaches 265 deg. F., and then the mass blazes. Bran, grain and silage also may ignite spontaneously if placed under similar conditions. Many such barn fires are thus reported. 'Cause unknown'; the whole barn reared ablaze at once.

The report of lightning fire is to date indicate that lightning has destroyed $250,000 worth of barns this summer in the State of Ohio alone. Sweating hay draws lightning thus: Water is a good conductor of electricity. The moisture from sweating hay rises rapidly because it is heated—more so than the moisture from the fields which rises and forms clouds. So, over the barn is a funnel-shaped shaft of vapor reaching up to the thunder clouds, and it constitutes a fairly good conductor. Unfortunately the lightning is grounded in the hay. Unless a better conductor—or, in other words, a lightning rod—is run from moist earth along the barn's comb and down again, with proper points above it, electricity may fire hay.—Ez.

Danger of Coast Erosion.

GRADUAL LOSS IN THE BATTLE AGAINST NATURE. So serious is the danger of coast erosions around the British Isles that people are asking whether England is not slowly but surely disappearing. Lowestoft has been sorely hit by the merciless waves which are steadily advancing. Within the last few years the East Coast town has spent considerably more than £60,000 in combating the sea, which means a new promenade, groynes, breakwaters, piles and huge concrete structures. Only a few years since tremendous damage was caused to these new structures by a series of gales which wrecked part of the promenade, tore down the piles and breakwaters and made a scrap heap of the cemented parts.

Crumer, too, has suffered terribly from the sea's advancement. Not so long ago it cost this delightful East Coast town more than £45,000 to make good the damage. During less than 50 years it is roughly computed that England must have lost more than 50,000 acres of land by sea incursions. The battle against Nature still goes on. But it must be remembered that whilst in some places the waters are advancing, in other spots the sea is retiring. But the balance is said to be not altogether in our favor.

The Age of Newspapers.

In the last issue of Printer & Publisher is a list of Canadian newspapers founded over fifty years ago and which has been constantly published since. The oldest paper published in Canada is given as The Chronicle (Quebec), founded in 1764. The oldest in Nova Scotia is the Acadian Recorder, Halifax, founded in 1813; next comes the Nova Scotian and the Chronicle, Halifax, both published from the same office and founded in 1823. The fourth in the list is The Herald, Yarmouth, founded in 1733; and fifth, The Eastern Chronicle, New Glasgow, founded in 1843.

The Presbyterian Witness was founded in 1848, and other Nova Scotia papers in the half-century list are The Casket, Antigonish 1850, The Progress-Enterprise, Lunenburg, 1862, and the Hants Journal, Windsor, 1867. It is interesting to note that all these Nova Scotia newspapers, over fifty years of age, have been staunch advocates of Liberalism. The Presbyterian Witness and The Casket being religious journals.—Yarmouth Telegram.

The food controllers of Canada and the United States will work in mutual harmony and understanding. Gen. R. Dimitrief, military governor of Petrograd, has been assassinated, having been shot in the back.

End of the War.

Frank Simonds, the leading military critic of the United States, thinks the war will not end before October, 1918, and may continue until February, 1919. The German losses up to date have been placed at 4,500,000, but Mr. Simonds declares these figures are too low by at least half a million. Continuing this writer says: "Germany has not the reserves for another great offensive. She has not the reserves to last another year of such pounding as the last, and her Western front, with the help of the United States, have the men. Before the year is over I am satisfied the British will give us a new and convincing evidence of the real situation. As to guns, the Germans have been out-gunned in the west for more than a year. Their own official reports have again and again conceded this. Fewer guns mean greater casualties and if this condition persists—as it must—it means the gradual breaking of morale—a fact already proven by German surrender—35,000 at the Somme; 28,000 at the Aisne; 30,000 at Arras and Ypres; and 17,000 at Verdun; 160,000 in four battles, together with more than 500 guns.

On the material side it is exceedingly unlikely that Germany can be starved out, but another year will bring greater hardships, and a German ruin. Germany has suffered for two years more than Britain or France is yet suffering, or will suffer for a year, and the moral effect is increasing all the time. It will not be a decisive factor, but it will weigh.

In my judgment, we shall see another heavy British blow this year—perhaps two. We shall have one more clear demonstration of the superiority now possessed by the British over the Germans in every detail of modern warfare. But I do not think there will be another French offensive until the American army is ready to take a hand.

In my judgment, the end of the campaign of 1918 will see Germany decisively beaten, and I do not think the submarine can prevent this defeat in that time. It seems to me, looking all the evidence fairly in the face, that Germany can expect a decisive defeat only if there is no campaign of 1918.

The workman was digging. The wayraker of the inquisitive turn of mind stopped for a moment to look on. "My man," said the wayraker at length, "what are you digging for?" "The workman looked up. "Money," he replied. "Money!" ejaculated the wayraker, "and when do you expect to strike it?" "Saturday," replied the workman and resumed operations.

Eczema Has Stayed Cured For 15 Years

THE Ketchumsons are well known as pioneer settlers of Hastings County, and none of them probably has a wider acquaintance than Mr. W. D. Ketchumson, who was formerly Division Court Justice of the Trenton Court, and is now living at 278 Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

Over fifteen years ago Mr. Ketchumson was cured of an extremely severe case of eczema and piles by Dr. Chase's Ointment, and he writes now to say that the cure proved a permanent one.

In 1897 Mr. Ketchumson wrote as follows:—"I was troubled for thirty years with itching piles and eczema. I could sleep at night, and when I got warm the itching was terrible. Eczema covered my legs down to the knees, perfectly raw. I have tried every preparation I could hear of. Seeing Dr. Chase's Ointment advertised, I procured a box, and this Ointment effected a complete cure."

On Sept. 28th, 1912, Mr. Ketchumson wrote as follows:—"I had suffered for many years from eczema and piles, and had tried doctors and everything I could hear of in vain. Hearing about Dr. Chase's Ointment, I purchased it at once, and was soon completely cured. That was fifteen years ago, so there can be no doubt of the cure being a permanent one. I have met a great many people who have been cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment."

In this year of 1917 Mr. Ketchumson again confirms his cure, and expresses his wishes that others may benefit by his experience. Refuse to accept substitutes.

Editorial Briefings.

'At first the call was for men munitions and money,' says Food Controller Hanna. 'Now the cry is for men, munitions and food.'

The allies, including Great Britain, France and Belgium, need 460,000,000 bushels of imported wheat. North America will have to supply it.

When the people talk in favor of public honesty, out choose their worst rogues as representatives there is something wrong with the people.

The Food Controllers of Canada and the United States will work in mutual harmony and understanding. Hon. W. J. Hanna, the Canadian Food Controller, and Mr. Herbert Hoover have known each other for some years.

'It is in the homes of the Province of Ontario that the great battles we are to face will have to be fought and won,' declares Sir William Hearst, Premier of Ontario, referring to the Food Controller's Food Conservation campaign. Premier Hearst's words apply to all Canada.

'Food Controllers in the United States and Canada were appointed in order that the men at the front might be fed,' says Hon. W. J. Hanna, Canadian Food Controller. 'In order that those behind at home should not go hungry, and in order that Great Britain and her allies should not have to retreat from the enemy for want of food.'

Britain in twelve months will have to import five months' supplies, according to the statement by Kennedy Jones, Director General of Food Economy, Great Britain. His calculation included the cereals at present on hand, the rate of submarine losses, the new tonnage to be available and the result of the campaign to eliminate food waste. Canada and the United States are looked to for five months' supplies necessary to be imported.

Besides an article entitled 'Canada's Amateur Soldiers,' which tells about the men who have helped to make famous the exploits of Canadian soldiers, The Canadian Magazine for August contains a good variety of interesting and instructive contributions. The place that liquor has in the everyday life of the Old Country is well described by Lacey Amy in an article entitled 'Liquor and the War,' and Austin Harrison gives a splendid article on 'How Long Will It Last?' The work of the Royal Flying Corps in Canada as the basis of an article by Randolph Carlyle, and 'Alien Races in Russia' is the title of a timely article by Laura Denton. There are several excellent short stories of a reasonable character.

A Canadian officer in France wrote the Minister of Militia, Sir Edward Kemp:

'We were all delighted to see that the Conscription Bill passed its first reading in the House. If it had not we would have all felt that we had been deserted and left without help during this infernal struggle—nothing disheartens officers and men so quickly as to be under strength, in which state one man has to do the work of three. However, all's well that ends well.'

The duty of every loyal Canadian is to see that the men in France are not 'deserted and left without help,' but that everything necessary and possible is done to keep the fighting forces up to strength.

France will allow the hunting of game for the first time since 1913. The closed season of nearly four years has resulted in a damage to crops by depredating animals. The season will open only after the crop has been harvested and will be short. The government has decided that this measure is necessary to protect agriculture against the ravages of game, which has multiplied greatly in the three years during which only restricted destruction of depredating animals has been allowed. Hares, rabbits, pheasants and partridges are particularly abundant, while wild boar, driven from the forests of northeast France by the military operations, have done considerable damage in regions where they never were seen before. The opening of the hunting season, besides saving the crops, is expected to help relieve the provisions market.

Canada.

It is not Ottawa, the country, nor the party, nor in the trenches of Flanders alone, but Canada, and for Canada's sake and the world's, free-born Canadians, Liberals and Conservatives, must stand together for and advocate the conscription of men and money and all the services of the whole nation.

In the affections, in the sacrifices of all true Canadians, the real question is fit and last—What is best for Canada? What will give the greatest and surest power to Canada's soldiers at the front?

Win the war, is the first call, the supreme duty, the greatest concern. If, in the war, the rights of freedom and self-government is lost, then, for Canadians, all is lost; and in the defence of the rights of free citizenship the lesser must yield to the greater.

In this day of crisis for Canada, and for freedom in every country, the greatest enemy of liberty and peace is the organized and mad power of Prussian militarism.

Prussian militarism must be broken everywhere in all its entrenched strongholds, over all the world, or, in Canada and in every other democratic country, nothing worth while will be left. Either for Canadians to-day or for their children to-morrow. Military power, with its hideous and belching program of explosives and all the rest of diabolism must be made to match and to overmatch the fiendish preparedness of the Huns.

There is no alternative, either for Canada or the world. There is no choice, either for individuals who hate war or for the nation that loves peace. Yes, hate it with a hatred that grows and deepens and becomes more relentless with every ghastly story from France and Flanders.

But it is so, and Germany has made it so, that there can be no peace until we all, and all nations of the civilized world, have proved the deepest meaning of what Sherman said—'War is hell.' 'Crash' conscription with its ugliest cruelties, most inhuman significance, and we stand for it and will suffer for it.

Some Food Restrictions.

An order-in-council has been promulgated prohibiting in public places in Canada the serving of beef and bacon on Tuesdays and Fridays, and at more than one meal on any other day. Substitutes, such as corn bread, oat cakes, potatoes, etc., must be provided at every meal at which white bread is served.

The term 'public eating places' includes any hotel, restaurant, cafeteria club or other place where meals to the number of twenty five per day are served to persons other than members of the family or household of the proprietor. The penalty for first offence is from $25 to $100, and for each other offence from $100 to $500, or three months in prison, or both. The use of wheat in the distillation or manufacture of alcohol is also prohibited with a penalty not exceeding $500.

The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Busy East Boosts Yarmouth.

The current issue of the Busy East gives the town of Yarmouth a well deserved boost, some forty odd pages being devoted to telling the story of that beautiful town. The number is very well illustrated, upwards of sixty half tone cuts being used to illustrate the excellent articles concerning Yarmouth and its manufacturing and business concerns. The cover of the number is one of the most attractive yet produced by a Maritime publication. Near the centre of the cover there is a reproduction of one of Bertha DesClay's paintings entitled 'The Blue Boat.' This is four color work and very creditably printed. Altogether this number is one that deserves the highest praise and should be read by every progressive citizen of Eastern Canada.

The Horse Races.

'You can take my word for it, this is going to be the biggest and best meet we have ever had at the Halifax Exhibition track,' said a prominent horseman.

'On what do you base your remarks?' he was asked.

'First, on the fact that what we have all been pulling for the last long while has been accomplished, with Moncton, Fredericton, St. John and Chatham combined with Halifax into a racing circuit, you will see horsemen carrying greater strings than ever, and you will see a lot of owners enter horses, who did not hitherto. I tell you, it makes us all feel mighty good that we shall have a chance to go from track to track without any long jumps or long breaks.

In the second place, I am sure this is going to be the biggest week we

JUST SUPPOSING

Let's suppose for a moment that you are a partner in a clothing shop, and that your partner has a small dairy in connection with his farm. Of course, you know that every cent your partner gets is going to mean more money with which to run the clothing business and therefore will be a good thing for you. Of course, you would buy your cream and butter from your partner. Of course you would.

But everybody in this province is a partner in it. Would it not then be just as good business for each of us partners to spend our money with the other partner? How simple it all is. If we send our money away to buy our goods we are just taking that much money away from the sum total of wealth in our own province. We have not got that money to build up our own business.

But let's do some more supposing. Suppose you had a large number of clerks in your clothing store. Don't you think those clerks would be foolish if they bought all their clothing at some other store? Of course they would be. It would mean that there would be that much less business at their own store, and that much less money available for salary increases. In fact you would think those clerks were not the kind of thoughtful business men and women that are necessary to make a shop a success.

Yet our province may well be considered one big shop in which we all are employees. Is it not foolish for we clerks, then, to think that we can get increased incomes or in time any salaries at all if we buy from another store—another province? When we get right down to thinking about this matter the issue seems to be so simple and so easy of demonstration that we wonder we never thought of it before.

The money that is spent in the community will come back to the spender. Spend your dollars in your own province and you will get another chance at them. Buy from the home town merchant and you will have more with which to build up your own business.

But the dollar that goes out of the province seldom comes back again. It goes to build up the business of other provinces, and to support the people of other communities. It is as simple as A B C.

Let's give up then the practice of buying goods away from home. Let us give up sending our money away to build up the business houses of other provinces and let us think of Nova Scotia, let us give our own merchants, our own towns, and our own selves first call.

Suppose that policy were instituted over the whole province. It would mean a revolution in our commercial life. It would mean that every one of us partners in the province would have greater returns for we would have the funds to expand our business and develop new industries. It would mean that each one of our clerks would have larger salaries and better working conditions.

Buy at home thou because it means a great saving in the end.

Buy at home because there will then be more money to buy goods with.

Buy at home and get another chance at the same dollar.

BUY AT HOME.

The Boy Scouts.

Owing to the prevalence of diphtheria in town the Friday evening meetings have discontinued for the present. If no further cases develop before that time, the annual camp at Black River Lake will be held during the last week of August. All boys who intend to go to camp must notify the Scout Master this week. The charge will be the same as last year, $1.50 for the week.

Assistant Scout Master Clarence Hemmison and Captain Pratt will have charge. The competition between Patrols, which has been going on throughout the year, has proved very interesting and has been a great stimulus to Scout work.

Space forbids giving detailed results, but it is hoped that a full announcement can be made at the annual entertainment in the autumn.

The competition between two of the Patrols has been particularly keen and with the exception of the Attitude Record there was only one point difference between the two in final results. However the Curlew Patrol, Bert Schürmann leader, wins first prize which means a free trip to camp for that Patrol and a boat for their use on the lake.

The Cuckoo Patrol, Murry Beardsley leader, comes second and wins a boat. The boats are now being built by Mr. Owen Davidson.

All the Wolfville troop are very proud of their brother Scout Leo DeLacey for his plucky action last week. Proper steps are being taken to bring this matter before Scout Headquarters for a suitable reward.

Owing to the rush of buying the matter of water paper collecting has been neglected of late, but as soon as camp is over it will be taken up in earnest. Considerable paper has already been baled.

A Pretty Wedding.

HEALY-KIDSTON.

At St. John's church, Corawallis, August 8th, the marriage was solemnized of Miss Lulu Marguerite Kidston, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Kidston, of Port Williams, to Mr. Joseph Theodor Healy, youngest son of the late Joseph Healy and Mrs. Healy, of Church Street, Corawallis. The Rev. Samuel Wood, wife officiated. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of ivory silk crepe-de-chine with pearl and lace trimmings and a veil of tulle bordered with very old Limerick lace in cap effect caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and white carnations. Her only ornament was a gold bracelet set in diamonds, the gift of the groom. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Helen Kidston, who was gowned in pale yellow Georgette crepe over white silk, trimmed with black marabou and a black hat, carrying a bouquet of white roses.

Mr. A. Vere Kidston, brother of the bride, assisted the groom. Mrs. J. R. Starr presided at the organ. Miss Marial Starr sang Oh, Perfect Love in a pleasing manner. Messrs Charles Cox and Durell Sutton acted as ushers. The church was beautifully decorated by friends of the bride. As the bridal party came from the vestry down the centre aisle the young girls of the Sunday-school showed them with flowers. After the ceremony refreshments were served at the home of the bride's parents to relatives and friends. Mid showers of conetti Mr. and Mrs. Healy left for Annapolis Valley to spend a few days. Going away the bride wore a suit of gray cloth and hat of taupe satin. The gifts were beautiful and costly including cut glass, silver, china, linen and checks.
