PROGRAMME OF EIGHTH WEEK.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONFERENCE—LECTURES BY MEN OF NOTE.

Solemn High Mass was celebrated in the Chapel of Our Lady of the Lake on Sunday morning with Very Rev. Herbert F. Farrell as celebrant, Fr. Fitzpatrick as deacon, and Rev. Thomas F. Burke C. S. P., as subdeacon.

Rev. M. O'Kane, S. J., of New York, was the preacher of the occasion. Theme, the following verse from the Magnificat: "And all future generations will call me Blessed." His sermon was a magnificent exposition of Catholic teaching regarding the Blessed Virgin, and a masterly exhortation to profit by her shining example.

That several treats were in store for those who attended the lectures at Cliff Haven this week, was evident to all who listened to Father Gasson and Henry Austin Adams, both men of old acquaintance and established reputation at Cliff Haven.

At 10.30 in the morning, Rev. Thos. J. Gasson's lectures on Mental and Moral Pathology, were delivered. It is quite needless to speak concerning Father Gasson's lectures to any of those who have heard him at previous sessions. It is a well-known fact that last year at Cliff Haven when he delivered a lecture course the last week, he drew large crowds up to the very last moment, many prolonging their vacations simply for the pleasure and the profit afforded by his work.

Father Gasson is gifted with a profound philosophic mind that sees every phase of life, even the most superficial in its intimate and necessary relation with the universal order of things. He is likewise gifted with deep and penetrating sympathy which precludes all prejudice in the survey of those facts, and which enables him to give a comprehensive and accurate account that is free from all narrowness.

The only other lecture of the course was the one delivered in the evening by Henry Austin Adams, A. M., of Brooklyn, on the modern novel. Mr. Adams is perhaps one of the most famous lecturers on the platform today, his reputation having in a few years extended from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast. As an orator, his skill is unquestioned; his speech is marvellously fluent, his style clear and graphic, and his enthusiasm boundless; whether it be a simple little story or a great and ennobling idea that he is expounding, he seizes upon those points which are most striking and presents them with such simplicity and such power as to hold fixedly the attention of each person in the place. His veracity and charm as a lecturer were never more enjoyed than on these occasions when he dwelt upon the history and scope of the modern world.

The Sunday School conferences arranged for the 11.45 period in the morning were very well attended by both the clergy and the laity. Mrs. B. Ellen Burke was the able and accomplished director of the conference. She introduced the speakers and added her valuable comment at the close of the discussion of each special topic. Prof. Chester, of Delaware, Mr. James C. Connolly, of Rochester, Rev. Herbert F. Farrell, of Westbury, L. I., Rev. Thomas McMillan, of New York, Rev. Richard O. Hughes of New York, Miss Margaret R. Jordan of New York, Rev. T. P. Holland of Port Henry, Rev. Alex. Klaunder of Clintonville, and Mrs. Ella Baird of Toledo, Ohio, were among the speakers on the various topics assigned for discussion.

The Reading Circle conference arranged for the last of the week were quite as well attended as the others. Several men and women interested in the work took part in the discussion as to the ways and means of improving the reading circle.

Though the week beginning August twenty-seventh is the last of the present session, the grounds will not be closed until after the middle of September. Many are expecting to avail themselves of the privilege of staying a longer time, as the most delightful days of the whole year at Cliff Haven are generally those in September.

The lectures for the last week will undoubtedly be some of the best given this year. Henry Austin Adams will deliver the morning course on Distinguished Laymen and Mrs. Bernard O'Donnell will lecture on Irish music, which she will illustrate with several choice vocal selections. Judged from all points of view, the ninth week will be one of the most enjoyable of the session.

Concerning China and the Chinese.
Books like "The Court of Peking" (London, John Murray), "Another China," by Mgr. Ryan (Dublin, Brown & Nolan), and "New Glories of the Church" (Baltimore, Murphy & Co.) ought to have a special interest, particularly for Catholic readers, at a time when so many erroneous opinions are in circulation concerning China and the Chinese.

We are not sure that the books mentioned—the first that come to mind—are still in print, but there are others no less interesting and edifying—lives of martyrs like Blessed Perboire, Father Schœffler, and many more who have laid down their lives for the cause of Christ in the land on which the gaze of the whole world is now fixed. These books, besides giving thrilling accounts of hard ships bravely borne and of glorious martyrdoms in our own time, are full of the most reliable information concerning the country and people of whom outsiders know so little.

But first let us tell of the spirit of the age. It is not over-sanguine. But the most interesting passage of his letter—it is published in the Annals of the Propagation of the Faith—is that which refers to Gelszo Mzezo, a converted chief, possessed of remarkable native eloquence, who often preaches to his tribesmen. Here, for example, is an extract from a funeral discourse delivered in a graveyard:

Listen well to what I am saying. At this time we are sleeping here at the foot of this cross. We shall come simply to sleep; our bodies alone will rest here, the haunts of hyenas and in the shade of the palms which you have just planted. But our souls will sleep not; they will go, as in a dream, to the good God to rejoice and receive their reward. During that time our bodies will repose here in their burial robes until the dawn of the great day—the day of judgment. On that day we shall awaken at the first crowing of the cock; that is to say, angels with trumpets larger than elephant's tusks. They will sound, and we shall awake—all of us, brave people of Kapakwe, shall meet one another again here; our souls shall re-enter our bodies to see the wonders of God.

After we have been raised from our graves we shall recognize one another, we shall rejoice in one another's society, and we shall assemble for the great journey, to assist at the judgment. I shall be your Kirangozi (leader of caravan); we shall march like soldiers in rank and file; the chief will lead his people, wives will follow their husbands, children their mothers; not one will be missing. All of us shall go to judgment without fear; for our souls shall be sure of being numbered among the good to dwell with God,

Quality

It is the high quality of Royal Baking Powder that has established its great and world-wide reputation.

Every housewife knows she can rely upon it; that it makes the bread and biscuit more delicious and wholesome—always the finest that can be baked.

It is economy and every way better to use the Royal, whose work is always certain, never experimental.

There are many imitation baking powders, made from alum. They may cost less per pound, but their use is at the cost of health.

gent, thoughtful, patient, industrious, naturally religious, fond of home and its traditions, the Chinese, once converted, form a race of stalwart and fervent Christians, giving, not seldom, the example of the most perfect virtues. That the inhabitants of China are a people practically devoid of all morality, endowed with the most villainous dispositions, and largely incapable of real conversion to Christianity, is a distinct calumny which should long since have become obsolete. Most Europeans who have written of the Celestial Empire have lived beside the Chinese, Bishop Reynaud has lived among them for many years; and his work, "Another China," constitutes a valuable addition to Western knowledge of the most populous of Eastern empires, whose people have been systematically misrepresented by consuls and diplomatists, traders and tourists, transient missionaries and travelling journalists.

"The Court of Peking" is a condensation of the most interesting portions of Father Ripa's "History of the Chinese College," published at Naples in 1832, in three large volumes. The author spent thirteen years at the court of Peking. If such works as these had more numerous readers, the public would have very different ideas about China and the Chinese.—Ave Maria.

Father Schmitt, of the White Fathers, declares that the future of the Church in Upper Congo, Africa, is as promising as the most zealous could wish; and the missionary experiences he recounts persuade one that he is not over-sanguine. Every Catholic parish contains several gabby gossipers who would never be missed if they were suddenly translated into another state of existence. They make life very miserable for other people, by willfully misinterpreting innocent words and actions and twisting them to suit their own distorted fancies. The worst of it is that some of these unlovely and unlovable characters are, or pretend to be, rather pious. They thereby bring true piety into contempt. The keynote of true piety is charity, but charity is conspicuous by its absence from the doings and sayings of the gossip. A close attention to other people's affairs distinguishes them. Possibly the reason they don't mind their own business is, as some humorist has put it, "because they have no business to mind. They have no business to mind if they had a mind to mind it, and no mind to mind their business if they had any business to mind."—S. H. Review.

A learned English priest, the Rev. D. D. O. S. B., has published a pamphlet on "Sacerdotium in the Old and New Testaments," which is remarkable for the amount of argument and evidence he has crowded into little space. The subject is, indeed, so large that Father Breen's thesis is in parts little more than what is technically called a brief; but the proof is all there enforced by very stiff logic. A strong point made by the author is that rejection of sacerdotalism and the principle of mediation implies rejection of the Bible as a rule of faith. In this country, as well as in England, there is work for this pamphlet to do. Published by R and T Washbourne.—Ave Maria.

Sir Charles Tupper's Visit

A SPLENDID RECEPTION

POWERFUL SPEECHES

According to announcement, Sir Charles Tupper, Leader of the Liberal-Conservative Party of Canada, and his able lieutenant, Hon. George E. Foster, arrived in this city from Pictou on Monday evening last. Hon. Hugh J. McDonald was not able to accompany them to this Province and the announcement of his expectation here was made in consequence of some mistake in the telegraph despatches. He is to meet Sir Charles in Montreal at the return of the Leader from the Maritime Provinces. A deputation of Liberal-Conservatives from here, including Senator Ferguson, Alexander Martin, M. P. W. S. Stewart, Q. C., J. B. Dawson, Esq., and Thos. Handrahan, Esq., went to Pictou on Monday morning to meet Sir Charles and Mr. Foster and accompany them here. It was nearly half-past nine Monday evening when the Princess, with Sir Charles and party on board, arrived here from Pictou. The demonstration in honor of Sir Charles and Mr. Foster was splendid in deed it was one of the finest ever witnessed in Charlottetown. It had been arranged that Sir Charles should speak briefly from the balcony of the Hotel Davies, in answer to an address of welcome. The balconies were lit up with rows of electric lights and decorated with flags, and presented a most brilliant appearance. On the front of the lower balcony facing the corner of Great George and Water Streets, the words "Welcome" were printed in large letters. The Fourth Regiment Band discoursed sweet music in front of the hotel for about an hour before the arrival of the boat, and all the vast space extending down to the water's edge was thronged with people. The people turned out en masse and occupied every available place in the vicinity of the hotel and down the wharf to the very end. It was such an outpouring as might well gladden the heart of a conquering hero. The weather was beautiful, and the thousands of people were in the best of humor, and a more orderly and respectful throng it would be impossible to imagine. As the steamer entered the harbor the band proceeded to the wharf, followed by an immense concourse of those waiting for the veteran leader. As Sir Charles made his appearance at the gangway three cheering cheers and a tiger rent the air. Sir Charles and his party being conveyed to barouches in waiting, the procession preceded by the band, advanced up the wharf. The sea of upturned faces, illuminated by the bright lights that greeted Sir Charles when he stepped on to the balcony of the hotel, constituted a most inspiring scene—indeed it was a scene not readily effaced from memory. The proceedings opened by the reading and presentation of the following address from the Tupper Club by J. B. Dawson, Esq., President:

To THE HON. SIR CHARLES TUPPER, BART., G. C. M. G. B., M. P. Sir—We, the members of the Tupper Club, representing the Junior Liberal-Conservative of Charlottetown, extend to you a cordial welcome to our Province. We deem it a distinguished honor to have as the Patron of our Club the Leader of the great Liberal-Conservative Party of Canada, a most eminent statesman, illustrious as one of the Fathers of Confederation, who during long years of public service has done so much to advance the interests and material prosperity of this country. We fully recognize the large share you have had in framing the policy, upholding the principles and perfecting the organization of the Liberal-Conservative Party of Canada, and we are confident that, under your leadership, our party shall triumph at the forthcoming Dominion elections. As loyal citizens of Canada we are proud of the part taken by our own patriot soldiers in defence of our Majesty's Empire and in upholding the British flag in South Africa, and with you, Sir, the prime mover in the patriotic undertaking of sending a Canadian contingent.

We congratulate you on your excellent health, and we trust you may long be spared to lead the great Liberal-Conservative Party of Canada. Signed on behalf of the Tupper Club. J. B. Dawson, President.

In replying to this address Sir Charles delivered a splendid speech of nearly half an hour. He thanked the Tupper Club for the compliment they had paid him in giving his name to their organization, and congratulated all present on the magnificent demonstration of the evening. He pointed out that it was a remarkable coincidence that they were assembled on this occasion on the anniversary of the day on which the delegates to the first confederation conference had met in Charlottetown thirty-six years ago. Then briefly reviewing what had taken place since then, he pointed out the momentous results of confederation. He referred to the great measures that had been inaugurated and carried to a successful issue by the great Liberal-Conservative Party, and in which he himself had taken an important part. In almost all these great undertakings opposition of the most hostile kind had been persistently offered by the Liberal Party. Mr. Fielding, said Sir Charles, had stated that "Toryism and Tupperism" were almost annihilated in this Dominion. He thought the best answer to that empty assertion of Fielding's was given by the people of Charlottetown in this magnificent demonstration. But why should Mr. Fielding desire the wiping out of "Toryism and Tupperism?" He boldly challenged Mr. Fielding or anyone else to point out any public measure with which he had been connected during his forty-five years of public life that had not been of the broadest and most liberal character, and for the benefit of Canada as a whole. The present Federal Government had grossly mismanaged the business of the country, and the strongest evidence existed in every portion of the country he had visited that the people would relieve the Laurier Government of power whenever they got an opportunity. He referred to the excellent service done by the Canadian soldiers of the Queen in South Africa, and expressed his sympathy for the friends of those who had fallen in the struggle. Sir Charles' speech was delivered in a powerful voice that was easily heard by everyone—even those at the furthest confines of the throng. At the conclusion of his address he was again greeted with cheers.

Hon. Mr. Foster spoke briefly. He said that a very prominent Grit politician of this city had said, after the election of 1896, that a Conservative could not be found here, even with a fine tooth comb. He considered the scene before him the most emphatic answer to this flippant and baseless remark. He said the Conservative party was a party that changed consistently with reason and public requirements; but the Grits were a party of lightning change, quite regardless of reason or consistency. He would not address them further then; but would be happy to see them at the rink on the following night, when he would address them on the public questions of the day. In response to calls, Mr. W. S. Stewart briefly addressed the assembled throng, dealing with the questions before the people, and expressing the hope that we were on the eve of Conservative victory. Cheers were again given, and the grandest demonstration of its kind that Charlottetown has seen came to a close.

At the Skating Rink. The grand demonstration of Monday night was but a prelude to the magnificent ovation tendered Sir Charles and Mr. Foster in the rink on Tuesday evening. The rink, the largest auditorium in the city, was most appropriately arranged for the occasion. It was floored with deals, extending crosswise from end to end of the building, and resting on heavy timbers. The promenade was also seated, so that every part of the immense building was utilized and every inch was packed to the very edge. The rink was a balcony seated and fully occupied during the meeting—indeed long before. Around this platform were several rows of seats, every one of which was taken before the speaking commenced. The platform for the speakers and reporters extended into the auditorium, some thirty feet from the main platform. In front of the balcony and along both sides and above the main entrance hung numerous flags, shields and mottoes arranged in admirable order and with splendid taste. Numerous sheaves of wheat were placed in between the other decorations. Among the inscriptions, in large letters, were the following: "Welcome Sir Charles Tupper and distinguished guests," "Patrons of our Volunteer Heroes," "The Hope of Canada," "British Preference for Canadian Products," "A United Canada," "One Flag," "One Policy," "Imperial Unity for Defence and Legislative Independence of Canada," "Canada for Canadians." Flags were strung in all directions, and about one hundred additional lights were placed in the building. The Fourth Regiment Band was in attendance. Numerous Chinese lanterns were suspended down the centre of the auditorium, which, with the other decorations, gave the place the appearance of a fairy scene. Among those on the platform were Senator Ferguson, Senator McDonald, Senator Prowse, Hon. B. W. Howland and Mrs. Howland, Alexander Martin, M. P., A. C. McDonald, M. P., Hon. Daniel Gordon, Edward Hackett, Esq., W. S. Stewart, Esq., Cyrus Shaw, M. L. A., John McLean, Esq., Souris, Captain William Richards, William Campbell, M. L. A., John Kickham, M. L. A., M. McKinnon, M. L. A., W. E. Dawson, Esq., and many other prominent citizens, and a large number of clergymen of different denominations. The occasion was also marked by the presence of a large number of ladies, who occupied seats in the balcony and on the promenade. Just about 8 o'clock Sir Charles Tupper and Mr. Foster entered the building by the side door, and their appearance was greeted with the loudest of cheers.

A few minutes after eight P. Blake, Esq., President of the Liberal-Conservative Association for West Queen's called the meeting to order and opened the proceedings with a few introductory remarks. He then called upon Alexander Martin, Esq., M. P.,

President of the Liberal-Conservative Conference of P. E. Island, who stepped forward and read the following address: To THE HON. SIR CHARLES TUPPER, BART., G. C. M. G. B., M. P. In the name of the Liberal-Conservative of Prince Edward Island we bid you a most hearty welcome to our Province. Your great services to your country, extending over a period of half a century, in many capacities of great responsibility and importance, have received deserved recognition at the hands of our Most Gracious Sovereign, as well as from distinguished men in all parts of the Empire; but we assure you that none have watched your career with greater pride and appreciation than the people of Prince Edward Island, among whom, we are proud to say you spent some of the early days of your life. It must be a matter of great satisfaction to yourself, as it is to your friends everywhere, that you have lived to observe the application of the trost of all tests, that of time, to your work as a statesman. With respect to all the great measures with which your name has been connected during your long public life, no difference of opinion prevails today. A united Canada, increased in area over three million square miles since first confederated, a great transcontinental railway and a wisely conceived National Policy regarding Canadian industries, stand as remembrances of your courage, your wisdom and your patriotism. The experience of the last four years in the Government of this country by your political opponents with their record of corrupt deals, broken promises, and wasteful expenditures has caused the public mind to turn to you the great leader of the Liberal-Conservative party, as a deliverer, and we rejoice that with unimpaired mental vigor, unabated physical force and accumulated experience, you have with so much self-sacrifice placed yourself, once more at the service of Canada. We rejoice in the opportunity of welcoming, as your companion in arms a gentleman who has performed such noble services in guiding the finances of Canada for so many years. We recognize as every one must do, that had as has been the financial blinding of the past four years, matters would have been still worse, were it not for the statesmanlike criticism of Hon. Geo. E. Foster. Changing, as we do the warmest admiration of the life and memory of the great Chief Justice Sir John A. McDonald under whom you served during so many years of noble exertion, we hail with delight the association of his distinguished son the popular Premier of Manitoba with the Liberal-Conservative party in the campaign you are now waging with such great manifestations of popular enthusiasm. In your own words, the conservation of his noble qualities of head and heart to the service of Canada is one of the bright spots in the political horizon, and it would have afforded us great pleasure to welcome him with you tonight as we confidently expected to be able to do. In the report which will shortly be made to the electorate of Canada, we are assured of the overwhelming defeat of the present government and feel justified in conveying to you a confident assurance that Prince Edward Island will contribute its full share in the attainment of that object which will be the material of giving Canada a more competent, progressive and honest administration. ALEXANDER MARTIN, Pres. of Lib.-Con. of P. E. I. EDWARD HACKETT, Vice Pres. Lib.-Con. of P. E. I. JAMES CROW, Pres. E. Queen's Lib.-Con. DANIEL GORDON, Pres. Lib.-Con. As. for King's PATRICK BLAKE, Pres. West Queen's Lib.-Con. As. Charlottetown, September 4, 1900.

When the reading of the address was concluded, Sir Charles stepped to the front of the platform, and was received with tremendous cheering. He then commenced his speech, which lasted two hours and was a magnificent discourse. His voice was sufficiently powerful to be heard quite distinctly at the further end of the building. He dealt in a masterly manner with the leading public questions of the day, contrasting the statesmanship of the great Liberal-Conservative Party with that of the Liberals, now in power, to the utter disadvantage of the latter. He confidently predicted the triumphant return of the Liberal-Conservatives to power, whenever the opportunity should offer. He was followed by Mr. Foster, who in a powerful speech of an hour's duration, showed up the inconsistency and faithlessness of the Laurier Government. We hope to give our readers a full report of these two great speeches in our next issue.

W. S. Stewart, Esq., candidate for West Queen's, briefly addressed the meeting, in response to calls. He was followed by Mr. Martin, candidate for East Queen's, whose name was also repeatedly called out. The vast meeting then came to a close.

During his stay in the city, Sir Charles Tupper was the guest of W. S. Stewart, Esq. Yesterday afternoon a reception was held at Mr. Stewart's residence where many were presented to Sir Charles. Mr. Foster was the guest of T. A. McLean, Esq. Sir Charles and Mr. Foster left this afternoon, by special train for Summerside, where they speak tonight. They were accompanied by a large delegation from Charlottetown.

On yesterday a very large and enthusiastic convention of Liberal-Conservative delegates from the Fringing of East Queen's, assembled in this city and unanimously nominated Alexander Martin, Esq., as the standard bearer in the forthcoming Dominion election. Mr. Martin, in an eloquent speech accepted the nomination, and heartily thanked the delegates for the confidence they had in him, as shown by the enthusiastic and unanimous nomination tendered him. He said he would in the future, as in the past, exert his best ability for the benefit of his riding and his Province. Eloquent speeches were made by Edward Hackett, Esq., William Campbell, Esq., and Senator Prowse. Sir Charles Tupper and Hon. Mr. Foster entered the room and were given an enthusiastic reception. Sir Charles addressed the meeting and congratulated the assembled delegates for the wisdom they had shown in nominating Mr. Martin for the Commons. He gave Mr. Martin a great character as a public man, and a worthy representative of his constituents. He pointed out the intelligence and assiduity with which he persistently advocated the rights of his constituents, and expressed the hope that he should be elected by an overwhelming majority. Mr. Martin fully endorsed all that Sir Charles had said in commendation of Mr. Martin, and created no little amusement by describing the annoyance Mr. Martin's persistent and trenchant manner of asking for information caused Sir Louis Davies, Minister of Marine. Mr. Martin's election is assured beyond cavil.

False to the Farmers. Continuing its exposure of the utter betrayal of the principles of the Liberal party by the present government, the Huntingdon Gleaner points out that the farmers, who had been the special charge of the party through the long years of their opposition wanderings, are the most grievously wronged of all classes of the people. The proof of this is submitted by the Gleaner is simply over-whelming and must bring the blush of shame to the friends of the minister. It says:—And of all elections no class have been so shamefully wronged as the farmers. Their toll is hard, their earnings small, and when the Laurier government went into office they believed their long-cherished hope, that the country would be ruled in their interests, was about to be realized. During the past four years they have learned that the manufacturer's little figure has more weight than their hand, and that the contractor and the railway schemer can blind the eye that ought to regard their condition. The farmer rises in the morning to feed his team on the iron of whose shoes the Laurier government levies a duty of 30 per cent; after breakfast, at which he drank coffee taxed 10 per cent, out of a cup protected 30 per cent, he yokes his team to an American reaper, on which 20 per cent duty has been paid; at dinner time his wife raises his dinner in a pound made of rice on which a duty of 1 1/2 cents per pound has been paid; before going back to the field he fastens a few loose boards with nails whose maker has 30 per cent protection, and takes with him to the field a fence some wire with 10 per cent protection. In the evening his wife goes to the village and buys flannel to make him a shirt on which the duty is 30 per cent, and a pair of socks on which the same duty is levied. On cotton for a dress for her child she pays 30 per cent, and on the soap she uses with 25 per cent. In his purchases are of British manufactures, the duty is a penny less. Needing some sugar for supper, she gets it and pays more than it is worth, because the Montreal millionaire refines have protection of over a cent a pound. The day's work over, the husband calls for the newspaper, printed on paper whose manufacture is protected by 25 per cent duty, and reads it by the light of a lamp filled with oil for which his wife paid 25 cents a gallon, and which can be bought on the American side at ten cents a gallon. The farmer is robbed of his honest earnings to subsidize manufacturers, and all this at the close of four years' rule by a government that accepted office under a disjunct pledge to give the country a revenue tariff. The Gleaner, the Masses, the Gauls, the Redpaths, the Rockefellers, have been going on raking in their millions of dollars as in the days of Sir John A. McDonald, and the farmers continue to pay their tribute without an effort to destroy the system that keeps them poor. Last year the country paid in taxes twelve and one half million dollars more than it ever did. If that money did not come out of the earnings of the productive class, where did it come from? Had that twelve and one half million dollars been left in the pockets of the farmers and mechanics and men who to be half starved, and some are said to be half starved. Ambulances are out picking up the sick and weakly ones. The officers are reported to have been taken to Barberton. Some of them escaped, including the Earl of Leitrim and Viscount Ennismore. The prisoners report that they were crowded in the hold of the ship, and that they were kept in the hold for three days. The Boers seem to be scattering. A Florida despatch of Sept. 1, says: Mr. Kruger and Mr. Steyn have gone to Barberton. It is believed that they are preparing for flight. The general opinion is that the war is now very close at hand, but should the Boers strike strongholds in the bush, on the gold, or elsewhere and begin a system of raids the British would require for their large supplies of horses. General Buller moved fourteen miles northwest along the Lydenburg road and crossed the Crocodile river to Bedfordfontein. He found the Boers concentrating in the Crocodile mountains. Under Commandant Ebron broke through the British lines and captured and burned a supply train at Klip River station, taking thirty-five prisoners and driving the Boers into the mountains. The Boers into the mountains. The Boers into the mountains. The Boers into the mountains.

Foreign Intelligence. A LIVING DEATH. Brest, the anarchist, who assassinated King Humbert, has been pronounced guilty, and sentenced to imprisonment for life. Brest will not forget his life for the crime, the death penalty having been abolished in Italy, a fate almost worse than death awaits him. He has been condemned to perpetual labor, but before beginning his toll he will be placed in a cell for ten years of solitary confinement. He will be chained to the wall, he will never see from the depths of his cell, a ray of daylight, he will never hear the sound of human voice. During these 10 years of solitude not even a priest can visit Brest, all occupation is prohibited, and so the end, and master of any form ever reaches the eyes of the prisoner, who may not even talk aloud to himself. This miserable mortal receives his food through a little sliding door in his cell, without even seeing the person who brings it.

THE FIRST BLOOD SHED. As a result of the tension between the Roumanian and Bulgarian governments, due to the demand of the former for the suppression of the Macedonian revolutionary committee, a frontier conflict took place on Friday, between Roumanian and Bulgarian peasants at Vardicov, a few miles from the celebrated "Iron Gate" of the Danube, on the Roumanian side of the stream. Two Bulgarians were killed and many of both parties were wounded.

RAILWAY HORROR. A milk train standing at Hatfield station, Philadelphia, Pa., was crashed into by a rapidly moving special excursion train on Monday. The latter train was a heavy one and its many cars were filled with excursionists from Philadelphia, Pa., and stations north of that point, bound for Atlantic City. A number of cars were completely wrecked and fifteen persons were killed outright and about forty were injured.

ATLIN IN ASHES. A Victoria, B. C., despatch of the 2nd inst. from the north coast of British Columbia brings a report of a disastrous fire, which swept the town of Atlin on Sunday last, practically wiping it out of existence. Ten of the largest and most important business buildings in the town were destroyed, causing a loss that is estimated at about $40,000.

In South Africa. Following up the recent communications from Col. Otter with reference to the period of service in South Africa, a despatch was received at the militia department, Ottawa, from Hon. Mr. Chamberlain, enclosing one from Lord Roberts, in which he calls attention to the difference in the terms of enlistment between the English volunteer corps and the Canadian regiment. The former, it appears, were enlisted for one year, or for the duration of the war, whereas the term of service for the Canadians was for one year, terminating on the 15th of October. The commander-in-chief asks that the Canadians be permitted to remain in South Africa for two or three months after the expiry of their term of enlistment. To Lord Roberts' request for three months further enlistment of Canadian troops in South Africa there can be but one reply. It will rest with the men to serve as much over time as may be required, but as a matter of fact the department owing to the form of agreement prepared by General Hutton, has no power to compel them to do so. Lord Roberts reports under date of Belfast, Aug. 23: "Buller's advance occupied Mochaboddy this afternoon. The enemy made a very poor stand and retired northward, followed by Dunderdall's mounted troops, who could not proceed beyond Helvetia on account of the difficulty nature of the country and the enemy taking up a position too strong to be dislodged by the mounted troops. It appears that Buller's casualties were thirty few. "French continued the movement today as far as Elandsfontein, from which he turned the enemy out with no difficulty. The latter retired very rapidly, leaving cooked food behind. "Gen. Buller's casualties August 27 were: Killed, one officer and thirteen men; wounded, seven officers and fifty-seven men." The following despatch has been received at the war office from Lord Roberts: "BELFAST, Aug. 31.—About 1,800 British prisoners released at Nooitgedacht have reached French and Polokwane. They are badly clothed and some are said to be half starved. Ambulances are out picking up the sick and weakly ones. The officers are reported to have been taken to Barberton. Some of them escaped, including the Earl of Leitrim and Viscount Ennismore. The prisoners report that they were crowded in the hold of the ship, and that they were kept in the hold for three days. The Boers seem to be scattering. A Florida despatch of Sept. 1, says: Mr. Kruger and Mr. Steyn have gone to Barberton. It is believed that they are preparing for flight. The general opinion is that the war is now very close at hand, but should the Boers strike strongholds in the bush, on the gold, or elsewhere and begin a system of raids the British would require for their large supplies of horses. General Buller moved fourteen miles northwest along the Lydenburg road and crossed the Crocodile river to Bedfordfontein. He found the Boers concentrating in the Crocodile mountains. Under Commandant Ebron broke through the British lines and captured and burned a supply train at Klip River station, taking thirty-five prisoners and driving the Boers into the mountains. Island Boys Win the Trophy. On the grounds of the Wanderers Athletic Association, Halifax, on Saturday afternoon, the people of that city were given an eye-opener, when the lads of Prince Edward Island defeated the Wanderers—that famous athletic team—who up to that time had never known defeat. The Abegweit, when they arrived in Halifax, were not in the best of form either, the trip over having had a bad effect upon some of them. But, nevertheless, this did not prevent them from rolling up a score of 53 points to the Wanderers 45. This is a great victory, considering that the Wanderers have been under the coaching of a special trainer, imported from the United States, who has brought out some of the best athletes in the world today. Three thousand people witnessed the sports. Many of the Island boys who took part had never competed outside their own Province before. Following is the summary: Stephen, the Wanderers invincible short distance runner, won the 100 yards in ten seconds, Pates of the Wanderers second, Ritchie of the Abegweit third. Stephen also won the 220, Ritchie second, Harris of the Wanderers third. Duffy of the Abegweit won the quarter-mile run, Pates second, C. McMillan, Abegweit, third. In the half-mile run, Murphy of the Wanderers defeated Duffy by a foot. Adams of the Abegweit was third. Time 2:06. Darke, Abegweit, took third place in the shot put. Best distance 39 feet. McDonald, of New Glasgow, N. S., broke the record by six feet for throwing the hammer. Jones of the Abegweit got third. Distance 110 feet. McPherson, Abegweit, won the high jump, Ruggles, Wanderers, second and Donahoe, Abegweit, third. 5 ft. 3 inches. McPherson was also second in the broad jump and McMillan third. McCorney of Halifax was first. His distance was 10 feet, 9 inches. Balsew of Menton, won the pole vault, Ruggles second, Donahoe third. 10 feet. Ruggles won the hurdles, Donahoe second and McPherson third. Time 1:18 seconds. Cameron, the new Montague wonder, won the mile cycle, Brown, Abegweit, second. Time 2:43. Anderson of the Wanderers won the quarter-mile bicycle, Brown second. Time 33 seconds. Cameron won the half-mile bicycle, Brown second and Schilzer, Wanderers, third. Time 1:11. The one mile run was the last event, and was taken by Murphy of the Wanderers, McKinnon, Abegweit, second and Adams of the Abegweit third. Time 4:38.35.

Hymeneal. In St. Peter's Church, Head St. Peter's Bay, on Tuesday, August 28th, Mr. Robert Lewis, son of Mr. James Lewis, and Miss Sarah McIsaac, daughter of Mr. Hilary McIsaac, were united in marriage by the Rev. R. J. Gillis, P. P. The bridesmaid was Miss Mollie Lewis, sister of the groom, and the groomsmen were Mr. Alfred O'Hanley. After the marriage ceremony, the bridal party—and their guests—retired to the residence of the bride's father, where a sumptuous dinner was spread. After partaking of the good things provided for them and spending some time in social enjoyment, the party drove to the home of the groom, where a grand wedding was participated in, the bride being kept up till the early hours of the morning. The wedding gifts were numerous and valuable. The Rev. Father wishes Mr. and Mrs. Lewis many years of happy wedded life.

St. Dunstan's Cathedral, on Monday the 3rd inst. Mr. John Donnelly, groom, Charlottetown, was united in marriage with Miss Mary T. Beardon, daughter of Mr. Nigel Beardon. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. James M. Beardon, brother of the bride, assisted by Rev. Father Connolly, brother of the groom. After the ceremony and breakfast at the residence of the bride's parents, the happy couple proceeded to the railway station and boarded the train for Summerside en route to Boston, on a wedding tour. They have our best wishes for unalloyed happiness throughout their wedded life.

On Wednesday morning, the 4th inst., Mr. Ernest Doyle, of the P. E. I. Railway and Miss Mary Griffin, were united in marriage in St. James' Church, Georgetown, by the Rev. S. T. Phelan, P. P. The bridesmaid was Miss Annie O'Brien and the groomsmen were Mr. H. J. McPhee. After a wedding breakfast at the residence of the bride's mother, the happy couple left on the morning train, on a wedding trip to Boston, New York and other cities. The wedding presents were numerous and valuable, among them being a beautiful silver tea-set to the groom from the C. M. B. A. of which he is a member and a splendid turban from the railway. The Hon. Mr. Doyle and wishes them many years of wedded happiness.

A MONCTON team of cricketers in a match with the Phoenix team, of this city, last week defeated the city team by 43 runs. The Moncton team rolled up 98 runs altogether, and the Phoenix 55.

The residence of Mrs. Margaret Loughran, of Auburn, near Fort Augustus, was totally destroyed by fire Wednesday last, and only a few articles saved. There was no insurance on the building, which was a new one.

Most Rev. C. H. Gauthier, Archbishop of Kingston, paid a short visit to this city, during last week, arriving on Wednesday evening and leaving, via Pictou on Friday morning. He was accompanied by his Secretary, Rev. Father Hogan.

THE Halifax Herald says: P. E. Island's quota to the first contingent was 30 men, in G. Company. These lads left home together and at the fight at Paardeberg each of the 30 was in his given place. This was a record creditable to the men of the province.

WILLIAM COX, charged with manslaughter, by being responsible for the death of John Curran, at Halifax, and circumstances of which were recorded in this paper at the time, has been discharged from custody, the case being dismissed for want of evidence.

GENERAL O'GRADY-HALEY, the new commander of the militia forces in Canada, is expected to arrive here on the 22nd of September, accompanied by Col. Foster, a church parade of the different city companies will take place on the Sunday following. On Monday an inspection will take place.

THERE will be three chicken fattening stations in this Province this fall. One at Charlottetown, one at Alberton and another at Mount Stewart. Mr. Horace Hazard will have charge of the Charlottetown station. The Alberton station will be controlled by Mr. H. J. Matthews and the Mount Stewart station by Mr. Geo. C. Douglas.

MR. E. R. BROW shipped by the Northumberland on Friday sixteen head of Guernsey cattle for the Sherbrooke, Que., Exhibition. The cattle, after the close of the Sherbrooke fair, will be brought back to the Halifax and Charlottetown Exhibitions. This is probably the largest herd of cattle sent by an Island exhibitor to an exhibition outside the Province.

ONE of the best advertisements we have yet seen, appeared on our streets a few days ago, in the shape of two men, one seven feet tall and the other four. The contrast between the two is very marked. On their backs is an inscription telling the merits of "Patent Twine" and "Economic Plug." They will visit the principal points of the Province, distributing free samples of their tobacco.

SIR McKenzie Bowell and Senator O'Brien, of Montreal, who had been visiting Newfoundland, arrived here from Pictou on Saturday evening last. They rested here quietly on Sunday and Monday forenoon, and continued their pre-arranged itinerary homeward, via Summerside, on Monday afternoon. On their arrival here on Saturday evening, they were received by a deputation of the Conservative Party and escorted to the Hotel Davies, where they were afterwards waited upon by many members of the party. They were on a vacation tour.

At a meeting of the Cheese Board on Friday afternoon 474 colored and 500 white were boarded. The sales were: Dillon & Spiller, Hazelbrook, 200 white; Winslow, 300 white. A. J. ### IN CHINA!

A Washington despatch of Sept. 1, says: The Russian government has advised the powers that the relief of the legation and foreigners in Peking having been achieved, under present circumstances (absence of the Emperor, Empress Regent and Teng Li Yamen) there is no reason why the several ambassadors should remain in Peking. M. de Giers, the Russian ambassador, and all Russian subjects are ordered to the coast under escort. Wm. Rockhill, special United States commissioner, now at Shanghai, says the relief of Peking is merely an incident of the crisis, and that if the powers are not in accord all foreigners had better leave China. Marquis Ito, Japanese statesman, considers it dangerous to yield any concession to Chinese conceit or pride, that the present crisis is the greatest in the history of China. Li Hung Chang is in Shanghai, and is said to be intriguing to get the powers to quarrel. On Saturday he told American and English diplomats that the Russians had promised to withdraw from Peking, regardless of the policy of other nations. It is probably thought he is simulating an accomplished success. The Americans and British have promised to withdraw.

The publication of the text of the Russian proposals has intensified rather than diminished the suspicion entertained by England of Russia's proceedings. The rupture of the European concert is considered an accomplished fact. The Russian differ, however, as to the way in which the powers will now group themselves. Some papers think that Great Britain, Japan and the triple alliance will stand together in refusing to leave Peking. The Daily Telegraph, which expresses regret that President McKimley "has committed the United States to follow the Russian lead," considers, however, that Japan, "whose consistent policy since the war of 1894 has been to conciliate and effect a rapprochement with China," will throw in her lot with Russia, and will be reluctantly followed by France, who does not care to see differences with Russia. "Events have therefore conspired," says the Daily Telegraph, "to throw the balance of diplomatic power into Lord Salisbury's hands, for Austria Hungary and Italy must side with Germany, who will probably propose some compromise and be supported by England."

The Times feels perfectly clear, it says, that neither itself nor the interests of England will permit her to follow Russia's example. It trusts that Germany will refuse to leave Peking and express the hope that the report that the state department in Washington disapproved Russia's suggestion may prove correct.

Notifying his Party

Mr. B. Russell, M. P., has published three full newspaper columns of words, the main purport of which appears to be to take time by the forelock and give notice to his party that he is still in the political field, and that he wishes them "not to forget it." He concludes his three newspaper columns, which he is pleased to entitle, "Mr. Russell's Record," in these words:—

"The policy of the government has committed itself to my own as a cordial approval and I propose to continue to give it an independent support so long as I shall be honored with a seat as your representative. I need not say how highly I prize the destination nor how ready I am to spend and be spent in the endeavor to merit it at your hands."

"It has involved me in much weariness of flesh and spirit, called for heavy sacrifices of pecuniary advantage and physical comfort, but in view of hints and suggestions from time to time thrown out as to my presumed ambition to serve my generation in a more innovative and less laborious sphere I may be permitted to confessing with entire frankness that in spite of all the labors and sacrifices that my present position may entail there is no other for which I would willingly exchange it and I should count myself happy if again honored with the opportunity to serve you."

"That 'frank confession' is interesting! In spite of the labors and sacrifices that his 'present position entails' he 'frankly confesses' 'there is no other for which he would willingly exchange it!' Certainly there isn't, otherwise he would not be still in the political field and giving his party notice of that fact. 'Frankly,' of course, but stily, he 'confesses.' 'There is no other,' and hence he has determined to hold on to his 'present position' as long as possible, in hopes, like Mr. Micawber, that some 'other' will turn up which he will like better. The whole thing is very 'frank,' and very transparent, too; but of course the party had to be notified, and in a way that it couldn't well take back."

Mr. Russell's three newspaper columns of "record" are of comparatively little importance to the public. The actions of all political parties are quite convinced that he never should have had any record as a member of parliament, and there is little or no difference of opinion between the two parties that the shorter that record is out the better for the country. Mr. Russell's published "record," however, some interest for what it does contain. For example, it does not contain anything to show what he has done to carry out that great pledge and promise of his former campaign, to secure for the people of this country cheap coal, free from such "iniquitous burdens" as had been heaped upon it by "Tory marauders." Mr. Russell is no "out-clever" to make the worse appear the better reason, but still he thought it prudent to star clear of that bit of government record of handling the kerenski oil business over to the Standard Oil monopoly to the millions a year in increased prices out of the people of this country. Yet he declares "the policy of the government has commended itself to his entire and cordial approval." What, then, becomes of his former campaign and promise of cheap oil?

Another very important piece of Mr. Russell's record about which he has nothing to say, is the "record" made in the committee of parliament, by his "labors and sacrifices" for the purpose of shielding the government from the rest of the gang sent the Emergency Rations scandal. Mr. Russell's "record," as published by himself, will thus be seen to be altogether too incomplete to be considered of much public importance. As a notice to his party, if he have one, he no doubt thinks it important. To the electors generally neither Mr. Russell nor his "record" can be of any great future, political interest.—Halifax Herald.

Queer Klondike Things.

Charles Steckler, the lawyer and politician, has just returned from a two months trip through Alaska, in the course of which he made some interesting observations, saw some queer people and had some unique experiences, the most remarkable of which was undoubtedly his feat of beating a Klondike roulette wheel twice. Mr. Steckler gave an interesting account of his trip to a number of his friends yesterday. He said:

"I went from here to Victoria and there embarked for a trip through Alaska on the steamer Queen. We went to Wrangel, which has become about as desolate and gloomy looking a place as I ever saw. There was a time when they thought they could go straight from Wrangel to Dawson by the Sitken River, and of course Wrangel became a great place at once. It sprang up like a Western boom town and a whole lot of rear wheel, flat bottomed boats were built and made ready to go into trade between Wrangel and Dawson. Then they found that it wouldn't do, and Wrangel was emptied of its people in no time. It is one mass of empty houses and stores now. The bay is full of these flat bottomed boats with their huge rear wheels, which were never used. We found some people at Wrangel. They were the unfortunate who had spent their last dollar getting there and the rest was made for the place, and then found themselves unable to get out when the exodus came; for it costs money to get around in Alaska. There they are, stuck alone in this great town, their only neighbors being the Indians who drop in and make use of the deserted frame houses, when they get tired of the mountains. They have no money and absolutely no chance of getting any. So far as can be predicted now they will never get out of the place. Their one chance is that the Government will hear of their plight some day and send up a steamer to take them out. In the meantime they fish, and live on the catch. There is a saloon in the place, but the owner has nothing to sell. He has a lot of roulette wheels, but they never turn, because no one has any money or anything else to gamble with.

"They've got about 2,000 people in Juneau now, and there is a whole lot doing all the time. The city is an up-to-date mining town, and but three hours of darkness out of each day when I was there, and keeps things humming all the time. This is remarkable in view of the fact that there is no escape from the place at any time of the year save by steamer. The steamers come along only once in a while, and transportation is very expensive. The most interesting man that I found in Juneau, outside of the Deputy United States Marshal, who is the only peace officer in the place and has troubles enough to make a man gray, was Slim Jim. Slim Jim is an old Kentuckian, and he runs the biggest wide open game in Juneau. You can play roulette, faro, hazard, craps, red and black, black Jack, or anything else in Slim Jim's, and if you don't want to play at all, you can get a good drink at the bar or a good dance in the dance hall in the rear. Slim Jim is a gentle old fellow when you treat him right, in fact I never met a nicer or more courteous old man, but I did hear that Slim could be meaner than sin when any one tried to rub it into him. I guess it was right, too, because he had been running places similar to this one in Juneau, in mining camps for a good many years. Slim Jim is a foxy one, too. He knows that at certain periods the steamer full of tourists will happen along, and he has a way to receive the people who want to go to his place. He sells good beer for 15 cents a glass, or two glasses for a quarter. You are cordially invited to take a shy at the roulette wheel, and if the ladies in the party want to try their luck they are allowed to do so. Well, I don't know what the Slim one makes out of a party of tourists, but he got the entire 200 on the Queen playing at one time or another, and I don't hear of any one but myself beating the game. I beat it for $20 on the out trip and coming back thought it would be the proper thing to give Jim a chance to get square. So I took the twenty and went in to play. When I had doubled it I made up my mind that it was a shame to take any more of Slim Jim's money and so quit the game.

"There are hundreds of Indians in Juneau and all they do is make baskets and sell them to tourists. They sold the men and women on Queen over 2,000 baskets, and some of the travellers could scarcely get into their store rooms after we left Juneau, they were so full of baskets. "We went over to Douglas Island to see the famous Treadwell mine. I don't think that I ever saw anything like it before. Here is an island that sold for $300 not so very long ago. To-day it is the richest gold mine in the world. The ore is low grade, but there is so much of it that it pays to mine it in large quantities. They have dug a pit there in which you could easily sink out of sight two of the largest of our ocean liners. There are 880 stamp mills there and they are going all the time. The machinery is the finest in the world and the mine is making lots of money. The noise of the stamp mills is simply deafening. As I said, they are going night and day. It was 4 o'clock in the morning when I went through the mill, and the noise was so great that if any one had fired a pistol alongside of my ear I do not believe that I would have noticed it. I heard the noise in my ears for a week afterward. There are just two days in the year when the mines close. That is on Christmas and on the 4th of July. On those days the entire population of the island puts on its best clothes and goes over to Juneau, to spend the day at Slim Jim's.

"At Skagway, the gate to the Klondike, we found a company of the Twenty-fifth Colored Infantry. This is a part of the regiment that fought so gallantly at San Juan Hill. The company is stationed there to keep the peace, and the men seem fairly well satisfied. Skagway is another wide-open town. There are some pretty good restaurants and barrooms in Skagway, but you have to pay $10 for a quart of champagne and $1.50 for a bottle of ale or porter. I saw a lot of Klondikers at Skagway and they told me that things were getting pretty cheap at Dawson. I asked one what he called cheap, and he told me that tomatoes were only $1 a pound there now. I found a man there who had just taken 250 tons of hay up to Dawson. He brought it on from Washington and sold it for $300 a ton. The miners who were at Skagway all made bitter complaint about the extortions of the Canadian Government. They say that they have to pay a tax of 10 per cent. on all the goods that they take out. This is not a tax on their net profits, but on the gross amount that they produce. With living so expensive, they say, it is almost impossible to pay this tax and get any great returns for their labors and sufferings. They complain, too, that when they take their gold dust to the only authorized agents, who can change it into coin or bank notes for them, they are paid from two to three points lower than the standard rate. They have no redress, because they must change the gold, it being dangerous to carry a fortune in dust from the wild Klondike country down into civilization. These miners were a queer lot, and I had some interesting talks with some of them who had come out for the first time in many years. In Dawson the smallest coin used is the quarter. The miners from Dawson went around Skagway buying up all the dimes that they could find. They said they wanted them as souvenirs. Some of them haven't seen a coin of so small value for five years.

"The innocence of some of these old fellows is incredible. They are shrewd enough in many ways, but having been out of the world for so long they are simple as children. I met one fellow, named Jim Hall, who came from Missouri. Jim came out of the Klondike for the first time since 1886, this year, and landed in Skagway from Dawson about the same time that I got there from Juneau. We became quite friendly and he told me about himself. He told me that he was worth $1,000,000, all of which he had taken out of the ground since 1886. Incidentally I might say that this was perfectly true, for I found out that he was the owner of the famous Bonanza No. 17 claim. Well, a short time before, a theatrical company had made its way up into the Klondike and the old man got acquainted with a soprano, who threw up the stage for him and married him. They had lived together for a couple of months when Mrs. Hall said she wanted to go to the Paris Exposition. "All couldn't refuse her anything, and she handed her $10,000 and $10,000 per cent to enjoy herself. She hadn't been gone long when Hall began to pine for her. So he writes her a letter not to go to Paris, but to meet him at Seattle and they would go together. I guess he spent a small fortune getting that letter to her before he got away. When I met him he was on his way to Seattle to meet her. He didn't know then whether she had received the letter in time or not. He told me all of this himself and was in a ferment of excitement over the matter. He told me how much he loved her and how much she loved him. He told me how she hated to leave him and how glad she would be when she got his letter telling her not to go to Paris until he caught up with her.

"And when we meet nothing shall ever part our loving hearts again," he said.

"I would have liked to make a book on that man's chance of coming up with his wife at Seattle, but the whole thing was so touching that I could not bring myself to just about it with anybody. It's a good thing that I didn't stake any money on the proposition, too, for later I went down to Seattle on the same steamer with the old man, and there on the docks, waiting for him was his wife. The old man could hardly contain himself for joy, and I led them on the pier together, wrapped in one another's arms.

"There is a very interesting jail in Sitka into which all great offenders against law and order in Alaska are thrown. I found it full of murderers and I led them on the pier together, wrapped in one another's arms.

"Where do the bones of a cow or sheep go after death?" sneered the infidel bitterly. "They usually go to the dog," responded the witty fellow.

IS BABY CUTTING TEETH?

Watch him carefully.—On the first indication of Diarrhoea, give Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

Hot weather comes hard on babies, especially those cutting teeth. The little form soon wastes and fades away when diarrhoea or cholera infantum seizes upon it. As you love your child, mother, and wish to save his life, give him Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. There is no other remedy so safe to give to children and none so effective. Mrs. Chas. Smith, Shoal Lake, Man., says: "I think Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the best medicine that was ever made for diarrhoea, dysentery and summer complaint. It is the best thing to give children when they are teething. I have always used it in our own family and it has never yet failed."

MISCELLANEOUS.

"One would think that a circus tent would be a splendid place to hold a political meeting."
"Why do you think that?"
"It would then be easy to canvas the votes."

Worms are dangerous, often bring on convulsions and death. If your child is suffering from them, administer Dr. Low's Pleasant Worm Syrup which is safe and always effectual. Price 25c.

"Where do the bones of a cow or sheep go after death?" sneered the infidel bitterly. "They usually go to the dog," responded the witty fellow.

Headache All Gone.
Mrs. Melbourne Parker, Torbrook N. S., writes: "I have used Milburn's Sterling Headache Powders, and after taking one or two felt better at once, and was able to get up and go on with my work." Price 10c. and 25c. all dealers.

DOWN AND UP.
"Hello, Mike, do you find much to do now?"
"Yes, I'm just after cuttin down a tree, and tomorrow I'll have to cut it up."

Hagyard's Yellow Oil is a good remedy for man or beast. It reduces swelling, allays inflammation, takes out pain, and cures cuts, burns, bruises, sprains, quinsy, sore throat, etc. Price 25c.

"You say that Grogson offered to treat you when you fell through the roof?"
"Well," he said, "here's where we take a drop."

C. C. RICHARDS & Co
Dear Sirs,—For some years I have had only partial use of my arm, caused by a sudden strain. I have used every remedy without effect, until I got a sample bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT. The benefit received from it caused me to continue its use, and now I am happy to say my arm is completely restored.

"I Can Eat What I Like."

Many people suffer terribly with pain in the stomach after every mouthful they eat. Dyspepsia and indigestion keep them in constant misery. After trying the hundred and one new-fangled remedies without much benefit, why not use the old reliable Burdock Blood Bitters and obtain a perfect and permanent cure?

Here is a case in point: "I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia for three or four years, and tried almost every doctor round here and different dyspepsia remedies, but got little relief. "I then started using Burdock Blood Bitters, and when I had finished the second bottle I was almost well, but continued taking it until I had completed the third bottle, when I was perfectly well. Before taking B.B.B. I could scarcely eat anything without having a pain in my stomach. Now I eat whatever I like and am content, not causing me the least discomfort." — MRS. THOMAS CLARK, BRUSSELS, Ont.

"I'd 'ave you know I'm proud of you, I like the bloomin' crowd of you." Says Mr. Bull.

"You're lean and sick, and sore and sad, It was a tough job you 'ad. You tackled it to suit your dad." Says Mr. Bull.

"Here's just a five-pun note apiece, To keep the wheels in axle grease." Says Mr. Bull.

"Tie but a trifle, meant to tell You bullock that I like you well. You stood so staunch, so brave you fell!" Says Mr. Bull.

"A few of you are left behind, I hope you don't take that unkind," Says Mr. Bull.

"I lost some others just as good, By Mauser ball and poison food? Forgive it? Yes, I thought you would?" Says Mr. Bull.

"We tho't we 'ad the record name, Before you young colts came." Says Mr. Bull.

"But I'll allow, when fightin' 'ot, And men are racin' to get shot, By old St. George! you beat the lot!" Says Mr. Bull.

"You've won my thanks, and warmed my 'ears, We'll nevermore be quite apart," Says Mr. Bull.

"My bloomin' eyes is dim with tears, Oh, 'ang it all! Let's give three cheers For our Canadian volunteers!" Says Mr. Bull.

WHAT NOT TO SAY.
Do not say, "I can't eat." Take Hood's Sarsaparilla and say, "I am hungry all the time, and food never hurts me."

Never say to your friends that you are as tired in the morning as at night. If they happen to be sharp they will tell you Hood's Sarsaparilla cures that tired feeling. Do not say, "My face is full of pimples." "You are quite likely to be told by some one, "There is no need of that, for Hood's Sarsaparilla cures pimples."

It is improper and unnecessary to say, "My health is poor and my blood is bad." Hood's Sarsaparilla will give you good blood, and good health will follow as a natural consequence.

A short time ago, at a school in the north of England, during a lesson on the animal kingdom, the teacher put the following question: "Can any boy name me an animal of the order indentata; that is a toothless animal?"

A boy whose face beamed with pleasure at the prospect of a good mark, replied: "I can."

"Well, what is the animal?" "My grandmother," replied the boy, in great glee.

DO YOU FEEL TIRED IN THE MORNING?
Does Sleep not bring Refreshment?
Do you feel wretched, mean and miserable in the mornings—as tired as when you went to bed? It's a serious condition—too serious to neglect, and unless you have the heart and nervous system strengthened and the blood enriched by

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, collapse is almost certain to ensue. Mr. Fred H. Graham, a well-known young man of Toronto, Ont., says:—"I have had a great deal of trouble with my heart for four years. I was easily agitated and my excitement caused my heart to throbb violently. I had dizziness and shortness of breath, and often arose in the mornings feeling as tired as when I went to bed. I was terribly nervous. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done wonders for me. They have restored my heart to regular healthy action, giving me back sound restful sleep, and making my nervous system strong and vigorous.
