THE FAIR IMPOSTOR. CHAPTER XXII. QUITE HARMLESS. (Continued.) I was marvelous, considering that everything concerning Lillian Woodleigh excited so much interest, that Dawson Slade's frequent visits and almost constant attendance upon her should not have excited remark. But he was careful. The picture, though it grew, grew slowly, and was still unfinished; of course it provided sufficient cause for his morning visits. Every day, half an hour or so after breakfast, he was in the picture gallery, working quietly and steadily. Sometimes he would ask for Lillian to sit to him, but not always; but if he wanted her or not she always remained at home in case he should do so; and when her maid came to her, "with Mr. Slade's compliments, and could she spare him a few moments?" she always rose at once, as if it had been a command, instead of a respectful, humble request. And always, just before she entered the gallery—where he stood, the light of the oriel window falling on his handsome face and his loose, velvet, painting jacket—her white hand would go to her bosom, as if to still the beating of her heart, and her lovely face would set itself, as it were, in a mold of calm serenity. She scarcely knew whether it was with pleasure or pain that she looked forward to meeting him. Sometimes she felt that he exercised a certain and positive fascination over her. He stopped in his work and looked at her, her eyes felt drawn to his; when he spoke, all inner sense was on the alert to catch the words that fell so softly musical from his lips. Never a word, never a hint of the past dropped from his lips, but sometimes when she raised her eyes under the spell of his, she would see a passionate gleam of patient longing and desire of love shining in their depths, and then her heart beat, and a warm mist seemed to fall on her and envelop her, and the figure in its velvet coat, and the handsome face would fade, and go like the vision in a dream. Often Sir Talbot would sit beside them, or walk to and fro talking to Dawson Slade, and always amused and delighted; at other times all the visitors—for the house was filling for the shooting—would stand and watch the picture; but it happened sometimes that the two were alone, and it was then that the spell fell on her and the gallery would fade away and give place to a vision of the still street, and the passionate, pleading man, in his evening dress, and white, steadfast face. "What is pleasure or pain? She could not say; but for certain, his presence brought a vague sense of protection with it. He was her slave; he had said it, her slave to do her bidding, to serve and protect her to the death. And she was not unhappy. Sometimes at night a sense of her position, of the fearful life of deception and of crime—for that morning at the bank she had committed forgery—smote her, and made her white with dread and desperation; but still she was not unhappy. The pallor left her; gradually she began to show an interest in all the many schemes for her amusement; began to look upon the great boxes which came filled with the choicest examples of Monsieur Worth's art with pleasure and interest. Sir Talbot spared no pains or expense to give expression to the dotting love which he entertained for her. Nothing was too good for her—there was, indeed, in his eyes, scarcely anything on earth good enough. Her poisons, her black mare, were the admiration of the county. The duchess herself was not more nobly dressed and the Woodleigh jewels—which for twenty years had lain hidden in their caskets—were the wonder whenever she wore them, though that was very seldom; for, notwithstanding Sir Talbot loved to see her glittering in diamonds, with the Woodleigh rubys glowing on her white throat, she always put them on reluctantly. "Are you not fond of jewels?" said Sir Talbot. "I thought they were the one thing on earth your sex were harmonious in approving. You don't seem to care about them, my darling." "I like them," she said, running the string of diamonds over her white fingers like a stream of water sparkling in the sunlight. "Yes, I like them. They are beautiful—too beautiful for me," and she leaned her face against him. "There's nothing on earth too beautiful for you!" exclaimed the old man.

GILLETT'S PERFUMED LYE. READY FOR USE IN ANY QUANTITY. For making SOAP, softening water, removing old paint, disinfecting sinks, closets and drains and for many other purposes. A can equals 20 lbs. and her maid, who stood discreetly at a distance, when recounting the incident in the servants hall, that Sir Talbot's eyes filled with tears. "Nothing! Wear them, my darling, they were your—your mother's, and—and I like to see you wear them." She turned away from him with a sudden sigh, and standing meekly, allowing him to fasten the glittering gems round her snowy throat. That night there was a dinner party at the Priory, where her exquisite beauty outshone Laura Warner's, even as the Woodleigh diamonds outshone all other jewels in the room. Between Harold and herself the same reserve still remained unbroken, though all the county linked their names together, no word of love, or anything approaching it, was exchanged between them; since that first night when Harold had offered her all that would surely be his, the title and the estates, and she had turned coldly away, she had kept him at arm's length. She herself lived, as it were, in a dream, and knew not which way the winding, devious path on which she had ventured would lead her. And so the days wore on, each bringing some fresh triumph to Sir Talbot's daughter, and adding fresh fuel to the smoldering fire of little Laura Warner's jealous envy. One morning—the morning after the dinner at the Priory—that young lady rose, tired and in anything but a pleasant humor as she looked at her pale face, pinched with the effects of last night's excitement and disappointment; for she, who had been the belle until Lillian Woodleigh's appearance, had been shown completely in the shade; beside the superb beauty of Lillian, poor Laura looked insignificant.

shown so much curiosity respecting Lillian Woodleigh at the bank. When she did, she sat watching him as, with the coolest nonchalance, he deliberately fished away as if the water were his own special property. (To be continued.)

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"The single standard of morality for both sexes that you keep talking about is absolutely impossible and absurd," a man wrote to me the other day, "and I wish you would write on more sensible subjects. Tell women to stay at home and darn their husbands' stockings and leave the things they don't understand alone, and you will be doing more good in the world."

decided that they wanted college educations, they will get them.

The only reason we are not nearer the attainment of this ideal is that women have been content with conditions as they are in this respect, and haven't made up their minds to demand better things.

In British East India, it is the custom that a woman will not marry a man until he goes to some neighboring tribe and brings back three heads as proof of his prowess. The men are not a bloodthirsty lot. They don't kill for the love of killing. They simply get those three heads because that is what the women have decided that they want.

There is a familiar ring about that injunction to the ladies to attend to their darning.

Some years ago, as a newspaper woman, I accompanied half a dozen suffragists who were making a tour through the state speaking on woman's suffrage and trying to get signatures for a giant suffrage petition.

In order to get incidents for my story, I myself took the petition one day, and went about with it in a mill town where there was an unusually ignorant class of people. When the men refused to sign, I always asked them why they did not believe in woman's suffrage, and in four cases out of five I got slight variations of one answer:

"I want my wife to stay at home and darn my stockings."

But that is merely by the way.

What I started to speak about was my friend's assertion that a single standard of morality for both men and women is an absolute impossibility.

If this man had lived fifty or a hundred years ago to-day, he would undoubtedly have said that it was an impossibility that women should enter colleges or succeed in business.

If women will make up their minds that they want a single standard of morality just as they did that they wanted to go into business, they will have it.

If girls will decide that they want husbands with as clean records as they themselves have, just as they

The editor of a well known woman's magazine comments on this custom:

"It is gruesome, yes; but all the same it is a universal human fact. In a thousand ways—most of them more pleasant than that—this sort of thing goes on the world over; what women decide becomes custom and law."

The moral of this to Mr. Bok is that since this is so, since woman has so great an influence, she ought to be content and not to ask the right to help to make laws.

With all due respect to Mr. Bok I am going to make bold to read a different lesson, and that is that since woman has so great an influence and can have whatever she wants, this single standard of morality is not an impossibility if only women will want it enough.

I admit they don't want it enough to-day.

But the success of a play like "A Man's World" proves that they have at least begun to think on this subject.

And with that step taken I think the rest is sure to come.

Not soon, by any means. I don't mean that.

But maybe when old Halley's comet comes on his next trip he will see as great a change in this respect as he has seen in others since his visit of three-quarters of a century ago.

Who knows?

Patriotism

The stomach is a larger factor in "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" than most people are aware. Patriotism can withstand hunger but not dyspepsia. The confirmed dyspeptic "is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils." The man who goes to the front for his country with a weak stomach will be a weak soldier and a fault finder.

A sound stomach makes for good citizenship as well as for health and happiness.

Diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition are promptly and permanently cured by the use of DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY. It builds up the body with sound flesh and solid muscle.

The dealer who offers a substitute for the "Discovery" is only seeking to make the little more profit realized on the sale of less meritorious preparations.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the paper covered book, or 50 stamps for the cloth bound. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Bi-Centenary of the Church of England in Canada.

Two hundred years ago the first regular services in Canada, according to the use of the Church of England, were held at Annapolis Royal, Nova Scotia, where, after the capture of the fort by Gen. Nicholson, a service of thanksgiving for the success of Her Majesty's (Queen Anne's) arms was held by Rev. John Harrison, and a sermon preached by Rev. Samuel Heskler. To-day the Church of England in Canada has twenty-two dioceses, stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and the Bi-centenary of its work in this Dominion is to be celebrated by special events at Halifax, Windsor, and Annapolis Royal, the first week of September next.

At Halifax, All Saints Cathedral, the finest church edifice in Canada, erected at a cost of some $150,000, is to be opened on September 3rd, as a memorial in stone of the Bi-centenary, and the three following days a great Canadian Church Congress is to be held, at which there promises to be a record attendance.

On September 8th, a special Convocation will be held at King's College, Windsor, the oldest University in the British colonies, and on September 9th a special service commemorative of the first service will be held at Annapolis Royal. Every Anglican Diocese in Canada is sending delegates to the Congress, and the preachers and speakers include the names of many of the great leaders of the Anglican Church in England, Scotland and the United States, as well as Canada. Those from across the Atlantic are the Bishop of London, the Bishop of Glasgow, and Bishop Taylor Smith, chaplain-general of the British Army, while from the United States will come the Bishops of Washington, Massachusetts, Duluth, Colorado, Central New York, Tennessee, Indianapolis, Idaho, Harrisburg and the Philippine Islands, as well as many priests and laymen.

The distinguished Canadian ecclesiastics who will take part include the Bishops of Rupertland and Ottawa, and the Bishops of Nova Scotia, Fredericton, Quebec, Montreal, Toronto, Ontario, Huron, Niagara, Algoma, Calgary, Mooseonee, New Westminster and Columbia, while as for Deans, Archdeacons and Canons, they will be there by the score.

Germany Needs No Assistance from A. O. H.

Berlin, Aug. 6.—The Post, the well-known Berlin Conservative organ, administers a cold douche to the worthy ambition of the American-Irish to come to the rescue of Germany in case of an Anglo-German war.

"The assistance of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, which was offered to us by its president in his recent speech in Portland (Ore.)," remarks the Post, "would be of very little value. We might also remind our would-be Gaelic benefactors that it is a matter of grave doubt whether an eventual German triumph over England would bring about the day of freedom for Ireland, of which the North American Irish so fondly dream."

By which it would seem to be inferred that when the Kaiser conquers England he intends to annex the Emerald Isle as well.

A Japanese Plan for Silencing Parliamentary Speakers.

A Japanese engineer named Yamaskawa has conceived a method of silencing parliamentary bores, and from his invention he is entitled to be considered a benefactor of the human race.

Attached to each seat in the House of Parliament he proposes to have a metal tube, the top being about the size of a franc piece or shilling. Each member of the House is to receive a leaden ball or bullet on entering. These balls can be easily passed into the tube, which carried under the floor leads to a receptacle immediately under the place where a member stands when addressing the assembly.

This spot is like the trap on the stage of a theatre. The trap is so arranged that when a certain number of balls, not less than one half the number of members of a full House, have reached their receptacle the trap is made to descend automatically, carrying with it the garrulous speaker or bore, as the case may be.

No points of order have to be raised, the displeasure of the House is manifest in silence. Away goes the bore, and another speaker is called upon.

Harbor Grace Celebration!

The Bay Metropolis in Gala Attire--Arrival of Archbishop Howley and H.M.S. Brilliant--The Governor due at noon on Fiona--Reception at 2 p.m.--Exhibition will be opened at Coughlan Hall this Afternoon--Brilliant Description of Exhibits.

(Special to Evening Telegram.)
HARBOR GRACE, To-day.
At 2.30 p.m. yesterday the Brilliant was seen steaming up the harbor and came to an anchor inside the Point of Beach. She is now decorated with flags. Great preparations had been made, a suitable landing place had been carefully arranged for the ship's boats at the public dock at the foot of LeMarchant Street. It was gaily decked with flags. Large crowds are seen waiting arrival of numbers of important people who are arriving by coach train. Archbishop Howley and Monsignor Roche and suite are here as the guests of Bishop March. Rev. Wm. Stacy, the representative from Bristol, is at Woodbine Cottage. Miss Roddick, Mr. Roddick, Mr. Kennedy and Miss Kennedy, also Miss Huribart, the lady principal of the Donald College, Montreal, are here taking great interest in all, more especially the plans for the proposed Guy Hospital. Rev. Canon Smith has arrived from Portugal Cove. The Acting Premier, Robert Watson, Judge Kilgilt, and many others have wired they will be here by the early train. Owing to unfortunate accident in the morning the special train is now looked for by the Governor. The Guard of Honor from the Brilliant will receive him in state at the railway station instead of at the public wharf. They proceeded to Shannon Park with crowds of citizens and all the school children. The Governor will then go to the Coughlan Hall where the Industrial Exhibition will be opened with great pomp. Great preparations have been made at this Exhibition. The hall has been beautifully decorated. The grounds at corner of Harvey and Victoria Streets have been fenced off with spruce trees. Two main entrances are arched with flags on each street. Inside these grounds it has been artistically laid out. The whole was a blaze of varied colored electric lights, and looked magnificent. For the exhibition the hall has been divided into stalls, and a splendid platform is seen to advantage a splendid exhibit from the Grand Falls paper and pulp mills. This in charge of Mr. Huxford. Last night the hall was carefully visited. Here is seen a beautiful model of the mills. Everything is shown in the preparation of paper from the logs and the finished product of printed newspaper. One roll of paper alone weighs half a ton. The whole is decorated with handsome pictures showing the stages of manufacturing paper. The Colonial Cordage Co. is in charge of H. Stanley Harvey. This stall looks beautiful with its safe to say this exhibition is a success. The tobacco display of Virginia cigarettes and all kinds of tobacco. It is in charge of Mr. G. C. Goodwin, who is in charge of a very attractive display. The Standard Manufacturing Co. is in charge of Mr. R. G. Ross and has distinguished itself with a lovely Hecla cigarette stall with trellis top. It has to be seen to be appreciated with its pyramids of beau-

Twitching of the Nerves

Wonderful cure brought about by DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.
It is only by watching the symptoms of nervous exhaustion and applying restorative treatment that you can ever hope to ward off locomotor ataxia and paralysis.
Mrs. E. J. Vanderburgh, of Eastern Welland Ave., St. Catherine, Ont., states:—For twenty-one years I was badly afflicted with heart trouble, nervousness and cramps in the limbs, also twitching of the nerves and nervous headaches. I became weak, debilitated and emaciated. My condition was distressing and I was made worse through worry and loss of sleep.
"I tried a hundred remedies in vain. After having used half a dozen boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food my old troubles had entirely vanished, and I was enjoying better health than I had since childhood."
Such cases as this prove the wonderful efficiency of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. It cures in Nature's way by enriching the blood and its benefits are lasting. 50 cts. a box, all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

MORE GERMAN DREADNOUGHTS.

Special to Evening Telegram.
Berlin, August 15.—The Government naval bill to be laid before the Reichstag this Autumn will ask for an appropriation to build 3 battleships and one cruiser, according to an article published to-day by the Count Reventlow, Naval Editor of the "Deutsche Tages Zeitung." Included with these four Dreadnoughts will be appropriations to replace the two old battleships just sold to Turkey, which under the regular naval programme would not be asked for before the Autumn of 1911. Germany will thereby gain a lap in the race with England for supremacy in Dreadnought construction.

Berne, Switzerland, August 15.—M. Fallera, President of the French Republic accompanied by the Foreign Minister of Public Works, arrived here to-day on an official visit to Switzerland. He was greeted by President Comtesse and the Government officials and proceeded to the Federal Palace. Great enthusiasm was shown by the crowd which lined the route to the Palace as this is the first time a foreign chief of state has officially visited the Capital.

Cable News.

CRIPPEN ENQUIRY POSTPONED.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, Aug. 15.—In consequence of the death of Coroner Thomas a week ago it was necessary to make a fresh start in the Crippen inquest to-day by the Deputy Coroner, Dr. Schroeder. The tangled mass of facts now posed to be those of Belle Elmore were again viewed by the jury, and the hearing opened with a brief recital of the well-known facts in the case by Dr. Schroeder who intimated that the inquiry was apt to be a protracted one. Solicitor Arthur Newton who was retained by friends of Dr. Crippen, and whose services were accepted by the latter by cable, was in attendance on behalf of Dr. Crippen. Solicitor J. H. Watts represented Miss Le Neve. Supt. Frost, of Scotland Yard, informed the court that he expected Dr. Crippen and Miss Le Neve to arrive in England in about three weeks, after which the proceedings were adjourned until September 12th.

THE SPANISH CRISIS.

Special to Evening Telegram.
MADRID, Aug. 15.—A semi-official note issued to-day attributes to Cardinal Merry Del Val, the Papal Secretary of State, sole responsibility for the acts of the Vatican in the controversy with Spain. The note says that the statements issued by Cardinal Merry Del Val for the purpose, according to the note, of influencing the press of the world will make no impression upon the Spanish Government.

FLOOD CASUALTIES.

Special Evening Telegram.
TOKYO, Aug. 15.—Casualties from the great flood which last week inundated many districts in Japan, and on Friday and Saturday submerged two of the principal wards of Tokyo almost entirely, are given out to-day, after official investigation, as 1,112 dead and missing, 3,965 houses washed away, in addition to the thousands which were under water during the flood but resisted the strain. Thousands of persons are homeless and dependent upon the public relief.

WILL BE OPENED AGAIN.

Special Evening Telegram.
BRUSSELS, Aug. 15.—The ruins of the burned sections of Belgium's exhibition of 1910 destroyed by yesterday's fire and still smoldering, though all danger of a renewal of the fire is past. At a meeting early to-day the Belgian Committee decided to close it for a few days, in order to clear away the ruins of the destroyed sections. Then the Exposition will be again opened. It is impossible in the present confusion to estimate closely the losses in the fire, which last night swept through the Belgium Exposition of 1910, wiping out whole sections of the fairy-like architecture and causing the loss of two lives, but the damage will run into millions of francs.

NO INSTRUCTION FROM ROME.

Special Evening Telegram.
ROME Aug. 15.—Owing to a misunderstanding, it was stated at the time of the abandonment of the clerical demonstration at San Sebastian, the Spanish summer capital, on August 7, that the Vatican had instructed the Roman Catholics of Spain to prevent the manifestation, the Vatican now wishes it clearly known that this statement was incorrect. The Holy See maintained a wholly extraneous attitude on the subject, taking no steps regarding the movement, and doing nothing either to promote or to prevent it.

GAYNOR IMPROVING.

Special to Evening Telegram.
New York, August 15.—Mayor Gaynor showed further improvement and strength to-day and his seventh day found him rapidly emerging from the danger zone. The early morning bulletin of the Physicians showed the wounded man had passed an excellent night. The police are engaging themselves in a theory that the assassin may have had an accomplice. This he denies but a man with a police record is under suspicion.

His Grace Archbishop Howley accompanied by Rev. Monsignor Roche went to Harbor Grace by the express last evening.

Gentlemen:

As regarding our experience with your Ruberoid Roofing, beg to advise that about ten years ago we applied your 2-ply on our entire car shops, general stores and round houses, taking in an area of about 200,000 sq. ft., and since that time this roofing has never been coated with paint or any liquid and has cost us nothing for repairs during this period. We are now anticipating building new car shops, etc., and purpose using your Ruberoid Roofing.

We can heartily recommend same to anyone requiring a first class dependable roofing material. Yours truly,

H. CRAWFORD,

OBSERVATORY OF BOURGES,

To the Managing Director
Ruberoid Gesellschaft, M.B.H.,
Hamburg.

I take pleasure in sending you a photograph (see cut above) of my new Observatory. Like the former one, it is covered with RUBEROID of different thicknesses.

I have desisted from using all kinds of Volcanic Cement Roofings or similar products, and I can only congratulate myself upon having done so, not having had to contend with any infiltrations caused by rain since.

Those that visit my Observatory are amazed by the results obtained and by the simplicity of method employed.

Not only is the cupola entirely watertight, but the three terraces, which are walked upon night and day have suffered no damage whatever.

If I had a fault to find with your catalogue, it would be that it is not sufficiently explicit, for RUBEROID is not only the "King of Roofings," but also the "King of Terraces."

It is the solution of a problem wanted for such a long time, and RUBEROID has royally solved it.

It would not only please me to have you publish this letter, but I take pleasure in placing my services at the disposal of your prospective clients, so as to convince them that they may use RUBEROID in all cases where the waterproofing of a house is desirable.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) ABBE TH. MOREUX,
Director of Bourges Observatory, Bourges.

FREMONT, O., March 10, 1910.

The Standard Paint Co.,
New York.

Gentlemen:—We have yours of the 7th in regard to our testimonial given you on March 15th, 1909. Wish to say that we can only reiterate our former statement; the roof is still doing business at the old stand, and to all appearances will last many years longer.

On the first roof we covered with your RUBEROID, which was in 1891, we used the two ply, and as far as we know, it is just as good to-day as it was the first season it was put on.

After all these years it does not show any wear, has not leaked a drop nor cost one cent for repairs. This is more than we can say for any of the other roofings, such as tin, slate, shingles and tar or sheet roofing.

We do not believe that there is a roofing on the market to-day that at all compares with the RUBEROID. We wish to congratulate you for having succeeded in placing so worthy an article on the market.

Yours respectfully,

THE LEHR AGRICULTURAL CO.,

Suicide on Grand Banks.

Captain of a Portuguese Vessel and One of His Crew Jump Overboard.

Louisburg, C.B., Aug. 9.—Worried over the scarcity of bait and fish, the captain of a Portuguese schooner fishing off the Grand Banks jumped overboard and drowned himself several days ago, to be followed by one of his crew three days later. Both along the shore and on the Banks there is a great scarcity of bait and fish, something unusual for this time of the year. An American fishing schooner that arrived here to-day brings the news of the suicide of the Portuguese captain and one of his crew.

The crew of the American schooner state that they had been fishing near the Portuguese vessel, and one day they noticed one of the crew leap overboard. Upon making enquiries it was learned that three days previously the captain, who had been greatly worried over the scarcity of bait and fish, had committed suicide. The bodies had been away all day and when they returned reporting no bait, the captain became suddenly demoralized and jumped overboard, exclaiming, "No squid, no fish, here goes!" The man they had seen go overboard was the second to commit suicide, he using the same words as the captain.

The scarcity of bait at this season of the year is altogether unprecedented, and if it continues, few of the many vessels engaged in handline fishing will be able to declare dividends for their owners for the season's work.

The Final Match.

At 6.50 p.m. yesterday the last match in the Brigade Fixtures was played. The teams were the M. G. B. and C. L. B. The latter won the toss and took the eastern goal. The M. G. B. played a spirited game from the start, and before half time was closed had secured three goals to nil.

In the second half they notched up No. 4, while the C. L. B. failed to score, the game thus ending in 4 to 0 in favour of the M. G. B.

The Guards have secured second place on the list as the result of this match. The C. C. C. are first and the C. L. B. third. The Methodist Guards players last night were: Winsor, Taylor, Peet, Pike, Quick, Fiercey, Ayre, Bastow, E. Quick, Fenwick and Coultas.

C. L. B.—Marshall, Stick, Barnes, Bishop, Tait, White, Bartlett, Hunt, Oliver, Hayward and Smith.

Three bankers' crews made things lively at St. Lawrence last Saturday night. They were excited about the price of fish, and having been drinking too much vodka they started to fight amongst themselves. They kept the little town in a turmoil from four in the afternoon till three the following morning. The local constable did the best he could to restore peace, but before the men decided to go on board their vessels the constable's uniform was torn in shreds and his neck showed several bloody wounds.

Fishery Improved.

S. S. HOME'S REPORT.

The report wired from Bay of Islands by Capt. Blandford last night to the Reid Nfld. Co. on his return from Battle Harbor, shows a slight improvement in the Straits fishery with hook and line. The ship arrived at 8.30 last night, and the following message was received at 9 o'clock:—

"All well; fairly good weather. The fishermen from Bonnie Esperance to Battle Harbor are getting from one to three quintals daily with hook and line when the weather is favourable."

Britain's Oldest Colony and Guy's Ter-Centenary.

The people of Harbor Grace (Bristol's Hope) have determined on setting certain days apart, commencing to-day, for commemorating the establishments of plantations within the limits which Guy was authorized to settle by Royal Charter. The Secretary of the Committee to carry out these intentions has set forth the reasons which induced them to hold their celebrations. The letter of Mr. Archibald appears in this issue.

The justification is based on the fact that Harbor Grace is within the extent of the territory covered by the amount of theory. While I shall produce ample documentary contemporary evidence for my belief, I wish to state that nowhere have I seen any documentary contemporary statements to prove that St. John's, or any part of Newfoundland, was inhabited by Europeans prior to 1610.

Mr. Gosling then cited authorities. "To deal with those of a negative nature: The voyagers to Newfoundland who have life records of their visits are Rut, in 1527; Cartier, in 1534, 1536 and 1542; Roberval, in 1542; Parkhurst, in 1578; and Gilbert,

Why Harbor Grace Is Celebrating.

Editor Evening Telegram:
Dear Sir--As Harbor Grace is about to celebrate the Ter-Centenary of John Guy's establishment under Royal Charter of the first legally authorized settlement in 1610.

That there were others previous to Guy's Crown Colony is well authenticated.

Then why should some persons feel annoyed because historic Bristol's Hope (now Harbor Grace) should celebrate an event that any town or settlement in the Colony should honor?

Harbor Grace never sought an exclusive right, but would in common with other places strive to do honor to a great epoch in our national history there was never any desire to annoy Cupids, but the wish was to work jointly with her, and if Cupids did not fall in line that was not the fault of Harbor Grace.

When one considers that Carbonear whose old history of colonial glory centres around her many historic landmarks, and places of interest second to none in our Island Home, her sons in conjunction with those of Harbor Grace and Mosquito fought and bled for the honor of the Old Flag in the heroic defence of Carbonear Island against the French under the celebrated D'iberville, and his Abenaguis Indian allies in the old Colonial days, so that to her belongs the exclusive right to be called the Virgin City of Newfoundland.

Harbor Grace according to such an authority as Abbe Baudouin, must have been settled previous to John Guy's Colony, the Abbe says a man having died there in 1493, aged 83 years, so Mosquito can be relied upon to prove that many of Guy's colonists re-settled in these places after the breaking up of his Sea Forest settlement.

Space will not permit me to mention all the interesting events connected with the early settlement of Harbor Grace. It also has its many real

He was then Governor, and the author of Ceradibits, one sonnet of his found

The Guy Ter-Centenary

The position taken up by the Newfoundland Historical Society that Cupids is the proper place for the celebration of the Guy Ter-Centenary is, absolutely unassailable. Guy's Bristol's Hope Valley.

Charter authorizing the plantation.

In the letter of Judge Prowse on the Guy settlement, which also appears in this issue, it will be observed that he maintains as strongly as ever the opinion, shared in by His Grace Archbishop Howley and others, that there were actual all-the-year-round settlements in Newfoundland prior to Guy's settlement at Cuper's Cove. Mr. Mann maintains that Harbor Grace was the first place settled in Newfoundland.

The stoutest opponent of all these contentions that there were settlements of a permanent nature prior to Guy's is Mr. Gosling.

In a paper read before the Newfoundland Historical Society, and published afterwards in the Evening Telegram on March 9th, 1910, Mr. Gosling stated:--

"By settlement I do not mean the occupancy of St. John's as a fishing station, but as a permanent habitation for people all the year round. It is my belief, founded upon the records of visits to St. John's of Rut, Jacques Cartier, Roberval, Parkhurst and Sir Humphrey Gilbert, that St. John's was the most frequented of all the harbors of Newfoundland from the day of its discovery throughout the sixteenth century. But I do not believe that any people took up their permanent abode in this harbor until the year 1622.

I also believe that there were no European settlers in any part of Newfoundland prior to the settlement of John Guy at Cuper's Cove in 1610. The reasons for my belief are documentary, and can all be verified. I take it that the statements of eye-witnesses are the best of evidence, and are of more value than any in 1582. Neither of these say one word about any European inhabitants."

After reviewing the negative authorities, he cites authorities which make direct statements that there were no permanent settlements at the times under reference, and then he sums up as follows:--

"If Newfoundland were settled in Gilbert's time, what object could Hales, Peckham, Carlisle, Hakluyt, Guy, Mason, Whitbourne, Vaughan and Eburne have had in urging its colonization, and being at so much pains to prove that it was a place capable of habitation?"

"If the practice of leaving winter crews were a common one, what need for Whitbourne to recommend it so strongly in 1620?"

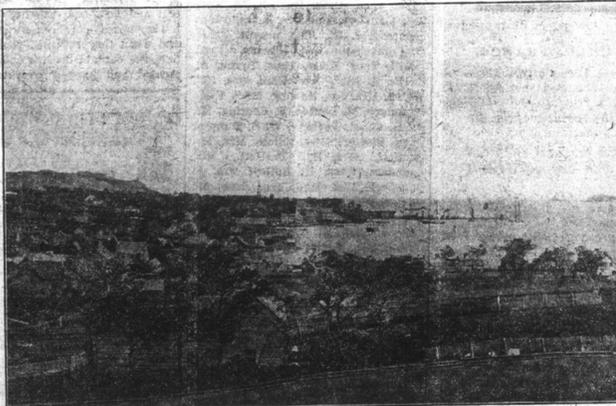

"Hales speaks of a boat obtained in St. John's which had been built in the country, but it does not follow that it was built during the winter. In fact we learn from the instructions given to Guy what the practice was: 'Every ship that resorted thither to fishing bringeth with them sawyers to make or mend their fishing boats, which may well be supplied by you with pine boards, whereof you shall have plenty when the saw is set up.' If winter crews were left in Newfoundland every winter for this work, what need for the fishing vessels to bring out men for the work of every spring?"

"But, as I have already stated, no further evidence is required than the express statements of Guy, Vaughan and Alexander to prove that no Europeans had attempted to settle in Newfoundland before the adventitious John Guy planted himself at Cuper's Cove just three hundred years ago.

the Empire, and my object in bringing forth these arguments at this time is to establish him in what I believe to be his rightful niche in our temple of fame."

Needless to say, Mr. Gosling's conclusions did not meet with the concurrence of Judge Prowse, Archbishop Howley, Mr. W. A. Mann, Mr. Shortis and others.

Judge Prowse maintained his old attitude that there were permanent settlements long before the authorized settlements under Guy's Charter. Judge Prowse on March 10th, 1910, set forth his contentions shortly as follows:--

Harbor Grace from Stevenson's.

"Who were the men with the horses and carts that Guy speaks of but settlers? That the settlers were few we can all admit. They were at first only winter crews. Guy settled in Cupids because all the other important places in the bay--Brigus, Port de Grave, Carbonear, Harbor Grace, &c.--were occupied. This snug little harbour and the beautiful southern river banks, where he built his mill and had his principal habitation, would at once attract the new comer. He would also be free from the other settlers. Any one who understands the early fishery must see at once that winter crews were an absolute necessity for carrying it on successfully."

His Grace on March 15th sent the following:--

"... Queen Elizabeth. . . . in 1582 authorized Sir Thomas Hampshire who went out in charge of an expedition to make a new rule that whatever space of fore-shore a ship's master selected he could retain it so long as he kept up his buildings on it and employed it for the use of his fisheries. This saved many disputes and hastened the permanent occupation of the country. . . . St. John's (sic) was then a place of considerable importance. This was twenty-eight years before Guy's settlement, and it seems clearly to show that St. John's had been a permanent settlement long before that."

In answer next day Mr. Gosling gave reasons why he believed there was no Sir Thomas Hampshire or such a voyage in 1582.

that he must have been born about 1610.

Tradition says that after the ship fishermen burnt Sea Forest Plantation (now Cupids) owing to distrust of Guy's assuming a legal right over the lands and waters placed under his jurisdiction, that all traces of the settlement vanished, and that afterwards it was re-settled by people from Brigus and Port-de-Grave.

Perhaps it would not be out of place to ask some of the dissatisfied, who seem to think that Cupids alone should celebrate. If they could give us the names of any of the descendants of Guy's original Colony now living at Cupids I am sure the whole country would be pleased.

The fact seems to be well authenticated (see Prowse's History) and from oral tradition, that after the breaking up of Sea Forest Plantation, some at least of the party settled in Bristol's Hope (Harbor Grace) and cultivated the land here, and carried on the fisheries.

That "Colston," we may call him Guy's Lieutenant, resided here is a fact, the Cove now known as Bradbury's Cove before it came into the possession of old Garland Bradbury, was known as Colston's Cove.

Nicholas Gure also settled in Bristol's Hope as documents now extant can prove people of that name to have lived here, and in Carbonear.

The old Guy's of Carbonear claimed to be the descendants of Phillip Guy, John Guy's brother, the oral traditions of Harbor Grace, Carbonear and pirate stories. "Peter Easton," a noted pirate, called by Whitbourne the erring Captain, made it the centre of his enterprises; at one time he had 9 ships partly manned from the hardy fishing population of Bristol's Hope, Carbonear and Mosquito. Those adventurer-fishermen were always well pleased to be pressed into service by "Easton" who was the gentleman buccaneer of the Spanish Main; his plan was to fit out at Bristol's Hope, sail away and seek for the treasure ships of Spain, he fought on every sea in the Western World, and was held in repute by the greatest in the Old Land, because of his bold exploits written upon the fly leaf of an old book in Carbonear, was as follows:--

Bristol's Hope and Carbonear Island.

Hayman's garden full of roses,
Roses fair of York and Lancaster,
To adorn the brow of Mary Saucy,
Who to-morrow weds with Robert Tossey.

Tossey's son of Dartmouth town,
A mariner bold of great renown,
Who crossed the sea
In fifteen hundred and eighty-three
To settle down in Muscatown.

Hakluyt in his account of the voyage of the Gift, Capt. Popham, and the Mary and John, Capt. Gilbert, in 1607 says that off the Azores they met a ship of Salome, wherein was one Tossey, of Dartmouth, bound for the Newfoundland.

The writer has an old document dated 1765 conveying by one John Pike of Carbonear a piece of land belonging to Tossey's estate, inherited by him in right of his wife, Honor Tossey. Will not this go to prove that Mosquito was settled before Cupids?

Then we have the tradition of Harbor Grace Island being fortified by old "Lac Saucy," John Bryant and Admiral Parsons, who built a palisade around the island to keep off the French and Indians.

And we have the account handed down through the old Soper family of Mosquito, one of the oldest families in the land, that their great forefather was with his wife and family left in charge of Tossey's fishing room before the 16th century, and when the S. E. wind would blow, all that winter he said he could hear old Tossey calling out at night to go to bed, "Go to bed." Old Soper used to answer, "I'm going just now; I'm pulling off my trousers."

Then the great battle fought by Easton. He was attacked coming into Harbor Grace with his two ships from a long cruise by five Biscayan and French pirates, commanded by a renowned pirate, and the bloodiest battle ever fought in Conception Bay took place off Harbor Grace Island. Easton fought a desperate battle. He forced the St. Molo, his opponents biggest ship, upon the rocks, now known as Eastern Rocks, and sank her. That rock was at one time called Easton's Rock, after the bold pirate. "Tis said that Easton lost 47 men in the fight, and their bodies connection with Harbour Grace or Carbonear is very slight. His charter was nominally very extensive. It covered places that had been previously occupied and settled, and with these old inhabitants Guy never interfered or made any attempt to rule over them.

At the time of Guy's arrival, as I have shown in my History, a great number of places in Conception Bay were more or less sparsely settled. Cuper's Cove, now Cupids, was unoccupied, and in this snug little harbor Guy's vessels first built up their establishments. They had mills, as I have shown, up the beautiful South-east River, but Cupids was their place of business and headquarters, and Cupids is the one and only place for this Guy Celebration. John Guy, merchant and Mayor of Bristol, was a pushing successful man of business, otherwise a very ordinary individual. The old West Country pirates frightened the life out of him.

The one name that gives immortal honour to Guy's colonization scheme is Bacon. He was one of the original promoters and his hand can be traced in the prospectus. Bacon, the father of English philosophy, the essayist, the charming writer, and as fare Mr. Johnson tells us, the most consummate orator of his age and generation. The illustrious chancellor is one of the glorious names in our national literature fit to be coupled with Shakespeare and Milton.

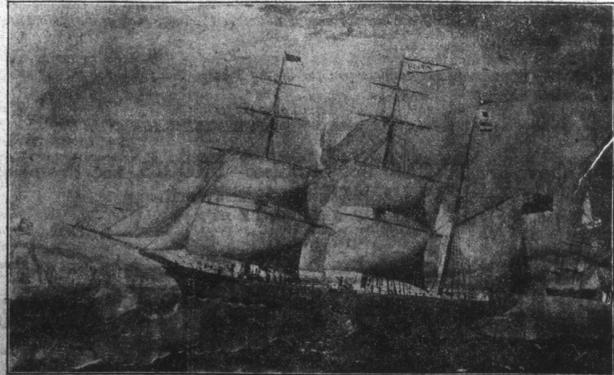

Dryden, Macaulay and Tom Campbell in his lives of the Judges have fiercely attacked Bacon. "The wisest, basest of mankind." Spedding, the latest biographer, shows clearly that although Bacon accepted presents he never perverted justice. The complaints made against him were from people whose money he had taken and then delivered judgment against them. He had a most inordinate love of luxury, fine gardens, stately houses, and was always in money straits. Morally he was a coward, but intellectually a giant, far in advance of his age on all subjects, especially on an Imperial policy and colonization.

Mr. James Clark, Maidstone, Sask., writes: "I suffered for four years with rheumatism in my shoulders and could not lift my arms above the head. I tried nearly all the advertised remedies but none of them gave me relief. It cost me at least $100.00 for medicines before I used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.
"With the use of this medicine, I soon found relief. I followed up this treatment for six months and was then quite free from rheumatism. While using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills I also used Dr. Chase's Backache Plaster with a soft stiff that I could scarcely bend. S. S. Portia Here.

The s.s. Portia, Capt. Fitzpatrick, returned from the west at 10 last night, bringing a small quantity of freight and the following passengers: Messrs. Bray, Berry, Templeman, Holmwood, Harding, Summers, Ryan, Bowden, Herder, Heath, Long, Hearn, Maher, James, Grouchy, Walsh, Summers, James, Woods, Constable Simmonds, Rev. J. Walsh, J. Summers; Mesdames Hale, Taylor, Callum, Dunn, Bowden; Misses Hale, Milley, Quinn, Power, Fitzpatrick, Renouf, Murphy, Milley, Smith.

FISHERY REPORT.
The fishery report brought by the Portia is on the whole very poor. Seven schooners arrived from the Straits to Bonne Bay last week with no fish. The fishery on the shore the past month right down to Cap St. Mary's is very poor. The only thing that relieves the gloom is the good work being done by the banks. The Gladys and Mary Smith, were in at Harbor Breton seeking squid and reported for 800 and 650 qtls, respectively. Capt. Lewis has also been in with 650 qtls, and having procured squid sailed again. The Campanula, Capt. Collins, had been at St. Lawrence with 750, and the Marion, Burke's vessel, was landing 800 qtls. at St. Jacques. Last Saturday five Grand Bank vessels baited at St. Lawrence with squid and sailed yesterday afternoon for the Banks. Squid were plentiful last week from Burgeo to Burin, and the punt fishermen do well whenever the weather is civil enough to get out. The recent southerly winds have been a serious drawback to fishing. At Trepassy and Cape St. Mary's the fishermen are picking up a nice bit of fish on hook and line right straight along. If the weather continues good they expect to make up their voyage all right.

A Good Man Gone.

Mark Osmond, Esq., J. P. of Moreton's Harbor, N. D. Bay, died there yesterday at the ripe age of 84. Deceased was one of the good old stock of the north, and his home was the seat of hospitality to all strangers. He leaves a widow and five sons to mourn their loss. Mr. Osmond carried on an extensive business at Moreton's Harbor the past half century, and history will give him a front place in the rank of the men who built up Green Bay.

The Ter-Centenary.

Letter From the Secretary of the Harbor Grace Committee.

Editor Evening Telegram:
Sir.—A letter appeared in your contemporary, the Daily News, Aug. 12th, signed A. J. W. McN., to which I feel compelled to reply owing to my connection with the Harbor Grace Guy Ter-Centenary movement. Mr. McN. has, undoubtedly, very much misunderstood the movement which I shall endeavour to state correctly.

In 1610 John Guy came under Royal Charter to colonize that part of Newfoundland extending from Cape St. Mary's to Cape Bonavista, and with special instructions from his employers to settle in Conception Bay. This he did evidently, and possibly at Cupids. This act or procedure constituted the foundation of a British Colony bounded as above stated, and the fact of continuous settlement of this territory since then is what gives Newfoundland a proud boast with which Conception Bay is so closely associated, and in which the territory from Cupids to Carbonar has played such an important part.

The boast of being Great Britain's oldest permanent colony is in a very real sense Newfoundland's, but a peculiar right and duty to acclaim this fact falls to this historic territory. The Harbor Grace people do (to my knowledge) not purpose to celebrate John Guy's landing. They have not prepared any pageant to represent this act nor have they prepared to erect any monument to mark the place of his landing; but they have prepared to celebrate the larger fact which results from his landing—the fact that they occupy territory which is part of that comprising "Britain's Oldest Colony." They do not claim sole right to celebrate this grand historic fact. On the other hand they would like to see the whole of Conception Bay, and in fact the whole country join hands in one expression to effectively point out to the Great British Empire and the world at large that, besides being (geographically) the "stepping stone" from the Old to the New World, we form the corner stone in the Greatest Empire the world has ever seen. To mark this fact the Harbor Grace Committee have undertaken to erect at Harbor Grace a Public Hospital to be named the John Guy Ter-Centenary Hospital for the use of the people of Conception (north) and Trinity (south) Bays, and all others to whom services can be rendered. Much good and effective work has been and is being done to accomplish this end, and I am pleased to say that things are so shaping themselves that practical work in this service is not far distant.

The above, I believe, will effectively answer all the questions asked and will form a reply to the statements made by the correspondent.

As to the nasty and ungentlemanly insinuations of Mr. McN. I feel, in the light of the facts, very little real concern, except that on reading the letter I could not feel that it was calculated not altogether to clear up all public misunderstanding but to effect a real injury to the Harbor Grace movement which by the way has had the official recognition of the Government, H. M. Admiralty Department and His Excellency the Governor which fact the correspondent must have known.

Yours truly,
H. H. ARCHIBALD.

ABANDONED IT

For the Old Fashioned Coffee was Killing.

"I always drank coffee with the rest of the family, for it seemed as if there was nothing for breakfast if we did not have it on the table.

"I had been troubled for some time with my heart, which did not feel right. This trouble grew worse steadily.

"Some times it would beat fast and at other times very slowly, so that I would hardly be able to do work for an hour or two after breakfast, and if I walked up a hill it gave a severe pain.

"I had no idea of what the trouble was until a friend suggested that perhaps it might be caused by coffee drinking. I tried leaving off the coffee and began drinking Postum. The change came quickly. I am now glad to say that I am entirely well of the heart trouble and attribute the cure to leaving off coffee and the use of Postum.

"A number of my friends have abandoned coffee and have taken up with Postum, which they are using steadily. There are some people that make Postum very weak and tasteless, but if it is boiled long enough, according to directions, it is a very delicious beverage. We have never used any of the old fashioned coffee since Postum was first started in our house."

Rejected Suitor Blew Himself to Pieces With Dynamite.

Coughnawaga Indian Refused by Girl He Loved Found in Fragments After Dreadful Explosion — Parents Refused to Receive the Body in Their Home, and it Lay on the Road all Night.

Because his proposal of marriage was refused, Tom Smith, a Coughnawaga Indian, last night blew himself to pieces with dynamite. His body lay on the road all night and most of the morning, the people fearing to touch it before the arrival of the coroner. Smith went to Lachine yesterday afternoon and purchased the explosive for use in the quarries where he works. He returned to the village and called on the girl to whom he has been paying attention for some time, a Miss Douglas, a member of the tribe. It is said that he proposed marriage during the evening, but was not accepted. He left the house and on the road fell against a huge rock, exploding the dynamite. It is believed that he threw himself against the rock on purpose to destroy himself. His head and limbs were blown off and various portions of his body have been found scattered about a three-hundred yard radius. The greater portion of the trunk however fell on the road, terribly mangled. It was discovered shortly afterwards by persons living nearby, who heard the explosion.

The parents and friends of the unfortunate young man, who was 24 years of age, were instructed to take the body away. They refused to receive it into their home, and were

Frozen Egg Experiment

Results in Death of Guinea Pig. Philadelphia, Aug. 11.—As the result of an experiment upon a guinea pig that died after being inoculated with frozen eggs, J. Buschel, a large dealer in this city, is under arrest on a charge of selling eggs unfit for food purposes.

Harry P. Cassidy, special agent of the Dairy and Food Department, alleges that Buschel sells frozen eggs that have been removed from the shells and in a solid body are disposed of to bakeries, which thaw out the product. The samples seized were examined by bacteriologists. They inoculated the guinea pig with the frozen egg and it died within 12 hours.

Fell 30 ft. to His Death.
St. John, Aug. 12.—James Boyd, a painter, was killed, and James Quinn, his assistant, badly injured by falling thirty feet from a staging on a Main Street house late this afternoon. The hooks holding the staging broke, allowing the men to fall to the sidewalk below. Several people on the street had a narrow escape.
