The Governor, Newfoundland: The four main forts at the Dardanelles entrance, namely, Cape Helles, Seddul, Orkhanleh and Kum Kalesi were re-attacked on Thursday night by the Allied fleet. The German Elizabeth, Agamemnon, Irresistible and Gaulois at long range, and the Venogeance and Cornwallis engaged the first closely, and the Serran and Charlemagne, the latter's reduction was completed of all forts at 5.15, after a further close action by the Venogeance, Triumph and Union. Sweeping operations then began. On Friday the Straits were swept for four miles up. The Avon, Majestic and Venogeance, to the limit of the swept area, engaged the Dardanus, and the enemy left the forts at the entrance. Landing parties from the Venogeance and Irresistible demolished the first three forts completely and the fourth partially, and destroyed two new gun and four Nordfeldts. On Thursday the Agamemnon was hit by one shell at 11.00 yards. The casualties were three killed and five wounded. On Friday the casualties were one killed and three wounded. Operations are proceeding. HARCOURT. GREATEST FLEET EVER IN ACTION. LONDON, Feb. 28. After having completed the destruction of the forts at the entrance of the Dardanelles, the Allied fleet—British and French warships of the greatest that has ever been in action—are now attacking the inner forts which have stood between the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus. Apparent to enter forts could not withstand the greater bombardment, and when the British defenders, men landed troops, ships to complete the work of demilitation, while mine-sweepers clear a passage for the ships in the Strait. More serious work is now ahead of all. Important fortifications are killed, Bahl and Chamak, which guard the narrowest part of the Strait.

"He'd make a good detective. Ah, here's the lad. Now I want you to sit beside me inside the cottage, and when I give the signal take off that beard and wig." Leicester nodded wearily. "What plan have you?" "Never mind," said Mr. Dockett. They entered the cottage, and sat down in the little parlor. Then Mr. Dockett called to Jamie, and asked him if he could bring a glass of water. The lad rose and hobbled in with it. "Sit down," said Mr. Dockett. "Sit down, my lad. What are you reading?" and he took a book out of Jamie's hand. "Ah! the 'Lives of Celebrated Assassins.' That's a strange book for a young lad!" Jamie turned pale. "Is it, sir?" he said. "I—like it." "Don't look much like a murderer yourself," said Mr. Dockett. "Never saw one done, eh?" "Heaven forbid!" said Jamie. "Heard of one, though," said the detective, "that murder on the cliffs, I suppose? You knew Mr. Leicester, didn't you?" "Yes, sir," faltered the lad. (To be Continued.)

which the fleet is now approaching. There is no doubt that the allied commanders have instructions to make their way to Constantinople in spite of all obstacles, and have been supplied with the best means for carrying out these orders.

THE ALLIES' REPLY.

LONDON, Feb. 28.
Great Britain, France and their Allies have advised neutral countries that they hold themselves at liberty to stop all ships to and from Germany and the countries of her allies. The public pronouncement of this action will be made early next week, probably on Monday. The text of the declaration will set forth that this decision is necessary because of German submarine attacks, but that Great Britain and France will respect lives of crews and passengers, in any steps they may take.

KING INSPECTS GRAND FLEET. LONDON, Feb. 28. King George returned to the Palace this evening, after a visit to some of the warships of the Grand Fleet.

LLOYD GEORGE ON AMERICA. BANGOR, Wales, Feb. 28. Chancellor of the Exchequer, David Lloyd George, made pointed reference to the United States, in an address here to-day. "If Germany were triumphant over this country," he said, "she would be practically dictator of the world." "Where," he asked, "could we look for a chivalrous country to protect us to America? If countries like France and Russia with huge armies, and we with the most powerful navy in the world, could not face this terrible machine, how could America step in? It would be more than America could do to defend her interests in her own continent. America is already more so than we are." The Chancellor then took up the liquor and industrial questions. "The Government has wide powers to deal with the drink question, and it means to use them," he declared. He said that a small minority of workmen employed in the armament factories had refused to work a full week because of the lure of drink. "The Government would use its power discreetly and in the spirit of moderation," Lloyd George asserted, but fearlessly. He was sure the public would support whatever action was taken to allow no indulgence of this kind to interfere with the country's prospects in the war. "This war," he said, "is to be won or lost by engineers. We need men, but we need arms more than men. Every day of delay is full of peril to the country. For one reason or another we don't get the assistance we have a right to expect from our workmen. Industrial differences are inevitable, but we cannot afford them now. It is intolerable that the lives of Britons should be imperilled for the sake of a farthing an hour. During the war the Government should have the power of settling all differences, so that work shall go on. If men are entitled to more money, the Government should give it. I do not believe the parties involved will refuse to comply with the urgent command of the Government that there should be no delay. Expressing confidence in the outcome of the war, the Chancellor said that the people of this country hardly realized yet the importance of the struggle in which they were engaged. He warned them that victory could not be won without a long struggle. He declared that while England had enrolled the largest Volunteer Army ever gathered in any country, or in any century, it ought to be larger still.

Wedding Bells.

MITCHELL—KEAN.

On Saturday afternoon last Miss Mabel Bertha Kean was united in matrimony to Mr. Hiram C. Mitchell, chief-officer of the S. S. Stephano. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's parents on Prescott Street, Mr. and Mrs. Capt. A. Kean, the Rev. Douglas Hemmeon, B. A., Pastor of Gower Street Methodist Church, officiating. A large concourse of relatives and friends of the contracting parties were present at the ceremony. At 3.30 p.m. the bride, attired in white satin with bridal veil, carrying a bouquet of roses with maiden hair ferns, entered the room, leaning on the arm of her father. She was attended by Miss M. Fraser who was also attractively attired; three little nieces of the bride acted as flower girls. Capt. Westlake Kean, brother of the bride, supported the groom. After the ceremony a reception was held and the health of the bride and groom enthusiastically proposed by Hon. D. Morrison. The bridegroom made a graceful and suitable response. Miss Diamond rendered the wedding march and Messrs. Courtney and McKinley contributed songs. At 6 p.m. the newly-wedded couple, who were the recipients of many valuable and useful presents, drove to their future home, Gower Street East. The Telegram unites in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell many years of unclouded happiness.

Fatal Ending

YOUNG MAN DIES OF INJURIES. Walter McCrudden, aged 25 years, who was badly injured internally, as the result of a fall received at the King George, the Fifth Institute, on Friday afternoon last, succumbed at the General Hospital at 10 a.m. yesterday. The remains were attended to by Undertaker Myrick and brought to the late home of the deceased on York Street. Deceased was a trusted employee of the Institute and was well liked. A tribute to his memory was paid by Manager Jones at the Grenfell Hall last evening. Deceased is survived by a widow and four children for whom general and sincere sympathy will be felt.

"OURS" IN THE WEST END.

There is a capital entertainment at the West End Theatre to-night. All new and beautiful pictures, new songs, etc. The pictures seen at this dainty little picture show are certainly very fine, all good, clean, refreshing subjects. The songs are clean and refined and rendered in a charming manner by the little vocalist Aneta.

TWO THOUSAND FIVE HUNDRED POUNDS OF BREAD FROM ROSSLEY.

The tickets, for the bread, will be given out to the poor people early in the week, or just as soon as Mr. McGuire can bake it, as the result of the benefit concert given on Friday night last. The gift is a substantial one, and many a poor family will have cause to bless the Rossleys for their generous action. Everyone worked with a will especially the pantomime troupe, and those talented little girls have now given their services free on many occasions. The benefit was under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson.

Alterations at Rossley's Theatre.

Mr. Jack Rossley intends making a big alteration in the Star Theatre, and therefore will close up until St. Patrick's Day. In order to make the place more attractive, he has had beautiful tip-up chairs come from Chicago, the latest and most comfortable opera chair on the market, with a place under the seat of each chair for ladies or gentlemen to place their hat. The entire theatre will be painted and renovated and other alterations. The Rossley patrons will have real theatre chairs that can be reserved on any occasion. The stage is to be entirely altered, with excellent nifty plush or art serge curtain, new scenery, retiring and dressing rooms newly painted and furnished. After St. Patrick's Day he will again close to complete alterations. Mr. Rossley at first did not intend to do so much, but with the arrival of his chairs, he intends to make full renovation; it will look like a new theatre, besides giving employment to a good many how out of work. He deserves to succeed for he circulates what he does make right in the city.

Forcing the Dardanelles

The last time the Dardanelles was forced in 1807 by the British Admiral, Duckworth. Three years later an Admiral Duckworth became Governor of Newfoundland. Some of our local historians may be able to inform us if this was the same man. If so, it is an interesting association with Newfoundland, particularly as one Newfoundland reservist is on the Queen Elizabeth which is the most important unit of the allied fleet engaged now on a similar task. The Queen Elizabeth is one of five Super-Dreadnoughts of the latest and most powerful type. She is the only one which has been officially mentioned, so far as we are aware, as being in commission. Their tonnage is 27,500, the horsepower 60,000 giving them a speed of 25 knots. Their belt armour is 13 inches thick, and their gun position armour 10 inches thick. They are also armoured below waterline as a protection against torpedo attacks. They carry eight 15 inch guns and twelve 6 inch guns. They burn no coal but run solely on oil. The Queen Elizabeth (1915) was the chief battle units used in smashing the forts at the entrance of the Dardanelles. The next British unit in gun power was the battleship Agememnon (1908) of 16,500 tons, of the Lord Nelson type, intermediate between the older battleship and the Dreadnought. She carries four 12 inch guns and ten 9-2 inch guns, besides smaller guns. Then there were the Tramp (1904) with four 12 inch and fourteen 7.5 inch guns, the Vengeance (1902) and Albion (1901) with four twelve inch and twelve 6 inch guns. The French had three battleships there, the most powerful being the Suffren of 16,200 tons built in 1899, carrying four twelve inch guns and ten 6 inch guns. The others were the Gaulois and Charlemagne, built in 1896 and 1895, of 11,000 tons, and carrying four twelve inch and ten 5.9 inch guns. From this it will be seen that the British portion of the fleet was more numerous and exceedingly more powerful than the French portion. No mention is made of the smaller units engaged, except the reference to mine sweepers. The forts at the entrance were reduced and demolished and the Strait swept for four miles, and one of the inner forts Dardanus, attacked. The most formidable part of the operation will be to reduce the forts at the narrowest part of the Straits, where it is less than a mile wide, and where the fortified seaport of Kale-Sultaniye stands. The Strait is 45 miles long, so that the major portion of the operations have yet to be faced. The Straits lead to the Sea of Marmora. When once that sea is reached and cleared of mines, Constantinople will be at the mercy of the British and French warships. But the Dardanelles, 17 miles long and from one to two miles wide, will also have to be forced and kept clear of mines and torpedoes before it will be safe to run merchantmen through to handle the wheat in the Russian granaries and to give Russia the supplies she is awaiting. What has been already accomplished augurs well for the accomplishment of the difficult tasks ahead.

In the obscure poet's corner of the New York Times there appeared this moving little lyric signed by Elizabeth Swift:

"O England in the smoking trenches dying
For all the world,

"We say we're'n neutral (yet each lip

The word abjures),
O England, never name us the time-

So trust your goal,
All Europe's in our blood, but yours
our vision,
Our speech, our soul."

SOCIALIST DEMONSTRATION.

LONDON, To-day.
A Socialist Labor Demonstration held in Trafalgar Square to protest against the prevailing prices of food and coal. A resolution was adopted, expressing indignation and disapproval at the Government's appointment at the Government's refusal to take effective measures to deal with the alarming increase in the cost of food and fuel. The resolution demands the Government control of carrying ships, commanding the home grown supplies for sale at the lowest possible prices and the fixing of maximum prices for necessities of life.

BODIES PICKED UP.

PARIS, To-day.
A despatch to Liberte from Marseilles on the English Channel says a ship's boat, bearing the names of "Liverpool," and containing two dead negro seamen, was picked up in the Bay of Locquais. The correspondent says it is believed the "Liverpool" was either struck by a mine or was torpedoed.

FACING THE STRONGEST FORTS.

LONDON, To-day.
The attempts to force the Straits by the Allied fleet is of momentous importance to the Allies. The Allies, however, do not anticipate that their success in the Dardanelles undertaking will be immediate, for they are now facing the hardest part of the problem with the strongest forts ahead of them. Although the mass of these forts have not the range of the guns of the largest ship, particularly the fifteen inch guns of the Queen Elizabeth and the fact that the Queen Elizabeth is in commission suggests that her four sister ships all of which were laid down within a few weeks of each other are either in the fighting line or ready to join it. These five ships are considered the greatest fighting machinery in the world, besides being heavily armed are almost as fast as battle cruisers. The capture of the steamer Dacia by the French is welcomed here, as it will enable the French Prize Court to decide her case, while an English Court will deal with the cargo of the American steamer Wilhelmina, thus responsibility for stopping goods in the hands of Germany will be borne equally by the two allies.

GERMAN ATTACK IN EAST HAS FAILED.

LONDON, To-day.
The Daily Telegraph correspondent wires from Petrograd: It seems no longer premature to assert that the German invasion on Russian soil has definitely failed. Outstanding features of the situation are that the enemy has been forced into a defensive at almost every point along the Niemen, Bzura and Narew, and that the centre has been completely smashed in by Prussia, and that on a section of thirty or forty miles he is retreating rapidly here and there in disorder. Several Russian regiments which had been following up the Germans day and night have so far sent no detailed reports confining themselves to laconic statements that the enemy was routed and that Hirasavitz, which has been occupied by the Germans, has returned into possession of its rightful masters at eleven o'clock Friday night, and that the booty captured, it was expected, would be considerable.

ENOUGH FOOD IN COUNTRY FOR A YEAR.

LIVERPOOL, To-day.
Never in the history of this port has the congestion of shipping been so great nor have Liverpool warehouses ever been so crammed with foodstuffs as at present. The consensus of opinion of the important here is that even should the German submarine blockade prove effective there is enough food now stored here to feed the country for a year.

DISABLED STEAMER REPORTED.

NEW YORK, To-day.
An unidentified steamer is drifting with all propeller blades shorn off the near middle Atlantic, according to the log of the American line steamer New York, which reached here to-day from Liverpool. The New York was spoken by wireless last Thursday by the British steamer Milvackee, advising the New York of drifting steamer's plight and fixed her location as latitude 41, longitude 45.29. Name of steamship was given as the Triton in the wireless message.

Mr. Blair says that the weather was stormy and that the ship was about twelve feet of water in number one, and five feet in number two hold, and that the weather compelled them to put back. He also said that the Royal Naval Reservists who were on board rendered excellent service with the hand pumps.

Blair informs his father that Scandinavian was at Halifax awaiting their arrival and proceeded to England with their baggage. He said that the steamer had stood by them until the late afternoon came along and the ship escorted them to port. The Mongolian began to leak badly Tuesday last when the weather deteriorated and that the ship was twelve feet of water in number two hold, and five feet in number two hold, and the weather compelled them to back. He also said that the Naval Reservists, who were on board, rendered excellent service with pumps.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Those who do not like white shoes for best for youngsters, and yet want white stockings, compromise on shoes with a patent leather vamp and a white kid upper. These come even for baby's first shoes and are very smart.

Indoor slippers for boys and girls vary little until the age of heels is reached, and plain slippers of soft kid or patent leather with ankle straps, plain or ornamented with a flat ribbon bow, small plain steel buckle, serve for both sexes for ordinary dancing school wear.

A little child can not wear too stiff and heavy a kid, but when the tomboy age is reached there are all sorts of metal tips, re-inforced backs and the like to make them last as long as possible.

Laid to Rest.

The funeral of the late Arthur B. Peach took place at Carboncar, on Friday last and was largely attended. Amongst those present were citizens from St. John's, Harbor Grace, Bay Roberts and elsewhere. A beautiful floral wreath sent by the train hands and station agents from St. John's to Carboncar, adorned the casket. The Orange Society, of which Mr. Peach was a Past Master, preceded the hearse. The burial service was conducted by Rev. F. R. Matthews, B.A., assisted by Rev. Mr. Smith, of Victoria, and interment was at the Methodist Cemetery, Carboncar.

Have You an Itchy Spot?

Somewhere on your body? If so, attend to it at once. In Eczema—and itchy spots, whether dry and scurfy, or moist and inclined to "weep," are generally eczematous—delays are foolish, allowing the disease to spread and affect more of the good skin. Your best chance for a cure is to use Zylex, which will give almost instant relief, and if used in the earlier stages of the trouble will almost certainly bring a cure, and in any event will greatly ameliorate the trouble. Ask your druggist about it. Price 50c. a box. Zylex Soap, 25c. a cake.

GIVING!

"Neither will I offer offerings unto the Lord my God which cost me nothing."—I. Samuel 2: 24.

Not for many years past, perhaps, indeed, never before, has the problem of giving been so seriously and persistently as it is at the present time. Think of how urgent are the calls for aid that are now ringing in our ears and from how many and widely extended areas of misery these calls are coming. Here is the Red Cross appealing for funds to bring relief to the wounded upon a hundred battle-fields—the Belgian Committee asking for help on behalf of the thronging refugees from stricken Belgium—the Committee of Mercy calling for assistance for the women and children who are in distress throughout the whole of war-plagued Europe! Here are the hundreds of thousands of unemployed in our own country who must be delivered from the horrors of nakedness, starvation and disease! Here are innumerable established institutions of one kind and another, churches, settlements, relief societies, reform committees, which have long been active in good works and must now be wrecked for lack of financial support! And here, at the same time, are the millions of the depleted resources, sheer scarcity of money! How, under these conditions, are we to answer the numerous and imperative calls of the hour? How are we going to give anything at all commensurate either with the desire we undoubtedly feel or the need we most certainly encounter?

There is obviously but one way if we give as we usually give, namely, from our unused surplus. But he who is content to give as he usually gives in these distressing unusual times is in reality not giving at all. Indeed we never give if our offering does not involve us in loss or sacrifice of a very real kind. We deceive ourselves if we think that we lay up for generosity which does not go beyond the point of flattering the pride and assuaging the conscience of our abundance. "I will not offer gifts unto God which cost me nothing," said David. If we would truly give we must give, not merely the pennies which we can spare, but the dollars which we think we cannot do without. We must take food of our tables that others may be fed, garments off our backs that others may be clothed, luxuries from our homes that others may have necessities. In a word, if we would truly give we must give ourselves! As James Russell Lowell puts it in "The Vision of Sir Launfal":—"The Holy Supper is kept indeed in what so we share with another's need; Not what we give, but what we share, For the gift without the giver is bare."

Here is the true principle of giving. And here also is the solution of the problem which is pressing upon us so acutely to-day. If we would all give, not like "the rich men" in the parable, "of (our) superfluity," but like "the widow," "of (our) living," the needs even of the present grievous hour would be satisfied.—John Haynes Holmes.

"I am going to order some new cards Should I have my full name and address on them? What size should they be?" was Mary's problem. "Your cards should bear your full name prefixed by the proper title as 'Miss Carolyn Estelle Blank.' Of course, if you are the eldest daughter you should have your cards read 'Miss Blank.' They should be engraved in script, Old English, Shaded Roman or plain Roman. Any engraved card is good style, is quiet and inconspicuous. A printed card is very bad form," advised her mother.

At the R. C. Cathedral

Rt. Rev. Mgr. Roche, the Archbishop elect of St. John's, occupied the pulpit at 11 o'clock Mass in the Cathedral yesterday, and in addressing the congregation said that he did so with mingled feelings and varied emotions. Within the past few days a momentous message had come from Rome announcing that he had been chosen to take up the burden laid down by the late lamented and much beloved Archbishop Howley only a few months ago. He felt sure that the congregation would readily understand the difficulty he found in giving expression to his feelings. He could only realize that a great burden, a tremendous responsibility had been placed upon his unworthy shoulders, having been called to the Throne of the venerable See of St. John's that had been filled by a long line of holy and learned Prelates for more than a hundred years. He could only realize that he had been called by the voice of supreme authority to take up, as best he could, the government of the Archdiocese of St. John's.

In the tremendous responsibility that had overshadowed him during the past few days he had been strengthened and sustained by two considerations—that the honor had come to him unsought and undesired, and that in the appointment he had the good will and esteem of the people, which was evidenced by the words of congratulation that had come to him from all parts of the Archdiocese. He wished to publicly acknowledge the many expressions of good will and congratulatory messages he had received from those of the other denominations. As to the future he said that the time before the ceremony of consecration must be perforce be spent in comparative retirement. When that event would take place, which he trusted would be soon after Easter, there would be an opportunity for his addressing the congregation at greater length.

He then announced that Rev. Fr. McDermott would succeed him as Administrator, and for him he bespoke their co-operation, and the same loyal assistance which had been given to himself during the eight years that he had been laboring in that capacity. In conclusion he commended himself to the prayers of the congregation, that God would strengthen him for the task that lay before him.

Appointed Administrator.

The announcement was made yesterday that Rev. Fr. McDermott had been appointed Administrator of the Archdiocese, in succession to the late Rev. Fr. Howley. Fr. McDermott has been stationed at St. Patrick's for the past fourteen years, and since the death of the late lamented Dean Ryan has had charge of the parish. The new Administrator is a man of high ideals and possesses much business ability, and that his hours at the cathedral will be well fraught with success is the earnest wish of all.

ASKING QUESTIONS.

WALTER MASON.

"Go, get a pail of water," said a little Jeremiah Jink to me, weary by the work he did, he longed to have a drink. The kid, John James, he just had hired, to do the daily chores; to see the furnace was kept fired, and head off noisome b o r e s. "Oh, shall I get it at the well," said he, "or at the spring, or at the creek in yonder dell, where cheerful bullfrogs sing? Or shall I tap the hydrant's flow, or seek some quiet drain, or shall I to the cistern go, the moisture to obtain? And shall I take the twelve-quart pail, or yonder china urn, to bring this jas of Adam's ale, for which you seem to yearn? Oh, had I better take the lift, or down the stairway go? Before I on this journey drift, these things I'd like to know." "You take your bonnet," said the boss, "and kindly fade away; that youth will never come across you questions asks all day. When you are told to do a thing you shouldn't scratch your dome, and ask conundrums — you should spring to fetch the bacon home. The lad who would to honor rise, and travel with the best, must use his brain and hands and eyes, and give his tongue a rest."

JUSTLY EARNED.

(From Tit-Bits.) Admiral Sir Hedworth Meux, still familiarly known in the British Service as "Lucky Lambton," for two years commanded the Royal yacht, and once had the occasion to reveal to King Edward how little thought of in the service was the lavishly awarded Victorian Order. A yachtman had forced himself on the late King's attention at Cowes. "Do you know that man?" His Majesty asked. "I'm afraid I do," said Admiral Lambton. "What do you think of him?" "Not much, sir; in fact, he's a tonnder." "I'm sorry to hear that," the King replied, "because I have just made him a member of the Victorian Order." "Glad to hear it, sir," the Admiral chuckled. "It serves him right."

ADVENTURE OFF THE NARROWS.—The s.s. Adventure, Captain Couch, was off the Narrows at press hour. She was signalled since ten o'clock this morning when she was sighted by Cape Spear in the ice. The Adventure was four days out from North Sydney at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The Right Age to Marry.

A letter friend wants to know what I think is the proper age for a girl to marry and also the best age for a man.

It's a big and interesting question, isn't it, this matter of the proper age to marry. And of course one in which circumstances emphatically alter cases and in which it is absolutely impossible to lay down any general law.

One of the happiest marriages I know is one in which the girl was married at eighteen to a man twenty-eight and was twice a mother before she was twenty-one.

One Happy Marriage.

But in another equally successful marriage among my acquaintances the woman was thirty and the man twenty-five.

If I had a grown-up daughter I should not like to see her married before she had had a chance to finish her education and make some use of it. Personally I believe that, other things being equal, the woman who has worked at some occupation outside the home before marriage makes the best wife. She understands the value of money better; she knows more about the difficulties of getting ahead in the world; she understands, as no stay-at-home woman can, the nervous strain of the competitive struggle for a livelihood; she knows the fear of losing his position that sometimes haunts the most efficient man, and hence can sympathize and ferbar with a business man's worries as no woman who hasn't experienced them can.

When Do You Want Your Son to Marry?

If I had a son my feelings would be more complex. On some accounts I should long to see him married just as soon as he could support a wife and I should hope that would be in the early twenties.

On the other hand I should fear that if he married too young he might not be sufficiently developed to pick out the right woman. I do not think the right husband matters quite so much to a woman as the right wife to a man. You know the old saying, "The desire of the man is to the woman, the desire of the woman is to the desire in the man." Besides, while it is a misfortune for anyone to have selected not just the right helpmate, it's a misfortune that women bear, as they do most misfortunes, better than men.

Long engagements I detest and distrust. I would never want a daughter of mine to enter into one. They are too much of a strain on all parties. Don't get engaged in a hurry but when you do, get married, is my advice to young people.

Write Me What You Think About It.

On the whole, don't you think this is a subject on which the best commentary is observation and experience? It is a long while since we have had a chat together, reader friends. Let's have one on this subject. Tell me what you think about it. What is your experience and what have you observed. If you were going to do it, would you be married earlier or later in life.

See how concisely you can express your opinion on this subject (not more than 200 words, and I shall not quarrel if you condense it into less) and we'll have a most interesting symposium.

The Firemen and Bowring's.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Allow me space in your valuable paper to give public expression to the delight we feel in having helped to accomplish a deed which, to our humble way of thinking, is one of more than ordinary interest. I refer now to the amicable settlement just arrived at between Bowring Bros' Firm and the Firemen's Protective Union. This settlement gives to the Firemen's Union the exclusive right of manning all the ships of Bowring Bros' firm. Heretofore, as you are aware, through misunderstanding, the Non-Union Firemen were employed, as well as the Union firemen. Of course this arrangement was not satisfactory to us. We worked side by side with the non-union men. It was expedient to do so. We felt sure that time would bring about changes by having our worth as men recognized. Now we have reached the goal of our ambition. We have won a prize, gained only by the most peaceful kind of agitation.

We recognize we could not make any progress unless we had the support of friends. We had this support and we feel most grateful, for all those who helped to bring the matter to such a speedy solution. We feel as we are on the matter, that it would be only fair and right to give expression of our appreciation to the principals of the firm of Bowring Bros' Ltd. I refer to Mr. John Munn and Mr. Eric Bowring. They gave the matter their best consideration and treated us most kindly in all our consultations. Also we desire to express our thanks to Capt. Abram Kean and Mr. Matthew McGattigan, who gave our cause a great impetus. Now in return for these kindly interests as manifested by the Bowring Bros' firm, we on our part, will promise them our best efforts in the performance of our work. We hope that our relations will continue harmoniously, that we will work for a common centre, bringing abundant good to all concerned.

We feel most joyful of having enrolled amongst the best friends of the Firemen's Protective Union in Newfoundland, the oldest firm in the country. We wish them a prosperous season and bumper voyage.

We hope that this action will be a lesson that will bring some profit.

"Thanking you in anticipation, for space.

Yours truly,
FRANK WOODS,
President Firemen's Protective Union.

Helping the Poor.

The action of the Nickel Theatre in giving its receipts during Lent to relieve the distress of the poor is meeting with the sympathy of all. A substantial amount has already been handed over to the charitable organizations, The St. Vincent de Paul and the Dorens Societies. Besides this six families were supplied with coal, food and those who needed it were given money for their rent. All were very deserving cases. All who were assisted were very grateful to Mrs. Kiley for her kindness.

Germany Calling Old Men to Colors.

Hanover, Germany, Feb. 18.—All German men attached to the Landstrum, or last reserve of the army, whether they had had previous training or not, were called out by decree on January 28. The order applied to all men who had not completed their 45th year by August 14, 1914, in the case of those who had been trained, or by December 4 in the case of untrained men. The service of the men is to continue until the end of the war. The German war department is calling on the elderly men at the present time, and is keeping its eyes open to the future.

The announcement was made by the Minister of War in a recent interview that the recruits due to come up this year, in the ordinary course, would not be called before the normal date in the fall. This apparent holding back from active service of good material in the shape of young men was decided on as a precaution for the future. The recruits of this year will be needed to form the basis of the new army when the war is over, since the ranks of the standing army, whenever peace may be declared, will certainly be found to have been depleted by casualties to a large extent.

To this depletion must also be added the large number of men who will be entitled to return to civil life before the expiring of their full term of service with the colors, since war service will give them the right to claim their discharge before they otherwise would have been able to do so under conditions of peace. As this will leave the army much below its proper strength, the war office has resolved to retain the younger men to build the nucleus of the standing army at the conclusion of peace.

An Amazing Cure For Neuralgia Magical Relief For Headache

The Most Effective Remedy Known is "Nerviline."
The reason Nerviline is infallibly a remedy for neuralgia resides in two very remarkable properties Nerviline possesses. The first is its wonderful power of penetrating deeply into the tissue which enables it to reach the very source of congestion. Nerviline possesses another and not less important action—it equalizes the circulation in the painful parts, and thus affords a sure barrier to the re-establishment of congestion. You see the relief you get from Nerviline is permanent. It doesn't matter whether the cause is spasm or congestion, external or internal; if it is pain—equally with its curative action upon neuralgia—Nerviline will relieve and quickly cure rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, migraine, swellings or enlarged joints, and all other muscular aches. Nerviline is a guaranteed remedy. Get the large 50 cent family size bottle. It is far more economical than the 25 cent trial size.

Notes on Patriotic Pushthrough

CHAPTER XIII.
At early morning our ship
Deadman's Bay and soon drops chor at Pushthrough. In passing locality there are many strange and each one seems to have its peculiar history. To write of this would require a book instead of hurried notes.

During our stay at Pushthrough weather was wet, and the roads dangerous, hence we did not long; but we were well received Mr. Camp, of the Customs ment, and also by his brother very kindly placed the use of store at our service. Very soon people gathered in, and a short day meeting was held, and interest manifested by all present other places. Pushthrough has misunderstandings, and whilstings of loyalty were manifested was at the same time a doubt in minds as to the purposes of the and the seriousness of the situation.
Upon these questions the gave some useful information; wet as the day was and inconas were the surroundings, there le no doubt whatever as to the results of our visit to Pushthrough.

Pushthrough is a very ex-place, and has a very fine church like most of our western settle-it possesses a large amount of sonal independence. The spites of the parish are in charge the Rev. Mr. Hall, who, since visit, has taken into himself ner, and to whom we therefore our congratulations. Quite a schooners were moored in the and we saw good indications of prize and industry.

Leaving Pushthrough our next of call was Hermitage, where a meeting was held in the school On landing, the Rev. Mr. Courat Mr. Way, gave us a heart-come, and did all in their power interest of the cause. We were ed to notice the tidiness and of the school room, and the independence of the people, a we assured that our visit did good in various ways. In around the harbour we found age presented many attractions, even amid the chilliness of winterated us, but which in the of summer, must surely be cent to behold.

Hermitage is one of Newfound-natural beauty spots, and should tially be conducive to health and life. For many years it was the of the late Canon Bishop, and him the late Canon Colley, who whom endured no little hardships.

Pushthrough and Hermitage.

CHAPTER XIII.
At early morning our ship left Deadman's Bay and soon dropped anchor at Pushthrough. In Saturday this locality there are many strange names and each one seems to have its own peculiar history. To write of them all would require a book instead of a few hurried notes.

During our stay at Pushthrough the weather was wet, and the roads very dangerous, hence we did not delay long; but we were well received by Mr. Camp, of the Customs Department, and also by his brother who very kindly placed the use of his store at our service. Very soon the people gathered in, and a short mid-day meeting was held, and much interest manifested by all present. Like other places, Pushthrough had its misunderstandings, and while due signs of loyalty were manifested, there was at the same time a doubt in some minds as to the purpose of our tour, and the seriousness of the situation. Upon these questions the meeting gave some useful information; and wet as the day was and inconvenient as were the surroundings, there can be no doubt whatever as to the good results of our visit to Pushthrough.

Pushthrough is a very compact place, and has a very fine church, and like most of our western settlements, it possesses a large amount of personal independence: The spiritual duties of the parish are in charge of the Rev. Mr. Hall, who, since our visit, has taken unto himself a partner, and to whom we therefore extend our congratulations. Quite a lot of schooners were moored in the harbour and we saw good indications of enterprise and industry.

Leaving Pushthrough our next port of call was Hermitage, where a short meeting was held in the school room. On landing, the Rev. Mr. Courage, and also Mr. Way, gave us a hearty welcome, and did all in their power in the interest of the cause. We were pleased to notice the tidiness and comfort of the school room, and the evident independence of the people, and we were assured that our visit did much good in various ways. In looking around the harbour we found Hermitage presented many attractions, which even amid the chilliness of winter interested us, but which in the beauties of summer, must surely be magnificent to behold.

Hermitage is one of Newfoundland's natural beauty spots, and should certainly be conducive to health and long life. For many years it was the home of the late Canon Bishop, and before him the late Canon Colley, both of whom endured no little hardship in carrying out the duties of their mission. It has also long been the home of Dr. Thompson, who like his contemporaries, the clergymen above mentioned, has faced many dangers in meeting the calls of his large practice in Fortune Bay. The principal attractions of Hermitage is the church, this building as many of our readers are already aware, was presented to the parish by Messrs. Newman & Co., London, some seventy years ago.

The building is of stone and brick, and would probably seat three hundred and fifty people, or perhaps four hundred. The foundations, window and door facings, cornices, eaves, key-stones, and buttresses consist of stone. These portions literally compose the framing of the building, and are fitted in with yellow brickwork. The whole structure was prepared and fitted in London, and sent to Hermitage by one of the company's sailing ships. The walls are very thick, and durability is a feature of the building, but at the same time there seems to have been some weakness in its construction hence at present the building is in need of large repairs. This we understand was caused not by any neglect but by some delay or accident which occurred in transportation, or in the erection of the church, and which permitted of undue exposure before final completion.

In conversing with Rev. Mr. Courage, we learned from him that some immediate steps must be taken, either in the matter of extensive repairs or by the erection of a new edifice. While within the church we noticed two special features, not often seen on this side of the water, and which is only found in some of the old parish churches of England. One of these was the separation of the chancel from the body of the church, by an osken lattice-work known in ecclesiastical architecture as a "rood screen." The other feature was that of the Coat of Arms which we noticed on one of the panels of the eastern window; the heraldic emblem of which evidently belonged to the time of King James. We had read of this Coat of Arms before, and made enquiry of some of the church officials about it, but they seemed not to have noticed it, but during our visit, while in conversation with the pastor we discovered the emblem, and traced its history. Both Hermitage and its church are full of interest, some of it local and more of it Imperial. To glean all the facts which seemed to present themselves one would require to spend a few days in summer time, instead of a hurried passing visit in mid-winter.

EARLY MORNING EXERCISE.

Those of us who are not fortunate enough in life to ride horseback in the early morning hours must resort to other means of exercise, which perhaps are just as good, but not as exciting or smart.

Here are some splendid exercises, for developing a beautiful neck, for, after one is able to do it many times, it fills out the chest remarkably. Lie flat on the floor, face downward. Now raise your body by the arms and toes, not allowing any other part of the body to touch the floor. Perhaps, if you are strong, you can do this just once at first.

You will find that it does not hurt your arms at all, as you had expected, but it makes the muscles across your shoulder blades ache and throb. It particularly draws those two muscles that stretch from the shoulders across the collar bones in front and develops them to fill out the neck hollows.

You must not go about your morning exercises with drawn mouth and tightened muscles, but exert a reasonable amount of care and enjoy them as you go along. One should be relaxed when bending and twisting, so as not to injure the parts by violent wrenching.

Some women do more injury to themselves by trying to lift heavy trunks and boxes than can be undone by a lifetime of exercise.

Another wonderful exercise for women who lead sedentary lives is the following: Stand with heels together, toes out and body erect. Raise the arms until the sides of the thumbs touch each other at arm's length above the head, the palms toward the front. Now advance the left foot until the heel is slightly in advance of the toe of the right foot. Then, turning the body at the waist, throw the arms out and down until the finger tips touch the floor at your right side. Do not bend the left leg, although the right will involuntarily bend a trifle. Practice this ten times, then change the feet and advance the right foot, rotate the body, and bend at the waist only till the finger tips touch the floor at the left.

Match played in the Thistle Club in presence of Chief Justice Archibald and other prominent people with many lady spectators. Newfoundland team was: Milroy, Dr. Forbes, W. R. Warren, and H. D. The Men of Roumania are very fond of dress, and they have a popular saying which runs, "the stomach has no mirror." Its meaning is that rather than be shabby a Roumanian should go hungry. The peasant costume of Roumania is very artistic, every village having its own set of colors. By the hue of his dress a peasant shows the locality he hails from. The Roumanian is most particular regarding his personal appearance, like thousands of people who patronize our Dry Cleaning establishment.

MR. CUSTOMER,
Probably you've economized by doing without your usual suit and overcoat during Fall of 1914. Are you going to have that down-and-out look in Spring 1915? The Allies have millions of men on the firing line, each requiring thirteen pounds of wool every six or eight weeks. The British Government are keeping British Mills turning out army contracts.
Spring quotations for woollens are sky high. We have on hand a particularly fine range of Serges, Tweed Suitings and Overcoatings. Order now as you will have to pay considerably higher in the Spring.
