CHAPTER VII.

"What do you mean by 'well'?" she asks.

"I meant a great deal," he says. "For one thing, what do you think of the Castle?"

"I have scarcely seen it," she says, coldly.

"What do you think of my people?" she is silent for a moment, then she looks across the darkness.

"The question is: 'What do you think of me?'" she says.

"I am sure—"

"Oh, pray," she breaks in, sarcastically; "do not let us waste fine speeches that will receive neither of us. I will tell you what I think of me. They think I am altogether wrong. I have offended them twenty times this evening—in one evening!" and she laughs bitterly. "They look upon me as a savage; a girl who doesn't understand crewel-work, who cannot play the piano, and who doesn't even know chess! Every word I say strikes a wrong chord."

"I think you are mistaken—"

"Do you think I am blind?" she says with fine scorn. "Do you think that I didn't see that your mother, Lady Falconer, was shocked and horrified at every word I said? and the worst of it is that I don't know what it was that I said wrong. I cannot alter myself! I cannot be any different than I am; and as I am, I am not fit to be a visitor at Holme Castle."

"I am very sorry," he says, "that you should think so. You must remember that my mother and sisters have led—well, rather narrow lives."

"They have led the lives of high-born aristocratic ladies," she says, bitterly, "and I have led the life of an uneducated, unaccomplished, middle-class girl. I have no business here. It was a cruel, stupid will!"

He stands looking at her; she is supremely beautiful, more wondrously fascinating in her passion than in repose.

"You are wrong," he says.

"I am right," she asserts, emphatically. "and it will be best to acknowledge it at once. It is all wrong—all I wish, and her voice grows soft and plaintive, "I wish I was back in Rome!"

He flushes, his lips set under his mustache.

"You miss your friends—Sir Archie, for instance."

She laughs mockingly; then she looks up at him defiantly.

"Yes, I miss him. At least Sir Archie thought me perfect—at least he was blind to my faults. He liked me for myself, simply poor, plain Dulcie Dorrmore; while you—I am not blaming you—simply tolerate me because you are obliged to, because—because of the stupid money."

He looks down at her as she leans forward, her graceful figure bent over the coping, her face flushed and moving.

"You make a great mistake," he says. "You wrong us. We none of us think of the money, Dulcie," the name slips out unconsciously, but she hears it and draws herself up.

"My name is Dulcie, yes, Sir Hugh, but I am usually addressed as Miss Dorrmore."

He flushes red under his tan.

"I beg your pardon," he says. "I meant Miss Dorrmore. I was going to say that you would find us better after you had tried us a little longer, that was all."

She laughs; Dulcie's fits of dignity are of short duration.

"I am not complaining," she says. "You are simply too perfect, all of you. I think I'll go to bed."

"You quite forgive me," he says.

"For what?" she says, open-eyed and wondering.

"For calling you—Dulcie," he says, gravely; "it was ill-bred, and ungentlemanly. I do not know how I came to do it! I will not offend again. Let you should fear that I should offend again, I promise, here, and solemnly, that I will not, by word or deed, remind you while you are under my roof of the—the claim which your uncle's will gave you."

"What do you mean?" she asks, looking up at the handsome, noble face, grave and solemn in the half-light.

"I mean," he says, curtly, "that I will not attempt to bias you; I will not—to put it bluntly and brutally—I will not offend you by making love to you."

She looks at him mockingly.

"That is kind and considerate of you," she says. "No; you may reserve that for Miss Lucy Fairfax!" and with a swish of her Worth dress, she turns and leaves him.

"Aunt, are you awake?" she says, five minutes later, when, having said "good-night," and taken the candle from the maid, she stands beside Aunt Fernor's bed.

"Awake? Yes, my dear. I haven't been to sleep. Is it morning?"

"Morning!" says Dulcie, wickedly. "Why, it's to-morrow afternoon. You don't mean to say you have slept through a whole day and not know it?"

"Good gracious!" exclaims Mrs. Fernor, starting up and staring wildly. "Oh, dear me! How could you let me do it? What will Lady Falconer think?" Then seeing by the smile on the beautiful face, that it was one of Dulcie's jokes, she sinks back with a reproachful sigh. "How can you be so stupid, Dulcie? Have you only just come up? And what are they like? Have you enjoyed yourself, my dear?"

"Oh, very much indeed!" says Dulcie, sinking on the bed and uncoiling her hair, that falls in a dark flood on her shoulders. "Exquisitely, enchantingly. I couldn't have enjoyed myself more if I had spent the evening with the kings and queens of England in Madame Tussaud's wax-work show."

"Dulcie!"

"Yes, I might, perhaps, because they (the wax kings and queens) wouldn't have been shocked by every word I said, and every look I looked, and every move I moved."

Mrs. Fernor groans.

"Then you haven't been good after all."

"Good!" exclaims Dulcie. "I have been an angel, a perfect model of propriety—at least so I thought," she adds, ruefully; "and yet they looked at me as if I had been guilty of the most awful lapses of ill-breeding—the sort of look as if they expected me to stand on my head, or eat my dinner with my knife."

Mrs. Fernor sits up and rubs her eyes.

"What had you been doing?" she asks.

"Nothing," retorts Dulcie, brushing her hair with almost spiteful vigor. "That was just it! I couldn't do anything except make remarks that seemed to give them the cold shivers. I couldn't play the piano, or work crewel-stitch, or play chess; and they can do all this and more. I realized for the first time that I was a monument of stupidity and ignorance. Aunt, why was I born with less brains and more 'cheek' than any one else?"

"My dear Dulcie!" exclaims Mrs. Fernor, "what awful slang word was that? I don't understand you. Where did you learn it?"

Dulcie pouts.

"It's a very good word," she says; "you can't find a better or more expressive one to describe the falling I am cured—blessed with. Where did I learn it? Oh, I think Sir Archie used to say it. I learned a good many of those expressions from him. Poor Sir Archie! I wonder if he has forgotten me?"

"Whether he has or not," says Mrs. Fernor, "you ought to forget him! I do hope, my dear Dulcie, that you won't let an absurd flirtation with a comparative stranger stand between you and your future happiness."

Dulcie laughs.

"I do love to hear you talk about that, aunt," she says; "it always makes me happy and restores me to good humor; and," with a sigh, "I have had to endure enough to-night to sour a dairy." Another groan from Mrs. Fernor passed by unheeded.

"There is only one really sensible member in the family, and that's a nice girl of eighteen whom they treat as a child, and send to bed at ten o'clock, poor girl! But there! she'll take her revenge when she does get free, that is one comfort. Aunt, I must have been treated severely to turn out as I have."

"And—and Lady Falconer—"

"Don't speak of her!" exclaims Dulcie. "Let me forget her, or she'll haunt my dreams like a Lady Macbeth; a soft and silent sort of Lady Macbeth."

"But—Sir Hugh—Sir Hugh was kind!" insists Mrs. Fernor.

"Kind!" exclaims Dulcie, flashing round indignantly. "Oh, very! If I stand by and see me making an exhibition of myself, with a smile—that grim smile of his lurking under his mustache—was kind he certainly was most kind, too kind. He was as bad as the rest! I could see by his face what he was thinking. He was comparing me with a certain other young lady—sometimes between a saint and a mouse—and to my disadvantage! Oh! rising and flinging up her arms—"how shall I endure six months of it? I cannot! Long before the week is over I shall rise and scream out, 'Let me go! Let me go! Take the money and return to your love with the dove-like eyes, and let me go!'"

"My dear Dulcie, what are you talking about?"

But Dulcie does not heed.

"It is too bad!" she says, the color coming and going in her face, the fingers of her clasped hands flitting restlessly. "Too bad! Why could they not have left me alone? I did not want to step in between him and—her! I did not—do not—want—the hateful money. He can have it all, and welcome! I wish—I wish I had never seen him!"

And as she speaks there suddenly comes a strange pallor in her face, a strange break in her voice, and as she puts up her hand to coil the flood of hair, something like a tear—some solitary hot tear—drops from her dark eyes.

And so, 'twixt a smile and a tear, ends Dulcie's first night under the roof of Holme Castle!

CHAPTER VIII.

Sir Hugh remains outside for a few minutes after Dulcie has flown, to recover from that last arrow of hers—"Reserve that for Miss Lucy Fairfax."

"Now who," he murmurs, "can have told her? Poor Lucy!" and after a moment he says again—"Poor Lucy!" in a rather irresolute way; and then, pulling at his tawny mustache, he goes back into the room.

Lady Falconer and Maud are standing by the fireplace talking in an undertone, and look up and fall into silence, as people do when the person they are talking of enters suddenly. Then Lady Falconer drags a chair forward with her own hands, and smiles fondly up at him.

"My poor Hugh!" she says, in a tone one uses to an invalid. "Come and sit down. You must be very, very wearied."

"Yes, do, Hugh," murmurs Maud, also piteously, in her thin voice; "come and rest."

"But I am not at all tired," says Hugh, leaning his stalwart, upright form against the mantle-shelf and looking at them—well, rather defensively. He hates a fuss; he detests to be "pitied," and sympathized with, and he can see that they are preparing to treat him as a martyr and a much-injured individual.

"How well you are looking," says Lady Falconer, "extraordinarily well—considering—"

"I was never better. I am always well," he says, with a smile. "Considering what, mother? All the hardships of the campaign? Well, they are not so bad as they are made out."

Lady Falconer shakes her head and gazes at him admiringly.

"That's nonsense, Hugh, dear. You must have suffered terribly, and behaved nobly. They couldn't do less than give you the Victoria Cross."

He flushes and frowns slightly.

"Ah, you love me!" he exclaims, laughing, "don't say anything about the cross, mother. Let us forget it! I have heard such a very great deal about it. After all there were many fellows who were more deserving of it—but who weren't so lucky as I was. It's all a question of luck, mother. I always was lucky, you know."

Lady Falconer sighs.

"Not always, Hugh," she says, mournfully. "This—this last disappointment, for instance; and it is a cruel disappointment. Of course one cannot speak even questioningly of the dead, but really I must say that, considering the expectations held out to you by poor Mr. Trevénion his will is a most extraordinary one."

"Most extraordinary!" murmurs Maud in chorus.

Sir Hugh rubs his short hair with the palm of his hand, a trick he has when irritated and annoyed.

Here It Is.

Of course you've heard that old superstition about the horseshoe bringing good luck. Perhaps you've even hung a horseshoe over your door to keep ill luck away. But do you know how the superstition originated? It dates back to the early times when the ancients tried to foretell the future by means of lucky numbers. Seven has, from time immemorial, been regarded as a lucky number, because it was mentioned so frequently in the Bible. Therefore, any article with seven marks or characters on it was believed to be lucky. A horseshoe usually has seven nail holes—hence the silly superstition.

Private Joseph Michelin tells his story.

September 12, 1917.

Editor Evening Telegram.

On Monday, Sept. 10th, over 100 Nfld. fishermen and Labradorians assembled in the Mission room, attached to the Grenfell Mission Hospital at Indian Harbor, to hear Private Joseph Michelin tell his story.

He has lately returned from a tour to many in this district their opportunity of listening to a war veteran.

After being briefly introduced, Private Michelin told how in 1914 he was in Labrador, not to join a regiment but to attend college.

Within three months came a storm which drove studies out of his head and, at the age of 18, he became a recruit. Briefly sketching his service in St. John's and then in Scotland and England, Private Michelin hurried his audience off to Egypt and thence to the Dardanelles.

Warning to his work he gave a vivid glimpse of trench life and the tropical downpour of rain, and a "rest" which consisted of lying shelled without the shelter of the trenches.

Next his audience were pressed to hospital life in Malta. They were rushed off to France, to Belgium and to France again. The speaker told how two members of the Regiment won the "D.C.M." for conspicuous bravery, and moved his audience deeply by describing how, on one strenuous day, the Newfoundland Regiment was the only one to fail its objective. He also told how, in the Somme battle, he was one of 50 who were lucky enough to return unharmed after 900 had leapt from their trenches to the attack.

Then came another glimpse of hospital life, in England this time, of the "lighter side" of convalescence. He paid a warm tribute to the Medical Service and to the Army Service Corps. He added a good-humored offer to reply to any questions which was promptly taken advantage of and Private Joseph Michelin Tells His Experiences.

September 12, 1917.

Editor Evening Telegram. On Monday, Sept. 10th, over 100 Nfld. fishermen and Labrador men assembled in the Mission room, attached to the Grenfell Mission Hospital at Indian Harbor, to hear Private Joseph Michelin tell his story.

He has lately returned, twice wounded, from the front; and afforded to many in this district their first opportunity of listening to a war veteran.

After being briefly introduced, Private Michelin told how in 1914 he left Labrador, not to join a regiment but to attend college.

Within three months came a call which drove studies out of his head, and at the age of 18, he became a recruit. Briefly sketching his training in St. John's and then in Scotland and England, Private Michelin hurried his audience off to Egypt and thence to the Dardanelles.

Warning to his work he gave a vivid glimpse of trench life amid a tropical downpour of rain, and of "rest" which consisted of being shelled without the shelter of the trenches.

Next his audience were presented to hospital life in Malta, and then rushed off to France, to Belgium and to France again. The speaker told how two members of the Regiment won the "D.C.M." for conspicuous bravery, and moved his audience deeply by describing how, on one strenuous day, the Newfoundland Regiment was the only one to gain its objective. He also told how, in the Somme battle, he was one of 50 who were lucky enough to return uninjured after 900 had leapt from their trenches to the attack.

Then came another glimpse of hospital life, in England this time, and of the "lighter side" of convalescence. He paid a warm tribute to the Medical Service and to the Army Service Corps. He added a good-humored offer to reply to any questions, which was promptly taken advantage of, and wound up his interesting lecture with a brief, but eloquent appeal to young men, without dependents, to "do their bit."

A hearty vote of thanks was proposed by the chairman and endorsed by the prolonged applause of the audience, who were well catered for and yet still hungry for more.

On the following evening Private Michelin attended a "send-off" given to the volunteers from Hamilton Inlet by their friends.

The prospective recruits will be his fellow passengers on the s.s. Thetis, as he returns to St. John's to take up the work of an instructor in machine gunnery.

It may be of interest to remark here that, besides sending seven new recruits, the people of Groswater Bay raised the sum of $160.00 for the Patriotic Association, last spring, at a Patriotic Sale and Social gathering.

Private Joseph Michelin's brother, also wounded, is due home on leave. Two other lads from Hamilton Inlet are missing, and two, so far as is known still on the active service list. Not a few men who are unable to go themselves have formed a wood-cutters' Association, guaranteeing that no dependents of fighting men shall lack fuel during the long winters.

My Limbs Would Twitch

And Waken Me—Unable to Rest or Sleep, I Walked the Floor in Nervous State—When Specialists Failed I Found a Cure.

Windsor, Ont., September 25th.—This is the kind of cure that has set Windsor people thinking and talking about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. The action of this food cure is so radically different to the usual treatments for the nerves that everybody wants to try it. Gradually accepted, it nourished the starved nerves back to health and vigor and the benefits obtained are both thorough and lasting.

Mrs. M. Smithson, 27 Arthur street, Windsor, Ont., writes: "I was suffering from nervous breakdown, which was caused by a shock when fire broke out in the adjoining house. My nerves were in such a state that, after going to bed I could not get my nerves quieted down sufficiently to go to sleep. I used to get up and walk around the room, or go downstairs. Even when I would be dropping off to sleep my limbs would twitch and waken me. I used to have cold, nervous, night sweats, sometimes would become unconscious and lie that way for quite a little while. I was always cold and it seemed impossible for me to get warm or to sleep. When on the street I would see two or three objects at once, and did not want any person to speak to me or bother me. Any little noise irritated and annoyed me very much. I had consulted specialists and tried many remedies during this time, but could not gain relief. At last I tried Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and before long could see that this treatment was proving of benefit. I am now feeling so much better that I can go out on the street without any difficulty, can go across the river and go about the same as usual. I sleep well at night, and am feeling more like myself every day. I am pleased to be able to write you to tell you how much good the Nerve Food has done me. It has strengthened and built up my whole system. I am recommending it to everybody I find suffering from nervousness of any kind."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.75, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Hates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

FLOUR AND POTATOES.

It is always pleasant to have tidings of our public men when they go on a journey, if only to know that no accident has befallen them and a calamity the country. It is doubly gratifying in the present case of Mr. McGrath, whose visit to Canada the Toronto Globe thinks "history" will record. We learn from that paper that the President of our Food Control Board is not only safe and sound but has succeeded in securing our winter stock of flour. This is good news—certainly good and most decidedly news. We had been under the erroneous impression that our stock of flour had been secured by the local dealers some time before Mr. McGrath was able to confer with Mr. Hanna. But we see how it is. He has obtained the gracious consent of Canada not to withhold or stop in transit the flour she has sold us. When the same assurance can be got from Mr. Hoover for the States we shall feel quite safe. Dealer and consumer will together have a great sigh of relief, even if it is the only thing they can do together. The whole little performance reminds us of the remark of an American paper on the same subject: "Before the Food Controller was appointed, flour was $10 a barrel; since then it has been only $10." Mention of flour should lead naturally to consideration of the elster commodity, as we might call them, potatoes. We believe the real object underlying the universal campaign for potato-growing was to offset the threatened shortage of flour. Here, at any rate, there does not seem to be any immediate danger of such shortage, while we have an unexpectedly large crop of potatoes. If flour is not economized, if less is not consumed than it has been our wont to consume, we may be in the unusual position of having more potaatoes than we need! The estimated figures would seem to point to such a possibility. It cannot be met by exportation—want of tonnage forbids it quite apart from other obstacles. If, as a result, any of the fine potato crop that is now being gathered is wasted, allowed to rot, or used in unnecessary ways, it will be a national misfortune. The unusual surplus should be used to take the place of other foods, particularly flour. Its greater cheapness should invite this, even if there is no flour shortage. What is wanted is some sort of general knowledge how to substitute, directly and indirectly, potatoes for flour. A fine summer has greatly aided our endeavours to raise this useful vegetable; it will be the greatest pitfall if we cannot take full advantage of the supply we have as the result of them. The Agricultural Board and Committee can do good work in this connection. It is a matter that might also more profitably engage the attention of the Food Control Board than questions in search of flour that is already bought.

Naval Heroes Welcomed.

The Royal Naval Reservists, whose names appeared in the Telegram yesterday, reached the city by last night's express and on arrival at the station were given a rousing reception. The energetic ladies of the Reception Committee were present as was also the Hon. Dr. Lloyd, Acting Prime Minister. After the usual greetings were exchanged the boys in blue were lined up in a square in front of the station and extended an official welcome by the Acting Prime Minister, who congratulated them on the splendid work they had done in aiding the Empire in its struggle against the Hun. Dr. Lloyd referred to the unusually large fishery and the good price obtained by the fishermen for their catch. While the people of this country had been abundantly blessed they owed a debt of gratitude to the men of the British Navy who were protecting the sea lanes and making it possible for us to market our fish. Cheers were given for the returned heroes, the Ladies' of the Reception Committee and Dr. Lloyd, which the men were driven to their homes in carriages provided by the committee.

Thetis From the North.

The S. S. Thetis, Capt. W. Parsons, reached port last evening from the people of this country had been far north as Hopedale. The first few days after leaving this port fine weather was met but as the ship got down the coast heavy winds and sea were encountered which continued throughout the remaining part of the voyage. Along the coast the men and their families are preparing to return home, while quite a number came along on the ship. Most of the floaters returned home, all with good fares. The bankers fishing on the coast have done remarkably well, some of them hauling for close on 1,000 quintals. A number of settlers, who for the past couple of years did poorly, have had exceptionally good luck this season and after straightening up old accounts will have sufficient cash to purchase a full winter's supply.

Grand Falls Notes.

The Gem Comedy Co. arrived from St. John's and spent a week with us. Some of their shows were very interesting and delighted the audiences which patronized them each night. They leave again by Monday night's express for home.
Our Vegetable and Industrial Exhibition will be held on the 27th inst., and is being looked forward to with keen interest by the people. Last year's first efforts proved such a success that they have been induced to try for still greater results this year.
Many here are wondering our returned and disabled soldiers are being looked after with regard to positions suited to their physical and mental capacities.
Corporal Lewis Bartlett arrived here last week to take a position with the A. N. D. Co. The A.N.D. Co. are to be congratulated for the way they find situations for our returned soldiers and sailors who have risked their lives for their King and Country and are now enabled for some of our St. John's Water St. friends.

Girls! Girls! Try It! Stop Dandruff and Beautify Your Hair

Hair stops falling out and gets thick, wavy, strong and beautiful.
Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Dandermine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Dandermine and carefully draw through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This cleanses the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.
Besides beautifying the hair at once, Dandermine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.
But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yet—yet—really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Dandermine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

Married at St. Michael's, Paddington.

Armstrong, C.A.M.C., of Montreal, to Miss Jessie Reid, youngest daughter of the late Mr. William Reid of St. John's, was solemnized at St. Michael's, Paddington, on Wednesday, September 5th. The bride was given away by her brother, the Rev. Edward Reid, M.C.F., Rector of St. Paul's, Exeter, and the officiating clergyman was the Rev. Dr. Heber Brown, Vicar of St. Michael's. Bride and groom were the recipients of many handsome presents from personal friends and from their colleagues in the Canadian Army Service Corps. The bridegroom was accompanied by his brother, Mr. G. Armstrong left London for Warwick and Stratford. Their home will be Kensington for the duration of the war.

Obituary.

The victim of the very sad accident which occurred at Newbridge, on Sept. 16th, passed peacefully to the Great Beyond on the evening, Sept. 18th, and was buried in St. Joseph's Cemetery on Sept. 20th. The deceased was 83 years old and leaves to mourn a husband, 2 daughters, and 2 sons, including the son who was so badly injured. She was such a kind hearted and loving creature that she won the affection and esteem of all those who knew her, and was plainly shown by the large concourse of people who were present at her funeral where Requiem Mass was celebrated for her soul by Rev. Fr. Rawlins. He also preached a sermon on "Death," and expressed his sympathy to the relatives of the deceased, indicating that she led such a holy and Christian life, and who was ever ready with a helping hand and a motherly love for all those who were in need. The very sympathetic words of the sermon created a thrill of consolation in the hearts of those who mourn her. The sympathy of the whole community goes out to the relatives of the deceased in their very sad bereavement and all unite in breathing forth the prayer "May God have mercy on her soul, and may she rest in Peace."

Cascarets work while you sleep; cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested, fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.
A Cascaret, to-night will straighten you out by morning. A 10-cent box, from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular, and head clear for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—never gripe or sicken.

POLICE WANT RAIN COATS—We understand it is the intention of the police to ask the new Inspector General for rain coats for wet weather in place of the great coats which become saturated when the rain is heavy. We have no doubt that their request will be given every consideration.

St. Joseph's Bazaar Opens To-morrow.

Rev. Dr. Kitchen, P.P., and his assisting parishioners have finalized all arrangements for their annual bazaar, which will be formally opened to-morrow afternoon at the old school house. The affair, which is in aid of the new church building fund, will be continued to-morrow night and close on Thursday night with a concert. At the bazaar will be stalls laden with seasonal goods and a main feature will be a large sale of vegetables of all kinds. This will afford a golden opportunity to householders, all of whom should take advantage of it, as the various land products will be sold at extraordinarily low prices, so that the event merits a liberal patronage apart from the worthiness of the object. The new St. Joseph's Church is in course of completion and will be ready for occupancy a few weeks hence.

Girls! Girls! Try It! Stop Dandruff and Beautify Your Hair

Hair stops falling out and gets thick, wavy, strong and beautiful.
Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Dandermine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Dandermine and carefully draw through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This cleanses the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.
Besides beautifying the hair at once, Dandermine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.
But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yet—yet—really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Dandermine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

Married at St. Michael's, Paddington.

The marriage of Lieutenant Colonel G. E. Armstrong, C.A.M.C., of Montreal, to Miss Jessie Reid, youngest daughter of the late Mr. William Reid of St. John's, was solemnized at St. Michael's, Paddington, on Wednesday, September 5th. The bride was given away by her brother, the Rev. Edward Reid, M.C.F., Rector of St. Paul's, Exeter, and the officiating clergyman was the Rev. Dr. Heber Brown, Vicar of St. Michael's. Bride and groom were the recipients of many handsome presents from personal friends and from their colleagues in the Canadian Army Service Corps. The bridegroom was accompanied by his brother, Mr. G. Armstrong left London for Warwick and Stratford. Their home will be Kensington for the duration of the war.

Obituary.

The victim of the very sad accident which occurred at Newbridge, on Sept. 16th, passed peacefully to the Great Beyond on the evening, Sept. 18th, and was buried in St. Joseph's Cemetery on Sept. 20th. The deceased was 83 years old and leaves to mourn a husband, 2 daughters, and 2 sons, including the son who was so badly injured. She was such a kind hearted and loving creature that she won the affection and esteem of all those who knew her, and was plainly shown by the large concourse of people who were present at her funeral where Requiem Mass was celebrated for her soul by Rev. Fr. Rawlins. He also preached a sermon on "Death," and expressed his sympathy to the relatives of the deceased, indicating that she led such a holy and Christian life, and who was ever ready with a helping hand and a motherly love for all those who were in need. The very sympathetic words of the sermon created a thrill of consolation in the hearts of those who mourn her. The sympathy of the whole community goes out to the relatives of the deceased in their very sad bereavement and all unite in breathing forth the prayer "May God have mercy on her soul, and may she rest in Peace."

HURRICANE KILLS NINE.

KINGSTON, Ja., To-day.
Nine persons were killed and much property damage caused at Port Antonio in the hurricane which struck the Island of Jamaica yesterday. The Custom house there was destroyed and a large hotel was damaged badly, and coasting ships at various points around the Island were injured by the wind.

ANOTHER AIR RAID.

LONDON, To-day.
Hostile airships early this morning appeared off the coasts of Lincolnshire and Yorkshire. An official statement says the raid is still in progress and that no details have yet been received.

CANADIANS LOSE POSITION.

CANADIAN HEADQUARTERS.
IN FRANCE, To-day.
The Canadian front is still inactive except for occasional outpost affairs. A shelling party of our men who wrecked a house near the Lens-Bethune Road, well beyond the front, were attacked last night by a much more numerous enemy group. They held on until their ammunition was exhausted, then made their escape under heavy fire to our lines. The German aviators are active along the front and aerial combats are frequent.

THE AIR RAID.

LONDON, To-day.
British airmen engaged the raiders, but with what result is not yet known. The Germans used a number of aerial ortopedoes.

THE LONDON RAID.

LONDON, To-day.
German planes appeared over the southeast district of London soon after eight o'clock and the engagement lasted till nearly 9.30. The raiders were scattered and did not come in compact formation. Many shells were used by the defence guns, giving the appearance of spectacular fireworks. The scream of the torpedoes used by the Germans was distinguishable easily from the explosions of guns or bombs. The people of London behaved extremely well and followed the police instructions for taking cover, and there was no panic. German Zeppelins also appeared across the coast of Yorkshire and Lincolnshire; the result of their visit is not yet learned.

RAILWAY TELEGRAPH OPERATORS ON STRIKE.

MONTREAL, To-day.
"The situation to-night spells victory," said Mr. S. J. Koenekamp of Chicago, the International President of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union in a telegraphic despatch from Toronto to the striking operators here to-night. Koenekamp stated that reports received from Campbelt and Calgary show that the G. N. W. Co. is not merely crippled but paralyzed. The most severe blows struck at the company, he said, had been struck at Montreal and Winnipeg. With the entire West completely shut off there were no quotations in Toronto to-day after 1 p.m., there being no tickers' staff at work. The President's message bore the cheering news to the strikers in this city that the G. T. R. operators had promised to do all they can to help the G. N. W. operators, line men and printers with their fight. The situation here to-night was unchanged from that of the morning, when 120 employees of the G. N. W. went out on strike. It is claimed that only two operators and four girls of the automatic printing department remained at work. The manager of the local office asserts that only a few operators are on strike and that the automatic printing instruments in the newspaper offices and the tickers were all working as usual to-day.

CANADIAN ELECTIONS IN FEB.

TORONTO, To-day.
The general election will not be held till February. That was the inference to be drawn from a remark made by Sir Geo. Foster at a largely attended meeting of the Wychwood Conservatives held this evening. The Minister's statement from which the inference was to be deducted was, "We shall take up four or five months in preparing for, carrying on and deciding this election in Canada. It is possible the Government can give that thought and that support to the progress of the war that it could give if it was not a contest at the polls."

1.00 P. M.

EARL DERBY ON THE WAR.

LONDON, To-day.
Earl Derby, Minister of War, addressing the Canadian Club at a dinner at Folkestone, last night, said that the Allies had made great mistakes during the war, but their enemies had made far greater mistakes and were gradually arriving at the conclusion that they had been using the wrong map. He feared that there was a likelihood of much more fighting and much more sorrow and misery for the nation before the war would end. It was said, the War Minister declared, that the enemy was demoralized. That was not true. The enemy is not demoralized, but although the Germans are fighting well the Allies are fighting better. Commenting on the replies of the Central Empires to the Pope, Lord Derby said the day had gone by when any king or government could make war. The only authority able to make war or bring it about was the people themselves and the only thing the Allies could do now, bearing in mind what Germany had done to civilization, was to fight on.

MEXICAN PAPERS SUPPRESSED.

MEXICO CITY, To-day.
Half a score of Mexican City newspapers have been ordered to cease publication on the ground that their further issuance is contrary to public morality. A majority of the newspapers closed have been anti-American in spirit, two of them have been especially active in pro-German propaganda.

GREAT FLIGHT FROM TURIN TO LONDON.

LONDON, To-day.
Captain Laureati of the Italian Army, yesterday made a non-stop airplane flight from Turin, Italy to London. He covered the 656 miles in seven hours and twelve minutes.

FEAR OF AMERICA.

THE HAGUE, To-day.
Frederich Naumann, who devised the Central Europe scheme, has an article in the Dusseldorf General Anzeiger in which he gives away the reason why Germany is anxious to pretend to make concessions. He says "Europe should once more seriously consider if it cannot find a way to peace before the year 1918 before in the fourth year of the war America completes the preparation of her armies."

DAILY MAIL ASKS FOR REPRISALS

LONDON, To-day.
Reports from a Kentish town say that about eight bombs were dropped in last night's air raid. According to a telegram from an Essex Coast town the first intimation of the raid came about 7.30 o'clock when the anti-aircraft guns opened fire and the noise of the aeroplanes' motors could be heard. The bombing over this town continued for about two hours at intervals, but so far as could be learned only three bombs were dropped and apparently there was no great property damage. The Daily Mail comments on last night's air raid calls for reprisals, saying "The British people would view these attacks with entire indifference if they knew that every one of them were followed by an attack in which twice the weight of bombs were dropped here was showered on German towns. Let's hit the Germans hard."

RUSSIA MAKING NO PEACE.

PETROGRAD, To-day.
The Minister of Foreign Affairs, Terefenko, to-day issued the following statement: "Rumors published recently by the newspapers in various countries regarding peace negotiations said to have been considered by certain powers are entirely false. Equally devoid of foundation are reports attributing any particular importance to the conference in Bern which has been convened by the so-called 'Alliance for the realization of Durable Peace' with which neither the Russian Government nor her Allies had anything to do."

Patriotic Association

To Present Address to the Governor.

Sir Edgar Bowring occupied the chair at the meeting of the Patriotic Association last night which had been called for the special purpose of considering the presentation, by the Association, of a suitable address to His Excellency the Governor in appreciation of his presidency of the Association since its formation. The Chairman spoke in terms of warm praise of the long services given by His Excellency ungrudgingly and with enthusiasm and of the judgment and tact with which he had filled a difficult position. He thought it fitting that an address should be presented to the Governor with perhaps a souvenir as a memento. He expressed the general feeling that was felt that his help and encouragement would no longer be available, and hoped that he would enjoy the same esteem and be enabled to do the same good work in New South Wales. Rev. Dr. Curtis seconded the suggestion, which he thought a pleasing way of recording the Association's appreciation of His Excellency's services. Judge Morris spoke similarly in moving the appointment of a committee to prepare the address, as did Hon. John Harvey in seconding the motion, adding the wish that the address should include an acknowledgment of the invaluable work of Lady Davidson. Hon. R. A. Squires and Judge Kent supported the motion, both paying a high tribute to His Excellency and expressing gratification in his high promotion, which they thought an honor to himself and to the Colony. Messrs. W. B. Grieve, W. J. Higgins, J. W. Withers and Judge Morris were then selected to decide upon the nature of the souvenir and to draft the address, which will be submitted for the Association's approval at a later meeting.

City Editor Given Farewell Dinner.

Dr. H. M. Mosdell, who severs his connections with the Editorship of the Daily Star newspaper and leaves here on Thursday en route to Toronto where he will continue his journalistic activities, was tendered a farewell dinner last night at Wood's West Restaurant by the Star employees. We wish him success in his new sphere.

HAD TASTE!

By RUTH CAMERON.

The other day I heard a man tell some people all about his trouble-brother who was apparently fitted for nothing so much as for a cell in prison. The man described some of the young man's escapades and what a time the family had to save him from the consequences. He himself had lost several hundred dollars by him. The story was quite uncollected. The people to whom he told it were not intimate but casual friends.

More Offensive Than Wrong.
I had liked the man before he started telling that story. When he finished I felt a sort of aversion for him.

But why? Why shouldn't he say his brother was a crook when it was perfectly true and when he had suffered so much from him, I asked myself?

And then myself answered, "It may not be wrong for him to say so but it is something more instinctively offensive than wrong, its bad taste."

Queer how we feel about certain things, isn't it? Such a breach of family loyalty is one such thing.

He is Right But Our Sympathy Isn't With Him.
Another is any breach of courtesy to age even when age does not fully deserve courtesy. For instance, suppose a mother and daughter or father and son are arguing and suppose the older person is in the wrong and is very obtuse and obstinate, yet if the son pushes home his point with the same force he would use toward someone of his own age, something in us shrinks. He is right, yes, but we don't like it. Our sympathies go out to his opponent. We don't want him to use all his force. He has a right to, but we don't want him to take advantage of that right.

Any breach of the obligations of hospitality, even when the guests has not lived up to his obligations as a guest, also offends some instinct within us. A guest may be selfish, critical, hard to please, may outstay his welcome, and yet if the host should tell him to go, while one would know with one's mind he was justified, some strange instinctive part of one would resent his act.

People Of The Best Breeding Cede Certain Rights.

It seems to me it all goes back to Phillips Brooks's sentence which I have so often quoted to you "We don't have a right to all our rights." There are some things which while they are not wrong, are in bad taste. One may have a right to do them but it has become a self imposed law of noblesse oblige among people with the highest breeding to cede certain rights and when people stand on their rights and refuse to cede them it leaves a bad taste in our feeling towards those people.

Illogical? Perhaps so. But though I love logic I have come to see that there are some things even higher and greater.

This is to certify that I have used MINARD'S LINIMENT in my family for years, and consider it the best liniment on the market. I have found it excellent for horse flesh.

Opening a Convent School at Bell Island.

On Saturday His Grace the Archbishop, accompanied by the Rev. Father Gough, of Portugal Cove, as Chaplain, went to Bell Island for the purpose of formally opening the new Convent Schools in that Parish which will be in charge of a Community of Sisters of the Mercy Order. Some days previously four Sisters of the Mercy Order who will form the Community of the new foundation went to the island to make arrangements for the opening of the schools. Some months ago the corner stone of the new Convent was laid and ever since that time the Pastor of the Parish, and during Miss Canina, which was sung by the Pastor, Father McGrath, the Archbishop addressed the people on the coming of the Sisters amongst them. He reminded them that more than two years ago, on the occasion of his first official visit, he had intimated that the time had come when some forward step should be made in educational matters in a Parish of the population and importance of Bell Island. On that occasion he had expressed the hope that in the not distant future the invaluable educational services of the Sisters of Mercy would be placed at the disposal of the Parish. Some months ago he had come amongst them again for the purpose of laying the corner stone of the Convent, and he was there on the present occasion, he said, for the purpose of formally inaugurating their work and invoking the blessing of God on their mission in the Parish. At the time of the laying of the corner stone it was hoped that the building would be ready for occupancy before the end of the year, but owing to unavoidable delays, that had been found to be impossible. At the same time it was felt that the beginning of the work of the Sisters should not be any longer postponed, and, consequently, it was decided that the Sisters should open school at the beginning of the present term. With a view to this, he said, temporary arrangements had been made for the Sisters until such time as the new Convent would be ready for occupation. The Sisters had displayed commendable self-sacrifice in consenting to undertake the work and begin their mission under the present temporary conditions. They had put aside all consideration of personal comfort and convenience in order to begin their beneficent mission of education amongst the children of the Parish. The Archbishop said that now that the Sisters were about to begin their work, he had no doubt that the Convent would be completed in a very short time so as to enable them to abandon their present temporary quarters as soon as possible, and take up their residence in the new and finished building that the Parish aimed at providing for them. Proceeding, he said, that he looked forward confidently to great work in the field of education as the result of the opening of the Convent school. Wherever the Sisters were engaged in educational work throughout the Island, their influence on the children had been most evident. Everywhere they had a refining, uplifting and educating influence. The teaching of the young, their secular and religious instruction, their training in all branches from the lowest to the highest was the work to which the Sisters had consecrated their lives. From the time they entered religion, their whole training was directed towards this end. His Grace then went on to pay a high tribute to the magnificent work that was being done throughout the Church by the Catholic Sisterhoods in the cause of education. He had no doubt that excellent educational results would very soon be in evidence amongst the children of the Parish of Bell Island. He appealed to the people to show their appreciation of the presence of the Sisters amongst them by manifesting a keen interest in the education of their children, and by keeping the children regularly and constantly at school. Successful work or lasting results would be impossible unless the people heartily co-operated with the Sisters in this respect. Concluding, he said, that the event would be a historic one in the annals of the Parish. He prayed that their good work might grow and prosper more and more as the years went on. It would be only in years to come that the full fruits would be gathered of the seeds that were being planted now, and future generations would assuredly bless the time when the Sisters opened their schools, and began their mission of education in the Parish.

On Monday, Sept. 24th, the Patronal Feast of the Order of Mercy, the new Convent Schools were formally opened. A large gathering of parents and children from all parts of the Island assembled in the new school, and more than one hundred children were enrolled. Addresses were made by the Pastor, Rev. Father McGrath, welcoming the Sisters to the Parish, and assuring them of his co-operation and that of the people, and by His Grace the Archbishop who again blessed the work of the Sisters, wished it every success and formally declared the schools opened.

Pansy League.

Government House,
Sept. 22nd, 1917.

Dear Sir—Will you kindly let me write a letter to all my friends in your paper. To many kind enquiries I am very well and had a real lovely time at Lance Cove, Upper Gullies. We stayed at Mr. and Mrs. Pat. Doyle's house to be near the beach and we also found some beautiful blueberries. My little mistresses enjoyed the bathing and paddling in the sea; but I being a cat, did not go bathing but used to help myself to places on the fish stage in the woods near the house. Lucky for me Mr. and Mrs. Doyle are very fond of animals so Sis Hopkins (my kitten) and myself had a real good time. I left Sis to live with Mrs. Doyle and she did have one not far from here but she lost the latch key so came back to Diana and Daphne. She will not need a key at Mr. and Mrs. Doyle's as a cat can find many ways to get in when it needs a mug up and a warm. One way, you just mow at the door then it opens and you are welcomed in. Many happy years, dear Sis, with your kind friends.

I have had many nice letters, one was really a special one. I should so love to have let you all read it. But Nicholas said please do not publish my letter. Lucky cat, he has a jolly home with good friends.

My little mistresses and myself are so very sorry to leave Newfoundland; but we all carry with us the memory of many happy days with many friends in Newfoundland. Do you know I was nearly left behind but my little mistresses so grieved that I should not be happy so in my basket I travelled with them.

But the League will I trust still go on (stronger than ever). I do so thank all the kind friends and all the members for their very kind help while I have been its Secretary. May I ask for the same and even much more help to my successors. We do so hope some very special friends of ours will take our books and see to all the little ins and outs of the Pansy League. We feel sure they will. And we hope it will be a work of love and pleasure that it has been to you.

Very grateful friends,
DIANA, DAPHNE AND PANSY.
Miw, miw.

ANOTHER AIR RAID.

LONDON, Sept. 24. Hostile airplanes attacked the S.E. Coast of England this evening. According to an official statement the raiders came to different places in Kent and Essex. A few of them followed the Thames and attacked London. Bombs were dropped at several points. The casualties so far reported are six persons killed and about 29 injured.

WAR SUMMARY.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.

Violent attacks by the soldiers of the Crown Prince against the new French positions northeast of Verdun, on Monday, were checked with heavy losses by General Petain's men, and the Germans gained nothing. The assaults began with an attack on a front of about a mile and a quarter north of Bois de Chaume. Only in the centre of the assaulting lines were the Germans able to reach the French positions, artillery dispersing them elsewhere. The French fought valiantly and remained masters of the situation, after inflicting heavy losses on the Germans. Simultaneously the German Crown Prince threw forward two secondary attacking forces, one north of Bezouvaux, south of Bois de Chaume, and the other southeast of Beaumont, northwest of the wood. Here the French did not wait for the Germans to reach their trenches, but went out to meet the attackers, who were driven back with losses. Later in the day the Crown Prince hurled two new attacks against Bois de Chaume only to meet with further failure. Again the French drove back the Germans with casualties and in addition captured fifty prisoners. On the Aisne front there has been artillery activity, except for the repulse by the French of a German surprise attack northeast of Brayon Laonnois.

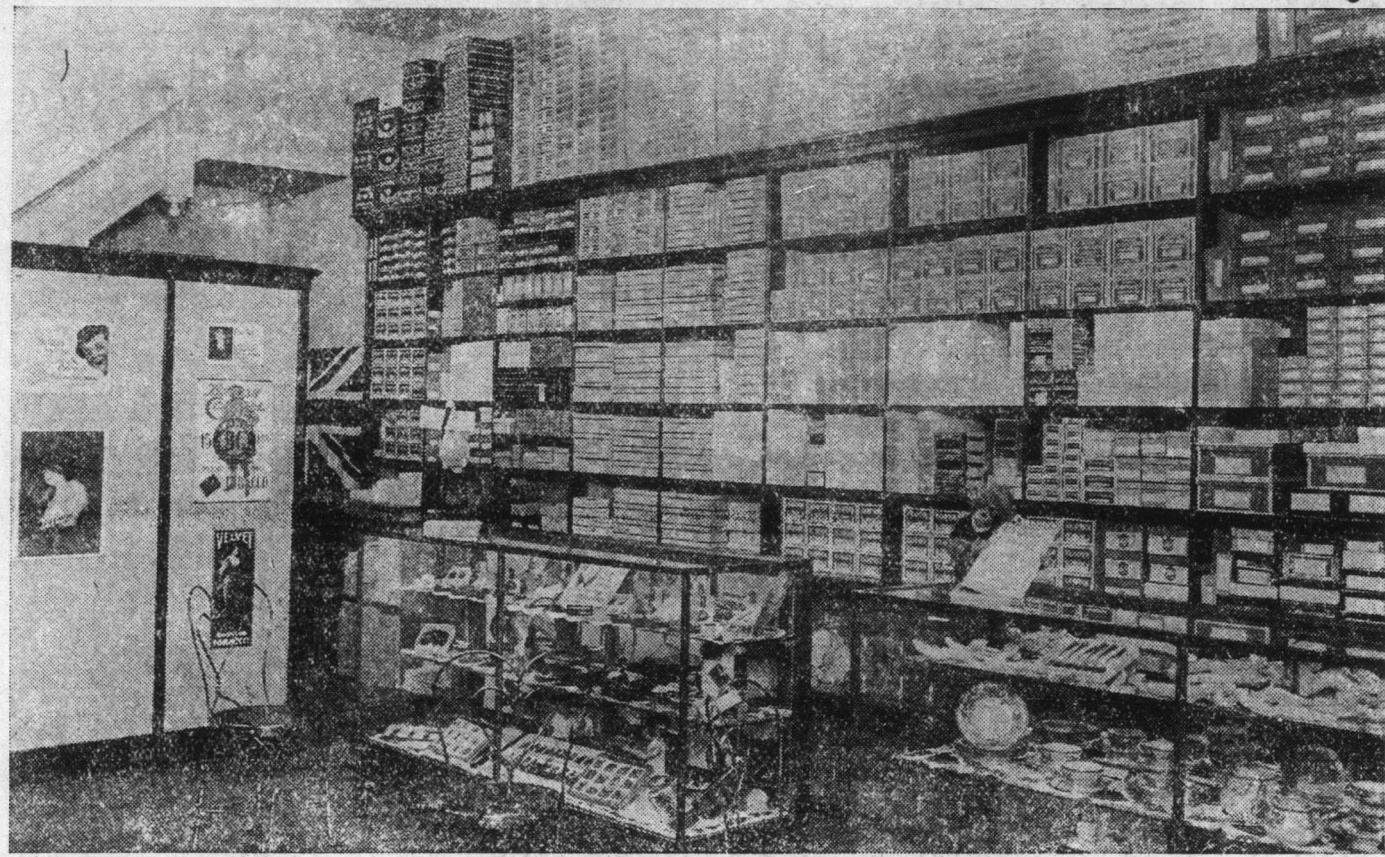

In Flanders there has been no great infantry activity, although the opposing artillery are still busy. German fire was reported to be heavy on both banks of the Scarpe, east of Arras, around Lens, and east of Ypres. On the river Dvinsk sector of the east front, the Russians continue in their efforts to drive the Germans back towards the Dvina, in the region immediately southeast of Riga. Petrograd reports the capture of German defensive positions in the sector of Silzeme.

In further comment upon the booty taken at Jacobstadt last week, Berlin officially makes the statement that quantities of provisions, including bread and flour, were captured. There has been no further infantry actions on the Bainsizza Plateau, N.E. of Gorizia, on the Carso. Northwest of Trentino, in the region of Marmolada, the Austro-Hungarians failed in their attempt to dislodge the Italians from their recently won gains.

OFFICIAL FROM BRITISH HEAD-QUARTERS.

LONDON, Sept. 24. The official from the British headquarters in France to-night reads: Under cover of bombardments, alluded to in to-day's report, the enemy attempted two raids early to-day in the neighborhood of Manchy Le Franx, and another south of the Arras-Douai railway. In all three cases the hostile parties were repulsed by our fire, leaving a number of dead in front of our trenches. Another enemy party raided our trenches early this morning west of LaBassee. One of our men is missing. The report this morning that some of our men were missing as a result of a hostile raid carried out last night, has since been found to be incorrect, as none of our men were missing. On the battlefield our patrols have been active to-day and a number of prisoners were brought in.

Our artillery was active, but no infantry attack occurred. On Sunday again there was a slight lull in aerial work, though our airplanes and balloons continue to observe for our artillery. Successful bombing raids were undertaken, in the course of which our airplanes dropped 167 bombs on hostile billets, huts and airfields. In the fighting eight enemy machines were brought down and six were brought down out of control. Another machine was brought to earth on Saturday in addition to those already mentioned. Three of ours are missing.

LONDON PRESS COMMENT.

LONDON, Sept. 24. The London morning papers are almost unanimous regarding the replies of the Central Empires to the Pope, as vague, hypocritical and hopeless, and all the more reason why the war should be prosecuted to certain victory.

ITALIAN PRESS COMMENT.

ROME, Sept. 24. The entire Liberal press continues to attack the reply of Germany and Austria to the Pope's peace proposal as a unique example of revolting cynicism.

FRENCH PRESS COMMENT.

PARIS, Sept. 24. Evasive, vague, hollow and empty, are the words which appear and reappear in the comments published in the Paris newspapers to-day on the replies of Germany and Austria to Pope Benedict's peace proposals. Gustave Herve, editor of La Victoire, characterizes the note as words and wind. Virtually the whole press chooses the same points for criticism, placing first the absence of any reference to Belgium, Alsace-Lorraine and Poland, although the Pope referred to them, if it is pointed out somewhat timidly. The replies are condemned as avoiding an answer yet accepting some of the Pope's suggestions with the idea of inducing His Holiness to send further notes and thus keep his intervention alive.

GERMAN PRESS COMMENT.

BERLIN, Sept. 24. It is generally pointed out by the Berlin press that Germany's reply to the Pope's peace proposals impresses by virtue of its dignified tone and spirit in contradiction to President Wilson's reply to the Pope, and also on account of the absence of all vilification of Germany's enemies. The Liberal press is especially jubilant because the Government unreservedly has brought itself into harmony with the Reichstag peace resolution. Pan-German and ultra-conservative newspapers, with one exception, are unexpectedly moderate in their comment.

FRENCH ARTILLERY DUEL.

PARIS, Sept. 24. North of Verdun and in the region of Fosses and Chammun woods the artillery duel was intensely violent to-day. German airplanes bombarded the camp of German prisoners near Bar Leduc, and two prisoners were killed.

RUSSIANS ABANDON JACOBSTADT.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 24. The evacuation of Jacobstadt under

German pressure is not considered by some of the military writers to indicate an attempt to advance on Petrograd farther than the capture of the whole Dvina line. The Birchbelyia, however, says that a further advance in this section is expected, and that the situation is serious, on which account Premier Kerensky will remain at headquarters for some days more.

GERMANS MAKE REPEATED ATTACKS.

PARIS, Sept. 24. The Germans made repeated attacks against the French lines north of Verdun to-day, where they were driven back under French fire along a front of about a mile and a quarter. Secondary attacks north of Bezouvaux and near Beaumont were repulsed with sanguinary losses, according to a statement of the war office to-night.

GERMAN REPORT DENIED.

LONDON, Sept. 24. The German official report saying that during the bombardment of Ostend, Belgium, on Saturday, shells had struck the Cathedral, killing seven persons and wounding others, is refuted in an official from the British Admiralty to-night, which declares that photographs taken after the bombardment show no sign of the Cathedral being hit. The Admiralty statement follows: In reference to the German wireless messages reporting an English monitor had bombarded Ostend and that a few shells had struck the Cathedral, killing seven and wounding twenty-four Belgians, careful examination of photographs taken after the bombardment show no signs of a hit on the Cathedral. On the other hand, the photos indicate clearly that one floating dock was sunk and keeled over, that one workshop in the dock had been destroyed completely, and that seven others were damaged. A portion of a submarine shelter or shop was missing.

ROOSEVELT TALKS.

KANSAS CITY, Miss., Sept. 24. "If I were this minute a member of the United States Senate I would be ashamed to sit in that body until I found out some method of depriving Senator La Follette of a seat in that chamber which is disgraced by his presence there," Colonel Theodore Roosevelt declared to-day at a luncheon given for Major General Leonard Wood and himself in this city to-day. Continuing his remarks concerning Congress, Col. Roosevelt asserted that if Congress had taken the action three years ago that it has since the declaration of war, the war would have been over. "If we take heed of any peace utterance Germany prepares, we will show we are not prepared yet to go out into the world without a guardian." The Colonel added, America must make good the words of President Wilson to prepare a world for democracy. For this reason we should declare war against Austria and Turkey. At the conclusion of his talk, Roosevelt was presented with a gold quill with the reminder that the pen is mightier than the sword. "But I would rather have the sword," the Colonel said. This is very exclusive war as far as I am concerned. I was blackballed by the committee on admission. Major General Wood, in a speech following the former President, said: "It is utter foolishness to say that Americans can win the war in the air, or with chemical devices. It can only be won with men and with sacrifice."

ARGENTINA MOBILIZING.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 24. Mobilization of the Argentina navy has been ordered at a rendezvous three kilometres from Buenos Aires. There is unusual military activity in the republic. Although this is ostensibly due to the general strike, high officials say to-day that the general staff has its eyes open to other necessities.

RUSSIA'S CONGRESS.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 24. The democratic congress, according to the present programme, will be composed of 1,500 members, but demands to participate are arriving from political organizations from all parts of the country, and the definite composition of the congress has not been decided.

GERMANS SEEKING SUPPLIES.

LONDON, Sept. 24. Dr. Christopher Addison, Minister without portfolio in charge of reconstruction, speaking at Huddersfield Saturday night, referred to the activity of the Germans who, he said, were endeavoring to obtain supplies of materials for munitions and buildings from different parts of the world. The Germans, he said, have been making and still are making efforts to acquire control of great mineral deposits, even attempting to purchase them in England during the war.

WILL REDUCE NUMBER OF MEN.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 24. The Provisional Government has decided to reduce the number of men in the regular army because the country cannot remain longer without male labor and because it was thought desirable to relieve the army of men who are too old to fight or who have been wounded and whose fighting capacity therefore is not great.

KERENSKY'S ORDER OF THE DAY.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 24. Premier Kerensky has issued an order of the day praising the services of General Alexieff in suppressing the Korniloff revolt without bloodshed and for re-establishing order and normal activity in the headquarters staff. The Premier accepts Alexieff's resignation, but places the General at the disposal of the Government so as not to lose the aid of his experience in the conduct of military affairs.

PROTESTS AGAINST THE CROWN PRINCE'S ACTION.

LONDON, Sept. 24. The Bavarian socialist papers are quoted by the Exchange Telegraph correspondent in Amsterdam as protesting against the action of the German Crown Prince in inviting a number of singers from the Munich opera to proceed to his headquarters by special train. The newspapers characterize this proceeding as scandalous at a time when railway congestion is so great that even food stuffs cannot be transported. Two of the papers, it is added, have been suppressed for publishing attacks on the Crown Prince.

GERMAN ACTIVITY.

British Front in France and Belgium, Sept. 24.—German guns were active during the night on the northern half of the battlefield, and at times the artillery reached the stage of great intensity. Several enemy barrages were put down on the British front. Last evening the Germans made a strong attack upon an advanced British post northwest of the city of Lens, after heavy artillery preparation, and pushed this post back to the British front line.

AUSTRIANS COUNTER ATTACK.

ROME, Sept. 24. The Austrians made a counter attack yesterday on a position which the Italians recently captured in the Mignoloda region. In this effort the attacking forces suffered heavy losses, according to to-day's official.

HEAVY ARTILLERY ACTIONS.

PARIS, Sept. 24. Heavy artillery actions have been in progress at various points along the French front, and shelling was very intense during the night in the sector north of Verdun, the war office announced to-night. During the German bombardment raid the camp of German prisoners near Bar-Le-Duc was hit; two of the prisoners were killed and 17 wounded.

ANOTHER ADVANCE TO BRITAIN.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24. The Government to-day advanced $35,000,000 to Great Britain, bringing the total advanced to that country thus far to $1,180,000,000, and the total of all credit to the Allies to $2,426,400,000.

OFFICIAL EXPLANATION ISSUED.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24. The official explanation of the Korniloff revolt issued here to-day by the Russian Embassy, tends to confirm the accounts published in Petrograd laying the blame for the trouble upon Vladimir Lvoff, the Duma member who informed Premier Kerensky that Korniloff demanded to be made dictator. Since the revolt was put down, according to the Embassy, thorough re-organization has become necessary because the troops lacked the confidence of their commanders, changes being made in the administration of positions which will result in great benefits.

KILLED IN MOTOR ACCIDENT.

TORONTO, Sept. 24. Pinned under a heavy touring car when it turned turtle at a sandy intersection of a road, Robert Latham McCormack, a member of a prominent York County family, was killed yesterday as he was on his way to Uxbridge village.

EMPEROR WILLIAM VISITS ROUMANIAN BATTLE FIELDS.

LONDON, Sept. 24. Emperor William, says a despatch from Amsterdam, has visited the battlefields in Roumania and inspected the troops which participated in the campaign in Transylvania and Roumania in the autumn of 1916. These troops are now on the Moldavian battlefield. Addressing the troops, Emperor William pointed out the world-wide historical importance of this fighting, which he said was also of great importance economically for the homelands. The Emperor concluded with the declaration that if the war was to continue it was not the Germans' fault.

GERMAN HEAVY GUNS ACTIVE.

LONDON, Sept. 24. German heavy guns were active early this morning on both banks of the River Scarpe, on the Arras front, in France. Field Marshal Haig reported to-day. A German raiding party near LaBasseeville was driven away after a sharp fight last night with the British.

RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 24. Russian forces on the Riga front, in the region south of the Pskoff high road, yesterday took the offensive, and after a fierce struggle occupied the German positions in the sector of Silzeme, the Russian war office announced to-day. The Germans sustained severe losses and left 400 corpses on the battlefield. The Russians took sixty prisoners and ten machine guns.

UNITED EFFORT.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24. American and British officials are working on a programme providing for closer economic co-operation with a view to uniting for war purposes the entire resources of the United States and Great Britain and her possessions. As confidential agent of the British Government, Viscount Reading, Lord Chief Justice of England, is handling negotiations here. While tremendous in its scope, Lord Reading's mission here is only a part of the comprehensive structure of unity of resources which Great Britain is building. The resources of all her dominions and those of all the Allies are to be formed as far as possible into a compact whole, giving a mammoth reservoir so that all the Allies may draw to make more effective the war against the common foe.

ACCIDENT IN COAL MINES.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 24. Budapest despatches printed in German newspapers arriving here tell of an explosion in the Lubenz coal mines. Fifty-nine persons were killed and 65 injured.

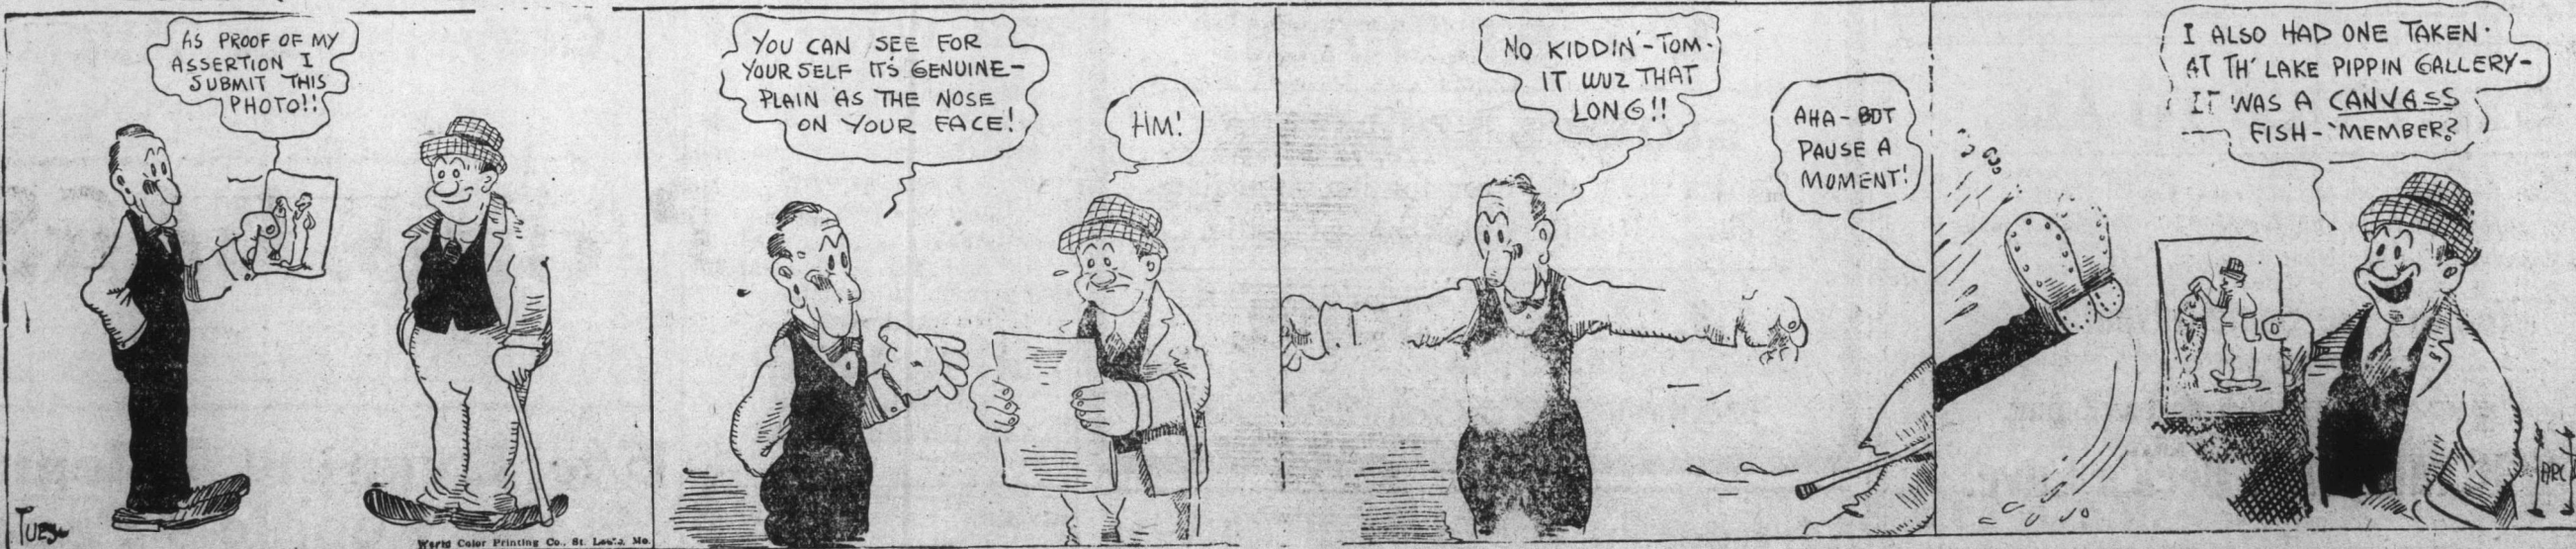

PEACE TALK WILL LENGTHEN WAR.

LONDON, Sept. 24. In a long review of the war situation, the Observer says that premature peace talk, by its tendency to divide public opinion, can only prolong the horrors and misery of the struggle.

The nutritive value of food may be increased or destroyed, according as it is well cooked or otherwise.
