seat springs; Briscoe line body, with special Briscoe lustar-tone finish; 105 inch wheelbase; complete equipment including one man top, Bar top holders, tilted eye saver windshield, speedometer, electric horn, electric dash lamp, electric headlights with dimmer, oil gauge, gasoline gauge, ammeter, demountable rims and one extra rim, tires 30 x 2 1/2 all around.
EX S. S. "ADOLPH" JANUARY 10TH.
One Briscoe Touring Car and one four-passenger Sports Roadster. See them at THE GARAGE. Your own eyes will tell you that it is unlike any other car in its size, power and weight class. In appearance and finish we believe you will see in it a welcome departure from the sameness of design and dress which has heretofore marked the ordinary popular-priced cars.
Mechanically the car is tried and proven. You can shift the gears of the Briscoe with your finger tips so easy are they to mesh. The clutch takes hold without "grabbing" and engages so effectively that you can move the car forward or backward an eighth of an inch at a time if you desire. It is not necessary that you throw your full weight on the brake pedal, just a slight pressure and the brake takes hold.
The weight is evenly distributed so that the car is perfectly balanced and stays on the road no matter what the speed. The Bailey Gearless Differential eliminates side sway, skidding and slipping. Naturally it requires no effort to steer the car.
Full line of Spare Parts by "Adolph". Prompt service is assured.

Love in the Abbey

Lady Ethel's Rival

CHAPTER XXXVII.
A DUMB REPROACH.

With a stifled cry she pulled from its hiding place the stained morning frock, which she had worn the morning Elliot Sterne had come to her, and taken her heart from her. It was a very unattractive object; not a faded rose, or a crumpled letter, or a broken fern, only a soiled morning dress, but the very practical and unpoetic object brings all that happy, too happy day before her, and Kitty trembles and quivers like a person suddenly recoiling from the brink of a great crime. Her hands, a moment ago so restless and impatient, fall upon the soiled dress as it lies on her lap, and her great eyes stare at it with remorse, shame, supplication. If the crumpled thing could speak, it could not have spoken more eloquently than it did.

"What are you about to do?" it seemed to say: "you who have known what love is, you are going to sell yourself for pique—revenge, a pitiful, self-torturing spite! Shame! Can you look at me, and remember whose arms have enfolded me, against whose breast I have rested? can you recall the words I have heard whispered to you? can you, who put me out of sight as a thing too sacred for common handling, as consecrated by his touch, can you be contemplating this thing? Shame! It is better to have lived and loved, than never to have loved at all; better to live upon the memory of one day, than to drag out an existence of remorse and self-reproach. Be content! You who have known what love is, can never desecrate and degrade its sacred name by such a deed as you would do!"

This is what the dumb thing says, as plain as muslin can speak, and Kitty, hearing it, grows red, then pale, and then with a sob she bows her head over it and kisses it, and the pent-up tears burst forth, and the tortured heart speaks out:

"No! no! I cannot do it! God forgive me for ever thinking of it! I love him! I love him! I have been his love of only a day, and no one else shall call me his! Oh, my love, my love! I am yours, though you never, never come back to me, though another has the right to claim you, I am yours to the very end, and no one else's."

Devoted Mary, coming up the stairs

Don't Torture Your Child!

TO MOTHERS! See your little one's terror at the very thought of a dose of castor oil, mineral oil, calomel or pills. Ugh!

Cascarets "work" better, safer, surer on the tender little liver, stomach and bowels, besides Cascarets taste like candy. Even bilious, constipated, sick kiddies coax for this harmless candy cathartic.

Each 10 cent box of Cascarets, the pleasant candy cathartic, contains directions and dosage for children aged one year old and upwards. When the little one's tongue turns white, breath feverish, stomach sour, there is nothing better to "work" the nasty bile, soothe food and constipation poison from the child's system. Give Cascarets, then never worry.

some hours later, and for the tenth time, and far too anxious to be satisfied with a silent denial of admittance, opens the door cautiously and looks round the room with a perturbed countenance. She soon is staring into every nook and corner—falls on the heap of clothes, the soiled frock, and on the black bag, but not on Kitty. Mary looks behind the curtains, under the bed, even, then, crying by this time, into the bathroom. But that is empty; the door is open, and Kitty has flown!

Kitty has flown, but the bag is there, and clinging to it as a drowning man clings to a rock, poor, helpless, bewildered Mary sits down and weeps, with alarm, relief, and consternation as mingled and confused as the muddled-up heap at her feet.

If Mary had had the sense and mother-wit to run to the window, and pull up the blind and look out, she would have seen her fugitive mistress walking across the fields. But though Mary did not see her, another pair of eyes, that had been so watchful, and anxious as Mary's own, was on the watch; and Mr. Sydney Calthrop, pacing moodily and expectant behind the elm, saw the slim, graceful figure, and felt his heart leap out to meet it.

Ten o'clock had struck by the stable clock; it was ten minutes past. He thought, until he had looked at his watch, that it must at least have been a quarter to eleven, before he saw her; and no pen, however graphic, could paint the tortures of those ten minutes endured by the creature who had never known before what impatience meant!

Even now when he saw her he could not, for the moment, go forward to meet her. He must needs stop and calm himself, wipe the great drops of cold perspiration—the dews of doubt and misgiving, rising and falling hope—from his forehead. Then he summoned all his self-composure, and, vaulting over the stile, hurried toward her.

But he has not gone two yards before he stops with a sudden, swift, but convincing dread. It is not because he has seen her face, for she is too far as yet—it is not because she is alone, though that fact would be sufficient reason for the icy hand of doubt that seems to grasp at his heart and turn him cold. It is something in the manner of her walk; it is too hurried—for Kitty is not the one to hurry to any man, least of all to a waiting lover—something in her bearing, in the pose of the little figure, and the droop of the small, sleek head.

Sydney Calthrop stops short, and waits beside the stile, his heart beating, his eyes hungrily watching to read his sentence.

A glance at her face tell him more than enough. In a moment the thousand conflicting hopes and fears fall into nothingness, and a heavy despair settles upon him.

He does not even fold out his hand, but grasps the top bar of the stile with one hand, and looks steadily at her.

Panting, but not from her speed, Kitty stands before him, as pale as himself—more affected outwardly, but firm and immovable—he knows it—as a rock.

"I have come," she says, drawing her shawl against her bosom, doubtless to still, if she can, the throbbing at her heart—"I have come, because—because I think that I ought, Mr. Calthrop"—he winces at the formal address, but his eyes do not move for a moment from her face—"Mr. Calthrop, I was mad and wicked when I saw you last, and said words, and promised to do what I never ought to have said or promised. Oh, do not look at me like that!" for his face works for a moment, and his eyes gleam with reproach and accusation.

"Indeed, I have suffered!—I am more sorry, sorry, than I can tell you—that you would believe if I told you! But I don't think I have quite known what I have said and done lately!" she goes on, with a startled look of pain mingling with her imploring, penitence one: "I have been wicked, and—and heartless!—heartless, indeed! Mr. Calthrop, I hope that you will not think too much of it—that you will remember what a worthless—utterly stupid and worthless girl you—you honored and confided in—and forget her!" and, with eyes that are dimmed with tears, she holds out her hand.

He looks at it for a moment, then slowly raises his eyes to her face again.

"You will not come—is that what you mean?" he asks, struggling with his voice, that sounds hoarse and unnaturally calm.

"I cannot," she says, clenching her hands and hiding her face away. "I cannot and dare not; it is not only for myself that I draw back, that I break my promise. For your sake I ought not to—to do what you want me! I see it all clearer to-day, and know how heartless and cruel I should be if I yielded—"

"Heartless and cruel," he says slowly, and staring at her. "Yes, you have been heartless and cruel to every one who has loved you. I might have known—if I had not been a fool, if I had not taken you for a simple, guileless girl—that you would have cursed me as you did the rest. I am rightly served—we are all fools—all three—Ainsley and Sterne—"

"Oh, stop, stop!" she breathes, putting up her hand and turning white and wan. "Stop! You do not know! You judge me too harshly—and yet—yes, I deserve it! Say what—you want to and let me go," and she stands before him with drooped head and patient, miserably clasped hands.

"Say," he says, with a dull kind of passion. "What will words do for me? If I stayed all day and said a hundredth part of what I could say, it wouldn't harm you or do me any good. I knew, yes, by Jove, I knew it! That you would play me false, that you wouldn't keep your word. I was never set on anything so hotly as I have been on this. I have loved you—I love you still; and you go and leave me, and tell me I can say what I like. Well—I can curse you, and I do!" and he throws his hand toward her, palm outward, as if he hurled a curse with it.

Kitty shrinks as if struck, and then with a cry of horror, and covering her eyes, turns away.

He stands for a moment looking after her, and yet without seeing. What he sees is the Nemesis which has come down upon the heels of his treachery, and betrayed him. What he sees is a long, weary, sterile struggle with the fruitless passion that tears his heart. What he feels is simply despair. It numbs him soul and body so that he cannot stand, and he sinks down upon the step of the stile and rests his face upon his arm.

Five minutes pass, and then suddenly he leaps to his feet, hot, panting, with bloodshot eyes and quivering lips.

"Fool! A cursed fool! I have let her go! I had her here—the carriage was in the lane—what was easier than to throw that shawl round her face and make her keep her promise? Fool—fool! Too late! It is too late!"

Like an electric current, the wild mad hope runs through his veins.

With an oath he springs on the stile and stares before him.

Yes, there she is, going with dragging footsteps across the meadow—the next meadow but one; the footpath turns to the left, she has nearly gained it; if he cuts across this next field and runs he can reach her before she can gain the lane.

A moment—a half moment—is sufficient for the calculation, and the next minute he springs to the ground, dashes over the gate of the adjoining field, and runs with the speed of a man racing with death.

Racing with death!

What is that behind? That strange echo that reaches his ears, muffled as it were, by a breathing harder and louder than his own?

For a few seconds he takes no notice of it, but suddenly the echo grows too loud, the breathing, which he fancied was his own, grows into a fierce, unearthly snort—he turns his head and his brain reels; behind him, so close that he fancies he can feel the animal's hot, savage breath, comes, at a headlong pace, the bull.

With its smooth, iron head bent low, blowing the hot steam from its nostrils, flinging the foam from its cruel jaws, the brute glares with its small, savage eyes a look of ferocious cunning straight into the horrified ones of the man.

Before them both—seeming miles away in the distance—is the gate which the man will never reach; the bull knows it as well as does his victim; he gives a long snort of ferocious delight, and dashes on.

Sydney Calthrop, the hunter, turned into the hunted, utters not a sound, but keeps on his way; suddenly Kitty, turning her head, sees the race of life and death, and a scream, shrill and piercing, rises into the air.

Then, for the first time, the brute opens his nostrils and bellows, bellows with defiant mockery and rage. (To be Continued.)

Girls Thicken and Beautify Your Hair and Stop Dandruff.

Try this! your hair gets wavy, glossy and abundant at once.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine. It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance; freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower; destroyer of dandruff and curer for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—faking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

THESE ARE THE CANADIANS.

LONDON, Jan. 6.

(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.) The official gazette announces the award of 22 new Victoria Crosses, of which three recipients, including one Canadian, are dead. They comprise among them six Canadians and Newfoundlanders. The following are the Canadian and Newfoundland recipients with the story of the deed. Captain John McGregor, M.C., D.C.M., of the 2nd Canadian Mounted Rifles Battalion, First Central Ontario Regiment, for the most conspicuous bravery, leadership and self-sacrificing devotion to duty. Near Cambrai his company under an intense fire, and when the advance was checked by machine guns, although he was wounded, he pushed on and located the enemy guns. He then ran forward in broad daylight in the face of heavy fire, from all directions, and with rifle and bayonet single handed, put the enemy gun crews out of action, killing four and making eight prisoners. His prompt action saved many casualties, and enabled the advance to continue. Captain John MacGregor was born in 1858 at Nairn, Scotland, and enlisted in March 1915, at Vancouver, in the 2nd Canadian Mounted Rifles, where he won his commission. By trade he was a carpenter. Others to whom Victoria Crosses were awarded are, Lieut. George Kerr, born in 1894 at Deseronto, enlisted in 1914. By profession he was a chemist. His next of kin is John Kerr at Lynden Ave., Toronto. Lieut. Milton Fowler Greig, Toronto, enlisted in 1912 at Mountain Dale, Scotland, served as a ranker in the 1st Battalion, and transferred to the Imperialists, and then to the Canadian 4th Battalion. By profession he was a school teacher. Next of kin is Elizabeth Greig of Mountaine in Nova Scotia. Lieut. Samuel Honey, born in 1894 at Conn, Ontario, enlisted Feb., 1915, at Walkerton, died of wounds. By profession a school teacher. Originally of the 4th Battalion, he gained his Sergeant's stripes and later his commission. Next of kin, George Honey of Lemonville, Ont. Sergt. William Merrifield, born in Brentwood, England, in 1890. By profession he was a farmer. Next of kin, father, William Merrifield, of Almyer Road, Ottawa, Ont., of Fourth Battalion, Central Ontario Regiment, for the most conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty during the attack near Abancourt, on October 1st, 1918, when his men were held up by an intense fire from two machine gun emplacements. He attacked them both single handed, dashing out of a shell hole he killed the occupants of the first post and although wounded, continued the attack on the second post, and with a bomb killed the occupants. He refused to be evacuated, and led his platoon until again severely wounded. Merrifield served with exceptional distinction on many former occasions, and all through the action of October first showed the highest qualities of valor and leadership.

HERR HARDEN WAXES BITTER.

BERLIN, Jan. 6. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.) Writing in Die Zukunft in connection with Germany's policy of alliances, Maximilian Harden declares that Germany's rulers madly underestimate the strength of that nation in an attempt to maintain the old world system, which had to be either radically transformed or perished. "The Hapsburg system, with its wiles and malice, and Bulgaria's lust for power, and the maldiministration of the Young Turks, were not to be saved," he says. "Germany's Turkish policy was especially faulty. German diplomacy considered the friendship of the Turks as good compensation for the gambling losses Germany suffered for many years and through her attempted rivalry of British naval supremacy, through scotchpan courting to effect Caliph's favor and through the planning of a land route to India." Harden concludes, "Britain's allies may now stalk about as victors, while Germany's companions have all become crippled."

DELAY VEKES SOLDIERS.

LONDON, Jan. 6.

The alleged unsatisfactory manner in which demobilization is being carried out is creating ill feeling among the troops in England. In addition to the troubles at Folkestone, Dover and Osterley, the men in other camps, such as Shoreham, Shortland, Brekenham Grove Park, Spetham and other places are making demands for a revision of the system of demobilization. There has been a good deal of dissatisfaction, particularly among the men of the army service corps, who were transferred from other units, as the corps, to which they are now assigned, will be the last to be demobilized. Men, who had been promised re-employment by their pre-war employers, are anxious to be released, as they fear that their civil positions will be taken before they get out of the army. On the other hand, those of the men, who have been considerable service, are restless, because men who have never been out of the country are obtaining their discharge before the veterans. The soldiers, stationed at Osterley, broke camp this morning as a protest against their transfer from the infantry to the army service corps. They commandeered numerous motor lorries and drove them through London to Whitehall, cheering all the way. They lined up outside the Ministry of Demobilization, while a deputation visited the officials inside. A representative of the Ministry, at the request of the deputation, went to Osterley to investigate the grievances of the men, to whom the promise was given that those who had taken part in the demonstration would not be punished. Several thousand soldiers, stationed at Shoreham, marched to Brighton, to protest against delays in demobilization. A Major addressed them at the Town Hall and promised to communicate their grievances to the War Office. The soldiers thereupon dispersed.

WASTING THE WORD.

TORONTO, Jan. 6.

Vast national and commercial enterprises will spring into existence in the Holy Land, the moment the Peace Conference announces that it has granted the request for the establishment of a Commonwealth in Palestine. Under the trusteeship of Great Britain, declared Robert O. Kesselman, Comptroller of the Palestine Restoration Fund, in an interview to-day, there is on foot now a campaign for raising a supplementary $5,000,000, during the present year for colonizing work in Palestine in the immediate future.

MESOPOTAMIA FOR BRITAIN.

PARIS, Jan. 6.

Supervision of the affairs of Mesopotamia, after the conclusion of Peace, was assigned to Great Britain by a treaty concluded between France and England, concerning the future of Asia-Minor, early in the war. Existence of this treaty only recently has become known publicly, and no previous mention has been made of the important country of Mesopotamia. Under the terms of this treaty France was to assume direction of the destinies of Syria, Lebanon and Armenia Minor (the part of Armenia to the west of Euphrates). Palestine was to be under international protection, while Mesopotamia and portions of the Arabian Peninsula were to be under the supervision of Great Britain. It was settled that the largest possible autonomy would be assured the races and peoples in these countries, and an economical administration and equality of rights were also agreed to.

ESCAPING BY CONIVANCE.

SALONKI, Jan. 6.

The escape of old offenders from prisons in Constantinople and throughout Turkey continues. Several thousands already have been able to obtain their freedom, and the belief is expressed generally that the release of the prisoners is being facilitated by the Turkish authorities, through a desire to terrorize the Greek irredentists.

FRENCH SYMPATHY.

PARIS, Jan. 6.

(Havas.)—When informed of the death of Theodore Roosevelt, today, Stephen Pichon, Foreign Minister, said, "without entering into political matters pertaining to the United States, the death of Mr. Roosevelt must be regretted. He was an eminent and courageous man, inspired with pure patriotism. France shares with the entire American people in the sorrow of his death." M. Pichon cabled his condolences to Mrs. Roosevelt.

Cuba's flag will fly at half mast over all forts, naval vessels, public buildings and military posts on the island until after the funeral of Theodore Roosevelt, in accordance with a decree issued by President Menocal to-night.

BERNSTORFF IN A NEW ROLE.

LONDON, Jan. 6.

Count Von Bernstorff, former German Ambassador to the United States, is working every day at the German Foreign Office, preparing data for the Peace Conference, according to a Berlin despatch to the Express. The Express correspondent, Count Von Bernstorff said that he endorsed the plan for a League of Nations, which he believes to be practical. He said that in it he sees the only way to prevent war by a limitation of armaments. "We entirely agree with Premier Lloyd George, and want to get rid of universal military service," he said. Count Von Bernstorff thinks that the German National Assembly will meet on January 23rd, but he believes that it is unlikely to pass off without trouble. He hopes that the Government will be firm enough to deal with the situation. "They will only have to shoot once," he said, in discussing this subject. "If they think that the former Emperor, COPENHAGEN, Jan. 7.

Berlin is in a state of complete anarchy, and civil war has begun there, according to the Munich correspondent of the Politikon. All the banks are barricaded and a great number of the public buildings are in the hands of the Spartacan or Extreme Radical groups.

WILSON CABLES SYMPATHY.

OYSTER BAY, Jan. 7.

Mrs. Roosevelt received, during the night, a cablegram of sympathy from President Wilson dated Modena which is on the Franco-Italian frontier, reading as follows:—"Pray accept my heartfelt sympathy on the death of your distinguished husband, the news of which has shocked me very much. Woodrow Wilson."

SIMPLE FUNERAL.

OYSTER BAY, N.Y., Jan. 7.

With the burial of Oyster Bay dropped at half mast, and its citizens in deep mourning, over the death, yesterday, of Colonel Roosevelt, arrangements for the unostentatious funeral services here to-morrow were being perfected by members of the family to-day. High in the air over Sagamore Hill, army airplanes from Hateshurst Field maintained a ceaseless vigil, occasionally swooping toward the earth to drop a wreath of laurel among the elms of the Mansion. In accordance with the wishes of the former President as expressed to Mrs. Roosevelt, the obsequies will be of almost Spartan simplicity. There will be no service of prayer to-morrow, at the house, attended only by relatives. At 10.40 o'clock the church service will be read in Christ Church by the Rector, the Rev. Geo. E. Talmage. There will be no music, no eulogy and no honorary pall bearers. The funeral will be in Young's Memorial Cemetery.

The Man of Terror.

Responsible for the execution of hundreds of men and women in Moscow, the man, Jacob Peters, has been identified as the Peters who was suspected of being concerned in the Houndsditch murders in December, 1910, and the Sydney Street affair in January 1911. Peters was born in 1886 in Courland. He came to England in 1909 and secured employment as a presser with a firm of wholesale second-hand clothes dealers in North London. On December 22, 1910, Peters was arrested on suspicion of being concerned with a number of others in the wilful murder of three police officers by shooting them in Houndsditch on Dec. 16. With others he was committed for trial at the April sessions of the Central Criminal Court, 1911. The defence was an "alibi"; it was suggested that Peters was mistaken for his cousin Fritz Svar, who was his double. Svar lost his life in resisting arrest at Sydney Street on January 2, 1911. At the trial the judge said there was an element of doubt in the evidence, and Peters was accordingly acquitted. After his acquittal Peters returned to his employment, where he remained until April, 1917. On May 1 of that year the London Russian Delegates Committee sent him to Russia. Soon after Peters' arrival in Russia he became a Bolshevik. After the November revolution, when the Leninists came to power, Peters occupied a post in the Foreign Office, but it was only lately that he achieved world notoriety as the president of the Committee for Combating Counter Revolution and Sabotage, an organization with unlimited powers for dealing summarily with all those presumed to oppose the Soviet authority. In 1913, Peters married an English girl. Since his departure for Russia he has received several letters from him, the last at the end of last year. She has also heard indirectly about him through returning friends from Russia. Before leaving for England he sent his secretary to Mrs. Peters, offering her a place in the Bolshevik party if she chose, but she refused.—News of the World.

His Fortune in Stamps.

A story is told of a collection of stamps which was sold recently in Paris for 80,000 francs. The owner of the collection is the son of a French banker in Petrograd who, when conditions began to be thoroughly unpleasant in Russia, under the Bolshevik regime, asked leave to return to France. This was granted on condition that he should take only 1,000 francs with him. The sum was somewhat inadequate, but the Frenchman was a man of resource. He bethought himself of his stamp collection, made many years before, and, during his last few days in Russia, he exchanged as many of his personal valuables as possible for stamps. He then left the country, with the regulation 1,000 francs in his pocket, and in his hold-all a stamp album.

ANOTHER GOVERNMENT APPOINTMENT.

The Way the Present Government Has of Saying --- "Those Who Went to Fight For Their Country Were Fools."

The Telegram in its issue of Saturday said there is general unrest throughout the country. There is more than that, for there is a most widespread unrest throughout the country, which may lead to serious consequences. Newfoundlanders have always been credited with being a most appreciable and generous-hearted people, and they are the same to-day. They believe in a square deal, and in treating everybody generously. It would be a great pity to-day, if for the sake of a few self-seeking and ambitious politicians, they should lose their reputation for generosity, but they stand in great danger of doing so, and there is one reason for the feeling of unrest.

This is because they have (and they know it) politicians in command of the country who do not represent them, and who will not rise to their level of what is just and decent. Newfoundlanders are a patriotic people, though the conduct of their politicians during the past four years assumed, and even now would appear to further insult them by assuming that they are not. The Newfoundland public to-day, with its ideals of generosity, is disgusted with the politicians, who by political accident are at its head, and at their scandalous treatment of its sons who went forth to battle for the glory of God and the honour of their country. For their sons have come back, and they ask for bread and they are given a stone by the present incumbents in the Executive Council, and by other Government Heads. This stone may come, however, later, and may be large one so that when it comes down upon the solid ivory domes of our present Political Leaders we may have no further trouble. For their domes must be solid ivory, if they do not see where they are heading for, and the perils into which they would lead our country if they continue their present course.

Last week the G. W. V. A. had to ask that Disabled Returned Soldiers and Sailors be given a chance at positions in the Governmental Services, they are given in all countries, not even excluding the country of the G. W. V. A. instanced three positions given last week to political leaders, who were so healthy that they might be tackling any kind of work, but the Returned Soldier and sailor is to be left to starve in the streets. The incongruity of the situation (without touching at all upon its deplorable callousness) is shown by the Circular sent out to employers of labour, etc., by the Vocational Officer at the request of the Government. This circular reads as follows: "Every employer or business should have a goodly percentage of returned Soldiers and Sailors in their employ. If you have not got a vacancy make one. The Vocational Officer will be pleased to recommend men for any vacancies, and trusts you will advise him of any." The Employers of labour like all true-hearted Newfoundlanders are doing what they can, but what is the Government doing? They are filling in all Governmental jobs as per usual with Government beelers, and about the only returned sailor or soldier who has a chance of getting a job with them is the one who may be a relative of one of the Government Heads.

The Telegram especially mentioned Saturday, unrest on the West Coast. There is great unrest there and it is particularly strong to-day at and around Stephenville Crossing. People there have been fed up for some time with the injustices rampant, and now the last straw has been placed upon their backs. The facts as given us by some of them are as follows: Stephenville Crossing early in the War sent forward a liberal stream of men, many of whom will not now come back, and others of whom are back, or are returning disabled and of no use any more for the fishing boat or the heavy toil. A new Customs job, not requiring great education or ability, has been created in Stephenville Crossing. Naturally anybody who has not been purchased with Hun money would say, we suppose this position would be referred to the Vocational Officer and one of Stephenville Crossing's Veterans appointed. But they would be wrong. We presume that this position was never referred to the Vocational Officer by the Government, any more than are lots of others. A lumber scaler, who has the means of making his necessary livelihood now as heretofore, is appointed to the job. They don't even do anything so glaring or unjust as this in the Land of the Huns.

We are only going to mention one of the Patriotic families in Stephenville Crossing whose members went to France to fight the Huns of Germany. This is the Carter family, well known there and in the city. There were three young men in it, and every one went forth for the honour of Stephenville and us. Tom Carter will never return again, as he lies at rest in France, but it may be he is better off, as he will never know bitter hunger, as it is likely other returned fighters will, if the present regime continues. James Carter has returned with one arm of no further use to him, and John Carter is disabled. We are not mentioning any of the other disabled veterans in Stephenville Crossing, as we consider that this one family will be enough for our generous-hearted public, as facts and striking ones. The veterans think they are deserving of some consideration in the matter of Governmental appointments. All classes and denominations throughout the country have put themselves on record as being in accord with this. It can only be presumed here that the present Government is endeavouring to commit political suicide, though we have other presumptions which will appear later.

Women do not wear long gloves in the evening, but beautiful bracelets are much in evidence. An extremely simple nightgown of flesh silk has bindings of peacock blue satin and a deep yoke.

The Herring Fishery.

The fall herring fishery in Bay of Islands is apparently drawing to a close. Last week the fish did not show up very well from Tuesday to Friday and only small catches were made during those days, particularly along the outer parts of the Arms. On Friday and Saturday the fish showed up very plentiful at the bottom of Penguin and Goose Arms. Yesterday herring were scarce at Middle Arm. On Wednesday there were seven schooners seeking herring cargoes at Middle Arm, and two at Benoit's Cove. Those at Middle Arm were: Aviator, Joseph Parker, John J. Fallon, Regina, Imperator, Nellie Dixon, Salsadin. Since then two of them have sailed. Those at Benoit's Cove were: Elizabeth N. T. M. Nicholson. The former required about 75 barrels to finish, and the latter about 350.

Two or three vessels are expected for frozen cargoes. Should they fail to arrive, the voyage will close when the vessels now in Bay of Islands have secured their cargoes. Some of the Scotch method packers have finished for the season; others will continue while weather conditions permit and fish are to be had. The "Scotch" pack in Bay of Islands to date is estimated at between ten and twelve thousand barrels. At Bonne Bay the catch has been a small one, and the same applies to Hall's Bay, so in all that pack will be considerably short of what it was last year—Western Star, Dec. 31.

Prof. Hatch, of the Reid Nfld. Company's Natural Resources Dept., was in Curling a few days last week, and returned to the coal operations at South Branch by Sunday night's train. A track is being built from the trunk line of railway to the workings. The diamond drill being installed will soon be in operation which will enable extensive borings at the coal seams. Another lot of coal from there was brought to Curling last week to be tested for Domestic purposes, and is proving most satisfactory.—Western Star.

Our Coal.

Forgetting how to figure in "regular money" and learning how to calculate in "this doggone stuff" is one of the first worries of the Canadian soldiers in France. "Regular money" is good dollars and cents, nickels, dimes and quarters. "This doggone stuff" is the name applied to French francs, usually paper money, often as low as single francs, or twenty cents, for most small cities have issued local small change currency. The soldiers do not like French paper money. They say it is trash, and tears, and is hard to count. On the other hand, the French are shocked when a soldier crumples French paper up and shoves it in his pocket the "way they do back home." French money is to be handled in big pocket-books and not crumpled. "Look at some real money once," Tommy told a merchant, and flashed a bright new silver certificate. When he crumpled it up in his fist to show "real money can be used" the Frenchman almost fainted.

Real Money.

Jimmie Got a Raise. A merchant, while engaged in the office the other morning, discovered that he had left his pocketknife at home and as he needed one urgently he asked the different clerks, but none of them happened to have one. Finally the errand boy, walked in and the merchant called him, asking if he was able to produce the desired article. Jimmy handed over his knife. "How is it Jimmy, that you alone out of my entire staff seem to have a pocket-knife with you?" smiled the proprietor, eyeing Jimmy with undiminished admiration. "Dunno, sir," replied the youth, "unless it's because my wages are so low that I can't afford more'n one pair of trousers."

Household Notes

Some women should always wear the collar high in the back no matter what the fashion. A frock of violet burella has a square neck, a linen girdle and is altogether rather scant. One most beautiful cape was of sapphire blue satin banded deeply with old-blue broadcloth. Gold slippers may be worn with black hose when this combination is in harmony with the gown. The fans have abandoned curled ostrich and select, incurled ostrich mounted on amber to compose themselves.

No other remedy will so surely and quickly correct stomach ailments, regulate the liver and improve the general health as a dose of Beecham's Pills. Largest Sale of any Medicine in the World. Sold everywhere, in boxes, 25c.

ETHIE FROM THE NORTH. The S. S. Ethie, Capt. E. English, reached Curling, December 31st, from north. The ship got as far as Flower's Cove, but found heavy ice in the straits. Residents on the coast stated that about seventy-five miles of ice had passed through the Straits of Belle Isle the past couple of weeks or so. Many of the harbours are frozen over, but the Ethie made all ports. Sunday was a very stormy day on the coast. The ship goes north again, and should the winds continue off shore she will likely reach Port Saunders.—Western Star.

Women do not wear long gloves in the evening, but beautiful bracelets are much in evidence. An extremely simple nightgown of flesh silk has bindings of peacock blue satin and a deep yoke.

Capt. Burke's Gratitude.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Through the columns of your widely circulated journal, I desire to thank one who, when we needed it most, treated us, my crew and myself, with the greatest of kindness and consideration. As you may remember, our ship was captured by a German submarine on August, 1918, and having been five hours aboard the undersea boat, during which time the Germans removed considerable of our cargo, we were all put aboard our boat, a tiny affair, and set adrift by our captors. This was Saturday night, at seven o'clock, on the same date. At 4 p.m. the following Tuesday, when 3 1/2 miles off White Island, Nova Scotia, when in a terrible condition with the big waves sweeping over us, and two men working hard at baling our boat out, we were sighted by the s.s. Stanley, which bore down upon us, and took us aboard. I have no doubt, Sir, but that they were just in time for we were all in a pretty bad condition, half drowned, and fainting from fatigue. Capt. Rowe, of the Stanley treated us, as I have said, with every possible kindness; gave us food, drinks, and warm clothing, and although he was bound a considerable distance away from there, he went out of his course to land us at Isaac's Harbor, N.S., where he delayed to secure boarding houses and to do other kindnesses for us, such as few other captains would ever do. You may know, Sir, what it meant for him to go out of his course for our sakes, and it is because of this that I, on behalf of myself and crew, are so appreciative of his great kindness, and wish to express the hope that our Government recognize Capt. Rowe in some way or other, as such chivalry of the sea should not go unrewarded.

Yours truly,
(Capt.) BURKE.

C. M. B. C. Lecture.

Last evening the first of a series of lectures on Church History, was delivered to the C.M.B.C. at the Synod Hall by the chairman of the class Rev. J. Brinton. The lecture was fairly well attended and His Excellency the Governor accompanied by Capt. Campbell, A.D.C., Sir William and Lady Horwood, and His Lordship Bishop White were present. His Lordship opened the lecture and referred to the great importance of the subject, especially as at this time when so many people are thinking that a new religion is possible that will be accepted by all, and also because the great question of Church Reunion is so much talked about. Rev. Mr. Brinton, in his lecture started with the Celtic church. He showed pictures illustrative of the Roman invasion of Britain, Stonehenge and the age of Druidism, the capture of Caracatus and the results upon the Christianity of Britain, different churches built in the early days in England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland. From an archaeological viewpoint the picture representing St. Mary's Church in Dover Castle was perhaps the most interesting, this building being the oldest in the British Isles, having been built some 1,500 years ago. Another very interesting picture for archaeologists was the church in Cornwall, which had only its tower visible, the body of the church being covered in sand. The remarks of the lecturer and the lantern slides were evidences that the church was planted in Britain before the coming of St. Augustine 597. He showed how British Bishops had attended a Council at Arles in 314 A.D. and the Council of Constantinople 381 A.D. After coming to the landing of St. Augustine, the lecture was discontinued until next Monday night when the second part will be given. His Excellency the Governor spoke a few words of appreciation and pleasure at having heard the lecture, and His Lordship the Bishop then spoke of the interest and enthusiasm of Mr. Brinton in spreading the knowledge of our church history, and invited those present to bring their friends next time. Mr. Somerton sang a solo, his accompanist being Mr. Stafford. The lantern was manipulated by Mr. Gray and the singing of the National Anthem closed the meeting.

Medals From Captured Guns.

The large number of guns captured by our troops from the Germans are to be shown in all the towns of England. The most imposing array of them will be in London, in the great room leading from the Admiralty to Buckingham Palace. There, some 600 captured guns will be on view. Many of the guns we have captured in the past have been melted down and made into enduring monuments of our soldiers' heroism. The famous Guards' Memorial group, in Waterloo Palace, London, is made from Russian guns captured at Sebastopol.

Phoenix Park, Dublin, is made of guns captured at Waterloo. The statue of Lord Gough in Dublin is made of old Chinese captured guns.

The top of the column of Nelson in Trafalgar Square is made of the bronze from French guns, as also is the memorial to the Duke of Wellington, the Achilles Statue, at Hyde Park Corner.

Many of the lamp standards on London and Waterloo bridges are made from cannon captured by British troops at Waterloo and in Spain.

The Victoria Cross is made out of the guns captured at Sebastopol. Will any of the metal captured German guns ever be converted into medals for our heroes? History alone will tell.

The Woman That Won't Flinch.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

When you hear the word "pride" do you think of something good or something bad?

According to the dictionary you may have either concept, for its first definition is "inordinate self-esteem" and its second, "a sense of one's own worth and abhorrence of what is beneath or unworthy of one."

I love that second meaning. I prefer to use the word in that sense, and I love all the manifestations of that sort of pride.

The Pride That Will Not Show Jealousy.

One especially fine manifestation has come to my attention and won my admiration lately. I refer to the sort which upholds a woman whose husband is making a fool of himself with another woman and keeps her from showing any sign of jealousy either to him or to outsiders.

A very charming woman of about forty was staying last summer at the little Inn we sometimes frequent. She was the sort of woman who has always been a chum to her husband, and an operation the previous winter had made her unable to join in his pleasures. This was presumably merely a temporary condition and one in no way her fault, and one would think he did that one.

She would be especially tender and considerate. And perhaps he might have had there not happened to be staying at the Inn a married woman of the conscientious and acquisitive type. She went after the husband and she got him. He was constantly walking, riding and talking with her, and he even met her at the City for lunch. She was just as serene in manner as ever.

The wife knew perhaps not everything, but a great deal and yet she never showed her feelings by the quiver of an eye lash. She grew a little thinner and paler but she was just as sweet, just as gracious, just as serene as ever. And I never admired a woman as I do her. We have all come into contact with the woman who is utterly unable to hide her suffering and her rage at such treatment, from the public. And one does not dare blame her, one only pities intensely.

May She Have Her Reward—She Deserves More.

But the very fact that jealousy can force such exhibitions from even well bred women, makes one admire the exceptional woman who will not let the world see her flinch.

Three cheers and a tiger for her, I say, and may her courage receive its reward in the winning back of her husband's love (if she still wants it, —how can she?)

Milady's Boudoir.

Headaches are a foe to beauty that should be most carefully guarded against, even though the long train of beauty ills following dull lifeless eyes, lack of color, an unbecoming expression and, what is almost more to be deplored than anything else, wrinkles, can all be caused by headaches.

If you have been in the country for a long tramp and feeling particularly virtuous because you have been doing something for your health, it is decidedly annoying suddenly to find your head aching with a most unbearable throbbing. However, this kind of headache is very simply remedied. Your shoes are unquestionably to blame.

If the heel is too high or too narrow, or the sole is not broad enough, they will not only strain the muscles of your feet but throw out of balance the internal organs of the body. Of course, the cure for this form of headache is to get more sensible shoes. Strip off your stockings and bathe your feet in hot water in which two teaspoonfuls of some invigorating bath powder has been dissolved. Don't forget that your diet has a great deal to do with your clearness of head, and no amount of foot baths or massages will overcome an upset stomach and its inevitable revenge—a headache.

NOT TO BE FLATTERED.

We've come from the mud and the dirt and the slime of it. Out of the blood and the hurt and the crime of it. Some of us limping on crutches, and some minus an eye or an arm or a thumb. More or less shattered by shrapnel and battered. Still for all that we don't want to be flattered.

We've known the click of the steel and the brunt of it—Heard and grown sick of the squeal at the front of it; Wallowed in blood that our comrades had shed; Carried the wounded and buried the dead; Bullets have splattered around us and clattered. Still for all that we don't want to be flattered.

While with a song or cheer we all went over. Many as strong waited here to be sent over; They would have shared each triumphant advance—Suffered and died; they yearned for the chance. Fate sent us to it, but now that we're through it, Cheer us a little, but don't over do it.

Our Army of Occupation.

What the Allied Troops in Germany May Do.

The Allied Army which, in accordance with the terms of the armistice, occupies the Rhineland, of Germany, will behave in a very different way than if it had invaded it fighting.

An army of occupation is bound by definitely laid down rules of International Law, and these rules cover almost every emergency which might arise.

One of the first rules laid down is that the Commander-in-Chief of the army of occupation cannot compel any of the inhabitants to take an oath of allegiance to his King. The Germans in the Rhineland will, however, be expected to help the British and French armies in every way they are asked, except war work of any kind, and to obey any reasonable orders that may be given to them.

We Shall Collect Taxes.

None of the ordinary civil laws will be altered in the occupied German territory, and if a Hun commits a crime that is not a war crime, he will be punished in his own law courts, which will carry on much as though there were no army of occupation at all.

If he commits any crime against our troops, however, as for example, attempting to shoot a soldier or assault him, he will be dealt with by one of our military courts and not by his own judges.

Marshal Foch, or whoever he appoints to control the occupied territory, will take over the financial affairs of the Rhineland. He will appoint officials to collect all the proper taxes already in force, and after he has paid the expenses of collection to the officials and so on, he can use what remains for the British and French troops.

But if he collects local taxes, such as the poor rate, for example, he must not take any part of it for the use of the army, but use it for the purposes for which it is collected. Only State taxes, such as the tobacco tax, can be taken by the army of occupation legitimately.

In Churches and Schools.

As a rule, the country's own officials are told to carry on and collect the taxes, instead of new ones being appointed.

The Allied armies will take over the administration of all means of transport, public and private, in the Rhineland. All railways, motor lorries, horse and canal traffic will be under their control, as well as the telegraphs and telephones. A German may, if he likes, send a private telegram, however, so long as the wires are not being used by the military. One of the most stringent laws which is laid down for an army of occupation is that it shall allow absolute freedom of worship; but, on the other hand, the clergy must not make any reference from their pulpits to incite their congregations against the troops.

Marshal Foch, too, will allow all schools to carry on just as though the Allied troops weren't there, but here again the teachers must not say anything against the Allied troops.

Hun Newspapers.

The Germans in the occupied territories will not be allowed to communicate with the German Government in Berlin save for peaceful purposes. They are not allowed to take any orders from Berlin except those of which Marshal Foch approves, or they are liable to be shot at once.

One of the strictest laws about occupied territory applies to the press. Marshal Foch is allowed to suspend any press laws he likes, suppress any German newspaper he likes in the occupied territory, and limit the circulation of any he allows to be published. He will probably order, for this is the usual custom, that one or more copies of every newspaper shall be read in proof by the Allied army authorities before it is published.

As long as the Huns refrain from hostile acts, however, the life of an ordinary civilian in the occupied country under the Allies will not be very different from when it was unoccupied. He won't be quite so free in his movements, that is all.—Pearson's Weekly.

Oh, say young year, I'm glad you're here, so full of hopeful promise! The 19 years we've had were pretty bad, and punk, so help me Thomas. I look behind and to my mind there comes a hateful vision; I look ahead and feel no dread—the prospects are Elysian. Oh, blithe '19 I wot and ween, and wist and bet a shiner, no year on earth since Adam's birth has had a send-off finer. For years we've heard the dreary word of blood and smoke and battle, and in our dreams heard dying screams, and bones of dead men rattle. And it appeared, and all men feared that war would last forever, and evermore we'd hear of gore and murderous endeavour. But now we cheer the bright new year that is not charged with sighing, that brings no threat of fields blood wet, and hero soldiers dying. New year, brave year, I'm glad you're here, I am as glad as any; oh, may your stay be always gay, and may your months be many!

Salvaging Torpedoed Ships.

Valuable Food that Will now be Recovered.

The big marine salvage companies, not only in England, but in all the Allied countries and Germany, are making preparations to raise the hundreds of ships which have been sunk by mines and torpedoes during the war.

The greater part of the ships sunk in water that is shallow enough to allow salvage operations to be carried out successfully. Of course, any perishable goods will, long before they are raised, have rotted away, but there are thousands of tons of tinned foods, for example, which will be undamaged by their long immersion. Many of the cargoes of perishable food-stuffs were protected against the action of sea water in case they were sunk. Practically all the tea that is coming into the country, for example, has been packed in special double-leaded cases, and so most of it will be quite fit when raised from the sea.

Thousands of tons of cotton have, of course, been lost round our coasts, and most of it will be usable again. The total value of the cargoes which are anticipated will be raised and fit for sale runs into many millions. This does not include the value of the ships themselves, which after dry docking and repairing will be once more sailing the seas as in pre-war days.

ROOSEVELT'S DEATH GENERALLY LAMENTED.

Spartacus Group Seize Berlin Newspapers---British Cabinet Resigns.

GERMAN ARMY CEASE TO EXIST.

BASEL, Jan. 6. (Havas).—Germany is about to be a diplomatic and military mess against the Bolshevik Government, according to a German wire statement received here to-day. The official message says, "The advance of the Bolshevik and the presence in Berlin of M. Radek (a Bolshevik emissary) have brought about a diplomatic state of war with Russia and a military state of war with Germany. Germany, faced with the necessity, not for the purpose of pleasing the Entente, but of protecting her own interests, must behave energetically by taking domestic and military measures."

also in this instance, namely, that under the South Africa constitution the South African Government and Parliament alone can be regarded by the British Government as authorized to speak on behalf of the people of South Africa. His Majesty's government, therefore, said, Mrs. Long, could not undertake to enter into a discussion with any private body or persons.

ROOSEVELT'S DEATH SHOCKS CAPITOL.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6. The death of Colonel Roosevelt stirred and shocked the capitol. Universal regret at the passing of a great figure in the nation's life was evident on every hand. Profound sorrow was shown by the many who knew the former President personally and his political friends and antagonists joined in expressing admiration for the man. The announcement was cabled to President Wilson as soon as it reached the White House. The Supreme Court prepared to adjourn and leaders in Congress were called together to discuss adjournment of both Houses and the sending of an official delegation to the funeral.

LONDON, Jan. 6. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—The movement of the South African Nationalists under General Hertzog, their separate representation at peace conference, has been discredited by the Imperial Government. General Buxton has informed the South African Nationalists that his recent resolution, favoring the patch of separate delegations to cope with a view of securing the African independence, was laid before King George, who also referred it to his advisers, but refrained from giving any direction in connection with it. Right Hon. Walter H. H. Wood, the Colonial Secretary, in communicating this information to the Premier General, adds that the Imperial Government's reply last April the Transvaal manifesto applies

BURIED TO-MORROW.

OYSTER BAY, Jan. 6. The hour for the Roosevelt funeral was officially announced to-day as 12.45 p.m. Wednesday at Christ Episcopal Church here. At the request of Mrs. Roosevelt the funeral will be private. He will be buried at Young's Memorial Cemetery, Oyster Bay, in a plot selected by the Colonel and his wife shortly after he left the White House. Walter Roosevelt, cousin of the Colonel, in announcing the arrangements as thus far fixed, said that Mrs. Roosevelt's desire was that her husband be buried as a private citizen.

BRITISH CABINET RESIGNED.

TOTAL AMOUNT OF ASSESSMENTS.

OTTAWA, Jan. 6. The total amounts of assessments made under the business profits tax act to date is over fifty-eight million dollars of which over fifty-four million dollars have been collected. It is estimated that by the end of the present fiscal year about sixty-five million dollars will be realized. This is more than double the estimate made in the budget speech in which the business profits tax was introduced.

PADEBIEWSKI IN POLAND.

WARSAW, Jan. 6. Ignace Jan Paderewski left for Cracow to-night in order to talk with the Austro-Polish peasantry. He said he had already seen the Russian and German Poles and that to-day notwithstanding his illness the necessary long trip and many speeches he had visited General Pilsudski, the military leader. He found Pilsudski unshaken in his determination to retain his present cabinet. The General told Paderewski that he thought the retention of the present government was best for the time. It was his ambition, General Pilsudski added to make the Government succeed until the elections and then "I will serve the people with the utmost fidelity."

COBLENZ, Jan. 4. Eighty-eight German cannon surrendered in accordance with terms of the armistice were rejected to-day by the United States receiving commission. The Americans contended that the guns were of old metals and did not meet the requirements.

MAGNIFICENT WORK OF MINE LAYERS.

LONDON, Jan. 5. (British Wireless Service).—Sir Eric Geddes, First Lord of the Admiralty, describes the men of the 20th British mine layer flotilla as some of the bravest and pluckiest of the British Navy. Sir Eric said that night after night British mine layer submarines had to proceed through the great German mine fields off Heligoland to discover channels through which German boats left and returned to their base. The British, however, had blocked these channels with mines. During the first six months of 1918, Sir Eric added, more than one hundred German submarines were caught in the trap mines. "On one occasion," said Sir Eric, four of our flotilla going into Heligoland. Eight were observed by six German outposts which were leaving. Our boats by subterfuge got inside and laid their mines and on the return journey mopped up all six of the German boats and took their crews prisoners. Our mine barrier across the channel below Ostend trapped seventeen German submarines in one month."

FRENCH RIVERS OVERFLOW.

PARIS, Jan. 4. The persistent rains have caused a general rise in all the rivers. The Seine is constantly swelling and has risen to a degree that is considered dangerous. The quays and suburbs of Paris are under water and navigation has almost ceased. Despatches from the provinces report that the Rhine is over its banks and the plains in the region of Avignon are inundated. The rainfall is continuing.

POLES SEIZE AIRBORNE.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 6. The airbase at Lwów, near the city of Posen, was stormed on Sunday by Polish troops, according to a despatch from Posen. The German garrison and all the airplanes were captured after a fight.

WHAT WILSON DESIRES.

PARIS, Jan. 5. "It is not difficult to divine," says the Temps in an editorial, "that President Wilson desires an equitable arrangement between the Italians and Jugoslavians and between Italians and Czechs, but even when he has mentioned the burning word, Balkans he has never departed from his smiling cordiality and courteous reserve. Our comments, therefore, should observe the same discretion that he has shown in his remarks."

AUSTRIA'S FUTURE.

BERNE, Jan. 6. Baron Houtp, the new Austrian Minister here, told the Associated Press to-day that sentiment in Austria is about evenly divided between the desire to join Germany or to remain an independent republic. He said there is a possibility that a majority would favor the latter, in which case a Danube federation is possible, with arrangements for economic relations and with laws such as generally are enacted on a confederation of states.

WILSON'S JOURNEY.

MILAN, Jan. 5. President Wilson journeyed from Rome to Milan to-day stopping at Genoa en route. There he was greeted by hundreds of thousands of the people who fought and scrambled to be near him as he passed through the dense crowds. Before leaving Genoa, President Wilson laid a wreath at the base of the statue of Columbus and standing bareheaded in a driving rain made a short address.

POLES MENACING GERMANY.

BERLIN, Jan. 5. Polish troops have occupied the railway station at Chroschnik, four miles from Bentschen, and have sent an ultimatum to the German commander in the latter place demanding that he surrender, according to the Tageblatt. The capture of Bentschen by the Polish army would be most serious for Berlin and all of northern Germany.

MAKING IT DIFFICULT.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 6. The evacuation of the Ukraine by the Germans is proving extremely difficult, according to a Berlin official dispatch. Some of the remnants of the Kiev army group, it is said, have abandoned important stretches of the railway, thus endangering the lives of their comrades. It is declared that the lack of discipline which has existed for some time past has now become a source of danger to the German troops.

Murder On Christmas Day.

Where December 25th Does Not Bring "On Earth Peace, Good Will Towards Men."

Christmas Day is a day of peace generally in most European countries, but in Craoow and Warsaw, two cities of Russian Poland, it was before the war regarded as the bounden duty of certain classes of the people to fight on that day.

The custom originated in 1863 when some of the Poles went to church on December 25th, dressed in long black garments. This was in memory of certain revolutionaries, known as the "October Martyrs," who were killed in a futile rising of that month.

In solemn procession the black-robed figures, men and women, attend church. There always follows a fight between them and the authorities.

Morocco, the scene of many brutal outrages, has also its trouble at this time. They have always looked upon Christmas as more or less a time of extra freedom in rioting and quarrelling.

The Jews are generally the chief sufferers, though the mob is ready to fight anybody or anything. At Teza, for example, some years ago, the forces of the Sultan were defeated with a loss of seventeen guns. Thousands of people were killed in that riot.

Set Fire to a Lady's Costume.

Religious strikes are more often than not the cause of Christmas troubles. In Santiago, the capital of Chile, December 25th, is the day when the clericals and the anti-clericals wipe off old sores. The origin of this is as follows: In December, 1863, a festival was held in the cathedral in honour of the Virgin Mary. The vast church was lighted with thousands of wax candles, and the walls were covered with filmy draperies.

The congregation, chiefly women, were attired in long, white, loose dresses. Dozens of acolytes were passing up and down swinging silver lamps and burning incense. One of the incense candles accidentally set fire to a lady's costume.

The distracted woman rushed madly to and fro in her agonies and in an instant hundreds in the cathedral were involved. The decorations of the church caught fire, and in less than ten minutes the whole interior was a raging inferno. Nearly two thousand people perished.

The priests were blamed by the people, and many of them were murdered. The clerical party were not backward in retaliating, and since then a fierce vendetta has been waged each succeeding Christmas.

Kings in Exile.

Abdication is Nothing New. It is true that never in all history has there been such a wholesale resignation on the part of crowned heads as in 1918.

We have seen the Tsar of Russia murdered the King of Bulgaria abdicate. The Kaiser has gone and the Austrian monarch. Practically all the smaller German Royalties have abdicated, and republics are springing up like mushrooms all over the Continent of Europe.

At the same time, abdication is not unprecedented by any means. In our own country we have at least two ex-monarchs, ex-King Manoel of Portugal and the ex-Empress Eugenie of France.

The Archduke Johann of Austria, son of the Emperor Francis Joseph, and the Princess Pauline of Wurtemberg are two Austro-German Royalties who, having married beneath them, gave up all claim to royal privileges.

The Terror of Turkey.

Otto, King of Bavaria, who had been insane for forty years, was deposed in 1913.

The Grand Duke Michael of Russia married in 1901 the Countess Sophie Nuremberg, and was in consequence deprived of all privileges of Russian Royalty. He and his family still live in England.

Then there was the Maharajah Dhuleep Singh who was "requested" to leave his Indian principality and take up his residence in England.

Abdul Hamid, the Terror of Turkey, was deposed some years before the war, and in 1909 Serbia which had previously witnessed the abdication of King Milan, believed to be the wickedest king in Europe, saw the formal renunciation of the crown by the Crown Prince George.

The forced abdication of "Tino" of Greece is very recent history. He now lives in Switzerland.

It is worth remembering that the predecessor of the Emperor Francis Joseph, King Ferdinand I. voluntarily renounced the Austrian throne in the year 1848.
