THE young ladies of Utopia Bible Class of the Watford Methodist church have in the past six months knit eighty pairs of socks for soldiers in the trenches.

A LADY subscriber stopped the Ailsa Craig Banner because the editor wouldn't let her edit the paper for him. Wonder if she would let him go into her home and tell her how to arrange the furniture or what to cook for dinner. Just as reasonable a proposition.

The members of the Methodist Sunday School will render a specially prepared patriotic service entitled "His Dominion" in commemoration of Canada's Golden Jubilee 1867-1917, next Sunday, July 1st, at 2:30 in the schoolroom. The public are cordially invited to attend.

KEEP off the boulevards. It's exasperating to spend money and time putting these in shape and then have the fibre of days destroyed by carelessness. Those who cause the trouble should be made pay for the damage, particularly so if destruction could be prevented by care and the practice of common sense.

To prevent any possibility of serious anti-conscription riots in any part of Ontario, especially in foreign-speaking districts, the Provincial Police are warning dealers in firearms that they will be held in "strict accountability" for weapons sold, and to whom they are sold, and provincial laws regarding records and reports to Superintendent Provincial Police must be observed to the letter.

POSTMASTERS are instructed not to forward letters to or from certain fortune-tellers and certain race tipsters in the United States. They are not to issue money orders payable to the parties mentioned in the following circulars going through in the mails from two persons in Toledo, Ohio, and racing tip circulars from two parties in Brooklyn, N.Y.

In future a warning to parents as to their duties to the provinces in the matter of registering the birth of a child will be printed in bold type and red letters on all marriage licenses issued by the province. The novel idea is part of a plan which is being put into effect by the vital statistics branch to secure a more complete registration of births.

THE DUKE OF DEVONSHIRE, govern- or-general of Canada, has issued a proclamation, setting Sunday, July 1st, apart as a day of prayer and intercession for the cause of the Allies. The date is considered particularly appropriate, as it marks the 50th anniversary of confederation. It is expected that the Watford churches will hold special services appropriate to the day.

THE many Watford friends of Mrs. Ford, the estimable wife of Rev. W. J. Ford, formerly pastor of the Methodist church here, will regret to hear of her death which occurred at her home in Glencoe last Friday. The aged lady never fully recovered from the fall she had many months ago when she fractured her hip. Rev. Mr. Ford has the sympathy of a large number of people of all denominations in his trouble.

THE services in the Presbyterian church at Watford and Knox church, Warwick, next Sunday morning and afternoon will be specially devoted to Thanksgiving for fifty years of peace and prosperity as confederated provinces in the Dominion of Canada, and prayer for future guidance and blessing. Suitable music and decorations are being provided for the occasion. The subject of the address will be "Canada and Fifty Years of Blessings."

THE DETROIT NEWS of Saturday says: "Miss Alma Glock of the Detroit Conservatory of Music, will present Miss Helen Melville and Clarence Cooke in the green room of the Hotel Pontchartrain Tuesday evening. They will be assisted by Miss Bina Kellie, soprano."

The Clarence Cooke mentioned is a Watford boy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cooke, Sr. His many friends in town will be glad to hear that he is forging to the front as a pianist. The paper prints a picture of Mr. Cooke.

WATFORD will stand comparison with any town of its size in the matter of well-kept gardens. Some of them are most attractive to the eye and will be a source of considerable profit later on. There is hardly a resident who has not some little garden patch in his back yard, and in some instances lawns have been converted into well cultivated vegetable plots. Considering the handicap of heavy clay in many gardens the results are flattering to the owners.

JULY meeting of Tecumseh Chapter I.O.D.E. will be held on the lawns of Miss Adams and Mrs. Bennet with Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Baird assisting hostesses. The meeting will take the form of a picnic and every member please bring two or three friends with her. There will be a good program and picnic luncheon. Silver collection taken for soldiers comforts and should the weather be unfavorable the meeting will be held in the Armories. Please remember date and hour, July 3rd at 3.30 p.m.

LAST Saturday's Globe had a picture of Colonel Shrapnel, the inventor of the deadly instrument being used with much telling effect in the present war. Col. Shrapnel was born in Wiltshire, Eng., in 1761, and his invention, the shrapnel shell, was accepted by the British Government in 1803. W. H. Shrapnell, principal of the Watford public school, is a great grandson of Col. Shrapnel.

During the flight of years an extra letter 'l' has become attached to the name, hence the difference in the spelling.

THE sacred concert in the Lyceum on Sunday evening, given under the auspices of members of Tecumseh Chapter, E. L. E., was well attended and the program presented a varied and meritorious one. It included anthems by a large choir of picked voices, a children's chorus, solos, duets and instrumental selections. The massed choir was conducted by Mr. F. K. Matthews. Reeve Knawer, president. The object of the concert was to raise funds to purchase comforts for our soldiers. The collection amounted to a little over $37.

She leaves a family of five daughters and one son, namely, Mrs. Lloyd, in Manitoba; Mrs. S. Young, North Bay; Mrs. Metzler, Minneapolis; Miss Nora W. Toronto; Miss Janet, Watford, and Richard of the Canadian Engineers at St. Johns, Que. Her husband predeceased her in August, 1913. The remains were brought here Monday and service was held in Trinity church by Rev. S. P. Irwin. Interment in Watford cemetery. The pallbearers were J. F. Elliot, D. Roche, R. Brock, J. Glass, J. H. Hume and W. Kelber.

THE management of the Western Fair, London, Ontario, September 7th to 15th, are adding $2,000 to their prize list this year. This amount has been carefully distributed throughout the list and will make it very attractive. The exhibition has reached its fifth year, and every effort is being put forth to make this the best ever held in London. This exhibition has the reputation of being one of the best agricultural exhibitions in Canada, and this year will certainly be no exception to the rule. Live stock exhibits and exhibitors will do well to send their very best stock to London. A win there is sure to prove of very great benefit as there are always plenty of buyers. Prize Lists, entry forms and all other information on application to the Secretary, A. M. Hunt, London, Ont.

THE Canadian Order of Foresters at its meeting in the city last week considered the question of increased rates until its next annual meeting. Mr. J. A. Stewart, of Perth, who has been High Chief Ranger, for fourteen consecutive years, declined to accept a nomination for reelection this year. Mr. Stewart has appointed an accepted committee of five to prepare a special committee to prepare a new plan of adjustment for consideration at the annual meeting next year. This committee is composed of J. A. Stewart, Perth; T. W. Gibson, Toronto; G. T. Graham, Toronto; W. E. Dowling, Ottawa; A. E. Bissonnette, Montreal; J. E. Collier, B. Smith and I. J. Kadey represented Court Lorne of Watford at the Hamilton meeting.

THE REV. F. G. ROBINSON bid farewell to the Methodist congregation here on Sunday last and left on Thursday for his new appointment at Granston. During his stay in town his family met many friends among all denominations and their leaving is much regretted. The remodelling of the church building under his supervision on plans of his own designing, by which the auditorium was raised, a basement schoolroom added, and the interior refurbished and beautified, was one of his first acts after coming here, and the handsome church now owned by the congregation will be the means of keeping Mr. Robinson's memory green in the district for many years to come. The Rev. A. C. Tiffin, of London, takes charge here and will conduct his first services in the circuit next Sunday.

Q. P. Collection

School now being over for the summer months the Q. P. Club wish to solicit the aid of the people of Watford and vicinity in gathering another carload of papers to be sold for patriotic purposes. Having met with splendid success in their late endeavor they hope for even a more liberal response. They have attempted to canvass the town asking for special attention to the three classes of paper—(1) newspapers, (2) high grade magazines, (3) scrap, including flattened cardboard boxes. Their next collection will take place on Thursday, July 5th. Kindly have your papers gathered and tied for the collectors.

A Woodstock druggist has been fined $100 for selling opium to a Chinaman.

WOMAN AVOIDS OPERATION

Medicine Which Made Surgeon's Work Unnecessary.

Astoria, N. Y. — "For two years I was feeling ill and took all kinds of tonics. I was getting worse every day. I had chills, my head would ache, I was always tired. I could not walk straight because of the pain in my back and I had pains in my stomach. I went to a doctor and he said I must go under an operation, but I did not go. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told my husband about it. I said 'I know nothing will help me but I will try this.' I found myself improving from the very first bottle, and in two weeks time I was able to sit down and eat a hearty breakfast with my husband, which I had not done for two years. I am now in the best of health and did not have the operation." — Mrs. JOHN A. KOENIG, 502 Flushing Avenue, Astoria, N. Y.

Every one dreads the surgeon's knife and the operating table. Sometimes nothing else will do; but many times doctors say they are necessary when they are not. Letter after letter comes to the Pinkham Laboratory, telling how operations were advised and were not performed; or, if performed, did no good, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was used and good health followed.

If you want advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (Confidential), Lynn, Mass.

Use for Hospital Supplies After War

Of the many words of wisdom that emanate from Mrs. Jean Blewett, the noted writer, none to a greater degree "hit the nail on the head" than a few she has penned on her own page of this month's Everywoman's World. She suggests that when the war is over some of the hospital appointments and accessories that will in all likelihood be left unused, be donated to equip hospitals in out-of-the-way places throughout Canada. Her concluding words are:

"Now, when victory is ours, and whiterobed peace goes softly through the land, there is going to be an embarrassment of riches in the way of hospital equipment. Never in the history of the world has there been such quantity, such quality. When the last wounded hero is well enough to walk out of the last military hospital, think of the unused linen, the sheets, pillows! Think of the beds, the chairs! Think of all the up-to-date equipment there is going to be! Surely the real philanthropists will see to it that of this unparalleled supply enough is reserved to furnish a hospital wherever a hospital is needed.

A California woman has patented an apparatus that simplifies the examination of paper money under magnifying glass.

Dressing the high-speed steel with a portable grinding-stone which makes 500 revolutions a minute is a new branch of munition work of English women.

Pills That Have Benefited Thousands.—Known far and near as a sure remedy in the treatment of indigestion and all derangements of the stomach, liver and kidneys, Farmelee's Vegetable Pills have brought relief to thousands when other specifics have failed. Innumerable testimonial can be produced to establish the truth of this assertion. Once tried they will be found superior to all other pills in treatment of the ailments for which they are prescribed.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It is estimated by the authorities that allowing for exemptions and ineligible there are about 450,000 Canadians available for services in the ten classes formed by the conscription bill. It is believed that the first three classes should be able to furnish the 100,000 or more; in fact it is estimated that three classes should furnish 125,000 men, over and above exemption and ineligible. The first three classes consist of unmarried men and widowers with no children between the ages of 20 and 34 inclusive.

As an inducement to returned soldiers to take up agriculture, the Ontario Government will pay $1.10, the rate paid to men serving overseas, for every day spent at Monteith training farm and after graduating each man will be given 80 acres of land in Northern Ontario. In case of married men, the Government will also pay a separation allowance of $20 a month to the wife or mother, and $6 a month for each child under 16 years of age. At present there are 30 men taking a course of agriculture at Monteith and many more applications are being received daily.

Providence Journal.—With the crusade against waste of food materials appealing both to patriotism and ordinary economic good sense, it is instructive to recall the remark of the millionaire mustard manufacturer, that he did not accumulate his fortune from the mustard that people ate, but from what they left on their plates.

Catarrh Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrh deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure acts thru the blood on the mucous surface of the system. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrh Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Circulars free. ALL DRUGGISTS, 75c. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo O.

The Car Owner

An auto owner is the one best bet, if you're entirely out of debt, if you have money tucked away, providing for the rainy day. But if you're mortgaging your home, that you in pump and state may roam, and if in roaming thus you burn your roubles fast as you can earn, your auto is a Jonah cart, and some day it will break your heart. An auto is a precious boon, the smoothest thing beneath the moon, if you, as down the street you lie, can look the grocer in the eye, and say within your secret soul, "I haven't put him in the hole." An auto is the thing for you, if, when the butcher looms in view, you know you are not owing coin for liver-wurst or tenderloin. An auto is a blessed thing, all kinds of comfort it will bring, if you're not dodging the galoots who sell you clothes and lids and boots, if you can say in ringing tones, "I owe no plunks or bucks or bones, and I've a package of long green to blow for oil and gasoline." If you can't put up such a talk, don't own a car—you'd better walk.—WALT MASON.

Over 1,000,000 women in Germany will be mobilized for service of various kinds in the army.

THE LURE OF GOLD

How It Drew the Half-Crazed East to California in 1849.

WAS A WILD RACE FOR RICHES

The Excitement Caused by the Discovery of the Precious Metal, the Fury With Which the "Yellow Fever" Raged and the Rush to the Coast.

One of the most exciting periods in the United States of a commercial character was the wild rush of people from the eastern part of the country to California in 1848 and 1849, following the announcement of the extensive discovery of gold. It looked as if the faces of all eastern people were turned west through the exaggerated stories that were published of the vast quantities of the yellow metal that were everywhere in evidence.

The height of the excitement was reached when on Dec. 5, 1848, President Taylor announced the discovery in his message. The abundance of gold was such, he said, as could hardly be believed were it not for the reports of officers on the public service who had seen the mines.

The first question that entered the mind of the eastern prospector was how to reach the diggings. Till spring came the overland route was closed. But the way by sea was open and to dwellers on the seaboard was far the better.

Then began a series of most unusual advertisements in the newspapers. Manufacturers of rubber goods advertised tents, beds, gold bags and camp outfits. One publisher got out a book containing fifty-four engravings of implements used in washing gold from sand. A manufacturer advised all going to the gold country to take along one of his gold washing machines. Such advertisements as "An oyster house will be sold low; proprietor is going to California," and "For sale, for a hundred dollars, half a light, easy business that pays a handsome profit, as the advertiser is going to California," became common.

Every ship, brig, schooner or sloop that was half fit to go to sea was scraped, painted, fitted with bunks or cabins and advertised as an A1, fair sailing, copper bottomed, copper nailed vessel, bound for San Francisco direct or via Chagres. Before the middle of December four ships loaded with adventurers left New York, and six others were to sail in a few days.

A New York paper found fifteen vessels loaded for California and reported many more ready to go to that country from Boston, Salem, Philadelphia, Baltimore and New Orleans.

Many went out as individuals, while thousands joined companies or associations which chartered or bought ships. Many associations chartered ships and sent them around the Horn, while they journeyed overland. Many of these associations had odd titles—as, for instance, "the New York Yellow Fever company."

By the end of January, 1849, eighty vessels had set sail for San Francisco via Cape Horn, fourteen for Chagres and two for Vera Cruz, carrying, all told, over 5,700 passengers.

The newspapers spread broadcast all sorts of exciting rumors, and with the arrival of each batch of letters the gold fever raged more fiercely than ever. A letter from a gentleman in California stated that lumps of gold a pound in weight had frequently been found and that good sized pieces could be dug from the crevices in the rocks. Every ship that sailed was so crowded that temporary houses were built on its deck, and by the middle of March more than 17,000 gold hunters had left for California.

Much trouble followed those who passed through Mexico, on account of the bitter feeling that had been engendered by the recent war with that country, and all along the route through Mexico were said to be strewn the bones of those who had been murdered.

Early in March the great emigration overland began, and scores of companies and thousands of men attached to no company set off for the gold fields. In less than three weeks, it is said, 2,850 wagons crossed the Mississippi at St. Joseph and 1,500 at Savannah Landing and Council Bluffs. The country, it was said, for miles and miles represented a great tented field. Toward autumn the first of the overland emigrants came streaming across the mountains. In less than two years after the discovery of gold close to 100,000 emigrants found their way to California in search of the yellow metal.

Bell Tones.

The peculiar magic in the tones of a bell is due to its striking not a single note, but a chord, and to obtain the perfect octave entails an immense amount of calculation as well as skill. The bell caster, therefore, has to be not a mere mechanic, but a highly trained specialist.

When you build your new cottage or bungalow or fix up the old one—even if it's nothing more than a job in the attic—it will pay you to look into Beaver Board.

If you want better walls and ceilings—warmer in winter, cooler in summer, sanitary, durable, beautiful in their decorative effects and free from cracks—nothing will satisfy you so well as the original, pure-wood-fibre Beaver Board.

Be sure it's Beaver Board. Look for the Beaver trade-mark on the back of every panel.

BEAVER BOARD

Kaiser Pictured In New Play

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW is nothing if not contrary. Most persons have been inclined to think that if there is any choice between the Kaiser and the German people, the preference ought to be given to the Huns.

The "Inca of Perusalem," who wears the uniform of a German officer and has smart moustaches, journeys incognito to a Continental hotel to inspect a Princess as a potential bride for one of his innumerable sons.

"He can do what he likes," says the Inca gloomily. "Look at the letters he writes!" And here is the Apologia of the Kaiser as Shaw would write it for him.

"Why the devil do they fight if they don't want to? I am only one man and they are millions. Do you suppose they would really kill each other if they didn't want to, merely for the sake of my beautiful eyes?"

"He's going to marry m-Yun." Secret of the Baker. Occasionally a restaurant or a system of railroad dining cars becomes famous for its baked potatoes.

To Polish Silver. To make a good silver polish mix together one-half ounce of fine salt, one-half ounce of powdered alum and one-half ounce of common cream of tartar.

Animal Cemeteries. Probably the largest and best-appointed animal cemetery in the world is that which still remains attached to the ruined Summer Palace in Peking.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

The "tombstones" are of marble, but a certain number are of agate, lapis-lazuli, and ebony inlaid with silver.

ARGENTINA is spending $60,000,000 on an irrigation system. COMIC OPERA GEMS.

Not the comedians of Sheridan nor even the tragedians of Shakespeare are more easily first in their respective classes than are the Gilbert and Sullivan comic operas in theirs.

Even should the stage in time to come know them no more they would not be dead, for, besides adding immeasurably to the innocent gaiety of the English speaking nations and to their treasury of enduring songs, the operas have enriched the stock of household sayings.

From "Pinafore" we have "What? Never!" and the response "Hardly ever," "his sisters, his cousins and his aunts," "in spite of all temptations to belong to other nations," "You're exceedingly polite, and I think it only right to return the compliment," "O joy, O rapture unforeseen!" "Never mind the why and wherefore" and "Though I'm anything but clever, I could talk like that forever."

From "The Pirates of Penzance" we have learned that "take one consideration with another," "a policeman's lot is not a happy one."

From "Iolanthe" come "Said I to myself, said I," "did nothing in particular and did it very well" and that perfect specimen of the inverted truism: "Hearts just as pure and fair May beat in Belgrave square As in the jowly air Of Seven Dials."

"Patience" are due "a most intense young man," "ultra poetical, super-aesthetical," and "there will be too much of me."

But perhaps the best known of all Gilbertisms and the one that comes ofttest to the lips is that refrain in "The Mikado" that almost sums up the whole science of an enlightened penology, "Let the punishment fit the crime."

"The Mikado" also comes "He's got 'em on the list, they'll none of 'em be missed," "Here's a pretty boy-de-do," "the flowers that bloom in the spring," "something lingering, with boiling oil in it," "three little maids from school," "a source of innocent merriment" and "He's going to marry m-Yun."

A potato so treated and baked just the proper length of time, usually three-quarters of an hour, will surpass a potato cooked in any other way. It must always be broken open immediately upon being taken from the oven, so that the steam may escape.

To Polish Silver. To make a good silver polish mix together one-half ounce of fine salt, one-half ounce of powdered alum and one-half ounce of common cream of tartar.

Animal Cemeteries. Probably the largest and best-appointed animal cemetery in the world is that which still remains attached to the ruined Summer Palace in Peking.

Most Eminent Medical Authorities Endorse It.

Canada's Semi-Centennial Birthday

Sunday next is Canada's fiftieth birthday. As far as Canadians are concerned it is the greatest holiday in the year.

While Dominion Day is a great day for the native born, it should be equally a great day for the adopted sons.

Many of our citizens have come to us from lands they still love and cherish and they will become better Canadians because of that.

The anniversary falling on Sunday let every person show his gratitude to God for the untold blessings Canada has received during the past fifty years by attending church.

Cost of Transportation

Small wonder that distribution is recognized as the biggest problem in the food prices! A Canadian instance makes it plain.

Mr. Wm. Storey, probably the oldest business man in Sarnia, and well-known throughout Lambton, attained his 82nd

The members of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. Jas. Richardson and presented Mrs. (Rev.) Ball with a nicely worded address and a purse of money. After the presentation the hostess served a dainty luncheon.
The Rev. Brown, the new pastor of the Methodist church, will assume his duties next Sunday and will preach morning and evening. In the evening the time of service will be changed to 7.30. The service will be patriotic.
The June meeting of the Women's Institute was held at Mrs. A. Woods', being well attended. About forty-five listened to an excellent address given by Miss Scott on "Patriotism and Household Economics." After the meeting a dainty luncheon of ice cream and cake was served.

A Peculiar Incident

Last Monday Howard Ripley, who was going out in Camden to deliver a corn cultivator, had a peculiar experience. He had the cultivator tied on behind the buggy, and when just over the bridge a swarm of bees decided that the buggy was a good place to alight on, and the whole bunch dropped right in on Howard. The horse was stung badly, and Howard had all he could do to keep him from getting away, and at the same time the bees were all over him, but he might have got off without much damage being done, only that in trying to control the horse he leaned heavily against the back of the buggy, and "believe me" he says "I got it in the back in a dozen places." In the mixup the cultivator

Twice a Home

A Widow's Experience

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

My love for Edward Lane began when we were both so young that neither of us could remember a time when it did not exist. His father's place was but a short distance from ours. Indeed, the rear line marked the limits of both places. On one side of this line was the playground of the several children, boys and girls, including Edward and myself, who lived in the neighborhood. I can remember as far back as when I was seven years old and Edward nine that in playing keep house he and I always played the part of husband and wife. There was a swing on this playground, and Edward's father put up articles for a boys' gymnasium. A little house four or five feet high was built for us girls and furnished with toy furniture. At times we would leave our dolls there all night, first putting them to bed.

When I grew taller I could not understand how I could have stood upright in that little house. And what seemed more remarkable to me was that Edward could have done so, for he was always a large child. And I remember that when he had been away to school for a long while and came back he was taller than the house.

By this time we were growing out of childhood into that intermediate period when, though boys and girls may feel love, they are not likely to express it. It is a period of transition from child love to real love. The boy mind is taken up with athletic sports, while the girl hides her secret almost from herself. Indeed, so nebulous is this period that in my own case it is difficult for me to recall my exact feelings. I remember them faintly and as existing at intervals. They were rather a small portion of my girl's existence than the whole of it.

When I was sixteen I was awakened to the true condition by the marked preference displayed by another girl for my Edward. From that time my love became the principal instead of a minor part in my life. I failed to conceal my jealousy from him, and this brought out his own consciousness of what was between us. There was no formal declaration, no conventional giving of the hand, not even the lovers' kiss. He merely said something about the other girl, I know not what, but it assured me there was no change in our position since the days when we played husband and wife at keep house—no change in the position, but a great change in the condition. It had then been like a winter bud, but it was now swollen under a spring sun, ready to put forth leaves.

I sometimes wished that I could have experienced the proposal that other girls seemed to regard the next most important moment in their lives to their marriage. Edward and I had no occasion for a proposal. Our love was rather, as I have said, an unfolding of a bud than the birth of a butterfly. The only abrupt part of it was when he gave me the first kiss. I treasured that in lieu of a proposal.

When we were married great changes had occurred. I had been left alone in the world, so it was arranged that we should occupy my house. Our living room was on the second floor, overlooking the playground where we had pretended to be husband and wife. The faint dream of childhood had been developed to a realization of almost perfect happiness. If there could be a perfection on earth those five years of my life, from twenty to twenty-five, were such a condition. Two children were born to us, a boy and a girl. What seemed strange to me was that, though I gave them a boundless love, that which I bore their father, instead of being diminished, was increased. Truly love must be, like space, infinite.

Up to this point there had been an expansion of happiness. Suddenly there came a check. Our younger child sickened and died. I have described with some minuteness what I have likened to the gradual unfolding of a flower. I have no heart to give more than a brief mention of its blighting. Within a few months after the first death a second occurred, and within another year I lost my husband.

For a time I was in a sort of collapse, in which I did not take enough interest in my surroundings to be affected by them. After one has met with a serious accident or has been operated upon by a surgeon the senses are dulled; then comes the beginning of pain. It was so with me. When I became myself my surroundings were painful to me. Some persons similarly situated nurse their grief by living in such surroundings.

Clean to handle. Sold by all Drug-gists, Grocers and General Stores.

I longed to get away from them. Friends advised me to seek recovery in the many new scenes and interesting objects that are to be found abroad. I took their advice. I sailed for Europe, leaving the place where I had been so happy in the hands of an agent for sale. One thing I was resolved upon—never to return to it.

It may be considered that my story is one of coincidence. It is more than that. It is an illustration of the very different conditions that may occur in the life of a single person. Masters of romance have maintained that there should be in song or story but one love. Playwrights never bring a second on to the stage.

They portray rather romance than real life and do not give all that real life needs. They are of the same order as the people of India, who believe that the wife should lie on the funeral pyre of her husband.

I may be weaker than some women or I may be stronger. Possibly I may have less depth of feeling, though that I will not admit. I saw only in nursing my grief a dreadful life before me. I recognized the principle that no two absorbing ideas can occupy the brain at one time. I did all that I could to interest myself in what was about me. True, I did not at first succeed and when I did only partially so. I dreaded the word forget, and yet I realized that to avoid suffering I must temporarily forget. I forced myself to feel that after a time I would be reunited with my loved ones and that meanwhile I must, except occasionally, put them out of my mind.

I made my home abroad. Three years after my bereavement I married again. I did so partly because I was lonely, partly because I wished for a man to rely upon, as is natural to any woman, partly because the man I married assured me that I could give him an interest in life and, lastly, because I became attached to him. He was an American, like myself, and, being wealthy, gave himself up to study. He lived abroad that he might write books which required his presence among the subjects of which he wrote.

For five years after our marriage we continued our residence abroad. During this period children were born to us. There was a tacit mutual agreement between us that I should not talk about the world in which I had lived. I saw that he would rather leave that to me, considering himself as having no part in it, and I had no desire to make him a part of it. He was absorbed in his literary work, and if I ever told him even where I had lived he soon forgot it.

Then he was called to America on a matter of some property that needed his attention. It was agreed between us that he should leave me and our children in Lucerne, where we were then living. He expected to be absent not more than two months, but soon after his arrival in America he was induced to write for a publisher a work necessitating his presence in America. He suggested my coming home with the children, but left me to consult my own feelings in the matter.

I had never intended to return to the United States, dreading lest it should reawaken me to my lost world. But with a husband and children that world had receded further and further from me till the consciousness of it had grown very dim. I wrote my husband that I would go back to the western hemisphere and remain there. I was tired of moving about from one place to another, and the children were coming to that age when they should have steady instruction at school. Our boys I preferred to bring up in America. I therefore suggested to my husband that he buy a place in which we might settle. He replied that he agreed with me and would carry out my suggestions. Later he wrote me that he had bought a place in the suburbs of the city wherein it would be necessary for him to do his work.

We arrived after dark. I was delighted at our reunion, as were the father and the children. I did not ask where our home was to be. I intended to be satisfied with it, pleased with it, wherever it was. We took a train and in less than an hour alighted at a station, where a carriage was waiting for us. It was very dark when we reached our home, and I saw nothing of it till I stood in the hall. Then I caught at a banister to prevent my falling.

I was in the house I had left more than ten years before with a blighted heart.

"My dear!" exclaimed my husband, starting toward me.

But in a twinkling I had recovered myself. And what had enabled me to do so? The sudden appearance of an object. Ah, those objects that come to us! How much more valuable oftentimes than realization! I must at least for the present spare my good men the inexpressible pain of knowing what he had brought upon me.

"Nothing," I replied. "A little giddiness at having been so long rolling at sea."

"Nothing you don't like, is there?" he asked anxiously.

"On the contrary, I am very well pleased. Let us see the rest of it."

He took me into every room in the house, a house that had been sold twice since I had parted with it and both times with the furniture included. Not for the world would I have betrayed that these rooms, closets, corners, with every bed, table, bureau, had been familiar to me from childhood. But when it was over I passed the night alone in a room opening into one occupied by the children.

No tongue or pen can describe what that night was to me.

When morning came I found that if I could endure the first shock I could endure more. I deferred from day to day telling what had happened. My husband was delighted with his purchase, and before I had gained heart to tell him my secret he had become a fixture in it. Months passed, then years. My husband is now an old man and my children are grown. None of them know that their mother has been living in her second earthly world.

And yet, after all, this coincidence has not brought two existences, I have been living two existences, both of which are dear to me, the one near by, the other in the far past and future; the one of flesh and blood, the other of spiritual form. In time it will be a spiritual mingling of the two.

Mistaken

Mr. Ponderby had been lunching with a few friends in the city, and, so as to arrive home without displaying any signs of the festivities, he decided to walk to Victoria.

As he swayed along the Hubankment he made a splendid effort to avoid the large crowd collected near the Temple pier to view the captured submarine, but only succeeded in colliding with a group of children. He fell against the stone coping, and stood for a moment trying to collect himself.

Then a gentleman in a blue helmet and overcoat tapped him on the shoulder.

"Now, then, sir, keep moving along! You can't stand here, you know! Get to the end of the queue if you want to see the submarine."

"Submarine! Whasubmarine?" "Why just over there! UCS." "You're a liar! You think I'm in intoxicated, and I'm not! I don't see five! I can see's plain as you! There's on'y two! See, clever!"

WHY not give your lad the same training?

"When I was a growing lad, and came upon many words in my reading that I did not understand, my mother, instead of giving me the definition when I applied to her, uniformly sent me to the dictionary to learn it, and in this way I gradually learned many things besides the meaning of the individual word in question—among other things, how to use a dictionary, and the great pleasure and advantage there might be in the use of the dictionary. Afterwards, when I went to the village school, my chief diversion, after lessons were learned and before they were recited, was in turning over the pages of the 'Unabridged' of those days. Now the most modern Unabridged—the NEW INTERNATIONAL—gives me a pleasure of the same sort. So far as my knowledge extends, it is at present the best of the one-volume dictionaries, and quite sufficient for all ordinary uses. Even those who possess the splendid dictionaries in general volumes will yet find it a great convenience to have this, which is so compact, so full, and so trustworthy as to leave, in most cases, little to be desired.—Albert S. Cook, Ph.D., LL.D., Professor of the English Language and Literature, Yale Univ. April 23, 1913.

The Difficulties of the Thrifty

Mother B—has brought up a large family on a small income and has, of necessity, been of a very frugal turn of mind. The children are married now, and Father and Mother B—are alone and in comfortable circumstances. One day their son John called, and his mother showed him three big loaves of bread she had just baked. She complained that she had too much bread on hand, and would have to give him a loaf, and also one to her son Frank, since she and father could not possibly eat it all. John asked, "Why do you bake so much, then?" And his mother indignantly answered, "Do you suppose I am going to heat that big oven for just one loaf of bread?"

Internally and Externally it is Good.—The crowning property of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is that it can be used internally for many complaints as well as externally. For sore throat, croup, whooping cough, pains in the chest, colic and many kindred ailments it has curative qualities that are unsurpassed. A bottle of it costs little and there is no loss in always having it at hand.

Little Balls of Fluff Found Around the House Give the Answer.

The microscope has answered that long puzzling question of why clothes wear out. By the aid of this instrument that uncovers mysteries of the world hidden to the unaided human eye, it is revealed that when cloth is handled some fibers are rubbed off, which in time become visible and objectionable. The formation of this fluff is not unlike the growth of snowballs that boys roll. Under the microscope, especially with reflected light, these balls of fluff are wonderfully beautiful, gleaming with a brilliancy that cannot be captured by a photograph.

"We speak, and speak correctly, of 'wearing a suit of clothes' when we have in mind only the use of the clothes," a scientific writer explains, "but the garments are literally worn away. We might also speak of 'wearing' bedclothes, because the fibers of the bed linen are worn away in much the same manner as a carpenter wears away the surface of wood when he sandpapers it."

"Drafts and other air currents waft these fibers to and fro until they collect in small clusters of fluff. The 'bits and cantles' that have begun to attract others to them gather more and more until a large proportion of the aerial flotsam has been transformed into what the housekeeper calls 'little rolls of dust' that she finds under the bed and in the corners. These are fibers that friction has removed from the bed linen and from one's clothing."

SAVED HIS OWN FACE.

Why He Balked at Being a Witness on the Side of Truth.

Colonel E. M. House—"Silent" House, as he is often called—told at a dinner in Washington a significant parable: "They who expect the men in authority to do a great deal for them—they who expect the impossible—should remember the grizzly bear story."

"A famous grizzly bear hunter gave a dinner, and one of the guests told of a bear hunt that he had once shared in with his host. It had been a remarkable hunt. The bear had been killed under almost incredible difficulties. Although his auditors looked skeptical, the narrator did not spare them any of those difficulties. He counted on the host, you see, for corroboration."

"Then, when he had finished his strange but perfectly true tale, he said: 'There, that's the story, and, gentlemen, our host will corroborate every word I say!'

"'No, George,' he said, 'I don't remember anything of the sort at all!'

"'Tableau!'

"'Maddened by this tableau, the guest at the end of the dinner took his host aside and hissed: 'Why didn't you back me up in that bear story? You know every word of it was true.'

"'Yes,' said the famous hunter—'yes, it was all true, but I saw that everybody round the table thought you were lying. If, then, I had supported you the only result would have been that they would have set me down for a liar too.'—Washington Star.

Asthma Victims. The man or woman subject to asthma is indeed a victim. What can be more terrifying than to suddenly be seized with paroxysms of choking which seem to fairly threaten the existence of life itself. From such a condition Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy has brought many to completely restored health and happiness. It is known and prized in every section of this broad land.

Posset. The proper meaning of the word "posset," frequently used in Lancashire, England, is a drink taken before going to bed. Originally it was milk curdled with wine and comes from the Latin posca, meaning a drink made with vinegar and water.

Highly Necessary. "Why is the official spelling of government with a big G?" "Because they could hardly begin government without a capital."—Baltimore American.

Mean! "Fa, what is spending money?" "Any coin your mother gets hold of, my boy."—Detroit Free Press.

When a mother detects from the writhings and fretting of a child that worms are troubling it, she can procure no better remedy than Miller's Worm Powders, which are guaranteed to totally expel worms from the system. They may cause vomiting, but this need cause no anxiety, because it is but a manifestation of their thorough work. No worms can exist where these Powders are used.

After the opening ode, minutes of last annual meeting were read and adopted. The president's report included a summary of the reports of the different branches, showing the splendid work the women of East Lambton were doing, both in Red Cross and patriotic work, as well as the usual institute work. STRENUOUS WORK
SOON TELLS ON YOU

Business Men and Breadwinners
the Victims of Nervous Exhaustion

When worry is added to overwork men soon become the victims of nervous exhaustion — neurasthenia — the doctor calls it. Some have no reserve strength in their system to bear the strain; others overtax what strength they have. If you find that you are nervous and not sure of yourself, that you sleep badly, and wake up tired and aching, your nerves are out of order. Other signs are inability to take proper interest in your work; your appetite is fickle; your back feels weak, and you are greatly depressed in spirits. One or more of these signs mean that you should take prompt steps to stop the mischief by nourishing the nerves with the food they thrive on, namely the rich, red blood made by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills have cured thousands of cases of nervous disorders, including nervous prostration, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance and partial paralysis. Here is an example. Mr. P. H. Callan, a well known business man in Coleman, P.E.I., says: "I owe my present health, if not life itself, to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had always been an active man, and when I began to run down in health paid little attention to it as I thought it only a temporary weakness. As time passed, however, I found myself growing worse, and consulted a doctor, who said that I was not badly run down, but that my nervous system was badly shattered. I lost flesh, my appetite was poor, I slept badly and notwithstanding the doctor's treatment grew so weak that I had to leave my business and was confined to the house. Time went on and I was steadily growing weaker, and my friends were all greatly alarmed for my condition. In this condition I was strongly recommended to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as doctor's medicine was not helping me I decided to do so. By the time I had used three boxes I could tell that they were helping me. When I had taken eight boxes of the pills I felt able to attend my business again, and people were surprised to see me out. I continued the use of the pills until I had taken twelve boxes, by which time I was feeling as well as ever I did, and was being congratulated by all my friends on my full restoration to health. I feel now that if I had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at the outset I would not only have saved much money spent in doctor's bills, but would have renewed health sooner. I cannot speak too highly of this medicine, and would recommend it to every man who feels weak, nervous or run down.

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
