DISCRIMINATION

Subject of Freight and Insurance Rates is Being Gone Into.

The advantages of St. John as a world port and the reasons why it should not be discriminated against in the matter of freight rates and insurance rates were strongly impressed on the members of the Imperial Shipping Committee who are making a tour of Canada to investigate the claims of discrimination.

This morning they were shown around the harbor and taken to the dry dock. At noon they were guests of the City Council and Board of Trade at luncheon at the Union Club and this afternoon they attended a conference at the Board of Trade rooms.

Enthusiasm Over Dry Dock When seen this afternoon Sir Halford MacKinder, chairman of the Imperial Committee, said they had been most impressed with our facilities here, particularly those for the handling of immigrants, these being among the best he had ever seen.

Speaking on the matter of discrimination in both freight and insurance rates he said no pronouncement could be made until after all the evidence had been adduced and both sides of the controversy heard, which would not be until after they had returned to England.

The following paragraph in the report of the address dealt particularly with the ice situation: "The iceberg drifts southerly with the Arctic current at a rate of from 10 to 20 miles per day and may take two years to reach opposite Greenland. Here the path followed by the iceberg gradually widens fan-shaped to its lower limit in the Atlantic some distance beyond Newfoundland. In northern waters the iceberg is large and disintegrates into several smaller ones which are largely below the surface and become scattered over a wider area. The speaker claimed the northern lane of navigation through the path followed by icebergs in the Atlantic was narrower and consequently safer than the southern lanes from American ports to Europe where the insurance rates in favor of southern Atlantic routes are an unfair discrimination against Canadian ports."

The guests at the luncheon at the Union Club were: Mayor Fisher, Commissioners Thornton, Wigmore, Frink and Bullock, G. E. Barbour, President, and L. W. Simms, vice-president of the Board of Trade; A. H. Wetmore, H. C. Schofield, A. E. Mason, Alex. Wilson, G. L. Warwick, W. F. Burdett, A. F. Blake, Thomas Nagle, D. W. Ledingham, Thos. P. Drumme, W. S. Allison, Frank E. J. Gray, E. B. Ellis, J. M. Woodman and R. E. Armstrong.

MONTH BEFORE PURDY READY

Delays Have Occurred—Majestic and Hampton Ready—River Records.

Owing to unforeseen delays the new steamer D. J. Purdy will not be ready to go on the St. John river service between Indiantown and Fredericton for at least another month, according to a statement made today by Jarvis Purdy, manager of the Crystal Stream Steamship Company. He said that one of the large Diesel engines has been installed on the boat plates and the second will be placed by tomorrow. He also expects that the intermediate shafts will be in position by tomorrow. Some necessary equipment, however, has had to be ordered and it is feared that it will be some weeks before it will arrive. A contract for installing electrical equipment for the telegraph has been let to the Maritime Radio Company, while a contract for all plumbing and heating installations has been let to George B. Blake.

Other Steamers

The steamer Majestic, which is owned and operated by the same company, is now ready for service and was to be inspected this afternoon. It is expected that she will make her first trip to Fredericton in a few days. Until the D. J. Purdy is ready she will operate both on the river route and on the Washademoak making two trips to each place. As soon as the D. J. Purdy is ready she will be placed permanently on the Washademoak route to Cole's Island. She is to be equipped with two new life boats, which are to arrive here from Nova Scotia any day. They are large and strong and are about 20 feet long by 8 1/2 wide.

Some Records.

Navigation on the St. John River did not open as early this spring as expected. The ice was reported quite thin some time ago, but owing to the water being unusually low it did not run out as is customary.

Discoveries Made at Tomb of Absalom

The following account of the progress of the work at Absalom's tomb has been published in Jerusalem. At the beginning of last January the Jewish Palestine Exploration Society commenced its explorations round the Tomb of Absalom under the direction of Dr. Nahum Slousch. The nine workmen employed by the society worked continuously during the whole of that month. The results obtained during January were: (A) The earth covering the lower part of the monument to a depth of 2.60 m. was removed from the front so as to reveal the facade of the monument and the wide platform on which it stands, both hewn in the rock. By the removal of the earth the great monument, which is 1.30 m. high, above it there is a sort of a low wall, which is 1.30 m. high. On the right and left sides the monument is sunk in a layer of debris, 1.80 m. high, which is now being removed. So far the lower parts of the walls and the bases of the beautiful columns have been made visible. The rocky wall on the left of the monument contains a series of artificial holes. The debris on the right side of a building are visible; here pottery sheds were found, as well as a few other things, which, according to Dr. Slousch, is Hebrew-Aramaic, and dates here to the early Persian period. All this proves that the debris covering this place goes back to a very early period, earlier than the time of the Roman pro-consuls; some of them are indistinct and may belong to a still earlier period. Here as it seems, we are near a very important building for which Absalom's Tomb served as an external monument.

Get rid of constipation by internal cleanliness

THERE is no reason why you should suffer from constipation. Headaches, biliousness, sleepless nights, heaviness, are nature's warning that intestinal poisons are flooding your system.

In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life. Laxatives Aggravate Constipation. Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Why Physicians Favor Lubrication. Medical science, through knowledge prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.

One Habit that Makes a Woman Always in Style

As Dame Fashion decrees you may change the cut of your clothes--shape of your hat--your shoes--the way you wear your hair.

But there's one habit that is always in style. Why, there are very many folks who acquired it 30 years ago, and still use it.

If it was a good habit for them to get into, and retain all these years, wouldn't it be a good one for you, too? Try the habit, then, of using RED ROSE TEA--

For 30 years the same good tea--rich and fragrant. The best for all occasions is RED ROSE ORANGE TEA.

Card of Thanks

Ladies and Gentlemen—I wish to sincerely thank you for the magnificent support you accorded me in the election yesterday and to solicit a continuance of same on April 28.

Thanking you, I am, Respectfully yours, F. L. POTTS.

THE CIVIC BATTLE

As a means of whetting the appetite for the final struggle yesterday's primary election would be hard to beat. It leaves the door wide open to speculation, and general interest will be keenly sharpened.

Mr. Potts and Dr. Frink had the banner vote yesterday, and both show a support well distributed throughout the city. Mayor Fisher and Mr. McAvity ran a neck and neck race and in fact the majority vote leaves everybody asking how the survivors will divide the votes cast for the men they defeated.

Dr. Frink had the honor of leading the poll, and Mr. McInerney was second. Messrs. Frink, Harding, McInerney and Corbet, and their friends will be asking where the Sprunt vote and the Thornton is going to go in the final, and there is a puzzle. There is that question in the majority fight too, for most of the mayoralty aspirants received a measure of support of which they must be proud, and the 3,000 or more votes cast for the defeated candidates contain all sorts of possibilities for April 28.

There is a lively race ahead—a mighty lively one beyond doubt. Citizens now have a chance to weigh the issues and the candidates with care, and it is imperative upon them to do so in order that they may feel sure when they vote again that they are conscientiously striving to serve the city. There should be a really heavy vote by the eligibles in the final.

This year's elections serve to remind everybody of the necessity of examining the taxation and collection system in order to find some method of preventing such large numbers from forfeiting their franchise. That problem is of pressing importance.

In yesterday's battle, and in contemplating the final one, many who take time to analyze the returns, will have reason to recall Sir John Macdonald's saying about elections and horse races. They are indeed uncertain.

WELCOME VISITORS.

A work of wide usefulness is being done by Sir Halford MacKinder and his associates of the Imperial Shipping Committee, who are personally investigating long standing complaints concerning discrimination against North Atlantic ports in the matter of freight and insurance rates. St. John heartily welcomes these gentlemen today. Ours is one of the Canadian ports undoubtedly suffering from such discrimination, and it is fortunate that we have this opportunity not only to present these influential investigators with the facts as we see them, but also to make them acquainted with the port's favorable location, its present capacity, and its possibilities.

HEROINES ARE OLDER NOW.

(Bangor Commercial.) Age is slowly creeping upon the heroines of romantic love, but seems to be doing it in the characteristic way age has with woman, very slowly.

There is another peculiarity about the age of the heroine. In the scenarios submitted by women writers—and these were 60 per cent. of the entire number—the age of the heroine averaged about five years more than the age of the hero created by the man writer.

But age is creeping upon the woman politician also, although she will probably not consider it a serious matter. For although a woman becomes a voter at 21, it is the woman of 35 who is going to decide the elections.

So says Mrs. Maud Wood Park, president of the League of Women Voters, who says 35 is the age of the woman whose influence is to be felt in politics.

CAN PAY, AND MUST.

(N. Y. Herald-Tribune.) Germany has the resources with which to pay, as the Dawes experts show. She has not paid because she has made no honest effort to balance her budget, levy adequate taxes or put her wealth and population to work to square her war account.

The underlying principle of the Dawes plan is that Germany must pay. It is to show her a measure of generosity which her conduct since the armistice has scarcely merited.

Germany brought immeasurable woes upon the world. She has done almost nothing as yet in the way of atonement. She cannot now reject the Dawes report without inviting universal condemnation and national ruin.

And no other nation concerned can well afford to obstruct a finding so manifestly sound and constructive. We have reached the point at which the reparations deadlock can be readily broken and European recuperation can be assured.

Anything

Mrs. C. Stone, Nanticoke, Ont., writes: "Some time ago I had a very serious attack of dyspepsia, and was also troubled with gas on my stomach. I could hardly eat anything, and very often had pains after meals. I had used different medicines, but they didn't seem to do me any good. At last I happened to run on the track of Burdock Blood Bitters, and after using it for a short time I felt a lot better. I continued its use until I was completely relieved and now I am ready to recommend it to anyone trouble as I was."

Burdock Blood Bitters is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The City Hall count this morning leaves the election figures just as they were published in this morning's Telegraph-Journal with the exception that Mr. Thornton loses forty-eight. His defeat was one of the election surprises.

Gentlemen of sporting proclivities who go so far as to bet on elections—assuming that there are any—will find some temptation in the final race for the mayoralty and commissionerships. The next swing of the votes cast for the defeated candidates invites some lively guessing.

Of $600,000,000 involved in business failures in the United States in the last year fully $200,000,000 represented fraudulent bankruptcies, according to the president of the National Association of Credit Men. He says that at the present rate of increase these deliberate failures would undermine American business within a few years. The association is to spend $500,000 to fight the class who go into bankruptcy to defraud their creditors.

Somebody has figured it out that the taxation reduction in the new budget means a saving of $3.70 a head. It all depends on how much you buy, and how many you buy for. Anyway, it does not sound revolutionary. Still, twenty per cent. off the sales tax, and fifty in some cases, ought to help considerably. Governments do not seem to make the progress they should in developing painless taxation. Also, the income tax, federal or civic, is not so sacred an institution that it will not bear reduction, particularly in the lower grades of earnings.

MOTHER OF TWIN BOYS

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieved Her of Inflammation and Great Weakness

West St. John, N. B.—"I was in a general run-down condition following the birth of my twin boys. I had a great deal of inflammation, with pains and weakness. Finally my doctor recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. He said that your medicine would be the only thing to build me up. I am sure he is right, for I am feeling much better and am gaining in weight, having gone down to ninety-three pounds. I was in bed for over a month, but am up again now. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to my friends and give you permission to use my letter."

There are many women who find their household duties almost unbearable owing to some weakness or derangement. The trouble may be slight, yet cause such annoying symptoms as dragging pains, weakness and a run-down feeling. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for such conditions. It has in many cases relieved those symptoms by removing the cause of them. Mrs. Ritchie's experience is but one of many.

DEATHS

Henry Addison.

After a lingering illness, Henry Addison, a lifelong resident of this city, died early this morning in the General Public Hospital. Besides his wife, he is survived by one sister, Mrs. John Kennedy of Moncton, and four brothers, Rev. Milton Addison, Baptist minister at Petticoediac; Richard of Auburn, Me., and George and Robert B. of St. John. They will have the sympathy of many friends in their loss.

The Late George G. Kylin.

Many friends in St. John regretted to learn of the death of George G. Kylin, formerly of this city, which occurred in Pasadena, Cal., recently. He was a young man well known and well liked here. The following is from the Evening Post of Pasadena, Monday, March 31: "George Gerard Kylin died at his home, 783 Maunula avenue, early on Sunday morning. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mary J. Kylin, two sisters, Marie and Kathleen, and three brothers, Gerald, John and Edmund, all of Pasadena. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus, and members of the order will meet at the parlors of Bergien and Cabot, 27 Chestnut street at 9 o'clock this evening to say the rosary. Mass will be held on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Andrew's church. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery."

FOOD FOR THE HOLIDAYS

The holiday season is home-coming time, and is therefore a time for hospitality. The "eat" always forms an important part of this hospitality, and the hostess should be prepared for any occasion.

Have your table and menu as colorful as possible with the Christmas colors of red, green, yellow and white. There are many clever ways of doing this. On the dinner menu there should be candied cranberries and crystallized mint. Small candy-holders filled with these bright berries and green mint leaves add a delightful touch to any Christmas table.

If you had a turkey for your Thanksgiving Day dinner, perhaps you will wish to serve goose for your Christmas dinner. If you do, be sure your bird is plump and soft, and that it does not have too many pin-feathers. After singeing the bird and removing the pin-feathers, wash in soap and water, and wipe dry. Stuff if you desire. Many like an apple or prune stuffing for goose. If you stuff or not, rub the inside and out with salt and pepper, and a little powdered sage or thyme if liked. Place several thin slices of bacon over the breast, and bake for at least two hours, or until tender.

If you use stuffed baked apples and onions for the garnish, select medium-sized apples. Do not peel the apples, but remove core and part of pulp and stuff with a mixture of cranberries and sugar, with a little cinnamon to flavor. Bake in moderate oven. The onions should be peeled, parboiled and the centers removed, then stuffed with bread-crumbs and sausage combined or chopped, nut-meats if preferred. The onion can be baked in the pan with the roast if desired, or stuffed baked peppers may be used instead.

To make the cheese croûtons for the tomato consommé, the bread is cut into small squares or diamonds and covered thickly with grated cheese and a little paprika. Place in the oven until a delicate brown. The bread may be slightly toasted before the cheese is added.

The little "roulottes" or potato balls should be partly boiled in salted water; then drained, rolled in egg and fine crumbs and fried in hot fat. Place several of these on the plate with the sardines. Dip the sardines in fritter batter and fry in deep fat also, place in peppers that have been cut into quarters and place a spoonful of hot mayonnaise on top of each service. From The Designer Magazine for December.

FIRE IN GLASS WORKS

About 7.45 o'clock last evening an alarm was sent in from box 128 for a fire in the glass works connected with the Murray and Gregory Ltd., mill off Douglas avenue. The fire was discovered near a chimney, and the firemen found it necessary to do considerable cutting in the floors and about the chimney. It took considerable time before the fire was quelled, but the damage was mostly about the chimney. It is estimated that the total damage will amount to a few hundred dollars. The property is fully insured.

"Herbert," said a school teacher, turning to a bright youngster, "can you tell me what lightning is?" "Yes, ma'am," was the ready reply of the boy. "Lightning is streaks of electricity."

"Well, that may pass," said the teacher, encouragingly. "Now tell me why it is that lightning never strikes twice in the same place?" "Because," answered Herbert, "after it hits once the same place ain't there any more!"

Neckwear

A bright colored scarf takes an important part in the scheme of woman's attire this season. We have a very colorful and pleasing selection just now—but we advise early choosing. All the new gips and downies as well as cross stripes and plain colors are being shown and the new weaves are as pretty as the most particular woman would hope to find. It's merely a matter of preference whether you choose a plain color or one of the new novelty stripes.

Frocks

The new black and white dresses in satin and flat crepe are particularly lovely—and we are anxious to have you see them. They are mostly straight and tube-like and although very simple in design are particularly stunning. New Dresses in light colored fine French twills are also most attractive; and French Hand made beaded frocks will win your hearty approval.

Coats

Whether you might prefer one of the new rough English-looking tweeds of loose cut and serviceable fabric; a dressy long coat of light weight Marvella or Bolivia cloth; or one of the new Poiret twills in navy blue or one of the popular lawn or grey shades, you'll be able to find a model to suit you here. Some very dressy coats are handsomely embroidered. (2nd floor.)

Hand Bags

Of course you've heard about the underarm bag that has become so popular this season. You'll find it here in our stock in grey, brown or black and fitted with vanity mirror and coin purse. Pouches Bags with fancy tops are also represented; as are also Mesh Bags in silver or gun metal. Paisley Bags with fancy silk linings and tortoise shell tops. Bambalina Bags in novelty shades and many other equally interesting varieties. (Ground floor)

CONFESSES SHE KILLED HUSBAND

Winnipeg, April 14—Confessing to the murder of her husband while he was asleep in bed Kate Kadonjuk, of Teulon, Man., arrested on Saturday, related the gruesome details of the slaying which occurred on March 9 to the provincial police. On the night of the killing she told the police, Kadonjuk had been particularly abusive and brutal because she had refused to accompany him on a grain stealing expedition. When he had gone to bed she took an axe and smashed in his head.

Montreal, April 14—"In the name of humanity, for the protection of the little children of Montreal, see if you cannot get me some Easter eggs like your little dead girl bought, and I will have them analyzed. We had two similar cases of poisoning last Easter," said Deputy Coroner Prince in inquiring into the death of five-year-old Barbara Moore, of this city, who died yesterday, apparently as the result of having eaten a decorated Easter egg, purchased on Thursday.

Sister Mary's Kitchen

(Unless otherwise specified, these recipes are planned for four persons.)
Instead of Meat.
You will like this dish of spaghetti, with mushrooms and tomatoes and peppers and cheese. It is practical for an informal luncheon when many are to be served or for a home dinner.
If you are "having" an all-day meeting of your sewing circle, and must furnish something hot at noon time, try this baked spaghetti and accompany it with warm rolls, preserves or jelly, radishes, tea, coffee or cocoa.
Baked Spaghetti.
One pound spaghetti, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 3 onions, 1 can mushrooms, 1 quart tomatoes, 2 green peppers, 1/4 pound chopped cheese, 2 teaspoons salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 4 tablespoons catsup, 4 tablespoons butter or olive oil.
Put spaghetti slowly, without breaking, into 4 quarts of rapidly boiling salted water. Boil about 20 minutes. Drain and rinse with cold water. Put butter, or oil in frying pan and add sliced onions. Fry until a golden brown. Add mushrooms and saute lightly.
Remove seeds and white fibre from peppers. Dip in boiling water for five minutes. Then dip in cold water and rub off the thin coating covering the pepper. Cut in shreds or mince. Add to onions and mushrooms in frying pan. Add tomatoes and bring to the boiling point.
Put spaghetti in baking dish, add tomato mixture with parsley and catsup and mix well. Bake in a slow oven for one and a half hours.
Add chopped cheese and bake half an hour longer or until the cheese is melted. This rule will serve 15 persons.
Total calories, 2514. Protein, 571; fat, 127; carbohydrate, 1726.
Cheese fondue is delicious for a small party or family. The recipe can be doubled and will serve eight.
Cheese Fondue.
One and one-half cups soft bread crumbs, 1/2 cup milk, 6 tablespoons butter, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-8 teaspoon mustard.
Cook crumbs and milk, stirring constantly until hot and smooth. "Add butter, cheese, salt, pepper and mustard and cook until cheese is melted. Remove from fire and add yolks of two eggs beaten until thick and lemon colored. Fold in whites of three eggs beaten until stiff and dry on a platter with a whisk. Turn into a buttered baking dish and make 25 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve at once. Creamed peas or asparagus or cauliflower could be served with fondue.
Total calories (exclusive of creamed vegetable), 1298. Protein, 312; fat, 877; carbohydrate, 109. Iron, .0086 gram.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS.

Upholstery.
Upholstery can be dry-cleaned with starch and whitening sifted together and applied thickly all over it. If there are any grimy spaces, wet these with alcohol before putting on the powder. Let stand for a day or so and brush off with a stiff brush.
Medium Sized.
In selecting vegetables choose the medium sized ones. Large vegetables are apt to be woody and require more fuel to cook them.
Cleaning Water.
Water that is milky or turbid may be cleared with alum.
Filters.
Filters for household use must always be kept very clean or they will become filled with impurities and make the water that passes through them fouler instead of purer.
Wash Immediately.
Before you start to bake, collect all the dishes, spoons and other utensils that will be needed and when you have finished wash these immediately.
Holds Color.
Dip cream net, or madras curtains in hay tea or a weak solution of coffee water after rinsing if you would keep the original color.
EVERMORE.
(Ottawa Citizen).
Once upon an evening dreary sat a Sport Ed, weak and weary
And he yearned for something cheery to relieve his daily chore.
He had heard the phone one calling with monotonous appeal,
And a voice upon the wire craved to know the hockey score.
Forty thousand times and more.
Presently his soul grew stronger and his heart was sad no longer,
For a staid and stately Raven cast its shadow on the floor.
With a thankful voice he muttered: "You at least, have never uttered that absurd and dreary question that has made my bosom sore!"
Quoth the Raven: "What's the score?"
Standing Collar.

WAR'S ALL THEY SEE FROM CRADLE ON

(By Bob Dorman.)
Tehuacan, Mexico.—Born in a box car. Raised in a box car. Life a succession of box cars.
And cartridge belts for play things! Mexico is breeding a race whose only outlook on life is formed by a soldier's environment.
Thousands of men have fought six major revolutions and many minor ones in the last 13 years.
And with them were their wives and children.
From Cradle to Grave.
Babies were born in box cars—the Mexican troops mode of transportation. They grew up, are still growing up, surrounded only by the things of war.
Their education is the daily life of a Mexican soldier. Their horizon is bounded by the laws of military necessity. Their playthings are the tools of war.
The only trade they can learn is how to make war. And their only view of a natural existence is war.
Children whose playthings were cartridge belts in the revolution of Madero in 1911 today shoulder rifles as soldiers.
Thousands of others are learning by example the same grim trade.
Soldiers Like Fathers.
Take Rafael Mendoza. He is 26, and a soldier in the Federal army. His father was a soldier of Diaz.
Rafael was raised in a box car. He was 10 when Madero revolted. He went—in a box car—with his father and mother to help put down the rebellion.
Today he is married. Two healthy boys—born in a box car—ride with him and their mother in a box car, to put down another rebellion.
Two healthy boys—one a year old,

Mexican children playing with their daddy's cartridge belts.

the other six—play with cartridge belts.
"Won't they make fine soldiers?" asks proud Daddy Rafael as he fondly gazes at two babies playing with cartridge belts in the bright sunshine—two babies learning the trade which has well-nigh ruined their native land.
3,500,000 IN SWEDEN GET STATE INSURANCE AID
Stockholm, April 15.—A fund of more than $22,000,000 has been accumulated under the Swedish plan of compulsory insurance to protect men and women during temporary incapacity, and safeguard them against the destitution of old age.
The system provides benefits on a pro rata basis to persons who have paid the premiums between the ages of 16 and 67. The premiums range from 75 cents to $3.50 a year. The number of Swedes insured under the system is about 8,600,000. The premiums collected in 1923 totalled $6,000,000.

FISH SLEEP BUT KEEP EYES OPEN

Do fish sleep?
They do, say the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries, and, moreover, sleep well, without closing their eyes. The sleep of fish is a type of suspended animation, during which some of the faculties of the fishy tribe are at rest with their bodies, writes "The Washington Star."
But the sleep or state of suspended animation of fish is by no means like the deep sleep of a human being. A fish asleep may be jarred into instant action, with all his faculties alert and responsive, by a sudden motion of the water or a jar of the bank of a stream or lake.

The bureau is satisfied that aquarium fish, at least, have a period of rest in which they lie on the bottom of the glass enclosure without movement. They have been observed in the daytime and at night, and officials of the bureau believe these periods of rest come most frequently after mealtime.
As to deep sea fish the bureau has observed similar actions in both the larger and smaller fish. Sharks, when they lie just under the surface of the water sunning themselves probably pass into a state of sleep, although their faculties are still alert. Whales are classed as mammals, but their eyes are lidless and do not close beneath the surface of the ocean.

There appears to be no doubt, according to Deputy Commissioner of Fisheries Radcliffe, that the preponderance of evidence indicates that fish do sleep. Their eyes are lidless and do not close when animation is suspended, but nevertheless they have a period of rest.

TWAIN ORIGINATOR OF FINGERPRINTS

New York, April 15.—Who was the originator of the use of fingerprints for identification?
M. Bertillon is usually mentioned in this connection, but, as a matter of fact, the credit really belongs to Sir Edward Henry, the late Commissioner of Police of London. In 1897, when he was inspector-general of police in Bengal, his system of classification of fingerprints was adopted throughout India, after an official inquiry into its merits as compared with those of M. Bertillon's anthropometric system, which had held sway until then, writes "Answers," London.
In 1901 the Henry system was introduced at New Scotland Yard and since then has spread all over the world.
There is, however, a mention of identification by fingerprints in a book published some years previous to Sir Edward Henry's discovery, Mark Twain's "Puddin' Head Wilson."

They combated film on teeth—they whose teeth you envy
When you see teeth that glisten, it shows how people are combating film. Millions now use a new way of teeth cleaning. The prettier teeth you see everywhere now show you one effect. Learn by this test how much that method means to you and yours.
Many careful tests have proved these methods effective. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.
The use has now spread the world over, largely by dental advice. Careful people of some 50 nations are using Pepsodent today.
Film dims and ruins teeth
Film is that viscous coat you feel. No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it, so much of it clings and stays.
Soon the film discolors, then forms dingy coats. Most teeth are clouded more or less by film.
Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.
Those troubles were fast increasing under old ways of teeth cleaning. So dental science has sought for film combatants, and two have been found. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation, one removes it without harmful scouring.
Results are quick and apparent
Pepsodent does other things almost equally important. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the starch digestant in saliva, there to digest starch deposits on teeth.
These combined effects bring a new conception of what clean teeth mean.
Protect the Enamel

German Premiers Unanimously Accepted Dawes Report

EXTREMISTS MADE LITTLE ARGUMENT

MINISTER RESIGNS

Justice Official Steps Out—Micum Agreement is Extended.

(By CARL D. GROAT.) (United Press Staff Correspondent.) Berlin, April 15.—Germany's acceptance in principle of the recommendations to the Dawes committee as a basis for settlement of the reparations will go forward to the Reparations Commission in Paris probably today or tomorrow, the United Press is informed.

Both the cabinet and the conference of state premiers have agreed to accept the report and the only step left is notification of the Reparations Commission, which probably will be in the form of a written document forwarded to Paris.

At the same time a dispatch from Dusseldorf said the Franco-Belgian industrialists had agreed to prolongation of the so-called "Micum" agreements for two months and that documents were ready for signature.

The party leaders were conferring with the government today on the form in which Germany's acceptance shall go forward to Paris, and it was expected the document would be ready soon.

German Minister Resigns Meantime it was announced that Minister of Justice Emminger has tendered his resignation to Chancellor Marx owing to inner party differences, presumably not connected with the reparations question. The Chancellor, it was believed, will accept the resignation and assume the portfolio himself for the time being.

The decision of the States Premiers to accept the Dawes recommendations was unanimous. Even Nationalist leaders, von Knilling of Bavaria and Bruns of Mecklenburg, accepted the majority opinion without serious argument.

Paris, April 15.—(United Press.)—Premier Poincare, presiding at the cabinet meeting today, confirmed reports that the accord between French-Belgian and German industrialists in the Ruhr (the Micum agreement) have been extended for two months.

BEGGARS PROVE TO BE RICH MEN

One was Owner of Movie Show; Another Had $20,000.

Rome, April 15.—The authorities throughout Italy are determined to put an end to begging, and it is declared "some" job. There have just been arrested in the Sicilian city of Catania 20 beggars, who, on inquiry by the police, proved to be rich men.

One of them, Sebastian Vergato, aged 70, was found in possession of a savings bank book showing deposits of $20,000. He had passed his life begging in the streets of the winter resorts on the Sicilian coast. It was proved that when his two daughters were married in their native village he gave them a dowry of $20,000. A friend of his, Calogero Caputo, owned a grocery shop in his native village, and was also the proprietor of 16 small houses. He was most energetic. He begged during the day in the city, and at sunset changed his ragged disguise and became the proprietor of a flourishing picture show in the suburbs.

All the men arrested are indignant, as they possessed well-documented permits to beg. For the present their activities will be confined to serving sentence for perjury, as they had sworn that they were poverty-stricken in order to obtain their begging licenses.

Race Track Follower Tells of Life on Mexican Track.

Baltimore, April 15.—The man, clad in a heavy ulster, his hands deep in its pockets, that leaned against one of the posts in the mutuel room at the Bowie track Saturday looked bored. The weather was warm and very springlike, but this man seemed cold. The posting of the amounts played on the various horses in the third race did not seem to interest him. When the bugle was blown, announcing that the horses were at the post and the betting was at an end, he did not join in the mad scramble to secure points of vantage from which to view the race.

In fact, he continued to lean against the post and yawn. "Feel sick, friend?" he was asked. "No. Just cold and uninterested," came the reply. "Fool to stop off here. Should have kept right on through to New York. The race track called me here, and here I am. Thought I might get a kick out of Bowie, but no such luck. It's dead here. These mutuels are my idea of nothing at all when they come to furnishing sport."

"You see, I'm on my way to the big city from Tia Juana, Mexico. Take it from me, I wish I was back," he continued mournfully. "Like he, place, then, do you?" he was questioned.

"Like it! Say, Tia Juana is the greatest little place in the world to keep you alive. I've seen them all, Palm Beach, Ostend, Havana, Monte Carlo. They don't hold a candle to Tia Juana."

"I mean the places where they run the races. Mutuels on the main and all kinds of games on the outside. All the visitors from Iowa and Massachusetts come down from Los Angeles with the rest of the Easterners to see the races and are all crazy to get in and play the wheel, but the races or horse trap."

"Believe me, they climb all over each other to get near the tables. They pack in so tight the back rows have to pass all kinds of games on the outside. All the visitors from Iowa and Massachusetts come down from Los Angeles with the rest of the Easterners to see the races and are all crazy to get in and play the wheel, but the races or horse trap."

"At the race track, under the grandstand are rows of bookmakers each on a raised platform, chalking and rubbing odds. Long lines of people moving from place to place, making bets. Mutuels taking in the coin in one place and paying it out in another."

All that old brass mail. "All along one wall a mahogany bar, with regular old-time bottles along the shelves behind it. Crowds in front with a foot on the old brass rail. Visitors from the East sampling tequila, the Mexican liquor, that is lightning distilled from cactus juice."

"Then comes a bugle, a shout, 'They're off!' and the crowd pushes out in front and the bookies yank down their slates, the mutuel windows close and the laying of bets stops."

"Down along the front rail are more bookies, in their slates. As under the grandstand, between races they are there by long lines of bettors, men and women. The women bet openly and there. They are barred from the books and mutuels under the stand, but not from those on the so-called lawn."

"In the old days they called Jim Coffroth, the promoter of the Tia Juana races, 'Sunny Jim,' because when he promoted fights in Prisco he never drew a rainy day for an outdoor bout. He is around everywhere, still smiling. They say six years ago he had a rainy day for the races and not since. Some racing weather."

New York Shriners Get Injunction Which Prevents Police Interference.

New York, April 15.—It looks as though the members of Mecca Temple of the Mystic Shrine have won a victory over Police Commissioner Knighthood. The Shriners that policemen in plain clothes were to be present at their two weeks' circus and carnival at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory to see that no games of chance were permitted.

The police brought warning that Captain Sichean of the East Thirty-fifth street station would police the carnival at all hours.

The Mecca Temple Holding Company, under whose auspices the circus and carnival is held, brought an injunction proceeding to restrain Commissioner Knighthood from interfering with the affair, charging that the police were acting unlawfully.

A temporary injunction keeping the police out of the armory was issued by Justice Erlanger, and the matter came up before Justice Giegerich for argument for a permanent injunction. The proceeding was adjourned to April 17. The carnival goes on in the meantime under the protection of the temporary injunction and will close on April 19, two days after Justice Giegerich hears argument and probably before he decides the matter, so that Mecca Temple will not need any further protection against the alleged unlawful interference of the police.

Canada's War Debt is Reduced $20,876,000. Ottawa, April 14.—The monthly debt statement of the finance department for the end of the last fiscal year, just made available, shows a reduction of $20,876,000 in the net debt of the Dominion during the last year. This is considerably below the estimate of $30,409,000 given by Hon. J. A. Robb, in his budget statement as the amount of debt reduction. The two figures however are not closely comparable as there are two items included by Mr. Robb, among both assets and liabilities, which are not included in the statement given out by the department.

NEW LORD HIGH COMMISSIONER, POMP ASIDE, WILL RETURN TO $50 COTTAGE

Hon. James Brown for Time Will Live in House of Royal Stuarts.

London, April 15.—James Brown, Socialist M. P. for Ayrshire, who has been chosen as Lord High Commissioner to the Church of Scotland, will reside in Holyrood as representative of the King during the meeting of the Assembly. He will have royal honors. Mr. Brown was a working miner 30 years and his wife was a mill girl. He lives in a $50 a year cottage, but he says that he will not let a single dignity of the Lord High Commissioner's office be sacrificed.

The history of Scotland is in the stones and the halls of Holyrood. Today it is the seat of royalty in Scotland and the King's palace when the King of Great Britain visits the royal realm.

The state apartments were occupied by Their Majesties on their visit to Scotland last summer. It is the duty of the Lord High Commissioner to the Church of Scotland to act as the representative of the King during the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, and in that high office of the establishment he occupies the state apartments of the ancient palace during the assembly, and is accorded all pomp, ceremony and court ritual due to the representative of the King.

He has his royal salutes and splendid guards. Holyrood resounds with martial clang and bugles sound in grand obsequies, plain Jamie Brown, M. P.—the miner who worked 30 years at the coal face—and his mill-girl wife, a "pomp" plain couple from a $30 cottage.

Holyrood has never seen in all its newer tragedy and fare, and its downfalls, such a revolution. Jamie and Mrs. Brown, cottagers, work people in the mines, are the only people in the history of the world in the middle of the golden pages in its volumes, so many of which are red with blood.

One wonders if Burns ever reckoned on such a revolution peacefully carried in the Scotland that provided Bothwell and Brig and, later, a Culloden. True he said "the rank is but the guinea stamp; the man is the gold piece," but Burns never pictured his sentiments in practice so perfect as in the fact of "This Gracious Brown."

The Lord High Commissioner has always been a peer; at any rate since 1843.

But Mr. Brown, in the interests of religion and of the Constitution, declares:— "I shall hold levees as the representative of the King and shall ride in the State coach. Then at the end I shall return to my $50 a year cottage, the most modest place on earth to me."

Mr. Brown is particularly fitted for the office. He is an elder of the church, a member of the assembly, a good speaker, and keenly interested in religious and social questions.

Mr. Brown will have the allowance of $10,000 but at the end of the year it will have been expended on the expenses of office.

He is in the mining village was good enough for me to take a bride 35 years ago, he says, and it's good enough since we were married. My wife was a mill girl, working at paper finishing, when we married. I started work in the coal pits at the age of 12, and I've worked ever since then.

STRANGE WAR TALE COMES TO LIGHT

Millionaire's Son, Believed Dead, Returns Home to England.

MISSING YEARS

Reached New Zealand with Memory Gone—Two Brothers Killed.

London, April 15.—One of the most romantic stories of the war has only just come to light. Its equal is scarcely to be found in the pages of fiction. A millionaire shipowner, Sir James Knott of Torquay, was thought to have lost all his three sons in the war, and he sold his business and retired.

Yet one of his sons, Thomas Garbutt Knott, was still alive, suffering from loss of memory. After his memory was restored he returned to England penniless, and his identity was established.

Two of the sons, one of whom rose to the rank of major, and the other to that of captain, were killed within a few weeks of each other, and later an official intimation was received that the eldest son had been killed in Gallipoli. Both father and mother were stricken with grief, and the latter has never completely recovered from the effects of her tragic loss.

There were rumors that Garbutt was alive, but no trace could be obtained of him anywhere. He had returned to New Zealand, and for a long time he had no recollection as to his identity. He was penniless when he returned to England, and put up at a small hotel in London.

There was little difficulty in establishing his identity, and he is now staying with his mother at Exmouth, Devon.

Sir James was formerly head of the Prince Line, and in 1907 was president of the Institute of Marine Engineers. Born at Howdon-on-Tyne in 1855, he entered the office of a Newcastle shipbroker as a lad of 15. At 22 he bought the brig Pearl for $500 and from that small beginning was created the famous Prince Line, with a large number of big steamers running all over the world.

Kindergarten Pupils Sing For Blacksmith

A woman to train kindergarten workers was considered the most imperative need by the Free Kindergarten Association which met yesterday afternoon in the Board of Trade rooms. Clothes were required to make possible the attendance of the children. Mrs. Alfred W. Estey presided in the absence of Mrs. Allan G. McAvity. Mrs. H. H. Pickett gave the reports for the teachers, who told of much sickness among the children. The attendance was down to 75 per cent. The course of instruction covering the stories about carpenters, millers and shoemakers and blacksmiths was concluded. In this course the children were taught to mould in clay the utensils of the miner. They were taken to visit a blacksmith shop and while there sang their songs for the blacksmith, much to his delight, the teachers said. The new course teaches them about knight hood. They delight in this play, which teaches the boys gallantry and the girls gentleness and bravery.

MESSENGER BAND MEETS.

The King's Messenger Band of Centenary church met yesterday afternoon in the primary room for a lantern show of famous Bible pictures, copies of old paintings and a talk by Mrs. W. H. Barker, their leader. Little Misses Allison Austen, Jean Austen, Mary

Miss Mary Harding, treasurer, reported that the Easter offering was $7.22. Miss Alice Henry, secretary, read a report of the recent work of the band. A committee of ladies composed of Mrs. C. F. Sanford, Mrs. George Sealey, Mrs. Roscoe Bond, Mrs. Blair McLean and Mrs. Barker, gave the children cake and lemonade.

Mrs. McLean and Mrs. Bond, assistant leaders, helped Mrs. Barker in arranging the successful meeting which was largely attended. The members discussed plans for their annual tea Easter week.

Presbyterians stand by Union

Church Union Will Go Forward—People, Presbyteries and General Assembly Determined

THREE great Churches in Canada, desiring to unite, are applying to the Dominion Parliament for an Act of Incorporation and to the Provincial Legislatures for concurrent legislation affecting property rights. The negotiations have been proceeding within the Churches for over twenty years. An attempt is being made to nullify the work of this long period by the unwarranted statement that the Presbyterian Church is really against Union. Since the opening of negotiations, the attitude of Presbyterianism has been consistently and overwhelmingly in favor of Union. The Presbyterian Church stands strongly for Union today. The Church Courts have declared for Union again and again. The mass of the membership is in favor.

People Are For Union

Voting individually and speaking through the representative bodies of the Presbyterian Church, Presbyterians have strongly and consistently endorsed Church Union.

Two votes of the people have been taken on Union. Both were decidedly favorable. The second vote of the people was taken in the latter part of 1915. It was definitely stated, on the ballot, that the Church's decision would be reached on the basis of the votes cast. The result was: 150,542 voted for Union and 93,739 against, a clear majority of 56,803.

Presbyteries Are For Union

Presbyteries, like all governing bodies of the Church, are composed of equal numbers of ministers and elders. They are in close touch with the people and are specially qualified to determine the mind of the Church. And the Presbyteries are ten to one in favor of Union.

Immediately prior to the General Assembly in 1923, the question of the immediate consummation of the Union was discussed by 56 Presbyteries. Of these, 52 declared themselves in favor of immediate action consummating the Union. The proposed Bills, both for the Dominion Parliament and the Provincial Legislatures, had been before the Church for several months. The Presbyteries knew exactly what they were voting upon. They voted deliberately and with a full realization of their responsibility. Nineteen Ontario Presbyteries voted in favor, many almost unanimously—only two voted against immediate Union.

In April, 1924, the Presbytery of Toronto, representing twenty per cent. of the Presbyterian membership in Ontario, voted 95 to 32 urging the Legislature of Ontario to pass the Bill. Of those who voted in the majority, 43 were ministers in charge of congregations and 40 were laymen.

General Assemblies Always For Union

One General Assembly after another has pronounced in favor of Union. The will of the Assemblies has been steadfast, though the personnel and leadership have changed from year to year. The Commissioners to the Assembly are selected from the Presbyteries, mostly by rotation. Of the total of 1,679 Commissioners attending three different Assemblies, not more than 100 were present at two of these gatherings, and not more than 50 at all three. Yet, these three General Assemblies all voted overwhelmingly for Church Union.

Those opposed to Union have never numbered twenty-five per cent. in any General Assembly. In 1923, there was a most persistent campaign against Union.

Yet, the final vote in favor of the immediate consummation of Union and of the legislation to go before Parliament and the Legislatures, was 427 for and 129 against, or only twenty-three per cent. against Union.

Union Already Widespread

The movement for Church Union has its roots in the conviction that the unity of believers is the Will of the Master and that Union is necessary to meet the spiritual problems of Canada. The churches of the West, the frontiers and the rural districts have already largely entered into Union. There are Presbyterian members in every one of the 1,284 pastoral charges, representing 3,000 preaching stations, where Union in various forms is already in force. Most of these Unions have taken place under the authority of the General Assembly. Thousands of Presbyterian families, now in these Union

Churches, are today depending upon the Presbyterian Church to keep its covenant.

No Haste Towards Union

In the Presbyterian Church the movement toward Union has been deliberate. From its very inception in 1875, the Church itself a Union of many different Presbyterian bodies—looked forward to a larger Union. In the pursuit of this purpose, Presbyterianism has never faltered. Every step has been regular and constitutional. Here is the history:

- In 1899, the General Assembly invited a conference with a view to removing "unseemly rivalry and overlapping".
- In 1903, the Assembly decided to consider Union.
- In 1904, the Assembly appointed a committee to report on Union.
- In 1909, the Basis of Union was adopted by the General Assembly.
- In 1911 and 1912, Church Union was voted on by the Presbyteries under the Barrier Act, and by the people. And was approved by both.
- In 1913, the Assembly invited amendments to the Basis of Union.
- In 1915, the amended Basis of Union was submitted to the Presbyteries and to the people. And was again approved by both.
- In 1916, the General Assembly decided to consummate Union.
- In 1917, without receding from its former position, the Assembly deferred further action until after the War.
- In 1921, it was decided to consummate Union "as expeditiously as possible".
- In 1923, the Assembly decided to consummate Union "forthwith" and to apply for the present proposed legislation, which was approved by the Assembly "in principle, and generally as to form". And the vote was: for 427, against 129.

Minority Rights Protected

The Bill now before Parliament incorporating the United Church protects the rights of any minority within the churches. Every congregation is free, by a majority vote, not to concur in the Union.

The property of such a congregation never comes under the control of the United Church.

The Bill provides for an impartial commission to award an equitable share of the general property of the Church to non-concurring congregations.

The Bill does not prevent non-concurring congregations from retaining the name "Presbyterian" and organizing as a Presbyterian Church.

The General Assembly of 1923 empowered its Committee on Church Union "to use its best efforts . . . (consistent with the principle and general form of the legislation as approved by the Assembly) . . . to reach a satisfactory agreement with the minority in reference to the name and status of the non-concurring congregations." The Union Committee sought such a conference, but this proved to be impossible, because the opponents of Union demanded the surrender of the principle of the Bill.

It is true that no provision has been made in the Bill for the incorporation of the non-concurring congregations. Representatives of those opposed to organic union were present when the bill was drafted, and persistently opposed the inclusion of such a clause. The opponents of organic union claim that they constitute the Presbyterian Church in Canada and that the majority who wish Union should leave it. Such a claim is inconsistent with the democratic government of the Presbyterian Church. By an overwhelming majority the Presbyterian Church in Canada has entered into certain covenants which it means to keep.

In the present Church Union Bill, the provisions for the minority are much more liberal than provided for in the Act passed by the Ontario Legislature in 1874, respecting the property of the churches forming the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Presbyterians Have Not Changed Their Minds

Presbyterians have not changed their minds. They are as resolute as ever in their purpose to go forward to organic union. They will not go back on the record of the past twenty years. The memory of Caven and Grant and Macdonnell, those ardent pioneers in the Union Movement, is still fresh. Their labor and sacrifice will not be permitted to fail of its full fruition. Being dead, they still speak, calling on those who remain to bring to perfection the work they began.

The Church Union Bill is now before the Dominion Parliament, and the whole country awaits the outcome. The Bill, when passed, will take its place as one of the most important and far-reaching pieces of legislation ever placed on the statute books of this or of any other country.

The Real Issue

THE Congregational, Methodist and Presbyterian Churches of Canada, having resolved, after twenty years of negotiation, to enter into organic union, made application in the regular way to the Dominion Parliament for an Act of Incorporation for the proposed United Church, and to the Provincial Legislatures for necessary concurrent legislation.

The Incorporating Bill is now under discussion in the Dominion Parliament. The Provincial Bills have been passed by the Legislatures of Manitoba and Saskatchewan, have been reported for final reading in Alberta and New Brunswick, and have passed the second reading in the Legislatures of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

The Legislatures of Quebec and British Columbia concluded their sessions for 1923-24 so early that it was not possible to have the legislation considered by them.

In the Ontario Legislature, the Private Bills Committee resolved to make an amendment to the Bill, and effect of which would have been to destroy its central and vital principle. It therefore became necessary to withdraw the Bill.

The core of the amendment is found in the following extract: "The non-concurring congregations of the negotiating churches shall respectively be deemed to continue to exist as and constitute the Presbyterian Church in Canada, the Methodist Church and the Congregational Churches." This amendment would nullify the whole Union Movement.

The issue becomes one of fundamental importance. The amendment says, in effect, that the Churches negotiating for Union have lost their identity, which has passed to the minorities who may be opposed to Union. These uniting Churches would no longer be the Congregational, Methodist and Presbyterian Churches, but their denominational names, rights and privileges would belong to the minorities in the three Churches.

It should be observed that the force of the amendment does not depend upon the size of the minorities. No matter how small the minority might be, it would constitute the Church, and the majority of the members of the Church, with its ministry and its courts, would be seceders. The amendment would make impossible not only the present Union, but also any Union which might be proposed in the future.

THE CHURCH UNION MOVEMENT IS NOT A SECESSION

It is necessary only to state the clear implication of the amendment to show how impossible its acceptance is for the Churches which have resolved on Union. To yield here would be an admission that the Churches have no power of self-determination and that the solemn decisions of their courts have no binding effect whatever.

Short, however, of the surrender of this essential principle, the Union Committee representing the three Churches, is authorized and prepared to go to the uttermost limit in negotiations with the minorities. The name, organization, status, property rights, and even provision for the education of a ministry—on all these questions, the minorities have been assured over and over again of the most generous consideration. If there is a grievance which it is within human power to remove, the Churches are prepared to remove it at any cost, provided it does not involve the sacrifice of their own identity.

NOVA SCOTIA CAPTAIN BEATEN UP AND ROBBED IN MEXICAN PORT

Windsor, N. S., April 15.—Capt. J. S. LeCain, master of tank steamer Edward L. Doheny, Jr., which arrived from Tampico and is discharging a cargo at the Mexican Petroleum Company's Allen's avenue plant, was held up by two wharf skulkers at Tampico, who boarded the ship in the night, attacked him in his cabin, stabbed him several times, tied him up, and got away with $1,884 in cash. Gagged and bound hand and foot, and bleeding from his wounds, Capt. LeCain lay helpless on the cabin floor nearly five hours.

On the night of Feb. 28, as the vessel was taking in cargo at Tampico, Capt. LeCain retired early and slept soundly until 8 o'clock in the morning, when he was awakened by the punch of an automatic against his ribs. In the dim light he saw bending over him the man holding the gun, and heard "Get up and open that safe or I'll kill you." While Capt. LeCain was climbing out of his berth, the gunman, who was an American, kept him covered and then, showing the muzzle of the automatic against the skipper's spine, marched him into the ship's office, the next room adjoining, where the other member of the raiding party, a Mexican, was waiting.

the safe, and held a pocket search-light while the combination was twirled and the door opened. Then he pushed Capt. LeCain aside, put the automatic in his pocket and proceeded to help himself to the bills and a large bag of silver which were in a drawer.

At this point the captain thought he saw an opportunity to get away and give the alarm to his crew. He is young and athletic, and with a bound attacked the Mexican to knock him aside, hoping to be able to slip through a door and out before a bullet could stop him. But he saw too late the gleam of a knife, and when he closed with the "greaser" was slashed savagely. The other robber got into action instantly, and, charging across the floor, hit the captain a terrific blow on the head with the heavy bag of silver coins. This was a knockout. The fighting captain went down.

While he lay unconscious on the floor, the thieves took the bedspread from his berth and tore it into strips. They forced some of the cloth into his mouth, and then tied a strip around his head very tightly, making a painful and effective gag. They then tied his hands behind his back and bound his ankles together with another strip. By the time they had accomplished this, Capt. LeCain began to gain consciousness, to find them lifting him along the floor to a point in front of the leather couch built into the wall of the office. Under this couch there is a drawer, and with his back to this the skipper was tied hard and fast to its heavy brass band. Without exchanging a word the band was secured their body and disappeared.

Capt. LeCain's worst suffering came then. Until nearly 8 o'clock he lay on the floor, several straps were cut across his shoulder, arm and breast, suffering almost as much from cold as from his several wounds. The thermometer went down to 53, and a gale of wind was sending its cold, damp gusts in through the open portholes.

When the captain failed to join his officers at the breakfast mesa, Chief Engineer J. Bergerson went in search of the skipper, and upon entering the office found the commander helpless in a pool of blood.

Mr. Bergerson sounded the alarm, and out the skipper's bonds, while other officers sent for a doctor. The latter advised Capt. LeCain to go to a hospital and get some other master to bring the Doheny to Providence, but the doctory skipper, after being patched up, felt well enough to continue in charge of his ship, and the next day began his voyage.

The police of Tampico, while the vessel remained there, were unable to get any trace of the bandits. During the day preceding the attack on Capt. LeCain several strangers were seen hanging about the wharf, and it is thought that these beach combers were looking over the ship and planning the night raid on the master. The night was very favorable for them, as a gale was blowing, accompanied by fog. The robbers did not secure all the money in the safe, for in another drawer, which they failed to explore, was another large sum in bills.

Upon arrival here, the Doheny was met at the wharf when she docked by G. A. Henshaw, port captain of the Mexican Petroleum Co., who came here from the company's headquarters in New York, to learn the details of the robbery, of which New York was advised by the Doheny's radio as she steamed north.

The company will make every effort to apprehend the thieves in Mexico.

Capt. LeCain is a native of Cherie, Hants Co., and a son of the late Captain Thomas and Mrs. LeCain, who is now residing in the U. S.

ADD 15 NEW MEMBERS.
During the winter season the Women's Missionary Society of the Coburg street Christian church gained 15 new members, it was announced at the meeting last night at the residence of Mrs. W. J. Dunlop, 72 City Road.

Mrs. George A. Horton, president, was in the chair. The Bible reading was given by Mrs. Blanche Sprague. The missionary topic, "China's compelling needs," was presented by Mrs. J. E. Edwards and "Come On," a story of Tibet, by Mrs. H. H. Gillen. The programme had been arranged by Mrs. Stockford. The hostess served refreshments.

JAIL LOOKS LIKE A HOUSE.
New York, April 12.—A radical departure from the old type of jails with heavy bars and dark, ill-ventilated cells, marks the new units of the Lincoln Heights jail under construction in Los Angeles, says Associated Press despatch from that city. With few exceptions there will be no bars to mar the appearance of the buildings, which will resemble private dwellings.

Chief of Police August Vollmer is responsible for the harshest prison. He will observe the psychological effect of cheery surroundings on inmates. Abundant exercise and fresh air are provided for in the new quarters. Men capable of working will be given an opportunity to do so and will be paid at the rate of $2 a day.

Perfectly Useless.

COLOR CONTRASTS AT WEMBLEY
When the King opens the British Empire Exhibition on April 23 he will look down on a scene made vivid by remarkable color contrasts. As the great buildings approach completion the color scheme develops like the mixture of paints on an artist's palette. From Wembley Hill Station the domes and towers of the Malay building already attract the eye by the bright yellow stripes which are imposed on a pale yellow background. But even this will be outshone by the picturesque corner where the buildings of Hong Kong, Malta, South Africa, Palestine, and Cyprus are grouped. Splashes of color are now visible there, and one has a glimpse of the red roof of South Africa, the white domes of Cyprus, the russet of West Africa, the gleaming white and bright green of East Africa, the creamy tint of Malta, and the deep red of Hong Kong. In contrast to these brilliant colors will be the unrelieved white of the India pavilion, which is being built to resemble the Taj Mahal. Like a picture fairy tale book will be the bridge leading to the British Government pavilion. A study in vermilion and white will have round towers, with painted roofs and quaint archways and gateways

What the exhibition will look like by night, when illuminated by thousands of lamps, can only faintly be imagined.

Does Not Slip
The difficulty of keeping shoulder straps in good condition has been solved by adjustable chains of gold or silver. One set will do for all one's lingerie and the chain, unlike the ribbon or lace strap, does not slip from the shoulder.

"The handsome shoe that keeps foot-health"

"O.H." says one woman, "It's useless to talk to me about arch relief shoes. They may be 'common-sense,' as they call them, but they're always so clumsy and ugly. I simply can't wear them, and that's all."

So the poor creature thinks she must go on and suffer untold foot-tortures to the end of her days.

You can't blame her or any woman for wanting shoes of handsome appearance, at any cost. Her problem, however, is solved in Plio-Pedic shoes for women.

Believing that comfort and style could be combined in one shoe, we designed the Plio-Pedic strictly according to the beautiful lines of Nature, made it of Goodyear Welt construction, and fitted it with a special flexible shank which helps weakened foot-muscles and displaced bones to regain a normal condition and keeps healthy feet strong and well.

Buy a pair of Plio-Pedic Shoes and try them. You'll get true fit, perfect comfort, arch support, ease in walking and as handsome an appearance as is possible to secure. Once you wear Plio-Pedic you will never want any other.

A wide variety of styles—$8 and $8.50 at all good stores.

Simmons "Eldon" beds. Finish reproduces walnut, mahogany or oak; also in colors

You can get Ostermoor quality yet save money on your mattress!

To the home-maker who values the appearance and comfort of her beds—yet is obliged to guard the purchasing power of her dollars—buying a mattress is always an important matter.

A fancy ticking and attractive price-tag will not suffice. She wants assurance that her mattress will keep its shape for years and will always be comfortable.

Above all, she wants it clean and safe inside. She wants thick, "cushiony" layers of fresh, new, virgin cotton carefully tufted, edged and stitched. She wants an economical mattress packed with years of sound, restful sleep.

With Ostermoor measuring up to these common sense demands, is it any wonder that Canadian women have preferred it to any other for more than 30 years?

Sleep restores at night the energy used up by day. Yet poor bedding makes impossible the deep, sound sleep which does this perfectly.

Spare a few minutes tonight to examine the bed you spend one-third of all your days on. Then go and compare what you are using with the Ostermoor and other Simmons mattresses and the "Banner" and other Simmons springs.

Your dealer will be glad to show them to you in a range of styles and prices to suit every taste and pocketbook. Satisfy yourself that thrift and the comfort you need lie in Simmons sleep equipment.

Montreal Morning Letter

Montreal, April 15.—There is absolutely nothing in the news print situation, either in Canada or the United States to support the pessimistic statements originating in certain quarters and widely circulated through the press to the effect that a break in the heavy-pulp market is imminent. Says Edward Beck, secretary of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, when interviewed yesterday: "The industry is in a perfectly healthy condition," he declared, "and while Canadian production for the first quarter of the year shows an increase as compared with the corresponding period of last year, shipments have kept pace with increased production. Individual mills may show a smaller production than last year, but the gross is greater."

SPORT NEWS GLEANED FROM WORLD'S CENTRES

SOME FACTS ABOUT CHESLEY H. SEARCEY

Boston Writer Gives Record of Pacer Purchased by Fredericton Interests.

Once more the Maine and New Brunswick fans have something to look forward to, as a result of this, interest in harness racing remains at the high pitch it was last season and the preceding year, says S. J. Mahoney in the Boston Advertiser.

The acquisition of Chesley H. Searcey, the three-year-old pacer that was campaigned last season on the Ohio Short Ship Circuit and the Grand Circuit, has aroused concern in Fredericton, N. B., that promises to be even greater than that of Presque Isle, Me., where they consider John R. Branden, the son of John R. John, the greatest of all time.

The sports of Fredericton all have done their bit to secure the pacer which they expect will send John R. Branden into disrepute, but in view of the fact that John Willard, the trainer of the Branden horse, says his charge is as good as ever, the Fredericton folks may be disappointed more than once.

They should bear in mind that Roy Grattan, Jackson Grattan, Col. Bidwell and Dan Hedgewood were expected to eliminate John R. B., but the "Iron Horse" of Aroostook is still going strong.

Made Going Fast. Chesley H. Searcey was more or less of a sensation last year as a three-year-old. He made Anna Bradford's girl crawl at an unusual pace in some three-year-old Grand Circuit races.

This undoubtedly was what attracted the attention of the New Brunswick folks. They had $15,000 to spend, but they could not buy the horse they sought.

Word recently came to us that Bert Lint, who was the scout assigned to the task of making a selection, had had the "in" mind, but he was not able to make a deal for the pacer with a mark of 2:07 1/4, so he turned his attention to the three-year-old that made the folks of Findlay, O., Marton, O., North Randall, O., Toledo, O., and Lexington, Ky., sit up and take notice, and bought him for $7,500.

It was at Findlay, O., that the Searcey horse drew his mark of 2:07 1/4, which he made in the second heat of a race in which a fast field was opposed to him. This was on a half mile track.

Prior to that he covered a mile in 2:05 1/4 in the first heat of a race in which some of the fastest three-year-olds in the country took part. He won the heat but Anna Bradford's girl won the race, which was on a mile track.

In the championship sweepstakes at Columbus, Ohio, July 25, he was finished and the result was that his rivals, Anna Bradford's girl, Kinsey Silk, Lulla Forbes and Echo had the top places.

S. national title last year against "Algy" McGuire, the Buffalo policeman, now training for the Olympics, and Paul Costello, 1922 U. S. National champion, that he used a small-bladed oar. NEWS NOTES GATHERED FROM THE WORLD OF STAGE AND SCREEN

NINE O'CLOCK GIRL GETS STAGE STRUCK SCORES A BIG HIT

Six Months Ago was in Settlement House—Now in Chorus Front Row.

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 15.—Miss Bella Heyman, 18, is "The Modern Cinderella."

A poor little settlement house girl six months ago, today she is in the first row of the chorus in a musical revue. Applauded nightly in Chicago, she is due on Broadway at Easter.

Some of these friends have never seen a musical show. To them, as it was to Bella, the dancers, the music, the times and the lights are a dream. Bella had never been in a theatre. Her family was religious. But the girl had visions.

"I sneaked away to dance—to sing," she said. "I learned to be a stenographer. I worked in a lawyer's office. It was humdrum. Day after day, I pounded on a typewriter. I watched the clock. I wanted to run away, to dance, to become a star, to marry a millionaire. That is the dream of many girls. I decided to make mine come true.

Doubting in Brass. "From the lawyer's office, I went to work in a settlement house. There I had an opportunity to get off in the afternoons. With money I had saved, I took dancing lessons. At nights, too, I would dance. I told my mother I was visiting friends. Mother was opposed to anything connected with the stage.

"One day, I stole off to a theatre. I was bewildered by the number of people at the matinee. I thought most of the people had to work all day, as I had to. This was the first time I was in a real theatre—and that was only a year ago.

"From then on, nothing could hold me. I straightened out my mother, I word came to me that a manager was casting a big musical comedy. To me, to appear at a Broadway theatre would be heaven.

MISS BELLA HEYMAN, BEFORE SHE WENT ON THE STAGE (RIGHT) AND AFTER.

"I rushed over. I was asked how long I had been a stage dancer. 'For years,' I replied. And I had been in my dreams. Again, I danced all the dances I knew. And the job was mine!

"I rehearsed hours and hours. Suddenly an order came that we were to go 'on the road' first. The route lay to Atlantic City, Washington, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Chicago. I had never been away from home before. I hadn't even seen Riverside Drive in New York. I had gone to bed at nine o'clock. I was frightened. My courage left me a little then.

"The day we were to go to Atlantic City, my six-year-old brother died of pneumonia. To me, it meant the end of the world. I went home, finished with the theatre.

"Your place will always be open for you," the producer of the play wired.

"The kindness of that manager turned my family towards the theatre. 'Beyond the gloom at home lay the fairland that I could not resist. After two weeks, I rejoined the company in Philadelphia. There, for the first time, I appeared on a stage before an audience. Blinded by the lights and nearly dead from fear, I danced as if my life were at stake. I had to make good! My biggest task was to go through a jazz number. I shivered with fear so much that I pulled through—for people thought I was doing a stunner.

"Now, it's all easy. I even go to bed at two o'clock in the morning. 'Of course, the stage is had for some girls. But I know it will never be had for me. It is simply my dream coming true. I shall be a star some day—and marry a millionaire. Even if my hero hasn't a million, I'll pretend he has. If a girl has a constant love for someone, a high ideal and great hopes—she can be at clean on the stage as in a settlement house."

CANADIAN FILM SCORES AT UNIQUE

"Valley of Silent Men" Has Many Thrilling Scenes.

Proving itself to be one of the most vigorous photoplays seen here in many months, "The Valley of Silent Men," a Cosmopolitan creation, is going to feature Alma Rubens, greeted with marked demonstrations of approval by a large assemblage of picture fans at the Unique Theatre last night. It was filmed in the Rocky Mountains of Canada, in the precise spot described by James Oliver Curwood in his celebrated novel upon which the picture is based.

Frank Borzage, the creator of "Humoresque" and other notable picture productions, has displayed no inconsiderable skill in his latest effort. Miss Rubens, appearing as a young Canadian girl who loves a valiant corporal of the Canadian mounted police when he, believing himself to be dying, confesses to murder of which he is innocent, in order to shield her brother, has a role of signal dramatic force in the rendition of which her talents are admirably displayed. Her support generally is excellent, the characterizations of Lew Cody, Joe King, George Nash and others being all that could be asked for.

OPERA HOUSE HAS VERY FUNNY FARCE

"The Unkissed Bride" is Greatly Enjoyed by First Night Audience.

"THE UNKISSSED BRIDE," a farce in three acts by Charles Demarest, produced by the Straight House by the F. James Carroll Players, staged and directed by Paul Broderick, scenic artist, R. C. Benjamin, musical director, Opera House orchestra under the direction of Thomas H. Roberts.

Cast of Characters: Owen call Jack Reynolds, James Swift Kitty, Edna Preston, James G. Goode Dolores, Myra Marsh Lily, Virginia Odeon, Anne Matilda, Darlene Kean, Minister, Carleton Pinckney Bukley, Paul Broderick.

When Kitty agreed to go through a form of marriage with her sweetheart, Fred Forrester, in order to help him out of a difficulty, she opened the door for a series of embarrassing and humorous situations upon which one of the most farcical of farces has been constructed. But, to add to the difficulty, the supposed fake wedding was a real one, known only to the groom's staunch but erratic friend, Jack Reynolds, and this small item in the general mix-up which followed formed another peg on which were hung some riotous episodes.

The honors of the piece were well shared by the principals, Miss Preston, Fred Forrester, in order to help him out of a difficulty, she opened the door for a series of embarrassing and humorous situations upon which one of the most farcical of farces has been constructed. But, to add to the difficulty, the supposed fake wedding was a real one, known only to the groom's staunch but erratic friend, Jack Reynolds, and this small item in the general mix-up which followed formed another peg on which were hung some riotous episodes.

Mr. Swift zig-zagged his way through the three acts in a most comical state of intoxication, which did not help to straighten out the mess into which he had assisted his pal. His lines and action were the source of much of the mirth of the piece. Miss Kelton had a typical comedy character role, which she handled to satisfaction, and Miss Odeon presented—for her—a new type of character, that of a maid who was a happy combination of a "sag" and a "dumbbell." She drew many laughs from her audience. Mr. Col, Mr. Franklin, Mr. Pinckney and Mr. Broderick had parts which added much to the enjoyment of the piece.

During the intervals bulletins of the election results were announced from the stage. The play will run for the week.

Work is under way on the construction of the main dike across the Zuyder Zee.

Back From the Grave

Theodore Roberts, veteran actor of the screen, is playing a pathetic role in his own life story. After hovering near death in Pittsburgh for 14 weeks, he is back in Hollywood fighting for strength. This picture shows his arrival, upon which he was greeted by thousands of film stars and admirers.

FILM FLASHES.

When Mae Murray returns to the Coast she will bring with her twenty-one new costumes which she will wear in her next picture, "Circé."

The cameras have clicked the final scenes of Lionel Barrymore's first Chadwick production, "Meddling Women." Dagmar Godowsky, Sigrid Holmquist and Hugh Thompson are in the supporting cast.

Actual "shootings" has begun on the Myron Selnick film in London, "The Passionate Adventurer," which features Alice Joyce and Marjorie Daw. Irene Rich, Pauline Garon, Albert Roscoe and Willard Lewis have recently made "Pal o' Mine," a C. B. C. release.

There are now 878 theatres in Greater New York devoted exclusively to the showing of motion pictures as against 423 in 1919. The capacity of these houses is 428,926. In addition there are about fifty houses which show a combination of pictures and vaudeville, bringing the total capacity up to about a half million daily.

Clever Entertainers of Main Street Church Give Fine Performance.

Before a capacity house the "Merry Entertainers Club" of the Main street Baptist church last evening presented the pageant "Queen Esther's Dream" in the vestry of the church, in a manner which won golden opinions from the large audience. Miss Ella McAlary had charge of the production and the excellence of the performance reflected great credit on her work. There is a possibility that Will Hays may object to the filming of "Tarnish" by Samuel Goldwyn. It is believed by many motion picture people the showing of this play in cinema form might do the fight against censorship much harm. Mr. Goldwyn is, however, proceeding to film "Tarnish" and will fight any effort to stop him.

ST. JOHN BOXERS TO MARITIMES

Several Will Go to Halifax for the Championship Meet.

St. John will be represented at the Maritime boxing championships at Halifax next week by Louis Donovan, present 126-pound Maritime champion, James Sands, 118 pounds, and Joseph Farrell, 138 pounds, and Joe Yeno, featherweight. As Donovan is to box this year in the 126-pound class it is probable that Farrell will go over and make another year against Ray Kennedy, Maritime champion. There is a possibility that Murray Young, son of "Jimmy" Young, also will go over. Young, who annexed the New Brunswick 112 pound class, is a greatly improved boy, and should make a good showing if he meets the younger, who was pitted against Harold Warnock, St. Mary's A. C., at the recent tourney in the 118 pound class, and gave him such a tussle that Warnock was unable to go on in the finals.

SAID HE TOOK COAL TO SELL IT

Boy Admits Matter in Court and Magistrate Gives Warning.

Two juveniles appeared in the police court this morning charged with stealing coal from cars in the C. P. R. yard off Mill street. Gordon Costello, of the Investigation Department of the C. P. R., said that the boys had opened one of the cars and deliberately taken the coal. Questioned by Magistrate Henderson, one of the two acknowledged that he had taken coal but was caught with it before he got away. He said he had intended to sell it. The other acknowledged taking it. One appeared for the first time, but his companion had been in court on other occasions. The latter was sent below and warned that he was liable to be sent to the Boys Industrial Home for four years. His companion was informed that he would be allowed to return home with his mother, but if he ever violated the law again the charge would stand against him. Magistrate Henderson said he would dispose of the other boy later in the day. He said the C. P. R. were disposed to make an example of these cases in an effort to put a stop to these thefts and also as a warning to those who purchase goods from boys knowing them to be stolen.

WAS THIS ACT OF GOOD CITIZEN?

Report to Building Inspector Raises Question in Police Court.

During a case in the police court this morning in which Building Inspector James Carleton appeared to lay a complaint against H. C. Robertson for making repairs to his building in Waterloo street without having secured a permit a question arose as to "a good citizen." The inspector said that in consequence of information he received from a neighbor of the defendant he had investigated and discovered that renovations were made without a permit as required by the law and as a result he had made out the information. He said he considered a person who would give the authorities information of that type a good citizen.

Magistrate Henderson said if the latter course had been followed the person referred to might have been a better neighbor, but it would not imply that he was a better citizen. He explained that it was not, however, a case of morals vs. legality. Mr. Robertson said that he had made the renovations, but was ignorant of the fact that he was violating the law by not applying for a permit. He said that he knew a permit was necessary for work on the outside of a building, but he did not think work such as he was doing required a permit. Magistrate Henderson said he would set the case over until Wednesday and that in the meanwhile satisfactory arrangements might be made.

As Hiram Sees It

"Hiram," said The Times reporter to Mr. Hiram Hornbeam, "did you see the Premier in Fredericton?" "I did so," said Hiram. "We got a bill out there to the Settlement that ain't fit to take a team on. The road is washed out every spring an' gits worse an' worse. I went to Peter an' I bid him to come an' see it fer himself. Well, sir, he says to me, says he: 'Hiram, I know all about that there road. I got a letter about it four or five years ago. I had the supervisor make an estimate on it an' told him to get the work done. He hired you fellers out there to do the work. Whenever anybody come in sight you stood up an' your shovel an' talked about him till he went past an' was out o' sight an' then you waited fer the next feller. If you Settlement fellers had earned your money that there bill 'ud be all right today—but you used up the money an' didn't do the work—ain't that so?' And when Peter put that way I 'ud to own up he was right—By Hen!"
