W. CALDWELL ON THE BUDGET

In the House of Commons, on Thursday, June 21, 1922

W. Caldwell (Victoria and Carleton): Mr. Speaker, before proceeding to discuss the question before the House, I wish to join with the hon. members who have preceded me in this debate in extending sincere congratulations to the hon. Minister of Finance (Mr. Bennett) on having achieved the distinguished distinction of having delivered his sixteenth budget to the Parliament of Canada as well as the contribution he has been able to make to the advancement of Canada in other respects, not the least of which was his effort in 1911 to bring about the reciprocity agreement between Canada and the United States and his recent efforts along that line.

Before proceeding to discuss the budget, I wish to refer to some remarks made by the hon. Minister of Finance (Sir James Gordon) in his speech when he was expounding his tariff bill, a very popular thing, that the explanation came from the official opposition, and not from his own supporters in the House, and I noticed that when he began to speak of the result of the election last fall, his own followers showed the first symptoms of cheering up a bit. Another statement he made was that the manufacturers of Canada had furnished a market for the produce of the farms in Canada.

It is not like to interrupt an hour's speech when he was speaking, although I would have liked to ask him if he would pretend to tell the House of this country that the wheat, potatoes or other farm products grown in Canada, can find a market here, notwithstanding the fact that we have had forty years or upwards of protection. Last year, in my riding alone, there were thousands of barrels of potatoes dumped, because there were no markets in Canada for them. The same we could have received for potatoes would not have paid the freight to market. The same one could say for wheat and other crops.

In the Province of New Brunswick, not less than 50 per cent of the cost of producing the potato crop in my province, which is the crop we grow for export.

Mr. McQUARRIE: Will the hon. member tell us if any potatoes came into his district from the United States?

Mr. CALDWELL: No I want to digress a moment. I was willing when I came to this House to believe that the farmers and the people of British Columbia generally were as efficient and as able to take care of themselves, possibly, as the people of New Brunswick. I have been compelled almost against my will to reverse my judgment. Because I find the people of British Columbia bewailing the fact that they cannot hold their own against the residents of the United States immediately opposite them.

In the province from which I come the farmers are very anxious to have a reciprocity agreement enacted between Canada and the United States.

I live immediately next to that great potato belt in the State of Idaho, with the imaginary line between me and the people of that State of Idaho. I think of that line that we will get reciprocity with United States. They are saying that harvests be placed against Canada, so that I cannot help thinking that we must certainly be far more efficient in New Brunswick than our farmers friends in British Columbia, because I do not think the

EASTERN STAR ORGANIZES

A chapter of the Order of Eastern Star was instituted on Thursday, June 15, at Hartland, under the name of Friendship Chapter. Deputy Philip A. Jorgensen of Sarnia, Ont., with the assistance of Victoria chapter No. 1, Woodstock, installed the officers and demonstrated the work of initiation. This was followed by a banquet. Then the visitors from Woodstock accompanied by Mrs. Jorgensen, were taken by auto to Florenceville, where a chapter was also instituted.

The officers of Hartland Chapter are: Worthy Matron, Miss Evelyn T. Kelly; Worthy Patron, A. W. Kyle; Assoc. Matron, Mrs. A. W. Kyle; Sec., Mrs. Emma T. Kelly; Treas., H. J. Allen; Conductress, Myrtle B. Dickson; Assoc. Matrons, Mrs. Dickson, Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. M. G. Goss; Chaplain, Mrs. B. M. Goss; Organist, Mrs. S. Kelly; Acolyte, Mrs. B. M. Goss; Ruth, Lillian O. UNUSUAL FRESHET

The rain storm which set in the head waters of the St. John on Friday continued unabated until yesterday and in some sections of northern Ontario a continued down-pour has been a daily occurrence. The result was one of the greatest freshets in all history of the St. John. Islands and interlakes all along the river are inundated and much damage has been done to crops. In many places, planted fields are over-flooded and in other places damage of rain washed out fields of potatoes and grain.

The lumbermen all along the river suffered heavily. There was a great loss of pulp wood from the head waters of which was envisaged at the Van Buren boom. Practically all the bank logs and tied rafts were swept away, and the Fraser Lumber Co. had heavy loss from their storage at Fraser Rock. Locally F. W. Smith lost a large part of his expected lumber crop.

With such a heavy rain-fall during June agricultural interests can well get along without more rain until late laying.

C. W. N. A. HAD GREAT MEETING

The Canadian Weekly News Association convention was a great success from every standpoint. From the time when the maritime members met in Fredericton until the convention closed in Ottawa on Friday evening there was not a dull or uninteresting moment. The car put at the disposal of the members of the association was their own river boat, the boat to the capital city was replete with every convenience and comfort, and too much cannot be said in praise of the Canadian National Official for the pains they took to make the travellers comfortable. It was a merry and good humoured crowd of people in the car and the entertainment provided in Fredericton seemed to last it in with the absence of sleep. Everyone who was at the convention, on Monday evening at the Prince of Wales enjoyed it and many nights the effort about the smoothness with which everything went off, of the excellent dinner served by the Windsor Hotel management, of the talent of our people in song and music, and of the excellent speeches of both visitors and hosts. The Board of Trade and especially the hotelkeepers, were the hosts of the convention, of the Board of Trade in providing entertainment which will undoubtedly have the effect of advancing the reputation and the resources in a way which could not otherwise have been accomplished without costing a great deal of money. To the ladies who had charge of the decorations and refreshments at the Palace, there is due a great deal of praise and doubtless the Board of Trade have expressed their appreciation of their efforts.

The convention opened in Ottawa on Wednesday morning with a delegation of delegates from all over the Dominion. The members were held in the ball room of the Chateau Laurier, where the great majority of the delegates stayed. The first day the management of the National News Association did everything to make the delegates comfortable. That great host is the blue room of the hall, afterwards enjoying the beautiful grounds and listening to the military band attached to the Governor General's residence. Later refreshments were served in the Hall, and afterwards the grounds and band were enjoyed once more. The same evening a dance was given in the Chateau by the Hotel management and supper served in the magnificent Ballroom of the Chateau. The floor of the ball room was pronounced by experts to be perfect—a statement the editor had to take in good faith, as he unfortunately does not toss the light fantastic—but the refreshments served in the dining room as before-mentioned, was beyond criticism and beyond praise, and the evidence he gives is gained by first-hand knowledge—for although he does not dance, he does eat—and believe me he ate there.

C. W. N. A. HAS GREAT MEETING

On Friday business started again and excellent papers were read on kindred subjects by experts, and in the afternoon the delegates were taken in automobiles over the city of Ottawa, and then to the Dominion Experimental Farm in the outskirts of the city. Here again refreshments were served, and speeches indulged in.

The ladies of the party were well looked after. They were dined at the Riverview Golf Club and had the pleasure of hearing, among other distinguished persons, Lady Foster who took as her theme the subject which is so close to the heart of her illustrious husband, "The League of Nations." The Ottawa Committee also arranged that they should visit the National Galleries and the Royal Mint. Still other sightseeing trips were taken to the E. B. Fidy Co. and J. R. Booth's Company plant in Hull, paper making and manufacturing establishments which are household words in the Dominion. Paper for The Observer is made at the Eddy mill. There were more than five hundred delegates, including the wives, and every province in the country was represented.

The combined circulation of the papers represented runs into millions, and reach into the remotest parts of our country, moulding the thought of the people, and leading the way for good citizenship, and high ideals. The meetings in Ottawa were memorable ones, the programme of speakers was a carefully drawn one, and such subjects as "Building a Weekly Newspaper," "What the Country Merchant Expects from his Weekly Newspaper," "The Editorial Column" and "Canadian Literature" were among the questions discussed. From the moment when the Mayor of Ottawa welcomed and conferred the freedom of the city upon the delegates on the first day to the time when the last delegate left for his home, the people of Ottawa showed their kindness.

As one looks at the historic buildings which make up the Capital city, and remembers the price paid during the world war for citizenship in the Dominion and in the world war, he approaches the hill with more or less reverent mien, for the Parliament Buildings stand for an ideal, an ideal which cost the lives of millions, and sent the Kaiser to Doorn chopping trees.

To the railways who co-operated to make the convention a success, and did so much for the comfort of all, to Societies whose organization for the entertainment of visitors was so perfect, to the manager, E. Roy Sayles, whose interest for the well being of the members never flags throughout the year, and whose efforts in connection with this year's gathering was crowned with success, the C. W. N. A. owes a debt of appreciation which will be acknowledged in every weekly newspaper worth while in the whole Dominion of Canada. And as A. T. Ross of the Chatham Commercial said to the writer when wishing him good-

SCHOOL MATTERS

A trustees' and teachers' meeting was held in the office of J. Stirling King, secretary, Tuesday evening, for the purpose of considering re-hiring the present staff of teachers, but two of the resignations, Miss McBeath and G. W. Montgomery, are definite, while the two primary teachers are likely to be staying. The principal is yet undecided. Miss McBeath would not consider a position on the staff for next year on account of illness in her family, and G. W. Montgomery wishes to return to his law course.

Watching Life of Plants.

From fuller information, now at hand in regard to the machine by aid of which the Indian scientist, Sir J. C. Bose, has been making visible in London the ingrowth of plants, shows that he does much more than make visible what everybody already knew—he has revealed that the growth of a plant is by no means steady or continuous—that it is affected by many of the influences besides mere nutriment that affect the growth of animals. In short, this machine, which is called a crescograph and magnifies movement a million times, proves that plants are much more alive than it is customary to credit them with being, and it is not an altogether fanciful notion that when the facts in relation to plant life become better known, something of consideration for their "feelings" and something of compunction about treating them cruelly may develop.

Pharmacy Popular.

Pharmacy is a popular pursuit among the women of South America, according to a Y. W. C. A. leader in that country, because it is a protected profession and is considered womanly. South American girls have not gone into public life and into the business world and the trades as North American girls have and still consider, as a rule, only the so-called protected lines of work. They teach and sew and a few have become typists and stenographers, but most women who take up any profession train for nursing, medicine or pharmacy. Chemistry is also a popular study.

Rather Embarrassing.

We had just moved into a new house. I was dressing when the bell rang, and mother went to the door. Sure enough it was the young man I was trying to avoid. But instead of saying I was not at home, mother said: "Oh, let me show you our new house." Everything was lovely until approaching the closet, where I was crouched down on my knees, half-dressed, mother said: "This is where we keep all our old junk and rubbish." I shall never forget how embarrassed I was.—Exchange.

To Break Him of the Habit.

"John," said her husband's wife, "don't believe you have smoked one of those lovely cigars I gave you at Christmas."
"No, my dear, I haven't," replied his wife's husband. "As a matter of fact, I intend to keep them until our little Willy grows up and wants to learn to smoke."

Monocle Is Losing Hold

That It Took on the Army
When Empire Was Young

One of the decaying institutions is the monocle; or, is it becoming one of the lost arts? Eyeglasses and "specs" are multiplying, but the monocle has seen its day. It played a shining part on some quite respectable faces in English society, and in some rather curious families of American society. It was popular for a time and then its popularity wanted. Popularity nearly always goes that way.

Several explanations have been given as to why the monocle was. Sir Horace Rumbold wrote that the fashion of wearing it was introduced at the Congress of Vienna—a congress which remade the map of Europe back in the last century. He told that it was a Dutch "exquisite"—which is the diplomatic language for "dude"—one Jonkheer Breesle, who was the first man to wear a monocle, and he showed this brand new fad to the diplomats and their followers assembled at Vienna. After that introduction the fad spread to all parts of Europe, but took its strongest grip on England.

Another authority has said that the monocle made its first conquest in British army circles. An order had been issued that army officers should not wear eyeglasses or spectacles, these being considered evidence of defective eyes. A number of officers then took to wearing a monocle on that account, their thought being something like that which prompted so many officers and enlisted men to take to carrying a short cane, which came to be called "swagger stick." From military circles the monocle extended its influence to civilians and came to be "quite the thing, don't you know."

Toward the end of the first quarter of the nineteenth century the fad of wearing a monocle had become so popular that a writer of a book on the care of the eyes and the preservation of the vision inveighed against it. The name of the writer was Dr. Kitchener and in 1823 he published this book, the title of which was "Economy of the Eyes." Referring to the monocle he wrote: "A single glass set in a smart ring, is often used by trinket fanciers for fashion's sake. These folks have not the least defect in their sight, and are not aware of the mischievous consequences of such irritation."

So They Say.

"If people will only try to give up the dreadful carping spirit and habit of finding fault with everything on God's earth and, instead, work to help to put things right, it would be far better not only for the men of to-day, but also for those who will come after them." — Gen. Sir Francis Lloyd.

Words of Wit and Wisdom.

Britain's Nickname.

Just as "Uncle Sam" is symbolic of the United States, and "Jean Crapeau," with his exaggerated top hat and tightly waxed moustache, represent France in literature and pictorial art, John Bull, bluff, hearty, and heavy-set, is the national figure of England.

Both he and his description date back to 1712, when Dr. John Arbuthnot wrote his political allegory entitled "The History of John Bull," a book which caused a great deal of comment at the time. Though this book itself has practically disappeared, John Bull, well fed on the roast beef of England, has survived more than two centuries.

It Was All Right.

IN MISERY FOR SIX YEARS FROM STOMACH TROUBLE UNTIL TANLAC BROUGHT HIM PERFECT HEALTH, SAYS HALIFAX BUSINESS MAN.

"I want to recommend Tanlac for it is the direct cause of my being in better health today than for years," said Elijah N. Thomas, merchandise dealer for eighteen years or more in Lower Sackville, Halifax, N. S.

"For six years I had a bad form of stomach trouble. My appetite was so poor that many times I got up from the table without eating. When I did eat anything I had awful cramping pains and gas formed which caused my heart to palpitate so I could hardly breathe. I lost weight gradually, lost much sleep, and my condition was so bad I can hardly describe it. "The first bottle of Tanlac didn't seem to help me, but Mrs. Thomas reminded me my case was of long standing and I tried a second bottle and began to get better. Now all my troubles are gone. I think Tanlac is a grand medicine."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

FEW HORSE-DRAWN VEHICLES

Carriage and Wagon Builders Have About Given Up That Branch of the Business.

The members of a firm formerly prominent in selling horse-drawn vehicles on the Pacific coast give some interesting figures showing how the carriage and wagon builders have lost business. Due to the inroads of the automobile industry in the transportation field.

It seems that there were 14,000 buggies sold in Los Angeles county alone in 1896, and 6,500 wagons. Two years later the first motorcar appeared and business thereafter declined steadily. It is doubtful if 100 buggies a year are sold now in California. Salesmen working in rural districts used to sell an average of two buggies a day and more sets of harness. One prominent wagon builder sold $8,000,000 worth of horse-drawn vehicles in 1896. In 1905 they stopped manufacturing them and concentrated their production facilities on motorcars, which they had gradually developed as their wagon trade decreased.

Not all firms were so far-sighted or fortunate, however, and many factories that formerly manufactured thousands of horse-drawn vehicles are but a memory. Most wagon builders of progressive mind installed motorcar departments and are now reaping a harvest as manufacturers of special truck and van bodies to be fitted to standard motorcar truck chassis, work for which their mechanical equipment, working forces and experience are particularly well adapted.

Miss Winnifred Moore met Mrs. Murdoch at the door and presented her with a bouquet of roses and snapdragons. After luncheon was served, M. L. Hayward, on behalf of the guests, presented Mr. and Mrs. Murdoch with a lovely silver scallop dish and bread tray. She also received a half dozen silver spoons from her daughter, Miss Reta Murdoch of St. John.

ROY B. GRANT

The community of Kilburn was saddened to hear of the death of Roy B. Grant on Tuesday, June 6, at the early age of 23 years. The deceased who was the only son of Mrs. Thomas Vandine, had been in poor health for several years, but was only confined to his bed for two or three days previous to his death.

The funeral service was held on Thursday afternoon at the Baptist church, of which he was a member, Rev. C. O. Howlett speaking in a very appropriate way. His text being taken from Amos 4:12. The following hymns were sweetly rendered: Rock of Ages, Alone With God, Does Jesus Care and a beautiful solo by Miss Phoebe Wright of Andover.

The pall-bearers were: Perry Bishop, Wiley Murray and Leigh Grant, cousins of the deceased. Interment was made in the family cemetery at Kilburn, the remains being laid to rest beside his father, Ward B. Grant, who died about 14 years ago.

The floral tributes were beautiful, silently testifying to the esteem in which the departed one was held. Besides his mother and step-father, he is survived by a large circle of relatives and friends. The heartfelt sympathy of all is extended to the bereaved ones.

TRACKMASTER AITON ILL

Andrew Aiton, C. P. R. track master on this sub-division, was on Monday seized with an attack of paralysis that was almost complete. He is lying at his home in a very serious condition, but is reported this morning as rallying somewhat. Mr. Aiton is one of the oldest employees of the road. More than twenty years ago he was promoted to track master. His many friends both in railway circles and elsewhere, regretting to hear of his unfortunate illness, are hoping that soon he may be able to resume his duties.

It is hoped that all people who can will attend and make this memorial service one to be remembered.

SENATOR McDONALD ENTERS TAINING N. B. NEWSPAPERMEN

Of all the enjoyable things that had been arranged in Ottawa, perhaps none were more thoroughly enjoyed than the dinner which was arranged at mid-day on Friday in a private room in the Senate by the Senator MacDonald of New Brunswick for the New Brunswick delegation. About fourteen accepted the Senator's invitation, among them being Max D. Cormier and the Editor of the Observer and Mrs. Hardwick. Senator MacDonald also had as guest another New Brunswick Senator—Senator Polier. During the meal the Hon. Arthur Meighen came in and greeted the guests and spoke a few words to them. Senators MacDonald and Polier meant to welcome Senator MacDonald and his party. Senator MacDonald said that he was at the service of his province and that he greatly enjoyed the fellowship which he was gaining that day. Senator Polier made a plea for a good understanding between the different races in Canada. Commander Stewart of Chatham, Max D. Cormier and Rev. John Hardwick of Edmundston replied and assured the Senator of the appreciation of the New Brunswick delegation.

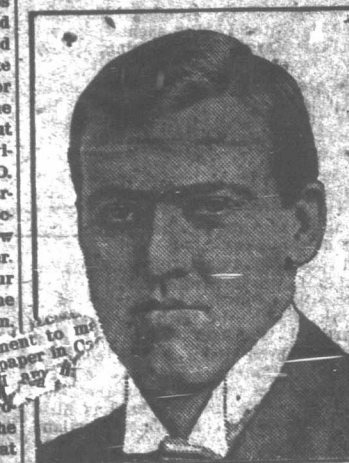

Rex Beach is a Novelist

Who Finds That His Tales

Are Better in the Movies

The moving pictures have been absorbing a great many minor writers of fiction in the United States. Several of the men who were once well known as fourth-rate novelists have now settled down among the scenario writers who are making a good living out of the preparation of plays for the screen. Probably the best known of this group of writers is Rex Beach, with Rupert Hughes a close second. There was a time when the friends of Rupert Hughes hoped that he might some day do a big piece of work as a writer, but as the years went on, they began to realize that he was in the business to make a living. At last, he went into the movies, and during the past two years he has been winning more fame as a scenario writer than he ever possessed as a novelist.

But Rex Beach has gone farther in the movie game than "Rupert Hughes" because he got into it first. Rex Beach won his popularity as a novelist in the days before the movies were a power in the land. It is nearly twenty years ago now since his series of Western novels, "The Spoilers," "The Heretic," and "The Silver Horde," made their way into the best sellers. He was one of the first of the successful writers of the hot-blood-and-cold-steel school of fiction. His novels were also among the first of the stories to be used for "Wild West" films. It was that success which caused him to turn almost entirely from the making of action to the making of pictures. As a matter of fact, Rex Beach was always better as a creator of incident than a handler of the English language, and that is the reason why his tales are better on the silver sheet than between book covers.

It looks as though the time is not far distant when there will be a sharp division between the American novelists who write for readers and those who write for moving picture producers. The authors' association of that country took action some time ago in the matter. They were angry with a certain type of publisher and editor who refused to consider stories unless they are suitable for screen production, after they have been run in magazines or book form. After all, there ought to be a great difference between stories written for the library and those written for the movies. Anybody can see the difference between Mrs. Edith Wharton and Mr. Rex Beach.

It is to be hoped that no person has read this little article through under the impression that Rex Beach is a summer resort.

The University of Alberta

The establishment of the University of Alberta in Edmonton has brought about a great intellectual stimulus in the West where there are in the youth of the province wonderful potentialities for national efficiency and good citizenship. At the primary session of the Legislature of Alberta in 1906, an act was passed creating the University of Alberta and in 1908 the first president entered upon his duties with sessions beginning in September of that year.

The site of the University on the high banks of the Saskatchewan in South Edmonton comprises 258 acres while there is also a farm of 800 acres. Five hundred acres are under cultivation in addition to those covered by buildings. The institution is financed by the government and the expenditure to date exceeds three and one-half million dollars.

There are three commodious residential buildings—Athabasca Hall, Assiniboia Hall and Pembina Hall, providing residential accommodation for four hundred students. The main teaching building is a handsome structure of neo-classic style and was opened for classes in the fall of 1916. The new medical building which will be completed for the opening of the fall session ranks as one of the finest in Canada. It forms the southern part of a quadrangle of University buildings and is in architectural harmony with the other structures. In addition to accommodating the department of chemistry, it contains laboratories for the department of anatomy, physiology, pathology and public health. There are two lecture halls, in theatre form with a capacity for two hundred students each. Twenty-five thousand dollars, representing the interest on half a million, has been made available for the medical faculty by the Rockefeller Foundation, for the

(1) The Main Teaching Building of the Alberta University.

(2) The Engineering Building, in rear of the Main Building.

Under the direction of the Extension Board, the farm young people of Alberta were given a week of work and play at the University in June. A feature of the University is the Summer School for teachers which is carrying on its ninth program of work.

"Evergreen and Gold," the year book of the University gives a résumé of the activities of the year which are as interesting as they are broad in scope. The Clubs include the Agricultural Club, the Pharmacy Club in its first year, the Medical Club in its fourth year. Literary and Musical interests are promoted by the Literary Association, the Glee Club, Mandolin Club and the University orchestra. The Dramatic Society has established a reputation in Alberta. Bernard Shaw's comedy "You Never Can Tell" was the spectacular production given in the leading cities of the Province.

The Writers' Club, whose program has covered the various fields of literary endeavor is of value in such a young province as Alberta. Amateur sport in Western Canada has been developed by the University of Alberta Athletics Society. There is a track club, soccer, basketball team, rugby and hockey, and great advance has been made in woman's athletics.—C. G.

NATION BUILDING IN CANADA

Universities to Follow the Railroad in Binding East and West Together
For the Cause of National Unity

Hand in hand with the material growth of Canada, with the extension of her population, and the development of her natural resources, moves forward the current of her intellectual and spiritual life. The race of men and women whose adventurous spirit and indomitable courage are making a nation, are not the kind that are content with the merely material things of life. Canada's pioneers of a little while ago were young men who saw visions, and old men whose dreamed dreams, and their sons and daughters are no less gifted. Their broadening horizon now includes a new world of mental and spiritual effort in which they, in turn, must be pioneers. The realization of this fact has become a living force in the fine universities that are already doing a great work at Winnipeg, Edmonton, and Saskatoon and Vancouver.

In the making of the Canadian nation so far, advances of transport and communication have worked towards completion of the structure the foundation stone of which was the Act of Dominion Federation. Canada's national unity is founded and fostered by the political and physical links that bind east and west, but it can be fully developed only when the avenues of Canadian thought move east and west as do those of trade. This is the thought that lies behind the recent donation by the C.P.R. of three annual scholarships of the value of $500 each to Toronto University for the purpose of inducing graduates of Western Colleges to complete their studies at that great Canadian centre of learning.

The universities of Western Canada are growing fast. Their standard of instruction is high, and an ever growing number of their students desire to pursue post-graduate studies beyond the stage now possible at their provincial institutions. Through these scholarships a constant stream of the brightest and most ambitious of western university students will be enabled to spend some time in Eastern Canada and thus become familiar with methods of life and thought there. As stated by Mr. E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in his letter to Sir Robert Falconer, President of Toronto University, announcing the granting of the three scholarships: "The movement is one that will obviously be of benefit, not only to the students, but also to the communities in which they will afterwards live."

SPELLING MATCH

(Edmonton Observer)
The spelling matches in the public school arranged for as announced previously in the Observer was a huge success. Prizes were donated by D. H. Vanwart, R. W. Hammond, Fraser Companies Ltd., Bert Curzon, E. E. Miller, J. W. Hall, J. C. Cote, Jos. Moscovitz and J. F. Rice & Sons. The prizes were on exhibition in Mayor Bros. window for several days previous to the contests. The test was taken on June 2, the referees being Principal Patterson, E. E. Miller, and the Editor of Observer.

The class in Principal Patterson's byroom had as referee the writer and after a great struggle the prizes were won by Miss Viva Armbruster who took the first and Miss Elizabeth Rideout who came in second.

In grade 5 for English spelling the first prize was won by Charles E. Marquis, and the second by Benoit Collin. It is worth noting that these two prizes were won by French boys in English spelling and they deserve the very highest praise. In grade 5 for French spelling the first prize was won by Camil Gagnon and the second by Jos Charret.

In grade six English spelling, first prize was won by Doris Miller and second by Ruth Traflet.

Next Friday there will be a final test to find out the two best spellers in the whole school. It seems to be a good plan to have a contest of this sort occasionally, as it sharpens up the minds of the boys and girls and takes away some of the monotony from school life, at the same time finding out the weak places in a boy's or girl's spelling.

The best thanks of the writer goes to the merchants who so generously fell in with his suggestion in regard to this test and donated the prizes. The boys and girls at the close of the spelling match passed a vote of thanks for the prizes donated.

NEW BRUNSWICK TOURIST AND RESOURCES ASSOCIATION

The members of the Board of Trade and of the Town Council, with their wives, accompanied the members of the Association after the morning meeting to Lake Temiscouata at Notre Dame du Lac. This excursion which was in part arranged through the kind-

HALL-GOULD

(Edmonton Observer)
A wedding of considerable interest to the people of New Brunswick and Maine was held in the Church of the Immaculate Conception on Wednesday morning at nine o'clock, when Miss Ouida Hall was united in marriage to Doctor Lewis Gould of Presque Isle. The bride is the eldest sister of J. W. Hall and the bridegroom is the only son of the Hon. A. E. Gould, president of the Maine and New Brunswick Electrical Power Company. The wedding march was played by the band entered the church by the organist. Mrs. Landry, who was assisted in the musical part of the service by Mrs. Max Cormier who played the violin and Dr. Simard and Miss Annie Pelletier who sang.

The bride wore a navy blue tulle gown, with a navy blue feather hat and a corsage bouquet of roses. Miss Phyllis Hall, niece of the bride wore a Copenhagen blue gown with black picture hat. The best man was Philip McNally of Carleton. The bride was given away by her brother, J. W. Hall. The groom's gift to the bride was a string of valuable pearls and to the bridesmaid a hand carved green gold bracelet. A reception was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hall where the immediate relatives met after the ceremony. Those present included Hon. A. R. and Mrs. Gould of Presque Isle, Miss Mildred Shields of Presque Isle, Mrs. H. H. Wildes of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Reid of Fredericton. The wedding trip will be taken in an automobile to Quebec and the White Mountains, after which they will live in Presque Isle where Dr. Gould is associated with his father in business. The happy couple were the recipients of a large number of handsome and valuable presents.

EXHIBITS FROM 119 RURAL SCHOOLS OF NEW BRUNSWICK

Manual Training and Home Economics Display at the Provincial Normal School Attracts Much Attention—Some of the Leading Exhibits Shown

One of the best exhibits of manual training and home economics sent to Fredericton was shown on June 1 at the Provincial Normal School. The work was done in the rural schools of the province and was admired by the many visitors. Miss Carolyn Currie was in charge of the western and southern section of the province and Miss E. M. Loxier in the western and eastern sections, were present. They gave many interesting facts in connection with the work done by the boys and the girls of rural New Brunswick.

The exhibit consisted of cards painted and decorated; wood cutting work, among the latter being a figure representing Jiggs of "Bringing Up Father" fame, which attracted much attention. In the home economics exhibit there were handkerchiefs, towels, pillow cases, slips, undershirts, bloomers, aprons, combinations, sweaters, and jumpers, and was all done by girls under 14 years of age. The work on many would have done credit to women who had been sewing for years and it was hard to realize that one or two dresses had been made by girls of ten years.

In the western and southern sections of the province the best exhibits were from the Aroostook Junction school, Miss DeLong and Miss Cummings, teachers; Jacksonville school, Mrs. Barrow and Miss Milberry, teachers; Benton School, Miss Edith Sharp, teacher and Richmond Corner school, Miss Gladys Hall, teacher; in the northern and eastern sections, Miller school, Miss B. Clark, teacher, Siegas school, Miss Marie Anne Cyr, teacher, Richibucto school, Mrs. Cyr, teacher; Bactouche, Convent, St.

Elalie, teacher. The winning schools received mottoes and the scholars ribbons.

There are about 110 rural schools which the instructors visit and give instructions in new work as the pupils advance and learn the earlier problems.

In the exhibit were also some good reports from pupils on the hot lunches provided in the schools and these were all in book form with hard covers and were very creditable to the children who prepared them.

Hall's Cataract Medicine
Those who are in a "run down" condition will notice that Cataract Medicine does much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Cataract is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. HALL'S CATARACT MEDICINE is a tonic and blood purifier, and acts through the blood upon the mucous surfaces of the eye-body, thus restoring old individuals and restoring normal conditions. All druggists. Circulars free. F. J. Casey & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

LIVES IN MEMORY

New Yorker Recalls Delightful Evening With Twain.

Satisfied That He Saw Great Humorist at His Best When He Sat by the Fireplace and Smoked With Him.

It is only about forty years since I spent a most delightful evening with Mr. and Mrs. Clemens at their newly-built home in Hartford, yet the Sun and New York Herald refers to the house as "one of the oldest residences in New England from the point of construction," says the writer of a letter to this newspaper.

Undoubtedly your reporter wrote that it was "one of the oddest," and he was right. The types were guilty of a characteristic prank.

We sat in front of a goodly old-fashioned fireplace and smoked such tobacco as Mark liked—that is, he and I did—in the long-stemmed clay pipes they call churchwardens, while Mrs. Clemens looked on with smiling toleration, contributing the gracious charm of her presence to the entertainment.

He was giving to a casual guest who had scant claim to the hospitality he was enjoying. I had called as a stranger on a professional business and had been received socially.

Clemens was at his best—and let me say that best was never bettered by anyone else. His monologue of narrative and epigrams was drawn out through a long evening, as I laughed and Mrs. Clemens smiled, and Mark busied himself cleaning, burning out and filling pipe after pipe—there were a dozen of them standing in the corners of the fireplace—and handing them to me or lighting one for himself as fast or even faster than they were needed. There were two of them alight all the time.

I wish I could remember what he said, but I can recall only one remark, and that was too trivial to repeat, though I laughed at it as heartily as I did at all the other nonsense. It was not what he said so much as the way he said it.

P. T. Barnum, the great showman, told me that he, too, kept on laughing all the time Mark Twain talked to him. "But my wife doesn't," he said.

"Mrs. Barnum has not a very keen sense of humor and she is a little afraid of laughing at the wrong time, so she sometimes seems unappreciative when Mark is really funny even for him."

"She has found out for herself, though, a pretty good rule to go by," he continued. "You see, she and I frequently visit with Mr. and Mrs. Clemens, and I noticed after a while that she was always watching Mrs. Clemens, so I asked her why she did it, and she told me that it was because Mrs. Clemens did not always laugh as other people did when Mark spoke. 'But when she laughs,' said Mrs. Barnum, 'I know it must be really funny, so I laugh, too.'"

"I call that pretty shrewd," continued the old showman with one of his own hearty ha-has, "and I took to doing the same thing myself. It worked well, I must say, for I noticed after a while that Mrs. Clemens never laughed excepting at the very best of Mark's jokes. I suppose she must have got tired laughing all the time before that."

I knew the great man for a long time after that wonderful evening, but I never felt that I knew him any better.

Colonial German Theater.

One of the world's most colossal theaters, and by far the most bizarre, is the great auditorium recently opened in Berlin. The dreary exterior of the building is monstrous, but gives little promise of the surprise within. The curving walls of the foyer, says an illustrated article in Popular Mechanics Magazine for May, merge into a domed roof, supported by curved mahogany columns. The upper portion of each column is formed by many disks that radiate orange and blue light from concealed bulbs. The auditorium itself suggests the Greek open-air amphitheater. The 3,000 seats are arranged in horseshoe plan around an arena, or more properly, an orchestra.

Chess Expert Doomed.

Senor Capablanca has set up as remarkable a record as ever was made in any sport in his chess exhibitions in Great Britain and Ireland. His total score in 1,352 games is 1,253 wins, 71 draws and 28 losses. His opponents have included all the best English players. He takes them on thirty or more at a time. To each move on the board the Cuban master devotes an average of nine seconds, his victims six minutes. Recalling the tragic history of the great chess experts, of Morphy and others, one asks fearfully, when will Capablanca go insane?—New York Globe.

Made Vacation Profitable.

A unique vacation was that of Dr. William Goodwin, superintendent of the general hospital at Staten Island, who camped for one month in the maple orchard of Frank Taylor of Hartington, Conn. He combined business with pleasure, worked nights as well as days and made seventy-six gallons of maple syrup.

Self-Evident.

Freuch—"I wasn't born with a silver spoon in my mouth." Wig—"No, I notice you eat with your hands."

T. W. CALDWELL ON THE BUDGET

member asked that question. I think, possibly, I would have forgotten that point had he not brought it up by his question. What the hon. member for Bromo (Mr. McMaster) states is absolutely correct providing there are unlimited supplies of this commodity that the country that wishes to use the commodity can draw on. That is not the case here. Outside of Canada, I think today, the only country in the world which has an exportable surplus of lumber is Russia.

Mr. Caldwell: Sweden.

Mr. McMaster: I think the hon. member will find that Sweden is considering the conservation of her forests. She is at present the time carrying on reforestation work, something which Canada must come to in the near future. This is an indication that they realize that the end is in sight, as far as the saw log is concerned. We have a monopoly of the supply of pulpwood on this continent. There is no question about that.

Mr. McMaster: Newfoundland has a quantity of lumber.

Mr. Caldwell: How long would they supply the United States? I have an estimate of it, but I do not wish to weary the House with it. The provincial government of New Brunswick passed an order, providing that pulpwood cut on Crown lands should be exported. That means pulpwood cut into four foot lengths. Then what happened? At that time the size of the saw log was 10 inches. I think immediately after this our provincial government reduced the size of the saw log to 6 inches, and, in fact, I think, you will find lots of them go below that. The United States' pulp manufacturer goes upon Crown lands, cuts logs into 16 foot lengths, puts them on the train, ships them into the United States, cuts them into different lengths and grades them into pulpwood. So that the provision of the provincial government is a joke. However, an export duty would control the situation. For fear condemnation will be meted out to members who speak at too great length, I will leave that point although I would like to elucidate it further.

I have given the House my criticism of the budget and my suggestion as to a good source of revenue, which would also develop the manufacturing industries of Canada, and would be more beneficial than any other method, because it means manufacturing our own raw materials into the finished product by our own people. I come to the consideration of the amendment offered by the official Opposition. That the amendment is rather peculiar, in view of the arguments put forth in support of it. The amendment declares one thing, and the argument in support of it exactly the opposite. In the argument they condemn the Government because they have made a few reductions in the tariff, and in the amendment they condemn them because they have not made more reductions in the tariff, and state that the breaking of a promise, because it is the breaking of a promise, I think, as far as that goes, I will have to agree with the official Opposition, that the breaking of promises, in any case, is a lowering of political or personal morality.

However, as this amendment is not moved by a party who have never broken any promises, it is not the case of the pot calling the kettle black, and the pot being blacker than the kettle?

Then take the argument in regard to the tariff. In 1915 Sir Thomas White said there should be a revision of the tariff. The government were very careful not to say whether they would revise it up or down, but said it was long overdue. I have no doubt they received some support by making that statement at the time—western as well as eastern support. We are just as anxious in the East for a reduction in the tariff as they are in the West, and I do not want that fact to escape the attention of the House. In 1920 when the present ex-Finance Minister (Sir Henry Drayton) delivered his budget speech, you will find at page 2491 of Hansard of 1920 that he said:

"Our policy calls for a thorough revision of the tariff."

And he said further:

"The tariff investigation has commenced, and public suggestions will be held throughout Canada after prorogation."

The investigation was carried on. When the House met in 1921 the speech from the Throne stated that this investigation had been held and information had been collected to enable the government to intelligently revise the tariff, and that the result would be put before the House at that session. At least, I take it that the Speech from the Throne indicated that legislation would be put before the House. The Speech used the words "Will be put before you in due time" which, I take it, meant during that session. That was not carried out. Here we have promise after promise in regard to the tariff broken by the last government. Therefore, I do not see how a man is going to make a choice between the two parties. I think both have lowered the public morality of the country by breaking the public promises.

Further, Mr. Speaker, I do not consider the present official Opposition have added much to their political morality by some of the late additions to that party. I want to explain what I mean and I desire to be fairly definite. The late addition that I refer to consist of men who were read out of the old Conservative party by Sir Robert Borden, because they secured war contracts under very suspicious circumstances. It also contains men who were the remnants of provincial governments, who were notorious for having received rake-offs on railway contracts, on timber lands and, even, on patriotic gifts to the mother country in time of war. I do not purpose to let an aggregation like that use me as a whip or scourge to myself when I say this, Mr. Speaker. I presume I can find a way of chastising the Government or of reasoning with them, without being made a tool of by anybody. I will be just as unready to be made a tool by the present Government to scourge the present Opposition. I take that independent stand which I have always taken in this House to judge every question on its merits. I do not want anybody to think they can pull the wool over my eyes and make me believe black is white.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL ITEMS

Last Wednesday evening Burpee and Teddie, the enterprising managers of our moving picture house gave their patrons a corking feature film and a Charlie Chaplin comedy "The Immigrant" in two reels and a special bit of vaudeville in El-Vol-To, a real bit of humanity who could give such a marked resemblance to a mechanical toy, that it was just hard to detect whether or not it was a real husky George or Percy, my mechanism man. This afforded much interest and curiosity to the people present on Saturday night. William Farnum in "A Soldier's Oath" left nothing to be desired and a Mutt and Jeff comedy "Training Woodpeckers" rounded out a well balanced bill.

B. B. Estabrooks and B. E. Cliff were in Woodstock on Friday.

Mrs. W. R. Harold left on Saturday for Plaster Rock to spend the week-end with her daughter, Miss Mary Harold.

Wm. Kennedy and F. D. Tweedie of Woodstock were in town on Wednesday.

Mrs. Arthur Burpee of Woodstock visited Mr. and Mrs. Geo. F. Burpee on Friday.

David Reid, who spent the winter months in Lynn, Mass., is home for the summer.

A number of young friends of Miss Roxie Jameson gathered at her home on Friday evening and tendered her with a shower. She is to be one of the participants in a very happy event this week.

Among town improvements this week we note a new concrete platform the full length of the hotel front and a new verandah at the Baptist parsonage.

SUCCESS OF A CENTREVILLE GIRL

At Bryn Mawr College on June 8, Miss Vera Lee Brown, daughter of Dr. Frank Brown and Mrs. Elvira Centreville, received the degree of doctor of philosophy. Miss Brown has had a most brilliant literary career. In 1918 she received the degree of B. A. at McGill University and the following year was made master of arts.
