ROOSEVELT PLANS A GOUP WHEN CONVENTION OPENS AND RIOTING MAY FOLLOW

The Rough Rider Proposes to Grab the Temporary Chairmanship, Have Himself Nominated and Walk Out of Hall With Supporters.

"COLORED BROTHER" HOLDS BALANCE AND SEEMS TO BE WITH COLONEL

Borah and Perkins, Chief Ropers-In for the President, Hold Secret Conferences With Delegates and Binding Them in Black and White to Support Candidates.

Special to The London Advertiser and The Toronto Star By H. F. Gadsby.

Chicago, Ill., June 18.-If it all comes as per schedule Theodore Roosevell will by six o'clock tonight have been nominated after a fashion, by the regular Republican convention at Chicago assembled. Whether Wm. Taft is nominated afterwards by a convention from which the insurgents have withdrawn, Roosevelt cares not a curse. He came to Chicago to become a candidate, and this is how he purposes to get about it.

When the Taft national steam-rolling Republican committee presents Eliuh Root as temporary chairman of the convention, a Roosevelt delegate will move that the name of Senator Borah is substituted. This will force a roll call of the delegates and a Roosevelt booster from Alabama. The alphabetical head of the list of the states will challenge the right of the Taft steam-roller delegates from that state to vote. This will open up the whole question of credentials. All the fat will be in the fire in a few minutes.

BOLD TACTICS.

If these tactics succeed in gaining for Roosevelt the mastry of the gavel that is the temporary and permanent chairmanships of the whole convention and the mastery of the credentials committee, then the convention will be his and he will be nominated on the first ballot. The r ediction is that the nomination will follow so quickly on Senator Borah's grabbing the gavel that it will make everybody's head swim. Before Elihu Root has a chance to open his mouth, to keynote some big Roosevelter, Governor Hadley, perhaps, will step forward and say, "I nominate Theodore Roosevelt for President of the United States in the name of the people." Having said it and been acclaimed the Roosevelt faction will blow out with a great noise through the ten exits e the Coliseum, leaving the flabbergasted remainder of the convention to piffalong as it likes. If the Roosevelt crowd can pull this off it will please mos of the visitors and then we can all go home.

WHAT WILL TAFT DO?

But the printer will please make that a large upper case "But." What will the Taft people be doing while the Ro sevelt lightning is working all these

Well, Victor Rosewater, in his thin, piping voice, will be declaring every order. In spite of Victor's scream they wi the nomination part of it when a colored delegate will draw his razor or western man will pull his gun, and then the rough house will begin. Strong Arm Bill Flinn will urge the Roosevelt cohorts on. The convention hall is full of chairs, thousands of chairs, each chair a deadly weapon to break head or poke a eye out. The best guessers are foretelling bloodshe When the Rough Rider gets through with the Chicago convention Oliver Cromwell's little stunt of turning parliament out of doors will look like a garden party for the kindergarten class. It is confidentially expected that the police ambulances will have something to do. All the country can hope is that the events of the day will not bear out these early morning forebodings. GORY PLANS DISMAY.

There are patriots, even in the Roosevelt camp, who look on these gory plans with dismay. Although it is sweet and becoming to die for one's native land, one does not select by preference a Republican convention as the spot to die in. The innocent bystander in the Coliseum will be flat on the floor when the shooting begins. It is no great honor, as the Republican party bulks viction of Dr. Robert A. Macgregor just now, to be winged by either wing of it. As the battle will rage over and in the Sparling case, and it appears around the heads of the newspaper men who are right in the foreground between the two armies, nobody will blame them if they seek safety at the near-shared by very many people who are est barriers. Joking aside, many good Republicans who are not necessarily admirers of William Taft, are disgusted with the egomania of Theodore the trial. The News says: Roosevelt which turns the national convention into a bear garden. The darkey delegate from South Carolina was not far wrong when he remarked that it all depended on the "zoological moment." As a matter of fact their rough-house tactics are a confession of weakness on Roosevelt's part. If he has, as he one of the Sparlings, and during the says he has, enough delegates to win in the regular way, what is the need trial it would not have been proper of all this rush? If he has the votes what reason for the coup d'etat. It looks for any newspaper to criticize the as if he and his friends wanted to be able to say afterwards, "Well, we did judge, the jury or the people that were

REPUBLICAN PARTY DONE FOR.

One of Roosevelt's own field marshals, I am not at liberty to quote his name, told me that the Republican party was done for anyway. Between the heart broken, while a father, mothe two, Taft and Roosevelt, but mostly Roosevelt, the mischief has been accom-"Suppose they are both nominated," said my informant, "What's the use? Roosevelt could not carry more than ten states and Taft could not carry more than six." "If Roosevelt cannot carry more than ten states he is not as big a man as he feels. He is not even big enough to start a third party with any hope of success." If Taft and Roosevelt can't carry more than sixteen states out of forty-eight, the chances look mighty good for a Demosixteen states out of forty-eight, the chances look mighty good for a Democratic President, which is probably the best thing the people can do. They have a Democratic Congress already.

INSIDE POLICIES.

Colonel Roosevelt came to Chicago late Saturday afternoon, and has played inside policies ever since. He has been the big boss among bosses. Thanks though we are willing to admit that to good advertising he came in with a hurrah, the people lining the streets with the suspicious case around him to see the god in the car. He has no lack of courage. Indeed that is his he made many fool remarks that were great fault. It makes him believe he can win when the very stars fight against used to advantage by the prosecutor Rooms had been reserved for him at the Blackstone, a quiet, luxurious hotel, where he could ride the whirlwind and direct the storm in person. He went to church Sunday morning. The rest of his time he spent issuing bulletins, making speeches, in which his enemies are called thugs, liars, blackguards and in roping delegates, the two chief ropers being Perkins and Flinn, who are old hands at the game.

Last night he had an uplift meeting in the Auditorium Theatre, at which four thousand people were present out of twenty-five thousand who had brilliant young men in our congresapplied for seats. All the old ideals were proclaimed again with new trombone finishes. Meanwhile the practical work was not neglected.

PRACTICAL WORK.

The practical work is summed up in these figures: Delegates instructed desire to convict Macgregor. In a The practical work is summed up in these figures. Delegates instructed for Taft, 457; instructed for Roosevelt, 431: instructed for LaFollette, 36; instructed for Cummins 12; uninstructed, 155. These were the figures that Roosevelt and his assistant bosses had somehow or other to change. They irig exaggerating, until they make went about it two ways, somehow and other. The other way was to take mountain out of a mole hill, and the them singly and secretly to a room in the Congress Hotel, where Perkins and more they agitate the more certain Film used arguments with them and made them sign their names in black and white to their conversions. If you believe the cynics, these signatures are as good as a draft on the banks when the goods are delivered.

There was little use talking to the Cummins' and LaFollette delegates, who are dark horses to the last dark minute, but some of the instructed delegates were open to reason, and the colored brethren were brought into the fold in considerable numbers. Light penetrated their darkness to such an extent that they blazed out in plug hats and alpaca coats, and Taft detectives trailed to find out where they got their easy money. Such effective revival work was done that at last accounts Roosevelt had enough votes to land Senator Borah. the temporary chairmanship, and Taft's paper majority in the convention flickered out of sight.

WHY SHOULD HE WORRY?

And just here the question arises, if Roosevelt has what he says, why he should bother about seats for two hundred and thirty-three steam-rollered delegates that he doesn't need? What is the answer? Well, figures cannot he, but liars can figure. For the first time in the history of the Republican party the colored brother is the balance of power. It was the Republican party that set the colored man free. It is now up to the colored man to rescue the Republican party in its hour of danger by coming out for Theodore Roosevelt. The colored trethren, sixty-six in number, in all tints, from deepest ebony to light yellow, sun-ripe and warranted not to bleach in the moment of peril, is the prize package of the convention. By sticking together the colored rother can nominate either Taft or Roosevelt. If begging buying, bullying can do it the colored brother is going to be for Roosevelt. The colonel relies on the colored brother to change his luck. As the balance of power the colored brother realizes his importance. Although greatness has been thrust apon him he measures up to it. He takes up the biggest part of which latter is now everywhere fine, with the sidewalk, and has a full, proud, pouting mouth that would trip a goat.

New Clothing in All Sections, for Men, Women and Children, at Wonderfully Low Prices.

When you go away you want to know that you are correctly and fashionably dressed. The picking of your store is in most cases of more importance than the choosing of the styles. As a woman remarked, "I feel so comfortable in the garments I get from the Smallman & Ingram store; there comes with them that assurance of correctness of style." There's a fascination in skimming the cream from the market, in taking first pick as our right because we buy so much and in having first chance at every great special opportunity. And the news from day to day contained in these columns show how our customers benefit by it.

LONDON, TUESDAY, JUNE 18. THE MARRIAGE DECISION.

The decision of the Supreme Court of Canada having been rendered, it remains now to await the final view of the Privy Council on the marriage

Its implicit challenge of Provincial Government would unanimously that a mixed marriage in Quebec is legal, whether solemnized by a Protestant minister or a Catholic priest; and a majority of the court Bays that a marriage of two Catholics by a Protestant minister in the same province is also valid. As there is no question of the validity of such marri-Protestant grievanceanywhere in Canada. Consequently, If the Privy Council sustains the Supreme Court on this point, there would be no need of federal legislation as proposed by the Lancaster bill, even confirms the Supreme Court's answers with Justice Anglin on the second. That is, suppose the Privy Council, be outside the Federal Parliament's so rapidly that its first cabinet has business to answer to a question of Justice Anglin is right in his opinion Democratic convention pretty much Quebec be married by a priest of their own religion. There would in the latter case be good hope to Hebert in appealing to the Privy Council from Judge Charbonneau's ruling, and a further exasperation of Protestant feeling. The Dominion Covernment as it has been painted would be forced to the position of appealing to the Quebec Government for remedial legislation.

If the Privy Council, in addition to reversing the Supreme Court's depass Mr. Lancaster's bill, Mr. Borden would find himself in the most difficult position imaginable. A cry would go up to him to put the bill through, without waiting for remedial action by Quebec itself. What of his Nationalist friends?

allowed the marriage question to be settled on an appeal to the Privy Council in the concrete case of Hebert, or failing a satisfactory issue to that, to have requested Quebec herself to make her law right and modern. Such a request, following a baffled attempt to over-ride Quebec, would be rather humiliating to Ottawa, but would be proper enough, following merely a decision of the Privy Council on a concrete case. The Lancaster bill was a provocation to Quebec in its presumption that Quebec law was ber that if American nower goes there subject to church law and ecclesiasti- new it is for the third time, and that decided otherwise, but the carrying of the Hebert case to the Privy Council would have served the same ing the control and direction of Cuba's purpose, without any suggestion of affairs. The Americans did for Cuba trespassing upon Provincial rights.

A UNIONIST CONFESSION.

A deep fissure is developing in the ranks of the Unionist party on the question of social reform. On the one side there is the ultra-conservative element, typified by Lord Hugh Cecil, which distrusts any extension of the My strength is as the strength of ten, functions of the state, and such policies as old-age pensions, state insurance and land reform. His judget was based upon the principle that the "luxurlous classes" must bear more of the burden of state. But Mr Smith, as a member of the aristocratic party, with impunity urges the same policy in the same phraseology. Can Mr. Smith bring his party to his own way of thinking as the Chancellor did? He has a great deal of missionary work ahead of him, but he is on the right track. He has caught a vision of the new England coming into existence, while the other leaders of his party still have their faces turned

Sir Francis becomes very sarcastic when he refers to the radical opinion of those who, sick of "vain pomp and glory," leave the old world for what they hope will be a better. "A proportion of the emigrants," he says, "belong to that philanthropic class of men who, under the appellation of Socialists, Comin every corner of the Old World, Their their arrival at their various locations, there is something very fine in the theory of having apparently got rid of all the musty materials of 'church and state'; and revelling in this sentiment, they for a short time enjoy the novel luxury of being able to dress as they like, do as they like, go where they like. They appreciate the happiness of living in a land where the Old Country's servile custom of touching the hat does not exist, in which every carter and wagoner rides instead of walks, and in which there are no purse-proud millionaires, no dukes, duchesses, lords, ladies, parsons, parishofficers, beadles, poor-law commissioners, or paupers; no tithes and no taxes.' Sir Francis Bond Head's political philsophy is pretty "musty" now; we have nillionaires, parsons and taxes; but his observations on the high hopes and noble or ignoble sentiments of newcomers are still worthy of consideration,

When the late Franklin Fyles first isited London, he told his travelling ompanion, as they rose from breakfast the first morning, that he would have to be gone most of the day. Then I'm going to hunt up Oliver Goldsmith's grave down in Temple Gardens -I'd rather see that than any other one thing in all England." A few minutes past 10 Mr. Fyles walked into the hotel again, and, to his friend's surprised look, merely said: "Doctor and lawyer and critics all out. Only man at home was Offver,"

A Few Lines of Most Anything

If some swift-footed courier were to rush along the south side of Dundas street, turn into the east side of Richmond street, and proceed as far as York street, blowing a trumpet, and, as he sped, loudly soliciting three cheers for our eminent city engineer, a groan would be heard that in volume would make the famous city hall sale groan sound like the soughing of the taurant keeper would reach for decadent vegetables, canned or otherwise; the purveyor of cigars would light the fuse of his most explosive brand of Turkish cigarettes and stand ready to hurl; the shoeman would grasp a bootjack; the wine clerk would grab (wine clerks always grab, as distinguished from grasp), a bung-starter, and the butcher, the baker, and the electric-light maker, would procure fence. BERESFORD CRITICIZES THE NAVAL POLICY

Comes Out Against the Reduction of Fleet in the Mediterranean.

[Canadian Press.]

London, June 18. - Lord Charles Beresford, in a letter to the press this morning, strongly criticizes the policy of reducing the British naval strength the adoption of the programme which he submitted three years ago, estimated to cost $340,000,000, would have presented the present crisis. Lord

"The Government having apparently determined virtually to abandon the naval defence of the Mediterranean, what the nation must decide, and decide quickly, is whether or not it will permit the weakening to the breaking point of what is the main link in the lefence of the empire." He contends that the general strategical disposition has now as its objective, neither France nor Russia, but another foreign power, and that power alone. He holds that the proposal that England's responsibilities in the Mediterranean should be devolved upon France is a gross and palpable admission of weakness, add ountry. One is the maintenance of the naval supremacy of Great Britain. The alternative is to retain our navel subremacy, but give up the keys of the strategic centre of the empire, and rely upon the system of all nations, which has always proved disastrous, and which will prove equally fatal in the future.

"The navy," he goes on to say, "Is undermanned, twenty thousand short of the number of men required to place it on an effective footing."

London, June 18 - The Daily Express announces, on the authority of a correspondent, whose sources of information, it asserts, are undoubted that the Government will alter its policy regarding the Mediterranean, having been convinced by Lord Kitchener's stand against the weakening of either the land or the sea forces.

Many farms are not grazing one half as many teers as they are capable of supportng. So many people are feeding he raw material the grazing farms turn into beef.

ANOTHER PROOF THAT CAMPAIGN IS NEEDED

Lambton County, One of Best in Canada, Has Lost 5,000 People Since Last Census.

The extent to which the exodus to the West is affecting even the most prosperous Ontario counties is well set forth by the correspondence printed below:

Lambton County is one of the richest in the Dominion. The profits of its fruit farms and vegetable gardens acre for acre are calculated to make the best showing of the prairies "look sick." Yet in spite of all this, the youth of the community are overlooking the opportunities which surround them, and flocking west to new lands which they know not of. Is it not time that something should be done to educate Western Ontario to its own possibilities?

According to the recent census report, Lambton has lost over five thousand people since the last census was taken. The decrease is, no doubt, owing to the exodus to the West, which has been general throughout Ontarlo. When one considers that Lambton is one of the best agricultural districts in Ontario, and that many who have left it were substantial farmers, it is difficult to understand how the lure of the West could have been powerful enough to attract them they are that somebody has committed a crime. This young man that we speak of is very much in doubt whether Dr. Macgregor is guilty or not, he suggested that the doctor should not have been tried in Huron County, but away from the Sparling get justice. We understand from the press reports that the doctor has spent his all in his defence, and that his people are not in circumstances to assist him much farther. If Dr. Macgregor is guilty we would say that his conviction and sentence is just. but as long as there is doubt he should not be sent away to life imprisonment. and we believe there are enough people in this congressional district that believe in fair play, who would give doctor a new trial when he is locked up and unable to assist himself. Huron county can't afford to let the case go as it is if there is the slightest question as to the doctor's guilt. loubt if there is anyone in the five ounties that has fewer dollars to contribute than the writer, but we are villing to go without some of the necessities to contribute a small amount owards getting Dr. Macgregor a new rial in some other county away from he scene and surrounding of the lanentable affair. Barber Company Will Be Paid by the City.

After a three hours' discussion today betwene City Engineer Wright and Superintendent Driscoll, of the Barber Asphalt Company, the accounts of the Barber Company for the Dundas and Richmond street pavements have finally been settled.

There was a difference of $907 between the city and the company. The latter figured on the yardage when the contract was let, and put in a bill for the amount, Later the London street railway increased the devilstrip four inches, and City Engineer Wright deducted from the account the yardage this would amount to. The difference was $907 in money. The company vig-orously kicked against the reduction, Short cut, 14 to 16 lbs, 58s.
