Did You Stand Up Four Square To the Test?

It is easy enough to cheer with the crowd, As our heroes in khaki march by, It is easy to yell yourself hoarse for the flag, With a patriot's pride in your eye. But when Duty demanded you offer your life Or give up what your heart loved the best, And when Fate poured the acid right into your sou, Did you stand up four-square to the test?

The war has been won by the hardships of those Who have proved their proud faith in the cause, In the trench or the home front they stood to the guns, Defying the tyrant's red claws. All circumstances combined last night to make the annual recital given by Thomas G. Mitcheltree in Cronyn Hall a brilliant success, an event that will long prove a happy memory for the many who attended.

many who attended.

It was London's first musical event after the close of the war, and so near to the proclamation of peace that people attended in the festive spirit which bubbled over from the day before. There was for everyone a sense of relaxation and responsiveness to enjoyment offered unknown for four long, weary years and three months of war.

In the second place, it was the first entertainment after the ban due to the epidemic had been lifted, sufficient reason in itself to make pleasure particularly keen. Third, and of supreme importance on an occasion of the kind, four of London's favorite and best equipped artists, were appearing in a four of London's favorite and best equipped artists were appearing in a program of exceptional musical merit, built up with a fine feeling for concert architecture. The planist-composer was happy in having as his assistants Luta Laymon, contralto; Florence Eggleston. Laymon, contraits; Fjorence Eggleston, violinist, and A. D. Jordan, accompanist.

In Splendid Form.

Mr. Mitcheltree was in splendid form last night, his technique never more clean cut, flexible and fluent, the tone at mand, varying from an ethereal the Polonaise Militaire (Chopin).

Nobody is too old to love a well-told story. That is probably one of the chief reasons why Thomas G. Mitcheltree's playing affords such pleasure to listeners of all degrees of musical knowledge. He makes the plano tell stories, now a story of a stately dance through which disputed figures. now a story of a stately dance through which dignified figures move; anon, the picture changes, and night of velvetv blackness, with glittering stars, appears. Now it is a carnival half, all beauty, color, gay lights, perfume of flowers, and the heartbeats reported in the righthm of the waltz. VICTORY IS OURS!

Now For The Bonds

Now more than ever it is important that this Job be finished just as the big Job was finished over there.

Our heroes fought our fight to a glorious and triumphant finish. We have celebrated their victory---they are waiting now to celebrate ours.

Let it be another unconditional surrender, as every dollar will be needed by our Government.

Our boys over there are now watching us--their eyes are turned toward home. Let us speed their return by buying Victory Bonds.

How Many Bonds?

Just ask yourself this question today. How many Victory Bonds? Satisfy yourself while you have the opportunity that you have taken your proper quota, that you have done your duty for your country and for your boys.

A Gilt-Edge Investment

With the victory won and peace declared, 5 1=2 per cent Government Bonds (non-taxable) should be scrambled for. There should be a race to get them, not from the point of duty, but purely for the safest and most profitable money investment on the market today.

Buy every "Victory Bond" you can possibly pay for. Borrow the money and buy more "Victory Bonds."

We are the happiest people on earth today, and we will have the most prosperous country in the world, if every man and woman put their shoulders to the wheel and their money in action. That is what we need, "ACTION."

HEALTH BOARD TOLD OF EXCELLENT WORK OF ST. JOHN NURSES

Hundreds of Cases Were Handled by Division Staff.

Thomson to the board of health at its meeting yesterday afternoon, about 1,000 cases were treated by the nursing division during the epidemic. were treated by the nursing division during the epidemic.

Excluding those at the Children's Shelter, between 500 and 600 cases were attended outside of the two hospitals. On October 1 the first call for aid was sent to the division. They had two beds at the time, but W. S. Lashbrook, proprietor of the Belvedere Hotel, came to the rescue and provided them with beds.

to the rescue and provided them with beds.

On October 19 Dr. Downham ordered that no more patients be admitted to the Talbot street hospital. On the day previous twelve patients had been discharged, and Mrs. Thomson was expecting to take in three more instead of them. However, owing to Dr. Downham's orders one was sent to the Victoria Hospital, and the other two to the Maitland street institution. These latter two died. Mrs. Thomson remarked to the members of the board that their chance of recovery was diminished as a result of the delay in getting them to the hospital. All three of these patients had contracted pneumonia before reaching the hospitals.

The summary showed that 41 nurses had been sent out by the division, and that 12 nurses were still on duty. Seven nurses desired to receive pay for their services. The nurses paid their own carfare or walked to the houses of patients which they were to visit. Two girls who did not go home, for fear that they might carry the disease germs to those at home paid for a room and board out of their own pocket. Chairman E. H. Russell asked whether these nurses were registered. 41 Nurses Sent Out.

Mrs. Thompson replied that some of them had gone to register, but were told that they belonged to the Institute of Public Health. The chairman said that he understood some of the nurses worked right through until October 31 without registering. He also understood that they had received no recompense.

H. M. Douglass then asked the chairman if he thought there were 1,000 cases in the city which were unable to pay for treatment received. Mr. Russell then turned to Miss Friend, ho was accompanied at the meeting by Mrs. J. B. McKillop, and asked he what her experience was in regard to this matter. She stated that not 10 per cent of her patients could have to Miss

Acting on the suggestion of Dr. Tamlin the board appointed Dr. A. Scott to aid him in taking samples of milk for test purposes. The chairman remarked that the Public Health Institute of the state of t remarked that the Public Health Institute only charged 25 cents for a test, whereas the cost of each test amounted to 60 cents. Mayor Somerville declared that at a meeting of the board of control held a week ago, it had been decided to pay the institute $1,000 for this purpose. The mayor urged that those who broke the orders of the board of health by selling impure milk and by health by selling impure milk and by using dirty bottles should be dealt with

Dr. Tamlin thought that those who broke the health rules should be puntheir businesses until they lived up to the health rules.

Charging Sewer Cost.

The committee recommended that the cost of the sewer on Florence street which has lately been completed, be paid by the city and the property owners abutting the sewer iointly. The total cost is $5,057.60, of which the city will pay $2,265. This is the same basis on which the other sewers in this newly-annexed section of the city have been charged.

W. B. Walker was recommended for an increase of $200 by Engineer Brazier and the surbage.

Now that the war is practically all now that the war is practically all over, firms and individuals, recognizing the fact that Victory Loans will soon be a thing of the past, are doubling up on their subscriptions. One application of $5,000 has been increased to $10,000, and several for $10,000 have been made $20,000.

LANDS FOR FACTORY SITES HERE

To aid industrial expansion, the city councill will probably submit a bylaw to the ratepayers at the January elections which will embody some scheme for the purchase by the city of land which will be available for factory purposes. Mayor C. R. Somerville thinks that the city should undertake the purchase of the factory sites and have siting run in to them from the railways. INSTANT POSTUM

FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS, LISTEN!

LONDON'S VICTORY LOAN OBJECTIVE IS $7,900,000. Four million of this was allotted to certain large special subscribers—wealthy individuals and large institutions—and has been all and more than taken up.

Three million, nine hundred thousand was allotted for subscription by the men, women and children of London.

Up to date, London's total subscriptions are $5.725,400, leaving $2,174,600 to be subscribed before next Saturday night.

NOW, THEN, it is up to every individual man, woman and child in London to use his or her last, best effort to nail London's flag to the mast, and keep it there till the last Victory Bond of the $7,900,000 is sold.

This is the biggest thing London has ever tried to do. London never yet has failed in any big thing it set out to do. London will not fail this time. London will do all or better than she promised to do.

London's credit, her good name is at stake. The people of London will see to it that London's name will stand high in the nation's records as "the city that never failed."

FROM NOW till next Saturday night I ask that every citizen will help to make London's Victory Loan objective a reality.

I know that many of our citizens have suffered from the influenza epidemic, that many willing workers have been laid upon beds of sickness, that some have had added expenses to bear.

But it will be all the more to our credit if, in the face of these difficulties, London puts over this big, fine thing.

IF YOU have not been canvassed, call up 7000 and the canvasser will call, or, better, BE YOUR OWN CANVASSER. Make up your mind you will buy to the utmost of every dollar you can rake and scrape in the next year. The banks or your employer will help you with a monthly payment plan. Figure how much a month you will be able to pay, and the bank will help you to buy all the bonds you can pay for on the monthly payment plan. If you haven't bought, do so immediately; if you have, double up.

WE ALL OWE it to London's good name and to our own love of our home city, to our patriotism for our country, to our own material interests, and to our own common sense to buy Victory Bonds to our last dollar we can raise.

Fellow-citizens, let us all together go over the top with the Victory Loan 1918.

With the name of London emblazoned in the history of Canada as the city which carried its banner in the forefront of victory right down to the very last act of the war.

T WAS MOST fitting that Mons should have fallen to the Allied forces before the German capitulation restored it to France. It was near Mons that French's "contemptibles" died splendidly by the thousands, contesting every foot against stupendous odds. The Hun drive was not the channel ports and a section of Belgium and a half million men were prevented from joining von Kluck's sweep into France. Mons, with Ypres, Verdun, Arras and Chateau-Thierry will stand out a glorious story of Allied valor in the great war and in the long and glowing record of heroic British combats it will take its place beside such classic battle feats as Waterloo, the defence of Acre and Rorke's Drift.

TRICKY DR. SOLF.

CARCELY is the ink of the armistice signatures dry when Germany starts what looks like a fresh attempt to cause discord in the Entente camp. In order to "save Germany's starving millions," Dr. Solf asks President Wilson to interfere with the terms of the armistice. The foreign secretary complains that the enforced surrender of transport means death to vast numbers of Germany's civilian population and proposes that the United States Government compel the modification of clauses that cover this point.

Dr. Solf is clever. He paints a picture of horror and misery that would naturally appeal to the sympathies of any decent man or nation, but which carries greater weight because of the element of truth it contains. Skillfully he introduces words of the president to back up his plea by recalling Mr. Wilson's statement that "he did not wish to make war on the German people."

There is no question but that Germany is in a desperate condition as regards food. She will have to get it quickly and in large quantities and from the Allied nations, but with the chaos and confusion that appears to prevail everywhere in Germany a much more rapid and fair distribution could be had under Allied control of transportation. In their own interests the Entente must see to it that Germany is fed this winter. No doubt this was one of the contingencies in mind when he-Versailles conference framed the clause taking over the supervision of the southern railways and rolling stock. If Solf's object was to start some differences amongst the Entente leaders that later might expand into a serious clash he will be disappointed. Whatever his reply may be the president is certain to be guided by the immediate framers of the armistice pact. To act in any other way would imperil the harmony which has proved so effective during the closing months of

BRING HOME "THE ORIGINALS."

T DOES NOT seem possible, despite the warning of President Woodrow Wilson, that a revolution in Germany can seriously threaten the prospect of early peace. The Germans are in no position to set up anything more than a sporadic and futile resistance at the worst. They know the might of Allied forces will lie along the Rhine. ready to strike and to establish order.

But the dim possibility that some form of anarchy may break out in the country may mean that Canadian soldiers in service overseas will not be released at once. The Allies may hold a large force to deal with any contingencies.

In any event it would seem that the men of the first contingents should be released as speedily as possible and brought to their homes. They should have precedence over all other Canadians and over Americans. The Americans will be the first to recognize this fact and a few ships, worse luck, will serve to bring back the "originals" to the land from which they went in early months of the war.

None are so despised as to do him reverence.

The ONE distressing reflection that came from London's victory parade was that no provision was made to convey the invalided soldiers in motor cars at the very head of the procession. Confusion in arrangements or thought-lessness may have been the cause, but there was many a wounded man in London who saw the parade, if he saw it all, from a curbstone, while he supported himself with cane or crutches.

One of these returned men who saw the parade from the sidewalk commented on the fact when a great, grey motor car passed, its only occupant a liveried chardfeur. "I'm not caring about myself," he said, "but there are a lot of fellows down there (pointing south) who would like to be in that car or some other car."

It was a terrible oversight that made such a remark possible. Can there be any wonder a fert that the returned men are saying the people forget them once the novelty has worn off? Is there are not conceiled the control to the product of the many than the proposal that he did not remark possible. Can there be any wonder a fert that the titles may be collected.

Are these men to be brought home in the steerage, treated in a hospital for the wounds they received from interesting "circles."

The ex-Emperor of Germany has long been and then she told him that her greatest are till last. He had something that seemed to him vasily more important to the ambition in life was to become in some interesting that she had been spending the time of the wounds they received from interesting "circles."

Better that London at once should declare another public holiday devoted to the heroes who have come back than that the bitterness of such a realization should remain in their hearts!

It has been said that after all wars the men who fought are forgotten, just as the physician who saves our lives is often forgotten. But in contemplation of our gratitude to the men who fought this war we have gone into rhapsodies over what we WOULD do when the war was over. Here is something to be set right before it is too late, as any red-blooded man or woman will agree. Unwillingly the city was guilty of what appeared to be a cold-blooded ignoring of the men entitled to first place in the parade.

A REMARKABLE STATEMENT.

RINCE MAX'S statement in which he admits defeat and the wrecking of Germany's dream of conquest is a startling combination of impudence and humility.

Admitting that the Allied armies have triumphed completely, he addresses his swanwail to "Germans abroad" sympathizing with them for being "surrounded by manifestations of malicious joy and hatred." This will furnish further proof that "Germans abroad" were deliberately enlisted for the burnings, bombings and stopped, but it was slowed up sufficiently to save general frightfulness that has been widespread in most Allied countries and especially in America. The chancellor tells them all they had hoped for is lost, but not to lose heart and to pin their faith on the Germany of the future. He takes it for granted that the German abroad, the German who dwells in those lands which have slain kultur, will still be for the Fatherland.

In conclusion he unbosoms himself of the following:

"The victory for which many had hoped has not been granted us. But the German people has won this still greater victory over itself and its belief in the right of might."

This is a change of view with a vengeance. It savors too much of a deathbed repentance. The conversion is so sudden that the world will be chary of accepting it as genuine. Max has been carefully advertised by Berlin as a real democrat, but a few months ago when the Germans were plunging towards Paris he publicly sneered at democracy as represented in Allied countries. about other people, my son. That overnight he and the nation for which he speaks have fully accepted the belief that might is wrong sounds too good to be true. The whole statement is just such a statement as a German junker would make. The world will judge Germany by its acts, not by its words.

THE DOWNFALL OF THE MIGHTY.

The word of the Prophet Isaiah, as written in the fourteenth chapter of his

"He who smote the people in wrath with a continual stroke, he that ruled the nations in anger, is persecuted, and none hindereth.

"The whole earth is at rest, and is quiet; they break forth into singing. Yea, the fir trees rejoice and the cedars of Lebanon, saying, 'Since thou art laid down, no feller is come up against us.'

"The grave from beneath is moved for thee to meet thee at thy coming; it stirreth up the dead for thee, even all the chief ones of the earth. All they shall speak and say unto thee, 'Art thou also become weak as we? Art thou become like unto us?"

"How art thou fallen from heaven, O Lucifer, son of the morning! How art thou cut down to the ground, which didst weaken the nations!

"For thou saidst in thine heart, 'I will exalt my throne above the stars of God: I will sit also upon the mount of the congregation in the sides of the north; I will ascend above the heights of the clouds; I will be like the Most High.

"Yet thou shalt be brought down to the sides of the pit.

'They that see thee shall narrowly look upon thee and consider thee, saying, 'Is this the man that made the earth to tremble and did shake the kingdoms; that made the world as a wilderness, and destroyed the cities thereof; that opened not the house of his prisoners?'

"For the Lord of hosts hath purposed, and who shall disannul it? And his hand is stretched out, and who shall turn it back?

'And the first-born of the poor shall feed, and the needy shall lie down in

It may come to this, that Germany will be administered and reorganized by Allied councils, in order that the tithes may be collected.

It was only a little later that the cowboy man made his confesssion. Of course, he was not Morgan Hunter at at all. In fact, he had not really told her he was. At first he had let her think so, because he wanted to see how it felt to be treated like a moving picture hero. He always dressed that way when he rode and he was devoted to the saddle.

President Ban Johnson admitted this startling fact, and then explained: "When the first loan was offered, the league decided to convert all its available funds into bonds and subscribed $100,000 worth. Then came the second issue and the league managed to scrape up another $30,000, which likewise was invested. By this time baseball was beginning to feel war conditions and the league receipts fell off so much that they hardly covered operating expenses. And Now, Our Part!

Canada's army has splendidly finished its share in saving civilization on the battlefield.

Now let us take up the completion of OUR share of the task.

Canada must still continue for a time to maintain her soldiers; must provide transportation to bring them home; must arrange for their future, so that they may again become self-supporting units in a reconstructed world.

Canada must maintain prosperity at home-must continue for a time to finance the purchases of food and supplies for Great Britain and our allies.

Canada must press forward her great shipbuilding program in order that she may take her rightful place as a great sea-carrying power.

For all these things hundreds of millions of dollars will be required. To demobilize and re-establish our soldiers in civil life will take many millions.

Canada's Victory Loan 1918 will provide the necessary working capital.

Therefore, Canada's Victory Loan 1918 must be a great, over=sub= scribed success. Our part, then, is to buy bonds and complete our great victory.

Where Asylums Are Maintained For Male Animals Only.

Exactly contrary to the Hindus' eager prayer for a male child runs his prayer for increase from his herds and flocks. For to the Hindu farmer the male offspring of his buffalo, sheep and goats isn't an asset, but a liability. The reason is curiously linked with his religion and sadly mixed with his poverty. To the Hindu animal life is sacred. According to his doctrine it's a great sin to kill any animal, even the smallest and most annoying of insects. The Hindu considers it an act of great merit to prolong the life of an animal, though it may be dying of a dangerous disease.

66TN what way?"

"By trying Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I have been reading here about the symptoms of exhausted nerves, and the description just suits my case."

"I am sure it will help you just as it did 'me when I had nervous prostration, for you know yourself that nothing else seemed to do me any good."

"That is about right."

"Well, I have been telling you that the Nerve Food is what you need.'

"I know you have, but I did not think there was anything wrong with my nerves, for I was always pretty well. On thing sure, I cannot sleep nights, and get up so tired every morning that I not feel like taking hold of work like I used to.

"I have felt that I am losing grip on business and sometimes get discouraged. Of course, I have been working hard since we are so short-handed, and I suppose this is beginning to tell."

"Well, I have been worried about your health, but you would not take my advice and so I could do no more. I am awfully glad you are going to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for I am sure it will build up your health."

"I have been reading here a letter from Mr. Myles of Lindsay, and I am not going to delay treatment until I get like he was. When the Nerve Food cured him it will surely help me."

This is the letter:

Mr. Alex. Myles, 5 Regent street, Lindsay, Ont., "For the last five years I had been troubled "For the last five years I had been troubled with my nerves. At times I could not put on my coat alone, and often when trying to read the paper my hands would shake s that the paper would rattl; and I could scarcely read it. Sometimes during the ay the cramps would bother e, too. My muscles seemed to tie up in knots. I had tried differen medicines without success. Last fall I secure a box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and as this one box helped me, I got some more and continued taking them till my nerviceness was cured. I feel much better generally, can eat well, and sleep right through the night. I have not had any cramps for two months, and I give all the credit to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Some years ago, too, I was troubled with piles, and upon the advice of a friend, used Dr. Chase's Ointment, which cured me. I have great faith in all of Dr. Chase's medicines."

Because Dr. Chase's Nerve Food supplies to the body the vital substances from which new, rich blood and nerve force is created it cannot fail to be of benefit to the system. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. PEGGY AND THE GRATEFUL
SPIDER.

Peggy gathered up her dust rag and ran into the front room to wipe down a spider's web that was hanging in the corner. She climbed on a chair, and as she reached up her dust cloth she heard a tiny voice crying:

"Oh, please, little girl," and a tiny black spider ran out on the web and waved her six little feet at Peggy. "Please don't pull my house down. I just came in here because it was so lovely and warm—the wind's growing colder every minute outdoors."

"But we can't have you hanging in our parlor," laughed Peggy. "Spiders should live outdoors and not come into people's houses."

"I'll freeze if you throw me outdoors," wailed Mrs. Spider, wiping her eyes with her feet, "for the winter snows will soon be covering the fence corners."

"Why not build up on the roof next to the chimney," suggested Peggy. "It would be nice and warm up there."

"A fine place, indeed!" laughed Mrs. Spider, shaking her funny little head. "Why, before night I'd be gobbled up by some hungry sparrow. Spiders are never safe in summer time, let alone winter time, when other food is hard for Mr. Sparrow to find."

"But Mamma told me to tear down your house," exclaimed Peggy.

"Then there's no use talking any longer," sighed Mrs. Spider, "for little girls should always mind their mammas. But just wait until I gather up my things, and then I'll go." Mrs. Spider darted back into her webby house and soon came out dragging a tiny spinning wheel and a very tiny little chair.

"What have you there?" asked Peggy, her eyes as big as saucers. "And where will you go?"

"My spinning wheel and chair," replied Mrs. Spider. "You see, I have to keep busy these days, for the Queeen of Fairyland has ordered new gowns for her fairies, and I must help spin them from my pretty webby lace. As to where I shall build—guess I'll try your suggestion and build on the roof near the chimney."

"But the winter sparrows might find you and gobile you up!" exclaimed Peggy. "What would the Fairy Queen do then for her fairy robes?"
"Some of my more fortunate sisters would take my place," replied Mrs. Spider. "However, I'll look on the bright side and not cross the bridge before I come to it." Mrs. Spider gathered up her tiny spinning wheel and chair and started on her way, when Peggy called her back.
"I know!" she cried. "Mamma would not object if you built your house back of the wood box in the kitchen. I'm quite sure it'll be nice and warm there

> To the People of Ontario: We are now in the closing days of our great effort to reach the $250, 000,000 Victory Loan objective undertaken by the province. While subscriptions up to date have been most gratifying and indicate a keen appreciation, both of the urgency of the situation requiring this loan and of its unusual attractiveness from the investment standpoint, we have still a great many millions to raise if the province is to fly its honor flag on Saturday night.

Having shouldered the burden of one-half of the national quota, the people of Ontario today carry a tremendous responsibility. THEY WILL EXPECT US TO FINISH OURS. The money being raised in the Victory Loan is needed to maintain them in their occupation of the Rhineland, and to finance their various homecomings. We would be unworthy of their unstinted sacrifices were we to fail in any respect in this solemn obligation.

We must not fail, for the immediate future prosperity of Ontario and the nation absolutely depends upon our having achieved the full quota when the campaign closes Saturday night. Should we fail to lend the money asked for, Ontario would be faced with a trying economic situation, in which unemployment and distress might become general. Our extraordinary prosperity of the past four years was due almost wholly to the stimulation of industry through previous war loans. If our great army of workers is to be maintained in steady employment, and work found for our soldiers as they return, we must launch at once upon a large reconstruction program in the financing of which the proceeds of the Victory Loan will play a vital part.

We will not fail. Ontario has carried through successfully every war effort undertaken by her since August, 1914. If every man, woman and child in the province, realizing the seriousness of the situation, resolves to do his or her utmost, and puts every spare dollar into Victory Bonds before the end of the week. Ontario will not fail in this her five The Ontario executive of the Victory Loan Committee, therefore, appeals to everyone in the province who has not yet subscribed to the limit of his or her ability, to go to the local campaign headquarters and volunteer the loan of their last available dollar.

Ontario has occupied a premier position in Canada's contribution to the cause of civilization. Help maintain her proud place. Lend to your limit, and we shall not fail. T. H. WOOD. Chairman Ontario Executive Victory Loan, 1918.

BRITISH EMPIRE IS MORE CLOSELY KNIT, SAYS KING GEORGE

OTTAWA, Nov. 12.—The following telegram has been received by His Excellency the Governor-General from His Majesty the King:

"Buckingham Palace, London,
"November 11, 1918.

"At the moment when the armistice is signed, bringing, I trust a final end is signed, bringing, I trust a final end is signed. His Majesty the King:

"Buckingham Palace, London,
"November 11, 1918.

"At the moment when the armistice is signed, bringing, I trust, a final end to the hostilities which have convulsed the whole world for four years, I desire to send a message of greeting and heartfelt gratitude to my overseas peoples, whose wonderful efforts and sacrifices have contributed so largely to secure the victory which is now won. Together we have borne this tremendous burden in the fight for justice and liberty. Together we can now rejoice at the realization of these great aims for which we entered the struggle.

Was achieved. That pledge is now reddeemed. The outbreak of war found the whole Empire one. I rejoice to think that the end of the struggle finds the common resolve, held firm hunity of suffering and sacrifice—by the common resolve, held firm hunity of suffering and sacrifice—by the dangers and triumphs shared together. The hour is one of solemn thanksgiving and of gratitude to God, whose divine providence has preserved us through all perils and crowned our arms with victory. Let us bear our triumph in the same spirit of fortitude and self-control with which we have borne our dangers.

(Signed) "GEORGE R. I."

THE CANADA BUSINESS COLLEGE, Chatham, has been enjoying unprecedented prosperity this year notwithstanding war conditions. The October opening week was the best in the history of the school. If we had five times as many we would still be far short of meeting the demands for our graduates for choice business positions. Catalogue B tells of work at Chatham, while Catalogue I tells of our home training courses.

DIES FROM WOUND AFTER LONG SERVICE

Son of Rev. John Elder of Chelsea Green.

of Rev. John and Mrs. Elder of Chelsea Green, died of wounds on October 30 at the 15th Field Ambulance Hospital. This sad word reached his parents only on Tuesday, after they had rejoiced on Monday over the end of the world struggle, but it had been delayed for some days.
To many who knew the young hero, and admired him for his keen intellect and manly qualities, the death comes as a great shock.

Born in Scotland, Lieut. Elder came to Canada with his parents ten years ago and located in Barrie. He graduated from the high school there, and the family moved to Popular Hill.

The military authorities have not announced that there will not be any more drafts rent overseas, and it would be unwise to do so, as if the armistice conditions are not fulfilled by the German army within the 30-day limit fighting is to recommence. In addition to this, troops will be needed to enforce the armistice in the war zone, and the Allied powers may have plans force the armistice in the war zone, and the Allied powers may have plans for sending troops from Canada to do this, and thus relieve the boys who have borne the brunt of the battles in France and Belgium.

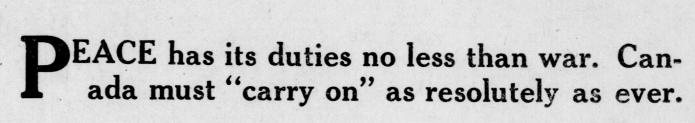

3. This query cannot be answered for obvious reasons. The military authorities have the privilege of retaining the services of every Canadian soldier for six months after the war if required, and the war has not yet come to an end, simply an armistice having been signed by the warring nations.
