About Our Hats

We always endeavor to make your Hat to please you.

First we offer you an assortment to select from which comprises everything in Millinery.

Then our trimmers make up the materials into a stylish and attractive hat that becomes you.

And possibly the most pleasure comes from our prices, they are always lowest, quality considered of course. If you leave your winter hat to us you will get just the hat you want at the price you wish to pay.

About Choosing Furs

A safe store must have more than honesty, it must have knowledge too. If you find after a few months that you were deceived in a fur, it is poor comfort to know that the dealer was deceived too-for you pay for his ignorance.

Our long experience makes our guarantee of some value.

Fur Collarettes

Electric Seal, Astrachan and a variety of other Furs, the very latest, at $4.50, $5.00, $6.00, $8.00 and $10.00 and higher if you want them.

Neck Scarfs

Of Sable, Electric Seal, Opossum, Russian Sable, Coney, Etc., at $1.50, $2, $2.50, $3, $5, $8 and $10 and higher if you want them.

OLD PASTOR WELCOMED

ations Greet Rev. Mr. Baker at Park St. Church.

Excellent Music Receives Special Commendation-Two Splendid Addresses-Large Collect on s.

"Most successful anniversary in the istory of the church," was the enthusiastic comment of the pastor, Rev. Dr. Hannon, at the close of last evening's service. Good sermons, splenyesterday, with Rev. E. N. Baker, of Strafford, in the pulpit. Mr. Baker will be remembered as a former and highly esteemed pastor of the Methothe morning service the reverend gentleman took his text from First Corinthians, twelfth chapter and thirtyfirst verse, it being: "But covet earn-estly the best gifts." During his dis-course he drew attention to the fact that it is said by some that the Bible contradicts itself, such as in one place it says—"Thou shalt not covet," etc., and in the text "Covet earnestly thy best gifts," but that there is no contradiction in that nor in any other works of the Rible, and that they all words of the Bible, and that they all vanish before the truth. In con-tinuing he advised the people to covet such things as the truths of God wisdom, revelation, patience, humil-ity, endurance, etc. He also advised the people not to be too anxious about Heaven and the crown of life, but seek the fitness, the character and the faith and they should have the crown of life. Mr. Baker closed with the impressive words of the text, "Covet earnestly the best gifts."

The singing at the morning service was excellent and appropriate. It was as follows: Anthem-"Come unto me," Miss Idle taking the obligato.

Mr. Baker preached at the evening service again and took his text from eighth chapter of Romans and second verse, which reads, "For the law of the spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death." The sermon of the text and death." The sermon of the text was impressed by the speaker in a very able manner and the very large congregation were kept at attention throughout the discourse. The sing-ing by the choir in the evening was highly meritorious and worthy of praise and was much appreciated by praise and was much appreciated by all present. The duet of Miss Idle and Robert Knight, "Love Divine,"

Opening anthem-"Now God be with Anthem—"By Babylon's Wave," obligate by C. Terry.

was very appropriate. The singing in the evening was:

Anthem-"O sing to God," with ob ligato by Miss Idle. Rev. Mr. Baker took occasion at the evening service to remark that while the music was excellent in the past, it was now better than ever. He paid the choir many warm compliments. The tea meeting of to-night was

At the morning service the reverend gentile and the morning service the reverse and you, my thoughts were directed to shoes don't wear gan to think what I ought to say to this text. From this verse arises three questions—First, what is the purpose of the church in the world? what is incumbent on the people of that church? and what is incumbent on her ministry?

In answer to the first question as to why God saw fit to establish the church in the world, it may be said that God did this for a definite purpose. It was to make Christ known. That Christ Jesus might be manifest to this world and God through Him. shoes of ours. In answer to the second question as to what is incumbent on Christ's people, it may be said that the all essential thing is the consecration of our own hearts and souls to Cod. Let us be j witnesses for Christ here. Let each one resolve to come whenever divine service is held. There is a very bad custom in vogue in some places and I am sorry to say that it is becoming more popular. It is the excuse that it is enough to attend church on Sunday. Is it enough for us poor weak sinners? Is one little hour on Sunday. day enough? Is one little hour on Sunday enough for God who gives us everything? Let us trust that this will not become our custom. There is another thing that is un-fortunately happening, and that is the degeneration of the good, old-fashion-ed family pew, where children and parents sit together. I am glad to see so many men here. It is becoming the custom for men to absent themselves from church. Let us come to church every Sunday, and let us have the family pews. Let each one find for himself or herself some good to do. Do not wait for your new pastor to ask you. He is a stranger and will take some time to get acquainted. If you can sing, help in the Sunday school, or do anything, come forward. Don't hang back.

I thank the people who have been so kind in receiving me and I hope you will give me your assistance as well. Let us try to look after strang-ers. Do tell your clergyman about those who have become indifferent as regards church attendance. Don't be afraid to tell me of cases of illness and I shall be deeply thankful. Let us each one try to do what we can. I do trust that the prayers of each and every one will go up for me that I may be kept and that I may be true to God. I do ask for prayers that I may be strengthened in my work.

More things are wrought by prayer than the world dreams of. We live in a parish, but we must not forget our diocese or the duty we owe our bishop, especially in our col-lections. We have, too, our great home mission fields and we have the foreign mission field.

REV. T. BEVERLEY SMITH.

Yesterday the pastorate of Rev. T. Beverley Smith, at Holy Trinity Church was formally inaugurated by two largely attended and impressive pervices. In the morning the young clergyman greeted his congregation with an earnest appeal for increased consecration and zeal. His address had the right ring, It was fervent, forceful and calculated to do good. Rev. Mr. Smith's pastorate in Chatham should be successful, both spiritwally and materially.

OUR HOSPITALS.

The poor child in Dickens' pathetic story, who thought the "ospital was 'eavenly," has had many companions in the years that have elapsed, who have experienced the same impression and with increasing reason. The hospital-though even then a blessing -is now a paradise in comparison. Its scope has enlarged and its usefulness to the community immensely increased. The Maple City and surrounding district is most advantageously served in this respect. Chatham possesses two magnificent hospitals, each splendidly equipped, capably managed, popessed of a skilled staff and doing a great, good work. What they accomplish is scarcely realized, except by those brought into immediate association with them.

A recent and incomplete estimate, gathered from the city physicians, of the many serious cases cared for by these grand institutions and the exceptional success which has attended the conduct of them, furnishes food for reflection and leads to the pertinent query-Are our hospitals appreciated and supported as they should be? Their work in done so quietly, so unostentatiously, that recognition-because uninvited-is but sparingly extended.

In alluding to the value and success of these institutions, tribute should be paid to the accomplished and devoted the place to oppose the Americans. nurses. These young ladies are daily consecrating their gifts and energies neither accepted his advice nor reto the alleviation of suffering-to the service of others. Theirs is one of the moblest spheres in life and they furnish a lesson and example to those of us, who, outside, in the wide arena of business and social intercourse-the big hospital of the world-oft forget or neglect to extend even a trifling balm to ease the bruises and buffets which all experience.

HOME STUDIES.

A generation ago a schoolboy-o girl wearing spectacles was a rarity Now spectacles are common among the school children. Why? Is it the result of home studies? Poring over books and papers and searching for outlandish places on a microscopic map, every night for hours, must have evil effect upon the young eyes.

It is gratifying to know that the home study business is being abolished in various places in the province The Chatham Planet says:

Inspector Robert Park sounded the death-knell of home work in Chat-ham's public schools by his vigorous condemnation at the last meeting of the board.

The inspector was right and the trustees should make haste quickly in

> A CORDIAL GREETING. Stratford Beacon.

The salutation of one alderman as he grasped the Duke's hand was: "I met your old man here forty years ago." And the Duke and Duchess smiled, not wearily, but brightly. The remark had a western flavor which reminded them of the mountains, and anyway, broke the monotony of the ceremonial order.

DUTY OF THE PRESS. Stratford Herald.

There seems to be an impression that a newspaper should screen rather than expose the faults of a municipality in which it has its franchise. This is a false and mistaken notion. A newspaper should right wrong if it can. Ostrich-like, some men think our defects will escape notice, and if the press speaks out these silly men charge disloyalty. Travelers and visitors have eyes and tongues. With their eyes they see, and with their tongues they speak.

WOULD NOT BE HELD UP. Toronto Star.

There were about 20,000 people at the military review in this city, which was not so bad considering the fact that every possible means was resorted to keep people away. Without any doubt whatever, an attendance of 150,-000 could have been had if the public had been encouraged to attend, and if there had been free standing room for all-comers. The long range of empty seats on the special stand east of the grand stand was the best kind of an intimation to the military authorities that the general public retains its gumption in the midst of whatever excitement may be stirred up.

WOMEN RAIDED STATE ROOM

Made Rush for Souvenirs on Pacific Liner.

Lay Down on the Duchess' Bed While Snapshot Photographs Were Taken of them.

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 19. - During the visit of the Royal party to British Columbia an incident occurred which is still one of the tit-bits of gossip in Vancouver society circles. It was not down on the hard and fast official program prepared by Major Maude and the Reception Committee.

According to these pre-arranged plans it was decided that after the Royal guests had been entertained by the citizens of Vancouver they would embark on the steamship Empress of India, alongside the wharf, for the night, and the ship would be moved to mid-stream and anchored there.

The Duke, however, on hearing of The Duke, however, on hearing of the arrangement, graciously remarked that the people should be allowed to inspect the decorations on the steamship. To Captain Marshall in charge of the chiral transfer of the chiral of the ship, the suggestion of his Royal Highness was a command, and one that must be obeyed.

It was obeyed with dire results, for no sooner did the captain remove the guard at the gang plank than there guard at the gang plank than there was a rush of matrons and maids, girls, and misses. They stampeded for the Royal apartments; they tramped upstairs and downstairs and in my lady's chamber, until the distracted steward crowded through them to the captain's cabin with the information that "the bloomin' wimmen" were car-rying away everything movable in the Royal apartments as souvenirs, and everything they couldn't carry away they were cutting pieces off with their scissors. Captain Marshall de-cided that the Royal wishes must be subservient, to the necessities of the moment. Making his way through the crush to Prince George's apartments, he ordered the ladies to leave the ship at once. He then passed through the Duchess' apartments to the door of Her Royal Highness' bed chamber. Here he was brought up speechless with amazement, for on the bed to be occupied that night by England's future Queen, a young lady was stretched out, while another young lady was immortalizing this triumph of female nerve and audacity by taking a snap shot of her, and from the shockingly mussed appearance of the Royal bed a good many audacious young ladies had been photographed with Royal trappings. Needless to say the results of Prince George's impulsive act of gracious condescension were speedily remedied, and an extra guard put on the gang plank. Their Royal Highnesses are said to have been much amused by the misadven-

the Bird. The ostrich is the largest of the feathered species. He is proud and stately, but not graceful. Ostriches are raised on farms and can be seen for 15 cents, which must be paid to the man at the entrance to the farm, who will then permit you to enter. There is much ignorance prevailing about the ostrich. This makes it necessary for a man to stand up in front of the farm and use loud and forcible language to get people to step inside and see these interesting birds. The os-trich has a large appetite. He will deyour corn, nails, watches, turnips or any similar article that is placed before him. He is not good to eat unless you are very hungry. Ostrich feathers do not look as nice when you see them growing on the ostrich as when they are neatly placed on a hat. When an ostrich is pursued in his native jungle, he sticks his head down in the sand. This makes him look like sparse and stunted vegetation, and he escapes. I know a whole lot of other things about ostriches, but I am tired of JOHNNY. -Chicago Tribune.

Good Cause For Depression. "Why does Gabbington go around with such a dejected air lately? For two or three months after his marriage you would have thought he owned the earth. He seemed all puffed up. Now he skulks around like a fellow that didn't more than half believe he had a right to re-main on earth. I never saw such a change. Do you know what's gone wrong?"

The old proverb; "To be at peace prepare for war," is the secret of the larger part of life's successes, whether of nations or individuals.

The difference between the healthy, happy mother who has healthy children to nurse and nourish, and the weak, nervous mother, with a weakling child, is mostly a difference of preparation.

The great preparative for motherhood is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It transmitizes the nerves expounded to the prescription of the prescriptio tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the appetite and induces refreshing sleep. It gives the mother strength to give her child. It imparts elasticity and strength to the organs of maternity so that the baby's advent is practically painless.

"I take pleasure in writing you to let you know about your 'Favorite Prescription!" says Mr. E. E. Fricke, of Petersburg, Menard Co. Ill., Box 367. "My wife had been sick nearly all her life, and after trying everything I could think of I made up my mind to try 'Favorite Prescription.' I sent to Chicago and got six bottles, which my wife took, a tablespoonful three times a day, until the baby came. She felt better after taking the first bottle, and when baby was born he weighed nine and a half pounds. To-day he is six months old and weighs twenty-two pounds. He is as good a child as any one could wish. The doctor says he is as healthy as any baby could be, and also the doctor says your 'Favorite Prescription' was the cause of such a healthy baby. I felt I owed you this much for the good you did my wife and myself. I hope you will mention this to others who may be in need of such help, and you may refer them to me, as I would be glad to tell of the good of such a valuable medicine."

Only When He Talked.

Jim Hopkins was in town one day re-cently and incidentally told a story about Bill Sawyer, who lives in his community. Bill is a good natured fellow and has a strong vein of humor in his composition. but he stammers so that it is almost painful to hear him attempt to say anything. Bill was talking to a woman the other day with whom he was only slight ly acquainted, and, being somewhat em barrassed, he stammered more than usual, whereupon the lady exclaimed, "My goodness, Mr. Sawyer, do you always stutter like that?" "N-n-n-n-no," replied Sawyer, "only wh-wh-when I t-t-t-t-talk."

Friends No Longer.

They were good friends, but they are so no longer. It all came about through a mistake. One of the women had an old fashioned harp which had been handed down from her ancestors, and, meet ing a friend one day, the latter asked:
"Have you got that old lyre in the house yet?"

"I'll have you know that I do not consider that a respectful way to speak of my husband."
Explanations have never been sufficient to heal the breach.—Yonkers

The Landlord's Fire Drill Worked

"but I have never before been able to tell the story without getting unduly excited. Business took me to a little country town in the interior of the state, was a cold, stormy night, and I thanked my lucky stars that I did not have to be my lucky stars that I did not have to be out in it. Some time about midnight I was awakened by some one yelling 'Fire!' at the top of his voice. The hotel was nothing more than a fire trap, a fact that I had fully realized when I had turned in, and the cry of 'Fire!' sent my heart into my mouth. OF HIGHGATE

Chosen as a Compromise by the Liberal Convent on To-day at Ridgetown.

Only Two Other Names Were Allowed Special to The Planet.

Ridgetown, Oct. 21, 3 p. m.-John Les, of Highgate, has just been voted the nomination as candidate in the Liberal interests in East Kent at the convention now in session. He was chosen by a large majority vote. The only other names that were allowed to go before the convention were George Johns, of Bothwell, and

Mr. Jull, of Ridgetown. Mr. Lee is said to be an unwilling candidate. A week ago he stated in Chatham that under no conditions would be accept the nomination and the Chatham Liberal organ ridiculed the statement of The Planet that Mr. Lee was the dark horse of the machine.

His selection is a compromise, with a view to setting aside once and forever the large number of aspirants, whose earnest and energetic party services entitled them to recognition, and their strong following of enthusiastic friends. Provincial Organizer Alex. Smith. and Hon. Mr. Harcourt are present, and are understood to have manipulated the deal.

While the respective candidates me the inevitable philosophically, their friends appear far from satisfied, especially those of Messrs. Sturgis and, Gosnell, who were said to have exceptional claims upon the party.

The convention has been opened to the public, and the speakers are commencing their addresses.

Speaking this morning, Capt Mac-donald said, "Yes, we had a pretty rough sime of it, and, at one stage, we had all things packed up ready to take to the life boat. We had a narrow, squeak of it. As it was we had our jib boom sarried away. The trouble started with the dragging of our anchor in Saugeen harbor, and in effort to make fast a line to the pier our yawl capsized. I saw there was nothing for it but to put out into the lake, as I thought I would just as soon be drowned in deep water as in shallow. The wind blew from every direction, and was accompanied by snow squalls. I ran to seek shelter in Goderich Harbor, but the wind shifting I altered the course, and headed for the St. Clair River. The wind was blowing very stiff, and was keeping us so close into shore that we were in grave danger, of being wreck on Kettle Point. I had to put out all prepared for the worst. The schooner Fulton was in Saugeen harbor, too, but she was not so fortunate. She dragged her anchor and stranded, She is laden with cedar posts and is half full of water. The Fulton lay here one winter, tied behind the gas works. That was about the winter of 1893 or 1894."

Woman on Trial at Police Court for Neglecting her Infant Offspring.

Charges of Perjury Result From the Evidence Cther Cases Dealt with. "In which one of Shakespeare's dramas does the witness always say, nonum recordo,' " que riled the Crown Attorney of the press representatives at the paire court this morning. The case on trial before Judge Houston was that of Berthla Scott, who was charge with child desertion. Mrs. Carr, well known in what Officer Groves terms the "Ever-Ready Society" circles, was a witness for the defense and her many answers of "No to my knowledge" and general ignorance of dates led the Crown Attorney away from the material to the ideal from the court room to the stage, and forced the press representatives to a momentary mirth in the official and Mrs. Carr had no reason to smile with the prosecution for at the termination of her evidence the Crown Attorney laid a charge of perjury against her and she will have to stand trial on that senious arraignment.

Mrs. Scott, mother-in-law of the prisoner Bertha Scott, was the first witness in the child desertion case. She testified that her son had been married a year ago last June and that a child was born on the 4th day of May. The father of the child had gone away to work last Monday night and witness didn't know where he was Since the mother had left her child, witness had taken care of the baby during the night and during the day it had been in charge of the wife of another son. The mother had been staying at Annie Reaume's home, which place had the reputation of being a sporting house. "Sometimes," continued the witness, "men would come to my house and ask for Annie Reaume. Sometimes there would be more men, sometimes less. I have seen as many as elight go there. Ann'e Reaume claims to be married. Her man is in Detroit married to another woman." "I see. A solitary grass widow," interposed the sympathetic Crown Attorney.

"The baby," continued the witness "The baby," continued the witness, "was left with me twice, two weeks at a time. I fed it on a bottle. While the mother was living with me she took care of the baby alright. She went to the opera one night and left the baby with Essie Taylor and Johnny Frielicks. The baby cried and the father went in next door and got it. The mother that night got home between a quarter and half past eleven. The child seemed to be hungry when I fed it. On Friday evening the mother went to Blenevening the mother went to Blen-he m and got back after midnight he m and got back after midnight. We again heard the baby crying and the father went for it. This time when we took the baby back to the mother she said she didn't want it and wouldn't take it. The way the baby was left it would have cried itself to death if we had not taken it. "Essic Taylor, Mrs. Reaume and Bertha lived in the house on Queen street next door to us. Essic has been there off and on. She bears the character of a sporting girl. Bertha was one of the belles at the Basswood ball. She got home that morning about three o'clock."

Mable Scott, sister-in-law of the prisoner, testified: "I think Bertha prisoner, testified: "I think Bertha has been neglecting the baby. She went to Detroit for two weeks' and left the baby with us. Heard that

Then ensued a little passage at ongues between the two regarding their respective morals, which was stopped by the judge.

Mrs. Ida Carr was the first witness for the defense. She said that Bertha had taken good care of the baby while at her house. She also testified as to the presence of the prisoner in her house at night. Alice Wallace, who was tried several years ago for poisoning her hus-band, was living with Mrs. Carr for week. She testified that the prisontook good care of the baby during that time. Bertha Scott, the prisoner, was the next witness. She acknowledged being out at the Basswood Hotel, Mrs. Scott and her daughter were there. She was accompanied by a violinist. The Crown Attorney-Is he black or

Witness-White, of course. The crown attorney now scratched his head and looked puzzled. "Well, somebody is lying," he remarked, and proceeded to draw up informations for perjury against Mrs. Carr and Bertha

"This is a most hearltess case," said Judge Houston, addressing the prisoner. "On your own admission you go off to a ball and leave your baby alone night after night."

The case was adjourned till Wednesday. nesday.

CARR CASE.

Mrs. Carr was, arraigned on the charge of perjury, in falsely swearing that Bertha Scott "was at my house continuously," "was never away at night," and "I never heard of the ball at 'the Basswood." Mrs. Carr elected to be tried by jury.

ABOUT THE COAT. John Faubert, charged with stealing an overcoat which he valued at fifty an overcoat which he valued at fifty cents, appeared again this morning. The prisoner had been released on his own bail to secure his brather as a witness and also the coat. Faubert strode sturdily into the court this morning with a market basket, a new pair of gloves and the evidence of his brother on a piece of paper. At least Faubert said it was his brother's evidence, although the writing was evidence, although the writing was unsigned. Judge Houston sent the prisoner to the cells till five o'clock at which time prisoner said he could produce his brother. The coat and the tails thereof were produced. Each had been separated from the other, but the tails had no signs about them of ever having been devoted to the lowly duties of replacing the worn-out seat of a pair of trousers.

AFTER THEIR POLL TAX. D. J. Lamont and Chas. Macdonale appeared on the charge of refusing to pay poll tax. The cases, at their own request, were adjourned for a week.

THE EVENING.

Quite a sprinkling from other congregations reinforced Holy Trinity Church at evensong yesterday, drawn thither to hear the new pastor , Rev Beverley Smith, whose pleasing and clearly audible voice, combined with correct emphasis, was a matter of favorable comment. He preached extempore, and, judging from the mat-ter and manner of his discourse he will be a valuable addition to the clerical strength of Chatham.

His text was drawn from John vi. 67, "Jesus therefore said unto the twelve, "Would ye also go away? Si-mon Peter answered him, Lord to whom shall we go? Thou hast the words of eternal life."

The preceding portion of this chap-ter, combined with Luke xv., would indicate that the recreancy of Christ's backsliding disciples was caused by his enunciation of the dual functions involved in the scheme of redemption This thought was brought out in the parables of the latter chapter, There was God's side and also man's side of the work. The prodigal was received with open arms by the father, but the had himself to take the initiative in his homeward journey.

When Christ uttered His plaintive remonstrance, ever impulsive Peter was spokesman for the twelve, as he well might be, having been emanci pated from the cold fetters of Pharisaical formalism by the light and liberty of the gospel. Christ's ques-tion was addressed, not to a nation, but to the twelve. The preacher addressed the same query to his hearers. They might be tormented by doubts suggested by the mysteries of the reconciliation of divine foreknowledge with human freewill and the concurrent existence of evil and of an omnipolent and all-good God. Such doubt had been enunciated by renown sceptics and made the basis of attack on revelation, but even in the hearts, of these men.as proved by their own admissions, lay a warm corner of admiration for Christianity. By doing the will of God, man would gain light to see the beauty and truth of Chris.

WORK OF THE LUNGS.

THE NECESSITY FOR PURE AIR AND PROPER BREATHING.

Respiratory Gymnastics Tend to Strengthen the Resisting Force of Nature to Disease-The Lesson the Black Hole of Calcutta.

To my mind the part of the physical man upon which depends all the possibilities of mental resource is that part which has relation to respiration and which for its perfect work depends upon the quality of the air we breathe, the quantity respired and the method thereof. The apparatus for respiration consists of the lungs, which are double, the one on the right side having three lobes, the other on the left only two. We must always bear in mind that nature is generous in her provisions, and she has given us so much of lung tissue that a large part can be quickly exhausted and become inactive, yet life endure for its legitimate threescore years and ten and its duties and activities continue unhindered by any conscious lack. Under the microscope the lung tissue shows an infinite number of tiny cells or ultimate lobules. Some have estimated these at five or six hundred million, and, wonderful to relate, only with the first breath that the infant draws are both lungs ever filled with absolutely new air. All through life there is necessarily what we call a residual air, which may be of a greater or less amount, according to the breathing habit of the individual. It is said that the extent of surface through which the air breathed passes is approximately about 1,300 square feet, and the excretion from the lungs daily is over two pounds of poisonous matter. In fact, it is certain that at least onethird of the waste and poisonous matter caused by the activities of the organism, its growth, repair, decay, is

Unfortunately, a great majority of mankind breathe very superficially, using only part of this large area of lung tissue. Even if persons are out of doors, unless by wise activity, the deep cells of the lungs are not aerated for the simple reason that very few men or women know how to free the lungs properly. Dettweiler states that "deep breathing not only ventilates the lungs and aids the circulation, but in many cases is able to strengthen the muscles of the thorax, especially those about the upper part of the chest." And I believe that we have a right to expect from respiratory gymnastics a real strengthening of the resisting force of nature to disease. Even if the lungs have begun to break down, honest effort in this direction will supplement medication.

One of the methods of correct breathing is to put the hands lightly on the hips, fingers backward; throw the shoulders well back, hold the chest up, chin in, and then inhale slowly through the nose as long as possible. When the lungs are filled, retain the air until some discomfort is experienced, then, forming the lips in the shape of a letter O, exhale as slowly and evenly as is consistent with comfort, making a slight blowing sound. Such an exercise for five minutes, clad only in one garment or, better, with no garment at all, night and morning, in a well ventilated room, will do very much in man, woman or child to develop the lung capacity, improve the carriage of the body and enrich the quality of the blood, which depends upon the activity of the lungs for its purification. It is no wonder that so much care has been given by nature to the apparatus for the respiratory function, for we know perfectly well that man has lived as much as sixty days without food, he has been forced to exist for some time without water; but, alas, without air death must come in a brief space of time! :

For instance, in 1756, 146 persons were confined over night in a small space not larger than 5,900 cubic feet, with only two little windows on one side. Within an hour all broke out in a profuse sweat. They were tortured with thirst and difficult breathing, and in three and a half hours the majority were delirious. Then when the morning came forty-three only lived to tell the tale. Another extreme case was at the battle of Austerlitz. Three hundred captured soldiers were confined in a small cellar, and within a few hours all but forty were dead. The reason is self evident. The air was insufficient for the demands of each individual, the poisonous exhalations from the body were thrown off through the lungs, and a most agonizing death ensued. It behooves us, then, most carefully to consider in arranging for the ventilation of homes, hotels, hospitals and jails not only that a proper quantity of pure air shall be allowed free circulation, but also to be watchful lest this pure air shall be vitiated by retained impurities. A great many investigations have been made to ascertain the relation of air to disease, and perhaps the simple statement of the fact that among all industrial classes those are healthier and have the lowest death rate who are gardeners, farmers, agricultural laborers and fishermen-in other words, those whose occupations are carried on in the open air-will be a truth all car, understand. What a lesson, then, to all who may have families of children to rear! How important that every effort should be made to secure the largest amount of air space about the dwelling, plenty of room for the children to play out of doors, and by all means avoid having little ones sleep in an apartment which the winds of beaven do not visit.— Julia Holmes Smith, D. D., in Pilgrim

The Model Dairy barn is situated near the East Amherst gate, and is a centre of attraction to those interested in agriculture, and a matter of curiosity to city people. Here it is proposed to care for and feed the cows, and prepare their product for the market in as nearly an ideal way as is possible. In the bara are to be found the herds of five cows each. Canada is represented by five herds, viz.: Holsteins, Jerseys, Ayr-shires, Short Horns and French-Canadians. The remaining herds, viz.: Guernseys, Red Polled, Polled Jerseys, Dutch Belted, and Brown Swiss are owned by Americans. The Canadian cows, with their owners, are as follows:

The cows are under a six months' test, lasting from the 1st of May to the 1st of November. There are four prizes to be competed for: 1st, for the herd showing the greatest net profit, butter fat alone considered, as determined by the Babcock test; 2nd-For the herd showing the greatest net profit, butter fat alone considered, as determined by the churns; 3rd-For the herd showing the greatest net profit in total solids; For the herd showing the greatest net profit in total solids and in loss and gain in live weight. Each herd is in charge of a competent herdsman, who makes it his business to study and put into practice the most profitable methods of handling and feeding each individual cow under his charge. Feeding is done three times a day. All feed is weigh-ed to each cow, and charged against her at a fixed price, the prices are got by averaging the prices pre-vailing throughout the United States and Canada during the last five

The cows are milked three times a day—at 5 a. m., 12.30 noon, and 8 p. m. All milk is weighed and accurate records kept. From milking is taken samples for both the lactometer and Babcock tester. The lactometer readings are made each day, but the Babcock tester is only used once a week, on the com-posite samples of twenty-one milk-ings. The amount of butter is es-timated on the basis of 35½ fat.

For the purpose of ease in hand-ling and economy, only one day's milk is used each week, to find the actual amount of butter made by each herd; the total amount of butter for the week being figured on the basis of what is produced in the one day. At present the Guernseys are leading, with the Ayrshires second, Jerseys third, and Holsteins fourth. The three leading Canadian herds are fast gaining on the Guernseys, and Canadians may look for these three herds to be leading at the close of the six months' test.

Has but little to do with the cost of a carriage, but it has everything to do with its appearance. It costs as much to build a very ordinary appearing vehicle as a stylish one, if the same quality of material is used and the same care exercised in its construction. Some carriage builders know how to build stylish vehicles better than other builders; but they do not charge you anything for the "Know how." They charge you only for the material put into it and the labor expended upon it. Thus the quality being equal, two carriages cost the same, even if one of them presents a stylish appearance while the other one is

A PORTION ONLY OF THE RESORT IS FASHIONABLE.

The Favored Section Is Constantly Changing-From Earliest Times a Favorite Locality for Military Reviews-A Great Day in Its History When Queen Victoria Opened the Great Exhibition in 1831.

It is a popular error to speak o Hyde Park as a whelly fashionable says The London Express. The truth, of course, is that only portion of the park is fashionable, and this portion is constantly being

Early in the reign of Charles II. and well on into the reigns of the Georges, it was to the Ring, the oramental ground attached to the banqueting-house and the Tyburn dow in the northeast corner, where Park Lane and Bayswater road where Park Lane and Bayswater road now are, that the gallants and fair women flocked, and, indeed, this was the first spot in the park to be ren-dered exclusively smart.

The section of London that lives for enjoyment drifted to Kensington where the court in the gardens, reigns Queen Anne lived so much at the recently-acquired country house, Ken-Palace, and there walking, in the slow and affected manner the day, rendered necessary by the extraordinary headgear that prevailed and the stiffly formal hoops and suits that were worn, was a da node, for then, as now, no coaches carriages were allowed in those sylvan glades. Thus it was the northeast corner and the southwest walks that fashion favored up to the beginning of the 19th century. Hyde Park from the very earliest times has been a favorite locality for military reviews, and the red dawn of the nineteenth century, when wars and rumors of wars inflamed the air, was naturally appropriated to displays of martial skill. In 1799 there was an encampment of the volunteers on the central space in the park that attracted every sightseer, and in 1814 a serpentine sensation was memorable, for then during a warike display on those ornamental waters a lilliputian British frigate blew an American frigate of the same size ight out of the water, amid terrific excitement.

Another great and popular occaion made the high bare ground the centre of the park the resort of all and sundry in the fifties, for it was on May 1, 1851, that our late beloved Queen opened the Great Exhibition of the Industry of all tions in the glass hoves, now known as the Crystal Palace.

Considering the long innings the Tyburn or Bayswater side enjoyed during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, it is not surprising that in the nineteenth the east and south sides abutting on Park Lane and Knightsbridge, should have prospered exceedingly. Every sort of gay reunion has trended into those parts. The Lady's Mile and Rotten. Row have been the rendezvous of fair equestienne and rich carriage folk, while the promenades from Grosvenor Gate to the Barracks, Knightsbridge, have been the resort of pedestrians who go to see and be seen the year round, and the season during the morning and afternoon. Our late Queen in her youth was a fearless rider, and her youth was a learless rider, and often in the first years of her reign frightened her Ministers by mounting horses they considered over fresh for military reviews. It was she who set the fashion for riding, and among the fashionable the morning rendez-vous at Hyde Park Corner for a canter in the Row became an institu-tion. Probably because the gate known as Hyde Park Corner was the nearest to Buckingham Palace and owed a second incentive to modishness on account of the close vicinity of the Duke of Wellington's residence (he who was society's hero), the conourse of pedestrians and carriages concentrated there for generations, spreading east and west as fashion Church parade has taken the Achdictated. illes Statute as its pivot always, and there have chairs been set in hundreds every Sunday during the sea-son for those who like to take their pleasure seated. But, whereas the rhododendron and azalea walks to the south of the monument were for years the chosen area pedestrians frequented one season about four years ago just the opposite direction was suddenly chosen for smartness, and the people who really represented society set their chairs on the green sward at the back of the prom-nade facing the Byron statute, and thence to the dell opposite Stanhope The bicycle epidemic that seized society when first women boldly and en masse went out a wheeling six years ago, when it did not take them to Battersea Park, bore them off to Hyde Park, where those who went for exercise "biked" the whole way round the drive that girdles the inclosure, and those who merely enjoyed the smartness of the pastimo congregated between Hyde Park Corner and the Barracks.

The magazine in the park on the Bayswater side of the serpentine provides a good sweep of roadway for the meet of the coaches, and draws all park frequenters there when the gay and beautiful spectacle is to be

MOUNTAIN CLIMBING.

Hes Bullock Workman Conceded to Be the Champion Lady Mountain Climber of the World.

Mrs. Bullock Workman is the champion lady mountain climber of the world, says The London Express, having made three successive mountaineering records for her sex in India, the highest being 21,000 feet.
Her experiences were very interest-

Before I climbed Koser Gunge, my highest and third record peak, 21, 000 feet, the rarefied air proved to be the most potent sleep vanquisher, and I suffered much from the want of it. We were at 18,000 feet, and it was bitterly cold. The stillness was death-like, broken here and there only by the roar of an avalanche, or the groan of a coolie trying to sleep under a rock. I shivered in my sleep bag; but worst of all was the effect of the rarefied air, which often caused to sit up and gasp for the oxygen that was not procurable after all one's efforts. I did not particularly one's efforts. I did not be a considered as a to sleep. I lound in regard to sleep. In distressing. In regard distressing of diminished pressure after 15,000 feet, my experinces were the following: My breathing was shortened, and I had to climb more slowly, at 16,000 feet, and very slowly indeed from 18,000 feet to 21,000 feet, often halting. to I had severe headaches at times at 19,000 feet and 20,000 feet, but at 21,000 feet I recall no head-We were in a severe wind and sleet storm for several hours during the last part of the assent, and we all suffered from cold and exhaus-It was a great struggle to each the top, take our measurements, and get down to a point of comparative safety; and so absorbed was I about doing this that I forgot about my physical symptoms, except when my hands and feet began to lose all sensation. By pounding and rubbing them, the guide restored my circulation sufficiently for me to go on with more safety; but it was a wild and dangerous climb towards the close." Mrs. Workman has not been free from accidents. Her most unpleasant experience of unseen crevasses, for instance, was on a neatly-covered one, about half a mile long, on the Great Biafo glacier. "Luckily," she says, in recalling the adventure, "we vere roped, for down I went into the bottomless pit, and before I realized what had happened my head was peeping out from a thick collarette of heavy wet snow. Press out with you feet and draw on the rope, called the guide, as he braced himelf for me to pull myself up. Franpushing against space, held on both sides of the crevasse by the rope, I did not at first make much headway. Finally, after wearing my gloves through with my hand to-hand struggle with the rope, I felt myself coming up a bit, and soon reached a point where my purchase the rope was of some account, and thus I at last came out of my snowy case. This was not a particularly dangerous adventure, but it distinctly disagreeable." Story of the Earl-Marshal. As everyone knows, the Duke of Norfolk's carelessness about dress and unassuming ways are very marked and have caused him to be the victim of many curious mistakes. My friend had a house near Arundel, and when she and her family were removing to London the Duke contemplated buying the place as a house for a member of his family. One morning Mrs. - was in her bedroom short Mrs. — was in her bedroom shortly after breakfast, when a servant came up to tell her that a messenger had called from the Castle. "Where is he?" she asked. "Oh! he's in the hall, ma'am." Knowing the Duke's habits of activity in the country she felt some misgivings, and hurried downstairs to find the Earl-Marshal of England sitting quite patiently on a hall chair with his hat in his hands. She overwhelmed him with apologies, of course, but the Duke was most amused, and laughingly said that he delighted in an appearance which protected him from tentions which would make his life burdensome. Laliah Rookh,

Sentimentalists are shedding tear at the prospect of the disap-pearance of Lallah Rookh at Muswell Hill, the house and estate sociated with the fame of Thomas Moore, It was in the cottage on the estate that the poet wrote part of the poem which has given the property its present name. He received £3,000 for the poem, but that was at a period when people still read poetry and publishers found it paid to remunerate bards. Moore's daughters also died in the same cottage. But alack and aday, the well-wooded grounds and small lakes around it are wanted for the construction of a new road. District Council has resolved upon the unmerciful deed and Moore's famous cottage will shortly be no more

A PORTION ONLY OF THE RESORT IS FASHIONABLE.

The Favored Section Is Constantly Change ing-From Earliest Times a Favorite Locality for Military Reviews-A Great Day in Its History When Queen Victoria Opened the Great Exhibition in 1851.

It is a popular error to speak o Hyde Park as a wholly fashionable resort, says The London Express truth, of course, is that only portion of the park is fashionable and this portion is constantly being

Early in the reign of Charles II. and well on into the reigns of the Georges, it was to the Ring, the ornamental ground attached to the banqueting-house and the Tyburn meadow in the northeast corner, meadow where Park Lane and Bayswater road now are that the gallants and fair women flocked, and, indeed, this was the first spot in the park to be ren dered exclusively smart.

The section of London that lives for en oyment drifted to Kensington gardens, where the court in the reigns of William and Mary and Queen Anne lived so much at the recently-acquired country house, Ken-Palace, and there walking. sington in the slow and affected manner the day, rendered necessary by the extraordinary headgear that prevailed and the stiffly formal hoops and suits that were worn, was a la mode, for then, as now, no coaches carriages were allowed in those sylvan glades. Thus it was the northeast corner and the southwest walks that fashion favored up to the beginning of the 19th century.

Hyde Park from the very earliest imes has been a favorite locality for ilitary reviews, and the red dawn of the nineteenth century, when wars and rumors of wars inflamed the air, was naturally appropriated to dis-plays of martial skill. In 1799 there was an encampment of the volunteers on the central space in the park that attracted every sightseer, and in 1814 a serpentine sensation was memorable, for then during a warlike display on those ornamental waters a lilliputian British frigate blew an American frigate of the same size ight out of the water, amid terrific excitement.

Another great and popular occasion made the high bare ground of the centre of the park the resort of all and sundry in the fifties, for it was on May 1, 1851, that our late beloved Queen opened the Great Ex-hibition of the Industry of all Nations in the glass hoves, now known as the Crystal Palace.

Considering the long innings the Tyburn or Bayswater side enjoyed during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, it is not surprising that in the nineteenth the east and south sides abutting on Park Lane and Knightsbridge, should have prospered exceedingly. Every sort of gay reunion has trended into those parts. The Lady's Mile and Rotten Row have been the rendezvous of fair tienne and rich carriage folk while the promenades from Grosvenor to the Barracks, Knightsbridge have been the resort of Dedestrians who go to see and be seen on Sundays all the year round, and in the season during the morning and afternoon. Our late Queen in her youth was a fearless rider, and often in the first years of her reign frightened her Ministers by mounting horses they considered over fresh for military reviews. It was she who set the fashion for riding, and among the fashionable the morning rendezvous at Hyde Park Corner for a canter in the Row became an institu-Probably because the gate known as Hyde Park Corner was the nearest to Buckingham Palace and owed a second incentive to modishness on account of the close vicinity of the Duke of Wellington's residence (he who was society's hero), the concourse of pedestrians and carriages concentrated there for generations, spreading east and west as fashion dictated.

Church parade has taken the Ach illes Statute as its pivot always, and there have chairs been set in hundreds every Sunday during the sea son for those who like to take their pleasure seated. But, whereas the rhododendron and azalea walks to the south of the monument were for years the chosen area pedestrians frequented one season about four years ago just the opposite direction was suddenly chosen for smartness, and the people who really represent-ed society set their chairs on the green sward at the back of the promenade facing the Byron statute, and thence to the dell opposite Stanhope gate. The bicycle epidemic that seized society when first women boldly and en masse went out a-wheeling six years ago, when it did not take them to Battersea Park, bore them off to Hyde Park, where those who went for exercise "biked" the whole way round the drive that girdles the inclosure, and those who merely en-joyed the smartness of the pastime congregated between Hyde Park Corner and the Barracks.

The magazine in the park on the Bayswater side of the serpentine provides a good sweep of roadway for the meet of the coaches, and draws all park frequenters there when the gay and beautiful spectacle is to be

THE BATTLES OF LIFE.

Demand Nerve Force, Energy, Vitality--The Weaklings go to the Wall--Dr. Chase's Nerve Food a True Fountain of Health.

What use has the world for men and women who have not courage enough to face the battles of life? enough to lace the battles of her-Every day men are failing and wo-men are growing discouraged and despondent because they lack the nerve force which is absolutely necessary to health and strength. which supplies energy and ambition to body and mind. It is not too much to attribute nine-tenths of the sufferings of humanity to waning nerve power, the vital principle of life itself.

Is it any wonder that the heart's action grows weak and irregular, the digestion poor, the liver and kidneys sluggish and inactive, when the vital force stored up in the nerves is consumed or wasted by disease, worry or over-exertion of the mental and physical powers? We are living too far from nature's rule, burning the candle at both ends and wasting nerve force without thought of how it is to be replenished. The effects are carelessly overlooked until prostration, nervous collapse or insanity overcomes us and renders restoration next to impossible.

In his immense practice in the United States. the very home of nervous diseases. Dr. A. W. Chase studied the cause of the ailments which are slowly sapping millions of young men and women of the vital spark of life and energy. The result of his tireless in vestigation and experiment was the giving to the world of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the most marvellous nerve restorative that man has ever known.

There is no use talking about old methods of treatment being as good as this new system of Dr. Chase. Facts prove beyond a shadow of a doubt the surprising upbuilding effect of this great food cure. By making note of your weight from time to time while taking it, you can observe the gradual upbuilding influence of this treatment. The color returns to the cheek, the energy and ambition to body and mind, you have new hope, new confidence and a new determination to succeed in life's batties. Miss Gotawad-Charley, how do you know you love me more than anybody else in the world? Mr. Sappehedde-I know it because you have money.

What a splendid type of tireless activity is the sun as the psalmist de-scribes it issuing like "a bridegroom from the chamber and rejoicing like a strong man to run a race." Every man cought to rise in the morning refreshed by slumber and renewed by rest, eager for the struggle of the day. But how rarely this is so. Most people people rise still unrefreshed, and dreading the strain of the day's labors. The cause of this is deficient vitality and behind this lies a defici-ent supply of pure, rich blood, and an inadequate nourishment of the body. There is nothing that will give a man strength and energy, as will Or. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It does this by increasing the quantity and quality of the blood supply. This nourishes the nerves, feeds the brain, builds up enfeebled organs and gives that sense of strength and power which makes the struggle of life p joy. The "good feeling" lows the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" is not due to stimulation as it contains no alcohol, whiskey or other intoxicant. It does not brace up the body, but builds it up into a condition of sound health.

MOUNTAIN CLIMBING.

Bullock Workman Conceded to Be the Champion Lady Mountain Climber of the World

Mrs. Bullock Workman is the champion lady mountain climber of the world, says The London Express, having made three successive woun-taineering records for her sex in Iathe highest being 21,000 feet. Her experiences were very interest-

Before I climbed Koser Gunge, my highest and third record peak, 21, 000 feet, the rarefied air proved to be the most potent sleep vanquisher, and I suffered much from the want of it. We were at 18,000 feet, and it was bitterly cold. The stillness was death-like, broken here and there only by the roar of an avalanche, or the groan of a coolie trying to sleep under a rock. I shivered in my sleep bag; but worst of all was the effect of the rarefied air, which often caused me to sit up and gasp for the oxygen that was not procurable after all ne's efforts. I did not particularly notice 18,000 feet when climbing in the day, but at night, when trying to sleep. I found that al-titude distressing. In regard to the effects of diminished pressure after 15,000 feet, my experiences were the following: My breathing was shortened, and I had to climb more slowly, at 16,000 feet, and very slowly indeed from 18,000 feet to 21,000 feet, often halting. to rest. I had severe headaches at times at 19,000 feet and 20,000 feet; but at 21,000 feet I recall no headache. We were in a severe wind and sleet storm for several hours during the last part of the assent, and we all suffered from cold and exhaustion. It was a great struggle to reach the top, take our measurements, and get down to a point of comparative safety; and so absorbed was I about doing this that I forgot about my physical symptoms, except when my hands and feet began to lose all sensation. By pounding and rubbing them, the guide restored my circulation sufficiently for me to go on with more safety; but it was a wild and dangerous climb towards the close."

Mrs. Workman has not been free from accidents. Her most unpleasant experience of unseen crevasses for instance, was on a neatly-covered one, about half a mile long, on the Great Biafo glacier. "Luckily," she says, in recalling the adventure, "we were roped, for down I went into the bottomless pit, and before I realized what had happened my head was peeping out from a thick collarette heavy wet snow. Press out with you feet and draw on the rope,' called the guide, as he braced himself for me to pull myself up. Frantically pushing against space, held on both sides of the crevasse by the rope, I did not at first make much headway. Finally, after wearing my gloves through with my handatohand struggle with the rope, I felt myse'd coming up a bit, and soon reached a point where my purchase the rope was of some account and thus I at last came out of my snowy case. This was not a partic ularly dangerous adventure, but it distinctly disagreeable."

Story of the Earl-Marshal. everyone knows, the Duke of Norfolk's carelessness about dress and unassuming ways are very marked and have caused him to be the victim of many curious mistakes. My friend had a house near Arundel, and when she and her family were removing to London the Duke contemplated buying the place as a house for a member of his family. One morning Mrs. - was in her bedroom shortly after breakfast, when a servant came up to tell her that a messenger had called from the Castle. "Where is he?" she asked. "Oh! he's in the hall, ma'am." Knowing the Duke's habits of activity in the country she felt some misgivings, and hurried downstairs to find the Earl-Marshal of England sitting quite patiently or hall chair with his hat in his hands. She overwhelmed him with apologies, of course, but the Duke was most amused, and laughingly said that he delighted in an appearance which protected him from at-tentions which would make his life

burdensome, Lallah Rookh,

Sentimentalists are shedding tear at the prospect of the disap-pearance of Lallah Rookh at Muswell Hill, the house and estate as-sociated with the fame of Thomas Moore. It was in the cottage on the estate that the poet wrote part of the poem which has given its present name. He reproperty ceived £3,000 for the poem, but that was at a period when people still read poetry and publishers found it paid to remunerate bards. Moore's daughters also died in the same cottage. But alack and aday, the well-wooded grounds: and small lakes around it are wanted for the construction of a new road, District Council has resolved upon the unmerciful deed and Moore's famous cottage will shortly be no more The Killarney Eagles Gone. The famous eagles which used to haunt the Lakes of Killarney, mak ing their home in the Eagle's mountain, have been exterminated within the last three years. They were exceedingly picturesque, and ob jects of great interest to visitors Their depredations, however, among the grouse, and their capture of lambs and kids from the farms al along the countryside, rendered it absolutely necessary to get rid of them and the last of the birds has been shot .- London News.

The opening football game of the and Darrell as the opposing teams. The Chatham warriors, in spite of the fact that they have had practically no preparation, were victorious and Captain Mowbray marched off the field with the first scalp of the season dangling at his belt. The score was 1-0.

The Darrell team have no reason whatever to feel disheartened at their defeat. They have a good team and did some splendid work.
What they feel sadly is the lack of Greggory and Miller, played well and stopped some very fine rushes on the Darrell goal. Their goal keeper, H. French, is a "whorlwind," and made some exceedingly effective plays. The Darrells are heavy kickers and every time they kicked the ball when near their own goar at war whirling towards the Chatham end their own goal it was sent of the field. Their forwards, however, were unable to take advantage of these long shots, as a Chatham man was generally on the spot to send the ball back. Jinks on the forward line, a former Chatham player, was the life of the Darrell team and did much in holding down the Chatham players as well as they

The Chatham team, which was composed of several juniors, did splendid-ly and well deserved their victory. The bulk of the praise, however, is due to Captain Mowbray, who has done much towards reorganizing the Chatham team. With practice, it is clearly evident that the Chatham team is by no means weak and will be as strong this year as it has ever been. They are looking eagerly for-ward to winning the Walker cup and Captain Mowbray feels confident that he can get together a team that can

In the game Saturday the juniors showed up well. Houston, on the out-side left wing made some fine rushes and invariably succeeded in passing the ball to centre. McNaughton played splendidly at half, as did Brundag and Adams did well in the front rank Fraser, Sheldon, Mowbray and Anderson, of last year's team, were in their usual places on the forward line, and Sheldon succeeded in scoring the only goal. Wilson and Courtney, Chatham's famous pair of backs, were again on the field and proved inpregnable. Smith in goal played fault lessly.

The game Saturday clearly shows that a league should be formed consisting of clubs in the vicinity of matter which should receive serious consideration.

Mr. Whiteside ceases to be himself and takes on the character of the Prince. His portrayal of the role is one of the most delightful bits of acting the stage bas seen since the reign of romantic plays commenced. Miss Lelia Wolstan is to be seen in the leading female role, that of Princess Sylvia, and the mention of her name is a guarantee of perfection. The production will be staged here at the Grand on Friday evening, October 25th, and unquestionably it will be one of the most delightful plays of the entire season. Shipman Bros have mounted and costumed the play, in a lavish fashion and in this respect from the stant fection in the portrayal of the various parts, there is nothing to be desired which is not provided.

SEASONABLE HINTS.

Guard Your Health in Fall and Early

A change from warm to cold is always attended with more danger than from cold to a warm temperature, hence the greater mortality from lung and throat diseases at this season of the year, as compared with spring. The best protection against colds is not so much in extra clothing as in good digestion.

If the digestion and circulation are good, colds will be unknown. Poor digestion causes poor circulation of the blood and when in this condition severe colds are contracted on the slightest provocation. ple who make a regular prac tice of taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals are free from colds, simply because their health is perfect the heart strong and regular, and the whole system fortified against disease It requires little argument to con-vince anyone that the best safeguard against colds, pneumonia and changes temperature is a good stomach. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets ,taken after meals are dissolved and mingling with the food, cause it to be promptly digested and assimilated; they do this because they contain nothing but harmless digestive elements, which digest meat, eggs and other food even when the stomach itself is weak and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets make people well and keep them well, and thethe best habit you can acquire is to keep daily use of them at meals to make the digestive organs strong nd vigorous.
