

How Marbles are Made.

Marbles are known from the Latin word marmor, by which similar playthings were known to the boys of Rome two thousand years ago.

China and white marble also are used to make the round rollers which have delighted the hearts of boys of all nations for hundreds of years.

Glass marbles are known as 'agates.' They are made both of clear and colored glass. The former are made by taking up a little melted glass upon the end of an iron rod, and making it round by dropping it into an iron mould.

The Poet Longfellow.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow was born on the 27th of February, 1807, at Portland, Maine, and entered, when fourteen years of age, at Bowdoin college, Brunswick, where, at the end of four years, he took his degree with high honors.

Before returning to America, Longfellow visited France, Germany, Italy, Spain, Holland, and England, studying with the utmost zeal the language and literature of each country.

In 1835, having already, at the age of twenty-eight, been recognised as a man of mark, he was appointed to the professorship of modern languages at Bowdoin college.

While occupying his position of professor at the college, he continued to follow his literary career with indefatigable vigilance.

Having for years cultivated his natural poetic power, and made himself one of the most skillful versifiers of the time, Mr. Longfellow in 1847 published his 'Evangeline,'—a melancholy story written in hexameters—an experiment which though it was in the opinion of critics somewhat hazardous for a poet of reputation to venture upon; he tried with no slight success.

It was not until 1855 that his 'Song of Hiawatha' was published—a poem worthy of his fine taste and talent, in which is displayed the delicacy of sentiment, the literary art, the elegance of style, and the exquisite simplicity of expression which had characterized his other works, and which made his name widely known as one of the great poets of the age.

Another collection of poems called 'Birds of Passage,' appeared in 1858; followed by 'Miles Standish,' in 1859. In 1861, a heavy bereavement fell upon Longfellow. In that year his wife was unfortunately burnt to death.

On the 27th of May, 1868 Mr. Longfellow took his departure from America, on another visit to England. He visited Cambridge on the 16th of June and received from the ancient university in that town the degree of doctor of laws (L.L.D.), amidst much enthusiasm from a large and distinguished auditory.

On the afternoon of Saturday the 4th of July, Longfellow had the honor of an interview with the Queen at Windsor castle; and during his stay in London, he had a grand dinner given to him at the Langham hotel, Portland place, by the distinguished artist, Mr. Reinhardt.

Just before Longfellow's departure to the south of Europe he spent some days in the Isle of Wight at the residence of a congenial spirit—England's greatest living poet, Tennyson.

THE RESIDENCE OF LONGFELLOW is situated in an old American town, which the original settlers are said to have intended as the capital of Massachusetts, and which they dignified with the name of Cambridge—a school, erected and endowed as early a period as the year 1636, and which, in the course of time has grown into a college, known as the Harvard university.

Hard by this seat of learning appears an antique and spacious edifice, standing upon the higher of two terraces, fronted by stately elms, and surrounded with grounds, adorned with trees, and shrubs, and flowers. This pleasant spot possesses a double interest in the eyes of visitors. In other days the antique mansion was the head-quarters of the illustrious Washington, previous to the evacuation of Boston.

Frightened Lecturers.

I went the other evening and caught Robert J. Burdette in the ante room at Chickering Hall just before going on the stage with his funny lecture, writes a New York correspondent of the Indianapolis Journal. 'A-h!' he exclaimed, with a tremendous respiration.

'What's the matter? What ails you? What do you mean?' I said. Are you rehearsing? Have I interrupted you? Do you want to be alone?

'No, no!' he exclaimed eagerly, walking up to me. 'Don't leave me. Don't go away.'

'What on earth is the matter?' I asked. 'Scared?' he said, with a querulous laugh. Then I laughed. 'You don't believe me. It's true though. I'm afraid to go on the stage.'

'Pshaw, man!' I said, 'why, you are joking; you have lectured for years.'

'Yes—seventy-five times this winter—but it didn't make any difference. I have to go through this absurd experience every time. There is no getting used to it.'

'How does it make you feel?' 'Feel? Light as a cork! If I were outside I could fly right over the building. Honestly and seriously if I knew I had to die to-night, I should pray the Lord would take me just before I went on the stage.'

'Many have the same experience. That's some satisfaction,' I suggested, 'if misery loves to be with company.'

'Yes,' he said, 'I told Beecher about my troubles, and he said, 'I can tell you one thing for your consolation; you'll never get over it. I suffer every time I go before an audience, and am afraid of my own congregation.' But this experience doesn't seem to give me much comfort.'

'Does your fear vanish when you get on the stage?' 'No, it lasts some time, usually. I poke around among the audience for a familiar face, and when I find a friend I lecture right at him and don't notice anybody else. Gough tells me that he does the same thing. He says he often finds himself talking to some sympathetic and responsive little troupe in one corner, telling his stories to them alone, as if they were in a little room together.'

He looked at his watch. 'It's most time to go on the stage. If it was respectable I'd run away. The notion of feigning sickness often comes over me as it does over school-boys who want to play hooky. Are you my jailer? looking at a gentlemen in a swallow-tail who seemed waiting for him.'

'Yes; you have four minutes yet.'

'Can't I get a reprieve?' 'Not this evening. You remind me of Theodore Tilton. When he appeared here, although he had lectured five hundred times, he was so frightened that we couldn't get him on the stage for a long time. The hall was full, the audience clamored, and he, hesitating to face them, walked up and down the room, washing his hands with water. Finally, we got him through that door at half past eight.'

I told Burdette that Wendell Phillips assured me once that he had similar experience; then, I slipped around into the orchestra. The funny man came on the stage, began in a tremulous voice, and his troubled eye wandered over the audience till he found a friend, with whom he quietly settled down and made himself at home.

The Manitoba Land Craze.

The world has seen many such instances as the present wild and feverish speculation but always with the same result. The laws of economy cannot be violated with impunity. The North-West is not to be built up by speculation in village lots, but its progress may be greatly retarded. A building lot which cannot be required for actual use for the next fifty years has no present value, and the present prices paid for such lots have no counterpart, except in the payment of some such sum as $500,000 for a tulip as near black as it could be grown, or some similar act of unreason which men commit in periods of mania.

It is futile to tell us that our North-West is going to reverse the whole experience of the past. If men will insist on trying the experiment of extracting sunbeams from cucumbers, they must be disappointed. Taking pens from under one hat and putting them under another will not break up the prairie or give us valuable crops. [Monday Times.]

Who's the Best Physician.

The one that does most to relieve suffering humanity of the thousand and one ills that befall them, is certainly the best of all physicians. When to Eat Fruit.

The Spanish proverb has it: "Fruit is golden in the morning, silver at noon, and lead at night." Canadians do not seem to have heard of this proverb, nor to have one of their own experience. Mostly they eat fruit at night, and hence have not the sovereign idea of it that they would have if they had eaten it at the more proper times. They eat it as desert at dinner. This may be the most proper time to eat dried fruits but it is not the right time to eat juicy ones. The Spanish people learn their proverb from eating very juicy fruits, like oranges. These should be eaten in the morning, a little before dinner—not later than noon. Early in the day, they will, if eaten prove to be the best possible medicine for the bilious.

There Were Fourteen.

A stranger who appeared to have seen a great deal of this cold and unfeeling world entered a ferry dock saloon yesterday, and after warming himself for a moment at the stove, around which was a large circle of mariners, he advanced to the bar and called for whisky and two glasses. A stiff drink was poured into each, and taking up one in his fingers, the man turned to the crowd. "Gentlemen, if there is a liar present I invite him to step up and drink with me."

A sort of tremor ran through the crowd, but no one moved. The stranger gazed around in blank astonishment, and finally said to one old tug captain:

"Well this beats me. What's the matter?"

"The matter is," slowly replied the captain, as he took his legs off the stove, "that any man who expects fourteen lars to drink out of one tumbler at the same time is altogether too fresh for this locality! You are no gentleman, sir—no gentleman!"

Agnostics in Court.

The bill to amend the law of evidence in criminal cases by allowing agnostics to affirm instead of taking the oath, is being pushed by Mr. Robertson, of Hamilton. It will probably become law. As we pointed out a few days ago, there is sometimes great difficulty in deciding to which class a case belongs—civil or criminal, and as the law has been amended so as to allow agnostics to give evidence in civil cases it should be similarly amended in regard to criminal cases. As no other province has a law enabling agnostics to give evidence in civil cases but Ontario, the bill proposes that the Dominion measure, should it become law, shall only apply to this province. Those who affirm are to be subject to the same laws regarding perjury as those who formally take the oath. The French Government has introduced a measure by which witnesses may affirm instead of taking the oath. England has had a similar law on the statute book for some years.

Household Hints.

If we wish to prolong our lives, we should put one day between washing and ironing.

People who chew plenty of good beef and eat pork are healthy.

Tough beefsteak may be made eatable by mincing it pretty fine with a chopping knife, and cooking it quickly in a pot with a close cover, to prevent the steam from escaping.

Salt pork will be nice nearly as fresh if soaked in sweet milk and water, equal parts.

Clabbered milk is better than water for freshening salt fish.

Half a cup of vinegar in the water will make an old fowl cook nearly as quick as a young one, and does not injure the flavor in the least.

Liver should be thrown into boiling water after being sliced thin, and then fried in lard or dripping.

Pie crust will not be soggy if it is brushed over with the white of an egg before the fruit is put in.

A piece of cork is better than cloth for applying brick to knives.

Ripe cucumbers make a good sweet pickle.

Apples which take a long time to bake should have a little water in the pan.

To keep steel knives from rusting, rub with mutton tallow, wrap in paper and put in a baize-lined chest.

A tablespoonful of turpentine boiled with your white clothes will greatly aid in the whitening process.

Zinc may be scoured, with great economy of time and strength, by using either glycerine or creosote mixed with a little diluted sulphuric acid.

The easiest method of removing rust from iron is rubbing it with a rag dipped in the oil of tartar. The rust will disappear immediately.

Iron or steel immersed in a solution of carbonate of potash or soda for a few minutes, will not rust for years, not even when exposed to damp atmosphere.

If every pot, pan, kettle, or any utensil used in the cooking of food be washed as soon as emptied and while still hot, half the labor will be saved.

Stoves blackened when entirely cold will keep the clean look a great deal longer than when they are polished when the stove is warm.

After you have swept your carpets quite clean, you may brighten them with a flannel cloth wrung out from beef's gall and water.

White paint may be cleaned as well as windows, by using whitening and water, while grained woodwork should be wiped with a flannel cloth wrung out from cold tea.

Words of Wisdom.

If the past is not to bind us, where can duty lie? We should have no law but the inclination of the moment.

All our relaxations, and every holiday we enjoy, are but means to that important end, the better discharge of our duty.

It is not until we have passed through the furnace that we are made to know how much dress was in our composition.

No man was ever so completely skilled in the conduct of life as not to receive new information from age and experience.

If you would be pungent, be brief, for it is with words as with sunbeams, the more they are condensed, the deeper they burn.

If any man says he has seen a just man in some place where there was no other just man.

A snob is that man or woman who is always pretending to be something better—especially richer or more fashionable—than they are.

There are moments when petty slights are harder to bear than even a serious injury. Men have died of the festering of a gnat bite.

The essence of true nobility is neglect of self. Let the thought of self pass in and the beauty of great action is gone, like the bloom from a soiled flower.

As the shadow follows the substance, so the sting of conscience follows an evil deed; one dies only with the sunlight, the other expires with intelligence.

It is no disgrace not to be able to do everything; but to undertake, or pretend to do, what you are not made for is not only shameful, but exceeding trouble-some and vexatious.

A certain amount of opposition is a great help to a man. Kites rise against and not with the wind. Even a head wind is better than none. No man ever worked his passage anywhere in a dead calm.

Ten persons will repent for a sin for one who will confess to the person wronged. Yet such confession is in truth far more needful to the wronger than to the wronged. It is a small thing to be wronged, but a horrible thing to wrong.

THE ATTENTION OF THINKING men is called to Dr. WHEELER'S Elixir of Phosphates and Calista on the scientific merits. It is the outcome of many years' careful investigation of the chemistry and medicinal properties of Phosphorus and its compounds, and a persistent use of it will demonstrate that it is undeniably the best combination of these agents of nutrition in existence. It is everywhere prescribed in all forms of debility, and in Inebriate Asylums is the standard nerve restorative in CHRONIC ALCOHOLISM and the OPTIMUM HAPPY.

Farm and Garden.

Take Good Care of the Horses.

If at work, they need a regular allowance of grain. If worked hard, ten quarts of ground-corn-and-oats-mixed will not be too much. The hay may be cut and moistened, and the feed mixed with it. Such a ration is not over bulky and contains sufficient nourishment to keep a working horse in good trim. At this season the coat begins to loosen, and the skin is irritable. When much so, it may be corrected by giving daily, for a week, an ounce of equal parts of sulphur and cream of tartar. Good grooming with a soft brush and a blunt curry-comb is decidedly useful. Everything about the stable should be kept neat and clean, as the warm weather approaches. Turn brood mares loose into a box stall as foaling time approaches. They should receive gentle treatment, as this is likely to influence the disposition of the foal.

What is to be Done in the Orchard?

On many farms there are old trees, the fruit of which is worthless, that by grafting would be in a few years productive of excellent fruit. There is nothing about grafting that a man or a boy who can use a jack-knife without cutting his fingers, can not perform. There is no secret about it, though these travelling grafters who go about the country, would make one think so. The various works on fruit culture describe the operation, those who have the back volumes will find it described in April 1877, and that number can be purchased separately at this office. Grafts can be had by mail from any of the leading nurseries. Having the stock (the old tree, and the grafts, the work may be done without other tools than those at hand. The wound must be covered with grafting wax, directions for making which are given in the books and in the paper referred to. If any branches of fruit-trees have been broken by storms or the weight of snow, saw off the stub that may be left close to the trunk or to the branch from which it starts, and cover the wound with paint, unless grafting wax is at hand. There are many places about the farm, especially near the barns and out-buildings where a fruit tree may be planted; such a tree may often be of use in affording shade to the poultry-house, icheuse, or dairy building, and at the same time afford acceptable fruit. Peach trees may occupy such places.—[Agriculturist.

Going to a Church Fair.

It was at a church fair, and he had come there at the special request of his "cousin," who was at the head of the flowery table. He opened the door bashfully and stood, hat in hand, looking at the brilliant scene before him, when a young lady rushed up, grabbing him by the arm said:

"Oh, you must, you will take a chance in our cake. Come right over here. This way."

Blushing to the roots of his hair, he stammered out that "really he didn't have the pleasure of knowing—"

"Oh, that's all right," said the young lady. "You'll know me better before you leave. I'm one of the managers, you understand. Come, the cake will be all taken if you don't hurry," and she almost dragged him over to one of the middle tables. "There, now, only fifty cents a slice, and you may get a real gold ring. You had better take three or four slices. It will increase your chances, you know."

"You're very good," he stammered. "But I'm not fond of cake—that is, I haven't any use for the ring—I—"

"Ah, that will be ever so nice," said the young lady, "for now if you get the ring you can give it back, and we'll put it in another cake."

"Y-e-e-s," said the young man with a sickly smile. "To be sure, but—"

"Oh, there isn't any but about it," said the young lady, smiling sweetly. "You know you promised."

"Promised?"

"Well, no, not exactly that, but you will take just one slice?" and she looked her whole soul into his eyes.

"Well, I suppose—"

"To be sure. There is your cake," and she slipped a great slice into his delicately gloved hands as he handed her a dollar bill. "Oh, that is too nice," as she plastered another piece of cake on top of the one she had just given him.

"I knew you would take at least two chances," and his dollar bill disappeared across the table, and then she called to a companion: "Oh, Miss Larkins, here is a gentleman wishes to have his fortune told."

"Oh, does he? Send him right over," answered Miss Larkins.

"I beg your pardon, but I'm afraid you are mistaken; I don't remember saying anything about—"

"Oh, but you will," said the first young lady, tugging at the youth's arm. "It's for the good of the cause, and you won't refuse," and once more the beautiful eyes looked soulfully into his.

"Here we are. Now, take an envelope. Open it. There! you are going to be married in a year. Isn't that jolly? Seventy-five cents, please. This time the youth was careful to hand out the exact change.

"Oh, I should just like to have my fortune told. May I?" said the first young lady.

"Of course you may, my dear," said Miss Larkins, handing out one of her envelopes. "Oh, dear, you are going to be married this year, too. Seventy-five cents more, please," and the poor youth came down with another dollar note.

"No change here, you know," added Miss Larkins, putting the greenback in her pocket.

"Oh, come, let's try our weight," said the first young lady, once more tugging at the bashful youth's coat sleeve, and before he knew where he was he found himself standing on the platform of the scales. "One hundred and thirty-two," said the young lady. "Oh, how I should like to be a great heavy man like you," and she jumped on the scales like a bird. "One hundred and eighteen. Well that is light, $1, please."

"What!" said the youth, "one dollar! Isn't that steep? I mean, I—"

"Oh, but you know," said the young lady, "it is for charity," and another $1 was added to the treasury of the fair.

"I think I'll have to go. I have an engagement at—"

"Oh, but first you must buy me a bouquet for taking you all around," said the young lady. "Right over here," and they were soon in front of the flower table. "Here is just what I want," and the young lady picked up a basket of roses and violets. "Seven dollars, please."

"Oh, Jack, is that you?" cried the poor youth's "cousin" from behind the flower-counter, "and buying flowers for Miss Giggie, too. Oh, I shall be terribly jealous unless you buy me a basket, too, and she picked up an elaborate affair. "Twelve dollars please, Jack," and the youth put down the money, looking terribly confused, much as though he didn't know whether to make a bolt for the door or give up all hope and settle down in despair.

"You'll excuse me, ladies," he stammered "but I must go. I have—"

"Here, let me pin this in your button-hole," interrupted his "cousin." Fifty cents please," and then the youth broke away and made a straight line for the door.

Tilley's Bogus List.

Sir Leonard Tilley has included in his list of new industries started under the N. P. the "Woodstock Barbed Wire Works." If this is a sample case, the whole list is—like the N. P. itself—a fraud. The works referred to are those of the Ontario Metallic Spinning Company, and were established in 1875, for the manufacture of oil cans and stove boards. When barbed wire—a recent invention—became known, the company began to make it, along with the other products of their works, to supply a growing demand. The establishment of the industry has no connection whatever with the N. P.—which has not helped it in the least. The fact is, that all the barbed wire of Canada is now manufactured under license from the American patentee and monopolist, who guarantees protection from competition, here and from abroad. The addition of ten per cent. duty by the N. P. upon the raw material to that extent injures the Canadian manufacturers of barbed wire. There are no artisans in Woodstock or the county of Oxford who would not be here if the N. P. had never been heard of. Sir Leonard had better try another place.—[Sentinel Review.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM

THE WAY IT WILL AFFECT YOU.

It excites expectoration and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; changes the secretions carried to the blood; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. SUCH IS THE IMMEDIATE AND SATISFACTORY EFFECT that it is warranted to break up the most distressing cough in a few hours time, if not of too long standing. It is warranted to GIVE ENTIRE SATISFACTION. EVEN IN THE MOST CONSUMED cases of Consumption! It is warranted not to produce constipation (which is the case with most remedies), or affect the head, as it contains no opium in any form. It is warranted to be perfectly harmless to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. There is no real necessity for so many deaths by Consumption, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time. Physicians having consumptive patients, and who, having failed to cure them with their own medicine, we would recommend to give ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM a trial. Sold by all Druggists.

FRIDAY, MARCH 31 1882.

MR. JOHNSTON'S candidature has fallen as flat as a boarding house slaj-jack, and some of his friends already look ashamed of having pitted him against Col. Ross.

THE cable despatches state that Tenyson, the poet laureate, is suffering with gout in the right arm. This accounts for the lameness of his latest poetical effusion.

"ONTARIO for the Ontarians" is the motto of the supporters of the Ontario Government. And we think it's just the motto for every loyal man in the Province.

THE N. P. hasn't done away with bonuses. The Wingham furniture factory, which the Tories claimed was made prosperous by the tariff, is now asking for one.

MR. THOS. FARROW, the solitary Tory representative of Huron, must realize by this time that that last dip in Sir "Onderdonk" Tupper's pail of whitewash has settled his chances of again being returned to Parliament.

At the Grey assizes on Monday, Judge Burton referred in favorable terms to the recent change in the law relative to civil cases by which a witness is now permitted to give evidence without regard to his religious belief.

CLINTON New Era: Conservatives in Clinton are not very jubilant over the nomination of Mr. Fred Johnston, "barriester" (!) In fact a good many entertain the same view as was expressed by one of the most active ones, who remarked the other day that "If there is such a thing as a good, upright Reformer, A. M. Ross was one."

Plows are heavily taxed by the present tariff, the additional cost in the production of a good chilled plow being about $1. These grinding duties are placed as follows:

MR. W. T. BRAY, of Wingham, with his usual modesty, was constrained to nominate two candidates for Tory representative for West Huron, at the recent convention at Duncannon.

SO RAPIDLY have immigrants been going into Winnipeg that it has been impossible to erect even temporary wooden structures to shelter them.

We cannot but admire the persistency with which the New Era hangs to its notion that Clinton should be the county town. The New Era says in its last, "it would be better for the people of the entire County if it was located in Clinton."

THERE is one peculiarity about the comments on the candidature of Mr. F. W. Johnston in the Tory interest for West Huron, and that is that the newspapers whose editors know least about Mr. Johnston are loudest in his praise, and vice versa.

A MEETING of the manufacturers of salt was held in Goderich on Thursday. After the transaction of a little business, the meeting was adjourned until to-day, at Clinton.

Two more Tory editors have fallen out by the way, and are abusing each other in a lively manner. The gentlemanly editor of the Blyth Review thus alludes to his high toned conferee of the Clinton Record, in reply to the charge of not paying his debts:

We used to think that story Of Balaam and his beast Was just a little doubtful Or false at the least. But since we've heard from Floody In his editorial meek, Even Ingersoll would own that Most any ass could speak.

THE Seaforth Expressor says:—At the Conservative Convention for West Huron held in Duncannon on Wednesday last, for the purpose of selecting a candidate to contest that Riding at the next election for the Local Legislature, Mr. F. W. Johnston, of Goderich, received and accepted the nomination.

THE "large and enthusiastic" Tory convention at Duncannon consisted of sixty-eight (68) delegates, all told. The portion of Hullett in the West Riding had one solitary representative present, and Goderich township was not represented at all.

WE observe that of late several papers, in their editorials, refer personally to the editors of their contemporaries by name. This is a mean style of discussion, and the sooner it is dropped the better.

THE Administration Loss Three Supporters on a Division.—The Opposition Drive a Nail in the Government's Coffin.

WHITEWASHING TUPPER.

On the motion of Sir Leonard Tilley for the House of Commons to go into Committee of Supply on Tuesday last, Hon. Mr. Mackenzie moved an amendment condemning the action of Sir Charles Tupper in the awarding of the railway contract for the Port Moody and Emory Bar section to Onderdonk & Co., to the detriment of McDonald & Charlebois, who had sent in the lowest tender.

amendment a vote of want of confidence in the Government. Notwithstanding the pressure thus brought to bear on the rank and file of the Ministerial supporters, there was considerable commotion among the more honest-minded of them, and when the division was taken, it was found that Messrs. Coupal, Tellerand McDonald (Victoria) had voted with the Opposition, and several other Government supporters had made it convenient to be absent when the vote was put.

A RESIDENT AMERICAN'S VIEW.

In a calm and impartial despatch recently published, Hon. John Hibbard, American Consul at this port, points out the chief reasons for the prosperity of the agricultural community in Canada, viz: the development of the cattle trade with Great Britain, and the foreign demand for Canadian farm produce generally.

Washington, D. C., March 25.—Consul Hibbard, writing from Goderich to the State Department on the subject of our trade with Canada, says:—"There has been a marked increase of exports from this locality, particularly horses, sheep and barley; also the less important ones, which heretofore were so limited as not to be singly noted, are now reaching a considerable volume, such as hides, butter, &c. Now, with all the restrictions and duties imposed by our Government, this country seems, so far as my limited observation can determine, to be able to find a paying market for us for many of the farming products, probably on account of the rapid growth of population in the Western States, and the short and cheap transportation thereto.

The Price of Wool.

How this N. P. does benefit the farmer to be sure! Wool here is as low as 25c. per pound, but in Michigan it brings 35 to 38 ct.—[Watford Advocate Advertiser.]

The Tail Chimneys.

The "tail chimney" list is receiving hot shot in broadsides from stem and stern. It gave Berlin seven factories, employing 253 hands. The Waterloo Chronicle points out that only one factory, employing fifty-nine hands, has been started there.

The Cost of Royalty.

There is no doubt a good deal of ground for the feeling that is yearly growing stronger in England that the support of a lot of princes and princesses is a very serious thing. Whatever excuse there may be for giving the Prince of Wales a good round allowance, seeing that he performs many public duties, which it would otherwise devolve upon the Queen, there is no excuse for spending thousands of pounds annually on men and women who are of no earthly service to the country.

ous howlings of the Ministerialists. But when he characterized them as a minority they went fairly wild, and as some time before order was restored, thereby proving the correctness of Cartwright's words. This was the last speech of the debate. While waiting for the return of the whip; after division was called, the musicians on the left sang, in a parliamentary monotone, "God Save the Queen" and "Home, Sweet Home."

A Voice from the Northwest.

So long as Sir John Macdonald remains at the head of the Department of the Interior, so long indeed as the present Government is permitted to misrule Canada, so long also will the best interests of Manitoba and the North-west be sacrificed by bungling ineptitude and unscrupulous occupation.—[Winnipeg Free Press.]

Tupper and his New Colleague.

It may be mentioned here, as a further evidence of the character of the transaction which Mr. McLellan described, that some years later Mr. Holmes, leader of the Tory party in Nova Scotia, and now Premier of the Province, who was a resident of Pictou at the time the railway was built, gave his testimony in a speech in the Local Legislature from which we quote:

"The first thing we have to estimate is the value of the railway. The cost of the road was about $2,700,000. Its length is about 54 miles, including the ferry and the average cost was, therefore, about 54,000 per mile. The real cost of building the road was probably a little over $30,000 per mile."

Here we have the authority of one of Sir Charles Tupper's principal Nova Scotia friends, the Premier of the Province, that the result of the arrangement so graphically described by Mr. McLellan was to make the people of Nova Scotia pay one million two hundred and ninety-six thousand dollars more than an honest price for the work.

The Syndicate's Deadly Grip.

There are some papers to be laid before Parliament in relation to the Syndicate contract and the prosecution of the work undertaken. The great objections being raised to the Syndicate are that it is carrying matters with a high hand in order to crush out competition and secure a monopoly of the carrying traffic, and that it is grabbing town sites along the line, to the detriment of settlers and the Government.

The Port Moody Job.

OTTAWA, March 28.—The ball opened to-day with a vengeance. On Tilley moving the House into Supply, the row began. A paragraph in the Free Press having warned the public that there would be music, the galleries were crammed to their utmost capacity.

A STORY OF A FRONTIERSMAN.

The sun was just setting, at the close of a long hot day in June, when Ernest to the bank of Red River, on the Indian territory side. We were hauling freight for the United States Government, and were on our way to Texas for a load.

his hand on a pistol, ready to assist his brother.
The one on the boat approached the wagon, and was about to raise the sheet when Ernest, with his eyes gleaming dangerously, spoke to him:
"Thy wagon is in the employ of the United States Government, and no one but a regularly authorized official can search it.

"Not much of an accident. I saw the whole thing, and he shall swing for it," said a voice behind me.
"I turned, and there stood one of the other brothers, with levelled rifle bearing directly on me. I attempted to speak, but he would not allow it.

which broke with a loud crack. Lily's brothers were tight sleepers, and they awoke immediately. Not seeing me, they rushed in and thither in search, and just as we reached the horses one of them caught a glimpse of us and fired.

Newspaper Laws.

We call the special attention of postmasters and subscribers to the following synopsis of the newspaper laws:

1. A postmaster is required to give notice by letter (returning a paper does not take his paper out of the office, and state the reasons for its not being taken.)

2. If any person orders his paper discontinued, he must pay all arrears, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made.

3. Any person who takes a paper from the post-office, whether directed to his name or another, or whether he has subscribed or not, is responsible for the payment.

4. If a subscriber orders his paper to be stopped at a certain time, the publisher continues to send, the subscriber is bound to pay for it if he takes it out of the post-office.

5. The courts have decided that refusing to take a newspaper and periodicals from the post-office, or removing and leaving them uncollected for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

Nature, after all, is the great physician. She hides all the secrets of health within her broad, generous bosom.

East Wawanosh spring show will be held at Belgrave on April 13th. Over 100 head of Canadian cattle were lost on the last trip to Liverpool of the steamer Toronto.

Miss Kelly, organist of St. John's church, Brussels, was last week presented with a purse of $30.

Meetings continue to be held in various parts of the Province of Quebec for the purpose of protesting against the railway policy of the Local Government.

James Laidlaw, of Seaforth, has sold his farm of 150 acres, at Call Mountain, Manitoba, for $5,000 cash, which originally cost him $140.

Louis Ascelstone, a carpenter, Nanpesset, fell to the ground, a distance of about ten feet, striking on his head and inflicting injuries that terminated in his death.

"Living is dearer," we are told, and it is probably true. It has been calculated that food costs 32 per cent. more, and clothing 17 per cent. more in 1881 than it did in 1878. —(Monetary Times).

Mr. P. McKinnon, formerly of Clinton High School, has given up the principalship of Portage la Prairie School, and gone into the real estate business at Winnipeg with Mr. J. M. Metzger.

Elliott Arthur, an old woman living on King street west, Toronto, was found dead in bed Sunday night. When the police entered the place they found a sickening corpse, unattended by any one.

Kearney March 27.—Owing to the heavy rains for the past two days the Penitente River flooded Williamsburg, overflowing Coombe & Baird's dam. Shortly afterwards the corporation pier, built to protect the Queen street bridge, was washed out, followed immediately by the dam of the City Mills, owned by J. Davidson, of Toronto.

The appeal of young Chute, the Houghton school teacher convicted last December of indecent assault on a pupil, has been heard, and the judgment first given has been sustained, and Chute has arrived at the Central Prison from Simcoe. He is to receive in addition to his imprisonment forty lashes; twenty at present, and the balance within three weeks, or just as soon as he gets healed after his first lashing.

Mr. Marling's successor, Mr. J. E. Hodgson, B. A., Toronto University, at present Principal of Brantford College Institute, and for six years Principal of St. Mary's Institute, has been appointed to the High School Inspectorship vacated by the late deceased Mr. Marling.

Mr. J. W. Kerr, Fishery Inspector, has just returned from Niagara, and reports that a very large number of sturgeon are being taken out of Lake Ontario at that point. One particularly large fish was caught last week by Mr. Robert Taylor, a fisherman, on a night line. It weighed 150 pounds. The sturgeon was 8 feet long and was caught with a large fishing hook. Mr. Taylor weighs 132 pounds himself, and succeeded in landing the fish alone.

The length of the fish in which it was brought into the town of Niagara was 16 feet. When dressed it weighed 71 pounds; the head weighed 31, the fat weighed 29, the skin, fins and entrails 19. The fish was sold in Buffalo, N. Y., at 5½c. per lb., realizing $39.90.

A most extraordinary scene was witnessed at the office of Pellatt & Osler, brokers, Toronto, on the 28th inst., when the stock books of the Ontario and Quebec Appliance Land Company were opened.

Five hundred men fought for fully fifteen minutes like so many wild beasts to get their names down for the $100,000 stock allotted to the company. The police had to be called in, but they were powerless to keep the crowd quiet. Tables were overturned, several hundred dollars of plate-glass broken, and panic-stricken men rushed about.

Scalded to Death.—On Friday evening last Hannah, a six-year old daughter of Mr. Agnew, employed as section man on the Wellington, Grey & Bruce Railway at Kincardine, alone with her little sister was experimenting as to how far she could place her mouth over the spout of a tea kettle containing boiling water.

BEFORE THE FOOTLIGHTS.

How the Programme of the High School Literary Entertainment in Victoria Hall was Carried Out.

On Friday evening last the open literary contest under the auspices of the Goderich High School Literary Society was held in Victoria Hall, and was, beyond question, the most successful entertainment of the kind ever held in this town. To say that the hall was crowded, but faintly conveys to the mind of the reader an idea of the audience present—in fact, at an early hour the sale of tickets at the door had to be stopped for lack of standing room inside. Mr. Strang, Head Master of the High School, occupied the position of chairman, and introduced the several pieces with appropriate remarks. The literary contest was between two sides led by Mr. R. Miller and Mr. Fred Macdonald respectively. The following is a synopsis of the programme, as presented:

This part began with a recitation "The Sailor Boy's Dream," given very nicely by Miss K. Bull. The next, "Hear me, Norma," by Miss Meldrum and Jennie Ferguson was excellently rendered, the voice of Miss Ferguson forming a capital lead. Mr. W. B. Dickson followed with the "Death of Marmion," and exhibited good powers of voice and action during its delivery.

"How Kate Shelley crossed the Bridge" was given by Miss Minnie Seegmiller in her best style. This young lady has the happy knack of leaving her stage fright in the dressing-room when she appears on the boards. The grand chorus "Who killed Cock Robin?" with solos by Misses Jennie Ferguson, Ellen Ralph, Aggie Ferguson, Jennie Meldrum, R. Gibson, Mary Ferguson, and Messrs. R. Miller and Alex. Dickson, was well received, and the extent of the shroud to fit the defunct red-breast, and the size of the dish to catch his blood, created not a little merriment.

Tommyson's "Defence of Lucknow" was excellently given by Mr. G. Weir, who possessed a good voice, together with a knowledge of its history. The dialogue "Courtship and Difficulties," by Messrs. Miller and Alex. Dickson and Miss Minnie Seegmiller, was an interesting and well acted scene. The facts that one of the gentlemen turned "foam" instead of "fo" the audience, and a perceptible assistance from the prompter on one occasion, nullified somewhat against a good scene being accorded for it. "The Solo 'One Day,' was a little good, and was feelingly sung by Miss Jennie Ferguson. Mr. Strang in "Jud Browning's Criticism on Rubenstein," brought down the house, and one enthusiastic young lady was heard to express regret that she could not accord him 50 per cent. above the maximum points allowed to the judges in figures on the instrument.

The instrumental solo, "The Witch's Dance," proved Miss Robinson to be an accomplished pianist. The tableau of "Auld Robin Gray" was next presented, and scenes were shown from the time when Jamie went away "to mak' a croon a poune," to the time when his "ghaist" came back to find his betrothed the wife of Auld Robin Gray.

The representations of simple Scottish life were well acted. Mr. J. Elliott personated the aged father, Miss Lizzie Dickson the mother, Miss Meldrum the maiden, Mr. G. Weir, "Janie," and Mr. Alex. Dickson could not be excelled as a respectable, well-preserved, but love-lorn Auld Robin Gray. The first part of the programme was brought to a close by a beautiful and spectacular representation of the "Rock of Ages," in which Miss Minnie Seegmiller appeared as Faith clinging to the Cross. It was a fine scene, and deserved the hearty en- thusiasm which it received.

PART II commenced with the tableau, "Count Cagliostro's Magic Mirror," a couple of very fine scenes taken part in by Messrs. Start and Williams and Messrs. Shannon, Duncan and Will Hutchison. The effects were good, but in one of the personators an incongruity appeared in a blonde complexion and light hair, and a moustache as black as the Shadow of Night. The instrumental solo, "Selections from Martha," by Miss Hattie Price, was very much enjoyed, and was considered by many to be the instrumental piece of the evening. Miss Price is an expert instrumentalist, and bids fair to take her place with the musical celebrities of the town at no distant day. Mr. Perrie's recitation, "The Elder's visit to the Theatre," was capitally rendered, and suggested of unalloyed rusticity blended with canny Scottish instincts. The character was presented true to life, and so natural that it was hard to believe that Mr. Perrie was not really and truly the "elder" whose peculiarities he delineated.

"Music on the Waves," a duet by Misses Cook and Williams was played in good taste. The "Old Man goes to School" a reading by Miss Oliver, was a quaint piece—a link between the past and the present, and was excellently read. Miss Oliver possessed a clear voice, a good platform appearance, and complete control of her powers when before an audience. "Thaddy Delaney and the Census," was a north-provoking Irish recitation by Mr. J. Weir, and elicited roars of laughter from the audience, irrespective of nationality. The Little Maid of Arden," sung by Miss Carrie Williams was well received. Miss Maggie Cameron recited "Virginia," in a creditable manner. She exhibited nervousness at the beginning, and was a little rapid, but finally schooled herself to the situation, and ended in good style. An instrumental duet, "Qui vive Galop," by Misses Start and Williams was a pretty piece, nicely played. Miss Maude Start recited "Demost of Coleraine," in her usual manner, and received a hearty round of applause. The programme was brought to a close by the presentation in tableau, of an "Eastern Slave Mart," in which Misses Hattie Price, Jennie Cooke, Carrie Williams, Maggie Cameron, and Oliver, and Messrs. Shannon, Shepard, Duncan, Weir, Henderson, Perrie, and Hutchison took part. Turks, Greeks and Albanians were represented, the central figure being Miss Oliver on the sale block, with eager, anxious bidders nigh. It would be almost impossible to give anything but a mere outline of this beautiful realistic scene.

THE JUDGES' DECISION. The judges, Messrs. J. T. Garrow, P.

Adamson and Col. Ross, M. P. P., were then requested by the chairman to give their decision, which was done through Col. Ross, and was favorable to Part II. Wholesale Escape From the Detroit Jail on Saturday Night.

DETROIT, March 27.—Saturday evening there was a wholesale delivery at the county jail, 13 prisoners having gained liberty by sawing a bar in the first window of ward No. 1. The prisoners occupying this ward who escaped were as follows: Minnie Marx, charged with robbing the First National bank, who had been in jail for nearly a year; Adolph Ziesse, awaiting trial in the recorder's court for the murder of Henry Kammer on new year's eve; John Proctor, a notorious ex-convict, who was arrested a few nights since for breaking into Hammett's saloon and stealing cigars; Harry Floyd, a desperado, who shot at Patrolman Whipple on Sunday last; George Ellis, convicted of larceny; James Manion, ex-convict, again convicted in Wayne circuit court last week of safe blowing at Wayne; Wm. Daily, charged with the robbery of Milton H. Butler at the Woodward avenue railway crossing last fall, and awaiting trial in the recorder's court; Louis Gagnion, charged with robbery; August Richard, convicted of attempted rape; Frank Reynolds charged with forgery, awaiting sentence; Geo. Aikens, (colored) convicted of larceny, awaiting sentence; Thos. Fox (colored), convicted of larceny and awaiting sentence; and Henry Hill.

Just before Turkey Edmunds and Night Watchman Renton went up stairs to lock the prisoners in the wards on the upper floors in their cells for the night. While the locking up was being done up stairs Herman Dupka, a young man who is employed as assistant watchman, and the engineer were down stairs in the office. Edmunds and Renton had been up stairs only a few minutes when Dupka heard the heavy jail gate shut. He went to the door to see who had passed out of the yard. He tried to open the door leading into the yard on the street side and found it fastened. He ran back into the office to get a revolver, and at the same time raising an alarm. Sheriff Clippars had just returned from the court and had only two prisoners remained. The opening made was eleven inches high and fourteen inches wide. There was found a piece of broom handle which had been colored with shoeblack, and put in place to avoid detection. There have jail deliveries within the past eight months, the previous one being in August last. Four or five persons escaped at that time, and only one of the number was recaptured.

Longfellow's Funeral.

Howells, Ebeneser Alcott, Richard D. Dana, John G. Whittier, Louis Agassiz, Geo. Wm. Curtis, and Professors Norton and Hunt. The casket was covered with black broadcloth and wholly unornamented save by a silver plate, which bore the inscription: "HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW, Born February 27th, 1807. Died March 24th, 1882. The floral decoration of the casket consisted of a handful of passion flowers. The face of the deceased wore a peaceful expression, and disclosed no sign that death was painful. The services were brief and impressive. They were conducted by the Rev. Samuel Longfellow, of Portland, brother of the poet. The remains were deposited in the family vault at Mount Auburn. There were no services at the grave. Public memorial services were held in the chapel at Harvard College.

Trade Mark Registered. ANOTHER GREAT BOOM IN WINNIPEG.

By casual observation, we find all land speculators have a clear head and watch the ups and downs of property, thus making large fortunes. But the whole secret is the use of THE PRIDE OF THE VALLEY MEDICINE.

We can safely say that hundreds come to us for the great lung and blood purifier before going west. Read the following statement. We could give you the same kind if it were necessary. I certify that I was troubled with Catarrh in the head, gathering of phlegm in the throat, choking and coughing at night for years, so I could not sleep, often troubled with dizziness, loss of appetite, pains in the chest and back. After giving hundreds of dollars to doctors, and giving up all hopes, I tried the PRIDE OF THE VALLEY, and am now able to do my work after seven year's sickness.
