A Terrible Disclosure ; OR, What Fools Men Are!

CHAPTER VII.

Women are not good at argument, it is pretty generally admitted, and women when they are in love lose what little knowledge of logic they originally possessed. Lela was silent. "As for the professor," said Lord Edgar; "he will come around when he finds that it is too late to object. After all, what is his objection to me? That I am the son of the marquis? That is all! I can't help being Lord Fane! I wish to Heaven I could! I would like to be an usher in some school; then he would welcome me, I suppose!"

"What can I say?" she whispered, all quivering with fear and suspense. "Say 'yes, darling!' he murmured, smoothing the soft, silky hair from her face and kissing her. "Say 'yes,' and let us put an end to this suspense and secrecy."

"Secrecy," she said. "But—but our marriage will be secret, Edgar?"

He nodded.

"Yes, for a time. Clifford thinks that it would be best."

"Your cousin," she said; "it is his advice?"

"Yes," he said, heartily, "and his advice is worth having, dearest. He knows more of the world than I do, and he is deeply attached to me. You will like him for my sake, and your own, when you see him. He has been everything that is kind! He has arranged everything."

"Arranged?" she said, with a troubled look in her limpid eyes.

Lord Edgar nodded.

"Yes!" he said. "Clifford is not the man to do things by halves! He asked me to-day if my happiness was set upon you, and I said that I could not live without you."

"Ah, Edgar!" and the trusting heart beat against his own.

"That I could not live without you, and he put into words a thought I had cherished in secret. He said, 'Why live without her? why not marry her?'"

"Ah! no, no!"

"But it must be yes—yes!" he said,

leave it to Clifford, who has promised to see to everything."

"And no one will know?"

"No one until it is over, and very few then," he replied. "We'll tell the professor, but no one else for a little while. When we come back from our honeymoon all the world shall know it."

"And the marquis? Ah, what will he say?"

Lord Edgar kissed her in lieu of answering, and there was a pause for a moment; then she murmured: "And you are sure you will not repent? What is that they say, 'Marry in haste, and repent at leisure?'"

"That doesn't apply, darling. Rather say, 'Part in haste, and be wretched at leisure.' As to being happy, the prospect of great happiness seems to make me afraid."

"Ah, yes," she murmured. "Grandpapa says that the gods grow envious when we are too happy, and wreak their malice by bringing trouble. And I am so happy I cannot sleep at night for thinking of it."

"Which all proves that we had better make sure of our joy," he said, confidently. "Come, say the little word; it is not a difficult one. Lela Temple, will you marry me the day after to-morrow?"

And he held both her hands, and looked into her eyes.

The day after to-morrow! It was soon, awfully soon, to change her life—to step forward blindfold—to leap, rather, on to a road of which one is totally ignorant—the day after to-morrow!

But she had used up all her arguments and remonstrances, and, lifting her eyes to his, she whispered, "Yes."

"And now you must go," she murmured.

"Yes," he said; "I shall take the train from Kingston. I shall have plenty to do to-morrow. By George! I shall feel like a wild schoolboy with the prospect of a year's holiday before him. To-morrow I shall make all the preparations—everything! and the next day I will come down by nine o'clock, and you must meet me here."

"Oh, Edgar! and what am I to bring?"

"Bring yourself, darling," he answered, swiftly; "never mind about anything else."

"But—but clothes?"

"Never mind them," he replied, lightly, smiling into her dazed eyes; "you can get all you want after—we are married. Well, well!"—at seeing the trouble in her face—"at any rate, only bring a small bag—I can manage that—there is no occasion for more. Why, it will be the most delightful thing to go shopping with you! I shall be splendid at shopping, you'll see! I shall fancy all the pretty things as they will look when you wear them; though the ugliest bonnet that ever was built would look pretty if you wore it! There! I am getting light-headed, and no wonder!"

He looked like an Apollo Belvidere clothed in happiness, his handsome face flushed, his eyes glowing with love and the anticipation of his joy, and she caught a reflection of his bliss.

"Ah, it is all so sudden, so swift!" she murmured, with a sigh, but not of fear or pain.

"But it will last!" he whispered, ardently. "We shall look back at it and smile over it all, dearest! Must you go? Remember, here at nine o'clock. If you were not to come, I don't know what I should do."

"I shall come," she whispered.

"Yes, I shall come."

One long, lingering kiss, and they parted. She sped homeward and entered the cottage, pausing at the door to gain her breath, and wait for her heart to throb a little less wildly.

The professor was seated at the table, reading. He looked older by years, since one short week—you cannot tear moss that has been growing to an old wall for years with impunity; the moss will fade, perhaps die!

Lela glided up to him, and knelt beside him, and laid her face upon his arm, so that her glowing cheeks and eyes were hidden from him.

"Why, where have you been, Lela?" he asked absently.

"To the churchyard, dear," she answered, faintly, quickly.

"It is late," he said, stroking her hair. "Late and chilly, and you have not been very strong of late. Don't go out at night again, Lela."

"No, not again!" she murmured.

"Not again!"

He did not notice the significance in her tone, but nodded, and was satisfied.

"You wouldn't like anything to happen to me, dear?" she murmured.

"Happen to you!" he echoed, bewildered by the question. "My child, how can you ask? Whom else have I to depend on? We two are alone in this world; my little one, we must live for one another. You have been looking pale and ill of late"—he turned her face up—"but you are better now, are you not?"

"Yes, quite well, grandpapa!"

"Yes, yes; you look more like your old self, my dear. Didn't I hear you singing this morning?"

"Yes," she said, blushing very red. He smiled.

"That is better, much better! Did I not tell you that in time you would learn to forget—but we will not speak his name!"

"No, do not," she murmured, turning her face.

"Ah," and he smiled. "Youth! youth! what a tallman it is! It is only the middle-aged and the old who die of broken hearts. But I am glad, my dear, that you have recovered from that fitful fever of love! It is far better as fate has ordained it! He was not worthy of you—a rough, wild boy, though honest, yes, I will believe him honest, for all that his proud, mad father said of him!"

"If—if you mean Lord Edgar, dear," she said, in a low voice, "I know, and that is better than believing, that he is true and honest and good!" and then, fearful lest her hasty speech should make him suspicious, she said, quickly, "but it is time for bed, now, dear."

He arose and put up his books reluctantly, then paused and looked up as if trying to remember something.

"There is something I have to tell you, Lela. Ah! I remember! My dear, I am afraid we must leave this place!"

"Leave it, grandpapa!" and the color fled from her face.

He nodded.

"Yes; I have had an offer of a post as librarian in Germany—what is the matter?" for she shrank and had clutched a chair.

"Nothing, nothing, dear! In Germany! But you will not go; surely you will not go?"

"Why not? Why should we not?" he asked, blinking at her wonderingly. "It is a splendid offer. I had it two days ago, but—I'm very sorry, dear—I forgot to mention it! We must go at once, if I take it, and, of course, I must take it."

"At once—" She looked at the door as if she must fly after Edgar and tell him. "But—when do you mean?"

"In a week's time," he said, calmly, as if no change that life could offer him could arouse or excite him.

Lela drew a breath of relief; she even coughed as the strain relaxed.

"Next week! My dear, I thought you meant—to-morrow! Next week! Oh, there is time enough. You—you won't accept for a day or two, grandpapa?"

(To be Continued.)

Public Notice

I am directed by His Excellency the Governor in Council to issue the following notice under Authority of Minute in Council passed 28th February, 1918.

Augmentation of the Pay of Royal Naval Reservists Newfoundland.

The Government of Newfoundland have decided to augment the pay of Newfoundland Royal Naval Reservists so as to place them on the same footing as men of the Newfoundland Regiment.

Under the provision of the War Measure Act, authority is given to the Minister of Militia to deal with the matter of augmentation of pay of the Royal Naval Reservists, Nfld., in consultation with the Senior Naval Officer, St. John's.

It is ordered that a sum of 33c. per day be placed to the credit of each Naval Reservist from the time of commencement of the war, in cases where men were then serving, or otherwise, from the time when their services began up to the time of discharge, or of death, or to the 30th of September, 1917, inclusive.

As the rate of pay of Naval Reservists was increased from October 1st, 1917, and as the difference between the amount they receive and that allowed the members of The Royal Newfoundland Regiment is 17c. per day, this difference will also be credited them from that date.

The foregoing amounts will not in any case be made a payment from Admiralty sources. The Minister of Militia, St. John's, Nfld., is solely responsible for the issue of any sums due.

Newfoundland Royal Naval Reserve men serving in any of H. M. Ships, including all members of the Trawler Reserve and those in Defensively Armed Merchant Ships etc., are eligible for the pay as set forth, and should be informed of the following alternatives as regards the method of payment:—

- (a) Payment will be made on personal application to the Minister of Militia, St. John's.
- (b) Payment will be made to the nominee of any Reserve man, on written application duly witnessed, to the Minister of Militia, St. John's.
- (c) Sums due will be placed to the credit of Reserve men who do not desire to avail themselves of the foregoing and can be drawn by them at the expiration of their service.

The following form is to be compiled and forwarded direct to the Minister of Militia, St. John's, Newfoundland, at the earliest possible date:—

NAME AND OFFICIAL NO.	WHAT IS DESIRED DISPOSAL OF AMOUNT DUE UNDER ORDER 1, 2, or 3. (IN CASE OF 3, FULL NAME AND ADDRESS MUST BE GIVEN.)	SIGNATURE AUTHORIZING DISPOSAL.

All communications of any description with regard to these payments are to be made to the Minister of Militia, St. John's, direct.

Payment will commence on 1st May, 1918.

In cases where members of the Royal Naval Reserve (Newfoundland) have been killed in action or died of wounds or sickness, or through any other cause, the amount due as Augmentation Pay will go to the Estate of the deceased. The authority to obtain the Estate of the deceased is, in case of a Will, Letters of Administration. Such letters are issued by the Supreme Court of Newfoundland on the Petition and Proofs of Executor of the Will, or the next of kin. If the Estate does not exceed $500.00, after the proof of the facts has been obtained the petition can be applied for by the Minister of Justice.

Minister of Militia.

Struggle Proceeds with Unabated Intensity. Great Gallantry of 21st, 25th, and 49th. British Divisions. Allies Stand at Bay in Ypres Sector.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.

LONDON, April 29. (Official.)—Following a bombardment of great intensity the French and British operating from the neighbourhood of Meteren to Zillebeke Lake were violently attacked this morning by large hostile forces. An attack was made also upon the Belgian positions north of Ypres, and fighting of great severity developed rapidly on the whole Allied front. The 25th, 49th and 21st British divisions completely repulsed every attempt made by the enemy to enter their positions, and in doing so effected a constant succession of determined attacks in strength the Allies maintained their line intact. The enemy's losses have been very heavy; French positions on the hills about Scherpenberg and Mont Rouge also were heavily attacked and the enemy was repulsed. At points where the enemy's infantry succeeded in penetrating a short distance into the British positions, they were immediately driven out by counter attacks from the greater part of the ground which they had temporarily gained. On the remainder of the British front all artillery activity on both sides. The weather prevented air observations on Sunday.

WAR SUMMARY.

Germany's armies are hurling themselves against a granite wall on three sides of the ruined city of Ypres. After fighting of the most terrific nature the British and French lines are still intact and the enemy has lost territory in repeated assaults against the lines where the Allies stand at bay. The object of the fighting which is now going on is the capture of Ypres, where since 1914 the British have held their positions. Two years ago the Allied lines were carried forward, and the salient in front of the city was wiped out, but from these positions the British retired a week ago to the trenches where they stood during the terrific fighting in the spring of 1915, when they stood firm against the first drive by the German army in their first drive for the Channel ports. The present battle opened with a bombardment of the British and French lines from Meteren to Voormezelle, a distance of 12 miles, and then came reports of the spread of the fighting around the city in the line in front of the British positions. THE GERMAN-RUSSIAN TROUBLE.

MOSCOW, April 29. No reply has been made to the German Government's demands sent it by wireless to Foreign Minister Ticheterin concerning the status of war prisoners. The German note said in part that the Russian Government should release prisoners in Siberia and strip their officers of rank, that prisoners of the crew of the steamer Omsk had decided to seize the trans-Siberian railway station to prevent the return of prisoners to Germany and that similar measures would be undertaken by a congress of war prisoners at Moscow. Germany urgently demanded the disarmament of Omsk prisoners, the placing of Russian troops in charge of the camp, the segregation of the Germans and Austrians, and measures to assure the free return of prisoners.

SUNK ON FIRST TRIP.

NEW YORK, April 29. The American steamship Westery, one of the first of the new ships built by the emergency fleet corporation was sunk in collision yesterday off the French coast, according to information received in shipping quarters here to-day. All aboard were saved. The Westery, a vessel of about 5,000 tons, launched on the Pacific coast in February, was returning to the United States after having completed the first half of her maiden trip to Europe.

ATTACKING FOR YPRES.

Severe fighting is reported in both the French and British areas. The attack extends over a front of about fifteen miles. The Belgians on the Yser front are also reported to have been attacked.

GERMANY HAS PLENTY WHEAT.

AMSTERDAM, April 29. The sinking of the Norwegian steamer Wegadesk by bombs after the crew of a German submarine had held her a prisoner for two days, and had removed from her hold 50 tons of brass and copper, was described here to-day by members of her crew who arrived on a French steamer. The Wegadesk was 4,271 tons gross register, and was on the way to Genoa from Baltimore. On March 23, when about 180 miles off the coast of Morocco, she was stopped by a submarine which, after making fast to the ship, put fifteen of her crew aboard for two days. The men said the Germans, assisted by the crew of the Norwegian steamer Nordkyn from Philadelphia to Genoa with grain. This ship was stopped in the same place as the Wegadesk and was sunk with bombs after the Germans had taken all food supplies and the extra clothing of the crew. We asked the Germans if they did not want some of our grain. One of the crew said they didn't, and added "Germany had all the wheat she needed."

NEW CHIEF SECRETARY.

LONDON, April 29. Ed. Shott, member of the House of Commons for Newcastle on Tyne, has been appointed Chief Secretary for Ireland to succeed Henry Edward Duke, who has held that post since August, 1916. PASSENGERS AND CREW SAVED.

LONDON, April 29. A party of fifty-seven American Army Young Men's Christian Association workers, under Arthur E. Hungerford, arrived in London last night. The ship on which they sailed departed yesterday morning and sank in twelve minutes. All the passengers and crew but three were saved. The passengers were picked up in life boats and landed at a British port. The number of persons on board the vessel was about 250. The vessel was the British steel steamer Orissa of 3,438 tons gross, it was learned here to-day.

TRIPPLE BOMBARDMENT.

LONDON, April 29. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—An intense bombardment from artillery concentration is in progress from La Bassée to the south of Houthoult forest and from Vimy Ridge to Lens.

TROUBLE IN LIABACH.

AMSTERDAM, April 29. Serious anti-German demonstrations have occurred at Liabach as a result of the crisis in the affairs of the Austrian Cabinet, headed by Dr. Von Seydler. Crowds of Slavians, according to Vienna newspapers, almost completely destroyed the German Club and smashed the windows of German stores and cafes. Troops were called out, but the demonstrators continued to throng the streets, carrying Slavonian emblems, singing anti-German songs and cheering for the Entente.

CONCERT AT AULA MAXIMA.

The musicale at the Aula Maxima in aid of the Presentation Convent Building Fund held last night, was largely attended. An interesting programme was gone through and the following items contributed: Recitation by Miss Howlett and Mr. J. Shortall; songs by Misses Gleeson, K. Payne, Mr. N. Dies at Jensen Camp.

There passed peacefully away at Jensen Camp yesterday morning, Pte. Mortimer Hawker, son of Mrs. Hawker and Mr. M. J. Hawker, Sergeant-at-Arms, at the House of Assembly. Deceased who only returned from active service a few weeks ago, entered Jensen Camp with the hope of recovering from the dread disease, tuberculosis, but despite the best efforts of medical skill and affectionate attention of relatives and friends, he passed away at dawn yesterday. Though not privileged to have fallen in battle with the enemy, he has, nevertheless, paid the supreme sacrifice, and his name will ever be preserved as a loyal son of the Empire. Walter, a brother, is now with the Signalling Corps on active service. In the afternoon the body was removed from the Mortuary Rooms of Undertaker Carnell to the railway station and was given a full military funeral. A firing party, under Sergt. Henebury, preceded the hearse while the Volunteers and Foresters took up the rear. Many private citizens, friends of the family, mediators replied were also demanded. Germany is negotiating separately with the governments of the Caucasus and the Crimea without the sanction or official knowledge of the Soviet Government. The Swedish representatives at Tiflis were asked by the German, whom the anti-Soviet Government in the Caucasus represented and what its flag was. The Germans also required the Crimean Government to describe its flags and observe the rules governing their use in order to avoid the destruction of its ships.

A Spanish Seaman Injured.

A Spanish seaman named Marinos Valasco has a narrow escape from death yesterday by falling from the lower top-sail yard of a schooner now in port into the hold, a distance of about 50 feet. He was picked up unconscious and on being attended by Dr. Tait it was found that his left arm had been broken near the shoulder and that he was internally injured. The ambulance was immediately summoned and the injured seaman taken to the General Hospital.

House of Assembly. NOTICE OF QUESTION.

In the Assembly yesterday afternoon Mr. Currie, Member for Burin, gave notice that he would at the next sitting ask the Hon. Minister of Finance and Customs to lay on the table of the House, a statement, showing in detail the expenditure of $142,558.21, paid the Newfoundland Produce Company, under the heading of Home Defence during 1916-17; also details of the amount of $37,810.15 paid the Reid Newfoundland Company under the same heading. Also to ask the Prime Minister to lay upon the table of the House copies of all the correspondence that took place between the Newfoundland Chartered Association and his Department regarding the S. & Rutenfeld.

By RUTH CAMEBON.

RUTH CAMEBON

"Yes, she's bright and she's nice, but she certainly enjoys being in the limelight." So the Authorman characterized a brilliant and interesting woman of whom we had heard a great deal and whom we finally had the pleasure of meeting.

There was a distinct shade of reproach in his speech as he said: "She certainly enjoys being in the limelight."

And I called it unmerited reproach. I think we are inclined to resent it, when a brilliant person captures and holds the centre of the conversational stage, but is that justifiable resentment?

The Gift of Gab or the Gift of Adventure. If a man or a woman is brilliant and has had many unusual and interesting experiences, why shouldn't he or she expect to have more chances at the conversational ball than those who haven't the gift of gab or the gift of adventure?

In many kinds of games, the person who hits a ball once is given a chance to hit again. Why not in the game of conversation?

It seems to me as absurd to blame such people for taking a bit more than their share (computed on a basis of equal rights) of the conversation, as it is to blame a pretty girl for knowing she is pretty.

Like Blaming a Pretty Girl For Knowing She Is Pretty. Of course the pretty girl knows she is pretty, if she has not been reared in a home without mirrors. (And even then I fancy she would find enough to make her suspect the terrible truth.)

And of course a clever, amusing person (if he is clever enough to be clever) must know he or she is clever and amusing.

For myself, I am always ready to grant such a person double her share of the conversation.

Nobody Loves a Monologist. Of course it isn't nice of those folks to abuse the privileges granted them by monopolizing the conversation.

Nobody loves a monologist. But even at that, I would rather have a brilliant monologue from someone who had something to say, than a general conversation among half a dozen bores who hadn't a real thought among them.

SUMMER BATHING MISTAKES. At no season of the year is the bath custom so abused as in summer. The woman who is particularly rational about the daily bath the rest of the year, plunges into excesses directly warm weather sets in. Why she should imagine that she has greater endurance in summer than in winter, no physician or beauty specialist has ever discovered.

Bathe with reason in summer as well as in winter. Do not drop warm baths and indulge only in tepid ones just because the weather is warm. Do not confine your excursions to the bath tub, to only cold plunges. You will be much more comfortable in hot weather for the occasional hot bath. And remember that the too cold bath, whether in the tub, or in the ocean, is very apt to bring on cramps of the stomach and serious intestinal troubles if taken soon after a hearty meal.

Another folly in which many women indulge when at the shore, is to think that after a sea bath she is physically clean. Sea bathing is merely a dip in the ocean. Continued bathing in sea water, unrelieved by baths in fresh water or at least sponge baths is very bad for the skin.

In summer a warm, not hot, bath is most cooling and the bath in the morning may be only a sponge bath in cool, not cold, water. The woman who dresses in the middle of the day, or just before dinner, and bathes then, should not take a bath when retiring.

Your Boys and Girls.

Perhaps your baby is wakeful at night because he does not have a great deal of fresh air during the day. Try keeping him out of doors more, and see that he has his nap early in the afternoon so that he will be tired when he goes to bed at night. Do not feed him too much during the last few hours before bedtime.

Some babies stay awake at night simply because they know they will be rocked or taken up and cuddled if they cry. If you have such a habit you should, by all means, stop it at once. It is very bad for the child and very bad for you, and while you will have a very unpleasant time during the first few nights, it is more than worth while to overcome the habit.

Make up your mind to worry one day through and you will then be master of the situation. Keep baby awake by some means from one to seven o'clock. Talk to him and distract his attention by toys or take some of his clothes off and put them on again, anything to prevent sleep. At eight thirty bathe and feed him and he will be glad to go to sleep and will likely sleep the whole night through.

Have they no sense of humor, no content line of thought, and have they caught no rumor of this sad world distraught? All men are in a lather when this or that side wins, but roosters never gather to read the bulletins. Men watch the fight out yonder, discuss it with a will; but porkers seem to ponder on nothing but their swill. The beasts have been around us since Adam made his churn, and yet when woes confound us they do not care a fern. Lord Reading of Zionists.

Supports Project to Establish Jewish State in Palestine.

Lord Reading, Special Ambassador and High Commissioner for Great Britain in the United States, has issued a statement through the Provisional Executive Committee for General Zionist Affairs, declaring his support of the project to establish a Jewish State in Palestine. His statement reads:

"You ask me for a message to American Jewry especially regarding the Declaration of His Majesty's Government in favor of the establishment in Palestine of a National Home for the Jewish people.

"I need not say that I warmly support that declaration in both my public and private capacity. I have, moreover, been profoundly impressed, by the splendid energy of the American Zionists and by the whole-hearted way in which, to no small extent under their leadership, the Jewish people of the United States have thrown themselves into the war. Though I feel that the many thousands of Jews who have enlisted individually in the armies of the United States and of the Allies are serving the cause of humanity as usefully as man can, I am particularly interested in the Jewish units which are being recruited on both sides of the Atlantic. It would be magnificent if some of them could strike a blow for the freedom of the world in the land of our ancestors.

"In the meantime I am glad to think that Palestine is being rehabilitated, even while the war continues, largely by Jewish money and Jewish energy, and as especially pleased to be in the country which has provided so large a part of that money and so small amount of that energy. My good wishes are with the Zionists of the United States in the great work that is before them in giving effect to the Declaration of the British Government and I shall esteem anything that I may be called upon to do in connection with that work as not the least important or the least satisfactory part of my duties as British Ambassador in Washington."

A message from the representatives of the Jewish colonies in Palestine was received at the Zionist headquarters here yesterday. It said that the Jewish Administrative Commission, organized by the International Zionist Organization, were expected in Palestine this week.

Evening Telegram.

I note that the patriotic gentleman (?) who edits the senior Coaker's organ, the Herald, on Saturday warns you that if you persist in demanding that the constitutional rights of the people of this Dominion be not trampled upon by him and his undesirable political camp-followers, the vengeance of our one and only heaven-sent deliverer will fall upon you, and all associated with you.

Isn't this a pretty state of affairs when a journalistic pariah like McGrath threatens to use the club of his free speech? This is the man McGrath who used to call Coaker the "Notorious Coaker" and other names not fit to print. It is the same Coaker who introduced Paisy to his followers as the "journalistic crook of the country". This is the same Coaker who had the fishermen in effigy at Bonavista some years ago. Now these two patriots (?) are working overtime to bring to gull the people into the belief that they are ready to die for their country. Verily, it is to laugh.

Since McGrath got baptized in the Catholic faith, he has, it seems, become imbued strongly with the real spirit of Coakerism. Coakerism simply means "me", and anyone who doesn't do as "I" will, must be silenced by submission. This is Coakerism in a nutshell. McGrathism is nothing but there is a dollar in it. It embodies everything, from betraying our friends to selling your country, provided the price is attractive and the questions asked. The two make an a hideous combination that to torment further on it would, I fear, overtax the patience of your circle of readers.

Now, as regards the constitutional rights of the people, I will append the information of those who referred to read the "wordy" President's personal organ, when he first allowed himself loose over the Island as a heaven-sent deliverer of the masses, an article which this honourable (?) gentleman wrote, attacking ex-Governor Walter Davidson. As this is so parallel, Mr. Editor, I have left it to the general public to see if they can find the real motive of the sudden change of front on the part of Mr. Coaker, and those associated with him nowadays, in his outrageous conduct of riding roughshod over the electorate of this Dominion.

In order to impress upon the country the need of an election, and the wisdom of the argument that to come during the war would be unwise, Mr. Coaker in an editorial article in his personal organ, dated June 5th, 1917, had the following to say:

"On the fields of Europe millions are dying for freedom; not so much for the freedom of nations as for the freedom of MEN.

To free men from oppression, to give the Peoples control of their countries, in a word to give them that freedom of self-government that is crystallized in the House of Assembly—the People's House. As we pointed out, it is not now a question of the desirability or otherwise of an election, but it is the shameless attempt which is being made to RIDE ROUGHSHOD OVER THE GREATEST SAFEGUARD OF DEMOCRATIC GOVERNMENT, and destroy the very essence of POPULAR CONTROL."

Mr. Coaker's idea of British Constitutional Law one year ago was very much different from what he now claims it to be. Perhaps "the journalistic crook" of the country will explain where lies the justification.

When Coaker stood in his glory as the people's champion, on the floors of the House, demanding an election, he waxed eloquent on the fundamental principles of our Constitution, and saw fit to attack Governor Davidson "as a kite flier of the Premier's." Now he suddenly changes his views on the same fundamental principles. Wonderful man indeed is our man of mystery.

Coaker's attack in defence of the people's rights on ex-Governor Davidson is as follows:

"Great God! is there any wonder that the people are longing for next October in order to wipe out once and forever all traces of an administration that three years ago the people said they had no use for, YET THROUGH THE MACHINATIONS . . . of the Crown's Representative were permitted to TRAMPLE THE RIGHTS AND PRIVILEGES of the electorate under foot for four years. Some day there will be a resurrection of dead bones in this Colony that will create an upheaval that will burn Morris and Governor Davidson in effigy, accompanied by the most startling manifestations of indignation that Terra Nova ever beheld.

"Does Morris realize that the whole of the people from Brigus to Burin are boiling with indignation the past three years, over the manner in which he has betrayed the electorate? Does GOVERNOR DAVIDSON know that the people blame him . . . for being a kite flier of the Premier's . . . and hold him responsible for keeping the Morris gang in office in spite of the decision of a majority of the electorate?"—Mr. Coaker in the Mail and Advocate, October 28th, 1916.

What are the free and independent manhood of this Dominion going to do? This time for action. Be up and doing.

Yours truly,
HAMPDEN.

Eczema Cured Five Years Ago.

A Treatment Which Has Proven a Wonderful Healer of the Skin—Certified Evidence of Lasting Cure.

The old notion that eczema is a disease of the blood is refuted time and time again by the cures that are daily being effected by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

It matters not what the cause may have been if you apply Dr. Chase's Ointment regularly you will obtain relief and cure of eczema. Here is the proof.

Mrs. Stephen G. Thwaites, Box 205, Jordan, Ont., writes: "My brother had a bad case of eczema on his legs. He was troubled nearly all one fall and winter with it, and could not work for days at a time. He tried a different salves and ointments, but none cured him. One day he tried Dr. Chase's Ointment, and it gave almost instant relief. He continued its use, but had not quite finished the second box when he was cured. It is now about five years since then, and it has never returned. We certainly can recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment, and are very grateful for my brother's cure."

(Rev. S. F. Coffman, Vineland, Ont., states: "This is to certify that I know Mrs. Thwaites and the party to whom she refers, and her statements are correct.")

Mr. J. E. Jones, 228 University Avenue, Kingston, Ont., writes: "I had eczema in my hand for about five years. I tried a great many remedies, but found that while some of them checked it, none cured it permanently. Finally I tried Dr. Chase's Ointment, and in six weeks my hand was completely better. I would not do without a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment in the house if it cost $2 a box. I am giving my name to this firm so that it will get to those who suffer as I did."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Substitutes will only disappoint you. Insist on getting what you ask for.

The Junior Member.

Congratulations to the Hon. D. A. Ryan who shortly takes his seat as a member of the Legislative Council, filling the vacancy created by the death of his brother, Hon. James Ryan of Bonavista.

Touching this new appointment, it will be remembered that the President of the F. P. U. when in opposition did strongly protest against any more merchants being given seats in the Upper House, advancing the claims of experienced fishermen for such an honor, but the times have changed, my masters, and there is no more any championing of the "underdog." At the moment he is only a fly on the wheel.

Joins the Navy.

William MacGettigan, son of Mr. M. MacGettigan, superintendent engineer at Bowling Bros., was yesterday accepted as an artificer to the force of the Royal Navy. This young man, although but 19 years old, is already a full fledged mechanical engineer and an expert brass turner from the shops of the Reid Mtd. Co. Mr. MacGettigan shortly leaves for the Old Country where he will enter a preparatory department before taking up his duties on shipboard. We predict a bright career for this young man and congratulate him on his patriotic act, especially now when the services of the bravest, best and most capable of the land is the supreme need of the hour.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The s.s. Hawk left at 12 o'clock yesterday for Holyrood to connect with the express, and returned in the afternoon.

The dock is kept busy at present getting the fishing schooners ready for the summer's operations.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Andrew Power took place yesterday afternoon and was largely attended. Mrs. Power was a Miss Fitzgerald of Western Bras. She was 53 years of age, and leaves a husband to mourn his loss.

Mrs. Mary Murphy passed away yesterday at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. E. M. Pumphrey. Funeral takes place to-morrow at 9:30 a.m. when High Mass will be celebrated.

Farmers are now commencing ploughing, etc., and getting the ground in readiness for the summer's work.

Miss M. Boyle, of Carbonear, was in town to-day on a visit to Miss Gladys Pike.

Dr. Goodwin took a run to Carbonear on Friday last on professional business.

Miss Nellie Dwyer, daughter of Sergt. A. Dwyer, leaves for St. John's on Wednesday morning, and will enter the General Hospital to train for a nurse. We wish Miss Dwyer much success in her chosen and laudable profession.
