Guards and Strike Breakers Wounded in Conflicts With Strikers-Some Fatal Injuries are Inflicted

BREAKERS SENT AWAY FROM McCOMB

Men in California Declare Against Resort to Violence Burnside Shops Declared "Open" by Company

McCOMB CITY, Miss., Oct. 4 .- With enforced departure late today of the of the strike-breakers brought here the Illinois Central railroad, came e first real assurance of the restoraion of peace after 24 hours of ex itement and spasmodic rioting. The people of McComb City demanded that the strike-breakers be removed from heir community, and the 132 men were placed aboard a heavily guarded train and hurried to New Orleans. Sixty soldiers armed with ball cartridges and with orders to "shoot to kill." if necessary, accompanied the train as Three companies of Mississippi national guards patrolled the streets at dark, and tonight the belief is expressed that the town will remain quiet.

Wounds Inflicted HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 4.—Four guards employed in the Southern Pacific shops were fired upon at midnight by unidentified persons. One guard named Tullis was struck by a bullet and is believed to be fatally wounded. The other guards were uninjured. The men who fired the shots escaped.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 4.-While Georgia and Florida freight train was passing through the Southern yards at Hamburg, S. C., just across the river from Augusta, today, strikers attacked the strike-breaking crew, seriously injuring two and perhaps fatally injuring

Open Shop Declared

CHICAGO, Oct. 4 .- The Burnside ops of the Illinois Central railroad came "open shops" today, a formal ice posted within the stockade inorming the workmen that hereafter le road will deal with its individual ployes. The strikers declared the hange would have no effect upon the trike, and that the order would be renoved when the strike ended.

A statement issued by Vice Presiden ark of the Illinois Central, says: There has been no great change in nditions. We have a few more men orking today than yesterday. Train lovements are about normal every-

PORTLAND. Ore., Oct. 4.—In this city and at other points in this jurisdiction of the Harriman system, there were apparently no defections worth mentioning from the ranks of the striking shopmen today, which was the last day given in the ultimatum of General Manager O'Brien for strikers to return in good standing.

There are, according to unionista, 37 men at work in the shops in this city, this number including, the old employes of long service who were permitted to remain at work in order to preserve their standing in the pension awards.

The railroad officials say that there were several applications of strikers to return to work today, but this number amounts to, it is said, less than a dozen. On the other hand there were three-or four men who had refused to strike who are said to have walked out.

Reports received by the Associated Press from Roseburg are that the Southern Pacific engines are in poor shape, and that the trains are moving behind their schedules. Nevertheless all California trains arrived today on time.

There are said to be five mechanics and about the same number of helpers at work in the Corvallis and Eastern shops at Albany. The entire force of 24 men which walked out present, it is said, an unbroken front. None of the 35 men who walked out at Ashland returned to work today. The company is preparing eating and sleeping accommodation in the local yards. The southbound Shasta Limited passed here eight hours late, but this, it is stated, was due to a freight train going into the ditch near Glendale, Ore, last night.

At The Dalles none of the 30 strikers returned to work. Only one man, a nonunion helper, is said to be at work at the shops. There has been no attempt so far to replace the strikers.

To Memory of Hon. John Young MONTREAL, Oct. 4 .- Today His Excellency Earl Grey unveiled a monument erected by the citizens of Montreal to the memory of the Hon. John Young, a pioneer in the development of its harbor. The statue, which is the production of a Canadian artist, Philip Hebert, stands in the custom house square overlooking the scene of some of his early labors.

Expected to Leave Office Today After Fifteen Years of Power-New Cabinet Probably on Monday

OTTAWA, Oct. 4 .- Tomorrow Sir Wilfrid Laurier is expected to lay down the reins of nower, which he has will take place in the afternoon or evening after Lord Grey's return from Montreal, and Mr. Borden will be summoned on Friday.

There was another meeting of the cabinet today, but it is understood that no further contracts were given out. Mr. Pugsley has not succeeded in granting the St. John contracts in his own way. The matter probably will be left over for the incoming minister to deal with.

W. T. White, of Toronto, had an interview with Mr. Borden today, and his name is coupled with the portfelio of finance. There is excellent ground for the suggestion. Mr. White was one of the famous eighteen Toronto Liberals who split from their party on the reciprocity issue. Hon. C. J. Doherty was here today also. There is evidently a big surprise in store. The dark horse is not mentioned.

Although the name of Sir Thomas Tait has been mentioned in connection with the chairmanship of the Transcontinental commission, your correspondent is in a position to state that Sir Thomas will be more likely appointed to the head of the board of management of the Intercolonial. He is more of an operative than a constructive railroad man. New blood may be looked for throughout the Intercolonial board.

garding the reception of the Duke of Connaught, and in all the arrangements so far Sir Wilfrid Laurier figures practically to the exclusion of every one. In their preparations the fact seems to be lost sight of that Laurier is a defeated premier. The famous "white plumes" will be much in evidence. The government steamer Lady Grey will meet the Empress of Ireland flying the royal standard below Quebec. As arranged so far, there will be on the boat the mayor of the ancient capital, Chief Justice Sir Charles Fitzpatrick and Sir Wilfrid Laurier. A royal salute of 21 guns will be fired from the citadel and the ceremony of swearing in is to be an elaborate function. Armand Lavergne was among today's political arrivals. Mr. Borden remain ed at home, where he met his carefully assorted visitors. It is expected that Mr. Borden will be able to submit the names of his ministers to Lord Grey on Monday. Galician Murdered.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 4.-Early this evening Joseph Poulski, aged 46, was stabled to death at 146 Higgins avenue by Walter Kouroki, aged 24. Both are Galician laborers and the affray took place in the rooming house as the men gathered for supper. The victim was stabbed several times and was hurried to the hospital, where he died. Kouroki ran away suggestion of violence.

Satisfactory State of Affairs of Canadian Pacific Railway Reported to Shareholders in President's Address

LARGE OUTLAY ON BRANCH LINES

Double Track to be Extended Westward as Rapidly as Quite Favorable

MONTREAL, Oct. 4-At the annual neeting of the shareholders of the Canadian Pacific Railway company today the report of the directors was unanmously adopted.

Sir William C. Van Horne, R. B. Angus, E. B. Osler and H. S. Holt were re-elected directors. Resolutions were passed authorizing the lease of the following lines: South Ontario Pacific railway, the Alberta Railway and Irrigation company, also the Esquimalt and Nanaimo railway.

The issue of four per cent. debenture stock on account of branch lines and extensions of branch lines as follows was approved: Moose Jaw southwesterly branch, Ker-Robert northbranch, Weyburn-Lethbridge Estevan-Fordward branch, Swift Current southeasterly branch. Swift Current northwesterly branch, Wilkie northwesterly branch, Wilkie-Anglia branch, Bassano-Irricana branch, Kipp-Aldersyde branch.

The issue of four per cent. debenture stock on account of steamships to the amount of £800,000 was approved. A resolution approving the general bylaws of the company was port the president, Sir Thomas G. Shaughnessy, said: "I have the honor to submit on behalf of the directors the thirtieth annual report of the company's affairs for your consideration and approval. The volume of passenger and freight traffic even exceeded our expectations, with the very gratheld for the past 15 years. From what ifying result that your gross operating revenue for the year was over one hundred and four million dollars. The additional acreage under crip year at the estimated average yield per acre will furnish a largely increased tonnage for the transportation companies, and although the quality of the wheat has been injuriously affected in some portions of Western Canada, where bad weather prevailed during the harvest season, it is apparent that the financial return to the producers will be very large indeed. "The expenditures in the year for the upkeep of the property were, as you no doubt noticed, on a quite liberal scale, and as a consequence your railway and equipment are in an excellent state of efficientcy. It is expected that the seventy-five miles of Georgian Bay and Seaboard railway hetween Coldwater and Bethany, Ontario, a portion of the shorter and more economical route betwen Georgian bay and the head of ocean navigation, will be completed this autumn, and such progress has been made with construction of the various branches in West-(Continued on Page 2.)

Vast Sum Sent Out to Secure Senator Stephenson His Seat, Without Question as to Methods

FURTHER TESTIMONY BEFORE COMMITTEE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 4.-Pay nents of money to workers in United States Senator Isaac Stephenson's campaign for the primary nomination in 1908 were made without any definite returns to the campaign managers as to what use the funds were put, according to testimony today before the senatoria committee investigating charges of bribery in connection with Senator Stephenson's election.

It was brought out that out of the senator's campaign fund of $107,793, money was scattered broadcast over the state to "organizers" who turned in no itemized accounts.

Senator Stephenson gave no attention to detailed expenses, it was testified, and his campaign managers paid out money liberally wherever it was thought it would increase the senator's pros-

AUSTIN. Pa., Oct. 4.—The first arrests for robbery following the destructive flowd of last Saturday were made today when two women were caught by a state trooper prying open the lid of a trunk. The women are Mrs. Peter Snava and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Joseph Shava. Their home was searched and furs and jewelry valued at $1,000 or more were recovered, many pieces being identified by the owners. Joseph Shava, husband of the younger woman, is accused of participating in the thefts but he has not been found.

With the bodies recovered there are but thirty persons unaccounted for. Six funerals were held today. DUTY OF PARENTS

Little Need for Juvenile Homes in This Were Well Attended to-Child Desertion Increasing .

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4.-Protection of the child was the keynote of the addresses delivered at the closing session of the American Humane association's convention here today. Dr. William O. Stillman, of Albany, N. Y., was re-elected president of the association, and the delegates tacitly agreed o hold the 1912 convention in London although the final selection was left to the board of directors.

In the work of child protection, the delegates were a unit in declaring that the greatest danger was in the home. E. W. Newhall, president of the Cailfornia Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, in his address "An Ounce of Prevention," said in part: "It is the home that must be corrected first. Give the child proper environments and let his elders teach him the right way by example rather than by precept. Juvenile homes are excellent institutions; but if parents did their duty there would be little need for such places." Child desertion is on the increase in the United States, according to the Rev. W. A. Robinson of Cir president of the Ohio Humane Society The speaker said there was a growing tendency on the part of parents to turn their children out into the world ill-fitted for the battle of life. He urged the passage of laws to correc

Mr. Churchill's Views

LONDON, Oct. 4.-Advocating selfgovernment for Ireland, Winston, Churchill, speaking at Dundee, exemplified his arguments by pointing to South Africa and Canada, where autonomy had bred loyalty. Canada, he said, upon the slightest apprehen sion that it would impair the empire had rejected a measure which many judges believed it would have been to heir material advantage to accept. He expressed gratitude for the splendid service which had been rendered the imperial cause by Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

GARRISON REPLIES TO WARSHIPS' FIRE

Preparations for Landing Italian Forces-Government of Turkey Reported to be in a Hopeless Tangle

DJERBA, Tunis, Oct. 4.-Tripoli has een bombarded twice by the Italian fleet. The first shot was fired shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday, Shelling vas resumed early today after a quiet night. Tshere was a steady but slow fire from the warships until dusk last evening, and shots came from the forts in the town. The French steamer Tafana took a delegation from Djerba to the scene of the hostilities. Among the party was the French consul-general, M. Leon, who made several ineffectual attempts to

The white buildings of Tripoli could be seen plainly, and the whole field of operations was unfolded before the watchers Officers of the Varez ex-plained that the hombardment had been delayed because Admiral Aubrey, commander of the Italian fleet, had received a request from the Tripolii garrison for another day of grace, and gave the sarrison an extra few hours The battleship Benedetto and the armored cruisers Giuseppe Garibaldi and Francesco Ferrucio drew up in a line opposite the harbor There were no small craft in the battle line, and the Varez stood off to keep back in-

There was no sign of life in the city, which appeared deserted, but the Turkish flag flew from the castle and the Kerkerische fort was shelled. Garrison Replies.

As the shells burst over Tripoli the garrison seemed to awaken. It returned the fire with vigor and energy. A heavy cannonade wes kept up on both sides for a few minutes, and then the firing became desultory. So far as could be seen, no warship was hit. Vice Admiral Faravelli at 4 o'clock ordered his ships to cease firing, to permit the town to surrender, but no sign was given and after a few minutes the ships began again. This time great havoc was wrought. Fortifications were razed, the forts suffered severely and the lighthouse to the northwest was destroyed by shells from the Garibaldi. There was no means of knowing what the loss of life was in Tripoli, but ample time was given to the defenders to escape, When the Tafana left the scene no landing had been attempted by the Italians, and it was feared that at night the town would be pilaged by nomad Arabs, who had been hovering in the vicinity for days (Continued on Page 2.

RAILWAYS APPEAL

Seek Suspension of Interstate Commerce Commission's Orders in Pacific Coast Cases

WASHINGTON. Oct. 4 .- The trans

continental railways asked the Interstate Commerce Commission today to suspend its orders in what are known as the "Pacific coast cases" involving the neaviest railroad traffic in the United States, until the commerce court has had time to enjoin the commission Neither the commission nor the court took any action. It was indicated to the commission by Attorney Norton of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, and Dillard, of the Union Painterested in the cases, that th railroads purpose to institute proceedings in injunction before the commerce court to restrain the Interstate Comeffect its orders, reducing the transcontinental freight rates.

The orders of the commission will not become effective until Nov. 15, and it was considered by the commission that the commerce court would have ample time, meanwhile, to pass upon the questions involved. Until the commerce court has taken up the matter, the com-mission will not grant the application of the carriers for a suspension of its

Mr. Borden Said to be Ready to Correct Injustice of Which Retiring Government was Guilty 1

PRESENT CABINET TO RESIGN TODAY

Sample of Laurier Ministry's Political Methods Appears in Niobe Accident—Repairs are Expensive

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 3 .- . . ile the cabinet situation is still principally surmise, and the air is full of unconfirmed rumors, one thing seems fairly well settled, and that is that the west will have an additional cabinet minister, if not two. Despite the rapid growth in population of the west Sir Wilfrid Laurier persistently refused to increase the west's cabinet representation. Hon. Frank Oliver made a strong appeal for an additional portfolio, but without avail. Mr. Borden has recognized the claim of the four western provinces. and it is said on the best authority that he has definitely decided to give the prairie provinces two, if not three, ministers and British Columbia one. It is generally believed that Mr. Borden has his cabinet now practically de-cided, upon, but is wisely keeping his Earl Grey left today for Montreal to attend a farewell banquet, and will be back in the city on Thursday, when Sir Wilfrid Laurier will likely hand in his resignation. Mr. Borden will probably be summoned that afternoon, and his cabinet is likely to be announced Thursday night or Friday. It is possible that the swearing in of the new cabinet will not take place until next week.

Costly Celebration It has transpired that the little cruise which the Niobe took to grace the Yarmouth home week will cost a good deal. The repairs to the unfortunate vessel will amount to upwards of $400,000. The Cornwall is more seriously damaged than the Niobe, and her repairs will be more expensive. This expense, however, will be borne by the British admiralty. The Canadian government is bearing the expense incurred at Halifax. It must be borne in mind that the Niobe was in Quebec, where she normally should have remained for some time, Just to oblige Yarmouth she was sent on a thousand mile cruise, itself an expensive affair, SCHOLASTIQUE, Que., Oct. 3 .-Andre Fauteux, the Conservative-Nationalist candidate in Two Mountains, has contested the election of Mr. Ethier, Liberal, who was declared elected by acclamation owing to certain technical irregularities in the matter of Mr. Fauteux's nomination papers. Quebec Company Taxation.

MONTREAL, Oct. 4.—The local hamber of commerce went on record this afternoon as in favor of a reduction or abolition of the provincial tax doing business in the province of Quebec. It was pointed out that the tax of 1-8 of one per cent on the paid up capital, $50 on branches in Montreal or Quebec and $20 on each branch in other portions of the province, militated against trade expansion and restrained commerce. The question was referred to the committee of laws to plan further action.

Mr. Samuel Hudson Meets Instantaneous Death at Union Bay Through Accidental Discharge of Gun

NANAIMO, Oct. 2.-News reached here today of a shooting accident which occurred at Union Bay yesterday, in which Samuel Hudson, an old-time and well known resident of that place, met instant death. It appears that deceased along with some friends was preparing to go on son or other the gun of a companion standing by was accidentally dis-The shot unfortunately struck Hudson in the neck and passed through the top of his head, completely shattering it. Death was instantaneous. Hudson was about 36 years of age and formerly resided in Wellington. He was well known in this district. Deceased was the eldest son of late Sam Hudson, who lost his life while assisting with a rescue party in the 1887 coal disaster here.

ern Canada that about 374 miles will be finished within the next couple of months and added to the mileage that is being operated. It will not only be desirable but necessary to continue to build year by year a good many miles of these branch lines to provide present and incoming settlers with transportation facilities-more miles, indeed, than you would have been called upon to provide had the Dominion and provincial governments, who have pledged their credit almost beyong the limit of prudence to assist other railway companies, insisted that these companies should open up new territory instead of building their lines through settled sections of the country where ample transportation facilities already existed.

The great dam at the Horseshoe bend of the Bow river south of Bassane is almost finished, and before the close of the season upwards of six million yards of material will have been removed in making ditches. This should ensure the completion of the work within the next two years, "After more than twenty years of immunity from serious accident of any nature to our fleet on the Pacific ocean we were so unfortunate as to lose the steamship Empress of China, wrecked on the coast of Japan on July 27. Another steamship to take the place of the Empress of China, but twice as large and costly, will be provided at the expense of the steamship replacing fund.

Good Business Conditions

"Very favorable business conditions exist throughout all the territory served by your lines in Canada, and there would appear to be ample justification for expecting their continuation. Captain Biscaretti himself commanded the Corazziere, which cautiously approached under the batteries, but these gave no signs of life.

The Corazziere entered the harbor and captured a Turkish yacht. Sailors from the wrecked torpedo boats, having reached the docks by this time, gave the atarm. The destroyer took the yacht in tow and was starting out of the harbor when the sailors from shore rallied and fired a volley. The Corazziere returned the fire, shelling several houses and the docks, killing or wounding many of the attacking party and causing indescribable panic among the sailors.

HUNDREDS LOST IN WLD STORM

Gale Sweeping North and Baltic Seas Causes Great Number of Disasters-Worst in Several Decades

HAMBURG, Oct. 3 .- Incoming steamers report having encountered in the North Sea the worst storm they have experienced in several decades. Several recked vessels were passed, the crews of which presumably were 'drowned. Shipping disasters also are reported rom the Baltic. CAMPAIGN FOR VOTES

Election for Vice-President of New Mexico is Exciting One.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 3.-Worried by nability to ascertain who was elected vice-president last Sunday, members of the central committees of the various parties have started a new campaign for votes in the electoral college on October 15. Hundreds of telegrams were sent today to party chiefs urging them to send in results of the election to give a working basis for this brief and somewhat irregular campaign. Though satisfied at the peaceable manner in which the election was held, party leaders reluctantly admitted that the failure to receive returns shows lack of organization.

An inevitable note of sadness permeated the natural spirit of rejoicing at the dedication service of St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, last night. The knowledge that it was the occasion of the last official ministrations of Bishop Perrin made such spirit of sadness ineradicable. It was as much a tribute to the respect and affection in which bishop-elect of Willesden is held in British Columbia as it was of thanksgiving for the new church that St. Mary's was thronged with a congregation far larger than the utmost stating accommodations could provide for. The new church, on Burns street, Oak Bay, is a really handsome building, constructed of British Columbia fir, and designed by Messrs. James & James, of 1007 Government street, Though the entire building, including the installation of light and heating cost only $6,000, Mr. P. L James is to be congratulated on having designed a church the simplicity of which is such that it only adds to its nobility and dignity of design. Any attempt at ornate decoration has been steadfastly avoided, and the result is that instead of the architectural excresences and conceits in construction that mar so many of the smaller churches, Oak Bay has a concentration and spiritual harmony Including the chancel, the new church dedicated to St. Mary is 75 feet long and has a seating capacity of two hundred and twenty people. For the present, it will be ministered to from the Cathedral, being really in the parish of Christ Church. The new parish will have as its first rector the Very Reverend the Dean of Columbia, The Reverend William Barton will also be associated with St. Mary's as priest-vicar. The two churchwardens are Mr. F. De Salis and Mr. Thomas Ashe. who will be supported by a committee consisting of Mr. J. J. Shallcross, Mr. P. L. James, Mr. Herbert Sprague, Dr. H, Rundle Nelson, Mr. H. P. Johnson, Mr. Henry Crane and Mr. J. S. Floyd, largely indebted for its first church. Impressive Service.

Fully 300 people assembled last night to take part in the impressive service of dedication, and all on leaving seemed unanimous in their pleasure and pride at the new house of worship in Oak Bay. The Right Reverend the Bishop of Columbia himself performed the dedicatory duties and took the occasion to deliver a striking and impressive sermon, the keynote of which was the insistence on the essential sincerity of public worship and a fearlessly expressed condemnation of those who dared to "lounge into the presence of God" with no thought of humility or of worship in their hearts. The lesson was read by Dean Doull and prayers recited by the Reverend William Barton. Besides the bishop, the dean and the Rev. Mr. Barton there were also present to aid in the ceremony of dedication the Venerable Archdeacon Scriven, the Revs. J. H. S. Sweet, Robert Connell, W. Herbert Mayers, F. Fatt, Hon T. R. Heneage and Mr. W.

H. Booth (lay reader). The full choir of Christ Church Cathedral led the singing and Mr. Johnson, the organist of St. Paul's, Esquimalt, officiated at the organ. At the outset of his sermon the Bishop of Columbia reminded his hearers that this solemn but happy function was the last act of his administration in the Diocese in which he has worked with such unflagging energy and whole-hearted devotion for the past eighteen years. "There can, said the Bishop, "be only one opinion of the beauty and useful-ness of this Church." The presence of fifty communicants that morning who came to receive the sacraments at the opening of the Church was earnest of its usefulness and future activity in God's service. He regretted that he could not consecrate it, as it had a debt still upon it, which however, can be paid off by next Sunday by the united effort of those present that night. The present building, adequate and beautiful as it was, would in the near future, he phophesied, be used as a parish hall when,

as he hoped and was confident, they may be able to erect a larger church.

Tonight, therefore, he had dedicated

"If God be our father," said the Bishop, "and we are His children, what more

I nough all belonged to the Father in earthly things, he continued yet the present brought by the child to the Father on his birthdaymorning bought perhaps from the little one's savings for twenty-five cents, was blessed. The church in which they were met for the first time that night had been dedicated to St. Mary. Though like all women born in sin, Mary was honored by us all because she was chosen of all women to become the mother of our Lord. Yet how many who looked round the church and were pleased with its beauty, realized that it was the house of God-that God was there.

Duties of Worship.

Speaking of the duties of worship and the necessity for sincerity of heart and solemnity of thought, Bishop Perrin made a striking denunciation of those who were too supercilious and egotistical to worship God, and of those among us who lounge in to His presence and were not even ashamed. In His name he besought those present to make their new church a shrine of sincerity—a holy of holiness for those who worshipped God with all their heart. Let them pray God to purify their intentions, stifle all. scandal, malice and uncharitableness, and destroy all evil desires and passions that sapped one's life and corrupted the soul. He defined the true friend as "one who knows everything about me that is bad, and yet loves me." "Conscious of our own miserable failures," concluded the Bishop, with instinctive eloquence "and we have failed-we come to Him with a broken and contrite heart to be strengthened and inspired anew by Him who is the source of all goodness, mercy strength and love." In the words of his text might, they will say that might "all things come of Thee, and of Thine own have we given Thee." The Dean of Columbia announced that for the present the services at St. Mary's would have to be confined to the Sunday celebration of Holy Communion at 8 a. m., and an ordinary service at 7 p. m. He hoped, however, to be able to arrange for a morning service shortly. The collection last evening amounted to over $150, which will be devoted to the building fund.

CUSTOMS RETURNS

Duty Collected Last Month Exceeded Only by Record of Last March—Heavier Than in August

The steady growth of the business of Victoria is indicated by the customs returns, the total receipts at the customs house being much larger last month than during the previous month, having exceeded those of August by over $64. 000. The duty collected during September was second only to the record of last March, when the largest figure was reached. The total receipts during September were $439,674.59, of which $175,790.84 was paid in duty and $263,-793 by Chinese. During August the duty amounted to $171,317. The record was reached last March which showed a total $192.294 and the highest total collected was during June when the Chinese revenue of $360,052 swelled the returns to $538.858

Officer on Trial.

VALDEZ, Alaska, Oct. 3-The trial by court martial of Lieut. Samuel C. Orchard, until lately disbursing officer of the Alaska road commission, will probably end on Thursday, all the witnesses having been examined except one for the defense, who will be put on the stand on that day. Orchard is accused of being short in his accounts to the extent of $12,508. He was on the stand in his own behalf yesterday and today and endeavored to explain the apparent shortages as due partly to errors in bookkeeping and partly to over-payment to the Northern Commercial company He admitted that three checks for small amounts had been drawn against the road fund for his personal use in emergencies, but said that these amounts had been restored to the fund.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 3 .- Gov. Woodrow Wilson was the predominating influence in today's Democratic state convention, held to adopt a party platform. The resolutions were eulogistic of the administration of Gov. Wilson and only the governor's earnest appeal prevented his endorsement for the presidential nomination. Gov. Wilson suggested that the resolution in question be laid on the table. He added that it was contrary to the general election law for a state convention to endorse anybody's candidacy The convention adopted his motion.

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 2 .- Shortly after the arrival of a train from New Orleans at midnight and the disembarkation of a number of strike breakers, one of them was killed and another seriously wounded.

One of the men guarding the shops of the Southern Pacific railroad, J. J. Piepes, of Athens, Tex., is dead. Another, S. D. Crockett, of Athens, Tex., was shot and seriously wounded. Gordon Knight, of Athens, special guard, was badly cut and bruised, and Captain S. D. Sisk. special guard, battered. This is the result of a melee that followed the disembarkation shortly after midnight of strike-breakers brought here from New Orleans to replace employes in the Houston shops of the Harriman lines now on strike.

Conflicting statements are made as to the responsibility for the affray.

KALISPELL, Mont., Oct. 3 .- Fire tonight destroyed the mills of the Northwestern Lumber company situated a mile north of this city, together with the planing mill adjoining. Starting from unknown origin in the engine room, the fire shut off the steam supply to the pump house and crippled the mill's water supply. Several hundred volun teers formed a bucket brigade and saved the offices and lumber yards containing 17,000,000 feet of lumber. The plant narrowly escaped a similar fate last week but the water system saved it. The damage is estimated at $100,000 which is only partly covered by insur ance.

The Colonist.

Sent postpaid to Canada and the United Kingdom. THE PREMIER'S PROMISE The election of Mr. H. S. Clements, the Conservative in Comox-Atlin is now conceded, and when the official count is in his majority will be a handsome one. British Columbia, according to the promise of her premier, the Hon. Richard McBride, is sending a solid representation back to Ottawa to support the administration of Hon. R. L. Borden. No one knows the temper of the people of this province better than Premier McBride. When dissolution was announced he stated, and throughout the recent election campaign he stood unflinchingly to his belief that British Columbia would return seven Conservatives. Many others, and among them those prominent in the Conservative ranks, believed that the best this province could hope for was a recording a word of protest. representation of six members on the Conservative side of the new federal house. Premier McBride knew better. He has accurately gaged the spirit of devotion to British institutions which prevails in this section of the Dominion. And in connection with the fulfilment of his latest promise a tribute, most highly earned, is due to the premier. For nearly a decade past he has been the outstanding figure in the life of this province. He has earned fame as a wise administrator who is building up his country on the broad foundations of assured prosperity. He has become known as a staunch friend and he has won a popularity which is the envy of other provincial premiers. Many factors, all of which call for admiration, have gone towards the making of his successful career, but there is one, perhaps more than others, which deserves especial

In the death of Dr. Frank Hall Victorians have lost both a physician and a friend. His skill as a surgeon was widely recognized, but he possessed other qualities which endeared him to a large section of the community. It would be impossible to attempt to describe his many kindly actions; but it is safe to say that there are hundreds in the city who have been restored to health through services rendered by Dr. Hall for which he nevel received any payment. He was one of the members of his profession who sank all other considerations in the alleviation of human suffering. He was ready at any or all moments to hurry to the bedside of sickness when he knew full well that he could hope for little or no remuneration for his aid. His was a kindly nature and his path through life was strewn by actions which those who participated in them will never forget. His death leaves a gap in the medical fraternity of the city which it will be difficult to fill, but it will be more difficult still to supply the place which he occupied in the hearts of the large circle of his friends. Our sympathy is extended to his relatives in their sad and sudden bereavement.

pupil in the Entrance Class to have this brought home to one." In this particular sentence the final "one" is surplusage, but this is by no means an isolated instance of how this word is overworked. "One does not wish one to be told this, does one?" is a sentence from a recent novel and is no doubt supposed to be very much English as frequent use of the word "one" seems to be regarded in certain social circles as the supreme test as to whether "one" is of la creme de la creme. The use of the word in this sense is simply a sort of fashionable slang. In the first sentence quoted the word is used as a synonym for "a person." Let us amend the sentence accordingly, and it would read: "A person only has to be and etc. to have this brought home to a person," which would certainly not pass muster. The word "one" may for convenience be used as a contraction for oneself, and there are times when it is a very useful contraction. Thus: Let | early date.

one take it home to oneself. We are not sure, however, that this is any nore forcible or explicit than 'Take it nome to ourselves." Let us take another persons would think this very elegant out it would be better to say: "One does not like to think so, do we?" and this is the reason: When we say "One does not like to think so," we simply express "does one" we invite the persons addressed, to assent to what we say, and distinctly individual word improper is really inelegant to associate yourself with another and speak of both as "one." If you mean that you yourself do a certain thing say "I do" or "I love" or as the case may be; if you mean that you and another or others do a certain thing say "we do" or "we ter is not of very great importance as long as it is confined to people who live artificial lives. Artificial English may be all right in their case; but when it comes to newspapers playing the part of verbal contortionists with the word "one" under the impression that it is elegant to do so, we feel like

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE

What does it all mean? Victoria is the scene of active improvements in all lines of municipal work. Nanalmo's streets are torn up by gangs of workmen and other gangs are laying down permanent pavements. We have just come back from a motor run to New and came by way of Hastings street and the River road and from the time we crossed False Creek until we got back to the bridge again, after a run of about thirty miles, there were gangs of workmen everywhere improving old roads in some cases, but in most instances making new ones. In New Westminster itself there are miles of street all torn up preliminary to permanent paving. What does all this preparation mean? What are we getting ready for out here in this southwest corner of British Columbia?

I find myself wondering if there ever was anything like it before. I recall the days of preparation in Seattle and Tacoma, but they were nothing like what we are seeing in this province. We are witnessing in British Columbia a demonstration of public faith in the future of the country such as perhaps the world has never seen elsewhere. These great public works are costing millions of money, and nearly all of it is being success, and it was his knowledge of paid out for labor. Hence whatever ul timately may become of it, it goes into ince which enabled him to predict the active circulation in the first instance. result of the election here with such | Most of the work is permanent. Shaughnessy Heights present a scene that is calculated to set the most sluggish mind actively at work thinking. Two years ago all that area was primeval forest. Now there are residences almost palatial in character, by the score. Of course there are very extensive areas that are yet unimproved except so far as cutting down the forest is concerned, and these, I am told, are to be put on the market at $15,000 an penetrable forest, now a residential district at $15,000 an acre. Just what does this mean? Over at New westminster today at the session of the Tax Commission we had a protest against the valuing of farm land at $20 a front foot where it borders on the Fraser two When the commission sat in Vancouver it had a complaint from a man whose farm land fronting on the Fraser was assessed at $60 a front foot. When he was asked what he would sell it for, he declined to fix a price, but he was quite sure, as was the farmer in New Westminster, that to tax farms by a frontage "she ought to be spoke." Indeed the rate per foot was something new. And so once more I ask, what does it mean? Some one else must find the answer,

Telephone Company Contends that Legislation by Initiative and Referendum is in Violation of Constitution

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The task of attempting to put an end to all initiative and referendum legislation in this country was begun today in the supreme court of the United States. Counsel for the Pacific States Telephone and Telegraph company filed a brief attacking a taxing law of Oregon because it was enacted under an initiative clause of the state constitution, which is alleged to be in violation of the federal constitution.

It was urged that the failure of the company to have a hearing before the raising of its taxes by the initiative method placed the company at a disadvantage with others taxed after being heard by the state legislature. In this way, it was claimed, equal protection of the laws was denied. The initiative amendment and the Oregon ax were denounced as violative of the right of each state to a republican form of government which was guaranteed by the federal constitutior. It was contended that in legislative assemblies the minority rarely, if ever, failed to moderate the wishes of the majority, however powerful, but that government by direct legislation was government by brute force. Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, was quoted as having said that a government must have its lawmaking body, as "it can no more make laws through its voters than it can make laws through its newspapers."

tion was a check against corruption of legislatures. "It were better." the telephone company contended, "that the struggie against a business corporation should continue than that it should be erad!cated by theories and practices of government revolutionary in characte and founded on error or injustice.' Replying to the contention that the initiative was a reserve power for rare use, the attacking brief quoted from the election records of Oregon to show that in 1904 two measures were on the ballot; in 1906, 11; in 1908. 19, and in 1910, 32.

Over One Hundred Thousand Dollars Needed to Secure Seat for Senator Stephenson

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 3 .- Aside from hearing testimony that followers of United States Senator Robert M. La and that they are the political foes of Senator Isaac Stephenson, the senatorial committee which is investigating charges that Senator Stephenson's election was procured through bribery, devoted its attention today to digging into campaign expense accounts.

Much of the necessity for dispensing an amount as great as $107,793 to obtain the nomination for Mr. Stephenson at the primaries in 1909 was declared sition exerted by Senator La Follette's followers. To organize each of the 2.200 precincts in the state it was necessary to spend money liberally, the witnesses said.

All four of the Stephenson campaign managers, E. A. Edmonds of Appleton; J. H. Puelicher, of Milwaukee, J. A. Van Cleave, of Marinette, and Rodney Sackett of Berlin Wis., testified that the funds were legitimately used. Senator Stephenson's slogan, oft repeated to them when he gave them money, according to their testimony was:

While the entire amount expended by Senator Stephenson in the primary campaign was declared to have been $107 .-93, no one of the witnesses admitted having handled the entire amount. Edmonds, who was in charge of the headquarters in Milwaukee, testified that he personally handled not more than $5000. Peulicher said he merely was custodian of the fund and the extent of his

One of the most curious problems in connection with the habits of wild animals is the suddenness with which they sometimes reappear in considerable numbers in localities where for many years owing to altered conditions, they have been only a tradition. I have known this to happen in the case of several species in various places, but I do not recall any instance of animal migration that afforded me so much novel pleasure as did the unexpected return of the coon to its longforsaken haunts in the mixed woods on my cousin's estate. These woods, mostly of fine old timber, covered an area of some 6,000 acres, and had in past time harbored not a few coons, but promiscuous shooting and the cutting off of extensive tracts of neighboring woodland had long since caused the coons to disappear. For more than fifteen years not one had been seen within a radius of twenty miles, and the conviction of sportsmen was that the circle of total extintion was constantly widen-

The fallacy of this belief was first proved by my cousin's oldest boy Jack, a promising oung Nimrod of fourteen. This chip of the old block had gone one morning with a hound called Poker to shoot rabbits, and at about midday my cousin and I, lounging in the gun room, saw him coming across the lawn bendng under the weight of a large animal, which first glance we mistook for a fox. Then the ringed tail established identity, and we hastened outside to extend those hearty felicitations to the lucky sportsman which the novelty of his achievement required. Poker meantime stood around and thumped his tail against our legs, looking as pleased as a man might who bagged his first grizzly. From rabbits to coons was a big jump upward for Poker, and he meant that we should appreciate the greatness of his new dignity, even if he had to thump realisation into us.

At first we were inclined to regard this coon as a lone example of that parlous spirit which sometimes moves an animal, even the shyest, to forsake the comparative security of it saccustomed haunts for the dangerous, but alluring novelty of unfamiliar pastures. We soon learned differently, however. On the following day Jack went out with Poker and a prize beagle, the result of his morning's work being another full grown coon, which, like the first, was a female. The news of this second achievement, following hard on the heels of the first, naturally excited the dormant coon-hunting proclivities of the neighbors, and soon hunting by daylight became general. Within a week eleven coons had been secured, and as the supply was evidently doomed to be speedily exhausted, my cousin, who had set his face against molesting the animals until they had established themselves, decided to organize a coon hunt that should at least have the benefit of all those spectacular effects which are essential to the proper pursuit of

The organization of a coon hunt is simple. A certain number of vigorous young men, who would rather fall over logs in a black swamp than lie cosily in bed, a good hound or two, a hurricane lantern, and a 38-calibre revolver, complete the outfit. The revolver is better than a gun for rough travelling at night in the thick woods, as the members of the party are prone to alternate between all fours and supine, while the lantern is useful in keeping the party together. Without a light a capsized man, making an unpremeditated acquaintance with a woodland mudhole, or an invisible tree, is more likely to lose his temper than the accusing eyes of his fellows.

The evening we chose for our hunt was warm and cloudy, and before we had been out alf an hour it began to rain. Simultaneously Poker gave tongue on a hot trail. But beween us and him lay a long, narrow strip of bad swamp, with a treacherous bog brook running through the middle of it, which would have to be crossed if we went forward. Behind us were the comforts of home. Some of the less enthusiastic of the party, therefore, were for beating a retreat; but the more sporting spirits pushed on, and the quitters fell in behind. Straight across the swamp we went, sometimes up to our knees in the water and mud between the tussocks, and, finding a narrow part of the brook, we assayed to jump it. The first man came down in the middle, and the rest of us waded. Poker all this time had been getting farther away, and by the time we were in the woods again he was to be heard giving tongue faintly on the other side of the Prospect Hill. Then for a moment all was quiet, and someone muttered that, as the dog was at fault, we had better go home; but ere such craven counsel could prevail the hound was heard "barking up," followed by the un-mistakable interval of "circling," and immediately the whole party set off helter skelter through the black and dripping woods.

By this time, however, we were so wet that it was a savage pleasure to defy the elements, and in the renewed excitement of the chase ialls, bumps, and the lance thrusts of snag branches hardly merited attention. We took a straight course up over the hill (a stiff climb, but a short cut, and, we rushed pell-mell down the other slope, through a belt of burnt timber (where the black came off freely on our hands and faces), we could hear Poker talking to that coon in tones ranging from threats to caiolery

The coon, of course, was up the worst tree in the country—a giant hemlock, one or two that stood with interlocked branches on either side of a cuniform border. On the anex of this rock we set the lantern, and then stood around it to hold conclave as to how to get at the coon. In the inconsequent south it is customary to cut down five dollars' worth of tree to secure fifty cents' worth of coon, but here such a heroic measure was not to be thought of. Two courses were open to us; either we could climb the tree or wait for daylight; and we chose the former.

As a boy I had rather fancied myself as a climber, but, although I had developed an extra inch or two of leg since those days, I had evidently lost ground in other respects. However, I managed to reach the first branches, and after that the work was easy. But the canopy of a hemlock tree is dark at midnight! I searched through it industriously for ten minutes before I discovered the coon, stuck like a limpet on a sagging bough. About this time, too, I discovered that I had left the revolver below. To descend for it was not my intention; once up that tree was enough. So, calling out to those on the ground, I attempted to shake the coon from its perch. I presume the coon laughed. Anyone who has tried to shake a branch 9in, thick at the butt will appreciate the futility of my efforts and follow the coon's example. But with half a dozen sarcastic friends standing below I failed to see the humor of the situation. Not to be foiled, however, in desperation, I crawled out along the limb, till it sagged perilously, and then essayed another shake. Crack! It had taken me five minutes to climb that tree; I came down in the fractional part of a second.

It is always a shock to my vanity when I remember that, until the coon was despatched, no one took the trouble to ask how I was. Fortunately, I was all right. But, if the coon had been as badly winded by the fall as I was, he could never have put up the gallant fight he did. One advantage I had over him, however—he had to be carried home, while I walked.—Lincoln Wilbar.

INTERESTING NARRATIVE ON LAKE

from my line of soundings, the average depth right across was 10 feet.

The water, too, was beautifully clear, cool and sweet, and, so far as could be told from taste alone, without a trace of salt. Contrary also to the experience of Captain Freydenberg, we found the deepest water (average 11 feet) round the islands, the next deep (average 9½ feet) between these and the coast of Seyorum, and the shallowest (average 8½ feet) between them and the mouth of the Shari. On several occasions the men could not use their 17-foot poles, and had to take to paddles, but for no long distances. This probably only indicated small depressions.

On the whole the portion of the lake traversed, produced the impression of a splendid waterway. Should the Northern Nigeria railway ever be continued to Bornu, which, considering the immense trade of the latter province and the easy country through which the line would run, would surely more than repay expenditure, there seems no reason why a regular service of steamers should not be kept up from Seyorum to Fort Lamy on the Shari, and the 4-mile-distant German capital of Kusseri. By this means letters and merchandise would reach the Central Soudan in a less number of weeks than it takes months at the present day, and the magnificent cotton-growing territories of Eastern Nigeria and Franch Central Africa would be opened up. Such a scheme might perhaps be worth the attention of the British Cotton-growing Association. Though it would be a matter of regret to some should the waters lose their mystery and become a mere commercial high-road.

Possibly the strange fascination which Chad has exercised over so many is due to the fact that she seems never to give the same impression to any two of her visitors, and shows such varied characteristics in different parts. Surely she may be called the Cleopatra among lakes, for, so far as can be judged at present, many years will come and go before exploration can make her known to us, or "custom stale her infinite variety."

CURIOUS EFFECTS OF MUSICAL VI-BRATIONS

"Experiments were made in England to show that a beautiful wave structure can be imparted to the surface of mercury by the vibrations of a tuning-folk, and that even the surface of solid lead which has been subjected to similar vibrations possesses a structure resembling that of a vibrating surface of mercury. . . .

"Iodid of nitrogen, a black powder, is one of the most dangerous of all explosives. When dry, the slightest touch will often cause it to explode with great violence.

"There appears to be a certain rate of vibration which this compound can not resist. In experiments to determine the cause of its extreme explosiveness, damp iodide of nitrogen was rubbed on the strings of a bass viol. It is known that the strings of such an instrument will vibrate when those of a similar instrument, having an equal tension, are played "In the present case, after the explosive had become thoroughly dry upon the strings, another bass viol was brought near and its strings were sounded. At a certain note the iodide of nitrogen on the prepared instrument

"It was found that the explosion occurred only when a rate of vibration of 60 per second was communicated to the prepared strings. Vibration of the G string caused an explosion, while that of the E string had no effect.

"The question is often asked, What force least expected does the greatest damage to yet."

buildings? One architect's answer to this question may be a surprise to those who do not understand that it is the regularity of vibration that makes it powerful.

"I venture to say,' remarked this architect, 'that you would never suspect that violin-playing would injure the walls of a building. Yet it certainly does. There have been instances when the walls of stone and brick structures have been seriously damaged by the vibrations of a violin. These cases are, of course, unusual, but the facts are established.

"The vibrations of a violin are really serious in their unseen, unbounded force, and when they come with regularity, they exercise an influence upon structures of brick, iron, or stone. It follows, of course, that there must have been continuous playing for years to cause the loosening of masonry or to make iron brittle, but it will do so in time." "—Scientific American.

fifty schools. The military forces consist of natives officered by Europeans. Local revenues are mainly derived from custom duties, and there are native hut and poll taxes. The sale of alcohol to natives is restricted, and in some areas entirely prohibited. For 1908 the general hudget of the separate colonies amounted to 6,434,985f (about £257,400), and the State subventions to 600,000f (£24,000). The estimated expenditure of France on the French Congo for 1910 was no less than 6,422,000f.

The total exports were valued in 1909 at 10,915,000f, and the exports at 17,280,000f. The latter comprised rubber ivory various woods palm oil, palm kernels, coffee, cocoa, kola nuts, and other produce. The tenure of conceded land by concession companies now depends on actual cultivation or exploration of the soil. The Central African telegraph line connects Beazzaville with Loango and is in communication with the English Atlantic cable, whilst wireless telegraphy is also soon to be employed for the purpose of intercommunication. A line is being laid to connect Brazzaville with Stanley Pool, in the Belgian Congo, and ultimately with the German East African telegraph system at Lake Tanganyika. In fact, science and enterprise may be said to be actively engaged in opening up a region where, if climatic conditions are not entirely favorable to Europeans, natural compensations in many directions are not want-

LUXURY OF A ROMAN VILLA

Since the days when Horace delighted the world with his epistles and satires a special glamor has hung round the neighborhood in which were situated the farm and villa given by the discriminating generosity of Maecenas to his friend, and an immense deal of labor and learning has been expended in order to ascertain with certainty the exact position of this delectable spot.

The approximate site was settled during the second half of the eighteenth century by a French abbe, Mgr. Capmartin de Chaupy, who spent a considerable part of his life in visiting the many places up and down Italy which claimed to be the actual ground praised with so much fervor by the great poet. But Mgr. de Chaupy was able to prove with certainty that the only situation which answered entirely to the description given was about eight miles from the modern Vicovaro, the Vicus Varia that Horace mentions as his nearest town, at the foot of which runs the little river now called the Licenza, a name which is obviously the Digentia of which Horace speaks, and which passes close to the little ancient Roman town of Mandela.

The Italian Government has initiated systematic excavations to bring to light all that has been left by past vandals, who as late as seventy years ago did not hesitate to carry off the beautiful marbles and statues lying about among the ruins in order to burn them and turn them into lime. From what has already been found it would appear that the historic villa was in the middle of an extensive garden, and was surrounded by a crypto portico, which protected it from the excessive heat of summer. Besides, there was an artificial lake in the middle of the garden 350 yards square and six feet deep, standing in front of the house, fed by the waters of the river Licenza through a most ingenius hydraulic system, the pipes of which have been found almost intact.

The hydraulic works extended to the thermae or baths, which latter date from the time of the Antonines, and of which the remains have also been found next to the villa on the left, with all the different rooms for bathing, cooling, or resting after the bath, showing the extreme of luxury which the ancient Romans enjoyed even in their country houses.

Magnificent mosaic pavements, fragments of beautiful frescoes and stucco work, and marble heads—one of which represents Faustina the younger—have also come to light. The body of the villa is composed of reticulated work, which is characteristic of the finest period of Roman architecture, in which the exquisitely regular form of the stones gives the appearance of a network to the walls, and which must have been particularly difficult to carry out in the hard limestone of the neighborhood. Meanwhile the excavations are being continued with great patience and care.—London Standard.

Life On a Boer Farm

In Health Culture an American woman gives the following gloomy account of the home life in what was Dutch South Africa. It is interesting if only it serves as a contrast to the darkest pictures that have been painted of the lonely life of Canadian women:

The farmer and his family lived chiefly on sour bread and sour skimmed milk. I was, therefore, hungry most of the time, and the ripe figs hanging in clusters were pretty alluring. After pushing back the skin of the fig and enjoying the soft fruit with its tropical taste, I had a refreshing night's sleep, only to awaken in the morning pretty well scared, for my tongue was so swollen and black that I could not talk.

The Boer wife laughed and enjoyed my discomfiture and explained that the skin of the fig had numerous fine thorns and I had not been careful to remove it when eating.

When I told the farmer's wife that I liked buttermilk in quantity, I noticed that I had a cupful or so given me, but she threw it by the pailful to the pigs. They were of far more consequence to her than I, for they would stay longer with her, and were her familiars. I was not.

Then, again, when I was hungry for butter on my bread, a white clammy substance made from "sheeptail fat" was handed to me, and I could not allow the farmer's wife to see me quiver. She sold her butter in the village close by, at seventy-five cents a pound, more or less. Sour bread and green strawberries (plenty of them) were considered good enough.

This Boer family was one of the wealthiest of their kind. There was not a ripple of fun or exuberant life in anything but the livestock. Conversation was a dead language—unknown. The women are mute beings, accepting their destiny with a deep stillness. The wife gives of her strength to the limit, and dies after giving birth to a dozen or more children, to make way for wife number two, who gives another dozen children to her country. Her adobe house, with its dirt floor made of anthill clay mixed with beef gall, is a chamber of horror to an American traveler.

The farmer depends upon his ten or eigh-

The farmer depends upon his ten or eighteen children, of all sizes, to help him. A Kaffir as an employee is undependable as the wind that blows. Yet that Kaffir is the hired man in the mines and elsewhere in South Africa. The white man as a day laborer is a general failure. He can not be worked in droves like the Kaffir from the interior, whose language, in clicks and vowel sounds, is hardly human.

The Boer is not long-lived. One seldom met an aged Boer of the old stock. Oom Paul Kruger, who was seventy-five years old when he died, was an exception. Hatred toward the Uitlander and the lust for gold and power was what kept the fires of life burning at white heat within him.

To stem the elements alone in Africa takes the stoutest heart. Fevers assail the discouraged and underfed home boy. The easily forded streams become rivers, like swirling Niagaras, in a few hours, and the terrific thunderstorms paralyze one sensitive to electrical influences.

There is no pretty, little, far-off streak in the sky which the amateur photographer can catch on his film, but the air is charged with electricity so appalling in its violet-hued and deep orange earth-bound clouds that one has to come to a complete standstill, whether walking or riding in the open veldt, so as not to attract the ribbonlike lightning playing around him and venting its fury on any moving object.

NEARLY 50,000 LIVES SAVED

The claims of the Royal National Lifeboat Institution upon the public support are emphasized by the latest report issued regarding the philanthropic and beneficent work of this organization. During the past year no fewer than 767 lives were rescued by the lifeboatmen around our coasts, bringing the total number of lives saved since the establishment of the institution to 40,304.

From time to time the nation is stirred by tales of splendid heroism shown by the lifebeatmen around our perilous coasts, but it is not generally known, however, that this indispensable adjunct of our great merchant service is maintained under considerable financial disabilities. The expenditure necessary to equip and support the 284 lifeboats belonging to the institution greatly exceeds the assured income. Furthermore, the demands upon its resources are constantly increasing, largely owing to the fact that motor lifeboats are gradually replacing the sailing boats-which were built at about one-fourth the cost. A greater range of action is secured by the motor boat service, with a consequent reduction of risk to the lives of the trews and of those they rescue. It is unnecessary to commend the worthiness of an object patronized by King George, and which bears so intimately as the Royal Lifeboat Institution does upon the interests and welfare of the people and the traveling public. The appeal now being issued for the necessary funds to carry on the praiseworthy work of the institution will therefore, it is hoped, meet with a generous response. Contributions will be welcomed by the organizing secretary, Mr. F. Northcott, Hamilton House, 155 Bishopsgate, London, E.C.

SICK OF IT

It is not always good to be the pet of the ladies. This is the lesson that was learnt by little Archie, aged nine, and with a lace frill round his neck, at a children's picnic.

Little Archie had long golden curls, and a velvet suit, and the ladies just loved him. Teatime came, and they all besieged him. Cakes they gave him, and ices, and wafers, and chocolates, and buns, and lemonade. They were most pressing, and Archie liked it.

A little later, however, Archie went into a quiet corner to think, and there, with one hand on his head and one on his sash, a dainty lady found him.

"Why, Archie, pet," she exclaimed, "what's the matter? Haven't you got all you want?" "Yes, I've got all I want, please," murmured Archie, ever polite; "but, please, I don't want all I've got."

OVER THE WIRE

Everybody who has used a telephone knows exactly what is meant by the following description of the way a certain person talked over the wire.

The man at one end had become thoroughly exasperated, and asked his friend if he was losing his hearing.

His friend was an Irishman, and replied, "I can hear you all right till you begin to talk, and then I can't understand a word you say."

EDUCATION IN BUTTONS

"A client of mine had his experience of that," said the taciturn solicitor, stirred to reminiscence by a mention of Dotheboys' Hall. "Anglo-Indian had sent his boy home to live at a rectory. Paid £300 a year for it. Food, lodging, education—all told. Couldn't bring up the boy in India. Paid for two years, and then he came back to England, and thought he would like to see how his son was getting on.

So he went down to the rectory, rang the ball—and the bell was answered by his son in buttons."

WEBBED FEET THIS WAY

The weary African traveler had been riding his still more weary horse almost all day in the rain, and had only one more river to cross to get to his destination.

On arrival at the river he asked a small Dutch lad if it was still fordable.

"Yes," was the laconic reply.
Thereupon the traveler guided his horse innocently in.

After about five minutes of struggling and buffeting about, staggered out minus his horse, on the same side as he went in.

"I thought you said that this river was still crossable?" he asked the youngster in a spluttering rage.

tering rage.
So it is," was the reply. "My mother's ducks crossed it only a few minutes before you tried."

Bore—"T see you're rather busy now. I'll look in again when you have a couple of hours to spare." Assistant Editor (wearily)—"Ah, thanks. Then you'll be present at my funeral."

Landlady—"The price of this room is two guineas a week. Will that suit you?" Student—"Perfectly." Landlady—"Then you can't have it. Anyone who meekly accepts such an exorbitant price obviously does not

Willie—Pa!
Pa—Yes.

Pa—Yes.
Willie—Teacher says we're here to help others.

Pa-Of course we are.
Willie-Well, what are the others here for?

The two old friends met after a separation of ten years. "I declare, you've kept your youthful looks to a surprising extent," said one

"Thank you," said the other man. "You've done pretty well, too. You know you expected to be absolutely bald long before this, like your father, instead of which I really believe you've as much hair left as I have, if not more."

"Absurd!" said his friend. "It can't be. Let's count it!"

French Visitor—"I call to see Monsieur Rollard." Maid—"You can't see him, sir. He's not up." French Visitor—"Vat you tell? I come yester, and you say, 'Can't see him, because he is not down.' Now you say, 'Can't see him, because he's not up.' Vat you mean by all dat? Ven vil he be in ze middle?"

May and Molly are sisters. But they look upon life from very different standpoints. May, aged five, was watching the foam in the wake of a Liverpool-Birkenhead ferry. "Isn't it lovely?" she exclaimed to Molly. "It's just like the creamy lace on a wedding dress." "Yes, it does look nice," answered her younger sister; "like the froth of a bottle of ginger beer."

Said Mr. Bullion to his intended son-in-law—"Have you fixed up the date for the wedding yet, young man?" "That," replied the tactful young man, "I shall leave entirely with Mary." "And what kind of an affair is it going to be? Do you want it done in style, or would you prefer it to be a quiet show?" The young man considered a moment. Then he said: "I think, sir, I would leave that entirely to Mrs. Bullion." "Um! And what is the amount of your income?" "Oh, that, sir," answered the pleasant young fellow. "I—I leave ittentirely to you, Mr. Bullion!"

DR FRANK HALL DIES SUDDENLY

Well Known Physician and Surgeon Succumbs Early Yesterday Morning - Death Came Without Warning

Dr. Francis Walter Hall, one of the aders of the medical profession of Victoria and indeed in the province, died suddenly yesterday morning at 7.30 o'clock at his residence, 729 Yates street, from hemorrhage of the brain. In an hour after being stricken he had suc cumbed. Until the moment he retired after returning from a midnight prousual robust health and gave not a sign of illness. Shortly after 6 o'clock yesterday morning the other occupants of the house were awakened by a cry from Dr. Hall's room, They entered to ascertain the trouble and speedily realized that Dr. Hall was seriously ill. Dr. George Hall, his nephew, and Dr. Hart were summoned and every effort was made to assist the sufferer, but without success. After lingering for about an hour Dr. Hall quietly passed away. For the past twenty-six years Dr "Frank" Hall, as he was popularly known to a host of friends, had been leading practitioner in Victoria. Indeed he had the distinction of having bee in active practice longer than any other doctor, with possibly one or two exceptions. His unqualified efficiency as surgeon and physician was widely recog nized and of late years his practice had been a remarkably wide one. His name was a household word among all classes. rich or poor. His activities extending over nearly a quarter of a century had made him a wide circle of friends, who will sincerely regret to hear of his sud-

His success was due to his remarkable capacity for work and his personal ability in his profession. Self-reliant to a degree he was at the same time possessed of those attributes which make for success in the great profession of medicine, and the position which he occupied in the medical profession of Victoria is ample testimony to his great qualities of mind and heart. The news of Dr. Hall's sudden death came as a great shock to his many friends. On the evening preceding his death he had entertained some friends who were about to leave for the south and he appeared to be in his usual good health. On his return from his midnight professional visit he appeared to be in excellent health and gave no indication that his death would so soon result.

A Self-Made Man

The late Dr. Hall, who was fifty years of age, was the youngest son of a large family. He was born in Ontario at Richmond Hill, and his early years were spent on the farm. He received a public school education and as a young man went to Detroit to make his way in the world. For some time he taught druggist. Afterwards he entered the Detroit College of Medicine from which he graduated with honors in 1883. After a short time in practice in Louisville Kentucky, he came west to Victoria in 1885 and had resided here permanently ever since.

Of a quiet and somewhat retiring disposition the late Dr. Hall took little part in public affairs. Indeed the great practice which he built up required all his talents and attention. He possessed an extremely wide circle of friends very many of whom can vouch for his generosity and kindliness of heart.

In 1897 the late Dr. Hall entered into partnership with Dr. E. G. Hart whes the latter first came to Victoria and for ten years the association continued. To his immense capacity for work Dr. Hart attributed in no small measure the success attained by Dr. Hall. Of late years he was associated with his nephew, Dr. George Hall.

Generous in the extreme, Dr. Hall was almost idolized by his patients. Outside his professional duties almost his one interest was in dumb animals. He loved horses and dogs, and at one time possessed some of the best local trotting horses. His property interests in the city and elsewhere were extensive. He was a member of a number of local fraternal organizations, notably the Knights of Pythias, Fraternal Order of

Dr. Hall is survived by a widow and one daughter residing at the family home on Yates street. Four brothers, Mr. John Hall of this city; Dr. Thomas Hall, of Westminster, B. C.: Mr. Duncan Hall of Chilliwack; and Dr. W. R. Hall, Chatham, Ontario, and one sister, Mrs. John Johnston, of Toronto, besides two nephews, Dr. George Hall and Mr. Henry C. Hall of Victoria, who are left to mourn his death.

The funeral, which will be held from the church and residence, has not been arranged pending information from the East regarding the arrival of relatives. Tributes By Associates.

Tributes to Dr. Frank Hall were feelingly made by some of his medical colleagues, who sincerely mourn his death. Dr. Hall was a superior surgeon in his profession, and his loss will not be made up," said Hon, D. J. S. Helmcken, Dr. R. L. Fraser said: "Dr. Hall's death has made a great gap in the medical profession in this city among us all, and particularly to the poor, whose friend he was in their darkest hours, with no thought of remuneration. He was a man, self-made and of more than ordinary, ability, having educated himself by his own genius and practiced with men who had had superior education. He was not raised with a silver spoon, so to speak. He was a physician of more than ordinary ability." Dr. E. C. Hart: "The late Dr. Hall will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends. He was highly thought of by all. His intimate friends, however, were few, and it is to them that his kindly deeds are known. The key to his success was his enormous capacity for work in almost every one of the twenty-four hours of a day."

tion for the new two-story brick office and store building to be erected by Mr. R. T. Elliott, K. C., at the northeast corner of Cormorant and Government streets. The new structure will have a frontage of twenty feet immediately north of the present building, occupied as an Oriental depot, and running back will form an "L" to Cormorant street, the space between the present store of the corner and the market building b ing fully taken up. There will be three stores on Cormorant street and one on Government street. The upper will be occupied by offices. The plans have been prepared by Mr. C. E. Watkins. The contract has been let Messrs. Luney Bros. The cost of new structure will be in the neighborhood of $25,000. Extensive alterations to the Rus louse, Johnson street, will be made by Messrs. Clark & Morris, who have tak en over the premises. A new front will be installed and interior alterations made, including a large billiard roon in the basement. The new premises will be modern in every respect. The cost of the work will total about $8,000.

CHILDREN VICTIMS OF HUNTER'S SHOT

Saanich Boy and Girl Receive Part of Discharge from Gun-Escape Without Serious Injuries

A shooting accident involving minor injuries to the two young children of Mr. J. Cage, the manager of Mr. Percy Winch's farm at Saanich, took place yesterday morning in the immediate vicinity of Sidney. The shot was fired by Mr. A. A. Sears, formerly Captain Sears of the wrecked steamer Iroquois from a distance of twenty five yards from the highway. Fortunately for the children, a girl aged seven and a boy aged nine, but few of the flying shot struck them, and then not in portions of their bodies where serious results would accrue. There was but a fence between Mr. Sears and the little ones, of the usual variety found around land in the rural sections and the two children could not have been wholly obscured from his view. Under the law shooting at such a short distance from a roadway and in its direction is prohibited. The girl was struck in the calf of the right leg by two pellets and in the hip by one. The boy was struck over one of his eyes by a single shot. The occurrence was witnessed by Mr. Bishop, who was driving along the West Saanich road at the time.

The two children were walking from the West Saanich road towards the schoolhouse Mr. Sears was shooting on Knowles' farm adjoining and was about twenty-five yards from the road when the children turned off the roadway to make towards the school.

Mr. Bishop heard the report and then the screams of the children. He quickly leaned to the roadway and made to wards the children. Mr. Sears and he helped the children into the wagon and drove them to the former's home. Dr. W. Gordon Cumming was summoned. He abstracted the shot and dressed the wounds, which were but slight.

RETIRING OFFICER HONORED BY FORCE

Inspector Redgrave Recipient of Token of Esteem from Members of Department on Eve of His Departure.

As a slight mark of the esteem in which he is held by his fellow members of the department, a department from which he is retiring after 23 years of faithful service, the members of the local police force on Monday evening presented Inspector Stroud L. Redgrave with a handsome gold watch and chain. The presentation, which took place in the barracks, was made by Assistant Chief Palmer, who referred to the long and honorable service of the retiring inspector, recalled some of the incidents in police work in which the latter has been conspicuous, and on behalf of himself and the other boys in blue, wished Inspector and Mrs Redgrave and their family every good fortune in their new home Inspector Redgrave feelingly replied. He referred to his long association with the force and thanked the members for their kind remembrance. His associations with every member of the department had been, most pleasant, and he regretted that he was not to continue to don the uniform for a longer period. He also on behalf of Mrs. Redgrave expressed his thanks. Three rousing cheers and as many "tigers" expressed the good wishes of all present.

suitably engraved with the monogram of the recipient and beneath, the words, "From the Victoria City Police force, 1911."

Retiring Inspector Redgrave and his family leave this afternoon for Seattle en route to Los Molinos, where he has extensive property interests and where they will in future reside. Inspector Redgrave is succeeded in office by Chief Sergeant Walker, who will hereafter wear the inspector's badge. Inspector Walker assum his new duties on the first of the month. The vacancy in the sergeant rank has been filled by the appointment of Constable Wesley Harper,

BULLETS PLY IN STRIKE RIO

Frain Bearing Strike Breakers Made Target by Crowd in Southern City—Reports are Conflicting

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 3.-In a fight the freight yards of the Illinois Central at McComb City between strik ers and strikebreakers, several person were seriously injured, one probably fatally, Governor Noel ordered out troops at 7:30 o'clock tonight, and two com panies are now hurrying to the scen Details of the fight are difficult to obtain. The special train bearing the strike-breakers continued on its journey to New Orleans, where it is believed no one was killed. Citizens of Magnolia say that when the train passed there at full speed every coach window was broken, and no one was visible at the openings, the strikebreakers lying prone on the floor to escape bullets Several hundred shots were exchanged, and among the strikers there were numerous bruised and broken heads. Many of the wounded were carried to the headquarters of the strikers and physicians summoned. It is reported that several will die. The fight at McComb occurred at the freight sheds, about a half mile south of the depot, closely following the first encounter of the afternoon, in one man was seriously injured.

The train bearing the strikebreakers had, pulled down to the freight shed and was standing on a sidetrack. More than 100 strikers assembled, words were exchanged, and it is claimed a strikebreaker hurled a brick among the strik-

Immediately a fusillade of shots followed. The strikers opened fire on the coach windows at which the heads of strikebreakesr could be seen. Several fell after the first volley.

The occupants of the coaches returned the fire through the windows, keeping well scattered. Occasionally when a strikebreaker bolder than the rest raised his head above the danger wall he was greeted with a fusillade of bullets and missiles. The fight raged fully twenty minutes. Finally the engineer of the train made a dash for his locomotive, managed to get aboard while the bullets were flying thick about his head, opened the throttle and pulled out at full speed. The train did not stop at any point south of Mc-Comb, going through Magnolia and Osiyaka at full speed.

Realizing the gravity of the situation and fearing the strikers would at tack the machine shops where 80 strikereakers are barricaded, citizens deserted the streets early in the evening.

Gives Different Report. NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 3 .- Super ntendent E. A. Clift, of the Illinois Central Railroad Company, denied tonight that any men aboard the special train which was attacked at McComb City were either killed or injured. The train arrived at New Orleans at 10:15, bringing 300 strike-breakers, 125 having been left at McComb City for duty in the shops there. The train stopped at the commissary, Mr. Clift said, where the men got food. He said hundreds of men appeared, armed with shotguns and rifles. Mr. Clift said the company's officials had not been able to verify reports that the strikebreak-

OGDEN, Utah, Oct. 3.—Superintendent owlands, of the Southern Pacific, said tonight that the company would make no ef-fort to put on men in place of the strikers fort to put on men in place of the strikers until after tomorrow noon. After that hour the men will be considered off the company's rolis and others will be employed.

Some of the trainmen say efforts are being made to have members of the Trainmen's Union aid in the inspection of trains, and that in consequence of this action there is a growing danger of an extension of the strike to the traffic department.

This rumor is not well confirmed at this time, and according to the officials of the railroad, there is no probability of the strike spreading. A recruiting station for strike-breakers was opened here today.

was opened here today.

Stop. Hiring Men.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—No more men will be hired at present to fill the places of strikers on the Illinois Central roads, according to a statement issued today from the office of Vice-President Park.

Enough men were at work to keep up light repairs indefinitely, it was said, and the manufacture of numerous locomotive and car specialties would be discontinued. Mr. Park said:

"None of the men who went out have returned to work and on receipt of belated orders a few additional men have gone out at different points, but considering the new men who have been employed we have more men at work today than yesterday. We have stopped hiring men for the present, and are resuming normal conditions.

"We will not require as many men in the future, for the reason that a full force of future, for the reason that a full force of future, for the reason that a tun-men has supplied us with mechanical equip-men has supplied us with mechanical equipment in advance of our requirements. Five hundred employes of the Burnside shop were not molested tonight when they left work. Several hundred strikers gathered around the plant, but did not offer to molest the strike-breakers.

Striker Killed McCOMB, Miss., Oct. 3.-Lee, Haley, aged 45 years, a striker, was shot and killed early today. He leaves a wife and two children. His slayer is unknown.

Story of Fight McCOMB, Miss., Oct. 3.-State troops patrolled the streets here tonight folowing a fight between a trainload of strike-breakers and citizens and strikers of McComb City late today. A special train on the Illinois Central, bearing 450 strike-breakers, was riddled with bullets encounter. One of them may die. Numerous shots were exchanged, and the belief is expressed here that several strike-breakers were wounded. This the railroad officials deny. Before the ar-

occurred when the train pulled into the yard, where it was soon surrounded by armed citizens who claim they went there to prevent a repetition of alleged indignities charged against the strike breakers by other towns. The resulting fight was kept up until the train got onto the main line and with wide-open throttle departed for New Orleans.

South Sea Murders SYDNEY, N. S. W., Oct. 3 .- News ias reached Sydney of the murder of several Europeans in the South Sea Islands, some of the victims being cooked and eaten by the murderers. The Rev. Frederick Daniels, was killed Queensland missionary, in the Solomon Islands. He was conducting a Sunday service in the oper air when suddenly a shot was fired by native who was concealed in the scrub. The bullet struck the mis sionary in the breast. He fell backwards murmured "Lord, save me," and then died

It is not supposed that Mr Daniells was shot because he was a missionary "The natives," says an officer of the nission, "take a pride in getting scalps, and the murder of a white man is a special glory Mr. Daniells s the first white missionary to b killed in the Solomon Islands."

From New Caledonia comes an ac count of the butchering of a family of three-father, mother and child The name of the victims was Devaux There is no clue to the perpetrators of the crime. The bodies had been treated with great brutality.

The French warship Kersaint has brought news of an outrage at Maewo: one of the northern islands of the New Hebrides group, French residents, named Gerolino and Raleu, having been killed by natives and afterwards eaten.

GRAND JURY COMPLETES WORK

Assizes Nearing End — Last Case Set for Today-Marshall is Found Not Guilty and Acquitted

The grand jury completed its la ors at the assizes yesterday, and its presentment was rem vesterday afternoon and the jury was discharged by Judge Morrison. The present-ment was a short one, telling of visits made to the provincial jail and home for aged and infirm. Conditions were found satisfactory. The jurors recommended that changes be made in the culinary department at he fail a large range being substi tuted, and at the home for aged and infirm they recommended that more modern lavatories be substituted for these now in use, and more help se cured.

Hillis Marshall, son of a milkma resident near Departure bay, who was charged with arson at the assizes, it being alleged that he set fire to barn at Departure bay on August 21, was found not guilty. Evidence was given for the prosecution that Marshall went from the hotel about, 11 p. m., stating he was going home and went into a barn nearby and fired it. For the defence witnesses told of conversations with one of the wit nesses for the prosecution in which he stated he had intended to burn out a candy seller, but the wind was not in the right direction, Mr. Moresby, who appeared with Mr. Beaver Potts of Nanaimo, for the defence, in his address to the jury held that the chief witnesses for the prosecution had concocted a story against Marshall.

Today the trial of J. Sullivan, former member of the crew of the wrecked steamer Cottage City, who is charged with stealing stores from the wreck and selling them at Campbell river, will be commenced

In the country court yesterday be fore Judge Lampman the case of Richards vs. Carroll was heard. This was an action for wrongful dismissal and also for the detention of plaintiff's trunk and personal effects by defendant. The case which was partly heard some time ago was conluded yesterday when judgment was given for plaintiff for $15 and costs. The case of Rex vs. Alfred, an apceal from the police magistrate was set for tomorrow.

Death in Train Wreck

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Oct. 3. and Eastbound Atchison, Topeka Santa Fe passenger train No. 10 was derailed on a curve near Laguna M., 66 miles west of here today Engineer James Englehardt was killed, and Fireman Charles Geinn probably fatally injured. The entire train except the Pullmans left the rails None of the passengers were injured. The work delayed traffic 12 hours Soft track is believed to have caused the accident.

New Bails for E. & N .- Because o the constantly increasing volume of traffic over the E. & N. railway it has been necessary to proceed with the laying of the heaviest type of rails through out the system at a more rapid than was proposed. Yesterday Mr. H. E. Beasley, superintendent of the road, reported that twenty-five miles of heavy rails had been received and th ework of replacing those at present in use would e undertaken without loss of time. I also is stated that the grading of the Cowichan lake extension is going ahead as quickly as could be expected. As many men as are available are engaged and, if the contractors are not ready specified, the delay will not be long.

Reported Bombardment of Tripoli and Landing of Italian Force-Movements of Opposing Fleets

The last official word from Tripol omes from Vice-Admiral Faravelli who notified the Italian governmen that he had given the Turkish commander until noon Tuesday to surren

A special edition of the Rome Tribuna published the statement that the Italian cruisers entered the harbor of Pripoli on Tuesday afternoon, parded the forts and governor's castle made a landing and hoisted the Italian flag.

The most important naval capture o the war so far is that of the Turkish transport Sabah, with a Turkish gen eral, a large consignment of troops and much ammunition aboard. Corfu reports that the Duke of the Abruzzi, in command of the fleet off Prevesa, threatens to bombard that slace. The Porte's appeal to the Powers has been answered by the Powers that they cannot offer mediation until a basis of settlement is suggested on the lines of the Italian demands.

Late reports from Constantinople say new cabinet has been nominated, and that it will continue the policy looking loward mediation.

Two Turkish battleships and cruiser have been sent to reinforce the squadron in the Dardanelles, Turkey, it is believed, has aboard two Russian steamers now held up at Suez. This tends to confirm the Vienna, dispatch that Turkey has ordered the Yemen expeditionary force to occupy the coast off the Italian colony of Erithrea with the support of a squadron of warships.

Italy's Expeditionary Force. LONDON, Oct. 3 .- The passing of another day leaves the Turko-Italian war without further development. There is no confirmation of the reported bombardment of Tripoli, which appears unlikely to have taken place, as it will be several days before the expedition ary force is ready to leave Italian shores.

Apparently the Italian government is apprehensive that the Turkish fleet will be able to hamper the passage of transports, and great precautions are being taken. The expedition will start from ports in two seas, rather than from South Italy and Sicily in order to minimize that danger, and evidently Italy is in no hurry to get the expedition on the way. Another reason for the delay is the continuance of the Turkish cabinet risis. Clearly the old ministers are remaining in office against their will, and are unable to formulate or agree upon any definite line of action. It is even reported that the minister of marine has resigned because of flagrant pedience of his orders to the fleet Meanwhile the pourparlers of the Powers continue without intermission. It is said Russia is supporting Gernany in efforts to bring about peace.

Allowed to Pass. 'AGOSTA, Sicily, Oct. 3,-An officer of the destroyer Garibaldino, one of the blockading fleet, which arrived here to recoal today, said:

"The Turkish steamer Derna escaped the blockade and reached Tripoli because our instructions were to let her pass. Her landing of arms became a casus belli and was expected to result in opening hostilities.

The Derna could have been captured two hundred miles from Tripoli, where we discovered her flying the German flag; she had changed her name to that of 'Eitel Friederich.'" "The Derna was proceeding at ten enots, and her people seemed to be under the impression that she was escaping from us, but we followed her with our lights out. The battleship Napoli, the night before her arrival at Tripoli, flooded her with searchlights. The Derna hoisted the German colors and gave a false name, and was or dered to proceed."

Replies of Powers

CONSTANTINOPLE. Oct. 3.-Replies to the porte's appeal have been received from most of the powers, but they give little information. In fact the powers say they will be unable to offer mediation until the porte sug gests a basis of settlement on the lines of Italy's demands.

The Austrian ambassador had a long interview with the grand vizier, and it is announced that the Russian ambas sador will visit him tomorrow, but it is questionable whether Said Pasha will be able to remain in office another day. Turkish telegrams report that an Italian warship sank two motor boats near Hodeida, a seaport on the Red Sea, and pursued the Turkish destroye Peikishewuit. A large number of volunteers, both soldiers and sailors, well officered, dearted for the Dardanelles, where the larger portion of the fleet is waiting orders. Two battleships, the Messudich and the Assar-I-Tewfik, and the torpedo cruiser Berk-I-Satvet have sailed from the Golden Horn to join it. It is understood that Austria has given a guarantee to Turkey that the status quo in the Balkans will be maintained.

Mehmed Pasha, son of Sheikh Abd-El-Kader, the last Algerian sovereign, has asked the sultan to allow him to return to Tripoli for the purpose of rousing all mussulmans, in Africa to repel the Italian invasion The grand vizier's inability to form a cabinet is causing the sultan great worry. Hilmi Pasha resolutely refused to enter the cabinet, as it is lacking a well defined policy. Since Said Pasha took office the min istry has had three all-night sittings, in addition to prolonged deliberations persons during the day, and the physical strain present.

is beginning to tell on the aged vizier.

The porte has notified the embas-sles that neutral cargoes in Italian bottoms will be respected, with ception of contraband articles.

ondents Detained LONDON, Oct. 4,—The Times correspondent at Maita, in a despatch printed here today complains that a large party of Italians, French and English newspaper correspondents bound for Tripoli are being detained at Malta by the sanitary authorities because they ducked at Italian ports where choiera is believed to have prevailed. The correspondent adds that two Turkish sailing vessels have been seized by the Italians in Palermo harbor. Another dispatch to the Times from

St. Petersburg says the Black Sea exporters, alarmed by rumors that Turkey would proclaim coal contraband of war, have held a conference with representatives of the Russian of commerce, who decided to telegraph Constantinople and Rome, requesting to be informed as to what articles would be declared contraband. - Cruiser's Prize

TARANTO, Italy, Oct. 3 .- The Italian armored cruiser Marco Polo brought here today the Turkish transport Sabah, which she had captured. Excitement prevailed during the disembarkation of the prisoners. Further details of the attack made by the Italian destroyers Artigliere and Corazziene upon the Turkish torpedo boats Hamidyeh and Alosagut, show that when one of the torpedo boats sank, the Artigliere sent a boat and rescued the crew as well as the Turkish flag. Threatens Bombardment

CORFU, Oct. 3 .- Vice Admiral Duke

f the Abruzzi has sent an ultimatum to the executive of Prevesa, threaten ing a bombardment unless he surrendered the Turkish warships which have taken refuge in the harbor Governor's Report

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 3 .- The governor of Tripoli in reporting the situation at the blockaded town to the Portre says that when the commander of the Italian fleet sent him notification that preparations to attack the town were completed and demanding its surrender the governor replied that he could not give a definite answer until he had consulted his government. The fleet commander immediately declared that he would not wait, whereupon the governor responded:

"You can attack. We will defend ourselves. An irade nominating the new ministers has been prepared and after its issuance the new cabinet will send either a note to the powers or a circular to the Ottoman ambassadors setting forth Turkey's point of view in the war with Italy.

Russian steamers with Turkish troops aboard bound from Yamen for Constantinople, will be stopped at Suez, as they do not dare to continue up the Mediterranean.

WAR IS LIKELY TO BE SHORT

Furopean Observers Expect that it will Soon End in Compromise—British and German Mediation Efforts

DON. Oct. 2 .- From general apses to be the shortest and most less in history. Thus far its dismishing characteristics has been the of fighting, and with Germany ng as peacemaker, it may end befighting takes place, is concluded that no mediation will accepted by Italy until she has acuplished the military occupation of Tripolitan coast. After that nego ations will be much easier, and are unlikely to be successful if Turkey ill accept a money indemnity for Italy establish herself in Tripoli as Great itain did in Egypt.

Tripoli has not been bombarded, and not likely to be, if the Turks do not ppose the landing. Warlike operae capture on either side of a few all vessels. It is now admitted from e Turkish side that Prevesa in Euroan-Turkey, is not occupied. Italy's nouncement that she has no intention carry the war into European Turkey ill do much to allay apprehension Turkey's ministerial troubles have ot yet been solved, but generally the ituation looks more hopeful.

No Bombardment Yet ON BOARD ITALIAN WARSHIP OFF TRIPOLI, SUNDAY, OCT. 1, 11 m.-By way of Syracuse, Sicily, Oct. -No bombardment of Tripoli has yet taken place. The Italian consul is authority for the statement that the ombardment will begin three days fter the notification, which was given Saturday. Correspondents are under the strictest censorship, and are not permitted to disclose the names of the blockading ships, nor the military movements. Of all the Italian colony in Tripoli, there remain only two monks and two nuns, who are caring for invalids in the nospitals. Turkish soldiers guard the Italian consulate and Italian business houses. When the last Italian colonists left the consulate on Saturday, where they had spent the night under protection of the German flag, the streets were strongly lined with Turkish troops. Crowds of natives had gathered, and they hooted and jeered angrily. There were evidences of violent rage on the part of the Arabs, and it is probable that only the presence of the soldiers prevented a massacre. The German consul escorted the refugees

Immediately after the refugees left the shore, a boat from one of the cruisers took an officer ashore who notified the authorities that the blockade would be begun at noon and the bombardment three days later.

No Intervention.

CHIASSO, Switzerland, Oct. 2.—Advices emanating from official circles in Rome say reports that the powers are contemplating intervention in the war between Italy and Turkey are premature. It is added that a majority of the powers when advised that war had been declared notified Italy that they would observe neutrality. It is said that Great Britain and Germany, through their ambassadors at Constantinople, are sounding the Turkish government, on a compromise proposition, but that Intervention by the powers will be impossible of accomplishment until the occupation of Tripoli by Italy has been announced.

From information received in Rome doubt has arisen there as to the accuracy of the report that the entire Turkish fleet has entered the Dardanelles, and it is assumed that the report was sent abroad to deceive the Island when its line of the Turkish sheirs.

tered the Dardanelles, and it is assumed that the report was sent abroad to deceive the Itslians, the idea of the Turks being to cause them to relax their vigitance and cease their chase, of Turkish warships that have not yet reached a zone of safety.

Other reports from Rome indicate that Italian government circles are entirely indifferent as to what is termed "the hostile and perhaps interested adverse comment of certain newspapers" on Italy's movement in the Adriatic sea against Turkey. At the navy department it was asserted that Italy's diplomatic preparation for the military movement against Turkey was assented to by the powers, and that Italy had respected the conditions under which she received the conditions under which she received this assent. It was added that she would continue to respect these terms, which in-clude limitation of the zone of conflict to Tripoli and the avoidance of carrying the hostilities into European or Asiatic Turkey.

LONDON, Oct. 2.-A Lloyd's despatch from Constantinople says the Italian steamer Ernesto Ilardi has been captured and the crew taken prisoners. A later despatch of Lloyd's says that the Turkish bark Constantines, from Nice, for Smyrna, has been seized. A despatch received here from a news agency from Vienna, says "Count Arenthal, the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, has informed the Italian minister that any further action by Italians on the Albanian coast will make it necessary for Austria to despatch warships thither. Count Arenthal asked the ambassador how he reconciled Italy's naval movements in the vicinity of Albania with her declarations that she was keeping her hands off the Balkan peninsula.

DEMONSTRATION ORCHARDS The : Provincial Horticulturist Returns

From Tour of Inspection.

Mr. R. M. Winslow, provincial horticulturist, has just returned from an extended official tour, in the course of which he visited and inspected various suggested sites for the two new demonstration orchards which the idepartment; plans to establish in the Columbia-Kootenay valley, and in connection with which an official announcement may be looked for in the very near future. He also attended a considerable number of the Interior district, fairs, including those at Athalmer, Revelstoke, Salmon Arm, Vernon Kelowna and North Vancouver assisting in the fruit judging and generally assisting the managements in the promotion of interest and knowledge as to how to make good fruit pay in British Columbia. Taking the exhibits at the inland fairs as an object lesson, Mr. Winslow finds the display somewhat limited, as a result, chiefly of the backwardness of the season, and the exhibited fruits short on color. Vegetables on the other hand, were conspicuously good, those from the Armstrong district most particularly. One circumstance of much encouragement was that a very large proportion of the packed fruits exhibited this year, had been packed by pupils of last year's packing schools conducted by the government, these having proven an immense stimulus to better and more modern packing. The packing on the whole was notably good, some of it rating as national show packing.

BLACK SAND IN NORTH Princess Beatrice Returns With News of

Queen Charlottes

From Queen Charlotte islands and way ports the steamer Princess Beatrice, Capt. Locke, reached port yesterday morning with a good complemen of passengers, bringing news that work has been started on some black sand deposits at Cape Fife at the north of the Queen Charlotte islands. The pros pectors claim to have located gold in paying quantities there. The Princess Beatrice also brought news that Alex Paterson and Wm. Harris had a narrow escape from death as a result of an explosion of dynamite at the Apex group near Lockport. Paterson was hurled in the air and had his head badly cut. Prospectors who returned to Queen Charlotte City reported that John Gill and John Wilson, who had been prospecting at the southern end of Moresby island have located a rich discovery of silver ore there.

The steamer brought news that on the last trip of the Prince John a large quantity of building material was taken to the new lighthouse at North (Langara) island. The name of this island has been changed recently by the hydrographic department at Ottawa and it is the intention to erect one of the

Laurier Government Reported to be Endeavoring to Commit Successor to Three of its Projected Works

OTTAWA, Oct. 2 .- While the Laurier government is to go out of office in a blaze of hypocritical protestations, amidst the fireworks of devotion to the chief with the white plume, amidst the loud protestations that the outgoing government would magnanimously observe its own precedent of 1896 and refrain from appointing a few senators and judges, there crops up evidence that it is carrying out a scheme to spend millions of the taxpayers' money after it has been defeated.

There are three sets of contracts to which it is trying to commit its victorious successors. These are:

1.—The Quebec terminal vote of $745,000 and a total expenditure of two millions; also involving profitable alterations in land values in certain parts of Quebec.

2.-The St. John, N. B., dredging contracts at Courtenay Bay. The original appropriation was twelve millions, of which $5,000,000 has been voted, 3.—The Intercolonial extensions, which will involve a very large sum. The Quebec terminals case is very glaring. Here is its condensed his-

Hon. George P. Graham. On that report the cabinet acted and His Excellency signed the document. Mr. Graham is not a member of parliament. He cannot explain or defend his course in parliament. He has no constituents to whom he can give an account of his proceedings. Yet he commits the country to an expenditure of two millions. He commits the incoming government to measures drawn up by its political opponents and designed for the benefits of its political opponents. Could constitutional indecency and Here again a defeated minister is undertaking executive acts, the carrying out of which will devoive upon the successors of his ministry. Finally, Mr. Pugsley's five million dollar dredging scheme in Courtenay bay is in the wind. Here is an enormous expenditure which the minister is trying to force through the council. So far it does not seem to have been passed.

The incoming Conservative government may be relied upon to repuddate all such contracts. The scheme has no precedent in British constitutional practice. It is unthinkable that a government British constitutional practice. It is unthinkable that a government will assume responsibility for acts of this sort perpetrated by a hostile predecessor in the very act of dissolution. The Laurier government is getting ready to hand in its resignation. Owing to the enforced absence from the capital of Earl Grey, who will spend Tuesday and Wednesday in Montreal, the formal act of actual resignation is deferred until Thursday. Mr. R. L. Borden will be summoned on that date, and the members of his cabinet will, it is expected, be sworn in on Saturday.

Rev. Canon F. G. Scott Says Result of Election is Birth of Nationhood of Canada-Effect on the Empire

Rev. Canon Frederick Goerge Scott, of L. O. Matthew's church, Quebec, one of the best known of Canadian poets, is at present visiting Victoria, and is the guest of Very Rev. Dean and Mrs. Doull.

Born in Montreal of English parentage, there are few men in the public eye to whom the welfare of Canada is dearer. He had the recent political campaign so much at heart that he declared in an interview given the Colonist yesterday, that he had not been completely happy for months until he arrived in Calgary on the fateful 21st of September, and heard the election results declared, which sounded the death-knell of Reciprocity.

"Possibly no battle England has ever fought has been fought with greater consequence to the British empire than the silent contest at the polls on Sept 21," declared Canon Scott. "Canada," he went on, "has now become a nation, and President Taft, like President Kruger, deserves the thanks of Canadians for having contributed in a way he did not expect to the building up of the British em

He expressed the indignation he had felt on receiving a letter a few days ago from one of his sons in the east, telling him that in some quarters there the Liberals were trying to still up racial feeling by telling the French Canadians that they had stultified hemselves by voting as they did. He regards this as a mean, underhand way of trying to stir up trouble, and leclares that the attitude taken by the French Canadians in the recent campaign was a triumph of Canadian nationality, and the spirit of tolerance towards them will be greatly fostered thereby.

Like so many others Canon Scott was much impressed by the plucky way in which the French Canadians came forward in the recent elections; when they proved that the future welfare of their country was dearer to them than any sectional tie. In speaking of this Canon Scott declares that their attitude recalled to him the

It was Cenon Scott who in February of this year preached a strong sermon denouncing reciprocity, which was much criticized. The attack was probably the more unexpected as it has never been the custom of the Anglican church to take a public stand on questions of the day, unless, of course, some grave moral or national issue has been involved. But that was an appropriate occasion for the church to speak with no uncertain voice, was felt by a large number of people who knew how much the preacher had the issue at heart. Needless to say, however, it aroused a storm of criticism.

A Well Known Poet. But Canon Scott is better known as a poet than as a politician.

Among his best known works has been "Samson," which the London Speaker declared to be "the finest American poem that has appeared in years," his other works include a dramatic life story entitled "Etten Hazlewood," the second edition of which appeared in New York in 1893; "My Lattice and Other Poems," in 1894; "The Hymn of Empire," in 1906; and a recently published poem on reciprocity entitled "The Undermining of Canada."

Canon Scott is also the author of two hymns in the present Canadian Hymnal, which some two years ago replaced the Hymns Ancient and Modern in the Church of England in Canada.

It is interesting also to know that in But Canon Scott is better known as a poet

Minister of Education Announces that Money will be Asked for Building Purposes Next Session

VANCOUVER, Oct. 2.-The setting aside of the sum of $1,000,000 of next year's provincial revenues for putting up the first building of the university at Point Grey, the intention to ask for 50 more acres of land for the erection of professors' residences and other buildings; the early ap pointment of a principal of the university by the selection of a man "who had been too wrapped up in his work to have had any time for the making of money," and who would be given a salary which would free from all financial worry; and the assurance that a near relative of the king would lay the corner stone of the university were the intimations given by Hon. Dr. Young, minister of education, at the formal opening of Latimer hall.

Before outlining some of the plans of the government in regard to the education department, the minister spoke of the establishment of the Point Grev university, which, he said, was now fairly endowed. Originally he had asked for 250 acres of land, and he had eventually got 177 acres as the site, which was worth from $2,000,000 to $2,500,000. After the architects had got along with the plans he found that with these 177 acres there was no room for professors' residences and other buildings, and he put in another request for a further 50 acres and he was going to get it.

Today he had given orders for the advertising for tenders to clear the land, and he had approached the premier for the money to start on the new buildings. The premier had promised him that in this year's estimate $1,000,000 should be set aside out of the revenue to enable him to put up his first building.

The man who would be responsible for the working of the university would be its president, and he wanted that man to have a say as to the arrangement of the buildings, as to the selection of the sites, and to advise the government as to the selection of the men they would have. In the appointment of such a man money would be no object. They would appoint a man who would be able to feel that he was under no necessity to worry as to his financial matters. The department intended to pay that man well, with the full knowledge that the laborer was worthy of his hire. They would get a man who was wrapped up in his work that he would have had no time to make money. It was his intention to go in about ten days' time to consult with the leading educational

Some people who had interested themselves greatly had suggested that the king might come here to lay the corner stone. If this did not occur, they at least had the assurance from His Majesty's ministers that near relative of the king would perform the function.

FALLS TO DEATH

Young Aviator Wao Made Record by Flying Across Rocky Mountains Is Killed at Spokane.

SPOKANE, Oct. 2.-Fresh from his triumph of last Saturday, when he crossed the Rocky Mountains in a flight from Helena, Cromwell Dixon. 19 years of age, Curtiss aviator, fell to his death from a height of about 100 feet in his initial performance at the Spokane interstate fair grounds this afternoon. A mere handful of spectators witnessed the accident, and thousands who were craning their necks for a glimpse of the aviator, did not know of the tragedy enacted just out of their range of vision.

Dixon was removed to the Emergency hospital on the grounds, where he died 45 minutes after the fall. Witnesses saw Dixon bank his planes for a turn, and it is thought a sudden gust of wind coming up through a deep cut of the Northern Pacific tracks, immedi ately below him, caught the planes. operator could recover himself he was plunged head first to the track, When picked up from under his wrecked machine it was apparent his injuries were fatal. He was rushed to the hospital, but nothing could be done to save him. Death was pronounced due to concussion of the brain and hemorrhage. Dixon's leg also was broken, the bone protruding through the flesh. His face was battered almost to a pulp. When rescuers got to him Dixon was lying under his machine, which was smashed to pieces. He was unconscious and remained so till he died.

It is difficult to realize that the vast and rich territories of the Congo basin, now the subject of delicate and even perilous negotiaons between France and Germany, were in the memory of men still in early middlean absolutely unknown region. Until ley descended the great river, the second st in the world, from Nyangwe to the Atnothing was known of its course beyond a hundred miles from its mouth, and nmense hinterland, with a population estimated from eighteen to twenty million inabitants, living in a land of tropical luxuriance and full of minerals, was a blank upon the map. Although the mouth of the river was scovered either in 1482 or 1483, by the Portuuese explorer, Diego Cao, nothing further was known about it until the beginning of the ninteenth century. The first real attempt at is exploration was made by order of the Brit-Admiralty, when Capt. J. K. Tuckey, R.N., ushed upstream as far as Isanglia, and died here. Livingstone reached Nyangwe, on the ualaba, one of the great tributaries of the ongo, in March, 1871, but thought the river was a tributary of the Nile. He was deterred rom following the course of the stream by e reports from the Arab traders, and wrote, have no fancy to be made into 'black-man's ot' for the sake of the Congo."

The time, however, was at hand when the ecret of the great river was to be revealed. Stanley, on his return from the expedition to find Livingstone, was full of the idea of further exploration in Africa.

How the Congo Was Discovered

In his book "Through the Dark Continent," he tells the story of how his famous journey across Africa and down the Congo to the sea came to be undertaken. He called one day at the office of The Daily Telegraph, and was liscussing African exploration with a member of the staff (now the managing editor) when Mr. Edward Lawson, the present Lord Burnham, came into the room.

"Stanley has just been telling me," said the gentleman with whom he had been talking, "of the unfinished tasks in African exploration which Livingstone has left behind him. The outlet of Lake Tanganvika is still undiscovered; we know scarcely anything of Lake Victoria, and, therefore, the sources of the Nile are still unknown, and, moreover, the western half of the Continent is still a white blank."

ing to the great explorer, said, "Do you think you can settle all this if we commission you?" "While I live there will be something done," replied Stanley. "If I survive the time required to perform all the work, all shall be that journal had the first claim on his services. / 1 A telegram was at once sent to Mr. James Gordon Bennett asking him if he would join The Daily Telegraph in sending Stanley out to complete the work already done by Burton, Speke, and Livingstone. Within a few hours the expedition was determined upon, and The Daily Telegraph announced in a leading article that its object was "to complete the work left unfinished by the lamented death of Dr. Livingstone; to solve, if possible, the remaining problems of the geography of Central Africa; and to investigate and report upon the haunts of the slave traders.

Stanley's Expedition

Three Englishmen-Francis John Pocock, Edward Pocock, two experienced young Kent boatmen, and a young man named Frederick Barker—accompanied Stanley. The party sailed for England on August 15, 1874, to Zanzibar, and on August 9, 1877, the 999th day after leaving the East African port for the interior, Stanley reached Boma, at the mouth of the Congo, the only white survivor of the expedition.

It is unnecessary here to trace the course of the expedition in the earlier portion of its journey, or to narrate Stanley's exploration of the new well-known territory of Uganda, and the neighborhood of Lake Tanganyika. Cook's tourists now penetrate those regions as freely and as safely as they do the Engadine. The events of the present day make more interesting his progress from the day he turned westward from Tanganyika and reached the Luabala at Nyangwe, the farthest point down the headwaters of the Congo reached by Dr. Livingstone. From Nyanygwe to Isangila, Tuckey's "farthest east"—and it was but an infinitesimal portion of the Congo's 3,000 miles -the course of the river was absolutely unknown. At Nyanygwe Stanley met the notorious Arab slave-dealer Tippoo Tib. The Arab did his best to dissuade the explorer from attempting to descend the river to the sea, he and his henchmen painting the terrors of the journey in lurid colors, with frightful accounts of the dangers of the navigation and of the savage cannibals who infested its banks. Nor, as experience proved, were these exaggerated. The long voyage in canoes was fraught with appalling perils. The river was full of cataracts and whirlpools, and the inhabitants along its banks were cannibals of the most bloodthirsty description. Every stranger to them was an enemy, and there was the additional incentive to their destruction that everyone captured or slain meant additional supplies for

An Awful Voyage

Stanley, in his narrative of that awful voyage, when every day was a struggle for life against the perils of the river and the even more dangerous inhabitants of its littoral, tells how the advent of his canoes was hailed from the banks with yells of "Meat, meat!" as the savages leaped into their canoes and dashed against him in frantic haste to kill or capture the voyagers to fill their cooking-pots. Yet Stanley pushed on undeterred. With the fervor of the true explorer, he tells how "a secret rapture filled my soul as I gazed at the majestic stream. The great mystery that for all these centuries Nature had kept hidden away from the world of science was waiting to be solved. For 200 miles I had followed one of the sources of the Livingstone (Luama) to the confluence, and now before me lay the superb river itself! My task to follow it to the ocean."

STANLEY'S EXPLORATION OF THE CONGO

Tippoo Tib had been prevailed upon to accompany the explorer for twenty marches from Nyanygwe, with a force of armed followers, and these, with Stanley's own party, numbered some 700 individuals, men, women and children, every one Arabs or negroes, except Stanley and Frank Pocock, Edward Pocock and Barker having already succumbed to privations and disease. Tippoo, however, soon repented of his contract, and at the end of a few marches withdrew with his followers. It was at this point that Stanley decided to attempt the remainder of the jonrney to the sea in canoes, as it was almost impossible to force a way through the dense tropical vegetation springing from the rich soil, through which at times the explorers had to burrow on their hands and knees. The growth Stanley describes as "a miracle of vegetation," in which rubber vines (since one of the great sources of wealt hof the Congo) formed a considerable part. Snakes swarmed in the "steamy hothouse atmosphere," and a multitude of insectplagues drove the men frantic with their incessant attacks. So Stanley took to the river, here over a mile in width, and continued his voyage in canoes. Along the river at every village attacks were made upon them, and piles of human skulls showed the horrid feasts in which the inhabitants indulged. At one of these, Kampunzu, two rows of skulls completely surrounded it. No day, for many weeks, passed without fighting, but still the fearless explorer pressed ever forward along the river "downward to the unknown," to night-black shades of mystery and fable. "Mayhap," he writes, "past the lands of the anthropoids, the pigmies, and the blanket-eared men of whom the gentle pagan King of Karagwe spoke, by leagues puon leagues of unexplored lands, populous with scores of tribes, of whom not a whisper has reached the people of other continents; perhaps that fabulous being, the dread Macoco, of whom Bartolomeo Diaz, Cada Mosto. and Dapper have written, is still represented by one who inherits his ancient kingdom and power, and surrounded by barbarous pomp. Something strange must surely lie in the vast space occupied by total blankness on our maps between Nyangwe and Tuckey's "Farthest'!"

A strange feature of the river was the market-places here and there on its banks or on the islands in mid-stream, where the people assembled to exchange their wares, and where tribal feuds were stilled for the brief hours of barter. Up till the hour of noon on market day these places were busy marts, and then the truce ended, and the savages dispersed into the forests, and became man-hunting fiends once more.

Explorers' Hardships

The plight of the explorers was a horrible one. Short of food and savaged with smallpox, scurvy, itch, fever, pneumonia, pleurisy, and typhoid, no day passed but two or three bodies were tossed into the river as the easiest method of burial. "Frank and I," says Stanley, "endeavored our utmost to alleviate the misery. but when the long caravan was entering camp I had many times to turn my face away lest the tears should rise at the sight of the miserable victims of disease who reeled and staggered . . . wandering, ever wandering in search of graves."

Many of the canoes were filled with sick, and when camp was formed for the night these had to be carried ashore and a zareba built to check the savages, who tried to rush the resting-place. One such scene is described.

"About fifty yards of ground outside the camp had been cleared, which, upon the retreat of our scouts, who had been keeping them in check, was soon filled by hundreds of savages, who pressed upon us from all sides but the river, in full expectation that we were flying in fear. But they were mistaken, for we were at bay, and desperate in our resolve not to die without fighting. Accordingly, at such close quarters, the contest soon became terrific. Again and gain the savages hurled themselves upon our stockade, launching spear after spear with deadly force into the camp, to be each time repulsed. Sometimes the muzzles of our guns almost touched their breasts. The shrieks, cries, shouts of encouragement, the rattling volleys of musketry, the booming of war horns, the yells and defiance of the combatants, the groans and screams of the women and children in the hospital camp, made together such a medley of hideous noises as can never be effaced from my memory.

. . . At dusk the enemy retreated from the vicinity of the clearing, but the hideous alarms produced from their ivory horns still continued, and now and again a vengeful, poisonladen arrow flew by with an ominous whizz to quiver in the earth at our feet, or fall harmlessly into the river behind us."

So the dreadful journey went on from day to day. The noise of drums and warhorns would be heard, and then a swarm of canoes would dart out, their savage occupants yelling, "Meat! Meat! Bo-bo-bo, we shall have plenty of meat!" "Sometimes," writes Stan-"the suspicion came to my mind that this was all but part of a hideous dream. Why was it that I should be haunted with the idea that these were human beings, who regarded me and my friends only in the light of meat?"

Many were slain in these ceaseless encounters, and yet others were drowned by the capsizing of canoes in the rapids, among them Frank Pocock, but at last the survivors, only 114 in number, worn to shadows with privation and filled with disease, straggled into Boma on August 9, 1877, and hardships and dangers were at an end.

The Future of the Congo

And all this happened only four-and-thirty years ago. The vast territories of the Congo Free State and the French Congo were then a howling wilderness, inhabited only by naked cannibals. Today steamers ply on the thousand-mile reach above Stanley Falls, railways have been built through the dense forests, civilization is permeating the savage tribes, and the collection of rubber and ivory, the cultivation of the soil, and the exploitation of the mineral wealth of the hills has superseded hunting for human flesh.

England as little or no share in the fabulous wealth of the Congo basin. When Stanley came home no ear in England was open to his suggestion that the rich lands he had traversed were worth exploration. Gold, tin, iron, ivory, rubber, and other products, vegetable and mineral, were there in abundance, and the explorer had to go to King Leopold and the Belgians to find those who would exploit the wealth of the Congo. France also saw the possibilities of the new region, and secured some 700,000 square miles of it, and now Germany thinks it worth while to bring Europe within the shadow of war, in order to extort a slice of this territory from the Republic. German ambitions do not end with the French Congo. Behind the present demands of the Kaiser's advisers there lurk keen desires with regard to the northern portion of the Congo Free State. If the bargain with France enables Germany to stretch her territory to the borders of the Free State, some day there will come a demand for the cession of a tract which will enable her to unite the German possessions on the East Coast of Africa with the Cameroons, and a broad band, under the German flag, will lie across Central Africa, shutting off British South Africa from the Soudan, and compelling the Cape-to-Cairo railway to run across German soil.-London Daily Telegraph.

Something About Eyes

There are scores of little eye-signs which give the key to a person's thoughts and betray that person when he or she is unaware of it. In ordinary man, bent on deception, will flinch is eyes if someone looks him "straight in the ves." The accomplished rogue, however, will ot. The eye that never flinches when chalenged is not, as many people-especially oung women—suppose, the sign of an open and affectionate character. More often than not it betrays the criminal. A detective declared that the worst rogue he ever came across was possessed of a pair of over-steady eyes, and that their unswerving gaze kept him above suspicion for a couple of decades. He would probably never have been suspected of his many crimes had he not been caught red-handed while attempting to cash a forged check.

The unsteady eye-that is, the eye that jerks rapidly from eye to eye when the owner is excited or accused of a crime-does not express guilt, as is often believed. In nine cases out of ten it is a sign of honesty and an unset-

If you measure the distance between your eyes you will probably find that it is the breadth of one eye. If by chance your eyes are farther apart than that you are possibly very intellectual and have a tenacious memory. Eyes that are very close together very often signify a deceitful, cunning nature.

Clever People's Eyes

Blue eyes are considered to possess more attractions than eyes of any other color. Among the Greeks and Romans of classic times, girls possessing eyes of this color found great favor among men, and it must not be orgotten that the goddess Minerva received a surname to signify the blueness of her eyes. re are, of course, several kinds of blue eves, physiognomist declare that the pure blue while denoting a sincere, honest nature, is om possessed by a person with large intuality. On the other hand, the large, ear blue eye indicates not only great mental ver, but sincerity and honesty. The eye ach is half blue and grey, and is absent of ange specks, denotes a practical and pure and; but the china-blue eye, when it is glassy and unchanging, is generally a sign that the wner is of a cold and selfish nature. This eye is generally the property of criminals. There are no eyes which are coal-black.

What are called black eyes are of a very dark frown, and as a rule they are possessed by men and women who are constant in their aflections and perfectly honest in all the business they undertake. Dark brown eyes which, while sparkling, are very shifty, denote that the owners are selfish, unscrupulous, and of a cruel disposition. Light brown eyes express deceitfulness and lack of imagination, while the small, penetrating brown eye, of medium shade, is a sign of a mercurial nature, vivaciousness, and deceitfulness. It has been declared that all clever men and women look upon the world with grey eyes. That there is a considerable amount of truth in this statement can be gathered from the fact that a large proportion of living writers and artists have eyes of grey, and that among great ones of the past whose eyes were of this color were Shakespeare, Coleridge, Byron, Charlotte Bronte, Wilkie Collins, George Eliot, and Charles Reade.

Grey eyes, by the way, denote creative temperament, but not always honesty. What novelists and poets term the cold, grey eye is considered to be a sign of selfishness and cruelty. though it often denotes shrewdness and tal-Very clever people whose eyes are grey generally have small spots of orange in the iris round the pupil.—Tit-Bits.

ANONYMOUS DONORS

A romantic little incident occurred in Rugby workhouse some time ago. As the chairman of the board was going the round of the institution with the visiting committee a lady stepped up to him and handed him a letter, requesting him to read it after she was gone. In the letter the lady said: "I herewith enclose Bank of England notes to the value of £250 in discharge of parish relief received when I was a child." When the matter was reported to the guardians at their meeting it was received with applause, the chairman remarking that although they might have failures they still occasionally scored a success.

A Queenslander called upon his pastor the other day and handed him a document which had a distinctly legal appearance, telling him it was a little matter connected with the church which he could attend to at his leisure. On examining it the pastor found that it was the title deeds to sixty acres of land duly conveyed to him by his generous parishioner. The pastor in question is proverbially berief in his sermons, and the donor indicated that this gift pastor in question is proverbially brief in his pastor's brevity.

What Dr. Barnardo Received

Some time ago a person rang the bell at the house of a certain popular canon in a Midland town who was greatly interested in a church extension fund. The caller handed in an innocent-looking parcel, giving neither name nor message to the servant. Judge of the canon's pleased surprise when he found that the parcel contained no fewer than thirty £5 notes, as a contribution to the work he had in hand.

Dr. Barnardo had many stories to tell of people who did good by stealth and never returned to find it fame. He once estimated that he received at least £10,000 yearly from anonymous contributors. One such gift, the largest he had ever received, was £3,000. This was not only the largest but the most remarkable gift of the kind received by him. A very plainly-dressed, undistinguished-looking woman called at Stepney Causeway, asked to see the doctor, and, when she was ushered into his room, handed to him, one after the other, three £1,000 notes. As she gave them to him she specified the exact branch of the work to which each was to be applied. Before the good doctor could recover from his surprise, she had walked away, leaving no name and not even waiting for a receipt.

Surprising the Secretary The secretary of the Lifeboat Institution, a good work which appeals to all classes, has many similar stories to tell. One of these is of an old gentleman who explained, as he came into the secretary's room, that he had "just looked in as he was passing, as he had often heard of the Lifeboat Institution." He took a seat and seemed as if he were going to settle down for the morning. He even began a discussion on politics. Then, just when the secretary was beginning to fear a wasted hour, he placed a pile of notes to the value of £2.000 on the table, walked out, and was never seen again .- Tit-Bits.

Snakes as Mousers

It has been suggested by a French professor that every household should have its snake, instead of its cat or dog, for the purpose oi keeping rats and mice away.

In view of the fact that the bubonic plague, which is now raging in Europe and Asia, is spread by rats, and there are many billions of rats in our cities ready to spread this pest as soon as it makes its appearance here, the suggestion is well worth consideration. It is not new. In the days of the Romans snakes were kept by housekeepers for precisely this purpose. Since those early times, however, the household reptile has been supplanted by the cat and dog, and the modern housewife, as a rule, has nothing but revulsion for every species of snake, harmful or harmless. The hostile attitude toward snakes, however, is largely due to ignorance. Thus it is commonly supposed that snakes are "slimy." As a matter of fact, they are not. Their skin is cold to the touch, but absolutely dry. It feels as if it were made of china or porcelain. Then again, the sharp, worm-like tongue of the snake, which darts in and out at lightning speed, is harmless, although it is commonly believed to be the medium by means of which the snake ejects its venom. Snakes which have venom communicate it by means of special teeth called fangs. Harmless snakes are not equipped with these fangs. The principal disadvantage about a dog or a cat is that these animals are apt to carry the same disease-spreading vermin as the rats and mice they are supposed to destroy.

Both the dog and the cat frequently kill rats and mice without eating them leaving them to decompose in invisible places. The snake never does. Every rat killed by a snake is at once swallowed. The snake is much cleaner than either of the other house pets.

The tussle between a rat and a dog is often a most harrowing sight, and the spectacle of a cat cruelly toying with a mouse which is but half alive, is most pitiful. A snake, however, captures its prey without any of those disagreeable preliminaries. Reptiles move so quickly that rodents fall a ready victim to them. The conflict is over in a minute, and the snake at once swallows its prey.

Then, again, the modern house dog or house cat is such a pampered creature that it gets lazy, and often allows rats and mice to infest a house with impunity.

There are half a dozen types of snakes particularly suitable for the purpose. The king snake averages about three and a half feet in length. It is, perhaps, the best

ratter for homes where rats are particularly numerous, large, and dangerous, because of its great strength and pugnacity.

Of the smaller varieties there are the chicken snake, the corn snake, and the milk snake. Every one of these snakes will answer the purpose of a household pet.

OBEYING THE COLONEL

A young sub-lieutenant on foreign service left his regiment on sick leave, and put up at an hotel at a neighboring coast town, where he was immediately smitten by the attractions of a lovely maiden who was staying there. He proposed, was accepted, and the happy day was fixed. The Colonel, however, disapproved of sub-lieutenants getting married, and particularly of the marriage of the "sub" in question. As he happened to be a friend of the young man's father, he thought to prevent the union of the fond couple by sending a peremptory telegram couched in the following words: "Join at once."

The young man was in despair. He went to his intended, with the fatal missive in his hand and anything but a look of pleasure on his face. But the lady was equal to the occasion. With a blush of maidenly simplicity, she remarked: "Dear me! I'm glad your Colonel approves of the match; but what a hurry he is in! I don't think I can get ready so soon; but I'll do my best, because of course, love, the commands of your Colonel must be obeyed." The young warrior was puzzled.

"Don't you see, my darling," he said, "that this confounded telegram puts a stopper on our plans? You don't seem to understand the telegram. He says peremptorily, 'Join at once.'"

The lady's blushes deepened; but, with a look of arch simplicity, she raised her lovely eyes to her fiance's and replied: "It is you, darling, who don't seem to understand it. Your Colonel says plainly, "Join at once,' by which, of course, he means get married immediately. What else can he pos-

You can have your choice from single or double-breasted sacks, very smart in appearance, and beautifully finished, and not one of them worth less than $18.00. But on Friday we will give you the benefit of our big buying powers. Your choice at $12.50 per suit.

MEN'S OVERCOATS AT $12.50

This is another tempting bargain for Friday. We consider that our buyer has been most fortunate in securing this lot at such a low price. But the price was only a secondary consideration when he made the purchase, and had not the goods measured up to Spencer's exacting specifications of quality, we would not have purchased at any price.

There are handsome coats in heavy tweeds, meltons and beavers to choose from, some with military collars and others with plain velvet collars and smart revers. They are full length, are semi-fitting, and have well shaped shoulders.

You can't realize the value of this special offer unless you see the coats. Let us show you them, the goods will tell you their own story.

Special Friday $12.50.

BOYS' NORFOLK SUITS AT $2.25

This is a special offer—the price is low and tempting—in fact we are afraid that it is too low for you to believe that the goods are of any real value. However, as a remedy we invite you to examine the suits for yourself, and we have not the least doubt that you will be satisfied that the quality is all that you would expect if the price was $4.00.

They are two-piece Norfolk Suits in browns, greys and greens, in sizes from 25 to 29, and if one will fit your boy, shop early—there are only 50 on sale at this price.

y—there are only 50 on Special Friday $2.25.
