The Telegram Chewin Another Hair Ball

The Telegram is continuing its campaign against the annexation of North Toronto, and judging its figures and statement of last night in the light of its map, which The World exposed yesterday, they are equally unreliable. It presented a map without a single house in the north portions of North Toronto! The World showed that at least 150 houses existed there, and that many others were under way.

It may be true that the "land barons," as The Telegram now calls them, will make some money, but that is not the issue raised by The World. The issue raised by The World concerns the franchises on Yonge-street and the adjoining streets of North Toronto, who are identified with the City of Toronto, of a single cartage. And speaking of franchises, The Telegram asks: Where is Mr. Drayton, the city councillor, on this issue? Mr. Drayton is with the map in saying that the franchises that exist on Yonge-street to-day are a menace to the city and to the city's future. Let The Telegram quote Mr. Drayton to the contrary if it can.

As an example of The Telegram's misrepresentation, it says that most of the land that is subdivided up there was bought for $4 a foot, or $800 an acre. That is not the case, but The World has nothing to do with these figures, other than to show how incorrect The Telegram is. The Glebe farm, laid out by the Dinlick interests, was bought for $3500 an acre!

The all-sufficient answer to The Telegram's argument is that if the city were extended to the north along Yonge-street, it would go north for probably ten miles, whereas now it is only three, and it is because the city has been prevented from growing to the north that North Toronto is not in the city to-day. In other words, Toronto will grow as fast north as it grows east and west. If it gets a chance and is prevented from growing to the north, before some people may make money, but what is that to the convenience of the people of Toronto, and as a matter of fact, even if people do make money, land for building can be bought by the citizens of Toronto for less money in North Toronto than anywhere else! Why should they not be free to buy there and get a single fare? The Telegram would shut out North Toronto for some reason the public cannot understand, other than that of jealousy. The Telegram never used a present argument against Parkdale or any other annex, and where was it in regard to Home Smith's Humber deal?

Another thing The Telegram is forgetting all the time is that North Toronto is a municipality that was organized twenty years ago, and when it was so organized there was no idea of its booming in the minds of its founders. They had to deal with the problem of Yonge-street, and they organized North Toronto on that basis, and that basis alone.

ANGELICAN REALTY DEALS CLASSED AS SCANDALOUS

"Disgraceful and Only Too True That Church Holds Back Land From Development Merely To Secure More Money"—Danforth Property Will Be Sold on Account of Viaduct—East End Buildings a Disgrace.

Believing that the Bloor-st. viaduct will be approved by the citizens of Toronto, before the next annual meeting of the Anglican Synod, that body yesterday afternoon by a large majority accepted the proposal of Hon. S. H. Blake and decided to empower the Toronto Rectory Endowment Committee to sell the property held by the church on Danforth-ave., when they considered a fair price was obtainable, or in the alternative, leasing it for a long term.

The matter was brought up on the report of the committee, which further shows their expectation of the early building of the viaduct. The report reads: "Several offers to purchase the whole or part of lot 6, con. 2, north of Danforth-ave., have been received, but after due consideration your committee have decided not to accept them."

Another Bloor Street. H. Waddington, of this committee, drew the attention of the synod to the fact that with the building of the viaduct, which he considered was an immediate certainty, Danforth-avenue would become another Bloor-st., and land values proportionately high. If this be no doubt, and expressed his belief that with Danforth-ave. a business street, as it would then become, it would be folly not to take hold of the golden opportunity of disposing of the property, if not to sell, to at least lease.

Disreputable Dwellings

About the most disreputable dwellings in Toronto are owned by the Church of England and the Toronto General Hospital board. The character of the shacks on the synod property on East King-street, around Parliament-street, and thru that neighborhood, has permitted the growth of a real ghetto. The district is now populated by the poorer classes of Poles, Galicians, Greeks and English-speaking people. The church itself finds more need of its charity among the people who occupy its houses and those of the neighborhood than in any quarter of the city.

The tumble-down cottages owned by the hospital board, the members of which are exponents of the highest forms of humanity betterment, are little better than those of the church. Their property is scattered thru the district just north and east of the corner of Queen and Parliament-streets. It is in this district that the medical health officer has found it necessary to condemn as unfit for human habitation many cottages that were falling to pieces, and which were, figuratively, held together only by the tacks in the rag carpet on the floors.

Another Important movement is about to take place on Yonge-street. The G.T.E.R., which purchased the Laurier property in Davisville, between Yonge-street and the Upper Canada College, three years ago, has decided that it is time to put the property to use, and sidings and freight sheds will be built almost immediately. The Grand Trunk is looking for a big business in the north end. The C. P. and C. N. Railways have already given their endorsement to a large uptown development, and a further endorsement now comes from the Grand Trunk. The land owned by the Grand Trunk is directly west of where the B.C. Line Railway crosses Yonge-st., and consists of about seven acres.

RURAL CORPS ARE GENERAL BOARD RECRUITED IN TORONTO FOR MISSION WORK

Board of Enquiry at Niagara Camp Found That 44th and 36th Engaged Men to Attend Camp, But Say They Were Not Undesirable and Are Good Soldiers.

(By a Staff Reporter.) NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, June 12.—That the 44th and 36th Regiments engaged men in Toronto to fill the ranks during the Niagara camp, was the finding of the board of enquiry, which sat for two days investigating stories printed in the Toronto papers charging that men were recruited in Toronto for the camp. Officers of the two regiments admitted to the board of enquiry that they had secured men in Toronto who were out of work, and had given them uniforms for camp.

The board decided that while men were recruited in Toronto, they were not unreliable, unemployed, and made good soldiers. One of the militia regulations is that men in rural regiments must be recruited in the district in which the regiment is stationed.

The resolution affecting the change is as follows: 1. That the board of finance be appointed to take the place of the present committee on systematic giving. 2. That the duties of this board shall be (a) to secure the revenue for all the benevolent work as set forth in the budget; (b) to receive the estimates and adjust the same for the assembly; (c) to supervise the expenditures as far as ordinary revenue is concerned. 3. That the finance board consist of 21 members to be named by the general assembly, two from each synod, one-third to retire each year, the retiring members to be eligible for re-election. An executive committee of seven to be chosen by the board.

SAYS POLICE OFFICIALS ARE UNTRUE TO TRUST

WOMEN SCORE POLICE METHODS
Local Council Say Rev. R. B. St. Clair, Was Treated Unfairly—Want to Be Play Censors.

"That the Local Council of Women desire to express sympathy and give moral support to the efforts of the Vigilance Association for their work in trying to remove the plague spots and express deep regret that Rev. R. B. St. Clair should be subjected to unfair and arbitrary treatment in the prosecution of his duty as secretary of the association." Such was the resolution adopted by the Local Council of Women at a meet yesterday afternoon, of which there is a membership in Toronto of over 7000.

That women should be appointed to censorship committees of moving pictures and vaudeville shows, was the opinion of the meeting, and a resolution to this effect was forwarded to the provincial government asking for immediate action.

Letters were read from Mayor Geary and the board of control respecting the appeal for the registry offices or women to take the place of the present committee on systematic giving. The civic officials said that they hoped that the matter could be satisfactorily arranged when the charity commission reported. Miss Constance Boutton, first vice-president, presided.

Rev. R. B. St. Clair Insinuated That Some Officers at Headquarters Were Fuddled With Strong Drink—Wants Libel Suit To Go to Trial—Says Commissioners Are Lax in Their Duty.

Magistrate Denison, Crown Attorney Corley, the entire board of police commissioners and the police officers in charge of the suppression of immorality in the city came in for a scathing denunciation at the hands of Rev. R. B. St. Clair at the regular meeting of the Toronto Vigilance Association at College-st. and Ossington-ave. last night. This is the first meeting of the association since the arrest and committal for trial from police court of Mr. St. Clair on a charge of circulating indecent literature in a circular issued by him as secretary of the committee and purporting to describe a performance at the Star Theatre.

Controller J. O. McCarthy was to have addressed the meeting, which was attended by thirteen men, twenty women and one infant. The controller forgot his engagement, and Mr. St. Clair filled the gap with an explanation of his position before the courts and the people. He declared that the police commissioners were untrue to their trust in issuing a license to the theatre in the light of remarks which they had made regarding the house. He also insinuated that some of the officers at headquarters were fuddled with strong drink to the detriment of efficient execution of their duty.

Following a prayer by J. I. C. Williams, in which that gentleman gave thanks that the hands of the association had been sustained in their hour of trial and humiliation, Mr. St. Clair rose to speak.

A Statement Was. He declared that he felt no hesitancy in coming before the meeting, and that a public sentiment was due not only to those assembled, but to all the people of the city. He declared that he had the support of the people and the press, and that as Shakespeare had said, the pen was mightier than the sword. He would say that the pen is mightier than the sword, and that the press has more than once opened prison cells for those who have been wrongly imprisoned. The press has made negligent officials admit that they have been lax in their duty and has made them carry it out," he declared.

NONE TO OPPOSE CLOSER TRADE IN EMPIRE

Free Traders and Tariff Reformers Quite in Accord, Assurance of Sydney Buxton—Admiral Seymour, Advocating Imperial Navy, Criticizes Churchill's Policy.

LONDON, June 12.—(C.A.P.)—At a dinner given to the delegates to the Congress of the Chambers of Commerce to-night Sydney Buxton, president of the board of trade, said they wanted to bring about through the empire uniformity of law and custom, but while having simplicity, they must have elasticity. They wanted, whether they were free traders or tariff reformers, to remove all impediments they possibly could between trade in the various parts of the empire. He looked forward to good results from the imperial trade commission.

Admiral Sir Edward Seymour said the only satisfactory way was for the dominions to contribute money to the imperial navy. We should have one imperial navy. In time of peace it would be quite right that ships representing sums of money subscribed by different dominions should be employed entirely in those dominions, but they should be ready to be called on by the home government in case of war for service in any part of the world.

"I have watched with regret the withdrawal of our flag and our ships from distant parts of the world. I think it a great mistake. We know why it is done, namely, because we are afraid of a certain nation, which need not name. I believe it has been very much overdone, and I hope in the future the matter will be amended," he added.

Parliament-street Baptist is about to be amalgamated with the Jarvis-street Church. The Parliament-st. Church has had a long and useful history and has been doing excellent work under the pastorate of Rev. C. Burnett. The congregations have, however, agreed that the Parliament-street district can be more adequately served by the Baptist Church than being operated under the auspices and with the support of Jarvis-st. Church.

WILTON CORNER $4000 A FOOT
Negotiations Are on for Purchase of Property Owned by Henderson Estate at High Figure.

Negotiations are now on with the Henderson Estate, the owners of the northeast corner of Wilton-ave. and Yonge-st., leading to the purchase of that property at $4000 a foot. The intending buyers' identity is not known, but they are said to be buying the property as a site for an office building. The property has light on three sides and a large structure would be reasonably sure of borrowed light on the north side.

The Yonge-st. frontage of the corner is 60 feet, the Wilton-ave. front is 132 feet. Three story brick buildings now cover the property. The corner store is rented to the National Cash Register Co., whose lease has about two years to run. The other tenants are required to vacate their premises on ninety days' notice. It was said last night that the deal was signed up yesterday afternoon.

The corner is not being bought for an hotel. ROOSEVELT FOR WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE.

LIBERALS WILL VISIT NORTH
Entire Opposition in the Legislature Will Leave Shortly on an Extensive Tour.

"In view of the importance of the settlement and development of Northern Ontario, the Liberal members of the legislature will visit that section shortly to look over the ground and study the problems of the country and the needs of the people. This announcement was made by Mr. Rowell, K.C., yesterday. "I feel certain that a visit to Northern Ontario will benefit the members of the opposition to a great extent," he continued, "as it will put them in touch with the people, and also give them an opportunity to study the manufacturing needs of that section." This trip was decided on at a meeting of the Liberal members held about a week ago, to act upon an invitation extended by the Timiskaming Liberal Club. The invitation was accepted, and the Timiskaming Association will submit a program to the local members for approval in a week or two.

We must risk a reply," concludes Le Canada. "but we must be just to the dead."

To-night Canon Tucker of this city and Archdeacon Renison of Moosonee, addressed a missionary meeting.

A DANGEROUS PRECEDENT.

The Ottawa Citizen and the Hamilton Spectator blend their voices in an endorsement of the "fearless statesmanship" which prompted Finance Minister White, presumably with the assent of his colleagues, to reduce the duty upon cement by one-half. The Citizen in the course of a long editorial says:

Such a drastic measure in connection with our fiscal policy has never been enacted by any previous government without the sanction of parliament. That public sentiment in Canada will not only endorse but applaud the action taken is a foregone conclusion.

Under all the circumstances a reduction or suspension of the cement duty was advisable. It may not be open to question, but many will doubt whether this "drastic action" should be hailed as a "precedent on much needed lines."

Drastic measures are resorted to in extreme circumstances, and taking away the protection given by parliament to any industry by order-in-council can only be justified, if it can be justified at all, by the peculiar hardships to the consumer in the particular case, for example, suspending the coal duties during a coal strike. It is medicine to be given as a last resort, but the Citizen would have it become our daily bread.

The government is empowered by statute to suspend or remove the duty upon any product when such product is covered by a trust in Canada which unduly enhances its price. The cement merger has never been equaled, although the opposition in the last parliament demanded such investigation.

The Spectator and the Citizen would object strenuously if the government were to suddenly remove or reduce the duties upon iron and steel and agricultural implements; but if it can be shown that these articles are selling at a higher price in Canada than in the United States, will not the consumer demand some more of this drastic action?

Cement in the United States has been selling at 30 cents a barrel and in Canada at 14.45, the American price plus the duty. The price will now probably drop 20, or enough to keep out the imported article. Similar results might follow a reduction in the duties on agricultural implements and upon the manufactures of iron and steel.

The official woman suffrage amendment to the bill cannot be forthcoming without reference to the bill in the House of Commons. This matter is likely to cause trouble.

Editor World: The Toronto City Mission Fresh Air Home at Bronte was opened for the season on Wednesday last, and is being very well patronized.

Parliament should be in session, dealing with the great problems before the country.

"Because they have no union the people perish" was a text selected by a visiting divine who preached recently to a Toronto congregation. He urged his hearers to wake up and open their eyes.

Toronto Presbytery has big eyes. Its church extension committee, with its clear-sighted convener, Rev. John Nell, D.D., has seen a vision. As exclusively announced in The World the morning after the meeting of the Presbytery, that body also was in the possession of big eyes.

Why was it that The Globe failed to publish the decision of the Presbytery until after it had been announced in The World and republished in the Toronto afternoon papers? Was the information purposely kept back, or did The Globe "have no vision" or knowledge of the fact that the Presbytery was in session at St. James-square Church, with the marvelous growth of Toronto and the needs of its immediate future, as the chief topic under consideration?

While it is notable that the Toronto Presbyterians in their church outlook have "big eyes," and are planning for a dozen new churches, the Methodists are equally alert. In one sense they have indeed gone beyond the Presbyterians in their idea of the rapidly developing Greater Toronto is about to develop. This is demonstrated by their scheme of placing portable churches on the suburban sites, with the conviction that they will at early periods have to be taken further away to supply the needs of yet newer districts, and so leave the sites clear for more commodious and permanent edifices.

Anglicans and Baptists are possessed of the same progressive view and their church extension committees are actively engaged in securing suburban church sites. The Globe and The Telegram are in a class by themselves in their fight against a Greater Toronto.

The Canadian Pacific has just placed an order for $1,000,000 for three hundred locomotives and freight cars.

Where are these cars to be made? Perhaps some in the United States. We hope the most of them will be made in Canada. But why should not Toronto have a great big car works manufacturing plant of the Canadian Pacific as well as Montreal and Calgary?

The mayor of Toronto might have an interview with Sir Edmund Osler and Mr. W. D. Matthews. As a matter of fact the company's existing shops are overworked now and they must get other ones, and now is the time to try and get them in Toronto.

Shortly before his resignation, Sir J. G. Ward, late premier of New Zealand, gave interesting particulars of the success attending the state-guaranteed advances department. He began the advocacy of this scheme in the early nineties, and recalled with amusement the dismal predictions made by its opponents. The department was, however, established in 1895, and during 1896 the total amount advanced to settlers was over $2,100,000. Between that year and 1908, the advances fluctuated, averaging somewhere round $2,200,000 a year. In 1907, the opportunity to get advances was extended to workers as well as settlers, and they reached $3,850,000, the totals of the following years being roughly: 1908, $7,000,000; 1909, $8,000,000; 1910, $7,200,000; and 1911, $8,000,000.

Since 1909, all loans to local bodies are made thru the advance department, and the money is lent at the same rate of interest at which it is borrowed. Most of the loans carry 3 1/2 per cent, but money rates being now higher, those recently sanctioned are at 3 3/4 per cent. Nearly all is lent on a 3 1/2 per cent term—the instalments of principal and interest being $24.40 for 3 1/2 per cent loans, and $25.25 for 3 3/4 per cent loans. In no part of the world, said the late premier, can local bodies obtain money on such favorable terms as in New Zealand, when the loans are from the government. If money repaid and again advanced are included, the gross total lent to settlers, workers and loans to local authorities amounts to $77,500,000.

The act was originally passed because the high rates of interest charged in the years preceding 1894 were felt to be a burden on the industry of the people not easily borne and a hindrance to the settlement and development of the country. Their results have proved to be wholly beneficial to the farming community, and the government year book notes that "the entire exemption of all improvements on land from rates and taxes has much encouraged the outlay of capital on improvements. The advances to workers were arranged in order to give deserving people an opportunity of borrowing money at a low rate of interest for the sole purpose of acquiring homes for themselves. The department has been self-supporting, the profits in 1911 being $300,000, while the losses on loans to March 31 of last year were only $750.

"The department," said Sir Joseph, "is absolutely free from political influences and the granting or refusal of loans being entirely in the discretion of the board, which consists of the superintendent, the public trustee, the valuer-general and two non-members of the civil service."

D. R. Wilkie, chairman of the local board of the Victorian Order of Nurses, acknowledges the receipt from the executor of the estate of the late J. H. Mason of the sum of $25,000, being the first instalment on account of the bequest to the local order by the late J. H. Mason, who with Mrs. Mason, was identified with the order since its foundation.

Problems of the Pacific

The problem which will attract international attention in the future, is who will govern the Pacific Ocean, and what will be the future of the people whose shores are washed by its waters? Japan is at present by far the strongest naval power whose ships exclusively sail the waters of the western hemisphere, and some day, no doubt, when its new republican government more completely holds the reins of supervision over the millions of celestial, China will be a formidable rival for naval supremacy.

The United States, the not highly organized for warfare, has immense resources and a population which possesses the national spirit and great energy which goes a long way to determining her national destiny. The Panama Canal will make her fleet equally available on the Pacific as on the Atlantic, and this will bring about a balance of power.

This question has been discussed in a London daily, which stated that it is natural that Australia and New Zealand should hitherto have relied for their protection upon the British navy, or rather upon the naval policy of Great Britain, but recent changes in the balance of Europe have made it necessary for the lands of the Southern Cross to study Europe more than used to be necessary. There has been a general development of naval policy, so that Great Britain, if she is at all times to be ready to defend herself, must keep in European waters a navy as strong as two or three of the other European navies. While those conditions stand, the British navy cannot send fighting fleets to the Pacific.

In so far as Australasia or Canada is concerned with the possibility of an invasion from a European navy, the risk is very small, because, while the British navy is so strong, no other power will weaken her marine protection by drafting portions to the Pacific. Great Britain, therefore, need only send such auxiliaries as they (the colonies) seek, beyond their own naval strength. Should a serious conflict between Pacific powers come into being, a well-directed British policy would find means of asserting the necessary influence without moving fleets or armies round the globe. Such auxiliaries and their attendants ought at all times to be situated in strategic points in the case of war the mercantile marine would require their protection and, perhaps, escort.

According to The London Morning Post, it is apparently inconsistent in the United States to demand the open door in China and Japan, and yet set up the Monroe Doctrine as a corollary. It states that the combination of these two doctrines, together with the resolve to limit or exclude Asiatic immigration, may some day lead to serious disputes between America and eastern Asia. The United States cannot permanently keep their own doors shut and insist on other people keeping theirs open without an inconsistency that must sooner or later be challenged.

The most absorbing question governing the countries whose shores are washed by its waters, is the question of the internal development of China. "The yeast has been infused from Europe and America, and the ferment now taking place shows how strongly it works. If after a time it should produce expansion, there will be still more stir and change, both in Asia and on the Pacific, for a renovated China will have to take to the water if for no other reason than that Japan has done so, and that China without a navy could carry on a seaborne trade only with Japan's permission. It will be the first thing to be created by the Chinese nation when that has come into being."

T. Miller Maguire at the Royal Colonial Institute recently said that the yellow race was lord of the ascendant on the Asiatic Pacific coast, with the exception of the few territories pertaining to France, the United Kingdom and Germany, besides a few native states, such as Siam, which still survive European aggression. The Japanese might attack and defeat the Americans any day, and there were excuses for quarrel with the complications now pending. Preference in the Panama Canal, in spite of treaties, fortification of the canal, the Monroe Doctrine, and the fact that in no Pacific port or territory, from Adelaide to Vancouver, and from San Francisco to Hanoi, did yellow men—simply because they were yellow men—get an open play as white men.

A heavy copper ring was also held suspended for a moment in mid-air and finally flew upward several feet by the same means.

The disease of chestnut trees now causing serious injury in the Eastern States was first noticed about the year 1894, and is believed to be due to the growth of a hitherto unknown fungus disease named Diaporthe arborescens. The question naturally arises, writes W. G. Farlow in Science, "Is this Diaporthe a native species, or has it been introduced by mycologists, or is it a native species?" It is a native species, and we must note how it happens so severely an epidemic has appeared suddenly, for, if the fungus has always been here, the important practical question is, what temporary conditions have arisen which have enabled it to increase at a rate previously unknown. There are some vague references to diseased chestnut trees in agricultural journals published a hundred years ago, but there is nothing in them to warrant us in believing that a disease at all comparable with the present chestnut epidemic ever prevailed here. Had there, at least, in the last fifty or sixty years a disease of chestnuts in the region now devastated, similar to the present epidemic, there would have been left no large trees to be attacked now.

Graphite From Mexico. The exportation of graphite from Mexico during 1911 amounted to 3004 tons. This is mined near Colorado and Sonora, the mines being worked by an American company. An analysis of the product gave 88.75 per cent carbon, 7.60 per cent silica, 0.65 per cent iron, and 2.60 alumina. The graphite is wholly amorphous, and shows no flakes like that produced in America and Canada, and no fibrous structure like that mined in Ceylon.

The disease of chestnut trees now causing serious injury in the Eastern States was first noticed about the year 1894, and is believed to be due to the growth of a hitherto unknown fungus disease named Diaporthe arborescens. The question naturally arises, writes W. G. Farlow in Science, "Is this Diaporthe a native species, or has it been introduced by mycologists, or is it a native species?" It is a native species, and we must note how it happens so severely an epidemic has appeared suddenly, for, if the fungus has always been here, the important practical question is, what temporary conditions have arisen which have enabled it to increase at a rate previously unknown. There are some vague references to diseased chestnut trees in agricultural journals published a hundred years ago, but there is nothing in them to warrant us in believing that a disease at all comparable with the present chestnut epidemic ever prevailed here. Had there, at least, in the last fifty or sixty years a disease of chestnuts in the region now devastated, similar to the present epidemic, there would have been left no large trees to be attacked now.

Why was it that The Globe failed to publish the decision of the Presbytery until after it had been announced in The World and republished in the Toronto afternoon papers? Was the information purposely kept back, or did The Globe "have no vision" or knowledge of the fact that the Presbytery was in session at St. James-square Church, with the marvelous growth of Toronto and the needs of its immediate future, as the chief topic under consideration?

While it is notable that the Toronto Presbyterians in their church outlook have "big eyes," and are planning for a dozen new churches, the Methodists are equally alert. In one sense they have indeed gone beyond the Presbyterians in their idea of the rapidly developing Greater Toronto is about to develop. This is demonstrated by their scheme of placing portable churches on the suburban sites, with the conviction that they will at early periods have to be taken further away to supply the needs of yet newer districts, and so leave the sites clear for more commodious and permanent edifices.

Anglicans and Baptists are possessed of the same progressive view and their church extension committees are actively engaged in securing suburban church sites. The Globe and The Telegram are in a class by themselves in their fight against a Greater Toronto.

The Canadian Pacific has just placed an order for $1,000,000 for three hundred locomotives and freight cars.

Where are these cars to be made? Perhaps some in the United States. We hope the most of them will be made in Canada. But why should not Toronto have a great big car works manufacturing plant of the Canadian Pacific as well as Montreal and Calgary?

The mayor of Toronto might have an interview with Sir Edmund Osler and Mr. W. D. Matthews. As a matter of fact the company's existing shops are overworked now and they must get other ones, and now is the time to try and get them in Toronto.

Shortly before his resignation, Sir J. G. Ward, late premier of New Zealand, gave interesting particulars of the success attending the state-guaranteed advances department. He began the advocacy of this scheme in the early nineties, and recalled with amusement the dismal predictions made by its opponents. The department was, however, established in 1895, and during 1896 the total amount advanced to settlers was over $2,100,000. Between that year and 1908, the advances fluctuated, averaging somewhere round $2,200,000 a year. In 1907, the opportunity to get advances was extended to workers as well as settlers, and they reached $3,850,000, the totals of the following years being roughly: 1908, $7,000,000; 1909, $8,000,000; 1910, $7,200,000; and 1911, $8,000,000.

Since 1909, all loans to local bodies are made thru the advance department, and the money is lent at the same rate of interest at which it is borrowed. Most of the loans carry 3 1/2 per cent, but money rates being now higher, those recently sanctioned are at 3 3/4 per cent. Nearly all is lent on a 3 1/2 per cent term—the instalments of principal and interest being $24.40 for 3 1/2 per cent loans, and $25.25 for 3 3/4 per cent loans. In no part of the world, said the late premier, can local bodies obtain money on such favorable terms as in New Zealand, when the loans are from the government. If money repaid and again advanced are included, the gross total lent to settlers, workers and loans to local authorities amounts to $77,500,000.

The official woman suffrage amendment to the bill cannot be forthcoming without reference to the bill in the House of Commons. This matter is likely to cause trouble.

Editor World: The Toronto City Mission Fresh Air Home at Bronte was opened for the season on Wednesday last, and is being very well patronized.

Parliament should be in session, dealing with the great problems before the country.

"Because they have no union the people perish" was a text selected by a visiting divine who preached recently to a Toronto congregation. He urged his hearers to wake up and open their eyes.

Toronto Presbytery has big eyes. Its church extension committee, with its clear-sighted convener, Rev. John Nell, D.D., has seen a vision. As exclusively announced in The World the morning after the meeting of the Presbytery, that body also was in the possession of big eyes.

Toronto Presbytery, unanimously concurred in the recommendation that a large number of sites for churches in the outlying districts should be secured.

Porcupine Stocks Are in Scant Demand--Commercial Reports

BULLS HELD WHIP HAND IN CHICAGO WHEAT PIT

Prices Showed Gain For the Day After an Erratic Motion Up and Down--Crop News Affecting Sentiment--Corn Higher.

CHICAGO, June 12.—Wheat prices today worked steadily upward, influenced to some extent by statements that supplies in France had become almost exhausted. The close was firm, 2-8c to 2-8c net advance. Corn scored a gain of 1-8c to 2-4c, and oats a rise of 1-8c to 1-8c. The outcome in provisions was 2-13c to 1-13c increase in cost.

Good support on weak spots helped to lift wheat. The bear side appeared to lack courage to press the selling, although it showed that it had not been given to the reports of damage to South Dakota, and assertions were current that the reports of damage in Kansas had been exaggerated. Bulls, however, took heart from improved cash and futures, the lightness of primary receipts, and because of decreased stocks at Minneapolis. Notwithstanding that new wheat cut in Oklahoma was yielding 15 to 25 bushels an acre, shorts were active buyers in the closing hours.

Corn's Speculation Following. Corn developed strength owing to speculative buying based on a theory that receipts would drop off soon. In one purchase of 100,000 bushels that had been at similar tactics for a week had a bullish effect. July was actively bought. This was due to liberal receipts of hogs had made provisions easy, commission buying set in and reversed the course of prices. Trade on the whole, however, was light.

Northwest Receipts. Receipts of wheat at northwest primary points, with usual comparisons, are as follows:

	Week Year.	To-day.	ago.
Chicago	272 215	272	215
Winnipeg	272 215	272	215

WHEAT SITUATION GENERALLY SOUND

Broomhall Discusses the Salient Points of Present World Conditions.

Broomhall's special international wheat review of the world situation follows: The feature of the week has been the good demand from the continent. France has played an important part in keeping principal countries of the world from a substantial advance; whereas the market of the United States has declined moderately.

The depression which prevailed here during the winter seems to have entirely disappeared. The growing wheat and that of reserves of native wheat in France are fast approaching maturity and that may now be claimed as an exact balance of supply and demand with no carry over at harvest, and that is the view taken by consumers.

The weather in Western Europe is frequently wet and stormy, approaching what Italy's native reserves are expected to be. The demand for wheat from the centre and north is likely to be for at least four months. Germany and United Kingdom—There is still seven or eight weeks before the demand for foreign wheat, which is now large, will show signs of abatement and many other countries in Europe and ex-Europe show an active demand for wheat.

Canada parted with a great bulk, which is not ready for shipment at the present time, but it is hardly anticipated that it will be smaller, but this and next week's shipments will be fairly substantial from this country. American wheat is a heavy shipper again this season, but it is not anticipated that it will be as large as last year's. Sea may export freely, should prospects of the new crop become distinctly favorable.

Can only repeat the supplies are sufficient to liberalize the market in the event of a heavy demand. The market is not so tight as it was a few weeks ago, but it is not so loose as it was a few weeks ago. TRADE LACKS A LEADER MARKET MERELY DRIFTS

No New Incentive to Speculation Offered in Mining Market—Trading in Small Proportions, and Price Changes Narrow.

World Office. Wednesday Evening, June 12. No new incentive to speculation was offered in the mining exchanges today, and the market consequently was allowed to drift along at its usual slow pace. Trading was of small proportions, and with some of the leaders manifested a more active disposition, this was not of sufficient calibre to attract any particular attention.

The continued influence of the big decline in the quotation list to a certain extent, and the continued weakness of the market, have kept the undertone from developing any material improvement. The failure of the big issue to make any recovery from its sharp break was accepted as clear evidence of a general market apathy existing in market circles, and was viewed by the bear interests as a factor of great importance.

At its low price for the day, Hollinger stood at 28.90, a new low record for the year, and a loss of five points from yesterday's closing figure. The share was not liquidated to any great extent, but the buying demand was restricted, and at no time did the bids show any upward disposition. Other shares were generally flat to declining. Dome's position dropped off to 29 7/8. Crown Chartered 20, Kerr Lake 20, Hollinger 20, Wetlaufer 20, McKimley 20, Can. Marconi 20.

Production Fell Off but Value Was Greater—Off to Higher Prices for Silver.

The effect of the high level of silver prices during the last month of May in the monthly production report of the U.S. Geological Survey was over 6000 ounces of silver less than reported in April. In May the production of silver was 22,412 ounces, as compared with 28,987 in April. In the early months of the year the total production was 228,146. MINING ISSUES WELL TAKEN

Big Stock Offering of Canadian Mining & Exploration Co. Twice Over-Subscribed—A Huge Concern.

The $2,500,000 stock issue of the Canadian Mining and Exploration Company, which was offered privately for subscription in New York and Toronto during the last couple of weeks, has been over-subscribed twice over, notwithstanding the fact that no general solicitation was done. Allotment of stock will be made as soon as possible.

The Canadian Mining and Exploration Company is a $5,000,000 concern, with a paid-up capital of $2,500,000. It represents a consolidation of strong Canadian and American capitalists, and is expected to expand, examine and develop mineral resources in any part of the continent, but more particularly in Canada. It will negotiate with prospectors and property owners for mining claims which are deemed worthy of its consideration by its engineers.

The company is an extension of a syndicate of United States capitalists, headed by Ambrose Monell, president of the International Nickel Company, which has been doing exploratory and development work on mining properties for many years. The primary object of the new organization is to provide the company with sufficient funds to go into examination and development of prospective mines more thoroughly than has been possible hitherto.

The $2,500,000 realized from the sale of stock is to be realized in high-grade securities, the dividend on which will provide capital to look into mining projects. There will thus be provided what is in effect, an endowment fund of many years. The primary object of the new organization is to provide the company with sufficient funds to go into examination and development of prospective mines more thoroughly than has been possible hitherto.

Officers have already been named in Toronto and New York, the local branch being in charge of W. L. Thompson, president of the Dome Mines Limited, of Porcupine, who has taken quarters in the Traders' Bank, The New York office is at 45 Exchange Place. The company will be ready to do business officially on and after June 15.

The board of directors includes many prominent Canadian and American capitalists, as follows: Chairman, Sir Edmund Osler, H. S. Holl, Sir Edmund Osler, William Osler, Sir William Mackenzie, Duncan Osler, D. Lorne McGibbon, Hon. W. Nesbitt, K.C., David Rankin, K.C., P. J. McNeil, United States—William E. Corey, E. C. Converse, P. A. Rockefeller, A. H. Wiggin, T. L. Chaboussard, J. R. De Lamar, Ambrose Monell, C. H. Sabin, R. M. Thompson, C. L. Denison.
