Mobilize New Brunswick Section of The Second Contingent In St. John

For the last few days a report has been in preparation by the local militia authorities concerning the possibilities for the mobilization of Canadian troops in St. John particularly and as to hours of accommodation. The report is ready and was today given to two visiting officials from the headquarters of the 6th Militia District, Colonel Houston, district engineer, and Major E. W. Dean. They made an inspection of the military properties today with the object of securing an intimate knowledge of the facilities to ascertain what is possible in the mobilization of the troops.

The report is understood to have spoken favorably concerning the facilities at St. John for the mobilization of a part of the second Canadian contingent and there is every reason to believe that the muster of at least the New Brunswick battalion will take place here, as was hinted at fully a month ago in the Times. In fact orders from Ottawa a few days ago named St. John as one of the militia bases. There is also a possibility that this may be one of the ports of embarkation for the next force to leave Canada. The choice will certainly lie between Halifax and St. John, but it is likely that the former will get the greater share because of its being a fortified naval base.

Partridge Island can do its share towards housing the men quite comfortably, and also the new army. Other buildings which have been thought of are certain structures on the exhibition grounds, and if necessary there are other buildings about the city which could be quite easily made into a barracks for the period of training before departure for England. By the time the second contingent is on the high seas, headed for Britain and possibly before that it is felt that most of the Canadians now at Salisbury Plains will be on the fighting line in Europe and their quarters at the training centre will be given over to the later arrivals for further seasoning.

Orders to recruit here have not yet come to hand, but so far as the infantry are concerned, they will be brought back from Halifax early next week by Col. J. L. McAvity, who will go there tomorrow to consult with the officials at headquarters.

German Torpedo Did It Bold Dash of S 90 After Sinking Japanese Cruiser on Last Saturday

Tokio, Oct. 24.—It is officially announced that the navy department now believes that the Japanese cruiser Takachiho, which was sunk in Kiao Chau harbor on October 17, was torpedoed by the German torpedo boat destroyer S 90.

Unofficial accounts say that the S 90 masked by heavy seas, dashed out of the bay, and launched her deadly torpedo. She then ran the blockade and was pursued by the enemy's destroyers. Foreseeing what her fate would be, her commander dived overboard on the shore and the magazines. The captain and the crew of sixty escaped in the direction of Shanghai and were taken in charge by Chinese soldiers.

TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND CASES OF CHOLERA

Geneva, Oct. 24.—The Swiss government has been officially informed that there are about 200,000 cases of cholera in Austria-Hungary.

THE MARKET

There was an abundance of poultry in the country market today, and prices were somewhat easier. Chickens ranged from 80 cents to $1.50 a pair, fowl from 90c to $1.25, and ducks brought $1. There were no turkeys. Moose meat was rather scarce, bringing 20 cents, while venison sold from 18c to 20c. Lamb brought 10 and 20 cents, probably the highest price in this season for some years.

THE GERMAN CREED.
Here are two quotations from the writings of Nietzsche, a philosopher who inspired the political creed now current in Germany—
(1) "The dream is dispelled which made the state begin with a contract. What has he to do with contracts who can command, who is master by nature, who comes on the scene with violence in deed and deed."
(2) "The essential thing in a good healthy aristocracy is that it should feel itself to be not a function but the end and justification, be it of royalty or of commonwealth—that it should therefore."

RHEUMATISM CRIPPLED HER

Zam-Buk Gave Quick Relief

For rheumatism, sciatica, and stiffened muscles, nothing can equal Zam-Buk. Mrs. Mary Harman, Wheatley, Ont., writes: "About four years ago I had rheumatism very badly. It affected my arms and legs, and was so bad that I could hardly move my hand. I was quite helpless, and could not do my work, and in a short time I could hardly move across the house. A friend advised me to try Zam-Buk. I obtained some and rubbed it thoroughly into the affected muscles. It was soon evident that Zam-Buk was doing its work, and in a short time I could walk around the house with ease. My arm got better, I could dress myself, and needed very little personal attention. I continued with the treatment, rubbing Zam-Buk in thoroughly every day, and in a few weeks' time the rheumatism was driven completely out of my system. The cure was permanent, too, as since that time I have never been troubled with rheumatism."

Mr. Lawrence Cameron, of Richmond, P. I., says: "I have been a great sufferer from a sore and crippled back, but after persevering with Zam-Buk I am completely cured. I feel that I cannot praise this remedy enough."

Numerous other similar cases could be cited. Zam-Buk has benefited many. Why not you?

Use Zam-Buk also for eczema, piles, cuts, burns, bruises, cold sores, chapped hands, or for any disease or injury of the skin. It is sold at all drug stores, 50c, or post-paid from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, on receipt of price.

HEAVY MEAT EATERS HAVE SLOW KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat if You Feel Back-ache or Have Bladder Trouble

No man or woman who eats meat with regularity can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become over-worked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent uric acid water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

THE WAR NEWS

The end of another week finds the Germans on the one side and the French, British and Belgians on the other still locked in deadly struggle along a line which extends from the North Sea to the Swiss border, without either side having been able to gain a decisive victory at any point. It is claimed that the battle which is now raging between Nieuport and Dixmude in Belgium is one of the most important of the war, as the Germans in that portion of the field are making their most desperate efforts to break through the allied lines and gain control of the French as well as the Belgian channel ports. Last night's cables said that the allies had lost some ground, but had also gained some, and were on the whole maintaining their general position with success in the face of continuous and most violent attacks. There is a swaying of the lines here and there as the battle rages; but the Germans have not been able to break through. It is the irony of fate that the brave Belgian soldiers, whose country has been desolated, and who have been driven almost to the very borders of their own country, are in that portion of the field against which the Germans are now throwing their greatest weight, and we can understand with what determined courage and tenacity the Belgians hold their ground, supported as they are by the soldiers and the marine artillery of Britain.

FRANCE NEEDS HELP

A cable from Paris reminds us that France as well as the Belgian people will suffer great hardship during the coming winter. Under the pressure of her war all class prejudice has been broken down in that country, and all the people, realizing their community of interest, are described as showing a wonderful spirit of gentleness and kindness, but the ravages of the war will make it necessary for help to be sent to them from the outside world. Their condition is not nearly so serious as that of the Belgians, but in that portion of the country which has been and is now the scene of such desperate fighting, attended by such awful destruction of life and property, the needs of the people will be very great. Moreover, there are already at least half a million wounded French soldiers, while thousands upon thousands of homeless Belgians have gone into France, and there are vast numbers of prisoners who must be fed. We, in Canada, can have a conception of the awful conditions which today prevail in Belgium and France. Our country is secure from track, our trade routes are open, our industries continue in operation, and life goes on about as usual. There is all the more reason that our people should be very generous in their response to the appeals for help. England, despite the immense burden she is called upon to bear, is providing homes for a host of Belgian refugees, and is displaying a most generous and self-sacrificing spirit in all her relations with her allies in this war. Her example should appeal to every Canadian.

NO CAUSE FOR GLOOM

The leading article in this week's issue of the Maritime Merchant is a good one for those who entertain gloomy views concerning the war and its effects. The writer of the article explains in a few lines why there is no cause for gloom, and that it was written because of an extremely pessimistic utterance published in a maritime weekly and copied into several other journals. He does not find anything in the situation up to the present time to justify a pessimistic feeling, and contends that in any case this is no time to give expression to such views, but rather to do everything possible to sustain public confidence.

Reasons for confidence as to the outcome of the war are well stated by the Merchant. It is pointed out that although Germany was able to put in the field at once the finest fighting machine the world has ever seen, and the allies were necessarily delayed because they were not ready, yet, after all these weeks, the Germans have failed to strike a decisive blow and are now practically on the defensive. But even if this were not the case, and the Germans went right on winning for several months, the Merchant clearly points out that they must in the end suffer defeat. Assuming a German population of 65,000,000, the Merchant points out that at the very most she could not put more than 4,500,000 men in the field. At least half of these are required to join Austria in opposing the Russians, the Serbians and Montenegrins; so that there could only remain 2,250,000 men to fight against France, Britain and Belgium. That is to say, half the population of Germany, or 32,500,000 people, would be opposed to France with 4,000,000, and the United Kingdom with 45,000,000, besides the French and British colonies and overseas states, making it possible to raise at least 10,000,000 to fight the 2,250,000 men Germany can spare to oppose them. But this does not include India nor Japan. Clearly, therefore, it can only be a question of time when Germany is crushed by overwhelming numbers.

But the Merchant points out another very important consideration, and that is the financial side of the situation. Germany and Austria are debtor nations, and Great Britain and France are creditor nations. How is Germany to raise the money to keep herself going for a long period? Then there is the question of efficiency, man for man, and the result of the fighting thus far goes to show that the British and French are superior in fighting quality to the Germans. Moreover, the allies are able to increase their efficiency in the field by steadily bringing up more men, while Germany's fighting power is steadily weakening. Germany and Austria are outclassed in numbers, financial ability and fighting quality. There can be but one end. That being so, the Maritime Merchant is quite right in asserting that the need be discouraged, and in protesting against any articles in the press which might have a tendency to weaken public confidence in the final success of Britain's cause. The concluding sentence of the Merchant's article is the right slogan for Canadians: "It's a long, long way to Tipperary, but we'll get there just the same."

We gather from the London cables that Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes has been fired on by the photographers several times since he went across. Even this, however, cannot add to his martial ardor. It is further intimated that a knighthood may come his way at New Year's. What Canada would like to see would be Col. Hughes or somebody else taking up seriously the task of recruiting and putting in training the men for the second contingent and for the other contingents that are to follow, until this country has at least 100,000 men in the field, and enough in training at home to fill up the gaps and provide for home defence throughout the period of the war. The honors can come later.

"Of course," said young Mrs. Torkins, reproachfully, "it's easy for a man to adopt an attitude of patient superiority toward the food. A man doesn't have to realize the increase in prices as a woman does." "What makes you think that?" "I have been making an investigation. A 10-cent cigar doesn't cost a bit more than it used to." Among a party of Bostonians who spent some time in a hunting camp in Maine were two college professors. No sooner had the learned gentlemen arrived than their attention was attracted by the unusual position of the stove, which was set on posts about four feet high. This circumstance afforded one of the professors immediate opportunity to comment upon the knowledge that wood men gain by observation. "Now," said he, "this man has discovered that heat emanating from a stove strikes the roof and that the circulation is so quickened that the camp is warmed in much less time than would be required were the stove in its regular place on the floor." But the other professor ventured the opinion that the stove was elevated to be above the window in order that cool and pure air could be had at night. The host, being of a practical turn, thought that the stove was set high in order that a good supply of green wood could be placed under it. After much argument they called the guide and asked why the stove was in such a position. "The man grinned," he said, "and told me that when I brought the stove up the river I lost most of the stovepipe overhead; so we had to have the pipe reach through the roof."

NEURALGIA OF THE HEART

This Letter Tells of Wonderful Change Effected by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Mr. James G. Clark, Postville, York County, N. B., writes: "I have been a great sufferer from what the doctors said was neuralgia of the heart. The pain started in the back of the neck and worked down into the region of the heart. Though I had taken a lot of medicine of one kind and another, I could not get anything to help me until I used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. "When I began this treatment I could not rest in bed, except by sitting upright, on account of the dreadful pain about the heart an dthe quick, loud beating. The change which Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has made in my condition is wonderful. It has entirely overcome these symptoms, and is making me strong and well. If this statement will help to relieve the suffering of others, you are at liberty to use it." Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is a true tonic and the greatest of nerve restoratives. 50 cents a box, $ for $2.00; all dealers, Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

"NOT THE ENGLISH CUSTOM" Field Marshall Wood's Stories of The British Soldier and Some Noted Officers. Field Marshall Sir Evelyn Wood told some interesting stories at a meeting which he addressed in London recently. Referring to the charges of brutality made against the Germans, he said: "We need not fear that the British soldier will ever descend to making reprisals. Thirty-five years ago I was commanding 12,000 men who fought against 23,000 brave Zulus for five hours and a half. They attacked with the undaunted courage of savages who did not realize the effect of modern rifles, and the following morning we buried the side of a vast number of dead Zulus close up to one face of the lagged wagons behind which our men had stood. When the fight was over I desired a few friendly Zulus who were attached to the companies under my command to collect for every regiment, promising for each uninjured man a stick of tobacco. Next morning there was outside me a group of magnificent specimens of humanity. When I got all the information I required, I said: 'Two months ago when after a skirmish our doctors cared for your wounded, and a few days later you overwhelmed our camp, killing 1,000 of our men, you did not spare those who had been attending on your own brothers. Will one of you say why you should not kill us? I answer, because it is not the English custom.' First Duty of a Citizen. "This is the character our race bears in the north, south, east and west of Africa, and I hope it may ever continue, would sensibly lessen the grand fighting the assault of Delhi in 1857, when embittered by horrible stories, many ex-generals, and at Jhansi in 1858, were seen deliberately lifting women and little children out of the line of fire. Such conduct is a part of our national inheritance. Sir Evelyn said this war would test Britons and deepen the spirit of self-sacrifice and devotion to duty. Our people were realizing now that the first duty of a citizen was to fit himself to defend his country. That we had yet time to repair our refusal to admit the accuracy of this truism was due to the unceasing watch of our seamen in mine-strewn waters. Sir Evelyn told a good story of Sir Horace Smith-Dorrien: "In 1882 I was left twelve miles outside Alexandria with six battalions to cover a frontage of more than five miles, which in the previous week had been penetrated by the enemy. I sent an order into Alexandria for a smart subaltern who was to go

There is Nothing Like Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to Set it Right. Mrs. C. L. Cook, 248 Tenth street, Brandon, Man., writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for the last four years for liver trouble, and can say that I have had great satisfaction and help from them. I find that I do not need any doctor if I use them when the liver gets torpid, and believe that they are exactly suited for my case. My husband has used them for kidney trouble with good results, and my daughter in Winnipeg has been helped a great deal by the use of these pills. We say we can't keep house without them, and have cheated the doctors here out of a good many visits. I think Dr. Chase's medicines are just the thing, and have recommended them to many people who have used them with good results." By keeping the liver active and the bowels regular Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills prevent and cure such disorders as biliousness, constipation, chronic indigestion and headache. One pill a dose, 25c a box, 5 for $1.00; all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Healthy, Wrinkle-Free Skin Easy to Have. A dull, drab, muddy complexion, or an aged, blotchy, pimply or freckled skin can be a quite simple, harmless and inexpensive method, be changed to one of flower-like radiance and purity. One ounce of common mercurochrome, sold by druggists generally, will remove the most unsightly complexion in from one to two weeks. By its remarkable absorptive power, it penetrates the pores, gradually breaks up the impurities which are gradually heaped up in them, almost invisible particles which do not show themselves in any inconvenience, and no trace is left on the skin except that of enhanced beauty. The skin is smeared on like cold cream before being washed off, and removed in the morning with warm water. If the skin be wrinkled or sallow, a face bath, made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered salicylic acid in 1 pt. witch hazel, will be found most effective. Combining both salicylic acid and tonic properties, this lightens the skin and braces up its supporting muscles.

FRANCIS & VAUGHAN 10 KING STREET. WARNING THE WAR in Europe has involved nearly the countries in which dolls and toys are produced, all indications point to the worst doll and toy famine that this country has ever seen. Many merchants find themselves short of stocks. We were fortunate in having our orders shipped thirty days earlier than usual this year, and have received ninety-five per cent. of our stocks. We think we have dolls and toys enough for all our regular customers, but we there may be no misunderstanding we say plainly, that people who defer their holiday purchases this year do so at their own risk. At present we have one of the best assorted Christmas stocks ever seen in Canada. There will be no repeat orders this year. For this reason we earnestly urge you to buy your dolls and toys at once. There is much to lose and nothing to gain by waiting.

NOTES OF THE WAR

Lieutenant Sir R. G. V. Duff, of the Second Life Guards, and Major Lord John Spencer Cavendish of the First Life Guards, have been killed in battle at the front. Lord Cavendish was a distinguished soldier and a brother of the Duke of Devonshire.

An unconfirmed report from Bombay reached London yesterday saying that the German cruiser, Emden, which had been doing so much damage about the Indian ocean, had been accounted for.

Seventy cruisers are searching the oceans for the German cruisers reported as having sent many British ships to the bottom, the Emden and Karlsruhe being especially sought after. The cruisers in quest of them are those of Britain and her allies.

CHILD'S VELVET FROCK

1 1/2 yard of 44-inch plain material for the frock.

The back (C), skirt (G), collar (D) and front (E) are marked by triple "FT" perforations. The skirt is cut on a lengthwise fold of the velvet before it is cut. Lines on the rest of the material, running along a lengthwise thread, the side front, pleating for skirt and front pieces are arranged.

If one dislikes to make sleeves it will be well to get the pattern of the work out of the way first. Close seams, add cuffs of silk and put aside until the waist is reached.

Now underface the front from upper edge to crossline of double "O" perforations in front; cut along edge of side front on slot perforations; lap on front to small "O" perforations, notches edge to center-back seam and press. Gather lower edge of front and back between double "O" perforations. Sew round collar to neck edge, notches and center-backs even and along small "O" perforations in front; roll front on left, centers even; stitch lower edges together.

Adjust stay underneath gathers at lower edge of waist, centers even; large "O" perforation at under-arm seam.

Add sleeves to armholes, easing in fullness. For the skirt and tunic, close back seam of skirt. Turn hem at lower edge on small "O" perforations. Form inverted pleat at center-back, creating an slot perforation; bring folded edge to center-back seam and press. Gather upper edge between double "O" perforations. Join tunic sections as notched and form inverted pleat at seam, creating an slot perforation; bring folded edges together at seam and press. Arrange tunic on skirt, centers and upper edges even; bring large "O" perforation in skirt to inverted pleat in tunic. Sew to lower edge of waist over stay, centers and even; large "O" perforation in skirt at under-arm seam.

Finish the waist with a belt of plain black moire silk or satin.

WOMEN SOLDIERS OF THE BRITISH ARMY

The inevitable crop of women soldiers is already making its appearance in the great war, says The London Sketch. One of these heroines, who did a very gallant deed in rescuing a wounded soldier, has been discovered amongst the Russian forces; and though probably she will not be allowed to take any further part in the campaign she will go down in Russian history as a minor star—a follower of Joan of Arc and some of the Spanish heroines of the Peninsular war.

The British army has had its women soldiers and two of them are buried in the cemetery of Chelsea Hospital. One of the dames was Hannah Snell, who, from her portrait, preserved in the great hall of the hospital, was a most truculent looking person. She served in the siege of Pondicherry and was badly wounded. Her sex was discovered when she was removed to hospital. She became a pensioner and wore on occasion, the three-cornered hat and uniform of Chelsea; and she was buried at her own request, in the graveyard of the hospital.

Christina Davis was another female soldier who received a pension and who is described as a "fat, jolly woman." When she acknowledged to her sex she resumed some of the privileges of that sex, and married in succession three husbands, the third being a Chelsea pensioner.

THE SAUCY ARETHUSA.

The Arethusa, the ship which played so important a part in the fight of Helgoland, bears a famous name. In the great French war there was a famous frigate, "The Saucy Arethusa," whose action with a French vessel which was immortalized in one of Dibdin's most celebrated sea-songs. The Admiralty have ordered the following verses from the H. M. S. Arethusa of today:—
Come, all ye jolly sailors bold,
Whose hearts are cast in honor's mould,
While English gory I unfold,
Huzza for the Arethusa!
To their favorite launch,
And when the foe shall meet our fire,
Sooner than strike we'll all expire—
On board of the Arethusa.
And, now we've driven the foe ashore
Never to fight with Britons more,
Let each fill his glass
To his favorite lass!
A health to our captain and officers true,
And all that belong to the jovial crew
On board of the Arethusa.

TAILOR-MADE GIRLS' RIGHT UP TO DATE

The 'tailor-made girl' keeps right up with the fashionable procession. The 'cape-skirt' and the much-frilled street suit make no appeal to her. She ignores the 'latest fashions' and clings to her tailored coat with its straight lines, to the simple skirt trimmed only with patch pockets.

TEACHING BOYS AND GIRLS PRACTICAL GARDEN WORK. (Amherst News) Farming courses have been informally included in the curriculum of some schools in this county and this autumn the interest of those who brought it about has borne fine fruit.

Rev. J. A. Hart, promoter and organizer of the exhibitions at that just held at Leicester is to be congratulated on the splendid work he has started and the successful way in which it has been carried on. Last year was the first time it had been tried in Cumberland County and it certainly proved its worth. Six schools took part in the work namely, Saleen, East and West Leicester, Mansfield and the two Little River schools.

HER BEAUTIFUL SKIN

Every Woman, Who Wishes Those Charms Of Purity and Freshness of Complexion, Should Be a Regular User of Fruit Juices In The Form of 'Fruit-a-tives'

A CLEAN SKIN MEANS A CLEAN BODY

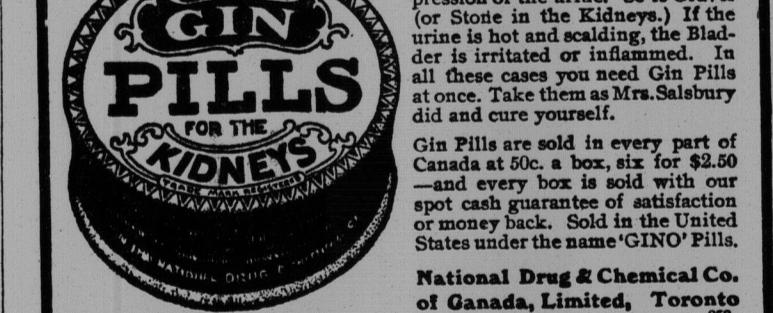

If You Are Not Satisfied With Your Complexion, Improve It With 'Fruit-a-tives'

SINCE the days of Cleopatra, a soft, clean, rosy-tinted skin has meant beauty. It does today, yet beautiful complexions are noticeable because of their rarity. A smooth, glowing skin may be had by every woman, who will use a little care and take 'Fruit-a-tives.'

Feet and ankles so swollen, she could not walk up stairs. Every woman and every man, who suffers with Rheumatism—has acute attacks of Rheumatism, Sciatica or Lumbago—whose Kidneys are weak and whose hands and feet become swollen and painful—should read carefully these two letters of Mrs. Salisbury about the magical effects of

Gin Pills FOR THE KIDNEYS

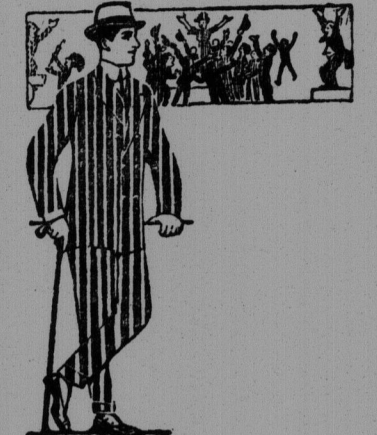

On February 14th, last, Mrs. J. A. Salisbury wrote about Gin Pills. 'I can certainly say Gin Pills have done a lot of good for me. Some six years ago, I could not walk upstairs, my feet and ankles were so swollen, but I took three boxes of Gin Pills and the trouble has never returned. My mother, 82 years of age, is taking them and feels fine.'

Swollen hands and feet are a sure sign of Kidney Trouble. So is Mucus or brick dust deposits in the urine. So is incontinence or suppression of the urine. So is Gravel (or Stone in the Kidneys.) If the urine is hot and scalding, the Bladder is irritated or inflamed. In all these cases you need Gin Pills at once. Take them as Mrs. Salisbury did and cure yourself.

Can you name these two Varieties?

They are among the best of Canada's world-famed apples. Each has distinctive qualities. Can you name them? Do you know a McIntosh Red from a Fameuse? A Gravenstein from a Ben Davis?

APPLE LORE Romance in an Apple Orchard. Ben Davis was an awful flirt. He was a native of Spitzbergen and quite famous as a wanderer. He became quite smitten on Miss Gravenstein, a wealthy young lady of Bolden, and his attentions made McIntosh Red with anger and turned Jonathan, still another suitor, Greening with jealousy. Jonathan engaged a Northern Spy, who found out that Ben Davis has stolen some of Grimes Golden from the King. On being exposed Ben had to flee to Roxbury, and Jonathan celebrated his Golden Harvest wedding with Miss Gravenstein in a Nonpareil splendor.

DEMOCRACY'S WAR

Why German Autocracy Must Be Crushed

The following article is an extract from the pamphlet entitled "Fall In: An Appeal to the Youth of Britain," which The London Daily Chronicle is publishing.

If France and Belgium founder in this struggle, let no Liberal or Socialist, let no working man imagine for one moment that democracy will have the faintest chance in Europe during the remainder of his working life.

In order to win outright we shall have to put our best foot forward. Every piece of evidence the war has yielded so far has been a cruel proof that civilization has gone backward under militarist autocracy.

This was then the supreme fight between the principles and teaching inherent in democracy and those inherent in militarist autocracy.

The proof of the pudding is in the eating. If any of us were doubtful at the outset which system, militarist autocracy or democracy, was the real champion of "culture" in nations, there can be no shadow of doubt now.

WALLS OF RHEIMS CATHEDRAL INTACT

Decorative Motifs Are Lost and Sculptures Gone; Wonderful Glass, Too

The New York Sun prints the full report of Whitney Warren, an American architect, on the damage done to Rheims Cathedral by German shells of which a brief cable summary has been already published.

He says that "bombs" by which the masonry shells, struck it on Sept. 4, Sept. 14, 15, 17 and 18 and continues in part: On Sept. 19 the cathedral was fairly riddled by bombs during the entire day and at about 3.45 the scaffolding surrounding the north tower caught fire.

The fire on the scaffolding surrounding the north tower caught fire, and during that time two further bombs struck the roof, setting it also on fire. The cure claims that one of these bombs must have been incendiary, otherwise it would be impossible to explain the extraordinary quickness with which the fire spread throughout the roof timbers.

The fire from the scaffolding descended until it reached the north door of the main facade, which caught rapidly, burned through and communicated to the straw with which the floor of the cathedral was covered. This straw had been ordered on Sept. 12 by the German commander in order to prepare the cathedral to receive 3,000 German wounded, but the evacuation of the city by the Germans had prevented the carrying out of this order.

The Biddlestone family of Youngstown and Niles, O., probably has more brain and brawn engaged in the iron and steel industry than any other family in that vicinity. Seven brothers hold responsible positions in that industry in those two cities.

VALCARTIER RIFLE RANGE

Valcartier is undoubtedly a marvellous place for a large military encampment, says the Canadian Military Gazette. With a splendid level plain of large extent, for drill and exercises, with a beautiful little river for bathing, with natural scenery unsurpassed in Canada, with plenty of hill, dale and broken ground, it is a most desirable place for a water system, side-walks, roads; all these have been added, but the great marvel of all is the rifle range.

Just fancy a range three and a half miles long, equipped with 147 targets, with a splendid dry safe trench for the markers, and a thousand yards of distance available at some points.

We think we are correct in saying that this is the largest and best range in the world. Thousands of men have used it in a single day, without confusion, without accident, and to the satisfaction of all.

Lord Kitchener is reported to have said of his new levies: "Never mind whether they know the right foot from the left, but teach them to shoot straight." Colonel Hughes, whether he agrees with the first injunction or not, has certainly wholeheartedly adopted the latter, and the expeditionary force has had a wonderful opportunity for rifle practice, considering its large number, and the shortness of the time to be utilized. Up to September 20, more than two million rounds had been fired, a good proof of the activity displayed. Of all the good work done in connection with Valcartier, and its sum total is enormous, nothing ranks higher than the performance in musketry.

Even given so wonderful a range, this marvel in rifle practice could not have been accomplished without excellent work on the part of those officers in PRZEMYSL AND CRACOW. Ancient Cities Now Objectives of the Russian Attacks.

Przemysl was founded in the eighth century, and rose to some importance in a population of 20,000 in the Middle Ages, until both its importance and its population were annihilated in the seventeenth century by hordes of Tartars from the south. Cossacks on the east, and Sweden from the north. Its population in 1800 was only 600, one-third of whom were Jews. The town is picturesquely situated on the River San, about 140 miles east of Cracow by rail. On the hill above the town are the ruins of the old castle which had been built by Casimir the Great. In 1874 the Austrian government sent to fortify the place and from 1880 to 1890 spent over $3,000,000 on the works. These consist of twelve permanent forts with double the number of gunnery looking toward the north and east.

On Sept. 16, after a running battle of twenty days, the Russians arrived on the left bank of the San and a little in the rear of Przemysl. Thereupon it was stated that the Second and Fourth Austrian armies retired from Przemysl. Since then several Russian advances on Przemysl and several retreats of the Austrians have been announced.

Cracow, seventy years ago the capital of a short-lived Polish republic, borders on Prussia, Austria, and Russian dominions, where they meet in the fertile valley of the Vistula. Like most of the larger towns of Galicia (it has a population of 70,000) it was founded with a view to its natural fortifications. Today the old castles of the Polish Kings and the old walls overlook a series of fifteen modern fortifications on the hills below them. The castle serves as barracks and the walls are used as a promenade.

In 1815 the Congress of Vienna declared Cracow to be "forever a free, independent, and strictly neutral city, under the protection of Russia, Austria and Prussia"—the last remnant of an old independent Poland. This condition lasted until 1846, when the town became a hotbed of Polish intrigue, and, in spite of the efforts of the authorities to stamp out the conspiracy, Cracow was held to be responsible, and its three protecting powers, among whom the original territory of Poland had been divided, extinguished its independence in spite of the diplomatic efforts of France and England. Thus Cracow became incorporated with the crown lands of Austria.

Tribute To British Government

(From the "North American," Philadelphia)

Amid all the tension and distress of war, there is one fact in which the people of Great Britain, we doubt not, take universal pride and comfort. We purpose to discuss that condition here because it carries an important meaning for the people of this country.

The features of the British situation which seem to us noteworthy and significant are the commanding initiative, the steadiness of purpose and the masterful efficiency displayed by the government in meeting the greatest crisis that has confronted the Empire since Napoleon landed his transports to cross the English Channel.

This statement has no relation whatever to the issues involved in the war. We shall discuss the actions of the British government solely as evidences of administrative capacity.

What makes them significant and of vital American interest is the fact that it is a Liberal government—that the party in power is the party of progressivism or Radicalism, as distinguished from the party of Conservatism or reaction.

From time immemorial it has been a settled belief of British Toryism that capacity for real statesmanship was an exclusive possession of that element of the population. Its exponents would loftily concede that occasionally the Liberal party might show a certain intelligence, and that its policies revealed a pioneering spirit that was commendable; but it was held that beyond this point no dependence could be placed upon that organization.

Politicians whose minds were engrossed with extravagant schemes of social betterment—so ran the Tory tale—statesmen who burdened parliament and the property interests with Socialistic projects of land reform, old age pension, National Insurance, housing improve-

HAIR STOPS FALLING, DANDRUFF DISAPPEARS—25 CENT DANDERINE

Save Your Hair! Make it Soft, Fluffy, Lustrous and Beautiful

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair; and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most, will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all.

A TALK TO CANADIANS ABOUT WAR NEWS

THE LITERARY DIGEST is known throughout the United States and Canada as a great illustrated weekly. The idea of each number is to gather up and edit the news of the world for one week—everything printed worth reprinting. THE LITERARY DIGEST receives every important newspaper and illustrated journal published in Europe and its editors reproduce for its readers the news of the war as presented in London, in Paris, in Berlin, in Vienna, in Rome, in Petrograd, in New York, in Washington, and other news distributing centres. It reproduces maps, pictures, documents, speeches, editorials—everything important about the war from all points of view. Canadians will find in THE LITERARY DIGEST the most satisfying war news published in any journal in the world. Has one million readers.

adroit diplomacy which made Britain's antagonists the aggressors, and the final stand upon principles which enlist the utmost devotion of every faction.

Solving the Food Problem.

With the dread summons to war came new problems of equal magnitude and consequence. First was the question of food. Great Britain is always within less than half a year of famine; let the supplies from other parts of the world cease for that period, and she starves. While the threat of war still hung in the balance, the government of theorists took charge of the nation's larder.

It learned, and announced, that a full five months' quota of food was on hand. It extended its authority over these supplies, named the maximum prices at which they might be sold, and gave notice that it would regulate distribution if that step became necessary. As a result, the excited vision of hunger was dispelled, the hoarding of supplies ceased and inside three days the food bazaar was at normal.

The supreme aversion of Toryism, of course, David Lloyd George. To the offence of being a Welshman and of having risen from the "lower middle class" to the Chancellorship of the Exchequer, he had added that of promoting all sorts of schemes of "uplift." And this visionary was in charge of the nation's finances at a time when their very foundations were threatened!

Yet a Conservative writer bears witness that "the cabinet rose to the situation with superb competence." When the shock came the banks were closed for the August holiday; and they were kept closed until arrangements had been made to meet the strain. Then the government postponed for thirty days the payment of all bills of exchange and all contracts except for wages. To avert a currency famine it issued bank-notes for 10c and 20c, the smallest denomination ordinarily being 2s.

Moreover, it was Mr. Lloyd George and his bare-brained colleagues who put into effect the plan of government insurance of import cargoes to 80 per cent of their value, a move which—the United States having failed to take like action—started shipments of sugar and other necessities toward the ports of Britain.

Kitchener and a Ready Fleet.

So complete was the government's financial command that the days after the opening of the war the British business man, with the country entering a gigantic conflict, could obtain all needed money at 5 per cent, while enterprises in Philadelphia, 8,000 miles distant, had to pay 6 to 7 per cent for accommodation.

It was "Liberal luck," no doubt, that brought Kitchener to England from his post in Egypt at this crisis; but it was clear-sighted wisdom that instantly re-quisitioned his services for the War Office. Here, again, the government showed the statesmanship that rises above politics.

But more picturesque and more vital than any of these things was the incomparable readiness of the navy. So well prepared was the Admiralty that the outbreak found the vast home fleets assembled on a war basis, manned with trained crews, their guns on edge with practice; their supplies of coal, food and ammunition at hand. When the hour struck there was no delay. One brief order was given, the great grey squadrons faded into the mists of the North Sea, and from that day England has rested secure.

The man responsible for this exhibition of almost German efficiency is Winston Churchill. He is not yet forty years old, and when he was made First Lord, two or three years ago, Conservative England almost wept with chagrin. Today the confidence in young Churchill is like unto that reposed 200 years ago in his illustrious ancestor, Marlborough. Times of stress demand statesmen who are progressive enough to make their own precedents, and keen-witted enough to adapt themselves to present problems. Broad sympathy for humanity and a desire to establish better conditions of life are the strongest possible stimulants for practical efficiency in administration.

TWO WOMEN SAVED FROM OPERATIONS

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Their Own Stories Here Told.

Edmonton, Alberta, Can. — "I think it is no more than right for me to thank you for what your kind advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have done for me.

"When I wrote to you some time ago I was a very sick woman suffering from female troubles. I had organic inflammation and could not stand or walk any distance. At last I was confined to my bed, and the doctor said I would have to go through an operation, but this I refused to do. A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now, after using three bottles of it, I feel like a new woman. I most heartily recommend your medicine to all women who suffer with female troubles. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills, and think they are fine. I will never be without the medicine in the house."—Mrs. FRANK EMBLEY, 905 Columbia Avenue, Edmonton, Alberta.

The Other Case.

Beatrice, Neb.—"Just after my marriage my left side began to pain me and the pain got so severe at times that I suffered terribly with it. I visited three doctors and each one wanted to operate on me but I would not consent to an operation. I heard of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and being for others and I used several bottles of it with the result that I haven't been bothered with my side since then. I am in good health and I have two little girls."—Mrs. R. B. CHILD, Beatrice, Neb.

Twice Wrongly Identified. A remarkable case of mistaken identity has occurred at Stroud. The body of a man was found in the canal, and was identified by several people as being that of George Hewlett, a painter whose wife also declared that it was her husband. In the evening, however, Hewlett returned home. Next the body was identified by three people as being that of James Fowler, a local character, but this proved incorrect, and Fowler also arrived home safely. The body was finally identified as that of a man who had been missing for some time.

Savage of North End is an aunt. Burial took place in Boston.

FACTS ABOUT THE NEW FALLS BRIDGE

Some Idea of The Remarkable Engineering Work

WEIGHT OF 2,000 TONS

Means a Great Deal to the People in Convenience and in the Prospect of New Home Sites

Work on the new steel bridge spanning the reversing falls is still going on merrily and every day people stop to watch the operations, which, from an spectacular point of view, will soon be over. At present the men are riveting and also erecting stringers and other details of the steel structure. The top cord which is being prepared at the company's plant, will not be ready for several days. The final connecting link which it represents, still remains unfinished. The temporary bolt placed a few days ago will remain, though the bolt and section will be strongly rivetted when once the cord is put in position.

Much interest to the general observer centres in the crane-like machine called the traveler. During the course of conversation an official explained some details concerning it.

This machine is on rails twenty feet apart, and is run along the bridge to the spot where lifting is required. The crane part and frame-work on front to keep it from tipping when under strain, are all made of steel and power is supplied from the engine in the rear. The machine now being used on the bridge has a lifting capacity of twenty-two tons and from this fact alone the magnitude of the work is made more clear. Each of the cords, which are twenty-four feet long, weigh eight tons and is lifted by this machine with apparent ease and guided to a nicely just where it is expected to be set.

A good deal of talk was caused by passers by when the western section of the bridge was being lowered into position. Here again actual figures come as a surprise, for it is learned that the weight of that half amounted to about 900 tons and from this it will be seen that the anchors which upheld this stretch of steel must be capable of great resistance. The entire bridge weighs almost 2,000 tons, and of course the weight is distributed, that being one of the particular feats of the engineers.

The length of the steel spans, which has often been quoted as though that were the entire length of the bridge, but in reality there are two approaches spans which must be taken into consideration, and they are each approximately forty-eight feet long, this adding to the general dimensions.

Reinforced concrete will compose the floor and double tracks for street railway purposes are to be laid on the stringers, the top of the rail being level with the road-bed. Sidewalks of the regulation seven feet width, and to be laid and will project over each side perhaps four or five feet. The projecting section will be upheld by stringers and brackets of steel and the floor is to be concrete.

A matter causing more or less comment is the number of Indians employed on this job, and who came here as skilled workmen. Many of the race do follow that occupation regularly and as an instance of this it may be of interest to relate that in the Quebec Bridge disaster, thirty-three Indians lost their lives. Right across the river from Lachine and the Dominion Bridge Co's plant an Indian Reservation is located and no doubt the proximity of the big works accounts to some extent for the number of Indians who enter that employ.

The new bridge means a great deal to the residents of Lancaster and West St. John, as it will be possible to take a car in the city and go straight through to Carleton without transferring in less time than by boat.

Fairville people have always looked upon the coming of the bridge as a boon to that section, for the walk across the old Suspension with a wait on either side, kept many home builders from choosing Lancaster as a residential possibility.

It has been said on good authority that when transportation arrangements have been completed a trip by car from the foot of King street in the city to the head of Main street, Fairville, can be made in less than twenty minutes. The Fairville car would operate there the length of Main street, connecting with the Carleton car at what is known as Fairville crossing. This schedule would allow time for those employed in the city to go to the streets bounds of the railway system and return during the dinner hour and many, no doubt, are prepared to partake of home dinners with keen wish.

All told the advantages of the work, nearing a finish are many. The details of erection are, needless to say, being very attractively watched by those who

The Man In The Street

Aside from his positive military inclinations, the other hobby of the Hon. Col. Sam seems to be posing for the press photographers.

One of the British monitors recently doing effective work on the Belgian coast was under Commandant Arthur Snagge, making it unnecessary to further explain as to what the Germans struck.

The theological editor of the Times-States departed from his usual air of seriousness and savviness today and flippantly inquired "Do the dogs of war pronounce Kipling?"

Talking of Apples
The department of agriculture seems to intimate that "an apple a day" will chase the germs if not the Germans.

And despite their name there is no reason to view even the "northern Spies" with suspicion.

Talking of apples, have you done your duty by your country and your family and bought a barrel?

If the apples in the goods, according to the advertised promises, the doctors may feel that they have grounds for action against the government for destroying their practice.

They say that the troops at the front are threatened with lockjaw from powder burns. No wonder Colonel Sam is coming home.

The German officers who boasted that they would be in London in four weeks may get there—as prisoners.

It even applies in the police court. A casual observer, dropping in there any morning would be inclined to remark, "Business as Usual."

A very pug-nosed youngster was standing on a street corner and pointing to a young man that was passing, and saying, "D'ye see the way that man is looking at my nose? I'll bet he's a reporter."

"Why, what makes you think so?" queried the other.

"Cause," the pug-nosed one replied, "Reporters always like to see things turn up."

The expression, "Talk Business, Not War," was never meant for the Kaiser or the newspapers.

A Modern Fairy Tale.
The Sphinx opened one battered eye upon a troubled world and described Aboukir, the desert spirit, curled up on the sand at his base. Looking down wearily he said, "O, Aboukir, my sleep has been troubled by a most distressing dream, which I cannot efface from my memory. I see a lot of people walking along a dark way with much difficulty. They alight from a conveyance at a place where the particularly bright and section will be strongly rivetted when once the cord is put in position.

Stygian darkness, bounding along, now tramping into slimy hollows, but all the time pushing the people along. The people stretch the steel strips, much like railway tracks, but they lie idle; and the people strain their eyes through the darkness to gaze upon them and sigh."

The spirit arose, yawned and stretched his limbs. "I know that place," he said, as he faded into thin air, "It is called East St. John."

CAUGHT AT THEFT OF NEWSPAPERS

Boy Arrested, as Annoyance of This Kind Must Be Done Away With

Several merchants and others have been complaining lately that their newspapers were not being delivered regularly. The matter was investigated and a sharp lookout has been kept. This morning between six and seven o'clock a boy who said he was only twelve years of age was arrested when he was seen taking a bundle of telegrams from the door of E. G. Nelson & Company, King street. The boy gave a wrong name and wrong address to the police. His mother appeared on the boy's behalf when he was brought before Magistrate Ritchie in the juvenile court this morning. She said that he had been taken away from school to be employed as a messenger boy but found that he was too young. The magistrate said the boy should never have been taken away from school when he was so young and said that small boys could not go out in the streets nowadays without wearing their hats and shoes. The boy was allowed to go with a warning which should be effective.

REV. MR. ARMSTRONG MAKES BUT SLOW RECOVERY

Rev. R. A. Armstrong, rector of Trinity church, who has been suffering from painful injuries received from burns as a result of an accident while on a camping expedition several months ago, is still in a somewhat serious condition in Orillia, Ontario where he had been visiting. Mr. Armstrong is said to be recovering very slowly.

F. J. G. Knowlton, one of the wardens of Trinity church and a personal friend of Mr. Armstrong has gone to visit him and it is said that arrangements are being made to have the patient removed to one of the hospitals in Toronto where he will receive the best of medical attendance as it is understood that a large amount of skin grafting has been found necessary to insure his recovery. The many St. John friends of Rev. Mr. Armstrong and especially members of Trinity congregation sincerely hope that his health will soon be restored, and that he will be able to resume his duties here before very long. Mr. Knowlton is expected to return to the city on next Tuesday or Wednesday.

A SPECIAL WEEK END SALE

Men's Hats at $1.00
Men's Caps at 29c

This is to be a general clearing out of all Broken Sizes and Styles in Men's Hats. They are in all the Newest Shapes, not an old style in the lot and sold regularly for $2.50, $3.00 and $4.00 each. In the lot are Hats from such well known makers as Hawes, Mallory, Christy and Tress, in Brown, Greens, Grays and other colors. Think of it a regular $4.00 hat for $1.00

A great collection of Men's Caps which sold at 75c., $1.00 Clearing at 29c.

The Business of This Men's Clothing Store is to make it impossible for any man who is a man, to come in here and not find the suit that is best for him to buy, and to wear, no matter what price he wants to pay between $6.00 and $35.00

The new suits which we are now showing are pretty convincing evidence that we have achieved that purpose.

Another Special!

Almost "Something for Nothing"

WE have just received 150 Rubber-Tired Delivery Wagons—exactly as shown in cut—and will offer them for sale on Wednesday, October 28, at 25 cents each.

Of course, this is only a fraction of the ordinary selling price of such a cart, and will apply for the one day only. You can delight the kiddies at a nominal cost, and it will pay you to secure them now for Christmas. See them in our window and be convinced of the unusual value.

Remember the Date—Wednesday, Oct. 28. Not Before, Not After!
