BLAZE IN CHICAGO

Several Firemen Injured-Property Loss Estimated at $550,000.

Chicago, Jan. 26.-Fire of a mysterlous origin destroyed the big wholesale glassware and crockery store of Pitkin & Brooks, Lake and State streets, early this morning, causing a loss of $550,000 and injuring several firemen. The latter were hurt by falling glassware, or were scorched by flames, which suddenly burst from the windows.

The fire was first discovered in the rear part of the second story, and had evidently been burning slowly some time. Adjacent buildings, though seriously threatened, were saved.

In front of the Pitkin & Brooks building is the Union elevated loop railway, which was damaged somewhat by the intense heat. The loss on the building is $50,000, on stock $500,000; all were insured. The firm of Pitkin & Brooks is one of the oldest in Chicago.

POLITICAL POINTS.

The scrutiny into the votes of the North Bruce election, the first stage in the hearing of the protest against the return of Mr. Alex. McNeill, re-sulted in a tie. Both sides will endeavor to prove corrupt practices, in order to cut off votes from their opponents, but the result is practically certain to be a new election.

East York Conservatives have nominated Henry Duncan, reeve of York, for the Ontario House.

EXCHANGE OF COURTESIES

Between King Edward and Emperor William Gives the Keenest Satisfaction.

Arrangements for the Queen's Funeral—Order of Procession-Memorial Services Held in All the Churches Throughout the Empire Yesterday—The Kaiser Receiving Birthday Congratulations.

papers comment with keen satisfaction upon the exchange of courtesies between King Edward VII. and Emperor rick, all in full uniform. The emperor

"History is being made with lightning speed in these days,"say the Daily Telegraph, "days crowded with majestic and epoch-making incidents which can never cease to impress the imagination of the world, and perhaps to affect its fortunes. "There is not a single Briton but cherishes the hope and the confidence that the close and moving contact into which Emperor William and British people have been brought will result in the absolute removal of a great misunderstanding." A BRILLIANT FUNCTION. Cowes, Isle of Wight, Jan. 28.-The crown prince of Germany, Frederick William, was invested with the Order of the Garter this morning by King Edward VII. The investiture occurred in the council chamber of Osborne House. It was a brilliant function. The high officers of the household, military and civil functionaries, and the emperor's entourage, including a party from the imperial yacht Hohenzollern, were present in full uniform.

MEMORIAL SERVICES. Yesterday throughout the kingdom all places of worship held services in memory of Queen Victoria. Paul's Cathedral there was an unusual scene. Before 9 o'clock in the morning an enormous crowd, wholly attired in black, streamed from all directions to the vast edifice, and by 10 o'clock it was packed. Thousands, unable to obtain admission, stood vainly waiting on the steps and around listening to the low organ strains and muffled peal. The service began at half-past ten. The Most Rev. Frederick Temple, Primate and Archbishop of Canterbury, preached a most touching ser-

There was a similar scene at Westminster Abbey, where all the services throughout the day were attended by enormous congregations. The large assemblage in the Chapel Royal, at St. James' Palace, included Princess Frederica of Hanover, Prince Francis of Teck, a host of titled people, many members of the Cabinet and other distinguished persons. All the Roman Catholic and foreign churches in London held special memorial services. The members of French Embassy attended French Church, and very elaborate services, were held at the chapel of the Russian Embassy by command of Emperor Nicholas. Everywhere particular attention was paid to the musical portion of the service. For instance, at Lincoln's Inn Chapel, Brahm's "Requieum" was performed. The Venerable William Macdonald Sinclair, archbishop of London, and Canon of St. Paul's Cathedral, preached a commemorative discourse at Canterbury Cathedral. Special sermons were preached in St. George's Chapel at Windsor. Everywhere cathedrals and churches were draped and hung with mourning emblems. Telegrams from the colonies and from all the principal cities abroad where British subjects reside report memorial services. Sir Alfred Milner in Cape Town. IN WHIPPINGHAM CHURCH. Lord Roberts and Mr. Wm. St. John Brodrick, secretary of state for war, were present at morning prayers in Whippingham Church, Cowes, at 11 o'clock Sunday. An hour later King Edward, Queen Alexandra, and all the royal personages now at Osborne, arrived at the church for the memorial service. This was a similar function, the hymns being sung by an un-surpliced choir of school children. Sir Walter Parratt, private organist the late Queen and organist to St. George's Chapel Royal, Windsor, play-ed several funeral excerpts. The Bishop of Winchester, who was the preacher for the occasion, delivered an eloquent panegyric upon Victoria, and declared that Emperor William's action in coming to her deathbed had touched the hearts of the English peocemented the unity and friendship of the two kindred nations. At the conclusion of the service stood during a performance of the Dead March.

The Kaiser's Birthday.

After the memorial service in Whippingham Church, Cowes, Sunday, Emperor William and the Crown Prince went direct to the Hohenzollern, receiving a salute of 21 guns. His majesty took luncheon there, the guests, including Lord Kintore, Col. Carrington, who is attached to his majesty's staff while in England; the members of the German embassy, and others. Crown Prince Frederick William proposed the emperor's health, which was drunk with "Hochs." The kaiser then drank the health of King Edward, the entire company standing. Then his majesty denned the uniform of a British admiral to receive visit-

London, Jan. 28.—All the morning gratulations. Among those who came were King Edward, in the uniform of an admiral; the Duke of Connaught, Prince Christian, and other royal personages, Lord Roberts and Mr. Brodreceived the King at the gangway. The yacht was rolling heavily, owing to the gale, so that the Queen and the royal ladies were prevented from ac-companying the King. After tea had been served the royal party returned to Osborne House, Emperor William and the Crown Prince immediately re-turning the visit and dining with the

In addition to the sword of a field marshal, King Edward has presented to Emperor William, already a Knight of the Garter, the insignia of the or-der in diamonds. The fact that this gift was ordered by the late Queen, with the intention of presenting it on the kaiser's birthday, gave a pathetic interest to the occasion.

MADE A FIELD MARSHAL. Emperor William, on learning of the King's intention to appoint him a field marshal, sent the following telegram to Lord Salisbury:

"The King, my august uncle, confers upon me the rank of a field marshal in his army, and informs me that my appointment will be published on my birthday. I hasten to apprise you of my deep appreciation of so signal a mark of his majesty's affection for me, and I rejoice to think that I shall be numbered among those of the highest rank in her majesty's gallant army. (Signed) William R."

The emperor sent a fac-simile of the dispatch to Lord Roberts.

SALISBURY TO THE KAISER. Lord Salisbury replied as follows: "I beg, with most profound respect, to thanks for your telegram, and my sincere congratulations upon the anniversary of your majesty's birthday and of field marshal, which my august sovereign, the King, has been pleased to confer upon your imperial majesty, and am convinced that your acceptance of the office will give the liveliest satisfaction to all classes of the nation, who have been deeply touched by the consideration and kindly feeling exhibited by your gracious visit on this solemn occasion."

LORD ROBERTS' REPLY. Lord Roberts responded in the following terms: "I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your majesty's gracious telegram, giving me the joyful tidings that his Majesty King Edward has conferred upon your majesty the rank of field marshal. would beg, sir, that I may be allowed to offer on behalf of myself and the army I have the honor to command. our most heartfelt and respectful congratulations on this mark of our sove-reign's affection and appreciation of your majesty's great qualities. All ranks will be proud to think that your majesty henceforth will be even more closely associated with them than hitherto, and will feel that the army is highly honored by your majesty's name being enrolled among the field marshals of Great Britain .-- Roberts." WHERE THE QUEEN'S BODY

RESTS. The entrance to the room where the Queen's body rests is beautifully draped with crimson damask, and attached thereto are several gigantic wreaths from members of the household. Indian and Highland servants remain conattended the service at the cathedral stantly on duty, and around the bier stand immovable four guardsmen, with arms folded on their reversed muskets. The strain is so great that they have to be relieved every hour. The coffin is 18 inches from the flower-decked ground. At its head are the wreaths of the new King and Queen, while on either side are the offerings of the Emperor and Empress of Germany. At the foot is a beautiful floral crown with a golden "B," from Princess Bea-trice. But little of the white satin-covered coffin or the silk flag on which it rests is visible, being almost hidden by the magnificent white pall and crimson velvet robes of the insignia of the Order of the Garter, the whole being surmounted by a glittering diamond crown, which reflects the lights of the tapers, six feet high, in silver candlesticks. The pall is ten feet long and seven feet wide. In each corner, diagonally, are embroidered the royal arms, surmounted by the crown. The lion is in applique of cloth-of-gold, and the unicorn is in silver, both worked up in silk embroidery. The crowns are in embroidery of silk and gold bullion. The pall was made by the students of the Kensington School of Needlework, under the dimetion of Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein. THE QUEEN'S FUNERAL.

Preparations for Queen Victoria's funeral are gradually assuming definite form. It promises to be the most tremendous pageant of the generation. The influx of members of royal families and representatives of foreign countries has been so wholly unprecedented that the court officials are finding it difficult to procure suitable accommodations, the royal palaces being totally inadequate. The procession is expected to occupy two hours, traversing London from Victoria station to Paddington station, whence the funeral train will depart at 11:15 a.m., reaching Windsor at 11:50. The coffin will be conveyed in the Queen's special saloon carriage, attached to the royal train, built spec ors who might call to tender con- ly for the diamond jubilee, by which

KING AS CHIEF MOURNER. The King as chief mourner, accompanied by Emperor William, will ride on horseback, at the head of the procession through London, with Field Earl Roberts, the commander-in-chief of the forces, and staff in close proximity. At least six battallions of infantry, eight squadrons of cavalry and number of batteries of artillery will participate in the procession, besides the multitudinous assemblage of peers. members of the house of commons and court officials of strange tilte and stranger garb. The streets will be lined throughout with soldiery; but the route has not been definitely fixed. The coffinbearers will be non-commissioned officers from the troops composing the household brigade. ORDER OF THE PROCESSION. The probable order of the procession is as follows: The Knight marshals men, drummers of the Footguards, the household staff, the judges, privy councilors, peers of the realm, the bishops, the royal crown of Hanover, the imperial crown, the crown of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, the royal body on a gun carriage, the princes of the royal blood, the equerries and the yeoman of the guard Units of the army will be interspersed in the column and at its head there will be a firing party. Preceding the cortege military bands will play the Dead March. The standards will all

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETED

For Civic Memorial Service at First Methodist Church.

Hour Yet To Be Set—Clergymen Who Participate-Short Addresses To Be Made.

The committees representing the clerical and ministerial associations met Saturday afternoon, at the Y. M. C. A. and arranged the programme for the civic memorial service. The clergymen taking part will be the Bishop of Huron, Rev. Messrs. W. J. Clark, Canon Dann. Dr. Johnston, W. H. Claris and W. M. Walker. Rev. Dr. Smith, pastor of the First Methodist Church, where the service will be held, will preside. As far as possible these are the oldest resident ministers of each denomination in the city. Two short addresses will be made, and the service will also include responsive Scripture reading and familiar hymns. Programmes of the complete service will be furnished. The hour of the service will be fixed by the city council, and will probably be early in the afternoon. The service in St. Paul's Cathedral

Vienna, Jan. 28.-News has reached here from the Vatican that fresh robberies have been discovered there which have caused the pope very much pain, the more so as this time a number of art treasures of great

THE CANAL TREATY.

London, Jan. 26 .- One of the indirect effects of the death of the lamented Queen is the improved state of feeling between England and America. The tributes to her memory have come from every quarter of the globe. But those from America have been unique in sympathetic appreciation and have touched the hearts of Englishmen, and there will be general regret if the foreign office finds it necessary to emphasize any point of diplomatic difference with the United States. There will be a feeling of relief and pleasure if it takes advantage of an early opportunity for bringing to a close a controversy of long standing like the canal question. The prospect for the acceptance of the amended treaty has cleared, there has been no further exchange of views between the embassy and the foreign office, but public opinion has been prepared for welcoming adjustment of the troublesome ques-

BLIND ARE DECREASING

Annual Report on the Brantford Institute-Better Treatment for Eyes Now Available.

Toronto, Jan. 26.—The annual reports upon the Ontario Institution for the Education of the Deaf and Dumb at Education of the Deaf and Dumb at Belleville, and of the Blind at Brantford, have just been published. They cover the year ending Sept. 39, 1909, and are issued under the direction of Inspector T. F. Chamberlain. At the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb the number of pupils in attendance was 152 males and 130 females, a total of 282, which is about the average in recent years. Since its establishment 30 years ago there have been 1,187 children treated in the instiits establishment 30 years ago there have been 1,187 children treated in the institution. The superintendent, Mr. R. Mathison, refers to the course at the school as too brief, and Dr. Chamberlain, in his introductory remarks, indorses this statement. The fitting up of a room in the school for manual training is spoken of as a valuable addition to the curriculum. It is added that this work will give additional opportunities for teaching words and phrases to the pupils.

There were 113 pupils in attendance

There were 113 pupils in attendance at the Institute for the Blind, 61 males and 52 females. This was slightly less than in the previous year.

Principal Dymond gives the following as causes: "The means of counteracting preventible diseases of the eye are now pretty well understood. The specinow pretty well understood. The specialist in this department of surgery is to be found in all our cities. The eye infirmary, affording means of ready and infirmary, affording means of ready and inexpensive relief, is attached to most of our hospitals. The cases by which biindness might have been arrested by timely precautions in infancy and those in which prompt recourse to the skilled oculist would have averted actual blindness have probably represented one-fourth of the young people under our charga. Such instances naturally become fewer year by year for reasons above given. Then, again, a less promiscuous immigration has deprived us of not a few pupils, who, under other conditions, would have gradually drifted into our hands."

MRS. CARRIE NATION HAS A BUSY DAY.

Prevented From Making More Raids, But Stirs Up the Topekans.

Topeka, Kansas, Jan. 27.-Mrs. Carrie Nation arrived here Saturday night at o'clock. An hour later she started on a joint raid, and visited four places, but did no smashing. At each place she attempted to make a speech.

The atendants at two places picked her up bodily and carried her into the street; at another joint Keeper Myers' wife assaulted Mrs. Nation with a broomstock and chased her out. At the fourth place she was allowed to finish her speech. She said she had come to Topeka to enforce the law, and told joint keepers that if they did not close the hatchet would be ready for them.

A mob of fully 5,000 people gathered to hoot at Mrs. Nation and threatened to do her real injury.

A policeman who appeared on the scene for the purpose of protecting Mrs. Nation, commanded the mob to stand back and started up the street with Mrs. Nation, all the time followed by ooting, jeering rowdies who were sympathizing with the joint keepers.

Mrs. Nation at last found refuge in a local newspaper office, where the crowd was not allowed to enter. Here she detailed the story of her experiences, and what she expected to do in the future. Nation then inquired where she could go to swear out a warrant against the woman who assaulted her. Policeman Luster, who was present, olunteered to show her. As Mrs. Nation and the policeman stepped out the front door, the crowd, which had been waiting in the street, surged towards her. The policeman instantly drew his pistol and shouted: "I am here to protect this woman and I will shoot the first man who makes a move toward her. Stand back, you vil-

Death on Business.

Everyone Who Can Do So Dresses in Black,

The Supply of Somber-Hued Goods Running Low-Chasing Up the Fake Reporters.

[Special Cable Letter.]

London, Jan. 26.—The after effect of Queen Victoria's death on business is vital and remarkably widespread. It particularly affects dealers in all sorts of clothing and furnishings, and all goods connected with amusements, festivities, theatricals and dinners. Black is the only color displayed in the shop windows throughout the empire. The milliners' stores are filled with black bonnets, and other establishments have a funereal show of black clothes, gloves, neckties, and hats. In London, every Englishman who can afford it is

WEARING BLACK CLOTHES, a black necktie and black gloves. The women are attired in black, and the officers of the army and navy have crepe bands on their arms. All army flags are draped with black. Naturally, there will be loss on stocks of colored goods, particularly in the case of London firms accustomed to depend on court and society business. On the other hand, dealers in black goods will be enabled to sell their entire stocks at a very great profit. In fact, a famine in black goods threatens the British markets. British orders are already exhausting the resources of the French and German manufactur-

EXHAUSTING THE SUPPLY. It is said that Lyons, Dresden and other continental centers are already refusing more orders. One of the prin cipal wholesale firms in London, it is announced, has already declined 2,000 orders. The same story comes from other factories, which are running night and day to supply the demands. Says one wholesale dealer: "It is difficult to say how and where the demand will end. Assuming that the period of mourning will be prolonged for whole seasons, trade will be revolutionized, and some branches wil be paralyzed." Another authority estimates that by the week's end $2,500,000 will have been spent in mourning. INSURANCE ON THE QUEEN'S

Extraordinary reports are current as to the amount of insurance on the Queen's life by storekeepers and theatrical managers to prevent losses under the conditions prevailing. The sum of $1,250,000 is one estimate of the total. The shares of certain insurance companies have fallen this week from one-quarter to one point, but the jority are unchanged. Reliable brokers state that the amounts are exaggera-The premium on the Queen's mont ago was five per cent When her illness was rumored it rose to fifteen per cent.

THEATERS IN BLACK.

The majority of the leading theaters are draped with crape, and have posted black-bordered announcements that they will be closed "until after the fun-eral of our beloved Queen." The music hall managers held a conference and afterwards published the fact that the halls would reopen until the day of the funeral on account of the loss their employes would sustain if they were closed. This action is unpopular. The people think the managers might carry their employes through the mourning season instead of using them as an excuse for their own unwillingness to forego a fortnight's receipts.

INDECOROUS REPORTERS. Sober English journalism was shocked at the display around Osborne House by the correspondents of the new English sheets of what the Times terms "American methods." The scene terms 'American methods.' The scene before the lodge gate, following the announcement of the Queen's death, certainly did not fit the occasion. A crowd of reporters assembled, with cabs, horses and bicycles. Hardly had the words they beginned the words "Her Majesty has passed away" fallen from the official's lips, when the reporters and messengers, with a wild whoop, started to race down the steep hill, half a mile to the telegraph, some of them bawling to their assistants below: "The Queen is dead." One reporter sent a rival sprawling from his bicycle, which skinned his face in the dirt, where-upon he knocked down the aggressor.

FAKED REPORTS. The court officials have been exceedingly active in running to earth false reports, like the fictitious deathbed scenes, and have already secured the recall of two correspondents. They are now investigating the sources of the premature announcement of her majesty's death, published in America, for the purpose of acting against the authors. Having access to all the telegraph and telephone messages they have discovered that no report was sent from Cowes before the Queen's death, therefore, it must have been "faked" in London or America.

THE CANAL TREATY. The Hay-Pauncefote treaty amendment, among the portentous events of the week, were lost sight of, and the cabinet may be unable to consider the treaty for some time, owing to the important business incidental to the accession of King Edward VII.

NIGHT TO DAY. Telsa's New System of Electric Lightning

Has Been Perfected. New York, Jan. 28.-Nikola Tesla has perfected his new system of electric lighting and hopes to have it soon introduced into general use. Under a full head of electricity the new lamp has the color of ice in the sun. The light is soft and absolutely steady. So diffuse is it that it deceives, and at first seems without much power of illumination. This is the light—the "perfect sanitary" light, as Tesla calls it—which has been seeking for ten years. There are neither wires nor carbon filaments to break or burn out. The lamp may be described as a nest of tubes, bent in rectangular form. Each lamp has about twenty feet of the white flag tubes. Into this square coil of hollow giass of the diameter of a finger electricity is sent quivering from Tesla's oscillator. Bursting into light, it floods the apartment with the clear light of day. It is daylight—not the splendor of the sun, but the light of the sun as on a cloudy day, when one forgets that the sun is shining. Tesla's oscillator, which he believes is the key for solving the most important electrical problems of the day, causes electrical vibrations of inconceivable speed. These vibrations turn the atoms of the gases in the tubes, as it were, into little comets which shoot through the inclosed space with tremendous rapidity, leaving trains of

CURABILITY OF CANCER

Has Been Established Beyond All Doubt.

No matter what may have been thought of cancer being an incurable disease in days gone by. It has now been shown by incontrovertible evi-dence that, if the new constitutional treatment be taken before the last stages set in, it can be readily cured. The new system of treatment is bas-ed on the modern scientific fact that cancer is caused by germs or parasites. These germs being destroyed, and the poisons they manufacture be-ing neutralized, the local cancer sore soon heals up. One great blessing associated with the introduction of the new treatment is the doing away with painful operations. How great a boon this is, only those who have suffered from the surgeon's knife can fully appreciate. If you desire further particulars of this remedy, send two stamps to Messrs. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

the current produces continuous light, not of the incandescent nor of the arc light character, but purely solar. In other words, each lamp is a little sun. When a reporter saw the little white icy tubes shining along the ceiling of Tesla's laboratory they appeared no more responsible for the daylight in the room than the glass pendants of a chandelier. In a far corner an ordinary incandescent bulb was glowing. It was extinguished, but the daylight remained. When Tesla's icy tubes were extinguished the place was in Several interesting experiments were made. The sudden lighting of gas or of the ordinary electric lamp so shocked and strained the eyes that seemed for a moment afflicted with a sudden yellow blindness.

The Tesla lamp is not like any of the known lights in use. It seems the known lights in use. It seems only a bunch of crystals glowing on the ceiling at midday. But remove them and all light vanishes.

GIRL DISFIGURED BY HIGHSCHOOL HAZERS

Young Women Students Burned Greek Let ters on Her Brow-The West Point Process.

Wichita, Kas., Jan. 26.-Three scars on the forehead of Miss Pauline Lewelling, the second eldest daughter of the late Governor Leweiling, of Kansas, bear witness to a hazing by girls of the Wichita High School, the facts of which are just coming to light. Just when the episode occurred and the perpetrators are secrets closely guarded by the parties concerned, but the condition of Miss Lewelling's wounds clearly indicate that they must have been inflicted within the

The matter became public through Miss Lewelling appearing on the street with her head bandaged. The scars resemble the Greek characters Theta, Mu, and were inflicted with nitrate of silver.

Miss Lewelling is the teacher of the class of girls who are accused of the deed. It has been learned that the wounds were inflicted after school hours and that the teacher consenthave herself blindfolded, under a pretense of being initiated into a society. She was led into one of the school rooms where the operation was performed.

The scars are one inch in size, and are a serious disfigurement. The young woman is under the care of a physician. When seen tonight she refused to discuss the affair.

THE WEST POINT PROCESS. Washington, Jan. 26.—The most exeiting witness before the congressional committee on hazing appeared be-fore it Thursday in F. H. Cunningteacher in the Hamilton Institute, New York, who was a tent mate of Cadet MacArthur at West Point. Cunningham said, MacArthur, after being hazed reeled into his tent and went into convulsions. He covered MacArthur with blankets to keep his moans from being heard. MacArthur said that "another night like that would make me feel like resigning." Cunningham named Cadets Hill, Howse, Haskell and Kensel, as cadets who suffered from convulsions, and needed medical assistance as a result of hazing.

He described hazing as nothing short of exquisite torture. He gave a graphic account of the agony suf-fered in certain forms of hazing, which fairly sent a shudder through his listeners. Men were hung on bars, their feet up, so that when they dropped from exhaustion their knees struck on the wooden floor several feet below. The fainting man was again hoisted up, and again repeatedly dropped.

Cunningham said the object of "calling out" was to place a trained upper class man against an untrained lower class man. The result was inevitable In conducting a fight, the purpose was to cut up the face of the lower class man before knocking him out. An upper class man had said to the witthat a certain fight was not right because the lower class man's face was not cut up sufficiently. The tries were "bullied and bothered."

WHERE A CONDUCTOR MISSED HIS CHANCE.

Senator Chauncey Depew Wanted to Borrow Five Cents on His Eyegiasses.

New York, Jan. 28.—According to the New York Evening Sun, Senator Chauncey Depew was so hard up on a recent occasion that he tried to pledge his eyeglasses for five cents. In the midst of business cares he happened to remember an important meeting, at which he was already due. He ran for a car, and was studying his watch when the conductor tapped him on the shoulder. Then it was that Mr. Depew realized he had not a nickel in his poc-In humiliation he confessed to the

"But, my good man," whispered the former president of the New York Cen-"I am Chauncey Depew." "I wouldn't care if you were Chauncey Olcott."

"But, here, sir, if you don't think I'll pay you the five cents, take those as security," and Mr. Depew removed his eyeglasses and gold chain from his vest and extended them.

"Do you take this for a traveling pawnshop? Pay or get off!" The sena-tor gazed helplessly around the car, hoping to find someone to whom he could appeal. A tired looking laundress and an errand boy were the only other passengers. The senator left the car, and—missed the meeting.

"If that man had loaned me five cents on my glasses," said Mr. Depew in tell-ing the story afterwards, "I would have seen that he stepped into something much better than running a street car."

SHE SUES FOR DIVORCE.

Wichita, Kan., Jan. 28 .- Mrs. Mary E. Lease, Kansas politician, has filed suit for divorce from her husband, Chas. Lease. It was announced some time ago that their difference had been patched up and that no divorce proceedings would be started. Lease proceedings would be started. Lease said that he was willing to live with his wife again, and she agreed to return to Wichita, but L. P. Campbell, her attorney, has filed suit. Incompatibility and failure to provide are charges. Accompanying the petition is a waiver, signed by Mr. Lease, signifying his intention of not contesting the divorce. Mrs. Lease's four children are with her in New York. Mr. Lease contends that there never was a quarrel. "She just left me," he said.

IS LOVED BY ALL.

She Is Beautiful in Character and Disposition.

llexandra of Denmark Wins Her Way by Gentle Means—Noted for Her Works of Charity.

Chicago, Jan. 28 .- A special to the Chicago Tribune says: Alexandra of Denmark, who now becomes Queen of England and Empress of India, is one women in the whole of her husband's vast dominions, which embrace onequarter of the entire population of the known world. True, there are many women in English society who are infinitely more beautiful, whose figures conform far more closely to the ideal of the artist, and, above all, there are many who possess a greater degree of brilliancy, of dash, and of wit. Notwithstanding all of this, wherever the gracious woman, who has now become Queen, appears, not only does she be-come the cynosure of all eyes, but more than that. The loveliness of every other woman present seems to pale, this, too, in spite of the fact that she is the grandmother of six little ones, and nearer 60 years of age than True she remains amazingly youthful in appearance, thanks not so much to those vulgar devices known as "making up," as to judicious cares that are entirely legitimate. For instance, daily massage has been employed to help nature in warding off wrinkles from the face, while the elas-ticity and elegance of the figure have been retained by means of exercise, moderation, and diet to the same phenomenal degree as in the case of the late Empress of Austria at the time of her assassination.

FASCINATES BY GENTLENESS.

The hair is dressed in precisely the same quiet and characteristic manner of 25 years ago, the head retains the same dainty poise of a neck so graceful that it conveys the impression of a slender stalk supporting a flower, while the eyes assuredly have neither dimmed nor changed, flashing as in days of yore with fun or mischief or else sweetly appealing in that sort of pathetic manner peculiar to people who are hard of hearing. But it is not this that makes the new Queen of England so fascinating-that rensomething that is violent and against which one would be inclined to resist. But it is the sweet, gracious, and kindly manner that converts every man who sets his eyes upon her into her sworn admirer, and that even dis-arms the jealousy of women, transforming them into her devoted friends. the consort of Great Britain's new magis King is deficient in cleverness. In noon. fact, I have seen it stated in print—manifestly by people who had never been brought within the radius of her blood streaming charms—that she is actually dull. True, she is not intellectual in the sense of her sister-in-law, Empress Frederick, and it is difficult to imagine her in the role of a politician. But from the time of her marriage, eight and thirty years ago, she has lived almost unceasingly exposed to that full glare of publicity which beats upon the thrones, in the land, at any rate in a social sense. HAS MADE NO MISTAKES. she has not made one single mistake. She has known in her own friendly and calm manner the people whom it was desirable that she should know. She has steered clear of all those acquaintances who might have given rise to ill-natured comment. She has never lost her head, never been guilty of anything *hat could be construed as partaking of the nature of a "faux pas," and has by the means of the atmosphere of ideal refinement, which she seems to diffuse around her, kept within bounds the tendency of modern society to exuberance and vulgarity, and, perfect in tact, has presented through her married life picture of the most unruffled domestic Finally, in an age where calumny is so rife and all-prevalent, that not even an angel from heaven would be permitted to retain the celestial garments unsullied and the wings unruffled, ro breath of scandal has ever tarnished even for a fleeting moment the fair name of England's new Queen. Surely when one considers all the temptations of one kind and another to which a woman in the position of this one, who has until now borne the title of Princess of Wales, is exposed, every one intent on flattering her and many endeavoring in vain to poison her mind against those whom they wish to oust from her favor, the fact that she could be without a single mistake to her record indicates that far from being a dull or foolish person she must be possessed of extraordinary cleverness-the most decided contrast that it is possible to conceive to her immediate predecessor as Princess of Wales. the infamous, and above all, the appallingly gross and vulgar consort of King George IV. MANY DEEDS OF CHARITY.

Equally mistaken is the impression which prevails that she has taken no part whatever in public life. It was estimated the other day that through her personal influence and direct ac-tion she has, during the near four de-cades that have elapsed since she first came to England as the bride of the then Prince of Wales, been instrumental in securing the subscription and contribution of no less than $250,000,000 for charitable and philanthropic en-terprises, this in itself being an achievement which conveys some idea of the usefulness of the royal woman's life and the benefit she has been to the land of her adoption.

Not merely columns but volumes could be written of her innumerable acts of kindness, generosity, and of tender consideration of others, but it will suffice to relate one incident which may serve to illustrate the sympathy which she felt, and which can only be surpassed by the sympathy which she inspired.

Some time ago, when she was in of the most fascinating and popular London, an old lady in waiting of her mother, the late Queen of Denmark, lay dying in the royal palace at Copenhagen. She had known the present Queen of England since the latter's infancy and was deeply attached to her. King Christian writes every week to his daughter in England, and in one of his letters declared that her one dy-ing wish was to speak with her Princess Alex before she expired. cess Alex before she expired. Alex-andra was quite unable to leave England at the time, but she spoke a tender and sympathetic message into a phonograph and dispatched it to Copenhagen by special messenger. Already the dimness of death had veiled the old woman's eyes, when the phonograph gave out its message of love and hope, and as the last words died away and only the vibrations of the phonograph lingered on the air, she sighed happily, and with "God bless you, dear," on her lips, passed away to another world.

If anything could consol the English people for the loss which they have sustained in the person of Victoria, it is the knowledge that their new Queen is like her lamented mother-in-law, a woman of singularly blameless life, of kindly disposition, a pattern of all domestic virtues, a woman whose heart goes out instinctively to all sorrow and suffering; in one word, a both lovely and lovable sov-

Nor can it be described as magnetism. For magnetism implies remarked at the time that one might remarked at the time that one might as well have one's nose stolen as teeth. In the West Side police court, Mrs. Franklin told Magistrate Hogan that she took the teeth in the hope that the loss of them would make Mrs. Mason pay a board bill she owed. She said she had left the teeth in Hoboken, and she would produce them in court today if It has sometimes been alleged that she were allowed to fetch them. over seven years I have been a most unfortunate sufferer from asthma and bronchitis. Many times for weeks I could not sleep other than sitting up in a chair, and for three months previous to taking Clarke's Kola Compound I could not work a day. Our doctors said they could do nothing for me, but give a little temporary rellef. I was becoming weaker all the time. A sincere friend brought me a bottle of this grand medicine (Clarke's Kola Compound), and in less than two weeks I was back at work again. I took in all four bottles during two months, and have not lost a day's work since, nor have I had the day's work since, nor have I had the slightest symptom of the disease." STOLE STAMPS WORTH $100,000. Peoria, Ill., Jan. 28.-The safe in the office of the collector of internal revenue in this city was broken into Friday night and quantities of war revenue stamps taken. It is rumored that the vaults contained nearly $1,000,000 worth of stamps. Entrance was effected through an open transom. The burglars bored through the vault door and into the bar which turns the bolts. Then, with hammer and chisel, they broke the bar, took out the bricks at the side of the safe, and easily pried open the vault door. Collector Marshall refuses to talk, but others say that $100,000 will cover the government's loss.

Pen-Portrait by an English Visitor.

A correspondent of Black and White, the English illustrated magazine, writing after a tour through Canada, has some very interesting things to say of the Dominion and its people. He endeavors to do our climate full justice. He is charmed with it, whether summer or winter, and the conclusion of the whole matter, to his mind, is given in these words: "There is no denying that the climate of Canada is as near perfection as is possible." Of another phase of Canadian life, the correspondent makes this pertinent declaration: "Many people seem to think that an English-speaking settler would be coldly welcomed in a French-Canadian settlement, but this is a mistaken impression. The habitant is a quiet, steady-going, thrifty man, who is truly devoted to united British sentiment. He is a Norman peasant, trained by a century of political freedom, that has never degenerated into license. To my like mind, he more closely resembles a Scotchman than a Frenchman. His language is the language of three centuries ago, and is full of local expressions, many of which are straightforward translations of English idioms. And as to his English, I know no more delightful dialect."

It is refreshing sometimes to see ourselves as others see us. We must say that this pen-portrait of a very considerable section of our fellow-Canadians is drawn to the life by our English visitor. There are few more interesting figures in this new world than the thrifty, kind - hearted neighborly French-Canadian farmer. He is much maligned when he is represented by some politicians as an anti-Britisher, conspiring to upset our present most satisfactory constitution.

Great Britain as a Wheat Buyer.

There has been a complete reversal of wheat consumption in Great Brit- is unwilling to take note of aught else, she grew more corn and cattle than European countries. Now she is dependent upon imported grain for nearly ten months in the year. Britain began to import wheat and flour in 1840-1850, when the average imports were a million quarters, which was one-eighteenth of her total supply. Between 1890 and 1899 the average home supply was 7,500,000 quarters, and the imports averaged 21,500,000 quarters. It is estimated that 30,000,-000 quarters will be needed for the first year of the new century, of which 23,-500,000 quarters will be imported

Impressing John Chinaman.

It may be necessary to make an impression on the stolid Chinese to dismantle the finest of the temples of Pekin, and send their rich furnishings as trophies to European courts, but is it not possible that what the religious Chinaman may regard as the worst brand of sacrilege will be calculated to make him more resentful to Western institutions and Western ideas of law and order than ever? This is the view that is forced upon us when scanning a picture of the trophies of the dismantled Laura Temple at Pekin, as they are being marked for His Britannic Majesty. By the way, the Japanese have given to the world an interesting classification of military humanity in China. The United States troops take the highest place for selfrestraint; then follow the Germans, and then the British. The Japanese are horrified by the conduct of the Russians, whose instincts did not show them to be controlled by feelings in advance of those usually animating savages.

PARAGRAPHS ABOUT PEOPLE.

J. W. Bengough, caricaturist, lecturer and poet, was born in Toronto in 1851. He at first studied law, but not finding it congenial, entered journalism. In 1873 he established a humorous weekly paper, Grip, which is not now published. He is a living illustration of what might be looked upon as a maxim.

"Cartoonists are born, not made." All will remember his work in the Globe during last Dominion election. He possesses the unique ability of representing by a few strokes of his pencil what, perhaps, a number of paragraphs would very inadequately express. He has always shown a decided preference for humorous cartoons over those which are bitter and scathing; thus his work has always exerted a beneficial influence upon his large constituency of admirers. He combines to a great degree the humorous and pathetic, and excels in each as is seen in his "Verses, Grave and Gay." Personally, he has always taken an uncompromising stand in connection with every moral question, his tendencies leaning strongly towards the uplifting of mankind.

GLANCING OVER THE OLD WORLD

Cabled Comment on Current Events--- The Royal Funeral --- General Popularity of the New Sovereign--- Conditions for the Boers---Pirate-Hunting by German Navy---Wilhelmina's Approaching Wedding.

in his special cable letters this morning says: Londoners since the the inadequacy of all methods for giving expression to their sense of the loss sustained by the empire. For this the imperial capital is welcomed. When the last medical bulletin came from Osborne the theaters were closed, church bells were tolled here and there for a few minutes and the streets were silent. There could be no antithesis-for Mafeking night. Next came the King's entry, with the proclamation, accompanied by medieval mummery which was carried through with a rush almost before it was ex-pected. Beyond reading the blacklined daily papers Londoners had no means of expressing their devotion to the memory of their lamented sover-If the houses and shop fronts been heavily draped with black had like the streets of American cities after the death of President Lincoln or Garfield, there would have been a partial consciousness that the Queen's capital was not neglecting her in death, but narrow strips of black in window panes make a meagre display of public grief, and this is the traditional idea of national mourning ANTITHESIS TO THE QUEEN'S JUBILEE. The passage of the royal cortege over the route to Paddington from Buckingham Palace, so often traversed by the Queen in life, will enable a vast concourse of spectators to stand with uncovered heads and pay the last tri-bute of reverent homage. It will be an impressive antithesis to the Queen's jubilee. A mighty fleet, with minute guns, will witness the opening of the stately obsequies, and emperors, kings and princes will mourn together at Windsor at the close, but at midday Londoners will claim their Queen and Empress for themselves, and watch in silence the solemn pageant.

STRIKING PARALLEL.

Strangely enough, while London is waiting for this military funeral and ain during the past century. In 1800 the young Queen of Holland, whose ain during the past century. In 1800 the young Queen of Holland, whose she grew more corn and cattle than was necessary to supply her wants, and exported her surplus to other European countries. Now she is dear the young Queen of Holland, whose career in its opening scenes offers so striking a parallel to the early life of Victoria, is approaching her marriage with her prince consort. The marriage festivities will begin two days after festivities will begin two days after the burial of Queen Victoria, and there will be a week of light-hearted Dutch with gala nights at the theaters, diplomatic receptions, serenades in front of the palace, and a unique ceremony in the church, attended by many princes. The mar-The marriage is popular, because like Victoria's, it is a love match. Wilhelmina's subjects would have been better pleased if the bridegroom had not been a German prince, but Duke Henry has a manly presence, and an air of dis-tinction, and has already won the hearts of the queen's subjects.

THE PRINCES. The King's ringing order to the navy is fresh proof of his capacity for saying the right thing in the right way. He has informed the Masonic officials that he will remain grand master. The Duke of Connaught is also a Mason, but not the Duke of Cornwall. The Duke of Clarence was a Mason. The health of the Duke of Cambridge, now at Osborne is most infirm, and the Queen's death greatly dispirited it. It was with him as a cousin of her own age that the young Queen danced at the first ball at Buckingham Palace after the accession 64

LOYAL TO THE KING.

Any one crediting the English with republican tendencies must be convinced by the present demonstrations of the absolute, unquestioning loyalty of the whole people to the monarchy. Thousands of columns of editorials in journals of every political shade, save few Irish publications, contain hint of dissatisfaction with Edward rex, only confidence and good wishes. No monarch ever took the crown more strongly supported. The same good feeling toward Edward VII. pervades Europe. Only the Parisian and a few Russian papers attack him. The tributes to the dead Queen cause an air of good feeling on the part of the English toward their sister nations. However brief Emperor William's filial conduct, his willing abandonment of the celebration of the bicentennial of the Prussian monarchy has done much to strengthen the Anglo-German alliprisoners at Cape Town, in giving up their sports pending the Queen's funeral, softens the animosities of war. THE PROCLAMATION.

The proclamation at the cross of Edinburgh, where Walter Scott, from the window of Constable's bookshop, saw George IV. proclaimed, was no less brilliant than the London pageant. Heralds and pursuivants ascended the battlements and the octagon turret. Around the tall shaft was royal purple. After the reading, the castle guns saluted and the Scots sang "God Save the King." The cere mony was repeated at the gate of the castle and at the Stuart's palace of Holyrood, at the town boundary. The university professors and the local soldiery were in the procession which took place in a snowstorm. Meantime the government will probably ask parliament to increase the sovereign's allowance by half a million, on account of the increasing pecuniary demands upon the office. Queen Victoria's allowance was fixed at the beginning of her reign at £380,000, partly defrayed by the crown estates. The cost to the nation was £170,000.

PRAYER BY AND POETRY.

A new edition of prayer books has been necessitated by the changes of the names of royalties occurring frequently. If the Duke of York is made Prince of Wales another edition will be printed.

The genius of the poet laureate,

London, Jan. 27.-Mr. Isaac N. Ford Alfred Austin, fell to the lowest ebb in the hastily turned out poem which appeared the day after the Queen's Queen's death have been appalled by of faulty meter. A great outburst of poetry is flooding the papers, in which the unnoteworthy effort of Austin is the only conspicuous poem yet printed. reason the King's decision that the have been the appointment of the most impressive scene of a stately Duke of Connaught as adjutant-gen-military funeral should be enacted in eral. The King doubless will, at an early date, utilize his brother's advice in military matters.

ROYAL CIVIL LIST.

Referring to the probable action of parliament in arranging a civil list for the crown and providing a suitable establishment for the heir to the throne, Mr. Ford says: Parliament, after reassembling on St. Valentine's Day, will be called upon to rearrange the civil list for the crown and to provide a suitable establishment for heir to the throne. From the time of Charles II. there has been a series of tentative efforts on the part of parliament to substitute a definite grant of money to the crown for certain portions of its hereditary rev-William IV. accepted a civil enues. list of £435,000 in lieu of the interest of the crown in the sources of public revenue, and there was a similar settlement when the Queen's reign opened. The state is virtually a tenant of crown lands, under a life lease of estates placed under its control, and in return pays a life income to the sovereign, known as the civil list. Theoretically, the new sovereign has the right to resume possession of the crown lands when he ascends the throne, but practically choice except to make the best ar-rangement possible for compensations for a fresh life tenancy on the part of the state. The civil list of William IV. was cut down to £385,000 at the opening of the reign of Victoria, but this was increased after her marriage, and she retained the revenue of the duchy of Lancaster and the Prince of Wales that of the duchy of Cornwall.

REVENUES OF THE CROWN. The hereditary revenues of the crown under state management have greatly expanded in value, so that the sovereign would be theoretically entitled to a larger civil list; but parliament virtually retains the privilege of regulating ment of the civil list. The transfer of the Queen's private estates at Balmoral, Ciaremont Park, Osborne and elsewhere has been separated by two Victorian statutes from the operation of the regulations of the operation of the regulations of the hereditary crown estates. Taxes and rates have been paid on these private properties which were left at the disposal of the Queen by will, and could not be merged with the mass of the crown estates inherited from generations Osborne has probably been left to Princess Henry of Battenberg, but the disposition made of Balmoral is in disposition made of Balmoral is in doubt. The Queen's wealth has always been grossly exaggerated. The value of her personal property, under the control of executors, will be moderate, although the veil of secrecy may never be removed. She paid her father's debts, but received a large bequest from the Prince Consert. Her sevings during her raign ceived a large bequest from the Frince Consort. Her savings during her reign have not been nearly so large as was ordinarily supposed. As the Queen was an income taxpayer, her private estates presumably are liable to the usual death

GERMAN SENTIMENT. In Germany the general opinion of King Edward is divided. Though a few regard him as Germanophile and agrarian, others are outspokenly anti-English. The press just now is hushed, and no paper blames Emperor William's evident desire to render all homage to his grandmother's memory.

The usual dinners in honor of the birthday of Emperor William (Jan. 27) have been postponed to Feb. 3, by his majesty's special orders. This applies

The doctor sometimes passes a harder sentence than the judge. But the sentence of the doctor is more often set aside or overruled than is that of the judge. In the case of Mrs. Reycraft given below, the doctor sentenced her to about eighteen years of physical punishment and misery. But she rebelled against the sentence, and commenced the use of Doctor

Pierce's Favorite Prescription. was a well woman. It's a peculiarity of the cures effected by the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, that they are generally cures of chronic diseases. A woman suffers with diseases peculiar to her sex, she takes medical treatment, gets no better, and has no hope held out to her of improvement. Then in her discouragement she turns to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and finds a prompt and lasting cure. "Fa-vorite Prescription" establishes regularity, dries unhealthy drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cure female weakness. "Four years ago my health began to fail," writes Mrs. Neihe M. Reycraft, of Glenwood, Washington Co., Oregon. "I had a very heavy dragging and wright in the region of the uterus, pain in back and loins, could not lift anything heavy, rest at hight very poor; stomach deranged. One physician said I was overworked, another said I had congestion and falling of uterus. He treated me nine months and said I would not be well until I had passed the change of life. I was said; wently seven years old then. would not be well until I had passed the change of life. I was only twenty-seven years old then. I became discouraged, and began using Doctor Pierce's Pavooste Prescription. Took a teaspoonful three times a day; began feeling better right away. Am using my third bottle now, and feel I am in good health. I believe Dr. Pierce's Pavorite Prescription has restored me to health. If suffering women would give it a thir trial they would give it presise."

POPULARITY OF THE KAISER IN ENGLAND.

The German emperor, whose dispatch to President Kruger was the signal for ordering out a flying squadron five years ago, is now for Englishmen the most popular continental sovereign. If he had not acted well during the Transvaal war and also become England's ally in China, his devotion to the Queen would have removed all traces of former prejudice and resentment. He is now cheered almost as heartily as the King, and his virtues are extolled by the English press. If the emperor rides through the streets of London on Saturday, only the solemnity of the funeral pageant will prevent an extraordinary demonstration of popular enthusiasm. This is his birthday, and his present from King Edward has been a baton as field marshal of the British army, for which he has thanked the Duke of Cambridge, the oldest field marshal, and in order to complete this timely recognition of the sincerity of his devotion to the Queen, the most famous field marshal in the service spent Sunday with him at Osborne. The German emperor, when he came to England a year ago, was bent upon seeing Mr. Chamberlain, and had two protracted meetings with him. Lord Roberts is the Englishman who now interests him, for it is from the commander-in-chief in South Africa that he can learn the principal lessons of a Boer campaign and their bearings upon modern defensive warfare. ago, is now for Englishmen the most

A press correspondent learns that the conditions imposed by the German government upon Dr. Hendrik Muller, who is negotiating for the immigration of is negotiating for the immigration of Boers to German Southwest Africa, include the defense of the territory against internal and external foes, the sending of their children to schools where German is taught, and that children born to them in Southwest Africa must become Germans politically. These conditions have been accepted, and there will be a number of treks after this, the first, a small one, on the coming Tuesday.

day. SWINDLERS PUNISHED. The English courts have administered a striking lesson for honesty in handling trust funds, dealing severe sentences to three defaulting lawyers, the discovery of whose crimes, a few months ago, greatly disturbed the people's confidence in the profession. Benjamin Take, president of the Law Society, whose firm swallowed f170,000 of its clients' money, was sentenced to twelve years' imprisonment. His only defense was that he left the details of the business to his nephew. Two minor lawyers were sentenced to ten years' imprisonment for similar embezzlements.

To Know La Grippe

The Symptoms and Dangers of the Deadly Epidemic Which Is Driving So Many to Beds of Sickness-Effective Treatment Described.

Chill followed by fever, quick pulse, severe pains in the eyes and forehead, and dull pains in the joints and muscles, mark the beginnings of la grippe. There is also hoarseness, inflamed air passage, and obstinate cough, furred tongue, distress in the stomach and diarrhea. The one unmistakable feature of la grippe is the depressed spirits and weakness and debility of the

With the very young and very old, and with persons of low vitality, the dangers of la grippe are very great. Pneumonia of a violent and fatal form is a frequent result. It is also claimed that very many cases of consumption can be directly traced to la grippe. The after-effects of la grippe are most often felt in the nervous system. The extreme debility in which this disease leaves its victims is more than most nervous systems can endure-paralysis or prostration follows. The most successful doctors advise their patients to avoid exposure to cold or over-exertion, and recommend both general and local treatment, such as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, to strengthen and tone the system, and Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine to loosen the cough and lungs from threatened complications.

Any honest and conscientious doctor will tell you that this combined treatment recommended by Dr. Chase cannot be surpassed as a means of relieving and curing la grippe, and restor-ing the weakened and debilitated body to its accustomed vigor. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is too well known as a cure for bronchitis ment. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food seeks out the weak spots in the system and builds them up. It rekindles the vi-tality of persons weakened by dis ease, worry, or over-exertion, and cannot possibly be equaled as a restorative and reconstructant to hasten recovery from la grippe, and to prevent constitutional commications. ### ARTHUR COLEY LIVES

Not Dead, as Many of His Friends Thought He Would Be.

Swan Lake, Man., Jan. 28.—A young man is living here today whom many people in and about Somerset, Man., no doubt think to be in the grave. His name is Arthur Coley, and when he left Somerset in 1894, he was in the last stages of Bright's Disease and Diabetes. "Many will be surprised, I am sure, to find that I am alive," says Mr. Coley, "for I was utterly prostrated with Bright's Disease and Diabetes.

"I did not expect to live. Now I am able thankfully to say that pain and weakness are unknown to me. I am a farmer, and can now do as hard a day's work as anyone, whereas before using Dodd's Kidney Pills I was given up to die with Bright's Disease and Diabetes. This was in 1894. I am well today. SUGAR BEET INDUSTRY. To the Editor of The Adventiser:

A meeting of the Ontario Beet Sugar Association is to be held in Toronto on Feb. 6 to fix on some concentrated plan to lay before the government as to the necessity of their lending aid to the sugar beet industry in Ontario for a few years, until the industry is firmly established. All municipalities are urgently requested to send strong deputations to that meeting, and if city of London and county of Middlesex want a factory erected in our city, they should be strongly represented at the Toronto meeting.

FIERCE TORNADO IN NEW BRITAIN

Devastation, Ruin and Death Caused by the Storm, Which Lasted Three Days.

Vancouver, B.C., Jan. 26.—The steamer Aorangi, from Sydney, brings the story of the most disastrous hurricane known in the history of New Britain since the appearance there of the white settlers, a quarter of a century ago. The storm began Dec. 7, and extended over a period of three days, causing distressing scenes of devastation, injury and death. After a more than usually trying season of drought, rains and squalls spread over New Britain early in December. The gales increased in force daily until the afternoon of the 7th, when the wind became a hurricane, with a tremendous gates increased in force daily that the afternoon of the 7th, when the wind became a hurricane, with a tremendous sea manning. The seas carried everything before them, and at the white settlement of Herbertshohe the beach was strewn with the wrecks of ships, boats and lighters. The steam yacht Antoninus, belonging to the Sacred Heart missionaries, just arrived from Sydney, broke from her moorings, and within an hour she was pounded to pieces. The government wharf was washed away, and thrown high up on the beach. The Maori, a 26 ton cutter, was lifted on shore by the fury of the wind and water and broken up like kindling wood. The storm continued to increase in severity, and on the following day Forsyth's wharf was demolished, several laden lighters being driven ashore and broken up. The driven ashore and stoken up. ### LATE SPORTING.

HOCKEY.

RUBBING IT IN. The sporting man on the Toronto Clobe has worked himself up into saying a bunch of "nice" things about London's hockey team. His complimentary remarks are as follows:

"The case of the London Hockey

Club now before the authorities of the Ontario Hockey Association is attracting much attention, not only on account of the serious nature charges, but also on account of London's peculiar attitude of defence. The average man would expect that a reputable organization, charged with a deliberate and carefully prepared con-spiracy to defraud, would be so eager to maintain its good name that it would promptly present such a com-plete refutation as to at once clear away the slightest doubts about the facts. The London bookey club though, has pattered and stormed and beat about the bush without getting down to business. An affidavit was put in by a citizen of good repute that in the Stratford-London match, on Jan. 16, a man played for London under the name of Lindsay, who was not Lindsay at all, nor was he a resident of London or a qualified player. That looks like an easy charge to refute if it is untrue, but more than a week has elapsed, and London has not explained it yet. The captain of the team declines make a declaration that Lindsay played beside him on that night. He says the man who played had never practiced with the team, and he never saw the man before nor since, but that another officer of the club told him the player was Lindsay. The other players on the London team are in the same gnorance, and not one of them would sign a declaration that their fellowplayer was the person he claimed to be. That was the sort of defense the London club apparently expected the not accepted, because the judges looked on the defense as an elaborate syssibility of stating that such an abominable state of affairs will be amply shown when the committee meets on Monday afternoon. The association is in possession of proof that Campbell Lindsay, who was declared in two of London's affidavits to have participated in the game, was at home in Dela-

After Monday, unless the unexpected happens, London will be relegated to a back seat in O. H. A. circles, and will have to content themselves for the rest of the season with exhibition games.
The executive committee of the association are apparently decided on that point.

THE FLAGGING ENERGIES RE-VIVED.—Constant application to busi-ness is a tax upon the energies, and if there be not relaxation, lassitude and depression are sure to intervene. These come from stomachic troubles. The want of exercise brings on nervous irregulari-ties, and the stomach ceases to assimi-late food properly. In this condition Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a recuperative of rare power, restoring the organs to healthful action, dispelling depression, and reviving the flagging endepression, and reviving the flagging en

THE NAVAL DISPLAY. The programme of the naval display at Spithead has not yet been prepared but it is now understood that the British fleet will extend in a single line, following the north side of the navigable channel from Cowes Spithead, and then to Portsmouth, while foreign warships will follow a corresponding line on the south side. It is believed that the body of Queen Victoria will be removed from Osborne at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, and will be conveyed on board the Albert, escorted by eight torpedo boats, and followed by all the royal yachts, and probably the Hohenzollern. They will remain on the Albert for the night and be taken to London Saturday morning. It is understood that the Queen left the most detailed instructions regarding the disposal of her body and the attendant ceremonies. She is said to have expressed a wish that Chopin's and Mendelssohn's funeral marches should be performed in preference to the "Dead March in

Van Dewater, of St. Andrew's Pro-testant Episcopal, delivered a eulogy as a prelude to his morning service. Dr. C. H. Eaton, of the Church of the Divine Fraternity; Dr. E. A. Kittredge, of the Madison Avenue Reformed; Rev. Dr. S. P. Gadman, of the Central Metropolitan Temple; Rev. Dr. D. S. MacKay, of the Fifth Avenue Collegiate; Rev. Dr. W. G. Wylie, of the Scotch Presbyterian, and Rev. Dr. R. S. MacArthur, of the Calvary Baptist, all devoted their entire sermons to eulogies of the Queen.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOLS. Toronto, Ont., Jan. 27.—The following cable was received at the office of the Sabbath School Association: "London, Jan. 26, 1901.—Hon. S. H. Blake, Toronto,—Sunday School Union is organizing a children's memorial service for the Queen throughout the empire on Sunday, Feb. 3, and invites the co-operation of Canada." Buffalo, Jan. 28.—Memorial services on the death of Queen Victoria were held last evening in Ashbury Metho-dist Church, at the corner of Pearl and Chippewa streets. The congrega-tion was unusually large. The alter and chancel were draped with the flags of the United States and Great Britain. The services were opened by the pastor, Rev. Frank S. Rowland. erintendent of public schools, Henry P. Emerson, followed with a brief address and introduced James L. Hughes, superintendent of the public schools of Toronto.

An unusually large audience filled the Delaware Avenue Methodist Epis-copal Church yesterday morning. The pastor, Dr. Charles Edward Locke, delivered a sermon appropriate to the death of Queen Victoria, on the sub-ject, "Lessons From the Beautiful Life of England's Gracious Queen.'

COURTESIES The Progress of Christianity May Be Killed-British, American and Japanese Troops Not Implicated.

> New York, Jan. 28.—George Lynch, an English war correspondent, who has arrived here on his way to England, having gone through the disturbances in China, said of the atrocities committed by the allied soldiers, from which the Americans, the Japanese, and the English troops were excepted:
> "Any thoughtful person who has been in Pekin with the allies cannot but speculate as to what effect this visita-tion will have on the population of China. It is luminously evident to my mind that for generations to come the progress of Christianity in China is absolutely killed. In China the faith was practically making no real progress, but what little progress it has made among the lowest classes and the destitute coolies, who form the bulk of the so-called converts, is now utterly wiped out. ### STRANGE CAREER OF STEVE BRODIE.

Who Is Now in a Collapsed Condition in Texas—Biographical Sketch of the Bridge Jumper.

New York, Jan. 28 .- "Steve" Brodie, whose collapsed condition in Texas is regarded as a forerunner of his death within a time that is measured by hours, passes out of the life of New York after ten years of the most widely disseminated self-advertisement ever achieved by a man who possessed no-thing but mere assurance to carry him through. He began his really important career in 1885, when he took his first big jump from Brooklyn bridge. Since that time he has managed to keep his name in the newspapers by hook or crook, and in one way or another he accumulated a considerable

In 1879 Brodie made his bow as a professional pedestrian and saved $6,000 from his wages in that sport. Then he married the daughter of a confederate colonel, and in trying to get rich quick sermons delivered in the various churches in this city today were in memory of the late Queen Victoria and eulogistic of her characteristics. gro children from a fire and a few peo ple from drowning. But these feats served him little until he began to jump from bridges. After he did that, money poured in upon him.

After his first great coup at bridge jumping he opened a saloon in the Bowery, and straightway became an important person in New York. In 1889 he attempted to impose on the public by declaring that he had gone over Niagara in a rubber suit, but this fraud was exposed. He showed himself in dime museums, made swimming matches, was visited by rich men and cultivated some by "students of sociology," who wrote their "impressions" of him in illustrated magazines.

Then he went on the stage, bought real estate and established a cottage at the seaside. His one serious ambition in life was to efface the impression that he was "tough." In many ways he was an instrument of philanthropy to the unfortunates in the slums of New York, who will regret his departure.

"Charley's Aunt" appears at the London Opera House this afternoon and evening.

Hi Henry's new, big, progressive minstrels will appear at the London Opera House next Wednesday, Jan. 30. Hi Henry's Minstrels this season are entirely new. For several months this summer Mr. Henry was located in New York city, on the lookout for the latest and best novelties in the minstrel line, and with the assistance of his international vaudeville agents, Hill and Rose, Mr. Henry has suc-ceeded in putting together one of the most original and novel programmes ever offered. The entire company will give a street parade at noon.

"Finnigan's Ball" will be seen at the London Opera House next Thursday. This is the eighth year of "Finnigan's Ball," but like all other farce comedies, it possesses that advantage of being changed from year to year, new specialties introduced, new comicalities added. In fact, even the plot itself has changed about and still passes as "The Ball." So it happens that those who have seen this famous farce before need not hesitate to see again, thing that they are to see the same old piece.

A pretty course to serve at a luncheon is a salad of tomato jelly. A pint of tomatoes is strained, seasoned with salt and pepper and a teaspeonful of onion juice. Dissolve a quarter of a box of gelatine and add to the tomatoes. Put aside for half an hour, then bring to a poiling point before molding in tiny egg-cups. Make a half-pint of mayonnaise dressing to which a half-pint of whipped cream is stirred in just before the serving. The molds of jelly are arranged on lettuce leaves on individual platters, the mayonnaise heaped around, the whole sprinkled with finely chopped parsley.

To each of the tweive girls taking part has been assigned a different month of the year, to be indicated by her gown. When the guests assemble they are to be paired off according to months, January of the men seeking January of the girls, and so on. One of the cottlilon figures is to be that of the seasons, and in various other ways the calendar idea is to be elaborated.

During her earlier life she had been called Tina by members of the household, but as she grew older she became Lady Althea, except, perhaps, occasionally, when alone, she and the young princess would adopt the pet names of their childhood. Her mother's birth and station, his lordship had learned, were above reproach. She was the Lady Helen Beauharnais, and a distant relative, as he had believed, of his friend, the young Count Beauharnais, who was betrothed to his sister. Of the young artist with whom she had eloped, the royal family did not know much, except that he was said to have been of English birth.

He had seen the picture of Lady Helen hanging in one of the rooms belonging to the queen, and the face was the counterpart of the one in Louis Carisford's room, only, perhaps, a little younger looking.

He had brought the kindest possible messages from the king and princess, who had grieved sorely over her mysterious absence. They also sent beautiful gifts, with letters, begging that she would return to them at her earliest pleasure, promising that she should be received with the warmest affection, and also congratulating her upon her bright prospects and the discovery of her father's family. They concluded by insisting that she must present herself upon the occasion of the royal marriage, to which Lord Hoiborn and the earl, for her sake, were also bidden.

Lady Holborn and Lady Ariesbury, too, were somewhat crestfallen at this account of the previous life of the much despised little lace-maker, while they regarded with envy the beautiful things that had been sent to her as tokens of the continued affection of her distinguished friends. Still, they both maintained, that, notwithstanding all this, the blight of illegitimate birth yet rested upon her, and they could not favor her union with Lord Holborn, even though she had not so strangely disappeared.

mis family would come to her at their earliest convenience.

"We must go, I suppose," the earl said, with a sigh, after reading the letter aloud to Lady Arlesbury; "but I have no heart for anything now—I wish she could have come to us instead."

Every day only served to increase his pain and longing for the gentle girl who had beguiled so many weary hours for him, and he had, as he said, "no heart for anything."

But Lady Arlesbury, on the contrary, was all eagerness to get back to London. Gertrude, too, seized the idea with avidity, for she was longing for society and excitement.

Besides this, the Holborns had been gone a week—Lord Holborn having been telegraphed for on business, and he was accompanied by his mother and sister, to make preparations for the approaching marriage of the latter—and Gertrude had not relinquished ail hope of winning the young lord, notwithstanding his recent loss and blighted hopes.

So they wrote that they would be in London the following week, and great preparations began for the meeting of this long-lost sister and aunt, whose great wealth was now the constant theme of conversation between Lady Arlesbury and her daughter.

Lady Ara Carisford wrote that the house she had taken was situated in Leicester Square; accordingly the family imagined that she had made up her mind to live in a state of splendor for the rest of her days, and they laid their pians with that in view.

CANADIAN VENTURES

Are Popular With a Large Class of the English People.

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 28 .- F. H. Clergue, of Sault St. Marie, has returned from a European trip lasting nearly two months. He stated that he had found the people of England entertained very kindly feelings towards Canadian ventures just at the present moment. In connection with his works on the north shore of Lake Superior, he had opened two immigration bureaus—one at Liverpool and the other at London. At each office there was installed competent staffs of officials, who, he had no doubt, would succeed in securing a very desirable class of immigrants for New Ontario. The object was to induce to locate there laborers and men with families, capable of artisan work. From Norway and Sweden, which countries were visited by Mr.Clergue, immigrants are also expected. These people live in a country very similar to that along the north shore, and are accustomed to much the same kind of work as that which will be required in Ontario. The pulpwood industry is an important one there, and these men are used to operating in pulp mills and in the forests. They are excellent miners in their own country, and that they would do well out here is shown by their success in the mines at the other side of Lake Su-perior, where Swedish and Norwegian miners predominate. The immigration bureaus were now in operation, and Mr. Clergue expected that the result of their work would be rapidly mani-fested in the flow of a good class of la-borers to Michipicoten.

CRESCENTS VS. QUEBEC. TONIGHT'S GAME.

CRESCENTS VS. QUEBEC. Quebec, Jan. 26.—The Crescents defeated Quebec here tonight in the intermediate series. The score at the finish stood 1 to 0. The game was fast and a fairly good exhibition of hockey. Powell, for the Crescents, scored the goal that won the game a few minutes after the second half had begun.

MONTREAL DEFEATED. Montreal, Jan. 27.—Ottawa won the championship hockey match with Montreal on Saturday evening by 9 goals to 4. There was a big crowd present to witness the match.

PROTEST WENT THROUGH. Toronto, Jan. 26.—The Midland hockey club has won its protest against the Waubaushene hockey club, the latter club having admitted today to the secretary of the O. H. A. that one of the players, W. H. Fallowfield, was over 20

THE ROOT OF THE MATTER.

He Cured Himself of Serious Stomach Trouble Down to First Principles.

A man of large affairs in one of our prominent eastern cities by too close attention to business, too little exercise and too many club dinners, finally began to pay nature's tax, levied in the form of chronic stomach trouble; the failure of his digestion brought about a nervous irritability making it impos-sible to apply himself to his daily business, and finally deranging the kidneys and heart.

In his own words he says: "I consulted one physician after another, and each one seemed to understand my case, but all the same they each failed to bring about the return of my former digestion, appetite and vigor. For two years I went from pillar to post, from one sanitarium to another, I gave up smoking, I quit coffee and even renounced my daily glass of beer, but without any marked improvement.

"Friends had often advised me to try a well known proprietary medicine, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I had often perused the newspaper advertisements of the remedy, but never took any stock in advertised medicines nor could believe a 50-cent patent medicine would touch my case.

To make a long story short, I finally bought a couple of packages at the nearest drug store and took two or three tablets after each meal, and oc-casionally a tablet between meals, when I felt any feeling of nausea or discomfort

"I was surprised at the end of the first week to note a marked improve-ment in my appetite and general health, and before the two packages were gone I was certain that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets was going to cure completely, and they did not disappoint me. I can eat and sleep and enjoy my coffee and clgar, and no one would suppose I had ever known the horrors

"Out of friendly curiosity, I wrote to the proprietors of the remedy, asking for information as to what the tablets contained, and they replied that the principal ingredients were aseptic pepsin (government test), malt, diastase, and other natural digestives, which digest food regardless of the condition of the stomach."

The root of the matter is this, the digestive elements contained in Stu-art's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest the food, give the overworked stomach a chance to recuperate and the nerves and whole system receive the nourishment which can only come from food; stimulants and nerve tonics never give real strength; they give a fictitious strength, invariably followed by reaction. Every drop of blood, every nerve and tissue is manufactured from our daily food, and if you can insure its prompt action and complete digestion by the regular use of so good and wholesome a remedy as Stuart's Dys-pepsia Tablets, you will have no need of nerve tonics and sanitariums.

Although Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been in the market only a few years, yet probably every druggist in the United States, Canada and Great Britain now sells them and consider them the most popular and successful of any preparation for stomach trouyears of age, and consequently incligible to play in the junior series. The Woodstock Bohemians have been told to go ahead and play the Guelph Wellingtons on Monday. The Wellingtons have four men under suspension—Petrie and Forbes, alleged to be playing without certificates, and Irving and Black, said to have been playing members last season of the suspended Nationals. The case will be attended to on Monday.

MAY ENTER GRAND CIRCUIT.

There is a probability that Rochester will again be seen in the line of Grand Circuit cities this year. Several prominent horsemen there are of the opinion that a properly managed meeting would be a winner. The one-day special meeting held in 1899, at which John R. Gentry, Joe Patchen and Searchlight competed, attracted a far greater crowd than the promoters looked for. It is understood that if racing is revived at Rochester, and Grand Circuit dates applied for, C. T. Chapin, owner of the great pacer, Connor (2:03%), will be at the head of the movement. With Albany horsemen also talking about dates, as well as Syracuse and Cincinnati, and a slight prospect for New York, it will be a royal Grand Circuit indeed, if all realize their wishes.

SERVICES

Held in the Various Churches of the City Yesterday.

Many Touching and Eloquent Eulogies on the Dead Sovereign.

Prayers for Divine Guidance of King Edward VII.—Appropriate Music-Churches Impressively Draped.

In no part of the vast British Empire has Britain's beloved sovereign been more sincerely mourned than in this city, and since the news of her death arrived on Tuesday, an everdeepening sense of personal loss and bereavement has possessed every heart. And of this feeling on the part of the citizens the various church services yesterday were a national reflex. From every pulpit were heard expressions of the great and inestimable loss which not the empire alone, but the whole Christian world, has sustained in the passing away of the grandest sovereign in the history of the world. From her noble life were drawn the lessons of the virtues and motives which had actuated it. From pulpit ity; the women's branch of the mis-sionary cause was carried forth on a and pew also ascended heartfelt prayers for the Divine sympathy to rest upon the bereaved mourners of the royal family, and for Divine guidance to the vouchsafed King Edward VII. in the conduct of the momentous affairs of state which await his hand. The musical portions of the church terance from the various pulpits. Appropriate anthems and other musical numbers were rendered, and the strains of Handel's "Dead March in Saul" and Chopin's "Funeral March' were chosen by many organists as effective numbers. The draping of the churches were in most instances of the most artistic and impressive descrip-

AT ST. ANDREW'S.

In beginning his memorial sermon yesterday morning, Rev. Dr. Johnston, of St. Andrew's Church, read the 31st verse of Proverbs, xxxi.: "Give her of the fruit of her hands, and let her own works praise her in the gates." He spoke first of the coinciding circumstances surrounding Victoria's and David's ascension to the thrones they occupied. Each had been chosen by God, who had his purpose for Great Britain as for his nation of long ago. When Victoria had come to the throne, she came to a restless kingdom, that had none of today's loyalty to its sovereign; nor did the reverend speaker think it at all impossible that had another kind of ruler, such as the preceding Hanoverians, succeeded William, Great Britain might have experienced some of those internal revolutions such as have been in many other European countries. With her allegiance to the constitution and her womanly qualities, she had won her way to the hearts of all her subjects, and she left an empire loyal to the sovereign and to the throne. There were four epoch-marking events in her lifetime, and in describing each of these, Dr. Johnston reache a height of forceful eloquence that he has probably never surpassed in any other of his sermons. First he described, with words that comported well with the magnificence and importance of the occurrence, the glittering coronation pageant, when the jeweled crowns of the girl-queen and her ladies flashed into prominence, an hour for which lover of liberty and peace and good had reason to thank God. Next came her love-promoted marriage, when she was linked to one of the purest and noblest natures that ever stood near a throne. Twenty or more years of happy married life followed before his death came, and the next great event was the jubilee. Then there were gathered in England the greatest number of princes and potentates that ever assembled on earth to do honor to a sovereign. Other rulers had their golden jubilee, but none had ever had a diamond jubilee. This was allowed to Victoria, and there were repeated, only upon a larger scale the honors and acclaims which had greeted her ten years before. Today our empire mourned a Queen, and today the world mourned a good woman. Yet her death and the body lying in the big dining-room at Osborne House was not the end of all that glory and greatness, for the world gives her and all ages of posterity will give her the fruits of all her work of sixty years and more. Two lessons were to he learned that death must come, and that there is little reason for envy in the world, for despite differences of position in this world, all must enter the next as equals. Three distinguishing characteristics were apparent in her reign. There was first, her work of womanly devotion. Victoria, the queenliest queen of them all, was still a woman, and made her subjects love her for her wifely affection, her desire to be all that a mother should be, and little acts of friendship and sympathy. These were the things that marked her out as a womanly queen. Another was her strengthening of social righteousness. The life at the

Just before leaving the church the congrega-tion sang "God Save the King," the pastor saying, as he introduced the National Anthem, that our loving remembrance of Queen Victoria would not be affected by our loyalty and devotion to King Edward VII.

AT ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL. In the Roman Catholic churches of the city, yesterday morning, eloquent tributes were paid to the memory of England's deceased sovereign. Queen Victoria, and the prayers of the congregation were requested for the Die guidance of her successor, King Edward VII. At high mass in St. Peter's Cathedral, Rev. Father Aylward, in a pre-lude to his sermon, said: "Last Sun-day I recommended to your prayers our gracious majesty Queen Victoria, who was then reported to be seriously ill. Today, as a matter of respect and reverence, I ask you to join with all our fellow-citizens in expressing our heartfelt sympathy in the loss of a Queen so good, noble and true. We as Catholics have every reason to regret the demise of such an exemplary ruler, who, on many occasions, proved her love for her Catholic friends. A notable and touching instance of this was the death of Sir John Thompson, which occurred while his excellency was paying her majesty an official visit. As Sir John died in her home, the Queen gave every facility in order that, in accordance with his faith, the holy sacrifice of the mass was offered there for the repose of his Again, what good she did on her last visit to Ireland. As Catholics we are always taught to respect authority and to pray for our rulers and those who are in high stations that we may lead a quiet and peaceful life. May Edward VII. be a worthy successor of Edward I., who was called Edward the Good. Let us pray that King Edward VII. may guided by Divine wisdom and that his reign may be a peaceful and pros-

AT DUNDAS CENTER CHURCH. At the Dundas Center Methodist Church, the musical service was particularly excellent. The first hymn, which was fervently sung by the large congregation, was written by Mr. J. H. Bowman:

Before thy gracious throne we kneel, Whilst in this hour the nation mourns, Thy mercy and thy love reveal.

Thou who dost o'er the nations rule, In majesty and power serene, Hast taken from the earthly throne Great England's true and noble Queen This day our mortal grief assuage

The gloom and sorrow that we feel:
Lift from the nation far and wide,
And all our sin and suffering heal.

May thy deep love, like morning light, On King and subject freely fall; Thy wisdom guide, thy truth uphold, Thy grace and mercy save us all. Monarch of monarchs, King of kings, How feeble earthly thrones appear; Thy wisdom guides, thy truth shall reign Thy love dispel our mortal fear. And from the kingdom's utmost bounds From far-off isle and distant shore, A grateful people shall arise— Thy power revere, thy name adore.

Rev. Dr. Saunders preached from the text found in Proverbs, xxxi., 29: "Many daughters have done virtuously, but thou excellest them all." He eulogized our late Queen for her many noble qualities. very appropriately draped in mourning last night, on the occasion of the memorial services. The Rev. Dr. Smith preached to a large congrega-tion, taking his text from second Chronicles, 25th chapter. He began by drawing a parallel between the good King of Juda and the good Queen of Britain. He dwelt on the universality of sorrow for the dead sovereign. England has always prospered under her queens. Elizabeth, and in a less degree, Ann, were queens of great merit as well as Victoria, only their characteristics were of a different kind. Queen Victoria will be remembered above all for her goodness. "I will try to make her a good woman," said her mother, "and she shall be a good queen." Dr. Smith then dwelt upon the depth of degradation to which the social life of England had fallen when the young Queen ascended the throne. Royalty itself was a name surrounded by evil associations. The late Queen had given the term "royalty" in 1900 a vastly different signification from what it had in 1837. The preacher, in conclusion, referred to the splendid eulogiums of the American press. John Learoyd, one of the speakers, stated he had been privileged to see the late Queen previous to her coronation, and he remembered her as a very pretty girl. Rev. Mr. Hartwell, Canadian missionary, recently from China, related incidents demonstrat-ing a remarkable knowledge existing among the Chinese of the late Queen and her family. He felt confident that among millions of the Chinese the death of the Queen would be as severely felt as was the fact here in Clark, chose for his subject "Her Gracious Majesty, the Late Queen, preaching therefrom an impressive and eloquent discourse, in which he paid a high tribute to the worth of the departed sovereign. The draping of the church, and the special music by the choir, and the demeanor of the people, all expressed the congregation's deep sense of bereavement in the late Queen's death. At the morning service Mr. A. E. Ferte, baritone, of Toronto, sang Parker's "Jerusalem" in an acceptable and finished manner.
