VICKERS-VIMY BIPLANE MADE ATLANTIC FLIGHT AT AVERAGE SPEED OF 120 MILES AN HOUR

Capt. Jack Alcock Declares Great Secret of Long Distance Flying Is To "Nurse the Engine" — Intrepid British Aviators, in Making Successful Ocean Trip, Were At Times 13,000 Feet High and Once Swooped to Within Thirty Feet of the Sea.

Galway, Ireland, June 15.—The correspondent endeavored to get Alcock to describe the impressions he had during the flight while the aviator was at Clifden today.

"It is difficult to sum them up," said Alcock. "It is curious to be able to say that I had no sense of remoteness. I have done considerable night flying, and any sense of loneliness has worn off long ago. I don't think that either of us had any thought of what we were flying over, being merely intent on getting across.

"We wanted to get the job done, and I can tell you that we were jolly well pleased when we saw the coast.

"I believe the great secret of long-distance flying under such conditions as we experienced, is to nurse your engine. I never opened the throttle once. The machine itself has a speed of 90 miles an hour, but, without opening the throttle and with a following wind, we averaged 120 miles."

Emphasizing the bodily comfort of the passage, Capt. Alcock said:

"I wore electrically heated clothes as an experiment, but the machine itself was so snug that it was unnecessary to switch on the current."

Both aviators arrived in Galway this evening, and will stay all night. They will leave on a train departing from Galway at 2:25 tomorrow afternoon for London. A gang of mechanics left Oranmore airdrome this afternoon to repair the airplane. A large number of people have been to Clifden, but, as it was impossible to pass the military sentries, hundreds were disappointed. Some adventurous ones waded through the bog to get near the airplane and, notwithstanding the guards, claims to have obtained bits of the wings as souvenirs. These were displayed here tonight.

LIEUT. BROWN'S SWEETHEART IS OVERJOYED AT LOVER'S SUCCESS

London, June 16.—"Magnificent. I never doubted your success." This was the congratulatory message sent Lieut. Arthur W. Brown by his fiance, Miss Kennedy, at whose home there was rapturous rejoicings when the news arrived that the flight of Capt. Alcock and Lieut. Brown had been successful, says the Daily Mail. The house was immediately decorated with flags and throughout the day the telephone brought congratulations," the newspaper adds. "The suspense of waiting for the news was terrible," Miss Kennedy is quoted as having said in an interview. "I will sleep sounder tonight. A message from the Daily Mail told us that the flight had begun. I did not expect to hear anything further before noon Sunday at the earliest, and when I learned of the safe arrival of the plane during the forenoon I was almost beside myself with joy."

The marriage of Lieut. Brown and Miss Kennedy originally was fixed for April, but when Brown understood that he was to pilot Alcock's machine the wedding was postponed until after the attempt had been made.

The wedding will now not be delayed. Brown and Miss Kennedy worked together in the aircraft department of the ministry of munitions during the war and became acquainted. They became engaged last October.

U. S. PRESS SAYS THAT FLIGHT IS GREATEST HUMAN ACHIEVEMENT

New York, June 16.—The morning newspapers here all pay tribute to Capt. Alcock and Lieut. Arthur Brown, declaring that their non-stop flight across the Atlantic marks a splendid achievement in the progress of aviation.

The Times says: "It is a performance worthy to rank among the greatest of human achievements, and to merely as another high mark of British sportsmanship.

The Sun says: "When flying to Europe has become a routine incident of every-day life, as it soon will be, the names of Alcock and Brown will gleam bright in the records of man's progress in mastering the elements."

The Tribune says: "What Hawker failed to melodramatically to do Alcock accomplished yesterday without melodrama. The Atlantic is now conquered. What next? Secretary Daniels is talking about conquering the Pacific. After that the record-making aviator will weep, like Alexander, that there are no more worlds to conquer."

The World says: "The flight of Alcock and Brown was a splendid feat, in scientific and pure sportsmanship, in physical endurance and indifference to danger, it has never been surpassed in the records of aviation. For all time they have won the honor of being the pioneers to bridge the ocean from Newfoundland to Ireland."

NORTHCLIFFE CONGRATULATES FLIERS ON THEIR SUCCESSFUL OCEAN FLIGHT

London, June 16.—Viscount Northcliffe has sent the following message to Capt. Alcock: "A very hearty welcome to the pioneer of a direct Atlantic flight. Your journey with your brave companion, is a typical exhibition of British courage and efficiency. Just as in 1913, when I offered the prize, I felt it would soon be won, so do I believe that your wonderful journey is a warning to cable monopolists and others to realize that within the next few years we shall be less dependent upon them, unless they increase their wires and speed.

"Your voyage was made more quickly than the average press messages of 1919. Moreover, I look forward with certainty to the time when London morning newspapers will be selling in New York in the evening, allowing for the difference between British and American times, and vice versa, in regard to the New York evening journals reaching London next day.

"Then we shall no longer suffer from the danger of garbled quotations due to telegraphic communication. Then the American and British peoples will understand each other better, as they are brought into closer touch.

"Illness prevents me from shaking you by the hand and personally presenting the prize. But I can assure you your welcome will be the equal of that of Hawker and his gallant American compeer, Read, whose great accomplishment has given us such valuable data for future Atlantic work.

"I rejoice at the good augury that you departed from and arrived at those two portions of the British commonwealth, the happy and prosperous dominion of Newfoundland, and the future equally happy and prosperous dominion of Ireland.

"Yours sincerely, Northcliffe."

AVIATORS FACED DEATH WHEN MACHINE DIVED TOWARDS SEA

London, June 15.—When the Vickers-Vimy biplane driven by Capt. John Alcock was first sighted crossing the Irish coast, says a dispatch to the Daily Mail from Clifden, Galway, an airplane flew out from the Oranmore airdrome to render assistance. This machine landed near the Vimy, but unfortunately was wrecked, owing to the softness of the ground.

When the Vickers-Vimy machine landed, Lieut. Arthur Brown, the navigator, said to Capt. Alcock: "What do you think of that for fancy navigating?" and the pilot of the machine responded: "Very good." The two men who had just completed an epoch-making voyage then shook hands.

When assistance reached the machine the two aviators were helped to the ground, and it was found that Lieut. Brown was slightly injured on the nose and mouth by the jolt given the machine when it struck the ground. Both men were deaf and dazed, and were unable to walk steadily for some minutes. They quickly recovered, however, and were escorted to the wireless station in triumph, being given the best hospitality available. They distributed cigarettes as souvenirs, and gave away the small dog and cat which were mascots during the trip. The entire equipment was rain-soaked by the downpour during the journey.

Never Sighted a Ship.

Describing the trip, the aviators said they had a very trying ordeal. Capt. Alcock saying that the sun came out only once when the biplane had attained a height of 11,000 feet. Only three astronomical observations were possible during the voyage. The altitude of the machine varied from a few feet from the water up to 13,000 feet, and the fliers never sighted a single ship.

"I did not know once during the flight whether I was upside down or not," said Capt. Alcock. "Once we ascended hurriedly when we saw the green Atlantic only thirty feet below."

The breaking away of the propeller generating current for the wireless apparatus soon after the start prevented the men from communicating with the shore. When it happened, Lieut. Brown noticed that the propeller had carried

A MOTHER'S FAITH

London, June 16.—The Manchester home of John Alcock, pilot of the Vickers-Vimy biplane which on Sunday morning completed its flight across the Atlantic from Newfoundland by landing at Clifden, Ireland, was besieged by visitors yesterday, the callers standing in line to shake hands with Capt. Alcock's mother. She said during the day: "I had faith in my son. He told me he would make the flight safely."

TELEGRAM'S EDITOR WILL BE SUMMONED BEFORE COMMITTEE

Believed He Can Add To Information Given by Head of Produce Concern.

HE HAS THE FACTS

Member of Special Body Considers It Is Interests of People To Call Journalist.

Ottawa, June 16.—It was decided by the cost of living committee of the Commons this morning to summon John Robinson, editor of the Toronto Telegram, to appear before the committee on Friday to give what information he has regarding the evidence given by E. C. Fox of the William Davies Company last week. In moving that Mr. Robinson be summoned, E. B. Devlin, M. P. P., said the Toronto Telegram was a medium for conveying news to the general public. In its editorial columns last week the Telegram said that when Mr. Fox gave evidence here he "put it all over the committee" through the mediocrity of the committee. The Telegram had said that Mr. Fox had retained, or did not clearly give some evidence that he might have given.

Mr. Devlin made the comment that a wrong impression had gone out that the committee had entirely failed in getting out of Mr. Fox the truth. "Mr. Robinson knows this evidence," said Mr. Devlin, "and it is in the interests of the people of Canada that Mr. Robinson come here and tell us the facts."

The question of employing counsel again came before the committee. Some time ago it had been decided to ask the permission of the department of justice to obtain the service of W. F. O'Connor, the former cost of living commissioner. The justice department found it impossible to release Mr. O'Connor at present. He himself was unable to act, and it was reported he had said he would resign if forced to act as counsel.

The justice department thereupon suggested that the service of Col. McFarland of the militia department could be obtained. Mr. Devlin said he had no personal objections to Col. McFarland, but as a member of the committee, if he were to be given a counsel named by the Government his usefulness as a member of the committee would be gone.

Considers Counsel Unnecessary.

F. W. Nesbitt thought it was absolutely unnecessary to have counsel. There were two or three lawyers on the committee, and if they were not able to cross-examine witnesses it was time they were.

"We are proceeding haphazard," said Mr. Davis. "We should have counsel to make a special study of the question. Members of the committee have other work and cannot give the attention to it that a lawyer employed for that purpose would give," commented Chairman Nicholson.

The secretary was instructed to get in touch with H. Aylen, K.C., of Ottawa. It was found he could be present before Thursday. Witnesses from Toronto who had been summoned to appear this morning did not put in an appearance, and Mr. Stevens moved that the secretary take all "necessary steps" to have them appear.

Alderman Waldo Guertin of Ottawa, who is chairman of the civic cost of living committee was examined. He said their examination had been very much curtailed because they had no power to examine witnesses. They had found very much apathy on the part of the public. They intended to have a co-operative system of distribution of foodstuffs in Ottawa.

The question of employing counsel was again discussed, and the name of Strachan Johnston of Toronto was suggested. The chairman was asked to consider the matter and report.

It was decided to get more evidence regarding the situation at the stockyards in Toronto.

ENTENTE ARMIES REPORTED TO HAVE RESUMED ACTION AGAINST HUNGARIAN REDS

Hostilities Against Bolsheviki in Hungary Was Commenced Immediately Upon Expiration of Ultimatum to Soviet Government — French Troops At Point 34 Miles From Vienna.

Berlin, June 16.—On the expiration to the Hungarian Soviet Government, the Entente immediately began military action, according to the Neue Freie Presse of Vienna, and French troops have arrived at Pressburg, 34 miles east southeast of Vienna.

The French Government, the newspaper adds, emphatically refuses to negotiate with the representatives of Bolshevism in Hungary.

AMERICAN TROOPS CLASH WITH VILLA FORCES AT JUAREZ

Mexican Rebel Troops Driven Back and Prisoners Taken.

FIGHTING IN PROGRESS.

El Paso, Texas, June 16.—A report was received at military headquarters at 10:20 a.m. today that fighting was in progress between U. S. cavalry, under command of Col. Thompkins and a Villa detachment in the vicinity of San Lorenzo, opposite Ysleta, Texas, 12 miles east of El Paso.

El Paso, Texas, June 16.—American troops sent into Mexico last night to stop the indiscriminate firing across the border, had their first skirmish with the Mexican rebel forces of Francisco Villa at the Juarez race track shortly after 2 o'clock this morning. Villa's troops were driven from the race track by rifle and machine gun fire, and many prisoners were reported taken.

ENGLAND'S RAILWAY REVENUES INCREASE BY MANY MILLIONS

Total Receipts in 1918 Were $820,300,000.

New York, June 16.—An interesting statement issued by the British Board of Trade shows that total revenues of the railroads of England in 1918, increased to more than $820,300,000 compared with $550,000,000 in 1913, while total expenses in 1918 totalled about $606,600,000, as compared with $347,000,000 in 1913. Operating rates are also shown to have increased from 65.3 per cent in 1913 to 73.9 per cent in 1918.

One item of particular interest in the statement was the increase in passenger receipts. These were approximately $250,000,000 in 1913 and in 1918 were about $322,500,000.

PETROGRAD SOON TO BE EVACUATED

London, June 16—Active preparations are being made for the evacuation of Petrograd, it is announced in a wireless dispatch from Moscow received here today.

Boy Kills Himself Rather Than Face Charge of Theft

Winnipeg Lad Grieved Because of Suffering He Caused Mother.

Winnipeg, June 16.—Fearing that he would be sent to jail and miserable over the suffering caused his mother, William Miskelly, aged 14, committed suicide on Saturday evening. The lad had been arrested for being in possession of a stolen automobile, and was to appear at the juvenile court tomorrow.

Leaving a note to his mother asking forgiveness the boy procured a shotgun and one shell and went to his room. He tied a string to the trigger and attempted to fire the gun by pulling it. The string broke and the boy finally shot himself in the heart by pulling the trigger with his bare toe.

RABBIT BREEDERS FORM ASSOCIATION

Twenty Members Enrolled At Organization Meeting.

A meeting of the rabbit and hare breeders of London and vicinity was held in the C. O. F. Hall, 428 Richmond street, Saturday evening. An association was formed to be known as the Canadian Rabbit Breeders' Association of London. The following officers were elected: Honorary members, J. H. Saunders, Gordon Phillip; honorary president, F. Keene; president, L. W. Lucas; secretary-treasurer, F. C. Hessel; registrar, Robert Beamish.

Altogether twenty members were received into the new association, which bids fair to be one of the largest in Canada in the near future.

Why Did Doug Leave?

Dorothy, aged six, went with some big people on Saturday evening to the Majestic Theatre to see her favorite, Douglas Fairbanks, in the "Knickerbocker Buckaroo," the film so widely advertised by the aviators in the city last week. The little lady followed with absorbed interest the fortunes of the acrobat from the opening scene in the exclusive New York Club to the point where he was put in jail in the Mexican town.

"Why did Douglas ever leave home?" she exclaimed emphatically, giving the grown-up people in her vicinity one of the biggest laughs of the evening.

Canadian Soldiers At Witley Camp Burn Shops, Theatre and Salvation Army Hut As Protest Against Delayed Repatriation

Outrage of Saturday Night Was Participated In by Only a Small Proportion of Entire Number of Men in Camp—General Turner, in Addressing Men After Demonstration, Pointed Out Difficulties That Had Delayed Return of Men—Disgrace Brought On Canada by a Few Hot-Headed Soldiers.

London, June 16.—On Saturday night a demonstration took place at Witley Camp, where Canadian soldiers gathered in a mass meeting to protest against delayed repatriation. A dozen shops, the garrison theatre and the Salvation Army hut were burned. Only a small proportion of the men participated in the outrage. Gen. Richard Turner visited the camp on Sunday and, addressing the men, said all wanted to get back to Canada, but they must have patience. There was sufficient shipping to take them back in a fortnight, but obstacles arose for which the authorities could not be held responsible, such as strikes. The destruction done in the camp was heart-breaking, he said. The men around him had won renown in France, but disgrace was being brought on Canada by a few blackguards.

ALLIES TO HAND THEIR REPLY TO GERMANS TODAY

Revised Text of Treaty Will Be Delivered to Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau.

SPECIAL TRAIN READY

To Convey German Delegates to Weimar, Government Seat.

Paris, June 16.—The reply of the Allies to the German counter-proposals will be delivered to Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, head of the enemy delegation, at Versailles at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Paul Dutasta, secretary of the peace conference, will take the revised treaty personally to Versailles to hand it to the Germans.

A special train is held in readiness at Versailles, and it is persumed that the Germans will depart for Weimar immediately upon receipt of the Allied reply.

Editors and printers worked through the night and this forenoon in a feverish effort to complete the reply. At 5 a.m. corrections were still being made, but it was stated that delivery of the document at about 4 p.m. was assured.

The delivery, however, it developed later this morning, will not be in printed form. It was found that there was not time to complete the printing of the revised document. Therefore, Count von Brockdorff-Rantzeau will be handed one copy of the original treaty with the changes written in red ink. With this will be handed the German plenipotentiary 99 other copies of the treaty upon which they can make the corrections themselves from the first.

At this morning's session of the council of four the documents to be handed the Germans were gone over in detail.

The session was attended by the revision commission, which earlier had completed its work.

The special train which was prepared at Versailles for the Germans was made ready on the request of Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, who signified his intention of leaving as soon as the reply was presented.

ALLIES WONDERING HOW FAR THEY MUST GO INTO GERMANY

Paris, June 15.—The newspapers are giving much space to the military preparations of the British, French, Americans and Belgians along the Rhine, and are speculating as to the distance the Allies must advance before the Germans yield should their first answer be in the negative. The missing sections of the Austrian treaty, including the financial, reparations and the military terms, will be handed the Austrians on Tuesday, and the conference will busy itself with Austrian and Turkish affairs while awaiting Germany's decision, the final date for which, as previously announced, will be Saturday.

If the Allied troops must advance into Germany, it is probable they will not move until Sunday.

Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, the head of the German mission, was informed officially today by Paul Dutasta, secretary of the conference, that the reply to the German counter-proposals will be handed to him tomorrow at an hour to be indicated later. Premier Clemenceau will inform the French cabinet of the principal features of the reply in the morning, and the council of five will go over the final text afterwards. The hour for delivery of the reply to the Germans is very indefinite, but it will be some time between noon and 6 o'clock in the evening.

WINNIPEG MAYOR DECLARES END OF STRIKE IN SIGHT

Mayor Gray Says "Daylight Is in Sight," After Conference With Minister of Labor—Street Cars Are Expected To Run Again Soon.

Winnipeg, June 16.—"Daylight is in sight," said Mayor Gray last night coming from a conference with Senator Robertson, minister of labor. He would not say anything more, but he let it be known that his statement was in reference to the settlement of the dispute in the metal trades, the original cause of the strike.

Mayor Gray also stated that the street cars would soon be running again.

Major Lyle of he special police force had as visitors during the evening James Winning and R. B. Russell, two of the inner circle of the strike committee. Nothing was disclosed as to the nature of the interview.

RAILWAYS SUCCESSFUL IN FILLING PLACES OF MEN WHO WENT OUT

Winnipeg, June 16.—"The men who have gone out are chiefly firemen and switchmen," was the statement by a railway brotherhood officials last night when speaking of the effect of the strike by the outlawed members of the running trades organizations. This was corroborated by the statement of railway officials and both the leaders of the workers' organizations and the officials of the compies are optimistic he the continuation of service.

The evidence yesterday at all the railway depots was that the companies had successfully countered the action of the radical employees. It was stated that the places of all the men who had gone out had been filled so far as the passenger trains were concerned. All the trains, with the exception of the C. N. R. train to Prince Albert, left Winnipeg on scheduled time and it was only twenty minutes late.

So far the exact number of the men who have gone out on strike has not been obtainable.

Last night the C. P. R. issued an official notice that all the passenger trains had been dispatched. There would be reduced freight service, it was stated, but, it was added, all the necessary switching in the yards would be performed.

Vacancies on the staff of the Winnipeg postoffice are gradually being filled and up to Saturday evening there had been 415 men engaged, out ofa total of 500 before the strike.

VANCOUVER VETERANS OPPOSED TO STRIKE

Vancouver, B. C., June 16.—The Sun, the local morning newspaper, on Saturday took the form of a single letter-sized sheet, turning out on a multigraph machine. The Sun chose this means of supplying its readers with a resume of the night's news.

The afternoon newspapers here are not affected by the strike.

The executive of the Great War Veterans of British Columbia declined an invitation to send a speaker to the mass meeting on Saturday afternoon and took the opportunity of disclaiming any connection as a body with the Vancouver strike, the veterans instead going on record as opposed to the strike.

STRIKE IN FRENCH MINING DISTRICTS GOES INTO EFFECT

Paris, June 16.—The strike called by the Federation of Miners went into effect this morning. Dispatches from the mining region indicated that it was general in scope.

FOCH ATTENDS SESSION OF SUPREME COUNCIL

Paris, June 16.—Marshal Foch and other military leaders attended the meeting of the council of five today. The meeting developed the nature of a general wind-up of the German situation.

U. S. TELEGRAPHERS AND COMPANIES TO CONFER

Atlantic City, June 16.—Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, announced to Natinal Convention delegates here last night that Postmaster-General Burleson had promised to give orders which would result in conferences between representatives of the striking commercial telegraphers of the Western Union and Postal Companies and representatives of the companies. At these conferences, he said, machinery for "settling difficulties" would be arranged.

COMPETITION IS THE DEATH OF MEN; SOCIAL ORDER MUST BE FOUNDED ON LOVE AND CHRISTIAN PRINCIPLES

Rev. W. J. Knox Addresses Big Labor Gathering At Church —Upholds Right of Collective Bargaining, But Points Out Duties of Workers As Well As of the Employers.

About three hundred members of the local united labor unions paraded through the downtown streets Sunday evening to the First Presbyterian Church, where Rev. W. J. Knox, the minister, preached a special labor sermon, taking for his subject, "Is the Social Order Christian?" The parade, which was under the auspices of the local trades and labor council, was marshaled on the market square by Sergeant Fred Young, local organizer, at 6:30 p.m.

There was an excellent turnout of members despite the sweltering weather, and there were representatives of every labor union in the city present in the parade. Shortly after 6:30 p.m., the members of the labor unions, led by Sergt. Young and the Grand Trunk car shops employees' brass band, marched from the market square up Talbot to Dundas street, east on Dundas to Clarence, and thence to the First Presbyterian Church, where special seating accommodation was reserved for them.

Mr. Knox dealt with present conditions and the need for improvement. His sermon in full follows:

Many years ago John the Baptist when languishing in a dungeon, with his mind clouded with doubt, sent disciples to Jesus with the question: "Art Thou He that should come or look we for another?"

This question has been asked all through the centuries and is being asked today more urgently than ever in the past. Will this Christian religion meet the world's deepest need, correct the world's wrongs, and solve the world's vexing problems, or must we discard it and wait for something else?

Never has the world passed through such a time of violent unrest as we see throughout the world at the present time. In every country there is evidence of bitter strife between those on the one hand who have been in the past the hewers of wood and the drawers of water and those, on the other hand, who, by birth or by superior ability, have become possessed of special privilege. "The outstanding fact of world politics at the present time is that a great tide of revolutionary feeling is rising in every country."

No institution, however hoary with age, is exempt from the demand that it must show cause for its existence. The insistent cry for justice is piercing to the very heart of the nation and the cry cannot be silenced. The common people have awakened to a new sense of their power and to a new understanding of their rights, and the claims they make must receive the earnest attention of all thinking men.

Human Welfare View.

It is not my purpose to treat this great modern movement of the people from the point of view of cold economics, but from the point of view of human welfare. How should a Christian view this whole problem? According to what principles should he judge this present industrial world? Is it to continue or must it give place to something different. Prince Okuma, that far-seeing statesman of Japan, stated while the great war was in progress that it meant the death of European civilization. His statement may be extreme, but no one can fail to see that we are on the eve of profound and far-reaching changes.

In this time of uncertainty, as Christians we naturally take upon our lips the words of Peter: "Lord, to whom shall we go, Thou hast the words of eternal life." Those have the words that are of eternal value; that set forth eternal principles. If we come to him we learn the truth, which is also echoed in the teaching of his apostles, that all life is sacred, all life must be judged according to the principles of religion. There is nothing common or unclean. Whatsoever we do in word or deed we must do all in the spirit of Jesus. The hypocritical fallacy that religion is religion and business is business is forever exploded. No man in his senses today would for a moment claim that any of his life is exempt from the application of the principles of true religion emphasized by Christ.

Get Rid of Prejudice.

Not only must we judge all life, individual and communal, in the light of Christ's teaching, we must also rid our minds of all prejudice born of class sympathy. We must be charitable and tolerant towards the opinions of others. There is all the greater need of this spirit of tolerance when extremists both to the right and to the left are insisting on the finality and infallibility of their particular view. This patient tolerance should be exercised by those who, stung by a sense of injustice, are clamoring for change; it should also be exercised by those whose interests are liable to suffer by any change. It is difficult for a man with vested interests to view dispassionately any proposal which will mean personal loss. Yet this he must strive to do. All through the centuries of progress there is evidence of this stubborn adherence to unjust customs and institutions on the part of those who benefitted by them. We recall how even the church opposed the movement to liberate the slaves. We recall, too, how some leaders in the church and in the universities opposed extending the franchise. No one now could be found to uphold slavery or limit the franchise to a few with landed interests.

At this time, when the workers are demanding what they claim to be a more just division of the products of the joint activity of those who contribute by brain or hand to the world's wealth, there is very urgent need that those who have in the past been most favored with the rewards of business activity should get into the other fellow's point of view and, with a mind freed entirely from personal interest, look at the whole situation in the light of the general welfare.

Must Be Mutual.

But this tolerance must be mutual. Antagonisms are apt to become very bitter in the minds of the labor people towards those who, even by legal means, have succeeded in building up considerable fortunes. These men played the game according to the rules which then were in existence. Some of them are the very soul of generosity, always ready to help any good cause, and always treating their employees with the utmost consideration. Mutual confidence is necessary to progress.

With the conviction that all departments of human activity must be judged according to the principles enunciated by Christ, and with our minds freed as far as possible from all personal prejudice let us consider this question: "Is the modern industrial order Christian?" Does it encourage the expression of the Christ spirit of love and service, or does it tend to quench such a spirit?

So far as man's relation to his fellows is concerned the most fundamental principle is stated by Christ to be: "Love thy neighbor as thyself." On this command and the other like it, "Love the Lord with all thy heart," hang all the law and the prophets, for love is the fulfilling of the law. But who is my neighbor? Jesus answers this question in the parable of the "Good Samaritan," which teaches that my neighbor is anyone whom I can help. From this class no one is excluded. If I love not my brother, whom I have seen, how can I love God, whom I have not seen? This love must go out, not only to our friends, but to our enemies, as well, those whose interests may be opposed to our own. In a Christian order no man liveth to himself or dieth to himself. We must bear one another's burdens if we are to fulfill the law of Christ.

Showing Love.

Our love for God may be said to be the real fountain of our life, but the only way we can demonstrate our love for God is by rendering service to our fellow-men. Inasmuch as we do deeds of love for our fellows, we do it unto Christ, and inasmuch as we do not serve our fellows we do not serve Christ, it matters not what our formal religious professions and activities may be. When we bring our gift to the altar and there remember that we have done a wrong to our brother, we must leave our gift before the altar, and go first and right the wrong, then come and offer the gift. We cannot please God so long as we are not willing to pay the price of being reconciled to our brother. This involves a readiness to submit to arbitration all matters in dispute, it means more. It means that we must make the welfare of others our special interest. Paul says: "Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others." No Christian can be indifferent to the conditions under which other people live.

We cannot rest content so long as we and our families enjoy privileges and opportunities which are not accorded to others. The true greatness of Moses was revealed when he forsook the comfort and luxury of the royal household, went out to his enslaved people and felt their burdens. In a great burst of self-sacrifice, he threw in his lot with his fellow countrymen, though they were enslaved, and suffered with them.

A sense of personal irresponsibility which breeds in us a spirit of contentment, when we are living in comfort while others are in poverty or in ignorance, is not the spirit of Him who taught us to love our neighbor as ourself. How often we see a youth reared in a humble home attain to a position of wealth and honor, but in his life of luxury forget the struggles of his parents through whose sacrifice he was enabled to rise. He "scorns the base degrees by which he did ascend."

The First Test.

The first test to which we must subject any industrial order to see whether it be Christian is this: Are the members inspired to identify their interests with the interests of others; are they encouraged to seek for others the same privileges they themselves possess.

The second principle made clear by Christ, following naturally upon "Love thy neighbor as thy self," is the principle of service. Jesus came not to be ministered unto, but to minister. He went about doing good. Not only did he teach the great truths of his religion, not only did he heal the sick, but he performed what was looked upon as a menial task—he washed the disciples' feet, thus making all labor honorable.

This life of service was not for Jesus only, but for all true men. "If I then have washed your feet, ye also ought to wash one another's feet." "Go and do thou likewise." "The rulers of the Gentiles lord it over them and their great ones exercise authority over them; not so shall it be among you, but whosoever would become great among you shall be your servant." That man is unchristian whose life is not inspired by the spirit of service. As Paul says, "If a man will not work neither shall he eat." The man who does not produce, who does not add some value to life, is a parasite and should not be allowed to fatten on the products of others. The non-producer, whether he is a pauper or the inheritor of wealth, has no legitimate place in a true social organization. This applies to some who may be active enough but whose activity is largely consumed, not in making any real contributions to life, but in manipulating prices, or taking advantage of laws which permit one man to reap the harvest sown by other hands. One particular instance of this non-productive activity is gambling in land values. A man buys a corner lot in some growing western city for $1,000. He himself does not add any value to that lot; he lets it lie until some business men, some laboring men, some professional men make the community an attractive place to live in, then in a few years, or, indeed, in a few months, he sells it for $10,000.

Sheer Robbery.

This $9,000, with the exception of a paltry sum paid over for taxes, has been a sheer robbery from the nation; this increment has been unearned. This man may have been active enough advertising his property and urging others to buy, but all this activity was of no real value to the nation; it did not contribute to the common wealth. A true social organization has no place for a man who makes no definite contribution in service to the welfare of the people.

This very principle condemns the all too prevalent desire to lord it over one's fellows. The ambition to dominate has no place in the Christian's heart. Such a spirit belongs to the superman. If we cherish for ourselves an independent spirit, if we seek for ourselves freedom of thought and speech, we must accord to others a like privilege. Whenever coercion prevails, when any number of people are compelled to live under conditions over which they have no control and which are determined by others, both those who thus rule and those who are ruled suffer. Russia sowed the wind of autocracy, and she is now reaping the whirlwind of Bolshevism. If the rule is exercised by an autocrat or an aristocracy or an oligarchy or any other single class the social life cannot be just. This is the fatal blunder made by the toilers of Russia. Class domination is distinctly injurious, whether that class be aristocrats or hand laborers. In a true democracy all classes have a part in the government of the state.

A second test of the industrial order is: Does it tend naturally to foster a spirit of service, a spirit which seeks the common good, or does it tend to provoke the passion to rule others and live in luxury upon the products of their labor.

Helpfulness.

A third principle which naturally follows upon the two thus far considered is the principle of mutual helpfulness or co-operation. If each man loves his neighbor as himself and if his aim is to serve he will naturally co-operate with him. The economic relations between men in a Christian social order will be based on the principle of co-operation rather than on that of competition. In the jungle among the beasts of the forest the one law is competition, the survival of the strongest. The lion who can beat down his fellow and grasp the slain antelope is the one who is great. This animal passion to dominate, to grasp, is the passion that all too generally prevails in the modern world. The spirit of the jungle, with its cutting edge fortunately blunted in many by a sense of sympathy and justice, is practically taken for granted by many in the industrial world. A leading Canadian paper recently said: "The men of this world from the beginning have in the main worked for one thing, and for one thing only—money, or its equivalent." Lord Rhondda said that selfishness was the mainspring of business enterprise. In our schools, with their prize systems, where the pupil is lauded because he has beaten the rest, and in the business and industrial world the motive that is largely appealed to and developed is the selfish motive to beat the other fellow, to elbow him aside and grasp the prize, be that prize wealth, position or power. To beat the other fellow is no sign of true greatness. The question is: "How is he using these splendid powers? is he using them to advance the interests of his fellow men? Then only does he begin to be truly great. So long as our lower animal nature asserts itself so long as the law of the flesh prevails there will be this unseemly struggle for power or pelf. This, however, must be left behind as the divine instinct breathed into us at our creation begins to assert itself. This spark of the Christ-life urges us to love one's neighbor, to sympathize and indeed to co-operate with him for the common welfare. The purpose of the true citizen in the true social order is not to struggle in a competitive spirit for selfish advantage, but to labor for the welfare of mankind. "Let nothing be done through strife or vainglory."

Good Signs.

That this spirit is beginning to enter the minds of some of our biggest businessmen is apparent from the words of Mr. W. L. Hickens, chairman of the great Sheffield firm of Cammell, Laird & Co., one of the largest in the world. He said: "No man can serve two masters; he cannot serve himself and the community; for then the kingdom would be divided against itself; he can only serve himself by serving the community, and surely this is the only sound foundation on which industry can rest. No business is entitled to make unlimited profits. . . . Excess profits should go to the state." This sentiment is remarkably similar to that expressed by one of the outstanding labor men in England, Arthur Henderson, who held a place for some time in the cabinet of the Imperial Parliament during the war. He says, in his book "Aims of Labor," "The hard, cruel, competitive system of production must be replaced by a system of co-operation under which the status of the workers will be revolutionized, and in which the squalor and poverty, the economic insecurity and social miseries of the past will have no place."

A third test then, of a Christian social order is this: Does the principle of co-operation, rather than competition, determine the relations between men in the business world? Competition may be the life of trade, but it is the death of men.

General applications may be made of this principle of co-operation. One very admirable application was made recently by Mackenzie King, the ex-minister of labor in the Federal Government. He advocates the partnership of four parties to industry: Capital, labor, management and community. This is not the place for a detailed discussion of this proposal. Suffice it to say that it is made by a man of very exceptional ability, who has had special opportunities for observation over a wide field. King claims that the present monopoly control by capital works injury to all four parties and especially to capital itself. We may agree or disagree with the details of the argument, but we can hardly fail to agree with the main contention, that the day must pass when the industrial situation shall be determined entirely by one interested party.

The special form of co-operation, which is at present being sought is what is called "collective bargaining" when two parties, the management on the one hand representing capital, and the laborers on the other, meet to discuss working conditions and wages. This is a very natural demand on the part of labor. "In industry, capital invests substances and dollars; labor invests skill and life. Of the two the one involving life is the more precious."

Degrading Conditions.

If this collective bargaining be not granted, what is the condition of the laborer? A man must work or sink to degrading poverty, and if he works, he must work under conditions which are almost wholly determined by capital, that is, his wages, his hours of labor, the factory appointments are not for him to determine. If a man is thus compelled to work, driven to it by the necessity of feeding and clothing his family, and to work under conditions over which he has no control, conditions regarding which he is not even consulted. What is this but slavery? The cry, therefore, goes up for liberation, for a measure of democratic control of industry. "Industrial autocracy and political autocracy may go hand in hand, but not autocracy in industry and democracy in politics."

Another application of this principle of co-operation which is, indeed, embodied in King's proposal is that those who labor with the hand shall associate themselves with those who work with their brain, in a common effort to adjust the whole social and industrial organization. This will bring together those who really serve, those who add value to life in one way or another. Among these will be those who teach and thus enrich the life, those who heal the sick, those who labor to secure justice between man and man. This feature of industrial control was recognized in the labor convention at Nottingham last year, and advocated by Arthur Henderson in his writings: "The Labor party contemplates the creation of a national democratic party, founded upon the organized working class movement and open to every worker who labors by hand or brain." At the present time there is possibly too great specialization. The brain laborer does not do enough real hand labor to keep himself in sympathetic touch with the toilers, and the hand laborer should have more opportunity to interest himself in the general management of industry.

Another thought. If there is to be co-operation, there must be mutual consideration. Some capitalists are harsh and exacting, impelled by the one desire to heap up dividends for themselves. Some workpeople, on the other hand, are just as hard, seeking every opportunity to slack their work, and at the same time secure larger pay, giving as little in service and getting as large returns as possible. This cannot go on in a true co-operative partnership, each one must make his best contribution to the common enterprise.

There is one other principle: The strong ought to bear the infirmities of the weak. To a Christian social order those who are not equipped with many talents mental and physical are not ruthlessly shoved aside to perish in the ditch b the road, but they are provided for by the state. There is no evidence in scripture to justify the claim of the strong, intellectually or physically, that they should have as their own, rewards proportionate to their superior strength. Christ did not place the emphasis on rewards, but on service. The true Christian is chiefly concerned in giving the best service to his neighbor, whom he loves as himself. All things needful will be added to him. These things are the special object of the Gentiles search. In the parable of the talents the man who used well the two talents which belonged to his lord received the same words of commendation as did the man who used well the five talents of his lord. They were both equally approved. In the parable of the laborers in the vineyard the man who worked but one hour received the same wage as the man who worked the whole day. We would greatly err if we concluded from these parables that it did not matter how a man worked, but we cannot admit the claim that if a man has been intrusted with ten talents he should have five times the reward meted out to the man who uses his two talents with equal faithfulness.

SLEEPING SICKNESS VISITED LONDON IN LAST FEW MONTHS

Several Cases Known to Local Physicians.

NO OUTBREAK RECENTLY

Disease Follows in Wake of Influenza and Has Various Forms.

London has been the scene of probably ten or a dozen cases of Encephalitis Lethargica within the last few months. Perhaps this statement will cause more surprise when it is explained that the above is the scientific name for the disease known to the lay population as "sleeping sickness." Relief comes with the knowledge that no new case has been found for several weeks.

Last week Dr. Peter Bassoe, associate professor of nervous and mental diseases at Rush Medical College, Chicago, held a clinic in the city, having one of these cases as his subject. It had been diagnosed by the London physician in attendance, and this diagnosis was confirmed by Dr. Bassoe, who considered the case typical of one variety of the disease, the acute stage having been passed. Few of the patients in this city were seriously affected, but some are suffering from partial paralysis, which is expected to be permanent. It is not known that any deaths occurred as a direct result.

This Encephalitis Lethargica follows in the wake of influenza, and was first described by a Vienna physician in 1917, and later appeared in England, where it was for a time confused with Botulismus. Subsequently it was found in America, and received the popular name of "sleeping sickness," although some of the victims showed no signs of extra sleepiness. Dr. Bassoe had seventeen cases in his hands since the new year, of which six proved fatal.

From post-mortem examinations it was found that almost invariably the brain stem was affected, but several types of the disease revealed different features. The virus has not yet been discovered, but it is known that there is no relationship between this and the long-known tropical sleeping sickness, the Encephalitis Lethargica being a brand-new ailment.

Although it follows or arrives coincidently with influenza, it does not always attack the same victims, some who showed no influenza signs falling sick with this traveling partner later.

Three of the principal investigators working to find out the cause and cure are: Mott of England, Marenesco of Rumania, and Marie of France.

ICE, BUTTER, PEOPLE ALL MELTED AWAY

Week-End Scorching Too Much To Stand.

MIGRATING LITTLE USE

Lakeside Just As Hot, Except For Those Who Stayed in Water.

Saturday and Sunday were scorchers, the temperature running up to 89 and staying there most of the time. People, usually energetic, wilted down under the attacks from Old Sol. Business lagged, and the churches were but partly filled, with a long string of automobiles at the doors, promising a speedy return to homes only slightly less heated than the outdoors.

Great blocks of ice, destined to keep the Sunday dinner from running away altogether, became small blocks, and then disappeared within a few hours. As a result the lettuce was spineless, the butter swooned, and the milk became sour along with the family's temper. Everyone raided the cupboard for lemons to find that the baby had annexed the only one available and was promptly sick after it. Its painful wails on the top of everything else almost finished the entire neighborhood.

Elusive Joys.

What little joy might be enjoyed from an ice cream cone swiftly vanished with the cone. And even during the process of demolition it was nip and tuck as to who would get the contents first, the one who paid the money or the blazing thief on high, who delighted in reducing the frozen sweet to milky water.

Yesterday thousands of people migrated to Port Stanley or Springbank with the hope of finding relief for a few hours, but it was pretty much the same everywhere. Even the lake breezes failed to come up to the expectations. However, the lake itself was a welcome sanctuary, and hundreds of men, women and children in aquatic garb, splashed about amid the cooling breakers or lay burning on the damp sands.

Buy an Aeroplane.

There was just one other really cooling pastime, and that was flying. Three thousand feet up the air was almost cold according to some of the airplane passengers. The only way to escape the intense heat is to own a bi-plane and then spend the day in it, they say. Some romantic souls even contemplate a refrigerator balloon of the observation type, anchored to their roof tops, for the preservation of butter and cream during hot weather. Such an invention would surely drive the ice companies out of business.

Hard on Wardrobe.

Many wardrobes have been utterly exhausted during the continued hot weather, and the laundries are kept humping to refill them with freshly-laundried frocks. What few new summer garments had been made ready for wearing at the outbreak of the hot spell, soon diminished, and were supplemented by last summer's frocks, and even those of the summer before; slightly out of style of course, but what could people do in the face of the swift advance of midsummer weather! Now it has come to the point, that nobody cares what the width of skirt or direction of the ruffles, as long as it is cool and clean. As soon as the heat lets up a bit there will be a raid on the shops.

That women must have more common sense than men or else they suffer more severely from the heat or get all the family money, is evinced in the clothes which they wear at this time. Now that women have shed all that they possibly can, men still continue with wool coats and even wool vests. 'Tis true, a few have discarded the stiff-starched collar for a soft one, but even that buttons up around the neck with choker grip, and around it, to buckle it in firmly so that no air can possibly escape down between, is the inevitable tie.

Oh, yes, it's hot. And it's going to be still hotter, they say, all on account of a fool hole in the sun. Perhaps he's got his mouth open laughing at everybody. Who knows?

REV. M. KELLY OCCUPIES THE PULPIT AT THE FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

"Many people," said Rev. M. Kelly at the First Congregational Church yesterday, "have regarded as the unreasonable demands of religion certain elements which others have considered to be the very essence of a reasonable religion.

"There's been too much smoothing out. There's been an almost fatal tendency towards making religion easy. This has resulted in weakness. The church is never at its best apart from making supreme challenges to men."

"The shortage of ministers has been traced by many to the small salaries paid, but the real reason," continued Mr. Kelly, "is to be found in the transition stage through which the church is passing from a form of legalism to a fuller presentation of the love of God, and during this period the teaching of the church has been often apologetic and lacked definiteness. Religion always awakens the heroic. In our own country, take Dr. Grenfell in his wonderful works at Labrador, or David Livingstone, or Dr. J. G. Paton, heroic souls who were developed through the reasonable demands of religion.

"If religion is to mean anything, the church must make great demands on men, for no man links up with a spineless religion.

"The challenges of the Bible penetrate to the deepest depth of men's souls, and the history of human progress is the history of man's acceptance of these challenges."

Local Physicians Were All Dressed Up, But Got No Fish

They Marched On St. Williams, But There Was No Slaughter.

Five or six well-known local physicians organized a fishing unit on Saturday, advancing in massed formation on the port of St. Williams on the shores of Lake Erie. It was stated that owing to the failure of the Department of Marine and Fisheries to issue instructions in time in regard to uniforms, each member exercised his own initiative in evolving apparel such as Solomon never dreamed of in the height of his glory. What the unit lacked in uniformity of appearance, it made up in uniqueness, according to eyewitness.

Thorough preparedness was evidenced by the great mass of equipment carried, which included a hook to meet every emergency from a minnow to a sturgeon or a devil fish, and a variety of gaudy flies that had the original "57" beaten to an omelet.

It is understood that foresight even provided an attendant to bait the hooks and take off the fish, on the assumption that the physicians would be so busy pulling in the fish they wouldn't have time for such trifling details.

Members of the party interviewed today are maintaining a professional silence in regard to what became of the surplus catch. It is rumored that it was placed under a microscope and a clinic held over it before it was thrown back into the water.

PARTY OFF OLYMPIC ARRIVES HERE TODAY

A party of 49 soldiers for London and district, which returned to Canada from overseas on the Olympic, arrived in this city from Quebec at 3 o'clock this afternoon via C. P. R. These troops detrained at Quebec street station, and proceeded from there to Tecumseh Barracks, where they were discharged, and received transportation to their respective homes.

Knights Templars Attend St. James' Church in Body

Reminded by Minister of the Deeds Which Won Them Fame.

Sixty or seventy members of Richard Coeur de Lion Preceptory, Knights Templars, attended the evening service in St. James (Anglican) Church, South London, in a body on Sunday. Preaching a special sermon for the occasion on the subject of "Active Service," the rector, Rev. W. L. Armitage, referred to the early history of the Knights Templar, reminding that they had their origin at the time of the Crusades, when they became conspicuous for their service in caring for the wounded and sick pilgrims. In olden days they were known as a band of devout Christians, very strict in their creed.

Special music was rendered during the service.

Furniture For Summer

Cool In Appearance Moderate In Price

Warm weather is here for a long stay. To be fully prepared one should furnish the porch or the sun parlor, or at least one room in the home as a "haven from the heat." Light, cheerful, comfortable summer furniture will afford a genuine relief from super-heated upholsteries and draperies. It will repay one's efforts in comfort.

Among the newer furniture shown for porches, sun rooms and summer cottages is a splendid suite in oak, with cane seats and backs. The oak frames are finished in Battleship Grey, and the cane parts are finished natural. This may be purchased in any number of pieces to suit, at prices as below:

Settee, $23.50; Arm Rocker, $11.50; Arm Chair, $11.00; Side Chair, $9.00; Ottoman, $7.50; Table, $17.00; Magazine Stand, $16.50; Pedestal, $15.00.

A new lot of Porch Rockers just received. These rockers are made of selected maple and finished natural; the seats and backs are made of closely-woven reed. Price, each $5.00

Neponset Floor Covering

NEPONSET is made in many patterns, suitable for the different rooms, and also for hall or office use. The surface is smooth, and may be easily cleaned with damp cloth or mop. Should you get too much water you cannot injure Neponset, as it is thoroughly waterproof. Neponset will wear equal to the best printed linoleums. Like the inlaid linoleums, it is made in two-yard widths only. Neponset is sold by Smallman & Ingram, at ..... $1.00 square yard

Cocoa Matting in All Widths

The best quality Cocoa Matting, closely woven, with hard twisted fibre. 27 inches wide, price 85c; 1 yard wide, price $1.00 yard; 1¼ yards wide, price $1.35 yard; 1½ yards wide, price, $1.50 yard, and 2 yards wide, price, $2.00 yard.

Novelty Pattern Georgette Crepes

These are the beautiful Sheer Silk Georgette materials just being introduced in New York advance fashions. The leading style originators are featuring these novelty georgettes in smart dresses, combined with plain silk materials, such as crepe de chine, charmeuse and taffetas. Also for tunics and overdresses; some of the daintiest models are to be seen in the fashion shows of New York. Many patterns are particularly adapted for separate waists; the combination of colors adapt themselves to most shades in separate skirts. The large assortment comprise such new designs as Jazz, Camouflage, Floral, Ink-Printing, Allover, Conventional, Figures, Cross-Bar, etc. All are 40 inches wide $4.00 yard

Georgette Crepe in Plain Colors, $2.50 Yard

Today the demand is for a crepe that will give satisfactory wear. We have the exclusive sale in London for LaReine Brand, a georgette crepe that is indestructible with usual wear. A double thread make of pure silk, hard twisted, that's almost untearable. Sold by this store for the past two years, always at the same (original) price, without one single complaint. Man's Mentality Moving Backward, Not Forward, Is Contention of One Who Gives Reasons For His Belief

Dr. Walsh Tells Rotarians That Comparison of Ancient and Modern Art, Literature and Architecture Is Proof of His Assertions.

"Progress" was the subject, and "There Is No Progress," was the text of an address given by Dr. J. J. Walsh of New York City at the Rotary Club luncheon at noon today. Having expounded his theory, Dr. Walsh proceeded to prove its truth, and whether or not he convinced the members of the Rotary Club he provoked their vociferous applause, and a statement from Chairman Ray Lawson that it was a pity the doctor had not been able to talk to them for twenty hours instead of twenty minutes.

Man, said Dr. Walsh, consisted of two parts, mind and body. The body was more or less negligible so far as consideration of the question of progress was concerned since it was purely animal. The test must be made in terms of the mind. That the mind of mankind not only had not made progress, but had undergone a process of retrogression, Dr. Walsh then undertook to show by a comparison of art, literature and architecture of the older with the more modern times.

The first poem ever written was the best poem ever written, he declared. The first novel ever written in English was the best novel ever written in English. It was Robinson Crusoe; and the second novel ever written in English, Gulliver's Travels, was the second best novel ever written in English. What had we to offer to compare with such literature in modern times. No one even pretended that any of the works of modern writers wolud live in after years.

Behind Again.

In the matter of architecture, a little thought would convince anyone that we were far behind the ancients. The New York Times' building and the Singer building in New York were simply frank copies of the work of more than three hundred years ago. If someone raised the argument that these modern buildings were made of steel and were very substantial, the answer was that Michael Angelo built the dome of St. Peter's, the biggest dome any man had ever dared to try to build with no steel, no machinery, and nothing but a mule and an inclined plane—and Michael Angelo.

"It is not machinery which counts," declared Dr. Walsh, "it is the man. Machinery enable the mediocre men to do things better than he otherwise would be able to, but the big man needs no machinery, and he can outdo the best that can be accomplished with machinery."

Some people might say, he suggested, that to compare the general run of present-day people with the geniuses of the olden days was not a fair comparison, and that the fair way would be to compare the appreciation of art now and then. Even on that basis his arguments still held. Shakespeare, whose Hamlet was perhaps one of the three greatest plays ever written, would starve if he lived in modern times. The fact was substantiated by the lack of interest shown by New Yorkers, for instance, in Shakespearean plays. A Shakespearean offering in New York could only run for two weeks when put on by Beerbohm Tree, but two blocks away Chin Chin ran for two years and made two millions of dollars for its producers.

The Modern Show.

"A modern show," said the speaker, "must have three things. In the first act there must be well-formed women who wear as little clothing as the law allows; that is for the men. In the second act it must have the same women wearing a great many clothes of the latest styles; that is for the women. Then there must be ragtime. Music would not do. The kind of music which is part of such shows apepals simply to the body, as anyone who sits behind the audience can prove by watching the swaying bodies. People listen with their bodies. The words to the music and the plot of the piece must not have an idea behind them, because that would make the audience think, and people nowadays do not want to think."

Applying the same test in another direction, Dr. Walsh stated that last year about six hundred thousand people attended the Metropolitan Museum in New York, which he termed the greatest collection of art in the world. But in the same city one hundred and ten millions of people attended the moviesh. Only one person out of every fourteen of the population went to see the collection of are, but every members of the population went on an average once a week to the movies.

We Copy Insects.

All our modern inventions, even, had been anticipated by the insects. The bee was the originator of the hypodermic needle, and the formic acid method of preserving food. The dragon fly was the original eviator, and the ant made a system of tunnels which would put the New York subway system to shame.

"Are we building up an insect civilization and calling it progress?" asked Dr. Walsh, adding: "I do not know, but I have reached the point where I wonder. On every hand we hear of progress, but are we not progressing in the same way as the man who is hurrying in the wrong direction by mistake, and who, if he keeps on, will have to go all around the world to get to his objective? I do not want you to accept my ideas; I am here simply as a disturber of the peace. You can form your own conclusions."

George M. Reid attended the luncheon to ask that a delegation of Rotarians would attend the city council meeting this evening to join with the Chamber of Commerce in asking the council to oil the road to Springbank as far as the city limits. Afterwards, he said, the intention was to secure public subscriptions to oil the road for the rest of the way. Five members of the club volunteered for service, and will be at the meeting tonight with members of the Chamber of Commerce and the Motor Club.

WHITE GLOVES FOR MR. JUSTICE ROSE

No Criminal Cases For the Supreme Court.

No criminal cases being entered for the non-jury sittings of the supreme court of Ontario, which opened at the court house at 2 o'clock this afternoon, Hon. Mr. Justice Rose, the presiding judge, will be presented with a pair of white gloves.

Seventeen cases remain to be tried at this session, two of the original nineteen having been disposed of out of court. Arthur T. Bennett was to have sued Charles Stewart for $2,000, the alleged damages sustained in an accident said to have been caused by the defendant's negligence. It was settled out of court.

Arthur T. Rowell vs. Esther and Louis Izenburg, an action to recover $1,800 for the purchase of land, was postponed until autumn.

MOTHERS' CLUB GIVES BOOKS TO THE SCHOOL

The closing meeting of the Rectory Street School Mothers' Club was held on Thursday evening after a very successful year. At the conclusion of the business meeting Mrs. P. Brighton, president of the club, called upon M. W. Althouse, principal of the school, and the secretary, Mrs. Fred Taylor, read a very appropriate address, while Mrs. Howitt presented to him, on behalf of the school, a set of books entitled "The Mr. Althouse replied suitably and thanked the Mothers' Club for the interest it had taken in the welfare of the school, and voiced his appreciation of the gift. He thought that the books would be of great benefit to the school, and hoped that they would be the foundation of a reference library for the scholars.

SUNDAY FIRE CALL.

The fire department responded to a general alarm yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and a quick run was made to the barber shop of Slater & Atkinson, 416 Talbot street, where an awning in front of the shop was seen burning by pedestrians. The awning was totally destroyed by the flames, but the building was not damaged heavily owing to the good work of the firemen. The origin of the fire is unknown.

ONE DISMISSED.—Alexander Mendall was dismissed in the police court this morning on the charge of keeping a junk yard within the restricted area, and Solomon Siskind and Moses, Leff, who had been brought into court charged with the same offence, had their cases adjourned for a week.

PLENTY OF TALKING IS ANTICIPATED AT MEETING OF COUNCIL

Street Railway Question Will Be Discussed.

DELEGATIONS EXPECTED

Some in Favor Of and Others Against Increased Fares.

Tonight's meeting of the city council promises to be prolific in discussion. No less than three deputations are expected to be present to submit arguments for or against increased street railway fares, and as most of the aldermen have very decided views of their own on the question, the session should be one of the liveliest in some time.

The Trades and Labor Council the Street Railway Employees' Union will send delegations to urge that the railway company be allowed to increase fares in order that the men may secure the increased pay which they have been promised provided the fare increases are authorized. The Federal Labor Union, on the other hand, will argue that the company, in spite of all figures and statements intended to show the opposite, is making money now, and that the citizens should not therefore be required to further inflate the profits of the shareholders.

A forecast of the attitude of the council would be very difficult to make. Some of the aldermen are inclined to favor the increases, but a proportion of this section of the council will probably be deterred from taking a very strong stand on that attitude by the solicitor's statement that to permit increases mithout the consent of the people would be illegal and might lead to awkward complications. Others are now firmly convinced of the advisability of purchasing the road by agreement, while still others favor securing from the company some proposition on which the council could reasonably appeal to the people to support.

Apart from street railway matters the council will not have a great deal to do this evening, and if the discussion of this particular subject is not drawn out to an unreasonable length, the meeting should not be a very long one.

Military Picnic Will Be Held At Port Tomorrow

No. 1 District Depot Has Arranged for Enjoyable Day.

The officers, non-commissioned officers, men and civilian clerical staff of No. 1 District Depot, along with the staff of the local branch of the soldiers' civil re-establishment commission, are holding a picnic at Port Stanley on Tuesday with their relatives and friends, and about 300 people are expected to attend. The party will leave this city early in the afternoon, and upon arrival at the lakeside a good program of sports will be run off, concluding with a baseball game between picked teams.

Transportation expenses for the men of the district depot will be provided out of canteen profits, and the stenographers of the depot, will arrange for refreshments, Capt. T. Malloy being chairman of this committee. The ladies of the local Red Cross have been invited to attend the outing as guests of No. 1 District Depot. Lieut. J. C. Little, Sergt.-Majors Masters and Sergt. Howard compose the sports committee, and if the weather is suitable a very successful outing for the boys in khaki is predicted by those in charge of arrangements.

LOCAL NEWS

LAWN SOCIAL.—The choir and orchestra of the Empress Avenue Methodist Church have arranged for a lawn social to be held at the home of Mrs. Robinson, Charles street, West London, on Tuesday evening, June 17. Besides a musical program, refreshments will be served.

GIRLS' ANNUAL PICNIC.—The girls of the Y. W. C. A. residence, Wellington street, accompanied by Miss Sutherland and Mrs. Watson, held their second annual picnic to Springbank on Friday afternoon last. A dainty supper was provided, and all had a thoroughly enjoyable time.

AUTO COLLISION.—Three persons in an automobile owned by I. Taylor, 765 Wellington street, escaped in collision with a street car without injury Saturday afternoon, when the automobile was smashed by an Ottaway car, eastbound, on Dundas street near Waterloo street. The motor car was considerably damaged.

TO HEAR CLEVER STUDENTS.—A recital is to be given in the Auditorium tonight which is of more than usual interest. Three of the most talented pupils of Charles Percy are to give a fine program, assisted by the conservatory string ensemble, under the direction of F. L. Willgoose, the principal. Invitations are cordially extended to all interested in hearing these students.

WILL WEAR UNIFORMS.—Permission has been obtained from the military authorities for the London Township soldiers to wear their uniforms at the centennial picnic to be held in Westlake's Grove, St. Johns, on Wednesday, June 18, at 1 o'clock, standard time. The presence of the men in uniform will add greatly to the interest of the picnic, which will in reality be a sort of farewell to military life.

ENTERTAIN ORPHANS.—On Saturday afteroon the Dominion Bible Class of King Street Presbyterian Church entertained the children and staff of the Protestant Orphans' Home at Springbank Park. A number of men of the congregation volunteered to take the children to and from the park in their autos. After a good supper the children enjoyed a couple of hours of solid fun, which was entered into most heartily by the King's Daughters.

PEONY SHOW THIS WEEK.—Thursday and Friday of this week have been fixed as the dates for the peony show to be held in the utilities building under the auspices of the London Horticultural Society. Florists and other merchants have been using London's civic flower prominently in decoration of show windows and stores this past week. Today a quantity of peonies, supplied by S. F. Wood, an enthusiast in peony culture, adorned the tables at the weekly Rotary Club luncheon.

MOCHA TEMPLE PICNIC. — The third annual picnic of Mocha Temple Patrol will be held on Wednesday, June 18, on the potentate's farm, Col. A. E. Somerville, Lambeth. The purpose of these annual outings is to give members of the Mocha Temple and their families, a day's outing. Preparations are always made to supply all with refreshments of all kinds. The intention is to make this outing surpass the events of preceding years and the committee would like to see all Shriners and their families represented on Wednesday.

BUILDING PERMITS.—Today was a big day in the building inspector's office at the city hall. A large number of permits were issued, including five for houses or additions to houses involving expenditures of more than $1,000. They were as follows: Russell Waide, 1½-story brick veneer dwelling on Victoria street, $3,000; J. Plested, 1½-story brick veneer dwelling on King street, $2,400; H. Wolf & Sons, 2-story brick veneer dwelling on Waterloo street, $3,000; M. M. Ferguson, 2-story brick addition to house at 868 Waterloo tsreet, $1,800; W. J. Anderson, top story addition to frame dwelling at 649 Princess avenue, $1,500. The total of permits for the month is now 75, with a total value of $84,075.

COLORS OF OLD 33RD BATTALIAN ARE NOW ON THEIR WAY HOME

Comrades Will Decide Where They Shall Rest.

MEETING TO BE CALLED

Sale of Band Instruments Is Objected To by Former Soldiers.

Members of the old 33rd Battalion are to have the pleasure of receiving the battalion colors again in a short time. Word has been received by Lieut.-Col. H. T. Rance of Clinton, formerly senior major of the unit, that they are on the way home, and he has asked that a meeting of the 33rd Comrades' Club be called to decide where the colors shall be deposited. A meeting to talk over this and other questions will be held on Tuesday evening.

There is also a fund of $2,000 belonging to the regiment, and the disposal of this money will be discussed. The trustees of the fund are Brig.-Gen. L. W. Shannon, Lieut.-Col. J. D. McCrimmon, Majors Williughby and Thornley and Capt. Mercer.

The colors were deposited in St. Paul's Cathedral, London, England, before the battalion was broken up and sent to France, and in all probability they will be left in St. Paul's here.

When a general meeting of the battalion and trustees is called, it is anticipated that the men will have some questions to ask. There is considerable dissatisfaction because the band instruments were sold by the trustees to the C. G. R. for $200, without the men having been consulted. It is asserted that one of the instruments alone is worth $250, that the original total cost was $1,160, and that this amount was raised by the men themselves, with the understanding that the players were to own their own instruments on return to Canada. Some of them have not been turned in, but those who did obey instructions have now lost them. It is claimed that the trustees had no right to sell under these conditions.

It is hoped that a meeting of the trustees and men will be arranged at which these questions will be settled satisfactorily.

MUST PAY $250 OR TAKE TERM IN JAIL

Edward J. Gordon Failed To Join Colors.

WOULD LIKE TO APPEAL

But Is Informed Magistrate's Decision Is Final in Case.

Edward J. Gordon, charged in police court this morning with failing to report under the M. S. A., was given the option of a $250 fine with costs, or spending six months in Castle Carter. According to his story, he was under the impression that he was an American citizen, and that it was unnecessary for him to report. He had taken his case up with Sub-Collector Jackson of Port Stanley, and he had advised him to claim exemption. He did, and was granted it. This was in November, 1917. In June, 1918, his case was heard here before Judge Talbot Macbeth, who disallowed the exemption. On July 15, 1918, it was stated by John Wilson, Dominion policeman, that Gordon was ordered to report, but made no reply. The accused declared that he thought that if he wrote the authorities to the effect that he was an American that he would not have to appear before a tribunal.

Gordon's mother resides in Cobourg. Gordon himself has worked on an American boat on the Great Lakes for seven years. He stayed at Port Stanley. It was his impression that if one was a seaman under the United States flag for three years, one was entitled to citizenship. He had applied for his first citizenship papers afterwards, but until the time that he was apprehended they had not been granted.

After he was found guilty, he intimated that he would appeal the case. "There is no appeal against your decision at all, your worship," declared the policeman.

CHEAP HOUSES, YET GOOD, ARE ALMOST AN IMPOSSIBILITY

Inspector Says This Is Bad Year.

Building Inspector A. M. Piper is still working in an effort to plan a house which can be built for a sum which the average working man could pay in such installments as required under the Ontario housing plan. One plan which he submitted to the department in Toronto has been returned approved, but the cost of building would be about $3,000, and Mr. Piper is trying to get something a good deal cheaper than that.

One For $2,000.

He has several completed plans now in his office, which he will send to Toronto for approval, and which were drafted on the assumption that the provincial commission would not insist on full conformity with the original requirements, an assumption justified by the statement made by Controller J. A. Ellis during the interview which members of the local commission had with him in Toronto last week. One of these plans is for a 1½-story house, which Mr. Piper thinks could be built for about $2,000.

Worst Year.

He says, however, that under present conditions it is almost heartbreaking to try to plan any kind of a good house at a reasonable price. No worse year could have been chosen in his opinion to put a housing plan into operation, for builders are so full up with orders that they are not prepared to go after more by quoting prices lower than usual, and prevailing prices are at a level never before even approached.

HAS CHANCE OF RECOVERY.—The condition of Pte. James Reid, of 499 York street, who was struck by a London and Port Stanley train and seriously injured at the Thompson Road crossing on Thursday afternoon, was reported at Victoria Hospital this afternoon to be unchanged. Pte. Reid spent a very restless night, but the authorities at the hospital state that he has a fair chance for recovery, unless further complications set in.

TO WAIT ON COUNCIL.—A deputation from the chamber of commerce, consisting of several of the directors, along with deputations from the Rotary Club and Motor League, will wait upon the city council tonight with regard to co-operation in the oiling of the Springbank road.

REV. D. C. MACGREGOR IS NEW MINISTERIAL ALLIANCE PRESIDENT

Last Meeting of Season Has Busy Time.

PROHIBITION DISCUSSED

Different Opinions On Effect of Soldiers' and Labor's Votes.

Election of officers for the year opening in September, discussion of the prohibition situation in Ontario arising out of an able address on the subject delivered by Rev. W. L. Armitage, consideration of the subject of changing the hour of evening services on Sunday for the summer months, and reports on progress in connection with the investigation into wages for girls, the case of Beatty brothers and striking molders, and further arrangements for the union peace service, constituted a full program for the final meeting of the season of the Ministerial Alliance, held in the Y. M. C. A. building today.

The new executive, representing the five denominations constituting the alliance, is as follows: President, Rev. D. C. MacGregor; first vice-president, Rev. W. L. Armitage; second vice-president, Rev. H. T. Ferguson; secretary-treasurer, Rev. N. L. McKechnie, and corresponding secretary, Rev. Mr. Kelly, who has recently been called to the First Congregational Church.

Farewell Luncheon.

Immediately after the meeting, which was a prolonged one, the alliance adjourned to Smallman & Ingram's dining-room to give a farewell luncheon in honor of the Methodist ministers who are leaving the city at the end of the conference year: Rev. J. E. Holmes, Rev. Dr. F. L. Barber, Rev. W. J. Ashton and Rev. J. D. Richardson.

With regard to the organization of the province for the big prohibition campaign in connection with the referendum, Mr. Armitage stated that the Women's Christian Temperance Union, National Council of Women, Committee of 100 and Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance are being welded together into a strong organization, with the slogan of the French in the war as their inspiration, "They Shall Not Pass."

Concerning the referendum, he criticized the negative form in which it is to be presented, and the possibilities thereby of misunderstanding in marking ballots. The importance was impressed of thorough education on the part of the public in regard to the meaning of the terms of the referendum in order that no mistakes be made.

Two Elements.

Two voting elements which will largely affect the result of the referendum were touched upon, the women and the soldiers' votes. Where the women's votes are concerned, Mr. Armitage considered that thorough understanding of exactly what is being voted for is the chief essential to insure that these count largely for prohibition.

So far as the returned soldiers are concerned, "There is a great deal being written in some of the press," he said, commenting, "One of the evidences of a real soldier is his silence. The best of the men who come back have nothing to say of what they did overseas. The best are not saying what they are going to do on the temperance question. They are not writing to the papers. They are conscious that they went to fight against the principles of the Hun. The highest evidence has stated that the liquor traffic was a greater enemy in the war than the Hun. The man who went to fight the principles of the Hun are not going back on their principles now.

"Mr. Armitage referred to the German-American organization in the states, backed by the brewers, which had as its underlying object the keeping of the United States out of the war. People of German descent, but loyal American sympathies, who had allied themselves with the organization owing to misunderstanding, promptly withdrew.

Doubts Outcome.

The effect of the labor vote was touched upon in subsequent discussion, Dr. G. B. Sage expressing some doubt as to the outcome in the matter of wine and beer licenses.

Rev. W. R. McIntosh held that a large part of labor when it comes to voting will recognize that prohibition is in the best interests of the country from the standpoint of efficiency, finances and moral welfare. "I think we can trust to the awakening of the Puritan conscience in our Ontario people," he said.

In the course of his address, Mr. Armitage termed the treatment which has been meted out to Rev. Ben H. Spence as a "travesty of justice," in refusal to permit him to elect his form of trial, "an unheard-of thing in a democratic country," he declared, adding he was surprised it hadn't been taken up by more of the ministers.

It was decided to make no recommendation in regard to change of hour of evening services.

A hearty vote of thanks was moved to the retiring executive.

MAGISTRATE HOLDS JUDGMENT; TO GIVE DECISION IN WEEK

W. A. Lake Charged With Having Private Still.

SON GIVES EVIDENCE

Tells How Each Part of the Alleged Plant Was Obtained.

Considerable of the morning was taken up at police court with the case of William A. Lake, 1033 Pine street, charged by the Inland Revenue Department with having a private still, but after noon had passed, and all the evidence had been heard, Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon decided that he would have the evidence transcribed and reserve his decision for one week. This case had been partially tried some days ago.

Detective Harry Downs testified to having found the worm, funnel, hose and other paraphernalia connected with the case, on the premises of the accused. The only exhibit that was produced that he didn't find was a large can similar to a coal oil can. Five gallons of liquid, which the testing of samples proved to contain 19.25 per cent. proof spirits, was found in the cellar in a barrel which had been cut in two.

Apparatus Good.

Thomas G. Davis, the local collector of customs, who has held that office for 45 years, and who previous to that was in charge of distilleries in Waterloo and Toronto, testified that the apparatus produced in court was capable of making spirits if the parts were properly put together. J. M. McEvoy appearing for the accused, asked Mr. Davis to construct the still. He tried to do so, but two of the parts would not fit. The collector said that coupling was missing. At times the witness answered the questions put to him, in an evasive manner which to Mr. McEvoy, seemed very unfair.

At this point of the procedure, the counsel for the defence contended that there was no evidence to convict his client.

Son's Explanation.

John Lake, the 15-year-old son of the accused, explained from where the various parts of the alleged still came. The oil can had been left by the untilities commission, when it had been drilling a well near the front door of the Lake home. The burnt appearance of the bottom of the can was due to the fact that some boys had been playing with it and put a torch to the mouth.

The worm had been found in the G. T. R. dump, it having been thrown out of a boarding car in which some Italians lived. The hose had been given to the father by his foreman at White & Sons, where he worked. All these things had been secured about six months ago. The funnel had been found in the cow pasture about three years ago. An iron block also had been secured at White's. It was formerly used on an old, obsolete furnace.

Accounts for Everything.

The iron block and the hose had been used for watering the garden, they being attached to the force pump in the yard. The worm had been put in the well by the boy and the father denied ever seeing it. Ernest Lake, a brother of the accused, and William Lake, a married son, both had seen the garden hose system in operation.

Both cows which were owned by the accused were sick and had refused to eat their hay. He had been advised to prepare a concoction and sprinkle it on the fodder. This mixture consisted of molasses, water, a stock feed and a cow medicine. He had poured this mixture through the funnel into the bunghole of the barrel in which the liquid was formed, according to the testimonies of the three other witnesses of the defence.

When asked if he knew how to operate a still, Lake said, "I don't know any more about distilling than I do about an airplane."

In reviewing the case, and mentioning the way in which the worm and other apparatus had come together in an almost romantic manner, R. G. Fisher, prosecuting attorney, said, "I don't see how my learned friend is going to worm his client out of this." This pun brought many a titter from the crowded court room. "Could you believe this evidence for a minute?" he concluded.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

DEATH OF VETERAN.

Ernest Edmonds, a returned soldier patient at the Ontario Hospital here, died at that institution Sunday after an illness of seven months. He was 34 years of age, and is survived by his wife. The funeral will be held from the undertaking parlors of George E. Logan tomorrow at 8:30 a.m., to St. Peter's Cathedral, where requiem high mass will be sung. Interment will be made in St. Peter's Cemetery.

DIED SUDDENLY.

Samuel Dear, district representative of the Clark Company, Limited, Montreal, manufacturers of food products, died suddenly this morning following a hemorrhage of the brain, at the home of T. W. Jones, 128 Central avenue, where he made his headquarters in this city. Mr. Jones was well and popularly known to local grocers, both wholesale and retail, and his death came as a shock to them. He is survived by his wife.

The funeral arrangements have not been completed, but interment will be made at Odessa, Ont.

FUNERAL OF MRS. PERRY.

The funeral of Mrs. Edward L. Perry was held from her residence, 9 Hamilton road, at 2.30 o'clock Saturday. The funeral was largely attended by relatives and friends. The services at the home and grave were conducted by Evangelist Belcher of the York Street Mission Hall, of which church she was a faithful member and soloist. Interment was made at Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

DEATH OF MRS. JONES.

The death of Mrs. Margaret Anne Jones, wife of the late Jonathan E. Jones of Orillia, occurred at the residence of her son-in-law, Harry Neno Brick street, this morning.

Mrs. Jones, who was 69 years of age, was ill for several months. She was well-known in Orillia where her husband died 4 years ago last October.

Mrs. Jones is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Allan Sills of Toronto, Mrs. James Fife of Talbotville, and Mrs. Harry Neno, Brick street, and one son, Thomas of Maure, Saskatchewan. She is also survived by three sisters, Mrs. James English of Toronto, Mrs. Ruth Clarke of Buffalo, Mrs. S. Lee of Toronto and three brothers, Samuel Brown of Edmonton, Joseph Brown of Songa, and Charles Brown of Seagrave.

The remains of Mrs. Jones will be forwarded to Orillia at 4:10 o'clock Tuesday afternoon via Grand Trunk.

Interment will take place in Orillia Wednesday.

DEATH OF JOHN CLEARY.

John Cleary, aged 79 years, a well-known farmer of Westminster Township, died at his home, lot 27, concession 2, at an early hour Sunday morning, after a lengthy illness. Mr. Cleary was born in Ireland and came to Canada at the age of five years. His parents settled in London Township, where he resided for thirty-five years, but during the past forty years he had farmed in Westminster Township. Besides his wife, Nora, Mr. Cleary is survived by four sons, Patrick, Dennis, John and Joseph, and one daughter, Mary, all at home. A motor funeral from the late residence, Westminster Township, will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock, to St. Martin's Church here, where requiem high mass will be sung at 10 o'clock. Interment will be made at St. Peter's Cemetery.

STARS HELD PICNIC AT SPRINGBANK SATURDAY

The Star junior boys classes of the Cronyn Memorial, St. Davids, and St. Matthews boys, held their first reunion at Springbank on Saturday afternoon, June 14th, 1919. Races were run, and tug-of-war, baseball, etc. were played. The Memorial Stars beat St. Davids at tug-of-war.

Everyone enjoyed the picnic. Quite a number being present. E. A. Olley of St. Davids, organizer of these star classes was in charge of the reunion.

BANTAMS WANT GAMES.

The Forest City Bantams baseball team with an average age of 18, is desirous of booking out-of-town games for holidays and Saturdays. The Bantams are a fast, snappy lot of players. Communications for them can be sent through the Sporting Editor of The Advertiser.

COLORED TEAM WINS AGAIN

The Forest City colored baseball team won another ball game by defeating a team composed of Hydro emyloyees, Saturday evening at Queen's Park by a score of 9 to 4.

away with it one of the stay wires, but he did not tell Capt. Alcock until after they had landed at Clifden. When Alcock learned of the accident he said: "I would have turned back had I known."

Weather conditions were very bad during the trip, and Lieut. Brown had to climb from his seat to clear the ice away from the petrol gauge."

By noon today both men were looking perfectly well, and willingly distributed autographs to admirers. Capt. Alcock wanted to fly to England in a borrowed plane, but his companion observed: "I have had enough flying for a bit."

Capt. Alcock exhibited a bunch of rain-soaked letters which he had been asked to mail if the flight were successful, saying: "I am the first transatlantic postman."

Once In Real Danger.

The two aviators said they were only once in real danger, when the machine went into a flat spin, owing to the pilot being unable to know how the machine was working. Lieut. Brown, noticing that the compass needle was swinging from side to side—the first indication that something was wrong—managed to get Capt. Alcock to understand the difficulty. The machine traveled at a rate of 140 miles an hour at times, and the pilot once found himself diving straight toward the surface of the ocean. He was so near the water that he had to "switch" the machine from its dive so quickly that it almost looped the loop. He says the machine would have crumpled up had it touched the water at the speed it was then traveling.

Major Mayo of the Aero Club has inspected the biplane, which is being guarded by soldiers, and has found the seals on the marked parts of the machine intact, according to a wireless dispatch received here from Clifden. In landing, the pylons of the centre section, as well as the main spar of the lower plane, were broken, but the steel construction of the fuselage saved the machine from further damage. The two engines ran smoothly throughout the flight, and when the airplane landed there were still 290 gallons of petrol left in the tank, sufficient for a further flight of ten hours.

NEWS IS RECEIVED WITH JUBILATION AT ST. JOHNS, NFLD.

St. Johns, Nfld., June 16.—There is great jubilation here over the Vickers airmen's flight across the Atlantic which is regarded as regaining for Great Britain for all time the laurels temporarily held by the American through the Azores flight. This feat of a non-stop cross in sixteen hours is contrasted with the American record of nearly a week between Trepassey and Lisbon, via the Azores. Experts here believe the Handley-Paige machine will duplicate the Vickers feat this week, and the Martinsyde next week.

U. S. CONGRATULATIONS.

London, June 16.—Major Murray of the U. S. air service, has telegraphed the following message to Captain John Alcock at Clifden, Ireland: "As the representative of the United States Army Air Service in Great Britain, I take great pleasure in extending to you and your splendid crew heartiest congratulations on your brilliant achievement."

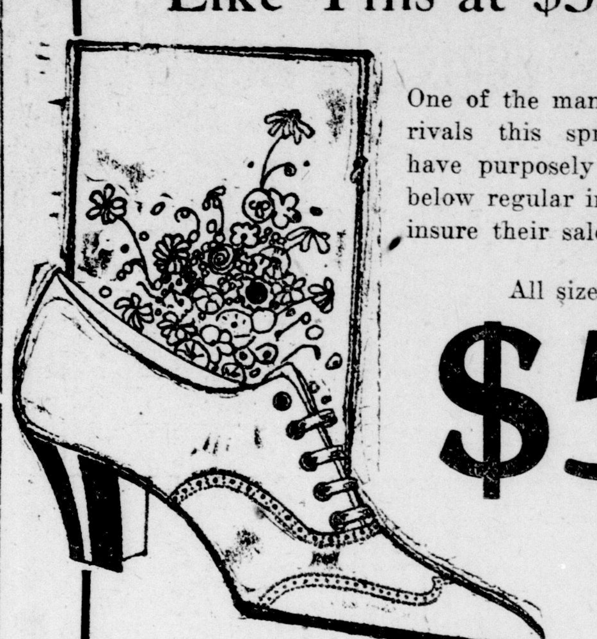

PLANS A RECEPTION.

London, June 16.—The Aero Club is making plans for a reception and banquet for Captain John Alcock on his arrival in London. When he will reach this city is not known as yet. It is expected that he may participate in the victory aerial derby around London next Saturday, and if possible, may drive the machine in which he crossed the Atlantic.

HAWKER IS PLEASED.

London, June 16.—Harry G. Hawker the aviator who recently made an unsuccessful attempt to cross the Atlantic from Newfoundland, is credited by the Central News as saying, with regard to Capt. Alcock's achievement: "It was a magnificent and very fine feat. I am very glad Capt. Alcock was able to make the flight in real fashion without warships and all that sort of thing. It is very gratifying from that point, indeed."

ALLIED ARMIES WILL ADVANCE ON JUNE 22 IF GERMANS FAIL TO SIGN TREATY

Five More Days Will Decide Vital Question.

ENTENTE FORCES READY

British, French, Belgian and American Armies Are Awaiting the Word.

BASLE, June 15.—(By The Associated Press.)—The ministers of all the German states have been summoned by telegraph to Weimar to jointly consider the German answer to the Allies.

PARIS, June 15.—By the Associated Press.—The council of four finished its labors Saturday on the reply to the Germans, which will go to Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau Monday. The last day permitted them for acceptance or rejection of the treaty is June 21.

If the German reply is in the negative, the Allied armies will start to march into Germany the following day, and a new blockade will be immediately effective.

If the Germans express their willingness to sign the document, the ceremony will probably take place Monday in the Hall of Mirrors at Versailles.

Ready to Move Forward.

"The Allied armies are ready to move forward upon an instant's notice, if Germany does not sign the treaty," the Temps said in Saturday's issue. "The German armies are without airplanes, without material, and without food supplies, and would be unable to make any effective resistance.

"The Belgians, holding from Cologne to the frontier of Holland, are within a day's march of Essen, and the British, supporting the Belgians, would move forward and occupy the mining regions. The American army would occupy Frankfort, and the French would take Hanau, Wurzburg and Ulm."

The supreme blockade council met Saturday, according to an official statement, "for final consideration of measures that might be rendered necessary by certain eventualities."

The changes in the text of the treaty will not be communicated in a preliminary to the Allied powers of the inter-Allied conference.

Small States Apprised.

The council of four, however, received Saturday afternoon the delegates of Poland and Czecho-Slovakia, as the two smaller states chiefly interested, and outlined to them the council's determinations. Belgium, for some reason, was not represented. The four had before this placed their approval on the new financial clauses, and the remaining sections of the treaty, and has sent the reports thus approved to the drafting committee, which worked all day and may work a good part of Monday preparing the reply to the Germans.

The communication will consist of a letter of transmission of about 4,500 words, explaining in detail the motives of the council, and giving a detailed statement of all changes made in the original draft.

It is doubtful whether the complete new text will be in print in time to be handed to the Germans when Secretary Dutasta or one of his aides goes to Versailles to transmit the reply to you Brockdorff-Rantzau, without any formal ceremony.

Denunciation of Armistice.

The five days' period accorded the Germans includes the three days' notification required for the denunciation of the armistice. The substitution of civil for military authority during the period of occupation on the left bank of the Rhine is one of the most important changes proposed in the Allied reply to the German counter-proposals. This is provided by the establishment of a civilian commission, made up of one member each of the great powers. The commission will sit in the occupied territory and supervise the administration of the local civilian authorities, thus giving distinctly civilian rule, instead of martial law.

Provision is also made for an extensive reduction of the contemplated military force in the occupied territory as the substitution of civil rule makes unnecessary the continuance of a large military body. No change is contemplated in the time of occupation, which will remain at fifteen years.

The British and American viewpoints have been strongly in favor of reducing the military prominence of the occupied regions, so as to permit the resumption of normal civilian order. The French are believed to have been less favorable, owing to the sentiment that strong force is necessary as defensive security.

Reduced Military Force.

While a reduced military force will remain, it will be engaged in military duties, without taking part in the administration of the region. The reduction probably will affect all nationalities, but principally the French, whose occupational force at one time was estimated at 600,000.

Another effect of the change will be to reduce the military charges against Germany, which pays the cost of all occupational troops.

The Allied reply concerning the admission of Germany to the league of nations involves no change in the terms of the covenant, which stand as in the original treaty. The reply merely specifies what the Allies consider compliance with the admission clauses of the covenant, which, in the case of Germany, would be fulfillment of international obligations, including the execution of the terms of the treaty and the payment of reparations.

Program Not Altered.

There were no indications today that the resolutions passed in the American Senate would affect the treaty plans in any manner, or that any effort would be made to separate the league of nations covenant from the treaty. The program for the completion and presentation of the treaty has not been altered. It is pointed out that even if it were the intention to separate the league and the treaty, it would constitute a task of many weeks.

Turn Again to Austria.

The council of four will resume on Monday its study of the conditions of peace with Austria, and will discuss the terms of the reply to be made to the recent note handed in by Dr. Karl Renner, the head of the Austrian delegation.

The council of foreign ministers is engaged at present in examining the question of fixing the boundary between Poland and the Ukraine.

The time granted the Austrians to reply to the peace treaty will expire Tuesday, but no serious comprehensive reply is expected from them by that date, owing to the failure of the Entente representatives to supply them with the remaining parts of the treaty. The missing sections, chiefly the political and reparations clauses, and the delimitation of parts of the frontier are admittedly essential to an adequate understanding on the significance of the fragments now in Renner's possession.

The Allied leaders therefore are disposed to grant any Austrian request for more time, and will make the preparation of the missing clauses urgent in the first order of business next week.

HUNS' REPLY TO ALLIES IS SUMMARIZED

Ottawa Receives the Enemy's Statements on Treaty.

OBJECTIONS ARE NUMEROUS

Keynote Is That the Enemy Wants a Reciprocal Settlement.

OTTAWA, June 15.—The following summary of the German reply to the peace treaty was received here this afternoon by the Government and issued to the Canadian Press, Limited:

PARIS, June 15.—The German reply and counter-proposals to the conditions of peace, laid down to them at Versailles on May 7, were made public here today. The reply covers 119 pages, and includes a covering letter by Brockdorff-Rantzau of May 29, which has already been published, and a second section of comments following the main outline of the original draft treaty. Two separate documents on legal and financial questions are included as part of the general reply. Both English and French translations have been furnished in pamphlet form, the former totalling about sixty thousand words.

Forsake Peace of Justice.

The Germans maintain that the Allied and associated powers have forsaken the peace of justice to which they solemnly pledged themselves in the armistice negotiations, and concluded a peace of might, in which all the principles quoted at length from speeches of the statesmen of Allied and associated powers have been violated.

They protest against the proposed terms individually and collectively, demanding a return to the original agreements, press for verbal negotiations and state that Germany expects justice on a basis of equality and reciprocity.

The reply begins with a detailed analysis of the legal basis of peace alleges a flagrant series of contradictions to this basis and points out that the results would be the complete enslavement of the German, and the betrayal of all the world's cherished hopes of peace.

Hun Counter Proposals.

In the counter proposals Germany demands immediate admission to the league of nations as part of the spirit of the armistice agreement and as necessary for the acceptance of the proposed military, naval and air terms. She then analyzed the territorial changes demanded, claiming that the right of self-determination has been wilfully violated throughout.

She bitterly assails the abolition of all German rights outside Europe as irreconcilable with the preliminary negotiations and as wholly impossible to a great people who not only have supreme needs for markets and supplies, but who have shown themselves capable of sharing the world's task of colonization.

Oppose Reparation Plan.

Germany is wholly unable to accept the reparations committee set forth by the Allies as involving an infringement of her sovereignty, but proposes a co-operative German commission to work alongside it. She accepts responsibility only for civilian losses when she occupied Belgium and France, and agrees to maximum payments of one hundred billion marks, provided the other terms as to colonies, overseas trades and territories are accepted as she proposes. As to deliveries of ships, raw materials and machinery, she can meet the Allied claims only in part largely because of decreased production.

Germany demands that in the economic provisions she be treated on a basis of equality and reciprocity and not in the one-sided way outlined. She agrees to freedom of traffic on German rivers and within Germany, but always on condition that there be no interference with German sovereignty. Similarly with the original treaties lapsed through the war, she expects reciprocal treatment rather than the assumption by the Allies of the right to say what engagements are or are not to become operative again.

Refuse To Yield Ex-Kaiser.

The Germans refuse to accept the trial of the ex-kaiser, or to sanction his extradition from Holland on the ground that no German subject can be brought before a foreign court without established law or legal basis. Similarly she cannot agree to extradite other subjects accused of violations of the laws and customs of war. Instead, she proposes an international court of neutrals, to judge the fact of crime, the punishment to remain with the international court.

The labor clauses are not satisfactory to Germany, and as a result she again proposes an international conference to examine the allied and associated proposals, the German people's and the Berne resolutions. A bitter protest is entered against the occupation of the Rhine provinces, and the demand made that all allied troops be withdrawn within six months of peace. The occupation as proposed would break up German economic life, and allow the prejudicing of German interests in favor of France and Belgium.

The summary makes no effort to criticize any statements of facts or of figures made in reply. The German delegation alone is responsible for them, but it may be stated that many of them, especially as to the Eastern frontier, are disputable if not absolutely incorrect, and that facts bearing in the opposite directions have been omitted.

MAKE YOUR VACATION DAYS WORTH WHILE.

The Canadian National Railways has been aptly named the line of national playgrounds. Practically all the great reachable out-of-doors in each of the nine provinces is tributary to the lines of the system.

The C. N. R. line running northward from Toronto is through region furnishing the most pleasant and picturesque scenery the province has to offer to tourists.

The Don Valley, practically from the borders of the city, presents pastoral scenery as fine as any obtainable in the Dominion. The line climbs to the plateau on which Lake Simcoe is located, swings around that beautiful blue expanse and enters the wilderness of lakes and rivers known as the Muskoka country.

Throughout this playground there are established in accessible and suitable spots scores of summer hotels and boarding-houses.

For those who prefer there remains almost unlimited opportunities for camping parties, and sites are easily obtainable.

There is available at every ticket office of Canadian National Railways an up-to-date printed list of the hotels and boarding-houses in the summer country, giving details as to the number of rooms, the number of people to be accommodated and the rates per day or week. This information is furnished by the proprietors of the houses, and is as accurate as it is possible for such a list to be.

The summer bids fair to be long and hot. Get a copy today of the Muskoka booklet, with information on Toronto's summer land of easiest access. b

GODERICH YOUTH SHOOTS GUARD OF REFORMATORY

Had Escaped and Robbed House of Gun and Hundred Dollars.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

TORONTO, June 15.—Silas Gallinger, a youth committed to the Victoria Industrial School from Goderich, shot a guard, perhaps fatally, on Saturday night, when the guard attempted to arrest him, along with an associate, after they had escaped from the school.

Early in the afternoon the boys made their escape, and in the home of a farmer, near by, while the family was away, and the farmer in the fields, the boys obtained $100, a rifle, and some clothes.

They were leaving the house when Pettinger, the guard, arrived. Pettinger expected no trouble. He was fired upon, the bullet entering his lung. Tonight it is stated that his condition remains critical, with a slight sign of improvement. The boys have been recaptured.

The superintendent of the Industrial School says that the shooting emphasizes the fact that there is a crying necessity for a home for feeble-minded children.

FOUR OCEAN LINERS INDEFINITELY HELD UP AT LIVERPOOL

TORONTO STREET CAR UNION NOT STRIKING TODAY

Stormy Meeting With Difficulty Persuaded to Defer Action.

WILL WAIT JUST A WEEK

Conciliaton Board's Finding Must Be Favorable, Is Ultimatum.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

TORONTO, June 15.—Controller W. D. Robbins and ex-Ald. Joseph Gibbons, officials of the Street Railwaymen's Union, saved Toronto the inconvenience which comes with a street railway strike, in a stormy meeting, which lasted until early this morning, and was attended by 2,000 motormen and conductors.

The strike is deferred for one week.

The men left the meeting declaring that if the company does not meet their demands by Saturday at midnight of this week the cars will remain in the barn until it does.

The company has applied for a board under the industrial disputes act, and the men say that this board must grant their wage schedule this week. The company has named its member, and the men have left it to their committee to appoint a representative for the union.

A committee which the union had appointed presented a report asking the union to defer strike action for two weeks. The report was received with jeers and quickly rejected.

The fight commenced under the leadership of men from the different barns, who were bitter in their attacks upon the union committee because of its failure to recommend a strike immediately.

Messrs. Robbins and Gibbons eventually persuaded the men to defer the strike for a week in the hope that some solution of the difficulty might be found.

TORONTO PACKERS WILL ACCEPT BOARD'S AWARD.

TORONTO, June 15.—The "big five" packers have agreed to accept the findings of the board of conciliation, to which it asked amendments, in spite of the fact that the report was unanimous. Packing house employees were prepared to strike if the packers did not accept the report.

SOUTH WELLINGTON LIERALS WILL MEET IN GUELPH TODAY

Officers To Be Elected For Year and Delegates For Conventions Named.

GUELPH, June 15.—Liberals from all parts of the riding of South Wellington are expected in Guelph on Monday afternoon, to attend the annual meeting of the South Wellington Liberal Association. It was hoped to have Hon. W. S. Fielding present to address the gathering, but secretary Alex. Stewart has received word that it will be impossible for him to attend. His place will be taken by either Hon. George P. Graham, ex-minister of railways, of Brockville, or Hartley Dewart, M. P. P. of Toronto.

The meeting will convene at 2:30, and the business will be to elect officers for the year, and to appoint delegates to the provincial Liberal convention in Toronto on June 25 and 26, and the Dominion convention which will take place in Ottawa in August.

It is reported that Unionist-Liberals will not take part in this meeting, and that the rural representation will be particularly strong, the attitude of the farmers in regard to the party being the one thing that it is desired to have fully explained. Local Liberals of the Laurier school expect the meeting to be well attended, and that many points on which minor differences exist at present will be settled.

Germany Given Army of 200,000 Men For Term of Three Years

PARIS, June 15 (By the Associated Press). — Germany is to be allowed an army of 200,000 men for three years. This is one of the changes in the peace terms, which has been sedulously kept secret.

BRITISH FLIERS ALCOCK AND BROWN DRIVE BIPLANE ACROSS ATLANTIC IN SIXTEEN HOURS

Vickers-Vimy Aviators Hopped Off At St. Johns On Saturday Afternoon and Landed in Ireland On Sunday Morning—Trip Described As Consta nt Fight With the Elements.

LONDON, June 15.—(By the Associated Press).—The final goal of all the ambitions which flying men have ventured to dream since the Wright Brothers first rose from the earth in a heavier-than-air machine, was realized this morning, when two young British officers, Captain John Alcock and Lieutenant Arthur W. Brown, landed on the Irish coast after the first non-stop flight across the Atlantic ocean.

Their voyage was a straightaway clean-cut flight, achieved in sixteen hours and twelve minutes from Newfoundland to Clifton, Ireland, a distance of more than 1,900 miles.

Constant Fight With Elements.

But the brief and modest description which comes from the airmen at Clifden tells of an adventurous and amazingly hazardous enterprise. Fog and mists hung over the North Atlantic and the Vickers-Vimy biplane climbed and dove, struggling to extricate herself from the folds of the airplane's worst enemies. She rose to 11,000 feet, swooped down almost to the surface of the sea, and at times the two navigators found themselves flying upside down only ten feet above the water.

Before coming to earth near the Clidfen wireless station Alcock circled the wireless towers, seeking the best spot to reach the earth. But no suitable ground was found, so he chanced it in a bog.

Dazed and Deafened.

The wireless staff rushed to the aid of the aviators. They found Brown dazed and Alcock temporarily deafened by the force of the impact. As soon as they were able to be escorted to the wireless station they telegraphed the news to their friends. Then they had breakfast.

"That is the best way to cross the Atlantic," said Lieut. Brown, after he had finished the meal.

Describing the experiences of himself and Lieut. Brown, Capt. Alcock, in a message from Galway to the Daily Mail, says:

"A Terrible Journey."

"We had a terrible journey. The wonder is we are here at all. We scarcely saw the sun, or moon, or stars. For hours we saw none of them. The fog was very dense, and at times we had to descend within 300 feet of the sea.

"For four hours our machine was covered with a sheet of ice caused by frozen sleet. At another time the fog was so dense that my speed indicator did not work, and for a few minutes it was very alarming.

"We looped the loop, I do believe, and did a very critical spiral. We did some more comic stunts, for I had no sense of horizon.

"The winds were favorable all the way, northwest and at times southwest.

A Remarkable Estimate.

"We said in Newfoundland that we would do the trip in sixteen hours, but we never thought we should. An hour and a half before we saw land we had no certain idea where we were, but we believed we were at Galway or thereabouts.

"Our delight in seeing Eastall Island and Tarbol Island, five miles west of Clifden, was great. The people did not know who we were, and thought we were scouts looking for Alcock.

"We encountered no unforeseen conditions. We did not suffer from cold or exhaustion, except when looking over the side, then the sleet chewed bites out of our faces. We drank coffee and ale and ate sandwiches and chocolate.

Should Be Flying Boats.

"Our flight has shown that the Atlantic flight is practicable, but I think it should be done not with an airplane or seaplane, but with flying boats.

"We had plenty of reserve fuel left, using only two-thirds of our supply.

"The only thing that upset me was to see the machine at the end get damaged. From above, the bog looked like a lovely field, but the machine sank into it to the axle, and fell over onto her side."

Capt. Alcock explained the silence of his radio instrument during the voyage, saying that the wireless propeiler blew off soon after the airplane left Newfoundland.

"We were much jammed by strong wireless signals not intended for us," he added.

When word was received here of the accident to the machine in landing, arrangements were made for mechanics to leave London immediately to make repairs.

Word came from Clifden this afternoon that the pilot and the navigator of the machine were leaving for Galway, whence Lieut. Brown planned to travel to London, arriving there on Tuesday morning.

Will Fly to London.

Capt. Alcock, however, hoped to be able to fly to London in the machine which made the record flight as soon as it could be repaired. It was planned to have him give an exhibition over London in the machine, if possible.

The aero club received a message from Clifden not long after the transatlantic fliers landed, signed by them, which merely stated that they completed the flight in sixteen hours twelve minutes. They requested instructions from the club.

In reply, the club telegraphed Capt. Alcock:

"Keep machine intact until observer arrives."

Guarding Against Fraud.

The air ministry stated that certain marks were put on the airplane at Newfoundland which must be officially identified by a member of the Royal Air Force before the flight is declared to have been officially completed. It was said at the ministry that it was probable one of its officials would leave Dublin in an airplane to relieve Alcock and Brown. It was hardly believed there that the machine could be repaired before several days had passed, and it was thought both the aviators would proceed to England by train.

The fliers started from St. Johns, Nfld., at 4:12 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Greenwich time.

The Vickers-Vimy machine, which succeeded in a trans-Atlantic flight, has a wing spread of only 67 feet, and is equipped with two 350-horsepower Rolls-Royce motors, said to be capable of developing a speed of more than 160 miles an hour. The capacity of the gasoline tanks was recently enlarged to 865 gallons, and the lubricating oil tanks to 50 gallons, which is believed sufficient to carry the plane 2,440 miles, under normal weather conditions. A wireless telegraph set, capable of sending and receiving messages over comparatively long distances, is part of the plane's equipment.

Alcock Pioneer Flier.

Capt. Jack Alcock, the pilot, was among the British pioneers in aviation.

He obtained his flying certificate in 1912, and joined the Royal Naval Air Service immediately on the outbreak of the war. He acted as an instructor at first, but was later sent to the Turkish front, where he held the record for long-distance bombing raids. He was later captured by the Turks and held prisoner until the armistice was signed.

Lieut. Arthur Whitten Brown, navigator of the Vickers-Vimy plane, is also a veteran of the war, having served, first as an infantry officer and later in the British aviation service until an accident to the machine in which he was an observer, late in 1915, forced a descent in German territory, where he was wounded and made a prisoner.

After being in German hospitals, the aviator was transferred to a prison camp, eventually being interned in Switzerland and returned to England in 1917, and later became lecturer for the air ministry.

ATLANTIC FLIERS CONGRATULATED BY KING GEORGE

LONDON, June 15.—(By the Associated Press).—King George learned of the success of the flight of Alcock and Brown as he was leaving church at Westminster today. The King immediately telegraphed his congratulations to the airmen. Many high officials also sent them messages and greetings.

Major-Gen. Sykes, chief of the air staff, on behalf of King George, wired the aviators as follows:

"It is with pleasure that I have to convey to you the following message I have received from the King:

"'The King is delighted to receive the welcome announcement that Capt. Alcock and Lieut. Brown have landed safely in Ireland after a transatlantic flight.

"'His majesty wishes you to communicate at once with these officers and to convey to them the King's warmest congratulations on the success of their splendid achievement.'"

The telegram to Major-Gen. Sykes was signed by Baron Stamfordham, private secretary to King George.

SWIFT SUCCESS OF OCEAN FLIGHT BRINGS SURPRISE

LONDON, June 15. — By the Associated Press.—Plans for receiving Alcock and Brown are being hurriedly formulated by the Aero Club and the air ministry. It had not been believed that the aviators would be able to leave Newfoundland for another week. Their start was a complete surprise, and the quick success of the trip found the officials unprepared to welcome them.

Entries for the aerial Derby were supposed to close today, but they will be held open in the hope of inducing Alcock to compete. The Derby comprises competition flights around London.

Manchester, Alcock's home town, desires to have the honor of first welcoming the aviator, but the air ministry officials said today it was likely he would come to London before going to Manchester. It was added that at any rate two generous receptions awaited Alcock and Brown.

S. DELAWARE SCHOOL TO HAVE BIG PICNIC

SOUTH DELAWARE, June 15.—The annual school picnic to be given by Miss Maude Robertson and her pupils will be better than ever. It will be held on Thursday, June 26. The games and races will start at 1:30 p. m. (standard time). The baseball game between the Sharon team and the South team will be called at 2:30 p. m., and is expected to prove an exciting game, as the teams are evenly matched. Each team will bring a crowd of fans with them.

A large booth will be erected on the grounds near the school house, where everything will be supplied to tickle the palate. The last on the long list of the games and races will be a tug-of-war between the north and the south. Everyone is expected to come and enjoy a good afternoon of sports.

REFRIGERATORS

Bring Less Ice--We Have a New Refrigerator

So effective is the insulation of its walls that you could place the Barnet beside a hot stove and not increase ice consumption inside. To get low temperature you, of course, use ice—but to keep it cold you must depend upon insulation.

The better the walls of your refrigerator can shut out heat, the more ice you save. The Barnet Refrigerator has no less than eleven walls to keep the heat out and the cold in. Every ounce of ice is used up without waste to maintain low uniform temperature.

Less than 40 degrees Fahrenheit means perfect refrigeration. The Barnet maintains temperature as low as 36 degrees.

To keep the food clean and wholesome there must also be rapid circulation of pure, fresh, dry air over food and ice, and there must be a proper ventilating system to withdraw odors, so that there can be no contamination through flavor of one food mixing with another.

Our patented syphon and ventilating system of circulation has proven itself over and over again to be the most effective possible method. It is the system used by some of the United States and Canadian Railroads, who, you may be sure, would select the very best. It is this system which enables the Barnet to preserve foods for long periods fresh, dry and sweet as the day they were put in—with least ice. The Barnet has patent adjustable shelves.

The Barnet is always the cheapest in the end, because it is absolutely effective in every way. It is made in twelve different sizes, in oak, natural birch or ash.

HON. G. P. GRAHAM SEES BIG ISSUES BEFORE LIBERALS

Tariff and Treatment of Veterans To Be Discussed At Convention.

VISITS SOUTH ESSEX

Prominent Liberal Looking Over Field in South Essex.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

WINDSOR, June 15.—Although nothing has yet been said publicly at least, regarding the approximate time when Parliament will be dissolved and an appeal made to the country, Hon. George P. Graham, than whom no more careful analyst of the political future of Canada is to be found, has come to Essex County and for the next few days will look with experienced eye into the local situation as it affects his candidature as the nominee of the Liberals of South Essex.

At the Ponchartrain Hotel, Detroit, following a trip to Kingsville, Mr. Graham spoke optimistically of the great Liberal gathering soon to take place at Ottawa, and of the results it hoped to achieve.

"There will be a national convention of Liberals in August next, at which the policy of the Liberal party will be defined. Two big issues must be settled then. One will be a demand of an investigation into the treatment of returned soldiers, and the other will be the tariff issue. The latter question is part of our reconstruction problems. To continue with a high tariff is next to impossible, he added.

Does Not Need Tariff.

"Canada does not need it and Canadians in the majority do not want it. The party that can settle in a scientific manner the great issues evolving from Canada's trade relations with outside competition will win."

Asked if his opinions of the tariff question had undergone any change in recent years, Mr. Graham declared he took the same stand as before. While not a worshipper at the shrine of Cobden, he emphasized that France and Britain were examples that free trade principles had not killed any nation.

Mr. Graham said the next decade would see a tremendous fight for trade. To hold her own Canada must adjust her relations with the outside world. Outside of Britain the greatest field from which to attract capital lay in the great republic to the south. The United States must be considered as a broad field of friends, willing and anxious to do business with Canada. There must be no mawkish sentiment attached to the Dominion's big fight for national strength, but all questions relative to tariffs must be faced in a businesslike manner, founded on scientific understanding of the issues.

Apt to Do Bolting.

As to whether, in his opinion, the tariff issue would be the rock upon which the present Government would split, Mr. Graham declared that the next six months will decide. The Liberal-Unionists throughout the country were apt to do the bolting stunt.

Telegrams he had received written a few days, he said, indicated a strong undertone toward a definite Liberal policy, and that the Unionists who were formerly Liberals were quite willing to enter the fold again at the right time.

Then referring to the chances for an early election, Mr. Graham said:

"The Liberal-Unionists are against an election now, because they feel it would not be opportune with conditions in Canada unsettled and the problems of re-construction yet unsolved and many untouched."

In the opinion of the former minister of railways and canals, the tariff issue has become one of the problems of reconstruction, and, as such, must be faced at once. Upon the settlement of this question depends the date of the next election, he said.

BURIED AT WINGHAM.

WINGHAM, June 15.—George Cline, for many years' choir leader of the Presbyterian Church, died at the hospital here after a serious illness. He was in his 70th year, and leaves one brother. The funeral was held yesterday from the church, and the remains buried in Wingham Cemetery, Rev. D. Perrie of the Presbyterian Church officiating.

UNVEIL TABLETS AT ST. JAMES' CHURCH IN MEMORY OF HEROES

Who Made Supreme Sacrifice —Service of Most Impressive Nature.

INGERSOLL, June 15. — Tablets erected in honor of members of the congregation who made the supreme sacrifice during the war were unveiled in St. James' Anglican Church this evening, the service being of a very impressive nature.

The two tablets bear the names of 35 well-known young men who gave their lives for the cause of humanity. One of the tablets is to the memory of the late Lieut. A. J. Norsworthy, son of J. C. Norsworthy of Ingersoll. He was a member of the 73rd Battalion, Royal Highlanders of Canada, and was killed March 29, 1917, at Vimy Ridge.

The other tablet, which is of brass and very striking design, is to the memory of the following:

Ptes. Henry J. Smith, Andrew Brookfield, George Nevin, Harry Parker, David Stringer, Walter Stanley, John Hall, John Thos. Atkins, James Roach, Joe Frederick Thackaberry, H. Cook, Walter S. Newman, A. Barrow, Thomas Cussons, Wm. Harfield, Wm. Cox, Arthur Robert Alway, Wm. Allcott, George Cook, Harry Hardwick, Henry G. Wright, Arthur Redfern, F. Robinson, Harvey Frederick Wilson, R. English, Fred Southcomb, Wm. Barrow, Harry Mason, Herbert J. Smith, A. L. Wright, John Rowlinson, Sapper Joseph H. Thomas, Corp. Arthur Alway, Gunner Honsert and E. Shipton.

The service was conducted by the rector, Rev. R. J. M. Perkins. Very Rev. Dean Tucker of London, was also present and delivered an address.

FORTY-FIFTH CONVENTION.

A largely attended Sunday school service in connection with the 45th annual convention of the Oxford County Sunday School Association, which will open tomorrow, was held at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the Methodist Church. Among those who delivered inspiring addresses were Bishop J. S. Berry of Philadelphia, Pa., and Rev. T. A. Halpenny of Toronto. Bishop Berry conducted the morning service in the Presbyterian Church and the evening service in the Methodist Church. Many of the convention speakers have arrived.

SPECIAL MEETING.

At a special meeting of King Hiram Lodge, A. F. & A. M., the presentation of handsome pieces of put glass to Past Master Rev. R. J. M. Perkins, who will leave Ingersoll for Chatham, took place.

INFLAMED GUMS— A CAUSE OF LOOSE TEETH

Pyorrhea is undoubtedly a vital danger to both gums and teeth. Tender gums indicate it, and with it come loosening teeth. Imperceptibly, at first, the gums recede from the normal gum line. They inflame. They present many tiny openings for millions of bacteria to attack the unenameled tooth base. Tooth-base decay quickly follows. Even if the cavity be filled and the tooth saved, the gums continue to recede. Remember, too, that inflamed and bleeding gums act as so many doorways for disease germs to enter the system—infecting joints or tonsils—or causing other ailments.

Against this Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease) ordinary tooth-pastes are powerless. Yet Pyorrhea attacks four out of five people who are over forty, and many under this age. But Forhan's—if used in time and used consistently—positively prevents Pyorrhea. It is a scientific tooth cleanser as well. Brush your teeth with it. See how promptly bleeding or gum tenderness ceases and how your teeth are kept white and clean.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

Ventriloquist Figures in Canadian House of Commons

Certain Canadian politicians talk overmuch in Parliament and all too seldom when face to face with their constituents. In other words, they wear their silencers and go about the corridors with the padded tread of pussy-footers. An air of heavy importance hangs about them as the people ask for admission to the galleries to hear some of our intellectual Brobdignagians expound seven or eight reams of platitudinous twaddle, or submit themselves as phonographs to play the records handed out by the chief whip.

There are many clever men in Parliament, men whose years in the capital have filled them with knowledge of Canada and ideas as to the real needs of the country. Get them away from the cloying atmosphere of the official life, which has ramifications that affect a man socially, financially and often break his spirit for real public service, and a member of Parliament has many things to say that make one wonder why, when the path of duty lies so clearly ahead, there is so much of shiftiness and evasion and simulation. One may hear much of the duties of parties when the men who make up Parliament speak freely, with the gags removed. (The gag, by the way, is a device that was introduced by the predecessor of the present administration, and it constitutes with the order-in-council blackjack and the profiteering jimmy, the whole kit of tools now in use at Ottawa.)

The fact is that Canadians hear seldom from the men who are in Parliament. They speak in bromides and in party shibboleths when they are on the floor of the House. They muddle questions in advance by spreading silly rumors in the press gallery. They avoid the limelight except when named to do lip service for the party, and the people seldom hear free and sane expressions of opinion from the men who should know. There is still in the speeches of the average Canadian M. P. too much of the thing we would call in American statesmen "Fourth of July Bunk." They do not get down to brass tacks. In accordance with Government practice they give the people no word of leading. The newspaper correspondents do not get an enlightening interview from a minister or member once in a year. The "act of high courage," the note of sincerity, the reaching toward the people—all these things are lacking.

Canadian public administration is a muddled and sorry excuse for government. Those who should reveal to the people the conditions existing at Ottawa and through the press gallery relieve themselves of the weight of the party pack, are seldom heard in their own bailiwicks or anywhere else.

For the average M. P. at Ottawa each session of Parliament is a mere ventriloquial show. Who wants to be a dummy through which His Master's Voice is ever heard?

The Need of the $900 House

The statement appearing in The Advertiser to the effect that comfortable four-roomed houses were being erected in London at a cost of $900 each has attracted the attention of the two Hamilton papers, The Times and Spectator. The former believes it would be worth the time of the Hamilton commission to come to London and have a look at these places, because our mountain-shaded neighbor city is up against the same problem as London, to find homes for the working people who cannot afford to pay more than $10 or $15 a month for rent or as payments and interest on a home.

The Spectator's only objection is that a cheap type of house might grow up to the detriment of localities, but a house is not cheap simply because it is small, and if the cities are to house the people who man the new factories that are filling the cities of Ontario, there must be small houses and there must be cheaper houses than the Government plan affords.

While Hamilton regards the $900 house as something of a discovery, let it be hoped that London's industrial outlook will not be hampered by a false impression that the workingman who wants a home cannot get it short of $28 to $35 a month. These $900 homes are being built today on desirable property, in good localities. They will be well built, and shelters that are worth inspection by the local housing authorities—as well as those of other cities.

London needs to take its housing problem seriously. But there is no need to look on the dark side of the picture. Perhaps we incline too much to taking the pessimistic viewpoint in most things. A tinge of optimism followed by action would help all around.

If Germany Rejects Treaty

The peace conference has officially announced that unless the Germans sign the peace treaty by next Saturday war will be resumed at that date. This brings to the front a possibility of further campaigning that had been well in the background since the signing of the armistice. The severity of the armistice terms seemed to make impossible any further resistance on the Huns' part. To all intents and purposes the war appeared to be over when Germany submitted to Foch's conditions.

In the event of Germany refusing to sign it, however, we need not think of further war in the former terms of slaughter and terrorism. Beyond any doubt Germany has been stripped to the bone of her fighting power. The great war machine has been taken to pieces and its parts scattered. On the other hand the vigilant and wise Foch, taking nothing for granted, holds the Rhenish provinces with powerful armies, and can move where he will into Germany without encountering any serious obstacles.

Probably the German Government, if it persists in its present determination to reject the peace pact, will resort to passive resistance, hoping to embarrass the Allies by compelling them to shoulder the tremendous task of occupying and regulating Germany, and building on some hostility against further warring by the Allied publics to secure concessions. In this they are likely to be disappointed. The broad masses of the Allied people are set upon complete submission. There must be no opening left for a recurrence of the late catastrophe. Germany must be at once punished and put in chains to prevent further mischief. The people of Great Britain, United States, France and Italy as a whole will cheerfully support any additional coercion that is necessary no matter how expensive and exasperating it may be.

The application of the blockade in its full strength should bring Germany's leaders to their senses. That would be more effectual and quick to bring results than the military operations. Germany must be fed and supplied with raw material before she can begin that indutrial production that will in time restore her to a measure of her former standing. To get these essentials she will give in. The declarations by Norway, Sweden, Holland, Spain and Switzerland that they will not join in the blockade means merely that these nations officially announce that in the event of a resumption of war they will return to their former position of strict neutrality. If Germany will not sign the pressure will be as strong as before the armistice, and she will have no power to strike back with any hope of success.

Alcock Hops the Atlantic

Leaping from a Newfoundland headland with a Vimy Vickers biplane, Captain Jack Alcock, a British air pilot, has landed safely in Ireland, making the flight in sixteen hours. Thus the bold captain and Great Britain win the glory of achieving the greatest of all feats of aerial navigation, a non-stop flight of the Atlantic in a heavier than air machine. With the Americans rests the honor of making the first crossing of the "pond" via the air, but their seaplane trip was made under safety first conditions that turned it into what was merely an interesting scientific experiment. The world has been waiting for the real aerial conquest of the Atlantic—one big hop—and Captain Alcock has "delivered the goods."

Although it was not necessary that Alcock and his brave companion should take the stupendous gamble with death in order to prove that the flight could be made, it furnishes definite assurance that there is no limitation to expansion in aeronautics. When Alcock's aeroplane landed in Galway it was made clear that mankind is approaching a revolution in transportation that promises to bring great social, industrial and commercial changes. It may be some time yet before the heavier than air machine comes into general use for trans-Atlantic passages, as the element of danger is still too great, but that it can be done has been sensationally shown by British pluck and enterprise.

As the world heartily congratulates Captain Alcock it will naturally think of Hawker, who had the glory almost within his grasp when tricked by accident. It will always be his splendid fame that he was the first airman to pit courage and skill against the dread Atlantic in order to blaze the way to supreme conquest of the air. It detracts little from Alcock's exploit that he probably was able to profit by Hawker's experience and that the weather conditions were more favorable for him. Hawker tried for it and Alcock made it. They make a gallant pair of courageous gentlemen who will stand in the very front rank of the bold spirits who lead the world in subjugating the terrific forces of nature for the benefit of mankind.

London has not been affected by the general strike hysteria, and one of the reasons is that London labor has had a chance to express itself.

It's very fine to take one's admired a pint of ice cream these days, but it's a hard race with the heat as to who can run the fastest, the smitten one or the ice cream.

London labor has persistently refused to associate itself with the One Big Union movement. But that is no sign that there is not need to bring about a better relationship.

It took the Mayflower sixteen weeks to cross the Atlantic and Alcock did it in sixteen hours, but as between the two there are few who wouldn't choose the slower route.

SILVER AGAINST GOLD.
By R. Ray Baker.

The war—— Wait, this is not a war story. There are no bursting shells or crawling tanks or trench dugouts or spies in this tale, which concerns an event that happened in a little back woods town in Illinois six months after the armistice was signed.

The war is dragged in, because it explains the advantage acquired by Herbert Drew over Gilbert Post in the battle for the love of Marguerite Hobart.

When the truce moved the lever that changed the current of troops crossing the Atlantic westward instead of eastward, Herbert loomed up in his home town one sunny, bird-chirping spring day wearing an overseas cap on one side of his head and "brown bandages" on his legs, with a gold chevron on his sleeve; while Gilbert put in his appearance on a drizzly, dreary day a short time later with just a hat and leggings covering respectively his toussled yellow hair and his nether limbs, and a splash of silver on his arm to denote he had been in service "over here."

They were drafted in the same contingent, and they went to Camp Grant together. At that time Gilbert had the inside track with Marguerite, and their engagement was generally considered a certainty for the near future. Gilbert was not so attractive as Herbert, who was a pronounced brunette, but Margaret felt a much deeper affection for him, because she thought she fathomed finer qualities of character in him, and because—well, just because.

So it was a losing fight for Private Drew before he went to camp, but shortly after he began his military training his luck changed. Naturally, Marguerite could not decline to answer his letters, for she had to "do her bit" for the soldiers, and he continued his wooing by mail.

In this there was some advantage for him, because he was a good correspondent, while Gilbert was more or less of a failure along those lines. The big change in his fortune, however, was when he was ordered overseas, while Gilbert was relegated to the depot brigade.

So Herbert Drew came back home a hero, while Gilbert Post was just a soldier, with no more glamor about him than that afforded by his uniform, and that did not last long, for he shed his khaki for "civies" as soon as he could procure store clothes. Herbert, on the other hand, continued to wear his uniform, and it certainly did add to his prestige. Tales of his bravery in action were published in the local weekly and that drew a more brilliant glare about him.

Marguerite, being a human girl, could not resist these things, and almost before she herself could realize it she was considering Herbert her accepted suitor and Gilbert in the has-been class.

Gilbert plugged along at his work in the flour mill, where he had a job that paid well for a town of that size. He knew he was losing out with Marguerite, for he realized that the chances were with a gold chevron against a silver one.

Both the young men continued to call on Marguerite, but Gilbert had been cut down to once a week, while he was aware that Herbert was at the Hobart home at least every other night. Then, her manner of treating him was different. She was still very friendly and tried to entertain him pleasantly, but he knew the old spirit of comradeship that had once existed was lacking, while the still deeper feeling that had made itself evident on some occasions before that fateful conscription act went into effect was decidedly conspicuous by not being there any more at all.

Gilbert made the good fight, but gradually it became manifest to him that it was a losing fight. Finally, things came to a climax one night, because he felt that he could not keep silent any longer, but just had to know where he stood, on sand or rock.

"How is it, Marguerite?" he asked, as he was preparing to leave, after his weekly call. "Are you just tolerating me? Is that the way things stand?"

She looked down at the toe of her shoe and wiggled it a few times, watching it intently, as if it were something she never before knew she possessed and was very curious concerning its functions.

"Well, no," she said, after a few seconds' thought. I can't say it's just that way. I like you very much, Gilbert; but things are not just the way they used to be."

"It's—It's Herbert Drew, of course," Gilbert ventured, looking out the window and pondering how dark it was—not just that part of the world within his view, but the whole universe. Many a time he had looked through that window at a world that was smiling and sunshiy.

She became interested in that toe again.

"Yes," she confessed, sighing. "It's Herbert. He is—well, I have come to realize that he is the man for me. He's so big and strong—and handsome. Of course, I don't mean, Gil, that you aren't those things, too," she was quick to add, "but—well, it's different somehow since he's been away. He's a different man now, after going through all those terrible experiences. You ought to see his eyes shine when he tells how he went over the top and ——of course, you don't care to hear about those things. You didn't have to go through them."

Gilbert smiled dryly. No, he hadn't had to go through them; but he sincerely wished he had been given the opportunity.

"Then there isn't any chance for me," he asked, placing his hand on the knob of the door, preparing to step out into the dark world.

Tears started in her eyes.

"I'm—I'm afraid not, Gil. I'm so sorry; but can't help it because I've changed. I believe, though, you had better stop coming to see me. You see, Herbert and I—we are thinking rather seriously——"

"I understand," he said, with a queer little catch in his voice, and he went out into that black night, where all the stars were hidden by somber clouds.

It was two days later that the village was aroused from its customary lethargy by a sensational event—the third that had occurred since the town was founded or discovered, or whatever it was that gave it birth. The first was the burning of the town hall in 1901, and the second was the robbery of Sam Hankins' henhouse only a year ago. The third sensational event was the near-drowning of Bobby Hobart.

The news was passed around town as if on electrified waves. It was shouted across backyards by housewives and along the streets by men and children. As a result, housework, business and playing soldier were abandoned, and the village flocked to the channel down by the flour mill. The channel branched from the river and took care of the water power for the plant.

Into that channel Bobby Hobart had fallen while playing on the edge with Willie Nobscott. The latter had gone screaming from the scene. Two or three men who heard his frenzied shrieks managed to glean some idea of what had happened, and they hurried to the place where the accident had occurred. They were just in time to see a bedraggled figure climb out of the channel with Bobby in its arms. The child was pretty far gone, but the work of resuscitation finally bore fruit, and the lad began to breath and sputter, and opened his eyes; and then everyone—the crowd had begun to collect—sighed deeply and looked around for the rescuer.

The rescuer was in a bad way, for the water was cold. The young man's teeth chattered, and he was in a veritable convulsion of shivering.

Marguerite Hobart came hurrying to the scene, and, finding Bobby was safe and wrapped in warm blankets and already on the way to his home, she took it upon herself to look after the rescuer.

"Put him in our care and we'll take him to our home," she told one of the men. "It's too far to his own home out in the country. I'm afraid of pneumonia."

A short time later the young man who had saved her brother lay in sleep in the guest room of the Hobart residence, while Marguerite sat beside the bed.

"Poor Gil," she said, stroking his brow, although the doctor had not suggested a message. Gilbert did not reply to her remarks, but she talked on. "I've learned who the real hero is. Maybe Herbert Drew fought Germans in the Argonne, but I'm not so sure. What I do know is that he saw Bobby fall in the channel, and that, instead of leaping in to save him, as you did, he ran to find a rope to throw to brother. There were some heroes who stayed in camp, Gil."

At this second mention of his name Gilbert opened his eyes, and a glad look overspread his face, and when he looked out the window the world was sunshiny and smiling again.

"Newspapers Are the World's Mirror"

Comment, Cleverness and Mere Verbiage From "Educators or the Common People" in Canada and Other Lands.

A DELICATE QUESTION.

[Boston Globe.]

How much would government ownership of the coal mines increase the price of coal?

KNOWS THE GERMANS.

[Buffalo Courier.]

Maybe the Germans have fifty billions of loot laid away to pay the proposed reparation charges.

GASSY.

[Kingston Standard.]

Huge eruptions of gases, it is said, are taking place in the sun just now. Ottawa is a very sunny place.

A GERMAN WORRY.

[Dallas News.]

Another thing that disturbs the German is that if they lost anything in the peace settlement it may look like they didn't win the war.

GOOD FOR HUSBANDS.

Wages for wives has been suggested by social reformers. Such a scheme ought to save husbands money, for the wives are now getting it all.

FUNNY TORONTO.

[Orillia Packet.]

Those of us who had long thought the Toronto Telegram the funniest thing in the city must now realize what an injustice has been done the Toronto jail.

WILL KULTUR SAY "CAN'T?"

[The Washington Post.]

Brockdorff-Rantzau says the Huns can't sign because they can't comply with the terms. This imputation of good faith will be resented by every kultured Boche.

BLAMES THE FARMER.

[Ottawa Journal.]

Every man on a salary thinks the farmer, from whom he bought his butter at 60 cents a pound, ought to pay the city man's income tax and provide a sinking fund for a pension as well.

EXCEPT.

[Orillia Packet.]

Hal Donly joined the staff of the Simcoe Reformer just forty years ago. This leaves one puzzled to account for the fact that Mr. Donly might pass for a man of thirty-five or forty—except when he's cross.

GOOD OUT OF EVIL.

[Brantford Expositor.]

The Winnipeg strikers have at least to be thanked for one thing. They have afforded an opportunity to have it demonstrated that the O. B. U. and the sympathetic strike cannot flourish on Canadian soil.

EIGHT-HOUR DAY ON FARM.

[Black and White.]

He was a wise eastern farmer who opposed a universal eight-hour day on the ground that "God didn't make cows to milk that way." God, or nature, as you please, has done many things that man can't change, try as he may.

IS BOLSHEVISM.

[Buffalo Express.]

The more clearly the sensible workingmen, and particularly the returned soldiers, of Winnipeg begin to realize that the movement undertaken by the strikers is an attempt at Bolshevism, the less they care to be identified with it. That is encouraging.

MIGHT HELP THE WORLD.

[Buffalo Express.]

The old Austrian empire is completely broken up into minor states. A few months of occupation of the Rhine provinces by Allied troops has led a section of the people of that district to declare for a republic independent of Prussia. Perhaps an occupation of the remainder of Germany would lead to a general break-up and thereby remove the danger of another war as no league of nations ever can remove it.

THE DOMINIONS AND THE EMPIRE

[Westminster Gazette.]

General Sir Arthur Currie, lately in command of the Canadian troops in France, who was entertained by the Lord Mayor at the Mansion House yesterday, paid an eloquent tribute to the gallantry of London troops and to the solidarity of the Empire, which he wished to see united in a closer political system. In this connection there is one proposition which we can safely lay down. The people of the mother country are quite willing, indeed are anxious, for some closer organization, and in recent times there has been no British Government which would have opposed any reasonable step in that direction. But it is possible to close our eyes to the difficulties which face any concrete proposal. Are the Dominions prepared to surrender their present complete independence in exchange for closer organization?

TO THE SOLDIERS OF CANADA.

[Chicago Tribune.]

Canadian soldiers present a solid front to the wild and heedless clamor for overthrow of majority institutions. It is only another evidence of the defence of home and country. The soldiers went immeasurable lengths on the battlefield; the slackers betrayed them at home.

Good citizens take arms for their country. Having defended it they return to find it menaced anew; and not by an exterior danger, but by an interior one; inspired by the very men who would not defend it.

The attitude of the Canadian soldiers, while reassuring and deserving of the greatest praise and gratitude of the Government, is, nevertheless, not astonishing. What amazement must have been theirs to find themselves invited to participate in tearing down the very institutions they had only just left off defending with their blood.

The summons to destruction came from those who had least call upon the sympathies of citizen-soldiers. It came from those who were content to be defended instead of defending; who sat conspiring at home to overthrow the very peace for which those they now hailed as comrade fought so hard to preserve. It is unthinkable.

The laurel wreath of true heroism for the patriotic Canadians! They did not pass through the baptism of fire for nothing. Defence of country means to them but one thing whether it be plunging through the shell fire in Flanders or in standing firm for national ideals at home. It is one and the same thing. The good citizen can be depended upon. The Canadians have demonstrated that they are not merely loyal in spots but they will go to the front for their country; any front, any time.

MONTSERRAT

LIME FRUIT JUICE

Cheaper and Better than Lemons

Makes Delicious, Wholesome Summer Drinks

Try this Refreshing Thirst Quencher

Keep a bottle of "Montserrat" in the house. It's far more economical than lemons—much easier to use—no fuss or muss—ready when you want it—keeps indefinitely. And everybody enjoys it.

"Montserrat" is the pure juice of cultivated Limes from the Island of Montserrat in the West Indies. Every bottle is guaranteed by us to be, absolutely pure lime fruit juice.

Montserrat "Surcingle"

To make a "Surcingle", take one to two tablespoonfuls of "Montserrat" and add one bottle of iced Soda Water, and sweeten to taste. It is delicious.

Look for the "MONTSERRAT" Window Display in the stores of your favorite dealers.

You'll enjoy the snappy, piquant, fruity flavor of the limes. The fruit juice will satisfy your thirst.

You'll feel refreshed and invigorated, and—best of all "Montserrat" is pure and wholesome, you can enjoy it often, especially in the very hot weather.

"Montserrat" is good for you—good for the children—and they like it. 76

There's no reason why a merchant should worry about his store records

THE average storekeeper who uses a bank check book and an up-to-date National Cash Register can get the figures which tell him how his business stands every day.

From his check book and bills:

He can get the cost of running his store, cost of merchandise bought, and a record of payments made.

From his National Cash Register:

He can get a record of his store transactions:

Cash Sales — Received on Account
Charge Sales. — Petty Cash Paid Out

These store transactions total sixty per cent to ninety per cent of the details occupying his time and clerical labor.

They must be made rapidly during the rush of selling.

They are hard to get, hard to keep, impossible to verify, and expensive to record unless he uses a modern National Cash Register.

National Cash Register figures are the foundation for accounting systems in stores all over the world. A post card or phone call will bring you full information about the way a modern N.C.R. System will keep your store records by machinery.

WINIFRED BLACK

Writes About "Colors and Clothes."

Copyright, 1919, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

Isn't it fine to see all the new clothes?

Everybody is wearing new clothes, or else old clothes freshened up and made to look as much like new as possible.

Blue and pink and light green, cerise and opal grey, yellow and white, and here and there a flash of scarlet—how gay it is after the gloom of the winter!

Why, the world is a tulip bed dancing in the sun! No, it's a field of poppies, a-blow in the wind. No, it's a garden of lilacs a-swing in the silver light of the radiant moon.

Of course, it isn't for nothing that nature covers the world with a woolly white blanket for so many months, and with a dull grey quilt so many others, and then burst into joyous bloom till the whole world seems suddenly to break into song—no wonder we human beings want new clothes this time of year.

How pretty they are, the new colors, and how fresh and summery the girls look in them.

I saw a little maid with roguish eyes flash past in a car today, and she was in pink and white from top to toe, and she looked as much like a pink rose herself that I wanted to pick her and put her in a silver case somewhere and sit and look at her for hours.

And another girl I saw in blue—fair blue, with a hint of silver in it. She wore a silver chain and ear-rings of silver filigree and her black hair was bound with a silver fillet, and, dear me, she was just a walking picture of May —all smiles and tears, all sighs and laughter. I don't see how that girl will ever get through this summer without an engagement ring on that slender third finger of hers.

How we've exploded all the old theories about colors this year.

Blue goes with green, and violent smiles with pink. And as for the wearers of them—what's become of the fallacy that blondes should always wear blue, and brown girls must never light up their costumes with anything but red?

Color Miracles.

I met a black-eyed woman the other day all dressed in delicate blue, and I never saw her look so pretty in her life.

"Dear me," I said; "how young you look!

"It's the blue," she said. "I've always been dying to wear it, I simply love it. When I was little I always dressed my dolls in blue, and when I grew older I always planted a garden—forget-me-nots, lilies of the valley, lobelia, fleur-de-lis, iris, hydrangea, snowball bushes, day lilies, callas—everything blue and white, and it was the dream of my soul to sit there and fairly live these colors.

"But I always had to have red on myself, or yellow—for it was the law of the Medes and the Persians that you mustn't even look at blue unless you were very, very fair.

"Last winter I saw a celebrated French actress who made a picture of herself in a blue frock, and she was as dark as a gypsy. I went straight home and telephoned to my dressmaker, and since then I'm happy—in blue."

Also, I met a lovely reddish blonde in primrose yellow—and she looked like nothing in the world but a beautiful daffodil—

How glad I am for the new colors and the old ones, too.

I've had a whole day made cheery by a dash of scarlet in a dreary landscape, and I've seen a dull room electrified into glorious life by a scarf of pure yellow hung in just the right place at just the right window.

Chinese blue—what a color it is! Almost green and nearly purple, and yet bluer than any blue we've ever used before.

Apple green—for fair girls and for brown, how fresh and young and beautiful it is!

I sat at a matinee not long ago and never looked at the play at all, I was so busy watching a Spanish woman of high degree who sat in a box and wrote poems, and sang songs and made love and gave greatest forgiveness for a gorgeous fan of marvellous colors.

Do they have sounds to you—the colors?

A Glorious World.

They do to me. Red is the blare of a trumpet. Apple green is the note of a silver flute. Yellow is the sweep of a bow upon the violin strings. And blue is the song of the meadow larks and all the apple trees are in blossom, and little boys go barefoot to wade in all the laughing streams, and little girls come singing home from school.

What a beautiful, prismatic and glorious world it is, to be sure. And how glad we all ought to be to be alive in it!

UNIQUE TEST AT THE ONTARIO

One of Most Strenuous Tests of Perfect Refrigeration Ever Made, Now On Trial.

Refrigerators that provide absolute refrigeration are on exhibition all this week at the Ontario Furniture Company's store. These refrigerators are handsome in appearance, sturdy to a degree, and come in all sizes. Demonstrators are on hand to show the many different advantages of the "Barnet."

On Tuesday morning a committee of prominent citizens will look up a Barnet refrigerator containing the following odorous goods: Onions, turnips, fish, tomatoes, cabbage, meats, etc., also matches, cigars, salt, fruits, milk, butter, etc. Thursday at 3 p.m. the refrigerator will be opened. The Ontario Furniture Company guarantees that there will be no taint from the various food in the milk or butter. The matches may be lit upon the walls of the ice chamber. During the three days no additional ice will be put in the refrigerator. The public is invited to be present at this test, which is certain to prove interesting.

Daily Bible Question Club

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS ON THE UNIFORM LESSON FOR SUNDAY, JUNE 22, 1919.

ONE GOLDEN TEXT QUESTION.

By Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.

Love. 1 Cor. 13.

QUESTIONS FOR TODAY.

1. Verse 1. What is the utmost which can be claimed for the gift of eloquence?

2. Why is an eloquence man without love, like an inharmonious brass band with cymbal accompaniment?

3. Why will not eloquence without love make a man acceptable to God?

4. Would you say, or not, and why, that eloquence without love makes a man acceptable to his fellow or gives any lasting satisfaction to himself?

Golden Text.—Now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; and the greatest of these is love. 1 Cor. 13:13.

FAITH IS THANKFUL ACCEPTANCE.

The theme of our scripture study is that of love. Its comparison of love with the other Christian graces, and our text is a study in subjective Christianity in the divine graces which God bestows upon us or permits us to have. The Christian graces overlap one another and link into each other. Each grace has something distinct from every other grace, but all the graces tincture each of them. Faith for example can be subdivided into many beautiful things. Faith is a thankful acceptance of everything that comes to us as the best that could come to us under the circumstances. A life of faith is a life of thankful acceptance that whatever comes to us in life has come from the hands of our heavenly Father. Profit and loss, bane and blessing, pain and pleasure that come to us in life are all in the long run blessings.

KINGSVILLE W. C. T. U.

The annual meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. T. J. Salmoni, and in spite of the heat the attendance was encouraging. The devotional part was led by Mrs. J. B. Kennedy. After the routine business had been attended to, the claims of the Institution for the Blind, Toronto, came up for further consideration, but nothing definite was done. Reports from various superintendents were heard, after which the election of officers for the ensuing year took place, as follows: President, Miss Ritchie; first vice-president, Mrs. E. C. Gosnell; second vice-president, Mrs. G. Thornton; recording secretary, Mrs. Colin Quick; corresponding secretary, J. E. J. Millyard; treasurer, Mrs. W. H. Hellems.

KOMOKA W. M. S.

The W. M. S. held a most enjoyable picnic in the Dalgleisch woods recently. It will hold its annual missionary quilting on the church lawn Thursday afternoon, June 19.

DORCHESTER W. I.

The monthly meeting of the W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. T. McFarlane, when a large number was present.

WEAK, NERVOUS WOMAN

Benefited by Friends' Advice, Passes the Good Advice Along to Others.

Milwaukee, Wis.—"I was weak, nervous all rundown, no appetite and had taken different medicines without benefit. A friend advised me to try Vinol. It gave me a wonderful appetite, I sleep well, have gained in weight and am now strong and well."—Mrs. E. Strey.

We strongly recommend Vinol, which contains beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptonates and glycerophosphates for all weak, nervous, rundown conditions and to build up strength after sickness.

Lift Off Corns Doesn't Hurt!

Few drops stop soreness, then corn or callus lifts off with fingers

The world owes thanks to the genius in Cincinnati who discovered freezone.

Tiny bottles of the magic fluid can now be had at any drug store for a few cents. You simply apply a few drops of freezone upon a tender, aching corn or a hardened callous. Instantly the soreness disappears and shortly you will find the corn or callous so loose and shriveled that you lift it off with the fingers. Not a bit of pain or soreness is felt when applying freezone or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the skin or flesh.

For a few cents one can now get rid of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, as well as painful callouses on bottom of feet. Everyone who tries freezone becomes an enthusiast because it really doesn't hurt or pain one particle.

Advertiser Patterns

The pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. Size 38 will require 5¾ yards of 36-inch material. Width at lower edge is about 2¼ yards.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

Name .....

Town .....

Province .....

Age (if child's or misses' pattern) .....

Measurement: Bust..... Waist.....

Caution: Be careful to inclose the above illustration, and send size of pattern wanted. When the pattern is bust measure, you need only mark 28, 34, or whatever it may be. When in waist measure, 22, 24, 25 or whatever it may be. If a skirt, give waist, and length measure. When misses' or child's pattern, write only the figure representing the age. It is not necessary to write "inches" or "years." Patterns cannot reach you in less than ten days from the date of application.

All were delighted with the talk of Miss Gilholm of Bright. Her subject was "Our Social Privileges and the Temperance Question." A very fine lunch was served at the close of the program. The meeting for July will be held in the form of a picnic at the home of Mrs. A. George.

Milk for Insomnia.

Dear Miss Grey,—I wrote several times years ago, and received such prompt answers I thought I would try again. Could you please let me have that much-sought-after stocking foot pattern? Am inclosing an envelope for it.

Do the readers know that a glass of milk before retiring is a cure for insomnia? One certainly needs something to enable one to sleep these hot nights.

Here is a splendid cake recipe:: Four eggs, separate whites; beat into the yolks a scant cup of sugar until creamy; then add the thoroughly beaten whites and one-half cup potato flour sifted with one teaspoon baking powder. Bake in a moderate oven 40 minutes. Thanking you, I am ROSEMOND.

Ans.—You are entirely welcome to a copy of the foot pattern. I am sure our readers will appreciate any hint or suggestion that may "woo gentle slumber" on such suitry nights as we had last week. Re your cake recipe, should it not call for some white (wheat) flour, in addition to the potato flour? If there is any correction, just let me know, please, and I can reprint.

MOST EVERYONE USES THEM FOR THE STOMACH

They Act Quickly, and Make You Feel Lively as a Kid.

A crowning curative triumph in medicine is now given to the world, and all who have been sufferers from stomach ailments, indigestion and headache can be cured by a purely vegetable remedy.

Calomel, salts and such like are no longer necessary. They are harsh and disagreeable. Science has devised something far superior, and you can go today with 25c to any druggist and buy a box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are considered the very quickest and safest cure for the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys.

Half-sick men and women who scarcely know what ails them, will be given a new lease of life, with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Depressed spirits disappear, headaches are forgotten, appetite increases, blood is purified and enriched, pains at the base of the spine are cured, the nerves are toned up, ambition to work is increased, and day by day the old-time health and vigor return.

A trial only is necessary to prove how beneficial Dr. Hamilton's Pills are to all who are weak, nervous, thin, depressed or in failing health.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. E. R. Dennis has returned from Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. German are the summer at Sauble Falls.

Dr. J. W. Crane and Dr. Fred Campbell of the Western University medical staff left on Saturday for Chicago, where they will take up post-graduate work in the University of Chicago.

The marriage of Miss Nellie Chambers to Mr. Wilfred Boyce was solemnized in the Wellington Street Methodist Church last Wednesday by Rev. W. J. Ashton. After a wedding trip, they will reside on King street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Downie of Clachan announce the engagement of their second daughter, Edith, to Albert E. Johnston, youngest son of Mrs. Eliza Johnston of Clachan, the marriage to take place the latter part of June.

In honor of Miss Lola Barclay, a cut glass shower was given at her home, Gerrard street, last week by a number of her girl friends. Some very beautiful gifts were received by the bride-elect. A luncheon was served by the hostess.

The Honorable Duncan Marshall, minister of agriculture for Alberta, was in this city on Friday with J. P. Elliott, M. P. P. for West Middlesex. The Western cabinet minister left for Toronto early last night, and during his short stay in the city he visited a soldier-nephew recently returned from overseas with the 20th Battalion, who is receiving medical treatment here.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Bourne of Nissouri was the scene of a pretty wedding when their daughter Alice was united in marriage to Gordon L. Guest. Rev. D. McKay of Dorchester officiated. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of duchess satin embroidered in seed pearls and Irish lace veil with coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a lovely bouquet of lilies of the valley and fern. Following a reception, Mr. and Mrs. Guest left on a wedding trip. Prior to the day of her marriage the bride received a beautiful set of limoges china from the choir of which she was a member.

A pretty wedding took place on Wednesday afternoon last, when Miss Muriel Olive Leigh, eldest daughter of Mrs. F. H. Leigh of this city, was united in marriage to Mr. Albert Row of Brockville, Ont., in the Cronyn Memorial Church by the pastor, Rev. G. Q. Warner. The bride made a striking picture in a pearl-grey satin dress with pumps to match, and a tulle picture hat, and carried a gorgeous shower-bouquet of white roses and sweet peas. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Alice Leigh, who carried a lovely bouquet of sunset roses. The groom was attended by Mr. R. R. Sipple. The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond sunburst, to the bridesmaid an amethyst brooch set with pearls, and to the groomsman a pearl stick-pin. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Clifford Leigh. After a dainty wedding breakfast, served at the bride's home, the young couple left for a short honeymoon to Detroit and Cleveland. On their return, they will proceed to Brockville where they will make their home. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful wedding presents.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

That Wonderful Pattern.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have been reading a great number of times of a wonderful stocking foot pattern you have on hand ,and am inclosing an addressed stamped envelope, and would ask that you kindly send me same and oblige.

A CONSTANT READER.

Ans.—One of the "wonderful" things has gone forward to your address, and I hope you may find it as useful as some of our other Pageites claim it to be.

Troubles in the West.

Dear Miss Grey,—I wrote to your column in November, and my friends sent me a roll of Advertisers, one of which contained my letter. We have had a very fine winter and a nice spring. They got in their seed grain here in very good time. There was quite a lot of moisture in the ground when it was sown, but it is getting rather dry, but last Thursday we had a nice rain. Everybody was pleased, as it looks as if there was going to be a crop this year. Everybody hopes so, at least. They tell me that they hope I will see how grain can grow in the west before I go home. It was a complete failure last year. The early-sown was blown out, and the late grain was frozen. Lots of people did not have any threshing at all. I think that the lady signing herself Victory Bond could not have been in touch with conditions in the west last fall, or she would have known that no straw was to be burned in any of the three prairie provinces, but as there was none to burn the law was not broken. Of course, people do not obey the law as much as they used to do. Nobody used to think of doing anything contrary to the law, but now everybody does as they please. Any of the boys who did not want to go and fight were sent to jail for a term. As soon as the law was passed that there was to be no fast time this year, the railroads and some others put their clocks on, no matter what the law was. Of course, the old time suits the farmers, all right. There was so much confusion last year between the fast time and slow out here. There is a lot of trouble about strikes in our country now, and it does seem as if the workingman is boss of the country, when they could stop all the daily papers printed in Winnipeg, onl yallowing the labor paper to be published. A lot of people are not getting any papers now at all, because they happened to be subscribing to papers printed in Winnipeg. I do hope that they come to some terms, as it is awful the way things are, but if they do come to terms it won't be long before they will strike again. I would like to speak about the eight-hour day and the high cost of living, but if I do I know that it will be too long and find its way into the W. B.

A COUNTRY WOMAN IN THE CANADIAN WEST.

Ans.—We get most of our glimpses of western conditious through the news columns, so it is interesting, for a change, to hear from our Country Woman in the West. For the sake of the worthy westerners, we do hope their ambition to show her a REAL western grain crop may be amply realized this year.

Another Recitation.

Here's another funny poem for the reciters. The copy is supplied by Tory.

RASTUS' SUNDAY PANTS.

Rastus Johnson Saturday night bought a pair of pants—
Took 'em home with pride to show his mammy, cousins, aunts;
But when Rastus tried 'em on, words grew strong and stronger,
Pants hung down below his shoes a half a yard or longer.

Asked his folks to shorten them, but they answered "No!"
All too busy, so, of course, he couldn't to meeting go.
Went to bed, downcast and sad, no coon e'er felt forlorner;
Grabbed his Sunday meeting pants and fired 'em in the corner.

In the night his mammy woke, pitied Rastus so,
"If dem pants ain't fixed," she said, "he can't to meeting go."
So she cut twelve inches off, pressed and fixed them neatly,
Then she toted back to bed and soon was snoring sweetly.

'Bout an hour after that, lo! Sister Hannah woke,
Thought of Rastus and his pants, and swift slipped on her cloak;
Downstairs then she quickly flew, and never once she flinches,
'Till from those pants she slived and cut another dozen inches.

Clock ticked on, when downstairs crept one of Rastus' aunts,
Swift with needle, scissors, thread, she wrestled with his pants.
Conscience would not let her sleep and downstairs it had brought her,
And, when she quit, those hoodooed pants were sixteen inches shorter.

The scene when Rastus tried them on no circus e'er could beat,
The pants reached somewhere round his neck, instead of round his feet.
They came in handy just the same, at least so run the rumors,
Rastus' sister Liza Jane is wearing them for bloomers.

The I. B. C. Picnic.

Dear Miss Grey,—Could you tell me if the date for the Irishmen's picnic has been set, and where they are going to hold it, and oblige, CHATTERBOX.

Ans.—As yet the date has not been settled, Chatterbox. The place will likely be Port Stanley, but no doubt you will notice all particulars announced later on in The Advertiser.

She's a Nice Infant.

Dear Miss Grey,—May I creep in for a second, and I do hope you are not offended at me for asking for your picture in the paper?

While reading the paper yesterday I noticed where Mr. C. W. was asking for some songs, so I am sending two. Hope they are what she wants. Cincerely, BABE.

Ans.—Dear Infant, of course I was not offended, but I just had to speak sternly to sound emphatic. Like the young man who wrote a letter in very large handwriting to his old mother, "because she was deaf"—see? Shall send your song copies on to Mrs. C. W., most gladly.

Go to It, C. A.

Dear Miss Grey,—It is with the greatest of pleasure that I received your reply, and the compliments from Calamity Ann. I wonder where she got her name. Out in the Black Hills, when I was a boy, there was a noted character called Calamity Jane. She's up in heaven now, sitting on the right hand of St. Peter in the old armchair—if she hasn't gone to the other place. And her body rests in her grave, buried by the side of Wild Bill.

The other day I was over in the United States. Gee, but I did see some fine looking Yankee girls, and I fell in love with every one of them (me a bachelor). On my way home, just after I had passed the immigration officers for inspection, and had mounted a street car to catch my train home, behold I did see a splendid-looking soldier, with a coat hanging over his right arm that had seen hard service. He got off and I saw him no more. "Did you see that coat?" I said to a man that sat next to me. "Yes," he replied. "He belongs to the famous 18th that just came over." We got to our depot, and there was a long train full of soldiers, Americans, just getting home from overseas. My companion told me: "Just look at them big, broad-chested, clean-looking, young fellows; did you ever see a finer bunch?" "I never did," I replied. Miss Grey, you just ought to have seen them. Your heart of stone would have melted like butter in the hot sun. And you would have fallen in love with every one of them, as me as I did with those Yankee girls.

Calamity Ann, if I ever get to see you, there is going to be some hair pullin'. You've done gone and let the cat out of the bag. I didn't want to give the Americans too much credit, while everyone else over here in Canada was running them down, in regards to who won the war, and moving picture films and that letter of yours just settled everything. Didn't you know, Ann, the Yankees beat the world for strategy? Little did the Germans care how many British, French, Canadians, and Belgians came against them, they cared no more for them than though they were rain drops. But when the Americans came into war, all they had to do was to have their pictures taken, and the war was over! Kinda funny we Canadians can't see through these things, isn't it, Ann? Very sincerely, A. E.

Ans.—How amusing you are, A. E.! Nearly enough sb to melt my heart of stone without any American soldiers. If I wanted to I could be horrid, and say I'd rather have a stony heart than a soft head, to be so easily turned by a few attractive ladies, but there—you told me before that I should remain neutral, so I'll not make any retort, but just leave you to C. A.'s tender mercies.

Just a Square Deal.

Miss C. Grey's Mail-Box.—In reply to you, A. E., I wish to state you are mistaken in thinking there is no one on this side to take up the American cause. I wrote that my letter was not printed during the recent war of letters between Canadians and Americans as to who won the war. I kept silent, as my belief is that anyone who is true to their own country, loving it as they should, would not say or write insulting things about any other country. But at last there was printed a letter from a person who said she was Another Yankee. So full of insults about us Americans that both my daughter and I wrote with the above results. In those letters we had no word or hint of any insult to Canada and Canadians; they were based on true facts. Now I am pleased to read a letter once in a while from a true Canadian; in them we Americans get our due; all we want, by the way, is a square deal. But I think the writers who have written those letters full of insults to Americans, judged all Americans by a few who wrote without thinking, for you know it is very hard to hear and read what some Canadian papers and people have said about us. But now the war in the M. B. is over, and I am sure everyone is glad. As far as who won the war, the Allies won, and it took us women at home to help, as well as all the men. And when you know true Americans you will find we are not bonsters or cowards, but just as much alike true Canadians as two peas.

I wonder how many of the readers read Irvin S. Cobb's American defence about the soldiers who were accused of drunkenness and other vile things? He said in part, that they had higher moral standard than the men of any army of any other nation engaged in this war, and when I speak of our soldiers I mean the soldiers of Canada as well. As for drunkenness, anyone saying the soldiers had contracted habits of drunkenness utter deliberate and slanderous lies, and the truth is not in him. So to that writer who said we Americans could not expect to have Canadian papers praise us, you, are forty years behind the times, and learn to live and let live. A TYPICAL AMERICAN.

P.S.—One of the writers to the Mail-Box asked for a good hair tonic. The one below I have found very good, having lost my hair from "flu." Massage a little into the scalp three times a week: Quinine, 1 dram; pilocparine, 2½ grains; salicylic acid, 15 grains; lanolin, ½ ounce; petroiaum, ½ ounce.

This is a good help to anyone who is getting grey, as it has turned my hair that is coming in darker.

A TYPICAL AMERICAN.

Ans.—Regarding the previous letter of Typical American, I may state that it was not withheld for any particular reason, but such a flood of epistles were received dealing with both sides of the question that some were necessarily not printed. Presumable Typical American's was among this number.

REX SOX BLANK LONDON IN FINAL GAME OF SERIES

Dumb Work on Part of Local Players Makes Fans Disgusted—Score 6 to 0.

[BY BERT B. PERRY.]

The London baseball team went through its usual performance of losing a ball game over at Tecumseh Park Saturday afternoon. This time the score was 6 to 0. Knotty Lee's red stockinged Brantford outfit making it three straight. In this contest the Tecumsehs looked worse than sand-lotters, and the few hundred loyal fans went home thoroughly disgusted with the players and the game.

Probably in no game played here for some time have the weak spots been so glaringly apparent as in Saturday's game. The club was up against good pitching, and no team looks very good when it isn't hitting, but even at that the Tecumsehs are woefully weak with the stick. Only three of the seven hits made Saturday were outfield drives. But, most of all, the players lacked "pepper," and with one or two exceptions there was no fight in them at all. They just went through the motions of a ball game without any apparent interest in the outcome. Manager Hagel was absent, and to all appearances no person was in charge. There was nothing of the "get-together" spirit visible. Even when a good opportunity to get a run or two presented itself, dumb work on the bases threw the chance away.

Estelle Looks Good.

Estelle, Lee's spitballer, was on the mound, and he looked the pick of the Brantford club's pitching department. In only one or two innings was he in any danger, and then the Tecumsehs helped him out by their apathetical work.

"Hank" Gero started for London, and for three innings the game looked like a pitchers' battle. In the fourth, though, the Red Sox found their batting eye, and Hank was pounded all over the lot. In this inning two doubles, a triple and a single netted only two runs, the three-play smash coming in between the two doubles. At that, poor fielding was to blame for the extra base clouts; Lipski, a catcher, playing right field, and misjudging both hits, one of which should have been an easy out. A hit, a stolen base and a single to left brought another run in the fifth, and in the sixth Walker hit a home run, the first of the season on the home grounds, when he drove the ball to deep left. Gurskey didn't push himself very hard in fielding it, and ordinarily it would have gone for a triple at the most.

Tanner Finishes It.

Gero and Milligan retired from the game, and Tanner and Lipski formed the battery when the seventh started. The Red Sox scored twice more in this frame. Johnny Murphy started with a double, and scored on Brady's single. The latter got to third on a sacrifice and an infield out, and scored on M. Murphy's infield hit. In the eighth and ninth the Brants went out in order.

Here are a few samples of the kind of stuff the local players were pulling off. In the first inning, Grodick singled and got to second safely when Johnny Murphy failed to touch him as he sped past after Murphy fielded Lipski's grounder. Lipski arrived at first safely, Murphy gumming up what looked like a sure double play. There was one down and Pittinger at bat. Pittinger missed a third strike and Lipski was nailed a yard off first base on Witry's peg to Lotshaw.

Gurney Sleeps on Second.

In the fifth, Frank Gurney got an infield hit and went to second when Brady pegged wild to Lotshaw. A few moments later Gurney was caught a mile off second, when Witry pegged down to Murphy, and he was an easy out.

In the eighth, Koster started with a single, and Foster was safe on Minardo's boot. Tanner fanned, and Vermilly flied to centre. Grodick, however, laid down a grounder that Estelle couldn't get in time, but Koster solved the Brantford player's trouble by rounding third and trying for the plate, although Estelle was standing close to the line with the ball. And yet some of these fellows call themselves ball players.

McINTYRE'S RINK AGAIN WINS ST. THOMAS TOURNEY

Two Rinks Will Play at London Rowing Club Tuesday For Times-Journal Trophy.

ST. THOMAS, June 15.—The weekly tournament at the local lawn bowling greens was a decided success, held on Friday evening under ideal weather conditions, and with a large turnout. It could not have been a more entertaining event.

Even the storm early in the afternoon did not mar the proceedings in any way, for by some trick of fortune the rain did not wet the grounds at all. McIntyre's rink again took stellar honors. They made a total score of 39. There were seven points against them, making a net plus score of 32. Dr. Smith's rink took second prize.

A couple of strong rinks will visit London on Tuesday to play a challenge game at the London Rowing Club for the Times-Journal trophy. The scores:

TWO PLAYERS JUMP TEAM BUT MORE ARE SIGNED UP

Lipski and Malloy Leave London Club Saturday Night—Manager Hagel Signs Some New Men in Chicago —Newark Pitcher Landed.

The London baseball club announced last night that a wire had been received from Manager Ken Hagel stating that he had signed up several new players to strengthen the Tecumsehs. Hagel will rejoin the club at Hamilton tomorrow. He has been in Chicago over Sunday, and his efforts have resulted in landing "Turk" Riley, Frank Wottell and "Buster" Kean. Riley and Wottell are outfielders who are strongly recommended, and above all are good hitters. Kean is a first sacker and was with Pittsburg and Cincinnati in the National League.

A Southpaw From Newark.

Manager Patsy Donovan of the Newark International League Club has turned Pitcher Terhune over to the London club. The deal was made Saturday night and Terhune will join the team Tuesday at Hamilton. He is a southpaw. Outfielder Mitchell, who was with the club in the series at Kitchener, but was called home, will report again today and play in the games at Hamilton.

Two Players Jump.

It was rumored yesterday that several players had expressed their intention of jumping the club, but only two of them have done so. Catcher Lipski and Pitcher Malloy have returned to their homes, and as a result have been suspended by the local management. Saturday was pay-day, and as soon as they received their money they jumped a train.

At Hamilton Today.

The team leaves this morning for a week's stay on the road. They will open a three-game series at Hamilton this afternoon. On Thursday they go to Brantford for three games, and then return to London for the week of June 23, playing Kitchener and Hamilton six games at Tecumseh Park.

IT WAS TOO LATE WHEN CUSTERS SOLVE SCHWARTJE

Saginaw Won Sunday Game From Battle Creek by Getting a Good Lead in Early Innings.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., June 15.—By the time Battle Creek solved Schwartje's delivery this afternoon it was too late, Saginaw having acquired a four-run lead at the start. An eighth inning batting rally was staged, but star fielding by Dodson and Cleich ended it far too soon for the big crowd of fans in the stands. In fact, Saginaw's fielding was the best seen here this season. The Aces' two runs in the first inning were due to Pike's hit, Wetzel's sacrifice, Weinberg's walk and steal, and a single by Gleich.

In the second Dodson singled, McDanile walked and Schwartje hit safely, scoring Dodson, the squeeze play bringing in McDaniel. In six innings Battle Creek failed to hit Schwartje safely, largely due to the fast fielding behind him. The score:

ORIENTS BEAT KNIGHTS IN SPRINGBANK LEAGUE

Flint and Nopper Have Pitchers' Battle, But Latter Is Given Poor Support in the Pinches.

The Orients outplayed the Knights of Columbus at Springbank Saturday afternoon in a Springbank League fixture, the score being 4 to 2.

Until the eighth inning, the score was two all. Then the K. of C. players tossed the game away, errors allowing the Orients two runs. It was a pitched battle between Nopper and Flint, the former having eight strikeouts and the latter six. The Orients gave Flint better support than his opponent got, the Knights making six errors behind Nopper.

Alfie Gatecliffe appeared with the Knights and showed his old-time "pep" by getting a hit and stealing a couple of bases. The score:

HEFTER'S ERRORS GIVE HAMS WINNING RUN

Kitchener Drops Third Straight to Shaughnessy's Club by Loose Playing—Rose Pitched Well.

HAMILTON, June 14. — Hamilton made it three straight from Kitchener by taking today's game 5 to 4. Kitchener took an early lead, and in the fifth got three runs when Hefter walked, Westlake hit safely to right, and Rose hit to deep left for three bases. The other run of the inning was scored when Donnelly dropped Kyle's fly to right field.

Hamilton scored two runs in the sixth on hits, and Hefter's error, and two more came in the seventh on hits, and another error by Hefter. Behan pitched great ball for the Shagmen, and allowed but four hits.

PARIS, 2; VETERANS, 1.

BRANTFORD, June 15.—Brantford Great War Veterans put up a rattling good game at Paris in the Brantford district of the W. F. A. on Saturday, but the Paris team were slightly more fortunate, winning 2-1.

In Brantford the Brantford United defeated the Holmedale United, overwhelmingly whitewashing them, 5-0.

SOUTHPAW TANNER JUMPSLONDONCLUB

Local Boy Who Looked Like One of Club's Best Pitchers, Says He Hasn't Had a Fa ir Show Since Joining the Local Mint Leaguers.

BY BERT B. PERRY.

Pitcher Gordon Tanner, the London boy, is the latest player to jump the Tecumsehs. Tanner did not join the team this morning when it left for Hamilton, and he stated later that he is through with the club. He will probably return to Detroit, where he has resided for the past nine years.

Tanner is a southpaw, and although he only pitched one full game for the Tecumsehs, he looked very good. Local fans cannot understand why he was not given an opportunity to work a full game at Tecumseh Park. Both times he was put in the box here, he went in as a relief pitcher when the game was lost beyond redemption. And on each occasion he looked like a good pitcher, the visiting club doing little or nothing to his slants. In the only game he went nine innings, he held Kitchener to a small score and should have won.

Used Mostly for Batting Practice.

In giving his reasons for leaving the London club, Tanner states that he hasn't had a fair show since he came to the Tecumsehs. He has been mostly used as a batting practice pitcher, and the only opportunities he has had to show the fans what he could do have been given him when it was too late to win the game.

"It is pretty discouraging to work for a team under those conditions," he said, "and I have decided to return to Detroit and play semi-pro ball. I could land a job with any of the other clubs in the league, but I would rather play for London if I remained in the circuit."

Players Dissatisfied.

There is a great deal of dissatisfaction on the London club among the players and the local directors ought to get busy and get to the bottom of the trouble. Another change in the management of the club might go a long way in helping matters. Hagel, while a good ball player and one who is doing all in his power to get a good team, seems to have lost the confidence of many of the players. There is no discipline on the club, and only three or four of the younger players are making any effort to keep in condition.

DE PALMA BREAKS WORLD'S RECORD FOR FIFTY MILES

Famous Auto Racer Sets New Mark by Winning Sheepshead Bay Event.

NEW YORK, June 14. — Ralph De Palma, taking the lead in the thirteenth mile of a 50-mile international race at the Sheepshead Bay track today, broke all world's records for 50 miles, winning by a margin of a third of a lap in 26 minutes 23 2-10 seconds.

The previous record for the distance was 26 minutes 57 3-10 seconds, made by Louis Chevrolet, over the same track, September 22, 1917. De Palma alternated in second and third positions with Ralph Mulford leading for the first twelve miles, but on the lap shot to the front and never was headed. He crossed the finish two-thirds of a mile ahead of Dave Lewis and Joe Boyer, who finished second and third, only a few feet apart.

At 30 miles, De Palma's time was 15 minutes 63½ seconds, wiping out the new world's time of 16 minutes, 20 3-5 seconds, made by Mulford in another race scarcely an hour previously. His time for 40 miles was 21:39 4-10, and his average speed for the 50 miles was 114.5 miles and hour.

The times and scorers did not announce what time De Palma made for intermediate distances, but it will be announced officially early next week.

Dario Resta had engine trouble at the start and quit the race on the first lap. Ira Vail retired for a similar cause in the fourth.

Four races, two at 10 miles each, one at 30 miles and the 50-mile event made up the program. Mulford won the 30 and one of the 10-mile races in a Frontenac, the other 10-mile event being won by Thomas Milton in a Duesenburg.

GRACE DIRECT MEETS SYMBOL FOREST AT MT. CLEMENS TODAY

Two Fast Mares Are Entered For 2:10 Pace, and Exciting Contest Is Expected.

MOUNT CLEMENS, June 15.—The record-breaking entry list accorded the race meeting at Clinton View Park, starting on Monday afternoon, speaks volumes. Among the entrants of the week are some of the best and most consistent harness performers of the country, and among them the holder of the season's pacing record in a race over a two-lap track, viz., Grace Direct, 2:06¼.

This grand race mare will appear on Monday in the 2:10 pacing stake, and will meet the fast and game Symbol S. Forest from Oklahoma, and a heat-winner at the Detroit meeting this past week, and who, in the minds of many horsemen, will give her a sterling contest over the billiard table track at Clinton View Park. The Forest horse became the property of a syndicate of Detroit horsemen this week for a reported price of $6,000.

Among the notable horses present at the track is the great William, 1:58½, in the stable of W. W. Marvin of Indiana, who is preparing him for another trip down the big line, where he meets the fastest pacers in the world. Mr. Marvin is going along slowly with him until he gradually gets in form for the hard task set for him.

TODAY'S ENTRIES.

Monday's entries are as follows:

2:24 trot, $500—Bingen Bells, Jolla Simmons, Georgia Regina, Jay Commodore, Uhlan Brooke, Lucille Mobel, Direct Mobel, Abbie Mack, Lightsome Watts, Lula May, Peter LaFayette, Nancy Wilgo, Alan-a-Dale, Lulu S., The Futurity, Calumet Grattan, Phyllis Admiral, Morgan Worthy.

2:10 pace, $1,000—Comet Wilkes, Cliff Moquette, Double G., Dude Highwood, Dropwood, Fuzzy Chatham, Grace Direct, Hanley B., J. Y. Manager, Lucy T., Mussell Shell, Symbol Forest, Joe McK., Martin C., Nancy, Maud C., Roy Grattan, Sister Notre, Willow Hal.

2:15 pace, $500—Essie V., Joe Hamilton, Star Patchen Jun., Horace McKerron, Cherry Willis, Marda Wilkes, Harry Dean, Capt. Heir-at-Law, Bennie Floyd and Robert Page.

YANKS LOSE LEAGUE LEADERSHIP SUNDAY

Browns Win in Pitching Battle Between Shocker and Quinn.

NEW YORK, June 15.—The Yankees lost the league leadership today when St. Louis won a pitching battle between Shocker and Quinn, decided by Jacobson's triple, which scored Demmitt, who had been hit with a pitched ball, for the only run of the game.

Shocker yielded five hits and Quinn eight, but none of the St. Louis hits came in the same inning. The score:

		R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0	1	8	2
New York	0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0	0	5	1

Shocker and Severoid; Quinn and Hannah.

TIGERS DEFEAT SENATORS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 15.—Opportune hitting at the expense of Ayers, together with Washington's errors, enabied Detroit to win today's game by a score of 8 to 5. Only one of the Tigers' runs was earned, Washington making a total of six errors. The score:

		R.	H.	E.
Detroit	2 0 0 0 1 0 5 0 0	8	10	2
Washington	0 0 0 3 0 0 0 0 2	5	10	6

Ehmke and Stanage; Ayers, Whitehouse and Gharrity.

Only two games scheduled.

LISTOWEL WINS HOUGH CUP SERIES

STRATFORD, June 14.—Stratford played a tie game with New Dundee in the W. F. A. junior series on Saturday evening, neither team being able to score.

Listowel won the Hough cup series on Saturday afternoon by defeating the Woodstock College by a score of 1 to 0. The teams were pretty evenly matched. In the first part of the game the Listowel team had the best combination, but in the last period Woodstock showed an improvement.

GIANTS DEFEAT CUBS IN HARD STRUGGLE

Benny Kauff's Batting Feature of Game.

CHICAGO, June 15.—New York defeated Chicago, 5 to 4, in ten innings today in one of the hardest fought games of the season. Benny Kauff's batting, he obtaining five hits in as many times at bat, two of which were doubles, and his speed on the bases were the main factors in the Giants' victory. Kauff scored the winning run in the tenth, hitting a double and coming home on Zimmerman's single.

WATEROUS CLUB WINS; NOW LEAGUE LEADERS

Won Saturday's Game by a One-Run Margin—Slingsbys Defeat Paris.

BRANTFORD, June 15. — In the O. A. B. A. schedule here on Saturday, two exciting games were played, the winners being the Waterous club against Veritys and the Slingsbys over Paris. In each game, it was a nip-and-tuck affair and the winners had a one-run margin only.

Strong defence work by Waterous and the extra base hitting of Paris were the features. The Waterous club are now the league leaders. The scores:

AN AMERICAN BUYS TWO THOROUGHBREDS FROM GUELPH DEALER

GUELPH, June 15.—E. B. Clancey of the New Wellington Hotel, the well-known owner of racing thoroughbreds, has disposed of two of his valuable string of thoroughbreds to an American horse breeder. The purchaser is S. L. Depew, of Pontiac, Mich., nephew of Senator Chauncey Depew of New York, who came to Guelph on Friday for the purpose of looking over the Clancey horses.

Mr. Dpeew was so pleased with the animals that he closed a deal within fifteen minutes after looking the horses over. The two are Kingsgift, a 2-year-old, by Anmer, the well-known sire formerly owned by His Majesty King George, and Miss Morgan, the latter being the dam of Kingsgift.

WHITNEY WINS CHAMPIONSHIP.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 14.—Nelson Whitney of New Orleans today won the trans-Mississippi golf championship by defeating Richard Bockenkamp of St. Louis in a thrilling 40-hole match.

DEMPSEY HAS PROVED HE CAN STAND WALLOP

His Early Bouts Were Gruelling Contests in Which Heavyweight Challenger Had To Stand Some Awful Punching.

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

It must provoke a few snickers within the snickering apparatus of Jack Dempsey when some of the hoi-polloi, speculating on the outcome of his battle with Jess Willard, ask:

"Can Dempsey take a punch—and come back for another?"

If ever a man took punches—and some awful ones—in the upward climb to the pugilistic heights, that man is Dempsey. The Utah youngster assembled more beatings than any topnotch heavyweight of any time. Absolutely untrained in the art of defence, Dempsey knew nothing about the science of blocking, sidestepping and the other tricks that ringmen use during the novitiate period. He was familiar with only one method of winning—slugging until he dropped the other fellow—or was dropped himself.

Dempsey Can Stand Gaff.

Uninformed persons claim that "Dempsey never has had to stand the gaff." None familiar with Dempsey's early history would ever make such a statement. For through the inaugural months of his fistic career, the meteoric heavyweight took untold gaffing—and through it all showed courage and gameness sublime. If you are skeptical about Dempsey's ability to take a punch, two punches, a dozen punches, a hundred punches, and keep going back for more, shoo away that feeling. For Dempsey is the ultimate in taking beatings—and then punching his way to victory.

Perhaps the most spectacular battle of Jack Dempsey's career was in 1915, when he fought Johnny Sudenberg. The latter wasn't heralded much in the east, but was touted through the west as a prospective world-beater. Big and rugged, with tremendous hitting power and ability to take punishment, aided by more than a fair knowledge of the scientific features of the game, Sudenberg loomed with considerable loom along the pugilistic horizon. Then came the unfortunate day when he took on Jack Dempsey, the "Hobo Battler," a supposed "lemon," ripe for picking.

Dempsey Takes Hard Punching.

Dempsey, as is characteristic of him even now, jumped from his corner with the tap of the first gong and went sailing in at Sudenberg. The latter poked a ripping left to the head and a powerful right hander to the stomach. Dempsey staggered, and Sudenberg dropped him with a right to the jaw. It looked like good-night for Dempsey. But before the count of nine he was up—and right back at his foe. Once again Sudenberg popped him with lefts and rights—and again Dempsey hit the canvas. Seven times in that first round Sudenberg dropped Jack Dempsey. When Dempsey flip-flopped for the seventh time he was a bleeding, battered-looking human. It didn't seem within the bounds of reason that he ever could rise again unassisted. But Jack Dempsey was on his feet before the fatal count of ten sounded, and was battling furiously with Sudenberg when the gong banged the end of the sensational round.

Sudenberg opened the second by slamming Dempsey all around the ring and dropping him repeatedly to the floor. But Dempsey wouldn't stay "dead." Sudenberg attempted desperately to accomplish a knockout and practically wore himself out clubbing Dempsey on the frontispiece and amidship section. He landed oftener on Jack Dempsey in those three rounds than all the foeman have ever landed in all his fights since then. But it didn't stop the Utah hurricane.

Jack Gets the Decision.

Along about the fifth round, Sudenberg, tired and weary from hitting Dempsey, slowed up. And then Jack started on his merry slugging way. He began driving punches to the head and body of Sudenberg, and before the tenth—and final round—arrived, Dempsey had more than evened up on the knockdowns and was awarded the decision.

Terry Keller was in his prime when he first met Jack Dempsey. And Terry at that time was quite a swatter. Dempsey was a boob—so Keller thought. Terry lunged out and hammered Jack with everything but the ring posts. He had Dempsey groggy, staggering and bleeding—but Dempsey never stopped boring in. Keller dropped Jack in the fourth with a terrific wallop to the jaw, but Dempsey hopped onto his feet again, weathered a few more storms and then—in the tenth—victory went to the "hopelessly beaten" Jack Dempsey.

Dempsey Meets Lester Johnson.

Then there was Dempsey's fight with John Lester Johnson—another example of Dempsey's courage. John Lester had acquired considerable reputation around Gotham parts. He whipped most of the dark warriors, and was so good that the pale-faced boys passed him by. But not so with Jack Dempsey. Johnson was quite a shifty individual, fast afoot, fast of arm, endowed with more than average scientific ability, and with a punch like a mule's kick. And Dempsey was just a slugging kid. Knowing but one fashion of fighting, he followed its dictates. He rushed the negro. And right then and there Jack Dempsey began to run into more left jabs than he supposed existed in the whole world.

Every time John Lester poked out his long left, Jack pushed his face against it—with damaging results. But the merciless jabbing of the negro couldn't halt Dempsey and he continued boring in.

Dempsey Breaks Three Ribs.

In the third John Lester put all of his bulk into a fearful right hander that went crashing on the portside of Jack Dempsey's framework. The result was three broken ribs—each bending inward and ripping and gashing Dempsey with every movement afterward. It must have caused him fearful agony at the time. But Jack Dempsey wouldn't quit. He fought through the ten rounds with Johnson and although he rushed with less vigor and hit with less steam through the final seven, he made a showing that brought cheers from the audience which didn't know he was crippled.

It was two months before Jack Dempsey's ribs, smashed in that fight, had mended sufficiently to enable him to take even mild exercise.

Is Dempsey game—and can he take a wallop?

Breezy Bits About the Battlers

Lew Tendler's sensational one-round victory over George Chaney last week makes him the logical contender for the crown now worn by Benny Leonard.

The Philadelphia southpaw star is still a youngster, being just 21 years old, but has been fighting for almost five years. The record book does not mark a defeat against him in his whole career, and last year he took part in 20 fights, winning four by knockouts.

Johnny Dundee, the fast Italian lightweight, and Benny Leonard, the lightweight champion, have been practically matched to meet in a six-round bout at an open air boxing show at the Olympia A.A. of Philadelphia, in the National League Base Ball Park in that city on the night of June 23 or 28.

Jack Sharkey, Detroit's adopted bantamweight, made an excellent showing against Pal Moore last week at Racine, Wis., in the last fight that Moore will have in his country before leaving for England to fight Jimmy Wilde. He held Moore to a 10-round draw, some critics even giving him the decision.

It is reported from Minneapolis that Tex Rickard, promoter of the Willard-Dempsey fight, has asked Billy Miske to meet the winner of the Fourth of July battle on Labor Day. As stated the report does not originate with Rickard, but in Minneapolis, which is the home of Miske.

It would be foolish for Rickard to think that he could get the heavyweight champion, whether Willard or Dempsey, in the ring so soon as Labor Day in a championship fight. Miske evidently is not being considered so very seriously for Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, has asked to help get Dempsey in condition the last week or 10 days before the big fight.

Mike Gibbons, St. Paul's middleweight star, has been matched with Harry Greb for a 10-round bout at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, June 23. Both have already accepted terms for the match. They will weigh in at 160 pounds.

The proposed fight between Ritchie Mitchell and Jack Britton, welterweight champion, at Milwaukee June 16, may have to be postponed because of an injury to Mitchell. Johnny Dundee and Charley White will probably be signed to fill the bill.

Mike Collins, former manager of Fred Fulton, but now a fight promoter in Minneapolis, has offered a purse of $7,000 for a 10-round fight between Tom Gibbons and Billy Miske. Gibbons has already accepted the offer, but Miske is still to be heard from.

Rossford, Ohio, a suburb of Toledo, is going to put on a show in opposition to the Willard-Dempsey fight, and should draw a good crowd. On the evening of July 3, Rossford plans to have Battling Levinsky meet Billy Miske. An arena seating 10,000 persons has been erected for the purpose.

Benny Leonard is due to pull down some more soft coin Monday evening, when he takes on Charley Pitts, a good lightweight of New England, in a 10-round bout at Montreal. Leonard is billed for a busy summer.

Being too popular has its faults just as much as the other extreme. Take the case of Billy Miske for instance. He has been billed by half a dozen promoters at once, and has finally crossed himself up on a couple of dates, getting matched with Bill Brennan in St. Louis and Kid Norfolk in Pittsburgh within a day of each other.

WOODSTOCK VETERANS STILL CONTINUE TO BE VICTORIOUS

Two Casualties in Game—A Pitching Battle Between Muir and Bond.

WOODSTOCK, June 15.—The G. W. V. A. semi-pro baseball team continued their string of victories Saturday, when they defeated Harvey Muir's ball team from Hamilton by 4 to 3.

It was a pitchers' battle between the Veteran Muir and the local southpaw, Bond, with honors about even. The game was punctuated with casualties. Catcher Gordon of Hamilton was forced to retire with a broken finger in the sixth inning, while the local catcher, Tree, was replaced owing to a split finger.

You Need Every Dollar Your Money Can Earn

In these days of high living cost you can't afford to take merely 3% to 5% on your money.

That was all right ten years ago.

But 5% then was the same as 7% now.

The institution that uses your money is getting more for its product or services, and paying more for labor, but it is not paying more for the use of your money if it gives you only 3%. You cannot afford to take less than 6% to 7%; you have a right to 6% to 7%.

CYCLONE TEARS OFF ROOFS IN WINNIPEG CITY

Heavy Damage to Property Reported—Three Persons Injured.

WINNIPEG, June 15.—A severe wind and electrical storm resulted in heavy damage here last night. The loss is as yet unestimated, but it will run into many thousands of dollars.

Three persons, including former Chief of Police D. MacPherson, were slightly injured.

Several buildings, among them St. John's Technical College, were unroofed and otherwise damaged; plate glass fronts in downtown buildings were demolished, telephone, electric light and trolly wires and poles in the western and northern sections of the city were blown down, and billboards and safety islands were picked up and carried off.

TRANSPORT WORKERS OF PARIS RESUMING THEIR WORK TODAY

Some Claims Conceded and Some Rejected—Clemenceau Turns Trick.

PARIS, June 14.—The strike of transport workers was called off tonight, and work will be resumed by all companies on Monday.

The workers having appealed to Premier Clemenceau, the latter conferred late this afternoon with municipal representatives, the directors of transport companies, and a workers' delegation. Some claims of the workers were conceded and others were rejected, but the premier appealed to the strikers' patriotism and justice, pointing out the necessity for union and concord at the present grave juncture. It was in response to his appeal that decision was reached to resume work.

NO STRIKE CALL AT BRANTFORD YET; MAY HAVE CONFERENCE

Feeling Is Hopeful — Every Effort Being Made To Avoid It.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

BRANTFORD, June 15.—Despite the official announcement of the metal trades council here on Saturday that a strike in the metal trades was unavoidable, owing to the fact that the manufacturers had refused to grant better than a 48-hour week, which was already in force, no strike call has been issued, and the situation is uncertain. Every effort is being made for a further conference, and there is a hopeful feeling that the same will be held. Leaders in the strike movement here decline to say when the walk-out will be precipitated.

FRENCH MINERS IN GENERAL STRIKE TODAY

PARIS, June 14. — The general strike of the members of the Miners' Federation will take place Monday, it was announced today by M. Barber, general superintendent of the federation.

Vanderbilt's Tchad Wins French Derby

PARIS, June 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—William K. Vanderbilt's Tchad today won the French derby at the Longchamps course. Robert Lasard's Hallebardier was second, and E. K. Nayan's Master Good, third.

ISRAEL'S RINK IS HIGH AT THISTLE MATINEE

Vice-President Taylor Skips the Winning Combination in Saturday Afternoon Session.

Israel Taylor, vice-president of the Thistle bowlers, put a stop to "Bill" Braunton's winning habit last Saturday afternoon by nosing Bill out by the closest of margins. Both Taylor and Braunton won all their games, and with the same plus score. But, on comparing the score cards, it was found that Mr. Taylor had made the highest aggregate score of points in the three games, and he was therefore awarded first prize.

The regular Monday evening tournament will be held tonight, the draw being made at 7:15. Many late comers were left out last Monday night, so telephone your entry in early. Saturday's score:

1,500 MEN WILL REPLACE THOSE OUT ON STRIKE

No Serious Disturbance of Traffic Expected by Action of "Illegal Strikers."

MORE ARRESTS ARE MADE

Railway Brotherhood's Mediation Board Cannot Promise Quick Settlement.

WINNIPEG, June 15. — Definite information as to the number of running trades union employees who "withdrew their services" was unobtainable tonight, but officers of the international brotherhoods and of railway companies expressed belief that the movement was a failure, and that no serious disturbance of traffic may be expected. Vice-President James Murdock, of the brotherhood of railway trainmen, admitted, however, that a "considerable number from all three railways" seemingly had gone out. He thought the Canadian Government railways would be most affected. Other union officers declared that 1,500 union men could, and would, be used to replace "illegal strikers" if necessary.

Will Disqualify Strikers.

Following up their announcement that the international unions would maintain proper obligations with railway companies under any circumstances, Mr. Murdock declared that every man who struck will be disqualified. Where the majority of a lodge are on strike, or a lodge refuses to expel striking members, brotherhood charters will be promptly withdrawn, he stated.

With the exception of special excursion trains to the Winnipeg Beach pleasure resort and workmen's trains running between the suburb of Transcona and Winnipeg, which were temporarily removed from service by railway officials, all trains left on schedule time.

No Statement From Mayor.

Mayor Gray failed to give out the important statement promised yesterday, which it was intimated at the city hall would probably have a bearing on the settlement of the strike.

During the past few days energetic efforts have resulted in the rounding-up of a number of men alleged to be responsible for attacks on special returned soldier constable. More arrests are promised.

The railway brotherhoods' mediation board, which was induced by Senator Robertson and others to make another effort to settle points in dispute between the metal workers and employers, the original cause of the sympathetic strike, has again virtually abandoned hope of bringing about a settlement, Chairman Barker stated. Conferences are continuing, however.

No Cars Running.

The street railway system having failed to resume operations, City Solicitor Hunt is to report to the city council tomorrow as to the city's right to allow jitney services. If the report is favorable it is expected that service will be established Tuesday.

LONDON GLOBE HAS A NEW ASPIRANT TO BRITISH PREMIERSHIP

Duke of Northumberland Is Being Boosted.

LLOYD GEORGE SLIPPING

Welshman Is Opposed From Many Angles, But on No Common Ground.

[By Arthur S. Draper.]

(Copyright, 1919, by N. Y. Tribune.)

LONDON, June 16.—Dissatisfaction with Lloyd George which found expression in the Conservative organs and the Northcliffe press has been followed by a boom started by the Globe for the Duke of Northumberland for premier. The duke's stout stand against Robert Smillie while a witness in the local hearing and his powerful attack upon the scheme for the nationalization of mines have won him the support of the Tories, who are looking for a real leader for their own party.

That the duke's boom will go far at the present time seems most unlikely, though there is no doubt he is rapidly becoming one of the leaders of Conservative opinion. Lloyd George is undergoing severe criticism because of dissatisfaction of the Tories with his policy at Paris, but the opposition to him has been unable thus far to reach a common ground.

Duke on Ascendancy.

The Duke of Northumberland succeeded to his title during the war upon the death of his father, and became one of Great Britain's greatest landowners, possessing large coal properties. His record in the war office has been exceptionally good, and he has attained some reputation as a public speaker. His brother, Lord Eustace Percy, who was defeated recently in a bye-election, is considered a Radical as compared to the duke. Lord Eustace Percy is one of the chief advocates along with Lord Robert Cecil of the League of Nations.

According to the Morning Post, Lloyd George has quarelled too seriously for any reconciliation with the official Liberals. "He rests mainly upon Unionist support, and he finds himself out of sympathy with Unionist feeling," says the Post. The Conservatives fear that after the peace treaty has been signed, the premier will lean so far towards the Liberals and Labor that they will be left stranded. Hence their desire to find a leader of their own political faith.

188 MEN ARE SLAIN IN STRIKE CLASH IN WESTERN HUNGARY

Frequent Meetings Held in Protest Against Food Conditions.

BUDAPEST, Friday, June 13 (by the Associated Press).—During an attempt to put down a strike near Sambarkeek, Western Hungary, 10 railway men were killed. The strike is continuing.

The soviet is nearing its second internal issue. The steel, baker and other unions are holding frequent meetings of protest, often five daily, regarding food, as their money does not buy sufficient upon which to live. The price of geese, chickens and ducks has risen to $60 each.

M. Agoston, who, with the exception of Premier Garbai, was the only non-Jew member of the Government, has tendered his resignation.

WALL STREET.

New York, June 16—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—The one noteworthy incident at the irregular opening of today's stock market was a reaction of 1¼ points in United States Steel, which was among the new strong features of last Saturday's session. Otherwise changes were limited mostly to fractions, rails showing a lower trend with such industrials as United States Rubber and leather issues. Before the end of the first half hour the reversal became more general, due mainly to free offerings of oils and related speculative shares.

WHOLESALE GROCERS' ASSOCIATION WANTS NO PRICE-CUTTING

Bent Upon Safeguarding the Manufacturers.

EVIDENCE BEFORE M.P.s

"Startling Facts," Says H. H. Stevens—Looks Like "Restraint of Trade."

OTTAWA, June 14.—Some facts with regard to a case of alleged restraint of trade were brought out at the sitting of the cost of living commission of the Commons this morning. They were placed before the commission by H. H. Stevens, the president, in the absence of Mr. Nicholson. He read a letter from the York Trading Company, importers and wholesale grocers, of Toronto, which said that in May last a charter was obtained from the Provincial Government, and business was commenced.

Application was made for membership in the wholesale grocers' organization. Notices were sent to a number of manufacturers advising them of the formation of the company, and requesting to be supplied with their price lists and terms. Copies of replies from them were sent to the cost of living commission, and the York Trading Company says:

Must Join Association.

"It will be seen that although they would be charmed to supply the new company, the personnel and membership being well known to many of the manufacturers, they were unable to do so until it was admitted into full membership in the wholesale grocers' organization."

Regardless of repeated requests for a speedy reply, this organization still delayed its final decision.

The letter goes on to say that officers of the York Trading Company waited upon the president of the wholesalers' organization, and "the reason for delaying the decision appeared to be the fear of further competition, and the cutting of prices on the part of the new company; in fact, the assertion was even made by him that the organization had to maintain and safeguard the manufacturers' prices."

Withhold Their Discounts.

Among the manufacturers' letters, copies of which were sent to the cost of living committee, the Channel Chemical Company wrote, bluntly: "We are unable to extend to you our jobbing accounts." Others replying were the St. Lawrence Starch Company; Eugene Moore, Procter & Gamble Distributing Company; E. W. Gillette Company Limited; F. F. Dalley Corporation; E. Fielding & Son.

Mr. Stevens said these were "rather startling facts, which merit the consideration of the committee." It was decided to examine officers of the Wholesale Grocers' Association and manufacturers mentioned.

W. R. Peck, assistant live stock commissioner, examined as to the Union stockyards in Toronto, said they were really a subsidiary company of the Swifts. Price fixing was in the hands of the big packers.

At the suggestion of Hon. W. S. Fielding it was decided to invite any of the public who cared to be heard to come before the committee and give any evidence they might have.

SERIOUS BOLSHEVIK DISORDERS REPORTED FROM SWITZERLAND

Firing Was Still Going On at Zurich at 9 o'Clock Saturday Night.

PARIS, Saturday, June 14.—Serious anarchist and Bolshevik disorders broke out in Zurich last night at 8 o'clock. Firing was still going on at 9 o'clock, according to a dispatch received here from Geneva.

According to advices received here this morning, the local workmen's union of Zurich, which has a number of extremist members, was holding a meeting in memory of Rosa Luxemburg, when the news was circulated that the secretary of the union, Conrad Wyss, had been arrested on Wednesday. A furious crowd marched upon the prefecture, stoned the windows, broke down solid doors and after an hour of battering, looted the hall of justice and burned the archives in the principal corridor of the building. One of the guards fired on the crowd, his shots being answered.

The casualties are officially given as two persons killed and seventeen wounded. Among the rioters were many German anarchists and communists.

I. O. O. F. LODGE ANNIVERSARY.

RIDGETOWN, June 15. — Forty-five years ago Ridgetown Lodge, No. 141, I. O. O. F., was organized, and has been in a flourishing condition ever since. Some years ago the lodge had one of the best degree teams in Canada. B. W. Wilson, who was present last night, is the only one of the charter members living here.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Just When and How Pure Soap Is a Real Beautifier

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG,
A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University).

DR. HIRSHBERG

Expert opinion is divided as to whether or not soap is to be kept at a respectable distance from the face. Soap, some say, must not be applied to the facial skin, but how that area of the skin is to be cleansed they do not always say.

Soap may be applied to the skin of the face which is subject to the injection of dirt into the pores, to becoming clogged by small particles of foreign substances, as a result of which blackheads and pimples become a second nature to it.

"Pimples come from the circulation of the blood," they tell you in words they cannot explain. True enough, pimples sometimes result from an overabundance of foods such as sweets, starches, crackers, vegetables, pickles, fat and richly-prepared meats. When this is true the rest of the structure, as a rule, suffers from impaired digestion. This may show itself in a coated tongue.

Repairing Blackhead Damages.

Pimples and blackheads may also arise from dirt. The cleanest fingers themselves are dirty and generally transfer foreign particles to the skin, clog up the oil pores, which causes blackheads to form and interfere with the normal work of the perspiration and oil glands.

The blackhead soon brings on the still more unsightly pimple that shows the fats, oil and dirt have become a nesting place of the acne and staphylococcus, the abscess bacterium, which is ever present in the air, water and skin.

To squeeze a pimple or a blackhead is to make bad business worse. The dirt cannot be safely removed from the skin in this injurious way. Moreover, the blood corpuscles in the region of a pimple are ready to come to the surface upon the least provocation to fight the invaders and treaty-breakers, and thus produce greater sores and uglier blotches.

If you do housework, make fires, handle ashes, sweep or dust, keep an imaginary pair of handcuffs on your wrists whenever you have the tendency to draw your hands near your face.

Wash your face frequently with very cold water and castile soap. The soapsuds should be well rubbed into the skin to act as a cleanser and stimulant.

Every now and then, as opportunity offers, you should give your face a thorough massage.

Bathe the face in lukewarm water, gradually increase the heat of the water, and then apply three or four hot towels. The last few applications ought to be as hot as you can bear them. This procedure opens the pores without shocking them.

Press the cloth to the face and hold the hands in such position that the edges of the nose are not hurt. Now gently, without pain, squeeze out the blackheads.

The First Motions.

When you have washed off the soapsuds, apply the cloth as cold as you can bear it. It is well, after that, to "iron" the face with a piece of ice. This tones up all the face muscles. When completed, massage the face with a rotary movement of the fingers dipped into good cold cream.

Although you may be an opponent or an advocate of soap upon the face, the essence of a fair face and its charm depends upon sunlight, fresh air, baths, muscular agility, sufficient sleep in a well-ventilated room, good teeth and a correct diet.

Answers to Health Questions

MRS. C. H. K.: Q.—What shall I do for perspiring feet?

A.—Bathe the feet in formalin, one-half teaspoonful to pint of water. Bathe them each night in warm water, wear non-leather shoes and thin hose. Change the latter every morning.

M. B.: Q.—What can I do for watery eyes and swollen eyelids?

A.—An examination by an oculist surgeon is necessary. Swollen eyelids may be bathed in ice water, packed with ice and bathed with boric acid water.

SULLIVAN: Q.—What is good for a ringworm?

A.—Apply a little ammoniated mercury to the ringworm.

ISABELLE: Q.—Please tell me what to do for blackheads.

A.—Gentle massage with a sterilized piece of absorbent cotton or chamois, followed by the application of a little paste made up with the following will help:

Fuller's earth	4 drams
Vinegar	2 drams
Glycerine	3 drams

J. H. S. A.: A.—If you will send a self-addressed envelope with your query repeated, I will be glad to answer your questions.

FOUR YEARS: Q.—What can I do for dizziness?

A.—Dizziness is caused by middle ear trouble, gall stones, high blood pressure, internal trouble and goitre or enlarged thyroid. You must have an examination made by a careful investigator before proper treatment can be given.

S. K. C. Q.—Kindly tell me what to use to irrigate my throat with.

A.—Irrigate you nose and throat with alkaline antiseptic solution, diluted in water three times.

Q—What can I do for palpitation of the heart?

A.—This is not usually serious, and it is not necessary to take medicine for it. It is only necessary to keep quiet when it occurs, and to lie down. Usually, everybody has it some time or other.

Dr. Hirshberg will answer questions for readers of this paper on medical, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. He cannot always undertake to prescribe or offer advice for individual cases. Where the subject is not of general interest letters will be answered personally if a stamped and addressed envelope is inclosed. Address all inquiries to Dr. L. K. Hirshberg, in care of this office.

MY HEART AND MY HUSBAND
ADELE GARRISON'S NEW PHASE OF REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

What Mrs. Durkee Said To Rita Brown.

To all outward appearance the big touring car which Alfred Durkee had summoned from a neighboring garage held the merriest of care-free parties as we were rushed over the smooth Long Island roads on our way to "The Sand Pile."

But I—who had gleaned from both observation and the confidences of others many facts indicating the true condition of affairs—knew that the laughing faces masked anything but merriment in most of our number.

Edith Fairfax had remained upon the Durkee veranda with my father and Dicky's mother, saying frankly that she had been so long where there was no chance for quiet and beauty that she would not exchange the moonlight and the apple blossoms for the most celebrated entertainment in the world. There was a quiet determination in her voice that told me what long canteen service—often under fire—on the French battlefront had done to develop the timid, shrinking southern art student, whom I had seen roused out of her apparently colorless personality but twice, both times when Dicky was in question.

In Gay Spirits.

That her love for my husband was still flaming within her soul I was sure, although, despite my knowledge that they had for a time been stationed near each other in France, I hugged to my heart the belief that Dicky held for her only a strong brotherly liking.

The innate justice of my nature compelled me to respect and sympathy for Edith Fairfax, even though the primitive jealously which in greater or less degree is hidden in the nature of every woman kept me from the sincere liking I am sure I would have otherwise entertained for the girl.

The contrast between her and her sister was a marked one, although I knew that before Edith's expedition to France the girls had been much alike. But Leila's development was all in the future. She was still essentially immature, inexperienced, and as she sat close beside me in the tonneau of the machine, almost huddled against me, in fact, I had a sudden feeling that she was instinctively shrinking from the proximity of Rita Brown on the other side of her, and that primitive jealousy was awakening the possibilities of her soul.

Rita Brown was in the wildest of spirits. Her laughter, undeniably musical, but loud, bubbled forth at the slightest provocation. She kept up a running fire of raillery with Dicky and Alfred Durkee, who sat facing us in the tonneau, and once challenged Alfred's mother, who had insisted with the pretty fussiness which always gains her point, upon sitting in the front seat with the driver.

"Oh, Mother Durkee!"

"Oh, Mother Durkee!" Rita called audaciously, and then, as my little neighbor vouchsafed no answer, she called again, "Mother Durkee, can't you hear me, or are you so conceited at sitting in the front seat that you don't want to?"

Little Mrs. Durkee gave a low laugh, one in which I, who know her so well, recognized the dainty, malicious note of which she is capable on occasion.

"I never answer when I'm called 'outen my name,'" she said merrily, "it you'd said 'stepmother' now it would have been all right. I'm old enough to be mother to young things like Edith and Leila, but not to Madge or you. I wasn't married in my cradle, you know."

I was cattish enough to feel like clapping my hands. With unerring intuition little Mrs. Durkee had found the weak place in Rita Brown's armor. Uncommonly youthful looking, she had always pretended to be of the same age as the Fairfax girls. It was a pretense which was successful with men, but I had known when I first met her, as indeed would any woman, that the girl's thirtieth birthday was either a thing of the past, the present or the immediate future.

Leila Fairfax, next me, gave a quick, indrawn breath; Dicky, opposite me, unable to chuckle as I knew he must be longing to do, kicked my shoe lightly. Alfred Durkee's face in the moonlight showed a tightening of the lips, a drawing of the eyebrows, but he said nothing, although I was sure that his mother's little speech had both displeased and disturbed him.

But Rita Brown, although I was certain her slender fingers were momentarily twitching with the impulse to strangle someone—anyone—gave no slightest indication of discomposure. Her laugh rang out as lightly as ever.

"You must be like my mother," she said merrily. "She makes every daughter and daughter-in-law call her sister."

We drew up to the entrance of "The Sand Pile" as she spoke, so there was no opportunity for comment or retort upon little Mrs. Durkee's part if she had wished it. But I wondered if there had been a challenge in Rita Brown's answer.

To-morrow's HOROSCOPE
By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, JUNE 17.

The sidereal operations for this day give little promise for great activity or stirring achievements, though matters will move along with interest under a mutual aspect between Mercury and Uranus, which usually develops either unusual situations or keen or peculiar mental attitudes. These latter with a leaning to the occult, metaphysical or to delving into the mysteries of cosmic forces. The mind is creative and original under this influx. Other planetary figures are significant of treachery, duplicity, or fraud, although an unfortunate position of Venus in relationship with the moon brings this menacing influence into the realm of the home and affectional affairs.

Those whose birthday it is are advised by the signs to give close attention to business and to beware false promises. A child born on this day will be clever, original in thought and inventive, but restless and unsettled.

MR. RED FOX'S FIRST VISIT.

Where do you think little Peter Rabbit was? The Snow Shoe Rabbits were all asleep in their lovely house under the great Hemlock tree for they usually slept during the day and were awake through the night. The branches were bent down, with the snow, to the ground and under the branches was a soft, shadowy light.

Here all the Snow Shoes were asleep. They were so white they looked like a bank of snow.

But where was little Peter Rabbit, their cousin? Peter, you remember, had eaten lots of willow shoots and he felt very sleepy. And so he found the nicest little place to sleep on one side of a little snow bank. He was crouched down, his eyes were tight shut, and his two ears, with the pink lining, were straight up so that if he didn't sleep too hard he could hear any danger that came near.

Peeking Over the Top of the Little Mound of Snow at Peter's Back.

It was very careless in Peter to sleep in that place where anyone coming along could see him. He ought to have found a little hole somewhere, but you see Peter thought his big and great relatives would look after him, but they all were so sleepy they had forgotten all about him.

Jimmie Coon and Teddy Possum and the two Snow Shoe Rabbits came out from behind a clump of birches very softly, and what was the dreadful sight they saw? Why, Peter sleeping soundly and peeking over the top of the little mound of snow at Peter's back was Mr. Red Fox. His brush of a tail was up and his eyes bright. His red tongue was out and he was laughing. I suppose he thought he would make one bite of Little Peter.

But it was a pretty sight and I wish you could have seen it.

Mr. Red Fox is rather a charming person. He is a very handsome person, and while he has some enemies, he is always admired, but not very often loved.

Jimmie Coon was scared to death. He was afraid it was the last sight he would ever have of Mr. Peter Rabbit, so he whispered to one of the Snow Shoe Rabbits.

"For Mercy's sake, what can we do! Look at poor little Peter! Mr. Red Fox will make one bite of him!"

"Not at all, I will save him," said that kind Snow Shoe and he drummed with his big hind feet on the ground. As soon as he did all the other Snow Shoes drummed, too, and you never heard such a loud noise. Little Peter awakened with a start and looked out of the corner of his eye and caught sight of Mr. Red Fox. Then when Mr. Red Fox whirled to see the Snow Shoe Rabbits scampering out of their house, little Peter dodged right into a hole and escaped.

Tomorrow—Mr. Fox's Game With the Snow Shoes.

MABEL NORMAND IN "THE PEST" AT THE MAJESTIC TODAY

Popular Comedienne Appearing in His Latest Photo-comedy.

Gay and carefree as she appears on the screen, Mabel Normand's success as a comedienne is based on sound belief in sincerity. The vivacious star comes to the Majestic Theatre for today, Tuesday and Wednesday in "The Pest," her latest Goldwyn picture, and in it she proves conclusively that she can be rollicking and prankful and pathetic as well. She indulges in more mischievous antics than it has ever been her lot to perpetrate, and she enjoys hugely every moment she is being chased by an angry goat or sliding down banisters—and withdrawing the long splinter which follows that feat.

Mabel Normand, appearing in "The Pest," her latest photocomedy, showing at the Majestic, today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Through it all Miss Norman maintains an attitude of sincere belief in what she is doing. She performs her most daredevilish stunt as if her very life depended on it—as if she were making her first appearance before the camera and had resolved to risk everything to win the favor of her audience. By the same token, her quiet moments in "The Pest" are played with a suggestion of winsomeness and pathos such as she has never before had the opportunity to display.

When she learns that she, Puckers, the poor little farmhouse drudge, is really the daughter of the county judge, this quality of Miss Normand's acting is seen at its best. Shy, incredulous, yet hopeful that the fairy tale is not a dream, the erstwhile pest reveals a spiritual quality at once surprising and touching.

"FOLLIES OF TODAY" IS HEADLINER ACT SHOWING AT GRAND

Five Acts and Anita Stewart in "Mary Regan."

A bill of varied and entertaining features and the most unusual photoplay of the year, starring one of the screen's most fascinating artists, is the excellent bill of fare provided for patrons of the Grand today, Tuesday and Wednesday. "Follies of Today," a musical comedy production will be the headline vaudeville feature. This whirl of song and dance features Rose and Evely Bunnin and Hal Sherman, three well-known musical comedy favorites; they are supplemented by a bevy of handsome chorus girls, whose singing and dancing ability and natural charms are much in evidence during the performance. The act is beautifully presented with elaborate scenic and electical effects, and many stunning costumes are worn by both principals and chorus.

Happy stories and exclusive songs will be offered by Maybelle Phillips, a beautiful young woman, whose remarkable ability as an entertainer has won her the title of "the sunshine comedienne."

"Monkeys' Day at the Races" is a comedy animal novelty that is a riot of laughter from beginning to end, it will not only be enjoyed by the kiddies, but by the grown-up folks as well.

La Mont and Wright offering "Novelties of 1920" are two girls who sing exceedingly well and who contribute some violin and harmonica duets.

Barron and Burt, two original comedians in a splendid comedy offering, will be the other feature of the bill.

Anita Stewart as "Mary Regan"

"Mary Regan," the screen adaptation of Le Roy Scott's famous novel, in which Anita Stewart will be seen today, tomorrow and Wednesday, is a gripping story of the heartless struggle for the dollar which goes on in New York, the great American city. The profiteer is seen sweating money from the common citizen, and the society vulture is seen in evening clothes robbing the representatives of "big business" as they go out for pleasure. In turn, these criminals are seen paying their debt to society. "Mary Regan" is a photoplay that will hold the attention of everyone; it affords the beautiful star unlimited opportunities for the display of her rare artistry; it is a play no one can afford to miss.

In addition there will be shown the usual interesting topical review.

Theda Bara in "The Two Orphans," a drama of thrills and romance, showing at the Patricia today, Tuesday and Wednesday. Also an Arbuckle comedy, a Strand Comedy and Jean Leighton's Revue, a musical vaudeville act.

Iron For Strength
You need iron in the blood! Every healthy man or woman should have about as much iron in his or her body as there is in an ordinary railroad spike. To gain this iron, the best way is to take Tonal-Iron Capsules, a combination of iron in its most soluble form, recently discovered, and now having a marvelous sale. Tonal-Iron Capsules are a form of iron readily taken up by the blood. The blood cells get round, rich red in color, the cheeks are pink, the appetite improves, and one feels full of "snap" —"pep"—"vigor"—instead of tired before the day is half done. The eyes take on a lustre and the body feels that tingle which one gets from a cold bath.
For sale and guaranteed by all good druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of $1. Tonal-Iron Laboratories, Box 184, London, Ont. zxv

MEMORIAL SUNDAY KEPT BY BROTHERHOODS OF TRAINMEN

The local brotherhoods of trainmen, both G. T. R. and C. P. R., observed Memorial Sunday by attending divine service at King Street Presbyterian Church on Sunday night. Before dealing with the subject of the evening, Rev. W. R. McIntosh welcomed the brethren, pointing out that because of the specially hazardous nature of their occupation trainmen were entitled not only to extra remuneration, but to the special respect of the community. Special hymns were sung in memory of those "stalwart soldiers of the iron rail" who had during the past year fallen at the post of duty.

At the request of the trainmen Rev. Mr. McIntosh dealt with the present industrial situation, taking for his subject, "Social Salvation." He asserted that the revolt of today was not merely on the part of the labor people, but of the common people generally. The revolt was not alone against industrial autocracy, but against the swarm of evils that an unchristian system has bred, commercial brigandage, political inefficiency, ecclesiastical subserviency, and class distinctions.

"The labor people," Mr. McIntosh asserted, "must work for industrial democracy, so that the earnings of industry shall be more equitably distributed and the status of labor improved."

The labor people were advised to enter politics actively and independently. Labor in this country would do well to follow Britain, rather than Russia, and secure their rights by constitutional methods, rather than by direct action.

The minister directed the attention of the men to the important fact sometimes overlooked, that social salvation is of God, as well as personal salvation. Before Israel became a great and free people they accepted the law of God's righteousness at Mount Sinai, in addition to overthrowing the oppression of Pharaoh, and crossing the Red Sea into an independent political life.

Mr. McIntosh, in the course of his sermon, took occasion to say that if it was the intention of the Government to deport extreme agitators, they ought to secure steerage on the same vessel for those other troublers of the nation's peace, the big profiteers.

He also expressed the opinion that among the necessities of life that were too high-priced for the pockets of the toiling people, and which should somehow be taken over by the Government, were the costs of sickness, particularly surgeons' fees, and in many cases the fees of lawyers for the transfer of property and other necessary services. These men were at big expense for their education, and should be well paid, but bills that might be proper enough for wealthy clients and patients were crushing for the poor man with nothing but his daily wage to meet them.

VICTORIA PARK BAND CONCERT

Thousands sat on the grass in Victoria Park last night at the 7th Regiment band concert, held under the auspices of the I. O. D. E.

Pleasing music, including a variety of popular and sacred band selections, with vocal parts and instrumental solos, comprised the program rendered under the direction of Bandmaster A. W. Slatter.

The collection taken at the gates is to be used by the Daughters of the Empire for patriotic purposes.

NOT FORGOTTEN.—Overlooked by the male members of the board of education in planning the school picnic, the children of the city who are sick in hospitals and unable to take part in the annual school outing were not forgotten by the lady members of the board, who sent ice cream treats to each child in city hospitals on Saturday. Mrs. A. T. Edwards, Mrs. David Williams and Mrs. Ronald Harris arranged the treat for the sick children who missed the picnic on Friday.
