General Election Is Likely to Take Place

dissolve the Thirteenth Parliament of Canada and to issue writs for a general election some time in December is taken for granted at the capital today. This decision has been reached after a considerable weighing by Mr. Meighen of the pros and cons of the political situation and after having considered advice for and against from all quarters. When the premier returned from England he is said to have been in favor of early dissolution; advice to the contrary chiefly from his own followers in the House has not served to change his mind. That the country generally wants an election, that the present Government's mandate is at best a doubtful one; that its majority in the House is precarlous, and becoming more so; that the chances of the additional session will be the prositions.

the chances of the additional session will not improve by waiting; and that the best course is to stake fortune on a throw and have done with it, all these things the premier has realized and concluded.

Election December 17.

So far, Mr. Meighen has not made known his intentions one way or the other, and his colleagues in cabinet have either not been informed or have maintained a most remarkable silence on the subject. It would appear in fact that the premier, while accepting advice has made up his own mind without consultation as to his decision once made. Tonight in London he will give that decision to the public. But in the meantime a premonition of that decision has appeared in the Government's own or the subject. The announcement, on the other hand, will find the Liberals well organized in

As it is, the election will take place about December 17, and a brand new Parliament will assemble during the new year. Capetown, South Africa, Sept. 1.-Associated Press.-Speaking at a luncheon given in his honor yesterday, General Jan C. Smuts, premier of the Union of South Africa, who has returned from England, where he attended the imperial conference, and also was a factor in the Anglo-Irish peace pourparlers, referred to the matters engaging him while in

The premier manifested hopefulness for a conclusion of peace between Great Britain and Ireland. He pointed out the dangers of the Silesian difficulty, and made casual reference to the "naval rivalry of the United States and Japan, who are launching new problems on the world." He advised that "in the hurricane now sweeping the world the motto

General Smuts said the situation in Ireland when he arrived in London was indescribable. "Any idea of such a state of affairs, if it had existed before the great war, would have been scouted," the premier declared. The situation, the premier continued, was difficult, but not hopeless. The only solution of it was dominion home rule.

General Smuts characterized world conditions as "exceedingly sad to anyone coming in contact with these problems." Cheers greeted his declaration that the withdrawal of the United States from international affairs left the British Empire as "the only stabilizing influence in world

According to General Smuts the peace of the world is closely bound up with the Silesian situation, as it was with Belgium in 1914. "There might have been at any moment a devastating conflict," General Smuts declared, "and consequently the dominions strengthened the hands of Great Britain in preventing Silesia from dragging Germany and France into another war. Europe now knows she is dealing not only with Great Britain, but with the British Empire." Dealing with the question of relations within the empire, General Smuts said it was considered unnecessary to pursue the constitutional position at the conference, but to leave well enough alone, and refer the question to more peaceful times

• It is proposed at present that eccurse be of three months' duration and appeal mostly to young people of twelve and fifteen years of age. The curriculum will be extensive and include all branches of agriculture as well as mathematics and domestic science. The course would be in charge of the district representative, who would in all probably take care of one or two subjects himself.

Demonstrators and demonstration material would be furnished by the departments of agriculture and education, although the municipalities selected would be expected to supply a suitable building, heat, light, etc.

Winners in the home garden contest in the Strathroy district were announced today by the local branch of the department of agriculture. They are as follows, in order of their merit: Frieda Oakes, Cecil Waters, Gilbert Waters, Ethel Wightman, Jean Walsh, Fred Dymond, Reta Hawes.

R. A. Finn, Middlesex representative for the department, judged the ptots and reports that the gardens were all exceptionally good and fifteen of fifty entries were worthy of a prize. He grants out that no doubt some sections were favored with more frequent rain than others and the gardens here fared a little better on this account. The eight cash prizes, paid by the department of agriculture ranged from $5 to $1.

In this connection a canning competition will be staged at the Strathroy Fall Fair, when the contestants will be given an opportunity to show their prowess at canning vegetables they cultivated during the past summer. During the last ten days Miss Zavitz of Poplar Hill district, home demonstrator, has been in the district and a real live contest is anticipated for this competition; the first of its kind in Ontario.

INDIAN POLICY HAS NOT BEEN SETTLED

No Decision Yet Regarding Natives' Rights To Vote.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—(By Canadian ress.)-Reuter's Agency has been of-Scially informed that there is no foundation for the report that the secretary of state for the colonies has de important decisions affecting the enfranchisement and other questions connected with the policy regarding the atives of India who are now inhabitants of the Kenya colony of Eastern Africa. It is now understood that the general question of Indian policy will remain open until Major-General Sir Edward Northey, the governor-general of the Kenya colony, has returned from Kenya.

The status of the Indians in Kenya The status of the Indians in Kenya colony as well as that of their fellow-countrymen in British Columbia and other parts of the British dominions was one of the thorniest subjects discussed at the recent conference of the premiers of the empire. It has now reached a stage which seriously affects imperial politics. A deputation of leading white settlers from Kenya has arrived at Beira, in Portuguese East Africa, on their way to Pretoria to confer with Premier Smuts on the subject. This deputation is most emphatic in its view that the settlers of Kenya are prepared to do their utmost in opposition to the application of the principle of equality for the white and brown imperial politics. ELECTORS SHOWING KEEN INTEREST

At the big Liberal rally at Seaforth on Wednesday there came many from the surrounding districts, who, admittedly not followers of Hon. Mackenzie King, were evidently so interested in public affairs that they were determined to hear both sides of all issues.

At the conclusion of the meeting the chairman, Mayor Goulding, made it a point to express his pleasure and deep appreciation that these hearers, although not of the Liberal leaning, were so fair as to give the different speakers every opportunity for expounding their views. There were no interruptions or disturbances throughout the big crowd. The home is the centre of the country. If the families are happy and prosperous—so the nation. Hereafter we propose to study the issues to the last analysis as to how they affect the homes."

In conclusion the Liberal leader made a fervent appeal to the Progressives of Canada to get behind the principles of his party and by unity defeat the common enemy.

Velvet Millinery in the New Autumn Colorings.

Colors of autumn they are indeed. The russet and crimson of frost - touched maple leaves, and the brown of withered oak leaves, as well as more sombre shades. You Will Find the Trend of Fall Fashions Authentically Displayed.

In velvet all these new autumn reds and browns are effective indeed, but not more so than the clever black velvet hats and the perennially be-coming navy blue hats shown. The wearer's per-sonal choice defines the size. It may be tiny and brimmed and shadowy.

Duvetyn Millinery Autuma Wear.

Duvetyn will compose many of the most fascinating autumn hats." This fabric seems to combine the soft becoming-ness of velvet with the adaptability of felt. It lends itself to the most captivating shapes, as you will see in the new col-lection of duvetyn and velvet hats now appearing in the department.

THE STREETS OF LONDON.

"I saw the clouds among the hills Trailing their plumes of silver grey, The purple of the woods behind Fell down to where the valley lay.

So many lovely things along our daily paths pass The business of our thoughts and the "dust of life" dull our eyes to beauty because we have grown ed to knowing its continual setting. of a leaf-shadow passes over our thoughtful a brilliant flower nods from a garden or window-, and here beauty has offered us her benediction of rest and healing, and we heeded not the gift. With eyes habitually on pavements or hurrying traffic, we may indeed give fleeting worship to fallen flower petals that by merest chance have strewn the street, may behold regretfully a tiny lost feather from the wing of a bird, or note the utter grace of baby fingers that grasp for a silken thistle-sail, because these are bits of loveliness that have compelled our interest for a brief ment by coming very close to our blinded eyes.

But it is the far vision that adds much to the ways must go, and for lovely vistas and distant pictures the streets of London are unsurpassed. At the west end of Dundas and Carling streets are "great hills as Lictures hung on a wall to gaze at," never quite the me, but wonderfully varied with the season and the ffects of cloud and sunshine. All the mystery of mists hung over hill peaks, and in summer the glory of soft themes in myriad greens go to making of stray beauty for the close of a busy city street: At the end of Maple street, on Ridout, the tree-tops of the wooded flats invite hesitancy, and a close view reveals the lower setting of the valley of West London, the willow-softened banks of the river, and the heights oded bills leading to the city's western out-The west end of Central avenue is the "place of pictures," and deserves more of the city's notice and development as one of the beauty-spots for citizens and It is low hung with trees on approach that height above the river, but once discovered the view is unforgettable. There is the lovely dip of Ridout to Blackfriars bridge, passing the leafy banks and lilac-edged lane of Comfort Place, and far out to the west are misted hills where the sun sinks in tenderness and sometimes throws ribbons of iridescent lights over the brown river.

From Queen's to Dufferin there are two stretches of trees of such majesty and marvel of beauty, it is little wonder that they lead to continued glory of the trees of To walk along these ways is to feel the joy of the incomparable wealth of all the glowing world of green.

There are slight curves in Ridout and Richmond streets in the heart of the city that give vision of long, sloping distance to trees interlaced over a silver ribbon of pavement, and Talbot street has an enticing valley that extends to tree heights of North London. In London to the south there is all the beauty of old trees along its avenues, and the curve of Ridout along the high river banks especially emphasizes this. The paving of the Pipe Line road has opened a splendid way to the country leveliness along the road to Springbank, and the very beginning of the way has a far picture of the glory of hills, stretches of summer fields afiame with goldenrod about their rims, and the eternal poetry that lingers in "the grave tenderness of the faraway hill-purples."

North London, whose beauty is newly becoming known, has so "many ways that wind" to pictures of carpet to the wooded river banks. Much has been said of the glory of autumn displayed in numberless influences in the misty valley of the old river way at the terminus of Maitland north. Here a little path leads an indolent way back to Richmond, and the curious beauty of an ironwork bridge, where one may

This is why they are now searching the highways, byways and hedges in the hope of discovering someone who will make a respectable show in the role of an also-ran.

There are, it appears, already three or four Richonds in the field, including a defeated candidate, a political chameleon, and a true blue Tory of the old, yet old school. In the extremity of their distress the local caucus has arranged to appeal to Premier Meighen on the occasion of his visit to London today; but apparently Mr. Meighen has troubles enough of his own without being unduly bothered by those of his friends, and where there are so many claimants for political preferment the situation must be a delicate as well as difficult one to adjust.

True, there is one forlorn hope which Mr. Meighen otherwise, this "getting out the vote" fosters in his bosom as an expedient to mitigate the debacle which he anticipates when the voice of the people is heard from one end of the country to the other, and that is the operation known as gerrymandering, but euphemistically designated redistribution. remedy. The dictionary defines gerrymander as the process of dividing a voting district so as to give an unfair advantage to a particular political party. To gerry mander also means to misrepresent or to garble. Now it is on this species of manipulation and hocus-pocus in making a fight against Mr. Kennedy, and they anticipate receiving some grains of comfort on this score from Mr. Meighen when they see him today and learn his redistribution plans. If the rural districts of the constituency are cut off from Windsor and adjoining manufacturing centers, it is argued that the Tory candidate, whoever he may be, may stand a chance

The HAIR AND BRAINS.
[New York Times.]

Chicago seems to be undertaking a formal crusade against bobbed hair.
First the railroad offices order girl clerks to let their hair grow, and now comes Marshall Field & Co., the most sacred and truly Chicagoan of all Chicago institutions, with one exception, and joins the innumerable caravan. Just why Chicago business men insist that their women employees must spend half their spare time washing soot and 'cinders out of long hair is not clear to the dull easterner, nor why business-like Chicago should waste time with local measures when the proper remedy for this evil as for all others, is to pass a constitutional amendment.

However, some women find that bobbed hair is convenient and sensible; which alone is enough to condemn it in the eyes of latter-day moralists. An efficiency man could probably compute how many dollars' worth of time an office manager wastes in the course of the year inspecting the coiffures of the working force. But the efficiency man wouldn't want to waste his own time in such an inquiry, and would probably say that the type of intellect which are the type of intellect which are the cooking to the working force. Every general hospital which pretends to serve the community should provide wards, roofs, porches and open air spaces for tuberculous patients. Such provisions afford people in moderate circumstances the opportunity of receiving the sort of training which enables them to become safe members of a family and to chase the cure in their own homes if they do not go to resorts for treatment. C. J. MCLENNAN President.

J. LEWIS FLANIGAN

Vice-President.

McLennan Chemical Co., Ltd.

WINDSOR,

August 28, 1921.

TO THE HOUSEWIFE:

Dear Madam:

Back of my statement that a few spoonfuls of our Miracle Washing Cream added to the soap in boiler or washing machine will, in a few minutes, bring your clothes out clean, white and sanitary, absolutely without rubbing, is the verdict of over 50,000 delighted and enthusiastic women

Notwithstanding that we instruct each dealer handling Miracle Washing Cream to refund the purchase price to any dis satisfied customer, and further that I, personally, offer $100 in cash to any one who, after using Miracle Washing Cream according to directions, fails to get the results we claim for it, not one of the 50,000 users has asked for even the return of the purchase price.

Miracle Washing Cream will not injure the finest fabric or even the delicate skin of a child. In that respect it is unlike any other article offered for the purpose of cleaning clothes. It contains no acid, caustic or alkali.

To describe in detail why and how a few spoonfuls of this wonderful discovery will add the missing link to soap, making it 100% efficient, and so mild in itself that it can even be taken inwardly without injury, would take up too much space.

Just take my word as to its merits, buy a bottle from your grocer for your next washing and you surely will thank me for having brought to your home one of the best friends you ever had, and one of the most practical chemical discoveries of the age.

Favonian, After First Heat, in Control-Periscope Repeats.

READVILLE, Wass., Aug. 31.—Rose Scott, the champion 2-year-old futurity winner of last year, went down to defeat at the grand circuit races today, when the Tennessee colt Favonian, owned and driven by Fred Edman, took the measure of Tom Murphy's filly in the American Horse Breeder Futurity for 3-year-old trotters.

Rose Scott won the first heat easily, apparently because Favonian did not get a good start and Edman had difficulty in getting a position for the final brush. After that Favonian was master of the situation, always having enough speed is reserve to stall off his most dangerous rivals.

Demonstration Attracts Throng of 200,000 People —Orators Address Gathering.

BERLIN, Aug. 31. — The demonstration of loyalty to the republic, for which preparations have been going on for some days, drew a crowd estimated at 200,000 to the Lutsgarten this afternoon. The approaches to the old royal palace, which is now a museum, and the steps of the cathedral and buildings were thronged. Everywhere republic and red flags were flown. Those who to pkart in the demonstration preserved remarkable order and discipline, the police having left the maintenance of order to the organizers of the great assembly. Considerable police forces were held in readiness in case of necessity, but their services were not required. Only in the precincts of the Reichstag were police guards posted. Numerous orators addressed the gathering.

BIG WATERSPOUT SEEN NEAR SARNIA

[Special to The Advertiser.]
SARNIA, Aug. 31. — Hundreds of summer resorters, bathers and beach dwellers were amazed yesterday at seeing a gigantic waterspout, attendant with the big wind and rain storm which hit the city late in the afternoon, scuttling down the steamer channel of Lake Huron at terrific speed.
The column of water was more than ten feet high, and appeared to be from 40 to 50 feet wide. It came out of the north and could be seen advancing several miles out in the lake.
Coming to a point near the Government lightship, a mile out in the lake, it gradually died down. Old sailors pronounced it the biggest spout they had seen in many years.

KINGSVILLE, Aug. 31.—On some of the farms east of town several turkeys are kept. Heretofore, their only apparent use has been their service on the dinner tables at Thanksgiving time, but an absolutely new use for the lordly kings of the barnyard has been found. One of the owners noticed his fock, headed by the gobbler, walking gravely between the rows of tobacco plants in his field ard on investigation found that the birds were clearing the plants of every worm. Examination showed that there was but one worm left in the row on which the birds were working.

Sturdy Ploneers.

Ex-Warden McTaggart, who presided, in opening the program, referred briefly to the sturdy qualities and heroism of the pioneer settlers, and the principles on which they had founded a new community in the midst of an unbroken wilderness.

Charles M. McFie reviewed the early history of the settlement. Thomas Dowling, he found, had first settled on the south half of lot 2, at the beginning of the American war in 1812. By the year 1827 he had cleared 28 acres of land. George E. Lee next settled on the Longwoods road, Angus Campbell and his sons, John and Malcolm, came in 1820. He was the grandfather of the late Angus Campbell of more recent times. Duncan McLean settled in Ekfrid in 1824. Some of the settlers came LONDON, Augr. 31.—(By Canadian Press Cable.)—The cabled official announcement from Ottawa watch was obviously inspired by the Canadian Press Cable from London on Sunday, to the effect that the Government would decline to meet the interest on the Grand Trunk Pacific 4 per cent debentures, was quite generally expected in British financial circles. The first minutes of a township meeting to be preserved are dated 1833. At this to be preserved are dated 1505. CON THE EARLY System.

The early system of township administration was explained by Mr. McFile. The system of government was arrely autocratic, and dissatisfaction with it was a chief cause of the rebellion of 1837. Some changes were made in 1841, and in 1849 district councils were established, to which the townships were permitted to send delegates. The poll book was first used in the election of 1850, when the five wards elected wood, Malcolm McAlpine, George J. Smith, Donald Seaton and Donald McSmith, Donald Seaton
